He was examined yesterday and passed the registry divi ion satisfactorily. However, the inector detained him and he was questioned further. He explained that he was to meet Henrich Kuhn, secretary of the socialist labor party, who has ar office here and that he carried an introduction to Mr. Kuhn. He was there upon ordered before a board of special inquiry at Ellis Island.

Before the board the inspectors plied him with questions. Bishop declared himself a follower of Mark Marx, the German socialist, and said that he was not a believer in violence. When asked if he would take compensation for the removal of a public officer by viol-ent means, Bishop replied: "For the good of all I should not do it for com-His answers to different forms of the same question were regarded with sus-
