Guelph, June 28.—"A public inquiry is the only thing that will clear the air," declared Rev. K. H. Palmer, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, on his return from Toronto, where he conferred with heads of the evangelical churches upon the Guelph raid. "We must get the mouth of Capt. MacAuley opened," he continued. "At present he is prevented by reason of his position in the army of his position in the army "An inquiry is the only means available to get at the facts. Whether the matter goes through the courts or before a board we must hear Capt. MacAuley. It may be some time before we succeed in our efforts, but we don't intend to slacken them the least bit. We are going to see this thing through. The Real Point.

The Real Point.

"The whole point is that some of these men went into the novitiate to escape the act after July 6. There is no doubt about that. I have never budged from that point and I refuse to budge. I have spoken to members of military boards and they all agree that July 6 is the date when the M. S. A. came into operation.

"What is Ottawa hiding? That is what we want the public to know. I know too well what they are hiding, but we are determined to get to the bottom of the whole affair."

A secret meeting of evangelical alliance representing all Protestant denominations, has been called for Tdesday evening next in Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto, when Guelph clergy will disclose all facts in their possession.

JUNE WEDDINGS

Yesterday afternoon was the occasion of an unusually interesting wedding, when Lillian Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Magee of London Township, was united in marriage to James Stanley Gourley. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by the Ven. Archdeacon Richardson, the bridal couple standing beneath an arch of flowers, erected on the lawn. A large company of ladies and gentlemen from Toronto, St. Marys and other places round about were present, Miss Dora Stoneman acting as bridesmaid, and J. A. Lutman as best man.

The wedding luncheon, spread on tables upon the lawn, was a most brilliant affair, toasts and good speeches being the order of the day. Excellent music was furnished, until the young couple departed for a short honeymoon to points east. On their return they will reside at 153 Langarth street. The bride was a prominent member of St. Luke's Church choir, Broughdale, and took part in many other church activities.

33RD COMRADES' CLUB ARRANGING PICNIC AT SPRINGBANK AUGUST 5

Former Members of Battalion and Friends to Enjoy Barbecue.

At a meeting of the entertainment committee of the 33rd Comrade Club, held Thursday evening in the Great War Veterans' Association club rooms, it was decided to hold a picnic at Springbank on Civic Holiday, Monday, August 5. All former members of the 33rd Battalion and their wives and friends will be invited to attend this outing. A special car will be secured. The picnic will start at 10 o'clock and last all day. An old-fashioned "barbecue" will be a feature of the day, when the beef will be roasted on the grounds and served at 1:30.

Mrs. S. Herrald was elected as chairman of a committee of ladies to make arrangements for the picnic.

A good program of sports will be held for the children and adults. The entertainment committee of the 33rd Comrades Club expect to make this picnic the most successful outing held in this city for some time. At a meeting of the entertainment mmittee of the 33rd Comrade Club,

More will be set back, were alraid of the department of the probe and the controller said that he was onosed to any change being made. He wanted the judge should make the probe and the controller said that he was onosed to any change being made. He wanted the judge to get into the matter thoroughly. The council will likely thresh the matter out at length on Tuesday night. Fire Chief John Aitken informed the hoard that so far as he is concerned the case rests with the council. He is satisfied with its former decision that the matter should go to the county judge, He is not afraid of any kind of a probe.

John Fournier of South Norwich in Trouble at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK. June 27.—John Four-nier of South Norwich was in police court today on a charge of having mar-ried May Spragg of St. Thomas early this spring when he should have known she had previously married a Mr. War-dell, who was still living. Fournier, however, contended that he did not know. Sufficient witnesses not being on hand, the case was adjourned for a week.

NO SPECULATION IN WHEAT FOR AMERICANS

New York, June 28.—The series of conferences called to consider modifications in the existing Government control in wheat trading are expected to end today. About 200 producers, millers, traders and representatives of the United States Grain Corporation have participated in the conference.

Julius H. Isarnas, chairman of the grain corporation, has announced that he will give out the details of the new rules. It is expected that the modifications as a whole will assure a greater freedom in transactions, but that speculative activities will continue to be prohibited.

A FREE PARLIAMENT AND A SHACKLED ONE.

(Written by Hon. W. S. Fielding, in the Journal of Commerce.)

N'THE Parliament of Canada and in the legislatures of the several provinces of Canada we are supposed to follow substantially the rules and customs of the Parliament of Great Britain. We claim that we draw our inspiration and our practice from the "Mother of Parliaments," as we fondly characterize the great bodies which adian practice it would be that, in the democratic atmosphere of the North American continent, we would have less rigidity of rule and greater freedom of speech and action than in the ancient Parliament of Great Britain. A little while ago our claim along these lines would have been well founded. If a recent incident in our House of Commons is to be approved Canada can no longer claim to be guided by the practice of the free British Parliament.

The action of Sir Robert Borden in making voice of the House and calling on Government supporters to humiliate themselves by voting against their publicly declared convictions is receiving widespread notice from the press. freedom of Parliament. Let us recall the facts of the case. The Union Government was formed for the avowed purpose of securing united action in measures deemed necessary for the prosecution of the war. As respects such measures unity was essential. Outside that field, unity was not necessary, nor was it to be expected. On questions not relating to Catholic, is now acting premier of Canada.

which there might have been some excuse for the THE TERRIBLE TEMPERED MR. BANG Government requiring unity, for it was a matter of considerable importance and it concerned part of a great Government measure that had been engaging the attention of Parliament. The British Parliament has lately been dealing with the very important question of the franchise. A new franchise law has been enacted, which contains, among other important provisions, one for granting the privilege of voting to several million women. In the consideration of this measure there arose the very important question of proportional representation—a system designed to secure representation for minorities—which has for a long time engaged the attention of advanced thinkers. After much discussion in both Lords and Commons an agreement was reached that, as an experiment, the principle of proportional representation should be applied to one hundred constituencies, and that commissioners be appointed to select the seats to which this arrangement could most conveniently be applied. The commissioners studied the subject carefully and made their report. In due course a member of the Government, Mr. Hayes Fisher, moved to confirm the report.

The reader will observe that the motion related to a material part of a great Government measure, and that it was to give effect to details of a conclusion that Parliament had in principle already adopted. If the Government, in such circumstances, had claimed that it must have the support of the House on this motion, or retire course could have been offered. Mr. Fisher, the minister of education, who had charge of the matter, having made his motion, Mr. Pennefather, a Government supporter, at once raised the question of freedom of action, claiming that Mr. Fisher's motion should be regarded as expressing his personal views, and that every member of the House, even a member of the cabinet, should be perfectly free to act according to his judgment. This, according to the ideas of Sir Robert Borden, was an unthinkable line of policy. The British Government, if Sir Robert was right, should have insisted on treating the motion as one her wrist watch while she sat under the big oak tree in the woods and listened to Cecil Mellville say: "You could make me the happiest man in the world if you would only say—" etc., etc.

It had been one of those "so sudden" affairs. Priscilla had been courted more or less consistently by Mellville for the last six months. He had been extremely nice to her, sending her flowers, bringing her confectionery, taking her to theatres and for motor car rides and paying her other attentions; but he never had appeared to nourish any deep affection.

Like many girls, Priscilla had cherlished visions of marrying wealth; but as she grew older—especially since working in J. Hamilin's office—she had abandoned all such ideas. In the attorney's files were too many histories of unhappiness in which money played a leading part. There were the written records of contented couples, suddenly become prosperous through some quirk of forture, then—too much luxury, dissatisfaction with each other as a result, and—allmony.

At twenty-three, working to support herself and mother, Priscilla, despite her proximity to the more sordid side of life which constantly thrust itself into J. Hamilin's office, was far from becoming cynical. She appraised money at its real worth, but was not dazzled by its glitter. She believed in love, and that is why she did not accept Cecil Mellville's proposal.

Neither did she refuse his offer of marriage. Instead, she simply said:

"I cannot tell you now. I must have it into think it over. Give me a week I must not act hastily; it would not be best for either of us."

Priscilla knew that Jerry Hart cared for her. He had shown it more strongly each time to think it over. Give me a week. I must not act hastily; it would not be best for either of us."

Priscilla knew that Jerry Hart cared for her. He had shown it more strongly each time they were together during the year that they had been friends. But Hart lacked the funds with which to finance a woolng contest against a person of Cecil Mellville's means. Also h

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge. Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

Jimmy Coon takes Peter Rabbit and invited him to go and see his new and wonderful friend. And Jimmy took Peter where he had never been before—way down the big river pours its fresh and clear waters into the ocean.

And Peter had the trip of his life, and saw many new things. And Peter asked, "Jimmy, who is your friend you talk so much about?"

"Oh, he's an awfully handsome fellow, And he opens oysters for me!" You know that Jimmy Coon likes oysters better than you like candy. But the oyster has an awfully handsome fellow, and a very strong muscle in his back; and I suppose he could bite off one's finger with the edge of his sharp shells, if we were so foolish as to put our fingers between his powerful shells when they were opened.

And Jimmy sald to Peter, "This new friend of mine is called Mr. Oyster-Catcher, and he is a wonder."

"Well, he must run awfully fast," said Peter, "if he can catch an Oyster could run as fast as Mr. Fox."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed clever Jimmy Coon. "You are certainly silly, if you believe everything Bobby Skunk told me that an Oyster could run as fast as Mr. Fox."

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed clever Jimmy Coon. "You are certainly silly, if you believe everything Bobby Skunk tells you. Why, you have seen Sammy Muskrat eat a fresh water clam. And you know that a clam has no legs; but Sammy, dear fellow, can catch a clam all right!"

And Jimmy smacked his lips, as he thought of his raw oysters he would have for supper. And Jimmy told little Peter all about his new friend, Mr. Oyster-Catcher.

"Now, Peter, we must hide, and his trousers were pure white. But Peter opened wide his big eyes as he saw Mr. Oyster-Catcher.

"Now, Peter, we must hide, and his trousers were very stylish in cut, and his trousers were pure white. But Peter poened the Oysters, had a result hand has for own care asket as Mr. Oyster-Catcher.

Miss Gemmill of Sarnia is the guest of Mrs. (Capt.) Graham, this city. Mrs. John Dolan of Burwell street, accompanied by her sister, Miss Hanna Riley, motored to Point Edward today with Mrs. Hayes of Toronto. They will spend some time with relatives there.

Miss C. Hall of Brigden is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Merryfield, 6 Hayman Court, before leaving for Lockport, N.J., where she will spend the summer.

An interesting wedding was that which took place on the 20th of this month in St. Andrew's Church, when Jean Isabel McKinley was united in marriage to James Stanley Carr, both of Wingham. Rev. D. C. McGregor performed the ceremony. A dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. McPherson of Hill street. The young couple will reside in Wingham.

couple will reside in Wingham.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, when Miss Myrtle McMaster was united in marriage to Murray D. Wickett, Rev. H. B. Moyer performing the ceremony. The bride looked lovely in a pale grey suit embroidered in gold, with hat to match. She wore a corsage bouquet of bridal roses. The bride maid, Miss Fannie McMaster, wore green taffeta, with a picture hat of pink georgette crepe and corsage bouquet of pink carnations. The groomsman was Stanley Seltzer. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pearl brooch, and to the groomsman a pearl ite pin. The happy couple left on the Michigan Central for points east.

Her Friend's a Prisoner.

Miss Grey,—Could you give any information on sending boxes to a friend, a prisoner in Germany? Where to send and what can be sent and what course to take; also, where to send money? We were told that some place in England you could send $2.50 a month. is this right? If so, could you give the address? Thanking you, I will sign ANXIOUS.

Ans.—Through the Red Cross Society's prisoner-of-war department you will be able to have food parcels sent to your friend. The headquarters for this work is at 14 Cockspur street, London, England, but a better way is to remit to Miss Dorothy Gunn, 136 Kent street, this city. Miss Gunn is the local treasurer for the war prisoners' fund. Write her, giving the full address of your friend before being captured, and also his present address in Germany. Miss Gunn will be able to tell you just what quantity of food will be sent to your friend if $2.50 per month is remitted.

every one that believeth."—Romans i., 16.
WE NEED NOT BE ASHAMED OF THE CROSS OF CHRIST.

From our third text we are reminded that though Christ was crucified, and died the death of a criminal, there is nothing about either his cross nor his gospel that we need be ashamed of. Christ died as a martyr, and as a sacrifice for the sins of the world. They would not accept his message through the influence of his wonderful life, and hence he voluntarily permitted them, with wicked hands, to crucify him, in order that by his death influences might be created and a sentiment of hatred formed against sin, which should ultimately work for the salvation of the race. That the only begotten Son of God should die for the people is a great exemplification of love, and there is nothing about the gospel, thus preached, which we need be ashamed of.

out of the ordinary class and make them super-service plugs. They prevent any part of the porcelain from coming in contact with the hard steel shell. The asbestos lining in the soft copper gasket rings form a cushion on each shoulder of the porcelain that absorbs the continuous, invisible blows of gas explosions in the motor cylinder and at the same time takes up the expansion caused by excessive heat.

There is a Champion for every make of engine, and the name "CHAMPION" on the porcelain guarantees "Absolute satisfaction to the user or free repairs or replacement

He was sent to his home after the bone had been set.

E. R. Bradley's Kalitan showed that he deserves a place among the great sprinters when he won the high weight handicap at 6 furlongs. He carried 140 pounds, set all the pace, and won with plenty on hand from A. K. Macomber's Starmaster. The time of 1:11 4-5 is only four-fifths of a second slower than the track record made by Harry Payne Whitney's Thunderer with 118 pounds on his back.

There were upsets in both the 2-year-old races. In the first, John Sanford's Crystal Ford was heavily supported.

ONLY THIRTEEN AND HALF CENTS POUND

The mackerel season is at its height just now, and, thanks to arrangements adde by the Canada Food Board, it is available in large quantities for distribumade by the Canada Food Board, it is available in large quantities for distribution in the city. The moderate price, 13½ cents a pound, if you carry it home yourself, and 15 cents if you insist upon having it sent, is also something for which the Canada Food Board can be thanked. This is something to think about, next time the food controller is being blamed for the shortage of the strawberry rop and things like that. Mackerel at 13½ cents a pound gives at least one goo nark to his credit.

And the way people are becoming educated to substitute meat for fish and appreciate a bargain! A dealer who last week gave prominence to mackerel in his advertisement in the Consumers' League page stated yesterday that he had sold 1,500 pounds mackerel last week, just ten times as much as he used to sell when it retailed

FORMERLY 18 CENTS. Did you note the casual reference to the fact that mackerel, which now sells at 13½ cents a pound, in the good old days retailed for 18 cents? After all, there are still things for which to be thankful in this world.

But, where this food is concerned, it is advisable to "make hay while the sun shines," otherwise to use it plentifully while the season lasts. This will be only a month or six weeks at most and then not for another year again.

shines," otherwise to use it pientifully while the season lasts. This will be only a month or six weeks at most, and then not for another year again.

In addition to the other features which commend it to the housewife, mackerel ranks high in food value. Its acceptability, of course, like that of other mackerel ranks high in food value. Its acceptability, of course, like that of other foods, depends largely on the manner in which it is prepared.

The other day, a little group of women were discussing the vexed question of variety in menus in view of food regulations.

"We have two meatless days a week at least," said one, "and it takes some contriving. I can tell you, since none of us eat fish."

"It is funny the way my family has become educated to fish," said another. "We were just talking yesterday about how often fish appears on our table now, compared with the number of times we used to have it. I have learned to cook it a dozen ways I never dreamed of until the last year."

"By the way, have you tried mackerel?" said a third. Some had; some hadn't. Some didn't know it wasn't a high price, whereon the third speaker triumphantly informed them they should read advertisements and market prices, and go to market themselves.

and go to market themselves.
"I got beautiful mackerel last week," she said, "which I baked for dinner. split the fish and put it in a buttered dripping pan, seasoned it with pepper and salt, and dotted it with butter. I poured over it nearly a cup of milk, and baked it in a hot oven twenty-five minutes. It was delicious."

"Mackerel," replied the editor lady BOILED IN A SALT BAG.

"Be sure and tell the people how to cook it." she advised, adding, "I prefer it boiled. Anyway, I always like fish better boiled than either baked or fried in the hot weather. Do you keep your salt bags for boiling fish in them? They are just fine for that purpose. If I haven't a salt bag on hand that is large enough, I tie it in cheesecloth, drop it in boiling water and boil for thirty minutes. I garnish it with sliced lemon and parsley, and a little paprika makes it still more attractive to the eye, and I, for one, like the taste of it. By the way, the carrying charge for having mackerel sent home is a cent and a half a pound. Isn't that an argument for carrying it yourself if you are near the fish market? Of course, there is such a thing as practicing short-sighted economy, such as walking to get a parcel when you are tired to the bone and need a rest, or neglecting some important duty to do so. Again, there is a type of woman who will pay two car fares to carry her to obtain a certain article four or five cents cheaper than it would cost her a block or so from her own door, or to have it delivered. to have it delivered. CAN YOU BEAT IT?

We are glad to welcome to our department this week a new contributor, "Economic Essex," who has something important to tell "Worn Out Trying" about broom economy. Judging from the letter written by the English-Canadian housewife, we feel sure she has many other valuable suggestions to offer our readers. Won't you write soon again, Economic Essex? This is the first letter we have had from your county.

To the Editor Consumers' League: To the Editor, Consumers' League

Dear Editor,-For the benefit of "Worn Out Trying," I would say try a brush broom for a change. I came from England nearly fifteen years ago where I had always used one for sweeping plain floors as well as walls I married a Canadian farmer soon after, and when I took charge of his home I found all the charge of his home I found all the floors were painted and one covered all over with carpet, and only a corn broom in the house. My first request, I believe, was for a brush broom, and I got one which cost 75 cents in Toronto, and I never bought another broom of any kind for about seven years and a half. The men bought corn brooms to sweep their barn floors, also the wagon box, and when they didn't forget it, left it in the porch to sweep their feet with. Incidentally I must relate how I took up the only carpet in the house to start with, and not before it needed it either, and separated it into strips to use as needed environce. up the only carpet in the house to start with, and not before it needed it either, and separated it into strips to use as needed anywhere. Since then, when rag-carpet came into vogue again, and other floor coverings mounted in price, I purchased a rag-carpet from a neighbor at about two dollars and a half to cover our parlor floor, not because I cared much for it, but because it was the cheapest thing I could get at the time, and helped my neighbor by taking it off her hands just when she needed the price of it. Well to make a long story short. I had to get a corp broom price of it. Well, to make a long story short, I had to get a corn broom then for the rag-carpet, and the men were needing one, so I sent an order to a Toronto departmental store for two, and they had them at 25 cents each, then, on sale (this was over four years ago). They sent me one only and charged 50 cents, and not much of a one I thought, but I kept it, and sent in a complaint about the other, and I got a much better one. I kept the hest for my correct each limit of the control of th I kept the best for my carpet, and I'm using it yet; and the brush broom I bought seven years ago when the first gave out is still in good work-I bought seven years ago when the first gave out is still in good working order and used every day, and it only cost me 75 cents. I don't stand it on its head either. I reckon, apart from the corn brooms mentioned, it has cost only on an average of ten cents a year for a sweeping broom for me so far. Can you beat it?

THE STANDARD LONDON HAS RAISED

The fame of London's successful Child Welfare Exhibit of last February, followed by immediate organization of permanent child welfare work, seems to have gone far and wide, and to have given London a very prominent place on the map, so far as other places in Canada are concerned. Of course, the organization of permanent child welfare work meant the placing at once of a big red seal on the map of Ontario, which is the property of the Provincial Child Welfare Bureau, the map showing the cities and towns and rural places which have child welfare organized. It will be remembered that there are also seals on that map which indicate municipal hospitals and organized medical inspection of schools, or school nursing. Previous to last February, London was entitled to two of the seals, and after that the third, the big red one for child welfare. At the time the London red seal was put on the map, only three other places in the province were entitled to it—Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton, and the last should have been placed first in order.

But to get back to the attention London has attracted. Immediately after the local exhibit, a number of inquiries came, not only addressed to this department, but also to Capt. (Dr.) H. W. Hill, M.O.H., who had such a large share in organizing the exhibit, and Mrs. Hill, who acted as manager at the head-quarters during exhibit week.

The Brampton exhibit, by the way, has been gotten up under the auspices of The Brampton exhibit, by the way, has been gotten up under the auspices of the department of agriculture there, which thoroughly deserves the term "progressive." The very first day 200 children, varying in age from infants in arms to six years old, were brought to the clinic, where the medical officer of health of Brampton, Major W. D. Sharpe, was assisted by Drs. Lawson and

The doctors who officiated at the clinic during Child Welfare week in London will sympathize with the Brampton medical men in the big responsibility that rested upon them.

The Women's Institute had charge of the weighing room, and the little ones were sent from there under the direction of Miss Knox of the Provincial Board of Health to the clinic room. Health to the clinic room.

The school children of Brampton have been admitted to the Child Welfare moving picture matinees, just as they were in London, and, like the London children, the Brampton boys and girls are finding them most entertaining and instructive.

As in London, the Brampton exhibit has a number of local features. For example, the Women's Institute has had a display of cooked food arranged in groups, suitable for meals for children at different ages.

The Red Cross had fitted up a nursery, dainty and inexpensive in its appointments, and keeping in mind the means of the average household. The Girls' Club showed a group of little garments, suited to the needs of the newborn infant, and so simple in construction that they could be made by anyone with any aptitude for sewing. with any aptitude for sewing.

Why Pay High Prices For Groceries and Meats

Every penny counts these days. What was your grocery bill last week? Pretty high, no doubt. GET OUT OF THE RUT! Stand up and shout: "I won't pay these high prices!" LOOK, HERE'S THE ECONOMICAL WAY. Don't run a grocery bill, but bring your basket and come to market to buy your provisions. Everything is so much lower. You will be surprised at how much you can save. Spend hubby's money wisely, he works hard for it and he leaves the saving to you. WON'T YOU TRY THIS PLAN TOMORROW? This list quoted here, is to help you in your selection.

How Military Drills Measure Your Physical Endurance

Drills are given to set.

Drills are given to set to indicate the stiffness of the exercises, and with numbers which indicate the stiffness of the exercises, and with numbers which indicate the number of minutes the drill lasts.

Marches and outdoor sports supplement the tests. Men on 15-minute drills are kept under escort, while those capable of 30-minute drills are allowed to go on leave with passes.

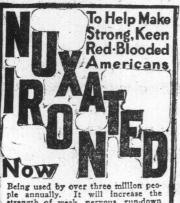

Each man is examined once or twice week immediately after exercise. The chief complaints after a drill are short breath, bre sthlessness, pain around the heart, palpitation, giddiness and fatigue. The mere "say so," however, does not go. Unless the doctor finds evidence objectively, the complaints are discounted and distrusted.

The Outward Signs.

Physical signs are best to indicate the ability to tolerate exertion, exercise and work. The physician is to be ever on guard against efforts to exaggerate apparent signs of distress. At the same time there are almost as many men who refuse to complain when there are grounds to do so.

He put up his hand and touched the bandages on his head. The interne stepped over to the bed, sat down and put his fingers upon the officer's pulse. The sick man attempted to snatch his hand away petulantly, but I saw with Inward amusement that the interne's slender fingers, were muscular enough to keep the other's wrist imprisoned.

"If you want to get out of here tomorrow—week," the interne said with slow firmness, "you must behave yourself."

I waited with trepidation, and I think the nurse shared my tremors, for the explosion which I was sure would follow. But to my surprise the sick man made no comment and no further struggle. Perhaps he remembered his years

The interne laughed boyishly,
"You see," he explained, "I really haven't any right to tell you when you can leave, but I'm sure the head man will confirm my opinion."

He stopped and regarded the other quizzically for a long moment.
"The truth is, old man," he said at last, "that you're a freak, simply a freak. According to all our dope you ought to be unable to leave here for a week at least, but as it is—"

"I go tomorrow?" the other returned.
"No, not tomorrow?" the interne said with an air of finality, "but the day after—if you're in the same condition you are now—I think you may venture to get out. Of course, you will still have to come back for the dressing of your wounds."

The officer leaned back upon his pillows:

"You wished to see me?"

A quiet voice with a subtle note of authority in it sounded behind me. I looked up startled to see a slight, rather good-looking young interne standing behind my chair. The nurse, with an inscrutable little smile in her eyes, which I hotly resented, stood a little back of him. Neither the wounded officer nor I had heard them come into the room.

I recognized at once that the question had not been addressed to me, and drew back into my chair—i might say "shrank back," for I found myself unaccountably embarrassed at the whole situation—with my face turned expectantly toward the sick man.

To my great surprise the young officer, he of the calm face and chilled steel nerves, was visibly confused for the fraction of a minute. He evidently hadn't given another thought to the message he had sent the interme since the moment he succeeded in getting the nurse out of earshot by means of the subterfuge.

But he was equal to the situation. He hesitated only a second or two, then

It is apparent that conservation on a greater scale than was expected will be necessary, in order to meet the sugar situation and to build up a sufficient reserve.

Pearson stated that he had no detailed report to make of the negotiations which have been under way with General Manager Warburton.

President Woods of the Traction Company had a conference with Chairman Pearson of the street railway and City Solicitor Doherty, and a trip was made through the company's car barns. It is understood that in the event of a bylaw being submitted for the purchase of a part of the line it is planned to secure the building also.

There was some discussion tonight over street railway matters in general. In the material taken up on St. Catherine street the city engineer found 100 good scrap rails.

A complaint was made that all the conductors are not carrying tickets for sale to passengers. This matter will be remedied. The committee found that the superintendent was not exercising sufficient reserve.

Restrictions On Dealers.

The statement points out that manufacturers and other dealers in food who are under license from the Canada a brood Board have already had their consumption of sugar sharply curtailed. During May, June, July and August, Canadian merchants have had their of cane sugar used during 1917. To enforce this regulation effectively the Canada food board has issued sugar centificates to all manufacturers of candy, and wholesale grocers have been instructed not to sell sugar to candy manufacturers, except on presentation of such certificate. All purchases of sugar are listed on the certificates and the latter become void after the sugar allowed by the food board has been purchased.

General Curtailment.

The use of cane sugar for making candy for private consumption has been prohibited. The use of sugar in public eating places has been regulated and public eating place patrons have been pro no sugar rations.

Manufacturers of sweets and cakes have been limited to the amount of sugar they may use to a barrel of flour. Some bakery products have been prohibited, while it is now illegal for any person to make for private consumption iced cakes or biscuits, or cakes with icing of cane sugar between the layers or added to the exterior. The amount of sugar used in the manufacture of ice cream has been restricted, and now no more than six pounds of cane sugar may legally be used to eight gallons of ice cream.

Private Holders Disgorge.

Limitations on private holdings of sugar have prevented securing and speculating and have resulted in the return of large quantities of sugar which were being held by private individuals.

The food board adds that these regulations have been fully effective as—was expected. Further restrictions of the use of sugar in those industries which are of lesser importance are being considered, but the board is appealing to private citizens to do their utmost to reduce the consumption of sugar in the homes.

Capitulates Audience.

The Labor congress capitulated to M. Kerensky when he appeared on the platform at the close of a long afternoon session during which considerable anti-Kerensky sentiment had been vocified and before he had finished his speech he received a great ovation.

Finally he had to leave the hall by a side door in order to escape the crowd of besiegers who were clamoring for his autograph or a handshake.

M. Kerensky in opening his speech said:

"Yesterday one of the members of the conference asked what right had kerensky to be present. I shall answer the question. FALL WHEAT SEED

N view of the partial failure of the Fall wheat crop in this Province this year it will be necessary for farmers to make early arrangements for the supply of seed which they will need for Fall sowing. Under these circumstances farmers who have on hand quantities of wheat suitable for Fall seeding are urged to conserve them for this purpose. If there is no demand locally, the information should be supplied to this Department, or to the Local Office of this Department in your County, so that every effort may be made to have an equitable and satisfactory distribution. The need for foodstuffs justifies a large acreage of Fall wheat in this Province again this year, and the co-operation of the farmers in the mobilization and distribution of the available seed supplies is invited.

PREDICTS LONG HARD STRUGGLE TO BEAT HUNS

Senator Reed Urges Greater Efforts on Part of the United States.

GERMANY STILL STRONG

Draft Age Limits Will Have To Be Extended Before Finis Is Written.

WASHINGTON, June 27.-Speaking on the $12,000,000,000 army appropriation bill, Senator Reed declared in the Senate today that, although Germany eventually will be defeated, it will be accomplished only after the Allies have suffered tremendous losses. He said the central powers hold the advantage in heavy guns on every front. Senator Reed asserted that America has no heavy guns except those that have been taken from the supply of the navy department, and that it will re-quire nearly two years to get a suffitient supply.

The United States will have to excient supply.

The United States will have to extend the draft age limits, declared Senator Reed. The central powers, he said, have a greater population than the Ehtente countries, and were better prepared for war. Italy, he said, was "totally unprepared in arms and materiak when she entered the war," and ades that the break in its lines last fall cannot be disregarded, for both French and British divisions are still kept on the Italian front.

"Treland has failed to do its duty in this war," he asserted, in support of his claim that the complete man power of the Allies could not be mustered against the Germans.

Senator Reed said he was opposed to preparing for the prosecution of this war in "a piecemeal fashion." and warned against over-confidence.

"Let us not deceive obreselves," he declared, "that Germany up to this day has been triumphant in this war. It is time to quit day-dreaming. Germany has today, even with the million Americans on the front, an advantage in men, according to information I got. I am very sure she has an advantage in metal. I am also very sure, if the war is won.

In metal. I am also very sure, if the war is won, it will be by the United States putting forth so great an effort that we have not begun to learn of it."

CUTTING OF GAS TO TILE FACTORIES IS CALLED SERIOUS

Means Big Reduction in Western Ontario Production.

VIRGINIA, Minn., June 27.—At least twenty miners are known to be dead as the result of an explosion of dynamite, set off by a bolt of lightning during a heavy storm at the silver mine of the M. A. Hanna Company today.

Thousands of tons of ore fell in as a result of the explosion, burying the twenty men. It is believed others were caught. Several others were injured seriously. duction in Ontario, was the consensus of opinion at a meeting of the executive of the Western Ontario Clay Workers, held at Chatham today. It was pointed out that the order of the Ontario and municipal railway board, conserving natural gas for domestic consumption after this date, is not in accord with a win-the-war policy. Under-drained land, the members pointed out, will produce $21.65 worth more food to the acre than will the fields that have not been tiled, according to Official Ontario Bulletin No. 174, on farm under-drainage. These figures were based on 1909 prices of foodstuffs.

If the present prices be taken, the increased production will be $41.13 per acre, 90½ per cent more than under 1909 valuation. In 1909 wheat sold at $1, barley at 58 cents, oats at 47 cents, peas at 90 cents, and corn at 75 cents per bushel. Today wheat is selling at $2.20, barley at $1.35, and corn at $5.35, an average of $1.41 per bushel. This is an verage of $1.41 per bushel. This verage of $1.41 per bushel.

peas at $1.35, and corn at $1.35, an average of $1.41 per bushel. This is an a verage in increase in market production of 90½ per cent.

Drain 50,000 Acres.

The tile plants of Western Ontario have a capacity of 31,000,000 feet of 4-inch tile per year. This output would properly drain 50,000 acres of land every year, according to the best practice, as recommended by the Ontario department of agriculture. There are 4,816,000 acres in Ontario that need tiling, and in addition there are 5,000,000 acres of marsh land that are now unproductive, according to the bulletin on farm drainage. In view of these conditions the production of tile ought to be increased rather than diminished, in the opinion of the convention. The seriousness of the situation will be realized when it is remembered that 76 per cent of the tile is manufactured in plants using natural gas as fuel.

Considering the figures above it will be seen that the total output of the tile yards of Western Ontario would cause an increased yearly production of foods to the value of $1.082,500, hased on 1909 prices, or $2,056,500, if 1918 values be taken. Supposing this under-drainage were kept up yearly the value of the increase in production in the year 1939 would be $21,650,000 at 1909 prices, or $4,130,000, based on 1918 values.

The total value of the increase in production, as a result of proper drainage for the 20 years would be $182,500,000 at 1909 prices, or $429,865,000 of 1918 figures be taken.

RAIN IS NEEDED

TO QUICKEN GROWTH WHALEN, June 27 .- Owing to the

DANGEROUS BLAZE

The fire department was called out WH?LEN, June 27.—Owing to the continued dry weather the growth has been very slow in this district. There has been no rain excet a light shower for a long time, and things are at a standstill. There will be a good yield of corn and roots if rain comes soon. Hay is only a fair crop. Some farmers are cutting clover. Barley seems a good crop; oats are heavy on the fields, and rains later on will make them a good crop.

The fire department was called out last night about 11 o'clock to Gurd's brown the day o'clock to Gurd's was nighted to about $100.
