CHAPTER XLXII.
 THE WHEELS OF FATE.

Foul deeds will rise, though all the earth o'erwhelm them to men's eyes.—SHAKESPEARE.

Wheel within wheel the great machinery of fate pants and throbs day and night without ceasing, till the thunder-bolts of Nemesis lay ready for the hurling.

Little did Reginald Dartmouth imagine that, in handing the rusty keys of the old Dale lumber-rooms to his quiet and singular secretary, he was giving a turn to one of the wheels of fate; and still less that, in allowing his guest and friend, Sir Charles, to be borne off to the Warren, he had given another turn.

Leaving the taciturn secretary with the keys in his possession and waiting only for a convenient time to use them, we will look in at the Warren and unwind the skein of events weaving there.

"On a sofa, large and comfortable, in the sitting-room, not large but very cozy, lay Sir Charles.

He was pale and somewhat thin; more haggard-looking than ever, and with dark marks, partly due to disipation, partly to his late illness, beneath his still frank and genial eyes.

One arm rested in a sling; for, though the days had passed rapidly and it was already three weeks since the race, the limb was still helpless and useless.

Beside the couch stood a little table, upon which were two bottles of nauseous medicines to irritate the senses, but a large bouquet of flowers and a small, beautifully-cut decanter of light wine—not brandy, for, though Sir Charles had repeatedly asked for that spirit, Mr. Toddy had resolutely forbidden it.

There was a slight puzzled look on the invalid's face as he sat watching the sunlight that stole through the half-closed blinds.

Sir Charles, the dissolute, dissipated man of the world, who had run through three fortunes, ruined his digestion, and almost spoiled as handsome a face as ever fell to the lot of men, was thinking, weighing, rather, his past life and contrasting its fiery, tumultuous ways with the quiet, peaceful, quietly and silently over the misadventures and talents.

At least, if he were not thinking so he should have been, for his fine eyes looked remorseful, and it was with a deep sigh he caught at the bell-rope and rang. Mrs. Lucas—rather older than when she ruled over the Dale; rather sadder-looking in her deep mourning, but active and hale as ever—entered with noiseless haste.

"Did you ring, sir?"

"Yes, Mrs. Lucas," said Sir Charles, twisting round with his frank smile; "I have ventured to ring, I say, ventured, for I have been trying to keep from it for the last hour, and he shook his head slowly.

"I hope you are not in pain, sir," said Mrs. Lucas, anxiously. "Mr. Toddy said as we were to send for him the moment the arm got worse."

"It isn't the arm this time, for a wonder," Mrs. Lucas, replied Sir Charles. "It's somewhere else, I have a pain in the heart—in the head—a longing, that's a great deal worse than pain, to see your mistress."

"Miss Rebecca?"

"Yes," he nodded. "I have been here for three weeks and, although you have been like a second mother to me, my dear old lady, I am naturally anxious to see and thank the lady beneath whose roof I have experienced such unusual and extraordinary kindness. There, that's a long speech. By Jove, it's ridiculously long! But who is to remember that she is my cousin when she behaves so coolly to me? Mrs. Lucas, my dear old soul, you must go to her and tell that she must come here or that I really must—must, mind you—go to her and thank her. I can not lay here any longer without unburdening my heart of some part of the load of gratitude lying on it. Go, Mrs. Lucas, I beseech you, and ask Miss Rebecca, my cousin, to come to me, it only for a moment!"

Under the light banter of his tone there was a current of earnestness that made Mrs. Lucas hesitate.

"You know, sir, I have told you so many times that Miss Rebecca does not see any one; nay, that she particularly wished me to tell you that she would not see you until you were able to come down."

"But why?" asked Sir Charles, impatiently. "What on earth can be her reason? We are the best of friends—at least, we were. I know of nothing to prevent her. Oh, my dear woman, go and give her my message, that if she will not come to me I will go to her—say, and at once!"

Mrs. Lucas, alarmed by a movement he made of getting up from the couch, from which he had been bidden not to rise, muttered a hasty consent and left the room.

He waited impatiently for a few minutes, then actually arose from the couch; but as he did so the door opened and Rebecca entered.

She looked very lovable—which is something near akin to lovely—in her quiet, dark dress, and her usually pale face was tinted by a slight crimson as she came forward in her quiet, unobtrusive way and held out her hand. "Rebecca," said Sir Charles, taking her hand and holding it, with an accompanying look of gratitude and affection—"Rebecca, how glad I am to see you! Why have you kept away from me?"

At this question Rebecca lowered her eyes with a sudden darkening of the brows, but raised them again as she replied:

"Never mind that, Charlie, for a while; but tell me how you are this morning."

"Better," he said. "I should have been quite well, no doubt, if you had not kept me on the fidget longing to see you. How well and fresh you are looking—a nice contrast to the haggard old wreck I can see in the glass opposite!" and he nodded, with a smile that was rather sad, at the reflection of his own worn and haggard face.

Rebecca shook her head.

"Ah, Charlie," she said, gravely, "you promised me!"

"Ay, and myself, too, Rebecca. But, there; you know me—good to-day and bad to-morrow. For my word, my dear girl, I don't think I am a respectable being; I don't, really. You see, I can't say 'No.' Ah, dear me, I can't say 'No.' Life's all a temptation, Rebecca! But there—what's the use of my telling you? How should you understand, you, who have never seen it? But to go back. You must tell me why you have kept away from me. Have I offended you?"

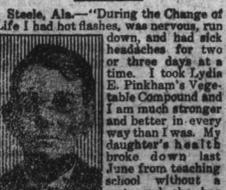

Rebecca's pale face flushed and she averted her eyes.

"No," she said; "you have never offended me, Charlie. Do not ask me, I beg of you."

"But I must, my dear girl; I must. You do not know how it has worried me. It was of no use that fussy old fellow telling me to keep quiet or he would not answer for the consequence—though, as to that, nobody wanted him to; that I know of. It was no use of his telling me to be composed and go to sleep. I could not be composed and I couldn't go to sleep. I said, or, rather, I thought: Here am I staying with Reginald Dartmouth; I ride a race in his paddock, and that animal of mine pitches me head foremost at the finish. Well, so far so good. But here comes the twist. Instead

THIS MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Both Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Steele, Ala.—"During the Change of Life I had hot flashes, was nervous, run down, and had sick headaches for two or three days at a time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am much stronger and better in every way than I was. My daughter's health broke down last June from teaching school without a vacation. She had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the Blood Medicine with good results. She is much better and teaching now and I give your medicine the praise. You are welcome to use this letter for the benefit of other suffering women."—Mrs. F. A. GAINES, R. F. No. 1, Steele, Ala.

Women who suffer as Mrs. Gaines did should not hesitate to give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as the evidence that is constantly being published proves beyond question that this grand old remedy has relieved much suffering among women.

For confidential advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their forty years' experience is at your service.

of being taken home to the new Hall I am carried off to Cousin Rebecca's at the Warren. Well, that's accounted for by the presence of her carriage on the course, or by the fact of the Warren being nearer than the Hall. But then comes the most singular part of it. Here I lay for three weeks, with fever off and on, but during the best part of the time well able to see any one. Cousin Rebecca does not show her head—only the doctor and Mrs. Lucas—who, by the way, is as good and kind-hearted a soul as there is out of heaven. Cousin Rebecca never comes near me till I threaten to get up and find her for myself. And now she is here she won't tell me the reason of her well-kept determination to absent herself, I am beginning to think that there is a deeper reason than any of which I dreamed.

"There is good reason," replied Rebecca, with a flash of her upraised eye. "See, Charlie; I am a different woman from what I was when you saw me last. I was free and light-hearted then, but now—well, I have a purpose for which to live, a purpose that creeps into every action of my soul and renders me unfit for the society of all, most of all an invalid requiring quiet and freedom from exertion."

Sir Charles Anderson raised himself upon his elbow and gazed long and fixedly at his cousin's face. He had never seen it so moved before.

"Rebecca," he said, in his frank way, "let there be no secrets between us. We are cousins, and you have done me many a good turn—for which I thank you from the bottom of my worthless heart, more especially for the last and best turn of all. What is in the wind? You had some reason for bringing me here to the Warren. Come, Rebecca; what was it?"

Rebecca got up, walked to the door and closed it carefully, then, sinking into a chair and fixing her dark eyes upon the frank ones of Sir Charles, said:

"Because I could not trust you to the tender mercies of the master of the Hall."

Sir Charles stared in amazement. "Not trust me!" he exclaimed, with astonishment; then, as if struck by the deep meaning in her eyes, lowered his own for an instant, then lifted them again and said, quietly, "Rebecca, you never were a romantic girl—you are anything but that now. Tell me what you mean."

"I will," said Rebecca. "I feel that I must, Charlie. I told you that I had a purpose. I have, indeed, a deep and resolute one. Can you guess it?"

He shook his head.

"It is to revenge the death of my friend and second father, old Squire Darrell, and to restore to the rightful heir the Dale estate, which Reginald Dartmouth by villainy and something worse holds and usurps."

Sir Charles turned pale and sank back against the curtains, covering his eyes with his hands.

Rebecca, with her small clasped tightly in her lap, continued, in a quiet tone:

"Can you not guess why I would not see you before, Charlie? Could I have seen you and kept this purpose of mine from you? No; I should have surely let it out before you were strong enough to bear it—thrown you back into another fever and thwarted my own plans."

Sir Charles drew a long breath and raised himself upon his elbow.

"Rebecca," he said, in a low voice, "I need not say you have astonished me. I can scarcely persuade myself that I am not dreaming or delirious. Reginald Dartmouth a murderer—Oh, I can't say the word! Surely there must be some mistake—surely, my dear girl—"

"Listen," interrupted Rebecca, with sudden excitement—"Listen and I will tell you the story of the events that have so changed me—changed me from a timid, weak woman into a determined, resolute one. I will tell you without addition or exaggeration the history of Reginald Dartmouth's connection with the Dale, hiding and concealing nothing, and you shall judge for yourself if there is any grounds for my suspicions."

Then, while Sir Charles leaned forward with fixed and earnestly attentive gaze, she narrated, clearly and calmly, the story of the squire's quarrel; the flight of Hugh; the advent of Grace; the visit of Reginald Dartmouth, and the flight of Grace.

Russian Interned Prisoners Overpower Guards---Recaptured by Cavalry---Two Men Killed by Ammonia Tank Explosion---New Brunswick For Total Prohibition---Senator Dennis of Halifax Dead.

BREAK BOUNDS.
ANTWERP, July 11.
A force of seven hundred Russian prisoners of war who had been interned near Turnhout, twenty-five miles west of this city, escaped from an internment camp last night and marched upon Antwerp. A regiment of cavalry sent in pursuit of the Russians surrounded them and interned them anew in one of the Antwerp camps. The prisoners were part of a contingent of a thousand Russians who were to be released on Saturday return home. They were informed in the day, however, that owing to the failure by Great Britain and the United States to reach a definite agreement so far with regard to exchange of nationals they would have to endure further detention. Incensed at this, the seven hundred of the prisoners rushed the barbed wire barriers, overpowered the sentries and proceeded in marching order toward Antwerp.

POLICE CHIEF AYRES GIVES HIS TESTIMONY

"My Only Regret Is That I Didn't Meet Up With Tanlac Years Ago," Says Popular New York Officer.

"My experience with Tanlac has been remarkable and I feel that I would be dodging my duty not to come out and tell my friends about it," was the statement made by W. E. Ayres, Chief of Police of Montour Falls, N.Y., in an interview a few days ago.

Mr. Ayres has been Chief of Police of Montour Falls continuously for thirty-four years, and although now seventy-five years of age, he performs the duties of his office with the same alertness and vigor that has been characteristic of him ever since he received his first appointment.

Mr. Ayres is not only widely known as an officer, but is also prominent as a man and citizen. In 1863, at the age of eighteen, he volunteered for service in the Civil War, engaged in many of the fiercest battles, and after the struggle ended he returned to his home and his home town, Montour Falls, unscathed.

"For a good many years," said Mr. Ayres, "I have been subject to frequent and dreadful attacks of acute indigestion, and have tried about everything known in the way of medicines, but always with the same disappointing results until I got Tanlac.

"When these attacks came on me I had such terrible pains in the pit of my stomach that I would just double up like a jack-knife, with both hands folded around me, holding a hot water bag to my stomach. These spells with my stomach were the one thing I dreaded above all else, because they meant the worst of misery and torture to me.

"About a month ago I began to read about Tanlac and was so impressed with what others said the medicine had done for them that I concluded to try it myself. Well, in my case it has come up to every good word I read about it. I had hardly finished my first bottle when I could tell it was doing the work.

"It is by far the best medicine I have ever come across. Why, I can now eat what I want without fear of indigestion, for Tanlac has put my stomach in fine condition. Tanlac has built up my whole system, adding to my weight, and giving me strength I never thought possible for a man of my age to have. It has proved to be such a wonderful thing in my case that I am telling all my friends about it.

"I am back at my desk every day with energy and strength to tackle any task that may come up. They say a man is only as old as he feels, and if that is true I am just about forty-five and I can't find words to fully express just how wonderful I think Tanlac is. My only regret is that I did not meet up with it years ago, as it would have saved me so much suffering and unhappiness.

"If the rest of the people who are in poor health don't try Tanlac they'll certainly be the losers. I believe it will help anybody who gives it a fair trial."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Ryan, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle; J. W. Smith, Balne Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renew.—adv

Medical Work at Yongjung, Korea.

(By Dr. Stanley H. Martin, in East and West.)

In the month of March, our in-patient department at St. Andrew's Hospital of the Canadian Mission in Manchuria, China, was, without warning, taxed to its utmost in taking care of about forty serious cases. As the majority of our patients are Koreans, we did not escape our share in taking care of casualties resulting from the Independence Demonstration. Many of these were fatal from the outset, having been fired on at point-blank range and shot through the brain and other vital organs. We are glad to report that except those who died within a few days of admission the patients all returned home good earnest Christians.

At the burial of the dead from our hospital were seen thousands of people with head bared, most of them listening for the first time, to the words of Christian burial service. More than half of the dead had died non-Christian, yet all their friends asked for the Christian service which was conducted by our pastors and elders. Where could one find a better opportunity than this to sow the seed?

The new hospital, over two hundred feet long with its sixty feet Women's ward in the rear and adjacent native doctor's house, is practically all completed, and represents a plant of which our Church may be very proud. We decided to divide the large Women's ward into two wards so as to accommodate all our patients, men and women, in winter months when patients are few and so economize by not heating the large men's ward. The in-patient capacity is about fifty beds. The new large operating room is practically ideal and since we have been working in it we have had the best of results.

The work during the last part of the year was the same as usual, except that the new in-patient department was more fully organized and the two wards of the rear wing were kept full almost all the time, and already almost fifty cases have proved fatal as a result of secondary pneumonia. There is nothing so discouraging to an isolated medical missionary, with no one with whom to consult as to how to deal with such virulent and fatal cases.

The object of a report seems to be to make the readers feel happy but a real report includes many discouragements and disappointments in the work. However, every now and then one of the cleansed lepers returns with a heart full of gratitude and becomes a Christian. Recently a man whose wife had been cured came back to say, "Although I have no money to pay your bill, I couldn't help coming back to say thank you for saving her life."

During the nine months the hospital was open, twelve thousand and eighty-nine patients were seen, amongst whom were 6,985 unbelievers and to whom 4,300 tracts were distributed and all these patients with the 4,202 friends who came with them heard the Gospel from our Hospital Evangelists and Bible women.

Two hundred and seventeen operations were performed under anaesthesia, many of them of a serious nature; 1181 out-calls were attended inside and outside of the patients whose aggregate of days in the hospital was approximately 3985. The total surgical treatments given were 31,200 and of the 26,983 people who came in contact with hospital influence one hundred and fifty have decided to live Christian lives. Much of this is the result of the Bible-women's visits to the sick in their homes and during the year over 90 such visits were made. The foreign ladies have also as time permitted visited the sick in the hospital, telling the old, old story.

[Note.—Dr. Stanley H. Martin, son of Mr. A. W. Martin, of the G.P.O., St. John's, went to his station in January, 1916, via Korea, and is due home on furlough (D.V.) in 1922. He is well known to all Methodist College boys and also to many of our readers.]

Narrow Escape.

Yesterday afternoon, a lad while attempting to swim across Long Pond became exhausted and had to shout for assistance. Ron and Albert Martin who were swimming nearby went to the lad's aid and succeeded in getting him ashore. He was pretty well used up and but for the timely help rendered would certainly have drowned. As quite a number of youths attempt the feat of swimming across this pond, and in the past, several fatalities resulted in the effort. It would be advisable if the Municipal Council would buoy two floats about half way across.

Fishery Reports Not Encouraging.

S. S. Susu which arrived in port Saturday night from the Northwest, met with excellent weather on the trip going and coming. The fishery reports brought along are none too encouraging, the trap voyage along the coast being considerably short of last year, at this date. The Susu brought a small quantity of freight and a number of passengers.

The Lunenburg fishing fleet has done poorly on the Grand Banks according to reports brought in by the schooner Harold Conrad which arrived in port yesterday. Oh! shades of Dick McGrath! The poor Irish.

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S GAME.
They never found cellar quarters congenial and indeed in their history of playing, it is very seldom their forced stay there was ever prolonged; and so it is that the B.I.S. crew under the leadership of Manager Channing will clash with the Wanderers in mortal combat to-morrow night. The one and only J. Cuthbert cannot understand why Old Man Jinx should have settled on his shoulders and the wrathful Bert declares that in any case the "called" C.B.I. game was a deliberate steal. O'Leary too is chafing as he feels he is entitled to better things, and in this we agree as he certainly has the stuff. However, the slipping cog in the flywheel was at backstop and since Duggy French jumped into the breach the Harps should play with machine-like precision.

The Wanderers, now lying in the lee of the champs, are mustering the Old Guard, and very likely their outfield to-morrow night will consist of MacLeod, Hartnett and Dr. Power. Manager Smith has "a little brudder" in town who is eligible to play and "his most likely he will be presented to local fandom to-morrow night. It's certainly going to be some fight, and Umpire Cheeman will need a bomb-proof shelter.

Respectfully Dedicated to W. J. Collins and Erstwhile Manager of The Cubs.

The grandstand manager appears, and he is wondrous wise; His mission in this vale of tears, 'T is to criticize. He puts his finger on the flaws, And straightens out the mess; And makes so few mistakes because He takes the second guess.

All hail the grandstand manager, More power to his brain; The rooters often wonder how He stands the awful strain. His work is free and furthermore His labours never cease; But some day Ches will swing on him And thus cause his decease. —BYRON.

You wouldn't say, expressive of the strength of the B.I.S. outfield, that it is (was) a dickpower, would you?

The B.I.S. and Cubs will play on Wednesday afternoon. There will be a preliminary five inning Junior League clash.

Although perfectly all right, still the chief M.M.N.E.R. over the successive defeats of the Irish is the official scorer.

Editor, "Diamond Dust." Without prejudice, here's one for Nuts Bill: "You tell 'em CHES, I'm dead on NUTS. Yours, "Cub."

He signed up with 'em all, But with each works a stall, So their language is most horrid.

Welcome, Emily, and thanks, do come again?

As soon as the first round is finished this week, the preliminary Mount Cashel games for the H. D. Reid Cup will be played. With the Wanderers, Lions and Cubs each two years on it, the series will certainly be classy.

A meeting of the delegates will be held at St. George's Field on Tuesday night after the game to draw the fixtures.

On of the features of the Church of England Garden Party will be the baseball match for the cup recently presented by a well-known citizen. In addition, the Rev. Mr. Fletcher is presenting a set of medals to the winners. A schedule is being arranged similar to the Mount Cashel series, and the preliminaries will also be drawn on Tuesday night.

A well know and popular young lady in an untown mercantile office rings us up this morning to say that she is unable to find a word in the dictionary to rhyme with "league" and "fatigue" for this week's Limerick competition. Why not try "M-trigue," Mabel?

AFTER THE BALL.

'Twas a striking affair, I am told, So many admissions were sold That the grandstand was wheezing, And the base-lines were squeaking, And hundreds were out in the cold.

'Twas indeed such a striking affair That you missed it by not being there. When the Cubbies fled into the Park, They acted as if on a lark, And Ern Clouston said they intended Some innings before the game ended To make of our pitcher a mark.

I heard every Cubbie declare He would make it a striking affair. But Robertson out there in the box, And Coke Cahill worked as steady as clocks, And fangst them so freely That all of them really Did little but shake in their socks.

'Twas indeed such a striking affair That most of them struck at the air.

THIS WEEK'S COMPETITION.

Buchanan Street School Room.

On Tuesday, July 13, a Child Welfare Centre will be opened by Lady Horwood, who will be supported by the Executive of the W.P.A. at the Buchanan Street School Room at 3 p.m. This will enable the mothers of the West End to have their babies weighed regularly, since the Centre will be opened every Tuesday from 3 to 5 p.m. Dr. Arch Tait has generously offered his services to advise the mothers regarding any medical treatment which may be found necessary, prevention being the keynote of this valuable child work. Suitable clothing for children of all ages will be on sale at cost price, and a cup of tea will be served, for which the small charge of five cents (5c.) is made. The splendid response to the invitation to attend the Dickworth Street Centre, made by the mothers of the neighbourhood, is in itself sufficient to assure the W.P.A. and the public, who so generously supported their Tag Day, of the success with which the Child Welfare efforts are being met with in St. John's.

Cut It Out.
Now that people are wending their way to the lakeside every evening, they are wondering what is the meaning of the Council's action in keeping up a continual smoke from that dump at the head of the pond. The abominable stench from this burning debris, would not be permitted by any other civilized body. Is it possible that the Council can not discover other means of destroying all the carcasses of cats, dogs and vermin that are now permitted to slowly rot, or is it that it is a form of exquisite oriental torture that they have devised for the residents of this section of the city. Why not bury all this noxious matter in quick lime or use a properly constructed incinerator.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

IN REGARD TO LANDLORDS.

RUTH CAMERON

Several indignant tenants have written to me about the rent question. They want me to inveigh against the landlord who seizes this time when everything is high, to raise rents. They call it an outrage, a pure profiteering; they say that landlords will not realize that they must pay more for the same accommodations that they did five years ago and have opprobrium on the man who raises rents, who will put capitalists into building or owning houses when he could get over 5 per cent on the safest investment in the world without any effort on his part? And if people will not put their capital into being landlords, the housing situation will certainly get even worse and the terrible scramble for a place to live in, will become more desperate.

Of course some take advantage. Of course no one has sympathy for the landlord who actually does profiteer, who arbitrarily raises the rents as high as the traffic will bear and keeps his tenants in constant fear of having to move or pay an exorbitant rent.

But on the other hand, while one is terribly sorry for people who must pay more or accept poorer quarters, they surely have no right to blame the landlord if he is not raising the rent beyond what the changed conditions forces him to do.

A friend of mine who has just bought a large apartment house, has worked out a scheme that I'm going to tell you about some day. Perhaps it may commend itself to other landlords.

is a Fairly Typical Landlord. I have an elderly friend who owns apartment houses and lives on the income from them. Originally the houses paid her 11 per cent, or about 6 per cent net, when the necessary deductions had been for taxes, repairs, interest on mortgage money, insurance and the like.

In the last few years, that woman's income has gone up $5 on the thousand, meaning a total to her of $66; she has half a per cent more on her rent money, meaning $50; she had to increase her insurance the replacement cost of the house has almost doubled, besides the rate itself has gone up; the repair costs have more than doubled—both houses absolutely had to be painted this year, which cost about twice what it cost her 10 years ago.

The result is that, instead of netting 6 per cent on her money, she barely net 4 per cent if she leaves the house to them.

to Blame for Raising Rents? I hear in mind besides the money does get it worth about half what it used to be, and it is her only income. This woman is a landlord and a typical one. Is she to be blamed for raising rents? If people

NEPTUNE.

NEPTUNE

I watch the oozy ocean, before my door all day; it fills me with emotion, with a once was filled with hay. For years my eyes were gazing on prairie sights and scenes, on weary farmers raising their windwept corn and beans; I saw no moonbeams quiver upon a shining sea; some little tinhorn river alone confronted me. But here the leagues of briny roll on before my eyes; they've washed the shores of China; they've slopped where Asia lies. They've swept o'er reefs of coral to distant blue lagoons, where heathen, tinted sorrel, subsist on rice and prunes. By ancient, teeming cities, they have pursued their way, and heard the pirates' ditties when they went forth to slay. They whisper an' they mumble of wondrous things they've seen; their language is a jumble of all men's tongues. I ween. They murmur and they mutter while sloshing on the beach, but all the truths they utter are quite beyond my reach. And so I sit and wonder what message they'd convey, when they roll up and thunder along the beach all day.

GOLF PRIDE.

As a golfer I'm not one who cope the money, I shall always be a member of the dubs; There are times my style is positively funny; I am awkward in my handling of the clubs; I am not a skillful golfer, nor a plucky; But this about myself I proudly say— When I win a hole by freaky stroke or lucky, I never claim I played the shot that way.

There are times, despite my blundering behavior, When fortune seems to follow at my heels; Now and then I toll supremely in her favor, She lets me pull the rankest sort of steels; She'll give to me the friendliest assistance, I'll jump a ditch as times when I should not, I'll top the ball and get a hole of dis- or lucky, I never claim I played the shot that way.

I've hooked a ball when just that hook I needed, And wondered how I ever turned the trick; I've thanked my luck for what a friendly tree did, Although my fortune made my rival sick; Sometimes my shots are just as I had planned 'em, The sort of shots, which usually I play; But when up to the cup I chance to land 'em, I never claim I played 'em just that way.

There's little in my game that will commend me, I'm not a shark who shoots the course in par; I need good fortune often to befriend me, I have my faults and know just what they are; I play golf in a desperated do-or-die way, And into traps and trouble oft I stray; But when by chance the breaks are coming my way, I do not claim I played the shots that way.

To destroy cockroaches, cut up green cucumbers at night and put them about where the roaches are troublesome. If potatoes are first steamed ten minutes in very little water, they will bake quickly.

A SALE

That will not disappoint.

The reason of this Sale is the turning of a lot of this season's goods of passing fashion and some of which we have an overstock into

Hard Cash.

YOU WANT GOODS OF LOW PRICES WE WANT HARD CASH. THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

We are not going to give you a line of talk that as philanthropists we are out merely to reduce the height of the H. C. of L. and going to cut prices in halves; we figure you are too intelligent to believe stuff like that, or would think we had certainly been jewing you on previous prices. First we start with

LADIES' & CHILDREN'S STRAW HATS.

Off these we are taking 25 Per Cent. Discount.

Our prices for Hats are notoriously low, and with this discount and the styles considered we know greatly increased buying will make a busy department busier.

LADIES' BLOUSES.

We find a very classy lot of Ladies' Canadian made White Voile Blouses have not moved fast enough. They range in price from $5.50 to $7.50. Though the market was high and we did not like buying at these prices, we thought style and cut worth consideration. Now we think you will find them most tempting by our allowance of 25 Per Cent. Discount from the above prices.

We have also picked up a lot of

LADIES' GEORGETTE CREPE BLOUSES

in beautiful designs and shades, and have marked them down from $17.50 to $12.50 each. This represents less than cost price.

LADIES' SILK DRESSES.

We have some priced very reasonably at $30.00, $33.00 and $35.00 each, but we are making a reduction in these prices of 25 Per Cent.

We do this as we are informed that with some of them the skirts are a bit tight.

LADIES' WHITE COSTUME SKIRTS.

Canadian styles, English materials. Sale Prices only $3.00, $4.00, $4.50 and $5.00.

This summer is certainly a fine one, so you had better secure a couple of these beautiful Washable Skirts and get in accord with it.

LADIES' ENVELOPE CHEMISES (or TEDDIES).

We have quite a stock of these in White and Pink Lawns and Imitation Silks. They are big sellers in America but have not yet started to sell so largely here. We think taking 25 Per Cent. off may help.

In order to make things more interesting we are making

A Reduction of Ten Per Cent. on Some Staple Lines of Ladies' Ready-to-wear.

This includes all our large and cheaply priced stocks of Ladies' Cambric and Lawn Underskirts, Knickers, Camisoles and Nightdresses. Ladies' Costumes and Costume Skirts. Ladies' Raglans, Shower Coats and Navy Spring Coats Ladies' Cotton, Poplin and Serge, etc., Dresses. Ladies' Kimonos, Wrappers and Cotton House Dresses. Ladies' Blouses of all kinds—not previously mentioned. Ladies' Silk and Wool Sweater Coats.

LADIES' COTTON and LISLE SUMMER GLOVES.

We are in a position to offer these at prices no higher than those of 1918-1919. We quote Ladies' White and Grey Gloves, with dome fasteners, at price only 40c. pair.

LADIES' WHITE and BLACK COTTON HOSE, only 29c. pair.

You will also find we have some other extra good values in Ladies' White and Black Cotton and Lisle Hose, while they last.

We Know Our Prices on Goods Advertised Are the Lowest You Can Procure.

as they are below the cost of doing business, but our desire to change goods into cash

IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

Vessels Damaged by Collision.

During a dense fog at 11.30 o'clock on Friday night last, the Lunenburg schooner Harold Conrad, and the schooner Lady St. John's met in collision 56 miles S.E. of Cape Race. The Conrad was coming to port for St. John's and the Lady St. John's was on her way to Sydney for a coal cargo. Both vessels making good headway at the time of the accident. The Lady St. John's, crashing into the Conrad amidships, punched a hole in her bow and the water line carrying away most of her fore rigging and inflicting other damage about decks. The impact was very heavy and the Lady St. John's carried away her jibboom, part of her bowsprit and cat heads and threw her two anchors and about 50 fathoms of chain on the Conrad's deck. Most of the crew of the latter schooner were below deck when the collision came. They hurried to the deck at first thought the vessel was sinking. A test of the pumps assured them to the contrary and as soon as the Lady St. John's extricated herself, work of clearing away the wreckage began. Both schooners were kept in company until daylight when the full extent of damage was ascertained. Both captains decided to make for St. John's for repairs.

To-Night's Football.

Path Forced Out by Electricity.

United States marines in Hayti are reported as using original methods of using the Cocos tail the truth. Some of these bandits are voodoo worshippers and are subject to many superstitious beliefs. For Howard C. Judson, who in boyhood days was a dabbler in magic and who is now provost in a small Haytian town, recently conducted an investigation to locate the hideouts of arms and ammunition in hands of bandits. A few yards of wire, a switch, a section to the lighting circuit, tending on one side at his own metal chair, and on the other at the metal-rimmed chair assigned to witnesses, were all the simple preparations necessary. After the Haytian witness had told obvious untruths about the disposal of certain arms and ammunition this test took place: "You lie, and I will prove it," said the major. He protruded the tip of his tongue and on touching it with his finger no sparks flew. "You see, I am a truthful man." "I will now prove that you are a liar. Stick out your tongue," the switch was turned on. As his finger was about to meet the native's tongue a blue spark snapped across the tiny gap, a shock ran through both men, and the negro flung himself howling upon the floor. He had not been hurt in the least, but the unexpected electric thrill plus the astonishing sight of the spark had broken the witness all up and his story now came forth freely and truthfully.

Before the Boyne.

The battle of the Boyne, fought on July 12, 1690, between a mixed force of English and Dutch under William of Orange, and the Irish under the nominal command of James II., is still a source of strife in Ireland. It is, therefore, curious to reflect that it was within a very narrow margin either of never having been fought at all, or else of not having been associated with the name of Dutch William. For, if a cannon ball had gone a hair's breadth nearer on the previous day, William would have been killed, an event of which it would not be easy to compute the consequences. It was while he was breakfasting at a spot (since marked by an obelisk) well in view of the Irish, some of whose leading officers had their attention attracted by the large staff surrounding William, as he sat to eat his meal. Accordingly they sent for artillery, and two six-pounder field-pieces were hurried on under cover of cavalry and placed behind a hedge, where they opened fire, killing the horse of Prince George of Hesse with the first shot. The second tore William's coat, grazed his shoulder, from which it drew blood, and caused him to sink forward on his horse's neck amidst shouts of exultation from the Irish. But it speedily appeared that no serious harm had been done; and after the wound had been dressed, William remounted and rode round the outposts of his army, spending in all some nineteen hours of that day on horseback. Always throughout life his spirit rose superior to the infirmities of an exceptionally feeble frame, in striking contrast to his opponent, whose indecision in council and early desertion of the field on the next day were destined to prove fatal to his cause.

Joseph Bonaparte's Short Reigns.

On Friday, July 12, 1808, Joseph Bonaparte entered Madrid as King of Spain, in consequence of his brother Napoleon becoming Emperor of France, and winning victories over other European nations. But on July 29 in the same year Joseph felt obliged to retire from the Spanish capital, and though he was restored to his throne on December 2 next, the many successive victories won by the British over the French invaders of Spain caused him to retain it only till May 14, 1814, when Ferdinand the Seventh was restored. Joseph Bonaparte had in 1805 been made King of the Two Sicilies, one of the Mediterranean Islands of that name, and the other on the mainland of Italy, but in 1806 he was King of Naples alone. After losing his Spanish kingdom he resided in the United States of America from 1815, until in 1832 he came to England, the refuge of fugitives. In 1841, when the Italians were striving to get an independent kingdom, instead of being under the Austrian empire, in which they finally succeeded, as the late European war shows, Joseph settled in Italy, but only to die there at Florence, on July 28, 1844.

That Dump.

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir,—I wish through the medium of your valuable paper to make a few remarks concerning that unsightly Dump at the head of Quidi Vidi Lake. Being interested in the coming Regatta I visited the Lake for the first time this year on Saturday evening. Walking down the boulevard the first of my senses to be offended was that of sight when my eyes beheld that unsightly Dump which is being raised, evidently as a monument to the memory of the Municipal Council. But if the sight was offended what words can describe the awful outrage to the sense of smell, caused by the indescribable stench which emanates from this mass of debris, which I am told has been burning for some considerable time. The stench was so bad that several people became ill and left the course. The people of this community must be indeed very quiet to allow such a beauty spot as Quidi Vidi Lake and vicinity to be marred by having all kinds of old rubbish thrown there. Surely some other place or places outside the city limits could be found for such a purpose. I call upon the newly appointed Commissioners to take steps to at least extinguish the fire, as it is impossible to remove the unsightly mass before Regatta Day.
Yours truly,
AN OLD OARSMAN.

Hopeful Constantine.

Constantine, the deposed King of Greece, is hopeful that he will regain the throne that he was ordered out of by the Entente Powers with the approval of the people of Greece. Parliamentary elections in Greece are not far distant and Constantine has predicted that the results will show that the people wish him back. He is also preparing for the eventuality of the elections not turning out as he predicts, for he asserts that the Cabinet is preparing to falsify the returns. Constantine's war record is not honorable. He thwarted the will of his people in every way, violating the constitution, and breaking his pledged word; and he would have stabbed in Mischievous Youngster Starts Motor.

Motor car No. 1032 owned by Mr. George McQuire met with a mishap shortly before 2 o'clock to-day. He had left the machine in front of his door on Henry Street, and a few minutes after was apprised that it had gone down Bell Street of its own accord. It was learned, however, that a five year old boy had set the car in motion. The car struck the house of Mr. Brennan on Bell Street with an impact that shook the building to its foundations, and twisted the back door so that it would not close, while a strong wooden fence adjoining was partly demolished. The car was somewhat damaged, the front axle being twisted.

GERALD S. DOYLE,
Water St., St. John's,
Distributing Agent.

Mr. Higgins—Members of what? Of a district? Of a Union? Does the Minister mean that he was dismissed for the color of his tie or his complexion.

Minister of Marine and Fisheries—
For political reasons. He has since been appointed a Warden.

Mr. Higgins—As a Warden I understand he does not receive as much remuneration as he did in his other job, and I would ask the Minister to right the wrong done to this man and see that his salary is made equal to that which he received last year. He was quite satisfied if the man was given fair play.

Minister of Finance and Customs produced the bills in relation to Mr.
McGrath and claimed that although signed and passed by the Auditor General, that they were not vouchers.
The House then went in Committee on the Loan Bill, and Sir Michael Cashin dealing with the matter at length said: He was glad that the railway policy of the Government had struck the House at last. For nearly 10 weeks the Opposition has been asking what was going to be done with the railroad. From last September to June a lot of blame was laid on the late Government for their inaction in connection with the railroad. The Government made the railroad policy their platform, and said in effect that if you—the people—elect us we will see that the railroad is placed in good running order. Every kind of accusation was made against us and the contractors, and after saying so much we were led to believe that the Government would do something. Only yesterday a half hearted railway policy was introduced. The amount asked for in the Loan Bill is not near sufficient, it is only a waste of money. 2% of the rails need replacing. The opinion of the many railroad men he had met with is, that it would cost 6 or 8 million dollars to put the railway in shape. This expenditure of one million dollars is only throwing good money after bad. The Prime Minister in his manifesto said that he was going to make Reids' live up to their contract. Has he found out now that the Government is not in a position to compel the Reid Co. to do so? I take it that the Reid people can say to the Government: Here is your railroad.

We have lost over 3 millions of dollars in its operations and have gone to our limit. Well, if the Government were sincere in their statements they would confiscate all the Reid assets or compel them to repair the road.
The Government is not in a position to compel the Reids to repair the road, and they are not in a position to refuse to carry on the contract. Why not tell the country the truth that you are in a position where you have to come down here and vote $1,000,000 to continue the service. You are only tinkering with the service now, and in two years from now we will be called upon to spend another 2 million dollars. Your proposition is only throwing dust in the people's eyes. It is a misrepresentation to state, as you said, that you are only loaning Reids this $1,000,000 against what will be due Reids at the end of their contract and you know it. Is not the appointment of this Commission going into the railroad business? You go in with your four directors and say to the Reids, Here is one million dollars, run the railroad. What happens if there is money lost in operating next year. I am not protesting against this million dollars, millions more are needed. You, Mr. Premier, used the Reids to your advantage. You held them up to ridicule as supporters of the late Government. You came in here yesterday and asked for a loan for Reids to run the railroad, and in your previous statement said they did not know how to run it. I could handle you for the next 24 hours on this railroad bill and I have the material at hand. Last fall you horrified the people with tales about the railroad, and now you wish the country to forget those tales. Yesterday you read the statement of Reids for a purpose.
I am prepared to support the bill, but the vote is not sufficient. It would require hundreds of men to-day to put the road in condition. The Government is in power now long enough to have the work started. The men who had to emigrate might now be working in their own country. As it is now the snow will be on the ground before the work is started and then we will be faced with the same old conditions. As for the Reid statement we must take it as correct in the absence of proof to the contrary. These are their sworn statements. Are we doing justice to the Reids? If you give them money on loans to run the railroad, why appoint a commission with an auditor. If the Commission reports at the end of the year that the operation of the road was done at a loss, when then will be the position of the Government in this regard? I would like to hear the whole story of what the Government intends to do in the matter. Referring to the coal business, Sir Michael said, the coal situation to-day is serious. Steamers are now in Sydney that are held up for the past 2 or 3 weeks. It is an easy matter for the Government in its present position, to arrange that we get all the coal that we need. At present it is impossible for ships to get coal, owing to the Sydney people getting more money from others for their commodity than from us. I wish the mines at St. George's every success. I would ask the Prime Minister to table the data he has in reference to this matter.

Minister of Marine and Fisheries—
The coal supply is serious, and it is probable that the Grand Falls industries would have to close down. However, Sydney assures us of a domestic supply. We will apply all the pressure possible to compel the Canadian Government to give us supplies. If they don't give us our supplies, we will retaliate in the tariff.

Sir Michael—That would not be the correct policy as it might injure our trade and we might be the sufferers.
This coal matter is not a political one and we should all work together for the common good. Why not send a prominent man of the Government to Sydney and arrange matters. It could be done.

As this was near closing time Mr.
Fox asked that the House adjourn until Monday afternoon as nothing could be gained by having a debate on Saturday night and it would not take long to finish up on Monday afternoon. To this the Prime Minister would not agree and called the House for an evening session. Messrs. Fox and Higgins protested against this manifest discourtesy.

Mr. Coaker asked Mr. Fox how he would like it if the resolutions were withdrawn altogether, to which Mr.
Fox replied that it did not in the least interest him personally; the responsibility was in no way his but the Government's, and as to the veiled threat it had no effect whatever. He still asked that the House adjourn until Monday. The Prime Minister would not agree and the House rose until 8 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

On resuming Mr. Sullivan took the floor and continued until 9.30. He could not let the resolutions go through without a word on them. He congratulated the Prime Minister on his evident conversion to the principles of Reidsism. No doubt there is joy among the directors of the Reid Nfd. Co. over the return of the Prodigal Squires back to the fold in which he used to wander from 1908 till 1918. He then quoted from the Daily Star the Prime Minister's remarks in introducing the resolutions wherein he stated that he undertook the duty with great reluctance, because the R. N. Co. were bound to keep the road in repair. That being so, why are we voting them one million dollars? Mr. Sullivan said the idea was absolutely ridiculous that the road would be put in anything like repair by putting on new fish plates. That was the only one item.
No provision was made for raising the standard of the road bed, new ties, renewing rails, reducing curves and numerous other things that had to be done before the road could be operated successfully. He predicted that with equal conditions, next winter will be worse than last as far as tie ups are concerned. He could understand the Premier coming in and asking for a million dollars for road repairs, but when it comes to put $700,000 for terminals and rolling stock, and only $300,000 for road work, it is bordering on the ridiculous. The road now is twenty years behind the times, and if the Reids could not run it, it was up to the Government to see that it was run and run properly. Mr. Sullivan had just returned from a trip to Canada and came across on the Kyle. The accommodation on the little steamer was not nearly sufficient for the number of people travelling by her. Another boat on that service was absolutely necessary. He then turned to the coal situation, and from firsthand knowledge gained while at Cape Breton, he gave a forceful denunciation of the laxity of the Government in not doing enough in the way of getting our coal supply guaranteed.
He pointed out that the Kyle engaged in the Sydney-Port aux Basques service was not given more than her bunker supply, while the Meggie was 14 days at Sydney waiting for a supply. The fact was the coal company were not worrying about the Newfoundland trade, they had abundance of markets elsewhere and better paying. While he was at Sydney, an eight thousand ton steamer had loaded for Europe and another large ship was ready to land. The companies were receiving three dollars a ton more from Europe than we were paying, and a twenty-dollar freight in addition. He protested strongly against the Government's inactivity with regard to the local supply and denounced their incapacity. A couple of big men, with brains, would soon be able to solve the situation, but these were not to be found in the Government ranks.

Mr. Coaker admitted that the situation was really serious, but the Government wouldn't agree to the proposition submitted by the representatives of the coal company when they were here, regarding the tax on ore, and no arrangement has been made up to the present. The present tax of 7 1/2 cents will continue until the new agreement, which will be retroactive, is made. In admitting the seriousness of the situation, he stated that only on that day he had received a cable from Lord Northcliffe, stating the mills would have to close down unless it was possible to secure an ample supply of coal, and the railway company was in the same position, not being able to get enough for their needs. The coal company would guarantee enough for domestic purposes, but no more.

Despite this position, however, he was at least, one man in the Government who was not going to be bluffed, and he was prepared to give the coal company as good as it sent.

Messrs. MacDonnell, Higgins, Sinnott, Walsh and Fox occupied the time in the order named till midnight. When the hands of the clock showed midnight, Mr. Fox was speaking, and he politely drew the attention of the chair to the fact that it was then the Sabbath morning, and asked if legislation was going to be put through the House on Sunday.

Mr. Brownrigg stated it was not Sunday according to the slow time and was then 11 o'clock Saturday night. This apparently was the ruling of the chair, and Mr. Fox appealed to the Prime Minister, who remarked that it was a pity to interrupt Mr. Fox in his speech on any account.

Mr. Fox thanked the Prime Minister for his flattering remarks, but wanted to know if the resolutions were going to be put through. As introduced and put through all its stages. Then at 1.40 the Prime Minister coolly announced that the House would be prorogued on Tuesday next and moved the adjournment until 3 o'clock on that day.

The House adjourned at 1.45 Sunday morning. The laws of the Sabbath were violated for one and three-quarter hours to satisfy the whims of the Prime Minister to get the legislation through before another adjournment took place.

WHY THIS MOP GIVES SUCH EXCELLENT RESULTS

THE satisfaction derived from the use of a Mop is dependent upon the Chemical with which it is treated. The O-Cedar Polish Mop is treated with O-Cedar Polish. There can be no finer Polish for any varnished surface. It may be used on any surface—even on your piano—with perfect confidence. The Mop is scientifically designed. Made of Steel it is so constructed that perfect "centre pressure" is obtained—a feature important to good floor polishing.

Use it on any floor—whether varnished hard wood; painted, oiled or stained soft wood—also on elcloth and linoleum. Use it, too, for dusting and polishing wood-work and stairs—thus you may avoid much stooping, bending and reaching.

(Saturday's Trade Review.)
CODFISH.—During the month of June there were 80,000 quintals of dry Codfish shipped from Newfoundland to the foreign markets. It is estimated that there are 90,000 quintals of last year's fish yet to go forward and that all this will have gone by the middle of August. Under the Export Regulations the new 1920 fish on the Southwest Coast will be held back till all the old catch is gone, in order that the latter may fetch as good a price as possible. In former days the new West Coast fish always had a detrimental effect on any old fish of the previous year that happened to be unsold. This unfair competition will now be removed and all exporters will be on an equal footing. There are very few transactions in codfish these days. The export record for the week from St. John's and Outports was 17,440 quintals, of which 11,777 quintals were sent to Bahia, and 4,104 quintals to Oporto. The few sales that were made in St. John's this week were concluded at a variety of prices ranging from $5.50 to $9.50, according to quality. The market will run between these limits till small balances of old fish yet on hand is cleared out. Next week we hope to be able to give our readers some definite information as to the price of new fish.

CODLIVER OIL.—No change in the market. Several enquiries have been reported from both England and the United States, but "no sales yet" is the word we hear from exporters. Unless we see some good business doing during the next month or so there will be no hope of any fancy prices this year. We think that the Refiners are safe in counting on $1.50 per gallon for November.

COMMON COD OIL.—There is practically none selling on foreign market as all dealers are expecting a big decline in price. All kinds of fish oil are selling less than Cod Oil. It is reported that the fishermen generally intend rotting their oil this year, and if this be so there will be a considerable supply coming in at an early date. We would recommend all the fishermen to sell their livers at any reasonable price and make sure of what they are doing, as the price of cod oil is likely to decline considerably, especially if we have a good fishery.

HERRING.—The herring market continues dull at home and abroad. Split herring sold as low as $3.75 per barrel this week in St. John's, as against $4.00 all the Spring. These prices will not pay the producers, so that if there is no improvement in price there will be a very small pack next fall. Scotch Pack shows a little improvement in price in New York, and offers have been made of $20 a barrel, subject to inspection in New York. This means consignment, and before the New York buyers are done with the herring the price may be greatly reduced.

LOBSTERS.—Small parcels of new pack are coming in from the West Coast and Pincant Bay every other day since the first of July, and in most instances the sale is made at $25 on account. There probably will be no settled price till late this month. There is one million and a half dollars worth of Lobsters to-day in the Maritime Provinces for sale. There are more sellers than buyers, and the price has declined $5 to $7 a case, accordingly, since the 20th of June. There is hope in the latest news that there is no confirmation that the importation of Lobsters to France has been prohibited.

MOLASSES.—Two cargoes arrived in Newfoundland this week, the "A. D. Bailey" to Harbor Grace, and the "Emily H. Patten" to Marystown. The "Admiral Drake" and the "John Miller" are on the way up to St. John's from Barbados with cargoes, and the "Madeline Constance" and "Gaspé" are loading. These cargoes will bring the St. John's total up to about 7,000 puncheons. The "Norma B. Strong" and "Clatha" have gone to Turk's Island and will bring salt cargoes, and the "Evelyn" also there handling a molasses cargo, has to go to Jacksonville to take lumber for France. It is said that there is plenty molasses at Barbados, but the price is too high.

SUGAR.—The situation is unchanged. We referred last week to the full stocks now carried here, which came forward earlier than importers expected and before the same was required, thus overstocking the market. The carrying charges, storage, insurance, etc., on this will be a big item and somebody has to pay. As the selling price is fixed by the Food Control Board, it is deemed by those in charge that it would be unfair to saddle the importers with these expenses. The position having been put before the Food Control Board, they have decided as will be seen by their advertisement, to distribute these charges equally on the sugar consumers, so that we shall have dearer sugar here soon in spite of any decline in the U. S. markets.

FLOUR.—A Wheat Board will again regulate the prices and exports on flour in Canada the coming season. The Millers' Exporters, and above all, the Consumers, are strongly opposed to the appointment of a Board. The growing crop is looking prosperous and good harvest is expected. The St. John's import this week was 5670 barrels. Prices of leading brands are $17.25 to $17.50 wholesale.

BEEF.—No change in prices this week, and the different grades are very reasonable at $27 to $35 per barrel. In fact, there is a wholesome Plate Beef selling as low as $22.50. Boneless is $27. Family $24 and Regular Plate $27. B. Packet $32, and Flank $35 to $36, according to quality. July is generally the poorest consumption month of the season, and consequently the Bay trade is at its lowest point, and the demand practically at a standstill. The imports for the week amounted to only 133 barrels.

PORK.—The market shows very little change this week as far as cash pork for prompt delivery is concerned. Futures, however, or what is called "option" pork show decided weakness, as is indicated by the quotations on "options" received by the Board of Trade from Chicago daily. Mess Pork, which is the grade quoted on the Produce Exchange, shows a decline of about $4.00 a barrel for July and $4 for September "option." Cash pork for prompt delivery, shows as yet no downward movement, but any day it is likely to be influenced by the tendency of option pork. Ham Butt to-day is $57.00, Fat Back $46.00, Family $55.50.

POTATOES.—The price of imported potatoes went off $1.00 a barrel this week and the quotation is now $12 per barrel, as against $14.00 all the season. The half sack (90 lbs.) is selling for $5.50. There are heavy supplies of imported in town, the S. S. "Canadian Miner" having brought in 2962 bags this week from Montreal and Charlottetown. As the new potato season is only a month away, dealers are anxious to unload the old stock, hence the present weakening in price.

Submarine Stories.

Stories of the submarine menace are still to be told, the latest to reach the Guild being the experience of Mr. R. L. Pallett, who at the time was second officer of the s.s. "Wallace," owned by Messrs. Taylor & Sanderson, of Sunderland. On 17th February, 1917, whilst on a voyage from New York to Havre, loaded with munitions of war, the vessel was attacked by an enemy submarine about 240 miles west of the Fastnet Rock. The submarine, which came to the surface about three heavily for about half an hour. The "Wallace" was not defensively armed, nor had she a wireless outfit, so that resistance and communication with the patrol vessels was equally impossible, even an attempt to ram the under-sea boat was not feasible owing to the superior speed of the latter. Eventually the submarine called upon the "Wallace" to stop, and ceased firing at her. The British ship, however, did not escape casualties, having one man killed and two seriously wounded. The commander of the submarine called upon the "Wallace" crew to abandon their vessel, which was done, the chief officer being taken prisoner and the lifeboat was about to be used to convey bombs to the "Wallace" to hasten her sinking.

At this moment a Q-boat, attracted by the fire, appeared on the horizon and the submarine immediately submerged, taking with her the chief officer of the "Wallace," Mr. R. F. Moyle. The Q-boat came up to the "Wallace's" lifeboat and told the survivors to return to their vessel, saying that they would stand by them. The crew thereupon returned to their

The Canadian Flag.

There appears to be some doubt in the minds of many people on the subject of what flag may be used in Canada, on occasions of rejoicing. Following is the opinion of the late Sir John Bourinot, formerly clerk of the Canadian House of Commons, with reference to Dominion flags: "The famous English flag, commonly known as the Union Jack, is flown from all the fortresses and garrisons of Canada, whether under the charge of Imperial military authorities or Colonial militia forces. The Union Jack is a combination of three flags. The red cross on the white ground is for England, the white cross with the arms placed diagonally on a blue ground for Scotland, and the red cross with the arms placed diagonally on a white ground for Ireland.

"The Dominion of Canada has also authority to use a national flag, viz: The red or blue ensign, a flag of plain red or blue, having the Union Jack in the upper canton, or corner, next the mast, and the Dominion coat-of-arms in the fly or field of the flag. "The blue ensign is a distinguishing flag of the Government vessels of Canada; the mercantile marine of the Dominion has a right to use the red ensign. "The Governor-General has authority to use a plain Union Jack in the centre of which are the Dominion arms, surrounded by a garland of maple leaves and surmounted by a crown. "Every British subject has a right to fly the Union Jack in a British country.
