CHAPTER X. In D'Arp's room. The countess hummed as she sang some trouperous leonards.

It is to be presumed that Colonel de Casimir met the reception given by Governor Rapp in the great rooms of the Rathaus. For there were many faces present, and not a few of other nationalities.

The army, indeed, that set forth to conquer Russia was not French-speaking. It was made up of the remnants of the various nations of the north.

There might be some recalcitrant driven by stress of duty since to clear his conscience tonight, it would be as well, de Casimir thought, to be at one's post.

"If your husband is innocent there is no more reason why he should be grateful to me for warning him," he said, with a smile.

"And now, madame," he said reassuringly, as he followed his visitor into the room, where she had laid down her writing-table.

"There has been a mistake," she said, "they came to arrest him tonight."

"And?" he asked, without looking at her. (To be Continued.)

FOR NEW INDUSTRIES

The effort about to be made to secure new industries for St. John gives special interest to the following letter from Fort William, Ontario, which has already shown itself a progressive community in regard to the question of municipal ownership.

"The new role which Fort William is expected to play as a manufacturing centre for the west is being taken seriously, not only by the citizens themselves, but by outsiders also. Never a week passes without some communication being received by the town regarding industries, and several of these seem to be assured to the town. Among these are a big plant for making wagons and all kinds of vehicles, a cast iron pipe foundry, a steel plant, a large iron works for the manufacture of bar and rod iron, and rolling mill for rails, and a brewery. The sentiment that the whole community is interested in building up a manufacturing centre at the head of the lake is permeating municipal politics, and will play an important part in the coming elections.

"It is not improbable that Mayor Rutledge will again be a candidate and the feeling that this is a critical period in the town's history is making a number of the best and most influential citizens bestir themselves, and the result will probably be the election of one of the strongest and most progressive councils which has ever had control of the affairs of Fort William.

"The Board of Trade, an independent and active body of men, is co-operating with the council and has a committee appointed which has sole charge of the task of securing industries."

BUSINESS MEN WANTED

Ald. Ames of Montreal has given the citizens some advice. He tells them that if they want good government they must have a mayor and aldermen who are practical business men. The Star quotes him as follows: "If the new city council of 1906 is to be a success and conduct the city's affairs in a business-like way, a majority of council ought to be composed of business men. In the year 1900 the reform party got the conducting of civic affairs in the city. This was achieved after a long and bitter fight. The aim of the reform party was to put business men in the city council and control the city's affairs. The history of past years has been one that proved it was necessary to give a purely business administration to the city. In the year 1900, when the reform administration came into power, the city with its six millions of revenue into the hands of men who would conduct the city's affairs on the strict lines that they administer their own business. That the venture was a good one is proved by the way the reform party has succeeded in cutting down the financial charges, and, in brief, has managed to give the city a civic administration that has resulted in a great betterment of civic conditions."

DARE MAN INVESTIGATE?

A city minister is reported to have said in a sermon last evening: "If we preachers would only stop echoing what we have picked up in Newton, McMaster, and Chicago, and preach what God has revealed in His word, it would be better both for ourselves and our people. What professor so and so may think or say in reference to certain matters of vital importance counts for nothing. If what he says is out of joint with what God has revealed in His word."

If this note a plea against an educated ministry it must be at least regarded as a plea that the student who attends a university must go there determined not to investigate, but to seek only such information as will support one view of the most tremendous problem that has ever presented itself to the mind of man. Those who do not accept the view expressed in the words above quoted are not less sincere, nor less eager to learn that which is vital and true. They are not attempting to "rib" anybody, but to follow that which to them is the truth, wherever it may lead. They know as well as others that that which is not true will come to naught. The theological colleges of today are turning out very few, if any, men who hold exactly the same metaphysical views as were held half a century ago. There is no reason to believe that this is all wrong. There never was a time when the life of Jesus was held up as an example to men with such earnestness and fervor as now. There was more of metaphysics and less of Christianity in the churches of the past than there is in the churches of today. Truth has nothing to fear from investigation, nor is it now generally believed that the salvation of the race depends absolutely upon ancient interpretations.

DR. RAYMOND'S BOOK

The history of the St. John river, which has just been issued in book form, will be welcomed and highly valued by all who take an interest in the story of the past. Beginning with a very interesting chapter on the Indians who were the original inhabitants of this territory, Dr. Raymond tells of the coming of the white man, and from thoroughly reliable sources gathers and presents the story of the French and English who figured in the history of the St. John river from the time of Champlain until the coming of the Loyalists, with whom the concluding chapter deals. There is so much that is of stirring interest in this record of two centuries that this volume of 370 pages holds the reader's attention with a singular charm. Dr. Raymond quotes extensively from original records, and has constructed his narrative in so skillful a manner that the reader gets a clear conception of the various important personages who figure in it, as well as of the conditions under which their stormy lives were spent.

Whoever reads this history will have a new and delightful interest in the river which today is prized for its beauty, and which in the past was the battleground of representatives of contending races and of rival adventures of the same race, in times when men slept on their arms, in almost constant expectation of the approach of enemies.

Dr. Raymond has brought the events of these years before us in a very attractive book, which all will value, and which teachers and students especially will find to be a mine of helpful information."

BRITISH CABINET

The new British cabinet is a strong one, especially if its members are agreed as to the general policy to be pursued with regard to Home Rule, the unemployed, and the question of education. A glance at the list printed today shows men for the most part of world-wide reputation, of whom a number have held office in previous Liberal administrations, and some of whom have had valuable experience in the colonies. One has been Governor-General of Canada, and two others Governors-General of India. There are great land-owners in this cabinet, as well as John Burns the labor representative and Mr. Lloyd-George, the Radical. There are men like Morley, Bryce and Haldane, whose fame as scholars is thus far greater than their fame in politics. Lord Rosebery is overlooked, but his son-in-law, the Earl of Cowley, is a member of the cabinet. Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Asquith are, perhaps, the men in whom the greatest interest is centred. They are young, able and aggressive, and will have to bear the brunt of the attacks of their opponents. Of the new Colonial Secretary, Lord Elgin, it may be said that he was a successful Governor-General of India, and that he comes of a line of able men in the colonial and diplomatic service.

Next to the announcement of the new cabinet, interest has been centred on the speech of Mr. Balfour, who on Saturday announced that he would continue to lead his party, and that the Liberals would not be permitted to shelve the question of Home Rule during the election campaign. He made no reference to Mr. Chamberlain or his fiscal policy, which appears to be somewhat significant.

There will now be an eager desire to learn what Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Rosebery have to say on the general situation.

In the storm of yesterday, winter made up for any previous neglect of opportunity in this latitude. The snow is welcome. Christmas trade will be all the more brisk because of it, and even the small amount of work for men and teams on the streets and sidewalks will help to provide Christmas cheer for some who might otherwise find time heavy on their hands.

The Canadian meteorological service justifies its existence very frequently. The severe coat storm of yesterday was anticipated as early as Friday, and signals were hoisted in ample time to warn the mariners who were about to leave port.

China has learned the value of the boycott, and proposes to get better treatment from the United States or do less trading with that country. China is waking up since Japan proved her ability to take care of herself.

The many methods proposed by the water board of St. John to lower Lake Latimer fifteen feet appear to have had the effect of raising it five feet. As a commentary on civic methods this is certainly suggestive, if not typical.

The alderman who last summer in a fatal moment of confidence boasted that the papers would soon have to stop poking their noses into the ferry service did not reckon with the Laddow.

Another highway robbery on the streets of the city has occurred. The St. John police force should be strengthened during the winter season.

Today's news, both from European and Asiatic Russia is of the most ominous nature. The government faces a most critical situation.

Business is proceeding briskly at Sand Point, and there is every prospect of a very busy winter on the harbor front.

THE DEITY OF JESUS

Rev. David Hutchinson's Sermon in Main Street Baptist Church Last Evening.

Rev. David Hutchinson preached last evening on the Deity of Jesus, having his discourse on St. Matthew xvi, 16:—"Whom say ye that I am? Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." After introducing his subject, the preacher said that today, as of old, there were various opinions regarding the person of Jesus. He is to some only a man; whilst to others, as to Peter, He is the Divine Son of God. It is by no means a new thing to have the personality of Jesus called into question. All students of church history are aware that the Arian and Socinian controversies centre about the personality of Jesus.

"It," said the preacher, "we preachers would only stop echoing what we have picked up in Newton, McMaster, and Chicago, and proclaim what God has revealed in His word, it would be better both for ourselves and our people. What professor so and so may think or say in reference to certain matters of vital importance counts for nothing. If what he says is out of joint with what God has revealed in His word. All that you and I know concerning Jesus we have learned from the New Testament. What then, does the New Testament teach in reference to Jesus? That he was a man? Yes. Is that all it teaches concerning Him? No. It teaches just as emphatically that He is God. By that we mean that He is truly God, and His deity is not a mere title of honor, but a reality. He is worthy of love, worship and service. You ask me, as you have a right to do, to produce the evidence upon which I believe in the deity of Jesus. I will then, do so. The speaker pointed to the pre-existence of Christ as a striking evidence, and referred to the fact that He had told the Jews that Abraham had rejoiced to see Him say: The Jews, who thought of Him only as man, made the same mistake as people are making today. Jesus when he said, 'Before Abraham was, I am' was not speaking of Himself as man, as man he was hundreds of years after Abraham. As God he was an eternity before Him. All through His ministry on earth Jesus referred to His pre-existence to those to whom He talked. He said: 'Ye are from beneath, but I am from above.' How could that have been if He had not existed prior to His birth into the world? After enlarging upon this the preacher said: I I forewarn you of the fact of His pre-existence to believe that Jesus was not man, but God.

After enlarging upon this the preacher said: I I forewarn you of the fact of His pre-existence to believe that Jesus was not man, but God. The other evidence of His deity that the Scriptures unambiguously call Him God. 'In the beginning was the Word and the Word was God, and the Word was with God.' What language could be more clear or definite than that? The word 'with' here is not to be taken as meaning that the Word was beside Jesus in manifest form where we are told that the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us. The preacher said that in the light of that statement he would as soon deny that two and two made four as that Jesus was not God. In the list of disciples John the writer speaking of Jesus, says, 'This is the true God and eternal life.' He does not say that statement if Jesus was less than God? Then again Jesus Himself had claimed equality with God, and performed works that should satisfy any unprejudiced mind that He was what He claimed to be. Jesus was in the habit of saying, 'The Father is greater than I.' But, as we have seen, He was not less than God. Then again Jesus Himself had claimed equality with God, and performed works that should satisfy any unprejudiced mind that He was what He claimed to be. Jesus was in the habit of saying, 'The Father is greater than I.' But, as we have seen, He was not less than God.

Then again Jesus Himself had claimed equality with God, and performed works that should satisfy any unprejudiced mind that He was what He claimed to be. Jesus was in the habit of saying, 'The Father is greater than I.' But, as we have seen, He was not less than God. The preacher said that every time he administered the ordinance of baptism he recognized the deity of Jesus. He baptized the candidate not only in the name of the Father, but in the name of Jesus the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

Mr. Hutchinson offered many other evidences in support of the Deity of Christ and concluded by saying that like St. Peter he was constrained to exclaim, 'Thou art the Christ the son of the living God,' or like Thomas, he was prepared to say, 'My Lord and my God.'

FIRST TOUCH OF WINTER

Yesterday's Snow Storm Was the First of the Season—Five Inches of Snow Fell.

Yesterday's snow storm ushered in the winter of 1905 in good old fashioned style. The snow commenced to fall shortly after daylight, and continued until about five o'clock in the afternoon. About five inches of snow.

The velocity of the wind was from 30 to 40 miles an hour, and consequently there was much drifting, and many places the street being bare, while the sidewalks were piled high with the "beauties."

The street railway people experienced considerable trouble in keeping the tracks clear, owing to the drifting, and for some time the cars were blocked, but the sweepers and plows did good work, and in the afternoon and evening the service was resumed.

Teamsters were kept busy last night and this morning in getting their sleds out and pulling wagons away, and the appearance of the city today is "real winter."

The storm of yesterday was first noted in the Toronto bulletin last Friday. At that time the disturbance was said to be in the Gulf of Mexico and was expected to arrive in the maritime provinces yesterday. It certainly was on time at all events. Mr. Hutchinson, director of the local bureau, said that from the direction of the wind yesterday it was evident the centre of disturbance was south of the Nova Scotia coast.

Compared with last December the present month to date has been a warm one. On December 10th, 1904, the thermometer stood just four degrees below the zero mark. The lowest mark for December so far this year has been seven above. The first sleighing in 1904 was on December 18 and 19, and the snow stayed till spring.

Miss Alice Rowan, daughter of A. M. Rowan, is suffering from an injury to her ankle caused by her foot slipping through the plank of the sidewalk on Manawagoush road. On Saturday evening about 6 o'clock Miss Rowan, accompanied by the Misses Hatheway, was on her way home when the accident occurred. Her left foot wedged so securely that assistance had to be obtained to pry up the plank before the injured limb could be released. The ankle was badly scraped and lacerated and Dr. Macfarland, of Fairville, was called in to give the necessary attention. It will be some days before the young lady will be out again.

HISTORY OF THE RIVER ST. JOHN

Rev. W. O. Raymond Publishes Valuable Historical Work in Book Form.

(The Daily Telegraph.)

A little before the centenary of the discovery of the River St. John on the 24th June, 1904, Rev. Dr. Raymond began his well-known series of historical articles in the Saturday edition of the Daily Telegraph. The series is now completed, the copy of the St. John in 1684 to the arrival of the Loyalists in 1783. The interest taken in these historical articles has been widespread and general. Natives of the province living in various parts of Canada and in the United States have written expressing the hope that the articles might be published in book form. This has now been done and the result is a volume of 270 pages with more than thirty illustrations.

In his preface Dr. Raymond speaks of his love for the noble river on whose banks he was born and reared, and adds that he has found a peculiar fascination in the study of everything that has to do with the history of those who have dwelt beside its waters. The result of his investigations, pursued at intervals during the last ten years, is a more elaborate and trustworthy history of the St. John river region than has yet appeared. Dr. Raymond declines any pretension to literary excellence and quotes, for the benefit of his readers, Montaigne's well-known saying: "I bring you a nosegay of cold flowers and have brought you of my own, but the string that ties them."

The opening chapter tells of the Maliseet Indians, the original occupants of the soil. The author quotes the impressions of early explorers regarding these savages and deals to some extent with their origin, customs and manner of life. The book tells next of the coming of the White Man, and the story of the rival feudal chiefs, Charles la Tour and d'Abbay Charnisay and of the heroism of Lady la Tour, the daughter of the latter, on the scene, and we hear of Sir Thomas Temple and his trading post at the mouth of the Jonnes river. But Acadia again passes into the hands of the French, and the Chevaliers Grandfontaine, Soullages, and the ones of Charles O. Moyne figure as commanders on the St. John. More pleasing is the story of the brothers d'Amours, who were the first cultivators of the soil on the St. John river.

Particularly pleasing is the account of Madame Marguerite d'Amours and her kindness to the little English captive, John Gyles. The old Indian town of Medouctie is described in a very interesting way. The place was for many years the principal stronghold of the savages and the headquarters of the French missionaries of the Beccollet and Jesuit orders. It was here that the first church on the river was built in 1717 by the missionary, Basile Leclerc. The bell of the church was the personal gift of the King of France. In 1717 by the treaty of Utrecht, the Indian church at Kingsclear in March last.

After an interval of peace, King George's war followed and the Indians again took the war path. Captain Poiré's unfortunate expedition to the mouth of the Annapolis and Medouctie rivers, which they retained their old-time ferocity. At that time the Bellefleur family settled on the River St. John and left their name to one of its tributaries, in token of their affection.

Dr. Raymond deals quite fully with the condition of affairs on the river during the period extending from the treaty of Utrecht in 1713 to the conquest of Canada in 1763. All this time the St. John river was in dispute between England and France. The French strove to retain possession and built forts at Menagouche (the name they applied to St. John), and at Woodman's Point at the mouth of the Nepesig. The Abbe Le Loure and Commander Bechebert strove to maintain the French ascendancy against Governor Shirley of Massachusetts, and Lawrence of Nova Scotia, but in vain. The French were expelled from Acadia soon after the fall of Louisbourg, and became for a time the foot ball of fortune. On the 29th of September, 1763, Colonel Robert Monckton landed at St. John and took formal possession of Fort Menagouche, which he rebuilt and renamed Fort Frederick. With this event began the period of English occupation.

A tragedy at St. Ann's (Fredericton) occurred the following winter, when a number of helpless, feeble, and aged women and children were wantonly killed by the New England rangers. Governor Lawrence now issued his celebrated proclamation, offering free grants of land to settlers in Acadia. In consequence eighty families from Massachusetts settled at Margerville, in 1769, under the leadership of Captain Francis Peabody, with Israel Perley as their surveyor. The progress of the Margerville colony affords material for an interesting chapter. About the same time James Simonds and James White established themselves in trade at the mouth of the river with a party of thirty employes—fishermen, lime-burners, coopers, mill hands and laborers. The operations of the company, of which William Hazen, James Simonds and James White were members, lasted until the Revolutionary war put a stop to nearly every kind of business.

In the course of a year or two the English settlers on the river were sufficiently numerous to form a municipality.

ciently numerous to require some settled form of government and in 1758 a county was erected on the St. John called Sunbury, in honor of the Earl of Halifax, White Man, and the story of the rival feudal chiefs, Charles la Tour and d'Abbay Charnisay and of the heroism of Lady la Tour, the daughter of the latter, on the scene, and we hear of Sir Thomas Temple and his trading post at the mouth of the Jonnes river.

A very interesting chapter is devoted to the origin of the old river townships of Sunbury, Burton, Gage, New-town and Conway. The moving spirit in this enterprise was Captain Beaman, D. Gladwin, agent for a company of influential gentlemen, army officers and others, who formed what was known as the St. John's River Society. The documents that elucidate the history of the old townships were accidentally discovered by Dr. Raymond, not many months ago, in the archives of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

The townships were making fair progress, and the settlements on either side of the harbor at the river's mouth were rapidly growing in importance, when the Revolutionary war broke out. The American rebels then made various attempts to gain control of the river, in which they failed. The settlers, however, were harassed by privateers and Indians with violence. Matters for a year and a half were lively enough. In the end a British post was established at the mouth of the river in November, 1777, and named Fort Howe. Of this old fortification two views are given. Major Stuchin commanded the garrison until the arrival of the Loyalists in 1783.

The beginning of the staple industry of the province may be said to date back to the year 1770, when considerable numbers on the river. The development of the mauling business by William Davis, and Moses, Hazen, White and Peabody fills another interesting chapter. A most interesting part of the book will be that on "the pioneers of the St. John," which contains brief sketches of the founders of the families, Beckwith, Quinlan, Jones, Burpee, Palmer, Nevins, Peabody, Peabody, Barker, Albertson, Garsion, Coy, Esley, Betabrooks, Darling, Kemble, Sterling, Glaizer and others. These names, and many others mentioned in other chapters, are represented on the St. John river today by numerous descendants.

Dr. Raymond gives a chapter on the early religious teachers who labored on the St. John, commencing with the French missionaries, treating also of those in connection with the Church of England, Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian bodies. The closing chapter on the coming of the Loyalists fills nearly thirty pages and gives with more fullness of detail and accuracy, than has yet been attempted, the story of the Loyalist emigration. The voyage of the spring fleet, the June fleet and the autumn fleet are described in detail, and the hardships endured by the founders of St. John and Fredericton told in a realistic way.

In this review we have given but the barest outline of Dr. Raymond's valuable history, which was first presented to the reading public in the columns of the Telegraph. In book form it will be capable of better preservation and a good index enhances its value as a book of reference. The book may be obtained at a very moderate price of Barnes & Co., and set also on express business to enter the wholesale house of Wheeler, Blodgett & Co., now Blodgett, Orkeley & Webber, Klamath, 1898. He spent some years in the Klondike in 1898. He became interested in practical mining, which had ever since occupied his attention. He mining interests led him to the Philippines about three years ago, and from there he went to Siam, where he saw great possibilities. Returning to Boston he spent a year manufacturing his plans and interesting Boston capital, and went to Siam in April, 1901. All his letters, the latest dated August 29, contained assurances of good health and the bright prospects of his mining. He was a member of the Warren Avenue Baptist church, and previous to his prolonged absence was an active church worker in Boston. He leaves a mother, one sister and six brothers.

BRITISH PRAISES GIVEN TO BRAVE AMERICAN SAILORS

Officers and Crew of the U. S. Revenue Cutter Woodbury Saved St. John Schooner Effie May When She Ran on the Rocks in Jericho Bay, Maine.

Captain H. B. West and the officers and crew of the U. S. revenue cutter Woodbury have been highly commended and thanked by the Canadian and British governments, through its ambassador at Washington, Sir H. Mortimer Durand, for the work done by them in rescuing the British schooner Effie May when she went on the rocks off Rockland last September.

The letter of thanks was received last evening by Captain West, together with a copy of the report of the British government addressed to the British Secretary of State from the British Ambassador conveying the thanks of the Canadian government to the officers and crew of the U. S. Revenue Cutter Woodbury for assistance rendered to the British schooner Effie May on September 27th last.

The letter of thanks is as follows:—The British Embassy, Washington, November 24, 1905.

Sir:—I have been requested by the Governor-General of Canada to write the attention of the United States government to the following incident:—On September 27, the British schooner Effie May of St. John (N.B.), was stranded on Shabby Island Ledge in Jericho Bay (Me.), from which she was rescued by the United States Revenue Cutter Woodbury, whose commander, Captain H. B. West, gallantly came to her assistance and succeeded in hauling the vessel off the rocks and towing her to Rockland (Me.), where she was able to obtain repairs. It is now my pleasant duty to request that the thanks of the government of the Dominion may be conveyed to the officers and crew of the Woodbury on account of their services, and for the generous and timely aid rendered by them on that occasion.

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient, humble servant, H. M. DURAND. Such an expression of thanks from such a source is one of the highest honors that

SAD DEATH OF THOS. J. DAMERY

Well-known St. John Mail Carrier Fell Dying While Delivering Letters on Adelaide Street.

Thomas J. Damery, one of the best known of the city's mail carriers, fell dying while going his rounds in Adelaide street, Saturday afternoon, and passed away in a few minutes. He had been engaged in the post office department as a letter carrier for the last twelve or thirteen years. He had about two-thirds of his mail delivered, and was leaving a letter at the house of David G. Spencer, Adelaide street, when he complained that he was growing weak. He reeled, and the woman to whom he gave the letter tried to catch him, but he fell. He was carried into the house, and Dr. James McIntyre was summoned. Before he arrived, however, the unfortunate man was dead.

"IT'S ONLY A COLD, A TRIFLING COUGH" Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the Pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subsides inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucus, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into buying an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cts.

Mr. Julian J. LeBlanc, Belle Cote, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with a bad cold and severe cough, which assumed such a attitude as to keep me confined to my house. I tried several remedies advertised but they were of no avail. As a last resort I tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured me completely."

ANTE-MORTEM STATEMENT IN

Magistrate Ritchie Decides It Is Admissible as Evidence in the Preston Case.

In the afternoon session on Saturday of the preliminary examination of Dr. E. A. Preston, the antemortem statement of Miss Edith Floyd Clark, documentary and verbal, was admitted as evidence by Judge Ritchie.

The law enacts that such statements must not be allowed in as evidence at the time of the making of such statements.

After arguing the question for some time, Judge Ritchie said that he was not the trial judge, and stated also that he could not say what he might or might not do under the evidence.

In continuing, Judge Ritchie stated that the case now being investigated by him was the most important New Brunswick case in the time.

The witness said that he had written a death certificate for Edith Clark and also that after he and Dr. Scammell learned the statements of the deceased they decided to bring the matter before the New Brunswick Medical Society with the view of having Dr. Preston's registration taken from him.

Mr. Morrill asked the witness to tell why the death certificate had not been sent on, but the witness was not prepared to give an answer.

"Where is that paper, do you know?" "Yes."

"Can you produce it?" "I cannot."

"I shall be compelled to ask the court to ask you to produce it."

"It is not in my possession."

"It is in your house."

"I want to make sure of this paper," said Mr. Morrill.

"I don't want to make sure of it," said the witness.

"The point is, I want the paper and I shall take care to get it."

"For what purpose do you want it?" "The court wants to read it. I want to read it."

"Well, I have no wish to read it, and the solicitor general has no wish to do so. The fact that you want to read it is so. The fact that you want to read it is so."

Mr. Morrill—"Do you know when the certificate left your possession?" "As far as I can recollect it was between the evening of November 30 and December 5 or 6."

"If anyone removed it, do you know when?" "I don't know."

"If it was your duty, as a physician, to send a certificate of death to the registrar?" "It is not my duty."

"If it is a case where an investigation is not necessary, then it is my duty?" "The witness told about his illness, and after the taking of further evidence, in which the witness declined to tell whether the certificate was partially or fully written out, adjournment was made until Friday, 10th, at 10 a. m."

THE INGLE NOOK PHILOSOPHER

OF KENNEBECASS BAY

Is it strange that while man is so rarely prepared for his change from time to time, he knows to a moment, he is so sorry?

Being a mere observer, a wayfarer in the wide life, I have good opportunity to note the general unpreparedness of men.

The boy, in spring, is unprepared to follow, and the youth in summer makes little provision for his manhood in autumn, and the man in autumn is followed by a dreary winter and a drearier death.

There are exceptions, thank God! I speak of the general case, which is followed by a dreary winter and a drearier death.

WAS BEATEN AND ROBBED

Four Thugs Held Up John Smith on the Strait Shore.

Thursday night, John Smith, who of late has been employed at the McArthur & McVey section of the waterworks, was assaulted and robbed of $11 by four unknown men on the Strait Shore road between 11:30 and 12 o'clock.

Smith, who was born in Ireland, is 49 years of age, and came from Philadelphia last summer to work at the waterworks.

Saturday night he arrived in the city, and, after being over to Strait Shore, was returning to the city when he met his four assailants near the Rolling Mill. One of the culprits hit him across the eyes and stunned him, and immediately afterwards he received a heavy blow back of the right ear from another, which hurt him to the ground, thereby inflicting a severe gash on the left side of his face.

As soon as the highway robbers had their victim on the ground, they, four pointed upon him the Rolling Mill. One of them then led Smith to his own residence.

A captured snake and otherwise injured, the ill-used man made his way to the North End police station, where he was directed to the central station.

Between one and two o'clock Sunday morning Officers John Smith and George Henry met the unfortunate man on City Road and to them he told his story, and enquired for the Sailor's Home. The policemen however directed him to the central station, where he arrived shortly afterwards.

As soon as the night watchman at central station, Smith's condition, he summoned Dr. D. E. Berryman, who made him as comfortable as possible for the night and ordered his removal to the hospital. Yesterday afternoon Deputy Chief Jenkins had him conveyed to the latter place, as the unfortunate man's ankle had swollen up so much that he was unable to walk.

The police learned from Smith that he had partaken of some liquor after he arrived in the city, and was of the opinion that he could not have been robbed of so much money as he alleges, for when paid off at the waterworks he received but $11.

William McDonald and George Robinson, the two men referred to in the police court news, say they know Smith well, as he worked at the waterworks with them.
