Friendships.

If you prove a friend there are friends for you Who will lighten your upward way.
There are hosts that are tender, and strong and true.
If you seek them here to-day, But beware of the false friends who beguile, When you say lies through the eye,
They will laugh and gloat with alluring smiles, But they fall you one by one.
One by one, should misfortune come,
With they father and fade away, For their hands grow cold and their lips are dry.
When they think it will not pay,
All then does the true friend give his worth,
With his strong arm to the end—If a glimpse of heaven be found on earth, 'Tis the smile of such a friend.

Rewards and Punishments.

The mother of six children was talking seriously with the mother of one. As is usual with young mothers the latter was most vigilant in re-pressing any inclination to wrong doing on the part of her little one. She was afraid to pass over a fault, and was solicitous to ascertain how she ought to punish any indiscretion of the baby culprit. The older woman, smiling, said, "I am afraid we all go through this phase in bringing up our children. Baby No. 1 is more strictly looked after and more frequently punished for misbehavior than are his little successors. No. 2 and No. 3 are not so often spanked as was No. 1 and by the time No. 7 arrives there is a good deal of indulgence. If I had my children to bring up again I should punish less and reward more. Praise is an incentive to right doing, while blame lays a heavy burden on a little heart. Children are in a new world, and they make mistakes just as their elders do. If God were not lenient with us for our transgressions how much greater would our suffering be?"

Worth Knowing.

In cooking very sour fruits, put in a very little salt, and much less sugar will be necessary.

Spots may be easily swept from carpets by sprinkling lavishly with salt before sweeping.

To make fudge smooth and creamy, add to it (while making) a level teaspoonful of cornstarch.

Stained floor boards can be cleaned by scrubbing with chloride of lime, using a tablespoonful of a pail of water.

Tarnished articles of brass when washed in the water in which potatoes have been boiled will be as bright as new.

If you drop grease on the kitchen floor, scatter salt on it and then pour boiling water. The spot will come out easily.

Try hot pancakes on soft paper in front of the oven if you wish to be sure of their being absolutely free from grease.

If eggs are placed in hot water for a few seconds before breaking the whites will separate from the yolks very easily. They must be cooled by whipping up the whites.

Cornmeal does not greatly improve if it is kept in the dry season in springs upon them when they are half baked. The cornmeal does not stick, but browns delectably, giving a fine flavor.

Everything is All Right.

Some of our reformers who go about this country preaching that everything is going to blazes ought to be led by the hair of the head out to some secluded spot and dealt with firmly, but gently by one of those good old time co-smittees they used to have in California in 1849.

Business is all right—if some of the "calmity hollers" would only shut up and leave things clear. The epidemics we need to have, killed more people by fear than by actual disease. Panics are caused by too much talk. Many a good bank has been busted by some loose mouthed individual shouting his head off saying that the bank was in falling condition.

Let's all take on a cheery, optimistic look. This is going to be a fine prosperous year. All we need to do is to look up and not down—look forward and not backward.—Tix

Some Witty Toasts.

At a certain banquet a crusty old Bachelor gave the toast, "Woman—she requires no eulogy; she speaks for herself!"

Upon another occasion a gallant youth referred to one member of the sex whom he eulogized as a delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence!

At the marriage breakfast of a deaf and dumb couple one guest, in the speech of the evening, wished them "unpardonable bliss!"

A writer of comedies was giving a banquet in honor of his latest work, at which a jovial guest gave the toast, "The author's very good health! May he live to be as old as his jokes!"

At another gathering were toasted "The Bench and the Bar—if it were not for the Bar there would be little use for the Bench!"

At a shortskirted dinner one of the company suggested, "May we have all the women in the country to shoe and all the men to boot!"

Shad.

A few years ago shad were in a fair way to be counted as a luxury, if, instead, they continued to be counted at all. The shad fishing industry in the Delaware River fell off to such an extent that it hardly paid the fishermen to operate their seines. This year as the shad season approaches the fishermen are getting ready for it in the expectation that they will surpass the catch of 31,000 in a single day, which is the top notch record to the present time. The reason for this increase is that the government took hold of the matter, instituted the artificial hatching system, and since then has annually stocked the Delaware with millions of young shad. The results are more and more shad, and nets running from 500 to 700 fathoms in length to handle each season's catch.
The shad industry is a striking example of the possibilities of the government's policy for the protection and propagation of edible fish.—New York Fishing Gazette.

A Flaw in His Character.

I had known him for about four years. He had seemed to me to be a boy of good principles, a hard worker and dependable. I grew to like him very much. I met him a few days ago. He was with his parents. I passed them once within a few feet, and heard him speak to his father in a disrespectful manner. I saw the face of the father and the face of the mother—though they did not see me.
What pain shot across their faces in that instant! Down, down went the boy in my estimation. I thought hard for minutes, my thoughts for him, and there slow ya came back to my ears those insistent words to his father, and I could never forget the pain which his insolence had caused.

What We See in the Mirror.

An amusing viewpoint of the mirror question is reported by a recent writer who overheard two girls talking behind a shop counter. One of them asked the other if she liked her own looks in the glass. The other replied that honestly her own appearance always surprised her. She never looked at she to sight she did. She thought of herself as tall and thin, with gray eyes. The mirror showed her a short roly poly, with brown eyes. When she had her picture taken she found a rickety youngster, a sober matron and a pretty girl with light hair. Her friends all said that the pretty girl with the light hair was she, so she accepted their verdict and bought two copies of that photograph in her room, to look at gleefully and say, "That is you, that is how you really look."

The Mexican Crisis.

It is a mad world, a very, very mad world! At a time when peace conferences and celebrations are in preparation, and arbitration and disarmament seem to be becoming hastily within the vision of the rest, it all fades away into nothingness before the rude shock of war. That is what the present crisis means, war. The great mass of the American people have war in their hearts, and their hands clutch eagerly for guns, that they may kill some of their fellow creatures.—The Public.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

used the mirror to illustrate his theme when he told his friends that there are always three Johns—the one John thinks himself to be—the one John friends think him and the real John.
Mirrors and photographs both prove what a series of different impressions the same individual makes at different times, even at different moments seen in a slightly different light. The mental and moral impressions made vary in the same way, which implies an indefinite number of Johns, and one of which is John as he really is.
Here is reason for suspending judgment, especially when we gain an interesting impression of any one. The next person he meets may see a different John. Still we choose the better as the nearer right?

New Hope for Sufferers From Paralysis.

There are cases of paralysis that cannot be cured. But that is far different from saying that every case of paralysis is incurable. There is absolute proof that many forms of this disease are curable. Of the cases that cannot be cured many can be so beneficial that the formerly hopeless sufferer will once more find life worth living.

Attention is called to the remarkable cures that have been effected in cases of partial paralysis, and other severe nervous disorders, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Some of these cures are so wonderful as to challenge belief, but in every case the statements have been carefully verified and may be investigated by anyone interested. In this connection the case of Miss B.
Millham, of St. John, N. B., is worthy of the most careful attention.
Miss Millham says: "Some three years ago I was taken seriously ill with diphtheria. The doctor brought me safely through this dreaded trouble, and I was assumed to be well. But two weeks later I took a relapse, my throat and limbs becoming paralyzed. I could neither speak nor walk. I was under the best medical care, and after a few weeks was able to sit up in bed, but my throat was still completely paral-yzed and I could only utter unintelligible sounds. I was treated by three of St. John's best physicians, for this trouble and my case was given up as hopeless. A friend asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I had spent so much on medicine without help that I thought it would be only a further waste of money. However, I felt myself growing daily weaker and weaker, and I decided as a last chance that I would try the Pills. By the time I had taken a half dozen boxes I could walk across the floor, something that doctors had told me could never happen again. I still continued taking the pills, my speech returned, and I felt myself in perfect health. My friends thought my restoration nothing short of a miracle and I think myself that I have to thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I am living today, and I feel confident they can do quite as much for others as they did for me.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect cures in cases of this kind because they make new, rich, red blood, which feeds and strengthens the nerves, and tones up the whole system. If you are in need of a medicine give these pills a trial. We are confident you will not be disappointed. Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50

Editorial Notes.

Citizens should appreciate the efforts of the Board of Trade in the direction of a clearer and more beautiful Wolfville. No loyal resident will object to those who are showing an active interest getting all the credit that is due them.

The post office and customs occupied the new building last Friday for the first. The quarters are very roomy and convenient and the change is one that is much appreciated. THE ACADIAN has before published a description of the building which is one of the finest of the kind in Canada and an ornament to the town.

The program of this evening's concert by the Acadia Choral Club, together with the artists is given in another place. The evening promises to be one of rare enjoyment. Lovers of music will be glad to hear Mr. George Raseley of whose voice and work the Pittsburg Sentinel says: 'Mr. Raseley's is a voice of rare quality, manly and vigorous..... His work showed appreciation of color and phrasing..... His ability in this respect was happily displayed in his group of songs which were sung with great beauty.' And 'The Worcester Gazette' says: 'Mr. Raseley's voice is so beautifully modulated that it reaches the high notes with ease and in the lower register is true and correct.' And again, 'His tenor is of beautiful quality rarely sweet and of adequate range and fitness.' Such an opportunity ought not to be missed. Tickets at Rand's. Reserved seats 50c. General admission 35c.

Coming Feature Pictures.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE. A rich treat is in store for the patrons of the Opera House this month in the line of feature photoplays. Commencing on Monday, May 11th, and continuing every alternate Monday until Oct. 26th, a series of photo dramas, thirteen in all, yet interlarded under the captions, 'The Adventures of Kathlyn,' will be shown. In all points these surpass Selig's previous achievements in photoplays of thrills, dramatic tenacity and oriental magnificence.

A series of situations, tremendously sensational in coloring, involving the savage denizens of the jungle; a multitude of scenes magnificent beyond compare, ranging from California to the far side of the sea, from India to distant Africa, the most difficult and dangerous engagements with wild animals as they progress a pathway of peril; while the Orientalism of all its environment gives opulence and beauty to its purely pictorial power. Kathlyn Williams plays the title part which is a guarantee of a well staged production.

On Friday, May 22nd, a special extra feature under the title, 'The Lion and the Mouse,' adapted from the well known Broadway play, will hold the screen. On Monday night, May 25th, in conjunction with the second series of 'Kathlyn's' pictures, will be shown the great educational subject, 'The Day Terror'; this film is being shown throughout the United States in co-operation with Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's National Campaign, and has been endorsed by the Sociological Fund of the 'Medical Review of Reviews.'

On Wednesday, May 27th, the feature will be 'Judith of Bethulia'; a four reel fascinating work of high artistic value up to the personal sacrifice of 'Judith of Bethulia'; a perilous chance taken for the sake of the lives and happiness of the people.

It may be possible that the latter date may be shifted to make room for the musical farce, 'Alma.' On the first of June the great educational feature in eight reels, 'Sixty Years a Queen,' will be presented, dealing with all the principal events during the life of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria.

On the first of June the well known musical comedy, 'The Red Rose,' will be offering.

Certain mechanical changes in our operating room now enable us to show an absolutely pictureless picture. You do not want to miss one of these at least as every one without exception is of the very highest class. Don't forget the date on Wednesday, May 13th, when the Stars of the Boston Opera Co. with Scotey, White, Bepin, Kamella and other prominent stars will hold the boards.

THIS WILL UNDOUBTEDLY BE THE MUSICAL EVENT OF THE SEASON.

A young Canadian violinist, Miss Evelyn Starr, made her London debut yesterday afternoon at the Beethoven Hall. For rich, sonorous tone production of unimitatable beauty, combined with delicacy of touch, Miss Starr has seldom been excelled at a first appearance. Her program was chosen with taste and insight, quite a rare achievement among new performers, and she began with examples from Vivaldi and Corelli, dated 1660 and 1673, followed by selections from Max Bruch, Cesar Cal, Arensky and Wieniawski. In all wonderful tone and a dominating feature, although her phrasing, execution, and interpretation also reached a high level. Miss Starr was fortunate in meeting Mr. Hamilton Harty, an accomplished London Daily Chronicle April 20th, 1914.

It is reported that Miss Starr, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. C. H. Starr, will arrive in Wolfville at the end of next week.

A Few Suggestions.

To the Editor of THE ACADIAN. Sir—Mr. P. W. Lawson has in your issue of May 1st asked for suggestions on the progressive road movement.

The Good Roads Movement, which I trust has come to stay in this county, is, I believe, a project that will tend to the betterment of the county, surpassing that of railroads. Without roads leading to the rail roads the latter would be of little value to the country and of less value to the owners of them. The products of the farms for shipment in this valley have increased a hundred fold within the past fifty years, causing a hundred times as much traffic upon the roads; yet the system of road making is the same as it was a half century ago. Hardly any two sections of road are made alike; one overseer may see to the drainage of a road and another overlook it entirely. One may keep suds, vegetable mould and loose stones out of the road, and another use all of this objectionable material in road construction.

Who are they, or how many of us, fully realize the importance of the word 'drainage'? If it were not for the natural watercourses which carry the water to the sea, this valley would be uninhabitable. While nature has done so much about a left march for man to do in this respect. Scores of people have lived and are living upon a wet and undrained soil. In the wet season their back end and yards are wet; their cellars are wet; their barns are wet and do not yield half the crop for the energy, time and money expended that the same acreage would produce if well drained. From a sanitary point of view the well drained land or farm has every advantage; the family is healthier; less liable to rheumatism, tuberculosis or any infection, and less doctor's bills to pay. I am aware, however, in discussing the question 'good roads' that to some it may seem a deviation to refer to its connection to the preservation of health, but if good roads cannot be made and maintained without drainage they have something to do with the promotion and preservation of health. Rome built the Appian Way and other roads for the commerce of her colonies, of huge masses of rock and masonry several feet in thickness, some of which still remain. Since then the necessity of this great depth of material has been done away with. The practical road builder has discovered that the natural soil if kept dry by drainage, will bear almost any load, yet even in this enlightened day the fact is tardily accepted. I would venture another suggestion; that one of the main functions of the 'Good Roads Association' will be to seriously consider, not only the use of the split log drag and the automobile question, but the necessity of a change in the system of road making.

Abolishing statute labor has been found in many countries to be more equitable and fair to the taxpayer than the present system in vogue in this county. For instance the man who is assessed $250.00 pays for two days' labor, or the sum of $2.00. The man who is assessed for $3000.00 pays for ten days labor or $10.00 as against the man's $2.00 for an assessment of $250.00, but if levied on a basis of assessment, as in the case where statute labor is abolished, for $10.00 paid on $3000.00 an assessment of $250.00 would pay only 84 cents. Thus we see how unfair has been the assessment for statute labor, unfair to the small property holder.

I know it is argued that, under the present system, a man in the rural districts can work out his own assessment upon the roads. Some men and others cannot do so. Many of those who do their statute labor upon the roads know or care but little how the roads are made. Under the tax system, the supervisor or road overseer is at liberty to choose laborers who will do as faithful a day's work upon the road as when employed in doing any other kind of work. We know full well that the performance of statute labor has in the past been a time serving problem, in many instances getting through with the work with the least possible labor, in how many instances have we heard the supervisor, when statute labor was being done, of four or five men loading a cart and then sitting down waiting for the team to return. When the road overseer knows his business and the amount of money he has to expend, he is in a position to make definite plans and do his work systematically. Lack of method and lack of system have been the bane and great drawback to the economical and permanent improvement of roads. Statute labor and the expenditure of money are too apt to be done or made independent of one another, or without thought of future work or requirements. We see a lot of men working on the roads, year after year, and we naturally look for an improvement in the roads, but at the end of the season we look in vain. The work is irregular, scattered, no record kept of it. It is too often done in favor of voters who have the greatest influence or who make the loudest demands, irrespective of the rights of the individual taxpayer or the general public. Another suggestion: every township in the county should possess a stone crusher with screen attached. The machine should be utilized at the gravel pit for screening gravel and crushing the stone that comes out of most gravel pits. Most gravel pits are more or less clay or loam mixed with the gravel. Such material should not be dumped upon the road without first being screened. When screened gravel containing

HAD TO STOP WORK FROM THE PAIN

Suffered Ten Years Until "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

Dr. Thomas, Ont., May 22nd, 1913.
"I was troubled for ten years with the most distressing Constipation and Indigestion of the worst form.
No one could have been worse with these troubles than I was for this long time.
The pain from indigestion was so severe that many times, I have had to stop work and lie down until the acute spasms passed away.
I took a lot of medicine—in fact, I guess I took about everything that was advertised—and gave them all a fair try, but got no relief. About a year ago, however, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives". I am mighty glad I did so for they seem to be made exactly for me.
They gave results in a very short time and I am now free from these diseases and enjoying perfect health.
My wife also used "Fruit-a-tives" and we both think they are the best medicine ever made."

The Greater Good.

'Twas a dangerous cliff as they freely confessed.
Though to walk near its crest was no pleasure;
But over its terrible edge there had slipped A duke and full many a peasant.
So the people said something would have to be done, But their projects did not at all tally.

Some, 'Put a fence around the edge of the cliff.'
Some, 'An ambulance down in the valley.'
But the cry for the ambulance carried the day.
And it spread through the neighborhood.
A fence may be useful or not, it is true, But each heart became brimful of pity For those who slipped over the dangerous cliff.
And the dwellers in highway and alley Gave pounds or gave pence, not to put up a fence, But an ambulance down in the valley.

Thus an old sage remarked: 'It's a marvel to me That people give far more attention To repairing results than to stopping the cause.
When the better aim at prevention, Let us stop at its source all this mischief cried he,
'Come neighbors and friends let us rally, If the cliff we will fence, we might at least dispense With the ambulance down in the valley.'
'Oh, he's a fanatic,' the other rejoined;
'Dispense with the ambulance!
Never!
He'd dispense with all charities, too;
If he could.
No, no, we'll support them forever!
Aren't we picking up folks just as fast as they fall,
And shall this man dictate to us Shall he?
Why should the people of sense stop
To put up a fence,
While the ambulance works in the valley?'
—Joseph Mallon.

A Mother's Lament.

'I wish that you would talk to my daughter, sir. Perhaps you can have some influence for good over her. She won't listen to anything that I can say.' What sad words were those that were wrung from the lips of a mother! 'She won't hear! Alas, who then will she hear? She will not listen to that mother whose eyes watched over her infancy which have grown dim with many tears shed for her sake—she will not listen to the mother whose heart never beat one thro' that was not true to her real interests—to the mother whose bosom was her cradle, who grows over her with an amiable tone, and who labors for her by day and prays for her at night.
The self-willed girl grows up a rebellious and ignorant—she won't hear!

'Say at the head of the class, what are we paying for higher as a nation?

'$900,000,000 annually.'

'Step to the blackboard, my boy. First take a rule and measure this silver dollar. How thick is it?'

'Nearly an eighth of an inch.'

'Well, sir, how many of them can you put in an inch?'

'Between eight and nine.'

'Give the benefit of the doubt; call it nine. How many inches would it require to pile these $920,000,000 in.'

'100,000,000 inches.'

'How many feet would that be?'

'8,333,333 feet.'

'How many rods is that?'

'How many miles is that?'

To Repair Stained Wall Paper.

Of the many things the household is heir to, few are more annoying than the discoloration of wall papers resulting from damp, burst pipes or over-flowing cisterns.

It is sometimes possible to cover the spot with a piece of paper to match, but very often this is not a valuable and in such a case it is an excellent idea to apply to an artist's colors and from amongst his French pastels match the tint of the paper exactly. Occasionally it may be necessary to rub two pastels together.

When the damp has dried out the marks left can be colored and with a little skill and care the pattern can even be redrawn so as to fit it to the unimpaired portions. An ordinary eye will not notice the repair. The pastels should be of the "soft" variety, rubbed on direct and then spread with the finger and a soft cloth. The pastels cost very little.

Farm Jobs and the Unemployed.

One of the chief defects of the Back to the Land' cry is that it does not take enough account of practical conditions. There is no good reason why a factory mechanic or artisan bred or accustomed to city life should not go in for farming as he would take up and learn another urban business. It is he who is the danger to the rural life, with its panorama of crowded amusements, varied amusements, and his habit of the quiet life on the farm. If he were not true, it might be a very desirable occurrence for him to be sent to return to the land when out of employment in the city. In the days to come there may be many men quite accustomed to the labor who are idle and looking for work. It is not strange that the Dominion Immigration Agent, Mr. Robert Birmingham, has to declare that he has thousands of applicants from farmers asking help for overwintering. What of these "un-broke" unemployed? Are they unwilling to go back to the land? The immigration agent says that the vacancies will probably have to be filled by the new coming immigrants from Britain. Do some people esteem the role of farmer-laborer as beneath their dignity, even if they are reduced to hardship through non-employment at other work? In the mind of some native Canadians there seems to be a notion that a stigma attaches to working for wages on a farm. Yet many men who have started life in Canada just this way have made a name and a fortune for themselves.
