KING EDWARD TO HIS PEOPLE

Message of Appreciation From His Majesty on Eve of his Coronation.

The Proclamation a Personal and Spontaneous Expression of His Feelings.

London, August 7.—The following message from King Edward to his people, was made public to-night:—"To my people—On the eve of my coronation, an event, which I look upon as one of the most solemn and important of my life I am anxious to express to my people at home and in the colonies, and in India, my heartfelt appreciation of the deep sympathy they have manifested toward me during a time in my life of such imminent danger. The postponement of the coronation ceremony, owing to my illness, has caused, I fear, much inconvenience and trouble to all who intended to celebrate it. But their disappointment has been borne by them with admirable patience and temper.

"The prayers of my people for my recovery were heard, and I now offer up my deepest gratitude to Divine Providence for having preserved my life and given me strength to fulfill the important duties which devolve upon me as a sovereign of this great Empire.—(Signed) Edward R. and I." Buckingham Palace, Aug. 7.

King Edward's proclamation is a personal and spontaneous expression of His Majesty's feelings. It was conceived and written by himself in an autograph letter to the Home Secretary, C. T. Ritchie.

CUT OFF EARS

Ugly Threat by Strikers to Punish Men who Return to Work—Riotous Time.

Shenandoah, Pa., August 7.—Stoning the troops was repeated early this morning. This time the attack was not upon the camp, but upon the provost guard stationed at the Pennsylvania Railroad station, which is near one of the foreign colonies in the southern part of the town. Brigadier-General Cobin had been requested by the town authorities to send a company to that locality because of the disorders there. Company A, of the 8th Regiment, under Capt. Carver, was on duty there all night, and early this morning, the colonel of the regiment says, the company was attacked from the top of the high hill overlooking the station. A detail of men was employed near the houses from which the stones were thrown, but no one was arrested. The offenders escaped before the soldiers reached the hill-top.

The Rev. Charles Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, and ex-State President of the Young Men's Bible Society, said to-day that the young men of his congregation, which is made up principally of mine workers, have informed him that foreigners have determined to cut off an ear of every man who returns to work, so that they will forever be marked as "unfair workmen." Mr. Edwards says his young men are in a position to know, and he believes the story. The foreigners think this the easiest method of preventing attempts to break the strike.

THE LAST SLEEP

A very sudden death occurred in the city on Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Christina Granger, Lowe St., passed away into the Great Beyond.

Mrs. Granger, who was a widow, her husband having died about ten years ago, had been suffering for the past two years or more from heart disease. For a time she seemed to be getting better, but she has been worse for the past few weeks. Her condition was, however, not considered very serious by the family, to whom the death has come as a sad blow.

Wednesday evening she retired as usual, but in the morning she did not wake up. Her son Ernest went to her room about seven o'clock and saw her lying on the bed. He thought her asleep and so did not disturb her.

At noon when he came home from work she was still in bed, and, upon investigation, it was found that she was dead. It is supposed that she died during the night.

Deceased was 48 years of age and leaves a family of four children to mourn her loss. They are—Ernest and Alfred, at home; Herbert, of Assiniboia, and Mrs. C. Kauffman, of St. Catharines.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, from her late residence to the Maple Leaf Cemetery. Rev. T. T. George will conduct the services.

The lucky man is the man who sees and grasps his opportunity.

MORGAN'S OFFER

Premier Balfour's Non-Committal Reply to the Question.

London, Aug. 7.—Replying in the House of Commons to-day, to a request of Lord Charles Bessborough for assurance that no binding agreement would be concluded between the government and the shipping combination without the agreement being approved by Parliament, the Premier, A. J. Balfour, said:—"I do not think it possible to continue negotiations on this or any other subject, if the proposed terms are to be publicly discussed before the government has agreed to them. The government, however, is most anxious to take the house into its confidence at the earliest possible moment."

Mr. Balfour's reply has particular interest, as Balfour despatches to-day announce that the government accepted J. P. Morgan's offer to give the Admiralty a claim on all combine ships. As evidence of the acceptance it is stated that the Government has chartered the Corinthio, the first ship built by the combine, which has just been completed at the Hartland-Wolf shipyards.

Inquiries made by the associated press show that belief is general that Mr. Morgan's offer practically has been accepted by the government. The Balfour despatch may slightly anticipate the technicalities required to close the agreement, or may not allow for changes inserted since the offer was originally made, but there appears to be little doubt that the spirit of the scheme is acceptable to the cabinet.

J. S. Morgan & Company, when asked concerning the reported agreement adopted the same non-committal attitude as the Premier, Mr. Balfour, in the House of Commons.

RELIC HUNTERS

DENUDE TRACY

Clothing Stripped From Outlaw's Body by Mob That Surrounded Morgue.

Locks of Hair Clipped From the Dead Desperado's Head Left Him Bald.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 7.—When the sheriff with the body of Tracy drove through Davenport, hundreds of persons followed up the street and crowded about the wagon. By the time the wagon reached Stone's morgue the streets were crowded and from every corner could be heard "Three shots for Lincoln county." The town was wild. The morgue doors had to be closed and the crowd was asked to stand back. Several persons were allowed to see the body and then trouble began. Everyone wanted a relic, and in a short time nothing was left but the body.

Someone even picked up the blood-stained handkerchief which had been used by Tracy to keep from bleeding to death.

Many locks of the desperado's hair were carried away, and in some places his head had been made bald. His trousers were cut into strips and before they were divided they were cut into smaller pieces.

Many of Tracy's cartridges were divided among the members of the posse and those that could get at the buckskin bag.

PROSPEROUS PEOPLE

Pat Strong, of Tilbury, was in the city the other day, said Nelson Stringer to The Planet. He was saying that he had taken 400 bushels of timothy seed off 60 acres of land, and his sample was a good one. His land, he says, is 18 inches lower than the water in Lake St. Clair. He is outside the drainage system and has not used his pump this year.

He paid $3 per acre for his farm 12 years ago. The seed off it this year will net him $25 an acre besides getting $1 or $4.50 for the hay.

Mr. Strong owns about 200 acres of land near the lighthouse for which he paid a dollar an acre.

A man, Thibodeau, just west of the corporation, on the Cosgrave farm, got 300 bushels of wheat off six acres this season and sold it on the spot to N. H. Stevens at 75c. per bushel.

COMPETE WITH MORGAN.

London, Aug. 7.—The question of organizing an Australian-Canadian shipping combine for a service between Canada, England, Australia and South Africa to compete with the American combine, organized by J. P. Morgan, was again the subject of a prolonged conference to-day between the Australian premiers and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other Canadian Ministers. No definite conclusion, it appears, has been reached concerning the project.

HONORED TWO FIGHTING MEN

Field Marshal Roberts and Lord Kitchener Officially Welcomed at London.

Recipients of Handsome Testimonials—Both Generals Eulogized Colonial Troops.

London, Aug. 7.—There was a representative assemblage at the Guildhall last night to participate in the City of London's official welcome to Field Marshal Earl Roberts, commander-in-chief of His Majesty's forces, and General Lord Kitchener, lately commander-in-chief of the British South African forces, and the presentation of an artistically wrought golden casket to Earl Roberts, and a service of silver to General Kitchener. The plate was substituted for a casket in General Kitchener's case at his own request, and this circumstance has provided gossip with an excellent opportunity for inferring that he contemplates a speedy matrimonial alliance, an opportunity that is being fully availed of.

The Lord Mayor presented addresses to the generals on their South African achievements. Both commanders received ovations. In returning thanks for his gift, General Kitchener said that the honors conferred upon him were a just appreciation of the army in South Africa, which was an Imperial army, it having been drawn from all quarters of the globe. As a fighting machine it was hard to beat. Both generals eulogized the colonial troops for their services in the war.

The Municipal Councils of Liverpool and Aberystwith, Wales, have conferred the freedom of those places on Lord Kitchener.

SECOND TRILBY

Kubelik's Brother Says Jan is Hypnotized—Violinist Re-sented Story.

Vienna, Aug. 7.—Jan Kubelik had a first fight with his elder brother, who recently made charges that Julius Skriabin, the violinist's secretary, had played the part of Svengali, at once making and ruining him (Kubelik) as another Trilby.

Jan called his brother to account for his statements. The fight ensued. The violinist came out on top, although spectators separated them before either was badly hurt.

The story was published by Kubelik's brother in a German paper and was denied the following day over Jan's signature. The brother then published a statement that Jan was being ruined professionally and mentally by the secretary, who exercises a hypnotic influence over him.

Kubelik played in Detroit last winter, the engagement attracting wide attention in Maple City musical circles.

LAST SUMMONS

Died, at his home in Hamilton, N. D., Friday, Aug. 1st, Thomas Wesley Wright, aged 80 years and 4 months, after only three days' illness.

He moved from the 9th concession, Chatham township, 20 years ago to Hamilton, N. D. He leaves a wife and seven children,—his only surviving daughter, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, on the old home, 9th Con., Chatham township; David, of Red Deer, Alberta District; William, of Battleground, N. D.; Charles, of Milton, N. D.; Thomas, of Marvel, N. D.; James, at home, and John, of Grand Forks, N. D. He was a member of the Methodist Church for a number of years.

NO TRACE OF HIM

Capt. Edward Gattfield, of Amherstburg, Has Been Missing Ten Days.

Amherstburg, Ont., August 7.—The disappearance of Capt. Edward Gattfield, master of the steamer H. V. Ketchum while unloading at Cleveland over a week ago, has stirred up the people of this place. It is now 10 days since his disappearance and not a word has been heard which would give any clue as to his whereabouts. The missing man left his ship shortly after breakfast on the morning of July 27, intending to call at the offices of the owners of the Perry Pane building, and as far as is known this was the last seen of him.

His father, Capt. W. H. Gattfield, of the firm of Duff and Gattfield, of Amherstburg, was notified, and together with the latter's son, William Gattfield, went to Cleveland. Their search proved futile. The relatives of the missing man fear that he has probably been murdered.

The missing man was married a few months ago to Miss Boucher, a daughter of Norbert Boucher, of Grosse Ile and their home life has always been of the pleasantest.

KING INSPECTS ABBEY TO-DAY

Portion of Coronation Regalia Removed Thither—Streets Wear Gala Dress.

His Majesty Will be Crowned a few Minutes After Twelve O'clock on Saturday.

London, Aug. 7.—The Prince of Wales privately visited Westminster Abbey to-day, remaining an hour. It is understood that the King will inspect the Abbey to-morrow. Late this afternoon a portion of the coronation regalia was removed from St. James' Palace to the Abbey.

The St. James' Gazette states that the crown will be placed on the King's head at 12:05 p.m. Saturday. Queen Alexandra will be crowned at 12:15 p.m. Their Majesties will leave Westminster Abbey at 12:55, and will arrive at Buckingham Palace at 1:40.

The Times says no one who saw the King yesterday pass from the yacht to the train or alight from the train, in this city, active, smiling, and alert, or pass through the streets with a smile of honest pleasure on his face, amid people's applause, can doubt that he is able to endure the fatigue of coronation in Westminster Abbey and the attendant ceremony. The King has never looked in better health since he attained middle-age, and to those who saw him yesterday the dark days at the end of June and beginning of July seemed like an evil dream.

Yesterday when the King traversed the streets they were barren of decorations save for a few isolated remnants of those for the June celebration. To-day the same streets were covered with bunting, flags, and tall masts. They had been transformed overnight from dull gray to a mass of color. The people who had become cautious owing to the postponement in June had delayed preparations until the return of the King was actually settled, and there was no danger of another postponement. Then there was a rush to complete the decorations in time, which caused the easy-going British workmen to hustle in an unprecedented manner. To-day the entire route of the parade was thronged with the most active workmen, who were doing everything to have the decorations ready by Saturday morning. There is no doubt now that the decorations on Saturday will be fully as elaborate as those of last June.

BORE JOURNEY WELL.

An official bulletin issued to-day says: "King Edward bore the journey without the least fatigue. His Majesty had a good night, and is in excellent health. The wound practically is healed. A bulletin will be issued on Sunday next."

Sunday's bulletin will be the last, and it will be issued only with the object of placing on record how the King bore the coronation ceremony.

PLEADS GUILTY

Crown Attorney Smith's First Official case was not Fought Out.

James Thomas stole firewood from Wm. Drader's mill yard and gave Crown Attorney Herbert D. Smith an opportunity to make his initial appearance in the Chatham police court. Judge Houston called it the new Crown Attorney's christening.

This continued wet weather was the undoing of Thomas. Had it been dry his deed would never have been found out. Mr. Drader has been troubled with people stealing wood from his mill yard for some time, but as they always made their visits after dark the wood thieves were never discovered. Last, however, the ground was damp and the foreman of the mill following the wheelbarrow tracks, which showed plainly in the mud, came to the residence of the late D. R. Van Allen. The foreman would not have been moved to follow the tracks had they not led from the wood pile in the mill yard. This morning Mr. Drader swore out an information against Thomas, who lives in the VanAllen residence for the purpose of looking after it.

When arraigned, Thomas said that he had taken a few sticks across the fence. He had ordered a load of stove coals but they were wet and wouldn't burn. Last night he went over and took four bunches of stove coals from the pile.

Judge Houston remanded the prisoner till Tuesday to give him an opportunity to put in references as to his character. The judge warned the man that he didn't want him to come with representatives privately. All character references must be public.

The man pleading guilty robbed the Crown Attorney of an opportunity to work on the occasion of his first official appearance in court.

A woman hates to acquire her first gray hair almost as badly as a man dislikes to part with his last one.

Breakfast Food

What's nicer than a dish of hot Porridge especially these very cool mornings. We have a fresh supply of Swiss Food, a delicious preparation from wheat—a nice change from oatmeal. It is claimed by a great many authorities that wheat is the proper thing for man to eat as oats were never meant for human beings. If you are one of the believers in wheat, buy ours in large packages for 15c. It certainly makes a nice dish.

A fresh supply of Grape Nuts, Malta Vita Force, Malt Food and a number of other foods will be found here (always fresh).

WAS EXCITING

Storm at the Eau Caused Anxiety to Inmates of Skirving's Residence.

A very heavy storm visited Erieau last night and caused considerable excitement for some time. The waves rolled up from the lake onto the beach fifteen feet high, and during the heavy part of the storm they were beating up on the rear verandah of Osceola, Mr. Greening's cottage.

The most exciting part of the evening's proceedings, however, was going on over in the Eau.

As is generally known, Archie Skirving's cottage is situated out on a sand bar in the Eau. When the waves came rolling in the occupants of the house became somewhat frightened. Very soon the water rose above the bar between the house and the land, and matters assumed a very serious aspect for Archie. When the water rose until the house was completely surrounded matters were still more serious. The brave detective, however, is quite used to facing terrible dangers and made a manly attempt to reach the shore. He did so and procured Tillson's row-boat, and, assisted by Manager "Jim" of Fellows' boat house, rowed to the house, rescued the inmates, and succeeded in again reaching the shore. The voyage was a most perilous one, as a very high sea was rolling at the time.

The Board of Water Commissioners met last evening with chairman Dr. J. L. Bray, commissioner W. D. Sheldon, secretary J. C. Weir and Supt. E. B. Jones present.

A petition asking for an extension on Forest street was granted. James Brackin and Angus Glassford were the signers of the petition.

As S. Austin & Co. were thinking of buying the Northway elevator, Supt. Jones handed in a cost of an extension for it. The commissioners thought the cost not out of reason and they would likely do it for them.

The lowering of the main in the river was reported completed at a total cost of $426.61, of which Blonde Lumber & Mfg. Co. pay $125, the waterworks $50, and the city the balance, $251.61. The report was received and the secretary was instructed to send out the accounts at once for collection.

The superintendent submitted the cost for the connections for the new C. P. R. cattle yards as $125.08, which was laid over.

A GIRL OF THE PEOPLE

By Mrs. C. N. Williamson

She quivered, and stared at me stone-wise, her eyes flashing.

"How dare you say I love him?" "You have dared to say things to me such as no one else on earth would have uttered. Why should I not dare? And I say it—though it is nothing to me."

For a moment she looked at me in silence, her bosom rising and falling under its soft summer laces and the bunch of purple orchids pinned in her dress.

"Well," she spoke at last, more softly, "you are right. I confess it. For it may prove the touch of nature that will make us two kin for this one hour."

I pleaded to you—I don't command. Save him—as I would save him, were I in your place—no matter how costly the sacrifice. You tell me I do you an injustice. Suppose I do. Yet would men of the world believe it—the men he has to deal with? Why, I came here in fear and trembling, praying I might do something. But I should have feared far more—always for John Bourke's future—if I'd dreamt that the girl I had heard of in this house was Sheila Cope.

"Again I don't understand," I said, miserably, my heart so cold that it seemed to freeze all flexibility from my voice. It sounded in my own ears like that of a very, very old woman.

"Now that you are quieter and gentler, I'll explain. Only, this time, you must promise to hear me through to the end without interruption. Will you do that?"

I nodded—for it was hard to speak.

CHAPTER XVI

A Letter on the Typewriter.

"Everybody has been talking about Sheila Cope and her affairs," Lady Feo went on, carefully, as if she were piling up her indictment, word by word, choosing each as a builder might choose a stone. "You have made conversation at teas and dinners, and doubtless in club rooms; you have made paragraphs for papers; and by being a popular debutante; you became a mystery; it remains to be seen how you will end. But don't speak yet."

"It was known that, by Lady Cope's failure to make a will, or something of that sort—such stories are always vague—you were no longer an heiress. Roger Cope came into everything. He was in love with you, of course. We all thought that, those who knew him and those who didn't; and he did not make the trouble to contradict it. He, or someone—it doesn't signify—gave out that you had gone to France to live with relations. But you disappeared such a short time ago that people haven't yet lost interest. They are on the qui vive to hear the next development. What will be said of John Bourke when it comes out that instead of being in France you are in his house, calling yourself Miss Harland, and wearing lovely white satin tea-gowns?"

"I shall cause the truth to be said," I pleaded rather than protested. "I would rather die than harm should come to him through my fault, after all his goodness to me. I was penniless and almost starving. Lady Feo—so despondent that I was going to throw myself into the river, when he found me and brought me here, because I had nowhere else to go."

"All the worse for him, when the story is known. He will be called a scoundrel for taking advantage of your youth and helplessness."

"For giving me work—for leaving his house that it might be a refuge for me when I was too ill to be moved?"

"That won't be what his enemies will say."

"But if I tell all—myself?"

"Nobody would believe you. Naturally a girl, caught in such a web, would make things look as well for herself as she could. It wouldn't help him—or you. Believe me, for I know the world."

"What would you have me do?" I demanded, brokenly.

"I have told you. Go away."

"And I have said 'I am going.'"

"To rooms of his taking. Oh, Sheila, I beg of you, for his sake, go far away from him, and leave no trace."

Now, indeed, I could control my tears no longer. They fell from my eyes like rain, and sobbed choked my voice.

"Oh, I can't—I can't do that!" I cried. "Go without letting him know why or where? He would believe me ungrateful—he would believe horrible things that are not true."

"If he did, you should be unselfish enough to be glad. For it would spare him pain. And it would keep him from searching for you, which he might do otherwise, out of a conviction that it was his duty to see that you were safe."

"Perhaps you are lying to me!" I stung at her. "Perhaps you only want to get me out of the way."

Lady Feo Ringwood smiled. "You don't really think that. I am not afraid of you with John Bourke, my poor child."

I looked at her, and as my pain and jealousy accentuated her beauty, I told myself bitterly that she had no need to be afraid. She was like a young queen, in her exquisite dress and the black picture hat that contrasted with her auburn hair; daughter of the gods, divinely tall, and most divinely fair."

I was a little insignificant, my poor claims to prettiness palling beside her classic perfection.

"I saw," she continued, "from that old woman's reluctance to let me into the study that the Secret was there, and so I was determined to enter, for I had come to the house with a purpose. I expected to see some ordinary girl of no importance. I found you. I said to myself: 'Sir Roger Cope will kill John Bourke for this, or John will kill him!'"

"Roger Cope!" I ejaculated. "Always Roger Cope!"

"Yes, Roger Cope. But if he were the only one with whom Mr. Bourke will have to reckon it would not be so bad. I am so far from having fled to you that certain political opponents, who would give ten years of their lives to have him under their feet, have arranged to set spies upon him. Anyone who rings at the door-bell may be a spy. Or the servants will be questioned. Proof is what they want. It is easy to get. Unless you go and hide yourself before it has been actually got. Are you brave enough? Do you love him enough for this?"

"I am grateful enough," I answered, haughtily.

"Then do it—quickly, before you change your mind and weaken; quickly, before it is too late. If you do this I shall believe in you and speak well of you always. Some day Jack himself shall know."

I shrank away from the gloved hand she laid on mine and shivered. I guessed the meaning cloaked by her words. She wished me to understand that some time in the future, when she was John Bourke's wife, and he was safe from all harm which I could do him, he should hear the truth about my going.

Till then I must content myself to remain under a cloud—a cloud blacker and colder to my soul than the river from which I had been saved by him. And she called him "Jack."

"I will tell Mrs. Jennett that you have brought me news which makes it necessary for me to go away," I said, as firmly as I could. "And—I will leave no message for—Mr. Bourke."

"Ah, but that would be to defeat the end you seek to gain," Lady Feo assured me, hastily. "Mr. Bourke must not know that I have had anything to do with your going—for his own sake he must not. If he took the idea into his head that you had been coerced in any way, he would certainly not stop to think of his own advantage, but would move heaven and earth till he had found you again, giving you back your position as his secretary—which perhaps you can ill afford to lose."

"I shall contrive to get on without it," I replied.

"You will let me help you, of course! It would be only fair, since by my advice you are giving up—your situation."

"I shall not need your help, thank you," I said. "For I would not have taken anything from her to save myself from starving."

"I didn't mean you to go away without leaving word for Mr. Bourke," she went on, catching up the dropped thread with animation; for her offer of assistance had been but partly to satisfy his mind that you had gone because it was your own wish, because you thought that you could better yourself. Then, you see, his consideration would be at rest; he would be contented to let you alone; and the flame of scandal would presently die, let us hope, for lack of fuel."

"Very well, I dare say you are right," I rejoined, hopelessly. "I will write such a letter."

Lady Feo's hand rose nervously to her breast, toying with the orchid pinned among her laces. "Sheila," she said, betraying slight confusion, "would you—would not, I suppose, let me see the letter when it is written, and advise you about it?"

"I am sure that she meant to persist if I refused."

showed signs of hesitating her request, and I did not care to hold out against the suggestion. Since I was an obstacle in John Bourke's path up the hill of fame, I wished to remove myself in the way that would be best for him. I was ready to believe that Lady Feo Ringwood knew what the best way was, not to much because I considered her a wise and calculating adviser, as because her revelations had forced me to certain deductions of my own.

John Bourke's words, which had made me so happy and hopeful only an hour or two ago, came back to me now, lurid in the light of a new meaning.

I sat down at the table from which I had risen at the sound of Lady Feo's voice in the passage and deliberately placed a fresh sheet of paper in the typewriting machine. Then I began to tap out, letter by letter, my farewell to the man I loved.

"Dear Mr. Bourke," I wrote. "It is easier to write some things than to speak them. After all, I don't think that the life of a typewriter would suit me. I have grown restless and want a change." (How my heart smote me as my fingers told the falsehood!) "Perhaps I was foolish to choose poverty when I might have had all I could possibly wish for. So now I have changed my mind. You should not not approve, and I should be forced to argue my point (I'm not good at argument). I will not wait to hear what you think of this step I am taking, but will say farewell now. Thank you again for all your kindness, which I shall never cease to appreciate. But I shall be happier in a life more like that to which I am about to go. In that life we may not meet again; and so this is good-bye."

Lady Feo's eyes followed each line as I typed it. "Well!" I said at last, when I took the paper from the machine to sign.

"It is very well indeed," she pronounced. "You have given exactly the impression that it is best to convey. You couldn't do better."

"I am glad you are satisfied," I said, in a stifled voice. I dipped a pen in an ink-pot standing near, then paused with it suspended. I had never signed the name which was really mine, "Jenny Harland," and to do so was repulsive. "I will not be Jenny," I said to myself; "not to him at least. In this one thing I will indulge my own wish. I shall sign myself 'Sheila.'"

I wrote the name hurriedly beneath the few typed paragraphs, folded the letter, and put it into an envelope, which I addressed to "John Bourke, Esq." I felt as if I had signed my own death warrant; but I wept no longer. A stony calmness had come to help me through the rest of this scene with Lady Feo Ringwood.

"When will he be here again?" she asked.

"Not till to-morrow," I informed her.

"You are as sure as I can be of anything."

"That's good. I will go now, for, as I said, I must not be associated with this plan of yours. Presently, I suppose, you can make some excuse to that old woman—Mrs. Jennett, isn't it? You won't tell her that you are leaving for good?"

"No—no," I said, slowly. "Perhaps it would be better not. She has been very kind to me, and it is hateful to leave her so. But one hateful thing more or less doesn't matter much now."

"You are a brave girl, Sheila Cope," exclaimed Lady Feo. "It sounds conventional to say that Heaven will reward your unselfishness, but, really, I believe it will."

"We won't talk about it, if you please," I said, my lips very stiff as I formed the words.

"At all events you must come to me afterwards. Not to my house, perhaps, for that might lead to awkwardness—one never can tell. Things happen so queerly. But we must make an appointment. This is a great responsibility I've undertaken, and I feel—"

"Don't feel," I cut her short, abruptly. "I shall be all right."

"Have you—do forgive me—but have you money?"

Her hand fluttered towards a dainty, gold-netted purse that she had laid with a lace film of handkerchief on Mr. Bourke's desk.

I stopped her with a gesture. "I know where to get money, thank you."

"Oh, very well. Of course you know your own affairs best. What else is there?"

TROOPS STONED

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 7. — The throwing of stones at the troops was repeated early this morning. The attack was made against the provost guards, stationed at the Pennsylvania railroad station, near one of the foreign colonies in the southern part of town.

Company A, of the English regiment, under Capt. Garver, was on duty there all night, in response to a request from the town authorities, and early this morning the colonel of the regiment said the company was greeted by a shower of stones from the top of the hill overlooking the railroad station.

The captain immediately placed a detail of men in the vicinity of the houses from which the stones were thrown, as the offenders had escaped before the soldiers reach the top of the hill.

GHASTLY CONFESSION

Cincinnati, August 7. — An Enquirer special from Chicago says:—Mrs. Neil Campbell exhorted the dark secrets that she buried in her heart with the children she has laid in their grave and made a confession to the police yesterday. Trapped in a network of falsehood, she finally admitted the name of the eight infants she had buried during the past few years was her own. She confessed that she procured all of them from midwives, and gave the police the names of the women, some of whom have already admitted the truth of Mrs. Campbell's confession.

Some of the bodies show beyond doubt that the children met violent deaths. Others are believed to have been poisoned with opium.

WONDER OF URANIUM.

Its Invisible Radiance, Discovered by Becquerel, Made Use of in Recent Extended Photographic Experiments.

Prof. George F. Parker, of the University of Pennsylvania, has been experimenting with uranium, whose invisible radiance was discovered by Becquerel and with the new radioactive metals polonium and radium, found in pitch-blende by Madame Currie.

He recently exhibited a series of photographic plates on which impressions had been produced by these substances. His procedure has been as follows, says Scientific American: A photographic plate was enclosed in black paper and then covered with yellow paper. After one whole day's exposure to the sunlight no effect was produced. This precaution proved the thoroughness of the protection. Then the various metals and salts were placed outside the covering of the plate and they produced dark stains.

In order to take photographs of objects such as a hand or foot these objects would be placed between the metal and the plate and the result would be similar to those obtained by the "x" rays. Such substances as bone show clearly through the flesh and surrounding tissue. A photograph can be taken by means of radium in half a minute.

The property of a new metal is apparently of great practical value. The results of the "x" rays, now so useful in surgical diagnosis, can be duplicated by a method much cheaper. Radium seems to suffer no diminution of energy or loss of weight during the process. In addition to producing an impression on the photographic plate, radium produces phosphorescence and discharges electrified bodies. Thus it will be seen that it possesses all the qualities of the Roentgen rays.

Radium apparently violates one of the fundamental laws of physics, namely, that of the conservation of energy. It does not appear to derive its photographic power from the sunlight nor lose it by expenditure.

Danger in Celluloid.

In 1898 The Lancet, of London, appointed a commission to investigate the subject of the accidental catching fire of celluloid ornaments, which showed, by placing a celluloid comb in a wig at various distances from a glowing fire, the probability of accidents to wearers of such an article. It was further found that a curling iron heated to the temperature necessary for curling readily started the evolution of dense and highly-inflammable fumes. The danger of exposing celluloid toys in shop windows near electric lamps was shown. The following illustrate the accidents from celluloid: A man while smoking a cigar was playing an American organ with celluloid keys. Some red-hot ash dropped on the keys, and they burst into flames, which were extinguished with difficulty. A boy was wearing a celluloid collar tied with a string. To move the collar he burned the string. The collar ignited and lighted drops of the composition fell on his clothing. His throat and face were badly burned. A woman seated before a fire which was not unusually strong found her hair enveloped in smoke and flames from ignition of her comb. Before the flames could be extinguished an area of scalp 4 x 1 1/2 inches was destroyed. The burn was to the skull and the hair of the injured area was permanently destroyed. It is urged that the Government should interfere and compel the manufacturers of celluloid to render it less inflammable.

The Color Cure.

The part played by color in the treatment of disease, is just now attracting fresh attention. The success of the Italian doctors in their employment of red in the sick room has set some people talking about this subject, though it is quite modern discovery. In fact, the discovery that color affected the nerves, and through the nerves the general health of the body was made many years ago, we know that Edward II., for instance, when he was Prince Edward, was cured of smallpox—if we are to believe the court physician—solely by the brilliant scarlet employed in the decoration of his bed and the room in which the bed stood. But to say that color, per se, can cure a person of smallpox, or any other malady, is to state what science must absolutely deny. Nevertheless, it cannot be too widely known that success in sick nursing may depend in a greater or less degree on the scheme of coloring that obtains in the patient's room. Whether scarlet or the other various shades of red is the universal panacea we know not, but it is quite safe to say that anything in the shade of mournful and dyspeptic yellows and greens should not be utilized in ministering to a mind diseased. Color, in this sense, after all, is only another word for environment, and it is quite certain that brightness and cheerfulness, whatever their tints, are useful factors in the treatment of sickness. — London Globe.

Presence of Mind.

Some years ago a battery of British artillery was at big gun practice at Bermuda. One of the guns was found to have a serious flaw. The officer in charge, not caring to risk half a dozen valuable lives, inquired:

"Sergeant, have we any unexpired men here?"

"Yes, sir," answered the sergeant, "Paddy Jackson has just completed his time."

"Well, then," replied the thoughtful officer, "Paddy Jackson will fire the first gun."

The Duke of Wellington once met, by accident, an officer in a state of inebriety.

"Look here, sir," said the Iron Duke, "what would you do if you met one of your men in the condition in which I find you?"

The officer drew himself up, gave the military salute, and replied, with great gravity, "I would not condescend to speak to the brute." His wit saved him his commission.

Slowly Dying From Catarrh.

Thousands are in this terrible condition but don't realize their danger. If you have the slightest taint of Catarrh, would it not be wise to commence Catarrhose treatment now and be perfectly cured in a short time? This pleasant remedy cures without the use of drugs, atomizers or snuffs.

You inhale the medicated vapor which spreads to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the germs and heals the inflamed surfaces. Catarrhose cures catarrhal, lung and throat troubles. A trial will demonstrate the value of Catarrhose, which sells for $1.00, small size 25c, at Drugists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Who Sails Boats in Boston?

Who sails boats around Boston? Why, every one, says W. J. Henderson in the Atlantic. From the "Adams boys," the swiftest yacht racers of the east, down to the Marblehead street boy, every one takes pride in his skill in getting the best work out of some sort of a sailing boat. Those who do not sail talk about it, and on a summer day in the drowsy atmosphere of a Boston club or in the shadow of some tall pile in Washington street you shall hear more racing schemes than anywhere else in this country, except on the cruising ground of the rocking chair fleet at the Larchmont Yacht club. Boston's claim to be the hub of the universe may be disputed perhaps when you consider the steel industry or the unimportant matter of freight tonnage, but when you come to talk about sailing you must admit that Boston is the greatest yachting port in this country. Even the little children there know the history of the America's cup, and the public school boy can sail a dory with a leg of mutton sail for driving power and an oar for steering gear.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

How it shakes one up, invades sleep, destroys strength, adds a real misery to life. Not the stomach but the nerves are affected. Starved nerves make the whole trouble. You need Ferrozone because it is a nerve food. It supplies the elements that are needed to make rich red blood. This is the savings bank of health. The richer the blood in red cells, the richer you are sure to be in health. Ferrozone quickly makes blood, strengthens the nervous system, strengthens the digestive organs and, presto! the nervous disturbance disappears. Sold by McCall & Co.

Reporter—The woman you sent me to see couldn't talk.
Editor—Great heavens! Was she deaf?

A hearty appetite does not always indicate a healthy condition. It is not the quantity of food which is eaten but the quantity which is assimilated, which determines the actual value of the food consumed. If the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition cannot convert the food into nourishment, and into blood, then the food is an injury instead of a benefit. For all disorders of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition, there is a certain remedy in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It removes clogging obstructions. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, enriches the blood and builds up the body. It is a flesh-forming, muscle-making preparation, making firm flesh instead of flabby fat. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or intoxicant of any kind, and is equally free from opium, cocaine and all narcotics.

CATCH PHRASES.

Their Utility in Advancing the Interests of Business Men.

There are many instances of where a suitable catch line well drilled into people has been of great value in building business. The best catch line is one that fits your business best, and the discoverer of such a line is apt to be due more to inspiration than to effort. Pick the distinctive feature of your stock or business methods and endeavor to express it in a breath.

If you can find a phrase that expresses your central business idea or emphasizes some feature that marks your store alone, you can make good use of it. It puts into condensed form an idea that will get hold of people and influence them if persistently presented to them. One fact about your business well lodged in the heads of people is as good as a score that do not penetrate.

You can make people believe about what you like if you go about it properly. If a man comes to you today and tells you there will be a panic inside of six months, you will pay no attention to him. If another comes tomorrow with the same story, he will get no attention, but you will wonder what is getting into folks. The third man you will argue the matter with. The fourth will get more of a hearing, and you will begin to see signs of disaster yourself. By the time the tenth man has made the statement you will be ready to tell folks the same story yourself.

Probably you yourself could not be influenced in such a manner, but the common run of people are built that way and will believe what they are told often enough. That is why an expressive catch phrase does good. It comes to stand for you and your methods and of necessity is remembered when goods in your line are wanted.

As ordinarily used such a phrase is of little value, because it is not properly hammered into people. Such a line should go on letter heads, billheads, stationery, envelopes, should go into every ad or circular, should be seen about the store and should appear on labels. Put it on a sticker to attach to goods and packages. Let people see it everywhere. If it means what it says, people are going to respond to it.

An Optimistic Cripple.

A one legged newsboy had been hopped about on his crutch selling afternoon "extras," and when there was a lull in the business, owing to a falling off in the crowds, he sat down for a brief rest.

"How did you lose your leg?" I asked.

"Cable car," he said, with the street urchin's characteristic economy of words.

"Too bad!" I remarked.

"Oh, but it might 'a' been worse, sir," the boy replied. "The company paid the doctor and gave me $300. That paid all our debts and left us $500 in bank, and it's all there 'cept $40 we had to take out when mother was sick, and I sell more papers than most of the boys, just 'cause I've a crutch. There's one of my customers now."

Her One Success.

In the civil war time a western woman who had lost her husband in the field and who hoped to win a livelihood for herself and her little ones by writing sent to Harper's Magazine a story which had no special distinction and was returned. In the desperate mood that followed this rejection she sat down with pen and ink and wrote "why I wrote it," and her story under that title was accepted and published, winning a sympathetic response from all its readers. But this production, the echo of a vital moment, was her one story in the magazine. Oliver Wendell Holmes said that anybody could write one interesting novel if he could truly tell the story of his own life.

Obedient Orders.

"What was the cause of that awful racket and disturbance in your office just before you came?" asked one of the tenants on the third floor.

"You know that young cowboy that came yesterday to begin the study of law with me?" said the other.

"Yes."

"Well, I thought he might as well begin at the bottom, and I told him that when he came down this morning the first thing for him to do would be to clean out the office. He found half a dozen fellows there waiting for me, but he did it all right."

A Clear Cut Warning.

"Young ladies," said an absentminded teacher of Latin to his class in Virgil, "I understand that you count upon my calling on you in alphabetical order and prepare your lessons accordingly. I am surprised and disappointed at such conduct. Hereafter I warn you I shall begin at the other end of the alphabet!"

Tests of Friendship.
When a woman gives notice that she has moved to the top floor and there is no elevator, she begins to find who her true friends are, and when she makes it known that she is boarding out and has no meals served at home she gets still nearer the root of the matter.

The foot of a horse is one of the most ingenious and unexampled pieces of mechanism in the whole range of animal structure.

The Cause of Nervous Headache.

This most distressing and common malady doubtless has its origin in some unbalanced condition of the nervous system. Probably the simplest, safest and most efficient remedy is Polson's Nervine. Twenty drops in sweetened water gives immediate relief, and this treatment should be supplemented by bathing the region of pain with Nervine. To say it acts quickly fails to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

Trial by Jury.

Freddie—If, after all that has been said, I should tell you that I did not love you as much as I love someone else, and that I could not marry you, would it be a great trial for you, dear?

Mabel—Yes, Freddie, dear. It would be a breach of promise trial. —Pick-me-up.

Realistic.

"My wife has the queerest ideas now and then."

"What is it she's been doing now?"

"I bought an automobile coat for her, and she's ruined it sprinkling gasoline on it to make it smell realistic!"

DO NOT BE DECEIVED BY BULKY PACKAGES

It is Quality not Quantity that Gives Health Results

Malt Breakfast Food is a concentrated cereal food containing elements that give direct health results. One package contains as much solid body and brain nutriment as two packages of any other make of food. Malt Breakfast Food proves to be the most economical of all cereals; one package makes a meal for six people. Do not be deceived by bulky packages of foods that have no good points to recommend them. ## DIMINISHED VITALITY.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

ROYAL MUSKOKA NOW OPEN

Guests Are Arriving Daily at the New Summer Resort.

The opening of the new Royal Muskoka Hotel on Lake Rosseau, Muskoka Lakes district, for the season of 1922, has been a source of satisfaction to the proprietors, and the reservations that have been made up to the present for accommodation at this resort assure the success of the venture.

Guests are arriving daily, and by next week, hundreds of people will be enjoying the beauties of Muskoka with the advantage of sojourning in one of the best summer hotels in America.

Among the guests at the hotel now are prominent people from Buffalo, Chicago, New York, and other American cities, as well as many Canadians. The Ontario Government, in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Railway system, is continuing the policy inaugurated last year of restocking the Muskoka lakes with parent bass. The first carload was deposited in lake Rosseau, June 20, and a finer lot of bass have seldom been seen. Last year 10,000 fish were transplanted into the Northern Lakes with much success. The fishing this year in the Muskoka Lakes is good, some excellent catches having been made, the bass weighing from two to four pounds, and pickerel from two to eight pounds.

The Wallaceburg Baseball Club will visit Chatham on Monday to play the Aberdeens, Austin manager, at two o'clock in the afternoon. Josh Robert or Rube McGarrick will do the twirling for the local nine.

AWFUL ROAST.
An alleged aggregation of Chatham baseballists, supposed to be the Grays, appeared here on Friday, with red uniforms and still redder hats, but they didn't know the first thing about the game and whoever was responsible for bringing out such a gang, we hope he will not do so again. —Tilbury Times.

WOMAN MAKES CONFESSION.

Cincinnati, August 7. — Mrs. Neil Campbell exhorted the dark secrets that she buried in her heart with the children she has laid in their grave, and made a confession to the police yesterday. Trapped in a network of falsehoods, she finally admitted that none of the eight infants she has buried during the past few years was her own. She confessed that she procured all of them from midwives and gave the police the names of the women, some of whom had already admitted the truth of Mrs. Campbell's confession. Some of the bodies show beyond doubt that the children met violent deaths. Others are believed to have been poisoned with opium.

Children Cry for CASTORIA Township Councils

CHATHAM TOWNSHIP.

The regular monthly meeting of the Township of Chatham Council was held at the Township Hall on Monday the 4th day of August, 1902.

The members were all present, and the minutes of the last meeting were read and signed.

A communication was read from Wilson, Pike and Gundy, solicitors, etc., in reference to the commissioner of the Best drain, extending the said drain further than was contemplated by the engineer in his report for the construction thereof.

A letter was read from Strathroy solicitors, for James Haggerty, owner of the s.h.f. of lot 5, Con. 13, regarding arrears of taxes against said land.

Richard Wood presented a written notice to have the Bear drain repaired and improved.

A petition was received and read from C. R. Atkinson, requesting the consent of the Council in reference to the width of Cross streets in a survey into sub-lots of part of lot 13 in the 1st Con. North Gore; also a by-law be passed confirming the same.

A written notice was presented by John Richardson and George Carter, stating that there is no sufficient outlet for the water that flows on their land—lot 8 in Con. 12— from higher lands, and if there are no steps taken in the matter complained of within 30 days, they will institute legal proceedings; also from John Vincent and James Travis, owners of plot 8, Con. 11, to the same effect.

A notice was received and read from Thomas Jones to have the Little Bear Creek drain enlarged.

The clerk certified that the total number of votes polled on Aug. 1st in favor of the by-law to borrow $8,500 to erect a steel bridge across the river Sydenham, at Tupperville, was 126; total votes against the by-law 22.

The same submitted a provisional by-law of the township of Dover to provide for the repair of the bridge over Little Bear Creek in the Township of Dover, which was served on him, the township of Chatham's assessment for the work being $639.41.

Councillor Tompkins reported that he examined the Heady drain, which he found in a bad condition, and recommended that the drain be repaired and improved.—Report adopted.

Mr. Shep Somers and Myles McCarron addressed the council, asking for a grant to help run a ferry across the river opposite the best sugar factory.

Everything for Summer Wear

From crown to toe—everything a civilized man wears is here except shoes.

Most garments sold in the store are made in our own factory. Well made they must be, or the factory would not have grown so steadily from a small beginning—not have grown so steadily from a small beginning—would not be able to pay the best wages, and provide spacious, airy workrooms for its employees—but these things go with good work as naturally as growth goes with sunshine.

Other lines of garments and furnishings we buy, but our own ideas—and yours—are often worked into them. When you think of it, it takes about as much technical knowledge to buy right as to make the article yourself.

Between making and buying this store has gathered for you the finest all-round collection of summer wear that Chatham men have ever been invited to choose from. If a thing is seasonable, sensible and stylish we're showing it. Test us.

Thornton & Douglas Liquidation

Wm. Holmes and James Harper solicited some assistance for the Chatham, Dover and Wallaceburg fall fair.

Fenley Reid complained that there is a large amount of water flowing from the township of Camden, causing drains to overflow and flood Chatham lands in time of high water.

E. W. Stover, one of the thistle and noxious weeds inspectors presented an account and statutory declaration in connection therewith for cutting weeds and thistles on unoccupied lands.

Moved by George and Tompkins that as notice has been given to this council that the Bear drain is out of repair and not large enough to take care of the water that flows into it, that W. G. McGeorge, C. E., be requested and instructed to make a survey and examination of the said drain and to report thereon.

Moved by Tompkins and Templeton, that the petition of Mr. R. A. Atkinson asking for an old survey called the Marsh plan in part of lot 13, concession 1, north gore, and relaying the said land into village and park lots, and that the allowance for cross streets or alleys be from 40 to 50 feet wide, and the streets running north and south to be the statutory width, be entertained and that the by-law carrying the same into effect be finally passed, signed and sealed.—Carried.

Moved by Templeton and Tompkins, that the clerk notify W. G. McGeorge to make an examination and survey to alter an old survey called the Marsh plan in part of lot 13, concession 1, north gore, and relaying the said land into village and park lots, and that the allowance for cross streets or alleys be from 40 to 50 feet wide, and the streets running north and south to be the statutory width, be entertained and that the by-law carrying the same into effect be finally passed, signed and sealed.—Carried.

Moved by Wickens and Tompkins, that the sum of $40 is hereby granted to assist in running the ferry across the river at the sugar beet factory, Wallaceburg.—Carried.

Moved by Wickens and Templeton, that a grant of $60 be given the Chatham, Dover and Wallaceburg Agricultural Society, the said money to be expended in premiums to Township of Chatham ratepayers.—Carried.

Moved by Wickens and Tompkins, that the account of Messrs. Fraser and Bell be referred to Councillor Templeton and the clerk to investigate and with power to settle.—Carried.

Moved by Templeton and Tompkins, that as notice has been received from J. M. Langstaff of the dangerous condition of that part of the Fraser road north of the 14th and 15th concession, in the winter time, that Councillor George interview John Watson with the view of widening said road in line with church shed and the erecting of a wire fence thereon.—Carried.

General school, 1 1/4 mills.
