He asserted that a blundering policy in construction had been responsible for the deaths of many officers, who had been "murdered" rather than killed, and he declared that the Earl of Derby was not qualified for appointment as chairman of the committee on control of air defence, because he was not well informed on the

Mr. Pemberton-Billing said that within the next few years the big nations would possess from 100,000 to 200,000 aeroplanes with which the sky would be blackened, while even the small nations which were unable to afford battleships, would be able to maintain fleets of aircraft which cost only from £100 to 200 apiece.

Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary

under secretary for war, replied that Mr. Pemberton-Billing's charges were grotesquely absurd and untrue, and he argued that the commander-in-chief at the front was thoroly satisfied with the air service, while the word "murder" in connection with the deaths of air men never should have been used. commons in connection with Mr. Pemberton-Billing's "murder" charge, but in the house of lords the Duke of Deconshire, replying to a question by Baron Beresford, on the same subject, said:
"No authentic record exists of any officer losing his life thru a faulty machine, altho two officers were killed while making important experiments." Baron Beresford thereupon apologized for his statement, saying that his information came from what he had considered a reliable source.

STRING QUARTET IN SPLENDID PROGRAM

Toronto Music Lovers Turned Out in Force at Conservatory Music Hall.

Toronto music lovers turned out in such force last night to hear the Toronto String Quartet that the Conservatory ccommodate them. It was quite the best house this season. Never during its ten seasons did the quartet give better selected program. It was a lengthy one of sciections from Beethoven, Debussy and Dvorak, especially chosen to provide a splendid example of the work of the composer and the ability of the artists.

Frank E. Blachford, first violin; Bene-Frank E. Biachiord, first violin; Jsene-dick Clarke, second violin; Frank C. Smith, viola, and Leo Smith, violoncello, the quartet, were assisted by Sydney B. Wright, second viola, and Madeline O'Brian Mills, pianist.

The number from Beethoven was the Quintet in C Major, Op. 29, for two violins, two violas and cello, was well rendered and showed the splendid skill and ensemble of the quintet. Debussy's Quartet in G Minor, Op. 10, was striking in its remarkable rythmic changes. The "Andantino Doucement Expressif" was much appreciated by last night's audience. Its strange, soft, romantic phrases appealed greatly to many present.

Dvorak's quartet, for plano and strings, strings, was likewise an admirable ensemble effort. Miss Mills was in splendid form and assisted very ably in this number.

that had long been known to the historians of warfare, and was merely put outside the pale of lawful weapons by common consent, out of humanity to the soldier. But when the Germans had the allies at a disadvantage, they used these gases without any scruple or regard for their solemn obligations. The allies are thereby entitled to use these gases by way of reprisal, and it would be in the nature of justice if the Germans could be smothered in this thing of their own devising.

In attacks with infantry against the front between Avocourt wood and Malancourt village yesterday, after a heavy bombardment lasting many hours, the Germans were prevented from debouching from Avocourt wood by the French counter-fire, but they gained a footing in the little hill of Haucourt, about 1000 yards from Malancourt village. Thus the French lines were in general firmly maintained, the slight recession on the Hau-costumed court hill, being apparently only on its northern slope, which would be exposed to the full sweep of the hostile artillery blasts, and its retention at all costs would be unprofitable for the French. Eminences are used in war nowadays for the posting of artillery observers with a telephone on top of them to direct the fire of the guns which are commonly placed behind them and fire over them according to directions. The gunners hardly ever see

The German offensive against the line Avocourt wood-Malancourt village, has been described as a flanking movement, but this is hardly a correct way of describing it. The German method of forcing opponents to retreat has been often illustrated. It is to select some point in the front nd to mass a great number of heavy guns against it, so as, failing to smash e lines of the attacked, to force them back a few miles. Then the Germans vert some of their big guns to another point of the front and attempt to several little ditties that were equally and the lines back there also. Thus they create a salient which projects into their lines like a bastion. The next procedure is to turn the guns inward against both sides of the bastion so as to threaten to cut off the forces inside of this bastion. To avoid being cut off, these forces might have bited a power that was remarkable to withdraw, making a considerable gain of ground for the Germans. In the attack against Verdun the Germans gained some ground, but they did not reach anywhere that has a strategic meaning. They may now be attempting to force back the French lines somewhere about Avocourt so as to create a salient for the exercise of their scheme to force a withdrawal of Maude Parsons who made such the French forces posted between the Doumont-Vaux-Poivre Hill sector deep impression at the Atherton Furand the Malancourt village-Avocourt wood sector. But as the French have long recital at Massey Hall last fall, made a deep study of the German methods and the German mental limita- has a very rich full contracto, and her tions, it is to be expected that they will be able to nip this scheme in the bud. So far the French lines round Malancourt have strongly resisted the most violent attacks.

It is quiet on the British front in Flanders. The ground is still a mire and it will be in this condition for three weeks or a month, and until then, it is improbable that any infantry action on a grand scale will be fought. In the meanwhile Sir Douglas Haig will spend his time in improving his military o. anization and in giving as many of the new divisions which Earl Kitchener sends across the channel some experience which they require in the firing line before their training as soldiers is complete. The only events reported yesterday were a bombardment of the German line at Wez-Marquart with guns and trench fighting, a grenade combat in the mine craters at Vermelles without any change being made in the situation, and the explosion of two mines by the Germans with the British suffering Rebellion in Carranza's army would render the position of the American expeditionary force so perilous that very available soldier would be rushed in to reinforce the advancing columns. For this purpose not more than about 15,000 men would be available with calling out the national guard. There are now on the border or in Mexico in the neighborhood of 25,000 soldiers and in the whole of the continental United States the other mobile forces number only a little more than 5.000.

Reports from the border were sent to the White House tonight and were the subject of a long conference during the evening between President Wilson and Secretary of War Baker. Afterward Mr. Baker declined to Protocol Drafted. Before the Funston report arrived, Counsellor Polk of the state department and Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate, had completed the draft of the protocol asked for by Gen. Carranza, to govern the operations of the American forces in Mexico, and provide for co-operation by the troops of the de facto govern-ment. Mr. Polk and Mr. Arredondo were in entire accord on the terms of the proposed convention, and the latter despatched it to Gen. Carranza, with the recommendation that it be approved. It is to become effective imnediately upon being signed.

The navy department allowed it to become known that the battleship Kentucky, once ordered to Mexican waters from New Orleans, and then diverted to Galveston, again had been ordered to proceed southward and to cruise off the Mexican coast in the icinity of Tampico.

Alarming Report Shattered. The war department made public no information concerning the movements of the expedition in Mexico.

Late tonight Gen. Funston reported to the war department that there was no truth in a report that 27 army motor lorries had been found 30 miles off the line of march in northern Mexico, with their drivers missing. In congress, during the day, Senator

Sherman of Illinois, Republican, introduced a resolution to authorize the president to issue a call for 50,000 volunteers to be used in the service in Mexico. The resolution was placed on the table, to be called up later.

Hon. W. J. Hanna Introduces Bill Providing For Prohibition by Legislation Based on Macdonald Act of Manitoba-Vote on Repeal Will Be Taken After the War and Straight Majority Will Decide - Druggists Allowed To Sell Liquor in Limited Quantities Under Government Supervision---Board To Administer the Lawful Provisions of the Bill.

ernment at that time because it was said that the board would be a mere political tool, etc. The work of the board justified its appointment, and today no one in the province would say that it had not met the most sanguine expectations and that everything claimed for it by the govern ment had not been accomplished. The government had given the commis-sion a good law, and it had gone out and administered it without hindrance from the department.

Based on Public Opinion.
"Since the legislature sat in 1914 a great deal has happened in the formation and development of public opinion," said Mr. Hanna. "The government of the province was not blind or deaf to public opinion. The government has never ceased trying find out how far public opinion had gone and would go. The speech from the throne indicated in no uncertain way what the government was prepared to do. In pursuance of the statements made in the speech from the throne we have introduced the Ontario Temperance Act. The bill is, as near as we could make it naving regard to the necessity to retain the provisions of the Ontario Act, the bill known as the Macdonald

Mr. Hanna said the governmen had adhered as closely as possible the Macdonald Act. They provided that the sale of the Macdonald liquor should be made by druggists. He understood that the druggists did not want the trade and that their organizations were opposed to handling the liquor. The government intended asking them nowever to co-operate with them in the selling of the liquor for medicinal purposes.

R. R. Gamey (Manitoulin) asked what effect the new law would have on the Scott Act, and received the assurance from Mr. Hanna that the Scott Act would operate as at present, with no sale of liquor being allowed. Local option acts, however, would all the province would be as if covered by a local option act. No Plahiscite

Speaking of the question of a refer endum Hon, Mr. Hanna said that the government had decided that in an vote on the liquor question the soldiers' ballot must not only be taken in name but also taken in fact. They, thought it was possible to secure the vote which did not include the soldiers vote should be taken on the prohibition question, because any decision arrived at without that vote would not came home. The government felt that it had no right to deprive 150,000 On-tario soldiers of their right to vote. On making attempts to secure per government learned that it was absolutely impossible, because the soldiers were scattered on the different battle fronts. The securing of the vote migh that the enemy would obtain valuable information as to the where abouts of certain troops, and he didn' think the imperial authorities would take that chance. When the government learned that it could not take th vote it was decided to enact prohibition until after the war by a vote of

Vote on Repeal. The time for the taking of the referendum on the question could not be until Ontario had settled down into something like normal conditions. That might be six months after peace was declared; it might be a year or it might be more. Mr. Hanna did not think that the vote would be taken for two or three years, and the house would have several sessions before the time came. That was why the bill had not been put in absolutely definite Mr. Hanna pointed out that even after the soldiers returned there would be the big task of revising the voters' lists and getting the names of the men on the rolls. After other sessions of the house were held the time might be opportune for passing additional legislation in connection with the prohibition measure. Mr. Rowell asked as to what provision covered the repeal point, and Mr. Hanna answered that the bill containfilled in. He stated, however, that on the repeal vote those entitled to vote legislative elections would be the ones to cast ballots. The vote would be on a straight majority basis

The would be placed in charge of this pard. No amendment to the Manitoimpair the prohibitory powers of that act when operated in Ontario.

Importation Allowed. Mr. Rowell had a query as to the provisions were in the bill respecting the announcement of the Dominion Government, that it would support any provincial law, Mr. Hanna said that the province had no power to prevent the importation of liquor, and in the new act the government had been careful to keep within the limits as defined by the privy council in dealing with the Manitoba Act. He was considere in excellent judge of a trotter and was amiliar with the blood lines of the best harness horses. Few amateurs ever excelled his as a reinsman; in fact, then road-riding was popular, the late Mr. Davies was considered one of the very best in Canada.

A neighbor of Mr. Davies gave this appreciation of him: Mr. Davies' comparatively short life included some forty years of concentrated business activity, and as a result he was singularly successful. He was a man most tenacious of his own purpose, and, therefore, relied on himself and kept his business to himself. on himself and kept his business to himself. He began as a brewer, like his father before him; and, as many barrels as he brewed each day, from early morning until evening, that many he had sold by personal canvass before he went to bed. To brew more, and to sell more, was the ambition of his early days.

He succeeded with nearly everything he touched. He took hold of the Don Valley Brick Works and made it the biggest and best brick plant in Canada, and he had no special knowledge when he went into it. But, like his experience in beer, he set out to show the largest output, and then to sell it. He took hold of the old Taylor Paper Mills in the Don Valley in much the same way. As a consequence, he employed a lot of labor in his time.

TORONTO BOY WRITES

That the Canadian boys on the firproved daily by the letters received regular monthly meeting of the Infrom the trenches. The following paragraphs are taken from a most interesting letter written from the "front line" in Belgium, to his sister, by a Minice Princess Pat, a Toronto boy, who went as a private with the third universities company:

"... We spent five days 'in' this last time, after the rest in billets, and some five days they were, too! Our latoon got a pretty 'punk' part of this company: line wished on them, and six of us and a corporal held down a sentry post close up to the German trenches, where we got fire from both sides of our front. The post is in some old trenches which the enemy blew up by a mine some time ago, and our parapet was one of the only pieces left standing, and was overlooking the huge crater and was overlooking the huge crater formed by the explosion of the mine. The hole is about 20 feet deep and filled with water! We had a small 'dug-out' in the side of the trench, covered over with sandbags and iron sheeting; it had a good floor, but was built right over a big hole, which was also full of water, and kept the place cold and clammy, and as we were not allowed a fire (being too close to the German lines), we were pretty 'hang-ed' cold all the time. Two of us lived there, and the rest back from the post about 75 yards. "We did sentry shifts night and day, and, believe me, they were the longest 60 minutes I ever put in, with my head over the parapet at night, looking out for Germans. We were fortunate in having no one hurt. Sunday afternoon we-started some 'strafe-ing' and bom-barded the Germans with trench mor-tars and heavy artillery, and blew up considerable of their parapet, and they came right back at us and blew up some of ours with 'sausages'-German trench mortars—and also gave us a pretty hot time with 'whiz-bangs'small shells nicknamed for the noise they make. They put over about 50 within 30 or 40 feet of me, and we sure must have had horseshoes tied bout our necks, for they showered us with mud, tho no one was hurt. That was the warmest hour yours truly ever spent! "While we were up there it snowed considerably, and then turned very cold. We had one blessing, however, and that was an inconsequential looking small tin of tallow, which I discovered somewhere along the trench, and promptly grabbed, put a piece of hand-kerchief in it and make a cookstove about two inches square! So we cooked bacon, toasted cheese and made tea for five days on that! How's that for domestic science?

"Saturday afternoon I was just commencing to shave in the trench at a small brook that runs thru. I had just hung my tunic up on a bush, and got out my brush and razor, etc., when 'they' commenced sending 'whiz-bangs' over about 50 feet from me, so that's one shave I've had out under shell fire—it wasn't enough that I was nearly stiff with cold (and shaving with water from a snow-bound creek is no joke even up the Humber), but the Fates apparently wanted me to have a realinteresting shave to talk about-so

"This morning there was quite an interesting aero fight staged just over our heads. In addition to our anti-airthere you are.' craft guns sending up a couple of hundred shells after them, our aeroplanes went after the enemy planes with machine guns, and I think they winged one, for he descended rapidly and 'beat it' back to the German lines. BOYS FOR THE FARM

Will Try and Influence Parents to Allow Children to Help in Production.

Considerable business of an iming line are far from "downhearted" is portant nature was discussed at the dustrial School board, held yesterday afternoon, Chairman G. Tower Fergusson presiding. Superintendent Ferrier of the Industrial School, read a report gradual progress and development in all departments of the work, and also submitted several recommendations which were later voted upon and carried. Chief among these was the recommendation that the school be augmented by a new building to be erected at a cost of $4000. Owing to the growth during the last two years more room is very urgently required.

It was also decided that the board would aid Mr. Ferrier in influencing parents of boys eligible for farm ser-vice to give their willing consent that the boys be placed on farms for six or eight months this year, thus helping with the industrial burdens of the Dominion. Any steps taken so far in this direction have been almost fruitless, for according to the superintendent, the parents have "a most crocked idea of the harshness of farmers." Inspector Chapman said it was a splendid thing for the boys. There are nearly 300 boys now in attendance at the school, making the necessity of an athletic director still necessity of an athletic director sulf-more urgent. The appointment of a member of the working staff at the school who has served for ten years and had charge of the boot making classes, was thought advisable, and carried. Special instruction in swimming will be given. In his report, Mr. Ferrier stated that a number of the boys had enlisted for active service, also one member of the staff and the chef.

An expression of sympathy to the widow and family of the late W. J. Hendry was moved by Mr. Beverley Jones. The late Mr. Hendry was first superintendent of the school in first superintendent of the school in 1887 and was secretary for 25 years. What we took exception to and pointed out on a previous occasion was that the information which the company stated had been obtained from a hydro report was used without the qualifications accompanying such informaqualifications the information referred to gives quite a different meaning. An example of this is made clear headed "part of 1915," and the com-"same period 1914." Comment is superfluous. To wriggle still further on all angles. this point can serve no good object, and can only discredit the company.

It is suggested that we consult an expert to advise us on the comparative capital cost of street and residence lighting. The company, howconsultation to a hypothetical quesfacts, something far more solid when here. real, than theory. Our statement was The most striking testimony to the cent. greater than the cost of supply-In support of and as justification of being taught to look alive.

he theoretical contention as to capial cost the company states that poles being used for house lighting as well as street lighting should not be charged against street lighting. Anything more unfair and unbusinesslike it is hard to imagine, but when it is realized that originally the main object company's statement becomes ridiculous. Again, in many streets the hydro wires were provided for street lighting when there was no other business, or at best, insufficient business to justify the outlay. No doubt there are many scientific ways of calculating what proportion of the charges should be debited to way, but if only one-half of the cost lighting it would be getting off very lighting when compared with residence service is handicapped in the matter of capital cost by the extra fifty per cent. This handicap is increased also by such charges as the cost of nightly patrolling the lamps and providing free lamp renewals. On the other hand there are admittedly some charges which are applicable to private services and not to street lighting, but that these are amply covered by the increased rate charged for residence service is obvious to anyone who knows that the rate per K W. Hr. obtained from the residence service in Toronto last year was practically three times the rate obtained from street lighting after deducting from the latter the charge made by the T. E. L. Company to their customers for free lamps. That these arguments have convinced the company of the unsoundless of its position is shown by the hange of ground. The company now seeks to compare two dissimilar services-power and lighting. It is a well-known fact that electric supply undertakings, whether publicly or privately owned charge a rate for lighting largely in excess of that for power. Take, for example, Montreal, which is the nearest instance of private ownership on a large scale. We have authoritatively advised that the rates in force last year (and we have heard of no reduction since) were for commercial power: $30 to $100 per horse power per year; street lighting, $72.70 for one size of luminous arc lamp, and $63.15 for a smaller size of the same class of lamp. Now the demand of the larger size of these is 550 watts, or about three-quarters of a horse power, and for the smaller lamp about half a horse power. On this basis, therefore, the charge for street lighting is about $99 to $130 per horse power as against $30

This shows that the latest argument and we shall have to request for the of the T. E. L. Company is absolutely last time, to a reiteration of what has unsound, and we are forced to the conalready been copiously dealt with. We clusion that it is trumped up for the

Carvell Thinks Allison May Have Taken Passage Across Ocean.

O'TTAWA, March 22 .- At the close of the evidence before the public accounts committee today, Mr. F. B. Carvell asked if there was any tidings of the whereabouts of Col. J. Wesley Allison, or if there were any hopes of securing him. "I don't know where he is," replied Hon. J. D. Reid, "but if there is any way under heaven of getting him we do so. I remember an attempt made several years ago to secure a witness, Mr. J. Orr Lewis, who was on British territory.

"Mr. Carvell argued that there was no power to produce him when he was outside Canada. If Mr. Carvell can tell us how we can bring him tack from the United States we will take action." "I have forgotten the case entirely," said Mr. Carvell. "I know you have forgotten him," "Where is he?" asked Mr. G. H. Barnard. "You know where he is; you have got detectives on his tracks."

Mr. Carvell said he was in New York a few days ago and added: "Per-haps he's sailed across the ocean." Messrs. Kyte and Carvell moved for papers in connection with traveling expenses for Gen. Sam Hughes. "There are items of $400, $387, $1200 and 57117 for special trains for the minister of militia and $516 for a sleeper for his brother. James L. Hughes, of Toronto," it was said.

The Grouch.

KNOW a fellow, who ordinarily is one of the finest chaps in the world. But he has a colossal failing.

Something goes wrong—his personal comfort or his work is interfered with, and naturally he becomes aggravated and pretty nasty to anyone with whom he happens to come in contact about this ime.

"Then," you ask, "afterward he is sorry?"
Not a bit of it! He nurses that aggravation until it becomes a sulk, nurses the sulk until it grows into a grouch, and carries that around with him for the remainder of the day.

His wife has to suffer. He generally finds her at least partially responsible for his ugly feeling. His stenographers and friends suffer; and when he meets strangers he is hurt indefinitely by creating a bad impression.

What satisfaction he gets from this attitude must be meagre. Perhaps he thinks he owes humanity a knock in return for the little hurt done him, so he retallates by hurting his sympathetic wife and long-suffering disgusted friends. Eventually of course this all hurts himself—alone. It lessens everyone's opinion of him; makes them pity him—which is intolerable. what satisfaction he gets from this attitude must be meagre. Women whose only pursuit is house-keeping, and who work conscientiously at it from day to day, in working hours from 7 a.m. until bedtime, should study system and management, as applied in the modern sense. Then, if they gain a little time, spend it in the open air or other recreation; or, if they must work, a tleast vary their pursuit.

There are some women tied down to earth by poverty and too large families, who will bitterly resent the above sugsestion. Their work seems endless.

Better for them to leave some of that drudgery undone—to open the doors of the home and let the fresh air and sun effect a little housecleaning; to walk—if there are any—with the babies, drinking in deep chestfuls of nature's tonic, returning home refreshed, and to a refreshed home!

In one of Arnold Bennett's books, "Hilda Tessways." is a passage.

MMORTAL eyes; Cool as the cold Saskatchewan's stream, Blue-gray as cold Saskatchewan skies, Thou art the symbol of a dream I dreamed last night.

The Child.

THE RACE'S ONLY HOPE. W HY not see that every child that is born has a chance to get started right in "the pursuit of life. liberty and happiness"? Let none want for food or education until self-supporting. All have the chance of a real technical school, where in time they would naturally go to the thing they liked to do best, and their proficiency in it would soon pay back to the state the capital invested in their training.

This should pay better than pensioning mothers, for the mere fact of being a mother is no guarantee that a woman is wise.

one of the first things to remember in "keeping house" systematically, should be to make up a schedule, wherein each piece of work to be accomplished should be "timed," and then have every day's summary adhere to as nearly as possible. Mr. Justice Britton Finds for Farnie and Annie Palmer Against Brother.

AT OSGOODE YESTERDAY

William H. Swayzie is Awarded Damages Against Clinton Insurance Company.

In the action of Fannie and Eliza Jane Palmer against their brother, William Palmer, over the will of their father, Thomas E Palmer, who died on his farm in the Township of Markham, Justice Britton gave judgment at Csgoode Hall yesterday afternoon set ting aside the deeds of the farm given to the two sens, William and Charles his lordship also set aside the second codicil of the will, whereby the farms in dispute were to be sold. By his will made on Feb. 27, 1903 the late Mr. Palmer bequeathed his real estate at bt 45, first concession, in the Township of Markham, and his personal estate to his two daughters, Fannie and Elza. Within six months of his death mortgages of $6000 were to be raised of each of the two lots. According to the will each lot should be leased to the sons. William was to get the north one and Charles the other. The daughters, who by the will were named executrices and trustee of the estate, were not satisfied with the conduct of their brother William and had authorty by a second codicil in the will to ether lease or sell the farm. William produced a will, which he alleged was made by his father, giving him possession of the north lot and Charles the south lot of the land This, the daughters claimed, was got

GRAVEURE TONIGHT.

"Why should I not sing?" asked Louis Graveure, the celebrated Belgian bari-tone who sings in Massey Hall tonight, when asked by a young subaltern of the 81st Battalion last night to favor the boys of his battalion with a song. "These boys are going to fight for their country and for mine, so I think it is a privilege." Needless to say Graveure sang more than once and when he had finished the soliers cheered him to the echo. The singer had been entertained to dinner by the officers of the Sportsmen's Battallon and afterwards was taken to the headquarters. the headquarters of the battalion. An impromptu concert was being held in a room above by the 81st and hearing the music Graveure walked up, with the above result. He will be given a civic reception at the city hall today.

WARD SIX NOW LEADS RECRUITING CONTEST

Perhaps one of the most interesting features of the recruiting which is being carried on in the city today is the ward competition to secure recruits for the 204th Battalion, and this competition is doubtless responsible for the manner in which men are coming forward to join Lt.-Col. Price's unit. The strength of the battalion now stands at 211, with Ward Six leading, with 64 men. Until last night Ward One was in the lead, but now it has fallen back to second place, with 63 recruits.

A presentation of an I.O.O.F. medal was made to Pte. W. J. Robinson of the 204th last night by his associates in the Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 230.

Were demanding sight drafts for goods.

George J. Foy said that their men had been called in also and that he did not know when they would be sent out again. "If the prohibitive liquor law comes into effect immediately," he said, "it will work a great injustice upon the liquor men. There are large shipments coming across the water now, and if these are to be paid for by the dealer and he can't dispose of them it is very unfair. I think that the date for closing down should be at the earliest Nov. 1 of this year."

Sgt. Richard Lister Tells of Noble Work Performed by Horses.

Last Christmas Elliott and Gordon Trent, in common with many other Toronto lads, sent some suitable Christmas gifts to our brave soldler boys at the front, when Gordon said to his brother: "Let's write a letter and see if we get any answer." The enclosed is Elliot's answer, which has just come to hand, and it throws some very interesting and unusual sidelights on the war: France, March 1.

Dear Little Friend: Whilst distributing gifts from Canada among my men today, I saw your letter addressed to "A soldier." so am sending you these few lines to tell you how much your gifts are appreciated by Canadian Tommies. As we are the Toronto Battery it gave a personal touch to the gifts and took us all back, it lancy, to the Ouern City which we are all longthe Queen City which we are all longing to see again, altho many of our comrades who left Toronto with us in August, 1914, are sleeping in soluers' graves in Belgium and France, only their memories remaining. I saw an account of the battery's doings, sent by our commanding officer, in a Toronto paper; perhaps you have seen it as well, so won't relate our doings here. relate our doings here.

We are resting just now 'Somewhere in Flanders' and as I write the boys are kicking up an awful ischet, enjoying themselves at various games, and a gramaphone is discoursing music more or less sweet, and 'Madame' is hustling around trying to cope with the rush of orders for case and beer and talking volubly in Flemish all the time; two Flemish women gossiping can make more Flemish women gossiping can make more noise than the 12th of July brass band; they both talk at once, with their arms as well as their mouths. You would laugh at our chaps talking French; laugh at our chaps talking French; they have acquired a few phrases and work them to death.

The Canadians are welcome, tho, wherever they go; they are generous with their pay and no deserving refugee is overlooked on pay day. The lady of our billet, whose husband is in the trenches was very kind and did her best of our billet, whose husband is in the trenches, was very kind and did her best to make the boys comfortable by getting seats and tables and clearing a big room and placing it at their disposal. When pay day came a cap was passed round and each gave a franc or so, the whole collection being given to Madame to show her how they appreciated her kindness.

We have all our horses under cover and they are enjoying their immunity from the cold weather to the full. They have had a rough time out in the open at all times in all kinds of weather. 1 at all times in all kinds of weather. I still have four left of the thirty-four horses I brought from Canada in September, 1914, in my subsection. Mac, the lead of the gun, was at one time in the Toronto Fire Department, and I think pulled with Babe (wheel of firing battery wagon) a hook and ladder in Adelaide street station. I had several the department because in my teams and Firms Call in Travelers and Defire department horses in my teams and they did their work nobly and well and ared as true gunners in harness and do-

Even the humb's watercart horses fell victims to German shells while bringing water to us when we were greatly in need of it, and their drivers were severely wounded, Jones at the first attempt and Sullivan at the second attempt, which brought the cart to within 100 yards of us. Old Mac has worked himself up from wheel of first line wagon, last in procession, to lead of gun, first in subsection. Lost First Mount. I lost my first mount, a big chestnut mare, which I had had from Valcartier mare, which I had had from Valcartier days, at St. Jean, in the Ypres fighting, in April last. She received several shrapnel wounds and was sent to the rear to be fixed up. It was some sight to see the teams come galloping up to take us out of action when the Germans made one spot too hot for us, and we had to go elsewhere. They snorted disdainfully when shels! fell around them, and showed their contempt for Fritz and the kaiser by still going ahead and pulling the guns out and galloping away to the new position.

A soldier learns to love his long-faced friend at such times, and there is a bond of friendship between thet wo. We have lost severely in horses and men during of friendship between thet wo. We have lost severely in horses and men during the twelve months we have been in action, but we have the satisfaction of knowing our comrades did not die or suffer wounds in vain. The First Canadian Division saved the situation when it seemed that the Germans, with their beastly gas, would break thru, and when the situation was less critical General Alderson exited the various units in Alderson exited the various units in Alderson exited the various units in the scrap and said a few words of encouragement. All hearts were full, as we thought of those in Toronto who would never see their loved ones again. I've been lucky so far, and have had nothing more than scratches and bruises, and more than one great big fright. Coal boxes have a knack of making one's knees knock together. Well, little friend, I'll have to cease fire now, so, again thanking you, on behalf of my men, for your gifts and kind wishes for our welfare, and hoping you have been successful in your exams. at school, I beg to remain, yours very gratefully, Sergt. STRONG APPEAL MADE ABOUT CHURCH UNION

Boys Sent Letter With Christ- Rev. Dr. Chown Would Avoid Any Crisis That Would Have Serious Results.

> Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church, has written to the Presbyterians in favor of solving the church union problem and avoiding an impending, crisis by an extension of the co-operation now in organic force with respect to certain departments of home and foreign mission field areas

Rev. Dr. Chown says in his appeal that while the Presbyterians made concessions for the proposed union it must be remembered that the Metho-dists also "conceded many changes of theological statement. Departments of home and foreign mission field areas, provided the extension of co-operation is with a view to organ-ize union of the churches. Unless cooperation is extended with a view to church union, and as a substitute for it the Methodists general superintendent condemns it.

"If it be urged," says Rev. Dr.
Chown, "that to reject co-operation will entail upon us, either one of two undesirable courses or both, it is certain that none of the responsibility rests upon the Methodist Church in Canada."

Dr. Chown defines the "two undesirable courses" as "falling back into the unholy rivalry which obtained before negotiations for church union were begun or submitting to the formation of a new denomination composed of local union churches."

GLARING REVERSAL OF FORM BY CAANDIENS

Downed Portlnad in Second Cup Game Played Under Western Rules.

MONTREAL, March 22 .- Showing one of the most glaring reversals of form seen in a hockey contest here this season. Canadiens defeated Portland, 2 to 1, tonight, in the second game of the Stan ley Cup series. The goals were all scored in the opening period. During the last in the opening period. During the last two periods the opposing aspirants for the world's championship at professional hockey battled hard, but neither was able to get the puck thru an iron defence for a tally. The play was under Pactic Coast rules, but the Canadiens, accustomed to individual efforts under the six-man style of hockey, continued at their own style, and thru furious play managed to keep the brilliant combination piays of their opponents from getting out of hand.

Thru Canadiens winning tonight, the series will have to go over into next week before either aspirant can win the prescribed three games. The third game of the series is scheduled for Saturday night. The fourth game will be played next Tuesday night, and ig a fifth contest is necessary it will take place the following Thursday.

There was an all-round shake-up in the line of the Flying Frenchmen for tonight's game. Newsy Lalonde and Jack Laviolette, old-time favorites with the hockey-lovers, were replaced by Arbou and Prodgers. Laviolette was said to be suffering from a broken nose, received in the last scheduled N.H.A. struggle at Ottawa, while Lalonde was stated to be suffering from a severe cold. The Rosebuds went on the ice with the seven men who represented them in their successful season at the coast, and when their linewho represented them in their successful season at the coast, and when their line-up became known were supported by the hetting public. Portland were 2-to-1 favorites for the game.

Finding an Alibi for Those Montreal hockey boosters have found an excuse, but no reason, for the defeat in the first game. One of them reported that three of the players of the Canadien team had been overheard to state that they did not care how the Stanley Cup matches went, and did not feel inclined to play their best. They claimed that Manager Kennedy had failed to pay them $1000 promised if they won the N.H.A. championship. McNamara and Corbeau state Kennedy promised the team $1000 if they won first place and $500 if they were second. Kennedy denies that he made any such promise. Manager Kennedy later said Corpeat had denied making the statement alleged.

Tho it was only a 2-to-0 defeat, the home boosters started quick with the hammer. For instance, an expert on what you call it said:

Newsy Lalonde was outguessed and outgeneraled at every turn, and after the first ten minutes he showed evident signs of pique and bad temper, which earned him nothing but repeated trips to the coop. Lalonde, Pitre and Laviolette, as a championship forward line, on their lest night's display, are a merry jest in a world of sadness. The two wing men roarned all over the ice, without accomplishing anything, and Lalonde's centre ice play only helped to nake the work of the Portland defence look the more brilliant by comparison.

Howard McNamara was another unfortunate who was afflicted with an evening off. Howard has played some stellar hockey for Canadiens this season, but his work last night was by no means and sleet for a couple of miles on the The it was only a 2-to-0 defeat, the stellar hockey for Canadiens this season, but his work last night was by no means stellar. His attempts to stick-handle were pathetic, and his only good work was done when he used his weight on the opposing forwards.

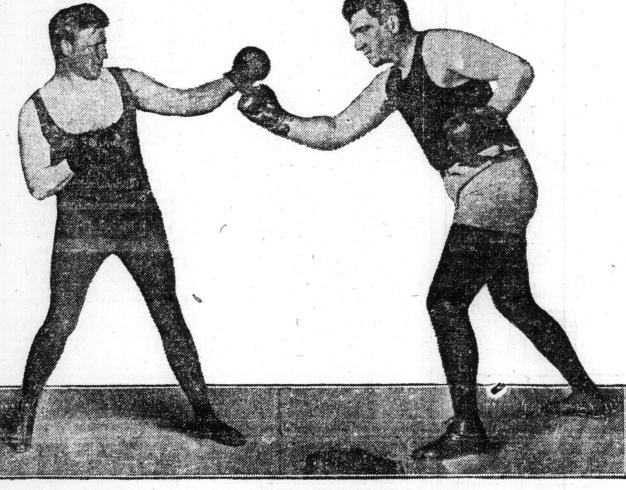

Corbeau, Prodgers, Arbour, and, of course, Vezina, were the only Canadien players who showed anything like champles the champion. course. Vezina, were the only Canadien players who showed anything like championship class. Goldie was surprisingly good, and Arbour was the most valuable man on the French team. It will always be a mystery to Canadien fans why Laviolette, with a broken nose and grotesquely handicapped by an india rubber nose protector, such as is used by the men who buck the line during the football season, was allowed to wander around the ice in a vain endeavor to accomplish something for his side, while Arbour was held down to the bench. Laviolette was in no shape to be of any value to the team, and as often as not he was in his own way. Pitre, altho he had no broken nose as an alibi, was an equally pathetic sight. Harris had him checked to death, and the only shots on goal he registered landed in the audience, returns to be read off at the assembly hall of the Labor Temple, on Church street, Saturday night next, March 25.

Willard took on his three sparring partners for two rounds each. George tooled and Jack Hemple were buffeted around by the champion, who put plenty of steam into some of his blows. He made matters even more interesting however, when Walter Monahan got into the ring. Jess evidently had not forgotten Monahan's left-hand smash, which raised a lump on his head last Monday. The mark of that blow has not entirely disappeared and the big fellow got no little satisfaction in stinging Monahan today. While his defence is still faulty, Willard looks and moves like a thoroly trained athlete and there is no question as to his almost perfect condition and his ability to inflict punishment.

Moran slashed around in the snow and sleet for a couple of miles on the road in the morning and confined his road and the morning and confined his road in the morning and confined his road and the same finished in the morning and confined his road of the Labor Temple, on Church street, and the assembly ridual play, but the eastern lord vidual play, but the eastern profunded at work close in to the and thex as and the above association hext, March 25.

The above and er It was fast at all times, and with Childs and Nurse pulling off clever stops, it was a game worth watching. Wat son opened up early and his rushes were of the thrilling order. He outskated his opposing forwards at all times and his stick-handling could not be improved upon. The West broke like winners. They waded right in with a two-man combination and in the first four minutes had tallied two goals. The east came to life and scored three before the rest and were never headed after this.

The second period was interesting, but Green kept the West forwards out and his own front line had more system to their attack. Watson and Wright went right up to the net and the score at the end of the second round stood 6 to 4 right up to the net and the score at the end of the second round stood 6 to 4 for the East.

The East scored three to the West's one in the closing session. Watson thrilled the small crowd with his rushes. The West had a two-man advantage at cre stage but falled to score.

Wright and Watson worked nicely together at all times and the East checked better thruout. Green worked like a beaver on the defence and this about tells the story. Brown, Foulis and Meeking were the best of the losers.

President McCaffery Returns From New York and Announces His Line Up.

President J. J. McCaffery returned from the scredule meeting in New York last evening brimming over with enthusiasm for his new club and a sucthusiasm for his new club and a successful season. He had a long session with Joe Birmingham and Arthur Irwin in New York and is able to give out a complete roster of Toronto club players for 1916 as follows:
Catchers — Kelly. Hayden, Trout, Kritchell.
Pitchers—Herbert, Cook, McQuillan, June, Dye, Corbett, Shith, Manning, Lyons.
Infield—Graham, Truesdale, Blackburn, Ball.

ham, Becker, Layden. Released to Portland, Me.—Issacs and Brown.

Catcher Hayden is from Portland, Me.
Pitchers McQuillan and Dye are semipros. June was with the Brookiyn Nations. Corbett and Smith come from the Southern Association. Outfielder Layden is from the New York Americans.
The rest in the roster are old players or have become familiar to the ians thru the despatches.

Outfield-Wilson, Brackett, Birming-

The Leafs have secured the old Jersey City League ball park for spring train-ing. There they will report to Messrs. Birmingham and Irwin the last of next week. A short list of exhibition games will be arranged, giving the team four seeks of training and games before they open up on Thursday, April 27, at Newark.

Joe Tinker drove Phil Douglass out of the Chicago Cub training camp when he found that the tall, shuffling southerner had been imbibing of mountain dew, and then a little later got a chance to send him to Mike Kelley's St. Faul team. But now he can't find Phil. This big fellow pitched for Spokane a few years ago, and any time he really tried he showed all kinds of class. But he will not keep in shape, so his big league days are probably over. Club managers are getting real peevish and they refuse to waste time on fellows who will not observe training rules.

Prohibition Policy Decided After Serious Thought and Consideration.

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Deputation Stated Legislation Would Mean Suicidal Dislocation of Business.

Protesting against prohibition during the war a deputation from the pusiness agents of the Trades and Lacor Council waited upon Premier Hearst, Hon. T. W. McGarry, Hon. Dr. Pyne and the Hon. Finlay Macdiarmid at the parlia-ment buildings yesterday morning. ment buildings yesterday morning.

In the memorandum which was read they claimed to represent 25,000 labor men who had enlisted for active service. Taking into consideration the families of these men they maintained they represented 100,000 people who would be affected by the legislation. It was pointed out that the government was returned against the banish-the-bar policy and because of this it had no mandate from the public for prohibition. Work before the war was scarce, they declared, then came the war, and now declared, then came the war, and now the government proposed to enact legislation that would mean a "suicidal dislocation" of business.

In reply the premier stated decisively that the policy of the government was set forth in the speech from the throne. The policy adopted was not agreed upon quickly, but it had been decided after serious thought and consideration, he assured them. In conclusion Mr. Hearst said to the deputation: "That is the position, gentlemen. It would not be fair or honest for me to suggest that we intended doing anything other than what was outlined in the speech from the throne, and I feel that the dangers you have spoken of will-"Well, there's no more to be said, so we'il wish you the compliments of the season and leave you to your own work," said J. LONG GEO. M'CONNELL THE CUBS' BEST PITCHER

Great Things Expected From International League's Elongated Twirler.

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—Big George McConnell, the mainstay of Tinker's pitching staff last year, is likely to be just as much of a help to Joe this coming summer as he was last year. The big fellow is rounding into condition fast and displays just as much energy in the pitching line as he eyer did. and displays just as fitted energy in the pitching line as he ever did.

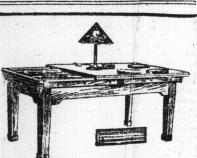

He is not a youngster by any means, altho he was signed up a year ago by the Cuos as a minor leaguer. He is the same McConnell who was with the New York Highlanders three years ago. He came to the New York club from the Buffalo club of the International League, where he was regarded as the pick of the league. He did not stick long with the Yankees and went to the American Association, from where he was drafted by the Cubs in the fall of 1914. He is more than 30 years old, but he is the build that will least for several more seasons in the pig league, in spite of his age. He is one of the tallest men in the National League this year, as he measures around 6 feet 3 inches and is heavy enough to make use of all his length without looking awkward. He is distinguished from the other members of the pitching staff by being bald, which adds to his appearance of age. Zabel was the only man on the hurling staff last year minus the usual thatch. McConnell is raw-boned and strong enough to stand a lot of heavy work. While he does not class with Brownie in his palmy days as a rescue pitcher, he can be counted on to do more than the ordinary run of heavers. Tinker will have so many pitchers on his staff that are in the seasoned veteran class that he will not have to depend on one man altogether to do the rescue work.

There is no let up in McConneil's speed this year from last summer. He has shown just as much pep in his work as he ever did. He is a caut ous trainer he ever did. He is a cautous trainer. He does not jump into the fray the first day or two and get himself so sore that he cannot get over it for a week, and is already able to go the whole distance if he is called on for a full nine-innings Tinker thinks a lot of McConneil, for

Tinker thinks a lot of McConnell, for he signed him at a higher salary than he got last year. Because of the good work that he did last year, Big George thought he was entitled to a little raise. He did not sign his contract until he had been in camp a week. There was no disposition on the part of Tinker to refuse the request of the big pitcher for more money and the little difference was fixed up in

There is not much chance of the West-ern Canada Baseball League being re-vived this summer, according to E. C. Rossie of Regina, who was managing director of the White Sex of that city. ROBSON AND RECORDS.

With one watch timing him, Fred Robson claims two more world skating records. Around two turns, the watch caught Robson doing the 100 yards in $2.5 sec. Morris Wood's world mark for the 100 is 93.5 seconds. Robson went 160 yards next, and again the watch said record time. It gave Robson a mark of 14 seconds flat for the distance. Phillips did the 150 in 15% seconds away back in 1883 for the recognized record, All this happened at the Arena last night.

BIG EVENTS IMPENDING

Strong Demand Made for Resumption of Campaign of Frightfulness.

BERLIN, March 22 .- (Via London.) The Tages Zeitung, Tagliche Rundschau, Post and Kreuz Zeitung publish the following manifesto on their first pages:

"In view of the treatment which the esolutions now before the reichstag regarding war against commerce have experienced, owing to officially-inspired utterances, we feel ourselves compelled, in harmony with a great number of leading German newspapers, to make the following declaration: Big Events Soon.

"The political events of the last few days have evoked in the German people apprehension of important events. Grand Admiral von Tirpitz is looked on by our nation not only as a man whose energy and creative force brought to glorious realization the words of our emperor that a strong fleet was an urgent necessity for us, but at the same time as the German statesman who first and most clearly recognized England's purpose to de-stroy her peaceful German rival, and who was determined to meet this purpose with all force and by ruthless employment of all means at our dis-

Back Von Tirpitz. "The overwhelming majority of our people feel themselves therein at one with the creator and organizer of our navy. Altho the people repose unshakable trust in the supreme commanders, apprehensions are widespread that the retirement of the grand admiral is connected with his attitude on this question, and statements of newspapers whose connection with governmental circles is known to have confirmed this interpretation.

"It is our conviction that it is an urgent demand of the hour that ground for these apprehensions befully removed. The resolutions befully removed. The resolutions before the reichets offer a suitable of the supreme command quarters and conferred with generals who returned from France last night. F. Spadio and C. Powers have gone to France to join the battalion. Capt. Wood of the Eaton Machine Guns has been appointed paymaster of the 3rd Engineers. Lieut. Ryman, 9th, is appointed to the Pioneer training depot. J. B. Mackay is appointed honorary lieutenant-quarter master of medicals. Major Burgess of the Medicals takes duty in the 10th Ambulance at Bramshott. Lieut. Simpson, 18th, is transferred to the with the creator and organizer of our firmed this interpretation.

"It is our conviction that it is an urgent demand of the hour that ground for these apprehensions befully removed. The resolutions before the reichstag offer a suitable occasion for this. Therefore, we welcome these resolutions and reject, as constitutionally ungrounded, the criticism prematurely meted out in respect to them by officially inspired organs. We voice the inmost feelings and dearest wishes of wide circles of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of the German people when we give expect to the suitable of th the German people when we give ex-pression to the hope that the leaders of the empire will give these resotions the considreaion which will do justice to their patriotic spirit and promise the fulfilment of their patriotic aims. "We believe that in these days of earnest endeavor it is our duty to the nation and fatherland, imperiously denation and fatherland, imperiously demanded of us by the national conscience, to speak out these things

what it terms the anti-governmental campaign to obtain signatures to peti-tions and otherwise to create a tre-mendous demonstration in favor of intensified submarine warfare. SEIZURE OF SECURITIES IS UPHELD BY BRITAIN

Jnited States' Formal Protest Has Not Made Much Impression.

LONDON, March 22.-Replying to the formal protest of the United States against the seizure of American securities, the British Government will give to Walter H. Page, the American ambassador, an informal interim reply, in which Great Britain will claim the right to make such seizures because their sale by Germans gives them credit, which places the bonds in the same category as gold shipments. Ambassador Page has presented a number of specific complaints to the British foreign office in behalf of American can claimants of the seized securities but no reply showing what disposition the British Government intends to make in this case has yet been received. It is understood the ambassador will press for an early reply to these complaints.

There is a disinclination in official circles to make any statement regarding the possible fate of these selzed securities as they constitute a form of contraband which has no precedent.

CHOICE STOCK SCARCE AT MONTREAL YARDS

Small Lots to Fill Actual Wants Met Good Demand.

MONTREAL, March 22 .-- At the C. P. MONTREAL, March 22.—At the C. P. R. live stock market today there was a scarcity of good to choice stock, and a firm feeling prevailed. There was a good demand for small lots to fill actual wants, and sales of steers and heifers were made at $6.50 to $8.50; butchers' cows at $5 to $7.50, and bulls at $5.50 to $7.20 per cwt. The offerings of canning stock were fair, cows selling at $3 to $3.75, and bulls at $4 to $5 per cwt.

Trade in sheep and lambs was quiet, owing to the small supplies available, and prices ruled very firm. with small lots of the former selling at $7.50 to $8.50, and the latter at $11.75 to $12 per cwt.

Demand for calves was active, and a brisk trade was done in good to choice stock at 8c to 9c per pound.

Hogs were active and firm. Selected lots brought $11.25 to $11.50, weighed off cars, per cwt. cars, per cwt.

WELL FINISHED STOCK WAS IN GOOD DEMAND

Prices Rule Strong in Some Departments Because Receipts Not Heavy Enough.

SOLD AT FIRM FIGURES

Tho Only Small Percentage Were Choice, Butchers' Cattle Disposed of Quickly.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards on Wednesday were 117 carloads, comprising 681 cattle, 2002 hogs, 32 sneep and lambs, 153 calves and 1132 horses. There was a good demand for all classes of good to choice well-finished stuff. In several departments the receipts did not begin to equal the demand and prices ruled strong accordingly.

Butchers' Cattle—There would be about 600 cattle offered, of which only a very small percentage were choice and well-finished; these were all quickly bought up at as firm prices as have been paid this season. The common, half-finished classes, while not selling as readily, were classes, while not selling as readily, were being taken up at steady values. A. B. Quinn sold one fancy steer, 23 months old, weighing 1160 lbs., fed by T. P. Armstrong of Thornbury, at $8.75; also seven steers of choice quality at the hext high figure of $8.50. Mr. Quinn nad eight of the high-priced cattle of the day, including the one that topped the market. Several small lots reached $8.25 and we heard of three or four loads selling at $8, but the bulk of the good cattle sold from $7.80 to $8.15.

Stockers and Feeders—There seems to Stockers and Feeders—There seems to be an increasing demand for these classes, but few are being offered and half-fat steers that were intended for the butchers' market are being taken at $7 to $7.50. Toronto-Chicago - Toronto-Montreal FOR CHICAGO. Leave Toronto 8.00 a.m., 6.00 p.m. 11.45 p.m. daily. Milkers and Springers-Not enough of Milkers and Springers—Not enough of the good to choice classes are coming forward to satisfy the demands. One dealer informed The World that he had orders for two carloads yesterday, but could not get them, as they were not on the market. Prices for these classes are very firm at quotations given. A. B. Quinn sold one springer at $100, which was the highest we heard of. FOR MONTREAL. Leave Toronto 9.00 a.m., 8.30 p.m. and 11.00 p.m. daily. Equipment the Finest on All Trains. Full particulars and berth reservations on application to City Ticket Office, N.W. Corner King and Yonge Sts. Phone Main Veal Calves-Few choice or even good

Was the highest we heard of.

Veal Calves—Few choice or even good fat veal calves are coming on the market. The bulk of the calves offered yesterday were common and medium. The buyers all agree that the quality of the calves coming on the Toronto market was never worse than now and for some time past. Several butchers told The World that it was next to impossible to get a good calf, let alone a choice one. Choice calves are quoted at $12 per cwt., but those that sell for $12 should only be classed as good. We have not seen a choice, well-finished, new milk-1ed veal calf in the last four weeks, aithe on the market every day.

Sheep and Lambs—There are not enough sheep and lambs coming to supply a quarter of the demand, or even to constitute a market. Prices are not higher, as they have reached the limit at which they can be sold.

Hogs—About 2000 hogs were offered and sold at $10.75 per cwt. off cars. And more would have sold at these prices we believe. And for the first time in many moons we did not hear but the one price quoted.

Butchers' Cattle.

Choice heavy steers, $8.25 to $8.50; choice butchers' cattle at $8 to $8.25; good butchers, $7.75 to $8; medium butchers, $5.55 to $7.40 to $7.65; common butchers, $5.55 to $7.40 to $7.65; common butchers, $6.55 to $7.50 to $8; medium butc

George Rowntree bought 450 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company: Steers and heifers at $8.25 to $8.50; cows, at $4.50 to $7; bulls, $5.50 to $7.25. David Rowntree bought 550 hogs for the Harris Abbatoir Company at $10.75, The Swift Canadian Company bought 225 cattle: Steers and heifers at $7.50 to $8.25; good cows at $6.25 to $6.75; medium cows at $6 to $6.25; buils at $6.75 to $7.50; 15 lambs at $13.25; 50 caives at $7 to $11 per cwt.

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR CAN. GENERAL ELECTRIC

Substantial Increase Shown in Profits During Past Year.

The annual report of the Canadian General Electric Co., presented to the shareholders yesterday, was perhaps the best in the company's history. The profit earned during the year was $1, 13,513, compared with $914,527 the previous year. The company has been extremely generous in writing off for depreciation, as no less a sum than $16,222 has been allotted for that purpose, or more than double the amount allowed the previous year. After payment of the dividend of 7 per cent. a balance of $66,366 has been carried to profit and loss. From the profit and loss account $300,000 has been transferred to the reserve account, which oss account $300,000 has been transierred to the reserve account, which now stands at the substantial figure of $3,000,000. There still remains $707,119 at the credit of profit and loss. in other directions the financial posi-tion of the company has been materi-Part of the directors' report is as follows:

Your directors draw attention to the fact that there are no current liabilities other than accounts payable, which are at a minimum. On the other hand, we have cash on hand and in banks amounting to $477,631.09, invest-ments $150,977,24, which, added to the amounts set opposite bills and accounts receivable and inventory, leaves us with total liquid assets of $7,472,232.85. "Since the end of our fiscal year our cash position has further improved, the balance of the deferred liability for the purchase of Allis-Chalmers-Bullock, Limited, amounting to $400,000, having been paid off, and the bonded indebtedness on properties purchased While it is impossible to forecast the trend of future business conditions your directors are able to state that for the past two or three months the volume and value of orders booked have materially increased, and it is hoped that the improvement will continue during the year."

FIRMER UNDERTONE FOR STOCKS AT MONTREAL

Canada Cement Took Spectacular Rise and Ames-Holden Went Stronger.

MONTREAL, March 22.—There was a MONTREAL, March 22.—There was a firmer undertone to the local stock market today, despite the irregularity in price movements which usually follow a lull in activity such as was in progress last week. Power continued mildly reactionary, closing 1 lower for the day, while Cedar Rapids sold off 2 from the last board lot transaction. The steels were steady to firm, finishing with fractional gains from Tuesday.

Another strike was made in the winze on the Adanac property on Sat-urday night, says The Cobalt Nugget, when ore that will run about 2,000 ounces to the ton was encountered in the hanging wall at a depth of about 296 feet. This is the same winze in which the strike was made several weeks ago, but the latter was in the foot wall. The strike made on Sat-urday night was on an entirely new vein about 1½ to 2 inches in width. vein about 1½ to 2 inches in width.
The number of men at the Adanac now has been increased to about 32. In the winze three eight-hour shifts are working, and on the west side of the shaft, near the road, another winze is being started. The extent of this being started. The extent of this new ore shoot is not yet determined, but the new find is of a character that

The feature of the trading at the Standard Stock Exchange yesterday was the advance in silver to 58½, and the stimulating effect it had on the Cobalt stocks. The market was fairly active and strong in tone, with a larger percentage of public buying coming in. A great many orders which have been holding back have been brought in by the improved outlook. There is still said to be a big accumulation of orders just below present market recorded some with its recent irregular and illogical mulation of orders just below present market recorded some market recorded some auts, today's market recorded some market prices. Enquiries were also reported from American sources.

In spite of the title of "Twin Beds" the play is one that is thoroly clean and without suggestion.

In "Watch Your Step," the musica omedy success which Charles Dillingcomedy success which Charles Dillingham will present at the Grand Opera House next week, Frank Tinney is programmed variously as a carriage caller, a sleeping car porter and a coat-room boy; Bernard Granville as a dancing teacher; Elizabeth Brice characterizes Stella Sparks and Harry Kelly is Ebenezer Hardacre, but Mrs. Vernon Castle is—Mrs. Vernon Castle. Mrs. Castle's character is that of a famous dancer and it was not possible to think of a name that would suggest such a celebrity to an audience more clearly than would Mrs. Castle's own name. The costumes and the scenery for "Watch than would Mrs. Castle's own name. The costumes and the scenery for "Watch Your Step" were designed by Helen Dryden, whose fame as a poster artist and a creator of clothes fashions for women is international. The commendation of metropolitan critics determined Miss Dryden to devote more of her time and her unusual talents to stage work.

Garbed in the scantiest of scanty bathing suits, the Six Water Lilies will occupy the premier place on the bill at Loew's Yonge Street Theatre next week. All of the illies are stately prototypes of Venus and their diving and swimming feats in the tank give them the right to call Neptune their sire. The curtain rises on the nymphs reclining in indolent poses round the brink of the tank. In this scene an imaginative individual can see the excuse for the name "Water Lilies." With the rising of the curtain all similarity to the modest flower of the semi-tropical streams is lost. The young women convey few suggestions of repose in their sportive flips and hand-springs into the chilly water. All of the feats of plain and fancy diving that Kellerman was wont to call her own have been adopted by these comely varicolored mermaids, and their act is a daring and perfect exhibition of the div-

THE GIRL TRUST.

Frank A. Burt, who comes to the Gayety Theatre Monday matinee with "The Girl Trust," is one of those comedians who wear well with audiences. If an audience could see him night after night in his performance, it would realize his great versatility, for Burt is always interpolating something new. Funny bits are constantly occurring to him, and these he uses on the spur of the moment, upsetting all calculations and frequently disconcerting, for the time being, the members of the company. His remarkable dancing specialty with Maudie Heath, the clever comedienne of the company, is one of the best specialties offered on the burlesque stage.

The extra feature and special added attraction is dainty Marie, the Venus of the Air.

"THE CABARET GIRLS."

Kelly and Damsel's "Cabaret Girls" will hold the toards at the Star Theatre for one week, commencing March 27. The array of talent with this company is seldom seen in similar organizations of this kind. The piece was written by Kelly and Damsel, who are also the principal funsters. The management has spared nothing to make this show one which leads all season. An olio of first-class, vaudeville artists is rendered between the two acts. Those who appear are: The McLean sisters, a dainty sister act; Frish Howard and Toolin, "Those Cabaret Boys;" the marvelous Livingston family of acrobats, late feature with Ringling Bros. circus, and Mile. Ferrie and her ten French models, in a series of living art studies that are said to create a sensation.

BUFFS AND BANTAMS UNITS.

Carry on! The latest tidings in the recruiting sphere is that Burton's Bantam Battalion and the celebrated Buffs will unite. But hark, it is only for the purpose of outdoing all previous recruiting meetings. On Sunday night, March 26, at the Alexandra Theatre, these two well-known battalions will co-operate in an endeavor to produce one of the biggest recruiting rallies of the season. A program par excellence has been arranged for and will be headed by the 134th Battalion Band. The bill in its entirety will be announced at a later date. So be sure and be on the lookout for what promises to be the most elaborate event of the year. The doors will open at 7 p.m. and the "wild doings" will commence at 8 o'clock sharp.

"BATTLE CRY" AT STRAND.

Mammoth audiences continue the rule at the Strand Theatre, where "The Battle Cry of Peace," in its second week, is repeating its first week's success. On Tuesday and yesterday the crowds during the day were the largest yet. An interesting feature in connection with the presentation of this great picture is that so meny people are witnesting. is that so many people are witnessing it twice and three times and even oftener than that. In fact, it is not too much to say that a large proportion of the houses consists of people who have already seen the big film. Nobody ought to miss it. It is one of those spectacles, stories and picturized sermons, of which the memory will linger for many a long day.

SHEA'S.

Lillian Russell, most famous American woman of the stage, known for a generation as the "Queen of Comic Opera." has returned to vaudeville, and will headline a bright bill at Shea's next week. Miss Russell possesses all her old compelling beauty, charm of voice and manner, and in her repertoire includes a number of the old and some new songs. Duffy and Lorenz are two other clever stars to return to vaudeville. Both clever dancers and singers, they have been featured in the New York Winter Garden show, and come to Toronto with an entirely new offering Georgia Earle and company have a bright, pleasing little rustic sketch, entitled "Getting Acquainted." It is a homely, honest, convincing playlet, reminiscent of the days of "The Old Homestead." Walter De Leon and Mary Davies will present their hilarious burlesque on the "movies." It is replete with good, clean comedy, and contains a host of laughs. Brent Hayes, "the master of the banjo," is a clever instrumentalist, who mingles classical selections with ragtime in agreeable quantities. Paul Gordon and Ame Rica, sensational cyclists: Kramer and Pattison, physical culture exponents, and the kinetograph, with new features, complete the bill. HIPPODROME.

The Six Malvern Comiques, a clever troupe of European pantomimists, will headline the bill at the Hippodrome next week in their amusing pantomime sketch, "A Day in Bumpville." It is one of the week in their amusing pantomime sketch,
"A Day in Bumpville." It is one of the most laugh-provoking sketches of "silent comedy" ever presented here. Violet Mersereau and Lieut. Percy Richards, two clever film stars, will be presented in the Blue Bird feature of the Canadian Northwest "Autumn." It is a thrilling drama of life in the illimitable north woods, and shows the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in action. Mr. and Mrs.
Barney Gilmore, old favorites here, will present their newest vehicle, "Love at First Sight." Valentine's dogs are clever canine comedians; Force and Williams present a rural comedy sketch entitled "Sky High for 31"; Hopkins, Axtell and

HEY came into the restaurant down on the wharf the other day, like a flock of brilliant paroquets—the fortune-tellers. It's an odd little restaurant in the sailors' quarter, right on the end of the wharf, and the windows open out on the water, and the tablecloth is coarse, and the knives and forks are heavy and not of the latest pattern, and you drink whatever you do drink out of plain pressed glass; but the cooking is really de-

What Fortune Foretold

The girl with the beauty that crowns her like a garland—her fortune was not good. "Ambition I see," said the Gypsy, smoothly, in her supple-lipped patter. "You like to rule, you like to be queen, you want all men to love you, you like all women to listen when you speak. It is sad for you, your fortune. Money, youth, love—you throw them all away for one with a flattering tongue. You will die poor and sad." And the beauty turned pale to the lips, and every one of us who listened believed every word the Gypsy said.

"You," said the Gypsy to the man of affairs, "you laugh, you tell the story, you make always the joke, but your heart it never laughs. Inside the breast the heart sits—alone. Why did you not marry her, the girl who is now dead? With her you could have laughed."

The man of affairs threw back his head and roared, and the woman he

Once again Desdemona approaches her lord to intercede for Cassius. He innocence proves to be her undoing.
Otello can only believe that she is guilty. Cassius is led in by Iago. Otello hides, and Iago gives the conversation such a turn that it appears to convince Otello that his suspicions are right. The handkerchief is found on the person of Cassius, where Iago con-cealed it. Otello becomes mad with lage after Cassius leaves, and is only prevented from harming the gentle and virtuous Desdemona by the arri-val of an embassy from Venice. It is only that he sees the architect is so ideally happy that he wants to join the ranks of the benedicts himself.

From the beginning I've treated his ardor as a joke, refusing to talk seriously with him, but he would not be discouraged. I made up my mind, finally, to confess every one of my faults so that he would realize what a disappointing creature I really am. It wasn't an easy matter to lay bare the shortcomings which I've been trying the shortcomings which I've been trying to correct for years. But Ted is too nice to be made unhappy and I resolved to cure him of his liking for me.

After I had finished revealing my real self to him I ran away before he had a chance to say how mistaken he had been in his idea of me.

I fled straight to the sewing-room, where I knew that I would be left undisturbed, as Janet and Mrs. Tilden were out calling. Whenever I am upset over something or feeling blue I sew just as hard as I can—to forget.

Yesterday I started making a blouse from remnants and into it I stitched the sorry-for-myself feeling.

I have grown tired of pale-colored blouses and decided to make a dark blue one for a change, to wear with my gabardine suit. I was fortunate in being able to match the blue in two short lengths of chiffon taffeta and accordion pleated net.

short lengths of chiffon taffeta and accordion pleated net.

Then I "scouted" about the shops until I saw a French blouse that struck my fancy and made a sketch of it.

Since there was a greater quantity of the net I lined it with a single thickness of chiffon—of the same tone—and used it for the foundation.

I opened the blouse down the back and trimmed the upper half with a cape-like yoke of taffeta. To make sure that this would fit perfectly I first cut out a pattern of muslin and when it seemed to be the right proportions I duplicated it in the taffeta.

Hence the upto-date slogan of "Safety First" for mother and child is well advocated.

Appearance of New Baby.

A young mother often is alarmed by the appearance of her new-born ingent in the henizouse good ventilation and dryness are so essential that the most skillful breeding, feeding and rearing cannot make up for their lack. They are among the fundamentals of good husbandlry wherever hens are kept and are very likely to be found together. At least it is difficult to secure dryness without a generous amount of fresh air. It has been estimated of the resultratory organs. Irregular there were the proceeding and the resultratory organs. Irregular there were the mother than that the resultratory organs. made comfortable upon a soft pillow it is safe.

The baby's chest appears small and the abdomen very large, due to the development of the digestive apparatus, which has proceeded further than that of the respiratory organs. Irregular breathing is generally present, but should be no cause for werry. The child sometimes loses its red color during the first week, and becomes yellowish, a symptom of a passing jaundice, which disapears in short order, and is by no means alarming.

The preliminary of the true, soft, satiny skin of the baby is a falling off of skin that is scaly, and a soft down, and the longer hair which may have covered its head at birth. Such procedure is quite normal. dryness without a generous amount of fresh air. It has been estimated by scientists that hens breathe more air per pound of live weight than any other class of farm animals.

Two hundred five-pound hens will breathe nearly three times as much air as a cow weighing a thousand pounds, yet they are kept in closely crowded sleeping quarters. Every hen in the flock breathes out impurities that are poisonous to the others, and she breathes in the impurities given off by them unless there is sufficient ventilation to carry away these impurities and furnish fresh air in their place.

It has been proved by experiments that impurities given off from the lungs of one animal are much more have covered its head at DITH. Such procedure is quite normal.

The average baby at birth weighs 7½ pounds, altho greater or less weight does not necessarily indicate any unhealthy condition.

Crying a Natural Exercise.

A normal and healthy baby usually announces by a shrill cry its arrival in this spacious world. When such an utare to the animal giving them this spacious world. When such an utoff. You can prove this for your terance is absent, the doctor as satisfaction if you care to. Put a cause for it by a gentle spanking or some other method. Altho dignity and quietness is the state in which some pabies enter the world, crying is a good sign, for it makes known the fact that the baby has found its sturdy lungs and their use. The new-born baby does not shed tears, because the lachrymal glands have not yet found their functions. The salivary glands are still inert, causing the tongue to become white and dry, and powers of slobbertroduce a second mouse into the jar.
This second mouse will die before the first one, tho he was fresh when the mert, causing the tongue to become white and dry, and powers of slobbering are not acquired until later days.
It is interesting to note the loving mother's and imaginative aunt's disis the reason why so many hens in mother's and imaginative autits discovery of perception and intelligence during the baby's first week, whereas in reality the first month of a baby's life is a mere existence. The baby may hear and see, but its brain does not understand. By crying it makes known its few wants. When the baby is unapparently good physical thrift drop dead off the roost. The ventilation is poor and the birds become poisoned by the ases from the lungs of their A Panting Hen.

The water which fowls drink is not comfortable or hungry it will cry, and excreted as in others animals, but is carried off by the air that the bird breathes. The air that the hen breathes in common with other birds breathes in common with other birds breathes in common with other birds passes to every part of the body and gathers moisture. If the air is dry it gathers the moisture easily and quickly. If the air is already moist it takes up very little more moisture. This means that more air must be breathed to do the same amount of work. Chintz and Curtains

Roses and ribbons are scattered in artistic design over some new 50-inch chintz. The printing is exceedingly well done in shadow effect, and this chintz looks exactly like the more expensive French warp ints. The colorings are soft and delicate, blue, rose, primrose yellow and soft greens on a pale ivory ground, making an ideal chintz for the boudoir or a delicately tinted drawing-room. But best of all, the price for this 50-inch chintz is but
