DIRECTIONS TO FARMERS and GARDENERS.

AS some Springs are much earlier than others, the following Directions ought not to be too literally adhered to in point of time; but may rather serve to point out the order in which things may succeed each other; but as to the precise time of beginning, the judgment of the planter must be in some measure regulated by the appearance of the Spring.

The last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, parsley, onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard.

However, those mentioned for the last week in April, may be put in whenever the snow is gone, the frost out of the ground, and the earth so dry as not to be muddy, and the others succeed in their order.

The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans, (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th) spinage and orris; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers, and a few early bush beans.

The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June, will do for potatoes; such as are planted about the first of June, are frequently the largest, but the earliest planted are as commonly the best to eat, being drier in consequence of their being more thoroughly ripe.

The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.

The 20th of June, sow buckwheat; this is also a good time to sow in herds-grass, clover, or any sort of grass seed, which is thought to succeed better if sowed in now with buck wheat, than in the spring with oats. Herds-grass that is sowed the latter part of June or through the whole of July, instead of running up, heading out, and ripening as that does which is earlier sown, spends the summer in spreading into a large bunch, and rooting firmly, by which it not only bears the severity of the winter, but sends up from each seed many more stalks the ensuing summer. The farmer should be careful to sow his clover, if possible, before the end of July; for it is very apt to be killed with the winter, if not well rooted, and it often happens that crops which come up well, late in the fall, are wholly killed, so that a single plant cannot be found the next summer.—The first week in July sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late as the 25th.—The 20th is a good time to sow turnip radish, and for a late crop, some salmon, ditto, as late as August 10th.—About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat and rye, as by being sowed early it will be better rooted to stand the severity of the winter and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer. In the first part of September, corn salad, which may then be cut any time in the winter or spring when the snow is off.

A P H O R I S M S.

THE Man who, improving in skill or knowledge, improves in modesty, has an undeniable claim to greatness of mind.

Bravely to contend for a good cause is noble—silently to suffer for it, is herical.

I.

I. JANUARY hath XXXI Days. 1798

TO THE SNOW-DROP,

CHILD of the wintry hour! ah! doom'd to trust
Thy tender beauties to inclement skies!

First offspring of the year,
And harbinger of Spring!

Cradl'd in friendly greens, how pensive drops
Thy nodding head! while in thy bashful eye,
As mournful of thy fate,
Hangs sad a pearly tear.

Companion of Adversity! like thee,
 To dangers rough consign'd, the new-dropt lamb,
 With unflain'd fleece and soft,
 Presses thy verdant bank,
 Alas! in this bad world, nor innocence
 Secures from biting Slander's pois'nous tooth,
 Nor gentleness itself,
 Her virgin sister meek.

The planet Venus will be evening star to the 16th of March ;
 then Morning star to the 30th of December.

The temper mild, that knows not how to frown,
Nor of harsh rule the sceptre how to wield,
Is form'd to sink before,
The boisterous passions rage,
Alas! like thee, poor injur'd Flavia bloom'd,
The sweet bud of unsuspecting youth!
Like thee, all purity,
Like thee, to storms consign'd.

But ah! she felt the rude un pitying breath
 Of Malice keener than the wintry winds;
 And shrunk beneath the blast
 That never, never spares.
 Poor early victim of its pow'r she sunk
 Pity'd, believ'd, and mourn'd, alas! too late;
 Chill'd by the icy touch
 And early foot of Death.

Oit' as thy chaste, thy unassuming face
 Shall deck the morning of the nascent year,
 This wounded breast shall heave
 With pangs of cureless grief :
 When painful Mem'ry tells how soon she fell,
 And hapless pass'd like thee, fair spotless flow'r !
 Her little life, forlorn,
 Amid the wilds of fate.

SUMMER. A RURAL SONG

WHERE the light cannot pierce in a grove of tall trees,
 With my fair one as blooming as May,
 Undisturb'd by all sound but the sighs of the breeze
 Let me pass the hot noon of the day
 When the sun less intense to the westward inclines,
 For the meadows the groves we'll forsake,
 And see the rays dance as inverted he shines,
 On the face of some river or lake.

Where my fairest and I, on its verge as we pass,
 For 'tis she that must still be my theme,
 Our two shadows may view on the wat'ry glass,
 While the Fish are at play in the stream.
 May the herds cease to low, and the lambkins to bleat,
 When she sings me some amorous strain ;
 All be silent, and hush, unless echo repeat
 The kind words, and sweet sounds back again.

And when we return to our cottage at night,
 Hand in hand as we fauntering stray,
 Let the Moon's silver beams thro' the leaves give us light,
 Just direct us, and chequer our way.
 Let the nightingale warble its notes in our walk,
 As thus gently and slowly we move;

And let no single thought be express'd in our talk,
 But of friendship improv'd into love.
 Thus enchanted each day with these rural delights,
 And secure from ambition's alarms,
 Soft love and repose shall divide all our nights,
 And each morning shall rise with new charms.

WINTER, in her sable veil,
Riding on the whirlwind's wings,
Icy frost, and polish'd hail,
From her death cold fingers flings,
Lifeless now the village green,
Where late charm'd the village dance ;
While the north wind, cold and keen,
Howls amid the waste expanse.

Charms no more the shepherd's lute,
 Breathing soft a lover's fire;
 Music's heavenly voice is mine,
 Save the Wild Æolian lyre.
 Nor beside the limpid lymph,
 Tuneful gurgling o'er the rock,
 Sits the gay young shepherd nymph,
 Sprightly as her little flock.

XII. DECEMBER hath XXXI Days 1798.

Pleasures court the social hearth,
 And the simple rustics cheer,
 Love too is there; for love and mirth
 Ever bless the rural sphere.

Here the healthful rustic swain,
 Woos the smiling country-maid;
 Ardent looks betray his pain,
 Ardent fires his breast invade.
