ECLIPSES for the Year 1800

THERE will be Four Eclipses this year, two of the Sun, and two of the Moon as follows, viz.

The first will be of the Moon, April 9, at 6h. 10m. afternoon, invisible.

The second will be of the Sun, April 23, 8h. 16m. afternoon invisible to us; but the Sun will be centrally eclipsed on the meridian, at 8h. 46m. in long.  $165^{\circ}$  E. from London, and lat.  $35\frac{1}{2}^{\circ}$  N. Moon's lat.  $33\frac{1}{2}$  m. North.

The Third will be of the Moon, Octo. 2, 5h. 44m. afternoon, a small eclipse, and scarcely visible. Digits eclipsed  $2^{\circ} 43'$  on the Moon's North Limb.

The Fourth, and last will be of the Sun, Octo. 18, at 5h. om. morning, invisible to all north of the Equator.

The Sun will be centrally eclipsed on the Meridian, 5h. 25m. in long  $35^{\circ} 45'$  east of London, and lat.  $50^{\circ}$  S. Moon's lat  $34' 45''$  South.

DIRECTIONS to FARMERS and GARDENERS.

AS some springs are much earlier than others, the following directions ought not to be too literally adhered to in point of time; but may rather serve to point out the order in which things may succeed each other; but as to the precise time of beginning the judgment of the planter must be in some measure regulated by the appearance of the spring.

The last week in April, sow early pease, cabbage, parsnips, radish, onions, turnips, radishes, lettuce and mustard.

However, those mentioned for the last week in April, may be put in whenever the snow is gone, the frost out of the ground, and the earth so dry as not to be muddy, and the others succeed in their order.

The first week in May, sow oats, wheat and rye; also some early English beans (and the main crop by the 10th or 12th) spinage and orrize; and by the 20th of May a few hills of cucumbers, and a few early bush beans.

The middle of May, sow hemp and flax; and any time between this and the 10th of June, will do for potatoes; such as are planted about the first of June, are frequently the largest, but the earliest planted are commonly the best to eat, being earlier in consequence of their being more thoroughly ripe.

The first week in June, plant all sorts of kidney beans; also cucumbers, squashes and pumpkins.

The first week in July sow field turnips—the early Dutch may be sown as late as the 25th—The 20th is a good time to sow turnip radish, and for a late crop, some salmon, ditto, as late as August 10th. About the middle of August is the best time to sow winter wheat and rye, as by being sowed early it will be better able to stand the severity of the winter and be more likely to escape a blast by coming in earlier next summer. In the fore part of September, corn salad, which may be cut any time in the winter or spring when the snow is off.

SONNET
SNOW BY MOON LIGHT.

ENCHAIN'D by frost all desolite and drear,
Still Nature shines in dazzling robe array'd;
The Moon's bright beams these dismal prospects cheer,
Gleam o'er the heath, and glitter in the glade;
Long lines of silver radiance mark the vale,
Mantling yon cor, whose roofs low rafted shake;
Beneath th'ir fleecy load; or, o'er the dale,
Lends a new glow to the spangled brake.

WRITTEN AT AN INN.

WHEN early the sun sinks in winter to bed,
 And the western horizon gleams faintly with red,
 When the mists of the Ev'ning rise thick from the vales,
 As darkness creeps on, and hush'd silence prevails,
 At th' approach of Night's gloom, o'er the rest of his course
 The Traveller mourns for himself and his horse;
 And bewails his hard fate, for he's alone thus and weary,
 His way to pursue through roads dirty and dreary.

But when safe at his Inn, and his horse at the manger,
 How snug he reflects on pain da knefs and danger !
 His fire now so warm is, his steak so well dress'd !
 His wine (gin and fl. juice) so truly the best !
 The arm chair so easy, the bed room so near,
 The warming pan ready, and molly so sweet !
 So gratefully slumber incircles his brow !
 No hero so blest as our Traveller now !

Can an Inn, then, such comfort impart, amidst the squall,
 Of Waiter! Boots! Chambermaid! Or! and all?
 Far from home, far from spouse, far from children and friend
 Canst Traveller find by all care at an end?
 The reason my muse in few words shall explain:—
 To contrast we owe all our pleasure and pain:
 For Cause and Effect are confounded in this,
 That Bliss leads to Woe, and then—Woe leads to bliss.

THE Evening shines in May's luxuriant pride,
 And all the sunny hills that distant grow,
 And all the brooks that through the valley flow,
 Seem liquid gold.—O I had my fate denied
 Leisure and power to taste the sweets that glide.
 Thro' kindling souls, as the soft seasons go,
 On heir still varying progress, for the woe,
 My heart has felt, what balm had been supplied!

But where great Nature smiles, as here she smiles
 'Mid verdant vales, and gently swelling hills,
 And glassy lakes, and mazy, murmuring rills,
 And narrow wood wild lanes, her spell beguiles,
 Th' impatient sighs of grief, and reconciles,
 Poetic minds to life, with all her ills.

ON CULTIVATION.

WHILE gathering armies crowd Europa's plain,
 And hostile squadrons move in proud disdain,
 While martial music swells the note of war,
 And the destruct'ive cannon sounds from far;
 Scar'd by the clash of arms, the widow's moan,
 The tears of orphans, and the dying groan.

The Muse retires to her own kindred glades,
 Where myrtles blossom, and laurel shades,
 Where Philomela and the plaintive dove,
 Fill the wide woodlands with the voice of love;
 There she prepares the wreaths of fair renown,
 Smiles on her friend, and selects a crown.

No slaughter marks her hero's bold career,
 Deeds more illustrious shall his name endear
 Lo! from the desert springs the golden grain,
 Thick stalks of corn o'erspread the barren plain,
 The swains who late survey'd a joyful waste,
 With grateful raptures their new harvest taste.

SONNET—TO WINTER.

A Wrinkled, four old man they picture thee,
 Old Winter, with a ragged beard, and grey
 As the long moss upon the apple-tree,
 Close muffled up and on thy dreary way
 Plodding alone though fleet, and drifted snows
 Blue tipt, an ice-drop at thy sharp blue nose.

They should have drawn thee by the high-heap'd hearth,
 Old Winter, seated in thy great arm-chair,
 Watching the children at their Christmas mirth,
 And circled by them, as thy lips declare,
 Some merry jest, or tale of murder dire,
 Or troubled spirit that disturbs the night;
 Or pausing at times to move the languid fire,
 Or taste the old October, brown and bright.

TO A ROBIN.

Written in a severe Winter,

Poor Wand'rer thou art welcome to this shed,
 For thou hast borne the pitiless cold storm,
 Felt the keen blast on thy defenceless head,
 And heard Destruction threat thy gentle form,
 Come, then, mild suff'rer, my companion be,
 Life yet shall know one charm, if I can bless—e'en thee

By the latter Road you clear the Ferry and Sands at Barronsfield, which are often troublesome to Strangers; but, when the Tides are low, the former is the best way, the Ferry excepted.

For the Information of Travellers between Windsor and Parrborough, &c.

THE Parrborough Packet sails regularly between Windsor and Parrborough twice in every Week, and occasionally three times; but always from Parrborough every Monday in the Summer season, wind and weather permitting, so as to be at Windsor on Tuesday, and will sail from thence the first High-Water that happens, at or after eight o'clock in the Forenoon of that Day.—The Passage Money for each person is five Shillings, and the freight for Horses and Neat Cattle is seven Shillings and Six Pence per head. The vessel is Forty-Two Tons burthen, and hath good accommodations for Passengers; and likewise for taking over Horses, Neat Cattle, Sheep, &c.
