TO OUR READERS.

Owing to the Government restrictions on paper supplies, the cost of paper has already enormously increased and makes economy necessary. Readers will greatly assist us in meeting this new difficulty if, instead of purchasing by casual sale, they will order "Canada" from their newsagent or bookstall, as this is the only way to reduce the heavy loss and wastage of "returns" on unsold copies.

HEWING TO A LINE.

THE clear and definite statement of the Allies, in reply to the Note from the President of the United States, has given unmixed satisfaction in the allied countries, and apparently it has been very well received in America, especially when contrasted with the latest German effusion. The clear-cut issues now set before the Allies, as contained in their joint Note, must act as a tonic to all their peoples. In the parlance of the woodsman we now have to "hew to a line," and our arms will be braced, and our weapons sharpened, as a result of having declared our fixed intentions to the world. The peace manœuvre of Germany caused, as was the intention, some unrest and disquietude among the Allies. It was impossible to be quite sure that the Governments of all the allied countries would regard the latest manœuvre of the Huns quite from the same viewpoint as the peoples of the British Empire. The unequivocal and definite statement of the war aims of the Allies, as presented to Mr. Woodrow Wilson, has dissipated any possible doubts. In the 8th article of the Note, in which the aims are definitely stated, "the restitution of provinces formerly torn from the Allies by force or against the wish of their inhabitants will, it is to be hoped, include certain neutrals when the final settlement comes to be made. The return of portions of Schleswig-Holstein and the internationalisation of the Kiel Canal are as necessary to the future peace of Europe as the "end for ever of the rule of the Ottoman in Europe." Of course, a great deal that we hope to impose on the bandit nation which has so ruthlessly broken the peace of the world is not specifically defined, but in its broad lines the programme announced by the Allies is satisfactory alike to the soldiers and the civilians of the Allies.

It must not be forgotten that on the Allies' side this is essentially a people's war, and their will to conquer must not be impaired by any want of decision or of frankness on the part of their leaders or Governments. The new British War Loan now being raised will, if money talks, shout the determination of our people in the ears of the Prussian conspirators and their dupes.

There were phrases in the memorable speech of Mr. Lloyd George at the Guildhall last week, when introducing the War Loan, which will ring throughout the Empire. We refer to his remarks concerning the increasing extent to which our Allies are looking to Great Britain, which in this connection, of course, means the whole British Empire. The Prime Minister made no vain boast when he said that "to them she looks like a great tower in the deep. She is becoming more and more the hope of the oppressed and the despair of the oppressor, and I feel more and more confident that we shall not fail the people who put their trust in us." For the second time within a hundred years the British people have had to marshal all their resources to protect the liberties of Europe.

There is no doubt of our ultimate success, but exactly how full that measure of success will be depends entirely on the wisdom and foresight of our leaders. Of the power, the resources, and the determination of our people there is no question. If all our resources are organised properly, and in time, the programme adopted by the Allies will be most fully and completely carried out, after which, may be, the world may have rest for many years.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Anti-Hun Legislation.

It will be a great satisfaction to everyone who desires to see the Empire cleansed from German influences to know that Canada has already taken some steps towards that end. It is announced from Ottawa that in future Western homesteads will not be given to Germans, Austrians, Bulgarians, or Turks. The British race is slow to anger, and still slower to regard any foes as permanent enemies. It has taken  $2\frac{1}{2}$  years of cumulative offences by Germany and her dupes against the written and unwritten laws of civilisation to induce the Government of Canada to refuse the gift of her free homesteads to these degenerate enemies.

Homesteads for Soldiers.

We have already noted from time to time the proposals made by or to the various Governments and other bodies in the Dominion towards meeting the requirements of the returned soldier after the war. In several cases the projects have taken concrete shape; in others they are still in embryo. A further important step has just been taken by the holding last week in Ottawa of a conference between representatives of the Dominion and Provincial Governments to discuss this and other after-the-war problems. From this a uniform scheme, at once practical and comprehensive, is likely to emerge, co-operation between the Dominion and the several Governments having apparently been secured.

According to cablegrams from Ottawa, provision is to be made for the settlement of Canadian soldiers and British reservists from Canada in selected areas on homesteads and lands under Federal control. Agricultural training is to be provided, and financial aid is to be given by way of loans under the administrative Commission consisting of three members. The proposal is, that a loan of $1,500 without interest will be made to each settler for the erection of farm buildings and the purchase of stock, and a further advance will be made of $1,000 on the recommendation of the supervising Commission. The settler who has lived three years on a farm, and has repaid half the money advanced, may dispose of the property.

Thrift in Canada.

Alike in the Mother Country and in Canada the necessity for the exercise of thrift is being preached as an aid towards the winning of the war. On both sides of the Atlantic it is possible that practice is being found harder than precept; but there is hope that some good result will be effected in the long run. In various directions thrift is being inculcated. The Duke of Connaught, in opening the National Economy Exhibition and Conference at Dulwich, on Monday, interested his audience by telling them that the Canadian Bankers' Association had asked for information, so as to be able to hold an economy exhibition in the Dominion.

A growing feature of the Canadian, like the British War Loans, has been the encouragement of the small investor to subscribe towards the winning of the war and at the same time to earn an attractive rate of interest on his capital. When recently in London, Sir Thomas White, the Dominion Minister of Finance, described to a representative of Canada the National Savings campaign which he had inaugurated, and which was to be carried out through the agency of the 3,000 branches of the chartered banks and of the Post Office savings banks. His idea, he explained, was to make it easy for wage-earners and those of slender means to accumulate their savings and purchase war savings certificates when a certain sum had been reached. Now his proposals have materialised. The issue is announced from Ottawa of war savings certificates of the denominations of $25, $50, and $100, at the price of $21.50, $43, and $86 respectively, repayable at par in three years. We have little doubt but that the departure will appeal to Canadians, and that the Minister's experiment will be as successful as the rest of his financial policy.

French and English Canadians.

The Province of Quebec is fortunate in possessing in Sir Lomer Gouin a Premier who, since he came into office nearly twelve years ago, has consistently and persistently used his increasing influence to bring about a better feeling and greater co-operation between French-speaking and English-speaking Canadians. In Ontario, as well as in Quebec, it has always been possible for a certain type of politician to trade upon the differences in race, language and methods of local administration among the peoples of the two greatest Provinces of the Dominion.

Happily, however, almost every responsible statesman of both races has realised that "mutual respect is absolutely essential to our national perpetuation." We quote these words from an eloquent address delivered by the Quebec Premier in Toronto last week upon the occasion of the visit by a delegation of prominent French-Canadian business men in return for a similar visit recently paid by Ontarians of note to Quebec. Sir Lomer Gouin went on to say:—

There must be a spirit of tolerance for religion, origin, and tongue, and respect for ideas. We are destined by Providence, whether we like it or not, to live together. Why not live happily? Why should we not bend every energy to weld together in a nation the splendid elements we have? We are weaving the fabric of a nation on the loom of time. Let us make it a perfectly harmonious whole, in which everything we have to contribute for good shall appear, the energy of the Scotsman, the solid common sense of the Englishman, the many qualities of the Celt, combined with the good of the French. So may we turn to good account the various qualities with which we are endowed for no selfish purpose, but for imparting vigour and unison to our beloved country, and so we may best show the best impulses of our generation and in patriotism resolve to contribute to the future greatness of our Confederation.

Mutual Intercourse.

Among the business community in the two Provinces there has always been good feeling. As time goes on their mutual interests will inevitably become more intimately interwoven. That there is not more mutual social intercourse is not so much the fault of the French-speaking as of the English-speaking Canadian. The leading French Canadians, whether in political or commercial life, pride themselves upon their mastery of the English language, and are frequently—as in the case of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Rodolphe Lemieux, Sir Lomer Gouin, Mr. Marcil, M.P., and almost every Parliamentarian from Quebec—equally eloquent in both.

Unfortunately, outside strictly business and political circles only a small minority of the English-Canadians speak French. We should like to see both languages taught compulsorily in every school, public and private, throughout the Dominion. As matters are, it ill becomes the Canadian who cannot speak the hereditary native language of nearly one quarter of his fellow countrymen to give vent to verbal or written criticisms which tend to create ill-feeling and hinder the common ideal of "Canada a Nation." The war in which the Mother Countries of both nations are cementing in blood an alliance for the furtherance of the noblest international ideals should become the occasion for greater mutual efforts to produce harmony among their scions overseas.

The Great Loan.

The greatest financial operation in the world's history is now in process of accomplishment by the British Government. Between now and February 16 the Government will convert the greater part of its short-term borrowings into this long-term loan, and, in addition, hundreds of millions of new money will be subscribed, which will not only satisfy our Government, but will prove to our Allies that we are indeed, as Mr. Lloyd George puts it, "a great tower in the deep," and will convince the Teutonic Powers that the resolution of Great Britain only becomes harder with the strain of war.

The response to this loan, when the books are finally closed, will be a sufficient answer to the baseless and unworthy insinuations of the Editor of the London Daily News, who, for his own purposes, chose to cast doubts on the financial stability of his own country. The subscriptions of neutrals to this best of gilt-edged investments are likely to be far larger than in the case of previous issues, as it is generally recognised in international financial circles that such an investment opportunity is not likely to recur. For the sake of ourselves, for the sake of our Allies, and for the future of humanity, we have to provide shells, men, and money, up to the extreme limit of our resources. Sorely do we grudge the loss of our men, and we must see to it that their great sacrifices extort from Germany full reparation for her crimes.

Records of Battle.

Through the courtesy of the Chief of the Canadian War Records Office, whose identity as Sir Max Aitken will soon be merged in that of Lord Beaverbrook, representatives of the Canadian Press had an opportunity recently of inspecting some new films taken at the Canadian Front, before they were sent to Canada. These wonderful pictures of Canadians in action on the Somme will soon be seen in all the cinematograph theatres in Canada, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. It is safe to say that no more wonderful pictorial records of active trench warfare on the Western Front have been previously obtained. When these are shown in Canada it will, we think, be generally acknowledged that very great credit is due to Sir Max Aitken and those who have worked with him to obtain these invaluable records. The photographer seems to have had a charmed life, for his camera was pushed up to advanced positions under heavy shell fire.

Thousands among the audiences in Canada will recognise, in these wonderfully clear pictures, their own relatives and friends. They will see Canadian battalions leaving the trenches to attack the enemy, and the resulting stream of Germans rushing towards our lines with their hands up. There are excellent views of "tanks" in action, of heavy artillery, and of field dressing stations. From these 5,000 ft. of film the spectator can obtain a better idea of the conditions of warfare, of the splendid manhood of Canada, and of military organisation in the field than he could possibly obtain either from verbal or written descriptions. We understand that the Canadian War Records Office has obtained most satisfactory terms for the rights to show these pictures, a preliminary payment of $100,000 being assured, which will go to Canadian war charities.

An extra meeting of the Canada Lodge will be held at Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, W.C., on Thursday, January 25, at 4.30 p.m.

Forty thousand Canadian soldiers will be in receipt of pensions in 1918, according to a statement made by Lieut.-Col. Labatt, of the new Pensions Board.

Twenty Canadian teachers are coming to London this year, and will be employed in London County Council elementary schools. They will remain a year to gain experience.

"CANADA'S" NEW YEAR MESSAGES.

The Hon. Valentine Winkler, Minister of Agriculture and Immigration, Manitoba.

The third year of the great struggle finds Canadians more fixed than ever in their determination to "see this thing through," and to do anything and everything in their power toward that end.

Speaking of Manitoba—and I am sure the same thing is true of every part of Canada—public interest was kept at high pitch in the earlier stages of the war by the novelty of new tasks and duties, the excitement of the daily news from all parts of the Front, and the uncertainty borne of the hope that the war would not last a very long time before the Allies could exert enough pressure to bring the foe to his knees. To-day the change is marked. The excitement has passed away, the novelty has worn off, the uncertainty and the hope of a speedy termination of the fighting has given way to a philosophic acceptance of conditions as they are or may be. To-day our efforts are organised, and have become a part of the daily life of a people welded together in a quiet, stern determination to meet every call to the uttermost of their resources.

The response of the people of Manitoba to all calls has been free and generous to a degree realised only by those who look at it from the outside. The reason is that it has been accepted as a simple duty by the people without exception. The extent to which the manhood of Manitoba responded to the call for service in the field is known to all parts of the Empire; it is only necessary to say that the response to the calls for the various patriotic and charitable funds has been entirely in keeping.

Manitoba is cheerful and prosperous, and, although sobered by losses on the fields of Flanders in the past year, is undismayed.

Unfavourable weather conditions disappointed the Province in the hope of another wheat crop as great as the record yield of 1915, but other grains and other products have done well, and Manitoba is doing her share with the rest of Canada in the task of feeding the Allies.

If there is any message that Manitoba can send to the Mother Country at this time, it is one of cheerful assurance that the people of the Province will continue to do their "bit," and will not count the cost. To our Manitoba boys "across the seas" the message is one of infinite pride and satisfaction in their achievements on the field, and sympathy and sorrow in their sufferings and sacrifices.

CANADIAN PATROLS' CONTINUED ACTIVITY

Scouts' Daylight Work in Front of the Lines.

THE following communiqué is issued by the Canadian War Records Office, 3, Lombard Street, E.C., under date January 15:—

The past week has been marked by incessant artillery and trench mortar activity on both sides. It is not possible to say what losses our bombardments have inflicted, but the damage done to the enemy's trenches has been very great, judging by the number of Germans who expose themselves while evidently trying to pass along their ruined and water-logged trenches. Parts of the enemy's trenches have apparently become quite impassable, as men are seen using overland routes, giving our snipers opportunities, which, at other times, they could not hope for.

In spite of unfavourable weather conditions our patrols have continued active. Not content with the usual parties which patrol our front at night and form our greatest protection against surprise, our scouts have done some daylight work in front of the lines, where the ground is sufficiently broken to give some cover. Two men of a Mounted Rifle battalion carried out a particularly daring reconnaissance of this nature. Leaving our trenches at about mid-day, and crawling from cover to cover, they succeeded in reaching and entering the German lines unobserved. The return journey to our lines was also made without the enemy detecting anything.

Patrols' Dual Role.

Our patrols which cover the ground between the lines every night have the dual rôle to perform of obtaining information and preventing the enemy from carrying out any reconnaissance work. To this they add the task of preventing the enemy from working in front of his trenches and of harassing him in every possible way. A good example of this occurred during the past week. One night one of our patrols located a strong enemy wiring party. A Lewis gun was brought up and fire opened at point blank range. This particular patrol fired on no less than eleven other smaller parties during the night.

Shortly before daylight early in the week an encounter took place between one of the picquets of a Mounted Rifle battalion and a party of Germans who appeared to have lost their bearings and approached our lines. The enemy party, although considerably outnumbering the picquet, was immediately attacked and dispersed, one prisoner falling into our hands.

After a day of unusual hostile artillery and trench mortar activity on the front of a Montreal battalion, a party of thirty of the enemy attempted to raid our trenches. As the Germans approached our lines they were seen and fired on by a Lewis gun. This hostile raiding party made three separate efforts to reach our lines, but on each occasion they met the same fate, and finally withdrew, leaving their dead lying in front of their own wire. This incident speaks for itself as an example of the vigilance of our troops.

Visitors to the Front.

Mr. F. B. McCurdy, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Department of Militia, accompanied by Colonels McInnes and Thompson, spent four days in the Canadian Corps area. During their visit they spent a long day in the trenches, as well as seeing many of the troops in billets and at the various schools of instruction and training centres.

The Canadian Rugby team was beaten by 1 goal and 1 try to 1 goal at Richmond last Saturday by the Royal Naval Division, Blandford.

In view of statements that steamship facilities will be severely taxed after the war in carrying back Canadian troops, strong efforts are being made (says Reuter's Ottawa correspondent) to secure the early return to Canada of Canadian soldiers' relatives now in England who are not engaged in war work.

Lieut. H. J. Trihey and Major W. P. O'Brien, of the Irish Rangers, have resigned and have returned to Canada. Other officers who have returned to Canada are Major G. Boyer, Capt. R. H. Stapleford, A. A. Clark, R. J. Wilson, and K. C. Cairns, and Lieuts. G. C. Willis, G. G. MacDonald, L. M. Fullerton, A. G. McLennan, T. C. Wilson, W. H. Kilgour, W. A. Knox, and W. R. MacDonald.

As a result of the impossibility of the coalowners and miners of Alberta and British Columbia reaching an agreement, the Government (says the Ottawa correspondent of the Times) will take over a sufficient number of mines and work them, so as to prevent suffering in the Prairie Provinces owing to a scarcity of coal, and to keep the smelters in British Columbia who are making supplies for munition factories supplied with coke.

OUR SILENT NAVY: THE WORK OF THE DOVER PATROL.

It is well that each part of the Empire should know what the rest is doing and that each arm of our Forces should be able to appreciate the efforts and the sacrifice of the others. With this object in view the Admiralty have invited certain representatives of the Overseas Press to see something of the Navy at work. Articles dealing all too briefly with a visit to the Grand Fleet have already appeared in "Canada." Below we give extracts from a very able article by Mr. J. P. Collins, London representative of the "Cape Times," narrating his visit to the Dover Patrol on behalf of the Overseas Press.

THE last thirty months have posted up the Empire's credit account on humanity for all the nations to audit if they like, and the suggestion might be ventured that in seawork alone we have done our share of the war. We seized the naval initiative the moment Germany showed her cards by land, and one result was to put our Third or Reserve Fleet into action at a stroke and without a murmur; but the very fact that we Britishers take to the sea like ducks to water deprives us of our fair renown in a matter like this.

The rest is a familiar story. We have tied the enemy's approaches up; we have sustained the brunt of his "frightfulness" at sea; we have kept the coast of France intact, and preserved her from the sort of Yarmouth and Scarborough raids that sent up our infant mortality; we have fought half a dozen battles and any number of engagements; we have replaced, in spite of the drain on men and materials, every warship we have lost and more; and we have let the enemy do all the crowing. He has picked his own time and locality and weather for his little escapades; and when he has dotted the i's of his prearranged reports we have let him enjoy the first run of the American and neutral papers, with whatever embellishments their sweetness of disposition and their superior information might suggest.

All this while we have left the gentle German free to hug his harbours and canals, while we have stuck to open water and the mists of the very ocean he used with sublime audacity to call his own. Any old water is good enough for us, so why should he object to our taking the trouble to keep it clean? We should prefer his coming out squarely into the open and settling the matter one way or the other, with Davy Jones for the only referee. That was our way a century ago, and what was good enough for Nelson ought to be good enough for Admiral "Turps" and Co.

Keeping Busy.

But since they will have their own tinpot way, why waste the interval? We like to keep busy, and it does nobody any harm. Besides, it seems ill-nature to deny us the thankless job of cleaning up the perpetual mess they leave behind them in the shape of mines and crippled Zepps., the wreckage of tramps and smacks and colliers, and a strewage of dead, their own included. Folk that will not live cleanly of themselves should hardly complain of others who do. The rules of Christian decency which the Boche forsook a couple of years ago make it a duty to keep the water sweet, if only for the sake of the fish. For another reason, we have run the North Sea for so long now to the satisfaction of our numerous patrons and customers that it seems a pity to pretermitt our job for want of a little trouble; and if nobody else minds our keeping our shutters down, we don't. But we can only do our work in our own fashion, and this includes the Dover patrol. It is a thankless business and a devil of a fag; but so is war at any time, if you take it rightly, and not merely as an excuse for trampling down your smaller neighbours and making mats of them to soak up one another's blood.

Famous pens have written up the work of the naval auxiliaries, the mine-sweepers, and "the trade," and every page of Mr. Kipling's new book is a justification of his old dictum that the present is a silent war, since even he with his great discretion refrains from mentioning men and ships and the rest of it.

Working Day and Night.

A slender minority of those who voyage in war-time are dimly aware of this noiseless machinery mysteriously working day and night. Grateful passengers on Dutch and American liners have whipped up a collection now and then for the widows and orphans of lost mine-sweepers, and this is solid tribute to a humble and devoted class of men. But the patrol is just as dogged and persistent, as well as a great many other things which mine-sweeping is not. Mines may come and mines may go, but patrols go on for the duration of the war, and a little later, perhaps, seeing the sort of foe we have to deal with.

The purpose of the present invitation was to remind the public, and those who write for it, that an infinity of hard and accurate and experienced work is going on day and night of which the outside world has no conception; and though the time is not yet ripe for all that work to be disclosed by any means, My Lords of the Admiralty acceded to the suggestion that in one corner the veil should be raised. We were to be shown the methods by which nearly fifty thousand ships a year thread and traverse the Channel virtually without molestation, even during a war of unparalleled antagonism by land and sea.

Coincidentally with the maintenance of this barrage of safety, we learn, there are other important measures in force, chiefly arrangements to round up odd raiders whenever they get through, and to escort the multifarious crowd of liner and cargo traffic through the Downs, as well as many other operations which are not to the present purpose. When at sea the captain of a destroyer never leaves the bridge, and this (the first lesson in the fine art of monotony) may hold good for weeks at a time. If exhaustion tells on him, or the need of something more substantial than a stand-up snack, he may adjourn to the charthouse below; but for all else he is chained to the bridge, and sees the succession of watches through in company with his first lieutenant or the sub. Conceive a space the size of a board-room table enclosed with an iron front and weather-cloths, and studded with a wheel, several bell-mouthed speaking-tubes, and various appliances, most of them cased in packing to resist weather corrosion; and you will fairly gauge the space that has to serve half a dozen men as prison and perpetual observatory.

When a vessel has done her twenty-four hours' work or thereabouts (it varies, like so many other sea regulations, from day to day for the confusion of the enemy), she will go back to harbour for a day's cleaning, oiling (that is, taking in oil-fuel), arrears of sleep and the rest of it, but until then neither place nor pressure can relax. The sea ahead must be scoured in the light and the dark hours for the least sign of enemy handiwork or presence, and any intermission of this vigilance means all sort of dangers, but chiefly the loss of golden opportunity.

The Mongoose of the Fleet.

A mine to be located and exploded with rifle-fire is one sort of treasure-trove; a floating spar or lifebuoy may be another, as well as valuable evidence of loss hitherto unknown. But the cue which is the hourly prayer of all these hundred souls aboard is a sight of that porpoise-fin affair above the waves which means a periscope and the chance of battle. After all, the destroyer is the mongoose of the Fleet, and the one thing it lives and moves and has its being for is to scotch an enemy submarine, preferably to ram it, but to sink it anyhow. For this and what it means, the collective vision of the bridge is strained with an incessant stare. Eyelids almost meet under the stress of a racing breeze or the flying drift of sleet that hits you in the face like shot. We veer and heel over on a tactical course, but the glitter of intentness on the watch is there all the while. If it relaxed, and even if we escaped, an unseen torpedo might waylay the consort ship in our wake, and the disaster to the second destroyer is hardly so unthinkable as the strain upon the first.

Merely a short pole striking perpendicularly through the wilderness of waters does not seem much as a harbinger of stealthy death. But for this glimpse a hundred men are all agog—the gun crews by their guns, the engine hands ceaselessly cleaning up and watching their indicators, the stokers controlling the feed and the roar of blazing and imprisoned oil. The tip of a periscope, a point of black in a world of grey—this is the end of every man's desire.

Our Debt to the Navy.

I hope I may never live to see the day when I forget in peace-time or any other what I owe this Navy of ours for keeping me a roof above my head.

The more the men of the Navy are changed by science the more they are the same thing—unique, indomitable, incomparable, and British to the core. As I thought back on that unweary vigil through the darkness and cold, all for scouring a waste of waters for the sake of our common maintenance and comfort and honour, I wondered how many fat and greasy citizens I shall have occasion to rebuke when I hear them grizzle that "the Navy is doing practically nothing." The next time I hear the remark from unpractical persons, there will be talk with high explosive in it; but let that pass. The thing is that the Navy would vastly prefer to dash in and finish things if it had its way, but, as we have seen, the Huns think otherwise. Meanwhile, it is content to bide its own good time under proved experience and orders. And discipline, inspired by the right cause, is only victory in solution after all.

A NEW WEB EQUIPMENT.

Of great interest to officers at the present time is the new web equipment for officers' field use, which has just been introduced by the Mills Equipment Co., Ltd., and the sole selling agents for which are Messrs. Hazel and Co., the Service Outfitters, of 4, Princes Street, Hanover Square, London, W. Messrs. Hazel inform us that the equipment has been very highly spoken of by officers who have had it in use at the Front, and so patent are its advantages, that their brother officers very quickly discard their old equipment in favour of the new. A signal advantage of the equipment is that, although it consists of articles specially designed for officers' use, it has the appearance, at a short distance, of rank and file equipment. It thus has the life-saving quality of being worn on the field without the risk of attracting undue attention. It is light in weight, and the equipment comes apart with the greatest ease, the belt, single brace, and sword frog being so arranged as to be worn as "a single brace equipment." A web haversack, more roomy than the rank and file haversack, and carrier for rank and file bottle, can be supplied if desired, but most patterns of officers' water-bottles and haversacks can be worn with the equipment provided they have swivels for attaching to the belt. The cost of the set usually required for officers is under 45s., and it consists of waist-belt, braces with attachments, field-glass case and compass pocket, revolver holster and ammunition pouch, bayonet frog, and knapsack. The last-mentioned can be worn as part of complete equipment or as separate rucksack. Messrs. Hazel and Co. have issued an illustrated circular giving full particulars of the equipment, and this will be forwarded on application.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

In the accompanying photograph, reading from left to right, are:— Staff-Sgt. R. H. Cuthbert, Canadian Infantry, Bandmaster Chas. Ward, Canadian Infantry, and Provost Sgt. Fred McConkey, Canadian Military Police, all at present stationed at Bramshott Camp. The three N.C.O.s took part in the North-West Rebellion in 1885, and served as buglers with the York and Simcoe Battalion, from Barrie, Ontario. On their return from the North-West at the conclusion of the rebellion, in July 1885, Staff-Sgt. Cuthbert left Barrie for Toronto, and from that date had not seen or heard of Bandmaster Ward or Sgt. McConkey. At the outbreak of the present war Sgt. Cuthbert enlisted with a Toronto battalion, and was stationed at Bramshott Camp. It was then that he met Bandmaster Ward and Sgt. McConkey, both these N.C.O.s, having also enlisted with Canadian battalions, and as a result the photograph was taken, in England, after their having been separated for nearly 32 years.

CANADIAN TRAINING IN ENGLAND.

Under the new scheme of organisation of the Canadian Forces every effort is being made to bring about closer co-ordination between the Canadian Forces at the Front, in England, and in Canada. Competent supervision is being provided in England for each class of training: musketry (under Lieut.-Col. Prismall), officer training, bombing, bayonet fighting, anti-gas measures, etc.—every man is supposed to pass through the gas-chamber before going to the Front—by specially appointed officers, the majority of whom have had experience in their own line at the Front. Besides the practical training, short lectures are given, and attention is being paid to discipline. In addition to the ordinary battalion training a certain proportion of officers are being trained. Notable among the Canadian schools of instruction is the trench warfare school; while the Canadian military school is being reorganised with a view to bringing officers and N.C.O.s. into closer sympathy with the Front. Officers stationed in England visit France from time to time.

PAY AND RECORDS SERVICES.

Col. W. R. Ward, hitherto Director-General of Pay and Records Services, C.E.F., has been appointed as from December 19, Financial Adviser to the Minister of Overseas Military Forces of Canada, with the title of Accountant-General, and with offices at the Canadian Headquarters, Cleveland House, St. James's Square, S.W. The position of Director-General of Pay and Records Services, C.E.F., ceases to exist.

Following upon the appointment of Col. H. Kemmis Betty, D.S.O., to be Director of Personal Services, Major J. Logie Armstrong is now Officer in Charge of Records.

Lieut.-Col. J. E. Ross continues to act as Chief Paymaster.

SCOUTS FROM OVERSEAS.

Sir R. Baden-Powell at Shorncliffe.

On Saturday afternoon last Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who was accompanied by Mr. H. G. Hammond, of Toronto, Assistant Commissioner, Boy Scouts Association of Canada, in course of a tour to all the Canadian camps in England, visited Shorncliffe, and informally met the Scouts and ex-Scouts of the Canadian Forces stationed there in the Garrison Gymnasium. The distinguished visitors were received by Major J. K. Keefer (Saskatoon), Major B. H. Harrison (Victoria, B.C.), Capt. H. H. Van Wart (Fredericton, N.B.), and several other Canadian officers.

General Baden-Powell, who, bleak as was the weather, was clad in the usual Scout uniform, without so much as a great

FROM MESOPOTAMIA.

On the right is Pte. R. A. Miller, Motor Transport Corps, a member of the Canadian Emigration Staff. Lieut.-Col. J. Obed Smith has received from him a unique "card" wishing him "A Happy New Year from Mesopotamia." It is a piece of khaki cloth, on which is drawn, in indelible pencil, a river scene with the words:—

"The times we live in are so hard,
I can't afford a stylish card
So please accept this one from me, coat, shook hands and chatted with all assembled to meet him, from major to private. These informalities over, and the company being seated, Major Keefer formally introduced the "Chief Scout" and Mr. Hammond to the audience.
I tore it from my trouser knee."

Mr. Hammond said that he had been sent from Canada to England and France to visit personally as many as possible of the Scouts and ex-Scouts of the Dominion now serving with the Canadian Expeditionary Force overseas. He had already been to the Front, and through the kindness of Sir Douglas Haig, and others in authority, he had been able to meet and chat with large numbers of their brother Scouts from Canada, in the trenches, in the hospitals and elsewhere, down to the smallest drummer boy. He found that the Scout, under all conditions, retained and made use of the spirit engrained in him through past training; that all were cheery and happy, even in untoward circumstances; and that he carried back to Canada with him the most cheerful greetings and messages from these Scouts to their Chief Scout in Canada, the Duke of Devonshire, as well as to every other Scout through the length and breadth of their vast Dominion. He felt sure that every other Scout felt with him that their work was worth while, and that no training fitted them so well in their endeavour to become and to be good and useful citizens. Last night and the night before he met and chatted with some 600 of their brother Scouts at other camps, and during the next few days he was paying similar visits to other centres, finally sailing for home in about two weeks' time. His parting message to them was "Do your part well."

Sir Robert Baden-Powell, addressing the audience as "Brother Scouts," said he felt, and he hoped they all felt, that, as Lord Kitchener once remarked, "Once a Scout, always a Scout." During three visits to the Front, he found a tremendous bond of brotherhood existing among the Scouts and the ex-Scouts serving there, a brotherhood cemented by common and ever-present danger. He had met "Brother Scouts" by hundreds in France; some of them from Canada, others from Australia, New Zealand, India, and other parts of the Empire, as well as those from "Home." Soon they were to have in London a club of their own, more especially for Overseas Scouts now serving with the various Expeditionary Forces. He advised them that wherever they happened to be they could do nothing better than keep up the spirit of the Boy Scout movement and training, and when they got back to Canada, endeavour to raise hundreds of new Scouts. No training was better fitted to build up a man's individual character and initiative, and to create esprit de corps among men.

As the General, accompanied by Mr. Hammond, drove away in his car, he was the recipient of long, loud, and lusty cheers.

CANADIAN WOUNDED ENTERTAINED AT FOLKESTONE.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week upwards of 120 wounded soldiers from the hospitals in the locality were entertained to tea and music in the Masonic Hall of the Folkestone Club by the Folkestone Amusements Association. Of those so entertained over 75 per cent. were Canadians, the remainder being Imperial soldiers and about a dozen Belgians. Through the kind instrumentality of Col. G. S. Rennie, A.D.M.S., Shorncliffe and Dover Districts, the wounded were conveyed in comfort between the various hospitals and the Folkestone Club in motor ambulances.

Among those members of the Amusements Association who were prominent in arranging the entertainment, in waiting upon the men at tea and assiduously looking after their comfort, were Councillor, Mrs. and Miss Dorothy Martingell, Councillor Boyd, J.P., and Mrs. Boyd, Councillor R. G. Wood, J.P., and Miss Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curtis, Mrs. G. I. Willson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boughton, Alderman and Mrs. Pepper, Miss Ivy Weston, and a large number of other well-known Folkestone ladies.

Mr. George Cooper's orchestra, so popular at the Leas Shelter, played a programme of music whilst tea was in progress, and afterwards the London Vaudeville Company from the Leas Pavilion, under the directorship of Mr. Bromley Carter, took the stage and right royally provided the boys with music and merriment until the time came for them to leave. Not only did all the artistes gratuitously give of their best for the delectation of the men in hospital blue, but other friends contributed in assistance and gifts to the greater success of the undertaking, the Freemasons kindly lending their fine hall for the occasion, and the Central Tobacco Co. contributing a large number of cigarettes.

This is the third occasion recently on which some 120 wounded (largely Canadians) have been entertained at the Folkestone Club, on the first two occasions the Club itself being the hosts.

FESTIVITIES AT RAMSGATE.

At the Canadian special hospitals at Ramsgate the Christmas season was observed by a series of entertainments, which were much appreciated by the patients. Of these there were about 820 in the Granville Hospital and Chatham House Annexe, and there and at the Townley Castle and Yarrow Home Annexes a happy time was spent. The dinner was provided by the Canadian Government, and gifts were sent by the Canadian Red Cross Society. At each place the decorations were a striking feature.

Among the officers present at the Granville Hospital were the O.C., Lieut.-Col. J. C. Clarke (Quebec), formerly O.C. No. 2 Stationary Hospital in France; the late O.C., Lieut.-Col. W. L. Watt (Winnipeg); Lieut.-Col. I. C. Starr, Toronto (orthopaedist); Major F. C. Bell (Winnipeg), second in command; Major R. Wilson (Montreal), consultant, X-ray and electrotherapeutics; Capt. W. M. Hart, M.C. (Winnipeg), and Capt. B. Baker (Ottawa), Quartermaster, to whose arrangements the success of the festivities was largely due.

The officers of the Granville staff inaugurated the happy departure of being at home in their mess on New Year's Day, when they were visited by deputations from other messes.

Two brothers who had not seen each other since they left England twelve years ago, one for Canada and the other for Australia, met the other day on the steps of the Union Jack Club, Waterloo Road, London. One had come from the Front; the other was going back.

CANADIAN WAR PHOTOGRAPHS.

Arrangements have now been definitely made by the Mayor and Corporation of Folkestone for the exhibition of the celebrated Canadian War Photographs from the Grafton Galleries, London, in the Art Gallery of the Folkestone Museum and Public Library in about five weeks' time. The exhibition will be open for at least a fortnight; men in uniform will be admitted at half price (probably 6d.), and wounded free. The date of the ceremonial opening of the exhibition, together with other details will be announced shortly. For these Canadians should watch the pages of Canada.

The new British and Canadian war films, showing "The Battle of the Ancre and the Advance of the Tanks," have been shown within the last few days at a special exhibition to the King and Queen. Their Majesties have been pleased to express their keen interest in these pictures, and their hope that every success will attend the efforts of the War Office Cinematograph Committee to secure a wide circulation throughout the Empire.

Those seeing "Canada" for the first time, and wishing to secure future copies regularly, should fill in the form on front cover.

If "Canada" is not on the table of your club or reading-room draw the Secretary's attention to the omission. Canada's share in the great war should be known and appreciated in the Mother Country, and "Canada's" articles and photographs of the Canadian Military Contingents are fullest and best.

ALBERTA

PROVINCE.

—Improved conditions from the standpoint of the municipalities of the Province are reported by the Municipal Inspector, Mr. Baird, who has just completed preparation of information received from the various districts throughout the Province. In only 9 out of the total of 35 town and city and 28 rural municipalities was there an increase in the general tax rate in 1916, while the great majority show decreases in the face of the fact that in nearly all the latter cases there has also been a reduction in the assessment. The increases are in Chilliwack, Alberni, Duncan, Enderby, Fernie, Merritt, North Vancouver, Burnaby, and North Cowichan.

VANCOUVER.—Contracts totalling over $9,000,000 have been closed for new ships by shipbuilding firms in Canadian Pacific Coast yards.

—Trade conditions in this Province are considered distinctly better both as to collections and volume of business. Pulp mills, lumber and shingle mills, mining, fishing and agriculture are doing well. There are three or four new pulp mills under construction. The lack of ships prevents mills from accepting the large export business they are being offered. The logging camps are having great difficulty in getting men. Mining is good, and the boundary country is more prosperous than it has been for a long time.

INVESTMENT NOTES.

The terms of the new War Loan are so attractive that on prudential grounds even, apart from the patriotic obligation, everyone who is able will participate to the fullest extent of their resources. Although for smaller amounts than £50 investors have to apply to the Post Office, assistance as well as a stimulus to the small investor might be given by the managers of branch banks, who could offer to their smaller customers to purchase for them the Post Office certificates, which they would hold for them and advance against this security if and when they should so need. A circular from the banks to this effect would, we believe, lead in the aggregate to a large subscription from the small current accounts of persons of small means. Canadians should note that any of the Canadian banks in London will be glad to receive and forward applications for the new War Loan, and also to attend to the conversion of the 4½ per cent. War Loan.

A Commission, the creation of which has been approved by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec, will be charged with the important duty of drawing up a fresh contract between the Montreal Tramways Company and the City of Montreal. The question at issue between these parties has been for long the subject of contentious discussion in Montreal. The company's present franchise has still six years to run, but this will be superseded by the new contract to be prepared by the Commission. The new contract will come in force directly it has been signed by the two parties to it, viz., the Commissioners and the duly authorised signatories of the Montreal Tramways Company. It will bind the city and the company for a period of 36 years, except for changes and modifications which may from time to time be mutually agreed upon between the city and the company. At the expiration of the thirty-six year period, and at the end of any five-year period thereafter, the city will have the right to take over the company's lines, materials, real estate, cars, etc., on a valuation to be fixed by arbitration, together with 10 per cent. more for the goodwill. When the Commission completes its labours, the terms of the new contract will doubtless be scanned closely by residents and property owners in Montreal and by shareholders of the company. The importance of the matter to all parties is obvious, as the new arrangement will, on the one hand, constitute a long-term extension of the company's franchise for its profitable business, and on the other will, it is hoped, lead to the development of the outlying districts so as to relieve the congestion of population in the city, and, at the same time, increase the city's revenue from taxes, the latter being an important point in view of the present condition of the city's finances.

The recent sale by the City of Toronto of $2,000,000 10-year 5 per cent. bonds at the price of 99.596 per cent. and accrued interest is an outstanding instance of the ability of Canadian cities to secure finances at favourable rates.

The sale of $500,000 5 per cent. 15-year bonds by the Province of Saskatchewan at a price which involves an annual interest charge of 5½ per cent. also marks an improvement, as the last issue by the Province was sold in May, 1916, at a price which represented an interest charge of 5¾ per cent. per annum. For the latest issue there is stated to have been keen competition, offers being received from no fewer than twelve firms, including well-known United States financial houses.

The announcement that the Canadian Locomotive Co., besides the orders for 80 locomotives for the Russian Government, has secured an order for 40 locomotives from the British Government, seems to imply that the company's plants will be very busily—and, presumably, profitably—engaged for some time in their own class of business.

Encouraging improvement is shown by the report of the Asbestos Corporation of Canada, which is the direct successor of the Amalgamated Asbestos Corporation, whose collapse a few years ago is still a bitter memory. In 1914 the profits of the present company were $343,236; in 1915 profits increased to $386,377, and for the ten months of 1916 covered by the present statement profits amounted to $437,318, being $50,941 more than for the full twelve months previous. After deducting $146,575 for renewals and betterments, and $125,000 for bond interest, the ten months' surplus was $165,743, or $72,149 more than the surplus for 1915. At the reorganisation the bondholders, in exchange for their bonds of the old corporation, received 25 per cent. in 5 per cent. bonds of the present corporation, 50 per cent. in 6 per cent. non-cumulative participating Preferred stock and 25 per cent. in Common stock. Despite the improvement in earnings noticed above, it seems that Preferred stock dividends are not yet in sight, as, at the rate represented by the surplus for ten months, earnings per annum would equal just under 5 per cent. on the present corporation's $4,000,000 of Preferred stock.

SASKATCHEWAN WHEAT LANDS.

Co-operative Wholesale Societies' Purchase.

It is announced from Manchester that the English and Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Societies have bought in Saskatchewan more than 10,000 acres of land, which is already in cultivation. The products of this estate will supply with wheat the co-operative flour mills of Manchester, Glasgow, Newcastle, Bristol, and London during 1917. The two societies have also made important joint land purchases in India and Ceylon.

It will be remembered (adds The Times) that the Wholesale Co-operative Society of Liverpool was a large purchaser at the sale of enemy properties in Nigeria last November.

QUEBEC'S AGENT-GENERAL.

Col. Pelletier Entertained.

There was a large and representative attendance of citizens at the complimentary banquet tendered on December 14 to Col. P. Pelletier, M.D., Agent-General for the Province of Quebec in London, at the Chateau Frontenac by the Board of Trade of Sherbrooke, his native city. The gathering was, in the words of the Sherbrooke Daily Record, alike a worthy tribute to one who had done so much for the city and this section of the Province during his professional and parliamentary career and a recognition of his valuable services during the five years he has represented the Province in London. Mr. D. J. Steele, president, who occupied the chair, said the Board of Trade had on many occasions had the honour and privilege of entertaining many distinguished Canadians, Americans, and European visitors, but it had never been the privilege of any chairman of the Board of Trade to preside at a dinner which appealed in such a manner to the members and citizens generally as on that occasion. Everyone was proud of their guest, and with every good reason.

Dr. Ledoux proposed "Our Guest," the toast being seconded by Mr. V. E. Morrill, who said that when the war ended the Province would then feel happy in having in London such an able representative, and Sherbrooke and the Townships would look forward with confidence to greater development than in the past.

Quebec in London.

Col. Pelletier, in responding, said he found it difficult to return thanks for the honour accorded him, and his friends could rest assured that, notwithstanding the distance between London and Sherbrooke, he had never for one moment forgotten the city, but he never expected such a reception as that.

He had been asked, he continued, what part would Canada play in reconstruction work after the war, and what were her prospects for the future. That was too difficult a question for him to decide, but he could state that Canada would have more than her share from England and Europe. She had received the best possible advertising from the part she had played in furnishing munitions and men; this had awakened a reciprocal feeling in England and the countries of the Allies, and they would turn towards Canada with their commerce. When he went to England he found that Canada, and especially the Province of Quebec, was not very well known, but it was the fault of the people here, because they had not done sufficient advertising. Other Provinces were better known, because they had had representatives in England for ten, fifteen, and twenty-five years. Since the establishment of his department in London, he believed Quebec Province had become more widely known. The agency of the Province of Quebec was doing a good work; the only regret was that it had not been started earlier.

Col. Pelletier, accompanied by his wife, returned to London from Canada on Wednesday.

BROTHERS-IN-ARMS.

French appreciation of the Canadian Army was expressed by General Nivelle in the following New Year's message to the Montreal Gazette:—

"France is watching with the deepest interest the progress of recruiting in Canada. Canadians have already gloriously shown how clearly they recognise their duty to themselves in joining their Allies in the fight for justice and liberty. The men of Verdun look forward to greeting more and more of their frères d'armes from Canada, for a Canadian uniform to the French soldier is always synonymous with a brave friend who is also ready to sacrifice everything for his ideal."

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against a Canadian soldier named Ripley, alleged to have killed with a razor Cpl. Algeo in a street fight on December 21 at St. Leonards.

In reply to a deputation of Prohibitionists from all parts of Canada, Sir Robert Borden said the Provinces could, if they chose, prevent any private inter-Provincial trade in liquor by making it illegal for anybody to have intoxicants in his possession. No hope was held out by the Premier that the Government would go any further than it has already gone in the legislation passed last session.

CANADA'S EX-GOVERNOR-GENERAL
At Royal Colonial Institute Lodge.

Last week a large and important meeting took place at Freemasons' Hall on the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the foundation of the Royal Colonial Institute Lodge. Especial importance attached to this meeting, because this Lodge, which is so truly Imperial in its membership—possessing members from every portion of the British Empire—enjoys the great distinction of having for its W.M. the Duke of Connaught, who is the head of English Freemasonry. The Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England quickly resumed his personal work in the craft on his return from Canada, and has shown the deepest interest in the great Masonic war charities. When the Royal Colonial Institute Lodge learnt from H.R.H. that he would be attending the installation meeting, an invitation was very kindly sent to the Canada Lodge for representatives to attend and welcome the ex-Governor-General of Canada.

The Deputy W.M. of Royal Colonial Institute Lodge for the coming year is W. Bro. Col. G. M. Weekley, who succeeds R.W. Bro. Lord Lilford. The installation ceremony on this occasion was exceptionally stately and impressive, owing to the presence of so many of the highest officials of the Masonic fraternity, and the participation of the Grand Master himself in the work of the Lodge added to the interest and importance of the occasion. A large number of those present were in khaki.

The response of H.R.H. to the speech by Lord Lilford, I.P.D.M., welcoming him back to his own Lodge after his long stay in Canada, evoked warm enthusiasm. The Duke expressed his great pleasure at the success which the Lodge had achieved as a Masonic home for the brethren from beyond the seas. Referring to the many members present in khaki, he spoke of the splendid self-sacrifice shown by every portion of the Empire in the great struggle for right and liberty.

The Dinner.

After the work in Lodge was completed, the members of the Royal Colonial Institute and their guests adjourned to the Connaught Rooms for dinner, at which there were many admirable speeches. Each speaker referred in one form or another to the great strengthening of the Imperial tie brought about by this great conflict, and to the immeasurable benefit of the tenets and practices of Freemasonry, not only to our own Empire, but to the cause of humanity in general and the liberty of small nations.

Excellent speeches were made by the Rt. Hon. T. F. Halsey, Col. Weekley, Lord Lilford, Sir John Cockburn, Sir George Reid, Mr. J. Greeley Jenkins, Dr. John Pollen, Col. Sir A. H. McMahon, Sir Frederick Pollock, and Lieut. W. MacLeod Moore, W.M. of the Canada Lodge. Lieut. MacLeod Moore responded for the visitors, among whom were many members of his Lodge, and expressed on his and their behalf their deep appreciation of the privilege they had enjoyed in being present at this noteworthy meeting. He also spoke in the warmest terms of the great debt that all Canadians owed to the Duke of Connaught for his guidance and example in the darkest hours of the war. On behalf of the Canada Lodge he wished continued and increasing success to the Royal Colonial Institute Lodge.

Among the members of the Canada Lodge present were Mr. W. Perkins Bull, Sergt.-Major C. Crean, Capt. J. W. Dowding, Capt. H. H. Dunn, Mr. Fred Grundy, Capt. J. C. Lamprey, Mr. Walter Lefroy, Capt. the Rev. J. H. Macdonald, Lieut. MacLeod Moore, Lieut.-Col. J. Obed Smith, and Col. W. R. Ward.

About eighty Overseas soldiers from Canada, Newfoundland, etc., were entertained by the Saddlers' Company in their hall in Cheapside last week, the arrangements having been made by the Royal Colonial Institute.

THE EMPIRE AND THE WAR.

Address by Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., addressing the Canadian officers at the Perkins Bull Hospital on Monday, said:—

"We are passing through terrible times, through heart-breaking times; let no man underrate the horrors of this war, and, least of all, should I do it in the presence of men who have passed through the hell of the battlefield. I pray—as we all pray—that the gigantic tragedy may soon be brought to an end. But we want the future of the world, of civilisation, of democracy, of Christianity, to reap some adequate harvest from all this sowing in the blood of millions of gallant and self-sacrificing men. Across the bloody gulf which still stretches between the world and peace I look to that harvest; and, therefore, I feel that these terrible times are also sublime and ennobling times.

"In our own Empire the challenge to civilisation has elicited such a knitting together of all the different components of a world-scattered Empire such as no man ever expected to see in his day. Is it not an inevitable consequence of this brotherhood of arms that there should be another knitting together by the participation of all parts of the Empire in the discussion and the decision of its Imperial councils and Imperial resolves?"

"It is not we who drew the sword; it was not we who chose that arbiter; it was not British writers or British statesmen who preached the gospel of the sword. But that issue is now before the world; we shall not stop till that issue is decided; and when it is decided, then not only all the parts of the British Empire, but I do pray and hope the democracy of America, will be united in safeguarding the verdict of the battlefield. Which shall win; the machine gun shattering the human body or the imperishable and free soul of man appealing to conscience, to justice, to freedom; which shall win?"

THE LONDON MARKET.

Stock Exchange Settling Days :—

Consols, Thurs., February 1.

GENERAL CARRY-OVER.

Continuation Day.	Ticket Day.	Pay Day.
Wed. Jan. 24,	Thurs. Jan. 25,	Fri. Jan. 26.

LONDON, Tuesday.

The great War Loan, which has been a matter of expectation for so long, was issued prior to the week-end, and at the present time overshadows everything else on the Stock Exchange. Business is smaller, and general market developments are practically all directly or indirectly connected with the new flotation. There has been scattered selling by intending subscribers, and the tendency of values has been mostly downwards. The shares of big industrial companies have been offered, because of some feeling of uncertainty as to the manner in which the heavy subscriptions of these undertakings to the Loan may react upon the dividend position. It is generally realised, however, that everything depends upon the success of the operation, and the whole financial district is working to achieve the latter.

Among Canadian securities the tendency has been mostly downwards. Canada Fours in the gilt-edged group have fallen 1 to 82, but there is no change in the 4½ per Cents.

As regards the railroad group, Canadian Pacifics, after some heaviness in sympathy with New York advices, mark a fractional net gain at 171. Grand Trunk issues have been steadily sold, and quotations mark a fairly general set-back of ½ to 1. The Three Year Notes at 97, however, and the Five Year Notes at 94½ are rather better. Canadian Northern issues have held their ground.

Industrials have been spottily weaker. Otis Steels have relapsed sharply to 113, but there is no change in the Prefd. at 105. Steel of Canada at 67 is 3 down. Dominion Steels have fallen a point to 70. City Services has receded 3 to 327. Canadian Cars fell heavily on the report of an explosion at the New Jersey works.

In the land group Hudson's Bays have been offered back ½ to 6½, and lower-priced issues have been less active.

Brazilian Tractions are back to 48½, and the Mexican traction group has tended against holders.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

TORONTO, January 6, 1917.

Opening after the New Year markets exhibited more strength than, in view of the recent nervousness, had generally been anticipated. The steel stocks advanced again, and there was a noteworthy demand for Canadian Car and Foundry stocks which, as a result, advanced sharply from the low prices at which they stood last week. I hear that the company's big Russian contract will be completed in about two months from now, and that the annual report will be held back until a final statement in regard to this contract can be presented. It is suggested that the company may be able within the next three months to pay off all arrears of its preferred dividends, which now amount to 19½ per cent.; but, though with the completion of its Russian contract in sight, dividends become a nearer probability, reports of dividend action by the company have been recurrent so frequently during the past year that it is difficult to estimate the reliability of this one. Cement, which by declaring a dividend of 1½ per cent. on the Common stock for the last quarter of 1916 definitely places the stock on a 6 per cent. per annum basis, also came in for a strong rise. In Toronto, Russell Motors made another of their big spurts, and, following the publication of the annual report, there was a renewed demand for Consolidated Smelters, which rose to 35. Some interest is naturally expressed as to whether the Scotia directors will take any dividend action at their meeting next week. In the last day or two prices have weakened in sympathy with irregularity in New York, and markets are again duller and heavier.

Among current prices Scotia is 118, Dominion Steel Corporation 68, Steel Co. of Canada 67½, Canadian Car, 42 and Preference 86½, Canadian General Electric 112, Cement 64½, Steamships 35½, Quebec Railway 33½, Riordon 125½, Price Bros. 120, Laurentide 194, Wayagamack 95½, Toronto Railway 76½, Russell Motors Pref. 120.

The mining market has been moderately active, interest being shown in both the gold and the silver stocks. Hollinger is $6.80, Dome Mines $21.50, McIntyre $1.92, New Rae $1.38, Porcupine Crown 77. As usual lately, the heaviest dealings have been in low-priced shares such as Apex 13½, and Porcupine Tisdale 5½. Among the silver stocks Nipissing is $8.55, Temiskaming 60, Coniagas $5.75, Hargraves 16½, McKinley 50½, Kerr Lake 47. Crown Reserve has declared a dividend of 5 per cent. payable January 15. This is the first dividend paid by the company since July, 1915, and as the company's ore reserves are believed to be nearly exhausted, it is presumed that this dividend is merely an isolated one, and represents accumulations of earnings during the past year or so.

CANADIAN BANK CHANGES.

Mr. George H. Balfour has, states a Canadian War Records cablegram, retired from the general managership of the Union Bank of Canada, after nearly 47 years' service, and has been succeeded by Mr. H. B. Shaw.

Mr. Charles C. Blackader, of Halifax, proprietor of the Acadian Recorder, has been appointed a director of the Royal Bank of Canada, in place of his Honour the late David MacKeen.

An Ottawa despatch states that the $7,000,000 contract for the improvement of the port of St. John (Courtenay Bay side) has been thrown up by the contractors, the Norton, Griffiths Company, and work has been discontinued.

With the first number of its third volume, the name of the Y.M., the British Empire Y.M.C.A. weekly, has been changed to The Red Triangle, and it has been improved and made even brighter throughout.

Mr. Bonar Law Defines the New Investment Standard.

The issue of the new War Loan with its superlative attractions necessarily compels comparison with existing gilt-edged securities, and practically defines the new investment standard set up by the war, seeing that Mr. Bonar Law announced at the Guildhall that no better terms would be offered in the event of further borrowing being necessitated before the termination of the war. On the basis of 95 per cent. the yield, ignoring profit on redemption, is £5 5s. 3d. per cent., which compares with £4 17s. 7d. per cent. on Canada 4 per cent. registered stock, 1940-60, and £4 15s. 9d. per cent. on the  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. bonds of 1920-25. In the case of Canadian  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. loans, the yield on the 1930-50 registered stock is £4 17s. 3d., and on the bonds of 1909-34 £4 12s. 1d. per cent., whilst that on the  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. inscribed stock of 1947 is £4 9s. 3d. per cent. In dealing with the possibility of the new 5 per cent. war stock being redeemed in 1929 the profit on redemption has to be considered. In such an event the yield would be £5 13s. 7d. per cent. approximately, or if in 1947 £5 8s. 7d. per cent., in comparison with £6 1s. 3d. per cent. on Canada  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. 1930-50 (assumed on mean basis of year 1940), £6 0s. 1d. per cent. on the  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. bonds of 1909-34—1934, £5 18s. 3d. per cent. on the  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. inscribed loan of 1947, and £5 10s. 9d. on the  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. bonds of 1920-25—year 1925. The yield on the 4 per cent. registered stock of 1940-60—assumed year 1950—is exactly the same as that on the War Loan if redeemed in 1947, viz., £5 8s. 7d. per cent. We have purposely ignored the 4 per cent. tax-free portion of the issue from the above comparison, as it will probably be found that this will appeal to a very limited proportion of the investment community. Whilst the creation of such a mass of war indebtedness must, as we have repeatedly pointed out in Canada, necessarily cause a permanent alteration in the standard by which gilt-edged investments are judged, it should not be overlooked that since August, 1914, the new issue market has practically dried up, and the sums ordinarily invested in foreign and Colonial Government, municipal and railway securities and general commercial and industrial undertakings have been requisitioned by H.M. Treasury. If the huge sums usually invested in these channels be deducted from the War Loans raised by Great Britain for its own purposes and also the amount lent to its Allies, the aggregate borrowing, tremendous as it still is, assumes less alarming proportions than would otherwise be the case.

C.N.R.'s Land Assets.

There were two points in Sir William Mackenzie's illuminative review of C.N.R. developments in connection with 1915-16 to which, owing to the exigencies of space, we were unable to refer in these Notes at the length their importance deserved in last week's Canada. The first related to the company's vast land holdings. It will surprise no one to learn that only 19,443 acres were disposed of in the period in question, but these realised on an average $16.37, and totalled the respectable sum of $318,248. The company has left no less than 843,000 acres in the Prairie Provinces. The potentialities of this vast holding cannot be over-estimated, as after the war there should be a great demand for land by new settlers as well as those gallant Canadians who are now serving the Empire. As this land is sold the proceeds—which may well run into many millions of dollars—will be available for debt redemption or the extension and improvement of the system, thereby either reducing fixed charges or increasing earnings. Even in the year 1915-16—which can hardly be regarded as any criterion of what will be received from this source in normal periods—over £100,000 of Land Grant bonds were purchased and extinguished from the proceeds of land sales, and the company's finances correspondingly benefited.

Canada after the War.

The second point which deserves emphasis in a review of C.N.R. potentialities is the excellent position the system's lines occupy in the all important matter of traffic opportunities. The position of the C.N.R. in the Provinces of Manitoba, Alberta, and Saskatchewan is particularly strong in this respect. Assuming the population of villages and towns having one thousand inhabitants and over to be urban, the C.N.R. serves 90 per cent. of the urban population of Alberta and 97 per cent. of the urban populations of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In British Columbia urban population aggregating 78 per cent. is served by the lines of the system. In Eastern Canada the position is equally satisfactory. In Ontario and Quebec, when the forty miles of railway to Hamilton, for which the right of way and terminal properties have been secured, is in operation, the C.N.R. will enjoy access to cities and towns which are responsible for 70 per cent. of the factor output of the two Eastern Provinces, from which manufactured products are mainly derived for Canadian consumption. In view of the disadvantages from which the Pacific Province has suffered as a result of the war, it is distinctly encouraging to find that the operation of the new lines through British Columbia, completed and brought into operation during 1915-16, has proved very satisfactory. The British Columbia section, in fact, from the outset yielded monthly substantial increases in revenue, and before the close of the fiscal year produced most encouraging revenues, and furnished an outstanding feature in the year's operations. The statements of Sir William Mackenzie are not limited to the activities of the system of which he is the President, but constitute a valuable review of Canada under war conditions, and conclude with the expression of an opinion that the industrial dislocation which will follow the end of the war will be less serious and of shorter duration than the dislocation which was caused by the war.

Grand Trunk Railway Developments.

Whilst the prominence given of late years to developments in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific system has in a measure withdrawn public attention from the doings of the parent system, the splendid showing made by the Grand Trunk Railway itself in the past year has recently attracted much comment in Anglo-Canadian financial circles, and much satisfaction in the minds of the company's extensive proprietorate in this country. Obviously even an established undertaking like the Grand Trunk can never close its construction account. It must always keep abreast of the ever increasing requirements of the country it serves, both in the matter of extensions to cope with the needs of new districts, and terminal and other facilities in connection with the system as a whole. Some official data which have been recently prepared and issued afford evidence of the successful efforts made by the management to carry out urgent works necessitated by the growth of the vast area it serves, and abundantly justified by the remarkable expansion in the company's earnings during 1916, recently dealt with in Canada. Prominent amongst the new work now being completed is a comprehensive scheme for improved facilities at Port Colborne, Ontario. At the junction point of the Welland Canal and Lake Erie, this rapidly expanding industrial centre has shown splendid traffic increases, and the improvements now being carried out will serve to maintain the Grand Trunk Railway's transportation facilities at a high standard of efficiency. The company also has under construction some important improvements in connection with its Detroit terminals. It is obvious that in spite of the difficulties both in connection with finance and labour occasioned by the war, the enterprising management of the Grand Trunk Railway Company is fully imbued with the necessity of keeping pace with the demand for increased facilities and improvements whenever these are justified by present or immediately prospective traffic considerations.

Canada Steamships' Protected Ocean Service.

If all the stories current concerning Canada Steamships are true this Canadian company is developing into a colossal undertaking. Our contemporary, the Toronto Daily News, in an interesting note on the present position and prospects of this important concern, says that the latest rumour current in connection with the company is that it is about to commence a permanent ocean service. Prior to the war the shipping enterprise was confined to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, with a line to Bermuda. The dearth of tonnage in 1915 resulted in the transfer of certain vessels to ocean traffic and the acquisition of other serviceable ships for this purpose. Since that time every vessel has been employed to full capacity at abnormally high freight rates, with the result that the company's financial position "has been transformed from an uncertain foundation to one of solidity." This is revealed in the fact that whereas the profit and loss account at the end of 1914 showed a loss of $570,000 for the year just ended, it is estimated that the profits on the Common stock will reach over $4,000,000. The present position of the freight market is, of course, all in favour of the company, and with its fleet of 35 ocean vessels it will be able to compete with other shipping companies in permanent ocean traffic after the war.

Mr. Geo. Wilson, manager of the Toronto branch of the Union Bank of Canada, sailed for home to-day after a business visit of some six weeks to the London branches of the bank. Before he left Mr. Wilson expressed himself as having been much impressed by the quiet determination and the unanimous spirit everywhere shown. All the business men he had met regarded the war as part of the day's work—something that had to be done thoroughly and brought to a successful issue. The financial strength shown by Great Britain had been nothing short of marvellous.

FINANCIAL AND REAL ESTATE.

C. T. C. (Colne).—Dividend is not payable till January 15.

BRIDGE (Stockton-on-Tees).—Net profits for the year, $2,776,390. The fiscal year ended on October 31 last

L. S. (Highgate).—(1) 6.31 per cent. (2) We have no information that enables us to check the statements. Can you send us the last balance-sheet?

J. D. (Westminster).—Only the figures for the last ten months are available. They are as follows:—Net profits, $437,318; expenditure for renewals, etc., $146,575; bond interest, $125,000. There is a surplus of $165,743, which, with the carry forward from last year, gives a total surplus of $450,369.

OKANAGAN (Dundee).—The position is one of extreme complexity. Application has been made to the Government for assistance, but it is hardly to be expected that with its numerous and heavy railway commitments the Government will care to assume such a liability. Possibly if you wrote direct to the Secretary of the Board of Trade, Kelowna, he might be able to give you a more exact account of the present position.

T. E. D. (Wolverhampton).—At the annual meeting, held last December, the net profits were set down at $454,000. This is an increase of over $100,000 on the 1915 figures, but is still below the total for 1914. Mr. C. B. Gordon was elected President and Mr. Abner Kingman Vice-President. The other directors who were re-elected are as follows:—Messrs. T. B. Mauculay, W. McMaster, D. A. Gordon, Hon. Lionel Guest, Sir William Wiseman, Bt., and Mr. Frank W. Ross. Mr. A. H. Grier was also elected a director, to fill the vacancy created by the death of his father, the late President.

CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE.

According to a cable from Toronto, the proceedings at the fiftieth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Bank of Commerce were distinguished both by the enthusiasm with which the shareholders endorsed the recent close co-operation of the bank with the Government in the financing of national war requirements during the year and by the appeal made by the President, Sir Edmund Walker, for a more concerted and widespread effort in the direction of national economy for the sake of the Empire.

A fuller report of the meeting will appear in a subsequent issue of Canada.

B.C. APPLE CROP.

It is stated that when final returns are compiled the output of the Okanagan Valley for 1916 will exceed that of 1915 by nearly $500,000, says Canadian Finance. Up to December 15, the Okanagan United Growers had sent out about 1,810 cars of fruit and vegetables, being about 300 in advance of the number shipped in 1915. A heavy increase in the apple crop last year accounts largely for the increase, as the crop of plums, peaches and pears was very short. In addition to supplying the markets in the Prairie Provinces, the United Growers exported about 68,000 boxes of apples last year. Of these, 33,500 went to Australia and New Zealand; 16,390 to Great Britain; 3,400 to South Africa; 18,950 to Quebec and Ontario; 11,360 to Dakota and N.W. States; 1,950 to South America and 1,300 to New York City.

The Vernon Fruit Union had shipped up to the close of November 274,624 boxes or crates of fruit and 10,868 boxes or crates of vegetables, such as tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, corn and cauliflowers, and 3,230,930 pounds of produce, such as potatoes, onions, beets, carrots, parsnips, etc. The manager of the Okanagan United Growers stated that in his opinion shipments of fruit and farm produce from the valley last year would run to about 3,500 cars, having a total cash value of about $1,750,000.

Thirty-three million bushels of wheat still remain in the elevators in the West. Montreal financiers are reported to have purchased the Eddy works at Hull for $9,400,000.

A correspondent of the Times states that a drastic revision of the Canadian wheat statistics is spoken of, an underestimate of as much as 20 per cent. being suggested.

Among the matters considered by the Advisory Committee of the Board of Trade on Commercial Intelligence last week were proposals for a large extension of the Trade Commissioner Service in the British Dominions, proposals for Commercial Missions, and other matters relating to the organisation of British Overseas trade, and questions arising out of the work of the Department of Commercial Intelligence.

The Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee has expressed to Mr. E. J. Chamberlin, President of the Grand Trunk Railway, its appreciation of the assistance rendered by that road in transporting food and clothing to the district, when overrun by fire some months ago. The chairman of the Relief Committee states that the railway has co-operated to the fullest extent in securing the quick despatch so imperative in relief work of this description.

"Our New Governor-General" is the title of a handsome booklet, interestingly written and excellently illustrated, issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway for distribution in Canada. A history of the Cavendish family is embellished with portraits of the present Duke and Duchess and their family, and some of the most notable of their ancestors. Incidentally it is noted that "Our New Governor-General" has one interesting link with the railway world in the motto of his family, 'Cavendo tutus,' which being interpreted is 'Safety in Caution,' or, as we are all so earnestly preaching, 'Safety First.'"

PUBLIC NOTICE.

£500 REWARD.

THE ACETYLENE CORPORATION of GREAT BRITAIN, Limited, an entirely British Company, engaged in the manufacture of plant and accessories for Oxy-Acetylene Welding and Lighting and the importation of Carbide of Calcium for use in connection with such plant, is being persistently libelled and held up to the derision and contempt of its customers and connections by false statements (and acts calculated to assist those false statements) in the following way:—

It is said the Corporation are selling as of British Canadian origin Carbide really made in a foreign factory and to lend colour to this false statement some person or persons unknown are tampering with the drums of Carbide consigned to the Corporation by the Canada Carbide Company, Montreal, removing from the drums the identification labels which would prove it to be of British Canadian origin and substituting the identification label of a foreign Carbide company.

It is further falsely stated The Acetylene Corporation is deliberately restricting the quantity of Carbide imported into Great Britain in order to force up prices for its own ends.

The Acetylene Corporation of Great Britain, Limited, therefore, hereby give notice that a REWARD of £500 will be PAID for such INFORMATION and EVIDENCE as will lead to the discovery and conviction of the person or persons actually responsible for the overt acts mentioned, viz., the tampering with drums of Canadian Carbide, removing Canadian identification labels and substituting foreign ones, and to the discovery and conviction by civil or criminal process of the person or persons who instigated and were originally responsible for such acts and for the false statements that the Corporation is selling foreign Carbide and falsely calling it British Canadian, and that the Corporation is restricting the importation of Carbide.

By Order of the Board,
H. E. BAKER,

Managing Director.
