Dear Sirs,—I feel it my duty to praise "MATCH-LESS" PAINT as I have found it. I have been using it for a year or so, and have found it most satisfactory.
I painted a Bungalow last August and it looks as fresh to-day as it did then, and that was painted right on the new wood.

"KYRA,"

OR,
The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XXXII.
 "Say Yes."
 "Oh, nothing. And Kyra, is she happy?"
 "I don't know, but I don't think so. I was down there a few days ago, and I went with them to Lord Barefield's. Quite a crowd round Kyra all the evening; she took the palm off, although she was a cold and ungettable as an iceberg. It's a great change, of course; and she is wonderfully changed—quite a woman now, and more beautiful than ever."
 "I wonder whether Lord St. Clare will call to-morrow?" softly murmured Lady Mary.
 Charlie laughed, and patted her head.
 "You are a deal too sure of me for my peace of mind," he said. "I wish I could make you jealous in earnest."
 "Don't try," retorted Lady Mary, threateningly. "As if any one could be jealous of such a great, silly bear of a boy," she added, whispering under the lappets of his thick great coat. "And my dear Kyra, you think, is unhappy?"
 "I'm sure of it," said Charlie, emphatically. "I watched her at Barefield's, and I noticed the rum look on her face—such a wasting, wistful what-do-you-call-it expression? as if she was quite tired and bored to death."
 Lady Mary was silent a moment, then she asked:
 "Was Lord Percy there?"
 "No," said Charlie; "Percy has not seen her since she took possession of the Grange, and he goes no where. He lets me share the same chambers with him—the old ones, you know—and, of course, I see how he is going on, only too well."
 "What do you mean?" asked Lady Mary, with a little, puzzled flush.
 "Oh," said Charlie, quickly. "I mean what a beastly dull way he is getting into; pouring over papers and books, and smoking in a dreary, determined sort of way."
 "Poor fellow!" said Lady Mary. "I do pity him so! I know what he feels about those stupid lands, and the wretched money, as if Kyra cares about it!"
 "Just what I ventured to hint," said Charlie. "I know that Kyra hates the way things have gone, and I believe between you and me, Polly, that she'd give the world to have things as they were. The last day or two he has been going over his old maps and plans, and I am half afraid that he'll start off for some outlandish place—out for the North, or Africa, or anywhere where there's plenty of danger, until the chances are against his coming back," and Charlie's honest voice grew low.
 "You are very fond of him," said Lady Mary.

Join the Army of Health

Why be a straggler in the rear guard limping along half dead with nerves, chronic indigestion and lower vitality? Desert to-day from the army of General Debility and enroll under the banner of General Good Health. You need assistance? Zoelic is a faithful friend that will put you on your feet again. This famous health tonic supplies in a most pleasant form just those elements which your nerve fibres are crying for. Take it for two weeks. And if you cannot report real progress toward renewed health we will refund the purchase price. That's how sure we are of it. So how can you longer trifle with this urgent matter of getting well again? Sold by T. McMurdo & Co., Sole Distributing Agents for Newfoundland.

"How dreadful! Oh, what shall I do?"
 "Here it is; feel it; it won't bite you. I'll have the carriage at the end of the lane, and you can be at this window at half-past ten. I'll lift you out, and smuggle you through the plantation. I know every inch of the ground as well as the Prussians did the French provinces. Thursday you'll be my own dear, darling little wife. Come, Polly, you used to have plenty of courage in the orchard."
 "Yes," sobbed Lady Mary; "there was a wall between us then. I—I wish there was now."
 "There'll be the sea between us, or nothing at all, next Friday," said Charlie.
 Then he dropped his tone of determination and command, and began to plead, whispering in a low, musical, wistful voice that could—as Lady Mary half dolefully declared—coax the mane from a lion. And, at last, she hid her face upon his breast, and clung to him with a convulsive little shudder.
 "You'll say yes, my darling!"
 "Yes; I can't help it!"

CHAPTER XXXIII. A Woman's Resolve.

Yes, Kyra had changed, and in a manner and to a degree almost mysterious and perplexing.
 That she was not happy the most careless of observers might have seen, though, perhaps, it would require a keen insight into the workings of the human heart to read various emotions and motives which formed the spring of the delicate mechanism of the sensitive and high-minded girl.
 Lillian Devigne herself, whose daily task, whose life object it was to watch for a stray chance of misdirecting the destinies of the girl under her charge, and wrestling from her one chance of happiness, could not but confess that her unsophisticated victim was still a puzzle and an enigma.
 The woman—who was playing for as great a prize as the possession of the man she loved, loved now for himself, with a passion so fierce as it was unscrupulous—had, after the first shock, expected rather great things from the freak of fortune which had placed Kyra in the possession of great wealth; if Kyra were sought after for her beauty before this, she would make her doubly attractive. She was a match which any nobleman in the kingdom would welcome for his son. The girl which had always, in some mysterious way, seemed to separate her from Percy, had withdrawn; for Lillian Devigne knew Percy too well not to be aware that he would shrink from marrying the girl who had deprived him of a fortune. She knew, and she counted upon the sensitive nature which would shrink from giving the world an opportunity of shrugging its shoulders, and sneering at his motives.
 "No," she thought, "there is still a chance, and I will fight to the last. If only that curse of our existence—meaning the miserable count—if Providence would but take him from the scene!"
 But Providence does not remove our enemies according to our desires; if it did, how quickly the question of population would be settled!
 Since that eventful afternoon at Vering Wood, the count had not put in an appearance. If he could only be prevailed upon, bribed, that is, to take himself to some foreign paradise, some cheap Baden-Baden, or Homburg, how much more chance there would be. But, like a brave woman, she hid her fears under a calm, serene exterior, and played a waiting game. Kyra, her unconscious rival, was under her eyes; the Grange was a charming place to live

NOT WORRIED.
 LONDON, July 19.—"We really are not worried by the course of the war," said Sir William Robertson in an interview with an Associated Press correspondent. "As to the new offensive a glance at the map will tell the story of our progress."

GERMANS IN DELVILLE WOOD
 LONDON, July 19.—The Germans have recaptured a portion of Delville Wood and obtained a footing in the northern outskirts. Longueval, the War Office announced to-day.

RECAPTURE OF LONGUEVAL.
 LONDON, July 19.—British troops have recaptured the village of Longueval, and in Delville Wood, most of the ground taken by the Germans on Tuesday night, according to a British official report. Hard fighting is still in progress this region. South of Delville Wood this afternoon, we dispersed with a fire a large body of Germans massed to attack Waterloo farm from the direction of Guillemont.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
 PARIS, July 19.—The French made some progress last night on the Verdun front in course of hand grenade fighting in the vicinity of Fleury, says to-day's official report. Artillery actions continue in this district. A German raid in the region of Paschendaal, Belgium, checked by the French fire, as was a raid north of the Aisne near Paepe. Along the greater part of the front the night was quiet.

RUSSIANS CROSS CARPATHIANS
 LONDON, July 19.—The Russians have crossed the Carpathians and have penetrated a distance into Hungary, according to a despatch from Petrograd. The patch says that the Russians are threatening the Austrian rear in the mountains. The advance is made, according to this information, by armies of General Letichew, which are again on the move after an interval of quiet.

FROM BERLIN.
 BERLIN, July 19.—The Russians have been strongly reinforced along the front south of southwest of Riga, at the northern end of the Russian line, and have heavily attacking Von Hindenburg's forces there. War Office announced to-day that these assaults all failed and that the Russians, suffering usually severe losses.

NOT WORRIED.

LONDON, July 19. "We really are not worried by the course of the war," said Sir William Robertson in an interview with an Associated Press correspondent. "As to the new offensive a glance at the map will tell the story of our progress."

GERMANS IN DELVILLE WOOD.

LONDON, July 19. The Germans have recaptured a portion of Deville Wood and obtained a footing in the northern outskirts of Longueval, the War Office announced to-day.

RECAPTURE OF LONGUEVAL.

LONDON, July 19. British troops have recaptured the village of Longueval, and in Deville Wood, most of the ground taken by the Germans on Tuesday night, according to a British official to-night. Hard fighting is still in progress in this region. South of Deville Wood this afternoon, we dispersed with our fire a large body of Germans massing to attack Waterloo farm from the direction of Guillemont.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, July 19. The French made some progress last night on the Verdun front in the course of hand grenade fighting in the vicinity of Fleury, says to-day's official report. Artillery actions continue in this district. A German raid in the region of Paschendaal, Belgium, was checked by the French fire, as was a raid north of the Aisne near Faezzy. Along the greater part of the front the night was quiet.

RUSSIANS CROSS CARPATHIANS.

LONDON, July 19. The Russians have crossed the Carpathians and have penetrated a day's march into Hungary, according to a despatch from Petrograd. The despatch says that the Russians are threatening the Austrian rear in the mountains. The advance is being made, according to this information, by armies of General Letchitzky, which are again on the move after an interval of quiet.

FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN, July 19. The Russians have been strongly reinforced along the front south and southwest of Riga, at the northern end of the Russian line, and have been heavily attacking Von Hindenburg's forces there. War Office announced to-day that these assaults all failed, and that the Russians, suffering unusually severe losses.

RUSSIANS FORGING AHEAD.

PETROGRAD, July 19. Russian infantry in Galicia is advancing towards the passes of the Carpathians which lead into Hungary. Further north in the marsh region, an official statement to-day says, an attempt by the Austro-German forces to take the offensive was broken. In the Caucasus the Russians have made further progress.

WHAT TURKEY SAYS.

BERLIN, July 19. Three enemy transports were sunk and a fourth forced ashore in the Black Sea, the Turkish Admiralty reports.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, July 19. The British steamer Wilton Hill, 3,387 tons, has been sunk. She was unarmed, and was last reported by Karachi, India, on May 15.

NEUTRALS TORPEDOED.

COPENHAGEN, July 19. It was announced to-day that two more neutral vessels have been torpedoed. They were the Dutch iron ship Donula and the Swedish schooner Bertha.

BRITISH STEAMER CAPTURED.

STOCKHOLM, July 19. It is reported here that the British steamship Adams, 2,223 tons gross, has been captured by a German destroyer of Alus, Sweden, while on a voyage from Finland.

WASHINGTON TO USE MORE INK.

NEW YORK, July 19. An Associated Press despatch from Washington says that action on Britain's black list of nearly a hundred firms doing business in the States, under the terms of the "Trading with the Enemy Act," is being delayed by the State Department with the expectation that Ambassador Page in London will send some sort of report. If a report does not arrive soon, the Department probably will cable an enquiry, which in turn will be presented to the British Foreign Office. At the State Department to-day it was stated that every development was being carefully observed. There was suggestion that Britain's latest action might be construed as unfriendly. Hitherto representations on behalf of American firms placed on the black list have resulted in the removal of their names.

ITALIAN STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, July 19. A despatch from Algiers says that the Italian steamer Angelo has been sunk by a submarine. The Greek steamer Evangelista is believed to have been sunk.

BODIES FLOATING AROUND.

NEW YORK, July 19. Scores of bodies, both of English and German sailors, equipped with life preservers, and a floating mass of wreckage from the big Jutland naval battle, were encountered off the coast of Norway on July 2nd, by the steamer Lyngenford, which arrived here from Bergen to-day. A fleet of small vessels was sent out by the Norwegian Government to collect the dead.

DISCUSSION WITHOUT RESULTS.

WASHINGTON, July 19. The Minister from Switzerland, Dr. Hitter, to-day discussed the prospects of peace in Europe with Acting Secretary of State, Polk. He admitted afterwards that the talk was without tangible results.

DOCTORS QUARREL.

BOSTON, July 19. Dr. Harris, President of the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy, a native of Aylesford, Nova Scotia, was shot, and probably mortally wounded, in his office yesterday. Dr. Atwood, whom the police say admitted shooting Harris, is under arrest.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, July 19. When General Haig's afternoon report was despatched from Headquarters in France, violent fighting, which had developed from a German counter attack, had been going on all night long, and had given the Germans a footing in Deville Wood and Longueval, and it is still in progress. German attacks on Waterloo farm and other points were repulsed. In the brief despatch to-night, General Haig sends the announcement that most of the ground thus lost had been regained in both places, and that the British have dispersed the Germans who were massing for a further attack on Waterloo farm. These despatches seem to confirm the opinions expressed by correspondents at the front, of the dwindling strength of the German counter-attacks.

Operations on the French front are still impeded by rain, and comparative quiet prevails. The Russian operations are again becoming interesting. Russian military critics dwell on what they describe as the mechanic regularity of strategic and tactical blows dealt by Russia on the various fronts, and the absence of any indications that the enemy forces are able to effectively parry them. The recent Russian successes have brought them much nearer Vladimir and Kovel. The German communications between Kovel and Lemberg, are threatened by the Rus-

"St. John's Wood."

Little by little we are being allowed to piece together the story of July 1st. Yesterday's message, quoting the Premier, gave a further hint of the nature of the feat performed by the Battalion. It helps to confirm the impression that it was a high one. It was a rare compliment, this naming of the field of battle after our capital, implying a rare gallantry that deserved it. Newfoundlanders in London will be reminded in years to come of "St. John's Wood" by the coincidence that one of the great city's pleasantest districts bears the same name. The name also gives an indication of the magnitude of the task that must have confronted our men as they dashed from the trenches. The terrain before them was evidently wooded, affording the enemy great protection and offering difficulties to the attackers which it would need great courage and pertinacity to overcome. Our men, however, reached the third line—there is a whole epic in the words.

The post is at last bringing some more intimate accounts of the fighting, from letters and other sources. Mr. Will Herder, Jr., has received a short letter from his brother, Corp. Ralph, who, it will be remembered, was among those wounded in the great advance. It is under date July 14th, from Wandsworth, where most of our wounded are. Characteristically, the letter betrays mostly concern and solicitude for those at home. It says, "My wound is just under the left eye. I got it in the morning of July 1st, as that's the time when the big push started. Well, now comes the hard part of it. Of course, poor Hubert was killed, as well as a lot of our other officers. I saw Hubert lying face down when I was advancing with A Company, but of course I couldn't stop then, and I didn't know whether he was wounded or killed. I can't tell you anything about it, as all I remember is getting over our parapet and seeing men fall all around me. . . . Art is wounded in the leg, I think; he hasn't arrived here as yet, but I am almost sure he will be here later. . . . Mrs. Walter Monroe was here yesterday and Sir Edward and Lady Morris to-day. The weather here is simply perfect, and as I am a walking patient I can go out around the grounds for a stroll whenever I feel like it. There are at present one hundred and fifty New-

Kovel has been in his favor is shown in this last development. The next few days may tell of striking events. Austria has for some time been seriously "counted out" by the Allies, and our power of resistance seems in fact to be ebbing. The message to-day from Bucharest, telling of Rumania's desire to enter the conflict, may be worth of more consideration than those of a similar tone in the past. As Russia presses on, Austria recedes; and Rumania knows that there will be a settling up when it is all over.

Veteran Seaman Here.

Half Century Absent from Country. "I was born at 'Apple Tree Well', where the Salvation Army Citadel now stands, 72 years ago," said Mr. Frank Comerford, to a Telegram representative when he landed from the S.S. Stephano. He is on a brief visit to relatives and friends after an absence of close on a half century from his native St. John's, having left here in the year 1847. Though now on the retired list, his home being at Sailors Snug Harbour, an institution situated on Strathain Island for all veterans and worn out seamen; he has spent 55 years going to sea. He had just finished his apprenticeship when he left these shores and since then travelled the high seas all over the world. There is not a section of the globe one can mention that he is not familiar with. He was also several years on ships in the American Navy and latterly up to four years ago, when he retired, engaged at fish-killing on the Grand Banks, being master of a Gloucester vessel. Notwithstanding his advanced age and arduous calling, Mr. Comerford looks as smart and active as a man 30 years his junior and does not seem to have reaped many grey hairs. He has a most striking personality and is an engaging conversationalist. To-day he was visiting his brother, Mr. Richard Comerford, the well known cooper, and his sisters, Mesdames Power and Larkin.

Regarding the institution referred to above, Mr. Comerford speaks well of it. At present it contains nearly one thousand inmates. The institution was founded by a Scotchman quite a few years ago, with some $20,000, and its progress and advancement has been such since that it now has a substantial wealthy backing to the extent of some thirty-five millions of dollars. We extend to Mr. Comerford a warm welcome to his native land and trust he will greatly enjoy his two months stay here.

Hawser Snapped, Two Men Injured.

At ten o'clock last night just as the S. S. Sagona was getting ready to sail for the Labrador at the dry dock wharf an accident occurred in which two members of her crew received injuries, which will incapacitate them both for a short time. A wire hawser mooring the bow of the steamer was about to be let go when, owing to the strain on it, it suddenly snapped and the ends rebounded with great violence, striking two dock hands who were standing by the forecastle head, named Joseph Manuel, a native of Catalina, and Lonley McNeil, of Carbonar. The former sustained a deep wound in the left leg and the latter a broken hand as a result. They were attended by Dr. Smith, the ship's surgeon, and later conveyed to the General Hospital in the ambulance.

Mail Robbery.

Head Constable Dave left here a few days ago for Clarendville to investigate the mysterious disappearance of a bag of mail from the Post office at the place mentioned. We understand it is customary for passing trains that reach this place after the Post Office closing hours, to deposit the mail in the waiting room adjacent to the main office. As far as can be learned the bag was stolen by some person having access to this room by means of false keys. About this time eight years ago similar trouble occurred at the same place, in which several hundred dollars on money order account were missing.

The Argyle left Flat Island at 8.25 a.m. yesterday, going west.

Pleasant Surprise.

Spring Cottage, Leslie Street, the home of Miss Knight, was the scene of a bright and pleasant gathering on Friday evening last, when fifty of Miss Atwill's friends called upon her. The visit was occasioned by the news that Miss Atwill had volunteered, and been accepted by the St. John Ambulance Association, to do hospital work in England or elsewhere and would be leaving home shortly for that purpose. The surprise to Miss Atwill was a genuine one, as were also the presentations that followed during the course of the evening, when on behalf of the company Mr. R. Hearder presented her with a fountain pen, Mr. C. Bowden presented a gold wristlet, and Mr. W. Butt a deresing case, each gentleman making an appropriate speech. The recipient very nicely thanked the donors and expressed her gratitude for the privileges of being allowed to have a share, however small, in the work for which she has volunteered. Miss Atwill was again surprised on Monday evening when the Epworth League of Gower St. Church, through the President, Mr. Hearder, presented her with a copy of the Holy Bible and wished her God-speed in her work. Mr. W. H. Peters, the ex-President, and Rev. Mr. Hemmon, the Pastor, each expressed his appreciation of Miss Atwill's work in connection with the League. Miss Atwill, we understand, is leaving by the next Stephano en route to England, via New York.

"America's Kitchener."

Mr. Justice Hughes's Rise to Fame.
"I believe in work, hard work and long hours of work. I notice, too, that the most successful men are those whose minds are always cool; who are able to deliberate coolly and pronounce a calm, sober judgment in disturbance of circumstances. It is not the men who reaches the corner first who wins, but the man who knows exactly what he is going to do when he reaches the corner."
Such are the views, regarding the qualities which make for success, held by Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, who has been nominated as the Republican candidate for the Presidency of the United States.
He has been described as "the Kitchener of American legal and political life," notably on account of his sphinx-like character and honesty and integrity of purpose.
Gallant little Wales has more than a passing interest in Mr. Hughes, for this brilliant lawyer politician, who has been twice Governor of New York, is a product of Monmouthshire. His father was a Welsh Baptist minister, but Mr. Hughes was born at Glens Frail, in the State of New York, fifty-four years ago.
At first it was intended that he should follow his father's example and become a minister, for when Charles was as young as seven he frequently wrote articles on religious subjects and submitted them for his father's approval. The latter has told how they discussed theological matters together.
But a change came over the boy's inclinations and ambitions when he developed a great passion for mathematics, a passion which influenced him in his ultimate choice of the profession of the law.
Mr. Hughes confesses, however, that he owes almost everything to his mother, who was a Miss Conolly, with Irish, Scottish and Dutch blood in her veins. She was who took him in hand and taught him the lessons of his first years, while his father instructed him in Latin and Greek, for Charles had a strong antipathy to school.
At five years of age he was anxious to go, and his wishes were complied with. Two weeks later, however, he walked into his father's study and handed him a paper, on which he had written, "Charles E. Hughes's plan of study." His father asked him what this meant.
"Father," said Charles, "I don't want to go to school any more. The scholars are very slow in getting through their lessons, and the teacher goes over the same old thing time after time. I would like to study at home with you and mother, and I am sure I should have more time to play."
And for six years Charles studied at home. Ultimately he entered the Brown University, where he graduated.
After studying for the law, Mr.
Hughes became a junior partner in one of the most famous law firms in New York. His great chance came when in 1905 he was appointed as senior counsel by the committee to investigate the gas and electric lighting business of New York. The result of his cross-examination was the complete exposure of methods whereby the people were being grossly misled.
The legislation which followed was drafted by Mr. Hughes himself, with the result that in the first year the municipality saved on its own lighting alone an amount estimated at £155,000.
That case was the making of Hughes. He became known as the implacable foe of corrupt "bosses" and "rings" and the champion of all good citizenship, with the result that
New York insisted on electing him
Governor in 1906 and again in 1910.
Personally Mr. Hughes is a man of powerful physique and of great physical and mental energy, who, because of his un-American habit of retaining his beard and moustache, is popularly known as "Whiskers."
He is a man of dry humour. When he was first candidate for the New York Governorship he drew the line at some of the labour usually expected of candidates for office. When confronted with the duty of kissing babies, he flatly declined. "No, I will not make any appeal to the passions of the populace," was his droll response.
Mr. Hughes firmly believes in the simple and regular life and the maxim, a healthy body ensures a steady mind.
Walking, golf, and mountaineering are his three hobbies, and when unable to indulge in these outdoor recreations he retires to his library, and finds solace in his beloved books.

THE INVICTUS SHOE

THE INVICTUS

A shoe for well-dressed men. Costs enough to insure a perfect shoe, but is as low as a shoe of this character can be sold. Soon beside a cheaper shoe, the difference is unmistakable. Men who want appearance, satisfying wear, and solid comfort should wear the "Invictus Shoe."

Two Leading LEATHERWARE Lines

In Shoes; Low Prices and Cheapness

Are as far apart as the Poles. Cheapness in Shoes does not depend upon their price, but upon the service they give. To maintain the Low Price of cheap shoes it is necessary to use even more inferior leather than usual. That can only result in one thing—less service—less wear—therefore less economy. No substitution of inferior stock has been made in either of our two Leading Lines for Men and Women.

SOLE AGENTS FOR NEWFOUNDLAND.

Stories Lost and Found.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did you ever lose a story? Attention, please, all who have, for I am starting a "Lost and Found Department" for the stories we read once upon a time, were impressed by, and somehow have lost sight of. The charge for inserting a "lost" notice will be just a promise to help any other reader out, in case you know where his story can be found. I am going to start the ball rolling by inserting three notices.

A Morbid But Exciting Story.

A great many years ago I read a story about two sisters who had to spend a night alone in a big, lonely house. They went into a closet to get something, and the older and stronger-minded of the two saw a man hiding behind some clothing in the far end of it. She knew that if she betrayed her knowledge of his presence, they were lost, so she managed to control herself, and tried to prevent her younger sister from seeing the man by making some quick movement which would extinguish the light. She was not quick enough, however; and the younger sister saw the man and shrieked. The man knew he was discovered, pursued the girls down the stairs and murdered them.

Not a cheerful story? No, but partly because of this very morbidness, it made a deep impression on my youthful mind. Also because we had a very big, deep closet in the house, and I used to mentally stage the story in that closet, thus giving it greater vividness.

Of course, the story might not give me a thrill now, but if any reader happens to have any information about it I would be duly grateful.

Another story dealt with the exciting life of two small boys, who lived in a packing box and subsisted on the earnings of one of them, a newsboy. How I envied those boys! How gladly would I have exchanged my own comfortable little room and my certain-sure three meals a day for their precarious but exciting existence! Perhaps I shouldn't be so anxious to exchange now, yet I would like to meet them again, but, alas! I do not know where to look for them. Perhaps one of my younger readers—friends—if I have any such—can help me out here.

Why Are Boy Stories More Interesting Than Girl Stories?

The third was also a boy story. (Why are boy stories so much more interesting than girl stories? Probably because the small boy himself has so much better a time.) This tale was about two or three boys who were traveling around the world alone. The particular passage that I want to read again was one in which they escaped in a small boat from the hold of a Chinese vessel where they had been stowaways, and where a fire had broken out. There was a picture which showed them escaping. There were other details, but somehow this was the only one which I remember.

Information about these stories would be gratefully received. Conversely of my first proposition, the reward will be a willingness to give you any information I may possess about your lost story.

Health Hints.

Have you ever noticed a bread wagon with the doors wide open and the dust and dirt from the street blowing in over the bread? Just stop and think of the dirt and you will always ask your grocer for Lynch's Bread wrapped and sealed by machinery in a dust and germ-proof wrapper.—Jy18,1f

Delegates.

By GEORGE FITCH
Author of "At Good Old Sivash"

This is the closed season for delegates, but we should nevertheless study them with great care, for like the seventeen-year locusts, they are bound to come again.

A delegate is a man elected by a primary, or by a large man in a speckled vest, to do the thinking for his community. Delegates are chosen because they are supposed to develop more intelligence per minute under a load than the common plug citizen and to use wisdom in a convention as lavishly as the ordinary man uses ketchup on beans.

Sometimes there is a dispute and rival delegates are appointed by rival conventions. In such cases the credentials committee settles the dispute by praying for guidance to select the crowd who will vote for the right man.

Delegates are not paid for their services, but are glad to do the people's thinking for them because of the honor. It is a great honor to be a delegate, but after the average specimen has paid $10 a day for board and room for ten days, he begins to murmur and repine and curse the candidates, and telegraphs home for money and a clean collar. About five days of honor at 100 degrees in the shade is as much as the ordinary delegate can stand.

A delegate goes to a national convention a free man, full of patriotism and sagacity. But when he gets there he becomes afflicted with cheers, stampedes, riots, perspiration, pug-nacity, profanity, allegations and recriminations, and has to do his thinking after he gets home, with the assistance of those who were once his friends. There is no more impressive sight than that of 1,888 ailing and able delegates in a crowded convention hall, standing on their hind legs and using their heaven-sent wisdom in throwing their hats into the rafters because a brass band has exploded at a critical moment. A delegate may be a cool, calm man at home, but in convention he is generally so nervous that a blue sash and a pink banner will stampede him on the steventh ballot and he will vote wildly for a man whose name he has to ask afterward.

WILLY MASON

LEAP YEAR

"Oh, come with me and be my beau," the spinner whis pered, soft and low.

"Why do you smile at giddy girls, with pearly teeth and sunny curls, whose only asset is their looks, while I am learned, in life and books? Oh, I can cook, and I can sew, so come with me and be my beau. What though in years I'm getting on? The foolishness of youth is gone; experience has taught me much; with useful arts I am in touch, and I can make of home a nest where weary man might gladly rest; and I can ornament, you bet, the parlor or the kitchenette, and I can wash and knead the dough, so come with me and be my beau. I play the harp and violin, I carve on wood and hammer tin, and I can talk of books and art; I've always been considered smart; with my own hands I made this gown, which is the smoothest thing in town; there's very little I don't know; then come with me and be my beau." The invitation was in vain, for no young man is safe and sane. He rounded up a girl to wed who couldn't bake a loaf of bread, or sew or cook or do a thing but look like flowers that bloom in spring.

Arachne Arrived at Quebec.

The British grain steamer Arachne, which was ashore recently at St. Pierre, has arrived at Quebec in convoy of the wrecking tug Amphitrite, Capt. Larder. The Amphitrite, equipped with pumps and diving and wrecking appliances, was the first to arrive at the scene of the wreck and Capt. Larder was successful in obtaining the contract for floating her. He engaged the assistance later of the steamers Sable L., Portia and Bridgewater, the two larger of these, it is said, being secured on a basis of $10,000 each.

A few years ago the Amphitrite in company with the Furness Liner Rappahannock were instrumental in salvaging the steamer Transium wrecked off Chebucto Head, N.S.

Death of a Newfoundlander.

We have received the following particulars of the military career and brave death of a young officer, 2nd Lieutenant Eric Beatty. Though he was educated in England and served with English regiments, Newfoundland can claim him as one of her sons. His father is well known here and has many friends in the Colony.

"2nd Lieutenant Eric Finch Beatty, eldest son of Mr. A. H. Beatty of "Highfield," Wimbledon Park, and of Messrs. Balfour Beatty & Co., Ltd., Engineers, 66, Queen Street, London, E. C., aged 22, was born in Newfoundland in December 1893, at which time his father was General Manager of the Iron Pyrites Mines at Pilley's Island, Newfoundland. He was educated at Margate College and in Brussels and Germany, and was a fluent French and German scholar. Intended for the Engineering Profession, he was apprenticed to Messrs. Bellis & Morcom, Ltd., Engineers, Birmingham. Within the last year of his apprenticeship, shortly after the outbreak of War, he entered the army in the ranks of the Royal Warwickshire (Birmingham Battalion) with a number of his fellow apprentices; received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in February 1915, and was appointed to the 12th Sherwood Foresters (Pioneers) with which regiment and the 13th Sherwood Foresters he served for some time in England before being sent to France. He proceeded to France in October, 1915, and was attached to the 12th Sherwood Foresters until some few weeks before his death, when he was transferred to the 72nd Trench Mortar Battery. He was killed in action on the night of the 23rd-24th June, 1916, and his Commanding Officer writes:—

"He met his death bravely, going up into a heavy bombardment and was at his post when his detachment was hit by a shell which killed him with four of his men instantaneously. Our loss is great as well as he was an exceptionally keen officer and was liked and respected by all."

Sloan-Duployan Shorthand Competition.

Three Newfoundland Successes.

In the last Semi-Annual International Competitions of the Sloan-Duployan Shorthand Society (Headquarters, Ramsgate, England), there was a decided increase in the number of competitors, the figures being almost equal to those of pre-war days. The following are the results, just announced:—

Class I (Combined Sections)—Silver Medal to Mr. J. Lavender, 3 Dalmeny Road, London, N.

Class II (Self-taught Section)—Silver Medal to Mr. V. S. Bendry, 496 Curuwar, Satara, Bombay Pres., India.

Class II (Instructed Section)—Silver Medals to Miss Kittle Harris, Caspian Road, St. John's, Newfoundland; Mr. Chas. Wright, 93 Norman Road, Wrexham; and Miss Ella Steele, 100 Water Street, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Class III (100 words per minute)—Gold-Centre Medals to Miss Louise Saunders, 77 Gower Street, St. John's, Newfoundland; and Mr. T. N. Krishnan, 5775 Goods Shed Street, Madras, India.

It will be observed that out of the seven medals awarded, three have found their way to St. John's. Miss Harris and Miss Steele in Class II, and Miss Saunders in Class III, are all pupils of the Convent of Mercy, Military Road, St. John's.

HERRING SHIPMENT.—The schr. Springdale left Moreton's Harbor for Halifax with 1,000 barrels of herring.

I fell from a building and received what the doctor called a very bad sprained ankle, and told me I must not walk on it for three weeks. I got MINARD'S LINIMENT, and in six days I was out to work again. I think it the best Liniment made.

Empire Day Red Cross Fund.

Dear Sir,—The following letter from Lady des Voeux will be of interest to those who so generously subscribed to Empire Day Red Cross Fund.

Yours truly,

F. H. STEER.

There are one or two details as to the Star and Garter which I thought would be of interest to your generous subscribers. The Hospital holds 65 beds at present (ultimately there will be over 200 beds). All these beds are occupied by young men, some of them mere boys, paralyzed from the waist down. With many it was only a question of days or weeks, some of them may linger a couple of years. They have an electric piano, gramophone, flowers, and as much tobacco as they like. A special lift has been constructed into which their beds are wheeled and they are taken down into the garden. Everything that science and human tenderness can do to help them is done, but I have never in my life seen so sad a sight as those two great wards filled with dying men. I am sure the Patriotic Association of Newfoundland would have been rewarded if they could have seen, as I did, their twelve beds and realize how much they were doing to help those brave, splendid men in them through those last sad months of their lives.

Presented With Purse of Gold.

Yesterday the popular Pastor of Cochrane Street Centennial Church, the Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., was waited upon by a deputation from the congregation of the Church and presented with an address and a well filled purse of gold on the eve of his departure from the city. Mr. Whitmarsh was, needless to say, taken by surprise and thanked the kind donors for their generosity and all kind wishes.

ADDRESS.

Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, M.A., City. Dear Mr. Whitmarsh,—On the eve of your departure from amongst us as Pastor of Cochrane Street Methodist Centennial Church, with which you have been identified for the past four years, we desire to assure you of our highest appreciation of your work. You have gone in and out amongst us, sharing in our joys and sorrows. You have been intensely interested in our young people, and your attendance at the regular sessions of our Sunday School and Epworth League have fully proven the interest you have taken.

We also feel very deeply indebted to Mrs. Whitmarsh for her valuable services, especially as Superintendent of the Primary Department of our School.

We ask your acceptance of the accompanying purse, which is but a small token of our love and esteem. With all good wishes for your future happiness. On behalf of the officials and members of the congregation.

Missing Men Safe.

Deputy Minister of Customs LeMessurier is in receipt of a message stating that the four men who strayed from Capt. Lewis's banking schooner Metamora were safe, having landed at Bay Bulls, where they rowed from the Banks. There were two men in each dory and the bankers while treading on the Finnish Cap on Thursday last missed their vessel in dense fog. The Metamora came to land on Monday last and reported the loss of four of her crew at Holyrood. The knowledge that the four men are safe will dispel the anxiety felt for them by relatives and friends. They must have had a thrilling experience

DESERTED.

(From London Tit-Bits.)

The following amusing incident was witnessed the other day at a London railway terminus. A Salvation Army lassie was selling the "War Cry" at the windows of the train. In one of the compartments were a number of "knuts," and one of them, thinking to have some fun at the expense of the sister, asked her if she would offer up a word of prayer for him. Rising to the occasion, the sister put her hand on his head and, to the amusement of those within hearing distance, replied:—"O Lord, make this young man's heart as soft as his head."

A TECHNICAL DEFEAT.

LONDON, To-day. The Government sustained a technical defeat in the Commons to-night when an amendment to a bill dealing with the placing of retired soldiers on the land, insisting that land should be acquired for this purpose in Wales, was carried by a vote of 51 to 46. This amendment was opposed by the Government.

JAPANESE STATESMAN DEAD.

STOCKHOLM, To-day. Flight Lieutenants Martensson and Jruus, were killed to-day while engaged in a fight.

PROBLEM OF THE LIFE OF PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, To-day. The question whether a general election should be held when the present Parliament expires in November, led to the Government receiving a rebuff in the Commons to-day. Herbert L. Samuel, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, on behalf of the Government submitted to the House a motion in favor of the appointment of a committee to consider the advisability of preparing a new electoral register, including adequate representation of those engaged in war work, and to take other measures necessary to the holding of a general election during the war. The motion was warmly opposed by all sections of the House as being merely a device to shelve the issue. Sir Edward Carson strongly denounced the proposed course and took exception to the view of the Government that it was advisable to hold elections during the war. He stoutly opposed the idea that a Parliament elected to abolish the House of Lords and to do away with armaments was a proper one to represent the country when peace was eventually declared. Sir Edward characterized the Government motion as a farce. After a number of other members had spoken, the Premier said the motion appeared to meet with little favor. Obviously, however, he said, the existence of the present Parliament could not be prolonged indefinitely. The problem to be faced, he declared, would accept the judgment of the House and withdraw the motion.

ROMANIA WANTS WAR.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily Telegraph prints the following despatch from Bucharest, under Monday's date. "This morning there was a great public gathering under the auspices of the Unionist Federation Filipescu and Joneaco. Both spoke. The former declared victory for the Allies was sure and that Rumania would enter into the war. He went on to accuse Premier Bratiano of having faced both ways and said he had decided even Germany into believing that Rumania would march with the Central Powers. In the presence of Hil Filipescu and Joneaco Bratiano had promised to enter the war with Italy. He had made the situation difficult with the King by promises which he gave to the Central Powers. Joneaco declared every dollar given to the Allies would be as a stone in the building up of a greater Rumania. The speeches were wildly applauded and in the afternoon there was a demonstration in the streets, the people crying, "We want war!"

FRENCH SUCCESSES ON SOMME.

PARIS, To-day. A French attack in the Somme region was delivered last night on both sides of the river. On the north bank trenches in the Hardecourt sector was taken, while south of the river all the German front line trenches between Barleux and Soyecourt fell into French hands. Announcement of French successes is made in this afternoon's War Office bulletin. Trenches were captured on the north bank from Hardecourt along the railway from Comblies to Clerf. Four hundred prisoners were captured in this operation. In the Verdun region there was a continuous bombardment of the Ayocourt and Chataignac sectors. On the left bank of the Meuse with grenade engagements to the northeast of Hill 304, east of the Meuse. The French progressed west of the Thiaumont earth work while to the south of Fleury they took strongly fortified German posts together with 150 prisoners. Doyle, Uppres Chesman and Dr. Smith controlled the game with Mr. P. E. Outerbridge at the score sheets. 7th Innings, B.I.S.—Will Cooney on the mound for the Lions the B.I.S. went to bat. Doyle was caught out on a foul fly; Channing, Power and Simpson made safe hits; Campbell struck out; McGrath singled; and when Doc Power hit a homer he cleared up the bases. Carey hit but was left on second when Grace panned. Red Lions: Carey gave Ellis a walk; Quick struck out; Rolis was caught up by Doc Power who made a double play on Ellis. B.I.S., 5; Red Lions, 0.

2nd Innings, B.I.S.—Doyle flied; Channing was passed; Power was caught out; Simpson bunted safely; Rolis held; Campbell's pop fly. Lions: Cooney panned; Hiltz hit safely; Jenkins died; Maher hit but was left on third when Duggan panned. B.I.S., 6; Red Lions, 1.

3rd Innings, B.I.S.—McGrath and Doc Power circled the bases before Carey, Grace and Doyle were retired in the one-two-three order. Lions: Carey again gave Ellis a pass to first but when Quick flied another double play was made off Ellis; Power did not connect. B.I.S., 7; Red Lions, 1. 4th Innings, B.I.S.—Channing struck out as also did Power; Simpson was passed but he not scored when Campbell again flied. Red Lions: Rolis walked; Cooney vainly smote the air three times; Hiltz got a pass by being hit and when Jenkins hit two-bagger he scored; Jenkins was not napping by McGrath and when Maher's hit did not materialize the side was retired. B.I.S., 7; Red Lions, 3.

5th Innings, B.I.S.—Here Conway got in some clever work in which he retired McGrath, Doc Power and Carey in quick succession. Red Lions: Quick flied and Rolis fanned; Duggan sent down a flyer towards third and scored before Duggan struck out. B.I.S., 7; Red Lions, 4. 6th Innings, B. I. S.—Doyle could not find Cooney, but Channing reached first, and when Power hit a three bagger he scored Channing but was left forlorn on the third sack when Simpson flied and Campbell failed to hit Red Lions.—Cooney connected but in attempting to steal third was nabbed. Before Jenkins and Maher both struck out, Hiltz made a daring steal home which was one of the features of the game. B. I. S., 9; Red Lions, 5.

7th Innings, B. I. S.—Having a substantial lead the Irishmen appeared to let up at this period and Cooney again worked the "one-two-three" when he struck out McGrath and Doc Power and caught Carey's pop fly. Red Lions.—At this juncture the Lions changed their tactics in an effort to even up their score and attempted to steal everything in sight but Duggan and Power could not get away with it, being tagged on second and third, respectively, and Ellis was left on the last sack of the circuit when Quick struck out. B. I. S., 9; Red Lions, 5.

8th Innings, B. I. S.—Grace again scored three home runs and retired the bench. Doyle was passed but Channing's and Power's hits failed to materialize and they died reaching first. Red Lions.—Rolis flied to his right and Cooney reached the bags by being hit. Hiltz and Jenkins' efforts to swat were without avail but when Maher hit a liner he scored Rolis and Cooney. Duggan flied to Doc Power. B. I. S., 10; Red Lions, 7.

9th Innings, B. I. S.—Simpson fanned; Campbell connected, but in attempting for second injured his knee and had to retire. Doc Power and Crew were left on bases when Grace once more failed to connect. Red Lions.—Ellis flied and Carey's curves proved too much for Quick and Rolis, leaving the Irishmen victors by 11 to 7. "The Powers that be"—(Mike of the Lions and "Chief" and particularly "Doc" of the Irish) played a good brand of ball. "Doc" Power's homer is No. 3 for the season. Another feature was "Chief" Power's 3 bagger. Mike Power showed a remarkable improvement yesterday and his back-stopping qualities are quite pronounced. The Lions had 6 men put out on bases. The Irishmen were guilty of many fielding errors but their batting showed a considerable improvement. There are two more games to be played to finalise the first round, viz.: Cubs vs. Red Lions. B. I. S. vs. Wanderers.

Owing to the Garden Party at Mt. Cashel next Wednesday the regular League fixture is deferred until the following week when the above double header will be played. At 6.30 to-night the Cubs and Red Lions will try conclusions at St. George's Field in the preliminary Mt. Cashel game. The admission is only five cents and the entire proceeds will be given to the Orphanage. As the winners to-night will play off at the Garden Party with the Wanderers a good fast game should be the result. To Correspondents.—Answers to various questions will be given in Saturday's column.

Germany Fights With Her Back Against the Wall.

This Anemic Line Faces Russian Hordes On East Front—Intimation That Germany is Nearing Her Resources.

New York—Karl H. Von Wiegand, the Berlin correspondent of The World, has proved himself for a long time to be a faithful reflector of military sentiment and opinion in Germany, says the military critic of the New York Times. He is impregnated with it, and repeats what he hears with entire fidelity and not the slightest consideration for how it will strike outsiders. When this sentiment has been distorted to absurdity by the rabidness of war feeling, he has evinced no perception of that absurdity but has printed insane boasts with honest faith. It was he, for instance, who reported the irritation of the German officers because the British fleet would not come out of its hiding place and stand battle with its German pursuers, and their hope that before long this concealment would be penetrated. Von Wiegand has reported just what he heard, and what he heard has been from military sources.

Therefore his despatch printed in yesterday's World is of unusual interest, because in it he—that is, the person with whom he has talked—reveals the real condition of Germany under the present attack on the eastern and western fronts. If von Wiegand talks in this way, the end must be nearer than had been thought. He definitely says that "the situation would appear hopeless for Germany and Austro-Hungary" but for the fact that the Germans and Austrians, who are white men, are superior in intelligence to "the whites, blacks, browns, and yellows" who are opposing them. If this idea that Sikhs and Turcos are directing the military operations of the Allies excites a smile, it must be remembered that in times of extremity men cannot be expected to be reasonable; it was just so that the Confederates, when they felt the pressure of Grant and Sherman, talked about how they were being beaten by the foreign immigrants. The significant thing is that "the situation would appear hopeless," but for this one hope which is no hope at all.

"For the first time in the war, the military initiative has passed to the other side." He tells us, therefore it is admitted in Berlin, that "even westward of Lutsk, Linsingen's counter offensive has slowed down," and that only at Verdun is the offensive maintained. Both on the east and west, he tells us, therefore it is what is being said in Berlin—the Germans confront superior numbers; in the east, "often four or five to one." He speaks of "the thin, anemic line" of the Germans in the east. If it is thin and anemic it must be because it cannot be reinforced. So Johnston's line was thin and anemic as he vainly confronted Sherman and it too could not be reinforced; there were no more men." Against these thin lines' fresh armies from Russia are beating "with the ceaselessness of the sea, that cannot be otherwise than discouraging to the stoutest hearts."

Remember that this discouragement is reported from Berlin, by the very mouth-piece of Berlin's loudest gasconades in the past. Next he tells us that these "thin, anemic lines" are now badly fed; "fed on food that, at the very best, cannot have the strength giving, force-producing properties which the men on the other side have in abundance." The British blockade has placed the anemic lines where the anemic lines of Lee were placed by the Northern blockade in the last year of the Confederacy. And these outnumbered, badly fed men cannot be relieved by fresh men, but must do all the work themselves; at least that is the inference from his description of them as "snatching a few hours rest under a hail of shells and shrapnel, or sitting up straight on the hardwood seats or jammed railroad cars shunted from front to front, from point to point like shuttlecocks on the vast loomlike network of the German railroads."

If Germany is not nearing the end of her resources, then Mr. Von Wiegand is mistaken, for that is the inescapable conclusion from his description. Attacked on every front but one, in the grip of the blockade, she is facing her foes with undermanned, badly fed armies that cannot be replaced or reinforced. A nation placed on the defensive in such conditions can hardly resume the offensive. And that the authorities are preparing the people for the inevitable is at least suggested in Mr. Von Wiegand's statement that, while almost no information is published giving the German side of the story the German newspapers are allowed to print "lengthy and detailed" reports from French and British sources. If there is no hope for Germany except the vague hope, in her "superior intelligence," the German Government will hardly bank too heavily on it. It will have that last straw to Mr. Von Wiegand.
