ROUMANIA MUST NOT SHARE FATE OF SERBIA AND BELGIUM

Roumanian Monarch in Stirring Address Calls Upon Allies to See to Safety of His Country

Entered War Through Confidence of the Justice of Her Cause and Faith in Her Allies

London, Oct. 13.—The Times publishes an interview given to its correspondent with the Roumanian army by the King of Roumania, in which the monarch appeals to the Allies not to permit his country to suffer the fate of Serbia and Belgium.

"The Roumanians will not falter," the King said, "in their allegiance to the cause, nor can the enemy wear them from their faith in their Allies. Yet the Roumanians pray that in spite of their existing exigencies and their own huge problems the Allies will not allow the affairs of Roumania, who has staked her all in this conflict, to pass into the back of their minds and to suffer that she may meet the fate of either Serbia or Belgium."

King Ferdinand said that Roumania had not been moved to enter the war by mere expediency, but that her decision was based on the biggest principles of nationality. "Against Germany," continued His Majesty, "there was at the beginning of the war, no hostility; rather, perhaps, friendship, for economically Germany was an asset to the development of our industry, and a potent instrument in forwarding the prosperity of our country. But with the progress of the war Roumania began to feel the subtle force of enemy intrigue endeavoring in every way to force us into the struggle against our own real interests."

"If Roumania has been criticized heretofore, let the world consider her position. A small power, with a small army, surrounded by giants, faced a practical problem. With a western frontier nearly 700 miles long, which alone was greater than the English and French fronts combined, and Bulgarian frontiers almost undefended, and near her capital, stretching for other hundreds of miles to the south, she had to wait the time when she could act with reasonable assurance of protecting herself and of having the support of her allies."

"A small country in a great war, which promises to last for at least another year, faces certain internal sacrifices and the consumption of her resources. But such is the confidence of Roumania in the justice of her cause and the faith of her allies, that she has cast her lot with them in the conviction that her great associates will see that she does not prove to be the third small power destroyed in this great conflict."

Submarine of Unknown Nationality is Sighted Off the Atlantic Coast

British Steamer Bovic Sights an Unknown Undersea Craft, in the Ocean, and Sends Warning to the United States Government of its Presence

By Courier Leased Wire.

Boston, Oct. 13.—A submarine of unidentified nationality was reported about 200 miles east of New York by the Steamer Bovic in a wireless message to-day. The course of the submarine was not stated.

The Bovic is a British freight steamer owned by the White Star Line and sailed from Manchester on September 30. Her commander, who probably made the report that a submarine had been sighted, is Captain Summers.

The Bovic, which is due to arrive in New York to-day or to-morrow from Manchester, Eng., reported sighting the submersible in latitude 40.17 north, longitude 68.77 west. It was added that the submarine was "astern," but whether pursuing the Bovic or keeping an independent course was not stated.

The figures of longitude as received are not correct, the degrees being wrong, but it was stated the error probably was one of only a few degrees.

Newport, R.I., Oct. 13.—Confirmation that the British Steamship Bovic sighted a submarine off the coast was contained in a statement by a naval official here to-day. He said

"A passenger steamer reported to Nantucket shoals lightship that she had sighted a German submarine well astern this morning."

No position was given nor direction about the submarine stated.

TWELVE DESTROYERS OF U. S. NAVY PATROL THE ATLANTIC

Conjectures are Rife as to the Exact Reason For Vigilant Watch Kept There

By Courier Leased Wire.

New York, Oct. 13.—A dozen destroyers of the United States navy are patrolling the ocean highways to and from North Atlantic ports to-day, but for what purposes is known only to naval authorities. It was reported that they went out to maintain the neutrality of American waters, but Rear Admiral Knight, Commandant of the naval station at Narragansett Bay is authority for the statement that no official action toward establishing such a patrol had been taken. He said, however, that this soon would be done.

The seaward dash of evelen destroyers from Newport yesterday caused much speculation. At least one other United States destroyer is known to have been on guard outside New York since the German submarine raid off Nantucket last Sunday. Efforts to explain the activity of the destroyers ranged from a reported discovery of a foreign submarine base to a rumor that a liner had been driven into Bar Harbor by a German submarine stationed off Rockland, Maine. All these stories lacked verification. Rear Admiral Gleaves, commander of the torpedo flotilla at Newport, R.I., said the sending of the destroyers to sea had no connection with the sailing of a liner from New York for Liverpool yesterday.

"There have been important developments," said he, "but you could not call them submarine developments because they are not on the submarine end." Since the advent of the German submarine off Nantucket the navy department has shut down all coast wireless stations. Navy officers have been sent to the Seagate station, Telefunken station, the National electric signalling company's Brooklyn station and all local wireless plants to instruct the operators as to the exact meaning of neutrality. It was stated that one newspaper wireless station here had sent out last Sunday to ships at sea an announcement of the raid of the U-53 and that it was regarded as an unneutral action in violation of the President's proclamation issued two weeks ago. The deportation of aliens from New York and Boston has been suspended by the bureau of immigration until the submarine peril is past. About 300 foreigners are at Ellis Island awaiting deportation. Half of these are Germans and Austrians.

PRESSURE OF ITALIAN OFFENSIVE MEANS OF RELIEF TO ROUMANIA

Austrian Advances Against That Country Must be Suspended in Order to Combat New Activities on the Carso Front.

By Courier Leased Wire.

New York, Oct. 13.—A cable to The New York Times from Milan, says:

The new push on the Carso will relieve the Austro-Hungarian pressure against Roumania. Roumania's case is dear to Italian hearts and popular feeling in northern Italy at any rate is waxing wroth over the seemingly excessive regard shown by the allies for Greek susceptibilities while there is danger of Roumania being overwhelmed.

On this account I am informed on very trustworthy authority that General Cadorna, the Italian commander, generously anticipated his latest attack by a full fortnight. Complete details of the victorious Italian advance are not yet available, but the importance of it is indicated by the largest haul of prisoners, nearly 7,000, yet made in a single day on the Italian front.

Before the attack the Italian lines in the Gorizia valley were bounded on the east by the Vertobizza River, then they ran in a southerly direction east of Sagrado and west of Loquizza, then behind hill 102 and behind Villanova and northerly of hill 208, then along the eastern slopes of hill 144 and thence forward in almost a straight line to hill 85, directly east of Monfalcone. Now the advance has left everyone of the above named localities far in the rear.

Furthermore Jamiano was passed into Italian occupation. General Cadorna's serious peril and the formidable position of the Heremada range protecting Nabresina and Trieste is under heavy bombardment by the Italian guns. The Austrian forces in this district are estimated at 100,000 men.

Except for temporary interruptions necessitated by dense fogs and torrential rains the preliminary bombardment extended simultaneously from Plezzo heights all the way down to Monfalcone, lasting over nine days, and during the final phase reached such a degree of intensity that the expenditure of shells averaged 150 a minute. During the bombardment, which converted the Carso into a sea of fire, terrific explosions and vast incendiary outbreaks were visible at many spots behind the Austrian lines. Unable to make a direct reply, the Austrian general vented their spleen by flinging 15 inch shells into Gorizia.

When on the ninth day the Italian artillery ceased, the Austrians straightaway began raining tempests of grenades on all the roads leading to the Italian front line, naturally supposing that a large column was mustered there in readiness to support an infantry assault from the forward trenches. General Cadorna had, however, outwitted them by withdrawing all his troops to the rear to avert preventable casualties. In fact they were at the moment safe in their encampments indulging in a hearty meal, so that the Austrians in their nervous state kept up an unprecedently wasteful expenditure of big shells till long after midnight.

Already hundreds of half-maddened Austrians from their front trenches had rushed terror-stricken into the Italian lines, signifying by gestures the fearful havoc wrought by the Italian guns.

When after midnight the Italian officers and patrols penetrated to the defenses wrecked and filled with dead and dying. It is believed that the Austrian losses exceed those sustained in any earlier offensive, and that the recall of regiments from the Roumanian front has become inevitable.

TURN SUBSCRIPTIONS INTO CASH AND GET BIG VOTES; TO-MORROW NIGHT IS YOUR LAST CHANCE

Prizes All on Display, to See Them Will Convince You of Their Value, Are Any of Them to be Yours?

To-morrow night at eight o'clock closes Opportunity Period the second big act of the Courier's great contest will there be so many votes given on subscriptions so it behooves all candidates to get all their promises cashed by to-morrow. Candidates will find that it is not as easy to secure subscriptions to-day as it was at the start which goes to show that some of the live wires are covering the territory while the subscriptions are easiest to get. ARE YOU ONE OF THESE LIVE WIRES?

About the Prizes. The prizes are all on exhibition now and we wish every candidate and their friends would step in and see the auto and have Mr. Pitcher or one of his assistants explain the good qualities of the DeLo Bros as compared to any other car near the same money. The Diamond Rings, Watches, Set Rings and Seal Rings are on display at the DeLo Bros and Newman and Son's Jewelry Stores on Colborne Street, and are the most beautiful that have ever been given away in a contest ever held in Brantford. The Diamonds are of the first class grade and are not stones with flaws in them and the same with the Watches and other rings. The two Phonographs are on exhibition at the music stores of Chas. Brown and T. J. Barton and Son. Step in and hear the wonderful tone that the Grafola and Victor have.

Some candidates are under the impression that they will get more votes for their subscriptions later on in the contest, but to this class we must say that they are making a very grave mistake for we have told you time and time again that the votes would decrease every week and such will be the case, so again we urge you to cash every promise that you have by to-morrow night.

Will Handle No More Letters. Rome, via Paris, Oct. 13.—The Holy See will no longer be responsible for the transit of letters of prisoners of war, says The Corriere D'Italia. Kingstonian is Not Torpedoed

Boston, Oct. 13.—The British steamer Kingstonian, reported as among those torpedoed by a German submarine off Nantucket last Sunday, is safe in port, according to word received yesterday by John M. Thomas of this city, local manager of the Leyland Line, which owns the steamer. Mr. Thomas said his information showed that the Kingstonian was thousands of miles from Nantucket last Sunday.

As the Kingstonian is in the service of the British Admiralty, Mr. Thomas was not permitted to indicate the port at which she had arrived, but he said that it would take her two weeks of steaming at her usual speed to reach Nantucket, so that it was evident she was nowhere near the scene of the submarine's operations in these waters last Sunday.

Thomas E. Blair, a fireman on the train running between Palmerston and Durham, was mysteriously shot in the leg while attending his regular duties in the cab of his engine.

LATTER DAY SAINTS

Letter from Mr. R. F. Holtzman Protests Against Their Teaching Here.

Brantford, Oct. 12, 1916. Editor Courier:

No doubt many readers of the Courier have been visited at their homes, and even at their places of business, by two men who state that they are "Latter Day Saints." Now I am a very unworthy person to take up the defence of the cause of Christ and I would sooner someone else had taken the matter in hand. There is no desire to say anything unnecessary against the teachings of these men, but it is not kindness to them to let them go from door to door to the unwary and mislead them, and it is not right to allow people to take up, without warning, the doctrine of the "Latter Day Saints" or "Mormons," when the fundamental truths are unsound. I first came in contact with these people near Brookholm, a suburb of Owen Sound.

Briefly, they teach baptism is a saving ordinance, and more, it is only efficient if a "Latter Day Saint" or "Mormon" elder does the immersing. They thus deny the efficacy of faith in Christ's shed blood as an atonement for sin. Next they deny what is called the "divinity of Christ," in other words, they deny that Christ came from the Glory and took upon Himself the form of a man and they deny the "Immaculate conception." Then they have what is called a "Mormon Bible," which Jos. Smith claimed to have revealed to him by God. The Bible we all recognize they call "Truth." Their so-called Bible they call "righteousness" and the passage "truth and righteousness kissed each other" (which speaks of the fruit of the atoning work of Christ), they claim is when God's own Word—the Bible, and Joe. Smith's come together. I was told by numbers that when elders were ordained a voice was heard in the air above the audience saying in an impressive way—for a name let us say, "John Smith, I ordain thee an elder of the most High God." That is a way in which they appoint elders. People may deceive themselves, and unconsciously deceive others, but most of us will find the best explanation to the above last statement is, that when ventriloquism is used to make believe, it is God's voice, there is more than unconscious deception used. I have yet to find that they preach the blood of Christ as atonement.

In closing, let me say there was a time when I strongly advocated having such things alone, but I have found out that it is a great deal less difficult to warn people of hidden evil doctrine beforehand, than to try and free them of it when it has been swallowed with a sugar coating. Should we not (I feel sure we should) treat them with Christian kindness, but firmly and distinctly give them to understand that we have nothing in common with such teaching, and that such a passage as "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved," condemns their teaching.

I am yours, etc. R. F. HOLTSMAN.

Major James Sheppard, of Queenston, superintendent of the Welland County Good Roads System, was killed by a train while driving his auto over the railway crossing at Brookfield.

GERMANS IN PRISON CAMPS IN ENGLAND.

Most war pictures showing prison camps come from Germany, because France does not give much information regarding her prisoners, and until recently Britain has not had many. Here is a scene in one of the new great prison camps in England. The men are kept in barred-wire enclosures by day and sleep in tents.

THE SITUATION

The case of Roumania is commencing to arouse intense public interest. There can be no doubt whatever that the Hunns have made up their minds, if possible, to subject that people to the same horrors as they visited upon Belgium and Serbia.

On the Macedonian front, the Allies maintain their progression. The Serbians have repulsed violent counter attacks, and gained a footing in the village of Brod, southeast of Monastir.

TRIBUTE TO BORDEN. Sir Robert Borden is the one man above all others in Canada, upon whom the burden of war has fallen heaviest.

"What is staked on the issue of this war is precisely the future of mankind. If we do not know utterly beat down the Hohenzollerns, our children's children must be slaves to that dynasty; or else slaves to a militarist caste maintained to permit enslavement by the Hohenzollerns.

"Inasmuch as Sir Robert Borden boldly put Canada on that way, and has steadily pursued that course, he appears to me to have been guided by well-informed sense and by such inspiration as may properly be termed genius.

Allied cause; a large encouragement to Berlin." It is most assuredly a grand thing for this Dominion that she had such a man at the head of affairs during this time of stress.

A DISAPPOINTING SPEECH.

The closer the speech which Sir Wilfrid Laurier delivered at London, is examined, the more disappointing it proves. In the first place, he devoted a large portion of his time to a political attack upon the Government, a course not seemly, unless he and his associates are about to force a general election.

In the second place, the ex-Premier emphasized the fact altogether too much that he is still a "pacifist," and that after the war is won by the Allies, he hopes that the Empire will revert to the military status of before the war.

"He is opposed to national preparation for war. He says that if Britain had prepared for war she would not have been nearly so strong financially as she is now. That is to say, if Britain had made military preparations for war she would not have been so well prepared financially for war. Here, also, the argument is unconvincing.

The truth of the matter is that the Liberal leader is altogether out of touch with the people in this matter. Fully as much so as when he contends that the German people are not to blame in connection with this awful war, but only the Prussian authorities.

The general public know better than that, and they are also most unmistakably down upon pacifist talk at this period.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Laurier evidently still believes in unpreparedness.

Lloyd George makes the statement: "We must lay the foundations for a war extending over a prolonged period. That is the only way to ensure victory."

The dose which Constantine has had to swallow in connection with the latest ultimatum of the Allies leads to the thought that uneasy must be the stomach of such a monarch.

Premier Heart yesterday in Toronto took occasion to categorically deny that he had been offered or was looking for a place on the bench. He also added: "I have no intention of resigning the Premiership."

W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, has been retained to defend Joseph Montgomery, held on suspicion in connection with the murder of his brother near Madoc.

Port Hope voted ten years' tax exemption to the Sanitary Manufacturing Company.

COUNTY COURT

The case of Hyslop vs. Yeo is being tried before Judge Hardy in the county court to-day.

BUILDING PERMIT

A permit was this morning granted to Mr. John W. Blakey for the erection of a frame shed, at 234 Sheridan St., to cost $150.

ON DUTY ONCE MORE

Governor J. W. Brown had so far recovered by this morning as to be able to appear in his office at the court house.

GRANT TO BANTAMS

An acknowledgment of the recent municipal grant of $50 to the 216th Bantam Battalion has been received by City Clerk H. F. Leonard from Lieut. Geo. I. Walsh. Accompanying the letter was the request that the thanks of the battalion be conveyed to the city council.

WOUNDED

Word received in the city yesterday announced the wounding of Agnew Howard, a son of Brigadier Lt.-Col. F. A. Howard, of this city, now at Camp Borden. Agnew Howard went overseas last spring with the 83rd battalion, being since drafted to the front.

CLEANING ARMORIES

The advance guard of the second Brantams are continuing their activities in preparing the quarters of the battalion for winter occupation. This morning they were busily engaged in repairing the building on Dalhousie St., used last winter as the mess quarters of the 84th battalion. One would-be recruit yesterday signified his willingness to join up with the battalion, but was unable to pass the medical requirements.

SOCIAL EVENING

Over 60 invited friends from Brantford, Toronto, Paris, and other points gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Birtch, Newport. Thanksgiving evening and an enjoyable time was spent in dancing, music and games, the occasion being the return of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Campbell from their wedding trip. A dainty lunch was served and the journey homeward at an early hour in the morning, wishing the young couple a happy and prosperous life.

CAR SMASHED

The owner of a Ford automobile, carrying license number 42892, experienced a peculiar accident to his car this morning at about 11 o'clock at the corner of Queen and Dalhousie streets. While attempting to back up on the slippery pavement, the brakes refused to work, and the car crashed into the curbing in front of the post office, breaking the rim entirely free from the spokes and hub. Aid was summoned and a new wheel put on, after which the car was towed away for further repairs.

READING ROOMS OPEN

The reading rooms of the Public Library will be open next Sunday afternoon from two to five o'clock. The rooms have been closed during the summer months, but with the approach of the winter months and the inclement weather, the attraction of outdoor exercise will give way to the inclination to stay inside and read, and it is to accommodate this desire on the part of the patrons of the library that this move has been taken.

Can't Find Dandruff

Every bit of dandruff disappears after one or two applications of Danderrin rubbed well into the scalp with the finger tips. Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderrin at any drug store and save your hair. After a few applications you can't find a particle of dandruff on any falling hair, and the scalp will never itch.

CONTEST HELD IN ELOCUTION

Miss Beatrice Richards Carries off Honors in R. T. of T. Contest.

Another of those oratorical contests so popular with the citizens of Brantford was held last evening by the Royal Templars of Temperance in the school room of Colborne St. Church. The popularity of these contests was evinced by the splendid turnout, both of spectators and contestants to participate in the event.

Mr. J. W. Shepperson discharged the duties of chairman in his most acceptable manner, and introduced a splendid program to his hearers. The chairman, in a brief opening address recalled reminiscences of the early days of the order and of the first gold medal contest ever held in the Dominion. After viewing the many benefits to be derived from taking part in such contests, he called upon Mr. North, the Dominion superintendent of the order, to say a few words.

Mr. North proceeded directly to explain the details of the contest, and the regulations governing the candidates. The winner was chosen by three judges, who sat in different parts of the room, and who afterwards compared their results and thus arrived at a decision.

The opening number on the program was a delightful solo by little Miss Grant, Contestant No. 1, who then called on to give her selection. Miss Oldham sang a delightful song, Candidat No. 2 then took part, and at the conclusion of her effort Miss Adams was called upon to sing. Contestant No. 4 was heard from and Miss Oldham rendered another solo.

The remaining contestant having been heard by Mr. A. W. Burt, Mr. North of Hamilton, and Mr. Bert Brown, retired to select the winner. Miss Adams was once more called into service and responded with another solo.

Mr. Shepperson, in an address on the order, made a comparison between the conditions of temperance to-day and that which existed some time ago. Many of the prominent men connected with the recent legislation effecting province wide prohibition, had obtained their start in this direction within the R. T. of T.

Mr. Townsend, on behalf of the local council of the order, expressed gratification of splendid attendance and for the enthusiasm displayed by those competing for the medal.

Mr. A. W. Burt advanced to the platform and delivered the decision of the judges, announcing Miss Beatrice Richards as the victor.

He stated that much difficulty had been experienced in selecting anyone whose effort surpassed the others, as they were all exceptionally excellent. Mr. Burt then gave a brief address, advising the candidates of improvements which might be made in their delivery and concluded by expressing pleasure at being present on such an auspicious occasion.

Mr. Collyer presented to Miss Richards the gold medal and after a short speech of a congratulatory nature, he invited the gathering to the hall of the order to engage in a pleasant social time and to partake of the dainty refreshments provided.

Prof. M. Hutton and Mr. F. E. Coombs Addressed the Teachers' Convention.

The danger of conveying to the minds of the young wrong and disinterested ideals by imparting to the study of literature too much of an intellectual aspect and not sufficient of an artistic and spiritual significance, was the subject of a stirring and impressive delivery yesterday at the afternoon session of the County Teachers' Convention, by Mr. Coombs of the Toronto Faculty of Education. In the course of his paper, Mr. Coombs answered most satisfactorily and masterfully questions which had been asked by various members of the convention, arising out of his morning address, which was the subject of some discussion at the opening of the meeting.

Mr. Coombs emphasized the necessity of the teachers being imbued with a proper appreciation of the message intended by the writer to be conveyed, and of the loftiness and beauty of the message.

The report of the nominating committee was also submitted to the convention and approved and ratified by them.

Prof. Hutton
The majority of the evening session last night was consumed in the hearing of a most helpful instructive and edifying address by Professor Maurice Hutton, principal of the University of Toronto, and President of the Ontario Educational Association. Professor Hutton selected as the subject of his address "Democracy and Education," and in the course of his speech gave out information and advice gladly received by all present. General approbation of the exceptionally high class of the papers read was expressed by all in attendance at the convention.

This morning at 8 a.m., the majority of the teachers of city and county left via G. T. R. for London, where the second day of the convention will be commenced in visiting and inspecting the schools.

SAFETY DEVICE FOR RAILROADS

Is Invented in this City by Mr. J. W. Roberts of Sarnia.

A safety device, which, if adopted generally by railroads, will revolutionize the present system of hose bags now in vogue on railroads, has been recently patented by Mr. J. W. Roberts of Sarnia.

The invention is primarily a safety device, but the elements of simplicity, efficiency and durability are all embodied in its construction. The contrivance operates automatically, and eliminates the hose bags now used, thus obviating the dangers hitherto experienced by trainmen in coupling and uncoupling while the train is being made up.

The device, which is about four feet in length, made of malleable iron, weighs about 90 pounds. There are three separate lines of pipe in its mechanism, each of which acts independently of the other two. The first models were made by the Pratt and Letchworth Company of this city, and when they were submitted to an air pressure of 105 lbs. in the preliminary tests, under the supervision of Supt. C. S. Hotham, of the Brantford Motor Truck Co., they endured the pressure in a most satisfactory manner.

As to the general dependability of the device, such authorities as Mr. Ogilvie, mechanical expert of the Dominion Railway Board, Mr. Parey, city, and the New York Central, and Mr. Kelly of the P. and M. Railroad, have all expressed the opinion that it is the only practicable solution for the difficulty on steam roads.

A special feature is the allowance made by means of guards on the sides of the heads, which will automatically force them to couple in places of 5 1-2 inches difference, or six inches. The universal joint to the rear, and upon which the two sections operate, prevents the device from turning, and thus no air can escape, as is the case in all other inventions of a similar nature.

Mr. Roberts stated to a Courier representative, that he had spent the past six years in perfecting his invention, which is well worth the time spent in examining it. It is at present open for inspection at the Brantford Motor Truck Co., on Jarvis street.

Helps! To Reduce "The High Cost of Living"

It has become almost a proverb in Brantford regarding the quality of the goods distributed by the Crompton Store, expressed usually by this phrase "If you get it at Crompton's, it is good." But in view of the condition named in the heading, the management has of late been more on the alert than ever, to keep their eyes open, to gather from any worthy source, articles of real merit that could be offered at prices effecting a saving to the buyer, and while the store does not pose as a purely philanthropic institution, it can, and does, demonstrate to the purchaser that in the quality of the goods it sells, and in the reasonable prices asked, it does effect for them a "substantial saving," plus a guarantee behind it.

A long list of real articles of value and utility are mentioned below—articles to eat, and articles to wear—and in all of which comes the chance to the buyer to become possessed of the "Penny Saved."

CAN LIQUOR BE CONFISCATED?

Debate Arises in Ottawa Court Over That Question.

By Courier Leased Wire.

Ottawa, Oct. 13.—An important legal point in connection with the Ontario Temperance Act was brought up in the police court this morning when defending counsel in the case of the Russell Hotel charged with having illegally stored a quantity of liquor on its premises, pleaded guilty to the charge, but denied the right of the presiding magistrate to issue an order for the confiscation of the liquor, on the grounds that there was no provision in the act in this regard.

Defending counsel took the ground that only under section 69 of the act where a conviction had been registered "for storing liquor on premises for sale" could an order for confiscation be granted.

Their views were concurred in by counsel for the prosecution, who stated as far as he could see the contentions of the defendants were correct. Magistrate Aske with reserved his decision which will be rendered on Friday next. Should the contentions of the defendants be upheld $10,000 worth of liquor seized at the Russell House will be returned and the Chateau Lanier will benefit to the extent of $5,000.

Killing the Calves

—All sorts of excuses are offered for the high price of beef, the most plausible being the killing of calves which should be allowed to grow into regular beef. You cannot have beef if you eat it as "veal," but you can have Shredded Wheat Biscuit which contains more real nutriment than beef and costs much less. Shredded wheat biscuit is the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. Make it your "meat" for ten days and see how much better you feel.
Wholesome and strengthening for any meal with milk or cream or in combination with fruits.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids—Splendid for System.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains, irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days.
This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with other salts who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation.
Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.
Here you have a pleasant, offer-weencing lithic-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

The Conspiracy

At the Grand Opera House on Monday, Oct. 16, Canada's newest producing company will offer Robert Baker and John Emerson's detective comedy, The Conspiracy. This play was first produced at the Garrick theatre, New York, where it enjoyed a run of seven months and was one of the last big successes produced by the late Charles Froham. In addition to its many thrilling and mysterious scenes it abounds in witty lines that are genuinely funny. The story of the play revolves around Margaret Holt, sister of Victor Holt, assistant district attorney, who has been the moving spirit in the crusade against a band of international gangsters who called themselves
The Scarlet Band. Intent upon gaining evidence that will secure the conviction of the gangsters, she obtains a position as stenographer to James Morton, alias Pero Alvarez, leader of the band. After many thrilling incidents she secures the convincing information and a list of the names of the members of the band, but is caught with the goods by Alvarez. In a state of fear she kills him and escapes. To hide from the police she takes a position of stenographer with Winthrop Clavering, an eccentric writer of sensational detective stories, who takes actual happenings for the plots of his narratives. He is also a detective and no mean ability and scores the police for their incompetency. Clavering decides to use this latest murder mystery as a theme and dictates his story to Margaret. He is convinced of the Emerson's detective construction of the actual murder that Margaret, fearing his knowledge, places herself at his mercy and con-

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing on once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or has feverish, stomach sour, bad breath, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Retuse any other kind with contempt.

FIGHTING CONTINUES WITH MUCH VIOLENCE IN THE TRANSYLVANIA

Roumanian Forces Offer Stubborn Defence to Pursuing Austrians—Review of the War Situation.

By Courier Leased Wire.

London, Oct. 13.—While the Entente armies in northern France and in the Austro-Italian war theatre are keeping up their heavy blows on the lines of their Teutonic foe, the latter is continuing to counter heavily by delivering crushing strokes on the Transylvania front.

The Roumanians are being forced back in Northeastern Transylvania as well as along the Roumanian border in the Hermannstadt and Kronstadt regions, according to the current war office reports. Vienna claims that the Roumanian resistance has been broken on both sides of the Maros River, where Berlin yesterday announced an encircling movement in progress. The Roumanians are declared to be in flight here, while their retreat continues near Kronstadt, where King Ferdinand's troops are falling back towards the frontier passes.

Italian gains in the fighting of Wednesday on the Carso front, where General Cadorna is pushing towards Trieste are admitted by the Italians east of Oppacchiasella and their capture of the town of Novava.

An air raid carried out by forty French and British machines on the Mauser Works at Oberndorf, Germany, during which four tons of explosives were dropped and six German machines were shot down as they attempted to defend the works, is announced by Paris.

No infantry action in the Somme region is reported by Paris to-day, but intense activity by the artillery is in evidence both north and south of the Somme. In the former region the French apparently are preparing for another drive in the regions of Morval and Bouchavesnes, while their guns are pounding the neighborhood of Chauhnes, south of the river.

THE RED SOX ADD ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP TO THEIR LONG AND BRILLIANT RECORD

Yesterday Annexed World's Series For Fourth Time, Defeating Brooklyn 4-1--Shore Gave Only Three Hits--Olson's Error Cost the Game

By F. G. Menke.
Boston, Oct. 13.—Ivan Olson made a doubled-barreled error on one play in the third inning of yesterday afternoon's game—and right then and there there was written the word "finish" on the world series entertainment of 1916. That brace of fozzles by the Dodger shortstop put the Red Sox into the lead and never afterward were they headed. Olson's bobble-bobble enabled the Sox to win the fifth and deciding game in the battle for the diamond championship of the world and permitted Boston to retain untarnished its record of never having lost in a combat for the highest honors in baseball.

The thirteenth duel for the baseball title now is history—but it is not the kind that Brooklynites will read with any emotions akin to joy or pride. The story of these five games shows, on the whole, the Dodgers were outclassed; that they met a team better in every department of play than their own. And the inevitable resulted. In practically every pinch the Dodgers flithered. In every crisis they played their worst baseball. Time and again during these five games a timely hit might have won for them; just as often a bit of altright work afield might have saved the game. But, always, except during the third game which they won, the Dodgers' sluggers were impotent in moments when it was necessary to produce a safety, and the infield insisted upon "cracking" just at those moments when a fozzle meant the loss of the game to them.

The Sox breezed through to victory because they played far beyond the game of the Dodgers. They performed with machine-like regularity. They never became rattled, never nervous, never afraid of the outcome, as did their foes. They just went along with one idea fixed coolly and calmly in their minds—to win.

And they won without any real effort.

The Dodgers emerged from the series with a lone victory to their credit. And many there are who feel that it was something in the nature of a gift. Carl Mays was permitted to linger on the Red Sox mound in that battle long after it was apparent to most of the observers that he was losing his hold on things; that he was in distress.

Larry Gardner the Hero.

Every world series has its hero and the laurel wreath of 1916 properly belongs upon the dome of Larry Gardner, third-sacker for the Sox. He covered acres of ground around his station and his brilliant work in the field choked off several Dodger rallies. His home run drive in the third game was a terrific clout while his circuit swat in the fourth broke the hearts of the Dodgers and cinched the game for his team.

"Hi!" Myers played the best ball for the men of Brooklyn. He, too, achieved a homer and made several spectacular catches, but his greatest feat was in that second battle which went 14 innings. In the ninth, with the speedy Janvrin on third and one following the snarling of Hoblitzel's liner, nipped Janvrin by several feet and staved off defeat for five more rounds.

It was one of the most perfect throws ever made on a ball field.

The story of the final game that was played yesterday afternoon before that record-breaking crowd is much the same as the other Red Sox victories. It tells of the inability of the Dodgers to wallop when whallops meant tallies, of fissures appearing in their defensive work, just at the moment when it spelled ruin to them. It recounts, too, how the Sox, keen witted, took advantage of every opportunity and transformed it into a run.

The job of pushing the Dodgers into oblivion as far as world's honors are concerned was delegated to Ernie Shore, the long and lean right-hander. He yielded only three hits during the entire game, and not a clear belt was made off his hurling until the seventh when Mowrey zipped one into left field. In the preceding inning Chief Myers made the first Dodger safety, a flukey one by bounding the ball too high for Shore to pull down in time to get his man. The final Dodger swat was executed in the ninth by Stengel.

The Dodgers jumped into the lead in the second when Cutshaw walked, was sacrificed to second, went to third on an out, and scored on a passed ball by Caddy. But their supremacy was short lived. In the Sox half of the same inning, Lewis jammied a smashing drive to left. It was too far in for Wheat to catch on the fly, so he elected to take it on the first bound, holding Lewis to a single.

But right there the famous "Boston Luck" made itself conspicuous. The ball took a freak bound just at Wheat was set for it, and leaped far over his head, rolling to the fence, while Lewis ran to third, scoring a minute later on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

It was in the third out that Olson put the blooie-bloolie upon the Dodgers' hopes and caused the Red Sox band to boom forth with the strains of "A Perfect Day." It was right here that Olson presented the game to the Sox by making two errors on one hit, a baseball freak—Caddy, the first man up singled. Shore went out on a foul, trying to sacrifice. Hooper got a base on balls and then came Janvrin. He jogged one to Olson. The Dodger shortstop fumbled it in trying to pick it up, ruining his chance of throwing out Janvrin at first. That was error number one. Then he became so excited that he threw the ball to Cutshaw at second, hoping to force out Hooper, although Hooper already arrived at that station. The throw went wild and before it was recovered, Cady had crossed the plate. Hooper was on third and Janvrin on second. The scoring in that session ended when Shorten sent Hooper home with a single.

Hooper Made Final Run

The final run of the world's series of 1916, was made by Hooper, the nemesis of the Dodgers in the fourth inning. Hooper singled and Janvrin immediately followed with a long double to left sentre, which sent "Andsome Arry" home. A boner made Janvrin's two bagger possible. Wheat could have made the catch, but Myers ran into his territory and when none of the Dodgers yelled orders, Myers kept on and could not reach the drive, while Wheat kept out of the way.

Jeff Pfeffer pitched a fair game for the Dodgers and nothing more. The Sox showed no fear of his speed and his curves. They stepped right into them and banged them. Unfortunately for Pfeffer, they acquired their safeties just at moments when it hurt the most in the run column.

The Dodgers made noises like a rally in the ninth inning, but soon became silent. Stengel opened up the round with a single to left. Wheat who followed, promptly and ingloriously fanned. Cutshaw tried to "kill" the ball and was out. Janvrin to Hoblitzel, while Stengel advanced to second.

And then came Mowrey. He passed up two heaves and passed out the third. The ball soared into the air. Scott ran back into short left, set himself, and kerpunk—Mowrey was out. The side was out, the game was over.

And the world series of 1916 had come to an end.

"EVERYBODY KNOWS WHERE"

TWENTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF ST. ANDREWS

From a Small Beginning the Congregation Has Grown to Notable Proportions—Those Identified With the Early History of the Parish.

This autumn at St. Andrews' Church completes the first twenty-five years of its history. The first steps towards the foundation of the congregation occurred in 1878 when the session in Zion Church moved in the matter. On February 12th, 1890 the session of Zion Church passed the following resolution:—"That a suitable lot be secured in the North Ward, on which to erect a building suitable for Sunday school purposes, and ultimately to serve the purpose of a regularly organized congregation."

Messrs. W. N. Hossie, J. K. Osborne and William Watt were appointed a committee to secure a lot. In July, 1890 the site on which the church stands, on James Street, was purchased for $2,550 and a committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions to pay for same.

In October, 1891, Mr. W. N. Hossie reported a list of persons who were willing to work, which was passed upon and accepted by the session of Zion Church. In November, 1891, the session of Zion Church decided to organize a mission at St. Andrews' and Dr. Wm. Nichol was asked to take charge of a Sunday evening meeting. This new Sunday evening organization, had the following officers: Superintendent, W. N. Hossie; Secretary, W. J. Knowles; Treasurer, J. P. McLaren; Librarian, A. Grant; Organist, Miss A. Wallace. Dr. Nichol was to have Mr. Robert Inglis to play the organ at the Sunday evening service.

Previous to this Sunday school service had been organized by the Queen Street mission on Niagara Street. As most of the workers were Presbyterians, it was decided to go on as a Sunday school with the new St. Andrews' school.

In 1892 a weekly Wednesday evening meeting was commenced by Mr. W. N. Hossie in charge. In 1894 Mr. J. H. Friend was appointed lay assistant at the Mission.

In 1895 Mr. Alex. Moffatt was appointed Superintendent of St. Andrews' Sunday school, a position which he held continuously until he removed to Calgary. He was succeeded by Mr. J. S. Howie, who is the present Superintendent.

On March 20th, 1899, the Presbytery of Paris met in St. Andrews' Sunday school to organize a congregation. Rev. E. Cockburn presided. The first communion roll, as presented at this meeting had fifty-two names on it, having more added soon after.

The first Session of the congregation were—W. N. Hossie, Alex. Moffatt, James J. Allen, Warren Turnbull, W. B. Wood.

In November, of 1899, the congregation called Rev. J. S. Scott, of Resper, as their first minister. After four years he was succeeded by Rev. F. W. Anderson of the Canadian Army. In two years he was followed by the Rev. F. J. Maxwell, now of Toronto, who remained pastor of St. Andrews between three and four years. The next pastor was Rev. J. W. Gordon, who has been in charge of the congregation since May, 1912.

In 1907, an addition was made to the original building, and re-opening services took place in November of that year. At the present time, the membership is well over the four hundred mark. In connection with this 25th anniversary, special services will be held next Sunday, Oct. 15th, when Rev. F. J. Maxwell, of Toronto, will preach. On Sunday, October 22nd, a reunion communion service will be conducted by the pastor when the preacher for the day will be Rev. W. S. Wallace, D.D., of Bloor St. Presbyterian church, Toronto. Invitations have been sent to former members and workers who are near enough to attend.

On Monday evening, October 23rd, a re-union tea meeting will be held. The program will be good and supper will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Rev. Mr. Gordon, the present minister, is a most earnest worker in the Master's vineyard, and an earnest pulpit orator. He and the members of his congregation will receive hearty and general congratulations upon the fact that the ending of the first quarter of a century is celebrated under such auspicious auspices.

Chris Quinn, of Guelph, fell from an apple tree and it is thought his back is broken. The G.T.R. station at Bronte was burned last night, including the station agent's home; loss $7,000.

NANETTE

Night after night now Peter Frank the elf, came with his silver balloon of moonlight for Jane's doll Clarissa. Night after night, if you'll believe it, he took Jane with them and they all went to the doll convention in the fairy forest. Jane came to know the dolls of all the nations. First there was Nanette, dark-haired and pale. Nanette was French. Jane thought she'd never seen so many trills and tucks and bangles and bows. What's more, she carried a parasol and wore a string of pearls around her neck. And, between you and me, she put on airs. Jane thought so, too. "Dear me," Jane said to her. "You do look beautiful and no mistake." Nanette stared. Then she took candy from her handbag and the elf bade Jane eat it. Jane obeyed and to her great surprise, when she spoke to Nanette again, her tongue turned every English word she spoke into French. "Nanette said with a shrug. "I do look nice. All French women have good taste in clothes. Our very poorest girls look neat."

RIPLING RHYMES

BY WALT MASON
THE ANOMALY
While riding in my buzz-buzz cart, I hit Bill Wax and spoiled his frame, and knocked his marrow-bones apart, and he remarked, "I was to blame!" I said, "This dark sorrow sends; I do not run my cart to kill or mutilate my dearest friends. I'll pay the surgeon if he'll fix the bones I've broken, rent and bowed; and if you journey o'er the Stix, I'll see you have a Palm Beach shroud." "It was my fault," I heard him say, "and you don't have to pay a cent, for I was walking like a jay, and wasn't looking where I went. I busted every rule, I think, which you ought to govern gents on the blink, I think a while I should stay put." Bill Wax shines brighter than a star; Bill Wax deserves blame; Caesar is not in every case to blame! Hereafter, as I tour the town in my new car that swifly hies, I'll always try to run him down in preference to other guys.

SIDE TALKS

By Ruth Cameron
WOMEN ARE LIKE THE ANGELS, those who suffer belong to them. "Should a woman still love her husband if he had been sent to prison for a serious crime? Should she stand by him and try to get him out?" A reader friend sent me that question. We talked it over the other evening. There were many opinions on the different phases of the question. Something Would Depend Upon His Innocence or Guilt. In the first place something would depend upon whether one believed that one's husband was guilty. If one believed in his innocence, and if his previous life justified me, it would certainly believe in it even though the evidence to the contrary were very strong—there would, of course be no question as to whether one would continue to love him and stand by him. Suppose, on the other hand, he were unquestionably guilty. Naturally one's attitude would be different. She Would Feel That He Needed Her More Than Ever. The woman of the highest character would still stand by him. She would feel that in his weakness he had an even greater claim on her strength than ever before. But would she still love him? Ah,

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson III.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 15, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxv, 1-12. Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text, Matt. x, 25—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The successor to Felix, Porcius Festus, seems to have been in some respects like minded to Felix, for he, too, was willing to do the Jews a pleasure (xxv, 27; xxv, 12), and he would have sent Paul back to Jerusalem had he been willing to go. This was what the Jews desired, that they might lay in wait for him by the way and kill him (xxv, 3). Their hatred of Paul does not seem to have decreased in the least during two years, for they were still full of grievous complaints against him which they could not prove (verses 2, 7). He was having wonderful fellowship with the Lord Jesus, for whose sake he was suffering and of whom it was written, "False witnesses did rise up; they laid to my charge things that I knew not." "Reproach hath broken my heart, and I am full of heaviness" (Ps. xxxv, 11; lxxv, 20).

When we consider such words as these, "Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue," "Thou shalt keep them secretly in a pavilion from the strife of tongues," "There shall no evil befall thee," "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper" (Job v, 21; Ps. xxxi, 20; xcl, 10; Isa. lvi, 17) and other similar assurances we are tempted to wonder a little, but then we remember that Paul was told that he must suffer great things for Christ's sake, and he taught others that we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God and that all who will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. And our work we would have tribulation, and after He ascended He said to one of the churches that He would cast some of them into prison, but they were to continue faithful even if they were to die, and some who had been killed were told to rest awhile till others should be killed, as they were (Acts ix, 16; xiv, 22; II Tim. iii, 12; John xvi, 23; II Cor. ii, 10; vi, 11). He certainly loves His own and will to the uttermost, yet He allowed the disciples to toll nearly all night against a contrary wind, and He allowed Lazarus to continue sick and die and be buried that God might be glorified.

We must be in mind that just because we are His we have the world, the flesh and the devil to contend with, but He will not suffer us to be tried above that we are able, and all our trials and afflictions are working for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory (I Cor. x, 13; II Cor. iv, 17-18). When from the kingdom of Caesar that decided matters for the present, and Festus said, "Unto Caesar shalt thou go" (verse 12). It may be that the Lord's night message to him, "So must thou bear witness also at Rome" (xxvii, 11), helped him to decide to appeal to Caesar, for Caesar meant Rome, and this may have seemed to him his opportunity.

King Agrippa and Bernice having come to Caesarea to salute Festus, the whole matter was laid before them, and Agrippa expressed a desire to hear Paul for himself, and that will be our lesson for next week. This was being fulfilled the Lord's message to Ananias concerning Paul. "He is a chosen vessel unto me to bear my name before the gentiles and kings and the children of Israel (ix, 15). As Festus rehearsed the matter to Agrippa, he said that the whole matter seemed to be a question of Jewish superstition, and specially concerning one Jesus, who was dead, but whom Paul affirmed to be alive (verse 19). Does not that seem to describe the knowledge that many so called enlightened people have of Him even now? Many are like Gallo and care for none of these things (xxviii, 15-17), who more, even among churchgoers, who take some part in the public worship outwardly, know nothing of Him as a personal Saviour and friend.

It is written of such in Isa. xxix, 13, "This people draw near me with their mouth and with their lips do honor me, but they remove their heart far from me." Also in Ezek. xxxiii, 21, "They hear thy words, but their heart goeth after their covetousness." In Matt. xv, 8, 9, our Lord quoted the words from Isaiah concerning the hypocrites of His day. Can you not hear our Lord saying to you, "What think ye of Jesus? Whom do ye say that I am? Does your heart reply, 'O Lord, thou art to me my own Saviour, who didst bear my sins on the cross and hast redeemed me by Thy precious blood, that I might live for thee, and after I have suffered a while share Thy kingdom and glory.'"

THE HOT WEATHER TEST makes people better acquainted with their resources of strength and endurance. Many find they need Hood's Serravallo's Tonic, which invigorates the blood, promotes refreshing sleep and overcomes that tired feeling.

Heaven keep us from ever knowing!

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under ordinary circumstances the distribution of a Daily Newspaper is a big task, even with an organization trained for the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers come all together, the difficulties become greater. The rush during the Great Prize Contest now on is an illustration.

At this time it will probably be impossible to avoid all mishaps and mistakes, although every precaution will be taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of each number of the paper.

The publishers are determined not only to remedy any such mishaps and mistakes, and to reduce them to the lowest degree, but to spare no trouble or expense to prevent them in future.

With this end in view the publishers request subscribers to communicate every complaint regarding late or non-deliveries by letter, card or Phone 139.

"You swear?"

And that simple answer sufficed. Miss Willoughby was silent for a long while, and then began speaking in a low, even tone, rather as though she were speaking to herself than to a second person.
"There were only the two of us, Harold and I, and our parents were devoted to us, and brought us up with every indulgence, so that, boy-like, Harold flung about his money as he pleased, and though often reproved and warned for extravagance, was always helped out of his scrapes."
"Our mother was an heiress and came of a wealthy family. She left her fortune to me, and as her will was framed it carried with it that also came in for a great deal more money than would have fallen to her from members of her family if she had not predeceased them. Our father therefore, only left me the London house with a few thousand pounds, and the rest went to Harold. "Unfortunately, we were orphaned of both our parents very soon after Harold had entered upon his career in the Dragoon Guards, being about four years his senior."
"I settled in the London house which was my own, and Harold had free quarters there whenever he was able to come. We were much attached, but his reckless, extravagant ways vexed me, for I was rather of the other way. I was careful and saving, and he was constantly asking me to give him money for his investment of my surplus, and I was always annoyed when Harold applied to me for money, for I knew that he had an income ample for all he could possibly need, and for every reasonable luxury and even extravagance as well.
"Harold hated friction, and very soon he found out that by dipping into his capital he could get out of his difficulties without an appeal to me. Unluckily, men seldom or never turn up to the money they leave to their sons—only that which they bequeath to their daughters, though my experience is that women are far more cautious in money matters than men. And apart from the overruling influence of their husbands or male relatives, are far less likely to play ducks and drakes with their fortunes than men."

Allardyce had seen enough of life to endorse this sentiment. With little sign of assent, Miss Willoughby went on to say something of her story, saw that she was understood. "I suppose I ought to have guessed why it was that Harold never applied to me any more, though I knew that I do not mean that I was vicious. With all his faults I had no bad grading vices, but he used a number of pastimes which cost money. He had polo ponies, he had splendid chargers, he had hunters. During his long leave he would take a fit neighborhood and fill it with friends. His brother-officer, an arrowed him, and he seldom refused a loan which was equivalent often to making a gift. He backed bills and had to pay. He played bridge in high stakes, and his losses must have totalled up to a very large sum. Then in an evil hour he took over some racing stables that were well sold off with their fine stud horses. Next he must begin backing his horses for heavy sums. He knew the time, of course, nor I believe this was the final cause of his ruin."
"I used to see him often. I do on him in a way, yet I often, I frightened at the things I heard of. I knew that unless he was making money again, he could not go on as he was doing."
"At that time I was much Clumberner. An old uncle, dying, he had left me an expected property to me, and nurse I was with him, and nurse I was with his last illness. This I and the illness was a long one, so I was much engrossed and could not see much of Harold."

"At that time I was much at Clumbermere. An old uncle was dying. He had left the whole of my property to me, and bills and other things to be with him and nurse him through his last illness. This I did, and the illness was a long one, and so I was much engrossed and I could not see much of Harold. His dying. It was a painful death-bed, but never one who died so hard. And he could not bear me out of his sight. For three nights and two days I never left him. It was in the midst of this long death struggle that Harold's letter came. I could not attend to it. I laid it aside till I should be more able to cope with it. Then, after death had released the sufferer, my strength gave out and for three days I lay in a darkened room, knowing nothing of what passed about me. When I got up there were funeral and family arrangements to engross my mind. I never came upon Harold's letter, which I had stuffed away in one of my colored dresses. What first brought the matter to my mind was seeing in the papers the arrest of James Kildare on the charge of felony and that it was a question of a cheque changed from four into four hundred pounds."

"And what did you do?"

"I did nothing. It was too late. Sentence had been passed before I awoke to what it could all mean."

"That Captain Willoughby had really done it?"

"That I would not believe at the first. I thought he was trying to find a way of escape for his friend. It was not until I had his packet—written on board the iron ship—that I knew the whole truth; and before I had made up my mind how I should act he was shot in the first engagement."

Allardyce sat breathing heavily. "And you kept silent, even though he was dead?"

"Would you blacken and disgrace the memory of your nearest and dearest when death had taken him away?"

"If the innocent were suffering for the guilty," said Allardyce in a low voice, "then I think I should have to speak the truth, whatever it cost!"

"I settled in the London House, which was my own, and Harold had free quarters there whenever he was able to come. We were much attached, but his reckless, extravagant ways vexed me, for I was rather of the other way. I was careful and saving. I liked to be constantly adding to my large income by judicious investment of my surplus, and I was always annoyed when Harold applied to me for money, for I knew that he had an income ample for all he could possibly need, and for every reasonable luxury and even extravagance as well."

"Harold hated friction, and very soon he found out that by dipping into his capital he could get out of his difficulties without an appeal to me. Unluckily, men seldom or never tie up to the money they leave to their sons—only that which they bequeath to their daughters, though my experience is that women are far more cautious in money matters than men, and, apart from the over-riding influence of their husbands or male relatives, are far less likely to play ducks and drakes with their fortunes than men."

Allardyce had seen enough of life to endorse this sentiment with a little sign of assent. Miss Willoughby, who knew something of her story, saw that she was understood.

"I suppose I ought to have guessed that it was that Harold never applied to me any more, though he was certainly going the pace in a great style. I do not mean that he was vicious. With all his faults I had no ungrading vices, but he loved a number of pastimes which cost money. He had polo ponies, he had splendid chargers, he had hunters. During his long leave he would take a fine neighborhood and fill it with friends. His brother-officers borrowed of him, and he seldom refused a loan, which was equivalent often to making a gift. He backed bridge for high stakes, and his losses must have totalled up to a very large sum. Then in an evil hour, he took over some racing stables that were being sold off with the finest stud of horses. Next he must begin backing his horses for heavy sums. He had not the time, of course, nor the knowledge for this pastime, and he believed this was the final cause of his ruin."

"I used to see him often. I doted on him in a way, yet I was half-frightened at the things I heard, and I knew that unless he was making his money either at cards or with his horses, he could not go on as he was going."

"At that time I was much at Clumbermere. An old uncle was dying. He had left the whole of my property to me, and bills and other things to be with him and nurse him through his last illness. This I did, and the illness was a long one, and so I was much engrossed and I could not see much of Harold. His letters were short and unsatisfactory, but I did not ask any questions, for I was afraid of what I might hear. Allardyce, the love of money was getting a horrible grip upon me. Though I could not spend half my income, I hated to part with it. I kept telling myself that Harold would pull round after he had won his wild oats—that if he bought his experience dear it was well worth the buying."

"And then suddenly came the war. Before long the Dragoons were ordered out. Harold came to see me and I thought, very thin and anxious looking, but he was full of the war, and exceedingly keen to be going out. It would cut a lot of cables, he said; he was selling off his hunters, his racers, his ponies. He had played the goat too long; now he was going to pull up. I believe he wanted to tell me more, but I did not want to hear. I kept my thoughts fixed on the war and the prospects of his squadron, and though it was hard to part with him like that, I too knew that it was best for him to go."

"At last he asked me if he might come to me in case he had difficulties to settle up. Oh, why did I not write him a cheque for a thousand pounds—for any sum—and give it to him then and there—to die by these I loved so dearly, so dearly, and whom I was never to see again?"

Miss Willoughby's voice broke. For a moment she hid her face in her hands, and her whole frame shook and heaved. But with a will- ingness that seemed wonderful to Allardyce, she controlled the wave of her emotion, and, looking up, took up the thread of her narrative calmly and firmly.

"But I did not want to part with my money—to encourage extravagance—as I put it to myself. So I gave an evasive and non-committal answer, saying that I thought I would have plenty when all these things were sold off to meet any liabilities he had. I can see Harold's face now as he took me in his arms and let money troubles loosen the tie between us. We were all in all, each other—in a way. And he went off brave and gallant, resolved on turning a new leaf and coming home to a better and less spendthrift life."

"Before he sailed I had a letter—a rather wild letter, blotted and scrawled—written in extreme haste and in great agitation. The burden of it was—'Send four hundred pounds at once to Jim Kildare. I knew Mr. Kildare—Harold had brought him sometimes to my house—this money must be sent! For the honor of our house and name there must be no delay!' Harold sailed the next morning. He made this appeal to me, confident of my aid—'You must do it—you must do it!—You heard I will write you the whole story; I cannot now. But I know that you will send the money to Jim Kildare.' Allardyce, I did not send it."

The girl sat silent with wide eyes fixed on the speaker. Light was breaking in upon her. That which she had once dimly guessed at she felt now was certain. It was Captain Willoughby who had forged the cheque.

"Do not think too hardly of me, Allardyce. When that letter reached me my old uncle was dying—actually

Complaints Of Non-Delivery

Under any circumstances the distribution of a newspaper is a big task, even with an organization of the purpose. When great numbers of new subscribers all together, the difficulties become very serious during the Great Prize Contest now in progress.

It will probably be impossible to avoid some mistakes, although every precaution is taken by the publishers to ensure the delivery of the paper.

Errors are determined not only to remedy mistakes, and to reduce them to the minimum, but to spare no trouble or expense to insure future.

When in view the publishers request subscribers to submit every complaint regarding late delivery by letter, card or Phone 139.

THE BRANTFORD COURIER.

Dressing Station, Flying Line—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

An urgent call for help again goes forth from the Motherland's mighty life-saving agency—the British Red Cross. The Empire is called upon to give greatly, give lovingly, give quickly, that the sick, wounded and suffering on all the battle fronts may not languish and perish in their hours of deepest need!

Here is a great work in which all can share. The Joint War Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John is the only institution which carries voluntary aid to the sick and wounded of the British forces on land and sea in every part of the world. Thousands of lives of our bravest and best are saved through this splendid work. YOUR gift may save a life. Isn't it worth doing?—IT IS. GIVE!

Make "Our Day" Your Red Cross Gift Day

Give on October 19th

Ontario's princely gift in 1915 of $1,614,000 rang a clarion mercy call, throughout the Empire. The British Red Cross were grateful beyond measure, and their appeal through Lord Lansdowne, President, now comes to us as to friends who sympathize with and help. The need is greater to-day than a year ago—it is ever growing. Will Ontario do less than she did last year? No! GIVE—give a day's pay, give all you can, GIVE!

Premier Hearst Has Seen the Work

"My visit to England and France has aroused deeper appreciation than ever of the splendid work of the Red Cross. It deserves every support, and I trust the people of Ontario will respond with their usual generosity to the British Red Cross Appeal for October 19th."

HON. W. H. HEARST,
Prime Minister of Ontario.

He gives twice who gives quickly. Your help is needed NOW!

The Motherland's only direct appeal to us for help in this great war is her great Red Cross mercy work. Ontario's response must and will be quick and generous. Give through the Treasurer of your Local Committee—Give through a subscription to the Clerk of your municipality—or, make it payable to Hon. T. W. McGarry, Treasurer British Red Cross Fund for Ontario, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Don't Let Your Stricken Defenders Call in Vain, but

Give and heal!

Give and heal!

The Red Cross looks after the transportation of sick and wounded—it equips thousands of hospitals, rest and convalescent homes, it supplies countless requisites for hospital work, clothing and other comforts. Over 2,000 Red Cross motor ambulances are at work on the various fronts, while "rest stations," hospital trains, steamers and launches, food for prisoners, books, special work for the blind, etc., etc., are a few, only, of Red Cross activities.

The Sick and Wounded Call For Your Help

Give on October 19th

Four gifts will go entirely to the British Red Cross, where, again, through much voluntary work, the working expenses are cut down to only 2 1/2% of the total revenue. Thus, if you give $10, actually $9.77 1/2 goes to the healing and saving of some stricken hero. The expenses of the Ontario Committee, advertising, printing, etc., are being met entirely by the Provincial Government.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Brings a Red Cross Message

"I bring a message of cheer to those who have relatives at the front and who fear they may be wounded. I believe everything human skill can do, that human care and sympathy can provide, is being done and provided each day and each night throughout the year by the Army Medical Corps and the Red Cross. It is a perfect marvel of efficiency."

MR. N. W. ROWELL, K.C.,
Leader of the Opposition.

COMMENT ON WORLD'S SERIES

Notes of Yesterday's Game, Which Gave Red Sox the Championship.

PITCHERS CHANGED

Players From International League Were Prominent in Game

Expert Scorers Disagreed

The official scorers upset all precedence by scoring two errors on one play. It was in the third inning, and Olson was charged with the double offence. The sporting writers protested, and many of them declined to score it in accordance with the decision of the officials.

Lewis cracked a line drive to left field in the second frame, and Wheat overran the ball while running at right angles to it in an effort to intercept it. Lewis reached third, and scored on Gardner's sacrifice fly.

Cady singled to right field to start the fourth. Shore tried to sacrifice but fouled out. Hooper drew a base on balls. Janvrin hit to Olson who juggled the ball momentarily. When he managed to grasp it he threw to Cutshaw, as Hooper was sliding to second. All hands were saved when Cutshaw let Olson's throw get away and Cady dashed hom from third. The scorers gave Olson an error on the fumble, and another on the throw to Cutshaw, although the play was continuous. Janvrin was thrown out trying to steal second.

At this stage Shorten singled sharply over second, and Hooper scored from third, the fourth and last Boston run of the game.

Juggling the Pitchers

Dell pitched the eighth inning against the winners, and prevented any scoring, although one single, that by Janvrin, was made off him.

Pfeffer was taken out at the commencement of the eighth to allow Merkle to bat for him, in the hope of starting a rally. Merkle ripped a sizzling drive to left field, but "Duffy" Lewis dashed in and made a shoestring catch back of shortstop.

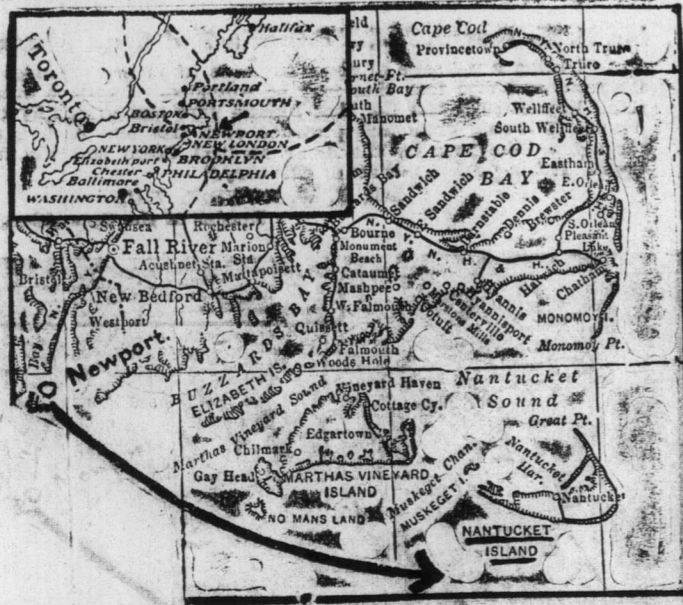

Internationals Did the Hitting

The hitting of Cady, Shorten and Janvrin, three former International Leaguers, accounted for three of the four Boston runs. Brooklyn's only run was scored without a hit. It was the outcome of the only base on balls issued by Shore, and was assisted by a sacrifice hit and a passed ball charged to Cady.

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next is wet and cold, and unless the mother is on her guard the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mother's best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose will prevent colds or if it does come on suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will quickly cure it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

New Record Set For Attendance

Boston, Oct. 13.—The attendance and receipts for yesterday's game established a new record in this department of world's series, supplanting the figures made in the same park October 11, a year ago, when the amounts were a few hundred less. The attendance for the five games this season aggregated 152,359 and the receipts $385,590.50. Of this sum the players received $162,927.45, each club $92,052.02, and the National Commission $38,569.05. The Boston Club as winners, divided $77,756.47 on a basis of 95 shares, which the players are understood to have agreed upon as the method of apportionment. This would allow $3,910.26 a share. The twenty-three Brooklyn players, as losers, divide $85,170.98 into equal shares of $2,334.82 each. Owing to the fact that there are more players to share in the winners' money this year the individual share is not a record. The total receipts yesterday were $83,873; the National Commission's share was $8,387.30, while each club's share was $37,742.85.

Music and Drama

"Everywoman"

The production is on a vast scale and represents a cash outlay of upwards of sixty thousand dollars. It is considered by Henry W. Savage as his greatest triumph as a producer. The cast is a long one and includes thirty-seven speaking characters. The leading and title role is played by Paula Shay, a beautiful young woman, considered by many as the best "Everywoman" Mr. Savage has ever had.

The accompanying music is one of the features. It is symphonic in character and includes twenty-six numbers which were especially composed for "Everywoman" by George Whitefield Chadwick, dean of the New England Conservatory of Music, of Boston. A special orchestra is carried by the organization to properly render the score. The costumes for the production are especially rich and new. At the Grand Opera House Saturday matinee and night.

The Grand

One of the largest audiences ever assembled in the Brant theatre last evening, witnessed there a performance of equally exceptional quality. From beginning to end there was Chief perhaps among the many attractions, were the pictures of the Hon. Lloyd George and Sir Sam Hughes reviewing the Canadian troops at Bramshot Camp, England, where the 125th battalion is now stationed, a film which elicited applause and appreciation from all.

In "Little Lady Eileen," dainty Marguerite Clark won perhaps more popularity than ever before in her career in the movies. The picture is one of the strongest and most enthralling ever seen in this city. Included also in the movie bill are the awfully installment of "John Bull" and the first series of "Bud Fisher's" internationally famous cartoons, "Mutt and Jeff."

The vaudeville program, in the hands of the Cathedral Quartette presenting a novel harmony singing number, and the Bell-Thayer Brothers, 20th century athletes, was rendered to the appreciation of all.

Sgt. Thos. Manton, of Stratford, with the 71st Battalion, has been recommended for the Distinguished Conduct Medal. Sgt. Manton led a party in a raid under heavy fire to obtain certain information.

The sum of $22,245 has been sent by the Duchess of Connaught to the Canadian Red Cross in England to be used in sending comforts to the prisoners of war. Of this amount $5,000 will be devoted to sending turkey, plum puddings and Christmas comforts.

Windsor Board of Education accepted the resignation of Principal Smyth, of Tuscora street school, who pleads that the large number of his pupils failing to pass the entrance was due to the best scholars being taken from his school by "certain well-to-do families," who objected to the poor locality of his school.

John Barnett, senior member of the Windsor Customs Service, is dead. Sir Geo. Foster was banquetted by nearly 2,000 Winnipeg business men last night.

THE ONLY WAY TO CURE RHEUMATISM

Must Be Treated Through the Blood and the Poisonous Acid Driven Out.

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people suppose. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. This is a medical truth that every rheumatic sufferer should realize. There is only one way to cure rheumatism—it must be treated through the blood. All the electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism, and the sufferer who tries them is not only wasting money, but is allowing the trouble to become more firmly rooted in the system and harder to cure when the proper remedy is tried. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had remarkable success in curing rheumatism because they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood, driving out the poisonous acid, releasing the stiffened joints, clearing away the torturing pains, and giving the victim renewed health and ease. Mr. Vincent Brow, Havre Boucher, N. S., says: "For two years I was an almost constant sufferer from rheumatism, the trouble being so bad at times that I could scarcely get about. The trouble seemed to bring with it anæmia, and altogether I was in a very bad condition. I used doctor's medicine for almost a year without relief. Then on the advice of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I think I took altogether about a dozen boxes, with the result that I am again enjoying perfect health."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Carrigan Will Quit Baseball

ter Scott had clinched the championship by gobbling Mowrey's short fly for the final out, the younger element among the spectators rushed upon the field and fell in behind the royal rosters and their band for a parade. On the grandstand a peculiar circuit of the diamond they captured President J. J. Lannin, of the Boston Club, and then crossed the field after President C. H. Ebbetts, of Brooklyn. Amid cheers of the fans, the rival club executives joined arms and led the parade. Many of the fans shook hands with the Red Sox players and with Manager Carrigan, who said again that he had retired from professional baseball with yesterday's game.

Strikes Out Twenty-two

Tarrytown, Oct. 13.—Bob Tecarr, pitching for the Catholic Club, a semi-professional team of Tarrytown, Saturday, made a peculiar record. He struck out 22 men. The first fourteen strikeouts were in succession. He was then touched for the only hit. He then struck out eight more in succession. Besides striking out twenty-two men he had two assists and one putout, figuring in 25 of the team's putouts.

Your One Chance to WIN

Attention, Readers!

This is the time to help your favorite candidate. It will take votes to win. Your subscription will give your candidate more votes than it will later on in the contest. It will not cost you a cent more to-day than it will later on. Why not call your candidate this evening and tell them you want to help them win? These are big prizes The Daily Courier is giving. The value between a subscription and the grand prize is so great that every candidate should receive the support of their friends. You can help your candidate a great deal if you ask your neighbors for their subscription. Perhaps some day you may want a favor. It doesn't cost anything to boost. Get busy.

On Exhibition at BULLER BROS. and NEWMAN AND SONS' Jewellery Stores.

On Exhibition at CHAS. BROWN'S and T. J. BARTON AND SON'S Music Stores.

THE BRANTFORD DAILY COURIER
From a newspaper standpoint The Daily Courier holds its own in this part of Ontario. It gives all the news first. It has the markets, and it is impossible to excel its local page. All these things go to make a successful newspaper. When you once read The Daily Courier you will always read it. This is the history of thousands of citizens in Brantford and vicinity.

Get Busy Stay Busy

This is the Time For High Speed!

If there is anything you do not understand about this Gigantic Contest call the Contest Department. They are at your service and will give each and every candidate every possible assistance. Remember, Saturday, Oct. 14th is the time to cash every promise. They count more this week than they will later on in the contest.
