UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. CHAP. XVII.- (Concluded.)

The Pursuit.-Phineas Fletcher's Generalship. -The Attack.-What is Heroism !- Discomfiture of Tom Loker.-The First Law of Nature.

A LITTLE while after supper a large covered wagon drew up before the door; the night was clear starlight, and Phineas jumped briskly down from his seat to arrange his passengers.
George walked out of the door, with his child on one arm and his wife on the other. His step was firm, his face settled and resolute. Rachel and Simeon came out after them.

"You get out a moment," said Phineas, to those inside, "and let me fix the back of the wagon, there, for the women-folks and the boy."

"Here fire the two buffaloes," said Rachel.
"Make the soats as comfortable as may be; it's hard riding all night."

Jim came out first, and carefully assisted out his old mother, who clung to his arm and looked his old mother, who clung to his arm and looked anxiously about, as if she expected the pursuer anxiously acoust, as a revery moment.

"Jim, are your pistols all in order?" said George, in a low, firm voice.

"Yes, indeed," said Jim.

"And you're no doubt what you shall do, if they come!"

"I rather think I haven't," said Jim, throwing open his broad chest, and taking a deep breath. "Do you think, I'll let them get mo-breath. "Do you think, I'll let them get mo-ther again!"

During this brief colloquy Eliza had been taking her leave of her kind friend Rachel, and was handed into the carriage by Simeon, and, creeping into the back part with her boy, sat down smong the buffalo-skins. The old wo-math was next handed in and seated, and George and Jim placed on a rough-board seat front of them, and Phineas mounted in front.
"Farewell, my friends!" said Simeon, from without.

them, and Phineas mounted in front.

"Parewell, my friends!" said Simeon, from without.

"God bless you!" answered all from within. And the wagon drove off, rattling and jolting over the frozen road.

There was no opportunity for conversation, on account of the roughness of the way and the noise of the wheels. The vehicle therefore rumbled on, through long, dark stretches of woodland, over wide dreary plains, up hills and down valleys, and on, on, on they jogged, hour after hour. The child soon fell asleep, and lay heavily in his mother's lap. The poor, frightened old woman at last forgot her fears: and even Eliza, as the night waned, found all her anxieties insufficient to keep her eyes from closing. Phineas seemed, on the whole, the briskest of the company, and beguiled his long drive with whistling certain very un-quakerlike songs as he went on.

But about three o'elock, George's ear caught the hasty and decided click of a horse's hoof coming behind them at some distance, and jogged Phineas by the elbow. Phineas pulled up his horses and listened.

"That must be Michael," he said! "I think I know the sound of his gallop;" and he rose up and stretched his head anxiously back over the road.

A man riding in hot haste was now dimly descried at the top of a distant hill.

In a twinkling they were all outof the carriage. "There," said Phineas, catching up Harry, "you cach of you, see to the woman; and run, now, if you ever did run.

There needed no exhortation. Quicker than we can say it, the whole party were over the fence, making with all speed for the rocks, while Michael, throwing himself from his horse, and fastening the bridle to the wagon began driving it rapidly away.

"Come ahead!" said Phineas, as they reached the rocks, and saw, in the mingled starlight and dawn, the traces of a rude but plainly marked footpath leading up among them: this is one of our old hunting dens. Come up!"

Phineas went before, springing up the rocks like a goat, with the boy in his arms. Jim came second, bearing his trembling old mother over his shoulder, and George and Eliza brought up the rear. The party of horsemen came up to the fence, and, with mingled shouts and oaths, were dismounting, to prepare to follow them. A few moments, scrambling brought them to the top of the ledge; the path then passed between a narrow defile, where only one could walk at a time, till suddenly they came to a rift or chasm more than a yard in breadth, and beyond which lay a pile of rocks, separate from the rest of the ledge, standing full thirty feet high, with its sides steep and perpendicular as those of a castle. Phineae easily leaped the chasm, and sat down the boy on a smooth, flat platform of crisp white moss, that covered the top of the rock.

"Over with you!" he called: "spring, now, once, for your lives!" said he, as one after once.

another sprang across. Several fragments of loose stone formed a kind of breastwork, which sheltered their position from the observation of those below:

"Well, here we all are," said Phineas, peeping over the stone breastwork to watch the assailants, who were coming tumultuously up under the rocks. "Let 'em get us, if they can. Whoever comes here has to walk single file between those two rocks, in fair range of your pistols, boys, d'ye see?"

"I do see," said George; and now, as this matter is ours; let us take all the risk, and do all the fighting."

"Thee's quite welcome to do the fighting. George," said Phiusas, chewing some checker-berry-leaves as he spoke; "but I may have the fun of looking on, I suppose. But see, these fellows are kinder debating down there, and looking up, like hens when they are going to dy up on to the roost. Hadn't thee better give 'em a word of advice, before they come up, just to tell 'em handsomely, they'll be shot if they do!"

The party beneath, now more apparent in the light of the dawn, consisted of our old acquaintances, Tom Loker and Marks, with two constables, and a posse consisting of such rowdies at the last tavern as could be engaged by a little brandy to go and help the fun of trapping a set of niggers.

"Well, Tom, yer coons are farly treed," said

"Yes, I see 'em go up right here," said Tom;
"and here's a path. I'm for going right up.

take long to ferret 'em out."
"But, Tom, they might fire at us from behind the rocks," said Marks. "That would be ugly, despair gave fire to his dark eye; and, as if appealing from man to the justice of God, he raised his hand to heaven as he spoke.

If it had been only a Hungarian youth, now, bravely defending in some mountain fiastness the retreat of fugitives enoughing from Austria into America, this would have been sublime heroism; but as it was a youth of African descent, defending the retreat of fugitives through America into Canada, of course we are too well instructed and patriotic to see any heroism it; and if any of our readers do, they must do it on their own private responsibility. When despairing Hungarian fugitives make their way, against all the search-warrants and authorities of their lawful government, to America, press and political cabinet ring with applause and welcome. When despairing African fugitives do the same thing, it is what is it?

Be it as it may, it is certain that the attitude, the way against all the search-warrants and and an an authorities of their lawful government, to America, press and political cabinet ring with applause and welcome. When despairing African draw and the responsibility. When intended to go forward and bring her with the wagon; but we shall have to walk a piece along the road, I reckon, to meet them. The Lord grant he be along soon! It's early in the day; there won't be much travel afoot yet awhile; we an't much more than two miles from our stopping-place. If the road hadn't been so rough in the distance, along the road, their own wagon coming back, accompanied by some men on horseback.

"Well, now, there's Michael as as if we'd got there."

"Well, now, there's Michael, and Stephen, and Amariah," exclaimed Phineas, joyfully. "Now we are made—as as fe as if we'd got there."

what is it!

Be it as it may, it is certain that the attitude, eye, voice, manner of the speaker; for a moment struck the party below to silence. There is something in boldness and determination that for a time hushes even the rudest nature. Marks was the only one who remained wholly untouched. He was deliberately cocking his pistol, and in the momentary silence that followed George's speech, he fired at him.

"Ye see, ye get jist as much for him dead as alive in Kentucky," he said coolly, as he wiped his pistol on his coat sleeve.

George sprang backward—Eliza uttered a shriek— the ball had passed close to his hair, had nearly grazed the cheek of his wife, and stuck in the tree above.

"It's nothing, Eliza," said Gaorge, quickly. "Thee'd better keep out of sight, with thy speechifying," said Phineas; "they're mean scamps."

"Now, Jim," said George, "look that your pistols are all right and watch that pass with me. The first man that shows himself I fire at; you take the second, and so on: it won't do, you know, to waste two shots on one."

"But what if you don't hit!" Be it as it may, it is certain that the attitude

"But what if you don't hit?"

"I shall hit," said George, coolly.

"Good! Now, there's stuff in that fellow," muttered Phineas, between his teeth.

The party below, after Marks had fired, stood, for a moment, rather undecided.

"I think you must have hit some on 'em." said one of the men. "I heard a squeal!"

"I'm going right up for one," said Tom. "I never was afraid of niggers, and I an't going to be now. Who goes after?" he said, springing up the rocks.

George heard the words distinctly. He drew up his pistol, examined it, pointed it towards that point in the defile where the first man would appear.

One of the most courageous of the party followed Tom, and, the way being thus made, the whole party began pushing up the rock—the hindermost pushing the front ones faster than they would have gone of themselves. On they came, and in a moment the burly form of Tom apeared in sight, almost at the verge of the chasm.

George fired—the shot entered his side; but though wounded he would not retrest, but, with a well litte that of a mad hell he was beening right.

George fired—the shot entered his side; but though wounded he .would not retrest, but, with a yell like that of a mad bell; he was leaping right across the chasm into the party.

"Friend," said Phineas, suddenly to the front, and meeting him with a push from his long arms, "thee isn't wanted here."

Down he fell into the chasm, crackling down among trees, bushes, logs, loose stories, till he lay, bruised and groaning, thirty feet below. The fall might have killed him, had it not been broken and moderated by his clothes catching in the reaches of a large tree; but he came down with some force, however—more than was at all agreeable or convenient.

"Lord, help us! they are perfect devils!" said were quite out of sight, Phineas began to bestir himself.

"Well; we must go down and walk a piece," he said. "I told Michael to go forward and bring help, and be along back here with the wagor, but we shall have to walk a piece along the road, I reckon, to meet them. The Lord grant he be along soon! It's early in the day: there won't be much travel afoot yet awhile; we an't much more than two miles from our stopping-place. If the road hadn't been so rough last night, we could have outrun'em entirely."

As the party neared the fence, they discovered in the distance, along the road, their own wagon coming back, accompanied by some men on horseback.

"Well, now, there's Michael, and Stephen, and Amariah," exclaimed Phineas, joyfully. "Now we are made—as safe as if we'd got there."

"Well, do stop, then," said Eliza, "and do something for that poor man; he's groaning dreadfully."

"It would be no more than Christian," said George; let's take him up and carry him on."

"And doctor him up among the Quakers!" said Phineas; "pretty well, that! Well, I don't care, if we do. Here let's have a look at him!" and Phineas, who in the course of his hunting and backwoods life, had acquired some rade experience of surgery, kneeled down by the wounded man, and began a careful examination of his condition.

"Marks," said Tom, feebly; "is that you,

The House again took up the Report of the Special Committee on the Petition of Nell Darrach, which had been agreed to by the House, our Saturday, 8th instant, (as given in Hassard's Gazettee, No. 24); and agreed to strike out the last clause thereof, which recommends the granting of 36 acres of Land, in Lot 55, to the Petitioner, and an application be made to the Lieut. Governor to that offect; and to substitute instead thereof the following

"Your Committee would therefore recommend that an Address be presented to His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, requesting that he will be pleased to submit the evidence and report of the Special Committee of this House, to the Judges of the Supreme Court, or Court of Chancery, with the view to ascertain their decision on the merits of Neil Darrach's case, and should they recommend a new trial to be commenced, then this House will make good any expense attending the same."

JUNIPER KNEES.

JUNIPER KNEES.

Mr. Longworth gave notice that he would, in the next Session of the Legislature, move that a duty of Five Shillings be imposed on each and every Juniper Knee, exported from this Island, during the year 1854.—The hon. member said, that his object, in giving such timely notice, was that parties who might, hereafter, contract for the supply of any quantity of Juniper Knees for exportation, might be fully aware, when so doing, of what might be the action of the Legislature in a future Session, with reference to that article. In New Brunswick, with a view to the protection of the Ship-building and general interests, an export duty of 4s. 6d. had been imposed upon each and every Juniper Knee which should be exported from the Province; and he was persuaded that a due regard to the Shipbuilding and general interests of this Colony demanded the imposition of a similar protective duty by its Legislature.

Hon. Mr. TRORNTON, from a Committee appointed to prepare an Address to His Excellency on the Subject of certain allowances to the Post Master at Georgotown and Angus Macdonald, of East Point, late a Preventive officer, reported the following Address which was agreed to by the House:

To His Excellency Sir Alexander Bannerman, Kwight, Lieut. Governor, &c., &c., &c.

May it please your Excellency:

The House of Assembly, in the Report on the Post Office Department, which was presented to Your Excellency, recommend that an additional Sum of Five Pounds be paid to the Post Master at Georgetown. And the House also while in Committee of the whole on the Petition of Angus Macdonald, of East Point, late a Preventive Officer, agreed to allow him the sum of £7 lbs. 7d. the amount of Costs incurred by him in prosecuting certain parties for an alleged breach of the amount of Costs incurred by him in prosecuting certain parties for an alleged breach of the Revenue Act of 1851. Both these amounts were not provided for in Committee of Supply; and, therefore the House of Assembly respectfully request your Excellency in Council to direct the payments to be made, and the House will provide for the same in its next. Report on the subject of the Crown Lands and Croen Fishery Reserves.

Note.—With reference to the Report of the Special Committee on this subject, as adopted by the House Saturday the 8th instant, and published in Hassard's Gazette, No. 24, the Reporter, at the request of Ma. CLARK, takes this opportunity to state that, when Ma. Clark signed the Report, it contained a recommendation "that reasonable compensation should be made, for the sacrifices which tenants 'and small free holders' would be called upon to endure, when required to give up, for fishing purposes, any parts of the Reserves in their occupation or possession: 'but, that the words "and small freeholders" which had been inserted in the Report, at the suggestion of Ma. CLARK were struck out when the Report was under consideration on a Committee of the whole House; and, consequently, the Report, in this particular, is not as Ma. CLARK signed it. The hon. member also wishes it to be further stated, that he was accidentally absent, at the time the division on the Report took place, or he would have voted against its being adopted by the House, as amended in Committee.

The cloudless skips and bally a throughore which had prevailed for some time previous to my last date, continuing, has a warkened the whole State to activity. The accounts from the mining regions are highly flowerships, and the expenses the case of the year is gratifying in the extreme. California is a happy land, and her genetate need in now in a solver, morral population. She has intelligence enough, but too much reseality it all degrees.

It would afford many of your readers delight, contained the prospect between the provided of the provided of the proper between the provided of the provided the four-feet-thick walls of an adobe Church were so widely rent, that a horseman rode through. Such a shock as Acapulco recently suffered would make awful havoe here. In the interior, railroads, plank roads, bridges, &c., are projected in every direction, and some being built, exhibiting a commendable enterprise, and certifying the fact that a permanent population is rapidly extending itself throughout its limits.

Every few days we read the announcement in the papers of the arrival of a California steamer at New York, with "two millions of gold dust." Everybody reads of these millions, and yet how few stop to dwell on their immense magnitude. Few people have any more idea what millions and trillions are, than they have of the style of brogans worn by the cobblers in the moon. A million of dollars possesses a vastness, that is rather startling to a man that has never faced such a pile. To count this sum, at the rate of $1.500 an hour, and eight hours a day, it would require a man to work nearly three months. If the said dollars were placed side by side, they would reach a hundred and thirty-six miles, while their transportation would require fourteen wagons, carrying two tons each.—Boston Times.

TEMPERANCE LEAGUE

We have been requested to publish the following Constitution of a Temperance League, a public meeting for the formation of which will be held on Tuesday next. This League is intended to unite all persons in favor of Temperance, that when so united, they may the more effectively disseminate their principles, by the employment of an agent, the distribution of Statistics, and facts, and, by other constitutional means, produce a conviction on the public mind. TEMPERANCE LEAGUE.

The Schooner "Spray," Malone, master, arrived here from Halifax, and Fortune Bay, Newfoundland, with Herrings, was driven on shore by the ice on Monday, near Wightman's, and it is feared that her botton is injured.

SCHERSIDE, April 11.
The Ice in the Channel in this harbor commenced to break ap on Monday last, and is now completely clear.
The principal part of Richmond Bay is also clear of Ice since Saturday last, and very little Ice appears on the North Shore.

Fig.—The House of Mrs. Edmund Ladner, at Nine Mile Creek, Lot 65, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday last about 12 o'clock. The fire was supposed to have originated from a birch broom which had been used for sweeping up the hearth, and to which a coal had adhered. Mrs. Ladner had gone out for a short time to repair a fence, and the first intimation she had, was when she observed the House to be in flames. She only saved a chest, everything in the House besides being entirely consumed.

Resolved, That this Committee desire to sympathize with the bereaved family of the late L. W. Gall, Esq., their lamented President; a gentlemang who possessed the rare and excellent qualities of being able to discharge the difficult and arduous duties of an extensive Land Agent, so as to secure the confidence and esteem of all; and whose mild, condescending manners, and obliging disposition rendered him believed by every member of the Community, and this Society do sincerely regret his loss, as a staunch friend, who was at all times ready to sid, assist, and encourage them in the furtherance of those objects for which, as a farming Society, they are united.

To Correspondents.—We omitted to notice the receipt of Sateriars's communication on a Copper Coinage containing some very gold hints. The Legislature were too near a close for it to have produced any influence even if we had space to give it an insertion.

J. M*LEOD and Orserve are also on hand, but we cannot promise them an insertion for some time to come. The Legislative proceedings are of interest to the great body of our readers, while communications generally are of a local or sectional interest only. Whilst, therefore, the Legislative proceedings are of importance or interest we must continue to publish them in preference.

THE FIREWOOD SLEIGH.

In the fire wood Steight.

In the three is many a treasure
That mortale are prone to display;
But few ason to doar with much pleasure)
On the honest Old Firewood Sleight
How shameful it should be so slighted,
And left without hone or praise.
Whan for strength and convenience wanted
Tis surely the monarch of Sleighs.
Oh, what are the painted and cubinon'd
Unsociable Cabsof the day,
Compared with a jolly old fashion d
Commodious Firewood Sleigh.
Oh; grant me a pany to ramble
And a fair one to sit by my side,
Then over the snow banks to gambol,
Wraps in a wild Buffalo's hidd.
And Oh; for a meonlight excursion,
With friends, on a bundle of hay,
How glorious the fun and diversion
Of a drive on the Firewood Sleigh
But the breezes of April are blowing,
And the pleasures of winter deen;
The snow is all melting and going,
Farewell to the Firewood Sleigh. R.

The Icz Caor.—Ice-cutting operations in this vicinity have been discontinued for the season. The result is stated to be, that not more than from one-third to one-half a crop season. The result is stated to be, that not more than from one-third to one-half a crop has been housed, and that portion secured is generally of an inferior quality—lacking in thickness and solidity, and is consequently more perishable. Last year, the aggregate crop housed by the New-York Ice Companies somewhat exceeded 200,000 tons. This year, it will fall short of 100,000, which is the smallest for many years. The concern most largely engaged in the business, the Knickerhocker Ice Co., has secured this season, only about 25,000 tons against 100,000 last year. There is a proportionate falling off in other places. Baltimore has failed altogether, and Philadelphia is little better. In Boston, where there is usually an abundant supply for all purposes, the crop is decidedly short. We understand that the prices of ice next summer will be nearly double what they were last, or at least one-third larger; for instance, a large majority of families ordinarily receive ice at the rate of 25 cents per week; for the majority of tamilies ordinarily receive ice at the rate of 25 cents per week; for the same quantity it is supposed about 37½ cents will be charged, insomuch as, while the supply is diminished, a largely increased demand is anticipated.—New York Tribune.

McGLASHEN'S PATENT TRANSPLANTING APPARATUS.—The transplanting machine of Mr. McGlashen of Edinburgh, now well known to practical men in the east country, and for which he has received a first-class certificate of merit from the Caledonian Hasticultural Society was tested on the certificate of merit from the Caledonian Horticultural Society, was tested on the grounds of Mr. Campbell of Blythswood, in presence of a large party of ladies and gentlemen, and practical men. Mr. McGlashen having everything in readiness to proceed with the operation, a fine laurel, the branches of which were twelve feet in diameter was raised with the ball of the diameter, was raised with the ball of the carth, five feet seven inches square, and three feet deep, attached and placed on a truck for removal in less than a quarter of truck for removal in less than a quarter of an hour. The laurel, with the soil adhering to the root, was calculated to be between four and five tons in weight. The raising of the shrub vertically from its bed was accomplished with the greatest ease by the action of a screw turned by two men. The success of the operation was deemed highly satisfactory, and must have been very gratifying to Mr. McGlashen, the inventor The invention is applicable to all departments of gardening, and in its various forms can raise with the same facility the florist's flower and the largest tree. THE BOOMERANG SCREW .- In outline, the Boomerang screw resembles the curious in-strument after which it is named, but its sweep is like that of a bird's wing, though there is no taper towards the end, the there is no taper towards the end, the breadth being nearly uniform. The advantages claimed for it are, a largly increased propelling power, and a freedom from any "choke" of water after leaving the fan, while its weight is very much less than that of propellers of like power now in use. These, of course, are great desiderata, especially in long voyages. To test the capabilities of the "Bounerang," the Genova, an iron-steamer, has been fitted up by Messrs. James Taylor and Co., Britannia iron works, Catheart-street, Birkenhead. The Water Witch, another iron steamer, which has been lengthened some 45 feet, by the same firm, and supplied with engines of greater Witch, another iron steamer, which has been lengthened some 45 feet, by the same firm, and supplied with engines of greater power, is also to be propelled on the same principle; but, in this instance, an important improvement is introduced. The shaft and fan extend beyond the rudder, so that, if any accident should happen either to the screw or machinery, the fan can be readily detached and hauled upon deck, in anything like moderate weather, and the vessel can proceed on her voyage under sail. As an evidence of the estimate of Sir Thomas Mitchell's patent, the government has, we Mitchell's patent, the government has, we understand, ordered the construction of an iron steamer upon that principle by Mesars. James Taylor and Co.

James Taylor and Co.

Anisvocace.—It is related of Anteus, who aspired to wrestle with the gods, that, if they could by any means induce him to leave his "maler leve" and grapple in with them, they found little difficulty in worsting him, but so long as he could keep his foot firmly planted upon, his native soil, he was more than a match for them.

When men outgrow their position and aim to live removed from the cares and duties of life, they, like Antaus, lose their footing and fall. In order to battle successfully, we should never forsake our sphere. Thousands are kept poor by aping the notions and customs of the rich, and thousands who are rich become poor, because they are too proud to use the same efforts to keep, that it required to accumulate.

A CRIPPLE SETS ASIDE HIS CRUTCHES APTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. Thompson, Chemist, Leverpool, dated August 20, 1852.

To Professor Holloway.

Drar Sin—I am enabled to furnish you with a most extraordinary cure effected by your invaluable Ointment and Pills which has astonished every person acquainted with the sufferer. About 10 years ago, Mr. W. Cammins, of Saltney Street, in this town, was thrown from his horse, whereby he received very serious injuries; he had the best medical advice at the time, and was afterwards an immate of different infirmaries, yet he grew worse, and at flength a malignant running ulcer settled in his hip, which so completely crippled him, that he could not move without cratches for nearly 10 years; recently he began to use your Ointment and Pills, which have now healed the wound, strengthened his limb, and enabled him to dispense with his cratches, so that he can walk with the greatest ease, and with renewed health and vigor. Copy of a Letter from Mr. Hird, Draper, of Keady, near Gainstro, dated March 1st, 1852

To Professor Holloway,
Sirm—Some time since, one of my children was afficted with dreadful cruptions over the body and limbs. I obtained the advice of several eminent Surgeons and Physicians, by all of whom the case was considered hopeless. At length I tried your Ointment and Pills, and without exaggeration, the effect was miraculous, for by persevering in their case, all the cruptions quickly disappeared, and the child was restored to perfect health.

I previously lost a child from a similar complaint, and I firmly believe, had I in her case adopted your medicines, she would have been saved also. I shall be happy to testify the truth of this to any enquirer.

Copy of a Letter from Messrs. Walker and Co., Chemists, Bath.

To Professor Holloway.

DRAR Sir.—Among the numerous cures effected by the use of your valuable medicines in this neighbourhood, we may mention that of an old lady living in the Village of Preston, about five miles from this City. She had ulcerated wounds in her leg for many years, and latterly they increased to such an alarming extent as to defy all the usual remedies; her health rapidly giving way under the suffering she endured. In this distressing condition she had recourse to your Ointment and Fills, and by the assistance of her friends, was enabled to persevere in their use, until she received a perfect cure. We have ourselves been greatly autonished at the effect upon so old a persen, she being above 70 years of age. We shall be happy to satisfy any enquiries as to the authenticity of this really wonderful case, either personally or by letter.

letter.

A private in the Bath Police Force, also, has been perfectly cured of an old scorbutic affection in the face, after all other means had failed. He states that it is entirely by the use of your Ointment, and speaks loadly in its praise. We remain, Dear Sir,
Your's faithfully,
