FRIDAY EVEN'G, OCTOBER 25.

THE FALL TRADE.

Now that the Fall Trade has commenced, we have to remind the business men of this section that our facilities for turning out all kinds of JOB PRINTING are unrivalled. We have the best of Presses and Type, employ none but good workmen, and our charges are LOWER than any other office in Guelph. Orders from the country attended to, and work forwarded to all parts by the earliest mode of conveyance.

Some snow fell about Mount Forest on Tuesday last.

The Halton County Ploughing Match will come off on the 29 inst.

Mr. John Winger of Berlin had two of his fingers cut off on Tuesday last while attending a circular saw.

Clifford Cattle Fair comes off on Thursday next, 31st inst., and is thenceforth to be regularly held on the last Thursday of each month.

COMMERCIAL BANK BILLS.—Mr. Robt. Rutherford advertises in the Evening Mercury that he will take Commercial Bank Bills at par for payment of goods, in order to effect a clearing sale.

The thief who stole a span of horses and a buggy from Mr. McDermid, of North Easthope, has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

THE SNIDER RIFLES for the Wellington Battalion were shipped from London this morning, and will probably be here to-morrow, so that Captains commanding Companies will be able to issue them to their respective Companies early in the coming week.

THE INQUEST in HAMILTON.—The inquest held at Hamilton on the remains of the young woman, Sarah Edwards, has revealed the fact that an abortion had been produced by medicines, and that death was the consequence. The investigation has not yet been concluded, and it is not known what may befall "Doctor" Davis for the part he has played in the sinful drama.

DRAMATIC.—The Milton Champion says, We hear that it is the intention to organize a Dramatic Association in this Town. From the well-known histrionic talent of some of the gentlemen engaged in the matter, and having now an excellent hall for such purposes, it will no doubt be a source of amusement during the winter months.

ACCIDENT.—Mr Robert Hunter, bailiff and auctioneer, of Beverly, met with an accident on Friday last which came near proving fatal. He was proceeding to Hamilton in a buggy, when his horse took fright at a train and ran away, throwing the driver out of the buggy with such violence that Mr Hunter received injuries which at first caused his life to be despaired of. It is hoped he may recover.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS.—The Mount Forest Examiner says:—An interesting meeting was held in Knox's Church on Tuesday evening last, to hear an address by the Rev. Wm. Clarke, agent of the French Canadian Missionary Society. The Rev. gentleman gave a pleasing account of the labors of the society, its objects, and its prospects in the future. His remarks were listened to with attention, and we believe his visit was attended with a fair share of success, financially.

JUVENILE SMOKERS.—The law prohibiting minors from smoking on the streets is rigidly enforced in Halifax, N. S., several youths having been recently arrested and fined for so doing. Guelph wants a law somewhat similar. It is not half such a nuisance that boys should smoke on the streets as that they should congregate at corners on Sunday evenings and beselver the sidewalks with tobacco juice, which, after all, is not the foulest emanation from their mouths, as many an ins'tituted lady can testify.

A SLIGHT MISHAP.—This morning Mr. Jackson, M.P. for South Grey, was driving down Wyndham street in a buggy, having a friend in company. Probably he was engaged in a discussion on the action likely to be taken by the Nova Scotian majority, on the equalization of the tariff, or some other absorbing subject, for it was evident that he was paying but little attention to his horse, which stumbled and fell. The member resigned his seat immediately, a crowd collected, harness was unbacked, and the grey horse, of shabby understanding, whose negligence had done more than Mr. Dalglial's labor and industry could do—unset his master—got up with no further injury than what was done to his color. Mr. Jackson took the strings once more, and the last seen of him was when he was asking one of the newboys for a copy of the Leader.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN GUELPH IN 1867.

ALLAN'S MILLS.

Last year Mr. David Allan commenced to take down the last remaining portion of his mill which was built of wood, and to rebuild it of stone, so as to make it uniform with the rest of his extensive premises. The season being too far advanced to admit of finishing it, the work was suspended till this year. Accordingly shortly after the season opened operations were begun, the half built walls were carried up to their full height, the roof put on, and now as far as the work externally is concerned the building is finished. The mason work was done by Mr. Thomas Dobbie, and is as neat and well finished a piece of work of the kind as can be found in Guelph or anywhere else. Mr. Allan has shown good taste in putting up a couple of projecting turrets on the gable facing the railway, which are after the fashion of the turrets that adorn many ancient castles in Britain, and help very much to set off the appearance of the building. This wing like nearly every other portion of the building, is covered with slates. Only one of the wings is now covered with shingles, and Mr. Allan intends in another year to roof that with slates also, when the whole building will be completely fire proof as far as its external exposure is concerned. The internal arrangements and fitting of these mills are of the best kind, and done in the most substantial manner. The recently finished wing is devoted mainly to the receiving and storing of grain, from which it can be conveyed into either of the mills as may be required. We say either of the mills, for though both are under one roof, and communicating with each other, yet they are distinct and worked separately. In the one are four runs of stones, driven by water, and in the other are three runs, driven by a powerful and well made forty horse engine from the foundry of Messrs. Ewart, Ingles, & Co., which was put in last spring. The engine room and boiler house occupy the lower ground fronting the river, and are admirably planned for convenient working. Indeed it is rarely we find a structure of such dimensions, put up at different periods, which harmonizes so well in all its parts both externally and internally, and where the machinery seems to work as if planned and put together at one time. With so many runs of stones, and with both steam and water, one may form some idea of the capacity of the mill when in full working order.

Standing in front of this noble pile of buildings, one cannot help looking back to the days when Guelph was in its infancy, and this mill but a very small affair compared to what it now is. Within a few yards of you is the spot where the founder of the town in 1827 awoke the echoes of the forest by felling the first tree, and for ever broke the solitude which had before reigned supreme. The last trace of that interesting monument of the birth of our town has been long ago obliterated to make way for the advancing steps of civilization, and over the very spot where Galt and his companions stood on that memorable evening rushes the iron horse daily, with its trains of cars loaded with passengers from every section of the continent, and merchandise from every quarter of the globe. Yet here also the past and present are gracefully linked together, for the Priory still stands, a memento of those early days, and though the first house built in Guelph it bears its age well, and embowered among the trees looks almost as fresh as some of its younger neighbors. The extension of the mills and the increase of the trade of Guelph have kept pace together. At first but a small, rough and unpretentious building, it has gradually been enlarged to meet the wants of the section of country, and as the growth of trade demanded. Gradually the wooden structure has been replaced by stone, until now we have a very large, compact and substantial pile of buildings, the like of which is rarely met with in Canada. It has quite an imposing appearance from the railway, and to the stranger viewing it from the place, and conveys the idea that Guelph is what he finds it out to be, a thriving, bustling business town with splendid mills, a large and first class market and a healthy trade. Nor can the proprietor of this large and splendid property help feeling a pardonable pride in looking at it, and especially when he remembers what it was in his younger years, and what it now is—a source of pride to Guelph, and an enduring monument of his untiring energy and perseverance.

GALT OLD FAIR.—This fair will be held on Tuesday next. The Reporter says, it has of late changed its old characteristics for that of a more direct Sheep Fair; and the gatherings that have been held the past two or three years have been eminently satisfactory. Galt is well fitted for holding a Sheep Fair, for in no portion of the Province is the breeding and raising of these animals more taken into consideration than in Dumfries and adjoining Townships.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—We have received from Tunis & Co., Clifton, the November number of the above, which completes the volume. As usual it has a very long list of contents. The articles always afford pleasant reading, being not so heavy as those in the British Magazines, and yet they are far more solid and instructive than most of the literature that appears in American periodicals.—The Drawer, the inexhaustible Drawer, shows as many rich and WHAT'S UP.—Tory governments are especially noted for their attention to the disposition of patronage to hangers-on, and the rank-and-file are equally celebrated for their blood-sucking propensities. An incident has occurred in Stratford which has completely upset the equanimity of the leeches. John A. Scown, Esq., a "Clear Grit" of the strictest sect, who supported Billington and Campbell with might and main during the recent election in West Middlesex, has been appointed Postmaster in room of Mrs. Cook. The Tories are "dumfounded"—perfectly speechless—at the atrocity of the appointment. We may expect to hear "curses, loud and deep," hurled at the Postmaster-General, as soon as the supraloyal organs recover from the shock.—Chatham Banner.

WEDDING PARTY.—The St. Catherine's Journal says:—The interesting daughter of a wealthy farmer was led to the hymeneal altar, by one of the stalwart sons of the soil. This was followed by an invitation to certain gents in town and county to a social party, which did not take place at either the house of the bride's father or groom, but at a country tavern. Imagine the surprise of some of the invited, when another invitation was pressed for deposit of $1.25 per head.—They all forked over, but the astonishment was so great that some of the muled had not recovered their equanimity yet.

THE COMBINATION.—The Premier of the Combination has his hands full just now, having to look after the whole machinery of the government, evidently being afraid to allow his extravagant colleagues to get ahead of him. The fitting up of the Parliament Buildings in Toronto, which should be under the jurisdiction of Mr. Carling, the Commissioner of Public Works, is progressing under the direction of the Attorney-General, poor Mr. Carling scarcely even daring to offer a suggestion. We are not sorry at all that Sanfield has determined to control the Combination. He will be certain to keep the expenditures down to the lowest possible notch, whatever else he may do. A system which will not tend to raise him in the estimation of his newly found Tory friends. The combination must lose caste among them if the Premier is not more liberal.—Chatham Banner.

The north of Scotland has been visited by symptoms of a severe and premature winter. The Northey Ensign says the greater part of the oat crop is still unripe, and on many farms is quite green. Although there is a heavy crop on the ground, unless the weather improves, there is every reason to fear that much of it will never fall before the sickle. On many farms the grain crop has been so shaken by tempests of unusual severity, that little is to be seen on the fields ready for the sickle but bare and blasted stalks. The farmers are in a state of great alarm. The potato disease is spreading in all directions, so that the winter prospects are very gloomy.

GEOGRAPHICAL KNOWLEDGE.—The N. Y. Tribune has, or rather pretends to have, one would imagine, a "special correspondent" who dates his letters at Florence, but, who, it is asserted writes them in New York. He lately amused his readers by describing a voyage between Genoa and Caprea, and no doubt astonished many of them by telling them, that he passed within hailing distance of St. Helena. A school boy could have told that the island rendered famous by the exile of Napoleon was some thousands of miles distant from either Genoa or Caprea.

The advances of Russia in the East are looked upon with alarm by Anglo-Indians. A reported understanding between the Persian and Russian governments, and the fact that the latter has already obtained possession of all the intervening territory between the Caucases and Cabul, give rise to the opinion that the next time the Northern Bear makes a dash at Turkey she will be able to keep Britain so busy in India that she will not be able to undertake another Crimean campaign.

The propriety of having public hospitals is being discussed in England and France. An eminent medical authority, Sir James Simpson, in a recent address at Belfast, said:—"If our hospitals were changed from being crowded palaces with a large sick in each flat, into villages and cottages with one, or at most two patients in each room, a great saving of human life would be effected." And from statistics carefully compiled it has been ascertained that the number of deaths among hospital treated patients was far higher than among those treated at home, even when their homes were exceedingly humble, unventilated and every way inconvenient.

Says the Liverpool Courier of the 10th "In the case of the Manchester outrage we are fortunately liberated from all those technicalities which baffled justice so long in Ireland. The charge is not for sedition but for murder. A more execrable, daring, atrocious murder never was committed. That all admit. The only question to be decided is "Who are guilty?" Once the verdict of the jury is given and sentence pronounced, swift execution should follow. This remedy against Fenianism will be found far more effective than shiploads of loyal addresses.

DISASTER ON THE LABRADOR COAST.—The World's St. John's special says a terrific gale occurred on the Labrador coast on the 9th inst., and so far as heard from, some thirty vessels have been totally wrecked; also an immense amount of property, and forty lives lost. Steamers are leaving St. John's with relief for the sufferers, there being over one thousand people left destitute.

Goodwin, a private in the Royal Artillery, dashed himself up like a negro and tried to desert. He was caught, tried before a garrison Court-martial, and while his comrades were on their way to Malta, he was found a secure retreat in the Hochelaga military prison for two years, and his assistant, a negro, a three months' lodging place in the common goal in Montreal.

The portraits which gleam forth in the fashion plates in tailors' windows are generally taken from life. There is quite a rivalry among certain young men to be taken, for fashion plates.

A number of Canadian journals have been swindled by the bogus advertising agencies of Chas. A. Abbott, alias Abbott & Co., Mathew & Abbott; Mathew & Co., and Chas. F. Smith & Co. Pass them around.

LATEST FROM ITALY.

Napoleon proposes a General Conference of the Leading European Powers.

THE ITALIAN MINISTRY STILL INCOMPLETE!

Garibaldi's Movements.

THE FENIAN EXCITEMENT IN IRELAND.

(To-day's Despatches.)

Paris, Oct. 24.—At the latest accounts received from Italy last night the formation of the Italian Ministry was incomplete, in consequence of the hesitation of Gen. Durando to accept the portfolio of the Interior, tendered to him by General Cialdini. In the meantime Baron Rattazzi was acting as Prime Minister. Francis Joseph, the Emperor of Austria, arrived at Paris yesterday evening, and was received at the railway station by the Emperor Napoleon. After exchanging congratulations, the emperors entered a state carriage and were driven to the Tuileries. The Moniteur says this visit of the Emperor Francis Joseph adds a new pledge of amity to the cordial relations established between Austria and France.

Newmarket, Oct. 24.—The course to-day was crowded with spectators, and additional excitement was created by the announcement that Lozege and Welsey would run again for the Cambridgehire stakes, the contest for which on the second day resulted in a dead heat for those two horses. The race took place amid much excitement and resulted in the success of Lozege. The handicap race that followed was won by Rosicrucian, one of the winners on the first day of meeting.

London, Oct. 24th.—It is reported that Napoleon requested the European powers to unite with France in a general conference for the settlement of the Roman question and to prevent the recurrence of the recent events in Italy.

Paris, Oct. 24.—The official statement of the Bank of France reports an increase of 4,000,000 francs in bullion during the past week.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—All the German States which are not members of the Confederation have signified their intention of adding their signatures to the new postal treaty concluded between the Confederation of the North and the United States of America.

YESTERDAY'S DESPATCHES.

London, Sept. 23, midnight.—The following significant despatch has been received: Florence, Italy, Sept. 23, 9 p.m.—The news to-night is glorious for the cause of Italy. The Government has deemed it best to suppress the details for the present.

London, Sept. 24.—The official returns of the Bank of England show that the amount of bullion in the vaults has decreased £475,000 sterling during the week ending to-day.

Liverpool, Oct. 24.—The Board of Directors of the Royal Bank of Liverpool yesterday made an assessment of five pounds per share upon the stockholders. An examination of the condition of the bank shows that its liabilities do not exceed £1,500,000 sterling. The directors say that the institution will soon resume business.

London, Oct. 24.—Sir James South, an eminent astronomer, one of the founders and several times president of the Royal Astronomical Society, died to-day at the advanced age of eighty years.

London, Oct. 24.—In consequence of indications of a secret movement in the city of Cork, the authorities are keeping a sharp watch upon the Fenians there, and the police patrols have been doubled. The Government has refused the application of counsel for a postponement of the trial of the parties implicated in the outrage at Manchester.

London, Oct. 24.—Morning despatches from Florence say, it was known in that city early last night, that Gen. Garibaldi had traversed Italy, and succeeded in reaching Foligno, in the Province of Umbria, and that his arrival there was discovered, and he was forbidden by the Italian authorities from proceeding any further. Since then nothing has been made public of his movements or whereabouts. The London Times to-day has a strong editorial on French intervention, it stigmatizes the compulsory course of France as cruel to Italy and perilous to Europe, and declares that its effect will be transient, for the Garibaldians must rise again, and a new enterprise against Rome is inevitable.

Paris, Oct. 24, a.m.—The troops which were sent to embark on the naval expedition for the relief of Rome are now encamped around Toulon.

American Despatches.

From Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Oct. 24.—The first game of the billiard tournament to-day between Vermeil and Sailer, was won by the former. Score, 300 to 295; winner's average 284. Second game Oshate and Smith won by Oshate. Third game, between Davis and Rivers, won by Davis. Fourth game, between Foster and Parker, won by Parker; average 277. Fifth game, between Ackerman and Coon, won by Coon. Score 300 to 44.

From San Francisco.

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—A letter from Mazatlan, dated 18th, has been received here, which states that the place continues in great excitement.

From Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Flour more active $3 to $3.25 for spring extra quiet at $1.96 @ $1.97 for No. 2. Corn $1.81 for No. 2. Corn

Guelph Evening Mercury

FRIDAY EVEN'G, OCTOBER 25.

A Slight Bank Panic.

A feeling has got abroad in this section in consequence partly of the over-cautionousness of the Post Office authorities here in refusing to take its bills on Tuesday, that the Gore Bank was not altogether in a safe condition. The following from the Hamilton Times of last night, will allay the fears of those who may have doubts with regard to its solvency:—"To-day there was a slight run on the Gore Bank in this city, and upon the Royal Canadian in Toronto, arising from a vague apprehension among small depositors and bill holders, caused by the failure of the Bank of Upper Canada and the recent suspension of the Commercial Bank. Somehow it got whispered round that the Gore Bank was a considerable loser by the suspension of the Commercial; but this is not the case. The Gore Bank is in no wise affected by the suspension of the Commercial. It has now in its vaults ample coin to redeem its whole circulation, and therefore, it is folly to make a run on it, for its notes are as good as the gold. We are informed that the same is true of the Royal Canadian. The following was the condition of the Gore Bank as officially stated on the 30th of September, 1867. Capital authorized by Act $1,000,000, paid up $307,280. Liabilities: Promissory notes, $522,582; balance due to other Banks $65,707 19; cash deposits not bearing interest $374,237 10; cash deposits bearing interest $52,687 25. Total liabilities, $1,615,213 54. There was a run on the Royal Canadian in Toronto yesterday, principally by farmers, but it subsided in the afternoon. There is reason to fear that some malicious person started the run, as it was seen at yesterday, and expected to-day. The Bank is perfectly able to meet any run, having abundance of gold in its vaults,—other Banks ready to assist if occasion required. The policy of the Bank of Montreal towards the Commercial is everywhere strongly condemned, and the fear is that this Bank has the Government in its power and is disposed to play the tyrant, not only over all monetary institutions in Canada, as far as it can, but over the Government itself. It is a matter of great regret that any one great monied institution should have almost sole control over the currency and finances of the country.

The Spectator says:—"There was a slight run on the Gore Bank in this city yesterday, principally by small depositors and bill holders, the demands being promptly met in gold. The cause is due to the reported losses which the Bank was said to have sustained in consequence of its relations with the Commercial. We are glad to be in a position to state that these reports are entirely unfounded. The Gore Bank loses nothing by the failure of the Commercial, and this fact cannot be too generally known. The public, however, will be pleased to learn that Mr. Cassels, the Cashier of the Gore Bank, who is now in Montreal, has made arrangements with the Bank of Montreal by which that institution has assumed the account of the Bank, and acts as its agent at all points at which it has agencies. This, of course, settles all question as to the perfect ability of the Bank to meet all its obligations, and will at once restore public confidence in it. Any—even the slightest—run upon the Bank may now, therefore, be considered at an end.

THE TAILORS' STRIKE IN ENGLAND.—The tailors' strike in England, which has lasted for upwards of seven months, has terminated in the defeat of the employees. Their course throughout had been such as to destroy any feeling of sympathy with them. Not contented with abstaining from work themselves, they were in the habit of intimidating and molesting all independent workmen, who, not belonging to the Association, thought proper to continue work. They demanded that all journeymen should be subject to their ipse dixit, and work or not, as the Trade Union should decree.—And pickets were placed in all directions, whose business it was to intercept and rebuke, or bully any workman who might be on his road to or from the different working establishments for the purpose of continuing or taking work home.

One of the St. Petersburg journals writes as follows. It rather likes the idea of France and Prussia going to war for the very simple, but very selfish reason that Russia would likely be benefited thereby.—"Count de Bismarck is evidently employing every means to exhaust the patience of the French, and to provoke, within a brief period, a conflict which he regards as inevitable. The Cabinet of St. Petersburg could have no motive for preventing a war between France and Prussia. Whatever might be the issue of it, it is certain that the changes which would ensue in the equilibrium of European power could not be favorable to us. France with her brilliant army and her almost unlimited credit in every market in the world, is, in fact, a very dangerous rival to Russia in the East, while, at the close of a severe and sanguinary war, her even temporarily impaired strength would naturally be advantageous for us. As to Prussia, she will never forget that one day or other she will become Germany, and for that reason the enemy of Slavonianism, and consequently of Russia. A war between the two nations is therefore ultimately inevitable. But Prussia would not come out of a war with France more powerful than she is at the present time. On the contrary, it may easily happen that she would be in some degree weaker, in which case our dangers would be diminished in the same proportion as her strength. Let us therefore not prevent the Prussians from going to war with whom they please.—Let us rather stir up the bellicose ardor, in order that we may derive from them similar benefits to those which they reaped at our expense during the Crimean campaign. If it's policy does not suit the taste of poets, it is, on the other hand, extremely reasonable."

The Abyssinian Expedition.

Advices from Gibraltar state that great activity prevails at the establishment formed at that place to purvey for the requirements of the Abyssinian expedition in the matter of transport. About one hundred mules a day are received by the Deputy Commissary General, and the Governor of Gibraltar has been apprised by telegraph that five transports are about to leave England for the conveyance to Alexandria of the mules purchased in Spain. The animals are said to be of a very good average quality, and it is supposed that before the end of October two thousand may, if required, be collected in the vicinity of Gibraltar. The measure of collecting and shipping the mules from Gibraltar is considered to be a very advantageous one for the expedition, although the authorities at Cairo and the Egyptian people generally pretend that mules can be bought in Assyria at much lower rates and that the latter animals are the only ones which would stand the climate.—They also believe that the English expedition is not half large enough for making a real impression. The Viceroy of Egypt, it is understood, has ordered a corps of 10,000 men to proceed to the frontiers of Abyssinia.

NIGHT TRAVELLING.—A horse roaming at large on Wednesday night mistook his way, and suddenly found himself in Dr. Jackson's cellar, the trap door having given way beneath his weight. We have not heard what peculiar sensation the Dr. at first experienced, perhaps he thought somebody was going to attempt doing a little exchange business with him; that is, to exchange some of his valuables for their possession. But a reconnaissance revealed the aforesaid animal, and it required the assistance of neighbours to dig away the earth so as to form an inclined plane, before the horse could be got out.

ANOTHER SMALL WAR.—It seems probable that Great Britain is destined to have another little war with savages upon her hands. The Foudhri Arabs have long been a nuisance to the British settlement at Aden, and it is now found necessary to force them to deliver up a son of their chief as a hostage for the good behaviour of the tribe. A small force of troops has been sent to compel this concession.

DRY GOODS FOR THE SEASON.—Intending purchasers of Dry Goods will find that Mr. A. O. Buchan has everything in the line which the wants of the season demand, and all of the latest fashions. His millinery department is up to the times, and any article can be purchased at his establishment at a rate fully as moderate as it can be bought at any other store in Town.

WALLUP HIM WELL.—The principal of a public school has been sending circulars to the parents, asking for a written authority to "inflict such punishment corporal or otherwise, as may in his judgment be proper." The following answer proves that one of the parents, at least, was pleased with the idea:—"Dear Sir, —Yer floggin' cirklar is deuly received. I hope, as to my sun John you will flog him just so often as you likes. Hees a bad boy is John. Although ive a ben in the habit of teachin him casually myself, it seems to me he will never learn anythink—his spellin is speshally outragously defebant. Wallup im well, sur, an you will recesiv mi hasty thanks.—Jares, Moses Walker. P. S. Wat seems fur John bein sich an orful bad scholar is that hees mi sun hi mi wife's fust ubant."

Fifteen Fenian prisoners were sent to Fremantle, Western Australia, in the last convict ship which left England. At the request of the other convicts on board, the Fenians were chained together in a gang apart from the rest of their fellow prisoners. A gentleman who was taken sick with yellow fever on board a Mississippi steamer, was put ashore, and remained on the river bank for two days, was robbed of his clothes and money and finally died of starvation and neglect.

COUGHS AND COLDS.

Sudden changes of climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and effectually when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should be at once had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges. Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough, or "common cold," in its first stage. That which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon attacks the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Cough Lozenges, allay irritation which induces coughing, having a direct influence on the affected parts. As there are imitations, be sure to obtain the genuine. Sold by all dealers in medicine at 25 cents a box.

HAUNTED CASTLE

CHAPTER XXVI.—TERRY AND ANDREW ASCEND A RAVIDE AMONG THE MOUNTAINS, AND LAND AMONG ROBBERS.

As they rowed slowly along the shore which fronted the base of the towering mountain of Skerryvoe, they looked anxiously among the rocks for a landing place. The coast was as wild and inhospitable as could well be conceived. Rugged masses of sharp rock were closely ranged along the shore, and against the pointed sides of these the water flowed, murmuring out and in among the crevices, and gently stirring the dark sea-weed which lurked in the far-bent recesses.

The rowers in the boat, as they gazed on the frowning ledges and sharp jagged points, easily understood that in a storm the scene would be tremendous beyond description. When the mighty white-crested billows rolled in from the open main, and, driven by the wind, smote rocky barriers, and were broken by them into clouds of spray and foam, terrific would be the noise and sublime the grandeur; and oh! if a ship was carried by these pitiless billows towards the stony and immovable sentinels of the land, there could be no hope for bark or crew. In that case the chasms of the rocks could be but the jaws of death, and the foaming waters the whirlpool of destruction.

But the sea was calm now, and they glided over its placid waters, and saw rocks and sky reflected far down in the crystal depths. Terry was not acquainted with that part of the coast; they had therefore, to explore it as they sailed along, and look out at every point for a spot where they could land.

'I tell ye what it is, Terry,' remarked Andrew, 'it's ma humble opinion that there's no a beach here where a boat the size of a nut-shell can land.'

'It looks mighty like it,' returned Terry. 'But after all, there must be a bit of a hole to go in at, for there's a path hereabouts that goes up to the mountain. Would her off a bit, or, by the powers, we'll take an ugly embrace o' that round fellow that stands out afore the others, bad manners to him.'

'Might it be no as weel tae gang in ayont him?' suggested Andrew. 'Wha kens but he hides a landing place.'

'Faix and yer maybes right,' responded Terry, as he narrowly scanned the position of the rock they referred to. 'We'll just take a peep behind him, and then we'll not have to ax his pardon for going afore him.'

They turned the boat close on shore, and on coming to the lee side of the rock, had the satisfaction of finding themselves opposite a narrow opening, which seemed to form the termination of a deep mountain gorge, down which a stream of considerable size tumbled, and, flowing over a small circular space of rough channel, met and mingled with the mighty ocean.

'That's oor chance,' cried Andrew. 'There's room for the boat to win through, but no muckle mair; and I think I see a fit road up the side of the mountain.'

'Mr. Donaldson, sure its yerself that has good eyes,' remarked Terry. 'Praise the Virgin, we'll get up to Captain Jack's cave through that pass, though we'll have a mighty hard climb for it.'

'Never mind the climb,' said Andrew, in great glee. 'I've waded up as steep a glen as that, or else it is funny. Mind yer hand, sir. It's a close shave getting the boat aween the rocks.'

They managed it, however, and jumping out pulled the boat up over the channel into a crevice, where it was both well concealed and safe from the tide, either at high water or in a storm. Here they made her fast, and chaining the oars to one of the sides, took out each a bundle of provisions, strapped it on their shoulder, and began the ascent of the deep, rugged and dark ravine.

Be it known here that Terry and Andrew did not now present their own natural appearance. According to the plan they had formed before setting out from Dundarra, Andrew was dressed like a respectable Scotch laird, and that was the part he was to enact in the journey up the mountain. He was to pass himself off as a wealthy Scotchman travelling for pleasure in Ireland, and having a desire to climb the far-famed mountain of Skerryvoe, had procured an Irish guide in the person of Terry, who wore a sandy-colored wig, a nondescript hat, a blue coat, and knee breeches, and carried an unmistakable shillelah. In the presence of any one they might meet in the mountain, he was to be no longer Terry Cushaleen, but Jim Malone, and Andrew was to be metamorphosed into Mr. McSpartie, the laird of Lochwinnock.

Of the exact locality of Captain Jack's cave, they had no idea, and did not expect to discover or stumble upon it; but they had little doubt that when they came near the summit of the mountain, a portion of Captain Jack's gang would poison upon them and carry them as prisoners to the stronghold. They trusted to circumstances and their own shrewdness and ingenuity for the rest. It was a difficult and dangerous enterprise they had undertaken, but they were prepared to brave the consequences, and run every risk in the attempt to rescue Mr. Hargreave.

TO BE CONTINUED.

GREAT WESTERN BANKING INTERESTS.—The Hamilton Times has the following:—The Great Western Railway Company have suffered little if any loss or annoyance from the suspension of the Commercial Bank, with which institution its banking business was recently transacted; and arrangements have now been made for the transfer of the Company's account to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a branch of which is to be opened in Hamilton immediately. The business of the Company is at present conducted through the Gore Bank. With accustomed generosity and regard for the interest of employees, they are redeeming all bills of the Commercial Bank paid to the workmen previous to the suspension.

BUSINESS EDUCATION.

The importance of a thorough Business Education is pressing itself upon the attention of commercial circles more and more every day, and its advantages are particularly shown by nothing more than by the vantage ground on which it places the fully trained clerk above the uneducated one, when looking for a situation.

The BRITISH AMERICAN COMMERCIAL COLLEGE has in full operation such a course of instruction as to give it practical fitness to the work proposed. An important characteristic of this institution is its maturely organized actual business system, whereby the College is made a type or model not only of an extensive business house, but even of a large trading community. Another distinctive feature of this College is that it attempts no extraneous teaching. Its work is one, and to the accomplishment of that work every effort is directed. Just as the University and Grammar Schools must be separate institutions, so the Commercial College and the Elementary School must be distinct. Common sense and experience alike show that such a combination is not compatible with efficiency.

The time required to complete the full course varies considerably, according to the attendance, attention and ability of each student. Young men however are earnestly cautioned against the injurious practice of hurrying through the course from the mistaken idea that they will thus be gainers by the saving of money in the time of school. Inductively more advantageous would it be to the student, since his full course of tuition is already paid for, to incur the comparatively small additional expense of a few weeks' board in order to make himself completely master of the course; and thus, by a small present outlay, qualify himself for some lucrative situation. The courses that such haste entails is highly detrimental, not only to the student himself, but also to the College where he graduates; and, besides, it brings opprobrium on Commercial Colleges generally. The common practice, therefore, of holding out this crowding system as an inducement to students is most deceptive and highly reprehensible.
