THREE DESPERATE PRISONERS KILL GUARD TO ESCAPE

Sensational Tragedy on the Streets of Toronto—Constable Boyd Killed—Desperadoes Recaptured after Ugly Fight.

Toronto, June 4.—A tragedy, without parallel in the police circles, took place at six o'clock to-night at the corner of Gerard and Sumach streets, by which a police constable guarding three men en route to the jail was murdered under circumstances suggestive rather of Texas than Ontario. The trial of Rice, Rutledge and Jones, the three alleged bank burglars, on a charge of robbing the post office at Aurora, is proceeding at the assizes. There has been very great interest shown in it, and quite a few spectators unknown to the police as citizens of Toronto have sought admission from day to day, and rumors of an attempt at rescue led to the exclusion of the public to-day.

When the hearing was over, the Crown case was almost completed, and it was stated that the trial would be over to-morrow. This news seems to have nerve the friends of the prisoners to attempt a rescue under remarkable circumstances. When the court rose the prisoners were put in a hack, with Constable Stewart outside with the driver. The utmost precautions were taken to prevent the escape of the men. Two of them were shackled together and all were securely handcuffed.

There is a rather steep incline near the bridge leading to the jail, and at the beginning of this, near the corner of Gerard and Sumach street, a stranger approached the hack and threw three revolvers, one after the other, into the hack. Immediately the men began to fire and the police drew their weapons and replied.

Boyd, at the first volley, was shot in the head, the bullet entering his head and passing through the brain. He died in a few minutes afterwards. The hack had been stopped when the shooting began, and the prisoners jumped out and ran to a passing Cartton and College street, car that would have carried them out to the country. Stewart, the second constable was firing steadily, and hit Jones in the groin, but the latter ran on, and the prisoners, boarding the car beside the mobman, ordered him to go on. They were still shackled, but the smoking revolvers in their hands might well have intimidated the crew and the passengers. Instead of going on the brakeman took his brake handle off and struck at the men, and the conductor took the trolley off, stopping the car.

Constable Stewart came up with the hackman, and after a desperate fight the prisoners were recaptured and removed to the jail.

Jones' wound is serious, but not dangerous. A bystander named T. H. Hyde, when the stranger threw the revolvers into the hack, gave chase, but as it was just after six o'clock, and many people were around, the man got away in the crowd. The police are scouring the city for him to-night, and have a good description.

Rice, Rutledge and Jones are believed to be among the most daring professional burglars in America. The crimes for which they were followed to Chicago, and arrested a year ago were of a peculiarly bold description, one of them being the tying up of a policeman in Parkdale, within a short distance of the police station, as a preliminary to entering the Standard Branch Bank, there. They were disturbed before they got the safe blown open. They are also charged with burglaries at Aurora and Dundas. The jury disagreed in the Parkdale case, and the trial of the Aurora one is now proceeding. The men seemed to have powerful friends, with plenty of money. They fought extradition in Chicago for almost a year, and were visited at the jail there by well dressed young women, two of whom, known to the police—one as "Vina," and the other as Mrs. Rutledge—followed them to this city, and have been spectators at the trial. They will be looked up, and an attempt made to discover whether they had any connection with to-night's tragedy.

Jones, when examined at the jail, was found to have a bullet wound in the left arm, which had shattered the bone. Amputation may be necessary. Later—it appears Constables Boyd and Stewart were both inside the hack with the prisoners when the shooting occurred, and only one policeman, Stewart, was armed. When the picture was shown in and the shooting began, Stewart drew his revolver, but when Boyd was shot and the three desperadoes levelled their weapons at him Stewart threw up his hands and the men escaped from the hack. A third unarmed constable sat outside beside the hackman. Constable Stewart has made a sworn statement that he saw Rice shoot Boyd.

$5,000 WILL BE SPENT ON THE QUEEN ST. SCHOOL

Public School Board Propose to Repair and Modernize this Building—Payne School to Amalgamate Therewith.

The School Board contemplate repairing and rebuilding the Queen St. school at an expenditure of nearly $5,000. When the repairs are completed it will be one of the handsomest educational structures in the city. Payne School will be done away with and the schools on this side of the river will be centralized.

Dr. McKeough asked what the Queen street school wanted with tooth-picks. Manager Wilson explained that these were used in teaching counting and the doctor looked relieved.

GOOD ROADS.

At last meeting of the city council, Mr. Piggott, St., brought up the suggestion that the former might co-operate with the Board of Trade, to assist the County Council in the formation of good roads in Chatham. The benefits of such roads would be an immense and growing one both to the farmers and citizens. Bad roads take a heavy toll from the farmer's profit and often stop him from bringing his grain to Chatham just when prices are highest. Good roads would mean the ability of the agriculturist to draw a heavy load of produce into Chatham in all seasons, regardless of rain or weather and would largely increase the value of every farm. It would mean more horses and carriages and more social intercourse between farmers and citizens, to say nothing of automobile omnibuses in the future, as in Europe to-day. To the Chatham stockkeeper and citizen generally it would give increased trade and "Good Saturdays" in bad weather.

All these advantages have been prominently urged on the public by Judge Woods and other leading social reformers with the result that the Ontario Legislature has passed an act empowering the government to devote a sum, amounting in all to one million dollars, to be apportioned among the counties of the Province in the form of grants in aid of sums voted in those counties for macadamized or other permanent roads.

The Act provides the mode in which any given county in conjunction with its township interested may get its portion of this grant and Essex County Council is stirring vigorously in the matter. It is to be presumed and hoped that Kent County Council at this session will lose no time in taking the preliminary steps necessary to obtain its share of the grant. Many think that it would be good to amend the Municipal Act by allowing cities such as Chatham to bonus leading county roads within such a near distance from us that they would not divert traffic to smaller towns.

At present Chatham has no such power, and in fact no power to spend money outside the municipal limits. Beyond general sympathy and encouragement, there is only one thing which Chatham can do without special legislation or a general amendment of the Municipal Act as that is to get its own roads in order, so that a farmer coming to mill or market, would at least find the Chatham part of his journey easy in all states of the weather. To do this for any given street, the usual process of sufficiently signed petitions must be gone through.

In the United States, railways are waking up to the importance of good country roads as local feeders for their traffic and the Illinois Central sends a special train loaded with the latest and best road-making machinery, throwing off a gang of expert road-makers while the manufacturers of the machinery loan them gratis and pay for their haulage. Stretcher of permanent country roads are thus made as demonstrations and object-lessons of their missionary work.

A HERO OF THE CROSS.

Among the greatest missionaries that have ever gone forth to preach Christianity in the dark places of the earth, was the Rev. Dr. G. L. Mackay, whose death was announced Monday. Born and reared in a rural section of this province, in his early manhood he determined to devote his life to the work of propagating the gospel among the heathen. He went to work zealously to fit himself for this task, and took complete courses in theology and medicine. His chosen field was Formosa. He chose it because that island, virtually unknown to the western world, was inhabited by a people among whom no Christian missionary had ever labored. Two millions of Chinese inhabited the seaboard settlements, and the interior of the island was peopled by savages. To this strange land Dr. Mackay went as the pioneer missionary. He was then 28 years of age. He is now dead at the comparatively early age of 58. His terrible trials, privations and dangers, his heroism, his achievements, are on record, and it is within the mark to say that few men have accomplished more in thirty years in the teeth of such overwhelming difficulties than did this quiet, modest, but undaunted and heroic Ontario man. He became, virtually, a Chinaman—learned the Chinese language so thoroughly that he became an authority on it, wore the Chinese costume, married a Chinese woman, and left home consecrated to the work he had inaugurated, to carry it on. Sixty churches, with 54 native preachers, nearly 2,000 natives in full church membership, a theological college, a college for women and a well-equipped hos-

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has won success far beyond the effect of advertising only.

The firm hold it has won and retains upon the hearts of the people could never have been gained by even the most lavish expenditure of money.

The true secret of the popularity of Hood's Sarsaparilla is explained entirely and only, by its unapproachable merit.

Based upon a prescription which cured people considered incurable, which accomplished wonders astonishing to the medical profession.

Hood's Sarsaparilla includes the concentrated values of the best-known vegetable remedies—such as sarsaparilla, yellow dock, pipisew, uva ursi, mandrake and dandelion, united by an original and peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power peculiar to itself.

Its cures of mild and extreme cases of scrofula, eczema, psoriasis, and every kind of humor, as well as of catarrh and rheumatism—prove it to be the best blood purifier ever produced.

Its cures of dyspepsia, biliousness, nervousness, loss of appetite and that tired feeling, make

Hood's Sarsaparilla beyond question the greatest stomach tonic, nerve-builder and strength-restorer the world has ever known.

It will cure you or any one in your family of any of these troubles.

You can rely upon Hood's Sarsaparilla as a thoroughly good medicine. Buy a bottle and begin to take it today.

pital are among the fruits of his labors. Only twice since he went to Formosa did he visit his native land, and each of his visits was brief. Many Chathamites will remember his visit to this city some seven years ago, and how the great little man stirred the hearts of his hearers by the story, simply and modestly told, of his life-work.

Since "Mackay of Formosa" began this life-work of his, great battles have been fought on land and sea, and there have been many "sudden makings of splendid names." But no war-hero of them all is worthy to be compared to this Zorra boy in the qualities of true heroism.

LAW AND ORDER.

It is a relief to learn that the last crowd that burned a negro at the stake in the Southern States was quiet and orderly. Any disturbance at these functions is most unseemly, as well as contrary to the reputation of the South for courteous bearing towards all.

IMPROVING HIS GRAMMAR.

Christian Endeavor World.

In a school for colored children there was a little boy who would persist in saying "have went."

The teacher kept him in one night, and said:

"Now, while I am out of the room you may write 'have gone' fifty times."

When the teacher came back he looked at the boy's paper and there was, "have gone fifty times." On the other side was written, "I have went home."

EVERY INCH A SPORT.

Detroit News.

The News takes pleasure in offering Edward VII. a life membership in the Ancient and Honorable Association of Hot and Dead Game Sports. His exhibition of pluck on board the Shamrock II. yesterday when a squall carried away the rigging, and brought down spars, blocks ropes and all about the ears of the distinguished company on board, would certainly entitle him to the honor; but he emphasized and amplified his qualifications when the extent of the damage had been determined, and he started for London, saying to Sir Thomas Lipton: "When you next sail I am going with you." That is the spirit that true sportsmen have, and that the world likes to see.

TWO BROTHERS.

One the Most Conspicuous in Parliament, the Other Among the Silent, Unnoticed Back Benchers.

Charlemagne Laurier, the representative of L'Assomption, is the half-brother of the Premier—the same father, but child of a first wife. Charles Laurier, the Premier being the only son by the second wife.

Charlemagne Laurier is 10 years older than his distinguished half-brother, and he looks it, says the Toronto Star. He is one of the silent ones; a regular attendant at the sittings, but an uncommunicative one. There he sits in his seat, day after day, his iron-gray hair barely discernible behind the head of the other occupants of the Opposition benches, taking no part in the discussions and going and coming so quietly as ordinarily to attract little, if any, notice. It is interesting to wonder sometimes what Charlemagne Laurier thinks about it all.

What fancies pass through the busy brain beneath that iron-gray that? Does he ever meditate on the tricks fate plays upon her mortal puppets? Does he ever envy the distinguished brother so near to him by blood ties, so far above him in the political world? Does he ever wonder at the partiality of the fickle goddess who makes one brother the first Commoner in all the land and of the other an obscure, silent, back bencher? Does he ever wish to exchange places with his distinguished half-brother, to barter the peaceful quiet of his semi-obscurity for the trials and tribulations, the rewards and worries, of those who sit in the fierce white light of publicity? Doubtless strange thoughts sometimes chase themselves through the brain of this quiet little man on the back benches, but it is doubtful if the older brother begrudges the younger his greatness. If he does he gives no sign.

And the Premier? To his brother he is as good as to the other members, probably more so, but the Premier of Canada makes no display of his emotions. The other day, wearying possibly of the seemingly endless budget debate, the Premier crossed the Opposition side and wandered up through the labyrinth of seats to where his half-brother was sitting. One hand he placed with a caressing motion on the older man's shoulder, while with the other he shook hands. Just a few words were exchanged, and then the first Commoner in Canada came back to his place. What did the Premier say in that brief interview? Probably nothing very much, but he made for the moment the obscure little man with the iron-gray hair the cynosure of all eyes. Doubtless, if Charlemagne Laurier is a sensible man—and the chances are that he is, else he would not be where he is—he feels proud of the man who throws a shining lustre on the family and the name of Laurier, and is content with the modest measure of reflected glory that has hitherto been his portion.

P. S. COATE, ESQ., Manager Chatham Gas Co., Ltd.

Dear Sir,—In answer to your query as to my experience with the Gas Range, I am pleased to state that, from a number of years' experience I find it the cheapest and best fuel I can get.

As for convenience; it is always ready in an instant. In summer the kitchen is practically as cool as any other part of the house, which is one of the few blessings we are able to get without extra cost. It has practically no objectionable features.

I would be pleased if you are able to use this in rescuing some good wife from roasting her life away in a hot kitchen, where wood is used during summer. I remain, Yours truly,

TALMAGE'S SERMON.

TALLEYRAND'S ADVICE RECOMMENDED FOR SCEPTICS.

"Go and Be Crucified and Then Raise Yourself From the Grave the Third Day!"—is the better to Mend Nets Instead of Strengthening Them.

These dear brethren of all denominations, afflicted with theological doubts, had better go to mending nets instead of breaking them. Before they break up the old religion and try to foist on us a new religion, let them go through some great sacrifice for God that will prove them worthy for such a work, taking the advice of Talleyrand to a man who wanted to upset the religion of Jesus Christ and start a new one, when he said: "Go and be crucified and then raise yourself from the grave the third day!"

Those who propose to mend their nets by secular and sceptical books are like a man who has just one week for fishing, and six of the days he spends in reading. Talleyrand's "Compleat Angler," and Wheatley's "Rod and Line," and "Scott's Fishing in Northern Waters," and Pullman's "Vade Mecum of Fly-Fishing for Trout," and then on Saturday morning, his last day out, goes to the river to ply his art; but that day the fish will not bite, and late on Saturday night he goes to his home with empty basket. Alas! alas! if when the Saturday night of our life drops on us, it shall be found that we have spent our time in the libraries of worldly philosophy, trying to mend our nets, and we have only a few souls to report as brought to God through our instrumentality, while some humble Gospel fisherman, his library made up of a Bible and an almanac, shall come home laden with the results, his trophies all the souls within fifteen miles of his log cabin meeting-house.

In the time of great disturbance in Naples in 1649, Massaniello, a barefooted fishing boy, dropped his fishing rod, and by strange magnetism took command of that city of six hundred thousand souls. He took off his fishing jacket and put on a robe of gold in the presence of howling mobs. He put his hand on his lips as a signal, and they were silent. He waved his hand away from him and they retired to their homes. Armies passed in review before him. He became the nation's idol. The rapid rise and complete supremacy of that young fisherman, Massaniello, has no parallel in all history.

But something equal to that and better than that is an every-day occurrence in heaven. God takes some of those who in this world were fishers of men and who toiled very humbly, but because of the way they mended their nets and employed their nets after they were mended He suddenly hoists them and robes them and accepts them and crowns them, and makes them rulers over many cities, and he marches armies of saved ones before them in review, and Massaniello's unobtruded on earth, but radiated in heaven. The fisher boy of Naples soon lost his power, but those people of God who have kept their nets mended and rightly swung them shall never lose their exalted place, but shall reign forever and ever and ever. Keep that reward in sight.—T. De Witt Talmage.

Pigtail Reverenced by Chinese. Every one knows how sacred a cue or "pigtail" is to John Chinaman. To lose his cue is almost as bad as to lose life itself. Should a Chinaman return to China without his cue he would become an object of scorn and derision. Dress, like other things, undergoes its change in China, but the style of the pigtail has remained the same for centuries, and is handed down from parent to child without fear of change. For many years prior to 1644, the native emperors of the Chinese dynasty compelled their subjects to wear long hair over the whole head and to twist it into a tuft or coil. The first Emperor of the present Manchu dynasty, who ascended the throne in 1644, determined to make the Consul of Manchuria the token of the submission of the Chinese of the entire country to his authority. Shortly after his accession to the throne he ordered his subjects to shave all the hair from their heads except on the crown and to allow the hair on that particular part to grow long, and dress according to the traditional custom of the Manchuria.

This proclamation was received with universal disapproval, except in Manchuria. But it had to be obeyed, finally the custom prevailed throughout the length and breadth of China, and the style then adopted as a duty is worn now by choice. "So much a long communion tends to make us what we are."

As a reward for punctuality and obedience those who were first to conform with the new capillary rule were awarded a tael of silver. In such reverence has the pigtail come to be held that certain sect believe that they cannot be saved without the aid of the pigtail. They believe that after death Confucius will lift them by their pigtails into the regions of celestial bliss. Consequently, no pigtails, no salvation. It is any wonder, then, that John Chinaman sticks to his cue? It is the Jacob's ladder by which he will make his ascent into heaven.

What Makes the Home?

Not the house, however fine it may be; not its furniture, pictures and appointments. The wife and mother makes the home, and to speak of going home means to go back into the shelter of the mother's love and care.

And when womanly ills sap the mother's strength, the home-life suffers. The food is not cooked as she cooks it. Everywhere the lack of wisely supervision and motherly thoughtfulness is apparent. What a change, then, when this wife and mother comes back to take her old place in the family. Thousands of women who, because of womanly ills, had been shut out of home life and home happiness, have been enabled to once more take their place in the family after being cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"I commenced taking your Favorite Prescription," and "Golden Medical Discovery" about the 15th of last December, one year ago," writes Mrs. Eliza Wright, of Mount Pleasant, Howell, Missouri. "I have been very slow about writing to you, although I am thankful I am here to-day and have the privilege of saying I thank you a thousand times for your kind advice. I can truthfully say that it was through your kind advice and your medicine and the will of the Lord that I am living to-day. I am in better health than I have been for three years. I have taken one-half dozen bottles of each medicine. I am able to do my washing for four in family, and all my housework, cooking and milking. In fact I feel like a new woman."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and its almost countless consequences. They do not react on the system nor beget the pill habit.

For army use a combined shelter tent and cape has been designed, having a canvas cover of pyramid shape, with a removable cap at the top, which is taken off for the insertion of the head, a telescopic pole being attached at the end of a bayonet to support the device as a shelter tent.

To give an alarm when a door or window is opened a new device is formed of a spring actuated bell secured to the board, with a second piece of board hinged to the first and opened into a wedge for insertion under the door, which when opened closes the wedge and starts the alarm.

TOWN TOPICS.

The town of Brunswick, Me., owns 1,000 acres of land, which it will plant in white pine as a public investment.—Moosehead's Monthly.

When St. Louis gets on its best hind and tucker to welcome her world's fair visitors, she must have a new city hospital, better streets, pure, slightly water and a sound and sensible municipal administration.

Public parks are money getters for a live town. Buffalo is the greatest grower on earth, and no city has made more liberal provisions for parks. It will pay Birmingham to follow the example of Buffalo.

A gold mine has been located on one of the streets of Keswick, Shasta county, Cal., and there are indications of an oil vein in another. The population will soon have to move away. The town is altogether too valuable merely to be lived in.

OLD TIMES.

Old Times, come near.
Bend low, and let me hear
Thy sweet refrain.
Bring my blocks and toys,
My careless childhood joys,
Just once again.

Run them up and down the floor
Same as happy days of yore,
More of that prattle,
I'll cry a little.
Now in joy, now in pain,
For sunshine always follows rain.

Old Times, come near,
Bend low, so I hear
Thy faintest whisper.
Where is the girl I loved when a kid,
The one who always had my sled?
A painted spinster!

Why, we've swapped many a hunk o' gum,
An' many a nibble I took at her bun;
Ruby lips, each tooth a pearl,
Foolish, foolish, little girl,
Still ever in life the same refrain—
Sunshine and shade, pleasure and pain.

Old Times, come near,
Bend low, and let me hear
More of that refrain.
The old schoolmaster, the big tall chap,
Who wielded well a thick black strap,
And the chap who spelled the test
And always tattled on the rest,
The teacher's pet?
A-studyin' yet?
Still ever in life the same refrain—
Sunshine always follows rain.

Old Times, come near,
Bend low, and let me hear
Thine old story.
I love thee, Good Old Times;
In thee a lingering memory finds
Some added glory.
The teacher lickin', the bully kickin',
And stealin' o' my rule;
A-wappin' gum, a nibblin' bun—
Those happy days at school.
Old Times, good-bye, you've made Me kinda sad.
When I remember all the happy days
I've had,
Still ever in life the same refrain—
Sunshine and shade, pleasure and pain.

TORONTO SCULPTOR SUCCEEDS.

His Model for Monument to Governor Simcoe Selected.

The model for the statue to be erected in memory of Governor Simcoe has been selected by the committee appointed for that purpose, and the choice fell upon the model submitted by a Toronto sculptor—Mr. Walter S. Allward—who designed the Northwest volunteers' monument which stands in Queen's Park. Nine designs were presented to the committee from competitors in France, Scotland, the United States and Canada, and Mr. Allward's model was chosen upon the part of the committee. The decision was arrived at by a process of elimination, and after some time the number of models under consideration was narrowed down to three. Mr. Allward's conception finally carrying off the prize.

The figure of Governor Simcoe will be of bronze, and will be nine feet in height. The intention of the sculptor was to present Governor Simcoe in both his military and civic capacities, and the figure will be represented as clothed in a simple uniform. The model is of exceptional beauty, and both the originality of the conception and the treatment accorded it by Mr. Allward excited the greatest admiration.

UNDEVELOPED WEALTH.

North-West Canada to Solve the Food and Fuel Problem.

A block of territory a thousand miles square; 640,000,000 consecutive acres of the richest pasture lands in the world, which yield on cultivation the strongest and best grain ever put on any market.

Contiguous to, and underlying this immense area, are the largest coal fields that have ever yet been discovered; large enough to solve the fuel problem for an indefinite period; gold, silver and copper, are in abundance, and above all there is an quantity of water power.

Such is Northwest Canada, as described at the Royal Colonial Institute recently by the Rev. John McDougall; and this rich country is in touch with the home markets through British routes, no foreign power lying in between.

"Let the British Government," urged Mr. McDougall, "take a practical interest in this great portion of our Empire; turn the trend of emigration that way, people these immense areas, multiply the producing power of the nation, and thus secure to the home country a sure and certain food supply, as also an ever-increasing field for commercial enterprise; and in the investment of capital."—London Express.

OLD DAVE OUTCLASSED

Local Hoss Trade That Puts a Practical Polish on Harum's Many Axioms.

City Grocer the Innocent Victim of the Guileless Agriculturist—He Knows Better Now.

"We have a horse buyer in our midst who could give old Dave Harum ten plunks and then be ahead about forty on a horse trade," said a citizen last evening.

"Old Dave Harum, you know, said 'A few horse trades is good for some people and bad for others.' All is fair in love and a horse trade. 'You can't always believe a man is telling you the truth, especially if a horse is concerned,' and, 'Don't believe any more than you are told and only half of what you see when you are swapping horses.'"

"These are only a few of David's axioms but they show he knew a couple of things about horse deals. Still I am prepared to back our local David against them all."

"Just a couple of weeks ago a farmer drove into town. He wasn't different from other farmers unless he looked a little greener and more of a rustic than usual. A North Chatham horse trader saw the farmer and, knowing him, called him over."

"I have got a little job for you," said the local David Harum. The dealer had a wind-blown horse which to all outward appearances was a handsome animal. He hitched it up in an old rig that would scarcely hold together. David then handed over the horse and rig to the farmer and told him to drive over to a King St. grocer, who thought he knew one or two things about horses. The grub seller wanted a horse to deliver his goods.

"Ask $150 but take $10 if you can get it," was the local Dave's parting advice as the farmer drove bodily over the river.

"The farmer was cautious not to drive very fast for the steed he had in what is technically known as a 'roarer.'"

"I would like to sell this horse," said the farmer, "crops were bad and the mortgage is due."

"Let's see how she steps," said the grocer as he carefully looked the animal over.

"The farmer cautiously walked the steed up and down."

"I would like to see her trot," said the grocer.

"The farmer leaned candidly out of the rig and remarked that he would like to drive fast but the rig was so old and frail that he was afraid it would fall to pieces."

"A spectator would have smiled had he listened, because the farmer was afraid to drive fast over the $20,000 pavement for fear his rig would fall to pieces. He apparently had no fear for his 'roarer.'"

"The grocer man must have been infuriated after bartering for a few moments he finally paid $90 for the horse worth $10. The first time he hitched the horse up it reared in less than a block. He at once drove out to the country to look for another farmer. The farmers weren't very plentiful but the Maple City grocer managed to trade his roaring horse for another, but he paid $40 to boot."

$5,000 TO BE SPENT ON QUEEN ST. SCHOOL

from 64.5 to 74.1. The percentage of attendance, 83.4 for the whole town, is very high, and is certainly gratifying.

Tablet lesson cards should be provided for Queen street school; as it is impossible to teach junior classes properly without them. I have recommended the use of tablets only for use in the junior rooms of Queen street. Scribbling books are the source of carelessness and want of neatness.

I shall have completed the inspection of the schools at an early date; and shall be able to make my half-yearly report upon the efficiency of the teachers and the condition of the schools at the next meeting of the Board.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen, Your obedient servant, ROBERT PARK, Inspector.

The Inspector's report was read and adopted.

An application from Miss Agnes Newcombe applying for a situation on the teaching staff was ordered filed.

Dr. McKeough for the supply committee reported that he had been elected chairman of the committee. He stated that as it was late in the year and as both schools have quite a large quantity of what they require on hand, Mr. Cooper be asked if he would continue to furnish supplies at the low price he had tendered at last year.

Mr. McCorvie, for the Kindergarten committee reported that the tables and chairs required had been purchased.

On the motion of Mr. McCorvie the principals of the kindergartens of the city will be asked to submit all requests for supplies to the Kindergarten committee.

Dr. McKeough exhibited the resolution passed by the Board to the widow of the late Inspector. The resolution had been framed and engrossed, and the work was much admired by all present.

Mr. Paxton presented a report of the estimated cost of repairing the Queen street school. The Doctor's estimate was as follows:

Central School—H. Malcolmson, $3.30. R. Cooper, $4.80. J. Fawcett, $2.80. T. J. Rutley, $5.00. Teachers' salaries, $345.81. Janitor, $35.41. Total, $396.92.

McKeough School—T. J. Rutley, $10.00. D. C. Clements, $11. Teachers' salaries, $287.48. Janitor, $29.16. Total, $337.64.

Queen St. school. R. Cooper, $2.65. Teachers' salaries, $74.99. Extras, $1. Janitor, $10.25. Payne School. E. J. McMillan, 60c. Teachers' salaries, $54.16. Janitor, $9.00. Total, $63.76.

Kindergarten, Central—J. W. Breasy, $10. R. Cooper, 50c. F. Judson, 75c. Hancock, $4. W. J. Kenny, 50c. W. Reddick, 25c. Thibodeau & Jacques, $1.50. Teachers' salaries, $56.33. Total, $73.83.

Kindergarten, McKeough—Planet, 20c. Teachers' salaries, $39.58. Total, $39.78.

General account—A. E. Galbraith, $5. C. Dingman, $1.35. Planet, $15. King street caretaker, $1. Total, $22.35.

Grand total, $1023.17.

Trustee Paxton presented the following approximate estimate of the repairs contemplated for the Queen St. school and their cost. The repairs would be as follows: To raise the building 5 ft. 6 in. so as to have a basement of 6 ft. 6 in. clear, to build about 1,600 feet of brick floor in basement, to put in two Kelsey warm air generators to heat the whole building, to paint all outside brick and wood-work three coats, to build new the entire first floor with soft maple 1 1/4 thick, to put in new pine joists where necessary, to put in new sashes in all old window frames making two feet windows, to rebuild the whole roof, to put in nine new windows and one door for basement, to build new eave troughs, to build three wood ceilings to take the place of present plaster ceilings. The cost will be in the neighborhood of $5,000.—Received.

Trustee Robertson favored a man-sard roof on the Queen St. School. Trustee Wilson, said that the management of the school, with the assistance of Mr. Robertson, had gone into the matter carefully in preparing the estimates, and they were prepared to abide by the decision of the board. The great question before the board was, would it pay to spend so much money?

Mr. McCorvie said that the first question was one of ways and means. Should the Board sell the King street property?

The secretary stated that there was $900 in the building fund and there was also a mortgage for $1450 that could be realized on.

Dr. McKeough thought the Board was fortunate in having two such excellent contractors amongst its members. It was folly to do any patch work and to repairs, whatever they were should be most thorough.

The Doctor had always contended that it was one of the best school sites in the city. He thought that if the repairs contemplated were carried out that Payne School could be done away with, and that property might be sold to the Dowsley Spring Co. The Doctor didn't think it wise to go ahead without first considering ways and means.

Trustee Campbell said that there would be no objection to closing Payne school. If Principal Flewies would only stop sending them back, there wouldn't be a child left at the Payne street school.

Trustee McCorvie said a new roof should be put on or it would be an old school as it were fixed.

Mr. Robertson endorsed Mr. McCorvie's remarks. There had always been a leak in the old roof.

Trustee Campbell favored securing the services of an architect.

Mr. Johnston agreed.

Mr. Paxton said the idea was to secure the services of a practical man as inspector.

Mr. Robertson preferred an inspector, but an architect was easily secured. The woods were full of them.

Trustee Campbell said ditto in reference to the inspectors.

On motion of Dr. McKeough, J. E. Johnston and W. E. Campbell were appointed a committee to take into consideration means of raising money for the building of Queen street school and they are to report a week from last night.

The Board then adjourned.

THE TRAVELLING FAKIR.

Editor Planet—Sir,—In your paper of May 29th you spoke of peddlers and fakirs pestering the farmers. It is a fact, and your suggestion to the county council is well worthy of more than a passing notice, and it should have the support of all the business men of the county as well as the farmers. By all means put a stop to all peddlers or make them pay a heavy license. They are a nuisance, leaving gates open and taking money out of the county without paying taxes.

FIGURES SHOWING EXPANSION.

Quarterly Report of the Ontario Bureau
of Mines—Large Increases in Iron Ore
and Pig Iron—Increases Also in Nickel and Copper—New Copper Companies and Large Operators.

The mining outlook in this Province appears to be decidedly more encouraging this year, the evidences pointing to a decided increase in the quantity and value of Ontario's metalliferous mines and furnaces over the year 1900.

In a quarterly report just issued by the Ontario Bureau of Mines some interesting figures are given, showing the expansion in mining.

The quantity of iron ore smelted into pig iron at the three furnaces of Ontario, all of which are in steady operation, was 48,663 tons, of which 21,083 tons were from Ontario mines, and 27,580 tons were imported ore. The proportion of native ore smelted during the quarter rose to 43 per cent of the whole, as against 28 per cent in 1900. In addition to the ore, 3,486 tons of scale and mill cinder were smelted.

The total quantity of nickel and copper ore mined during the period of three months ending March 31, 1901, was 72,036 tons, being a proportional increase, as compared with the whole of 1900, of 31 per cent. The new nickel-copper and copper mining companies are beginning to raise considerable quantities of ore, but not much of it has yet been smelted. The quantity of gold ore crushed was 10, 174 tons.

The output of the metalliferous mines and works of Ontario for the three months ending March 31, 1901,
as returned to the Bureau of Mines,
was as follows:

	Quantity.	Value.
Iron ore, tons	36,503	$4,106
Pig iron, tons	28,094	488,889
Nickel, pounds	1,808,091	190,808
Copper, pounds	1,680,391	75,825
Arsenic, pounds	226,054	12,046
Gold, ounces	3,150	14,520
Silver, ounces	20,077	12,046
Total		$827,590

The total value of the above products for 1900 was $2,541,131, consequently the output for the first three months of the present year shows a proportional increase of about 30 per cent. The largest increases are in iron ore and pig iron;
nickel and copper remain at about the same level of production, arsenic shows a decided increase, while gold and silver have fallen off.

SIR EDOUARD P. GIROUARD.

Canadian Officers Who Have Received
Honors From the King.

Five Canadian soldiers have received share in the war honors—one, Lt.- Col. Girouard, being knighted, and four others—Colonel Otter, and Lt.- Cols. Drury, Evans and Steele—receiving the honor of admission to the military division of the third class of Companions of the Bath. The four latter will hereafter have the privilege of adding the coveted initials "C. B." after their names.

Lt.-Col. Steele also has the privilege, alone in Canada, of having had membership in the Victorian Order conferred upon him by King Edward.

The Order of the Bath is one of the oldest of British Orders. It was established in 1399, and consists of several divisions. There are Military Knights Grand Cross (G. C. B.),
Civil Knights Grand Cross (G. C. B.),
Military Knights Companion (C. B.),
Military Companions (C. B.). The motto of the order is "Trio juncta unum" (three joined in one), and its head is the Sovereign.

Lt.-Col. Sir Edouard Percy
Cranwill Girouard, D. S. O., R. E., D. A. G., who has been raised to the rank of a Knight of the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St.
George, for his good work in South Africa, was born in Montreal in May, 1867, and is a son of Justice Girouard,
of the Supreme Court of Canada.

He is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and joined the Royal Engineers in 1888. He first made his mark with the Dongola expeditionary force in 1896, when he was mentioned in despatches and rewarded by being created a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order, and a brevet as major, receiving the British medal and the Khedive's medal with two clasps. He was one of the most active engineer officers with the Nile expedition of 1897. He then became director of the Soudan railways, and at the close of the Egyptian Railway Board, from which he was called by Lord Roberts to command the railway transportation service in South Africa.

A Proud Ottawa Man.

Staff-Sergeant H. G. Clarke of the Governor-General's staff, was a proud man on Saturday, on being made the recipient of a handsome present from Lord Minto. It was a paper weight made out of a piece of the old flag-staff at Fort Garry. The wood was mounted in sterling silver,
with a silver plate in the centre,
bearing the following inscription:
"Part of the flag-staff of Fort Garry,
now the city of Winnipeg, relieved by Col. Wolsley, 1870." Staff-Sergeant Clarke served with the Royal Rifles, leaving Ottawa May, 1870, for Fort Garry, under command of Gen. Wolsley.

What Did He Mean?

Mrs. Bridgell—I am looking forward with such great pleasure to see

sed it last night, didn't we?—The Sketch.

MAUDE AND THE JUDGE.

The ex-judge sat in his rustic chair,
Dreaming of days when prospects
were fair;

When he was a clerk in a grocery store,
Reading law at night for an hour or more.

Then politics gave him a playful nudge
And set him up on the bench as a judge.

While on his vacation one summer's
day
He met Maude Muller at work in the hay.

Now, Maude was as shy as a turtle dove,
So the judge fell heels over head in love.

"Maude, dear," said he, "for pity's sake
Come, be my bride, and give up that rake!"

But Maude answered and said, "Oh,
no;
The chap for me is the man with the hoe."

Pulling off his coat, the judge said
"See,
For your sake, Maude, I'll a farmer
be."

So the lovesick judge gave up his job
And became a stranger—alas! poor slob!

They married and bought a farm on time
And settled down to a life sublime.

For eighteen hours they toiled each
day,
Trying the mortgage on the farm to pay.

This happened some forty-odd years
ago,

But still the ex-judge wields the hoe
And gets stiff in elbow and knee,
For he isn't as young as he used to be.

But he often dreams of what might have been,
For the mortgage is bigger now than
then.

Nevill's Uncle Jerry.

As the junior partner of the old-established firm of solicitors, Gale, Tempest & Hopkinson, of Lincoln's Inn Fields, I was brought up in closest touch with the office staff.

One old clerk, who had started as office boy to the firm named, was called S. Nevill, but his baptismal patronymic was generally shortened by his conferees into Nevil, a name which described his temperament to a fine point. How he had been kept on so long was a mystery to many, but it was mainly through my instrumen-tality. The fact is that Nevill fell ill with influenza, and during his absence
his daughter called for some wages
due him. I saw and was greatly impressed by her. Her manners were those of a woman of gentle birth and breeding, but her face, which was more than beautiful, had those lines of patient suffering which plainly told her story. There was no need to ask her it, for it was plainly enough written.

I really guessed that by domestic tyranny he found an outlet for his petty nature which his own sex would not allow him to exercise on them.

After seeing his daughter I resolved that Nevill's place in our office was to be permanent so long as I could use my influence in his behalf, and at Christmas I—but that is outside the story.

One morning as Nevill came into my office with some letters for signature
I was struck with his woful appearance, and, as I have foreshadowed my interest in his family affairs, it was natural that I should ask what was the matter with him.

A dreadful and shameful 'oaks has been played on me, Mr. Upkinson, sir," he said. Nevill was always erratic with his 'h's when "put out."

"Sit down, my man, and tell me all about it," I said, for much as I disliked the man, I could not help feeling sorry for him, so distressed did he seem.

"You know," he continued, "that I have always looked forward to Uncle Jerry leaving some of his wealth to me when the end came."

"Well, Nevill," I interrupted, "has he died?"

"No, sir; worse than that. I am afraid I would not be so cut up about that, but he has played a dirty trick
on me and mine that I am as much disgusted as disappointed."

As I saw he was bursting to tell me his sorrow I told him to proceed with the story of his wrongs.

"You must know that Uncle Jerry last Christmas, as was his usual custom, invited all his poor relations to dine with him.

"The night passed smoothly, excepting that two cousins got excited in a political argument. These evenings would up with a speech from our host,
and then, after singing 'Auld Lang Syne,' we would separate. The speech last Christmas was a memorable one,
and I remember each word burnt itself
into my memory as it fell from Uncle Jerry's lips.

"My dear relatives," he commenced,
"you will be sorry to learn, as I am to announce it, that this gathering, which it has been my pleasure as well as my duty to hold at this season of goodwill toward all men, is to be the last."
"Yes, the last, I grieve to repeat.
You are all, I think, aware of the sudden collapse of the company which promised to be one of the greatest and most successful undertakings of modern time. I will be brief, as the subject is to me a painful one. In that company I was foolish enough to invest my money, not so much for my self as for the benefits I could bestow upon my kith and kin. That dream has ended as dreams do—suddenly.

My riches have taken to themselves wings. I remember with pleasure the many professions of affection from you all—yes, all—without a single exception. Those presents which you sent on the board—here every one mentally totted up what his own contribution had cost.

"Those presents are, as you know souvenirs of your affectionate regard and remembrances on my birthdays. I will treasure them as they deserve to be treasured. I am about to try the experiment, a painful one at my age, of existing on £70 per annum, instead of nearly as many hundreds. But I feel confident that such affection as you have always shown me, and such solicitude for my health, was not prompted by mercenary motives. My declining days will be soiled, even under my grievously altered circumstances, by my relatives, who will, I am sure, entertain me, instead of their being entertained."

"The assembled relations gasped with astonishment, and, first sentences, but before Uncle Jerry concluded his speech, and he was in no hurry, I assure you they had recovered themselves sufficiently to applaud in the right places and to utter platitudes
at the end.

"As to myself," continued Nevill, "I was as mad as any of them, but as my daughter and I were walking along our street I was suddenly struck with the notion that it might be a 'plant.'
You see, sir, I am a great reader, and in novels and those short stories which one reads in the evening papers, which old Uncle Jerry had a habit of springing these surprises on their poor relations at such festive gatherings in order to test the genuineness of their professed affection."

"Well, sir, I stopped and danced on to pavement until my daughter caught hold of my arm and said: 'You'll have a crowd round us in a minute, father.'

"Next morning I called to see Bab-blecombe of the Northern Shires Bank, where Uncle Jerry has his account, and told him my suspicions.
Babblecombe is under an obligation to me, which I need not specify, and, although it made him incline to answer my questions, the fear of the bank act prevented his going into details.
At last, after a lot of consideration, he said: 'Nevill, you place me in an awkward predicament; you know as well as I do that your questions are irresistible. But as I wish to do you a turn I will tell you that I think there is every probability of your being right
in your surmises.'

"I could not get anything more definite from him than that, although I tried hard enough. The upshot was that I farmed Uncle Jerry for all I was worth, and more. For I had to borrow money to cover increased expenditures.
I first had him to stay with us at Brixton, and then took him as part of the family to Margate, when we went for our holiday, paying all his expenses and keeping him supplied with tobacco, and he smoked no small amount.

"Under proper circumstances, that is, according to novelists and story writers, I should have been rewarded with a handsome check, and ultimately been his sole heir when he died, but as such luck for me.

"Suddenly, one morning, about a month ago, Uncle Jerry said he was going to town, where he intended to take cheap lodgings and look out for some work. From that day to this I have ever seen him, much as I have tried.

"To-day the final blow has been dealt to me. I read in this morning's paper of the marriage of Jeremiah Jenkins to Susan Hobbs. No cards. No cake. No presents. Susan Hobbs is a buxom wench about twenty-five or thirty, and is certain to have a squad of children."

Poor Nevill! I could not help laughing at him, for all he looked such a picture of misery. I proposed to the beautiful daughter the next day.

At the Holy Ghost.

The old blackened weather-beaten church among the pines stood on the summit of the hill. It was during the semi-annual revival. The preacher had been at the business of calling sinners to repentance for many a year and was acquainted with all the little arts known to the profession in catching them both ways, going and coming.
But his plan for this spring was the greatest he had ever practiced and was the talk of the neighborhood.

For nights he had worked it, with the aid of a very young member of the church, the son of one of his deacons and a very sturdy, robust young fellow. To mystify and rouse his hearers to a frenzy of religious emotion he had thought of the novel plan of having the Holy Ghost descend in the form of a white dove every night.

His co-workers manipulated the Holy Ghost, which was a white pigeon, from the old loft of the church. Before dark John, with the Holy Ghost for company, crept up in the loft and waited patiently for the congregation to assemble. At a certain time in the sermon, John let fly the white pigeon, and the preacher dwelt dramatically upon the Holy Ghost descending upon the people. That always moved his hearers to violent demonstrations and brought many to the foot of the cross.

But one fateful night John had forgotten and left the pigeon in the loft,
where it was devoured by a lank, hungry cat. The misfortune was not discovered until too late for John to warn the preacher about bringing in the third sermon last.

When the thrilling and intense moment arrived and the preacher cried with a loud voice, saying, "And the Holy Ghost descended on the people," he held out his hands and closed his eyes, as if waiting for the "Peace that passeth all understanding" to rest on his devoted head.

At that trying time the hearers were aroused from their keen expectancy by the agonized whisper of John from a crack in the loft directly over the waiting preacher's head: "Uncle Joel Uncle Joel! Do cat's done eat up de Holy Ghost! Must I let down de cat?"

HOW DO YOU STAND.

Queer Ways Different Nationalities Greet Each Other.
The Germans greet each other by saying: "How do you find yourself?"
The Chinese inquire of equals: "Have you eaten your rice?" The reply is: "Thanks to your abundant felicity."
The Japanese, when they meet a superior, remove their sandals and exclaim: "Hurt me not!"
"How do you stand?" asks the Italian when he meets a friend.
Arabs of eminence kiss each others cheeks, and exclaim: "God grant the life and give health to thy family."
The Dutch greet each other by asking: "Have you had a good dinner?" A Moor rides at full speed toward a friend or stranger, stops suddenly, fires a pistol into the air over his own head, then considers that he has been quite courteous.
In Egypt the usual words of greeting are: "How do you persevere?" In Lapland friends salute by pressing their noses together.
The Polish greeting is: "How do you have yourself?"
Persian friends cross necks, rub cheeks and say: "May thy shadow never grow less."
"Go with God, senor," is the Spanish greeting.
The French ask: "How do you carry yourself?"
Russian friends greet by asking: "How do you live on?"
In Siam a man prostrates himself on the ground when he meets a stranger, and waits to see whether he will be raised and welcomed or kicked away.—Exchange.

Feat of an Amateur.
"Tep looking for a saddle horse," admitted the wholesaler who was just back from his vacation. "I was raised among horses, you might say. I never boast, but I guess that I can ride anything that ever looked through a bridle. Just back from visiting an old chum that grew up next door to me. Has a great stock farm. Broke in a three-year-old colt for him while I was there."
"Any trouble?"
"Not a bit. Tied up his front legs and he fell so as to throw me through a corn crib. Didn't hurt. Old man came along and said I ought to be ashamed to cripple a horse in order to ride him. So I let the leg down. I scrambled on and he jumped before I was ready. That time I went through the top of a peach tree. Never felt it. Next trip me and the colt went down the road as though there were fireworks on his tail."
"He stopped unexpectedly and I went over a wire fence into a ploughed field. I tore my trousers and ripped the tops of my shoes, but never broke the skin. I bet there isn't another amateur rider in the country could do that. My horse plunged through three furrows, but I didn't mind it any more than a dive into the Detroit river."
"Got right back on the colt, I suppose?"
"No, my chum said I was a little over weight, so he put a young fellow on and he stuck as if he had to. I like to see a colt have some sort of a show. The boy tried the colt over and I insisted on one more mount. You can bet that colt knew his master. He was tame as a sheep. I'd have ridden him, you know, if he'd broke my neck. Now what I want is something quick and devilish in horsemanship. I'll tame him."

OUT OF BABIES' MOUTHS.

"The ladies in our congregation are pretty fond of me," said the minister's mischievous little boy. "Nearly all of them gave me some slippers on his birthday."
"I thought your pa always uses a slipper to spank you with."
"So he does, but these he got are the soft kind that's all made out of wool."
"What kind of a present shall I bring you, Mabel?" asked the father of a three-year-old miss as he was about to start on a short journey.
"Bring me some holes for my ears, so I can wear earrings," replied his daughter.
"Won't you give me your new baby brother, Nellie?" asked the visitor of a little four-year-old miss.
"No, indeed," replied Nellie. "I want him to play with. But I'll get you a piece of paper, and you can cut a pattern of him."
"Say," remarked the first boy on the way to school, "I just heard the minister tell another man 'at my pa was a horrible example.' Wonder what 'at is?"
"I guess," replied the other, "he must have a lot of fractions in him."—Philadelphia Press.

PRIDE'S FALL.

She was a maid of honor
And I was his best man,
And in the aisle we loitered while
The wedding march began!
My heart was wildly beating,
My breast was full of pride,
For fairest of the fair ones there
Was that one at my side!
The people turned and whispered
And turned again to see,
And for awhile there in the aisle
I saw the maiden blushing.
We two outshone the rest,
I heard her sigh my head was high
And joy was in my breast!
She was a maid of honor
And I was his best man,
And there my pride ignobly died,
And there my shame began!
Her train was long and splendid,
And suddenly somehow
My feet and it got blended
And we are strangers now!

Young Wife—I knew you would like the slippers, Harry, if for no other reason because I made them.
Husband—You don't mean this is all your work? Why, what a talented little wife I have to be sure.
Young Wife—Yes, all my work. Of course, I bought the upper and Mary sewed them together and I got a man to sole them; but I put the bows on and did them up in the box. And do you know, Harry, I'm proud of myself. I didn't think I could ever do such things.

Economical, Delicious and Nutritious

Avoid much meat eating at the morning meal in summer. It conduces to heaviness, drowsiness and defective digestion. One pound of steak makes but two meals; one package of Malt Breakfast Food makes thirty meals, and furnishes more strength, vim and energy. It is the most economical of foods. Malt Breakfast Food is easily digested and its delicious flavor makes it a fast friend with old and young. All Grocers.

"He said it would make the time seem shorter."

The popular view of the relation of the blood to human character and conduct is marked in many a familiar expression. We speak of their being "bad blood" between people at enmity, of "blue blood" as indicating ancestry, of "black blood" as describing a treacherous nature, and in many another phrase mark our belief that in the mental, moral and physical man, "the blood is the life." The one basis of a healthful, happy and useful life is pure blood. With the blood pure, disease has no permanent lodging place in the system. For this reason the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery rides the body of diseases which have their origin in impurity of blood. It absolutely purifies the blood, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter, increasing the action of the blood making glands, and building up the body by supplying the blood in quantity and quality such as is essential to a condition of health. It cures ninety-eight people out of every hundred who give it a fair trial.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Further Proceedings at the Present Session of Kent's Parliament.

Much Business is Before the Commissioners—County Committee De-liberating—Other Matters

On the return from the House of Refuge, the County Council resumed yesterday afternoon.

A communication was read from the collegiate Institute Board, asking for a grant of $800 on account of fees for the year 1901—Referred to the Education committee.

A communication was received from G. A. Miller, of Dresden, applying for the position on the county board of entrance examiners, made vacant by the death of Rev. Angus McColl.—Referred to the Education committee.

J. R. Longmore, treasurer of the West Kent Farmer's Institute, wrote giving financial statement. It showed receipts $216.70, expenditures $120.60, balance $96.10.—Received.

Robert Mercer, jailer, wrote the council, complaining that the treasurer had withheld part of his salary.—Referred to Finance.

The financial report of the C. C. I. Board was received.

County Clerk Fleming read the yearly report of the county House of Refuge. At the close of the financial year, there were 35 inmates in the institution, 26 males and 9 females. The daily average was 36. The number admitted during the year was 22. Two deaths occurred and 19 left.

Many people in the city and county have kindly donated suitable reading matter for the inmates. The Salvation Army and others have held religious services. The number of inmates now in the house from the different municipalities is as follows:—Camden 2, Chatham 3, Dover 5, Howard 3, Harwich 6, Orford 3, Raleigh 3, Romney 0, Tilbury East 1, Zone 1, Blenheim 0, Bothwell 1, Dresden 0, Ridgeway 1, Wallaceburg 0, Thamesville 0, Tilbury 0, county 6. The amount expended at the House for the year was $4,491.07, less $1,547.44, stock and produce sold, making a total cost of $2,943.65.

The expense per week for the board of each inmate, including the keeper's family, $13.12.

The report was adopted.

The treasurer's statement was presented as follows:

The Jail Surgeon reported that there had been no deaths in the jail.

He recommended that the straw beds at the jail be replaced by mattresses. He also reported as physician for the House of Refuge that since January, 1901, he had visited 99 white and had prescribed for 229 patients. There were 35 inmates at present, the majority enjoying good health. He noticed the Council that one inmate was subject to periodical attacks of insanity and the caretaker was forced to lock the man up in one of the cells. The cells were unfit for use and the doctor suggested that they be properly fitted up.

The report was adopted.

The case of Mrs. Macdonald, an inmate of the House of Refuge, who lies seriously ill with pneumonia, was discussed and steps will be taken to have the woman cared for.

SHOE BALANCE

HE shoe of choice upper leather, with fine appearance, and poor insole or outsole, is only as good as its worst part.

The life of a shoe depends as much upon the invisible portion—the hidden material and labor—as upon that which is visible and showy.

Yet all shoes are made primarily to sell, and the manufacturers' temptation to add to selling effect, by subtraction from wear is great, and rarely resisted.

A direct responsibility from Maker to Wearer is the only check upon this extravagant tendency.

That responsibility is easily crept out of, unless the Maker (not the Dealer) sets the price, and stamps it on the sole, with his trade mark.

Thus priced, it is a distinct "promise to pay" so many dollars worth of shoe value, and pledges shoe-balance, uniformity of material, wear, permanent satisfaction.

No Canadian shoe but "The Slater Shoe" is thus pledged.

No Canadian buy "Slater Shoes" you can rely on their being just as good as they look—inside and outside.

The Slater shoe Makers dare not make superficial

"window" shoes.

Goodyear welts, and priced on the sole, in a slate frame—
