BEAVER FLOUR
COSTS LESS - IS BETTER - AND GOES FURTHER THAN ANY WESTERN WHEAT FLOUR

makes a real home-made loaf of bread, close grained, beautifully white and tempting, with the delicious old-time flavor that "mother's brand" always had.

"Beaver" Flour makes Pies and Pastry that far excel anything made of western wheat flour, and with less shortening. And do you know why? Western wheat flours are strong and absorb much water, but they lack flavor. Ontario fall wheat has the nutty flavor, and pastry-making qualities, but lacks strength. "Beaver" Flour contains the choicest Ontario wheat with a little Manitoba wheat to increase the strength.

The bakers of Toronto and London—the experts at the Agricultural Colleges—and thousands of homes through Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces—have proved that "Beaver" Flour is superior to any western wheat flour and is equally good for Bread and Pastry. Try it. DEALERS—Write us for prices on Feed, Coarse Grains and Cereals.

CHAPTER XXV.

"He hadn't time," said Talbot, absently. "I—I mean," he added, hurriedly, and with a glance of fear, "that I suppose Farringdon—or whoever did it—struck too quickly for him."

"Just so, sir. There were some pawn tickets and a betting card, a pipe and a little money." "Nothing—nothing else?" The words seemed to leave the white lips as if they were spoken with difficulty. "No—no papers? I—I mean that would help to identify the man?" Grey shook his head.

"No, Mr. Talbot, there were no papers, nothing of that kind." He waited a moment. "I'll be off, sir; there's no time to waste. It's a heavy job for me, this."

When he had gone Talbot staggered and would have fallen but for the sideboard. His face was livid, and he was shaking like a leaf. No papers! The pocket-book which had been buried with the man: where was that—what had become of it? He clasped his burning head with his shaking hands and tried to think. With difficulty he got a decanter of brandy from the cellaret, poured himself out a glassful, and drank it. The pocket-book had not been found—what was there in that fact to dismay him? It should rather give him courage; for doubtless the thing had fallen from the man's pocket and was still lying hidden in the bracken. But Grey and the detectives who would soon be on the spot would search every inch of the ground. He must be there first: on pretence of assisting them he must search and find the certificates which would disclose the fact that the accused was the earl's son and heir. He set his teeth hard and looked about him with a wolfish glare. "The game's not up yet!" he said, in a defiant whisper. "They'll hang him—the evidence is too strong—they'll hang him, they must!" "You are Ralph Farringdon?" said the commonplace-looking man who had entered the room in which the happy little group were seated. "I arrest you on a warrant."

There was a moment of silent amazement and horror, then Veronica sprang in front of Ralph as if to protect him, one arm across his breast, the other extended towards the detective. Mr. Sainsbury rose, white with consternation. Ralph was the first to speak. "On what charge?" he asked, calmly, but in a voice that shook, naturally enough. "Wilful murder! You are charged with the murder of James Oatway, at Lynne Court, on the night of—"

A cry broke from Veronica's lips, and she flung both her arms round his neck, then she drew back her head and looked him full in the face, with a smile.

"You—you are not afraid, Ralph?" she cried, hoarsely. He smiled down at her as he slowly put her arms from him. "Afraid, dearest? No! Why should I be? I am innocent!"

The arrest had been made quietly, and as quietly Ralph was conveyed by the night mail to Halsbury. It need not be said that Veronica, George Sainsbury and Ada travelled by the same train. Veronica's calmness and self-possession under the terrible blow amazed even Sainsbury, who had learned to know her. "Why should I be afraid or cast down?" she said. "I know that he is innocent, and I am sure that his innocence will be proved. Besides, they will let me see him, and do you think I would distress him and make him ashamed of me, by showing him that I doubt the justice and goodness of God?"

They let her see him, as she had hoped, for a few minutes. But little was said as they clung to each other, and Veronica did not even cry. "I will come to you whenever they will let me," she said, very quietly. "But the truth will be discovered before many days have passed—perhaps before many hours. Ah, dearest, if they would only let me go with you!"

Grey brought the news of the arrest to the Court the next morning, while the earl and Talbot were at breakfast; the old man had come down to breakfast for the first time for many years. "At another time Talbot might have detected the significance of the words, and recognised the threat contained in them; but his mind was off its balance, muddled and obscured by the dull terror that sat upon him, with an oath he strode to the man and struck him across the lips. "You hound, you are drunk!" he said. "Get out of my sight and don't come into my presence till you are sober again—"

Gibbon looked as if he were about to spring upon him, then he recoiled and, with his hand to his bruised lips, left the room.

CHAPTER XXVI. All the county was in a state of excitement over the "Lynne Court Murder;" but Ralph, in his prison cell, was calm enough.

How could he be otherwise with Veronica's example before him and with the consciousness of his innocence to uphold him? Mr. Sainsbury had engaged Mr. Selby, the sharpest lawyer in the district, and he had an interview with Ralph a few minutes before the examination. "I may as well say at once that I am sure you are not guilty, Mr. Farringdon," he said; "but I ought to point out to you that the evidence is very strong. It was most unfortunate that you should have dropped your knife on that particular night, and more unfortunate still that you should have been seen with the deceased and heard quarrelling with him."

"Not quarrelling," said Ralph. "Besides, one does not stab the man one happens to have a few words with; and if I had done so I should scarcely have been such an idiot as to bury him! I could have said that he was poisoning and that I killed him in a fair fight!" The door opened as he was speaking and Mr. Whetstone and Burchett entered. Ralph turned swiftly to meet the latter and held out his hand, then paused and drew it back. Mr. Burchett seized it and rung it, resigning it to Mr. Whetstone reluctantly. Mr. Selby looked on keenly.

"You two evidently share my belief in his innocence," he said. "Yes, Mr. Selby," said Whetstone, with quiet confidence; while Burchett did not think it necessary to speak. "I came to see if I could do anything; but you are here, and all that can be done will be, I know."

Trained Muscles versus Trained Brains.

BY J. R. HAMILTON.

If I had a son I would keep him in some kind of a school if I had to drag him there with a halter.

All the failure and all the misery in the world are due to nothing more nor less than lack of mental training. Success is so easy when it is understood that failure is no longer merely unfortunate; it is pitiful.

The training of a brain is as easy to-day as the training of a muscle was yesterday. And no man with a well trained brain ever had to lie to his stomach about the dinner hour.

Education? No. That isn't. Brain training; that's the thing. And there isn't a university, there isn't a high school, there isn't a business college to-day that doesn't understand this fact.

Twenty years ago Collis P. Huntington said there was too much education in America. Then he was right because the schools were wrong. To-day he would be wrong because the schools are RIGHT.

Every school now understands that there is something more to success than Greek and Latin, or the laws of engineering or a certain method of taking shorthand notes. They are brain training institutions every one of them and you can not do without them now, no matter how hard you try.

The day of the self-made man is over. His method takes too long. The experience that has cost him years to acquire we can go out and buy in a day.

It is a pitiful thing to see any boy or girl go into the world without this technical training—without this capacity for success. And this training is just as important to-day for girls as it is for boys, because the market supply of untrained women is bringing down the wages of untrained men and each is doing the other infinite harm. Don't miss your opportunity for success. Don't start out half finished in the world. Don't go into the race with a mental handicap. Strength and courage and enthusiasm and capacity all come with knowledge.

If you had it in your mind to stop school now, just close your eyes for a moment, and look down the vista of the years. Think how terrible it must be to feel in each crisis of life that your mind has never been trained—that you aren't fit. And think how glorious it must be to feel that you have been thoroughly trained and are ready for any emergency that can arise.

University or military academy technical school or business college—it makes no difference what direction you take—that is up to your own inclination. It's the training that counts—the training that spells SUCCESS.

And now that you've made up your mind to go on, just look over these schools. Pick out the ones that interest you most and write them a letter to-day.

One of the things they all will teach you is TO COME TO A DECISION—AND ACT.

Horse Delays Train.

The express train was stopped for nearly two hours at Jumper's Brook yesterday owing to a horse being on the track. The animal was frightened and in endeavouring to get off was caught in the ties. The express was brought to a standstill and the train hands extricated the beast. Had the mishap occurred at night the horse would have been killed and a train accident would probably be the result.

Shoal in Harbor.

During a recent survey by the S. S. Ellnor a new shoal has been discovered in the harbour. It is situated on the east side between the Block House and Chain Rock. At the spot referred to the water is only twenty-four feet deep and is not marked off on the charts. The officers of the survey ship continue surveying the shoal to get proper bearings of it.

Beauty Hints.

Ah, beauty is a rare possession! It makes this life here fit to live. And there are beauties of expression which beat all charms that drugs will give. Jeannina has a fine complexion, and pearly teeth and azure eyes, and golden ringlets, in connection with rits and things that I despise. When first you see this glowing maiden with all her wealth of dazzling charms, you think she's come direct from Aiden, and long to take her in your arms. But when you know the damsel better she doesn't satisfy the soul; alas, she is a chronic fretter—her temper isn't in control. She sulks and deals in pettish phrases, and all such things will leave their trace; in time they will distort like blazes that lovely and angelic face. Methinks I see her when she's older, with shrewish mouth and crimson cheek, and he will be a sutor bolder than lions who her hand will seek. Mirandy has a disposition as sweet as honey from the comb; it's always been her sane ambition to make things pleasant in her home. She doesn't spend her time nagging, kind words are all she ever said; she's prettier than any wagon that ever yet was painted red, and as the years are swiftly sliding, still prettier this girl will grow; till on his pale white steed comes riding the knight with whom we all must go.

Reports of the Examiners.

The Council of Higher Education received yesterday the reports and lists from the College of Preceptors, London, which is the examining board of the Council. On these lists the Registrar made out the Scholarship and Prize Lists, which we publish in another column. The reports are short statements by the examiners of impressions made on them by the answers of the candidates generally in each subject of each grade.

We purpose giving some of the features of these reports, taking first the highest grade.

ASSOCIATE GRADE.

English: "The essays were, as a rule, written in a simple and straightforward style, and of a very fair degree of merit, several of the better candidates sending up distinctly good work."

English Literature: "The set book had evidently been read with much care and interest."

History: "The work of many of these candidates was very good, and the general result of the examination was satisfactory."

Geography: "There was some improvement, at all events in the better papers, on the work of last year, and one or two questions were really well answered. On the other hand, the number and character of the mistakes seem to show that the teaching is inefficient and that the prescribed syllabus is beyond the powers of the candidates."

Arithmetic and Algebra: "Outside answers to the question on decimals, which were not such as one would expect from the candidates, and some carelessness in solving a quadratic equation, the work deserves much commendation."

Geometry: "There were a few unsatisfactory papers, but the work of the candidates as a whole was decidedly good."

Mechanics: "What candidates had seen or were interested in was well done. Definitions and statements were inexact and often showed a very loose grip of the idea."

Navigation: "The work was very satisfactory."

French: "On the whole the work was very satisfactory."

Latin: "The general result and impression are evidenced by the high marks gained, not only by the large percentage who reached Distinction, but also by the bulk of the candidates."

Geology: "The candidates showed a swerved in a very creditable way and afforded evidence of satisfactory preparation and laboratory training."

Hygiene: "The papers this year were somewhat disappointing in quality. A certain portion of the candidates presented good work, but on the whole the standard shown was below the average. In too many instances the answers were not well set out, and both writing and spelling gave scope for improvement."

Shorthand: "The transcription of the shorthand notes was good."

INTERMEDIATE GRADE.

Scripture History: "In plain narrative the candidates did well; but questions that required thought were less well answered."

English: "The Grammar was very satisfactory; spelling fairly accurate, paraphrasing poor; and literature praiseworthy. The essays appeared to be of a lower standard than that of last year, though a few were excellent in matter and expression."

History: "A large proportion of those who passed obtained only the minimum mark or a little more, and there were serious mistakes among their answers. The knowledge shown of the history of Newfoundland was frequently of the slightest character. The answers of those who obtained Distinction, and of some 15 per cent. who just failed to do so, were of excellent quality."

Geography: "The standard of answers was much higher than those of last year. Hence the papers may be considered very satisfactory."

Arithmetic: "The results, in the whole, were quite satisfactory."

Algebra: "Much of the work was of good quality, and all the questions were well answered by some of the candidates."

Geometry: "A large proportion of the work sent up was of excellent quality."

Mechanics: "The teaching of this subject is defective. . . . The subject calls for much more thorough grip of principles."

Book-keeping: "The papers were, on the whole well done, and the percentage of distinctions was higher than last year. The paper was of a practical nature and the calculations in the purchase and sales (which would be required in ordinary commercial life) were generally accurate."

Chemistry: "Satisfactory."

Hygiene: "Papers were consistently good."

Physiology: "Candidates did very much better than last year."

Mensuration: "The percentage of distinctions was slightly greater than last year, but the number of failures was much greater. This is all the more unsatisfactory because the shortening of the paper gave more importance to the straightforward Land Surveying question. In fact, beyond this question very little of value was done by most of the candidates. Area and volume were hopelessly confused. It does not look as if any practical work had been done in the subject—merely the cramping of a number of formulae which could neither be understood nor applied."

French: Prepared text work good, other work poor.

Latin: "The general results were satisfactory."

Agriculture: "The answers showed fair intelligence, but also that very little useful information had been acquired in the course of preparation for the examination. It is evident that candidates are under the disadvantage of having no authoritative textbook dealing with the Agriculture of Newfoundland. The provision of a suitable book would greatly assist agricultural education in the country."

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.
The suggestion that warlike suffragettes from England may be barred out of Canada under the terms of the regulation regarding undesirable, has been made by the Department of the Interior. The belief seems to prevail that the regulations would apply. The suggestion has special reference to the threatened invasion of leaders from across the ocean and the fact that sundry of these ladies have served terms in jail. Their mission is the introduction of law breaking methods into Canada and would be sufficient to justify their exclusion. The Department will not be called upon to decide the point until the suffragettes decide whether or not they are coming.

Ireland!

A Charming Natural Setting for "The Colleen Bawn."

Beaufort—that very picturesque and quaintly romantic spot in County Kerry—has been selected for the charming setting for the excellent Kaleen Pictorial Production of "The Colleen Bawn," which will be shown at the Casino Theatre next week. One can hardly imagine a more pleasing combination of natural surroundings; it is actually a visit to the old sod, for we see the thatched cottages of the peasantry, the moss-covered walls of the old abbeys; the charming cascades and waterfalls; the world famed lakes of Killarney, and a thousand and one other nooks of romantic interest in the Emerald Isle. Everyone knows the story of the "Colleen Bawn," of her secret marriage to Harless O'Keegan, her abduction and attempted drowning by Deany Mann, faithful henchman and relentless servitor, but everyone has not seen—now is likely to see—the green sward of Ireland, in all its natural beauty, but here is the chance. Let it be embraced, and let everyone of Irish descent, of Irish spirit and of Irish appreciation, attend the Casino Theatre next week, when this celebrated three reel production of "The Colleen Bawn" will be shown in Newfoundland for the first time.

Wedding Bells.

PETITE—HILL.

The wedding of Capt. Petite, of the schooner Toboatic, and Miss Annie Hill, of Hermitage, was solemnized during the week at the Church of England Cathedral, the Rev. J. Brinton officiating. The bride was handsomely costumed and was attended by Miss Florrie Grouchy. The groom was supported by Mr. N. Andrews, while Mr. P. Lukens acted as father-giver. The groom's present to the bride was an organ. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of Mr. F. Lukens where supper was partaken of. Only the immediate friends of the party were present. The Telegram joins in the congratulations extended.

WADDEN—ROLLS.

At the home of the bride's parents, on Wednesday evening, Miss Margaret Rells was married to Mr. M. Wadden, druggist; the officiating cleric was Rev. Monsignor Roche. Miss Mercedes Wadden, sister of the groom, fulfilled the duties of bridesmaid, the groom was supported by Mr. T. J. Rells, brother of the bride, and Mr. J. Rells acted as father-giver. The present of the groom to the bride was a diamond pendant brooch. Following a reception the couple took the train for St. George's where the honeymoon will be spent.

Household Notes.

Invalids are apt to need nourishment often and only a little at a time. A something cooling is preferred to a hot dish. A baked apple combined with custard is both refreshing and nourishing. The apple should be corod and peeled, then baked with a little sugar and water until soft.

A delicious honey for sandwiches and tarts is made of lemons. Beat well together one cupful of sugar, one egg and butter the size of a walnut. Add juice and grated rind of one lemon. Stir well, put into a double boiler, cook slowly till thick, avoid stirring after it begins to cook, add a tiny pinch of salt.

Enameled saucepans, etc., that have been discolored through constant use may be rendered perfectly clean by boiling for half an hour in two parts of water to which is added common soda and a small packet of chloroform of lime. Then thoroughly wash in clear water and the utensils will look like new.

Paper pillows are light and comfortable for use on the piazza or in the garden or on the beach. Make the cover of any wash material and fill it with paper torn into narrow strips about one inch wide. If these strips are torn so as to form a long curl, they make a springy filling and last a long time.

Do not expect to have good coffee unless you start with a clean coffee pot. Old coffee grounds boiled over will always spoil the flavor of your coffee. Before washing the coffee pot drain the coffee from the grounds and save it. Wash the pot thoroughly being very careful to rinse out every particle of soap suds.

Cut the stalks of well-ripened rhubarb an inch long place in a cool oven. When all the moisture has evaporated, make it thoroughly hot and dry the rhubarb completely. Then put into paper bags and fasten the bags securely. When you are ready to use it, later in the winter, soak it in water and cook like fresh rhubarb.

All dried vegetables should be soaked overnight to reabsorb the water lost through evaporation. Vegetables should always be cleaned before being cooked, and unless they are old should never be pared. During the boiling process the cover should be tilted to allow a circulation of air, which insures a better color and flavor.

A delicious green tomato pie is made with one quart of finely chopped green tomatoes, six large apples, peeled and chopped fine, mix thoroughly with three cups of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with the sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of mixed spices and one cupful of vinegar. Bake with two crusts.

The peach shortcake is a toothsome dainty. Sift together three or four times one quart of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one of salt. Rub into this two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter until it feels like meal, add just enough sweet milk to make a soft dough. Divide into halves, roll enough to fill two buttered tins and bake in a moderate oven. When done, spread each with butter, place together with pared, pitted and halved peaches between, dusting generously with sugar and heaping whipped cream and fruit on top.

Dear Sirs,—I had a Bleeding Tumor on my face for a long time and tried a number of remedies without any good results. I was advised to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, and after using several bottles it made a complete cure, and it healed all up and appeared altogether.

Japanese Teapots.

All Sorts of Shapes and Sizes In All Manner of Materials.

In Japan teapots may be had in any shape, in any design, at any price. One model is a huge caldron-like affair that will hold three gallons, while others are so small that a thumbful may be said almost to make them overflow.

The Japanese have teapots in the shape of birds, beasts and fowls. Fishes and frogs have lent their forms to others. A beetle design is very popular, as is one depicting a fat, squirring eel. Buddha himself has been pressed into service as a model. Swans, correct to the last curl of neck and feathers, form teapots so small that they can be hidden in the palm of the hand. There are lotus bud pots and pots in the shape of teahouses.

All manner of materials are included in the composition. Inlaid silver, hammered copper, iron exquisitely wrought and all the different kinds of Japanese pottery have been used in the manufacture of teapots. Several favorite designs bring $100 apiece, but so cheaply is artistic handiwork in the far east that many others may be bought for a few cents.

The whaler Cachetol, operating at Hawke's Harbor, Labrador, up to three weeks ago had nineteen whales captured. No further news of her movements has since been received, yet it is likely she has added a few more to her catch which will realize good profit to her shareholders. The whaler Cabot has gone on to Snook's Arm to finish the voyage. Since meeting with the mishap of breaking a spar while towing a huge fish she has only killed one whale. However, she has thirty whales landed to date and the outlook for a successful voyage is bright.

McMurdo's Store News.

FRIDAY, Sept. 13, '12. Cream of Lilies is one toilet preparation which never disappoints. Its wide range of usefulness is becoming more and more appreciated every year. In addition to its unequalled value as a softener, whitener and soother of the skin in time of adverse weather conditions—of sun, or winds, or frost, it is becoming widely used by gentlemen as an after shave. Always ready when wanted, easy to apply, not showing on the face after application, and economical in use, it is an ideal after shave, and its effect in soothing the tender skin is really remarkable. You need not go beyond Cream of Lilies as an after shave if you have it in the house. If you have not, procure a pot at once, and be happy. Price, 25c. at either of our stores.

C.C.C. Dinner.

The C. C. C. Athletic Association gave a dinner at Smithville last evening in honour of the trophies won by their teams in the various athletic contests the past summer. Covers were laid for over one hundred persons and an appetizing menu was served by Furlong Bros. A lengthy toast list was then taken up. Speeches were interspersed by songs and the affair was concluded at midnight with the singing of the National Anthem.

Something You Ought to Read.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

"So different are the colors of life as we look forward to the future or backward to the past, and so different the opinions and sentiments which this contrariety of appearances produces that the conversation of old and young generally ends with contempt or pity on either side. One generation is always the scorn and wonder of the other; and the natures of the old and the young are like liquors of different quality and texture which never can unite."

—Johnson. We had been discussing the political situation and our political ideals. A very enthusiastic young man, radiant with youth's beautiful belief in a possible panacea that should promptly do away with all the trouble in the world, had been promulgating some very progressive ideas.

"Does your father agree with you, David?" someone asked. "Oh, no," said the young man with an evident touch of bitterness. "Of course he doesn't. Dad and I never agree. He makes it a point to be as conservative as he can—mostly, I think, because I'm a radical."

This young enthusiast evidently thought he was describing a peculiar condition of things due to his father's unusual temperament. As a matter of fact he was voicing the struggle of the ages, the eternal conflict between youth and age.

I haven't a doubt but that twenty-five or thirty years ago David's father was so unprogressive; and I'm equally sure that twenty-five or thirty years hence David's son—if he exists—will be just as bitter against his father's lack of progressiveness.

Now there is a certain great essay on this subject which I think it would help every man and woman of us to read just about once a year. Probably many of you already know what I am going to say. I am speaking, of course, of Robert Louis Stevenson's essay on "Crabbed Age and Youth."

To be sure Mr. Stevenson is rather inclined to take the part of youth in this essay, but it seems to me that any old man or woman who has been young once will forgive him. And as for those old dry bones who never were young—what does it matter what they think, anyway?

Now I am not just saying all this to fill space. I really want you to see the essay; I believe it will give every one, old and young, a wiser point of view on the whole matter.

When a firm wants to introduce a new product it not only advertises it by praises but also by samples. Please permit me to offer the following little sample of my wares.

"It is held," says Mr. Stevenson in the course of his essay, "to be a good taunt, and somehow or other to clinch the question logically, when an old gentleman waggles his head and says: 'Ah, so I thought when I was your age.' It is not thought no answer at all if the young man retorts: 'My venerable sir, so I shall most probably think when I am yours.' And yet the one is as good as the other: . . . When the old man waggles his head and says, 'Ah, so I thought when I was your age,' he has proved the youth's case. Doubtless, whether from growth of experience, or decline of animal heat, he thinks so no longer; but he thought so when he was young; and all men have thought so while they were young since there was dew in the morning or hawthorn in May."

Doesn't that fill you with a desire to read more? I hope it does.

A Little Gunner.

Brown Spider Causes Consternation In a Cape Town Castle.

The smallest creature ever known to become a gunner in the world came into prominence in Cape Town, South Africa, not so long ago. At the castle situated in that place there is a large gun worked by electricity and used for giving the midday and evening time.

All the military and civilians in Cape Town were astonished to hear the gun go off one fine morning at 10.30, an hour and a half before the proper time, 12 being the usual hour or firing.

Messengers came from the general commanding officers of each regiment and battery stationed in Cape Town, and from everybody interested, but the answer was that no person had been near the gun, nor had anybody interfered with the wires, battery or source from which it was fired.

All the officials were fearfully puzzled at the extraordinary occurrence, but could give no explanation whatever. The general in command of the station became furious and said that there was mismanagement somewhere and gave orders for a strict search to be made by the officials for the guilty party.

Search was made, but nothing resulted to throw any light on the extraordinary affair, although the greatest possible pains were taken to solve the mystery.

They had practically given the search up, when suddenly the news came from the officials stating that the culprit had been caught and arrested. It seems the electric current for firing off the gun is supplied by the Royal Observatory of Cape Town, and goes there by means of an instrument known as a relay that is in the central telegraph office of the station, the distance being about 500 yards.

The action of the current going through the instrument's main moves a sort of light tongue, which is very finely set—so fine that the least little thing would affect it. This forces the current directly into what they term the time fuses, which have the power of firing the gun at the castle.

On examining the instrument one of the officials found a big brown spider inside. It appears that while having an exploring trip round the instrument the unfortunate spider must have touched this tongue sufficiently to move it, and consequently it fired off the gun. The general commanding the station sent the spider to the Cape Town Museum, where it is now to be seen with a card underneath him venturing him the "Little Gunner," and giving a full account of his adventure with the Cape Town midday time gun, which proved his last adventure, however.

HOW BLOOD IS MADE.

The liquids and the digested foods in the alimentary canal pass through the wall of the canal into the blood. This process is called absorption and takes place chiefly from the small intestine. After absorption the blood carries the food through the body, and each cell takes from the blood the food it needs. A pure glyceric extract made from bloodroot, mandrake, stone, queen's root and golden seal root, and sold by druggists for the past forty years under the name of gives uniformly excellent results as a tonic to help in the assimilation of the food and in the absorption by the blood of the food it requires. Eradicate the poisons from the blood with this alterative extract which does not shrink the white blood corpuscles, because containing no alcohol or other ingredients. Thus the body can be built up—strong to resist disease. This is a tonic taken from Nature's garden that builds up those weakened by disease. Sold by druggists everywhere. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. PIERCE, JR.

Mr. CHAS. FARRER, JR., of 822 Woodlawn Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was troubled with my stomach for almost three years. I tried several doctors and most everything anybody recommended to me, but kept getting worse and honestly did not care to live as I never well even thought, at times, I had no pain. My symptoms were as follows: Always tired, my whole body in a throbbing, itching, gas, pain and soreness in the stomach, vomiting, constipation, could not tell what to eat or what would agree with me, and was melancholy. But after taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with the 'Pleasant Pellets' it has made me a well man which is something to live for."

The Modern College Education.

This sudden and enormous advance in the pursuit of technical studies, which have made the state universities formidable rivals to our older, privately endowed institutions, has aroused uncertainty as to the real object of collegiate training. Modern commercialism, which has said that you must touch liberal studies, if at all, in a utilitarian way, has swept in a mighty current through our American universities. The undergraduate is feeling increasingly the pressure of the outside modern world—the world not of values, but of dollars. The sense of strain, of rush and of anxiety which generally pervades our business, our public and our professional life, has prevailed the atmosphere in which men should be taught first of all to think and to grow, says Clayton Sedgwick in the Century.

The Chances Against You

"Oh, I will be all right in a few days," says the person who is tired out and has to drag himself to his daily work because the nervous system is exhausted. Unfortunately nervous diseases do not right themselves, and the wasting process which has brought you to this condition keeps right on until there is a complete breakdown. You must get the building-up process started, so that, instead of being a little weaker at the end of each day, you will find the balance on the other side and know that you are gradually getting strong and well. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you wonderfully if you only give it a reasonable chance. As the system is built up you will find such symptoms as headache, sleeplessness and indigestion leaving you. You will find the old energy coming back. The mind and body will better serve you and you will see a new pleasure in life. Teachers' Training Opportunities.

(For The Telegram.)

Many leading universities now offer summer courses to teachers, leading up to degrees, and I would like to encourage this movement in the interest of Newfoundland. One teacher, Mr. Henry A. Butler, of Upper Gullies, Conception Bay, son of Mr. R. Butler, a farmer of Kelligrews, took a course during the holidays this summer in Nature Study, Botany, Biology, and methods of teaching these, at the Agricultural and Provincial Normal College, Truro, N.S. He attended the institution and did the theoretical and practical work required for first year during the summer session, and succeeded in passing the examination, gaining 60 p.c. in Nature Study and Biology, and 65 p.c. in Botany. As the writer was chiefly instrumental in having Mr. Butler sent to this Science School, he has much pleasure in forwarding to you herewith, the students diploma won that he believes is worthy of commendation.

Mr. W. D. Reid also very kindly gave this teacher and several others attending summer courses a pass to Canada enroute to this college, at my request, and this has been a stimulus or encouragement, worthy of special notice and meriting very best thanks.

More teachers should embrace such opportunities of training and attend during their holidays the Agricultural Colleges of Truro, Guelph, McDonald, or Wye, for B. S. A. degrees; as also Liverpool University Schools of Commerce and Pedagogy for degrees in Practical Science, Commerce and Methods of Teaching, respectively; and London University School of Political Economy, Clare Market, London, England, for proper training in Economics and politics generally. This would also give them opportunities of attending Teachers' Conventions, held in each of these places during the holidays, with their valuable exhibitions, model classes of instruction and information, imparted as desired by the best specialists obtainable, and the visiting historical places, and best schools and universities in those places, learning by travelling as well. In fact it would pay the Government to send teachers to these modern University Summer Schools, the same as Canada, English and American Governments are doing, to train teachers practically during their holidays along the special lines required, for I am convinced that more such practical training is needed in this country.

At the present the schools of the country are too much absorbed in book work and in verbal studies that seek to train the memory, but which fail to give adequate discipline or to give practical life. The teaching of the elements of industry is needed—Agriculture in Agricultural Districts, Fishery in Fishing Districts, and Domestic and Mechanical Sciences in every district in the country. This can be encouraged best by sending our teachers away during their holidays to be trained in these branches and to become specialists in their districts. This is the age of specialists, and co-operation among the teachers can lead to progress among the people in this direction. The N. T. A. should take up this great subject of the training of teachers and endeavour to secure Training Scholarships for their members, if not every seventh year off for them, for the purpose—a privilege that most of the progressive teachers of America have extended to them—and this would enable them to take advantage of those excellent opportunities of summer training as soon as possible.

Yours truly,
 P. G. BUTLER,
 St. John's, Sept. 7th, 1912.

A Blow From a Lion's Paw.

A man entered a London theatre in the early morning and found to his horror that four lions, which were housed there, had broken from their cage. One gave him a blow with its paw, then took him in its mouth. The blow from a lion's paw is said to be, after the stroke of a whale's tail, and the kick of a giraffe, the strongest thing in nature, so that the victim was dead when the keeper went to the rescue. Only one lion had concerned itself with the man and was now sitting over him as a dog sits over a bone. Two of the lions were playing on the stage with a "property" garland, and the fourth was seated in the royal box, placidly surveying the gambols on the stage and the terrible banquet in the auditorium. The murderer relinquished its prey immediately its master appeared, and all four bolted for their den like children detected in some misconduct.—St. James' Gazette.

SHE RECALLS THE OLD TIME STYLE OF ASKING FOR YOUR LETTER.

"This country is getting so fast," says Mrs. Tucker, "that I'm not sorry that my time is getting short."
 "Before now," says she, "it was interesting to watch out for Bruce train, there was always a doubt as to what time it would strike the town, and we could squint over the papers and see who was coming for days ahead, but now that it arrives any old day, why, the charm is gone out of it."
 "They tell me," said she, "the Post Office heads are all sick and tired of practical life. The teaching of the elements of industry is needed—Agriculture in Agricultural Districts, Fishery in Fishing Districts, and Domestic and Mechanical Sciences in every district in the country. This can be encouraged best by sending our teachers away during their holidays to be trained in these branches and to become specialists in their districts. chances to appear knowledgeable have disappeared."

Under the good old style, business people could spy agents for breakfast foods miles away, and it afforded them a splendid opportunity of being confined to their room when the train passed the Gas House, but now they're in and have their valises emptied before our business men have time to tell how many trout they caught the evening before.

Under the old way of doing things, the merchant who expected a letter with spondulicks in it stood a splendid chance of being disappointed only once a week, but under the new style he's vexed every day in the week. The "new woman" who invaded the Post Office every Thursday with a key attached to a reel, and wearing a far-away look, has lost her attractiveness, and the boys are becoming so used to her that they're beginning to call her by her christian name.

Mrs. Tucker says, "that with all our advancement she still believes that the happiest times in this country were the days when you had to go down to the Post Office and ask the "man at the window" if he had a letter for you. Of course, she says, you trembled a little on the legs, fearing you'd have your head snapped off, but outside of that, you cherished a letter a great deal more and generally read it over, nine or ten times. In those days you were disappointed so often, that when you did actually receive a letter, you told all the neighbors about it, and the "smart young man" who lived alongside was sent for to read it. This individual—the smart young man—was treated with great respect, and occupied about the same standing in those days, that a chairman of an outport road board does today.

In these days, Mrs. Tucker says, a letter was never torn up, for, to destroy a letter received from a relative in the States, was considered as great a crime as cutting one of Lash's Christmas cakes before the twelve days of Christmas had expired.

Gambling.

BY H. L. RANN.

Gambling is the process of betting whether the fourth ace is still in the deck or up somebody's sleeve. It is an exciting pastime and will keep a man awake easier than an ulcerated tooth.

Gambling comes in different sized packages, depending upon the roll of the gambler. Some people get more pleasure out of tossing pennies at a crack, in an attitude of pig-toes expectancy, than others do by bolstering up wheat margins on a falling market.

One of the most popular forms of gambling is known as poker. This is a game in which one milk-faced pull wench-sawed by two stout harpies in fancy vests by a series of spirals and costly raises, the last raise being usually sufficient to leave him in a breathless condition. The most harmless kind of poker is penny ante, which can be played for ten days hand-running without sending anybody home broke.

A few years ago our society people discarded poker in favor of bridge whist. This is a very expensive form of entertainment, and when run at high voltage makes the game of draw poker look like playing marbles for keeps. After a man has run up against four or five stiff hands of bridge whist, with reverse english on them, he will be lucky to cash in at 10 cents on the dollar.

One of the most genteel forms of gambling is the progressive euchre party, at which the most progressive sister draws a handpainted water pitcher and undying enmity of all concerned. These parties are set up by the clergy in loud, explosive sermons ever so often, causing some of the most prominent members of the Ladies' Aid society to retire from the church in high dudgeon and a shrill falsetto. Husbands of the guests are not allowed to do anything except furnish the prizes.

Although gambling is prohibited by law, Wall street has never been arrested. After all, there ought to be one place in this country where the unsatisfied sucker will not be interrupted in a wholesome effort to get stung.

DUNDEE, Sept. 12.
 Suffragettes did their best to break up a meeting at Loecse suburb, where Churchill was speaking. After many persons had been ejected, Churchill said the political status of women would not be won by such uncivilized acts as just witnessed.

LONDON, Sept. 12.
 On account of the recent casualties to aviators in the British Army Corps, four lieutenants having been killed within a week, the War Office has suspended the use of monoplane. The Army aviators consider biplanes safer than monoplanes, the latter type being used because of their speed.

LONDON, Sept. 12.
 The Unionist press is jubilant over the capture of Midlothian, which is a knock-down to the Government. The morning Liberal papers demand that Asquith insert in the next Electorate Reform Bill a clause, which either by provision for an alternate vote or for a second ballot, which will prevent any constituency becoming represented by a minority vote.

LONDON, Sept. 12.
 Imminence of war is stronger in Sofia than in Constantinople, according to a despatch from the Turkish capital to the Daily Mail. The Porte does not believe but the Cabinet will be carried away by popular clamour. The basis of this belief is the Programme of reform which the Porte proposes to grant to Macedonia, and all other Christian provinces. Assurances have been given that the constitution granting equal treatment to all nationalities will be put in operation in the fullest sense.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.
 A cable to the Tribune says the Midlothian election is regarded as more significant than even the Northwest Manchester election, and sounds the doom of the Government and the death-knell of Home Rule. The Liberals are endeavouring to show that a straight fight between Hope and Shaw would have resulted in a Liberal majority of 2,381. The Unionists and Laborites alike oppose this argument, the Labor Party having resolved to stand on its own legs and to have no alliance with the Liberals. The Unionists everywhere are jubilant, and in Belfast the news was acclaimed with the profoundest joy, amidst wild scenes.

On Second Thought.

BY JAY E. HOUSE.

Every town has two or three men handsome enough to wear the well known fedora hat.

There always is glory enough for the man who does his work, or performs his duty, honestly and sincerely. It doesn't matter what the crowd says, if he knows his motives are good and his work efficient that is recompense enough. And it is the only form of recompense really worth while.

However, the billboard is both restful and instructive compared to much of that which it conceals.

When a man is born a two spot he should not be criticised for his inability to take the trick.

There are a number of inviolable rules. This is one of them: You can't dignify an issue nor establish a principle by clowning it.

Before marriage the average girl's idea of it is that keeping house means looking after a couple of goldfish and taking care of a fern.

Give a woman love and she is willing to skimp a little on food and clothing.

The average man's knowledge of the tariff on wool is confined to the fact that underwear woven from it scratches.

Harve Parsons complains because it is mostly those with ivory knobs who write limericks. Mr. Parsons is unreasonable. The limerick is about the only chance the ivory knob has.

The best of most of us can hope for is that the jury will disagree.

If you have anything really worth while to say the phraseology in which you clothe it is unimportant.

Letting Light in Upon the Political Tory Tricksters.

John A. Robinson and his editorial brother of the Chronicle, the two sleek gentlemen who are in charge of the government press, have been recently making strenuous efforts with the hope of convincing the people that the present is the best government that ever ruled in this colony. Of course, all who take cognizance of the management of the colony's public business know this is not so, but rather it is true that, in addition to their inability to "run a bulls-eye shop" their disposition to squander and waste, in every shape and form, the revenues of the Colony is simply astounding. Surely he is a very poor political economist.

With a Very Slinster Eye, who talks continuously a bo out abounding revenues and tries to conceal from the public gaze everything about the abounding extravagance of the Government. The public revenues belong to the people—the people who from their hard toil pay the taxes and keep the public machinery running, and they are now uniting in the greatest demand that was ever made, that in the disposal of big revenues our financial interests shall be conserved by wise and beneficial legislation. He is certainly a very poor business man who talks all the time about the income while reckless extravagance runs riot and threatens the most serious consequences. The inherent energy and outward expansion of trade invariably lead to increasing revenues but it is the

that needs the most serious attention at the present time. No matter what government may be in power the revenue will go on increasing. It received its best impetus and superior management under the administration of the Right Hon. Sir Robert Bond, twelve years ago, and to Sir R. Bond we must go back to retrieve the colony from everlasting ruin. Why do I say this? Why do the people, at the present time, cry out for a change? Why are they so much in earnest about it? It is because since the present spendthrift crowd came into power it has been nothing but one continuous scene of riot of the monies rightfully belonging to the people. Booodle! Booodle! Booodle!!! and that continuously. How different under Premier Bond's management. Let us speak for themselves. Look back only for one moment over the record of the Bond government and you can with all honesty and truthfulness, see the faces of J. A. R. and J. T. McG., if they are capable of being blanched by a record that ought to put to shame the rioters and picknickers who have been grossly guilty of squandering the public funds for the past four years. Premier Bond was able to accomplish, with a revenue hundreds of thousands of dollars less than the present time, something that commands him to the unanimous support of the people. Study the following if you will—

During the first quadrennial term of Sir Robert's government—from 1900 to 1904—the expenditure on able-bodied poor relief was reduced from $250,000 to $15,000. During the same time the earnings of the people increased from $39.57 to 44.24 per head. The average earnings of a family had increased from $197 to $221. The imports increased from $100,000 to $10,380,000. The deposits in the Savings Bank increased by nearly half a million dollars. The exports of lumber increased from $100,000 to $275,000 a year. The exports of mineral increased in value by nearly a quarter of a million dollars annually. The government at the same time, or for the same period reduced taxation by more than $200,000. During the same period the Telegraph system was extended to Labrador, and 18 lighthouses were erected for the protection of the lives of fishermen and seamen. For public pharves and breakwaters $75,000 had been expended.

During the same period the government increased the grant for public schools by 25 per cent, and settled to the satisfaction of the country the long-standing public grievance known as the French Treaties question. Besides all this, during the same period—from 1900 to 1904—new avenues of employment for the laboring classes had been opened up; the mining and lumbering industries had been quickened, commerce received a new impetus and prosperity abounded throughout the land.

From 1904 to 1908 the same ratio of prosperity went on as if Divine Providence was pleased to smile approval upon the ministry of Premier Bond. The average earnings of the people still further increased to $52.10 per head, the imports still further increased by a million dollars annually. The deposits in the Savings Bank still further increased by $100,000.00 annually. The mining industry received a new impulse and rushed forward with an increase of $150,000.00 annually. The grant for public schools was increased by $60,000.00 a year. Seventy new lighthouses and fog alarms were erected, and telegraphs and post offices were largely multiplied throughout all parts of the island.

All This and What Else!
All this was accomplished by the Administration of Premier Bond without the imposition of a single cent of increased taxation. All this and what else? Why in justice to the people whom he had pledged himself to serve Sir R. Bond reduced taxation to the extent of some $900,000.00, and Sir Robert will do it again when the new lease of power comes, and come it will, as there is a "Divinity that shapes our ends" and guides the destiny of nations and colonies as well.
