which John Wheeler, proprietor of the Alvinston Milling Company, was charged by H. A. Gilroy, president of the Lambton County Farmers' Co-operative Association, with selling bran and shorts at a higher price than that authorized by the food controller's order.

When the case was called, Mr. Wheeler pleaded guilty. He stated that he had asked a higher price because of the high quality of the bran and shorts he many factured.

The seriousness of the case was pointed out, and Mr. Wheeler was informed that the maximum penalty provided under the act was a fine of $1,000 and three nonths in prison.

Mr. Gilroy asked that a fine of $1,000 be imposed and sentence suspended.

Magistrate Newcombe decided to impose a fine of $10 and costs, which in all will amount to approximately $50. Crown Prosecutor Wilson of Sarnia conducted the case. The matter, it is stated, is not yet ended, by any means. Many of the farmers are not satisfied, and may urge that the case be carried to other courts, in the hope that a heavier penalty be imposed.

Ontario Legislature's War Pledge

The text of the resolution unanimously adopted in the Legislature Tuesday, and which will be forwarded to the Canadians overseas, is as follows: "That we, the members of the Legis lative Assembly of Ontario, individually and as a body, hereby reaffirm our belief in the righteousness of the cause for which Great Britain and the allies are fighting, and place on record our approval and endorsation of the clear, courageous, and moderate statement of our war aims recently made by his Majesty's Government. We are convin-Majesty's Government. We are convinced that only by the realization of the allies' aim of peace based on the principles of freedom, justice and respect for international law, can our enemies' unscrupulous and brutal attempt at domination be trustrated, and the future of civilization assured. We desire to expect that the property is a surface of the control of the press our heartfelt appreciation of the matchless courage and patriotism, and historic military achievements, of our Canadian Overseas Forces on the field of battle. We rejoice to know of battle. We rejoice to know that during the past year they have taken every objective from the enemy for which they started, and have not had a single reverse. In the hard-fought battles of Vimy Ridge, Fresnoy, Hill 70, and Passchendaele, Canadian soldiers have won imperishable glory. We gladly testify that the victories won by our heroic sons, their irresistible valour in attack, their unfaltering tenacity in defence, and their cheerful endurance of in attack, their unfaltering tenacity defence, and their cheerful endurance all the discomfort, weariness, and suffer ings of war have thrilled the Canadian people, and filled our hearts with pride and gratitude. We solemnly acknowledge our lasting debt to those who have laid down their young lives, so full of rare promise, for us and for the great cause at issue. The memory of their sacrifice will never fade. We hereby consecrate ourselves afresh, together with all the resources of this rich and fertile Province of Ontario, to the successful prosecution of the war. To that end, and confident of a patriotic response, we call upon the people of Ontario to place the demands of the war before every other consideration, and by every means in their power to maintain our fighting forces, further increase our agricultural and industrial production, practice to the utmost thrift and avoidance of waste, and thus throw the whole weight of our people and our province weight of our people and our province into the scale against our enemies, until the principles for which we are fighting are crowned with victory."

German Railway Trains

The joys of railroad travel in Germany are portrayed in a sarcastic letter published by the Munich writer wonders how people can complain of the lack of heat in railway cars when they know how important it is not to scorch their costly boots upon hot pipes. He thinks it a great advantage to travel in a official economy. People complain. he says, that the trains are late twenty minutes, or an hour, or an hour and a half. This is folly, for they never before knew the unspeakable joy they feel when they do at last arrive. Again, people complain that the trains are slow, although often in the past they pined for the good old days of the stage coach. Now those times have returned; passengers can get out and walk when their feet are cold and get in again when they are warm.

The Merchants Corner

Advertising is an investment—not an expense—and should be treated as such. Because it has been the habit of some merchants to look upon it as an expense, a wrong view has been gained. Perhaps the misconception arose from the fact that in bookkeeping it has been the habit to charge advertising to expense. Advertising produces new business—it swells the volume of business and profit—therefore it is an investment. Only the man who looks upon advertising as merchants to look upon it as an expense, the pran who looks upon advertising as an expense, who is afraid of it, prejudiced against it, loses money in advertising as iced against it, loses money in advertising as the open, stumbling over the fallen ing. The man who treats advertising as an investment and gives it the attention an investment requires — knows that an investment requires — knows that every dollar rightly invested in this direction yields compound interest — and

Shoot all Male Inhabitants

It is always interesting to hear the other side, to see and obverse of the medallion of Mars. The following extract is taken from the diary of Private Fischer, Eighth Bavarian regiment of infantry, Thirty-third reserve division,

"A shell burst near the Eleventh company and wounded seven men three very severely," he writes. five o'clock we were ordered by the officers in command of the regiment to shoot all the male inhabitants of Nomeny, because the population was foolishly attempting to stay the advance of the German troops by force of arms. We broke into the houses, and seized all who resisted, in order to execute them according to martial law., The houses which had not been already destroyed by the French artillery and our own were set on fire by us, so that nearly the whole town was reduced to ashes It is a terrible sight when helpless women and children, utterly destitute, are herded together and driven into France."

Less Creed and More Religion

War is breaking down the barriers o. c. ... Men get close together out there in France. They have a simple faith that take hold of the real essentials and overcomes religious prejudice. We are told that a German prisoner lay dying in a British base hospital and, being a Lutheran, sought consolation from a Protestant army chaplain to make his passing easier. The chaplain did not know German and the wounded prisoner could not understand English. Near by a French chaplain, a Catholic priest, was ministering to one of his own creed. He came from the lost provinces and spoke the language of the enemy as well as his own. Softly he turnto the bedside of the dying prisoner, and, kneeling beside it, translated into his tongue the words of comfort spoken by the Protestant colleague. In the face of this can not those of us who remain at home cultivate a tolerant viewpoint and follow the Stratford Beacon.

This is a splendid field of scientific research. I notice in the contemporary review that a machine has been invented by a Californian by which the force of the tide is converted into electrical energy. If the waves be harnessed by man, why not the winds? I think this quite practicable and immense quantities of force might be stored away for use after a storm. Just think what a waste of force there was Neueste Nachrichten, in which the during the recent blizzard. Carrying Water for Soldiers

One of the jobs of soldiers during a hot battle which requires more than ordinary courage is carrying water from the rear to the men in the front line trenches. Water is consequently served to the men. whose throats become parched by comrades, floundering through mud and shell craters and running through the enemy's barrage fire as well as their own.

Fish in Ontario

Ontario Government fresh-water fish will continue to be supplied during the winter months, although the wolume may slightly decrease. Plans have been formulated for winter fishing operations on Lakes Nipissing, Nipigon, and Simcoe, and other waters will be taken over for Government control if necessary. In fishing through the ice gill nets on a rope extending through two holes are employed. As the net is drawn in the fish are taken off, and the net is returned with the rope through he other hole.

If supplies cannot be increased and a smaller volume of fish during the winter cannot be avoided, the Ontario Government has plans under way for operations on a much larger scale in the spring. It may be expected that the Government scheme will but reach its normal state next summer. It is proposed that fishing operations shall be conducted on an increased scale in the inland waters, and that the Govern-ment shall take over control of Can-adian fishing on international waters.

The Government fish is cut open and gutted, while the head is left on in some cases. All Government fish which weigh more than eight pounds have their heads off. Evidence of the quality of the fish shipments appears in the recent receipt of a 26-pound trout from the inland lakes. This weight was taken after the fish had been gutted and its head re-

Spruce Beer.

The fishermen of Newfoundland, Labrador, and the Gulf of St. Law-rence drink large quantities of spruce beer; tt is considered an admirable corrective of their diet which consists principally of fat pork and salt fish. The process of making it is simple. A few black spruce-branches are chopped into small pieces and put into a pot con-taining six or eight gallons of water and build for exercil hours. The and boiled for several hours. The liquor is then strained and put into a cask that will contain eighteen gallons. Molasses is added in the proportion of one gallon to eighteen gallons; a pint of the grounds of the last brewing and a few hops, if at hand, are also put in, and the cask, filled up with cold water, is left to ferment. In twenty-four hours it becomes fit for use.

Japan's Colonial Policy.

Korea is the largest of Japan's colonies, and since its acquirement the same policy of assimilation has been pursued that has worked so well in Formosa. It is a colonial policy wholly original with the Jap-anese, and the chief publicists of the Empire thinks it much superior to French and British methods. In Korea natives have been appointed to important posts of honor, schools have been erected and competent teachers supplied. Sanitation has been introduced into all the cities; street railways have been laid down in Seoul and modern hotels have been built in the large cities. Loyalty is thus assured.

Care of Returned Soldiers

Pte. L. H. Aylesworth, Band.

London Free Press :- Returning soldiers are being discharged, in some cases at least before they have had a sufficient opportunity to find a place in civil life. A small sum of money is given them at their discharge and they must then shift for themselves. The severe mental and physical strain through which they have passed often makes it impossible for them to quickly fit themselves into the positions opening for them. Again, there are men being discharged from the service who find it impossible to secure employment to which they are adapted. This is a condition which ought not to exist. The medical boards should definitely assure themselves that returned men are really in a condition to resume their place in civil life before recommending their discharge and the military authorities should go further and retain all such men at least for a reasonable period until employment can be found for them.

SUIT COAT ALONE ESCAPES

Only Garment Which Designers Have Left Untouched In Their Mad Efforts to Creato Something New.

New York .- As the current of clothes goes rushing by, one has a strong temptation to reach out and grasp at the straws that are swirling along on the top eddies.

Standing on the bank and watching the brilliant things borne down the stream, one is strongly reminded of an alluring article by Mr. Beebe, the explorer, who has brought back so much that was worth while to the zoological knowledge in America.

Mr. Beebe rests quietly on a bank, as he tells it, by which passes a great, swiftly flowing stream which comes from the heart of the jungle and which is full of mystery and color and splendid exotic life. The stream has caught on its top current parts of this life, and as he studies it, keenly and with knowledge, as it swiftly goes by him, he is able to form in his mind just what the life of that special jungle is. Fauna and flora go by, an opossum with its young, a peculiar kind of snake on a log, bits of wood that explain the tree growth, birds that have been caught in branches and cannot extricate themselves. On, on goes the colorful stream, rushing past the flat mud bank and explaining to the zoologist and ornithologist the en-tire life and personality of the source from which all these things come.

It is thus in fashions. All the tu-mult, the revolt, the color, the perconality and the life of a country flow by in this semi-annual stream of clothes that are symbols of their sources. And the one who stands on the bank wants to reach out a hand or throw out a grappling pole, as Mr. Beebe did, and bring in for closer ob servation the peculiar and particular things that can be developed into a whole chapter of interest.

Sleeves From Every Epoch. Sleeves, for instance. There is a detail that one wants to catch at with a grappling pole, pull into the bank and study for a week. They are represent-ative of the history of the world. Each epoch seems to have offered a peculiar phase of arm covering for the designers to incorporate into modern

We have the medieval sleeve which opens after it leaves the elbow and drops in a point to the knee; we have the Chinese sleeve which is roomy enough for all the juggling we care to do; there is the tight sleeve of the Directoire that fits into an oversnug armhole and stretches to the knuckles of the hand; there is the Italian sleeve that begins in an armhole that is nearly at the elbow and widens itself out in order that it may drop in cloaklike folds to the wrist, where it is caught into a band of white velvet or cloth.

There is the sleeve that is slashed from armhole to wrist, as Marguerite and Baust wore it, and there is the Oriental sleeve that is formed from the front edge of a cape and confined to the arm with a bracelet of tulle or Another sleeve is merely a brassard and, of course, it is on an evening gown. There are sleeves taken from the church, from comic opera, from the Round Table, from Wagnerian leg-ends, from the days of Dante and, one might almost add, from the Sultan of Sulu. There are sleeves that are nothing but arm bands above and below the elbow, to which are caught swinging folds of colored tulle.

Possibly the one garment which the sleeve-mad designers have left untouched in their wild orgy of designing is the street coat which is part of a conventional tailored suit. All sorts of liberties are taken with sleeves in top coats, because this garment has reached so high on the ladder of fashion that it gets a whack of originality from every designer who wants to play with the garment in either a commercial or artistic way.

The short street cont, however, remains conventional. So little has been done with this garment in the line of originality that we begin to believe that the French influence dominates even in this line of American costumery. Paris, as you remember, insisted that she could do little with the coat suit because her tailors were wielding hand grenades instead of scissors.

Variety in Armholes.

It is not possible to deal with sleeves, in detail or in mass, without taking the armhole into serious consideration. The tailors and dressmakers talk in an interesting manner about this alleged minor part of the costume. It is a pity, one might say in passing, that there are any cutters and fitters who treat it as a minor consideration, for the average woman knows that the skill or awkwardness in cutting an armhole makes or marthe fit of the frock and her individual comfort. There are few people who can restrain their tempers when the subject of armholes is mentioned, because the extraordinary deficiency of talent in this particular line of dressmaking reaches out into the daily lives of thousands. Let us hope that the cutters of this winter will have learned more than they knew last winter, if they are going to attempt a dozen instead of two varieties.

There is the tight Directoire armhole that hugs the skin so that the fronts of the coat or bodice must be perfectly adjusted in order that they will not rise in waves about the neck.

There is the long, loose Chinese armhole which demands a certain lack of contour in the bodice or jacket. There is the pear-shaped armhole which extends to the waistline and into which an elbow-length or threequarter sleeve is usually placed. And, topping the list of comfortable armholes, is the one that belongs to the lining and not to the bodice.

New Type Saves Temper. If you have had trouble with the fit of your jackets and blouses because of ill-cut armholes, remember that this last type saves temper and tears. When the sleeve is put into the armhole of the lining and the outer material is allowed to drop over it, moving with security and freedom according to the shifting of the shoulders. then you get the best armhole that the American tailors can achieve.

This is the kind that is now in high fashion. It is run well over the top of the arm and up on the lining, in order that there may be no revealing of the inside material when the outer armhole swings to and fro. Some dressmakers use a band of embroidery or soutaching or ornamented cloth of some kind over the lining from the edge of the armbele half way to the front, in order that the effect is good when the outer armhole shifts.

The recognition given by the designers to this armhole in the lining has been the reason for an influx of sleeves made of different material from the gown fabric and also in a different color.

Street frocks of heavy cloth will have long, tight eleeves of braided satin running from shoulder to wrist. They do not make a shocking contrast in color, but depart from the tone of the gown sufficiently to give an artistic tone. tic touch. (Copyright, McCigre Newspaper Syndicate.)

Provincial Threshing Gangs

The Ontario Department of Agriculture is studying a scheme with a view to changing the present system of threshing in the Province. At the present time the farmers cooperate and the result is that a good many farmers who have no help system. If there is special need of are obliged to neglect fall plowing and other important work in order to give their neighbors a hand with the threshing

It is proposed to organize 2,500 gangs of eight men each to do the threshing of the Province The chief-obstacle is the shortage of lecbor, but it is thought the scheme can be worked out if labor can be secured from the towns and cities two months of the late summer.

To Bring in Cheap Fish

Nearly $200,000 is being asked for in the supplementary estimates of the Ontario Government for the purpose of bringing fish at cost to the people of the Province.

For acquiring cold storage accommodation, providing capital to carry fish and for transportation, the sum of $125,000 is to be voted. A goodly portion of this amount will be used for the purpose of establishing cold storage accommodation in Toronto. Another portion of the appropriation will be used for leasing warehouses in London and Thomas as shipping centres for Western Ontario.

The appeal of the Food Controller to produce large quantities of maple sugar and syrup this spring should receive a ready response from those who have groves of maple trees. While maple sugar can be made as it was in the early days of settlement, with very simple apparatus, the work is greatly reduced and better products made when a modinstruction of those not entirely familiar with advanced methods, the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, has issued Bulletin No. 2-B entitled 'The Maple Sugar Industry in Canada." By text and illustration it makes very clear the operation of a maple sugar plant. The time to tap, the utensils to use, the refining and handling of the product are all dealt This bulletin is available for distribution to those who apply for

Port Franks Man Won in Nine-Mile Race With Death

Thedford, Feb. 19 .- Manley Martell Thedford, Feb. 19.—Manley Martell, of Port Franks, went through an experience Saturday that he will remember till his dying day. Martell, who had a line of hooks set in the ice about two miles from shore, went out with his dog Saturday forenoon to visit them. He had not been out long when he discovered that the south-east wind was slowly, but surely, taking the ice out into the lake. The ice had broken off about half a mile from shore. Having no boat, he knew in a moment that the only way possible from shore. Having no boat, he knew in a moment that the only way possible to get off was to make for Kettle Point, as the west side of the ice would have to hug the Point while the east side was swinging around out of the bay. To Kettle Point, a distance of about nine miles, he headed, followed by his dog. As he neared the Point the main body of see was leaving but he managed to get to ice was leaving, but he managed to get to safety on a small cake. After a short rest he walked back to the Port. He says Tom Longboat in his palmiest days could not have beaten his time.

Real knowledge of ourselves always makes us modest.

Advocates of compulsory rationing in Canada may not have considered carefully what they mean by it. In Great Britain four-fifths of the population is urban. These dwellers in cities buy their provisions from week to week or day to day at the shops, and the system of rationing may be managed, if it is managed at all, by regulating the purchases. More than half the population of Canada is rural. It is scattered over nine provinces, most of them three times the size of the whole United Kingdom. It would require a larger body of officials to administer such a system in one province than in the whole of England. Reports indicate that the people of Britain are impatient, not so much over the reduced allowance as over the trouble and delay in getting anything. while those who take sufficient trouble and time are able to elude the law. The people of Canada would be still more impatient if they were obliged to stand in a long line waiting their turn to buy meat, butter and sugar. More than half the people of Canada do not buy meat in town shops and a great many raise their own supply or obtain it from their neighbors. The time may come when rationing should be undertaken in Canada, but it will require a good deal of consideration to devise a practical and fair bacon for the army the simplest course would be to commandeer the whole supply. Most Canadians can do without bacon. It might be necessary to reserve some for the use of surveying and prospecting parties and for similar purposes, but for nearly the whole of the bacon consumed in Canada a substitute can be obtained without causing any suffering.—Vancouver Province

Entitled to the Right of Way

(From The Municipal World) A horse-drawn vehicle must turn to the right of the beaten path or roadway and permit a motor car coming from behind to pass. Failure to do this makes the driver of the former vehicle guilty of negligence, in the opinion of a jury composed largely of farmers at Woodstock. This verdict was reached after a trial lasting three days. Mrs. Florence Reid, Chemung, filed a suit against Lant Stevens, Harvard, demanding $5,000 damages for personal injuries received in a runaway, caused, as she avered, when Stevens drove his car into her buggy when she ignored his repeated signals to turn out and ern equipment is utilized. For the give part of the road. As Stevens drove past the buggy, the car collided with the wheels of the former vehicle, the crash frightening the horse, which ran away, throwing the occupants of the buggy out. Mrs. Reid received injuries which she claims are permanent. After a hard fought trial the jury decided in favor of the defendant, claiming that the plaintiff was negligent in not surrendering one-half of the road. The decision establishes an important precedent, and one that will be of interest to every driver, whether of a motor car or of a horse-driven vehicle.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES

The Late William Duncan

The death of William Duncan, occurred at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Francis Kent, 4th line, Warwick, on Thursday, February 7th, in his 73rd year. Deceased had been ill for about two weeks, the immediate cause of death being hardening of the arteries. He was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Duncan and was unmarried. Mrs. Kent is the only surviving member of the family. The funeral which was private at the residence, (owing to Mrs. Kent's illness,) took place on Saturday afternoon to Bethel church, where a service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Murray, of Forest, before burial. The pallbearers were Ed. Maidment, D. D. Brodie, R. Ellerker, Jes. Brandon, Ernest Karr and Arthur Tomlinson.

Among those who attended the tuneral from a distance were Mrs. J. Blackburn, of Chatham, and Mr. Bamlet Kent, of Miss Edith McLeish, who has been ill with quinsy, is on the road to recovery. Mr. Arthur Davidson, teacher near Ailsa Craig, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davidser.

Miss Luella Butler has returned home after spending a few weeks at Mr. Chas. Eastman's, Arkona.

Miss Evelyn Butler, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Butler, is confined to her bed with an attack of rheu-

Mr. John Jackson, who underwent an operation in the London Hospital, is at home again seemingly quite improved in health. We hope to see him completely restored to his usual health.

The trustees of our section, No. 1 and 2, have at last been rewarded for their diligence and have secured the services of Miss Donna Tanner as teacher for 1918. Miss Tanner comes very highly recommended and we hope for a con-tinuance of the results that have been attained at our school. She began her duties February 1st.

rheumatism, acute rheumatic fever are Inflammatory rheumatism and different names for practically the same thing. It comes on with hardly any warning. The pain is excruciating, and there is a tendency of the disease to attack the heart when it may have fatal results.

Any one who has suffered from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism knows that the usual treatment is highly unsatisfactory. External applications of hot cloths and liniments and internal doses of salicylates to relieve the pain are not enough, for they do not drive the poison from the blood, and the sufferer is liable to renewed attacks whenever exposed to cold or

and the sufferer is liable to renewed attacks whenever exposed to cold or dampness.

To cure rheumatism so that it will stay cured the rheumatic poison in the blood must be driven out, and the blood must be driven out, and the blood made rich and red. When the blood is pure there can be no rheumatism. Dr. Williams Pink Pills build up the blood, make it rich, red and pure and in this way cure the most obstinate cases of rheumatism. Mr. George Harbottle, R. R. No. 1, Feversham, Ont., is one whose cure through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills is most striking. His mother gives the particulars of his attack and cure as follows:—Some years ago while my son was working as a blacksmith in a Michigan lumber camp he was attacked with rheumatic fever. He was at once taken to a hospital at Marsenett, and was there under medical treatment for four months with but little or no relief. He then decided to go to Mount Clemens, where he took the baths for three weeks, but did not find any behefit from them. By this time he felt that his ease was hopeless and decided to return home. When he reached home he could only move around by the use of a crutch and a cane. One knee was so stiff that he could not bend it, and most of his joints were swollen out of shape. He could neither dress nor undress himself and had to be helped like a child. I urged him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and finally he consented to do so. He had only been taking the pills for a few weeks when he could limp about, without the crutch, and his appitite greatly improved. This gave him new courage and as he continued the use of the pills he showed constant improvement, and was able to walk about outside. He continued the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use of the pills for some four finded the use o he showed constant improvement, and was able to walk about outside. He continued the use of the pills for some four months, by which time every symptom of the trouble had disappeared, and he went to his work in Michigan a cured man. His case was well known to the neighbors around here and his cure was looked on as marvellous, for everyone thought that at the best he was doomed to be a rheumatic cripple.

It is because they have made such wonderful cures as Mr. Harbottle's that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a world wide was able to walk about outside. He con-

NUTE AND COMMENT

Ten months of war has cost the United States about $7,100,000,000.

A "carniyal of fraud" in foodstuffs is said to have been discovered in Germany. Any kind of a carnival should be pleasing to the war-worn teutons by this time.

Life is like a savings bank. Put something in and you can draw something out. But the boy or girl who puts nothing into life will find it empty after a while just when a bank account is needed most.

Fastidious people who are inclined to give an uplift tilt to the nose when the word "pig" is mentioned will be surprised to learn that a prize porker was sold in Illinois the other day for $10,000. The owner of the drove of aristocratic grunters can afford to bestow a patronizing smile on the proprietor of a limousine de luxe.

Where wood is to be burned in a furnace intended for coal, it will be found desirable to partly cover the grate with iron or firebrick, in order to reduce the draft. If this is not done the wood is wasted by being consumed too fast and makes a very hot fire which in a furnace, may damage the firebox.-Enginering and Mining Journal.

We may be eating alfalfa before long if the price of food continues to mount. But let it be said in haste that we may also enjoy the experience, although most of us probably have thought of alfalfa as grown exclusively for animals. Alfalfa flour long since passed the experimental stage. Alfalfa honey has been produced of good quality and delightful taste, and alfalfa syrup deserves the same description.

A proposal is being considered at Ottawa to have a change made in the sales and inspection act in regard to the sale of eggs. It is proposed that a dozen eggs should weigh a pound and a half. If a dozen eggs does not weigh this amount purchaser could demand additional eggs, even fourteen, fifteen or sixteen. Another change proposed is in regard to the sale of wood. A clause may be put in the act fixing a cord at 128 cubic feet, and making it an offense to sell less than this amount as a cord.

tion of the back-yard gardens and vacant lots during the coming spring and summer and in order to provide a market for fresh vegetables, the sale or use of canned vegetables may again be prohibited in the fall of this year as in 1917. The embargo on the sale or use of the canned vegetables last year was successful in accomplishing its main purposes, which were not only to prevent waste of perishable foods but also to save tin-plate, of which there is considerable shortage. The Food Controller's office is prepared to do all in its power to encourage city cultivation this year. It is hoped and expected that market gardeners will sow part of their lands in bread

The word "Bolsheviki," in Russian, means "majority." The particular Bolsheviki the world is now talking about are the majority of the Russian Social Democratic party and has its main strength among the industrial clases in the cities. The Social Revolutionist party of Russia, the other great Socialist party counts the vast majority of its members among the peasantry. Distinct from the Bolsheviki at present also are the Mensheviki, or majority of the Social Democrats. It must be understood, however, that the Bolsheviki, though their very names mean "majority," are not quite an actual majority of the Socialist and Socialistic urban population.

Restoring Returned Soldiers

With commendable enterprise and foresight, Canada is carrying on an extensive work in restoring her invalided soldiers. At the close of the year there were 113 institutions (of which the Military Hospitals Commission conducted 71) caring for convalescent soldiers. In these, there were 11,395 beds, in addition to 2,500 beds used in clearing depots. There were 10,000 under treatment, 3,000 men enrolled for vocational training and 869 men being taught new trades. These numbers are constanly increasing and the Military Hospitals Commission is expanding its activities to meet the growing needs adequately.

A Needless Deception

By LILLIAN HALL CROWLEY

(Cepyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) "Now, mother dear," said Jane, "we simply must fix up the horrid house some way. I can't have Ted's mother see such a place." "Why make pretense, daughter? This is the way we have lived for the last

"Yes, I know," answered Jane, "but it isn't really our way of living. We are only waiting until father's peach crop is a success. But to an outsider—this place looks as if it belonged to a Hill Billy. It would class us with them forever." "Doesn't she like you for yourself, Jane?" asked her mother anxiously. "Yes, of course, she has been a perfect dear ever since Ted and I became engaged. She made my last week in college the brightest of all for me." Well, dear, what could we do to

"We'll do a lot of things to it. In the first place, I asked Ted to bring his mother and sister the day father is in town to be gone all day. I know he wouldn't have any sympathy with the way I feel about this and it will all be over by the time he gets back."

Mrs. Wilson and her daughter were sitting early one summer morning in the only downstairs room in their house. They had come from Pennsylvania four years before when Nathaniel Wilson had invested all he had in a peach erchard in the Ozarks, where one crop with favorable weather conditions would bring him a fortune. He had worked hard to bring his orchard to a state of perfection, but always some unfavorable occurrence hindered the long-looked-for bumper crop.

When his wife had protested against their going to the farm, because Jane's education might be hindered, he had assured her that there was a good university in the town a few miles away and that Jane should have every vantage. He had been able to keep his word and Jane, who had just fin-ished high school in Pennsylvania, entered the college. She was now graduated and again home for the summer.

She had always been a great help to her mother when she was home. She made all the clothes for the family, put up fruit, cooked, and even helped her father out of doors. She had learned many things in cellege, about milk and butter, trees and shrubs, all of which practical knowledge was useful on the place.

During her last year of college life love had come knocking at the door of her heart in the person of Ted Somer-He belonged to one of the wealthy families of the town and his nother was a social leader. They had been very happy in their love, and their joy was complete when Ted's mother showed instant fondness for Everything had gone along smoothly until now, when Jane realized what an impression her miserable little home might make on Mrs. Somerville. The one large room was kitchen, dining room and living room, while upstairs were two bedrooms. The house, with a few pieces of furniture, had been on the farm when Mr. Wilson had bought it. The family had brought no furniture with them except a few old heirlooms. They meant to use the house only until such time as they had money from the big peach crop. Everything hinged on that.

Mrs. Wilson, never very strong, had lost interest in keeping up her house or her own appearance, and her husband was too busy to notice.

Now here was her daughter stirring her out of her usual calm lethargy. Jane hauled out a carpet that had been packed around one of the precious pieces of old mahogany and had since reposed, folded, on the floor of the closet under the staircase. "Come," said Jane peremptorily, "let's put down this carpet." "But-Jane, I never tacked down a carpet before!" "No, but you have seen them after they were put down, Come, mether

dear. Let's hurry." After the carpet had been put down Jane looked around with satisfaction until her gaze took in the windows. "No curtains! Mother, haven't you any?" "I've never had the heart to make curtains for a room like this," replied

Mrs. Wilson ferloraly. Jane ran to an old chest of drawers relic of better days, and took out a bolt of white material belonging to her wedding outfit. "Now we'll have curtains for all these windows. The view over the mountain will be lovely, and we'll have lots of flowers." Jane had called in a couple of the men working in the orchard to carry the kitchen stove out to the back of the house. asked: "You see," she instructed. "when I go in and out for the tea things it will look as though we had a kitchen out there, besides keeping this room perfectly cool."

"Yes, I see." "Now, mother, you run up stairs and I'll finish. When you get far enough along I'll do your hatr, and, for goodness sake, put on a corset! Get out the one you bought a thousand years ago in Philadelphia. Let out the strings, but get into it somehow." "I haven't had one on for over two years." "You simply have to get into one now and you must pull it tight enough to get into that white muslin dress 1 made for you last summer and which "Very well." Mrs. Wilson smiled at her daughter's enthusiasm and tried to catch the same spirit. Jane had arranged the flowers to her own satisfaction when her mother came downstairs.

"I am sure I can never fasten this dress; I'm all out of breath now." "Never mind, you won't need any breath. I am going to do everything. There you are. Now sit down while I fasten these earrings. There-you look just like a has-been-lady."

"I feel as if I were going to be presented at court."

"You are!" said Jane. "Now, mother, you must keep that chair because it is the most comfortable one. I have placed the best one here for Ted's mother, so that her back will be to the back door. Then this chair for Bessie-Bessie is so young and happy, she won't know she isn't comfortable. She mustn't see behind the door. etther. I'll fetch the kitchen chairs I painted yesterday. They ought to be dry now."

"This is such a lot of trouble, Jane." "Yes, but once in a life time. Now, if you should want something, I'll get it, because if you get out of your chair you'll forget which one you sat in, and if you get into one of the others-all will be lost!"

The stage was all set for the play, when Ted, with his mether and sister, drove up to the door. The room had gone through a transformation. The carpet and dainty white curtains, the freshly-painted chairs, the tables arranged with books and flowers, a calm and happy mother and, best of all, a radiant Jane, presented a beautiful picture to even the most critical eye.

Jane noticed a puzzled look on the face of Mrs. Somerville when she looked at her mother. As she was warmly greeting Ted's sister Bessie at the time, Mrs. Wilson was oblivious For a moment Jane was dismayed.

"I wonder if it is the earrings?" she asked herself, but she did not have time to worry about it, as she had to go out and make the tea. Everything was going on splendidly, and she was elated with her success.

"Just the thing to do," thought she. When Jane came in for the last time she heard Mrs. Somerville ask her mether, "From what part of Pennsylvania did you come from, Mrs. Wil-smiled reminiscently.

"Ellicuttown?" gasped Mrs. Somerville. "What was your name before you were married?"

"Grace Tompkins," answered Mrs. Wilson with a surprised look. "Grace Tompkins, I was sure I had seen you before. I am Theo Alexan-

"Theo!" exclaimed the astonished Mrs. Wilson. "Is it possible? I had lest track of you entirely. Why, we haven't seen each other since the high school graduation." "Yes, we all went to Europe after that. Father died there and we just stayed on until I met Dick Somerville in Paris. He was there for a year's study. Then we were married and come to live in Saylorville, and have been here ever since. You are the first person from home I have met we came." "I am so glad to see you, Theo.

Isn't it wonderful that our children met each other?" "I didn't know any Wilsons in Elli-cuttewn," said Mrs. Semerville, "so the name did not impress me." "My husband's people moved there several years after you left, Theo. Nathaniel found work in the bank to confining and we came here four years ago to make our fortune." Jane stood, with teapet in hand, in bewildered surprise.

"Then I need not have tried to deceive you; you'd have leved mether Ted sprang to her side and put & protecting arm around her.

"What is it, dear?" he tenderly in-

"I know you'll all despise me. I made mother pretend we had more rooms—and the stove is out of doors and we would be taken for Hill Bil-lys—and—I did it all!"

Ted took the teapot from the excited and weeping girl and seated her in a chair. Turning to Mrs. Wilson, he "What is Jane talking about?"

Found New HEALTH

Mrs. Wilson, between smrles and ears, told of Jane's struggles of the morning and of her fears lest, being found in the old shack with scant furniture, her parents would be looked down upon by the great Mrs. Somerville.

At this everybody laughed and Ted loudest of all. "Why, that's plucky, Jane. By Miller's Worm Powers are par excellence the medicine for children who are suffering from ravages of worms. They immediately alter the stomachic conditions under which the worms subsist and and drive them from the system, and, at the same time, they are tonical in their efforts upon the digestive organs, restor-ing them to healthful operation and en-suring immunity from further disorders from such a cause.

FOOD FOR THE AGED.

Some Diet Rules For Those Who Are

Advanced In Years. Libraries have been written on diets for business men and actresses, but little thought has been given what aged people should eat. "Superintendents of homes for the aged show absolute ignorance of the diet that senile changes necessitate," writes Dr. I. L. Nasher in the Medical Review of Re-

With advancing age there is less strength and activity. For these reasons the amount of food should be diminished. The loss of teeth in old age s nature's signal that an aged person should no longer eat meat, the only food that needs to be thoroughly masticated. "It is not necessary suddenly to discontinue the use of meat. There should be a gradual reduction, and only the light meat of young animals and fowl should be taken."

There is no definitely prescribed diet for old age, but there are a few rules that can be followed: The total amount of food must be diminished. It must be thoroughly cooked and finely chopped. Vegetables containing much cellulose should be freely used. Foods should be given in a liquid, semiliquid or mush form, and dry foods should be avoided. Foods should not be given at shorter intervals than four or five hours.

Birds as High Flyers. Nowadays we read with the ut-most unconcern and little wonder that the German raiders were flying at not less than 10,000 feet, and we know that that is by no means a record height, and that a common one is anything between 2,000 feet and 5,000 feet above the level of the earth. We sometimes compare the aero-plane to a bird, but even the swallows we see chasing each other and shrilling on a summer evening at what seems a great height are seldom more than 300 feet or 400 feet high, and the hawk winnowing the air over a wood ready to pounce is seldom more than 200 feet. We speak of the skylark "lost in the blue," but we must remember that a skylark is about nine inches across the wings whilst a plane is 40 feet, and the best lark that ever flew never mounted more than 500 feet to 700 feet un-less he started from the top of a hill. When migrating, birds fly at more considerable heights, but it is evident that it is not a great height, seeing that large numbers of them seeing that targe numbers of them swallows probably migrate at a height of over 1,000 feet, and wild swans, ducks, and geese will fly at heights up to 2,000 feet.

THE POOR MAN'S FRIEND.—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Sclectric Oil possesses more power in concentrated form than one hundred times the quantity of many inguents. Its cheapness and the varied uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

Watford.

A royal palace, consisting of no more that what is now known as the "White Tower," appears to have been the beginning of the Tower of London. It was commenced in 1078 by William liam's son, William Rufus, who, in 1098, surrounded it with walls and a broad ditch. Several succeeding kings made additions to it, and King Edward III. erected the church. In 1638 the old White Tower was rebuilt, and in the reign of Charles II. a great number of additions were made to it. The new buildings in the Tower were com-

EAT ORANGES AT NIGHT.

Then You Will Sleep Soundly and Rise Happy In the Morning.

If you are troubled with sleepless-ness or if you are restless at nights, eat oranges before retiring. Oranges are the best sedative in the world. A man on the orange diet will never get rheu-matism, and he will have no appetite for alcoholic liquors. Both apples and oranges cure the liquor habit.

Oranges, eaten before retiring, will make you sleep so soundly that you arise in the morning invigorated and refreshed, with the notion that you have been drugged with some potion that makes life all the happier and joyous. The acid of the orange will help purge you in case you need purging, and the sugar of the orange will sweeten your breath and your whole body. The coolness of the juice will reduce the fevers of your digestive tract, and you will be 1,000 per cent better off for the orange diet.

Orange buds and orange leaves steeped in hot water and made into a tea are also splendid sedatives.

The orange was originally a berry in Asia. It was brought into Europe by Alexander the Great, and it has been greatly improved since Alexander's time, especially by the horticulturists of California.

The oranges are not growing here for nothing. They thrive here because nature intends them to be used by you as

When Brodie Bluffed Mitchell. Once when in England Steve Brodie, the famous bridge jumper, was in a party which included Charlie Mitchell, the prizefighter. Mitchell made some remarks derogatory to John L. Sullivan, to which Brodie rejoined with some sarcastic observations on the sprinting ability Mitchell displayed while in the ring with Sullivan. This angered the prizefighter, who knocked Brodie flat. As he scrambled to his feet Mitchell made another rush at him, but by then Brodie had a pistol in his hand and, thrusting it under his assailant's nose, remarked: "You think you're goin' to make a reputation off lickin' Steve Brodie, don't you? Well, you just hit me once and there'll be a lot in the papers about it, but you won't read it." That closed the incident.

Watches, Thick and Thin. Although some of the early watches were very small in circumference, they were thick, and the front and back fairly bulged so that they were more the shape of an apple than a cookie, which they really resemble today. The waferlike watch is an invention of very recent times, and the process of thinning it is even now going on. The obvious advantage of the thin watch is that it can be placed in the belt or pocket without making a bulge. If watches had always been worn round the necks they might still be spherical rather than disklike in shape. - Exchange.

About Temperature.

The best authorities on the science of meteorology tell us that without the various changes in the temperature there would be a perfect calm at all times in all parts of the globe. A uniform and unvarying barometric pressure would everywhere prevail, and there would be no change of seasons. no evaporation or condensation, no clouds and no rain. In short, without changes of temperature, which we sometimes think so uncomfortable, the atmosphere would soon become poisonous, stagnant and incapable of sustaining human life.

Climbing the Ladder.

The prudent, penniless beginner in the world labors for wages awhile, saves a surplus with which to buy tools or land for himself, then labors on his own account another while and at length hires another beginner to help him. This is the just and generous and prosperous system which opens the way to all, gives hope to all consequent energy and progress and improvement of condition to all.

When a girl becomes a woman, when a woman becomes a mother, and when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often agused by severe organic disturbances. recommended to me, and at the time I started to take it I had not been able to do anything for over a year. I took the "Favorite Prescription" and the "Golden Medical Discovery" as well. It took several bottles, but I was completely restored to good health and since that time when I have felt the need of these medicines I have taken them and always with perfect satisfaction." — Mrs. WM. BAKER, 33 Page St.

Stratford, Ont.—I was all run-down, weak, nervous. I also suffered with severe pains through my back. I was very miserable when a friend advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one bottle seemed to give renewed strength. It stopped the pain in my back, also helped my nervous condition. It is surely a good tonic for women.— Mrs. Florence Cullum, 100 Milton St.

I note when looking over the accounts the majority of them were paid out for shovelling snow, though I did not notice one account paid out for shovelling coal.

No doubt the majority of the Watford people are shovelling snow in this world to get used to the shovel, so they will be prepared to shovel coal! ared to shovel coal !

prepared to shovel coal!

I may say that since Kelliher has been incorporated we have been blessed with plenty of wood and coal. It is a mixed farming district around here and we have not had any trouble in obtaining plenty of butter, eggs, cream, milk and vegetables of every description, and it looks as though we will have plenty in the future, on account of it being a genuine mixed farming district.

DEAR MOTHER AND FATHER :-You will see I am now on leave and am going up to Edinburgh to-night. Prices are terribly high here, and so nany things are very scarce. You see Prices are terribly high here, and so many things are very scarce. You see the people lined up waiting to get an ounce or so of Margarine. They gave us a ticket for sugar before we came on leave which entitles us to one ounce each per day.

You guessed right about Passchendaele. We were there for a month and I can't see how we ever came out.

It was as bad and some worse than the Somme for mud, but the mud was a help after all for there would have been many after all for there would have been many more casualties without it.

You see the shells, lighting in the deep mud, often did not detonate, or, if they did, the pieces went straight up without spreading. However, we had only 9 casualties there, while the 11th Battery had 113 out of 204 men. We went back to the Lens front again, where thince were much quieter.

things were much quieter.

It's fine to be back in a civilized country again and makes a fellow hate to go back to that shell-torn country, only you've got to see the thing through.

I tell you it just made me sick at Ypres, to see hundreds of our own fellows and Germans too, churned up in the mud

Germans too, churned up in the mud together.

That country is nothing but a great ploughed field as tar as you can see, there is not a tree or a blade of grass or a village to be seen. Where the little towns of St. Julien, St. Jean and others used to be there are only a few bricks lying around in the mud.

Ypres with its fine old Cloth Hall, is getting more shattered daily. The people around there are largely German, or pro-German, and are not nearly so fine as the French.

The Russians seem to be out of the

The Russians seem to be out of the game for good. They are a poor lot. I haven't as much respect for them as for the Germans. But the Americans will be in, in force by spring. Right now the Germans are trying to find where they (the Americans) are located and are making air raids all along the line. The Portugese are another useless bunch, they need a British regiment behind them to keep them in the trenches and then they need to be in a very quiet

A Royal Reception by Epworth League

On Monday evening of this week a goodly number of those associated with the Epworth League and Methodist church assembled in the school room to give a reception and hearty welcome home to Capt. Lawrence and Lieut. Moir recently returned on furlough from the front. In Highe the superinted with the control of the control Moir recently returned on furlough from the front. Dr. Hicks the superintendent of the Sunday School presided and introduced a splendid program of readings, solos, instrumentals, in which the following took part:—Misses B. Stapleford, M. Fowler, E. Fortner and Mr. Steer. An address of welcome and appreciation of services rendered by the soldiers was given by Rev. A. C. Tiffin. The two guests of honor gave brief but interesting addresses. Capt. Lawrence was born and brought up in Watford and was cradled in Methodism and all her organizations in the local church. Lieut, Moir was born not far from Watford and is also of good Methodist stock. These Moir was born not far from Watford and is also of good Methodist stock. These young officers are excellent specimens of physical manhood of splendid soldierly bearing. The Epworth League does its self credit in extending a welcome to the returning young manhood of the church and nation.

STORMY WEATHER

HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children, Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Owne Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. The stormy, blustery weather which
