MAGIC BAKING POWDER

WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER XV.
A Woman's Way.

"That fellow! Merciful Heaven! Bradstone! Oh, Faradeane!"
"You are surprised?"
"Yes; surprised is not the word. Why—why, I never thought that she would accept him. I knew he was pursuing her, but I never thought—if I had any fear at all, and it only came to me while I was waiting here, it was that it was she who might care for."
Faradeane's face went white.
"It is you who are mad," he said, sternly.

"Forgive me," pleaded Bertie, wiping the perspiration from his forehead. "But I've seen her with both you and him; and I've heard her speak to him, seen her look at him as if she disliked him, while to you she was all smiles."
Faradeane sprang to his feet.

"That will do!" he said, in a low, harsh voice. "You are scarcely accountable for your own words to-day, Bertie; but don't you see, great heavens, man, how you are giving her away? Is Miss Vanley the kind of woman to engage herself to one man while she is in love—Bah! pull yourself together, and face the inevitable like a man," and he paced to and fro impatiently.

Bertie hid his face in his hands, then he looked up.
"Faradeane, I'm sorry I should have said what I did, and yet I could have borne it better if it had been you, instead of him. You are—well, you are yourself, and are worthy of her."
Faradeane stopped and put his hand up with a bitter laugh.

"Worth!?" he said, in an undertone.
"Yes," said Bertie, stubbornly. "In all this—this mystery that hangs about you, I know how worthy you are; I could have borne it, I could have looked forward to the time when I could have cared for her as a sister, and—but this man! Why, Faradeane, has she ever looked at him or spoken to him at all pleasantly? Hasn't she snubbed him and treated him in such a way as would have made you and me go and cut our throats?"

"That's a woman's way," said Faradeane, grimly; to treat a man like a dog and then—marry him."
"But not hers!" responded Bertie, with earnest conviction. "You don't know Olivia as well as I do." Faradeane smiled sadly. "She has none of the unwomanly meannesses. No, there is some other reason."
Faradeane stopped short and looked at him.

"Do you mean to say that it is because the man is rich?"
Bertie shook his head.
"Heaven knows that can't be the reason. The squire is a rich man; the estate—"
"Besides," said Faradeane, more to himself than Bertie, "that would be a reason for accepting you!"
Bertie colored and shook his head.
"No, it wouldn't. Everybody knows how poor we Carfields are. My father has been retrenching for years."
Faradeane shrugged his shoulders.

"We might talk till the moon turned black," he said, "and still be far enough away from her motives. The question is, what will you do?"
"What can I do?" replied Bertie.
"There is only one thing left for me to do; to get away from here as soon as possible, and to fight out the battle as best I can. I shall start at once."
"Where to?"
"To—the devil!" responded Bertie desperately.

Faradeane laid a strong hand on each of his shoulders, and looked him full in the face with a steadfast gaze.
"No, not in that direction, Cherub," he said. "There is no forgetfulness to be found in that gentleman's company. Be a man, dear boy. Other men have suffered— He paused. "Well, yes, some of us have suffered worse pangs than are torturing you just this minute, and we have gone whither you said. Some of us have come back with much difficulty; others have remained, and gone down to the unfathomable pit. Take the word of a man who was lucky enough to draw back in time; there is no comfort to be found in that direction. If you must go, take my advice and go out into the wilds. There is nothing like Nature. She is the one universal mother of consolation. Go and seek her in her widest aspect; go and have a shot at some big game—Africa—the Rockies—anywhere you can find room to fight your battles in. And then—when you have won—come back and learn that there is no sorrow that time cannot teach you to forget, no wound it cannot heal."
"My life is over," said Bertie. "The best thing I can do is to try and get rid of it."
"Well, yes, so it is," said Faradeane, with a sad smile. "And you'll find that the very first moment that is likely to occur you will cling to that same life pretty tightly. Ah, Cherub, don't think I am unfeeling. I know—I tell you I know, how you feel! and his hands pressed his shoulders soothingly. "Good-by, dear lad. You've one thing on your side—youth. You'll still be young when you come back and tell me that you have found your heart again, and—lost it to some one else."
Bertie bit his lip, and forced the tears back from his eyes, for there was something inexpressively touching in Faradeane's words and tone.

"Good-by, old fellow," he said, taking his hat, "I can't tell you how grateful I am to you. When I look back and remember how constantly you have been my friend; how, many and many a time, you have lifted me out of a scrape, it seems hard to part from you. But I'll go as you advise me. Africa's the best place, I think." "And you'll stop here?"
Faradeane nodded.
"For the present, yes."
Bertie sighed.

"I don't know; my last promise got me into a scrape that makes me cautious. What is it?"
"It isn't much. It's only to—to remember how—how dearly I loved her, and to promise, if anything should happen to her, any trouble, anything wrong, that you will stand her friend, as you have stood mine. You see, I've learned to rely on you so much."
"What is likely to happen to the wife of the wealthy Mr. Bradstone?"
said Faradeane, pacing to and fro again, with knit brows. "Well, well, I promise. Is that all?"
"That's enough," said Bertie, simply. "Now, good-bye."

His white hand closed round the lad's soft, girlish ones and wrung them; then the two men parted, without another word.

CHAPTER XVI.

Bartley Bradstone's Victory.
The news of the engagement spread like wildfire, and caused almost as much excitement in the county as a general conflagration would have done. The consternation and disappointment among the eligible men, who had each one cherished a secret hope that the prize might be his, was fearful.

"Confound these city beggars!" said one young baronet, who had lain constant siege to Olivia's heart for three hunting seasons. "They carry everything off nowadays. Seems to me that a man's thought nothing of—by the women, at any rate—unless he has made a pile of money out of cotton or stocks and shares. Here's the fellow without a grandfader, or an ounce of blood in his veins, carries off the loveliest and sweetest girl we've got. Hang me if I don't go and get a stool in a confounded counting-house, and make a pile myself. I don't know what's come to things nowadays; it's all money, money, money."
Aunt Amelia was delighted, and almost went into hysterics, when Olivia quietly told her, the morning after Bartley Bradstone had been accepted.

"I am so glad you have taken my advice, my dear," she said, pressing a spasmodic kiss upon Olivia's white forehead. "Ah, if I had only had some one to advise me when I was your age; but I was a giddy girl, and would have my own way. I was always too particular, too fastidious, my dear; that has been my great fault. But you are different, thank Heaven, and know how to take advantage of your opportunity; which I never did, alas! And it is a splendid opportunity. Birth and all that kind of thing are all very well, but money is the thing nowadays, and dear Bartley—you don't mind my calling him Bartley, I hope, dear? Say so at once if you do, I'm sure I am the last to presume—"
"Call him anything you please, aunt," said Olivia, wearily.

"Very well, dear; what was I saying? Oh, dear Bartley is so—so nice, so really nice with all his wealth, that I am sure you will be happy. And when is the wedding to be? Now, don't blush."

It was a very pale blush, if any, that rose to Olivia's face; it went paler, indeed.
"There has been nothing said of a wedding," she replied.
Aunt Amelia nodded.
"Just so; quite right. But remember, my dear, that nothing is so—so unwise as a long engagement. You never can tell, men are so—so fickle nowadays, and there are so many girls. By the way, how mad those poor Penstone girls will be. I am sure they were both setting their caps at him."
Olivia rose with a laugh that was almost hysterical, and left Miss Amelia to gloat over Annie's and Mary's supposed disappointment in solitude.

The people flocked to the Grange to offer the usual congratulations, and presents poured in to an extent that caused the hall porter some embarrassment, and Olivia received both congratulations and presents with a manner which, though all her dear friends agreed in declaring it perfect, rather puzzled them.

"If she had been married for a year, instead of only going to be, she could not take it more coolly," said Mary to her sister, as they drove from the Grange after their visit. "I can't make the darling out quite. Did you not know how pale she was, and how—I don't know how to describe it—how dispirited? I hope I shan't look like that a few days after my engagement. Do you think she really loves him, Annie? It is so unexpected, isn't it? I wouldn't breathe a word of doubt about our darling Olivia, but there was Bertie Granville, for instance—so handsome and nice, and he loved her to distraction, any one could see that. Oh, I wish she were going to marry him, now."

PLAGIARISE

We regret that our attempt Thursday's issue to give Mr. the B. I. S., a little puff on his lent pitching came to such a tenuous result in the setting up type. What we meant to say was "Well, Well! Well! and what know about Blazer Wall as some kid, eh?"

Some correspondence is probably held over till next week. BASEBALL IN OUR COLLEGE. Baseball in Newfoundland has to stay. After three years of this has been, simply demonstrated there is no doubt but that the ideal summer game for Newfoundland has been demonstrated over over again that the Newfoundland climate is absolutely unsuitable for playing cricket.

Cricket. A cricket match cannot be finished in one afternoon. It often takes three sessions to one game—and then, again, it must be absolutely in the position for playing cricket. Baseball is a different game. It can be completed in three and, while it is desirable to have a good Diamond as possible, it is possible to play an exciting game of Baseball on turf that has not rolled and specially treated.

But now comes the point—Are the Ball players of the future? Are the players to be given? Have they left school then learn the game at the expense of their team or give it up in disgust? They did not get a "try-out" in the League fixtures after last practice? Our Colleges, as they have been able to learn, play from the time the Hockey closes until it opens again in anything pails. Therefore, order to say that the same and enthusiasm is not given to our school boys to-day.

We regret that our attempt in this issue to give Mr. Wall, of the B. I. S., a little puff on his excellent pitching came to such a disastrous result in the setting up of the type. What we meant to say was: "Well! Well! Well! and what do you know about Blazer Wall as Pitcher? Some kid, eh?"

BASEBALL IN OUR COLLEGES.
Baseball in Newfoundland has come to stay. After three years "try out" this has been amply demonstrated and there is no doubt but that it is the ideal summer game for Newfoundland. It has been demonstrated over and over again that the Newfoundland climate is absolutely unsuitable for Cricket. A cricket match can certainly not be finished in one afternoon—it often takes three sessions to finish one game—and, then, again, the turf must be absolutely in the pink of condition for playing cricket. With baseball this is different. A good game may be completed in three hours and, while it is desirable to have as good a Diamond as possible, it is possible to play an exciting game of baseball on turf that has not been rolled and specially treated.

But now comes the point: Where are the Ball players of the future coming from? Are the players going to wait until they have left school and then learn the game at the expense of their team or give it up in disgust that they did not get a "try-out" in one of the League fixtures after inadequate practice? Our Colleges, as far as we have been able to learn, play Football from the time the Hockey season closes until it opens again. Monotony in anything kills. Therefore it is in order to say that the same interest and enthusiasm is not given to Football by our school boys to-day as was given fifteen or twenty years ago when some attempt was made to break the monotony of all-the-year-round Football by trying to get cricket going. Cricket was impossible. As Baseball is the ideal summer game for our country so it is the ideal game for our Colleges. Baseball trains the eye, trains the arm, trains the brain and decidedly trains the temper. In a few words, Baseball inculcates those principles of self reliance and self control that it is the object of every trainer of youth to embody in his pupils. And, in this connection, it is worthy of note that in the famous military engagement of July 1st when the Newfoundland Regiment made a name for itself which will never be wiped out, some of the finest of the Officers and men who gave up their lives in the great cause were ex-players in teams of the Newfoundland Baseball League.

Again, Baseball is an exciting game—a game that healthy minded, red-blooded boys are keen about and are anxious to know how to play. It is no exaggeration to say that to-day, now, at the present moment, in every vacant field or yard close to the towns or villages where people live, from North Sydney, Nova Scotia to San Francisco, California, you will find the better type of youth of Canada and the States playing "Ball." A possible objection to the introduction of Baseball into our schools at this time when patriotism means everything, may be made on the score that Baseball is essentially an American game. Well, if it is, surely we can copy the fine points of our American cousins for whom we have really the warmest regard. But is Baseball necessarily an American game? Rather, let us say it is a North American game, for Baseball is to-day played in Canada—second to Newfoundland the most patriotic of Britain's overseas possessions—every bit as much as it is played in the United States. In recent illustrated English publications will be found pictures of convalescent Canadian soldiers playing "Ball" in some of the magnificent grounds placed at their disposal right in the heart of Old England itself. And now a word to the athletes: With proper precautions being taken, Baseball is not a dangerous game. There is not as much risk to life and limb in playing a game of Baseball as there is in playing Football and no more than there is in a game of cricket. The only man who is in perpetual risk of his life is the Umpire!

Let us, then, next year, have Baseball introduced into our schools by all means. If the funds of the Nfld. Baseball League are not now entirely depleted, seeing that the proceeds of all games this year have been handed to patriotic and charitable objects, let the League put up a cup for competition in Baseball between St. Bonaventure's, Bishop Field and the Methodist Colleges. Let members of teams in the Baseball League who are former members of those colleges take a few afternoons off and go down, add, explain the game to the boys and show them how to play it and, in a couple of years, we warrant, there will be as much interest and excitement displayed in the Inter-Collegiate Baseball fixtures as there is to-day in the Hockey fixtures, while the result will be the building up of character and muscle which cannot fail to be of ultimate value to this Newfoundland of ours.

Obituary.

GEORGE VEITCH.
Mr. George Veitch, an old standard and respected resident of Holyrood, and the victim of the recent sad accident here, died on Thursday evening last. The deceased who was deaf and had reached the advanced age of 83 years was walking very briskly to Mass on Sunday morning when he was unavoidably struck and knocked down by Mr. L. O'Rourke's runaway horse. He was picked up seriously wounded and brought back to his home. Rev. Father Finn was quickly summoned to his couch and after his ministrations and all through the day he succeeded to recover from the shock and the effects of the accident somewhat. But at night a decided change for the worse set in, and Mr. Veitch was again called who seeing the danger impending, the sufferer for his journey to the other world. After this he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness from which he never recovered. His brother, the Right Rev. Mons. Veitch, was called from Conception "on Monday morning, but his services being engaged in farming and hostelry and for quite a number of years occupied positions of public trust and responsibility. Intelligent and full of reminiscences, he was chatty and conversant on topics almost 70 years back, and his sudden and sad taking off removes one of the old leaders and landmarks of Holyrood. His funeral which took place on Saturday morning last and which was a very large one was conducted by Undertaker Dunphy. The Star of the Sea Association of Holyrood of which he was one of the oldest members, assisted in professional order at the funeral obsequies. At the church six priests officiated at the High Mass and Office for the eternal repose of his soul. The Very Rev. Dean O'Rourke, brother-in-law of the deceased, was the Celebrant of the Mass; Rev. J. Kavanagh, Deacon; Rev. A. Nolan, Sub-Deacon; Rev. W. P. Finn, Master of Ceremonies; and Right Rev. Mgr. Veitch and Rev. R. M. Shean were seated within the Sanctuary. The last blessing at the catafalque was given by Right Rev. Mgr. Veitch and the final prayers at the graveside were recited by Revs. Mgr. Veitch and Fr. Nolan, and the remains enclosed in a handsome casket beautifully adorned with floral wreaths were interred in the family plot beside those of his late wife, Mrs. Ann Veitch. The deceased leaves two sons: John, Supt. Western Union Cable Co., New York; William, at the old homestead; and two daughters: Mrs. Capt. Lewis and Mrs. J. T. Kennedy to all of whom we offer our sincere sympathy in their sad bereavement and pray Almighty God have mercy on the soul of our friend and brother member.—Com.

The Buddy Boot.

Capt. Morgan Hendregan, of Samuel Harris, Ltd., Grand Bank, needs no introduction to either banking masters or banking crews. When he makes a statement, they may depend upon its being absolute fact. When he highly recommends the Buddy Boot to fishermen, they understand he knows from experience that the Buddy Boot is the kind that they have always been looking for, and the kind that will ensure the greatest amount of satisfaction.—aug12,s.w.t.f

Historic Grain Ship.

IS SOLD FOR HALF MILLION DOLLARS.
The Norwegian steamer Lyngfjord, which made history here, finished getting her grain cargo aboard at Shea & Co.'s wharf yesterday afternoon and after receiving her customs clearance sailed out of this harbour bound for a Swedish port. As will be remembered the Lyngfjord ran ashore near St. Pierre while bound from a Canadian port to Norway with a load of grain. Subsequently she was refloated, having sustained considerable damage and was towed to this port by the S. S. Portia. She was then dry docked, after having all her cargo taken out, and extensive repairs made to her.

We learn from a reliable source that from the time the ship struck the land until her departure yesterday, her expenses were roundly one hundred thousand dollars.

We understand that the Lyngfjord, a 5,000 ton ship and owned by a Norwegian firm when she arrived here, will change hands on reaching her destination on the other side. The purchase price paid by the new owners is said to be one hundred thousand pounds sterling or roughly a half million dollars. Deducting from that amount the recent expenses, the former owners consider themselves well paid with the remaining four hundred thousand dollars for their ship.

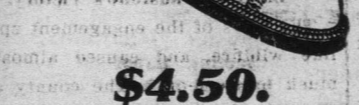

AT THE CRESCENT.

In the East.

All doubts must by now have been dissipated of the serious trend of events in the Balkans, which occupy the forefront of the stage at a time when there appears to be comparative quiet in other places. Not in the West, for in the past few days the British and French have made strikingly successful progress, the capture of Maurepas bringing them sensibly forward; but we have heard little from Italy, and the news from Galicia and Kovovo is so scanty as to be almost puzzling. The Armenian operations, however, have a direct bearing upon the Balkan situation, and the serious reverses which the Turks have there suffered will be of material assistance to the Allies' efforts. For the present the most noteworthy feature of the position of all of explosive elements is seen in the relations of Greece and Bulgaria, which will reach the breaking point if they are strained much further. The Allies, of course, will not be much troubled by such a prospect and must welcome a state of affairs which enlists on their side the increasing active sympathies of the Greeks. It may be for this reason that they are content to allow Bulgarian aggression at Seres and Kavala to continue. The position of the Greek authorities is a peculiar one, and they will need to take very drastic steps if they wish to prevent Greek subjects from offering themselves as volunteers to repel the invader. Bulgaria is beyond doubt Venizelos' strongest electioneering agent.

The Allied offensive has by no means seriously begun, or at least achieved any definite progress. Some initial successes have rested upon the banners of the Serbians, who have occupied advanced positions of the enemy and taken some prisoners. Beyond that there is little to report. The storm has not yet broken in its fury, but it is gathering rapidly and has shadowed the horizon.

Berlin continues to manifest great anxiety over Roumania, and reports lengthy conferences between King Ferdinand and the German and Austrian ambassadors; it seems to put greatest reliance in the influence of Hindenburg's name upon Bucharest. But Bucharest will be moved not by names but by events, and we need not expect any sign from that quarter until General Sarrail's guns begin to speak in earnest. The situation is momentous for the Allies, vital for Germany. In the opinion of some critics, rather than see her Eastern schemes brought to naught by the "raison d'etre," really, of the war, Germany will withdraw even her western troops to the Rhine, that the cessation of hostilities may leave her yet in possession of at least the great gateway to the Empire that is her goal and her ambition.

For the Comfort of Our Soldiers.

If the men in the field have fought worthily and well in their England at home, it is no less true that England at home has done well by her men in the field. Their smallest need looks to be and supplied, their every little comfort considered. Our own men are, of course, counted among them, and there is a new direction in which our generosity and support here at home is asked and will, as usual, be abundantly given. As long as a soldier is with his regiment there need be no special concern about him, and if he returns wounded from the front he will be received in a splendidly equipped hospital and tenderly cared for. But when he reaches the convalescent stage and has to give place to some more urgent case, or if for any other reason he finds himself "stranded" and on his own resources, his requirements take a slightly different shape.

Wild Rumor Aloft.

CONCERNING AMERICAN YACHT. Last evening and again this morning a wild rumor was afloat around the city that the American yacht Sagamore and her crew were to be interned here, the reason advanced being that the vessel had a cargo of rubber on board for the enemy. The Telegram made enquiries from the proper authorities and learns that the rumor is baseless. The facts are that the Sagamore left Boston for Iceland on a herring fishing voyage and put in here for repairs. It was since decided to abandon the fishing trip and the vessel will lay up here all next winter for complete renovation and repairs. Her captain and crew will take passage back to the States by the Red Cross liner Florizel this afternoon. The only cargo the Sagamore has is bunker coal and a quantity of salt which was to be used for herring curing purposes and this is now being discharged at Bowring's Southside premises.

Commissioner Richards, S.A.

COMMISSIONER RICHARDS.

Salvationists and their numerous friends in Newfoundland are preparing to give a very hearty welcome to their Territorial Leader, Commissioner Richards, who will arrive in the City by to-day's express.

The purpose of the Commissioner's visit is to conduct the Annual Congress, and to make a general inspection of the Army's work in the Island. His visit is naturally looked forward to with a great deal of anticipation, for not only does the Commissioner's visit afford an opportunity to the many Officers (who for the past year have been touring in various parts of the Island) to meet their friends and renew their comradeship again, but these gatherings in the past have been of untold spiritual help, inspiration and encouragement to them in their work, and they sincerely believe that this year's Congress will be no exception.

In the midst of his very busy life, his time is limited, so that he is indeed privileged to have his presence for several days.

Those who follow current events in the Territory over which he has jurisdiction will know something of the numerous claims made upon him, the engagements of a public character as they relate to the spiritual operations of the Army, to fill in addition to the gigantic social schemes which have been developed throughout Canada.

The Army's leader in Canada and Newfoundland, comes to us after a year of toil and incessant work, travelling night and day, conducting Congresses, interviewing Officers, transacting important business, and a hundred and one things which go to make up the cares and responsibilities of a territorial leader.

The programme of his visit, drawn up during the earlier part of the year, covered a period of four weeks, but unfortunately this had to be cancelled owing to the fact that Colonel Gaskin, the Chief Secretary, had received farewell orders, and it was absolutely necessary for the Commissioner to be at Headquarters to see the Colonel off, and also to receive and initiate the new Chief Secretary.

Since the Commissioner visited Newfoundland he has apart from his overworked administrative work at T. H. Q., visited a large number of Corps throughout the Territory. His first public gathering after leaving Newfoundland was to conduct the Canadian Annual Congress in Toronto embracing three days Officers' Councils and five monster public gatherings in the Massey Hall. Since then he has been continually on the war path, having visited no less than eighty-five Corps, conducted over 300 meetings with no less than 1,766 people at the penitent form, and has travelled 18,650 miles. After all the strenuous work, and crowded gatherings, the Commissioner has conducted since the last Newfoundland Congress, he is still alert, and as lively as ever.

The chief event of the Commissioner's visit will be his lecture on the Social and Missionary Work of the Army, in the Methodist College Hall, on Sunday, August 27th, at 3 p.m. Owing to the absence of His Excellency the Governor it will be impossible for him to be present. The Hon. J. R. Bennett has kindly consented to preside. He will be supported by a large number of citizens.

A very pleasant time is anticipated, as the Commissioner is a very hearty speaker, and will be sure to interest his audience.

Next Wednesday.

Suppose you were two thousand miles from home with not too much cash in your pocket and feeling rather lonely? Suppose, in addition, you had just spent two months in the trenches and you felt the need of rest and relaxation? Wouldn't you then appreciate open handed hospitality, a hearty welcome and amusements devised especially for your benefit? It is to supply this need for the boys of the Newfoundland Regiment that the Daughters of Empire Garden Party at Silverton, Waterford Bridge, is being held on Wednesday next. All sorts of amusements are being arranged and you can spend a very pleasant afternoon. If you want real strenuous amusement you may patronize the one and only Southside Hill Toboggan Slide for a nickel—the latest attraction imported direct from Coney Island. If you fancy you would make a good golfer or croquet player, you may try your skill at a fraction of what it would cost you to join Bally Haly Club. If you want to know the worst you may have your fortune told. It's guaranteed to be true, and if it's so bad you feel fed up with life you may get your revenge by awaiting "Aunt Sally" one in the eye with a coconut. You may take part in the great game of "Can't Lose" where you cannot help but win a prize. You may sit under the trees and enjoy the sweet music of the C. L. B. Band, and you will have the opportunity of seeing a fine collection of war trophies which are alone worth the price of admission. And, finally, when you wend your way homewards you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you spent a splendid afternoon and contributed towards the welfare of the Newfoundland Regiment—possibly some of the wounded. And all it costs you to get there is 30c, including your tea. We expect the pleasure of your company and we expect you to bring the missus and each of the seventeen kids, also Aunt Miriam and Cousin Hertzkiab—the woman next door and the man living opposite—and, finally, anyone you may meet coming the other way when you are going out.—adv.11

Rev. Henry Johnson.

The following item appeared in yesterday's Daily News:—

"The many friends of the Rev. Henry Johnson will be pleased to hear that he has been appointed, on Premier Asquith's presentation, Rector of North Cotes in the County of Lancaster. He has laboured indefatigably in adjacent Norfolk parishes since he resigned the Rectorship of Heart's Content fifteen years ago to assist his aged father in his clerical duties. His tireless energy as a Newfoundland missionary during twenty years (and he was to the mainland of England, in the parishes of Notre Dame, Trinity and Conception Bays. Since the war broke out he has both taken and given on pleasure excursions to soldier boys in camp and in hospital, and in entertaining some of them at his vicarage. Nil Terrae Novae a se alienigena."—adv.11

The rev. gentleman belongs to a family which has a unique record in this Colony. His grandfather, Rev. F. H. Gerrard, was the first clergyman before Newfoundland was made a diocese, and his father, Rev. G. M. Johnson, and himself consecutively worked here as Church of England clergymen from 1868 until 1902. To this the Rev. Henry Johnson might have added another quarter-century had he not left this country to help his father in Norfolk; his heart, however, has always been in Newfoundland and the missionary work to which he was so well fitted. He is a brother of Mr. Justice Johnson.

Reported Missing.

NOW PRISONER OF WAR. Mr. D. M. Baird received a message from Sir Louis Mallet, Secretary of the Wounded and Missing Department, saying: "John Cachell wounded prisoner in field hospital, shot in lung." While there is no such name in the first or second Nfd. Regiments, we presume it is intended for Pte. John J. Cahill of Water St. West, who was reported missing June 28th, a few days before the big drive. Mr. Baird wrote Sir Louis asking that comforts be sent to all Newfoundland prisoners of war.

Gentlemen,—Ever since coming home from the Boer war I have been bothered with running fever sores on my legs. I tried many salves and liniments; also doctored continuously for the blood, but got no permanent relief, till last winter when my mother got me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT. The effect of which was almost magical. Two bottles completely cured me and I have worked every working day since.

Newfoundlander Drowned.

Gloucester, Aug. 20.—After more than 30 years spent in battling with storms at sea, Simon Nolan, a fisherman of Salmonier, Newfoundland, was drowned in the harbor here some time last night or early this morning, almost within reaching distance of the shore. Nolan was last seen shortly before midnight on the fishing steamer P. S. Willard of Newport. He announced his intention of going ashore and disappeared. When he failed to report this morning his son, Clifford J. Nolan, also a member of the fishing vessel's crew, became alarmed and notified the police. The water in the vicinity of the wharf where the vessel lay was dragged, and about noon Nolan's body came to light. A verdict of death by accident was given by the medical examiner.

TO-DAY'S Messages. 11.00 A.M. ON ALL FRONTS.

LONDON, To-day. The Balkan situation again looks large on the horizon of the world war with an official announcement from Paris that the Bulgarians have attacked Drama and other points on the Greek border, both of which are garrisoned by Greek troops. This announcement is confirmed by press despatches received from Greece during the last few days, in which it was said that fighting was in progress between the Greeks and Bulgarians. It is noted that these attacks on Kavala, Thessalonica and other points on the Greek border were made on the night of the 24th inst. Apparently from the French statement the Allied troops do not plan to advance on the right wing as British cavalry detachments are reported to have destroyed the bridges over the Angistis River and the left wing. Paris reports appreciable progress for the Serbians and the capture of several hundred prisoners. In the centre, where the main fighting is taking place, but there is no report of infantry operations. The Bulgarians have been in the offensive since the 15th inst. The Van is described by Petrograd as a crushing blow to the Turks. Russian military critics predict the recapture of the Grand Duke's march toward Asia Minor. The usual activity occurred on the Western front following the Paris report. The reports by Paris and London are partially confirmed by Berlin on Thursday. The Germans have attempted a salient just far into the French line southeast of Verdun and the German force of some of the bloodiest fighting in France. The force of the German blow carried them into the French trenches, but according to Paris they were immediately ejected by a counter attack. London has once again been the target for a Zeppelin raid and as usual the accounts issued in Berlin and London conflict strongly. Berlin claims the British capital was heavily bombarded by several naval dirigibles and that batteries and vessels were struck. According to London only one of the attacking Zeppelins reached the outskirts of the city. The material damage caused by the attack was slight; eight persons were killed and 35 injured, according to the British version.

HONORS FOR CAPT. KOENIG. AMSTERDAM, To-day. The medical faculty of the University of Halle has conferred an honorary degree on Capt. Koening of the German submarine Deutschland, for having broken the enemy's blockade, thereby enabling the German medical chemical industry to recapture its world's position in this severe time. NEWPORT NEWS, To-day. A new world's record for the distance covered in ten hours carrying passengers was made to-day by Victor Carlstrom, of the Atlantic Coast Aeromobiles Association, who made 491 miles flying a Curtiss twin motor land and water machine. The actual flying time was eight hours and forty minutes. INDIVIDUAL OPINION. NEW YORK, To-day. A London cable from the Tribune says that Col. Repington, one of the keenest military observers in this country, though reasonably assured of the success of the Allies, believes the end Aerial engagements occurred all along the front. Three German aeroplanes were shot down in the Somme sector, one near Craton and another on the front advancing to the east. Two German aeroplanes were damaged and two German captives were taken.

THE ENTENTE POWERS & GREECE. ATHENS, To-day. The present political and military situation, says the Paris, has resulted in an exchange of views among the Entente Powers regarding the attitude to be taken towards Greece. F. V. CHESMAN, Impulses.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Why did you do it?" said I.
A friend had been telling me of an unexpected impulse which had come to her that day.
"Oh," she said with the air of one who tells of a fault overcome, "I'm not so impulsive as I used to be. I seldom yield to impulses nowadays."

There is such a thing as being too impulsive, and there is such a thing as not being impulsive, and most old people aren't impulsive enough.
One Can Conquer One's Impulses Too Easily.
When you find yourself conquering your impulses too easily, look out. It means you are growing wiser perhaps, but also it too often means that you are "not so young as you have been."

Not long ago, as I was on my way to town on the trolley, we were held up by the fire apparatus. The fire was on a side street. We could see smoke and flame, chimneys sparking, the air was electric with the excitement that a fire always produces. I was going into town for some shopping that did not need to be done that day. The impulse came to me to get off the car and go to see that fire. I stood up, and then the inhibitions got in their work. I might hurt my white shoes, I had planned to do that shopping to-day, I'd have to pay another fare, the fire would probably be out in a few minutes. And I sat down

THE SILVER LINING.

To one who's constituted right, some solace always is in sight, whatever troubles life may bring; he'll find excuse to smile and sing. Jim Wilkins had a patch of beans and other greens, the finest in the countryside; in St. Penne's corner's cow, which has a low, retreating brow, went halving into Wilkins' yard, when a night watchman was on guard. At dawn, when Jimuel arose and through the window pushed his nose, to gaze upon his garden sash, he found but ruin there, alas! I thought to hear him rant and swear, and see him paw and tear his hair; but he surveyed with manful grin, the wreckage that the place was in. "How thankful I should be," said he; "she didn't eat my cherry tree! She spared the clothesline and the pump; why should I have a doleful dump? I'm thankful, too, 'twas but a cow; if it had been a warthog, now, or if some big rhinoceros had come and put this stunt across, there'd not be any landscape here, so watch me smile from ear to ear." I put him in a padded cell, where he is doing very well.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is a self-propelled American citizen who never has to be located by calling out the bloodhounds. The life and public services of Colonel Roosevelt have probably called forth more heartfelt eulogies than the career of any other citizen of our times, with the possible exception of William J. Bryan, who has been repeatedly hailed out of the political arena and interred with appropriate eulogies. If Colonel Roosevelt had $2 for every time he has been lowered into his political grave by the newspapers and the membership of the Old Guard, he would make John D. Rockefeller look like a shoe-lace peddler. Colonel Roosevelt is a man of medium height, with eager, expressive teeth and a mind which never slows down for the ruts. A lot of people who do not like the Colonel would be glad to exchange minds with him, as it is of the twin-six variety and does not have to be primed in the coldest weather. At one end of the Colonel's mind is attached a vocabulary which can raise a visible welt on the hide of a Sumatran rhinoceros. The free but scholarly use of this vocabulary has

Profaning the Tabernacle

In ancient times a curse was pronounced on the man who removed his neighbour's landmark. The offence is less heinous of the man who attempts to remove the spiritual landmarks of a people. What punishment, then, shall be meted out to him who essays the task of re-writing the old hymns that through the centuries have comforted generations of men and women, and hushed to sleep in childhood's days countless multitudes to whom the words and music in after days recalled the most cherished memories of youth? Many of the old hymns may not rank as literature, but usage and treasured associations have welded them by indissoluble bonds to the lives of millions of the human race. "For dear to gods and men is sacred song." Vigorous protests have been made

Doctor Tells How To St. Eyesight 50 per cent Week's Time

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home. Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weakness? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, "after trying it, I was almost blind; I could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses. It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able

In New York City alone nine men are employed selling Canada-Made Dunlop Traction Tread Tires.

Think of it—in a critical city like New York, where probably the most fastidious motor owners in the world assemble, nine men, as noted before, are kept busy doing nothing else but selling a tire made in Canada—and selling it at a higher price than the American has to pay, for American-made tires.

And yet this Traction Tread Tire, which has "caught on" in New York City, and other parts of the United States, is identically the same tire which we have been offering to Canadians since 1911.

It is Undoubtedly the World's Greatest Anti-Skid. Also makers of Dunlop "Special."

COLONEL ROOSEVELT. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is a self-propelled American citizen who never has to be located by calling out the bloodhounds.

The life and public services of Colonel Roosevelt have probably called forth more heartfelt obituaries than the career of any other citizen of our times, with the possible exception of William J. Bryan, who has been repeatedly handled out of the political arena and interred with appropriate ceremonies.

Colonel Roosevelt is a man of medium height, with a strong, expressive face, a mind which never slows down for the ruts. A lot of people who do not like the Colonel would be glad to exchange minds with him, as it is of the twin-six variety and does not have to be primed in the coldest weather.

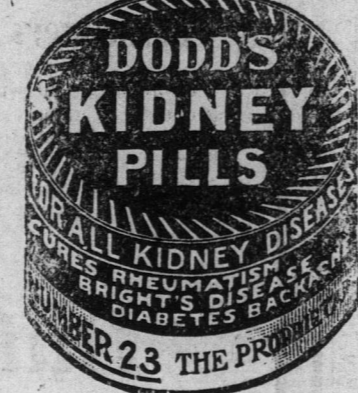

At one end of the Colonel's mind is attached a vocabulary which can raise a visible welt on the hide of a Sumatran rhinoceros. The free but scholarly use of this vocabulary has driven many a statesman into some shady retreat with a look of chagrin and a bottle of arnica.

Colonel Roosevelt was President of the United States for several years, during which time he appointed a great many postmasters who have since been removed from the pay roll with a dull axe. He is now an ex-President, with all of the honours, emoluments and scars appertaining thereto, including free stable room for his vocabulary, which at times is driven without a check rein. Between times the colonel writes on topics with which other people are not familiar, or boxes six rounds with some promising middleweight.

In other words, he is an all-round American citizen, with a few sharp corners which it is very disagreeable to run into during the progress of a debate. Colonel Roosevelt is sworn to and by a loyal collection of tight friends and fast enemies. Swearing at the Colonel has been one of our great American pastimes for several years, but when he trudges on to the far country appreciation will erase his errors and vitalize the memory of his service.

In the photoplay of American politics he is an animated and picturesque figure, without whom the screen would be a dull monotony.

There will be general agreement with the conclusion of The Boston Transcript that "if the modern spirit in behalf of which Professor Patten pretends to write cannot produce its own hymns, it would do better to go without them."

A Happy Reunion.

By the last English mail Mrs. C. Tessler received an interesting letter from her son, Sergeant Ernest Tessler, who belongs to the 15th Battalion C. E. F., and who took part in several "big drives" since the outbreak of hostilities and came through unscathed.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN SEEN AT HIS FUNNIEST.

The attendances at the Nickel Theatre yesterday were very large. The principal attraction was Charlie Chaplin who appeared in the funny comedy "Police." This wonderful comedian is always a drawing feature and yesterday he brought smiles to many faces.

THE GREAT MILITARY ACT.

There was a packed house at the British Theatre last night, and one and all declared it to be the best act yet. The great military skit with all dressed in khaki had the house in roars, especially the act between Jack Rossley, Miss Clara Squires, and Mrs. Rossley.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

ON THE VERDUN FRONT.

PARIS, Aug. 25. (Official.) On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) enemy artillery displayed great activity as did ours in the region of Thilamont work. Towards 2 o'clock this morning the Germans made an attempt against the village of Fleury which utterly failed. In the forest of Apremont there was a rather lively bombardment of our trenches. This was followed by an attempted attack which was stopped by our curtain of fire.

GERMAN ASSAULT ON FRENCH LINES.

PARIS, Aug. 25. The Germans have made a new assault on the French lines at the tip of the famous salient of St. Mihiel, but have been repulsed, after gaining a footing in the French trenches, according to an official to-night.

ON THE SOMME FRONT.

PARIS, Aug. 25. The War Office to-night says: On the Somme front we continued our artillery fire on the German organizations. We took 800 prisoners in yesterday's fighting. Eight new machine guns were found in a part of Maurepas, which we captured.

PETROGRAD SAYS NO CHANGE.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 25. There has been no change on the Western Russian and Caucasian front, says an official communication issued by the War Department this evening.

TURKS RECEIVE CRUSHING BLOW

PETROGRAD, Aug. 25. The Turkish attempt to encircle the left flank of the Russian Caucasian army appears to have received a crushing blow from the troops of Grand Duke Nicholas in the region of Lake Van. The Turkish scheme of encircling the left flank and regaining Erzerum, thus nullifying all the successes of the Grand Duke in Turkish Armenia, appeared to be well on its way to a successful outcome, but the Russian re-occupation of Mush and their re-establishment of their positions west of Lake Van, have apparently put a definite quietus to the ambition of the Turks. The initiative now appears again to be with the Russians at all important points in Asia Minor. Now that the Turkish offensive on the left flank has been stopped, the Grand Duke Nicholas can continue his march towards Asia Minor.

SUCCESS OF THE SERBIANS.

LONDON, Aug. 25. Successes against the Bulgarians all along the line of the Serbian front in Macedonia are reported in the Serbian official statement of Aug. 22. The statement declares that the positions previously designated for Serbian occupation were seized and held by Serbian troops. On the right wing there has been an artillery duel. Our offensive is developing successfully in the centre and the Bulgarians are being pushed back gradually towards id than improvement in airships, and consequently it is quite probable that new types of destroyer aeroplanes may be produced which will make it almost impossible for airships to get away from this country if they ever reach it.

THE BRITISH VERSION.

LONDON, Aug. 25. Further reports show that five or six enemy airships raided the east and southeast coasts of England. Two or three raiders came in over the eastern counties and dropped over 20 bombs, without causing any casualties or damage. Another raider attempted to approach a seaport town, but being heavily fired on by anti-aircraft guns, was driven off to the eastward after dropping nineteen bombs in the sea, without reaching their objective. Another airship which visited the southeast coast came under heavy fire from anti-aircraft defences, and was compelled to unload its cargo of bombs in the sea without doing any damage to life or property. Another raider succeeded in reaching the outskirts of London, where explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped. It is regretted that casualties occurred among the civilian population as follows: Killed, three men, three women and two children; injured seriously, three men and three women, and in addition one soldier seriously. Fourteen were slightly injured by broken glass.

ATTEMPT AT RESCUE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. A News Agency despatch from Punta Arenas, Chile, to-day, says that the Chilean Government to-day announced that it has placed the ship Yelcho at the disposal of Sir Ernest Shackleton for another attempt to rescue the members of his Polar expedition marooned at Elephant Island. It is feared here that the men have already died of starvation.

GERMANS REPULSED.

LONDON, Aug. 25. The repulse of a German attack on the British trenches west of Givenchy is reported in an official statement issued by the War Office at midnight. The text follows: West of Givenchy the enemy last night with the strength of about two companies, attempted an attack on our trenches, but were driven back by our machine gun fire. The enemy's guns maintained fairly heavy fire last night on these trenches, which continued to-day. He also bombarded the trenches we captured last night near Delville Wood. There was much artillery activity by both sides on the various parts of the front. We captured two machine guns yesterday and 90 prisoners, besides those already reported passed back to-day on the front between Mouquet farm and Leipzig salient. Two aeroplane raids were carried out against some railroad sidings on the enemy's lines of communications. Several trains were hit and considerable damage was caused the rolling stock. Other points of military importance were bombarded. Hostile aircraft generally avoided combats, but there were some engagements in which a number of enemy machines were damaged and driven down. One of our machines was brought down in the enemy's lines.

THE THOUGHTS

A SUMMER SAUNTER.

Some day when you have nothing to do and all the day in which to do it, it might at least prove interesting if not entertaining if you took a summer saunter. 'Tis true the war is raging, but it will rage no matter if you are in the town or the country, and it is something to be able to get away from oneself for a day. Choose a cool day and be ready to start before eleven. If no one is around whom you like better than yourself, take a silent companion; one who will not speak unless you desire it, and who will be invisible at your will. Perhaps you will choose Cowper, if you have him in a compact form that will easily fit in your side pocket. It will be a good choice, too, as Cowper had a near knowledge of a great many scraws as well as some joys of this life. And you will probably find that such a nature will suit you far better than one which continually looks on the bright side—nothing but sunlight grows wearisome, and even good habits are better for a change sometimes.

And, by the way, it is remarkable that Cowper is best known by the poem which he liked least of all his verse. He was kept awake by "hauing" and composed "John Gilpin" in the restless hours.

John Gilpin was a citizen
 Of credit and renown.

Well, with your silent companion by your side, you are ready to set out. If you go about this time of the year you will quickly come to the sweetest smelling of all country odours, new-mown hay, and you will hear on all sides the swish of the scythe or the rattle of the more modern mowing machine. If you turned up your nose in the spring at the odours of caplin and other fertilizers you will acknowledge now that the Harvest smells are worth it. And just here, a small pony and cart catches up to you and the driver asks you to "have a lift." But your walk has scarcely begun and you do not feel like giving in. You meet many motors, carriages, and milk-wagons during your day, but only the country people are interested in you and wish to help you. They always wish you the time of the day and are ready for a bit of the social converse. Of course the people in the motors probably know you and know that if you did not want to walk you would be in some conveyance also. Anyway they are travelling too fast to be very social. You will find it a good plan not to look at motors, and if you will be saved the uncertainty of seeing whether the occupants are friends or not, or if they recognize you or not.

You will be surprised that in an CHEVROLET!

The most complete and equipped Motor Car ever offered regardless of price. This is some assertion to make, but everyone knows that I am the pioneer in the automobile business in this country, and I can honestly say I have never seen its equal.

It has two unit starting and lighting plant, three speeds, forward and reverse; gate changes, 30 x 2 1/2 tires front and rear, 3/4 floating rear axle, which means there is no strain on the axle shafts, the load is carried on the housing. Springs are of the latest shock absorbing cantilever type as used on high-priced English cars. Four cylinder motor valves in head and approved double jet zenith carburetor, which gives twenty-seven miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Plenty leg room in front, also in Tonau; in fact the biggest small car ever offered to the motoring public. Replacement parts of those cars are exceptionally low. A full line already in stock.
