Muskoka Protest Against Conservative M.P.P. Fails.

No Agency Was Proved and His Lordship Thinks the Election Was Fairly Conducted—Little Money Involved in Spurious Cases of Bribery or Attempted Bribery in the Constituency—Petition Dismissed With Costs.

Bracebridge, Sept. 9.—The petition against the election of A. A. Mahaffy for Muskoka was yesterday morning dismissed with costs. The cross-petition was also dismissed. A great number of charges were gone into yesterday morning; but in none of them was there even the suggestion of evidence of corruption. The hearing, which has lasted three days, brought out only the fact that the association believes in the proper administration of public affairs, but is of the opinion that the doubling of the expenditure by men who promised to cut it down is unwarranted.

The Grand Trunk Pacific. "That this association commends the stand taken by Mr. Borden and his colleagues on the subject of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. The historic policy of the Liberal-Conservative party is to move along progressive lines and to add to the facilities for settlement and trade with a due regard for the sources of the people and their ability to pay. The proposition to tax Canadians $150,000,000 for a new railway when the same could have been secured for an infinitely smaller sum is imprudent and unwise. The money for a proposed private company is to own with precedent. This association approves of the wise policy of Mr. Borden, under which it is laid down as a principle that if the country pays much for the road it ought to own what it pays for. It is the opinion of this association that the question of the G. T. P. requires to be examined by men of the business ability of Mr. Borden, with a view to straightening out the tangle, and especially that the absurdity of allowing politicians who know nothing of railways to build the $75,000,000 section in the far north be put to a stop.

"That this association deplors the degradation of the public service under which men of the type of Lord Dunsford and Auditor-General Macdougall are hunted from office while such persons as W. T. R. Preston and his colleagues, Jackson, are drafted into the Civil Service and are thus paid for offences against the people. The carrying of the spoils systems to this limit is a danger and a disgrace to the country."

Officers Re-elected. The officers of the Association, who were re-elected, are: Mr. J. J. Foy, M.P.P., president; Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, vice-president; Mr. A. C. Macdonell, secretary; Mr. E. B. Ryckman, treasurer; Mr. Borden and Mr. Whitney are honorary presidents. Won't Tolerate Saw-Off. Mr. Whitney said the result of the election trial in Muskoka was a cause for congratulation. After touching briefly on provincial issues, the provincial conservative leader announced his opposition to the saw-off arrangement of election trials. "We've been told we bargained in North Perth," he said, "but it's an absolute falsehood. Counsel for the petitioners called witnesses and a charge was proved against Mr. Brown got down. There was no bargain. I'll be a party to no saw-off, and I won't. No party solicitor or other person will have my confidence if this thing is done." (Applause.)

Mr. Whitney suggested that a sufficient sum of money be deposited in the bank against contingencies such as the expense of carrying on the election trials. "And everything should be open to the world," he added. Speaking of the next session of the Legislature he referred to the $2,000,000 "thrown into a bottomless pit in order that two members might not stand up and vote against the Government." He declared that Liberal members who voted for the $200 loan had previously denounced the scheme and urged Conservative members to defeat the "iniquitous measure."

Clergymen would stand up and say there was a spirit of moral deadness in the province; "Yet," said Mr. Whitney, "there has not been a clergyman to denounce the monstrous acts of these men."

In North Perth Mr. DuVernet read from an affidavit of unseated Liberal member that there were 16 Government officials who were his agents in the election contest. This gave an idea of the utter shamelessness of the men the Conservatives are fighting. He believed the Provincial Government would not go to the polls until it was compelled to, but indicated pointed to an early Dominion election. The party had reason to congratulate itself on the policy outlined by Mr. Borden and on his ascendancy.

Mr. Gamey had done splendid work, and wherever he had been the bulk of his listeners had gone away with the opinion that his story was true. What did Balfour and McKim do that Gamey did not do? he asked, referring to the bribery plot of years ago.

Prepares For Election. Dr. Sproule, M.P., urged Conservatives to get ready for an election. The personality of the Government agriculture or that of the factory, the degree of defence they deserve.

"That this association is of the opinion that an agreement can be reached under which Canadian interests shall not be sacrificed while at the same time the preferential system advocated by Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain may be put in force. A preferential understanding between Canada and the Mother Land would be of vast interest to both, in that it would increase trade between them and strengthen the tie which unites them. If able men of the calibre of R. L. Borden be appointed to negotiate on the subject it is certain that an agreement helpful all around can be reached.

"That this association deplors the great increase in the Federal taxes and expenditures and is the more surprised that such tremendous additions should be made by politicians who 'viewed with alarm' the much smaller expenditures of the Liberal-Conservative party. This association believes in the proper administration of public affairs, but is of the opinion that the doubling of the expenditure by men who promised to cut it down is unwarranted.

The Grand Trunk Pacific. "That this association commends the stand taken by Mr. Borden and his colleagues on the subject of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Prepares For Election. Dr. Sproule, M.P., urged Conservatives to get ready for an election. The personality of the Government was the weakest since Confederation, and there was not a good third-rate man to represent Ontario. Of the Ontario contingent, Sir William Mulock was the best. Touching Ontario affairs for a moment, Dr. Sproule declared "You have corrupted the herd, lassoed their bunco leader and branded him with the trade-mark of corruption."

Calls for Mr. Gamey were general, and he spoke for two minutes, saying what he had done was on behalf of the party and its leader. E. B. Ryckman, treasurer, showed the necessity of funds to carry on the election trials. The association was appealed to and several members guaranteed that their riding associations would do their duty.

GARTUNG IS IN HIDING

Warrant Issued For His Arrest on Charge of Embezzlement.

Superintendent of Canadian Order of Foresters, With Headquarters at Brantford, Said to Have Stolen Over $2,000.—Said to Have Appointed Mythical Organizers and to Have Drawn Amount of Their Pay Cheques Himself.

Brantford, Sept. 9.—A big sensation was sprung in this city yesterday when it became known that a warrant was issued for the arrest of Ernest Gartung on a charge of embezzlement. Gartung was superintendent of the organization department of the Canadian Order of Foresters, with headquarters in this city. He left the city hurriedly Wednesday night, and the police have as yet no knowledge of his whereabouts. The amount of shortage is not exactly known, but will probably be considerably over $2,000.

In pursuance of his duties, Gartung journeyed all over the province appointing county organizers. These organizers were paid by cheque upon receipt of a voucher from Gartung. It is alleged that Gartung appointed fictitious organizers, sent in the vouchers and then cashed the cheques for himself in some clever manner. It is also charged that he got ahead of the Order on his expense account.

Auditors have regularly examined the books, but since the vouchers were correct nothing was suspected until recently. It is understood that cheques came back from a mythical organizer named Langdon at Alexandria, with Gartung's endorsement. Wednesday Gartung was up on the carpet before one of the Order's officials, and the hearing was adjourned till a later hour, but Gartung failed to show up. The police were notified about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. Gartung has been in the city before the Order for twenty years. He was one of the most trusted officials, nothing being suspected till very lately. Gartung has a wife and two children living at New Hamburg. His predicament has occasioned much regret in this city, where he was well known and much respected, as he was throughout the province.

At present many officials of the Order are in the city examining the books of the Order. It is claimed more shortages are being found, but the amount will in no way affect the Order, as a guarantee company is liable. Before leaving, it is known that Gartung procured a revolver.

STANDARD FOR DENTISTS.

Formation of a Dominion Dental Council Approved of.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—At the final meeting of the Canadian Dental Association yesterday the scheme for the formation of a Dominion Dental Council was approved of. Representatives from each of the provinces met and drew up a plan for the establishment of the Council, which will have power to grant certificates that will be accepted in all parts of the Dominion.

The other business of the meeting was reading of a technical paper by Dr. Loveau of Paris, France, which provoked considerable discussion of a most beneficial character.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, the result of which was:

President, Dr. Dubeau, Montreal; vice-president, Dr. S. W. McInnes, M. P. P.; Brandon; secretary, Dr. Morrison, Montreal; treasurer, Dr. W. G. L. Spaulding, Toronto; registrar, Dr. G. K. Thompson, Halifax; Committee, F. W. Ryan, Nova Scotia; Frank A. Godseau, New Brunswick; F. A. Stevenson, Quebec; G. E. Hanna, Ontario; W. F. Taylor, Manitoba; W. D. Cowan, Northwest Territories; P. A. Lefurgy, Prince Edward Island.

Paralyzed By Fall.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—A. Coyne, 15 Wood street, a painter, employed by the Police Iron Works, while working on a scaffold, fell 20 feet to the ground, lighting on his shoulder. He was removed in the ambulance to Grace Hospital, where it was found that the shock had caused paralysis.

To Accept Russia's Offer.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, states that the offer of the Russian Government of $46,000 in settlement of the Canadian sealers' claims against Russia, would probably be accepted.

Chicago Strike Ends.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—President Donnelly of the Butchers' Workmen's Union has declared the Stock Yards strike at an end.

MOVEMENT TO TIELING

Taken to Be Significant of a Coming Battle.

Russians Admit Loss of 17,000 Men in Ten Days Fighting About Liaoyang.—Report That Gen. Kuroki Has Been Shot Is Unconfirmed—Kuropatkin Is Overruled Will Now Be Given Help—Russia Reorganizing.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.—Besides the formation of two fresh army corps as the first answer to the Japanese successes at Liaoyang, the Russian army at the front will be reorganized, probably in the form of two armies, in command of General Linevitch and General Baron Kaulbars, respectively, with General Kuropatkin as commander-in-chief. General Kaulbars will go out with the two army corps now organizing in the Governments of Kazan, Odessa, Vilna and Kiev. General Linevitch has been ordered by telegram from Vladivostok to Mukden. This decision is due in part, doubtless, to the growing unwieldiness of the big force under General Kuropatkin's command, and which will be largely increased by constant reinforcement.

General Kuropatkin heretofore has handled every detail of the vast organization. The work is too much for one man, and he is now almost broken down under the strain.

A Coming Battle.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.—General Kuropatkin, reporting in a telegram sent Wednesday evening, that he had not lost a single gun in his retreat, and that Kuroki is on his east flank and Oku on the left, and officials here surmise that a big battle may be fought if the Japanese continue to press on to Mukden. The story of had roads and hampered transport is repeated, and from Mukden, in the last despatch received, comes the significant intimation that "there is an interesting movement towards Tieling," the nature of which is not disclosed.

MINE A MILE LONG.

How Russians Are Said to Have Blown Up Jap Columns.

Chao Foo, Sept. 9.—A Japanese column, numbering approximately 700 men, while marching along at night on a road in the valley between Long Hill and Division Hill, met a frightful disaster through the explosion of an electric land mine Sept. 7. The mine was carefully laid by the Russians three weeks ago. It covered nearly a mile of available marching space. The explosive was placed at the bottom. Rocks were placed next, and on top of these clay was packed so carefully that the ground gave the impression of not having been disturbed. The indications of Japanese activity in this vicinity put the Russians on guard. Near midnight the outposts rushed in and reported that the Japanese were approaching. The Russians withheld their fire for some time. Suddenly they threw a searchlight up the valley. The Japanese opened with rifle fire. The Russians waited until apparently the whole Japanese column was in the danger zone. Then the mine exploded. The force of the explosion knocked a number of Russians down, and the sight of Japanese ridges, water bottles, legs and arms hurled through the lighted space made by the searchlight was an awful spectacle. Some rocks landed inside the Russian lines. There was one appalling moment, during which the garrison itself was stunned, then a deathly silence. The searchlight coldly lighted up the road and hillsides strewn with dead. The following day the Russians buried the dead, but owing to their diminished and mutilated condition the Russians were unable to accurately estimate the number of killed. A few Japanese escaped, however. The foregoing information is contained in a small sheet issued by The Port Arthur Novik, a breakage in the press having made it impossible to issue a full edition. The Chinese arriving here at midnight confirm the above to the extent of saying that they heard a report that many Japanese had been killed by a mine. On the nights of Aug. 26 and 27 a similar disaster befell the Japanese near Redoubt No. 2. It is reported, but details have not been ascertained.

Kuroki Reported Dead.

Mukden, Sept. 9.—News of the fight at some point between Shaho, 11 miles northwest of Liaoyang and Mukden, is hourly expected. Among the reports current here is one to the effect that Gen. Kuroki has been killed and that two Japanese generals have been made prisoners, but no one seems to know where the reports originated and no confirmation is obtainable.

Lost 17,000 Men.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.—The best information of the War Office indicates Kuropatkin lost about 17,000 men during the ten days' battle of Liaoyang.

SHOULD PUSH INQUIRY

Stratford Herald: The law governing election trials was not made by us but by the Liberal Government at Toronto, who have arranged it to suit their purposes, even to the extent of making it possible by the numbered ballot for party agents to find how a given ballot was marked. A proper law would lay it as a duty upon the judges to push enquiry in the case of an election like that in North Perth, where notoriously corrupt and improper means were resorted to on behalf of the Ross Government to win. Proceedings covering less than an hour cannot by any stretch of imagination be regarded as adequate enquiry. Of course, by the Liberals throwing up their hands, crying quits and accepting an adverse verdict with costs, there was nothing to do but to close the case, as the law now is. The corruption that was practiced can, of course, be inferred by eagerness to avert exposure.

A DRAMA OF HISTORY.

The occurrences of the past fortnight in Manchuria form one of the most thrilling war dramas in history. Very seldom, if ever, since firearms have come into general use, has such a mass of men and guns been engaged in a death struggle. The series of minor defeats which inaugurated the Russian retirement constituted a mere introduction to the tremendous conflict at Liao Yang which lasted four days. This has been succeeded by the retirement, in what would appear to be fairly good order, of the Russian army, followed with unabated keenness and zeal by the Japanese hosts. We do not recollect any parallel in history of the great running fight of the past few days between these armies, and if the Japanese eventually bring Kuropatkin to bay and destroy his army, the whole series of events will constitute one of the greatest war dramas in history.

There is one reason why the whole civilized world should sympathize with Japan in the present crisis of a great struggle. For the past quarter of a century or more Russia has been the one great disturbing element among the nations of the world. Cruel and tyrannical towards her own subjects she has maintained an attitude of sullen menace towards other nations, and especially towards Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and all the other first class powers are peacefully inclined, though slight friction may occur at times, but Russia has been the one distrustful and menacing force which has kept all the others alert, either through fear of actual attack or from being drawn into complications resulting therefrom. If Japan succeeds in thoroughly whipping the Big Bear it will be a boon to the whole world.

CHEER UP.

There Are Millions of People Much Worse Off Than You Are.

Cheer up. The world is taking your photograph. Look pleasant. Of course you have your troubles, troubles you cannot tell the policeman. A whole lot of things bother you, of course. Business worries or domestic sorrows. It may be, or what not. You find life a rugged road whose stones hurt your feet. Nevertheless cheer up.

It may be your real disease is selfishness—ingrown selfishness. Your life is too self centered. You imagine your tribulations are worse than others bear. You feel sorry for yourself—the meanest sort of pity. It is a pathetic illusion. Rid yourself of that and cheer up.

What right have you to carry a picture of your woes before you and funeral ways about among your fellows, who have troubles of their own? If you must whine or sulk or scowl, take a car and go to the woods or to the unfrequented lanes.

Cheer up. Your ills are largely imaginary. If you were really on the brink of bankruptcy, or if there were no thoroughfare through your sorrows, you would clear your brows, set your teeth and make the best of it.

Cheer up. You are making a hypothetical case out of your troubles and suffering from a self inflicted verdict. You are borrowing trouble and paying a high rate of interest.

Cheer up. Why, man alive, in a ten minute walk you may see a score of people worse off than you. And here you are digging your own grave and playing palbear into the bargain. Man alive, you must do your work. Smile, even though it be through your tears, which speedily dry. And cheer up.

HOME FROM ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Raleigh St., returned from England on Saturday. Both enjoyed their trip to the fullest extent and have returned very much improved in health.

"The Isle of Wight," remarked Mr. Campbell, "is an ideal place. We were only going to stay there four days, but we remained ten and wished we could stay longer. Mrs. Campbell's forefathers lived on the island, and I wondered how they could leave such a paradise. Around every house ferns, climbing roses and geraniums grow. The picture is perfect. We had splendid weather during our sojourn on the isle, not one shower of rain."

"During the four weeks we were in Ireland we had only three real fine days. Ireland is a beautiful country if they only had a roof over it, and they grow the most prolific crops. I never saw such a growth of grain and roots. They raise a great quantity of roots, especially potatoes, turnips and mangolds. The people seem to be quite prosperous and the new land laws appear to have settled all grievances."

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell returned on the Baltic, the new steamer of the White Star Line. This is the largest liner in the world and was making only its third trip. In all there were 3,116 passengers on board, which was the greatest number ever landed in New York from one boat. She is just as steady as a rock, and except for a slight vibration you wouldn't know you were on a boat.

"Mr. Milton, of Paris, Ont., was a passenger on the Baltic. He wished to be remembered to Joe Turner and Jerry O'Brien, both old friends."

"We spent one day at Portsmouth. My son wanted to go there to see Nelson's old flagship, the Victory, so I could tell him about it. Unfortunately, however, visitors were excluded that day, as the Duke of Connaught and party were inspecting the ship. But even this proved a lucky circumstance. I fell in with an elderly gentleman named Mr. Paul. He was a superannuated editor of the London Standard. Considerable repairs had been made to the Victory, but the government refused to allow any portion of the wood to be taken away. However, while repairing one of the doors a carpenter cut a piece of the wood away. Mr. Paul secured this wood and had it made into a cane. When he learned of my disappointment and my son's request, he presented me with the walking stick. He said he had no children to leave it to and would like me to take it for my boy. I was very much pleased with the gift, as this is something that nobody else in the world has, a walking stick made from wood from Nelson's flagship."

"I also brought home a piece of wood from an oak tree on my uncle's estate in Ireland. It was under this tree that Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke, was married to Eva McMurrough, daughter of the King of Ireland. Strongbow was sent over to conquer Ireland, but McMurrough made an agreement whereby the former was to marry the princess, and succeed the king on his death, and for this concession was not to make war."

Mr. Campbell has many other interesting stories in connection with his trip.

How Sea Birds Get a Drink.

"When I was a cabin boy," said an elderly sailor, "I often used to wonder, seen birds thousands of miles out at sea, what they done for fresh water when they got thirsty."

"One day a squall answered that question for me. It was a hot and glittering day in the tropics, and in the clear sky overhead a black rain cloud appeared all of a sudden. Then out of the empty space over a hundred sea birds came darting from every direction. They got under the rain cloud and they waited there for about ten minutes, circling round and round, and when the rain began to fall they drank their fill."

"In the tropics, where the great sea birds sail thousands of miles away from shore, they get their drinking water in that way. They smell out a storm a long way off; they travel a hundred miles, maybe, to get under it, and they swallow enough raindrops to keep them going."

Oxford Training.

The average citizen, if asked what was taught at Oxford, would probably reply, "Useless learning." And in many ways it is a true answer, for its aim is not to turn out doctors, lawyers and merchants, ready made, but men with carefully trained minds, fitted not for this or that profession, but for the whole conduct of life. It is contended that such a man will insensibly take a wider view of his subject than the specialist, for he approaches it from a different standpoint—London Outlook.

Good Living in China.

An English surgeon at Hongkong writes that "all Chinamen eat fish and pork at morning and evening meals. Fowls and ducks are always on the table of all but the most humble of the coolie class, and they do not have them because they cannot afford them. I hope this will be a sufficient answer to those who maintain that Chinamen live on rice. It is not nearly so true as that the Scotch live on porridge."

A Simple Question.

"May a man marry his widow's sister?" was a question I heard put to a prominent lawyer. "Certainly he may," was the reply without a moment's hesitation. Then the lawyer had another thing coming.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

Every Woman Should Spare Herself All Unnecessary Work.

"I hold," said the head of a household recently to me, "that it is the duty of every woman, especially a mother, to spare herself as much as she possibly can. But when you come to look into the matter, you will half believe that they are bent on killing themselves. For instance, look at the woman who does the washing and ironing of her family. Ask her why she does not buy one of the labor saving washing machines and she will reply that she cannot afford it. But if you go into her parlor you will find a piano, or, if not that, then pieces of expensive furniture that could easily have been done without, or their places filled with simpler articles. On ironing day you will see her bending over the board in a hot kitchen, while the dining room is shut up. Ask her why she does not do her ironing there and she will answer that she wants to save the carpet, or keep the apartment cool. And the number of unnecessary articles that you will behold when her ironing is finished! Why, since she must do the work, will she not dress her children plainly and thereby spare herself long hours in pressing out tucks and ruffles which at the end of a day's wear are again fit for the washbowl? And all the necessary articles do not require to be ironed, when there is only one pair of hands to do the work, and of the house. We see the same foolish expenditure of strength in cooking. The average mother spends the best part of her day in the kitchen, in work that is not only unnecessary, but also unhygienic. If we ate less, and that little were scientifically prepared, not only would the mother husband her energy, but the family would possess better health—Beatrice Bancroft in Men and Women.

THE WOMAN MINISTER.

She Has Come to Stay in the Congregational Church.

The woman minister has come to stay in Congregationalism. While other denominations, like the Methodists and Episcopalians, refuse to ordain women, the Congregational denomination, in most sections of the country, at least, seems willing to approve well qualified women or to extend to them the same opportunities in the Congregational ministry that are offered to worthy and well educated men. The divinity schools of the denomination admit women to their courses, and some of them, like Hartford Theological seminary, make a specialty of the opportunities offered women.

And yet it is not likely that there will be such a pressure from the feminine side of the house into the ranks of the ministry as to crowd the men to the wall. As in the case of the law and medicine, it will probably only be the occasional woman in coming years who will choose the ministry for her profession. But it seems certain that, provided they possess the desirable natural and acquired qualifications, women will be welcome in the Congregational ministry, at least, and find an important work to do for their fellow men and women. The ministry, like every other profession, must be judged by its fruits and subjected to this ancient but still pertinent test. The women preachers throughout the country are doing honor to their sex and are scoring a success which might not have been anticipated a quarter of a century ago.—Boston Transcript.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Salt, though not agreeable, will heal any small cuts rapidly. It is an excellent disinfectant.

Plain soda water, taken in moderation, often aids digestion, but soda water with fruit syrups is bad for a weak stomach.

To relieve the pain in a finger that has been mashed or pounded, plunge the injured member into as hot water as the patient can stand.

One-half pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cayenne pepper and one pint of boiling water will cure night sweats. Mix, let cool and strain, and sponge the patient at bedtime.

A very good remedy for relieving earache is to fill a little bag of soft tulle with salt and make this very hot in the oven. Test it against your cheek to make sure it is not too hot, and then apply to the aching ear.

Children's Food.

A healthy, well developed child fifteen months old may be fed soft boiled eggs, well cooked cereals, beef juice, finely minced baked apples, toast and even dried homemade bread, barley gruel and plenty of fresh milk and a moderate amount of cream if it agrees with the child. Do not show the baby to taste harmful foods. "The pernicious habit of giving baby 'little tastes' of whatever it cries for cannot be too strongly condemned. It results in strife and often in severe illness. If the maid or nurse disobeys in regard to feeding the baby, she is not fit to have the care of a child. Better take this part of the work in your own hands and thus know what your baby eats."

Bogus Coffee.

It would seem that there is more profit in imitation than in the real thing. Six firms are engaged in making machinery to turn out bogus coffee beans made from a dough, moulded into correct shape and varnished with coffee extract. Six firms making machines for other firms to use in manufacturing these bogus berries, mind you! It behooves the coffee buyer to examine closely the coffee he buys. The real coffee bean is lighter in color, generally a trifle smaller and tastes quite different from the imitation.—Detroit Free Press.

A LUCKY SHOT.

Exciting Moment in a Buffalo Hunt in South Africa.

A hunter in South Africa tells the following story of an adventure with a buffalo: "I was in the act of descending the bank when Fransloo, a Dutch hunter, who was lower down the slope, saw the dark outline of the buffalo standing at bay behind the screen of reeds. Next instant, seeing it about to charge, he shouted, 'Daar kom hy!' ('There he comes!') and fired, rather at random, I am afraid. Then, rushing down the path by which he had advanced, he threw himself headlong into the reeds on the left. This all happened in a few moments, but I had sufficient time to raise my rifle to my shoulder and fire as the enraged bull rushed straight at me through the reeds, with nose thrown forward and horns back. As I fired I endeavored to jump aside to escape the charge, but my feet got entangled in the matted grass, and I fell on my back, luckily, however, retaining my hold on the stock of my rifle. My first shot seemed to check him for a moment, but the next he was rushing up the slope at me. I shall never forget the look in his fierce eyes. It was but a moment's work to draw back the bolt of my Mauser and to close it again, thus pushing another cartridge into the breach. I had no time to raise the rifle to my shoulder. There was barely time, just before he was within striking distance, to pull the trigger, with the stock under my armpit, while I lay on my back on the top of the sloping ground. Without so much as a groan he fell in his tracks and rolled over into the muddy water two yards below with a great splash, shot through the brain."

A debt of gratitude is generally the hardest kind to collect.

On the Pyramids.

It is said that Richard Harding Davis once made a joke about the pyramids that is still repeated at Shepheard's hotel, the fashionable hostelry of Cairo. Mr. Davis was studying the pyramids, and a guide approached and said to him: "It took hundreds of years to build them monuments, sir."

"A government job, eh?" said the novelist.

Pleasant Anticipations.

SOME FAMOUS SIEGES.

Famous Investments in History Which Contribute Interesting Particulars for Comparison With Each Other.

Sieges vary in their length and their intensity and it is impossible to judge of one from the other. But some have become famous in history, and for the sake of comparison the particulars of them are here given.

Azoth, which was besieged by Psammethichus, the Powerful, held out for 29 years. This was the longest siege in the annals of antiquity, but the most celebrated was that of Troy for ten years. Tyre was besieged by the Assyrians for five years. Jerusalem was besieged many times, but probably the most famous was that of Titus, who on September 8, A. D. 70, captured and sacked the city and temple, and it is estimated that 1,100,000 of the Jews perished.

Acre was taken by Richard and other Crusaders, July 12, 1191, after a siege of two years, with a loss of six archbishops, twelve bishops, forty earls, five hundred barons and three hundred thousand soldiers.

Antwerp was taken after fourteen months' siege by the Prince of Parma, August 17, 1585.

Calais was taken after a year's siege by Edward III., August 4, 1347.

Constantinople was taken by Mehmet II. after 53 days' siege, May 29, 1453.

Gibraltar suffered several sieges, but the most celebrated was that of the British by the Spanish and French, lasting three years, seven months and twelve days, until February 2, 1783, when the Duc de Crillon announced the conclusion of peace.

Yorktown, Virginia, was taken by Lord Cornwallis in Aug. 1781, but after a disastrous siege he was compelled to surrender on Oct. 19, 1781, to Washington and Rochambeau, and this mainly led to the close of the war.

Kars was defended by General Fenwick Williams with 15,000 men and 3 months' provisions from June 18, 1855, to November 28, 1855, against the Russian General Mouraviev, with 40,000 infantry and 10,000 cavalry. The Russians made a grand assault on September 29, but were repulsed with a loss of 6,000 men, and the garrison were finally overpowered by hunger alone.

Leyden, between October 31, 1573, and October 3, 1574, when it was relieved, endured two sieges by the Spaniards, during which 6,000 of the inhabitants died of famine and pestilence.

The siege of Lucknow began July 1, 1857. Havelock arrived with temporary relief on September 26, but was compelled to wait reinforcements. The siege continued until Sir Colin Campbell fought his way in on November 16. Even then it was impossible to hold the city, and on November 20 the residency was evacuated for a while to the enemy. On March 2, 1858, Sir Colin Campbell returned and after a hard fighting drove out the enemy.

After the disastrous defeats of Woerth and Forbach on August 6, 1870, the whole French army, except three corps, was concentrated at Metz on August 10 and 11, and gradually hemmed in by the Germans. Metz surrendered on October 27, 1870, with Marshals Bazaine, Canrobert and Le Boeuf, 66 Generals, 6,000 officers, 137,000 men, 400 pieces of artillery, 100 mitrailleuses and 53 standards.

The two sieges of Paris during the war with Germany, 1870-71, are among the most dramatic in its history. The first began on Sept. 19, 1870, when the Germans occupied the heights on the left side of the river, and two days later the investment was complete. Gen. Trochu had 400,000 men, who ought to have been able to hold out against the 240,000 Germans besieging him, but they consisted for the most part of raw levies, with inexperienced officers. Three unsuccessful sorties were made, an armistice was signed Jan. 27, 1871, and the capitulation had to be signed on Jan. 28. On March 1 the Germans entered Paris. This, which marked the close of the siege, marked also the beginning of the "commune" and its excesses. The whole city would have been involved in ruin if the national troops had not gained a decisive victory over the insurgents on May 28.

Plevna was the scene of fierce fighting in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877. Osman Pasha captured it from the Russians on July 6, and resisted several attacks and the capture had to be made on Sept. 7, when a regular siege began. He attempted to cut his way out on Dec. 9, and was surrounded, defeated, with great slaughter, and compelled to surrender Dec. 10.

During the American Civil War Richmond stood an intermittent siege of 1,452 days, and was evacuated by the Confederates on April 2 and 3, 1865.

Quebec capitulated on Sept. 18, 1759 to the British, after a siege lasting 69 days, and ending with the memorable battle on the plains of Abraham.

Immediately after the battle of the Alma on Sept. 20, 1854, the allied English and French armies marched on Sebastopol, and the siege began on Oct. 17, 1854. After much sanguinary fighting and frequent bombardment, the grand assault was made on Sept. 8, 1855, and the Russians evacuated the fortifications during the night.

Khartoum was defended against the Mahdi by General Gordon from February, 1884, to January 26, 1885, when the town was surrendered and Gordon and his followers killed.

Strasbourg was invested by the Germans during the Franco-Prussian war on Aug. 10, 1870, and, though one of the strongest places in Europe surrendered on Sept. 27.

When a dyak of Borneo makes love he helps the girl in the hardest portion of her daily toil. If she smiles upon him, no matter how sweetly, he does not immediately respond, but waits until the next dark night. Then he steals to her house and wakens her as she lies asleep beside her parents. The parents, if they approve, make no sign, but sleep on or pretend to. If the girl accepts she rises and takes from her lover the betel and sweetmeats he has brought her. That seals their betrothal, and he departs as he came, neither speaking nor being spoken to.

MISSING MONEY

Was Wired to Ottawa via G. N. W. Telegraph, but to all Appearance Never Reached There.

Mrs. Cook, proprietor of the Home-made Bakery, received word last week that her 15-year-old son George was in charge of the Children's Aid Society at Ottawa. The lad formerly worked at the Wheelworks, but work getting slack he set out to look for another job. On receipt of word Mrs. Cook at once telegraphed his fare home per G. N. W. Telegraph Co. through the Ottawa Children's Aid Society.

For over a week Mrs. Cook has been worrying over the non-arrival of her son in this city. This morning she received a letter from Secretary Keane, of the Children's Aid Society, saying that as no word had been received from the mother, the society had permitted the lad to accept a job at $24 a month and his board. Mrs. Cook cannot understand what has become of the $12 which was telegraphed to the Ottawa Children's Aid Society to pay her boy's fare home, and is investigating the matter.

C. L. A. MEETING TO-NIGHT.

Another eventful meeting of the C. L. A. Judiciary is slated for to-night at the Iroquois Hotel. The protest of the Tecumsehs against Brantford and the Orillia-Chatham dispute will be aired.

It is alleged by the Tecumsehs that John White, the big Indian, was not eligible to play with Brantford in the game in question, and they ask that the game be awarded to them. It is said that White played in a game with the St. Regis Indians on Sunday, July 2. Orillia has protested the game with Chatham, at Chatham, which ended with the score 1 all, on the ground that the latter team scored their only goal after Referee Wagnor had blown his whistle for foul. Chatham has entered a counter-protest, claiming that the Marshall who played with Orillia is not the player to whom the C. L. A. granted a certificate. Second Vice-President Geo. L. Allen, of Mount Forest, will preside at the meeting, which is called for 8 o'clock—Toronto Globe.

THE BUGLE BAND AT PORT HURON

The Bugle Band, their lacrosse team and friends and a good many Maple City Macabees all journeyed to Port Huron yesterday and participated in the festivities at the laying of the corner stone of the new modern Macabees temple. It is estimated that there were over 18,000 people in Port Huron. The Bugle Band participated in the monster parade and took in all the free shows. The town was thrown wide open to the Bugle Band and nothing was too good for them. Col. J. B. Rankin, who accompanied the soldiers, says that the treatment accorded the band was simply splendid. The Port Huron people couldn't do enough for them and gave all a good time.

In the afternoon the Bugle Band and Blenheim lacrosse teams played a game and the Bugle Band team got satisfaction for previous defeats by shutting out the hill town players. The score was nine to nothing in favor of the Bugle Band team and the buglers were correspondingly jubilant. The game was for the $50 trophy won by Blenheim last year. The people of Port Huron have presented it and it has to be won three times in succession. Mayor Henry, of Blenheim, refereed, and the boys all commend the impartial manner in which he fulfilled his arduous duties. Alf. Wrigley was the Bugle Band field captain and he was in the game all the time. Alf is quite hoarse to-day, but he says that doesn't matter. Robinson, of the Tecumsehs, played goal for the Blenheim team. The following were the teams:

Chatham—Goal, Roy Johnson, Will Quenel, Will Copeland, Will Janhke, Claude Brundage, Reg. Oldershaw, O. K. Lawson, T. Pool, Willie West, Rob. Stewart, Tom McFarlane.

Blenheim—Goal, Robinson, Tom Higley, C. Bell, Glen Crookshanks, G. Faust, Fred Gibson, G. Stout, Geo. Wedge, C. Vandusen, G. Wilson, D. Stephenson.

The Letter-Box

VICTORIA PARK.

To the Editor of The Planet:

The writer, in conversation with one of our most progressive citizens, short time ago, was led to think over a proposed scheme advanced by the former to improve and beautify Victoria Park, and at the same time make it a source of revenue to the city. While ample provision has been made for many sports for the young men of the city, the children have been lost sight of entirely. With the addition of a few swings, the erection of a pavilion, etc., the park would make an excellent picnic ground. This season two picnics were held there, namely, Victoria Avenue Methodist and St. Andrew's Sunday schools, both of which institutions enjoyed themselves to the full. Many, in fact, all Sunday schools in the city could hold their annual outing here, as there is a good track for bicycles, foot races, and all kinds of room for other sports. Swimming baths could be erected and a nominal fee charged, which would make it self-sustaining, with the probability of its being a source of revenue. The pavilion could be erected of sufficient dimensions to admit of a large crowd of children in case of rain. It could contain a first-class caterer's stand, the fees from which could go towards the maintenance of the scheme. A merry-go-round could be engaged to cater to the children in the amusement line—another source of revenue. With very little outlay the boats could land their passengers close to the park. There are three railroads—the Grand Trunk, the C. P. R. and the Pere Marquette—which probably would send traffic to this park by way of picnic parties, excursions, etc. The Pere Marquette Railway could easily erect a flag station alongside the park, thereby making it easily accessible for unloading and re-loading quickly.

The writer would suggest the holding of entertainments during the coming winter, the proceeds from which could be placed in a fund and applied to the improvement of the park. We have many musically inclined people in the city, as evidenced by the production of the opera Sado, Pasha, The Little Tyeon, The Mikado, Robin Hood, etc., and probably the good offices of those who were instrumental in their production could be enlisted for this scheme. Then, again, the children themselves could give entertainments, the school proceeds from which could be placed in a fund and applied to the improvement of the park. Visitors coming to the city are surprised to find that we do not use this splendid park, saying that it would be regarded as a paradise in their own city. To-morrow is out of the question as a children's park, as there are too many games in progress, or practicing baseball, cricket, etc.

There are often conventions of one sort and another which could be held in the park. The Orangemen used to hold some of their largest gatherings on these grounds, and the same thing could be done again. The railroads could help to boom and bring parties to the park. The boats could be induced to send parties up there from Detroit, etc., and there are many ways in which the advantages of this park could be advertised.

The City Council, no doubt, could be induced to take this matter up and if progressive citizens take hold the improvements to the park will be made and the work properly done, making this fine spot a credit to the Maple City. The city is possessor of two crack bands, and a picnic and excursion parties would have the privilege of getting one or both of these organizations to live up to the day's doings. The boat routes out of the city are practically all old ones, and for young children are rather tedious and slow. Another strong argument in favor of Victoria Park.

The swimming baths could be run and furnish a source of revenue to the city, besides teaching the young to swim, which would be a life-long blessing to both girls and boys.

GORDON BEGINS CAMPAIGN.

If Returned to Power Will Operate Trans-continental Railway By the People.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 9.—R. L. Borden made the first speech of what promises to be a hot campaign, preparatory to the approaching general election, last night.

The largest theatre in the city was packed to the doors by a crowd that welcomed their chief with acclamations and listened for two hours to his address. A cheering throng accompanied him to his hotel, where he had to make another speech before he was allowed to retire.

Mr. Borden in his speech contrasted the policies of the two parties with reference to public appointments, the Audit Act, the Election Law and the Grand Trunk Pacific railway built and operated by the people. He reiterated his declaration that if the Conservatives were returned to power he would take immediate steps to annual the present contract and have a transcontinental railway built and operated by the people.

Mr. Borden leaves to-day for Montreal. He makes his first speech in Ontario at Cayuga, on Sept. 14.

St. Thomas, Sept. 9.—A. B. Ingram, M.P., was notified yesterday morning by wire that R. L. Borden, K. C., M.P., and party will be at Aylmer Thursday, Sept. 15, at 2 p. m., and in St. Thomas the same evening at 8 o'clock.

A TRAGIC DUCK HUNT.

Thomas Willoughby & C. F. E. Conductor, Killed Near Carleton Place.

Carleton Place, Sept. 9.—A dreadful shooting accident occurred on the Mississippi River, about two miles above this town last evening at 5 o'clock, by which Thomas Willoughby, a conductor on the C.P.R., lost his life. It appears that Mr. Willoughby, while on another railroad conductor, S. Alexander, went up the river during the day to shoot ducks. They were landing at McCreary's Creek, a favorite spot, when Mr. Willoughby slipped off a log and the gun striking the log, was discharged, the shot passing through the unfortunate man's head and making a ghastly wound. Death was instantaneous. He leaves a wife and one child.

SARAH'S STRATEGY

By C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis

Sarah Pendergast was not to blame that she had lived to the age of thirty-three without being married. When she looked back over the long road she couldn't see where it was her fault, and as for other people they said:

"What? Sarah Pendergast, the old maid? Why, she's been trying her very best for the last fifteen years to catch a man, and she'd give all her old shoes even to say yes to a widower eighty years old."

Indeed, it was no one's fault. It was simply one of those things that occur now and then in every community. A girl gets left out for no particular reason, and the first thing she knows she's being called aunt and looked up to with respect due to old age. Sarah had a brother William for whom she kept house. William was an old bachelor, and inclined to silence, but now and then he had a way of making the sister feel that her mission had been left unaccomplished. On the night of her thirty-third birthday the spirit moved him to say:

"Sarah, I've lived a single life for forty years, and I don't intend to change it, but if I were you I'd get a husband if I had to chase him from here to Beebe's Corners."

"I could have married ten times over if I had wanted to leave you," she replied.

"Well, don't let me stand in the way any longer. I ain't blaming you altogether, but folks are giggling and poking fun at you all over the county.
Why don't you get out and bustle like other girls?"

Sarah defended her position with spirit, but that night after she got to bed she lay awake for two hours and then came to a decision. For the first time since she was old enough to marry she made up her mind to go on a man hunt and show Brother William and the rest of Temple county that she could get married as well as other folks. A thing that helped her to reach this decision just at the time was the fact that young Enos Johnson, son of Farmer Johnson, had been paying her attention. That is, he had called at the house now and then of an evening to eat apples and popcorn in her company and to talk weather and crops with her farmer brother. Sarah had aimed far higher than Enos, who was a whole souled fellow, but knew more about rutabagas than the spelling book.

But Enos would do at a pinch, and the pinch seemed to have come. Thirty-three years old she was by the record in the family Bible, and even Brother William had begun to be sarcastic and impatient over it.

The innocent Enos didn't know what was in store for him and therefore came over the next evening to tell how the old spotted cow had a sore back and one of the hogs had a swelling on its jaw. If he hadn't been so busy eating Spitzenburg apples and cracking black walnuts he might have noticed that Sarah was more affectionate than usual and that Brother William went off to bed half an hour ahead of his usual time. But Enos had no guile and didn't expect it in others.

Before he left for home he had agreed to go sliding on the pond with Sarah the next evening, and that night she lay awake again to do a little more planning. Next morning, as soon as the bachelor brother had taken his departure for the woods, she hunted up an old ax and waded through the snow to a pond in the old wheat field to cut a good sized hole in the ice. Had the pond been on a gentleman's farm it would have been called a lake. Had it been nearer the barnyard it would have been referred to as a horse pond. It was only about an acre in extent and four feet deep, and at that season of the year, being midwinter, the few bull-heads who roamed its waters in summer had gone down into the mud to hibernate until the frogs croaked again.

When evening came again behold Brother William nursing a sore heel before the kitchen fire, and Sarah and Enos cantering about the pond like two children given a holiday. The No.
10 boots worn by Enos soon made a sliding place, and, of course, the cow Sarah—Enos had never seen her so coy before—managed to slip down at every slide and be set on her feet again by his strong arms. Gradually, as she grew more coy and artless, and as

HE GRABBED A FENCE RAIL AND SHOVED
IT AT HER.

Enos galloped about with more vigor and began to wonder if he wasn't a good deal of a feller after all, she so managed things as to approach nearer and nearer the hole cut in the ice that morning. By and by she got a warning, and later on another, but she smiled and said she had a hero at hand to save her. Then came the climax of her planning.

There was a quick run downhill, a long slide and a fall and a scream, and into the hole she went. It was no matter that her feet could touch the cold mud and make the bullheads wonder what was going on or that she could have pulled herself out as fast as she got in had she so minded. She had a part to play, and she played it.

At her first scream Enos started for the house, yelling "Police!" at the top of his voice. At her second he turned back and grabbed a fence rail and shoved it at her so vigorously that he came near breaking her ribs with the end of it. It was not until scream the fifth had risen on the night air to make the stars turn pale and shudder that Enos flung down his hat, yanked off his overcoat and blue yarn mittens and showed himself the hero that he was.

After trying to push Sarah a foot farther down into the mud and water he suddenly realized that the right way was to pull instead of push, and with a heave and a grunt he dived her out on the ice. He had heard that half drowned people ought to be rolled on a barrel. There was no barrel handy, and so he rolled Sarah over and over in the snow. When he believed that he had recalled the flame of life he picked her up like a bag of potatoes and flung her over his shoulder and started for the house, and there was no mistaking his feelings when he said:

"If Sarah dies of this I hope our old muley cow will kick my head off!"

In wading through the snowdrifts and climbing rail fences Sarah was dropped three or four times, and each time she faintly protested that she was able to walk, but the hero had been roused to action and nothing could stop him. Up went Sarah again, her shoes leaking mud and water and her wet arms clinging around Enos' neck and shoulders, and at last he arrived at the kitchen door and kicked it open and laid his burden on the floor.

"Gee whis, but what is it?" gasped Brother William as he got his sore heel under his chair and faced about.

"Sarah's fell in the pond!"

"And I've fell in love with Sarah!"

"It can't be!"

"Enos, darling, kiss me!" came from the sopping bundle on the floor.

"Durned if I don't, and right off now, with Bill lookin' on!"

Next morning at breakfast, after a long period of silence, Brother William queried:

"Sarah, who cut that hole in the ice?"

"I did," she promptly answered.

"When are you and Enos to be married?"

"The first of May."

"Um! I see. Sarah, you are no old maid!"

The Guidance of Reason.

The villagers were all gathered round the little store talking about Sam Jones' lost calf. It was a two-year-old and had strayed out of the pasture lot the day before. Sam was worried about it, the neighbors had all been out looking for it without success, and no one seemed to know where to look for it.

Jim stood there looking on and listening. Jim was a tall, lank young fellow, regarded as half witted by some persons and as foolish by others.

"I think I could find your horse,"
he said to Sam Jones.

"You? Why, Jim, how do you think you could find him when we have had the best men in town out looking for him?"

"Waal," said Jim, "I could try, couldn't I?"

"Yes," answered the owner, "you can try, and if you find him I'll give you a dollar."

"All right," said Jim and walked away on his search. To the surprise of all he returned in less than half an hour leading the missing horse by a rope tied round his neck.

"Well, well!" said Jones as he took the horse and paid Jim the dollar.

"How in the world did you find him so quick?"

Jim answered in his long drawn out words: "Why, I thought, 'Now, if I was a horse, where would I go?' And so I went there, and he had."

Gaming Paraphernalia.

"I am interested in a mail order business in expert dice and card work," said a Chicago man. "We sell furniture and furnishings of all kinds for club houses and other places all over the country. There is a big business in loaded dice and marked cards and other trick devices to gather in the coin, but I have yet to see a roulette wheel which is not operated on the square. It is impossible to make a roulette wheel which is crooked and which will bear inspection. One hears stories occasionally of wheels that are arranged with electric wires or with little pins to keep the ball from dropping into certain slots on the wheel, but you can put them all down as false. If a man could invent a machine which would assure him that the ball will fall on a certain number or even on a certain color or on odd or even numbers, he would never have to work again. But it cannot be done.
In large cities gambling is protected by the police and nothing of that sort would be allowed. Where skin games are in operation the favorite trick is to sell short stacks, nineteen instead of twenty, but no live man can be fooled on that nowadays."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

HIS GRAVEL WAS SURELY CURED

Dodd's Kidney Pills Removed
The Stones

And Now Reuben Draper is Well and Strong after his long Suffering.

Bristol, Quebec, Sept. 5. (Special).
Reuben Draper, a well-known resident here, keeps the proof right with him that Dodd's Kidney Pills will surely cure the much dreaded gravel.

The proof consists of two stones, one the size of a small bean and the other as big as a grain of barley. He passed these stones and was relieved of all the terrible pains they caused after using Dodd's Kidney Pills for a short time.

Mr. Draper is confident that Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else caused his cure, as he tried two doctors without getting help, and was fast getting weak and despondent when he started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills.

In a week he passed the large stone and four days later the smaller one.

This cure causes a feeling of relief over people in these parts as it shows those terrible operations, long thought to be unavoidable in case of gravel, are no longer necessary.

His Mean Trick.

Behemo His Lawyer Proposed to Beat a Fair Plaintiff.

"To-morrow," said the lawyer, "I will have to begin the cross-examination of the fair plaintiff."

His face showed that he was troubled.

"It will have to be carefully planned and executed," he added after a pause.

"What will?" inquired the unsophisticated youth.

"Why, I have arranged to have a clever party sit beside her and abstract her handkerchief just before she takes the stand for cross-examination," explained the lawyer.

"To what purpose?"

"Evidently," said the lawyer,
"you are even more inexperienced than I supposed. I can see that she is one of the kind that has no difficulty in crying when she wants to."

"Well, do you not know that all the astuteness of the legal profession is not worth one tear in the eye of a pretty woman in a jury trial?"

"But the handkerchief?"

"No woman can cry effectively on the witness stand without an embroided handkerchief. Lacking that, it is no more than sniveling, and the woman who snivels is lost. With the handkerchief she can beat me. Without it she is at my mercy. As the poet truly says, 'In hoc handkerchief vincies!' The verdict in this case is likely to rest on the temporary possession of a bit of linen and lace."

When she finds it gone, she will be too rattled to even think clearly."

"I begin to see," remarked the unsophisticated one, "that there is more than law to law."

"In such a case," was the reply,
"the law is the least part of it."

HOW TO CURE THE DIVORCE EVIL.

President of National Congress of Mothers Tells How to Cure.

Begin at the beginning by teaching children, both boys and girls, the real meaning and sacredness of marriage.

Teach them that it is a permanent relation—for life or nothing.

Enlighten parents to their duty as future wives and mothers.

Impress upon boys the fact that marriage is the holiest bond in life.

Never advise girls to marry for any other motive than love.

Money should be strictly ruled out of the marriage consideration.

Character is the chief requisite.

Make remarriage for divorced people impossible.

Ostracize absolutely divorced persons who remarry.

Let ministers all over the country unite to refuse sanction to such marriages.

Let unhappily mated pairs focus every effort to making the best of the situation.

Let impossibly mated couples separate, but not remarry.

Let parents, teachers, clergymen, legislators, all reformers, unite to utterly discourage the evil and stamp it out of the country.—Mrs. Frederick Schoff, President of the National Congress of Mothers.

Fly from pleasure that bites tomorrow.

To determine definitely the amount of filth that gets into milk during the process of milking and how much this can be lessened by washing the udders
the following was done:

It was determined after several trials with three different milkers on thirty cows that it requires an average of four and one-half minutes to milk a cow. A glazed dish eleven inches in diameter, the size of an ordinary milk pail, was placed in the top of a pail and held under the cow's udder in the same position as when milking. For four and one-half minutes the milker then went through motions similar to those made in milking, but without drawing any milk. The amount of dirt which fell into the dish during the operation was of course approximately the same as would have gone into the milk during the milking process. The dirt caught in the dish was then brushed into a small glass weighing tube, the udder washed and the process repeated. The dirt which fell from the washed udder was also carefully brushed into a weighing tube. Both tubes were then placed in a desiccator and after drying twenty-four hours were accurately weighed on a chemical balance.

Sixty trials were made at different seasons of the year. With udders that were apparently clean it was found that an average of three and one-half times as much dirt fell from the unwashed udders as from the same udders after they were washed. With soiled udders the average was twenty-two and with muddy udders the average was ninety-four times as much dirt from the unwashed as from the same udders after washing.—Illinois Bulletin.

The Reading Dairyman Wins.

I have seen one dairyman with a beautiful home, large and well ventilated stables, all the product of a herd of milk cows, and another farmer with the same old house he built ten years before, dilapidated stables, gates broken, fences down, all the product of another herd of cows, equal in number to the first. Why this difference with the same conditions?

If you go into the home of the first class of men you will find agricultural papers; you will find a reader, a man who has a thinker and is using it. He may not be a graduate of any agricultural college, but he is a self educated man, who received a large part of his education from the agricultural papers.

How much more advanced he would have been if he had learned the rudiments at the agricultural college! But greater honor is due to self education than to a college educated man. Still, if progress was to depend on self education we would resemble the snail instead of the ant.

I am a firm believer that the duty of every state is to place a premium on agricultural pursuits. The most important branch of agriculture is dairying. The growth of cereals depends on dairying to return its elements to the soil of which the soil has been robbed by their growth. Dairying enriches the soil, while the growth of cereals impoverishes it. Therefore no branch of agriculture should be fostered and encouraged as much as the dairying industry.—E. A. McDonald, Washington State Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Good and Timely Literature.

The dairy and food department of Minnesota has recently issued several important circulars. One is entitled "Butter Is King," and is being placed in the hands of the farmers of that state. It treats the subject of dairying briefly, simply and thoroughly. It shows that it is not necessary for one to buy a lot of thoroughbred stock to start in the business, but that the proper way is to gradually grade up one's herd. The matter of feeds is taken up and instructions given for the planting of soiling crops and the building of silos. There are ample directions for the care and handling of milk, and the circular concludes with the dairy laws of the state. A second circular on "Preparation and Propagation of Pure Commercial Cultures" has been sent out to the butter makers in the state. It treats the subject clearly and fully.

The "Dairy Shark."

J. A. Crockett, dairyman, Utah Agricultural college, has recently sent out warning to the butter makers of his state against a "dairy shark" who is disposing of a process whereby he claims the yield of butter is increased from 50 to 100 per cent in excess of that made in the ordinary manner.

Same old fraud that bobs up now and again. All farmers and dairymen should leave all such fellows and their "process" alone.—Dairy and Creamery.

A Cash Illustration.

The Arizona experiment station has recorded the results of a cold rain on the milk flow of the station herd. The cows were exposed three days to a cold rain. During this time they decreased 37 per cent in milk yield and continued until it reached 50 per cent, and it was a month until they gave as much milk as before the storm. Board's Dairyman says this is what might be called a cash illustration of the value of sheltering cows from cold rains.

Neglected Subjects.

Professor Haacker, the dairy expert of the Minnesota station, says that "too much has been said about balanced rations and too little about kindness and regularity, too much about dry bred cows and too little about lairy bred men."

What Fruit-a-tives are

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They are the laxative, tonic and curative principles of fruit—combined into pleasant tasting pellets. They contain all the virtues of fruit—but by the secret process of making them, their action on the human system is many times intensified.

What "Fruit-a-tives" are for "Fruit-a-tives" are the natural and logical cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Their action is that of fresh fruit, only very much surer and more effective. Then too, they are free of fruit acids, sugar and woody fibre which often prevent fresh fruit being beneficial.

Try "Fruit-a-tives" and see how quickly they cure you of Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bilious Headache, Loss of Appetite and Kidney troubles.

HARWICH WEDDING

A very happy event took place on the evening of Sept. 6th at the residence of Mr. Robert Taylor, Harwich, being the marriage of their eldest daughter Ethel Pearl to Mr. Loftus Johnson, a prosperous young farmer of the same Township. The officiating ministers were Messrs. of the bride, Revs. D. E. Martin, of London, and J. W. Baird, B. A., of Sarnia. The bride was assisted by Miss Helen Grant, of Mull, and the groom by Mr. Edgar Johnston, of Bridge End. Miss Eloise V. Baird, of Sarnia, acting as flower girl. The bride wore a beautiful white silk dress trimmed with silk applique and a full bridal veil caught with a diamond crescent and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was beautifully attired in a pale blue voile trimmed with silk over lace and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and the little maid of honor was daintily dressed in white India silk over pink. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful crescent set with diamonds; to the bridesmaid a gold brooch with diamond settings; to the maid of honor a gold pin set with pearls and rubies.

The floral decorations were of lilies and carnations upon a background of ferns. The bridal party took their places to the strains of the wedding march played by the sister of the bride, Miss Edith, the bride leaning on the arm of her father. The ministers stood under an arch of evergreens and flowers and the contracting parties before an altar of ferns and carnations. About 60 guests were present, all immediate relatives of the bride and groom. After the usual congratulations and wedding dinner the happy couple left for Toronto and other points east on a short visit.

A large collection of costly and handsome presents was an evidence of the very high esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their many friends. They announce to be at home to their friends after Oct. 1.

THE REFERENDUM.

Professor Goldwin Smith Addresses The Farmers' Association of Toronto. Toronto, Sept. 9.—In an address by Mr. Goldwin Smith to the convention of the Farmers' Association in Victoria Hall yesterday morning, upon the question of the party system of Government, urged the farmers to organize for the coming elections, Dominion and Provincial, and to pledge candidates to keep out of the caucus. Replying to a vote of thanks, Mr. Smith said there were two things for consideration by the electors: the adoption of the referendum, for which he saw great use in the settlement of questions, and the settlement of party conventions for the selection of candidates by a preliminary ballot of all qualified to vote to determine who should be the candidates.

Mr. W. F. Maclean and Prof. McCurdy also delivered addresses, the first on Government ownership and the last on militarism. The association adopted questions to candidates, a platform in a series of resolutions, and elected its officers.

THE LIGHT PROBLEM

"After the municipal elections, the very first thing that I did when I was appointed chairman of the Property committee," remarked Chairman John Edmondson, "I waited on every member of the Council and asked them to go up to the power house. The City Engineer pointed out to those who did go that it was really necessary to purchase a new dynamo. The old dynamo was overloaded and liable to go up at any time. The Property committee had been instructed to go down and find out what a dynamo could be purchased for. The committee brought in a report to the Council and recommended the purchase of a Westinghouse dynamo, the cheapest and best. That report was times I brought up the matter urging the Council to purchase a new dynamo. If the recommendation of the Property committee had been carried out the city would have had right long ago. Finally the Council did order the purchase of a dynamo. McKenough & Trotter have received word that it will be here in a few days. One dynamo at the present time cannot be used so that one circumstance cannot be abandoned every night. This gives North Chatham light every other night. King street of course is lighted regularly."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

At Chatham Grand. Black Watch Band—Sept. 12, 2 p.m. Allan Villair—Sept. 12-17.

(Supplied to The Planet by Press Agents.)

After having seen so many poor attractions and plays of indifferent merit, it was a real treat to watch "The Heart of Texas" at the theatre last night. The play, the stars, the company, the scenery, in fact everything connected with the production, was more than satisfactory and by frequent and hearty applause. The Don scene in act three and the last act were especially sensational and thrilling, and gave Allan Villair and Pearl Lewis splendid opportunities for dramatic work and they more than filled all requirements. Mr. Villair has a valuable piece of property in "The Heart of Texas" and the part of Jack Harvey fits him like a glove, and Miss Lewis who, by the way, is a little beauty, possessing a wealth of hair that any princess would be proud of, will have a hard time finding a more congenial role than Texas.—Port Jervis Republican.

This superb attraction is booked for one solid week at the Grand Opera House, starting Monday, Sept. 12, A House, starting Monday, Sept. 12, a different play and specialties each night. They made a big hit at the Park, Brantford, for four weeks. Ladies 15c. for best 30c. seats for Monday night only, to see "Her Strange Wedding."

ADDRESS OF WELCOME TO BLACK WATCH BAND.

The bright colors of the tartan predominated at the Canadian National Exhibition yesterday. It was Scotland's Day, an innovation decided upon by the management in view of the visit of the Black Watch Band.

It was distinctly a day of triumph for the Black Watch Band, which it really captured the Scottish heart by storm. The Army and Navy Veterans were also on hand in a body to show their appreciation, and enthusiastic address of welcome being presented to the band on behalf of the society.

The presence of many veteran Scots in the garb of the Gael, the skirl of the pipes and the Scottish flavor to the programs rendered by the veterans, combined to make it a brave day for the men from the land of the Heather.

THE VETERANS' TRIBUTE. The address presented to Major Rose and the members of the Black Watch Band by the Army and Navy Veterans was signed by Major W. H. Collins, president, and A. J. Bennett, secretary. It recalled some of the feats in arms performed by the Black Watch Regiment, and bade the band a hearty welcome. "But we have not come at this time," the address continued, "to speak of deeds of arms on the battlefield, shared with its gallant comrades throughout the service, but our hearts have a feeling of pride when we think that not one iota of the traditional honor which won for the Black Watch so noble a place in the long ago in the soldier annals of Britain has been lost or faded up to now, and we trust will not be in the future."

Major Rose thanked the Veterans for their kindly welcome. He recalled the King's visit to Edinburgh last year, when he was received by a body of veterans, whom he afterwards greeted personally in his splendid way. He was sure that the visit to this way. He was sure that the visit to this way. He was sure that the visit to this way.

This famous band will give a concert at the Grand Opera House, Chatham, on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. Reserve seat plan now open at Brisco's.
