JOHN MURRAY ANDERSON COM-MENTS ON PARIS AND LONDON

(New York Sun. June 12, 1924.) An interesting chat about the Pars and London theatres was given yesterday by John Murray Anderson who has just returned from a trip abroad to devise and stage the sixth annual production of the "Greenwich Village Follies:"

"Prior to the war," Mr. Anderson said, "the theater in Europe set the pace for the world. Now there is a change, caused by the war. Since the Europeans have had all of the war period, with the actual suffering there, the result is that in France and England the theatres are at a standstill and neither one of the countries has recovered from the deprivation the war left.

"The first thing theatrical that strikes you abroad is the theatre buildings. The theatres themselves are very antiquated, especially in England. No new theatres have been built there since the war with the exception of one or two new moving and personality. picture houses. Most of the theatres cessful musical productions there are called 'The Whirl of the World,' at the London Paladium, is made up stands out.

almost entirely of scenes from George White's 'Scandals,' 'The Music Box Revue' and the 'Greenwich Village Follies,' but this production has been staged with very much less distinction than in America. Bewitching Comedy

An appeal to the lover of the ar istic and picturesque is Mack Sen-Normand, an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release, oming to the Star Movie to-day. Against a background historic and omantic, "Suzanna" faithfully depicts the charm, romance and fruitfulness of California about 1835. To the most minute detail, the mannerisms, customs, adventures and buildings of the early Californian have been reproduced and revived for this quaint but beautiful story.

Supported by a cast chosen great consideration for type, Mabel Normand is irresistibly appealing to every lover of beauty, romance, adventure and comedy.

She has been given ample opportunity, to her great delight, to appear before millions of comedy-lovers in a role at once so human, so lovable, so sympathetic, so bewitching that no one can resist her.

The character of Suzanna, so ably portrayed by Miss Normand is that of an early Spanish-Californian peen. raised so from the day of her birth. Through design, however, Suzanna has been cheated of her rightful heritage, for she is in reality the daughter of a Don of high caste and lineage. Because of her apparent low station in life. Suzanna cannot accept the love of the man she loves and is loved by. But Fate, however, decides to make amends, and everything ends as it should.

Supporting Miss Normand "Suzanna," adapted to the screen by Mack Sennett from the historic novel of the same name by Linton Wells, are Walter McGrail, Leon Bary, George Nichols, Carl Stockdale, George Cooper, Lon Poff, Winifred Bryson, Evelyn Sherman and many others of equal prominence. Immigration Law Effective July 1st

NEW U. S. RESTRICTIONS WILL SOMEWHAT CURB FREE MOVEMENT OF TOURISTS.

(Montreal Star.)

Montrealers who are crossing the border into the United States have got to give an account of themselves to the immigration authorities at the border. A letter telling when they are to return or some permit from the local immigration bureau will be necessary to stipulate whether their bearers will remain in the United States of whether they are on a visit. The following statement was issued by the Department of Immigration here through the commissioner W. J. Clark, to-day:

"The new United States Percentum Imigration Law goes into effect July

Under this new Act, immigration t the United States for the coming three ears will be limited to approximately 170,000 souls per year,

"The annual quota of any nationality shall be two percentum of the number of foreign-born individuals of such nationality resident in continental United Satates as determined by the United Satates Census of 1890, but the minimum of any nationality shall Students Exempt.

(d) An immigrant who continuous ly for at least two years immediately preceding the time of his application for admission to the United States has been, and who seeks to enter the United States solely for the purpose of, carrying on the covation of minister of any religious denomination, or professor of a college, academy, seminary of university; and his wife, and his unmarried children under 18 years of age, if accompanying or following to join him; or

(c) An immigrant who is a bona fide student at least 15 years of age and who seeks to enter the United States solely for the purpose of study at an accredited school, college, academy, seminary, or university, particularly designated by him and approved by the Secretary of Labor.

"All immigrants, whether of the quota class or exempt from such provision, re amenable to that feature of the Law requiring procurement of an American Consular Visa, the fee for which is shown to be $10 per capita, in addition to which is the Immigration Head Tax fee of $8 as in

"The Consular Visa is not a guarantee of admission under the Immigration Laws and the new Law contains no provision for refund of the Consular Visa fee in the event of a person holding the Consular Visa being refused entry to the United States by Immigration Officers. "The instructions have not yet been received as to just how the new Percentum Law will apply to natives of trans-oceanic countries, now resident in Canada, but it is expected that advices as to the quota allotment for persons of the latter classes will be received by American Consular Officers in Canada within a very few

"As the Law provides that "There shall be issued to quota immigrants of any nationality (1) no more Immigration Visas in any fiscal year than the quota for such nationality, and (2) in any calendar month of any fiscal year no more Immigration Visas than ten percentum of the total quota for such nationality,' it is quite apparent that the monthly admission to the United States from Canada are to be greatly restricted in respect of all nationals falling within the quota

(Montreal Star, July 1.) Whether or not the Canadian sys em of Government liquor sale would a solution for a state of affairs in the United States, characterized as "appalling both from the standpoint temperance and from the standpoint of public and private morals," what Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University. New York, and prominent member of the Republican Party, has come to the Dominion to find out. "We have had excellent reports of your system," said Dr. Butler, who arrived and we are going to see the members of the Liquor Commission to find what methods have proved effective here." The well-known publicist will then proceed to the West to visit the Provinces, which have reacted from prohibition, to get an account of their experiences.

"Only two classes of people in the United States are satisfied with conditions as they are at the present time. First of these are the booteggers, who make enormous, fortunes out of liquor trade and who want no change. They are perfectly satisfied to retain the law on the statute books forever. In the second group of those who are contented with the present state of affairs are the paid officers of lobbyists of the anti-Saloon League, who make a good living out of the agitation and do everything in their power to keep it up. They try to prevent any reasonable discussion of the situation and hurl abuse at the head of any who attempt to discuss the subject from the standpoint of public ject from the standpoint of public

"Things will remain as they are until the good people of the country—the Christian temperance people who have been imposed on by the anti-Saloon League realize the true facts, and reach the conclusion that they themselves must tackle the problem and establish a better system. Government control." His faith in the people was so great, he said, that he believed a campaign of education would bear fruit in a reasonable time.

"I am concerned less for the liquor traffic than for the contempt of law brought about by prohibition—the problem viewed from the standpoint of Government," said Dr. Butler.

When asked if he had heard that many students were earning the cost of their college courses by bootlegging, President Butler said he had been told of such instances, but that they were students of colleges near the Canadian border. He was not the Canadian border. He was not speaking of his own students when he discussed the harmful effect of he discussed the harmful effect of prohibition on young people.

Lawyers' Lapses

The Wills of Great Legal Luminaries Have Given Their Heirs Endless

It is proverbial that shoemakers go ill-shod and tailors ill-clad, but it seems amazing that a lawyer should make his own will so badly that it cannot be administered, or leads to endless litigation. Such cases, however, have often occurred, and the latest, according to the dally papers, is the will of Sir Richard Muir, late Senior Counsel to the Treasury.

He made alterations and interlinea tions which were not properly attested, and an affidavit of execution was required before the will, as it stood, could be admitted to probate. A remarkable case of a lawyer's will being invalid was that of Sir Joseph Jekyll, Master of the Rolls, who left the whole of his fortune. after his wife's death, to pay off the
