FLAMES ARE SWEEPING THROUGH THE HEART OF DAYTON

ENTIRE BUSINESS PART OF DAYTON BEING DESTROYED BY CONFLAGRATION; SITUATION IS STILL OF THE GRAVEST

Reports From Zanesville Say That the Conditions There Are Rapidly Growing Worse and the Town of Piqua Is Reported Being Swept by Flames.

COLD WEATHER AND SNOW HAMPER WORK OF RESCUE

The menace of fire continues this morning in the flooded district of Ohio. Dayton is still burning, and appeals have been sent out for dynamite to blow up buildings in the path of the flames.

The Lewiston reservoir, north of Dayton, has not gone out. Men are being rushed in to strengthen it. A blizzard is reported from the inundated area. Cold weather and snow hamper the work of rescue and relief.

Relief measures are being perfected in many cities.

Carloads of provisions, clothing and other supplies are ready for transportation as fast as trains can be moved. The Ohio National Guardsmen also are ready to move to Dayton as soon as they can enter the city. At Zanesville the flood conditions are growing worse every hour. No fire has been reported from this city.

The Ohio River is rising. The danger stage at Cincinnati has been passed.

Western Pennsylvania is facing a grave flood situation. Sharon and Newcastle report fifteen feet of water.

[Canadian Press.] Dayton, Ohio, March 27.—Snow added to terrors of the elements today. Hundreds of refugees are being taken out of the Hickory street school. The weather is bitter cold, adding to the suffering of those who have been trapped on the roofs of their homes since the levees broke. Fire is sweeping almost the entire downtown district of the city. The flames are leaping hundreds of feet into the air. The conflagration has destroyed several blocks in the heart of the business section, as indicated from observations taken early from the roof of the National Cash Register building.

St. Mary's Dam Gone.

Detroit, Mich., March 27.—A telephone message received by Mayor Marx at 9:45 this morning from a member of the relief committee at Dayton said that the St. Mary's reservoir, reported to be one of the largest in the world, broke this morning, and its contents are pouring down the Great Miami on Dayton. The reservoir is about 50 miles above Dayton. (Continued on Page Eleven.)

VIVID PEN PICTURE OF THE GREAT FLOOD

Governor Cox, of Ohio, Gives to the World the First Official Story of the Devastation by Fire and Water at Dayton—Situation Is Unparalleled in the History of the United States.

[Canadian Press.] New York, March 27.—Governor James M. Cox of Ohio telegraphed during the night from Columbus as follows: "The exact extent of the appalling flood in Ohio is still unknown. Every hour impresses us with the uncertainty of the situation. The waters have assumed such unknown heights in many parts of the state that it will be hardly less than a miracle if villages and towns are not wiped out of existence in the southern and southwestern parts of Ohio. The storm is moving south and east.

"Please give great publicity to an appeal for help. My judgment is that there has never been such a tragedy in the history of the republic. "Columbus was the centre of all activities in behalf of the stricken cities. Every hour has apparently been filled with an accumulation of drastic circumstances.

Piteous Appeals. "Piteous appeals have been made by men who were surrounded by water and confronted by the approaching conflagration in the city of Dayton. Every human energy has been exerted to give relief, and yet the measure of assistance has been comparatively small. It is my belief, however, that by daylight those imprisoned in the business section of Dayton can be relieved.

"The day began by a storm signal from the weather bureau, advising that there would be a dangerous rise in the waters of the Muskegon River. All the towns along its source, including Zanesville and Marietta, were advised. Before noon the situation assumed a critical aspect at Zanesville, and the historic 'Y' bridge was blown up with dynamite. The loss of life in Zanesville is uncertain, because all telephone communication ceased at noon. Marietta cannot be reached, but it is safe to assume that the same devastating results at Zanesville were carried on to Marietta.

"A flood situation developed in the Maumee and Sandusky valleys in Northwestern Ohio, but the damage to life and property was nothing compared with that in the south.

LATER Fire at Dayton Under Control

[Canadian Press.] Columbus, March 27.—That the fire at Dayton was under control and practically ended was the information given Governor Cox by phone from Dayton at 11:15 today.

NO WORD FROM LONDONERS IN FLOODED AREA

All Efforts to Reach Relatives in the Devastated Cities by Wire Have Proved Without Avail.

MANY SEEKING TO LEARN THE FATE OF FRIENDS

Uncertainty Regarding Some of Cities in Inundated Districts Adds to Anxiety Here.

Communication by telegraph or telephone a brother who resides in Ohio and Indiana has so far proved impossible, and a number of residents of London who have relatives in those sections are considerably worried about them.

Mr. Herbert Hindmarsh, of this city whose brother, C. A. Hindmarsh, is a resident of Dayton, tried Wednesday afternoon to get into communication with him, and being unable to do so telephoned a brother who resides in Detroit. The brother had heard nothing, and declared that he would leave for the stricken city this morning.

Many Seeking Relatives. Practically every railroad running into the flooded district has been put out of commission, and it is said that there are thousands of anxious relatives in the surrounding cities waiting for an opportunity to get into Dayton, Columbus, Hamilton and other Ohio towns.

Mrs. W. Ford, a daughter of Mrs. Parent, of this city, is a resident of Akron, Ohio. All efforts to locate her by telegraph or telephone have so far proved futile.

Has Heard Nothing. Mr. Ross Murray, a brother of Mr. Thomas Murray, an employee of the inspecting department of the postoffice in this city, is in Dayton. He has been there for some years and is employed at the Fairmont stove works at Piqua, Ohio. No word has been received from him yet, and his family fear for his safety.

Has a Son There. Mrs. W. D. Mills, of this city, has a son in Fort Wayne, Indiana. The press dispatches claim that no fatalities have occurred in that city. Mr. Mills says that he heard from another reliable source that two were killed and many injured, and as he has not heard from his son he fears for his safety.

Mrs. E. N. Hunt, whose husband was formerly an alderman in this city, is a resident of Dayton, and all efforts to locate her have proved unsuccessful.

St. Andrew's Names H. MacFarland Assistant Pastor

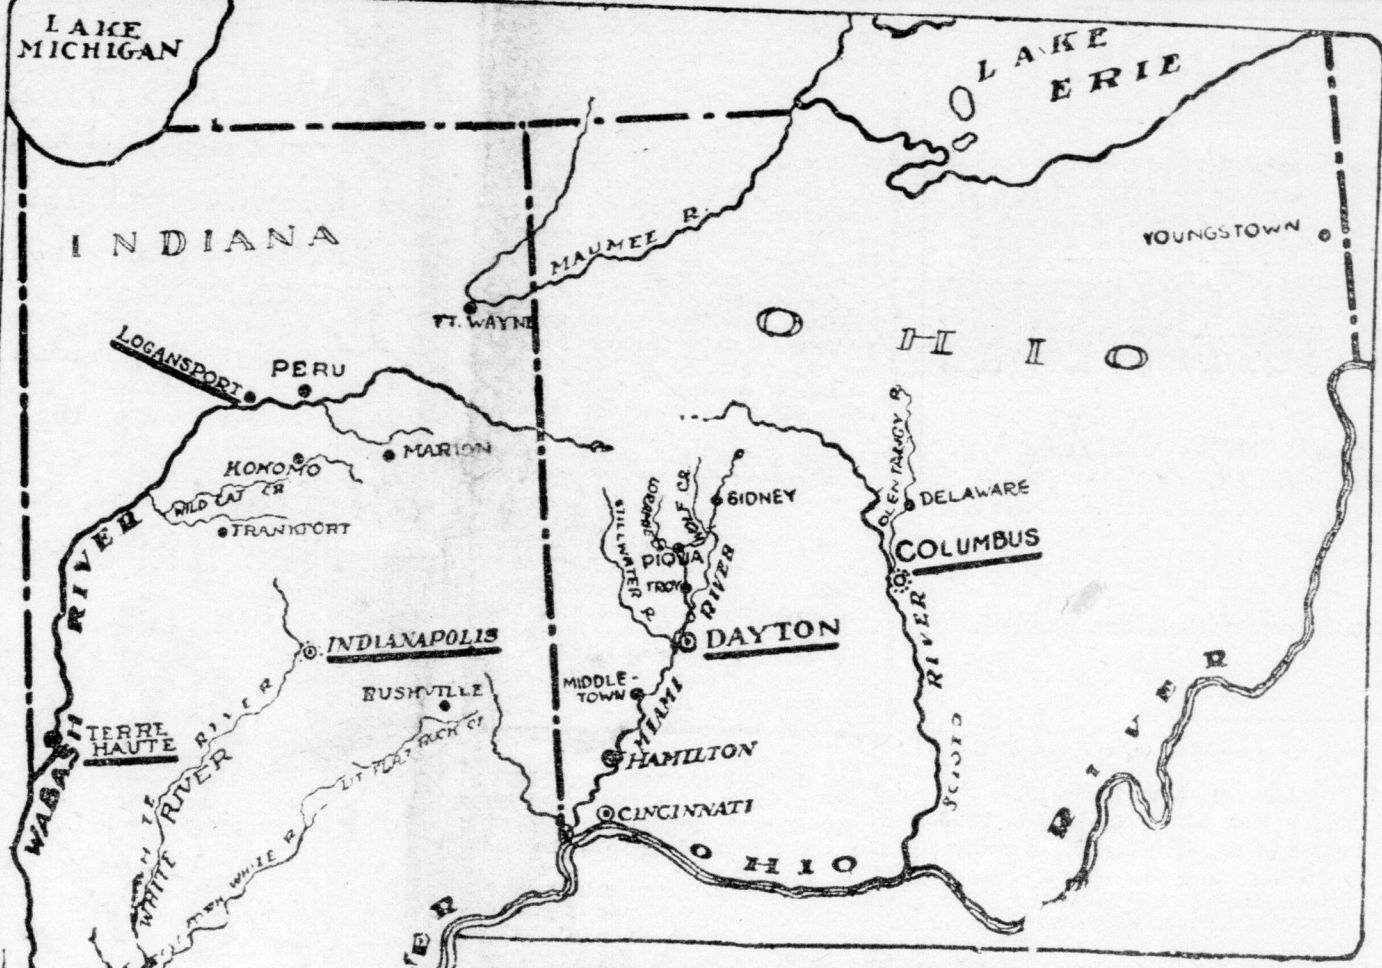

At a meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Church on Wednesday night Mr. Hugh MacFarland, B. A., was unanimously chosen as assistant to the pastor, Rev. James Ross, D.D. Mr. MacFarland will likely assume his duties on May 1.

The chair was taken by Mr. A. E. Cooper and Mr. M. H. Rowland acted as secretary. The resolution appointing Mr. MacFarland was moved by Mr. C. R. Somerville and seconded by Mr. T. H. Purdon. K. C. The resolution adopted the recommendation of the committee named to consider the appointment, which recently made a unanimous recommendation.

Short speeches were made by Rev. Dr. Ross, and Messrs. John Stevely, Ward Casselman, C. R. Somerville, T. H. Purdon, Fred Yealland, David Ross, John Loughhead, John Gunn, J. W. Wardrobe and others.

Fire Still Burning. "The city hall is patrolled by a number of policemen inside, and it is so situated as to enable the officers to make more or less accurate estimates of the number of people in the business section. "Fire broke out in the square bounded by St. Clair, Jefferson, Second and Third streets soon after noon. The blaze was noticed first in a drug store. It swept north and destroyed the St. Payer Evangelical Church. The flames then shot to the south through the wholesale dis-

HUNDREDS REPORTED DEAD BY FLOOD AT COLUMBUS

One Estimate Says That Between 600 and 1,000 Perished in West Side of City Which Has Been Isolated Until Noon Today—Refugees Tell of Great Suffering.

[Canadian Press.] Columbus, March 27.—Between 600 and 1,000 persons lost their lives in the flooded west side of Columbus, according to reporters of the Columbus Dispatch, who have just gotten into communication with the newspaper office from the previously isolated sections of the city. The same estimate is given by persons in charge of the relief stations on the hilltop west of the flooded section.

Discoveries made this morning among the stricken people they say is appalling.

According to those who invaded the stricken district, the churches, big state institutions and storerooms in the Hilltop section are crowded with refugees, many of whom were rescued from the murky waters, and tell stories of indescribable suffering.

Former Mayor George S. Marshall, who was in communication with Attorney Cecil Randall, his law partner, said today that Mr. Randall said the death toll would reach at least a thousand.

Thousands of excited groups of people from the flood-stricken section of the city, who were crowded into the temporary rescue quarters, asserted that the estimate of Mr. Randall is not exaggerated.

Awful Tragedies. The true extent of the awful tragedies enacted during the sweeping away of homes north, the exact death toll will not be known for days, until the mass of wrecked houses and uprooted trees, which are strewn on the level lowlands south of the city, are uncovered. This mass of debris is now unspeakable description, he said.

JEWISH PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION PLANS BIG CLUB BUILDING

Formation of Joint Stock Company to Take Place Immediately.

Ten Thousand Dollars Will Be Required—Site Not Selected.

Plans are now under way to form a joint stock company among the members of the recently-formed Jewish Protective Association here, and by this means to raise $10,000 with which to build a clubhouse in the central part of the city on a site not yet selected. When attacks were made recently on the Jewish people of London in the daily paper, the Hebrews called an indignation meeting, at which the protective association was formed.

Home For Association. The organization has been gaining strength and numbers, and now finds itself confronted with the problem of finding itself a home. The new building will be fitted up especially to meet the needs of the organization. The club or association will be exclusive, and will admit none but Hebrews to its membership. It is to seek to advance and protect the interests of the Jewish people in general, and especially to act as a safeguard in cases where attempts are made to treat the members of that race unjustly.

Will Carry Reserve. It will equip itself with a reserve fund, which may be drawn upon to safeguard the interests of its members individually or collectively.

A meeting of the association will be held on Sunday, at which plans will be discussed. Shares will be sold at $25 each. It is expected. It is estimated that the purchase of a few shares by each member of the organization will more than provide the necessary cash.

CAN. NORTHERN ASK GOVT. FOR 35 MILLIONS?

Premier Borden Said to be Arranging to Advance Huge Sum.

CAN. PACIFIC MAY CONTROL

Reported That Big System Is Ready to Take Over MacKenzie & Mann Road.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Ont., March 27.—Another $35,000,000 demand will probably be granted by the Dominion Government within the next few weeks. The cabinet is arranging to advance this sum, or a sum somewhat in excess of it, to Mackenzie & Mann.

These railway builders, who have been extending the Canadian Northern system throughout Canada during the past ten or twelve years, find themselves in pressing need of a very large amount of money at the present time to continue the work of landing up the various stretches of road they have built and acquired, and to meet obligations they have incurred, chiefly with construction contractors. The situation which confronts this system has resulted in the almost continuous presence in Ottawa during the past two weeks of Sir Donald Mann; it has been the occasion of several trips to Ottawa by Sir Edmund Walker; it has resulted in Sir Thomas Shaughnessy being summoned to the capital on two occasions by Premier Borden for long conferences, at one of which Sir Thomas and Sir Donald were brought together by the Prime Minister in his office.

Need Thirty-Five Millions. The exact form in which the aid will be given has not yet been decided, and neither has the precise amount.

However it is known that Mackenzie & Mann require between thirty-five and forty million dollars at least. It is known that they want cash, and it is understood that the Government is willing to meet their request and make them a cash advance.

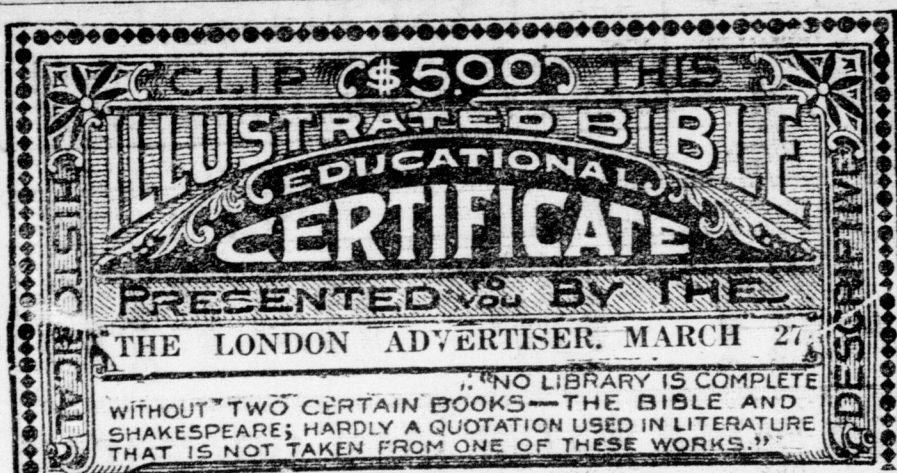

C. P. R. May Control. It is understood also that the Canadian Pacific is in a sufficiently strong financial position to enable it to take over and pay for the Canadian Northern system, should the occasion warrant it, or should the opportunity finally offer. Mackenzie & Mann, in the present state of the money market, do not think that Government guarantee of their bonds will meet the situation and provide them with the ready money at anything like reasonable rates. In fact, with the present uneasiness over the Balkan war situation, it is stated that today it is almost impossible to raise money in London or other capitals upon any sort of securities.

Cash is what is required, and the Dominion Government has it on hand, the advance may take the form of a loan or part loan and part extra subsidy. In making so large an advance the situation has to be carefully considered by both parties. It is understood that the Government will justify the advance to some extent upon the precedents of advances made in past years to the Canadian Pacific and to the Grand Trunk. Before the advance is made it is understood that there will have to be some rearrangement of the Canadian Northern Companies, as at the present time there is not one but many companies under the control of Mackenzie & Mann. The telegraph company, the express company, the townsite company, the hotel company, the branch line companies, have separate existence, and there is special incorporation for the Canadian Northern Quebec and the Canadian Northern Ontario systems, and other factors of the system. The steamship company is also separate. One of the problems is at present engaging attention in bringing all of these together that they may form security for the heavy advance required by the Government.

Statement in Few Days. It is stated that in addition to the present difficult situation in the money market one of the many factors which has compelled Mackenzie & Mann to make this extensive application is the remarkable increase which has taken place in the cost of railway construction. The increase has been placed before the Canadian people in the case of the National Transcontinental because that is a Government work and has been discussed as a matter of party politics. However, the other railway enterprises of the country have felt the increase in the cost of building just as much as have the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is expected that the Government will have a statement to make in Parliament in the course of a few days as to the form the aid will take, and the amount which will be given.

St. Thomas Offers to Help Stricken

Washington, March 27.—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo will admit relief supplies from Canada for the flood sufferers of Ohio and Indiana free of duty. He waved the tariff restrictions today upon the receipt of a telegram from Mayor R. N. Price, of St. Thomas, Ont., saying the people of that city wished to send food, clothing and medical supplies.

THOUSANDS OF THE MAROONED ON THE VERGE OF STARVATION; STORM ADDS TO SUFFERING

Hotel Ablaze and Occupants in Grave Peril of Losing Life—Dayton Is Declared Under Martial Law—Rescue Squads Working Frantically, But Many Are Without Food and Exposed to Elements.

Dayton, Ohio, March 26.—The flood which has covered the greater part of this city since Tuesday morning, tonight shows signs of abating, but the waters are still so deep and the current so strong in the deluged districts that little has been accomplished in the way of removing the unknown thousands of people marooned in the upper stories of buildings, and it has been practically impossible so far to convey to them the provisions which are constantly arriving at the headquarters of the relief committees.

Guesses as to Dead.

There may be a hundred dead or a thousand. The census of the dead cannot be taken until the water recedes and leaves its prey behind. The secretary of the board of health tonight ventured an estimate of the total loss of life in this city as between six and eight hundred persons.

Between the city and safety there is a whirlpool. Only a mile intervenes, but it might be 30 or 40 miles, for no word of what has happened beyond the whirlpool since noon Tuesday has come across the brief mile of water.

All the buildings between St. Clair and Jefferson streets on the north side of East Main street have been burned to the water's edge. Eight large business blocks have also been destroyed.

The Hotel Hotel caught fire at noon, and a hard fight, with the aid of chemical extinguishers and the flood water, was made by the employees and guests, and the flames conquered.

The men, women and children marooned in the hotel were terror-stricken when fire attacked the building for the second time tonight at 9 o'clock. At this writing the hotel seems to be doomed. There is no way of lending aid to the frantic hotel patrons or of fighting the flames.

Tonight the temperature dropped suddenly. A blinding snowstorm and high winds followed close upon the fall of the thermometer.

The blizzard weather is causing added suffering. Survivors who escaped the horrors of a flood and fire tonight are huddled roofless in an Arctic storm. Countless men, women and children are marooned in the storm who have had no warm food or clothing since Tuesday morning.

It was impossible to ascertain even approximately the number of persons who might have been marooned in this section, and who died after being trapped by flood and fire. Nevertheless, rescue work went steadily on, and about 3,000 persons were housed in places of refuge tonight, the majority of them in buildings of the National Cash Register Company. At least 55,000 persons are imprisoned in homes and in business buildings. It is feared their two days' imprisonment, with accompanying hunger and fright, have caused tremendous suffering.

Dayton was practically cut off from wire communication until late this afternoon. Then two wires into Cincinnati were obtained, and operators plunked into great piles of telegrams from Dayton citizens almost frantic in their desire to assure friends outside of their safety. Operators at opposite ends of the wires reported that thousands of telegrams were piled up at relay offices. These were from people anxious over the fate of Dayton kin-men.

The rumor that the St. Elizabeth Hospital, with 600 patients, had been swept away, which gained circulation last night, today proved to have been false. Although it had been impossible to reach the hospital, field glasses showed that the building is still standing. The water is not thought to be much above the first floor of the building, and it is thought the patients have not suffered. The report that 400 school

Rescue Work

Dayton, Ohio, March 26.—Rescue work, efficiently managed, and in which John Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Company, was a leading spirit, proceeded smoothly throughout the day. Missing members of families were restored to their loved ones through human clearing houses established at several points on the fringe of the flood district. Great ledgers filled with names, presided over by volunteer bank clerks, were at the disposal of persons seeking missing kinsmen. If these had registered in the clearing house their addresses were quickly given to the inquirers.

Up to 7 o'clock 4,000 of the homeless were housed in different places of refuge, most of them being cared for at the plant of the National Cash Register Company. Soldiers were employed to guard the prisoners from their places of imprisonment late this evening, and leaders of the rescuing parties were arranging for delays of the work during the night.

Expert oarsmen who braved the tide in the business section of the submerged city this afternoon came back nerve-racked to relate narratives of pitiable appeals made to them by hundreds marooned in upper floors of tall buildings about whose lower stories swirled the flood that threatened the structures' foundations. The dark colors in the narratives were lightened here and there by stories of bravery exhibited by many of the flood's prisoners.

she cried, "But for the love of humanity, please take this loaf of bread and jug of molasses to Sarah Prunty, down the street. I know she's starving."

Twice the boatmen attempted to take the food, but waves that eddied about the submerged house hurled them back.

Further on, in the exclusive residential district, they were offered fabulous sums for rescue by many of the flood's prisoners. Their narratives inspired an effort late this afternoon to launch a boat for navigation on the vast river, but up to a late hour the craft had been unable to pass beyond areas already reached on the fringe of the flooded district.

Shortage of Provisions. A shortage of provisions was threatened this afternoon when it was reported many relief trains bound to Dayton from neighboring cities had been stopped by high water. Every grocer in the city had been "sold out" before noon. It was believed that the relief trains might creep in during the night.

Encouragement was received in a message from the mayor of Springfield, Ohio, who said he was sending six big trucks, loaded with provisions that should reach Dayton early tomorrow morning.

With the arrival of motor-boats tonight it was hoped to begin to distribute provisions among the marooned soon after daylight.

Messages from the flood's prisoners in the business section said children were crying for milk, while their elders suffered from thirst that grew hourly. Volunteers were called for tonight to man boats that will brave the dangerous currents tomorrow in an attempt to get food to the suffering.

A report that the dam above Dayton threatened to break added to the city's terror tonight. If the dam breaks it will pour in a flood that will hold up rescue work for days.

DEATH TOLL OF WATERS IN FLOODED STATES

LOSSES IN OHIO.

Reports from the flooded districts in Ohio give the loss of life and property as follows:

Dayton—200 to 1,000 dead; property loss over $20,000,000.

Piqua—100 dead; property loss unestimated.

Middletown—50 dead; city in flames. The $2,000,000 plant of the Champion Coated Paper Company has been burned.

Sidney—25 dead.

Hamilton—12 dead; hundreds missing.

Troy, Carrollton, Miamisburg and a dozen smaller towns in the Miami River Valley are inundated. No estimate of loss of life or property is reported.

Delaware—25 dead in flood of the Olontangy River, and 400 homeless.

Columbus—17 dead and hundreds homeless in the flood. The Broad street bridge was washed out, cutting the city in halves. The Scioto River is still rising.

Cleveland—The property loss here and in the northern part of the state is reported to be large, but the death list is small.

Zanesville—2,000 are homeless in the flood of the Muskingum River, which is flowing through the streets. The Sixth street bridge went down this morning.

Lima—City flooded by Ottawa River.

West Liberty and Springfield—These cities are practically under water in the Mad River Valley freshet.

LOSSES IN INDIANA.

In Indiana the loss of life is estimated at over 500. The property damage in Indianapolis is roughly estimated to total $1,500,000. This is the incomplete report from other Indiana cities and towns:

Peru—20 known dead. Many are missing. Total deaths may number 200.

Brooksville and Connersville—Hundreds swept away. Wire communication gone.

Newcastle—3 dead. Noblesville—2 dead. Lafayette—2 dead. Frankfort—2 dead. Rushville—1 dead.

Fort Wayne—1 dead. All lights are gone, and a water famine is threatened. Richmond—20 bridges are down, and many persons are homeless. Kokomo—City flooded by Wildcat Creek, and 1,500 homes are destroyed.

At least 250,000 are homeless in the devastated sections. Refugees, without food, are marooned on housetops and on high patches of ground. The sufferers from the flood are menaced by famine and disease. Governor Cox, of Ohio, has made a requisition on the war department for 50,000 tents, rations, medical supplies, surgeons and nurses.

People of moderate means, as well as the wealthy, know well that no floor covering excels the Oriental product in point of luxuriousness, quiet elegance and wear-resisting qualities, and one of the most striking evidences of prosperity and the desire to give expression to same is demonstrated by the steady and persistent demand for genuine Oriental Rugs.

Since the Carpet Department has become a prominent feature in this store, the demand for the Oriental has been insistent, and we have been frequently told by customers that Oriental Rugs to comply with their requirement could not be obtained here.

We have been for some time planning for the direct importation of these Rugs in order to place them on sale at the same advantageous prices as all other carpets which we buy direct from the makers, and the prices will convince anyone of cultured taste who appreciates the elegant qualities of such Rugs that we are on the "ground floor." DEATH BY WATERS COVERS BIG AREA

Anything Like Accurate Details
From Ohio and Indiana
Floods Impossible.

MANY PLACES CUT OFF

Every Effort Being Made to Rush
Aid and Supplies to Stricken Towns.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 26.—Draw a line to the south and east from Cleveland to Columbus, diverge sharply to the west to Dayton, and then drop down to Cincinnati almost directly south, and you have covered an area, the richest and most populous of the state, an area of devastation by flood and fire. Thousands of men and women may be dead in the scores of large cities and small towns along the Miami, Scioto, Mud, and other small rivers, tonight, but Cleveland cannot find out, although every possible resource that human ingenuity can devise is being employed. Half a dozen small towns may be in flames; Cleveland has only rumors to tell; the property loss may amount to more than $50,000,000, but no one here can tell tonight, and there may be hundreds and hundreds of thousands suffering for want of food—there are only fragmentary reports to tell. The great area which has been transformed into a great theatre of death is, so far as definite information is concerned, as far away tonight as a European country. The telegraph wires are down, only an occasional telephone wire can be made to carry the human voice. All railroads are out of commission. Country roads, except those on the highest ridges, are impassable for anything except the sturdiest of slow horses, and certainly barred to automobiles. It is absolutely impossible to give any satisfactory definite estimate of what has been done, Governor Cox, of Ohio, utilizing every agency the state can command, cannot tonight tell the extent of the ravages of the flood; the railroads are equally powerless, and even where there is faint, fragmentary communication, everything received is inadequate and vague.

For this reason it cannot be said tonight whether Ohio's dead will reach thousands or remain below one thousand.

MISS SARAH M'ARTHUR DIED UNEXPECTEDLY

Only Arrived Back From the West a Few Weeks Ago.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Paisley, March 26.—Miss Sarah McArthur died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her sister, Mrs. McInnes, Goldie street, of pernicious anaemia. She was a daughter of the late Peter McArthur, town line, Bruce and Saugeen, and had been living in Alberta for a number of years. About two months ago she came to visit her sisters, not very robust in health, but not considered serious until about a week ago, when she took suddenly worse, and her death was a great surprise to friends and relatives. She is survived by one brother, John, in Alberta; three sisters, Mrs. McInnes and Miss McArthur, here, and Mrs. Sinclair, Alberta. A. A. McArthur, M. P., died about a year ago. The funeral will be held on Friday, and interment made in Paisley Cemetery.

Mrs. Henry Sym died at her residence, Inkerman street, this morning, surviving her husband, the late Henry Sym, only about two weeks. She was 65 years old, and had been a great sufferer from a complication of troubles for about two years. She is survived by four daughters and two sons: Mrs. J. H. Hopper, Mrs. Wm. Grant, Mrs. John Burns and Mrs. William Davidson, and David and Harry, all residents in this vicinity. The funeral will be held on Friday, and interment made in Paisley Cemetery.

LONDON, THURSDAY, MARCH 27.

WHY DR. CAMPBELL WAS DISMISSED.

The Postmaster-General has at last made his official excuses for the dismissal of Dr. C. T. Campbell from the inspectorship of the London district. Reading over the papers, and reading between the lines, certain facts become clear. In covering West Elgin with rural mail delivery routes, Mr. Crothers gave Dr. Campbell the names of certain of his political friends who were to be consulted as to what sections were to be first supplied. But while the inspector appears to have been under the impression that these men were to be consulted for the purpose of obtaining information, the men themselves, or some of them, thought they had control of the postal service in the riding, and that nothing should be done without their consent; in other words, that the postoffice was to be run by the politicians of the riding instead of the department.

The work of laying out West Elgin appears to have been in the hands of one of the field officers, under the general oversight of the inspector. The general complaint seems to be that neither the field officer nor the inspector was as subservient to Mr. Crothers' men as these latter thought they ought to be. The field officer went over the roads and gained his knowledge of their condition from personal observation. The routes were then planned out as seemed to be in the best interests of the public and the department. The report of the superintendent does not deny this. He only says that neither Dr. Campbell nor the field officer, Mr. Ollerhead, had consulted Mr. Linton in regard to one route before they commenced to canvass it.

With regard to another route, of which a Mr. Patterson complains, we learn that this had been arranged, though not put in operation, prior to the inspector having been given the name of Mr. Patterson as the local postoffice consultant. It was not done in accordance with any political promises made by anyone prior to the general election so far as the information in the inspector's office shows. The people living in the neighborhood petitioned for it, and it was proceeded with in the usual course. Mr. Patterson was so informed, and no objection was raised by him at the time. Subsequently, it may be assumed, some of his friends were dissatisfied; and then Mr. Patterson began to kick.

So it all amounts to this: the inspector and his officials were trying to give the people of West Elgin, in respect of politics, the best service possible, consistent with the rules of the department. But because they did not realize the necessity of absolute subordination in all things to Mr. Crothers' henchmen, the inspector was dismissed.

Dr. Campbell has the satisfaction of knowing that he gave faithful service to the public, and to his department, during his term of office, and that he has been made the victim of the new rule established by the Postmaster-General that public officials are to be governed by political henchmen and not by their own unbiased judgment.

THE FALL OF ADRIANOPLE.

Amidst devastating flame, crashing walls and thunder of exploding magazines, to the human cry of a beaten, shot-riddled garrison and a terrified populace, the Turkish dominion falls at Adrianople. Time has brought one of its most spectacular revenges. The men of Shurki Pasha might have retired in peace to a certain refuge in Constantinople or in Asia, but the Young Turks would not have it so. Hence the sanguinary horrors with which Bulgarian and Serb have had to win back the ancient city, or its site.

When the Ottoman gained a foothold in Thrace in the fourteenth century, he had to deal with an enfeebled Greek Empire in Constantinople, and with a larger but ill-organized Serbian Empire embracing modern Serbia, Bosnia, Montenegro, Albania, Bulgaria and Roumelia. Even the Bulgars had fallen under the Serbian rule at that time. Sultan Bajazet crushed this Serbian Empire in 1390 and from his capital at Adrianople began to direct a conquest of the Greek Empire. Froissart says that in the flush of his victories the Sultan swore that Constantinople achieved, he would turn to Italy and make his horse yet eat oats off the high altar of St. Peter's at Rome. But he was not destined even to see the inside of St. Sophia's. A Tartar horde from Persia intervened to save Constantinople for a time, so devastating Turkey in Asia that it was some years before an advance in Europe could be resumed. But in 1453 came the inevitable. Adrianople had then for two or three generations been the European capital of Turkey. Upon the capture of Constantinople, its attractions eclipsed the older seat of power, the Porte was fixed in the stronghold of the Caesars, and Adrianople, embellished as it had been by European architects working for the Sultans, became the second but still sacred city of European Turkey.

Naturally the Turks have been most loth to part with a city of such natural and artistic beauty and historical associations. Its naturally strong position was improved to the utmost, at great outlay, by the fortification experts of Germany. The Turks have defended the place with barbarian courage, and perhaps it is now little more than a place where conquering Bulgar and furious Serb camp triumphant reclaiming their own.

It is a famous victory, but a dreadful one. Whose fault is it that the fighting went on in spite of the powers' attempt to make peace? Are the Bulgarians bent on dictating the most humiliating terms to the old foe? Perhaps the Greeks hang out also for complete control of the Aegean Islands. No doubt the allies, like anybody else, do not trust the Turk, and it may have seemed better to push him out at all costs than to leave him to comply with the powers' terms of his own accord.

What next? The road to Constantinople lies open except for 125,000 Turks at Tchataldja. An overwhelming force may be able to penetrate that line and take the city in a few days. The allies may now demand at least Gallipoli, and with it a large control of the Dardanelles. A cartoonist in a Greek paper the other day pictured Constantinople the defeated but heroic emperor of 1453, last of the Caesars, leading on the new King Constantine to recover the city of Constantinople the Great. May that be?

CHURCHILL'S OLIVE BRANCH.

Mr. Churchill's proffer of a year's naval holiday finally lays the ghost of the "emergency." It was never more than a ghost, though a useful one to jingo politicians, shipbuilders, and gunmakers. The First Lord of the Admiralty would be the last man to propose a cessation of warship building if he believed Great Britain faced a crisis. Financially, she is in a better position to keep up the pace than any other European power, and her ship-building program for the ensuing fiscal year, 1913-1914, which Mr. Churchill offers to forego, would have further increased her naval superiority over Germany. The program provided for five battleships, eight light cruisers, sixteen destroyers, and a score of torpedo boats and submarines, the total cost to be £15,555,525. Mr. Churchill asks Parliament to consent to the sacrifice of all these unborn ships, and the saving of all this money, conditional upon other countries also dropping for a year all naval construction. This enormous sum of money, if saved from being thrown into the sea, would go a long way toward relieving the financial problem pressing so heavily upon every European government to-day, and if wisely spent would ameliorate the lot of millions. But the whole continent of Europe is military-mad at this moment, and the olive branch is probably held out in vain. True, the main rivalry is in armies, not navies; it is between France and Germany on land, not Germany and Britain at sea. But the Krupps and Schneiders in Germany and France, respectively, make naval guns and steel for warships, as well as big and little guns for the army, and the Krupps and Schneiders have their puppets in high places.

Meanwhile the Churchill offer is a cold douche for the scaremongers in Great Britain and in Canada. The versatile Mr. Churchill, quoted so copiously of late by the Borden Government and his supporters, now coolly destroys their plea of urgency, and in effect counsels them to banish all thought of Dreadnoughts, for a year at least.

At any rate the Little Colonials will admit we can build good canoes in this country.

Mr. Borden keeps in his cabinet a man who promised Government jobs to blackmailers and perjurers.

"Dr. Campbell Did Not Obey Orders," says a headline in a local paper. Whose orders? Mr. Crothers' henchmen's?

Mr. Crothers has frankly confessed that the rural mail service is to be regarded as a cog in the party machine.

It may be density, but we fail to see in the last Borden manifesto, as some contemporaries profess to see, a single line hinting that Mr. Borden may revert to a Canadian naval policy.

That great naval expert, the London Free Press, now pleads that when it talked of building battleships in Canada four years ago it may have had only rowboats in mind.

Mr. Churchill announces that Canada's Dreadnoughts, if built, would be stationed in the Mediterranean. They're going to be stationed in Canada, if the Canadian people can get the say, denied them just now by the Little Canadians at Ottawa.

The New Haven Railway Company says its trolley lines are not in themselves profitable, except that they make profitable business for the steam line. And the New Haven Railway has been paraded as an argument for the electrification of the London and Port Stanley.

"It is sheer dishonesty for The Advertiser and its free trade contemporaries to talk of Dreadnought-building in Canada."—London Free Press, March 27, 1913.

"Patriotism will gather closer about battleships built in Canada than battleships built in England. It may cost more to build the ships in this country, where the facilities are not yet complete, but it will probably prove to be money well spent."—London Free Press, Oct. 15, 1909.

"Why is it that everything can be made in Canada but a warship?"—London Advertiser.

"The Advertiser press and The Advertiser linotypes and linotypes of every machine used in our contemporary's plant is made in a foreign country."—London Free Press.

The Advertiser bought excellent linotypes in Canada until an American concern bought the Canadian business and closed it. Now Canadian newspapers must go to the United States for linotypes and pay 20 per cent. more. A great argument against building warships here, isn't it?

HADN'T THOUGHT OF THAT.
[Washington Star.]
"Marriage brings its awakenings."
"Yes," sighed the other lady. "I remember that I, as a bride, was thunderstruck to find that my husband, after a limited amount of going to pink teas and matrons had to go back to work and support the pair of us."

SETTING AN EXAMPLE.
[Washington Star.]
"What made you name your infant son 'John'?"
"I want to simplify the city directory. I don't believe in encouraging people to give children the kind of fancy names they give sleeping cars and apartment houses."

AN OPPORTUNITY.
[Boston Transcript.]
He (at musical hall)—That's a singular-looking costume you're wearing. What do you represent?
She—Opportunity.
He—Indeed! Then let me embrace you.

MATTER OF THINKING.
[Chicago Tribune.]
"I never thought of saving a cent until I got married."
"But you think of it now?"
"Very earnestly, but that's as near as I can get to doing it."

CHILDISH INGENUITY.
[Munich Post.]
In spite of my orders not to you, you are doing it, anyway, and burning two candles at the same time."
"Not so, mamma. I am burning only one. I have cut it in two pieces."

SOME MIXED METAPHORS.
[The Strand.]
The House of Commons is never so amused as when a member is betrayed in his enthusiasm into a mixed metaphor. Mr. Balfour some time ago spoke of "an empty theatre of unsympathetic editors," while Lord Curzon remarked that "though not out of the wood, we have a good ship." Sir William Hart Dyke has told how Mr. Lowther "had caught a big fish in his net and went to the top of the tree for it," while a financial minister assured the Commons that "the steps of the Government should go hand in hand with the interests of the manufacturer." And it was in the Lords that the constitutional rights of the people were being trampled upon by the mailed hand of authority.

EXPECTED.
[Life.]
"Are your father and mother in, Bobbie?"
"No."
"Then can I see your sister?"
"Not in. She expected you, too."

QUALIFICATION INCOMPLETE.
[Washington Star.]
"Do you know how to run a motor car?"
"Well," replied Mr. Chuggins, "I know all about the mechanism of the thing. But I haven't yet mastered the police regulations."

QUESTIONS IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT.
[London Chronicle.]
Quotations and misquotations are alike disappearing from Parliamentary oratory. The tendency had set in even in the days of Disraeli. "All things change," he wrote in recalling his early Parliamentary experiences, "and quoting Virgil will be the next thing to disappear. In the last Parliament we often had Latin quotations, but never from a single member with a new constituency. I have heard Greek quoted here, but that was long ago and a great mistake. The House was quite alarmed. Charles Fox used to say as to quotation, 'No Greek; as much Latin as you like, and never French under any circumstances. No English poet unless he has completed his century.' These were, like some other good rules, the unwritten orders of the House of Commons."

MISSOURIAN'S ENTHUSIASM.
[Missouri Cash Box.]
John Gulley, who lives near St. Louis, Mo., was so overjoyed at the news of President Wilson's election that he couldn't speak. He rushed to his room, grabbed his fiddle and fiddled until supper time without stopping. After supper he "fiddled" and played until the fiddle complained. He then went into the smokehouse and fiddled all night, until he was called in to breakfast.

HIS FORESIGHT.
[Detroit News.]
There's nothing like knowing where one is going. Joseph Lakowski, of Perth Amboy, N. J., has built an asbestos lined coffin for himself.

USELESSNESS.
[Washington Star.]
"I should advise you to join the Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving," said the unenthusiastic man. "But you are inconsistent. As a rule there isn't anything you can give a man that is likely to prove more useless than advice."

NOT IN.
[Buffalo Express.]
"You appear to find the observation of persons interesting."
"Yes, I am very successful in finding people out," said the stranger who had been watching the crowd.
"What is your business?"
"A bill collector."

THE COMMERCIAL IDEA.
[Pele Mele (Paris).]
"Little pictures leave me cold; it's the grand canvases that I like."
"You're an art critic."
"Not I; a frame-maker."

Had Weak AND Dizzy Spells.

Those feelings of weakness, those dizzy spells and "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over some people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They indicate an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes hopeless. They have no equal for reviving and strengthening the heart, and invigorating the nerves.

Mrs. A. E. Martell, Rockdale, N.S., writes:—"I was troubled for a long time with my heart, had weak and dizzy spells, could not sleep, and would have to sit up the greater part of the night. At last I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they did me so much good I got another, and after taking it I could sleep as well as before I was taken sick. They are the best medicine I ever heard of for heart or nerve trouble."

FLARE UP MARKS PROBE INTO HYDRO

Leader Rowell and McGarry, M.P.P., Clash Over The Accounts.

LATTER FOLLOWS MASTER

Engineer Gaby Cannot Recall Mr. McGarry Making a Threat of Exposure.

Toronto, March 27.—The letting of the hydroelectric contract to the McGarry-Guigan Company came under the investigation of the public accounts committee this forenoon.

Mr. N. W. Rowell said that the tenders of the McGarry-Guigan Company were the estimate of the hydro-electric engineers, and that a casual expenditure item of $40,000 had been added to the latter's estimates.

"As that $40,000 added to your unit tenders to make the sum come up equal to the McGarry lump sum," asked the leader of the Opposition of Mr. P. A. Gaby, present chief engineer of the commission, and who at the time of the letting of the tenders in 1909 was one of the assistant engineers who figured out a basis of computation. "Was it necessary to add $40,000 to your figuring to make it come close to the McGarry Company's offer?"

"There were added contingencies," Mr. Gaby replied, "which could not be covered by that amount."

"You have learned that since," Mr. Rowell asked, "but did not know of them at the time the contract was signed. Did you include all the details and all the contingencies you knew of in your unit figuring?"

"No definite answer," Mr. Gaby returned. "Those were our figures."

"Then it was just put in to make the hydro unit tenders higher than the McGarry lump sum. Did you submit anything in your report to your chief engineer which was contrary to your judgment? Did you quarrel with any of the figures?"

"From the information I have to-day, yes."

"But from the information you had at that time?"

"No. It was necessary to investigate the figuring of the different companies."

Tenders submitted by the McLennan & Keyes Company, of Toronto, and the Campbell, Sinclair & Green Company, of Owen Sound, also interested Mr. Rowell. Certain portions of their tenders he discovered to be much lower than the figures submitted by the McGarry-Guigan Company, and he wanted to know how the higher-priced tender gained preference.

As to the first company, Mr. Gaby explained that certain portions of their tender were lower than what the commission believed the work could be done for, chiefly the erection of the footings for the towers.

Was Tender Lower?

"But was the tender on the whole lower than the work could be done for?" Mr. Rowell demanded. "Was it lower than the McGarry?"

"I couldn't answer that without going into it in detail again," replied Mr. Gaby.

With regard to the second firm, the chief engineer stated that they had included only portions of the work in their estimate, and what they wanted was figuring on the whole.

"But even those portions were pretty low," Mr. Rowell suggested, "low in comparison with the others and the company who finally got the contract."

"They were not complete," was the reply.

An interesting flare-up came when Mr. Rowell referred to the conference of 1911 between the contractors and the hydro commission re the McGarry-Guigan deal.

Mr. Gaby to know what Mr. McGarry had said at that conference, and as to what he threatened.

"I don't know," Mr. Gaby replied. "I do not know that he is all he said."

"Will you swear that is all he said?"

"I cannot say from memory."

"Did he say he would show up something if he did not get a settlement?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"This was never said at any of those conferences?"

"Not to my knowledge."

At this point Mr. McGarry, of South Renfrew, interfered, with the remark: "You're getting all that from Mr. Sothman."

"I am not," retorted Mr. Rowell. "You are," fired back Mr. McGarry. These interchanges occurred exactly six times on either side, when the Opposition leader turned to Mr. Howard Ferguson, chairman of the committee, and demanded a withdrawal of the statement.

"He is simply following the tactics of his master in the House," Mr. Row-

Fashions and the Man

I wonder if we dare mention fashions in this feminine department of ours? Yet father, a husband, a lover, a brother, a son? And having one or more of these heaven-sent adjuncts to our lives, shall we not be interested in their clothes, their ties, their socks, their shirts? Which of us has not mended socks, or sewed on buttons, or pressed out ties for these our lords and masters? And have you never assisted at his dressing operations when husband or father or brother was dining out, or going to the theatre or concert? Have you not many a time been called to the rescue by a desperate man when a collar of a board-like stiffness refused to allow a stud to pass through? And who has not tied the black bow for the dinner jacket outfit and the more particular white muslin bow for the dress suit? And having done all these things can you truly say that you are not interested in what your men folk wear? I am often struck by the quiet luxury of men's clothes. They are wise creatures and do not call attention to their little personal extravagances as women do. To read the newspapers and magazines you would think that there is no such thing as fashion where men are concerned. There seems to be a conspiracy of silence on this subject, while we tell all our freaks and follies in fashion in every paper in the land. But what a mistake is all this! It is true that men's fashions do not change so radically as ours, but they change in details just as often. They are nearly always experimenting in waistcoats, in new materials for shirts, and what they expend in silk socks and ties is known only to themselves and their purses! Think of the new bandana handkerchiefs at $5.00 each and the equally expensive ties to match! And have you seen those shirts of lovely material having a crest or an initial exquisitely embroidered on the left sleeve between elbow and cuff? And the silken pyjamas, and the fine Russian leather bedroom slippers that go into such small compass? I read yesterday of men's handkerchiefs made in the north of France, and costing $5.00 each, or $6.00 a dozen! Such handkerchiefs, I learned, are to be worn with the frock coat outfit, and with full evening dress. The men folk match the quiet luxury of their dress accessories with an equally discreet reserve as to prices!

PROBLEMS OF THE FAIR SEX SOLVED BY CYNTHIA GREY

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn as they are received. No letters can be answered privately.]

Poem On Thunder Bay.

Dear Miss Grey: Could you tell me in your valuable column what Canadian poet wrote a poem about Thunder Bay on Lake Superior? Also what is it called? One of the lines I know reads, "The winds screech down from the open west, and the thunders beat and break." If you can help me to find this I shall feel greatly indebted to you. IN EARNEST.

Ans.—The poem you speak of is by the gifted Indian poetess, Emily Pauline Johnson, who died so recently. It is called "The Sleeping Giant." The first verse is as follows:

"When did you sink to your dreamless sleep
Out there in your thunder bed?
Where the tempests sweep,
And the waters leap,
And the storms rage overhead."

You will find it in a volume of poems entitled "Flint and Feathers."

He Failed to Appear.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you please furnish me with some of your welcome information re the following:

1. What is your opinion of a fellow who made a date to take a girl to the rink, then failed to appear, and offered no apology? Would you advise the girl to discontinue the acquaintance, as this isn't the first time it has occurred?
2. Are the stores closed both Good Friday and Easter Monday?
3. I expect to be staying in the city for some time, and would like to read books from the library. Do I have to pay any fee and if so how much?
4. Do you believe in love, Miss Grey?
5. Is it wrong for a girl to go out, often, with different boy friends? Will they consider her a flirt? Thanking you in advance. BROWNIE.

Ans.—1. The young man must be "a bit of a cad" to quote my English friends, to act in this manner. An apology is certainly due you and if it is not forthcoming I certainly think you need have no regrets about losing the friendship of such a man. There are surely plenty of others who have a higher sense of courtesy and honor than this.

2. Good Friday is observed as a public holiday. Easter Monday, being but a bank holiday, all places of business except banks are open for business.

3. You must inquire at the library. 4. Yes indeed, but perhaps not in the sense you mean! But who am I to dispute a passion that has been the theme of immortal birds since the world began?

5. It is only natural for a girl to have a number of boy friends and accept their company at various times.

A Picnic Dress.

Dear Miss Grey: I would like to know what a serviceable picnic dress for a girl of seventeen?

2. How should it be washed and ironed?
3. Will it be worn much next summer?
4. Please suggest some kind of trimming for a dress of that kind.
5. Is it proper to eat meat and potatoes with a knife and fork or should the meat be cut up first and then just use the fork?
6. Hoping I have not been too much trouble.

Ans.—1. I presume you refer to the cotton ratines and agaric textiles. I understand that they make very serviceable outing dresses.

The material is apt to shrink in washing and it is therefore wise to wash it before making up into a dress. Otherwise, make your frock fairly large and hemmed up so that it may be lengthened if necessary. As far as I know the material should be laundered the same as other fabrics. Have any of our readers had experience along this line?

2. Fashion predictions are that this kind of goods will be very popular.

3. Bands of lace or embroidery in section; pearl buttons, piping of plain linen in a contrasting color.

4. It is generally conceded that the meat should be first cut, the knife then laid down, and the food conveyed to the mouth with the fork only.

Desires Party Games.

Dear Miss Grey: As I have been a constant reader of your column, and have not yet had the pleasure of asking you any questions. Would you please answer a few for me?

1. Would you please name some games for a party?
2. What would be nice for a light lunch, and also what hours for a party?
3. What will clean light gloves?
4. Would you please suggest a cure for freckles?
5. Norfolk going to be worn this year?

I would like to see this in print as soon as possible. Hoping I have not troubled you too much, I remain, sincerely,
A TRUE FRIEND,
"April Fool's Party"

In this column a day or two ago, Don't you think you could adapt some of them for your party? They have the value, at least, of being unique.

2. Gasoline. Pour the gasoline into a small basin, draw the gloves on the hand and wash the soiled parts most carefully. Allow the gloves to remain on the hands until dry—it will not take long. Be absolutely careful not to perform the process in a room with a fire or open light of any description. For dry cleaning, a good preparation is art gum which many drug stores sell.

3. A simple freckle lotion is: 2 drams of ammonium chloride, 4 ounces of distilled water. Apply the liquid at night after bathing the face in warm water. Besides this, wear a veil when out of doors.

4. To some extent, yes, but the cut-away styles are also much in vogue for girls of your age as well as older women.

MAKING COMFORTERS.

One bride is making her comforters in an unusual way. She incloses the cotton batting in mosquito netting, tacking it here and there. Then she slips this into its outside cover. When the cover is soiled it is very easy to rip open one end and remove the cotton, and also as simple to put the whole together again.

Open Evenings.

For inspection of millinery styles, Madame Allenby's millinery parlors, 619 Richmond street.

The Sash! That's the Thing!

Maybelle Mortimer, in Paris, Says That New Spring Styles Are Going to Depart From the Straight Empire Lines.

Paris, March 25.—Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I am just awfully sorry that so many of the Paris designers have become obsessed with the sash idea.

Already we are beginning to lose those beautiful long lines of recent styles that have appealed to every woman with an artistic soul.

Some of the frocks that I have seen look as though the designers were trying to help out the manufacturers and merchants by putting any and all sorts of material and trimmings on frocks without any real reason.

I am wondering if the women over home will accept their ideas after the comfort of the moderately narrow skirt of little weight and tasteful appearance.

The frock I am sending is made by Premet, who is absolutely in the ascendant so far as modes for the street are concerned.

Note the broad sash in the illustrated design. It is of the same satin as the gown, a wide piece being shirred onto strips of whale-bone and fastened invisibly. You will see how carefully it "hangs." The sash is indeed a feature of all the new gowns.

One chic idea is used on all the new gowns. It is to have the selvedge edge showing at the bottom of the skirt. Nothing is hemmed that can be left unhemmed. This is true of not only satin and silk frocks, but also in cloth and cotton materials.

In the smaller illustration note the combination of the sash and loose-fitting coat, somewhat after the Russian style.

The Poet's Corner

ODE WRITTEN IN MDCCCLVI.

How sleep the Brave who sink to rest
By all their Country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallow'd mold,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod,
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.
By fairy hands their knell is rung;
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay,
And Freedom shall awhile repair
To dwell a weeping hermit there.

MME. MAETERLINCK'S HONEY RECIPES

Wife of Famous Writer Uses Delectable Sweet in All Sorts of Ways.

In a recent issue of the New York Sun appears an interesting sketch of Mme. Maeterlinck, of whom it says:

Mme. Maeterlinck is not only a writer, actress, opera singer and poet, but she has accomplished in all manner of domestic gifts, and it is with one of these that this article is to deal, that of cooking and in particular of cooking things made with honey.

As all the world knows, Maurice Maeterlinck is a great lover of bees, having studied them for a lifetime, and one of his masterpieces, "The Life of the Bee," is the result of his years of study. Whenever he makes his home there he has his bees, even if it is in the city and he has to keep the hive on the window ledge. He has an observation hive arranged with glass that he may watch the wonderful little insects at work.

It was because of her husband's love for the bees that Mme. Maeterlinck made a study of cooking with honey.

Eggs and Honey.

She uses honey in all manner of odd ways, not only for dessert, but in other courses. For example, she poaches eggs in hot honey. To do this the honey, sufficient to cover the eggs, is placed in a saucepan and thoroughly heated. When quite hot the eggs are slipped in from a saucer into which each has been broken carefully and separately; as soon as they are set they are removed and over each is sprinkled a grating of cheese.

Honey cheese soufflé is a dish that one might imagine came out of fairy story, so unusual and delicious it is and so unique like the regulation dishes that mortals are accustomed to. This is the recipe: Place two cups of milk in a saucepan and when heated mix in two cups of finely-grated cheese and two cups of bread crumbs, stirring constantly until smooth; then add first the beaten yolk of an egg and last the stiffly-whipped white, stirring it in quickly. Serve hot with clear, strained hot.

Baked Apples.

Apples baked with honey are also tempting and very simple to do. For the purpose large apples are chosen and cored, the cavity is filled with honey and they are baked thus, a little butter being added on top of each.

Honey tea cake is made by creaming a cupful of butter and adding to it a cupful of thick sour cream and two cups of flour, blending the ingredients very thoroughly. Then four eggs are added, which had the whites and yolks beaten separately. Two spoonfuls of lemon juice are added and then four cups of flour and a teaspoonful of soda and two of cream of tartar. This cake is baked in a moderate oven.

Footstool's Return

The present-day footstools are not the small doll-like articles which gave pleasure to our grandmothers.

They are sizeable pieces of furniture, most of them 12x18 inches square, perhaps, and they stand from 8 to 12 inches from the floor. Some, to be sure, are smaller, perhaps 8 inches wide, a foot long and 4 or 5 inches above the floor. These generally have little arms or handles at the ends and can be easily carried from place to place.

Colonial designs of various sorts seem to take the lead in popularity. Excepting in formal drawing-rooms, it is unusual to have the footstools designed with special reference to the rest of the furniture, but mahogany footstool in colonial design fits in harmoniously in any room where mahogany furniture is used.

One of the most serviceable footstools shown has a mahogany frame in straight, simple lines, with red, brown or green leather cushion. Tapestry, in various dull hues and upholstery of other sorts in colors that would blend with the color scheme of almost any living room are also used to cover the cushions of these useful footstools.

"It is a fine notion of life to liken it to a room," God puts on the warp in those circumstances in which we find ourselves, and which we cannot change. The weft is wrought by the shuttle of everyday life. It is made of homely things, sometimes common duties and welcome tasks. But whoever tries to do each day's work in the spirit of patient loyalty to God, is wearing the texture whose other side is fairer than the one he sees."

Black and white combinations, although extensively seen, must yet be used with care. Black worn by itself and white worn alone are not glossy; but the combination is always striking, sometimes appealingly so, and it must be made in nice proportion to be in good taste.

Household Hints

Ink stains may be removed from the fingers with tartaric acid.

Don't throw away any cooked vegetables. They make acceptable salads when combined with raw, fresh vegetables, such as celery or lettuce.

The use of colored cotton thread in basting makes it much easier to follow the seams accurately.

To remove stains from linen—fruit and even coffee stains when there is cream in the coffee—rub the spots with pure glycerine. Let it remain on for some time, then rinse the linen in lukewarm water.

Equal parts of powdered borax and well-pulverized moth-balls will exterminate all kinds of roaches. Care must be taken to remove all odors in order to have the roaches hungry.

Raw cabbage is much more readily digested than cooked cabbage. The cabbage should be fresh, crisp and cold; then it should be finely shredded and dressed with French dressing.

A little salt eaten and followed by a glass of cold water, will often cure a sick headache.

BILLY STEVENS—His Story.

XLVIII.—Billy's Legs.

(Copyright.)

Another message from Mrs. Z. This was alarming. Had Billy lost his Third Chance? Thank heaven—no.

It was a pleasant message. "Thirteen-Year-Old said, 'Mother wants you to come to see Billy's legs. They're getting big.'"

So they were. Within forty-eight hours Billy's lower extremities were duly inspected by request. It was true. They were getting big. And what was more they were firm. Take hold of them gently. There is something there. They will be the legs of a man some day. His long pants will not be put on for about fifteen years yet, but he is laying the foundation, with Mrs. Z's able assistance, of two legs that will carry a good pair of pants some day. And he is as clean and sweet as can be. And he is doing wonderful things.

As we watched he lifted up a spoon in his right hand and brought it down to the table of his high chair for all the world like the gentleman of the Legislature in Queen's Park. That reminds me. Billy will have a vote. Good for him. Perhaps he will be a member of himself. Who knows. And he will legislate for the House of the Sky Ward. Think of that.

A Family Magazine

Over 20 pages are devoted to practical fashions in the April issue of the Pictorial Review (New York city). They include almost everything for spring wearing apparel, from chic neckwear to crocheted things for the baby, women's, children's and tiny tots' things being thoroughly discussed by a staff of expert writers.

The making of orange marmalade occupies a space in the culinary department, and on other pages of this section practical ways of serving eggs and vegetables are reproduced.

Besides these and other excellent features on home management are discussions on books, ways to entertain, and articles on such live topics as "Teaching the Child the Value of Money" and "How to Fight the High Cost of Living," the latter being a department in which subscribers are allowed to voice their sentiments.

All these, coupled with the interesting short stories, which run each month, make the Pictorial Review a most delightful magazine for every member of the family.

Some Exercises For

The Desk Girl

Desk work is apt to cause various harmful tendencies, which, if not checked and corrected, result in such deformities as round shoulders, flat chest, forward position of the head, one shoulder low, one hip high, crooked spine, and so on. Corrective desk exercises are:

1. For round shoulders. Sit erect in the chair. Rotate the shoulders backward with a circular motion, first the right, then the left, then both. Repeat five or ten times.
2. For one low shoulder. The hand on the side may be placed on top of the head while the other rests on the chest, forward position of the head, one shoulder low, one hip high, crooked spine, and so on. Corrective desk exercises are:
3. For stretching the spine. Raise and lower the shoulders as described in the first of the foregoing restful exercises.
4. For one hip larger than the other. Take the stretch exercise for the leg as described in the fifth of these physical exercises, using the leg with the large hip. For the other leg take the following exercise: With the right leg stiff and knee straight, lift it slightly off the ground and make a circle as large as possible, using the toe as if it were a pencil. The movement must come directly from the hip, the weight of the leg being held there. Make the circle to the right, then to the left.
5. For aching legs. Sit up straight in the chair. Flex or bend the ankle quietly, but steadily, with resistance. Count ten and extend the toe as far as possible. Make a circle with the great toe, using the ankle joint for a pivot. Repeat ten times. Draw up the knee as far as the desk will allow. Count ten, and extend the leg to the full reach. Stretch hard, count ten, and return to the first position.

REMOVING STAINS.

To take out wagon grease, which is of two kinds, that made from coal tar may be removed from cloth by an application of petroleum; the other, made from animal fat, responds to a sponging with ether.

Old perspiration stains may be removed by applying oxalic acid and water in solution one part of the former to twenty parts of the latter.

In cleaning fabrics great care should be taken not to rub them roughly between the hands. The gentle rubbing on of the solvent with a fresh cloth is sufficient.

ACADIAN CLUB HOLDS "AT HOME"

Third Annual Event of Club Attended With Success.

NOVELTY FEATURES

Beautiful Decorations and Catchy
Music Make Dancing a Delight.

For the past three or four years the officers and members of the Acadian Club have given an annual "At Home," and each year the occasion has been one of the social successes of the season, but the standard set by all the previous functions was eclipsed at the "At Home" held in the new Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening.

The large auditorium was tastefully decorated in the club's colors—red and gray, and numerous pennants of the Acadian Club were streamers of the colors. The musicians on the stage were almost entirely concealed from the guests by a curtain of smilax and numerous palms and other plants were placed throughout the hall.

Banner Across Stage.
Across the stage above the orchestra there was a large banner with the names of the hosts of the evening. The luncheon on the left of the entrance hall was also the latest in artistic decoration, and provision was made for 70 couples to partake of the buffet luncheon, which was served from 10 to 1 o'clock.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the Tony Cortese Orchestra under the leadership of Joe Cortese, and the program was undoubtedly the best of the season. The features of the program were the harp waltzes by the leader of the orchestra, and during these selections all the guests were on the floor. Appropriate souvenirs were distributed during the five novelty dances.

Novelty Dances.

The novelty dances were an innovation in this city, and were well received by those present. The souvenirs included skeletons, whistles, balloons, horns and umbrellas, which were obtained in Chicago by Joe Cortese. The orchestra was augmented by the presence of Mr. Joe Quintile, harp soloist of the "Girl of My Dreams" company, who is a close personal friend of Joe Cortese's. The electrical effects furnished by Mr. William Tierney were also above the average.

The patronesses were Mesdames C. W. Belton, A. R. Cairncross, A. A.

Do You Enjoy Eating

Or Does Everything You Eat Distress You?

Experts declare that the reason stomach disorders are so common in this country is due to hasty and careless habits of eating. Stomach troubles and run-down conditions also usually go together.

John Lind of Oneonta, N. Y., says: "I had a bad stomach trouble for fifteen years and became so weak that I could hardly walk or do any work.
My appetite was very poor, and it seemed impossible to get any relief.
Since taking two bottles of Vinol I find that it has already made a remarkable improvement in my health.
My digestion is much stronger, and I have gained in weight."

Vinol makes weak stomachs strong because it strengthens and tones up the weakened, tired and overtaxed nerves of the digestive organs.
Stomach troubles are assimilated by the weakest stomach, and is delicious to the taste.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

Ottawa Passes Up Chatham as Spring Training QuartersShaughnessy Has Decided To Take His Players To Fort Wayne About Middle of April, and Training Will Be Conducted There.

Ottawa, March 26.—Port Wayne, Indiana, will be the training quarters of the Senators for this spring. This matter was finally decided upon yesterday when Owner Varnell placed the Central League park of that city at the disposal of Manager Shaughnessy. The players will be ordered to report there Monday, April 21, so that one month from today spring training will be in full blast.

The team will remain in training camp two weeks, then work up north, playing a series of exhibition games. One has already been booked for April 26 with the Port Wayne Shamrocks, a fast semi-pro team. Manager Shaughnessy will also arrange a couple of games with Notre Dame University at South Bend, Ind., and is now negotiating with the South Michigan clubs for dates so that the opening at Brantford, May 7, in season condition.

In the recent storm that swept the middle western states a great portion of the fences of the Fort Wayne Park were blown down. These will be in place, however, long before the Ottawa report there. The park is a very modern affair with hot, cold and steam baths in the dressing-rooms. The diamond is a very fast and quite up to the standard of big league diamonds in the United States. The players will quarter at a hotel in Fort Wayne, all being under the same roof.

Even Packey Gets Sarcastic When Referring to Jeff's "Come Back"

San Francisco, March 27.—Now that Jim Jeffries has sounded out the critics and the public on the subject of a "come back" and has discovered that there is no overbearing demand that he don his war paint again, the chances are he will remain in retirement.

Jeff's threatened return to the ring has subjected the one-time world's champion to a deal of criticism and some of the things said were notably unkind.

Even Packey McFarland, who as a rule refrains from remarks that are stinging and sarcastic, took his little fling at the would-be baron.

"I say," said Packey, "if Jeffries decides to come back I'll fight him myself. Yes, and I'll beat him, too."

There was feeling there, of course, and in explanation Packey said that Jeffries gave him a raw deal while refereeing the Freddie Welsh-McFarland bout at Los Angeles.

"During the twenty-five rounds Jeffries drank twenty-five bottles of beer and rolled a hundred cigarettes," said McFarland. "Then he declared it a draw, although I won by city blocks."

NEW FUNGO HIT RECORD.
A new record for fungo hitting was established by Walter Johnson, the remarkable pitcher of the Washington Senators. He drove the ball 481 feet 8 inches at Charlottesville, the training camp of the Senators, beating the mark of 413 feet 6 inches set by Ed. Walsh, of the White Sox in 1911.

Who's Who in Baseball

Daily Bulletin of Major

Chic Gandil literally put Washington on the baseball map last summer. With all credit given to Walter Johnson and Miller for their great work, the fact remains that Gandil filled a weak corner in the infield, which had been there for some time before he was brought from Montreal in the middle of last season.

He had been up before with the Chicago White Sox, who have been unable to find a first baseman as good since. His batting average was .269, in the International League, and .305 with the Senators, which indicates that all pitching looks alike to him.

CANADIAN LEAGUE
GOSSIP

Knotty Lee's ball team will wear a black road uniform this season, with a yellow stripe on the leg of the trousers. Hamilton in white letters will adorn the main breasts of the athletes, and they will wear white sky pieces. This should prove a natty uniform.

The Ottawa Baseball Club has closed a deal with a major league club whereby first call is given on six surplus players of the latter club, including three pitchers, a catcher, an infielder and an outfielder. All the players concerned are now in the southern training camp, and any that are turned over to Ottawa will be in the best of condition. The Port Wayne club, which will have forty men report on April 1, has also given Ottawa first call on any of the surplus men.

The Ottawa officers appear to think that all the holdouts, including Dolan and Callahan, will be at the training camp one month hence. No word has as yet been received from Jimmie Lewis and so all right. Loudon would rather play in Ottawa than anywhere else, and the Ottawas are keen on having him return.

With Tracey and Hanson as the nucleus Peterboro should have a good pitching staff to start with this season. When they opened the campaign last year the pitching department was certainly far from strong, although poor support in the field did not give the twirlers a chance to show at the real standard. Tracey was one of the best pitchers in the league last season, his record being 12-10, and he is expected to make a record in the Ottawa series stamping him as a box artist of the first magnitude. He should be even better this season with a stronger team behind him, while great things are expected of big Ben Hanson. Manager Rowan was very enthusiastic over the Chicago boy, who should have a banner season.

PETERBORO SIGNS NEPHEW
OF "SILK" O'LOUGHLINRochester Second Baseman to Fill Nicholls' Place in Infield—Was With Club Last Year, But Only Played a Couple of Games.

Peterboro, March 27.—Players' contracts continue to come into the local management of the Peterboro baseball club, the latest official document bearing the signature of Second Baseman George Weidman, of Rochester. Weidman is only a youngster, a "kid" full of pep, and with the speed of a frightened jack-rabbit. He is a nephew of Silk O'Loughlin, the famous umpire, and was recommended to the Peterboro club by that authority last season. Manager Rowan was so taken with the recommendation that he had Weidman over for a trial, and the youngster took part in a game at Berlin with the Petes, distinguishing himself by stealing third and home. He showed all kinds of promise, but as the Petes had sixteen men just then, and Nicholls had just been assigned to play second, Manager Rowan had to let him out.

Is Heavier Now.
Weidman has put on more weight during the winter, and the Rochester boy may give the White Cap infielders a battle for the place. He sure has the speed, and with Harry Brant on one side of him and Johnny Barthold on the other to help him and school him along, he may fill the gap at second. Manager Barthold is hot on the trail of another second baseman, a Philadelphia semi-pro, who has every qualification of a good infielder. There is still no news of White or Osborne, and the local management is waiting for some information from Barthold as to the new men he has signed, and whose contracts have been received.

Only Two of Temple's Squad Left.
Of the squad which Manager Temple brought here for a try-out last season, only two will be with Peterboro this year, Swartz and Beard, but three others are on the roster of Canadian League teams, Dolan with Ottawa, and Schaeffer and Bartlett with Guelph.

A month from now and the Peterboro squad will have commenced training. Although not definitely decided, it is altogether probable that the players will assemble in Peterboro if the weather is at all favorable.

Suggestion to Sir Thomas Lipton: Why not challenge the New York Yacht Club to a pie-eating contest and then hold out for 90-foot pies.

Our idea of a nice, easy job is that of manager of the Peterboro Baseball Club for the coming season. No matter how bad you are you cannot do any worse than the fellows who handled the club last year.

of Jennings' Tribe Is Scarce.

Montgomery, Ala., March 26.—Detroit suffered her first defeat since the start of the barnstorming trouping here today at the hands of a pair of Browns, 3 to 0. Messrs. E. Brown and E. Brown did the battering work for the Southern Leaguers, while a South Michigan Leaguer, the Tigers' only southpaw, worked for the Detroiters. Rain stopped the fray in the seventh inning, and it now looks as if the storm that was sweeping the country will make playing doubtful during the next few days.

Jennings and his squad left after the game for Meridian, Miss., and will spend the night at the junction point, Selma, Ala. All telegraph communication to northern points is severely crippled tonight, and it is doubtful if the doings of the Tigers can be sent to the north in any detail until the damage done to the wires is repaired.

COAST LACROSSE
CLUBS ORGANIZEVictoria Admitted, and Twenty One Game Schedule Is Planned.

[Canadian Press.]

Vancouver, B. C., March 27.—Professional lacrosse is no further advanced on the coast today than a year ago. Representatives of Vancouver, Victoria and Westminster gathered at New Westminster in annual meeting. After Vancouver and Westminster arrived, pro, Vancouver consented to give New Westminster a certified check for $5,000 for three games to be played Wednesday between Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster during the 1913 season in order to give Victoria a berth in the B. C. L. A. The Minto Cup holders presented the ultimatum at the opening meeting that unless they were given financial aid they would be compelled to withdraw from professional lacrosse. It was put up to the other delegates, after a private conference between Con Jones, Lionel Yorkie and Tom Clifford, representing Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster respectively, that it was absolutely necessary to concede $5,000 to New Westminster for the present world's champions would consent to remain in the running.

New Westminster accepted the position to admit Victoria if the latter city could produce a team. A 21-game schedule to be played, seven home games for Vancouver, and the remainder for Victoria to play seven Vancouver and balance New Westminster. For this New Westminster was to receive a $5,000 certified check to be deposited in the bank.

The following officers were elected: Honorary president, Sir Richard McBride; president, A. E. Kellington, New Westminster; first vice-president, A. Virtue, Victoria; second vice-president, A. P. Garvey, Vancouver; secretary-treasurer, F. J. Lynch, New Westminster.

TORONTO LEAFS WIN
THEIR FIRST GAMEKubak Pitched and Trout Caught During Part of Contest.

Macon, Ga., March 26.—In their first game of the season, which was played against Mercer, the Leafs won by 12 to 5. Tomorrow and two succeeding days the Leafs tackle the Boston Braves, who have been in the South for almost a month.

In the absence of Jordan, first base was looked after by Lush and Bemis, while Fitzpatrick took Holly's place at short. The Leafs hit the ball very hard against the pitching of Moses, the Mercer's star. The latter has been pitching winning ball for his team for three weeks. Neither Kubak nor Rudolph took chances on the use of curves, relying solely on speed. The Toronto fielding was sharp and clean.

Raleigh, N. C., March 26.—The Philadelphia National League team today trounced the Raleigh Club by 7 to 0. Marshall, who comes from Portsmouth, O., distinguished himself by twirling the entire nine innings and allowing only four hits. He struck out eight men. Lobert and Luderus hit the ball hard. The Phillies left tonight for Richmond.

Detroit will send outfielder Frierson to Chattanooga, infielder Leggett to Allentown and Oscar Vitt to Providence. All three clubs are managed by former Tiger players, and each player goes with the idea of being developed for future use in Detroit.

REFUSES TO PROBE COST OF LIVING

Ontario Government Declares
Matter Not Important Enough
For Consideration.

WHITNEY ON BEEF PRICES

Gets Badly Mixed on Cost of Steaks in Toronto—Liberals Urge an Investigation.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, March 27.—Member of the legislative assembly roared, and even the occupants of the ladies' and visitors' galleries laughed out loud this afternoon when Sir James Whitney declared, with obvious sincerity, that "there has not been a pound of beef bought in Toronto for months for less than fifty cents a pound." The House was considering the high cost of living at the time, and Dr. McQueen (North Wentworth), was reading from the Toronto Board of Trade News that beef was 25 cents per pound. The Premier interrupted with the remark that his hon. friend's source of information was "terribly unreliable." When he was reminded that the quotations were from the official organ of the Toronto Board of Trade, he said, "Well, I take mine from my own pocket." But Sir James changed his price a few minutes later, after one of his colleagues, the Hon. Thomas Crawford, a live stock dealer, had had a talk with him. When Mr. McQueen concluded, the Premier rose and qualified his previous statement by saying that "I have paid thirty cents for beefsteak at all events, and, of course, there are other portions of the carcass that can be obtained for less."

Probe High Costs.
Urging Government investigation of the high cost of living problem, Dr. McQueen stated that Canadian bacon and ham was selling for one cent per pound less in London, England, than in Toronto, Canada. After giving a careful comparison of the prices of commodities in various countries, and in the different markets of Ontario, the Liberal member for North Wentworth outlined briefly the cause of the increase in the prices of foodstuffs, and suggested remedies for existing conditions. Also he quoted striking examples of prices received by the farmer to show that the latter is not getting too much for his products, but that the middlemen's profits appear to be excessive and that the consumer is paying too much. He criticized the Government's "policy of do-nothing," and urged improved taxation methods, better shipping facilities, radial railways, and other things calculated to make the lot of the farmer a happier one.

Hearst Not Alarmed.
Hon. Mr. Hearst agreed that there had been a material increase in the cost of living, but there was no need to make it a political question, he said. There was no cause for alarm in the decline of the rural population because labor-saving machinery was taking the place of those who left the farm for the city. If they were not satisfied to pay present high prices for foodstuffs they could go back to the farm. He agreed combines which raised the prices of commodities should be attended to by the proper authorities, and in conclusion moved in amendment to Dr. McQueen's motion that the House regretted that the Dominion Government had failed to investigate the cost of living problem.

MR. SAMUEL CRAWFORD EXPIRED AT FUNERAL

Aged Brussels Man Died Suddenly of Heart Failure at Exeter.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Exeter, March 27.—Death came with startling suddenness to Mr. Samuel Crawford, of Brussels, here yesterday afternoon. He had just driven over with his wife from Brussels, 34 miles, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Crawford's sister, Mrs. Kay, and arriving a little late, had just time to go in and look at the remains, and shake hands with Magistrate Kay. Going out into the hall he felt over and was dead before he could be lifted up. He was 80 years old, and a physician, who was called found that death had resulted from heart failure.

THE KNOW HOW

To Feed Children and Get Good Results.

There are more nervous persons made so by undigested food lying in the stomach than the average individual would suppose.

If food remains undigested in the stomach, it begins to ferment, set up gas and a large portion is, thus converted into poison.

That's why imperfectly digested food may, and often does, cause irritation of the nerves and stupor of the mind—brain and nerves are really poisoned.

"My daughter had complained for some time of a distressed feeling in the stomach, after eating, which set me thinking that her diet was not right. On reading the account of the perfect food, it seemed reasonable to try Grape-Nuts for her case."

"The results were really wonderful. The little brain that seemed at times unable to do its work, set on new life and vigor. Every morning, now, before going to school, she eats the crisp little morsels and is now completely and entirely well, she seems to have a new lease on life—no more distress in the stomach, nor headache, but sound and well every way." LIBERALS URGE BUDGET STATEMENT

The Government's Delay in Bringing It Down Is Warmly Criticized.

Hon. Mr. WHITE EXPLAINS

Opposition Speakers Show the Necessity of an Early Tariff Announcement.

Ottawa, March 26.—The Government's delay in bringing down its budget and making known its proposed changes in the tariff was the subject of a warm discussion in the House of Commons this afternoon. Hon. Mr. White, minister of finance, endeavored to excuse his tardiness in this regard by blaming the Opposition with having so long obstructed the passage of the naval bill. It was handed back to him in straight, stiff fashion that the Opposition had never proposed to tie up the vital business of the Government, and had always been and were still urging that these important features of legislation be proceeded with first, and that the financial and industrial interests of the country were restless and chafing under the delay.

Messrs. Macdonald, Nesbitt and Guthrie urged in strongest terms the vital necessity of a tariff announcement being made without delay, while Hon. Mr. White declared that the business interests of the country were not worrying in the slightest, and that they had unbounded confidence in the present administration.

Mr. White informed the House that the budget would not be brought down until the bill to ratify the West Indian trade agreement had been given its third reading, as there were clauses in that agreement which would necessitate certain changes of tariff. The Opposition, he declared, intended to obstruct the third reading of this bill as it had the naval bill.

A Weak Excuse.
"It is a poor quibbling excuse for the Minister of Finance to make that the Government cannot bring forward measures because a minority will not let them pass," responded Mr. Guthrie. "If it cannot do business any better than that it should step out and let someone do it who can." "The truth of it is that the Government made up its mind that by hook or crook, by brute force or otherwise, by day and night sittings, it would put through its naval bill before other business of the country could go through. The whole responsibility for the present condition of affairs rests with the Government, and it can't get away from it," exclaimed Mr. Guthrie.

He challenged the Minister of Finance to mention one member of the Opposition, who had said the Liberals intended to hold up the third reading of the bill to ratify the West India trade agreement.

Mr. White "Explains."
Hon. Mr. White rose and haltingly began to explain that the junior member for Halifax (Mr. A. K. Maclean) had told him that while he (Mr. Maclean) had no objections to the passage of the bill, yet it would be discussed. He had supposed that to mean that the Opposition had determined to hold up the bill for a long time. (Liberal applause and laughter.)

Mr. Guthrie assured him that there would be no undue discussion on the bill, as there had been none on any matter, and he admonished the minister to hurry along with his budget, as, despite what he had said about having the confidence of the business interests, there were equally responsible opinions to the contrary.

Mr. E. M. Macdonald, of Pictou, N. S., opened the discussion on a motion to go into supply. The minister, he said, had been so engaged with affairs of the Empire that they had overlooked some pledges they had made to the electors before coming into office. They had not, after a year and a half, said what they proposed to do with tariff matters. The delay on the budget would be excusable if, as in some former years, the businessmen had the assurance that there would be no material changes in the tariff. The Government had promised to do something towards alleviating the increased cost of living.

Mr. Macdonald said that every day the ministers sat still on this matter it was an evidence that they were content with the stability of the tariff before they came into authority.

Mr. E. W. Nesbitt (North Oxford) said it would be of great convenience to manufacturers to know if there were to be any changes in duty on raw materials.

After this preliminary two hours' discussion the House got into committee of supply for the rest of the day.

The House passed the majority of the estimates for the finance department and adjourned at 11:30.

Mr. Borden announced that more supply would be asked for tomorrow, and Mr. G. W. Kyte (Richmond) gave notice that on the motion to go into supply he would lay before the House a matter of the appointment of Captain Landry, serving sentence for forgery, to a position in the civil service.

The fact that the Government had decided to let the "emergency" wait longer was greeted by Liberal laughter.

FRY'S Cocoa—Every Drop is Nourishment

Dr. Andrew Wilson, the eminent British authority, once said of the cocoa bean—"It is a kind of vegetable egg which contains all that is needed to build up a living body." Tea and coffee are mere infusions—but cocoa is an actual food in itself. Elderly folk should remember that. Cocoa, made the FRY way, from a selection of the world's choicest cocoa beans, is pure, extremely soluble, and of delicious aroma and flavor. Nearly two hundred years' experience and knowledge of the cocoa business stand back of FRY'S.

APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO VISIT ASSOCIATIONS AND DISCUSS THE FORMATION OF CENTRAL BODY

Agitation Which Was Started by The Advertiser Has Been Taken Up by the Trades and Labor Council—Members Favor It, and West London Progressives Send Delegates to Wait on Other Associations of the City in Reference to Appointing Representatives to Discuss the Question.

Several weeks ago The Advertiser started an agitation for a central civic association, where businessmen and ratepayers might gather to discuss municipal affairs, and to which representatives of the various progressive associations of the city might be sent to bring up questions of importance to their sections of the city.

Such an association is almost an assured fact now, and at the meeting of the West London Progressives, held Wednesday night, a committee composed of Messrs. Pococke, Churchill and Stinchcombe was appointed to wait on the other progressive associations of the city, the Trades and Labor Council and the board of trade to see if they are in favor of such a body.

Trades Council in Favor.

The question has already been discussed by the Trades and Labor Council and practically every member was in favor of it. It will be taken up at the next meeting, which is to be held Tuesday night, and the delegates from West London will urge that a committee of three be appointed to act with their committee and committees from the other associations, and to meet in the board of trade rooms at an early date.

STILL SUFFERING FROM EFFECTS OF WINDSTORM

Residents of East London and Chelsea Green Cannot Get Chimneys Repaired

East London and Chelsea Green are still beginning to recover from the effects of the gale which visited the city on Good Friday, and which destroyed so many chimneys, fences and out-buildings.

Hundreds of chimneys were blown down all over the district, and as there is a scarcity of brick in the city, and the weather has been so inclement, it has been impossible for the people to have their chimneys repaired.

This necessitated extreme care in lighting fires, and in some cases the fires could not be lit on account of danger to the house.

The chimneys in falling tore large holes in some of the roofs, and the residents have not been able to have them repaired yet.

Added to this is the fact that the people will not be able to recover any damages from any of the insurance companies for damage to their properties, and as most of the people in East London and Chelsea Green are workingmen the windstorm proved a real hardship.

Toasted Corn Flakes Company's New Building Is Near Completion

Work on the new building on Dundas street, which is to be occupied by the Toasted Corn Flakes Company is nearly completed, and the company expects to have half its staff at work in the building in about two weeks.

The company is still manufacturing in the old building on Grey street, and will continue to do so for about six weeks, but as much of the machinery as possible will be moved to the new building in that time.

No arrangements have yet been made for selling the old building, but it is said that two companies have made offers for it.

HAD TO BE PROPPED UP IN BED.

Bronchitis is an acute inflammation of the membranes lining the air tubes of the lungs, and begins with a tightness across the chest, and a difficulty of breathing accompanied by a hard dry cough which later develops into the raising of a greenish or yellowish phlegm.

On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and thereby preventing it becoming chronic and perhaps turning into some serious lung trouble.

Mrs. John Sawcett, Salisbury, N.B., writes: "A year ago I was victim of Bronchitis. I was so bad I could not lie down, and had to be propped up in bed. As the doctor failed to do me much good a friend, who came to visit me, advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The first bottle helped me so wonderfully I took five bottles in all, and was cured. I have not had an attack of it since."

ANGELICAN MISSION FOR SOUTH LONDON

One May Be Built Near Ridout Street in Vicinity of the City Limits.

IS ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

Question Has Been Discussed by Congregation of St. James' Anglican Church on Several Occasions.

South London will likely have another Anglican Church before long. It will be located in the vicinity of Ridout street, near the city limits, and will be for the accommodation of the people who live in the outlying sections of South London and in the township.

The question of building an Anglican mission in that section of the city, to be under the direction of St. James' Anglican Church, has been discussed by the congregation at several occasions, and steps will be taken shortly to make a canvass of the congregation for funds and to learn the cost of such a building.

"We have had the question under discussion for some time," said Very Rev. Dean Davis to The Advertiser, "and have decided that a mission is necessary. A large number of our parishioners reside in that section, and it is to accommodate them that we are thinking of building the mission."

Then there are a number of people who do not like attending church, and if a mission is built it will satisfy them. The question has been discussed by the congregation, and I expect that it will be taken up again in a short time."

"The Girl From Tokio."

There is considerable curiosity being aroused in theatrical circles as to the nature and mirth of "The Girl From Tokio," which is billed to appear at the Grand tomorrow evening.

The benefit of those who have not yet been enlightened it might be stated that it is a farcical comedy, with dialogue and situations which are unique and screamingly funny, with characters consisting of human and his humor absolutely clean and pure.

"The Rose Maid."

Among the innumerable features that have made it popular with the London public, "The Rose Maid," Werba & Luescher's charming opera, which comes to the Grand on Saturday, matinee and night, possesses the most up-to-date costuming of any comic opera produced in recent years.

Thousands of dollars have been expended in costumes alone, most of the gowns worn by the principals and chorus have been imported from the leading dressmaking establishments of Europe, especially from Paris.

The pennier gowns worn by the five heroines in the second part are examples of the most expensive imports, and the sum total of their cost, together with the hats that accompany them, amounted to two thousand dollars. All the uniforms worn in the great cavalry tournament were purchased abroad and are exact reproductions of the originals in the various European armies.

The "Rose Maid" played two full seasons in New York city.

May A. Bell Marks' Company.

Next week will bring to the Grand for a period of six nights, and special matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, May A. Bell Marks, supporting Marks Bros' Dramatic Company, who have endeavored to present to her patrons something new in the line of amusement.

The company will present a variety of comedies and dramas, so as to please the majority of theatregoers, as well as presenting costume plays. The plays are all given completely produced, and the mounting is of the most superb way. The costuming is given special attention, there being no expense spared in the cost of same.

Plan Entertainment.—The Centennial Male Chorus will give an entertainment of six nights, and special matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, at the Grand.

The proceeds go to the new Sunday school fund.

London, March 26.—A series of exciting scenes occurred in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The Opposition members had laid elaborate secret plans to take a snap division at 4 o'clock on the consolidated fund bill in the hope of defeating the Government by surprise. They chose the occasion because at this stage the consolidated fund bill is in its final form, and the Opposition members would not have its supporters on hand.

However, suspicion was excited on the Government benches by the Opposition members who were seen to get their men to the House. He was followed by others, despite the persistent interruptions by the Opposition. At the end of thirty minutes, the Government allowed a division to be taken and got a majority of 39.

Business Obstructed.

Exasperated by the jeers and taunts of the Ministerialists at the failure of the plot, the Opposition became noisy and determined to obstruct all business for the evening.

One Ulster Orangeman, named Moore, charged the Government with "disgraceful trickery," in fanning the Opposition plot to snatch a division. On his refusal to withdraw those

WEST LONDON ENJOYS A REAL ESTATE BOOM

Property in That Section Has Been Changing Hands Lately.

While East London and the recently annexed suburbs are enjoying a boom such as has never been experienced in London, West London is not sleeping.

Property has been changing hands in that section quite frequently lately, and with a promise of a permanent sea wall to protect the land, and a bridge to connect West and South London, values have increased wonderfully.

Several lots have been sold on Wilton avenue, and as soon as the weather permits, work on the erection of houses will be started on the lots.

Lots on the Wharfedale road, between Barnhill and Paul street, have also been sold, and houses are to be erected on them.

"West London is booming in a quiet way," said a resident. "There is not much publicity given to the many real estate changes that are made over here, but I know of at least twenty pieces of property that have changed hands in about two weeks."

Several years ago property in West London was a drug on any man's hands on account of insecurity felt by the residents, and the imminent danger from flood. Things have reached a state where there are almost certain of a breakwater, and that has caused property to advance in value.

West London is only a short distance from the city, the soil is sandy and some parts of it are a good deal higher than the centre of the city. There are a number of ideal residential streets in this section, and the property is not too dear for a workman to buy."

TO CANVASS CITY FOR FUNDS FOR NEW CHURCH

Members of King Street Presbyterian Church Will Ask For Money This Spring.

A meeting of the members of the congregation of the King Street Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday night to discuss the building of the new church at the corner of Dundas and Elizabeth streets, and the raising of funds to go on with the work.

The congregation has already promised to give $10,000 towards the new building, but as that sum will not be enough to build the church, the members of the church have decided to canvass the merchants and residents of the centre of the city will be made during April.

An effort will also be made to sell the old church property and to raise the amount of $5,000 can be collected by the canvass that the price obtained by the sale will be enough to build a fine church.

The congregation has responded nobly," said Rev. W. R. McIntosh, "and I think that we will realize enough money this spring by a canvass of the downtown district and the sale of the church and property to erect a fine building. We would like to start work on it this summer, and if we are successful we will."

Business Obstructed.

Exasperated by the jeers and taunts of the Ministerialists at the failure of the plot, the Opposition became noisy and determined to obstruct all business for the evening.

One Ulster Orangeman, named Moore, charged the Government with "disgraceful trickery," in fanning the Opposition plot to snatch a division. On his refusal to withdraw those words, he was suspended by a vote of the House. His colleagues had arranged to follow his example, but their courage failed, and they vented their rage in yelling insulting epithets at the Government. There were cries of "Marconi," "scoundrels," "hirelings" and similar expressions which they used to excite surprise or even resentment.

Would Have Won Out.

To intensify their chagrin, the Unionists learned that if they had succeeded in getting a division at 4 o'clock, they would have beaten the Government by five votes. This would not necessarily have been fatal to the cabinet, but it would have placed the ministers in a perilous position, especially in view of the shaking the Marconi affair has given them.

Replying to Major Archer Shea to-day, Prime Minister Asquith stated that Attorney-General Isaacs informed him last July of his deal in America. Marconi Company stock and also that some of these shares had been transferred to Chancellor of Exchequer Lloyd George and the Master of Elibank.

Attached No Importance.

Being asked why he did not so inform the House when Isaacs denied having an interest in any Marconi shares, Mr. Asquith declared that the transaction seemed so remote from the Marconi scandal that he attached no importance to it.

CHURCHILL TELLS OF NAVAL PROGRAM

Great Britain to Build Eighteen Fighting Craft to Ten of Germans.

TO KEEP THE SUPREMACY

Proposes That Ships From the Overseas Dominions Form a Squadron.

London, March 26.—Hon. Winston Churchill spoke in the House of Commons today of the naval estimates which were laid before the House.

At the outset he explained the causes for increase in the naval expenditure. First, he said, it was owing to decisions of policy to increase the number of ships in the fleet, and to commission in consequence of the new German navy law, and to decisions to increase the numbers, and notably the pay of the personnel. Secondly, it was due to the increase in the size and speed of armaments, equipment and cost of warships of all kinds. It was necessary to keep pace with similar vessels built all over the world. Thirdly, from the introduction and development of new services, principally of fuel, air service and wireless telegraphy. Fourthly, from the general increase in prices and wages, particularly in the cost of coal, oil, steel and all materials used in shipbuilding.

Fifthly, from arrears in shipbuilding during the last two years, arising from the failure of contractors to earn their proper installments as manifested by delays in executing current programs.

"The estimates," he said, "would have been substantially higher, but for congestion in the shipyards, arising out of the extraordinary demands of some of the great warships, and the better progress is to be made in executing programs it will be necessary for me to ask Parliament later in the year for further supplementary estimates."

Germany's Plans.

Discussing the objection that in proportion as British superiority in pre-Dreadnoughts passes away, Britain will have exchanged a general superiority of ships to one for a Dreadnought ratio of 16 to 10, Mr. Churchill said that he had taken full consideration of the obsolescence of pre-Dreadnoughts in relation to German new construction. The programs aggregated in the British navy, at a ratio of 18 to 10, but the introduction of super-Dreadnoughts must be considered. Thus in 1920 the position would be 41 British super-Dreadnoughts to Germany's 24.

He also mentioned the introduction of the Malay and Canadian ships. Even then the superiority would not cease.

Dealing with technical matters, Mr. Churchill announced that instead of building as in 1912, one battle cruiser, three battle ships, he had decided that all four ships and the Malay ship would be of the new type so that if repeated with the three Canadian battle ships there would be a homogeneous fleet of eight vessels, not equalled anywhere in the world. Mr. Churchill was convinced that the efficiency of oil fuel would be overcome.

He referred to the aviation provision, dwelling upon the excellence of the British hydro-aeroplanes and believed the time had arrived to provide the long range airships of the largest type. He proposed to enlist the services of some great manufacturing firm in the construction of rigid airships. Meanwhile he trusted there would be no silly panic. If war broke out tomorrow, he said, it would be difficult to suppose that airships could decisively influence the general course of events.

Must Be Supreme.

He announced that the admiralty had arranged to lend to the British army, guns, ammunition and trained gunners to enable them to protect commerce against armed foreign merchant steamers in time of war. He deplored the delay in sanctioning the obvious scheme, but hoped that the length of the reorganization which had been added to the strength of battle squadrons, also the reorganization of armored cruiser squadrons, and the strengthening of the Mediterranean squadron to 700 war vessels of all kinds, which Britain could mobilize tomorrow. The service and training afloat of every man would be at the very least twice as great as in any other navy in the world.

Mr. Churchill concluded by desiring that Britain could ever afford to allow another naval power to approach so nearly as to be able to restrict her political action by purely naval pressure. Such a situation would unquestionably lead to war. A small margin of safety would involve a strain upon officers and men which would be intolerable.

"It would mean," said Mr. Churchill, "that Britain, instead of being free and independent to intervene in European affairs, doing the best we can for the world, would be forced into a series of questionable entanglements and committed to action of the gravest character in fulfillment of a bargain necessitated by our naval weakness."

"There are many nations in Europe, any young people struggling to acquire or maintain independence, who would not hear with rejoicing of any reinforcement of the British fleet? Is there any man of power who during these anxious months of tension and anger, has not been thankful that the influence of Britain in the European concert is a reality and not a shadow and that she has been free and strong to work for that general peace, which is alike to all and precious most of all to us?"

Suggests Local Navies.

"I will now examine three subsidiary objections which may, with some show of plausibility, be urged from different parts of the House," continued Mr. Churchill. "First, there is the objection that colonial ships, 'Either,' it is said, 'our standard of 60 per cent, is sufficient for the time being, or it is not. If it is not, give us your proof and if we are convinced, we will increase it. If it is sufficient, then the colonial ships are redundant and from that very fact an unjustifiable extravagance.'"

"That is in my opinion a false dilemma. The people of the islands cannot expect to go on indefinitely bearing the whole burden of imperial defence. We have done and are doing our duty, more than our duty, to the power by making special arrangements, to send powerful squadrons to

"The Girl From Tokio."

There is considerable curiosity being aroused in theatrical circles as to the nature and mirth of "The Girl From Tokio," which is billed to appear at the Grand tomorrow evening.

The benefit of those who have not yet been enlightened it might be stated that it is a farcical comedy, with dialogue and situations which are unique and screamingly funny, with characters consisting of human and his humor absolutely clean and pure.

"The Rose Maid."

Among the innumerable features that have made it popular with the London public, "The Rose Maid," Werba & Luescher's charming opera, which comes to the Grand on Saturday, matinee and night, possesses the most up-to-date costuming of any comic opera produced in recent years.

Thousands of dollars have been expended in costumes alone, most of the gowns worn by the principals and chorus have been imported from the leading dressmaking establishments of Europe, especially from Paris.

The pennier gowns worn by the five heroines in the second part are examples of the most expensive imports, and the sum total of their cost, together with the hats that accompany them, amounted to two thousand dollars. All the uniforms worn in the great cavalry tournament were purchased abroad and are exact reproductions of the originals in the various European armies.

The "Rose Maid" played two full seasons in New York city.

May A. Bell Marks' Company.

Next week will bring to the Grand for a period of six nights, and special matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, May A. Bell Marks, supporting Marks Bros' Dramatic Company, who have endeavored to present to her patrons something new in the line of amusement.

The company will present a variety of comedies and dramas, so as to please the majority of theatregoers, as well as presenting costume plays. The plays are all given completely produced, and the mounting is of the most superb way. The costuming is given special attention, there being no expense spared in the cost of same.

Plan Entertainment.—The Centennial Male Chorus will give an entertainment of six nights, and special matinee on Wednesday and Saturday, at the Grand.

The proceeds go to the new Sunday school fund.

London, March 26.—A series of exciting scenes occurred in the House of Commons this afternoon.

The Opposition members had laid elaborate secret plans to take a snap division at 4 o'clock on the consolidated fund bill in the hope of defeating the Government by surprise. They chose the occasion because at this stage the consolidated fund bill is in its final form, and the Opposition members would not have its supporters on hand.

However, suspicion was excited on the Government benches by the Opposition members who were seen to get their men to the House. He was followed by others, despite the persistent interruptions by the Opposition. At the end of thirty minutes, the Government allowed a division to be taken and got a majority of 39.

Business Obstructed.

Exasperated by the jeers and taunts of the Ministerialists at the failure of the plot, the Opposition became noisy and determined to obstruct all business for the evening.

One Ulster Orangeman, named Moore, charged the Government with "disgraceful trickery," in fanning the Opposition plot to snatch a division. On his refusal to withdraw those words, he was suspended by a vote of the House. His colleagues had arranged to follow his example, but their courage failed, and they vented their rage in yelling insulting epithets at the Government. There were cries of "Marconi," "scoundrels," "hirelings" and similar expressions which they used to excite surprise or even resentment.

Would Have Won Out.

To intensify their chagrin, the Unionists learned that if they had succeeded in getting a division at 4 o'clock, they would have beaten the Government by five votes. This would not necessarily have been fatal to the cabinet, but it would have placed the ministers in a perilous position, especially in view of the shaking the Marconi affair has given them.

Replying to Major Archer Shea to-day, Prime Minister Asquith stated that Attorney-General Isaacs informed him last July of his deal in America. Marconi Company stock and also that some of these shares had been transferred to Chancellor of Exchequer Lloyd George and the Master of Elibank.

Attached No Importance.

Being asked why he did not so inform the House when Isaacs denied having an interest in any Marconi shares, Mr. Asquith declared that the transaction seemed so remote from the Marconi scandal that he attached no importance to it.

CHURCHILL TELLS OF NAVAL PROGRAM

Great Britain to Build Eighteen Fighting Craft to Ten of Germans.

TO KEEP THE SUPREMACY

Proposes That Ships From the Overseas Dominions Form a Squadron.

London, March 26.—Hon. Winston Churchill spoke in the House of Commons today of the naval estimates which were laid before the House.

At the outset he explained the causes for increase in the naval expenditure. First, he said, it was owing to decisions of policy to increase the number of ships in the fleet, and to commission in consequence of the new German navy law, and to decisions to increase the numbers, and notably the pay of the personnel. Secondly, it was due to the increase in the size and speed of armaments, equipment and cost of warships of all kinds. It was necessary to keep pace with similar vessels built all over the world. Thirdly, from the introduction and development of new services, principally of fuel, air service and wireless telegraphy. Fourthly, from the general increase in prices and wages, particularly in the cost of coal, oil, steel and all materials used in shipbuilding.

Fifthly, from arrears in shipbuilding during the last two years, arising from the failure of contractors to earn their proper installments as manifested by delays in executing current programs.

"The estimates," he said, "would have been substantially higher, but for congestion in the shipyards, arising out of the extraordinary demands of some of the great warships, and the better progress is to be made in executing programs it will be necessary for me to ask Parliament later in the year for further supplementary estimates."

Germany's Plans.

Discussing the objection that in proportion as British superiority in pre-Dreadnoughts passes away, Britain will have exchanged a general superiority of ships to one for a Dreadnought ratio of 16 to 10, Mr. Churchill said that he had taken full consideration of the obsolescence of pre-Dreadnoughts in relation to German new construction. The programs aggregated in the British navy, at a ratio of 18 to 10, but the introduction of super-Dreadnoughts must be considered. Thus in 1920 the position would be 41 British super-Dreadnoughts to Germany's 24.

He also mentioned the introduction of the Malay and Canadian ships. Even then the superiority would not cease.

Dealing with technical matters, Mr. Churchill announced that instead of building as in 1912, one battle cruiser, three battle ships, he had decided that all four ships and the Malay ship would be of the new type so that if repeated with the three Canadian battle ships there would be a homogeneous fleet of eight vessels, not equalled anywhere in the world. Mr. Churchill was convinced that the efficiency of oil fuel would be overcome.

He referred to the aviation provision, dwelling upon the excellence of the British hydro-aeroplanes and believed the time had arrived to provide the long range airships of the largest type. He proposed to enlist the services of some great manufacturing firm in the construction of rigid airships. Meanwhile he trusted there would be no silly panic. If war broke out tomorrow, he said, it would be difficult to suppose that airships could decisively influence the general course of events.

Must Be Supreme.

He announced that the admiralty had arranged to lend to the British army, guns, ammunition and trained gunners to enable them to protect commerce against armed foreign merchant steamers in time of war. He deplored the delay in sanctioning the obvious scheme, but hoped that the length of the reorganization which had been added to the strength of battle squadrons, also the reorganization of armored cruiser squadrons, and the strengthening of the Mediterranean squadron to 700 war vessels of all kinds, which Britain could mobilize tomorrow. The service and training afloat of every man would be at the very least twice as great as in any other navy in the world.

Mr. Churchill concluded by desiring that Britain could ever afford to allow another naval power to approach so nearly as to be able to restrict her political action by purely naval pressure. Such a situation would unquestionably lead to war. A small margin of safety would involve a strain upon officers and men which would be intolerable.

"It would mean," said Mr. Churchill, "that Britain, instead of being free and independent to intervene in European affairs, doing the best we can for the world, would be forced into a series of questionable entanglements and committed to action of the gravest character in fulfillment of a bargain necessitated by our naval weakness."

"There are many nations in Europe, any young people struggling to acquire or maintain independence, who would not hear with rejoicing of any reinforcement of the British fleet? Is there any man of power who during these anxious months of tension and anger, has not been thankful that the influence of Britain in the European concert is a reality and not a shadow and that she has been free and strong to work for that general peace, which is alike to all and precious most of all to us?"

Suggests Local Navies.

"I will now examine three subsidiary objections which may, with some show of plausibility, be urged from different parts of the House," continued Mr. Churchill. "First, there is the objection that colonial ships, 'Either,' it is said, 'our standard of 60 per cent, is sufficient for the time being, or it is not. If it is not, give us your proof and if we are convinced, we will increase it. If it is sufficient, then the colonial ships are redundant and from that very fact an unjustifiable extravagance.'"

"That is in my opinion a false dilemma. The people of the islands cannot expect to go on indefinitely bearing the whole burden of imperial defence. We have done and are doing our duty, more than our duty, to the power by making special arrangements, to send powerful squadrons to any part of the Empire which may be locally threatened. It is evident, however, that were the pressure indecisive and the theatre to grow continually our power to detach the local reinforcements would gradually be diminished. It behooves the overseas dominions to make exertion for their own and the common security, whether by the provision of local navies, or by what is more effectual, making additions to the imperial navy, which will preserve, restore or increase the world-wide mobility of its squadrons.

"It could not be supposed, however, that the naval development of the dominions could be restricted on account of any European standard. They, too, like us, must be absolutely free. It is for them to choose the method of their naval development. It is also for them to choose whether their naval forces shall be additional to the British standard or whether they shall be a contribution to aid the heavy burdens of the Empire. There is no dilemma here. I can answer regarding this false dilemma of Dominion ships that they are additional to the requirements of the 60 per cent. standard. They are not additional to the world-wide requirements of the British Empire."

The Overseas Fleet.

Speaking of the proposed Canadian Dreadnoughts for the imperial navy, Hon. Winston Churchill said in his naval speech in the House today:

"While they will be directly controlled by the admiralty, we propose to form them, with the Malay and New Zealand ships, into a new squadron of five ships of high uniform speed, to be called the 'Imperial Squadron.' It will be based at Gibraltar, and thence able to reach Halifax in five days, Quebec in six days, Jamaica in nine days, the South American coast in 12 days, Cape Town in 13 days, Alexandria in three days, Sydney in 28 days, New Zealand in 32 days, Hong Kong in 22 days, and Vancouver in 23 days."

"Our intention is that this squadron shall, as opportunity serves, cruise freely about the
