—The Sydenham, by-law granting $36, 000 bonus to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, was passed on Monday, only six persons voting against it.

The Bank of Montreal has subscribed $1,000, and the Bank of British North America $500 towards the funds of the Dominion Rifle Association.

The Police Commissioners of Hamilton have granted an application from

NEW FLOUR.—A small grist of this year's fall wheat was ground for Mr. Jno.
Stewart, 1st con. Puslinch, at Mr. George McLean's mill, Aberfoyle, on the 18th inst. The grain was a fine sample, and the yield of flour very good.

SILLY.—The Seaford Council having passed a by-law rendering it imperative that verandah posts, signs, &c., should be removed ten feet from the shop fronts, some of the citizens hung three of the Councilors in effigy in order to show their disapprobation. The effigies didn't mind it a bit.

DROWNED.—A little boy named Mc-Mechan was drowned at Galt a few days ago in consequence of bathing in Blain's milldam, at a place where the water is rendered very cold by a flow of spring water, and apt to produce cramp.

THE GUELPH POLICE COURT.

Before T. W. Saunders, Esq., Police Magistrate

THURSDAY, July 23.—George Pike was called upon this morning to answer the charge of aggravated assault, preferred against him by Hannah Daniels. The plaintiff is a sister of a former wife of the defendant, and it appears had been living with him for a long time. About two months ago he dismissed her, and forbade her his house or to hold any communication with his children. This was very displeasing to her, and she afterwards followed him about the streets demanding her wages and calling him opprobrious names. He gave her $40, but somebody told her she should have more, and consequently her importunities did not cease. Matters were brought to a culmination yesterday. Defendant's two little girls were on the Fair ground, seeing the circus pavilion, when the plaintiff came and took the youngest away to buy it a pinafore, which she did. Meantime the other had taken word home, and Mr. Pike's son was sent to tell his father, who was working at Holliday's brewery, about the little one having been taken away by his aunt, and he came in quest of it. He found the plaintiff leading the child by the hand on that portion of the railway overlooking the Fair ground, and catching her by the neck with one hand, while he took the child with the other, gave her a push that sent her down the embankment. He turned with his daughter and walked back, but plaintiff gathered herself up, and defendant having stopped at the little fishhouse at the crossing to take off the pinafore, she came up and received another push, followed by a blow on the side of the head near the eye, from which, as one of the witnesses said, she fell like an ox under the hammer. He went away, and she was looked after by some people who gathered round. After a somewhat lengthy investigation, the case was adjourned till to-morrow.

Our Erin correspondent writes us to say that a couple of errors slipped into his report of the robbery case in that village. When Reid was asked by Martin to stand in for a raid, there was a misunderstanding between them as to the building meant. There was nothing said about any house of loose character. Fortunately there is no such house in the village.
Robert Wright, referred to in the report, is in the employ of Mr. Wm. Blashill, not of Mr. White.

West York Election.

A caucus meeting of the Reformers of West York has been called at Cherry's Hotel, town line of York and Vaughan, on Saturday, July the 6th, at 2 p. m., to take steps to bring a candidate at the approaching election. We hope the meeting will be large and unanimous. The best feeling prevails, we are happy to learn, among Reformers of all shades of opinion and we trust that a candidate will be chosen who will not only receive the support of the Liberal party, but will command the confidence of the numerous Conservatives who are disgusted with the recent action of the Government.

The names of the Hon. George Brown and Mr. John Macdonald, late M. P. P.
West Toronto, have been named as possible candidates. Mr. Brown has been three months absent from Canada, and is now detained in Scotland in attendance on an invalid member of his family.
He is not expected to return before the election is over, and moreover has not the slightest intention of re-entering Parliamentary life at this time. Mr.
Macdonald is absent at a watering place, and will remain there some weeks yet, but before leaving he intimated his intention not to become a candidate for Parliament at this moment under any circumstances. The opponents of Mr.
H. S. Howland have choice of other good men whose names it would not be invidious to mention, and we trust that one of them will be chosen unanimously and supported warmly until the close of the poll finds him the representative of West York in the House of Commons.

Emigration from Liverpool.

The emigration from Liverpool during the month and the quarter ended on the 30th of last month has just been completed by the emigration officers, and by them transmitted to the Board of Trade.
From these returns it appears that the emigration, which has for some years been the most important element in the trade of Liverpool, still continues to improve, the last month and quarter both exhibiting a large increase over those of the same periods of last year. During the month of June last there sailed out of Liverpool forty-three passenger ships, carrying 18,608 passengers, against fifty-three ships and 11,550 passengers in the same month of last year, thus showing a decrease of ten ships, but an increase of 7,058 in the number of passengers as compared with the same month of 1867.

In the course of the last month, out of the forty-three vessels which sailed, thirty-four of them sailed under the provisions of the passengers' shipping act, and they carried 17,867 passengers, of whom 650 were cabin and 17,217 were steerage passengers. Of the whole, 6,448 were English, 532 were Scotch, 3,028 were Irish, and 7,867 were foreigners. Among the four ships which sailed under the provisions of the act comprised twenty-six with 15,460 passengers for the United States of America; of these latter 531 were cabin, and 14,929 were steerage passengers.
The total number of passengers included 5,564 English, 489 Scotch, 2,599 Irish, and 6,808 foreigners. There also sailed six ships to Canada with 1,940 passengers consisting of 113 cabin and 1,827 steerage passengers. Among the passengers to Canada 673 were English, there were not any Scotch, 113 were Irish, and 1,155 foreigners. To Victoria, in Australasia, there were two ships with 587 passengers of whom seven were in the cabins and 580 were in the steerage. Of the passengers 207 were English, 43 were Scotch, 313 were Irish, and 24 were from other countries.

During the month there also sailed nine vessels as "short ships," that is, ships which do not sail under the provisions of the act referred to. These ships took out 621 passengers. The vessels included five with 525 passengers, one with 30 passengers for the East Indies, and one with 21 passengers for Africa.

During the quarter which began with April and ended with June last, 77 ships sailed under the act for the United States, carrying 45,506 passengers, of whom 1479
were cabin and 44,027 were steerage passengers. To Canada there also sailed under the act 18 ships, with 359 cabin and 8,641 steerage passengers. For Victoria, in Australia there were two ships, with 7 cabin and 580 steerage passengers. For the grand total for the quarter just completed being 53,095 passengers in ships sailing under the act, of whom 1,845 were cabin and 51,250 were steerage. Of short ships during the same quarter there sailed 21 ships with 1,250 cabin and 365 steerage passengers; of whom 1,049 were cabin and 201 were in the steerage. For Victoria in Australia seven ships were despatched with 28 cabin and 243 steerage passengers for the West Indies; three ships, with 12 cabin but no steerage passengers; for South America ten ships, with 67 cabin and 53 steerage passengers; for the East Indies one ship, with three cabin and no steerage passengers; for China one ship with six cabin but no steerage passengers; thus making a total of 6115 passengers, of whom 1,449 were cabin and 4666 were in the steerage.

The grand total of emigration for the quarter ending on Tuesday last has thus, it appears, been 57,205 individuals, against 43,067 in the year 1867 during the same quarter, thus showing an increase of 14,141 in favor of the quarter just ended.

CROPS IN LOWER CANADA.—The crops in Lower Canada do not promise well.
—The Montreal News says that the hay crop had the benefit of copious rains in the spring—hence it acquired strength and resisted the influence of the drouth; but late sown grain will prove a miserable failure. In many cases the farmers will be lucky if they recover the seed put into the ground. There are some instances in which crops were sown at the end of May and the first week in June, where they are not six inches above the ground, although the grain is heading—in fact, maturing—rapidly; but the stalks are so stunted that, cut it as close as they can, the owners can gather no straw. "Why to become of the cattle next winter?" is the question farmers are asking each other.

Among the Dead in New York— Scenes at the Morgue.

During the six days ending at noon on Friday, the mortality in New York alone exceeded 1,000. Of this number, 832 died in dwelling houses and in the streets.
The maximum mortality was reached on Wednesday forenoon. Since August, 1858, the people of the city have not experienced such mortality from what is popularly known as "sunstroke," as during the past week. From the 18th to the 15th of that month (1858) inclusive, the deaths from coup de soleil numbered nearly 800. The most fatal day was the 14th, although the temperature was lower than on the preceding or the succeeding days, but there was more moisture in the atmosphere. Then as now the occupants of tenement houses were the principal sufferers, and many deaths from exhaustion were reported by physicians as deaths from heat. It is a noticeable fact that, excepting persons who suffer from diseases of the heart or the nervous system —and the latter class includes the great numbers who indulge in the use of ardent spirits—the chief sufferers have been among that class of people who live in unhealthy or badly ventilated dwellings or who labor in overcrowded workshops.
A great number of cooks, laundresses, and domestics, male and female, whose work was all indoor, were among the most suddenly attacked, and most hopeless victims. This is interesting, from the fact that these classes seem to have suffered more during the present heated term than at any former period except, probably, that of 1853. The mortality that has existed during the past week is accounted for in this manner. During the first fifteen days of the present month the temperature exceeded the mean temperature of the corresponding days for the past 25 years by 10°. The last two weeks of June were excessively humid, and paved the way for the succeeding fatal period. The experience of the present year corresponds with that of 1853, and shows that similar causes produce similar effects. In 1856 the mortality from sunstroke of the heat was greater than in 1853, but it extended over a greater period of time, and consequently the alarm felt was not so general. All experience demonstrates that sunstroke is a result of heat and moisture combined, and not of heat alone.

Joined to Bellevue hospital is the Morgue.
In it are seven slabs of marble, supported by iron columns, resting upon a marble floor. On these slabs of stone the un-buried bodies are placed for recognition.
Usually, the Morgue is comparatively little used, but during the heated term, which commenced on the 14th instant, the place has been crowded. The room in which the bodies lie is separated from the main apartment by a glass partition, so that the visitors may view the dead without interfering with the attendants.
The Morgue was crowded on Friday with men, women, and children. Many would gaze for hours, as if to gratify a morbid curiosity. The bodies while lying on the slabs are frequently drenched with carbonic acid, and a constant spray of water is kept running upon their breasts.
The scene at the Dead-House was enough to make the gayest sad. Men with large brawny arms came and went with coffins and dead bodies. In a court between the Dead-House and the shed, the coffins were piled up like cord-wood. Here were little coffins for children; in the corner was a blue coffin, while in the shed and Dead-House, square boxes, cracked coffins, and stretchers were lying in all positions.
Every two or three minutes some one wanted to see the Keeper who had charge of the dead. Among others was a spare woman about 35 years of age. She was in search of her husband. Mr. O'Brien, the Keeper of the Morgue, after listening to her description, went to a coffin and wrenched off the lid. Who ever saw such a sight? The stench was suffocating.
What the night before had been a human being was now a bloated mass of corruption. "Oh, my God!" exclaimed the woman, "my husband, oh, my—"
At this juncture another woman inquired for her son. She could not find his body in the Morgue—was he dead or in the hospital? An attendant swore he knew nothing about the living, he could not keep track of the dead. "Go through the wards," said he, "and may be you can find him."

More people came; some wept, others swore. The woman first spoken of wring her hands and paced up and down the court in despair. At last she went up to the coffin, and in a pleading voice she said:
"Heavens above me, what shall I do?
God of mercy, I want him buried in Calvary" (She was a Catholic, and could not bear the thought of having her husband buried in unconsecrated ground)— "What is going to become of me? Last night, poor John, poor John, you were at work; why did you die before you did me good-bye? My husband, since last night here you are. My God, to think you have come to this."
Here she took hold of the green and putrid hand of her husband, shook it, and broke into a new paroxysm of grief.
"Oh," she said, "you used to be called the handsomest man in New York. Al-now—oh speak to me only one word, John, one word? My darling, my darling John!"

The attendants of the Dead-House huddled the bodies with as little concern as they would so many beavers. Yesterday morning the coffins were piled up in the court 10 feet high. At noon they were sent off to Ward's Island for interment. In the Dead-House shed were a number of bodies so far decomposed that the maggots fairly consumed them.
They heaped up the moving fluxseed more than human bodies. Some of the dead were packed in ice, but for the most part they were laid out in rough wooden coffins. It was a strange sight from the threshold of the Dead-House—On one side, death and putrefaction; on the other, were beautiful grounds and waving elms.

USEFUL ADVICE.—A transcendental preacher took for his text, "Feed my lamb." A plain farmer very quaintly remarked to him on coming out of the church, "A very good text, sir; but you should take care not to put the hay so high in the rack that the lambs can't get at it."

A beet-root sugar manufacturing company has just bought four hundred and eighty-five acres of farming land in Illinois, for the purpose of raising beets.

It is reported, though we do not know upon what foundation the rumor rests, that the Mexican Provinces of Sinaloa and Sonora have been purchased by the United States Government.

Democratic platform, affirms that the people of all countries recognize the necessity of maintaining unimpaired the credit and solvency of the State, and declare that if the Democratic party persists in adhering to the financial principles laid down in their platform as applied to the payment of the national debt, they will lose the sympathy which has always been felt for them in Europe.

The Caracas Rebellion.
New York, July 23rd.—The Herald's Venezuela despatches state that Menzies, the new President, had sent to St. Thomas to purchase vessels and war material to defend the new government. The U. S. minister had quitted Caracas on account of his life not being safe there. In capturing Caracas, Menzies had a severe battle with Bruseal; 311 men killed and 704 wounded on both sides. The foreign ministers have recognized the government of Menzies.

From Hayti.
The Herald's Hayti despatches state that the British Minister has demanded payment for damage done a British vessel

Installation of the Lieut. Governor.
The Hamilton Times has the following special despatch, respecting the installation of the new Lieut. Governor, which took place at Toronto on Wednesday:

"The installation of Hon. W. P. Howland as Lieut-Governor of Ontario, occured in the Legislative Chambers at 1 p. m. to-day. The ceremony was an exceedingly quiet affair, and the attendance of spectators very small, not one-third of the limited accommodations being filled, although those who did attend were in the ticketed seats in evident expectation of a jam. The company included dignitaries of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, officers of the garrison and grandstand Heron, interspersed with nineteen ladies, the only one distinguishable of the latter being Lady Macdonald. The dignities present were Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. Messrs. McDougall, Sand-field Macdonald, John Carling, E. B. Wood, J. J. Maguire and Morrison, the Sheriff and Recorder of Toronto, Mr. Cameron, Dr.
Byerson, Bishop Pethune, Angus Morris-son, Mr. Wort, Mr. Cumberland, and other colly others. The warrant was read by Col. Bernard. Mr. Howland then advanced, and the oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Draper, the ceremony being very brief.

The Globe says: A faint effort at applause was made as these proceedings closed, but the indifference of the assemblage was manifested rather than otherwise. The installation of the Lieut-Governor retired after receiving the congratulations of some of the officials present, to the Speaker's rooms. After remaining a few minutes he left the building for his residence, accompanied by a guard from the 29th Regiment and a band. A salvo of artillery was fired at the new Port as the proceedings closed. A lunch was understand, afterwards partaken of at Mr.
Howland's residence, about fifty officials being present. In the evening, Mrs. Howland was at home to a very large number of guests invited by card a week ago. Refreshments were provided. The usual con-tom for Governors has been to hold a levee and to invite afterwards those who called upon them. Mr. Howland has introduced a new fashion.

The iron clad Royal Alfred, flag ship of the North American Squadron, is expected at Quebec this week.

It is said that the box which brought Mr. King's remains to this city, after being down to the Mouth of Blackwood for publication, is the identical box in which the Duke of Wellington sent home his despatches from Waterloo.

The cod fishing is said to have been unsuccessful down the Gulf for the eight or ten days, the news from Matamoras to St. Anne des Monts agreeing in every respect. Herrings are said to be pretty plentiful.

THE FEEJEE ISLANDS.

Mr. Seward has now an opportunity of acquiring more landed possessions. Some time since two American whalers were wrecked on the coast of some of the Feejee Islands, and the crews of the two vessels were reckoned a dainty dish to set, not before the King, for his Majesty had renounced human flesh for some time, but before those of his savage subjects into whose hands the luckless Americans fell. The United States government determined to make that a dear meal for the Feejeans, and consequently demanded as compensation for the flesh of their citizens $45,000. But the king having gone to war with a portion of his cannibal subjects some time previously the expenses incurred in the expedition had drained his exchequer, and rendered him unable to pay any more than $1,200. He now asks the Washington government to take three of his most fertile islands, and release him from all obligations that he may be enabled to carry on the war against his rebellious subjects. The N. Y. Tribune taking up the question fashions it into a political spear, and gives the following thrust:—

"We are opposed to Government land speculations on principle; but really there is something peculiarly attractive in this little scheme, and we are half tempted to disregard our own advice and recommend Mr. Seward to make a trade. The property is worth a great deal more than Alaska. The climate is not cold. The inhabitants are warm-hearted and impulsive. Living is cheap, for yams are abundant, and when a settler wants meat he has only to go into the bush and shoot a man, according to the custom of the country. We shall soon need a territory of this kind, as the Democrats will all want to emigrate early next November and the Feejee Islands will be just the place for them. Mr. Seymour will, of course, be appointed Governor of the new Territory, with Mr. Blair as commander of the military department, and cooking an island will seem so much like roasting a nigger that both gentlemen will feel themselves among their friends."

DESPERATE.—The Nova Scotians are growing outrageous, and bid fair to fulfil the predictions of some of the repeal organs, with regard to revolution. The anti-Union delegates returned from England a few days ago, and the occasion of their landing was embraced as an opportunity for the spouting of a good deal of treason. On the same steamer was the Government Delegate, Dr. Tupper, and so exasperated were some of the crowd at his efforts in behalf of Confederation that it is stated the propriety of throwing him overboard was seriously considered. Indeed there is a strong probability that he would have met with violence and perhaps death had not the moderate counsels of a few leading men prevailed. The poor, silly mob were not so much to blame as the conductors of the repeal press, whose inflammatory articles have driven men unable to see the fallacy of the arguments used almost, if not entirely, to frenzy. In noticing the return of the delegates, a Bridgetown paper said:—"Dr. Tupper, we learn, is a passenger on board the same steamer. We hope the base traitor on landing will receive no personal ill-treatment from the hands of an exasperated people. We advise moderation and forbearance." There is a likelihood that but for such paragraphs as the foregoing it would never have entered the heads of any of the crowd to drown Dr. Tupper; but base cowardice threw out the suggestion, expecting that ignorant, passionate men would act upon it. When matters have gone so far among the Bluesnoses we may well wonder what next?

FEARFUL REVENGE.—A London paper says—Vice Chancellor Giffard had before him on Saturday a suit, Simpson against Campbell, which is described as a case of mutual annoyance between the occupants of adjoining houses in the neighborhood of Kilburn. The plaintiff was of a musical turn of mind, and was in the habit of indulging his tastes at what the defendant considered unseasonable hours, and with unreasonable pertinacity and iteration. Accordingly the defendant, who is engaged in scientific calculations, by way of retaliation, constructed an instrument, fearfully and wonderfully made, from which sounds described as positively terrific in character were evolved as soon as the plaintiff's piano commenced operations, and also occasionally in the middle of the night, so as to disturb the slumbers of plaintiff and his wife, and actually cause them and their children to rise in alarm from their beds.

The largest score ever made at cricket was made last month at a match between the Classical and Modern department of Clifton College, England. A young gentleman, named Tylcote, made the astonishing score of 404—not out.

After the first of next September the Atlantic cable tariff is to be reduced to $12.50 for ten words.

NO RAIN.

The heavens are like brass above us, and the earth is parched beneath our feet. Two or three months of such weather would give us some faint, shadowy idea of the aspect Nature assumed in the days of the prophet, when the rays of an almost tropical sun poured down unclouded for three years and a half. We draw consolation from the appearance of a cloud even now, but these vesicular bodies, though much larger than a man's hand, have no blessing to pour down upon us. They speed away before the blaze of the King of day, a mere mockery of our hopes. The change which has been wrought in the harvest prospect during the last month does not invite contemplation. Fields that were covered with luxuriant vegetation now show the red clods between shrivelled stalks of grain, and we are reduced to the extremity of believing, that what we thought a few weeks ago would be the most bountiful yield with which Providence had ever blessed the land will be but a poor average. So little right has man to indulge in anticipation. It is not the length of time during which we have been without rain that makes this season remarkable. Six years ago there was a drought of such prolonged continuance that people began to think the spring crops would not be worth cutting. It turned out however that all in which they were engaged was straw, the yield of grain being much beyond what was anticipated, and better than it was the following season, during which showers in abundance had fallen. It would not however be safe to predict that the same thing will happen now. We hope it may, but fear it will not, for one day of July 1868, has been more injurious to the vegetation than any two days in 1862, in consequence of the great heat. Two weeks ago on last Tuesday the last shower of rain fell, since which time the windows of heaven have been closed so far as we were concerned, and the scorching process has gone on steadily. We hear that our friends in some parts of the country are a little more highly favoured, and we hope that before another week goes round we will be able to congratulate them on the earth having received such a drenching as will re-invigorate drooping nature.

The Braes of Yarrow

An Historical Tale of the Sixteenth Century.

"This is my wife," said the knight calmly,
"and the man that touches her dies."
"Have at you, then!"

And Tushielaw was about to spring forward, sword in hand.

The priest sprang between—
"Back, sacrilegious man, would you murder upon the altar of heaven?"

"Out of my way, idiot, else I will begin with you!"

Sir Walter spoke some words hastily in the ear of the priest, and the latter instantly took Mistress Spens by the hand.

"This way, lady, this way," he whispered;
"do not pause a moment; your husband shall be saved."

He led her rather half dragged her from her husband's side, for she was unwilling to leave him in the peril in which, only a minute before she had been restored to him.

Tushielaw's fury, when he saw his victim escaping from his grasp, became boundless.

"Look you, lady, he belov'd to his man,
"yonder is the traitor who betrayed our king at Flodden, and for his head the Queen will give a thousand marks!"

There was a savage yell, and a cluster of weapons at mention of the reward, and the men immediately began to surround Spens.

Barras made a fierce effort to pass the knight and reach his sister, at the same time Tushielaw began an attack upon the solitary one. But Spens adroitly eluded the attack of Tushielaw, met Barras and tripped him, so that he fell heavily to the floor.

Tushielaw, with his men in a body, was now about to rush upon the victim, when the swords cry rang through the chapel.

"Sutors are, sutors tere." Sutors o' the back row, Up an' gie the dell a blow."

A deafest silence followed. Then a small door at the back of the altar place was burst open and a body of Scottish burghers, sutors, hazermenn, and others, rushed into the chapel with Andrew Howie at their head, armed with axes, swords, spears, and miscellaneous weapons.

There was neither parley nor delay. The struggle commenced at once, and, although they disputed every inch of ground stoutly, Tushielaw and his men were beaten back to the main entrance of the chapel. There they made a desperate stand, seeing their chief engaged with Sir Walter Spens and hand pressed by him.

The shout of triumph was now with the sutors and again with the Borders; but the clatter of weapons, the yell of pain, and the cries of rage never ceased.

With all the might of his strong arms and all the weight of his heavy two-handed sword, Tushielaw struck at his foe. But the perfect mastery of his weapon (possessed by Spens enabled him to meet his opponent on something more than equal terms despite his strength. So it happened that for every inch of ground that Tushielaw gained,
he lost two, and it was more than probable that the final issue would have been against him.

The issue, however, was not tried; for Barras, having relieved himself of the antagonist with whom he had been engaged,
immediately upon regaining his feet, crept with the swiftness and stealth of a tiger to the back of Sir Walter with intent to cut him down.

But by the timely intervention of Andrew Howie, and a couple of others, Barras was beaten back, and Tushielaw was separated from his opponent at the very moment when he was smarting with the pain of a deep cut on the left arm.

He was hemmed in on every side, he was hampered at back, at front, so that he could not use his sword with sufficient power to cut his way through the midst of his assailants.
He was growing faint from loss of blood; and while the number of his followers was rapidly diminishing the number of the sutors was rapidly increasing.

He saw that victory was impossible, defeat certain, and he turned his face toward the door. Barras had already escaped, and the Border chief could scarcely see one of his own party amidst the crowd of rampant victorious sutors.

It seemed likely that the passage to the door would be the hardest he had ever made —supposing he did succeed in making it.
There was doubt of that, but he clenched his teeth and set to work vigorously.

Happy affairs obtained a slight turn in his favour; for his plight was made known to Ding-a-Doon by Barras, and the giant, clutching his Jeddart axe with sallow fury, rushed into the chapel, and swinging his weapon round him with Herculean strength, cleared a way to the side of his chief, and cleared a way back to the door and out of the chapel.

The rest of the Borders were already mounted, and there were nine horses riderless.

A few hours breathing space was obtained for them by the success of Ding-a-Doon, who managed to close the gate upon the enemy and kept them in the chapel long enough to give the Borders a clear start. Of this they availed themselves, and rode through a shower of stones and vegetables poured upon them by the matrons of Selkirk, away from the town, cursing the wedding day with all their remaining pith. It was such a route as Tushielaw had never previously known.

PRODUCING LOCOMOTION.—Liverpool
has a good local story of a tiger which escaped from a menagerie and terrified the suburbs for some hours. In one outlying district a man who had "lost the use of both legs," had sat for twenty years, a stunted, stunted vagrant, making a good thing out of his infirmity. But in an evil hour for his professional profits
the road where he had taken up his seat for a score of years was on the morning of the tiger's escape the scene of a fierce stampede. Down it poured pell-mell, men, women, and children at full speed, screaming with terror, and crying out,
"The tiger, the tiger!" The cripple had heard the news of the tiger's escape, and more fear lent him legs, or restored his old limbs; he started up, threw away the big bowl on which he had doubled up every day, and with an energy that left nothing to be desired, he bounded down the road, and soon outstripped all competitors. The tiger was caught, but the "cripple" was never seen again, at least in that neighbourhood.

A clerk in the employ of the East India Company recently received the following lines to his official superior: "Honoured Sir, I humbly beg you will excuse my not attending office this date, cause I got a boll as per margin." In the margin of the letter a sketch of the boll was drawn out, and the writer goes on to say:
"The breadth of paper being short I have planned the boll small, but it is double the size."

One of the newest "dodges" practised by the thriving fraternity of Buffalo is for one of them to suddenly fall down on the pavement as if run struck, and a crowd being thus immediately collected, his associates make a raid upon the pockets of the sympathizing bystanders.

The Halifax Reporter makes mention of a few of the benefits which Nova Scotia has received from Confederation.
The railway debt of Halifax ($800,000)
has been assumed by the General Government. The Inman line of steamers has been subsidised to call at Halifax, the Windsor and Annapolis railway has been built, which it could not have been without Confederation, and a new mail steam service between Halifax and
St. John has been established.

There are 10,000 public-houses and beer-shops in London; if placed in a line they would extend thirty-three miles.

their customers save $2,786,150 annually, besides receiving a share of the profits.

The subscribers have conducted their business on the same principles, with nearly the same results.
Their business has rapidly increased, which has enabled them to turn over their capital four times a year, and sell at one-fourth of the profits of merchants, who only turn over their capital once a year.

Sixteenth Century.

"This is my wife," said the knight calmly,
"and the man that touches her dies."

And Tushielaw was about to spring forward,
sword in hand.

The priest sprung between—
"Back, sacrilegious man, would you murder

with you."

Sir Walter spoke some words hastily in the ear of the priest, and the latter instantly took Mistress Spens by the hand.

"This way, lady, this way," he whispered;
shall be saved."

He led or rather half dragged her from her husband's side, for she was unwilling
minute before she had been restored to him.

escaping from his grasp, became boundless.

"Look you, lady, he belov'd to his men,
"yonder is the traitor who betrayed our
will give a thousand marks."

There was a savage yell and a clatter of weapons at mention of the reward, and the men immediately began to surround Spens.

knight and reach his sister, at the same time Tushielaw began an attack upon the solitary foe. But Spens adroitly eluded the attack of Tushielaw, met Barras and tripped him, so
that he fell heavily to the floor.

now about to rush upon the victim when the sutors cry rang through the chapel.

"Sutors, sutors,
Up an gie the dell a blaw!"

A deafest shout followed. Then a small door at the back of the altar place was burst open and a body of Selkirk burroses, sutors, hammermen, and others, rushed into the
chapel with Andrew Howie at their head,
weapons.

There was neither parley nor delay. The
struggle commenced at once, and although they dispersed every inch of ground stoutly,
made a desperate stand, seeing their chief engaged with Sir Walter Spens and hard pressed by him.

sutors and again with the Borderers; but the clatter of weapons, the yells of pain, and the oaths of rage never ceased.

on something more than equal terms despite
his strength. So it happened that for every inch of ground that Tushielaw gained,
that the final issue would have been against
him.

down.

from his opponent at the very moment when
he was smarting with the pain of a deep cut
on the left arm.

hampered at back and front, so that he could not use his sword with sufficient power to
cut his way through the midst of his assailants.
He was growing faint from loss of
sutors was rapidly increasing.

victorious sutors.

It seemed likely that the passage to the
door would be the hardest he had ever made
—supposing he did succeed in making it.

Happily affairs obtained a slight turn in his favour; for his plight was made known
to Ding-a-Doon by Barras, and the giant, clutching his jousting axe with sulky fury,
weapon round him with Herculean strength,
chapel.

The rest of the Borderers were already mounted, and there were nine horses riderless.

and keep them within the chapel long enough for the Borderers to clear away. Of this
Tushielaw had never previously known.

years, a stumpy, stunted vagrant, making a good thing out of his infirmity. But in
the road where he had taken up his seat
for a score of years was on the morning
stampede. Down it poured pell-mell,
men, women, and children at full speed,
screaming with terror, and crying out,
now fear lent him legs, or restored his old limbs; he started up, throw away the big bowl on which he had sat doubled
down the road, and soon outstripped all
least in that neighbourhood.

Company recently penned the following lines to his official superior: "Honoured
non-attendance office this date, cause I got a boil as per margin." In the margin of the letter a sketch of the boil was drawn out and the writer goes on to say:
planned the boil small, but it is double
the size."

by the thieving fraternity of Buffalo
on the pavement as if run struck, and a
crowd being thus immediately collected,
pockets of the sympathizing bystanders.

Scotia has received from Confederation.
The railway debt of Halifax ($800,000)
has been assumed by the General Government. The Inman line of steamers
has been subsidised to call at Halifax,
St. John has been established.

beershops in London; if placed in a line
they would extend thirty-three miles.

THIS ORIGINAL DOCUMENT IS IN VERY POOR CONDITION

The Quakers now number only 12,185 in Great Britain, and 2898 in Ireland, or little more than 5000 families in all. Mr. Walter of the Times, has written an interesting little volume for private circulation, entitled "First Impressions of Quakerism." As it is not formally published, copies of it are not to be had at the bookshops. He devotes a good deal of space to his Canadian trip, and inveighs against the fortification scheme as a waste of money.

For marrying contrary to the wishes of the Russian Government, a Polish nobleman has been sentenced to Siberia and his wife to a convent. JAMES O'NEILL, Mr. Spurgeon has been lecturing in Guelph, and speaking upon the Irish question. He said he did not know much for Whigs or Tories. The Tories were very good for office, and the Whigs were very good out of office. He considered that the disestablishing of the Church was only a question of time; matters must not be absolutely certain as it would be accomplished at once. Conservatives look upon it as a matter of time although they hoped that the people might vote upon the question. If the House of Lords should throw out the Suspensory Bill, the House of Commons might pass it by a large majority, and so it might be passed five or six times; the subject would thus be constantly before the public, and the people would be kept in mind. He considered that the bishops ought not to have any voice in the decision of the question.

India & China Tea Co.

Home Depot at London and Liverpool, Canada Depot, 23 Hospital Street, Montreal.

THE India and China Tea Company beg to call the attention of the Canadian community to their superior quality of Tea, which for purity and excellence will be found unequalled.

The Company have made arrangements whereby they have secured the entire produce of some of the best plantations in Assam and the slopes of the Himalayas, and by a judicious blending of these magnificent Teas with the best varieties of China produce, they are enabled to offer to the public Teas of quality and favour hitherto unknown to the general consumer. These Teas are in high favour in England and France, and a simple trial will prove their superiority.

The Company supply two varieties only, either Black, Green or Mixed. Their Black Teas will be found to possess great business and favour, combined with colour and strength, and to be entirely different to the flat and watery article usually sold as Black Tea; while their Green Teas are altogether free from the objectionable mineral powder so commonly used for coloring the leaf.
