Smokeless powder is a fine invention; but Smokeless powder is a nee invention; but a greater want, just now, is an explosive that ignites only by the slow process of spontaneous combustion, so that it will be sure not to go off until both parties are ready to fight.

When Uncle Sam takes the "yaller" fever district of the South for his training quarters, and then, on the score of health, hesitates about fighting a few rounds in Cuba in the rainy scason, he is like the man who smokes blackjuck without any fear of poisoning his system, but yet is careful, every time he lights his pipe, to burn the match half out before applying it to the weed, lest the fumes of the sulphur might injure his lungs. Strain at a gnat and swallow a gristmill.

Good-bye, dear parliament, good-bye. You grow dearer every session, instead of growing cheaper. I am neither conservative nor liberal, and I hate to use slang, but I must say that the thought of either party professing to aim at economy in government makes me tired.

Sidewalks are for Pedestrians.

Mr. Editor:—

I was induced to pole for icorporation for the town of Bridgetown by some of the agitators of that scheme, on the ground that we would have a set of By-laws especially prepared in the interests of the town and an official appointed to see that the terms of the By-laws were preperly carried out. One of the growing and most dangerous nuisances of the day is the fast riding on bicycles, and especially when this exercise is indulged in on our sidewalks. Chap. XI. Sec. 17, of the By-laws was especially prepared to dispense with this nuisance by imposing a fine of five dollars for anyone riding any bicycle upon any sidewalk within the limits of the town, but you have only to step outside the business portion of the town and you will see this by-law flagrantly violated, and witnessed by the councillors of the town, who have been entrusted by the town, who have been entrusted by t tizens to protect their right.

Moreover, our Councillors ought not to grant a dollar of road money to any district until the statute labor had been fully performed and the returns completed and forwarded to the proper officer. Such a rule might very wisely be made by our Council. It would, at least, prevent any road money being granted to a district where the people were too shiftless to do their statute labor. Eugene Cleveland is spending a few days with his friends here and at Victoria Vale. As your readers know, Mr. Cleveland is the inventor of a patent cylinder for locomotives and engines of all kinds, which he has during the past year been developing and testing at the I. C. Accordingly, a contract has just been signed by the Minister of Railways, Hon. A. G. Blair, by which the Cleveland cylinder will be adopted and used on all the locomotives of that road. A Frenchwoman visiting in this country wonders that American children are not more often put in the black play aprons which French children wear universally, boys and girls alike. These are long, loose aprons which button to the throat in the back and are made with wide loose sleeves. They fit on over any toilet, and the children in French towns are seen incased in them while at play. They are quickly removed and protect dress and stocking from dirt and wear. The little boys are trained to wear so that they. The average American boy, however, would be likely to chafe seriously if he was returned to pinafores. The aprons are invariably made of black French cambric of stifficient good quality to prevent cracking and are in such common use as to be accepted without question by the children.
