STREET FIGHTS KEEP UP WITH DUBLIN REBELS

Ireland's Capital Not Yet Cleared of Insurgents, Says Premier. REVOLT HAS SPREAD General Maxwell Sent With Troops to Quell Insurrection.

LONDON, April 27.—Martial law has been declared throughout Ireland and Major-Gen. Sir John Maxwell, who until recently commanded the troops in Egypt, has gone over to take charge of the Irish executive officials having placed themselves under his instructions. He has been given full disciplinary powers for the extension of the operations and the suppression of the rebellion. The revolt which broke out in Dublin Monday has spread to other parts of Ireland, chiefly to the west and south. This information, together with the fact that the rebels are still in possession of parts of the City of Dublin, was given to the nation by the ministers in parliament today. Revolt Spreads. Premier Asquith, who yesterday had given reassuring news respecting the situation in Ireland, caused something of a flutter of anxiety by his statement today in the house of commons when he announced a spread of the movement to other parts of Ireland, the retention by the revolutionary forces of certain parts of Dublin and the fact that fighting was still going on in the city. Shifts to West. Mr. Asquith said that for obvious reasons he did not like to name the other places to which the trouble had spread, but that there had been in the west, places where there was a development of the movement. Very stringent precautions were being taken by the military authorities to deal with these places. Replying to Mr. Redmond, who said he had been unable to communicate with Dublin, Mr. Asquith said he expected communication to be restored today or tomorrow. The government, the prime minister further announced, was convinced that the forces now in Ireland and those proceeding there were adequate to deal with the situation. Irish Leaders Take Stand. John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, and Sir Edward Carson, the Unionist leader, strong opponents on the home rule question, expressed their views on the situation. SWISS FIRED ON GERMAN AIRCRAFT

Fresh Violation of Territory Has Resulted in Prompt Protest. MINISTER SUMMONED Hun Aeroplane Dropped Bombs on French Town Near Belfort. GENEVA, April 26, via Paris, April 27.—Swiss territory has again been violated by a German aeroplane. The machine flew over the region of Porentruy at dawn today and was bombarded by Swiss troops all along the frontier. The aircraft dropped bombs on the French town of Dolle, 11 miles south-east of Belfort, and then crossed the Swiss frontier a second time, finally disappearing in the direction of Alsace. A Berne report says that as the result of violations of Swiss territory by German aeroplanes the federal council, according to the Swiss Telegraphic Agency, has summoned to Berne the Swiss minister in Berlin to discuss the situation arising from these incursions. CAME BACK TO CANADA ENLISTED AT BRANTFORD BRANTFORD, April 27.—J. C. Dougherty, world-wide tourist, is the latest recruit of the 215th. He was on a Leyland liner since the war was opened and tried to enlist in Liverpool, but as he was Canadian born, was advised to enlist in Canada. He came back and signed up here today.

WAIT ALL MEN COMPELLED TO SERVE IN WAR

Strong Opposition Forces Withdrawal of Compromise Bill. ONE MONTH'S GRACE All Single Men Between Eighteen and Forty-Five Involved.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, April 27.—Severe criticism greeted a bill which was introduced in the British House of Commons by Walter Hume Long today, providing for the extension of military service, and on account of the opposition it was announced that the government would not press the measure. Mr. Long said in introducing the bill that one month would be allowed for volunteering after the passage of the measure before putting it in force. It was announced later that the government had withdrawn the military service bill owing to the strong opposition in the house. It was understood that the bill, embodying certain aspects of the proposals outlined in the report of the secret session at which recruiting was taken up, had been approved by the ministry and the army council. The withdrawal of Mr. Long's bill, which provided for bringing into service every unmarried man between 18 and 45 and prolonging for the duration of the war the service of all time-expired men and territorials, left the question of unattached recruits to be dealt with later. The discussion that followed the introduction of the bill showed that the measure was opposed by all parties as unfair, several members urging that nothing but all-round conscription would prove satisfactory. Particular objection was raised to the extension of the service period to time-expired men. Denounced by Carson. Sir Edward Carson denounced the bill introduced by Mr. Long as unfair. He was particularly opposed to the clause extending the service of men on the expiration of the periods for which they enlisted. Compulsion for all, he declared, was much fairer. Stephen Walsh, Labor member, caused the house to break out in cheers by demanding immediate introduction of a measure for general conscription if the military situation demanded it. Being pressed to state what course the government proposed to adopt, Premier Asquith said he could not be expected to reply on three weeks of the Premier, but would consult his colleagues and announce the decision next week. It is understood that two alternatives are before the government, either to introduce a bill bringing into operation the proposals concerning unattached married men, given the premier's statement at the secret session of the house of commons on Tuesday, or proceed at once to the adoption of universal service.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK BY A TRAWLER

British Craft Destroyed Big Undersea Boat With Two Shots. LONDON, April 28.—(3.10 a.m.)—The destruction of a German submarine by a British trawler off the north coast of Scotland is described by Dutch newspapers received here. According to the accounts the submarine had halted two Dutch steamers, when a trawler appeared and killed with its first shot four men who were standing on the deck of the submarine. The trawler then sank the submarine with a second shot. The entire action lasted less than ten minutes. The papers say the submarine was the latest and largest type and carried a crew of 50, all of whom were lost.

FRENCH STOP FOE FROM ATTACKING

Two Semblances of Onsets Checked by Curtain of Fire. BIG GUNS YET ROAR Avocourt, Esnes and Cumieres Great Centres of Shelling.

Special Cable to The Toronto World. LONDON, April 27.—What is described as "two semblances of attack," accompanied by violent bombardments, made by the Germans on the front of Haumont and Vaux, on the eastern bank of the Meuse and north of Verdun, were greeted by a French curtain of fire today and the hostile troops did not leave their trenches. Practically the same sort of thing happened when a small force of Germans demonstrated last night against the positions of the British and French troops. Intense artillery activity is reported on the left bank of the Meuse from the regions of Avocourt, Esnes and Cumieres. French batteries displayed great activity near Roye and west of Pont-a-Mousson. It was comparatively calm on the remainder of the French front today. German reconnoitering party was dispersed in Lorraine last night.

FOE RECOUBLES EXERTIONS ON BRITISH FRONT

Many Attacks Beaten Off in Flanders May Precede Offensive. IRISH REPULSE ENEMY Sustain German Gas Emission and Retake Trenches.

LONDON, Friday, April 28, 1.31 a.m.—The British front is reported in the latest official communication. The Bedfordshire regiment carried on a successful raid near Carnoy. There has been artillery activity at La Boiselle, Hebuterne, Monchy-au-Bois, Neuville-St. Vaast, Armentieres and Fresnoy. "As Froelich the Germans entered the British trenches, but were driven out. "Similar attacks on the British trenches on Hill 60 and at St. Eloi were repulsed. "The British communication issued last night is the longest ever sent out from British headquarters. To the extent of nearly five hundred words it describes the great increase of activity on the British front, where many observers have been predicting that the Germans were about to launch an attack of determined size against Verdun. Fighting Round Loos. The new German activity has shown itself at more than a score of points, with the principal fighting apparently around Hulloch and Loos. "The British regiments got special mention for bravery in a counter-attack which drove the Germans out of a section of trenches where they had gained a footing in our front and an artillery curtain of fire. "The communication closes with an account of the aeroplane activity, including a description of a fight between a German "two-seater" and a British "one-seater," resulting in the death of both German aviators and the destruction of the machine which fell from a height of 14,000 feet. Irish Repulse. Of the Irish regiments on Thursday, the communication says: "This morning at 5.10 o'clock the enemy discharged gas from trenches south of Hulloch and at the same time put artillery barrage on our line north of Loos. "At 7.30 a.m. a second gas cloud was released from about the same place, and after a heavy artillery bombardment the enemy gained a footing in our front and support lines east northeast of Loos. "A counter-attack by our Irish troops took place within half an hour and the enemy was driven out, leaving many dead in our trenches. "The enemy also advanced from trenches south of Hulloch, but this attack was nullified by our machine guns and many corpses were left in front of our trenches. A few Germans reached our lines, but were driven out. Two Hun Aircraft Fall. The communication also says: "At 11.30 a.m. two German aircraft during the day against our trenches about Carey, Souchez, Les Bredis and Poise 2 De Braquemont. "Yesterday there was much aerial activity, nineteen combats in the air taking place. The machine reported yesterday as having been brought down in our lines, was a two-seater. WORKMEN'S BOARDS IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Gathering at Columbus Heard Paper by Provincial Commissioner Kingston. Special to The Toronto World. COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 27.—At this afternoon's session of the industrial convention of Workmen's Compensation Boards, which is being held here this week in the senate chamber of the state capitol, Commissioner George A. Kingston of the Ontario Compensation Board presented a paper, showing by way of comparison the treatment of permanent partial disability cases under the various jurisdictions where workmen's compensation laws are in force. The convention, which has been presided over by Hon. Wallace D. Yaple, chairman of the Ohio Board, has been one of exceptional interest. It will conclude its session tomorrow night. The place of meeting next year, which will be decided tomorrow afternoon, will probably be Boston.

IRISH REBELLION IS TRAGIC FARCE

London Daily News So Comments and Assails Birrell's Critics. OTHER VIEWS DIFFER Express Demands That Kitchener Go to Ireland as Lord Lieutenant.

LONDON, April 27.—The London newspapers in commenting on the uprising in Ireland attach more significance to its political than to its military aspect. The Daily News calls it "a mere tragic farce, without hope, without intelligent aims, without any real driving power," and continues: "The military situation is no longer, if it ever was, even superficially serious. The real importance of the incident will be political, but silly attacks on Mr. Birrell (the Irish secretary) need not be taken too seriously." The Times thinks that the air of mystery thrown over the early stages of the rebellion by the government were unwise, and that they are likely to create a bad impression among neutrals, which the government is anxious to prevent. The Express makes a violent attack on the administration of Ireland. It demands the retirement of Evelyn Wilmshere, the lord lieutenant, and Mr. Birrell, adding in large type, "and Kitchener to Ireland as lord lieutenant."

CARNEGIE USED HIS AUTHORITY IN FUSE DEALS

Colonel Accepts Full Responsibility for Contracts Now Being Probred. REALLY BROKE FAITH Russell Company's Offer Set Aside—Admits High Prices Paid.

By a Staff Reporter. OTTAWA, April 27.—When the royal commission appointed to enquire into the Kite charges against the shell committee adjourned this afternoon, Col. David Carnegie was still upon the stand. Col. Carnegie was less glibly confident, but he boldly assumed the entire responsibility for several rather peculiar transactions. Under the patient and persistent probing of L. F. Helmuth, K.C., Col. Carnegie resumed the account of his mid-May visit to New York, which was interrupted by yesterday's adjournment. He admitted being told by Sir Courtney Bennett, the British consul-general at New York, that an order for fuses could be placed at $2.50, instead of $2.00, the price quoted by Basick, Yeakum and their associates. The Col., however, insists that the manufacturers recommended by the British consul-general to furnish fuses upon a percentage basis, and that the lowest flat rate they offered was $4.00 per fuse. Breach of Faith. Col. Carnegie was as happy defending his dealings with the Russell Motor Company. His testimony and the correspondence produced in evidence today showed beyond question that the Russell Company had been treated shabbily. The contract which the shell committee at no time intended to let, their pledge to the Russell Company respecting an order for 1,200,000 fuses, Col. Carnegie said he fulfilled his obligation for placing an order for 4,000,000 fuses in the United States. The more startling was some of the fuses contracts which were finally awarded to the two American companies. The concern in which Basick, Yeakum and Cadwell were interested seems to have had much better treatment than the Irish concern organized by Dr. John A. Harris. The Basick Company had agreed to manufacture 2,500,000 fuses, but got two thirds of the order changed to the grass fuses. For the grass fuses they got $4 apiece although the cost should not have exceeded $2.05. For whatever waste of public money occurred in this connection, Col. Carnegie declares himself to be alone responsible. The court room again was crowded, conspicuous among those in attendance being Sir Sam Hughes, Col. Allison and Geo. Kite. Col. Carnegie was throughout the day and seems to have recovered from his recent indisposition. The report adds: "Near Fitch our troops drove the enemy from a point of support and captured part of the troops defending the position. "On the Tyrol front the situation is unchanged." DAINTY SPRING FURS. Just Out of the Workrooms at Dineen's. A dainty Fur Seal or Tis is a very comfortable and stylish garment to have. Just now spring furs in gulle a craze in London, Paris and New York and is becoming quite popular in Toronto. WAR SUMMARY THE DAYS EVENTS REVIEWED

BLUDGEON work is perhaps the fittest term to apply to the present operations on the British front in Flanders, where great activity continues at various points, as emphasized yesterday by a successful raid carried out by the Bedfordshire Regiment near Carnoy. The Germans entered British trenches at Frelingheim and attacked British trenches on Hill 60 and at St. Eloi, where the Canadians hold the line, and they were repulsed at all these points. But what gives weight to the fighting is the heavy artillery pounding conducted at La Boiselle, Hebuterne, Monchy-au-Bois, Neuville St. Vaast, Armentieres and Frelingheim yesterday, and elsewhere on other days. No rest is allowed the Germans night or day. This fact stands out clear from the official reports and eye-witness accounts of deeds by the Canadians. By means of saps and mines, the British have pushed their advance lines almost on top of the German trenches, and they continue the exertion of greatly increased pressure against the enemy. Every now and then they give an additional thrust to the lever which will ultimately hoist the Germans out of the trenches, the lever of close range fire, trench mortar bombardments, mine explosions, bombing expeditions and short range fire from innumerable quick-firers and medium calibre guns. The news received from France last night indicates that the German attacks against the French positions north of Verdun and east of the Meuse have degenerated into manifestations of intentions to assault, for the French detected yesterday two such phenomena and they promptly threw out a curtain of fire. The Germans thereupon crouched down in their trenches and there was no attack. Something of the same nature occurred the night before. In direct contrast to its quietness before the Germans launched their great offensive against Verdun in February, the French aerial arm has developed great energy, as seen by the dropping of many bombs in the

You Were Inquiring?

"Spring Maid"—Though you were even Froeseper gathering flowers, "herod" a fairer flower." There are certain crepe and organdie airy and delectable enough for your consideration. Three in particular are of that odd gladiola pink you enclose—a very original white Georgette crepe—cross-barred with pink and patterned at intervals with stiff little blue flowers, priced $1.25 a yard; a delightful white organdie, flowered with pink roses, at $2.00 a yard; and a plain pink chiffon at $1.00 a yard. They are all 40 inches wide.

"Grateful"—Wouldn't you like plaster gray walls for the sunny living-room? Either the new "Stippl-tone," at 90 cents a roll, or Scotch oatmeal paper, at 17 cents, would achieve the effect. Each is 30 inches wide. With this you might have curtains of plain Persian blue, and an Oriental rug with some of the same blue intermingled with warm brown and amber. The sofa and arm-chairs might be covered in blue or brown, while the sofa pillows and the cushions on the willow chairs one would suggest some bold-patterned chintz in the prevailing tints of blue and brown, enlivened with green, yellow or Persian red. Soft buff-color walls with curtains and coverings of rose and green chintz should prove a happy treatment for the south drawing-room. And as for the dining-room, with its eastern outlook, one would suggest yellow wallpaper, with casement cloth curtains of tobacco brown. The use of a border depends on the height of the ceilings. If the latter are high it is advisable, otherwise run the paper to the top of the wall.

A. M. R.—Readings of appropriately patriotic flavor will be found in that little collection of verses called "Hearts of Gold." The poems are by well-known Canadian writers, treating of some heroic incident in the history of our country. The price of the booklet is 25 cents. "Grey Knitting," by Katharine Hale, would also add something worth while to your repertoire. It is similarly priced at 25 cents.

M. E. C.—White chinchilla cloth is one more available—36 inches wide and $1.50 and $2.00 a yard. Does that mean that one won't worry for you?

Eame—The bicycle will save the day. And, besides, you will only be anticipating the vogue for a revival of bicycling is apparent on all sides. And, by way of practical attraction, prices are only about a quarter of what they used to be. A lady's bicycle of reliable make, with Herzules coaster brake and comfortable saddle, is now procurable for $26.00. What will poor Dublin do when he finds his nose broken?

COL. CARNEGIE USED HIS OWN JUDGMENT

He Went Ahead With Contracts in Face of Warning Given.

PROPOSITION IGNORED

Russell Company Given Verbal Pledge Which Proved of No Value.

American companies disregarded the cable request of the British committee to make no contracts in the United States except thru or in co-operation with J. P. Morgan & Company, the "accredited agent" of the imperial government.

That General Hughes in replying to the cable above referred to in May, 1915, spoke of the committee as "my shell committee."

That the shell committee, having authority to place orders for 2,000,000 fuses, reserved one-fourth of the order for the Russell Motor Company, in which T. A. Russell and Lloyd Harris were interested.

That the Russell Company was in correspondence about the order and fully expected to get the same, some days after the contracts for the 5,000,000 fuses had been placed in the United States.

That when Russell and Harris telegraphed that they were coming to Ottawa to close the deal they were asked by the shell committee not to come for the present and the entire order for the 5,000,000 fuses was within the hour given to their American competitors.

That the Russell Company did not learn the truth for some days after that an effort was then made to place them by order for 2,000,000 fuses which was not accepted.

That the order for the 2,000,000 fuses was offered to the Russell Company without consultation with the British Government and upon the authority of General Hughes.

That the contract was contracted with the two American companies for 5,000,000 time fuses at $4.25 apiece, but later on had to pay $4.50 for the time fuses.

That one of the American companies, to wit, the International Arms and Ammunition Company, had 1,666,664 fuses of their 2,000,000 order changed from time fuses to graze fuses.

That the price for such graze fuses was fixed by Col. Carnegie at $4.25, while the value of time fuses in the United States at that time was only $3.05.

In the afternoon the commission was mainly occupied with the testimony of Col. Carnegie regarding the futile efforts of the Russell Company of Toronto to get a fuse contract, with his explanation of the terms which the American Ammunition Co. had the bulk of its order changed from time fuses to graze fuses.

Immediately after court convened for the afternoon, E. F. B. Johnston should be some understanding about subpoenaed witnesses. He desired subpoenas be issued for a number of persons in Canada, who would be called to Ottawa upon telegraphic notice. These people, however, should be paid for their attendance and reimbursed for their expenses.

"I haven't any money to pay them," Sir William Meredith observed, smilingly, "but perhaps counsel will be willing to advance the money."

Mr. Johnston suggested that possibly Mr. Hellmuth carried the bag. Mr. Hellmuth said he had no funds at his disposal, but he had spoken to the minister of justice upon the subject. He had no doubt but that the witnesses would be paid for their time and attendance. He would recommend some special provision in the case of expert witnesses, whose time was valuable.

T. A. Russell's Letters. Mr. Hellmuth then put in two letters addressed to the shell committee, to wit, the one dated May 26. These letters indicated that the Toronto concern was, even at that date, still counting upon getting contracts for the manufacture of 2,000,000 fuses. They asked for more specific information as to certain material used in the manufacture of fuses, such as silk paper and leather. They called attention to the fact that the specifications called for "delta metal," and asked if some other bronze could be used.

Mr. Hellmuth believed that the Russell Company must have been advised of the order. He asked the witness to explain how the Russell Company could have been led to believe that an order was coming to them when the shell committee had already placed orders for fuses in the United States for all the fuses required by the order they had from the British Government for five million completed shells.

"Honed for More Orders." Col. Carnegie said in reply that the shell committee was, at that time, urging the British Government to sanction their ordering additional fuses. In this connection the British shell committee to the British war office was read, suggesting that an order for three million fuses could be placed at $4.00. "A reply came back almost immediately directing them to take no steps in connection with the additional fuses for the present."

A little later in the afternoon, however, Col. Carnegie testified that, after consulting with the minister of militia, he had offered the Russell Company an order for 2,000,000 time fuses at $4.50. Col. Carnegie said that he had not consulted the British war office, but he had offered the Russell Company an order for 2,000,000 time fuses at $4.50. He pointed out that they would have to expend $150,000 in plant and machinery before they could undertake to load the fuses in Canada.

On June 1, T. A. Russell wrote Gen. Bertram, asking to have the order for 2,000,000 shells which had been promised them closed without delay, and saying that he and Lloyd Harris would come at once to Ottawa. Upon being notified that there was no hope for an order, the Russell Company wrote an indignant letter to the shell committee undated of June 1. In this letter they pointed out that they had the unequivocal promise of the shell committee to reserve for them one-fourth of the million fuses. Relying upon this the Russell Company had gone to considerable expense in collecting experts, visiting American manufacturers, making contracts with other companies and getting ready for the work. They were astonished and disappointed to learn that the entire order for 5,000,000 fuses had gone to two American firms.

Awarded in Hurry. In this connection Mr. Hellmuth directed Col. Carnegie's attention to some curious facts. For example, on May 20, the Russell Company had been told that they must hurry up and put in their quotations for the 1,250,000 fuses. On the very next day, May 21, a contract for 2,000,000 fuses had been awarded to an American company, although on that day the Russell Company had wired that they were making good progress and would soon submit their tender. On May 28 the Russell Company wired that they were ready to put in their tender and that Messrs. T. A. Russell and Lloyd Harris were starting for Ottawa. Upon that very day the shell committee awarded contracts for the entire five million shells to the American firms and, instead of telling the exact truth to the Russell Company, as well as the American firms, not to come to Ottawa for the present. All these facts were fully set forth in the letter from Mr. Russell above referred to.

Offered Small Consolation. Col. Carnegie said in reply that he personally took the responsibility for giving the entire order to American firms. He did not think the Russell Company had any experts in their line who could make the number of time fuses. He felt that in a way he had not kept faith with the Russell Company, and it was on that account that he had later on, he conferred with Gen. Hughes and offered them the contract for 200,000 fuses.

By this time it developed that the two American companies who got the contracts were the American Ammunition Company and the International Arms and Ammunition Company. The first was organized by Basick and the second by Dr. Harris. It came out later on that the Harris Company did not care as well as the one in which Basick and Cadwell were interested.

Commenting upon Col. Carnegie's declaration that the wire from the Russell Company received on May 26 had been brought to his attention after he had mailed, on the same day, the order to the two American companies, Mr. F. B. Carvell, M.P., sarcastically observed that it was a matter of minutes.

Authorized by Committee. Mr. Hellmuth then led the witness up to the actual execution of the contracts for the 5,000,000 fuses between the shell committee and the two American companies. The contracts, he said, were authorized at a meeting of the shell committee on June 15, 1915, at which Sir Alex. Bertram, Col. Benson, Col. Lafferty, Col. Carnegie, E. Carnegie, and Col. J. W. Borden were present. Lt.-Gen. Gwynne of the British army, who happened to be in Ottawa, was also invited to attend the meeting of the committee.

The minutes show that on that day Alex. F. Riddell was appointed financial supervisor by the committee and that his appointment was approved by the prime minister.

The report of Gen. Bertram was read detailing the agreements with the two American companies and certifying as to their financial responsibility. Thereupon the contracts which had been drafted by John F. Orde, K. C., were entered into. Gen. Bertram signed on behalf of the two American companies. The witness was not asked to explain the celebrated ratification clause signed by Sir Hugh Hughes.

The balance of the day was occupied in searching examination of the minutes respecting the changes in the contracts and prices fixed for the fuses. The original agreements had provided that both companies should make both time fuses and the graze fuses at the uniform price of $4.25. The contract, as finally executed required the Harris Company (The International Arms and Ammunition Company) to manufacture 2,500,000 time fuses at $4.50 per fuse. The other concern, however, got an order for 1,666,664 graze fuses at $4.00 apiece. The balance of their 2,600,000 order was for time fuses at $4.50.

Change in Specifications. Explaining the advance in the contract price of time fuses from $4.25 to $4.50, Col. Carnegie justified it by saying that there had been a sharp advance in the prices of copper and zinc in the spring of 1915. He said the price of $4.50 for a time fuse was not unreasonable because the same kind of fuse at that time cost $3.75 to $4 in England, where labor and material were cheaper.

Mr. Hellmuth desired to know how the price of $4 apiece for the graze fuses was reached. The witness said that he had fixed the price himself by estimation.

Mr. Hellmuth: Were they making these graze fuses at that time in the United States?

Col. Carnegie: Yes, but unloaded.

Mr. Hellmuth: What would be the difference in cost between a loaded and an unloaded graze fuse?

Col. Carnegie: About 30 cents.

Made No Enquiries. Mr. Hellmuth: Did you make any effort to learn that was being paid for unloaded graze fuses in the United States at that time?

Col. Carnegie replied in the negative. He said he might have learned by applying to J. P. Morgan & Co., but the shell committee had never gone to the Morgan Company for any information.

Mr. Hellmuth then wanted to know how on earth the witness was able to fix the price for the graze fuse, and Col. Carnegie's reply was characteristic.

"I am an expert," he said, "and I relied on my own judgment. No other member of the shell committee had the information upon which to base any judgment. I had to fix the price and I did so. And I take the entire responsibility."

Asked for His Error. Sir William Meredith: Have you lost any of your self-confidence since that time?

Col. Carnegie: Yes, I know now that lower prices were being paid at that time for similar fuses in the United States.

Upon further questioning by Mr. Hellmuth, Col. Carnegie admitted that the United States price at that time was $2.50 or about one-half the price he had fixed for their American Ammunition Company. He added that $2,000,000 brass fuses in seven months delivered at that time in the United States, but $1.75 was paid for the unloaded fuses.

Uninsured Newspaper. Just before the commission adjourned Hon. Wallace Nesbitt complained that The Ottawa Free Press, in its report of this morning's sitting, had represented Mr. Hellmuth as saying that he would "choke" the witness unless he answered promptly.

"Evidently a misprint," Sir William Meredith commented.

Mr. Nesbitt, knowing that The Free Press is a Liberal paper, argued that a deliberate misrepresentation was intended.

But as The Free Press has always been a strong partisan of the shell committee and has repeatedly rebuked Dr. Fuglesby and F. B. Carvell, M.P., for assailing the same, the witness had in the court room smiled broadly at Mr. Nesbitt's vehemence. To his suggestion that Mr. Hellmuth's reputation would be injured by the publication, the latter rejoined that his reputation as a good-natured man was too well established.

Mr. Nesbitt then turned and addressed the newspaper men present, urging them to expose The Free Press and its parasitism. The newspaper men and nearly all present who knew the local situation were convulsed with laughter.

The royal commission finally terminated a somewhat amusing scene by adjourning the further hearing of testimony until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Offer of Harris. At the morning session, Col. David Carnegie agreed to stand and gave further details of steps he had taken to fill fuse orders given the British Government by the Canadian Manufacturing and Contracting Co. Mr. Harris offered to make fuses for $4.00 and $5.00 at the rate of 4000 a day, providing his machinery cost $6.75 for the first 30,000, to be paid as each 5000 was finished.

Sir Courtney's Efforts. Col. Carnegie then told how Sir Courtney Bennett, British consul-general at New York, introduced him to a Mr. Dowler, who in turn introduced him to the Canadian Manufacturing and Contracting Co. Sir Courtney Bennett, British consul-general at New York, introduced him to a Mr. Dowler, who in turn introduced him to the Canadian Manufacturing and Contracting Co.

While in the United States at that time, May 14, 1915, he went over the plant of Burns & Basick at Bridge-water. Later he met Messrs. Basick, Youkum and Chance as reference to fuses. Col. Allison was not present. He also saw a Mr. Oliver, who was a sub-contractor on a Russian shell order of the Canadian Manufacturing and Foundry Company who undertook to attempt to get a promise from Senator Curry to work on the British contract.

Mr. Hellmuth asked Col. Carnegie if the British consul-general discussed prices with him and the witness said the price favored was around $4.50.

Russell Company's Negotiations. Mr. Hellmuth mentioned that the negotiations with the Russell Motor Company in reference to fuses and contracts afterwards were not technically a subject germane to that investigation. Lt.-Gen. Gwynne was asked to see if they could throw any light as to prices on the contracts being entered into.

A letter from T. A. Russell of the Russell Motor Company, to General Bertram of the shell committee was then read. Messrs. Youkum and Basick had been in touch with American manufacturers about fuses and was anxious to know what volume of business could be certified to the British Government. This letter was written May 1. The answer to this letter was sent on May 10, the delay being caused, Col. Carnegie said, by his absence in New York.

Given Encouragement. Col. Carnegie testified with Mr. Russell and Lloyd Harris in Ottawa and supplied them with all the information he could about fuse manufacturing. Messrs. Harris and Russell knew of the British fuse contract.

General Bertram invited Mr. Russell in a letter to forward his fuse proposition and supplied him with blue prints of a time fuse.

A conference between Messrs. Harris and Russell took place later in Montreal. Col. Carnegie's recollection of the conversations was that the Russell Company was looking for assistance in the U. S. Mr. Russell wrote later asking the colonel if he could give him an introduction to the Scoville Company in the U. S., or any information which would lead to the much needed fuse.

Col. Carnegie said he thought the Russell Company had heard that the Scoville Company was the only concern in the United States who had government plants, making an $5 fuse. He had discussed a contract with Mr. Russell because the shell committee was anxious to get the fuses made in Canada. The committee had the order from the war office at a difficult time.

Mr. Hellmuth asked Col. Carnegie to try to be brief in his explanations and further asked if prices were discussed with Mr. Russell. Col. Carnegie said: "I am not sure."

On May 19 Col. Carnegie notified Mr. Regan that the shell committee could not come to Ottawa and his colleagues a contract because the price was not right, the figure finally asked for 30 fuses being $4.00, whereas Mr. Regan had offered $3.50 or $3.75.

Mr. Hellmuth then put in the records of a letter from Gen. Bertram to the Basick Company of Bridgewater, Conn., dated May 21, instructing it that an order of 3,000,000 fuses of $5, 40 modified and 80 and 44 types, would be granted to it at a price of $4.25 per fuse, the terms of payment to be on lines discussed.

Mr. Hellmuth asked Col. Carnegie to give details of the meeting at which payment was discussed. The witness said Messrs. Youkum and Basick had interviewed him in Ottawa and Montreal. He had also seen the plants in the United States to be used by the commission of concerns represented by these gentlemen—the Remington factory and the plant of Mr. Glidcock, who was to load the fuses.

A letter to the Russell Company from Col. Carnegie on May 19 indicated that the Scoville Company could not help in the manufacture of the British order.

Russell Company Wired. The Russell Company on the same day wired the shell committee that it had arranged to manufacture the remainder of the fuse work to be done in Canada, and had been in communication with British experts who would assist in the manufacture of the fuses. The price would be $4.00.

Col. Carnegie explained that the companies Mr. Regan represented were much behind in the Russian orders they had taken.

On May 25 the war office cabled a report that the shell committee had let an order for 5,000,000 fuses to an agent in the United States, who was trying to sublet it to munitions contractors. The war office complained that this might interfere with the carrying out of existing contracts and contended that any orders let to the United States companies must be placed thru Morgan & Co.

Reduced Basick Contract. The same day Gen. Bertram telegraphed Mr. Basick reducing his fuse contract to 2,500,000 and urging speed in making the fuses.

Col. Carnegie explained the reduction by stating that Dr. Harris' contract was increased from 3,000,000 to 2,500,000. This concern's price was also $4.25 per fuse. This was done because the Harris firm was anxious to close options on a large amount of machinery.

Mr. Hellmuth wanted to know about the Harris contract, and asked for a copy of it, and Col. Carnegie said the original arrangement for the 5,000,000 fuses was made in a letter of May 21. On May 25 General Bertram sent a letter to the International Arms and Ammunition Co., in which Dr. Harris was interested, similar to the message to Mr. Basick on May 21.

Reduced Basick Contract. The same day Gen. Bertram telegraphed Mr. Basick reducing his fuse contract to 2,500,000 and urging speed in making the fuses.

Col. Carnegie explained the reduction by stating that Dr. Harris' contract was increased from 3,000,000 to 2,500,000. This concern's price was also $4.25 per fuse. This was done because the Harris firm was anxious to close options on a large amount of machinery.

Mr. Hellmuth wanted to know about the Harris contract, and asked for a copy of it, and Col. Carnegie said the original arrangement for the 5,000,000 fuses was made in a letter of May 21. On May 25 General Bertram sent a letter to the International Arms and Ammunition Co., in which Dr. Harris was interested, similar to the message to Mr. Basick on May 21.

Mayor Abandons Pay as You Go Policy

It will be regretted that the mayor and the board of control decided to play politics with the tax rate rather than stick to finance. Frustrating over till next year should be paid this year is not the way to get Toronto out of the hole.

It is the old vicious system in operation once more, piling up the debt of the city instead of paying as we go and bringing the taxpayers to a realization of the need for good government.

The mayor and his supporters have been telling us that the big tax rate last year was the result of previous administrations having postponed the payments which they should have taken up.

There has been no complaint about the taxes except among the very rich, who always object to pay taxes, but there is decided objection among small property holders to the constant increase of the municipal debt, which imposes a burden upon the small property holder which the wealthy citizen without much real estate manages to escape.

Of course those who are after political capital and nothing else will be disappointed at Sir Edward Carson's ready co-operation with Mr. Redmond in support of the British authority.

Ecclesiastical Silence May Prove Serious, Says Rev. G. Corbett

Believes Disturbances Come From Men Actuated by Selfish Aims.

From Montreal Gazette, Wednesday, April 26.

Rev. George Corbett, pastor of St. Columban's, Cornwall, and vicar-general of the diocese of Alexandria, has written the following letter to the Archbishop of Kingston, treating the school difficulties in Ontario:

To the Most Rev. M. J. Spratt, D.D., Archbishop of Kingston:

Your Grace: Kingston is the oldest see in Ontario. Just ninety years ago Kingston came out of the womb of Quebec. I trust therefore that it will not be presumptuous for me to address to its chief pastor my views on the "language unpleasantness."

The silence observed by ecclesiastical authorities in Ontario in face of the prolonged strife over this language question may not prove to be the wisest course for the Catholic cause.

I am fully convinced that the French-Canadians might have all the advantages of the separate schools if they went on peacefully with the schools. Intelligent Catholic gentlemen of the laity in Ontario, both Liberal and Conservative, inform me that the disturbance comes from men actuated by selfishness and political aims. No doubt many influences by them do not understand this. I do not believe that the priests who, according to newspaper reports, directed the faithful to insist on the separate school law, understood the separate school law or the seriousness of their act.

They cannot have been aware that they were directing the faithful to violate a provision of the Roman Catholic School Act, which was accepted and sanctioned by the prelates of the Upper and Lower Canada. Had they succeeded in doing away with government inspection they would have lost the keys of the archbishopric which supports our right to separate schools in Ontario. Without this provision there would have been no real peace and no real unity.

After the death of Bishop Alexander McDonnell, in 1840, the Catholic schools for which he had received royal sanction and which had become the basis of the legislation in the British North America Act that secured to the

NEW YORK, April 27.—A spirited demand for the more prominent railways which doubtless bore some relation to yesterday's favorable dividend action by the directors of the Norfolk and Western road, was a factor of considerable importance in today's active and strong market.

BULLISH SENTIMENT IN COBALT ISSUES

Big Jump in Silver Having Effect on Silver Stocks—Gains General.

It begins to look as if the mining market was away on another general upward swing, judging from appearances in the Cobalt section, where a change yesterday. The further seasonal advance in silver of almost two cents per ounce to 69, which is practically 14 cents an ounce higher than it was at the beginning of the year, gave the market a boost, especially in the Cobalt section, where the silver producing companies will get the benefit directly. The Porcupines are also helped, but in a more indirect manner.

The jump in silver brought in a larger amount of buying than for some time, and investors stated they were unable to execute all their orders on account of the quick advance in prices that is brought about by buying of strength. The public also seems to be awakening to the possibilities offered by the Cobalt stocks, and all things combined to make a pretty heavy day's trading, sales amounting to over $3,000,000.

As was only natural in view of the general demand, the silver stocks were uniformly strong and several important advances were made. In the Cobalt section Adanac was again a feature of strength, opening at 56 and selling up 2 1/2 points to 58 1/2, where it closed. This issue is evidently coming in for considerable popularity, particularly in the States. Adanac has certainly got off to a good start, sales yesterday totaling around 13,000 shares. This was the second day that the stock had been listed on the exchange.

Timiskaming was also in urgent demand. It opened at 68, sold up to 70 and closed at 69 1/2. Sales amounted to over 15,000 shares. Apparently with silver up to its present level and scheduled to soar still higher, this stock is being sought strongly by investors, as its reserves are reported to be large and its prospects particularly bright.

There was a strong demand for Conligas, which sold up 15 points after opening at $4.55. It closed at 6.25, selling around $7.50 all day. Kerr Lake changed hands at $4.55. Crown Reserve had an advance of three points, opening at 51 and selling up to 54.

La Rose was the outstanding feature, opening three points up at 63 and closing at 71. A small lot of the close chattered. Sales amounted to $10,000. Kinley-Darragh was in strong demand, opening at 59 and selling up 2 1/4, closing at 61 1/4. The stock displayed strength along with the rest, going up to 41 1/2.

In the smaller issues, Bailey showed considerable activity, selling from 7 1/2 to 8 3/4. Chambers-Perland, sold between 24 and 27. Foster held at 9. Trading in the Cobalt section rather overshadowed proceedings in the Porcupines, and only a small proportion of the total business was transacted in the gold stocks. Dome Extension sold between 36 1/2 and 37 1/2. Big Dome was quiet, selling from $25.50 to $25.25. Holly held at $28.50 for an old lot. Jupiter was traded in at 67 and Vipond advanced fractionally from 1 1/2 to 1 3/8. West Dome Consolidated was traded in at 23 to 23 1/2.

DOMESTIC STOCKS ARE STEADILY FIRMER

Steamships and Steel Issues in Best Demand—Listed Cobalts Are Also Higher.

Greater activity and buoyancy on Wall Street lent no special assistance to the Toronto Stock Exchange yesterday. Prices here were firm, but outside of this there was no feature. Steamships and steel stocks were firm at a small advance. The Dominion Steel statement, which is the last of the steels to report, will be out shortly, and much interest is attached to the same. It is known that the company has had an excellent year and has materially improved its financial position. It is expected the company will show over 35 per cent. earned on the coming stock. Some of the listed mining shares were stronger, with most attention paid to the Cobalt issues.

At the close of the morning session of the Standard Stock Exchange yesterday the presentation of a pair of binoculars and a wrist watch was made to Captain H. B. Smith, a member of the exchange, who left his brokerage business to go overseas with the 137th York Rangers. Mr. Dave Lorsch, in presenting the gifts, which he said were tokens of the esteem of the members, wished the recipient a quick and safe return. Captain Smith made a fitting reply.

The pumps have been taken out and the underground workings of the Seneca Superior are filling up with water. After a short but spectacular career during which the company paid a total of 22 1/2 per cent. on the issued capital, which meant a disbursement of $1,296,524.40, the company has mined 120 feet of lead ground obtained from Peteron Lake and unless a decision is made to take over and operate other properties will in all probability wind up its affairs.

Another new vein was cut on the Chambers-Perland at the 460-foot level and the Cobalt Nugget is the second discovery made on the property within a week. About nine feet of drifting has been done on the vein found last week and the values and width have in that distance been fully maintained. The width is about 10 to 15 inches and the ore will run as high as 2,500 ounces to the ton. In the latest vein the width is approximately 2 inches. The latter vein contains values and is not without promise.

One of the difficulties with which prospectors in Arizona have to contend is illustrated by the account in a western mining journal of the narrow escape from lead of a representative of the Copper Queen Mining Company, who was bitten by a rattlesnake. It was only by prompt medical treatment that the man's life was saved. The victim was delirious shortly after being bitten and it took several hours' work on the part of a physician before he was out of danger.

WHEAT EASED OFF BY GOOD WEATHER

Chicago Market Closes Lower on Change Favoring Seeding.

INSURANCE GOES UP

Prospect of Competition From Canada and Australia Has Effect.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Bright, warmer weather promised for the northwest, with storms and cold had greatly interfered with seeding, was influential today in easing down the wheat market. Accordingly prices were unsettled at the close, were 1/2 to 3/4 net lower. Corn lost 1/2 to 3/4 and oats 1/4 to 1/2. Provisions finished irregular, ranging from 1/2 to 1/4. At first wheat showed a moderate advance owing to some renewal of optimism concerning the prospect of a better harvest. The market was also buoyantly affected by the current estimates of heavily diminished acreage both in the states as well as in the winter crop trade. However, however, advice to cause a bearish reaction. Weakness did not become pronounced, but until after 11 o'clock, when the market opened, it was in full swing from now on, upon both sides of the Canadian line.

Increases in war risk insurance on the Atlantic tended to emphasize sentiment against the bulls during the last part of the session. It was also noted that the Greek Government had purchased 1,000,000 bushels, and that some other 1,000,000 bushels had been done, acted only as an offset in part for the late downward trend of prices.

Favorable weather for germinating and growth pulled down prices in the oats trade. Receipts of wheat from the holders of the May option continued. Provisions averaged higher on account of speculative buying and selling. Profit-taking, which resulted from the heavy, led to some profit-taking at the top level of the day.

Testimony:

"A Supreme Court judge of the United States, when appointing a trust company recently to act jointly with an individual in the management of an estate, said: 'Because the estate is so large, I deem it necessary to join with him in its management a responsible trust company.' 'The practice now seems to be uniform among men of large properties to designate a trust company as one of their executors.'"

"But it is not only large estates which can usefully employ the services of our trust companies. Only last week a Canadian Trust Company manager pointed out that they were handling estates ranging from the humble estate of the homesteader to the wealthy estates of business and professional men."

SILVER NOW THE HIGHEST PRICE IN COBALT'S HISTORY

The silver production of Cobalt in 1915 was 28,888,913 ounces, and the average price for silver for the year was 49.6 cents an ounce. Yesterday silver rose to 69 cents in New York, an advance of 1 3/4 cents an ounce over night. The average price of silver for 1916 is admitted to run well above 70 cents, but if only 70 cents is allowed the return to Cobalt companies this year will be $2,750,000 above that of the previous year. This is, of course, admitting only a like production, but as the output was curtailed because of lower silver values in 1915, it is fair to assume that the production this year will be much larger. In the palmy days of the early Cobalt, the high prices for silver was less than 67 cents an ounce, and some comparison of stock values of the shipping companies might be drawn therefrom.

Yesterday was perhaps the first day that investors in silver stocks showed a disposition to review the new order of conditions. Timiskaming, which had slowly advanced to 67 cents, made a sudden jump to 70 cents. La Rose, however, made a significant rise of 17 points from 60 to 77. New York reports that it is very difficult to get prices set for future deliveries of silver, and any present offerings are being bought by speculating investors who prefer to buy the white metal to hold rather than other commodities or securities. Wall street is taking a livelier interest in Cobalt stocks than for several years, and brokers there are predicting 110 for Conligas; 16 1/2 for Kerr Lake; $25.00 Buffalo; $12.25 Timiskaming; McKinley; $11; Beaver; and Peteron Lake 40 cents. These look to be big advances from present prices, but if a speculation similar to that in copper and munition shares should follow, the suggested advances will appear small during the boom.

NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

CONVOCATION AT TRINITY COLLEGE

Dr. Worrell Delivered Chancellor's Address to Divinity Students.

HONORARY DEGREES

Conferred Upon Very Rev. D. T. Owen and Right Rev. F. DuMoulin.

Chancellor Worrell presided at the convocation in divinity at Trinity College yesterday afternoon.

"Convocation" was quieter than in previous years, showing that the ravages of war had extended its influences to the very doors of the college, and even the speeches were dispensed to refer time and time again to the great contest being waged between "right" and "wrong."

The program opened with prayer, conducted by the dean of arts, Prof. Duckworth. Dr. Worrell delivered the chancellor's address, in which brief reference was made to the prevailing conditions and the life duties of the men just about to say farewell to Trinity.

Dr. Boyle, dean of divinity, presented the prizes and testimonials to Rev. R. W. Gooding, Rev. W. E. Turner and F. M. Brunton, S. Childs, A. T. Lawson and E. J. Leake. The theological certificates for speeches and essays throughout the year were presented by Dr. Boyle to Rev. W. E. Turner, and the honorary degrees of D.D. were conferred upon the Very Rev. Darwyn T. Owen, dean of Niagara, and Right Rev. Frank DuMoulin, bishop coadjutor of Ohio.

Opportunities of the Present. The latter spoke at some length on the great opportunities which the present time presents to the men entering into this vocation, the most comprehensive form of service to humanity.

Following the addresses, Provost Macklem of Trinity College, on behalf of the chancellor and corporation, presented to Dr. Boyle, dean of divinity for the past six years, a testimonial, expressing the admiration and appreciation of the college and hearty good wishes for his future success. Dr. Boyle has recently been appointed principal of King's College, Windsor, N.S., the oldest university of the church in Canada. A handsome plate was given as a memento of regard for Dr. Boyle and Mrs. Boyle. After the ceremonies the guests were entertained at tea in the college hall.

If you intend to use hens for hatching, set them in a dry place where the ventilation is good.

If you do not intend to use hens for hatching, break them up at once and get them to laying again. A good way to break up a broody hen is to put her in a light, airy coop with a wire or slat bottom that you can hang up. This permits free circulation of air, and as it blows up thru the fluff it reduces the fever which is in their blood at this time.

This is the month to get out your winter layers.

If you have windows in the hen-house, keep them clean, as the hens need all the sunlight they can get these days.

Hens suffer from a damp hen-house, so it is well to keep the floor covered with litter.

Be sure to keep plenty of fresh water before the hens. A great amount of water is used to form the egg.

Put your thinking cap on and don't let other work crowd out the chicks. Let the poultry have a share of the four milk.

If you have not had the nerve to use the open front house during the winter, you had better begin now by removing the windows on the south side.

Eggs from hens that have made a fair show in laying this winter will be more fertile than those that did heavy laying.

Keep a flock of hens, a good cow or two, prepare for a good garden this year, and you won't have to complain of the high cost of living.

There never will be too many good poultrymen, but we can strive to be among the best.

CASTOR SHADES POPULAR

There is a pronounced revival this spring of the castor shades in fabrics, shoes and gloves. This color has not been worn to any extent for several seasons, but at the moment it is preferred to the taupe and gray which were first advanced. Glace kid gloves and shoes in the castor shade are late, but welcome comers to the shops.

SYMBOLISM OF CHURCH IS INTERESTING ADDRESS

St. Joseph's College Alumnae and Friends Appreciate Rev. Mr. McCann's Talk.

Members of St. Joseph's College Alumnae Association, together with the pupils and staff of the house, formed the audience in the college auditorium Wednesday night, when Rev. W. A. McCann, introduced by Mrs. Ambrose Small, president of St. Joseph's Alumnae, gave a charming and informing address on the "Symbolism of the Church."

The speaker showed that symbolism is natural to man in everyday life, and was practiced as a necessity by the early Christians, as a protection against the ridicule of the pagan world, by which they were surrounded.

A musical program was given by pupils of the school and by Miss Evelyn O'Donoghue and Mrs. O'Donoghue. A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Miss M. L. Hart, seconded by Miss Cecilia O'Connell.

NO MISTAKING HIM. When Bobby first went to school, writes a contributor to The Chicago Tribune, he said the teacher could not tell which was he and which was another boy, because they looked much alike. "I don't see why she can't tell which is me," he remarked. "Can't she see I'm Scotch?"

THE BEST FIRM. A pretty good firm is "Watch and Wattle." And another is "Attie, Early and Latte." And still another is "Doo and Dalrot." But the best is probably "Orin and Barrett." —Walter G. Doty.

ST. MICHAEL'S ALUMNAE HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Nurses of Hospital at Front Remembered by Alma Mater—Officers Elected.

Business and pleasure were charmingly combined at the annual meeting of St. Michael's Hospital Alumnae Association, which took place in the assembly hall of the hospital.

The ten nurses sent overseas were all remembered at Christmas by gifts from their alma mater.

Among the guests present were representatives from the executives of the General Hospital, Sick Children's Hospital, Grace Hospital, the Western and Wellesley Hospitals.

The elections resulted as follows:—President, Miss Edith Stubberfield; 1st vice-president, Miss May Pamer; 2nd vice-president, Miss A. B. Long; 3rd vice-president, Miss Gertrude Gibson; recording secretary, Miss M. Clancy; corresponding secretary, Miss M. Connor; treasurer, Miss Hinchey; directors, the Misses M. Goodwin, Kelly and Hurley; representatives on The Canadian Nurse, Miss Foy; representative on The Central Registrar, Miss M. Cahill; representative on Sick Benefit Fund, Miss J. B. O'Connor.

A TREASURED DOLL. Mrs. Adeline Patti still prizes an ancient doll which was presented to her at her first public appearance in New York City. The great singer was then a very little girl, but not too small to sing "Comin' Thru the Rye," in such a way as to charm her hearers.

CONSIDER CAMPAIGN FOR WOMEN'S HOSPITAL

Need of Room Emphasized in Women's College Hospital and Dispensary.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS

Institution Began in Small Rent-apartment—Ninety Thousand Dollar Building.

Representatives from many organizations, as well as individuals interested, attended the mass meeting of women called yesterday afternoon at the Central Y. M. C. A. Building, to consider the proposed campaign in the interests of the Women's College Hospital and Dispensary.

Mrs. A. Rutherford was in the chair and the medical profession was well in evidence, with enthusiasm for the work in hand. Dr. Jennie Gray, who had attended the first patient in the first women's clinic held in Toronto, outlined the origin and growth of the movement, which had developed into the present hospital on Rusholme road, which is exclusively for women and altogether managed by a women's staff. Dr. Gray told of the first rooms, lent by a mission, corner of Sackville and St. David streets, of her removal to 18 Seaton street, then, as business is done, quarters for a dispensary in the basement of the Women's Medical College. The need for a women's hospital became every day more apparent and, finally, the building on Rusholme road was secured. Here there are 22 beds with government and civic grants, but demands for entrance far outreach the accommodation.

Reasons for Campaign. Mrs. Rutherford outlined the reasons upon which the campaign had been decided, the needs of the city and the demand and desire of many women for the attendance of women physicians, being the principal.

The speaker told the audience that an arch-angel had been employed to draft a new wing, which, with furnishing, would cost $90,000. Another $90,000 for the needs of the existing building means $180,000 in all. This amount the city will be asked to give on May 10, 11 and 12.

To organize the campaign A. M. Miller had been lent by the Patriotic Fund organization. He told the women that the things which spell success for the campaign are, first, the need; second, co-operation of women's forces, and, lastly, publicity.

Mrs. Jean Blawett gave a delightful address on the inspiration that comes from ideals rightly visualized, and Mrs. A. M. Huestis, as team-captain, asked those present to go into the matter warmly and fill in the cards with the volunteer assistance they might give.

On behalf of the Daughters of the Empire, Mrs. S. Wilson, regent of the Municipal Chapter, promised all aid possible.

Expressions of regret at not being able to be present were read from Lady Hendrie, Mrs. Hearst and others by the vice-president of the Hospital Board, Mrs. Torrington, Lady Eaton, who is convener of the campaign, was out of town, but is enthusiastic in the cause.

HOW TO CHOOSE EGGS. Put the hand around the egg and hold up to the light the end which is not covered. It should be transparent. If tiny spots are detected, the egg is not fresh, but may be good for all ordinary purposes except boiling soft. If there is a large spot near the shell, the egg should not be used on any account.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

By ADELE GARRISON

How Mrs. Underwood Met Dicky.

THE crackling of the logs in Lillian Underwood's library grate, was the only sound to be heard for many minutes after she had told me of the little daughter who had been so cruelly shut away from her life.

With her elbow resting on the arm of her chair, her chin cupped in her hand, her whole body leaning toward the warmth of the fire she sat gazing into the leaping flames as if she were trying to read in them the riddle of the future.

I patiently waited on her mood. That she would open her heart to the further I knew, but I did not wish to disturb her with either word or movement.

"I know you would be like this," she said at last. "Almost any other woman would have gone off on an emotional tangent over this story of mine, especially when it is so concerning her—

But you know enough to keep still when you see a situation that no words can help. It's a rare gift, my dear, cherish it."

My face flushed with pleasure at her words of praise but my only answer was a low, sincere "thank you," at which she nodded and fell silent again.

"I might as well begin at the beginning," there was a note in her voice that all at once made me see the long years of suffering which had befallen her. "Only the beginning is so commonplace that it lacks interest. It is the record of a very mediocre stenographer with aspirations."

That she was speaking of herself her eyes told me, but I was genuinely surprised. Mrs. Underwood was the last woman in the world one would picture as holding down a stenographer's position.

They Met in Paris.

"I can't remember when I didn't have the back of my brain the idea of earning to draw," she went on, "but it took years and years of uphill work and saving to get a chance to be an orphan, with nobody to care whether I lived or died and nothing but my own efforts to depend on. But I stuck to it, working in daytime at studying evenings and holidays till at last I began to get a foothold, and then when I had enough put by to risk it I went to Paris."

Her voice was as matter of fact as if she were describing a visit to the family butcher shop. But I visualized the busy, plucky years with their roars of Paris as if I had been a spectator of them.

"Of course, by the time I got there I was almost old enough to be the mother of, at least, the elder sister of most of the boys and girls I met, and I had learned life and experience in a good, hard school. Some of the youngsters got the habit of coming to me with all their troubles, fancied or real. I made some staunch friends in those days, but never a stauncher, truer one than Dicky Graham."

I started in surprise. Dicky had told me of his studies in Paris and of the way he had come to me, but I had never mentioned Mrs. Underwood as having been one of his circle. As I thought of it, I remembered that Dicky had said that Mrs. Underwood was a "bully good scout" and that she had said very little about her to me.

Mrs. Underwood saw the movement. She turned and put her hand on mine, smiling half-humorously, half-tenderly.

"Tell me, dear girl, when you were teaching those history classes, did any of your pupils fall in love with you?"

I answered her with an embarrassed smile. Her question called up memories of shy glances, gifts of flowers and fruit, boyish confidences—all the things which fall to the lot of any teacher of boys.

"Well, then, you will understand me when I tell you that in the studio days in Paris Dicky imagined himself quite in love with me."

There was something in her tone and manner which took all the sting out of her words for me. All the jealous and real concerns which I had spent on the old attachment of my husband's for Mrs. Underwood vanished as I listened to her. I saw the young girl, the mother, speaking of his early and in-judicious fondness for green apples.

"I managed Dicky as I managed the way I managed Dicky. It was a case like that if you see a genuinely fond of Dicky, and yet not the least bit in love with him, and I was able, without his guessing it, to keep the management of the affair in my own hands. So when he woke up, as boys always do, to the absurdity of the idea, there was nothing in his recollections of me to spoil our friendship."

"For offence and defence."

"Then there came the early days of struggle to get a foothold in New York in my line. There were thousands of others like me. Six or seven of the strugglers had been my friends in Paris. We formed a sort of circle. The doors are near the kitchen cabinet, so butter, eggs and articles needed for baking are right at hand. When preparing meals it is only a few steps from the stove and table.

MRS. E. H. S.

THE cry of the hour is—PREPAREDNESS. Even the tried-maxim, "Never put off till tomorrow the things you should do today," has given place to a newer command, "Prepare today for what tomorrow may bring." And it's not merely in the preparing against war that the new phrase is used—with equal power it applies to peace and EVERY activity of life—even of love.

So my lady of the picture gathers about her the implements of conquest.

Still on the threshold of Spring, she prepares for Summer. Out from their resting places come tennis rackets, golf sticks, a fishing pole, creel and camera, a paddle for her own canoe, a "fetching" outdoor hat, a coquettish parasol—ALL the things that life and love need in the warmer days. And, to COMPLETE her preparedness, she dips into Cupid's lore and then into the mirror. 'Tis THERE that she finds her greatest incentive—her CERTAINTY of success.

Raising Chicks Artificially

THERE is no mystery connected with raising chicks successfully in a brooder, even the some breeders seem to experience trouble if you will trace the matter up, however, nine out of ten times you will find that the cause is in the manner of conducting the brooding operations and not with the machine itself.

A well constructed brooder, properly looked after will give you results equally as good as could be obtained by using heat, and with less time and trouble. To insure the best of success in using the brooder, you must give careful thought to the following requirements: Lots of room, comfortable, properly heated interior, ventilation and proper food and care.

Never put so many chicks in one brooder that they will lack the room necessary for exercise. If the brooder is not a large one it is better to use two brooders putting half in each. Never allow more than fifty chicks in one brooder. Less than this, preferably about twenty-five, will give far better results.

Heating by contact is the best method of raising the chicks. This method provides heat as nature intended, and good results are produced. Bottom heat should never be used. The floor of the brooder should not be very warm. Leg weakness is one of the direct results of applying bottom heat.

A light, warm cloth, loosely suspended inside the brooder, so that when the chicks enter their backs will come in contact with the warm cloth, will keep them comfortable and happy. As the pipes are above the cloth the hot air will filter thru and provide the necessary warmth.

Have everything in readiness before transferring the chicks from the incubator to the brooder. The brooder should be properly heated a day or two in advance so that there is no likelihood of the chicks becoming chilled. Keep the chicks confined closely the first few days, as they will need considerable heat during this time.

Should they wander away from the brooder they will probably get chilled before they can get back, hence the necessity of keeping them confined under the hover. As they will need no food for forty-eight hours they will not suffer.

On the contrary, this close brooding the first few days will tend to keep them quiet and strengthen them for their hardships later. Water, however, should be provided from the first day and should be given with the chill off.

FAMOUS IRISH ROSES FROM VALE OF AVOCA

Lovers of Gardening Can Obtain Bushes at Reasonable Prices.

Every lover of gardening has admired the beautiful plants and flowers grown in the Vale of Avoca at Moore Park, but the celebrated Gold Medal Irish rose bushes have attracted most attention. Now is the time to plant roses, and some of the bushes from the gardens at Moore Park can be obtained at reasonable prices from R. B. Rice & Sons, 60 Victoria Street, or from W. Taxton at the Lodge, Moore Park. These bushes are well grown, fully acclimatized and will bloom from June until November.

An Easily Kept Kitchen Floor

When we built our new home we had quarter-sawn lumber laid for the kitchen floor and treated with a coat of hot linseed oil. Then I went over it with a good coat of floor varnish. I sewed rags together and had the rugs made about two yards long and covered the parts of the floor most used.

I pour a little coal oil on an old soft mop and wipe up the dust and dust from the exposed part of the floor; if any of the rugs are soiled I gather them up carefully and shake them. I never use a broom and have to wash the floor with a little clear water only about once a month.

I scrub the rugs by placing them on the floor and using scrubbing brush and then hanging them on the line and rinsing with the hose.

MRS. C. F. B.

and year, and the more of these sturdy slips you can coax your tree to send up the more bloom will you obtain. Next spring the yellow bells will deck each trailing slip from the highest tip down to the very ground.

You may break off whole armfuls of the blossomy branches without any fear of injuring the shrub, and a prettier, sunnier, happier cluster of color for indoors can hardly be gathered the whole summer thru. I used to think it quite an easy matter to describe the living gold of these dainty four-petaled bells, swinging with inimitable grace upon their tiny stems, but they must be seen to be understood, and if any one of my gardeners can honestly assure me that he has ever been able to tell what time it was that his tree turned the floating golden cloud for a veil of misty green,—that deepens and darkens and shimmers, "a joy forever"—I will try to believe him.

The proper time for pruning this shrub is not spring, but early in summer. All old wood, more than three years of age, should be trimmed away. There will come up plenty of young trailers to fill out the bush.

The Amateur Gardener

locate yellow blossoms, because almost any day now, the heat of the sun will bring them out in thousands.

Without any exception I think Forsythia stands first among the spring shrubs for several reasons. It is the first to bloom, always an important point in any shrub. The blooming period extends well into four or five weeks, which is a comparatively long time for shrubs. In all specimens of five years and more, the little is exceedingly luxuriant, and if your tree is in anything like a healthy condition it should be a golden bouquet from its topmost branches to the lowest trailing twigs that sweep along the ground.

At no time in its life is it an unsightly or ragged-looking tree if it receives the smallest amount of attention. Blossoming time merges into leafing time so imperceptibly that one can never tell when the one ends and the other begins. The dying red bloom leaves no faded and withered clusters to mar the beauty of the young growth, since the flowers merely vanish, leaving behind them, the tender green of the new-born leaves.

Add to these good points the fact that no insects of any kind prey upon this shrub, and I think you will grant that Golden Bell does stand the peer among its fellows.

While classed among the real hardy shrubs, Forsythia usually requires two or three years to get well started, especially if your new plant is not of very large size. And, just here, I would advise you always to spend a fair amount on a good-sized root when you are about it. Splendid plants can be obtained for about one dollar,—plants that will probably bloom the third spring after planting. Of course, roots can be purchased for 25 cents or so,—but why spend a small sum for a tiny plant, and then be forced to wait a long time before having a good specimen. Every extra twenty-five cents spent on the root at first, means a couple of years' larger growth.

A wind-swept sunny location is the best spot for Golden Bell. It revels in the sun, and is too beautiful to hide its loveliness in a fence corner. So give it sun and give it air, and, above all, give it plenty of room to grow into a big bush as the years pass by. No one ever tires of it. And let all your neighbors enjoy its beauty and every casual passer-by.

Once well-rooted, strong plant shoots come up from the main root, in sucker-fashion. Smooth-barked, light-green and spotted with specks of brown, these shoots often attain five and six feet in height, and bend over in the most graceful fashion. These are the branches to bear blossoms the second year.

NOVEL EMBROIDERIES ON SUITS AND COLLARS

Navy and Other Subdued Shades Call for Living Touch of Color.

CHIFFON NECKWEAR

Very Stylish Overlaid Models Shown on Newest Street Costumes of Gabardine.

That fashionable street costumes for immediate and later wear are to be daintily garnished with rare embroideries is a note on the fashion bulletin that should be accepted with delight by the devotee fortunate enough to include in her "treasure trunk" a medallion or two of ancient design or a width of Persian trimming.

But even the added touch of color supplied by oriental embroideries does not lessen the established aspect of the exclusive spring costume, which after a few twirls and flurries made up its mind to be quiet. The vogue for colors lacking any hint of gorgeous hue has subsided into a very considerable vogue for navy, and in consequence a demand for colored embroideries.

Practically every navy costume made up of alpaca or any of the soft silk wool materials has a touch of pretty color mingled with threads of gold or dull silver placed at the throat or wrist. Chinese embroidery is extremely fashionable, and odd little flower motifs, vines or queer insects in rich reds, blues and greens are frequently applied to jacket revers or pointed cuff edges.

The collar, too, is strongly influenced by the embroidery craze. An otherwise severely made costume of gabardine may be literally transformed by a tasteful choice of collar trimming. The pure white lawn or organdie collar of last spring is no longer seen, having given way to the more decorative model of delicately tinted chiffon, veiling, an exquisite under collar of oriental beauty.

If a strip of blotting paper is bound around the neck of the oil bottle, being often sprayed about on which the bottle stands will not become greasy and discolored.

To clean copper utensils quickly, mix three tablespoonfuls of flour and one of salt to a paste with a little vinegar; rub over the article with a soft cloth and then rinse with hot water, polishing with a soft cloth when dry.

Two Ways to the Refrigerator

For years I had to walk from the dining-room table thru the kitchen to the refrigerator in the back room, which was the proper place for the water waste and the muddy footprints of the ice man.

I found a place on the kitchen side of the back room and opened the wall to let the doors of the refrigerator open into the kitchen. A casing was made to match the kitchen doors and windows, then the refrigerator was moved forward so the whole front comes into the casing. The cover was turned round, made a bit narrower and rehinged, so as to open as before in the back room.

The distance to the ice box from the dining-room has been shortened the length of one room. It is just as available for winter as for summer, and the water waste and footprints are as before in the back room near the rear entrance.

The doors are near the kitchen cabinet, so butter, eggs and articles needed for baking are right at hand. When preparing meals it is only a few steps from the stove and table.
