Whole No. 398.

I Long to be There! I have read of a world of beauty,

Where there is no gloomy night; Where love is the mainspeing of duty, And God the fountain of light; And I long to be there!

I have read of its flowing river, That bursts from beneath the throne, An i the beautiful trees that ever Are found on its banks alone : And I long to be there !

I have read of the myriad choir, Of the angels harping there;

Of their holy love that barns like fire, And the shining robes they wear ; And I long to be there ! I have read of the sanctified throng That passed from earth to heaven.

And now unite in the loudest song Of praise for their sins forgiven : And I long to be there! I have read of their freedom from sin.

And suffering and sorrow, too: And the boly joy they feel within, As their risen Lord they view; And I long to be there ! I long to rise to that world of light,

And to breath its balmy air : I long to walk with the Lamb in white, And to shout with the angels there; () I long to be there: -Gospel Messenger.

Scene in a Vermont Winter.

BY CHARLES E. EASTMAN. 'Tis a fearful night in the winter time. As cold as it ever can be; The rour of the storm is heard like the chime Of the waves on an argry sea. The moon is full, but her silver light The storm dashes out with his wings to night; And over the sky from south to north, Not a star is seen as the winds come forth In the strength of a mighty glee.

All day the snow came down-all day-As it never came down before, And over the earth at night there lay Some two or three feet or more. The fence was lost, and the wall of stone; The windows blocked, and the well curb gone; The haystack grown to a mountain lift; And the woodpile looked like a monster drift As it lay at the farmer's door.

In the snow and the stilling air, A shivering dog, in the fire ! by the road, When the hail through his shaggy hair The wind drives hard, doth crown and growl, And shut his eyes with a di-mai towl: Then to shield himself from the cutting sleet. His nose is pressed on his univering feet. Pray, what does the dog do there?

His master came from the 'wn to-night, And lost the traveled way;
And for hours he trod with main and might A path for his horse and sleigh : But deeper still the snow-drifts grew. And colder still the fierce wind blew; And his mare a beautiful Morgan brown, At last o'er a log had floundered down, That deep in a huge drift lay.

Many a plunge, with a fier and snort, She made in the heavy : w: And her master strove till his breath grew short, With a word and a gentle blow; But the snow was deep, and the tugs were tight. His hands were numbed, and had lost their

So he struggled back to his sleigh again, And he strove to shelter himself in vain. With his coat and his buffalo.

He has given the last faint jark of the rein To rouse up his dying steed;
And the poor dog howls to the blast in vain. For help in his masters need.

He strives for a while with a wistiful cry To catch but a clance from his heavy eye, And wags his tail if the rude wind flap The skirts of his coat acr s his lap, And whines that he talles no heed.

The wind goes down; the starra is o'er; 'Tis the hour of medni, ht past;
The forest writhes and hends no more In the rush of the mighty blast. The moon looks out with a silver light On the high o'll hills' with the snow all white And the giant shadow of camel's hump. Or ledge, and tree, and ghostly stump, On the silent plain are cast,

The Nurse, the Belle and the Beaux, allke, regard it as ance-cessary at the Tolict. Nor does the study common sense of the Farmer, the Mechanic, the Soldier, and the Sailor, neglect it. It is true those are slow to adopt a foreign remedy, but when once they have done to add proved its efficacy, they are reluctant to abandon it, and his is common sense. Certificates from every class in the American community can be brought toware, but the American community can be brought toware, but the American community can be throught toware, but the Proprietors are content with the following, which ori inally appeared in the Christian Watchman and Refe jor, unsolicited Rend what the paper says: inally appeared in the windows and inally appeared in the dead what the paper says:

""We were recently ninused on hearing a child hardy old enough to talk, and who had just relived the next scratch on his finger, inquiring for the Russia sake of persons who had never see the article. We had oursives supposed that it was one of the numerous humburs and earlie pennies of the day, but have been missikells. We learn that Rev. W. Collier, a most estimable Burjets Wellern that here, we well acquainted, and wholm gyman, with whom we were well acquainted.

At length, so extensive was the outland, he was compelled to charge a small-price for the article is order to meet the expense which was incurred. We have just seen a box of the continent that was put in by him some twenty years ago, which is still just as freshas ever. We have not written the foregoing for any seidble juspers, but to express our confidence in the excellence of Red-ding's Russia Saive for wounds and huma?" The above Saive is put up in large sized metal boxes, with an engraved wrapper, without which, interest excel-sine.
