French Senate Restores Civil Rights To Defeatist Leaders IBANEZ MOVES TO TOPPLE THRONE

EXILED STATESMEN RECEIVE AMNESTY FROM UPPER HOUSE

Ex-Premier Caillaux and Former Minister Malvy are Cleared.

HERRIOT SUPPORTS

Both Had Been Banished for Alleged War Dealings With Enemy.

BY A. L. BRADFORD (United Press Staff Corr.)

Paris, Nov. 18.—With amazing absence of political passion, the French Senate, by raised hands, today voted Article II of the Amnesty Bill, which carries amnesty and restoration of civil rights for ex-Premier Joseph Caillaux, convicted of Defeatist activity during the war.

Only about half the senators were present, and the galleries were empty, save for a handful of newspapermen, as the final chapter of the famous case was written.

May Have Cabinet Post

Fully two-thirds of those present today were members of the Senate which condemned Caillaux to exile for his dealings with the enemy. The French Chamber had previously voted amnesty for the ex-Premier, and today's action was a foregone conclusion, and many senators voted by proxy.

After final approval by President Doumergue, Caillaux will be permitted to return to Paris, and other large cities and fortress towns, from which he is at present exiled.

Radicals are already talking of finding a place in the cabinet for Caillaux, who is recognized beyond question as the most brilliant finance minister in the history of France.

For Malvy Also.

The Senate also granted amnesty to ex-Minister Malvy.

The Malvy amnesty clause of the Chamber Bill was adopted by a vote of 195 to 62, immediately after a vote regarding amnesty for the ex-Premier.

Premier Herriot spoke in support of the amnesty bill for Caillaux saying: "The Government has no intention to recall the entire affair. We would not suggest amnesty for a traitor, but there is no treason involved in the Caillaux case."

"France must complete the work of pacification. The nation took measures thought necessary during the war when national defense was the subject of utmost importance, but it is now time to throw a veil over what happened during the war. This act cannot weaken the country."

Two thirds of the members of the Senate who were present at today's session were members of the body when it sat as a high court of treason and exiled Caillaux from Paris and other important cities.

NEW EXPERIMENTS BY DR. VORONOFF

Thyroid Gland Operations Are Claimed to Produce Very Remarkable Results.

Paris, Nov. 18.—A new book by Dr. Voronoff gives an account of the thyroid gland experiments carried out last winter in Algiers, with the eventual object of enabling him to build up a new race of men who will be veritable giants.

Dr. Voronoff reversed the original order of his operations. Instead of operating on aged animals to give them renewed youth, he operated on young animals and awaited their development.

Dr. Voronoff says that the results were marvelous, and that the animals treated showed abnormal developments in every way. The animals chosen were below the normal, but within a short space of time the bony structure and the flesh became above the normal for animals of the same age, and the subjects showed greater vigor.

Sheep, bulls and pigs were used for the experiments. Dr. Voronoff states that the animals on which he operated will sire others which will form a new race.

WILL PACIFIC GET BULK OF THE TRADE?

An Interesting Discussion to Take Place in Los Angeles Next Month.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—The view of the entire west relative to the future possibility of the transfer of the bulk of the world's trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific will be expressed in an address to be given before the coming mid-winter conference of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, holding its western meeting in this city Dec. 2 and 3, by John Cushing, traffic manager of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company.

Announcement to this effect was made here by Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles vice-president of the National Chamber, and who selected Cushing to work out this conference subject, declared to be one of tremendous importance to all lines of business in the west. Mr. Cushing has spent several months in making a careful survey of the shipping situation in the Pacific and his results will be summed up in his address.

According to the present programme Mr. Cushing will be followed by brief responses from a number of men prominent in the shipping world including Capt. Robert Dollar, president of the line which bears his name.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY IN BURNING FIRE

Police Believe Murder Theory; Minister Husband Thinks Suicide Committed.

(By United Press) Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 18.—County authorities today probed a murder theory in the mysterious death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatley, wife of a Lutheran minister and Capital University professor whose charred body was found on a bed of coals in the furnace of the parsonage.

The Rev. Mr. Sheatley told the authorities he discovered his wife's remains after noticing an odor of burning flesh in the house.

Other authorities declared they believed the pastor said in reporting to police headquarters.

Coroner Murphy and County Prosecutor King, however, declared they were unable to understand how Mrs. Sheatley could have crawled into the bed of coals and a complete investigation was ordered.

Mrs. Sheatley's bones were so badly burned the coroner said, that it was impossible to determine whether she had been attacked before her cremation.

PATIENT IS BURNED

New Anaesthetic Takes Fire From Electric Bulb—Causes Death.

London, Nov. 18.—The new anaesthetic, narylene, which two German doctors claim to have discovered, is a purified form of acetylene, which is a highly inflammable gas.

This is a disadvantage to its general adoption, for a case was recently reported in which an electric bulb in an instrument utilized for examining a patient's throat caused the gases of the anaesthetic in use to burst into flame, the unfortunate patient's lungs being practically burned out.

Other anaesthetics which have long been in use are also inflammable, but not so easily as acetylene and the other agent, ethylene, comparatively recently introduced.

Even ether will burst into fire if brought in contact with any naked flame, and in the past explosion and fire have followed the accidental dropping of an ether bottle near a grate, or even the prolonged use of the drug in a small room with an open fire. The vapor, being heavy, has reached the hearth, and an outburst of flame has resulted.

BALDWIN IS URGED TO SPEED UP COST OF LIVING PROBE

Uncertainty of Bread and Meat Prices Spurs People to Action.

COSTS GO HIGHER

Profiteering Suspected, Premier May Expose Cause of Recent Advances.

(By HERBERT BAILEY)

London, Nov. 18.—(British United Press)—A concerted outcry against the continued rise in the cost of living is coming from all parts of the country and Premier Baldwin is being urged on all sides to speed up the enquiry now being made into its causes. At the present time sub-committees are busy considering the terms of reference for the royal commission on food prices but it is generally regarded with Christmas action must be stimulated if positive suffering is to be kept within moderate bounds.

There is no scarcity of critics to remind Premier Baldwin that the sure way to become unpopular is to delay taking effective measures to curb these rising costs on essentials. Meat recently rose in price to figures that surpass those reached during the war and bread is expected to take yet another jump at any moment.

The Ministry of Labor announces that the cost of living in Britain today is 80 per cent. above the level of August 1914, the rise in the past month equalling four points. The Government has grave suspicions of profiteering and the Prime Minister says he is determined to expose the causes that have led to recent advances. Yet while there is no doubt as to the existence of the inefficiency of the system of distribution which was revealed so plainly in the recent covent garden strike is a contributory factor.

With this, however, Mr. Baldwin is hardly likely to deal owing to the enormous influence and power of entrenched interests.

Political Effects. The effect of high prices, however, is likely to have important political effects. It will undoubtedly hamper Mr. Baldwin's attempt to carry out the policy of imperial preference for which Parliament has given the sanction of a vote. The suspicion that there may be a further rise in living costs will frighten members and will strengthen the hands of the powerful Lancashire group which is still free traders.

It is significant that there is no dispute of the fact that while the rest of the world seems to be rejoicing over the effect of the return of stable governments on their national finances there is no sign here yet of the long awaited new prosperity.

POLICE ARE PUZZLED

Ontario Authorities Try to Solve Attempted Bombing of Commissioner's Home.

Toronto, Nov. 18.—City provincial police are engaged in investigating an attempt to wreck the home of General Victor A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, in this city, with a bomb, but they admit that they are puzzled. General Williams asked that he be excused from giving any information on the matter as it might interfere with the investigation.

Police believe that the attempt to bomb the commissioner's residence is a result of the General's announced intention of conducting a vigorous campaign against bootleggers.

Williams Denies. Toronto, Nov. 18.—Gen. V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, today officially denied the published story that his home in this city had been made the target for a hand grenade bomb. General Williams said that the story probably originated from the fact that a piece of metal had been found in his front hall.

Montreal Chief Is Sued For $25,000

Montreal, Nov. 18.—Chief of Police Pierre Belanger is named defendant in an action which was instituted against him yesterday by Alphonse L. De Marigny, publisher of the "Le Devoir" who claims $25,000 damages, alleging that the Chief of Police slandered him while testifying before the police enquiry.

Lost Bar Pin is Soon Recovered Through Ad in Telegraph-Journal

That classified advertising in The Telegraph-Journal brings quick results is again demonstrated. When the wife of a prominent merchant lost a gold bar pin the following ad was inserted once in the classified section of The Telegraph-Journal.

LOST—White gold bar pin, cluster of diamonds in centre, in West St. John car, Mr. R. A. King's. Inquire Liberal reward offered. Phone M. 4574 or 2577-11.

The following day this merchant called The Telegraph-Journal to say that the pin had been returned and to pay a tribute to the power of advertising.

Classified advertising is result advertising. Whether you are seeking to recover a lost article or whether it is something you desire to buy or sell classified advertising will bring quick returns.

Woman, Thought Dead, Halts Own Funeral; Taken For Auto Victim

New York, Nov. 18.—Patrick Ahearn, undertaker, returned the body of a woman to the Morgue and gave up all idea of holding a funeral for Mrs. Margaret Sheridan. Mr. Ahearn abandoned his preparations for the funeral on Friday night when Mrs. Sheridan walked into his undertaking parlor and disclosed to him and to the assembled mourners that she was "the late Mrs. Sheridan," and that she was not dead at all.

A woman still unidentified was killed by an automobile on last Wednesday night. The next day Patrick Sheridan and Mrs. Mary Johnson, son and daughter of Mrs. Sheridan, identified the body as that of their mother.

But Mrs. Sheridan, had only gone to visit friends for a few days, explaining afterward that she thought her absence "would be taken for granted."

PREDICTS SURPLUS

B. C. Legislature Opens—No Change in Taxation is Proposed.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 18.—No change in taxation, a surplus of revenue over expenditures, and a reduction in expenditures for the next fiscal year of $1,103,215, were the features of the budget speech delivered in the legislature yesterday by Hon. J. D. MacLean, Minister of Finance. It was Mr. MacLean's first budget speech.

Estimated revenue is placed at $18,340,000 and estimated expenditure at $18,180,000. The net debt of the province is $41,622,402, an increase during the fiscal year of $5,307,600.

Rats Ring Alarm

New York, Nov. 18.—Nine policemen and John McIntyre, owner of a five-story brick storage warehouse were baffled to account for the ringing of a burglar alarm bell in the building for more than an hour until the firm which installed the alarm suggested that rats in contact with the wires were to blame.

It was shortly before 5 o'clock when the police heard the alarm bell and surrounded the building. They pulled down the lower section of the fire escape ladder and climbed to the roof, trying every window on the way up, but could not gain entrance. Then they telephoned to McIntyre, who lives in Jersey City. When he arrived he opened the doors, switched on all the lights and a thorough search was made from cellar to roof. No one was found in the building and nothing was disturbed, but the alarm continued to ring until the electrical concern shut it off.

RAILWAYS HANDED BACK TO GERMANY

Transfer From Franco-Belgian Officials is Made Without Difficulty.

Essen, Germany, Nov. 18.—The railways in the occupied area were turned back to Germany at midnight by the Franco-Belgian railway administration, according to programme as arranged, carrying out the Lewis plan without a hitch or untoward incident. Most of the French officials had already left for France, thereby enabling many of the German officials to return to their former quarters. The money changes' offices at the stations were closed, as German money will be again accepted in payments for tickets. The railway book stands likewise have been turned back to the German concessionaires.

The time-tables will remain as they have been under the allied administration until Dec. 1, after which extensive changes in the passenger and freight schedules will be put into effect.

4 KILLED, 4 MISSING, MANY HURT IN TWO NEW JERSEY FIRES

Oil Barge Explosion and Hotel B'aze Take Death Toll.

LOSS IS $2,200,000

Police Sergeant is Hero of Fatality at Atlantic City.

(By Canadian Press)

Warners, N. J., Nov. 18.—Two lives were lost, more than a dozen persons injured, two boats destroyed and docks along the Staten Island waterfront here were laid waste last night when fire, following an explosion in an oil barge, caused a loss estimated at $2,000,000 including 85,000 gallons of gasoline.

The blast occurred shortly after six o'clock aboard barge No. 44, of the Lambert Transportation Company of New York, which was taking on a load of barrelled gasoline from the steamship William Boyce Thompson, owned by the Sinclair Navigation Company, also of New York, a subsidiary of the Sinclair Oil Company.

Two Vessels Burn. Both the ocean-going craft and the barge were destroyed by fire which quickly enveloped the two boats as well as the docks, destroying everything in its pathway.

Captain Fred Myers of New York was the only person on the barge. He and a carpenter on the other boat were missing when a check-up of the men was made last night and both were thought to have been blown to pieces in the blast. The carpenter's name could not be learned.

Fatal Hotel Fire. Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18.—With a toll of two known deaths and four missing fire which destroyed the Bathwell Hotel and its Annex formerly the Senator, last night, and for a time threatened many fine residences at this coast resort, was burning itself out today. It was believed that further danger of the flames spreading had been averted nothing but part of the walls of the hotel remained and the casino on the famous steel pier was practically wrecked. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

One man, James Bennett, 80, of New York City, died shortly after midnight as a result of injuries received as he was being rescued; an unidentified woman is known to have been injured, and it is feared that at least three more guests of the hotel may have lost their lives.

Policeman Is Hero. Police Sergeant James A. McMenamin, who was daring although members of the department has not been heard from since he went into the Senator about 10 o'clock in an attempt to rescue some guests, and it is feared that he died in the discharge of his duties.

About a score of persons, most of them firemen, were injured although none but Bennett suffered serious injuries. The cause of the fire is still undetermined.

Only the fact that the wind was blowing from the north, sending the vast volume of sparks and burning embers out to sea saved Atlantic City from the worst fire in its history, as the usual sea breeze would have made a clean sweep of many of the finest residences and a score of frame hotels which stood to the northward.

First Admiralty Lord To Resign

ADMIRAL LORD BEATTY.

BEATTY EXPECTED TO QUIT ADMIRALTY

Resignation Will Come by End of Year, Says London Newspapers.

London, Nov. 18.—Admiral Lord Beatty will resign his post as First Lord of the Admiralty at the end of the year, according to some of the morning newspapers.

It is recalled that rumors of his resignation were current about a year ago, when it was suggested he was retiring, due to dissatisfaction with certain governmental schemes.

Naval circles expect that his successor will be Vice-Admiral Sir Osmond De Beuver Brock, commander of the Mediterranean station since 1922.

RAILWAY STRIKE IN BRITAIN IS THREAT

Unions Demand That Government Live up to Last Settlement Terms.

London, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The locomotive engineers and railway men threaten that there will be a general stoppage of the railways of this country next January unless the railway companies live up to the terms of the settlement of the last strike, whereby the engineers and railwaymen were to receive increased pay beginning in January, 1925.

A clause in the settlement contained the words "unless in the meantime it is agreed otherwise," and this is regarded as a possible obstacle to the payment of the increased wages next January, but the unions declare that the new scale must come into operation at the beginning of the year.

SPANISH AUTHOR OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR REVOLUTION

Would Drive Alfonso From Country and Establish a Republic.

ASKS PLEBISCITE

Writer Calls Military Directorate a Menace to the World.

BY WEBB MILLER (United Press Staff Corr.)

Paris, Nov. 18.—Vicente Blasco Ibanez, noted author, today launched his campaign to foment revolution in Spain and drive King Alfonso from the throne.

Ibanez issued a pamphlet entitled "Alfonso XII is Unmasked, Military Terror in Spain."

In it the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" scathingly attacked his sovereign, charged the directorate at present in control in Spain with being a menace to the world, and called for a plebiscite to determine whether Spain should continue a monarchy or become a republic.

Rivera Is Scored. Paris, Nov. 18.—If, and when, King Alfonso of Spain decides on a return to a constitutional government to replace the military directorate under General Primo Rivera he will not find "one single politically solvent statesman who will consent to accept power at his hand," according to Senor Alba, former Spanish Foreign Minister, in an interview yesterday. Senor Alba fled from Spain shortly before General Primo Rivera's coup d'etat in September of last year.

Senor Alba further expressed the belief that the Spanish army "will not submit to being compromised by the sinister collapse of ambitious vulgarities like General Miguel Primo Rivera."

MAKING WAR UPON LOS ANGELES RATS

Which Caused The Pneumonic Plague That Caused Many Deaths.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—With 33 professional "rat catchers" engaged at the harbor, and with others skilled in the tricks taught by the Pied Piper of Hamelin Town active in sections of the Mexican quarter, state and federal authorities directing the rodent eradication campaign in this city predict that the city's population of these pests will be materially reduced within a month.

The campaign to rid the city of rats is a result of the recent epidemic of virulent pneumonia or pneumonic plague which visited a small section in the Mexican quarter, taking a toll of twenty-odd lives. Although the medical authorities agree that the disease is virtually stamped out, the rat clean-up is ordered to prevent a future recurrence since to these pests is attributed the original cause of the disease.

With over 500 traps scattered throughout the foreign quarter, the campaign is being expeditiously handled under the direction of Edward Ross, state sanitary engineer, and who has had previous experience in this work during similar outbreaks of the disease in both San Francisco and New Orleans.

"All Black" Team To Land At St. John

London, Nov. 19.—(British United Press).—The "All Black" New Zealand Rugby football team, which is approaching the conclusion of its victorious march through England and Scotland, plans to arrive in Canada en route home about the first of the year. They expect to land at St. John, New Brunswick, and, without making any extensive inquiries in regard to the climate in eastern Canada in mid-winter, they are negotiating through their manager, Mr. Dean, for a game in St. John when they land.

They also plan to play two games at Victoria in addition to the proposed game at Vancouver.

BANDITS GET $7,800 AT HOSPITAL GATES

Hold Up Paymaster and His Driver in Middletown, N. Y.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Two armed bandits held up and robbed Construction Superintendent J. P. Doyle and Henry Verdon, his driver, at the main gate to the State Hospital as they were returning in an automobile from the Merchants' National Bank with a $7,800 payroll for the Fitzpatrick & McArthur Construction Company at work on the hospital grounds.

It was Middletown's first payroll robbery and was staged by two young men dressed as bricklayers. They were unmasked.

The victims were followed from the business district by the bandits, who, when nearing the gateway, drove their automobile past that of the construction men and blocked entrance to the grounds.

One of the bandits approached the car here, and at the point of a pistol forced the construction men to drive their car on, while the other bandit followed in another auto.

Doyle and Verdon were taken along the Otisville State road to Howells where they detoured into a side road and stopped at a sequestered spot off the main line of travel. The men were told to alight. When they got to the ground one of the robbers bound their hand and foot, and they were laid in the weeds alongside the road. Gasoline was drained from the tank of their car and the air was let out of the tires.

Half an hour later a passing motorist whose name was not revealed stopped, untied the bonds and took Doyle and Verdon to police headquarters where Doyle told his story. Doyle, accompanied by an officer, returned to the Merchants' National Bank and drew another $7,800 for the payroll and went to the Fitzgerald & MacArthur office at the State Hospital where payments were made as if nothing had occurred.

A wood carver in the east recently completed a table using 113,840 pieces of wood and consuming nine years in its work.

- EARLY OPERATION LENGTHENS LIFE
- Some Interesting Figures Regarding Treatment of Cancer of The Breast.
- London, Nov. 18.—That popular ignorance is responsible for much unnecessary suffering by cancer victims is the opinion advanced by Sir George Newman, Chief Medical Officer of the Ministry of Health.
- Sir George, in a preface to a report by Dr. Janet E. Lamb-Claughton, points out that the modern surgical treatment of cancer of the breast is a vast improvement on that of even one generation ago.
- He goes on to say that the proportion of victims who present themselves at a sufficiently early stage of the disease to give a good prospect of cure is much too small.
- The task of devising a remedy of educating without misleading public opinion, is work for the near future, to which, having regard to its complexity, it is important that all medical men shall contribute.
- In her conclusions Dr. Lane Clayton, in an analysis of 20,000 operated cases of cancer of the breast, states that after the performances of the older or "incomplete" operation, out of a net total of 7,029 patients, 2,866, or 29.2 per cent, were alive at the end of three years after operation.
- The expectation of life after the onset of cancer of the breast, where the disease runs its own course, may be taken as being on an average not more than three years and six months.
- In the aggregate, i. e., without reference to the stage of the disease at operation, the effect of "complete" operation is to prolong life, increasing the expectation of life from the onset of the disease by two to three years.
- In patients operated upon by the "complete" operation while the disease is still local, the expectation of life from the onset of the disease may be, on the average, as much as ten years more than in unoperated persons.

ST. JOHN, N. B., NOVEMBER 18, 1924

WRITER TURNS REVOLUTIONIST.

The author of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, who has been much in the news of late because he has been formulating a revolution in Spain and assisting actively in its spread, comes even more prominently to the front in this morning's cablegrams, notably one from Paris, which says that "Vincente Blasco Ibañez, noted author, to-day launched his campaign to drive King Alfonso from the throne."

In this pamphlet Ibañez makes a scathing attack upon Alfonso, characterizing the Spanish Dictatorate, with being a menace to the world, and demands a plebiscite in order to determine by a direct and widespread expression of the popular will whether Spain will continue as a monarchy or become a republic.

Of course, Alfonso to-day, and for some time past, has been in the position that, although nominally he reigns, actually he does not govern. He never did govern as an autocrat, yet he had far more extended power than is given even to British sovereigns in these days. Even of His Most Gracious Majesty it is said that "the King reigns but does not govern."

It was said a short time ago by a literary reviewer that D'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet who captured "Fiume" after the war and held it against all comers until he had practically compelled agreement with his terms, was not only the most picturesque man in Europe, but also one of perhaps twenty outstanding figures in the civilized world. That is, that he would perhaps be somewhere among the first few in a long list which might run to a hundred or so. His place in such a list is, of course, a matter for dispute, but there is no question as to his daring, his genius, his magnetism, his vision or the quality of his art.

It is Ibañez another, D'Annunzio? Another one is: Is Ibañez another Cervantes? Or, is he a mere dreamer flitting at windmills somewhat of the fashion—but only somewhat—of Don Quixote? The events of the next few weeks or months may give us an accurate measure of the quality of his art, and may enable us to speculate on the degree to which he is a revolutionist—and it will be speculation purely—concerning the place history will accord him. If Ibañez keeps up the pace indicated by his pamphlet, the revolution will be serious because of the great hold he has upon the Spanish imagination. This may be expected also—that the revolution will not be dull. Ibañez detests the commonplace, and it might be thought, perhaps, that he makes rather a bad being picturesque to an unusual degree. A revolution in Spain is a grave matter, anyway, for the people of that country are hot-blooded, and, while they have never gone to anything like the extremes that have marked revolution in France or in Russia, and while they have enjoyed a considerable degree of liberty, no man knows what volcano may be slumbering which might be awakened to deadly activity by one touch of the intense fire which possibly Ibañez may radiate.

IMPORTANT TO ST. JOHN. An important matter is being dealt with by the Traffic Committee of the Board of Trade, which committee has approved of the resolution of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, that an application be made to the Railway Commission to place St. John on a party with Montreal in so far as import traffic is concerned. It appears that the Winnipeg Board claims that under the present through rate from Europe, Winnipeg is being penalized, and that an order from the Railway Commission to place St. John on a party with Montreal will reduce the cost of carriage to Winnipeg and other points west. The local Board of Trade's Traffic Committee perhaps feels that the Winnipeg claim is justified, and perhaps is inclined to think that should the Winnipeg request be granted it would mean more business through the port of St. John. Naturally other factors are important issues, but the merits of the case cannot be determined until it is learned whether the Railway Commission will take the matter up. If it does, there will naturally be a full dress rehearsal, so to speak, and all the relevant evidence for and against the Winnipeg claim will naturally be placed upon the record. Also counsel for both sides will be given ample opportunity to bring out all the evidence they desire, and

THE THOUSANDTH MAN.

One man in a thousand, Solomon says, will stick more close than a brother. And his worth while seeking him both your days.

The Golden Jubilee of the City Corset Band has brought many expressions of good will both in the spoken and the written word. They have not been in excess of what the occasion merits. The dominant figure of the jubilee naturally was Mr. James Connolly, who has been the organization since its inception and has done much to make the band a factor for good in the city life.

Baseball Compared With Football. (Paul MacDonald in Dearborn Independent.) The value of strategy in baseball is problematical. Individual strategy is invariably a keen asset, team strategy lacks this percentage.

Snails Sure Indicators of Weather Change. Snails are extraordinary indicators of changes in the weather. Snails do not drink, but imbibe moisture in their bodies during rain, and exude it at regular intervals afterward.

Fair Exchange.

(Progressive Grocer.) The wind blew down a sign which read, "Hot Dogs—10¢." A young fellow picked the sign up and handed it to the owner, saying:— "See the price of your hot dogs came down, Mister."

Wembley Next Year.

(London Daily Mail.) "I have made up my mind that the British Empire Exhibition should open next year—I am not going to give in until the last ditch," said Lord Sturgeson, chairman of the board, at a London dinner in connection with the Gold Coast section.

Progress in Scotland.

(The Scotsman.) Edinburgh is throwing off some of its wonted austerity. Amusement and gaiety have taken a firm grip of the rising generation. We have not gone so far as the southerner in Sunday amusements, nor have we quite turned night into day, as is done in the night clubs of London or the cabarets of the continent or America, but we are moving in that direction.

TRAINING CLASS FOR KINDERGARTEN MAY OPEN HERE

The possibility of opening a training class for kindergartens was again up for discussion at the annual meeting of the Free Kindergarten Association held yesterday afternoon in the Board of Trade rooms with Mrs. Allan G. McAvity, president, in the chair...

The report of Miss Marjorie Knight, secretary, was read in her absence by Mrs. J. G. Flewelling. It told of Christmas treats provided and many gifts received and a successful bridge held to raise funds needed to supplement the school board grant...

Mrs. Allan G. McAvity, president, said the season 1923-1924 had been successful and happy with the school board grant giving relief from the strain of an endeavor to raise large sums of money.

Mrs. H. H. Pickett, convenor of the executive committee, reported on monthly meetings of kindergartens to arrange programmes. She reported 242 enrolled in the five kindergartens, which she believed was too large for the individual attention desired.

CAR KILLS BOY IN WEST BATHURST

Bathurst, N. B., Nov. 17.—What proved to be a fatal accident occurred shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday evening near the Bathurst Company's planing mill, West Bathurst, when Alexander Pitre, a deaf mute, aged 17, was knocked down and run over by an automobile driven by a young man named Culligan, from Jaquet River. The victim was carried to the house of William Dalgie nearby with whom he resided. Medical aid was summoned, and although everything possible was done the unfortunate lad passed away early Sunday morning.

NURSES ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

The local chapter of the Association of Registered Nurses held its regular meeting last night at the residence of Miss Belle Howe, Elliot Row, and received with regret the resignation of the president, Miss Melkjohn. A resolution was passed expressing the regret of the chapter that Miss Melkjohn was leaving the province. Miss Ella McCaigan was elected president and Miss Billing, vice-president, to fill the vacancies on the executive. Plans were completed for the dance to be held this week.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Burton

IN THE KING'S FOREST.

Along the road came the cook, hurrying as fast as he could move.

When the King of Yum Yum Land ordered the magic fork and the magic teapot to bring him a meal and get it before him in his hunting-forest, Nancy and Nick and Daddy Gander looked with all their eyes.

It wasn't more than fifteen seconds until clatter, clatter, clatter! back came the fork and teapot with a meal fit to set before a king, as indeed it soon was.

While the peddler in the palace was eating cold mutton and salty potatoes and tough beans and horrible pie, the king in the forest was eating nightingales' tongues and fried goldfish and creamed violets and ice cream of forty colors.

If I should tell you all he ate, you would never get to bed tonight. Along the road came the cook, hurrying as fast as he could move.

"If I can only get the magic fork," he kept saying anxiously, "I shall be able to keep my head on my shoulders. I hope that I can sneak into the hunting-forest by the back way and get hold of it when the king isn't looking. If gales' tongues and fried goldfish and creamed violets and ice cream of forty colors. But that was only about one-hundredth of it.

At the same time the peddler (as cross as a bear about the bad meal he had eaten) was coming down another road toward the hunting-forest in the forest.

And he was saying to himself, "If I can only get the magic fork back that I gave the king, I'll be fixed for the rest of my life. That cook at the palace is the worst ever! I'm glad I ordered his head off. Why, I had better meals when I was peddling frying-pans and milk-pails. Yes, I'll have to sneak in by the back door and get the fork and teapot when the king isn't looking."

Well, the cook came up tippy-toe through the bushes and peeped in one window, and the peddler came up tippy-toe and peeped in through another window, and there at the king eating his goldfish and violets.

The cook didn't know it, but he was standing right on the magic dust-pan where the Twins and Daddy Gander had hid it when they arrived in Yum Yum Land.

Suddenly he had a chance. The magic fork, through serving, came and settled itself right under the window where he was peeping. He reached in his hand, and presto! It was his.

At the same time the teapot settled itself right under the window where the peddler was looking it. Like the cook, he reached on and presto! It was his.

But he saw the cook and the cook saw him and instantly there was a fight. "Give me that teapot!" cried the cook.

"Give me that fork!" cried the peddler. And they pummeled each other like good fellows—or I should say, bad fellows.

But everyone knows that a cook can't fight without bread-dough. When a cook gets cross, that's the first thing he throws—dough!

"Oh, if I only had some bread dough!" he thought. And suddenly from the time I went away, when you gave me that lucky farthing?"

"Well, well," beamed the happy father, "I'm so pleased to hear that I've allus kept th' farthing."

I don't get it the peddler will off with my head at sunrise. A pretty mess I made out of things when I made this old peddler King of Yum Yum Land. Small thanks I got for my trouble.

At the same time the peddler (as cross as a bear about the bad meal he had eaten) was coming down another road toward the hunting-forest in the forest.

And he was saying to himself, "If I can only get the magic fork back that I gave the king, I'll be fixed for the rest of my life. That cook at the palace is the worst ever! I'm glad I ordered his head off. Why, I had better meals when I was peddling frying-pans and milk-pails. Yes, I'll have to sneak in by the back door and get the fork and teapot when the king isn't looking."

Well, the cook came up tippy-toe through the bushes and peeped in one window, and the peddler came up tippy-toe and peeped in through another window, and there at the king eating his goldfish and violets.

The cook didn't know it, but he was standing right on the magic dust-pan where the Twins and Daddy Gander had hid it when they arrived in Yum Yum Land.

Suddenly he had a chance. The magic fork, through serving, came and settled itself right under the window where he was peeping. He reached in his hand, and presto! It was his.

At the same time the teapot settled itself right under the window where the peddler was looking it. Like the cook, he reached on and presto! It was his.

But he saw the cook and the cook saw him and instantly there was a fight. "Give me that teapot!" cried the cook.

"Give me that fork!" cried the peddler. And they pummeled each other like good fellows—or I should say, bad fellows.

But everyone knows that a cook can't fight without bread-dough. When a cook gets cross, that's the first thing he throws—dough!

"Oh, if I only had some bread dough!" he thought. And suddenly from the time I went away, when you gave me that lucky farthing?"

"Well, well," beamed the happy father, "I'm so pleased to hear that I've allus kept th' farthing."

"I'm pleased you've got some of the old stuff in you, George. I'd rather feared it would be otherwise."

"No," replied George, with emphasis, "I've allus kept th' farthing."

STORIES OF THE FOX AND HUNT

By STANLEY

FOXES THAT ESCAPED AFTER BEING THROWN TO THE HOUNDS, THE CRAFT OF THE HUNTSMAN, HUNTING CRIES AND CALLS, AND THE MYSTERY OF 'SCENT' ARE WRITTEN OF BY 'YOI-OVER,' FOR 40 YEARS HUNTSMAN AND WHIPPER-IN TO MANY FAMOUS PACKS IN ENGLAND.

One of his stories is of a fox that was hunted across a vale into woodland, down into the vale again, and then lost to an open common. A quarter of a mile away were three cottages, and there the pack were stopped.

"I moved my horse nearer, getting under the shadow of the cottages. As denure as a pet lamb, pressed close to the stack, the fox, with his twinkling bright eye in its black orbit, looked down curiously at me and my white mare. I called to the huntsman, who was an Irishman, and when he saw the fox he exclaimed: 'May the devil scald him. Does he think we are lamp-lighters?'"

There is a story of a pack that had a 45 minutes' run by itself, without master, huntsman, or any one else, and killed their fox at the finish. It was at the end of a day. The "field," had gone, except one farmer. He rode off, and at the far side of a pasture started a fox.

his voice gathered volume, and finally his lungs to work. A bit husky at first, his voice gathered volume, and finally rolled out with a roar like thunder that nearly drove the master crazy."

The hounds knew the master's voice, and off they went. "Suddenly," he says, "the cry seemed to stop, as though they were racing for blood, and then, round the bend in the lane, came the weariest fox I have ever seen."

"I leant over watching him. Abruptly he stopped. Then he turned right round, up went his hackles; his head was drawn well into his shoulder, his back arched, his front legs placed forward, and one hind leg back.

"For full five minutes he stood there. His lips were contracted and drawn, and I could see his teeth shining with uncanny whiteness, and the pupil of his eye steely and bright, while his velvet, blue-black ears were laid close to his head. He was like a creature cast in metal waiting to withstand a shock.

"What now, I thought to myself, of the wanted lion? Here is spartan courage. Then came the onslaught. All abreast, sterna down, lowered heads as they caught the view, and with a wild frenzied scream, the hounds were into him."

WILL CELEBRATE

Plans Made for Centenary of First Passenger Train Run by Steam.

London, Nov. 18.—The railway world is already making plans to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the first passenger train, which ran in October, 1825, from Darlington to Stockton.

Railways and even trams are older. The iron tramway had been known for at least half a century, and had come into considerable use at collieries and quarries, but the trucks were all drawn by horses. A steam locomotive was tried in 1804 in Wales, but it was found more expensive than horses.

The line, with three branches, was over 38 miles in length, and at its opening on September 27, 1825, a train of 34 vehicles, with a load of about 90 tons, was drawn by one engine, driven by Stephenson, with a signalman on horseback in advance.

The train moved off at a rate of 10 miles an hour, and obtained a speed of 15 miles on favorable parts of the line. Less than a month later the company began to run a daily passenger coach. The fare was a shilling.

Naturally. Muggins—"Henpecks insists that he is ambitious to rise in the world."

Buggins—"That ought to be easy, considering how eager his wife is to give him a blowing up."

FABLES ON HEALTH For Sleeplessness

Many people complain of sleeplessness. Nevertheless, since it does prove a mental disturber, there are a few simple aids that might be tried—and these involve getting a better circulatory distribution.

Get out of bed, stand erect and rise to tiptoe position. Repeat this rapidly until a good blood flow is felt in the calf of the legs. This will indicate that the blood is leaving the head. Then lie down again, compose yourself and breathe deeply and rapidly. This will generally act in a relaxful way and sleep will soon follow.

Bleeding gums are Nature's first warning of Pyorrhea. Then they begin to recede, lose that rich, pink color. Disease-breeding poisons collect in pus pockets and often drain through the entire system. If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea, or check its progress—something ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to do.

FORTUNE COMES TO BRIDGE PLAYERS

Subalterns Richly Rewarded for Kindness to Old Man on Voyage.

London, Nov. 18.—Life is full of romance and drama. Comedy and tragedy often walk hand-in-hand, and surprise lurks just round the corner. Here is the plain tale of a romance which commenced on the ocean and is being continued in India.

The three subalterns, finding time hanging heavily on their hands, explained to the old chap that, though they were not good players, they did not mind making up a table so that he could have a game. So it was arranged, and the four played bridge every day until the ship reached India.

A few weeks later the old man died, and to their great astonishment, the three subalterns received letters from a lawyer informing them that, in gratitude for their kindness to a lonely man, the isolated bridge player had left them the whole of his fortune, which brings in $100,000 a year, to be divided equally among them.

GIRL RACES MOTHER AND THEN SUICIDES

Reaches Home First and Shoots Self With Father's Automatic.

New York, Nov. 18.—A strange and dramatic story behind the death of Madeline Haverstroh, 26-year-old daughter of a wealthy family of Lynbrook, L. I., who committed suicide in her automobile near her home late Friday afternoon, became public.

On Thursday Miss Haverstroh drove to Stony Brook to attend a birthday party that evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Davis. Mrs. Davis had formerly been principal of a school which Miss Haverstroh had attended at Malverne.

Friend Warned Mother. Early Friday afternoon Mrs. Dohna called on Mrs. Haverstroh at Lynbrook and said: "There is something wrong with Madeline. She's acting very queerly."

Mr. Haverstroh being in New York, the mother then called on her neighbor, a neighbor, to accompany her to Northport. She drove there in her husband's large sedan, her daughter having taken a small coupe the day before.

On arriving at Northport Mrs. Haverstroh asked: "What's the matter, Madeline?" "Oh, nothing, mother," replied the daughter, but at once burst into tears.

Mrs. Dohna told the mother that her daughter had been melancholy and that she feared she would try to kill herself. Hoping to get her daughter home before she did anything rash, the mother started for Lynbrook immediately.

Madeline drove ahead in her coupe, while her mother and Mr. Herring followed in the sedan.

Lost Daughter in Jam. The mother kept close behind her daughter's car until they reached Hempstead. It was then getting dark, and the daughter succeeded in taking advantage of a traffic jam to speed so far ahead of her mother that the latter entirely lost her track.

Stopping several times in Hempstead and Mineola to try to find some trace of her daughter, Mrs. Haverstroh was finally seized with a premonition of what, it later transpired, actually did occur. According to her, she gave up the plan of searching along the way and decided to get home as quickly as she could. When she arrived night had fallen. There was no trace of her daughter's car about.

Mrs. Haverstroh ran upstairs and looked in the drawer of her husband's closet, where he usually kept his revolver. It was not there.

Mr. Haverstroh about this time telephoned from New York. When he heard his wife's story, he called a taxicab and drove to Lynbrook. He reached home just as Police Constable Glendon was entering the house. The policeman told Mr. Haverstroh that his daughter had shot herself with his pistol in her automobile at Pearl Place and Duncan avenue, two blocks from her home.

Former Crown Prince of Germany is Not Interested in Politics.

Oels, Germany, Nov. 18.—It was just a year ago today that former Crown Prince Frederick William crossed the Dutch frontier into Germany, and Saturday marked the first anniversary of his reunion with his family here.

The year has been an eventful one in Germany's effort at reconstruction, and the politicians have made many attempts to enlist the returned exile in party activities, but apparently without success.

Refractions From Meddling. The former Crown Prince, who under the laws of the Republic bears the title Prince of Prussia, has kept his word that he would live as a private citizen if permitted to return from the muddy little island in the Zuider Zee where he passed five long years with only a few peasants and two old servants as companions.

Many rumors have been circulated as to his probable adoption of some calling aside from his work as gentleman farmer on his Oels estate, but these have all been denied. At one time it was insistently reported that he would become a dealer in agricultural implements, and there were rumors of his probable embarkation upon a banking career.

No Political Career. There have also been suggestions that he might stand for election to the Reichstag, which would have pleased many large estate holders who have tried to induce him to appear publicly for the purpose of encouraging the extreme nationalistic movement.

His eldest son has entered the office of a large exporting house in Hamburg, and is apparently destined for a business career, but the father has confined his own activities to farming, with much horseback riding and occasional trips to Berlin, where he has limited his social activities to a small circle of pre-war friends.

STOLEN BRIDE IS FOUND BY SPOUSE AFTER LONG SEARCH

Both Had Been Married and Widowed - Reunited After 53 Years.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 18.—Echoing back to the days of the Civil War when hatreds between families of the North and the South were still being fed by the fuel of prejudice, a honeymoon which was broken in those days of strife was restored to its original glow here the other day. This climax of a remarkable romance and domestic tragedy was the reuniting of William L. Jones of Farmington, Tenn., and Mrs. L. F. McCarron, 70, the bride of his youth, after a separation of 53 years. Both had long mourned the other as dead and each had married again and in turn been widowed.

It was a joyful meeting, not only for the couple who had been parted by force of arms in the marriage long years ago, but for their now of middle age, whom his father had never seen and of their granddaughter, Miss Edith Jones, who had much to do with the discovery that her mother's girlhood lover was still in the land of the living.

The marriage of the couple in 1871 was the culmination of a romance. They made their home in the mountains of eastern Tennessee where the flame of the animosities engendered by the war was still burning in the remote communities. Mrs. Jones' family were ardent sympathizers with the North, while his parents stood up for the cause of the seceding South. The marriage was in the face of the opposition of the bride's parents.

Stolen by Her Parents. One day a few weeks after her marriage she was in her little rural home when her parents drove up in a covered wagon, placed her in it by force and drove away. She did not see her husband again until the other day. At the time of the separation Mrs. Jones was 16 and Mr. Jones 19. Several months after this a son, Charles L. Jones, was born, but the father did not know, for all efforts to get Mrs. Jones to communicate with each other failed.

After a lapse of two years Mrs. Jones was taken to her husband's home when he was ill. At that time Mr. Jones was living at Ferris, Texas. Mr. Jones said the other day he probably was in Bedford County, Tennessee, when his wife was told an untrue story of his death.

Mrs. Jones remarried, this time to L. F. McCarron, and Mr. Jones also married again. The son that was born to the Jones couple, after their separation, had grown to manhood in the meantime and married. He learned his father died until one day at Grams Prairie, Tex., a train of covered wagons arrived and one of the travelers told him he believed he knew Jones' father and that he resided in Tennessee. But this hope soon vanished when letters to various parts of Tennessee failed to bring any response. This was twenty-three years ago.

Then last July Edith Jones, daughter of Charles Jones, decided to make one more attempt to locate her grandfather. She sent letters to numerous relatives of her mother in Tennessee and other Southern States. Aug. 7 the first ray of hope came for the Jones family, when a letter arrived from a relative, saying that a William L. Jones was living at Farmington, Tenn. Letters and telegrams were despatched and proved him to be the long lost husband and father.

Son Picks Out Father. A few days ago "Daddy" Jones arrived in Dallas and was welcomed royally. Charles Jones met his father at the Union Station. He was told by his mother to look for a man with curly hair. As Mr. Jones climbed the station steps to the waiting room Charles picked him out. Tapping him on the shoulder, he said: "You are William Jones."

There were tears of happiness in his eyes as he asked. It was the greatest moment in his life. "Yes, and you're my boy. God bless you son."

They embraced each other affectionately. At the entrance gate stood the little old gray-haired mother and wife. She was smiling, although tears were in her eyes.

"I tried and tried to locate you after they took me from you," explained Mrs. McCarron.

"It's all right now; we've found each other again," smiled her long mourned husband, as he placed his arms around his aged bride.

Two Fencers Hurt In Hour Long Duel. Budapest, Hungary, Nov. 18.—The Italian fencer, Senor Oreste Pulitti, and M. Kovacs, Hungarian fencing judge at the Olympic games, were seriously wounded in an hour-long sabre duel at Nagy-Kanisza, on the Yugoslav border.

The seconds of the two duellists finally stopped the fight because of the principals' wounds and fatigue. Senor Pulitti, who was the aggressor in the duel, offered his apologies to M. Kovacs and a reconciliation was effected while the spectators cheered.

The encounter was the result of an exchange of cards at Paris when Senor Pulitti blamed M. Kovacs for his expulsion from the Olympic fencing contests.

He Knew. An inexperienced golfer appeared on a suburban golf course and soon showed his prowess in scattering turf. His opponent, a complacent player, stood it for a long time in silence. Presently the beginner made a magnificent drive, his ball flew over the horizon, and a bunch of soil was driven into the opponent's mouth.

"Fine!" agreed his polite opponent, as he wiped the soil from his lips. "The best I ever tasted."

Golfer (to new member)—"They say this club is haunted—a phantom golfer goes round the course every night. New Member—"In how many?"

RATHER HANG THAN GO TO AN ASYLUM

Pirie, Who Killed Wife and Children, Writes Reply to Letter.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—"There can only be two roads the law can take, one is to hang me, the other declare me insane. I personally would prefer the first, as the latter would simply mean confinement in an asylum which would be a decided brand of refined cruelty."

These words are contained in a letter written by John B. Pirie, self-confessed murderer of his wife and two children here on Oct. 1, in reply to a letter of sympathy from Mrs. F. M. E. Hanson-Sutton of Toronto, whose husband served with Pirie in the South African war. The letter was made public by B. A. Olmstead, counsel for Pirie, with the consent of Mrs. Hanson-Sutton, and is the first published statement made by the prisoner, who will be tried next January.

Those who have undertaken Pirie's defence feel that the letter will to a great extent enable those interested in the case to properly judge the situation. In his letter Pirie states that his whole life up to the morning of the murders is a blank. He states that when he realized what he had done, he felt that it was just that he should be punished and gives this reason for his not committing suicide, as against the previous statement he made at police headquarters that he had meant to kill himself but had lost heart.

Text of Letter. "I can just hope for death to bring forgetfulness, and a cessation of the ghastly headache which is my constant companion, and if my punishment continues into the next life that will only be, after all, just and right, as I can bring to mind no action of my wife and children which even remotely called for what I have done," the letter states. "I cannot but say that I can see no reason for any attempt to be made to cause justice to step aside and not punish me for what I have done. . . . Thank you ever so much for your efforts to bring my tormented mind comfort, but I feel too unclean to ever attempt any communication with your wonderful wife and children. I have made this impossible by my own actions, and I shall never be able to meet God unflinchingly knowing that I tried to do my best, for whatever may have been the reason for my cruel actions, I cannot but think that I should have carried on and fought until the last post sounded for me; but instead of that I have been a quitter."

Pirie, who murdered his wife and children because of poverty, according to a letter written to the public and found on him when he voluntarily surrendered himself.

Busy Beavers Trouble Maine

Dams Cause Inundation of Tracts—Open Season in Some Sections.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 18.—The industrious beaver, saved from extinction in Maine by stringent protective laws, is making a nuisance of himself in certain sections. The dams which the animals build frequently are so efficiently made that they result in the flowing back of streams into valuable timber and farm lands, inundating large tracts and causing considerable damage. Trapping down the dams is not always effective, because the beavers rapidly repair them.

Under the law the owners of property are damaged by the course by making a written complaint to the commission of inland fisheries and game. If investigation shows the complaint to be justified permission is given to trappers to operate on specified lands. Each trapper must take out a special beaver trapping license, which costs $25, in addition to the regular hunting license. Just have his traps marked according to law and must set no traps within 25 feet of a beaver house.

This fall an open season on beaver has been declared at five locations in northern Penobscot and Aroostook counties, beginning November 15 and ending March 1 next.

The District of Columbia has more than 100,000 colored population.

WILL HAVE GREAT RESEARCH CENTRE

New York State to Have Psychiatric Centre—Train Physicians.

New York is to have a great new centre of research into the care and treatment of mental disease analogous to its position in the scientific world to that held by the Rockefeller Institute in general medical research. It is announced that such a state psychiatric institute will be built through an agreement signed by the State Hospital Commission and the Joint Administrative Board of Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital.

The agreement provides that the new institute will be built at 168th street and Broadway and will become a part of the great medical center under which Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital are creating in that region. The announcement was made by Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, Chairman of the State Hospital Commission, and the concurrence of General William Barclay Parsons, who is Chairman of the Joint Administrative Board under which Columbia and Presbyterian are co-operating.

The agreement brings to culmination a movement which has been under way in New York State for the last 20 years. The institution will be unique, and according to the announcement, "will mark a distinct development in the effort of the medical profession to bring about a more thorough understanding of and better treatment of mental diseases." Its direct objects will be the investigation of mental disease and the training of doctors, in the treatment of mental disorders.

Permanent Cures to Be Sought. The hospital will have from 150 to 200 beds for patients under observation. Victims of mental disease whose cases do not present special interest will be taken care of in other State hospitals for the insane, of which there are now fourteen.

The new research hospital these patients will be studied by the staff of psychiatrists under observation. Methods of effecting permanent cures will be studied and the information gathered here passed along to the other State hospitals.

The State Hospital Commission plans to expend at least $1,500,000 on the new hospital and will make an recommendation to the Legislature when it convenes in January. That sum is available under the $30,000,000 bond issue for State hospitals already approved by the voters.

Columbia University and Presbyterian Hospital own 20 acres extending from 165th to 168th streets and from Broadway to the Hudson River. The ground was formerly the American Baseball League park. The Joint Administrative Board of these two institutions has agreed to give property for the State psychiatric hospital, and this has made the hospital possible. The State had desired for some time to build such an institution, but no suitable site had been available.

LONDON HAND BAG NOVELTIES

London, Nov. 18.—There have never before this autumn been so many different kinds of bags and pouches for women to carry. Every bag shop in Bond street is full of novelties and original designs.

The bag is the ideal of fashion with which the smartly dressed woman stamps herself. Whereas a few years ago a woman would use and carry a bag for months in succession, she now needs a bag for every occasion.

One black moire silk bag had a series of silhouettes on the flap, and it is possible for every woman to carry her own portrait on her bag in order to avoid theft.

There are bags made of wool which are intended to resemble dogs. These include white "poms" and brown "pekes."

Two or three feet of silk fringes are fastened to the end of new long round bags for cigarettes, loose change, powder and lip-stick only. The exteriors of these are often studded with valuable brilliants.

One Bootlegger For Every 100 Residents

Washington, Nov. 18.—There is a bootlegger for every hundred persons in the District of Columbia, according to an estimate made by Assistant District Attorney David A. Hart, who has been in charge of prosecutions under the liquor laws in the police court during the last three years.

Mr. Hart said that only about 250 of the 5,000 liquor vendors here have escaped arrest.

SHOT BY BANDIT, GIRL FEIGNS DEATH

Assailant Then Suicides—Tragedy Takes Place in New York Office.

New York, Nov. 18.—Tricked by a ruse into the belief that his victim had died from his bullet, William E. Burns, would-be holdup man, turned his revolver upon himself and committed suicide.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Nell Hansell, private secretary, was alone in an office on the twentieth floor of 730 Fifth avenue, at Fifty-seventh street. Her employer, Walter D. Tusten, retired jeweler, who maintains the office to administer investments was in the financial district. Miss Hansell was in the door of her room and opened it. A tall, strongly built man, revolver in hand, confronted her in the tiny hallway.

"Throw up your hands!" he shouted. Miss Hansell did so, but even as her hands were raised the man fired point blank at her. The .32-calibre bullet, fired from a cheap and new weapon, grazed her lips, as she stood half turned from the man, and knocked out two teeth. Virtually unharmed and not affected by the shock, Miss Hansell fell to the floor, feigning death.

Introducer Shoots Himself. The intruder looked down at the motionless form. Then he put the weapon to his right temple and fired. He spun a moment and then lurched from the hallway to fall beside Tusten's desk. Miss Hansell scrambled to her feet and ran screaming into the corridor. She turned into the office of Dr. L. Hirschfeld, two or three doors down the hall. Her fortitude deserted her and she fell into the arms of Miss Winifred Tweed, the doctor's secretary, who lives at 206 East Forty-sixth street.

"I'm shot," said Miss Hansell, and Dr. Hirschfeld, who was about to leave for luncheon ran from his inside office to get her emergency attendance. Miss Hansell, regarding her police, asked that her employer be notified. This was done by Reginald Byrnes, Superintendent of the Heckscher Building, under which Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital are creating in that region. The announcement was made by Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, Chairman of the State Hospital Commission, and the concurrence of General William Barclay Parsons, who is Chairman of the Joint Administrative Board under which Columbia and Presbyterian are co-operating.

The agreement brings to culmination a movement which has been under way in New York State for the last 20 years. The institution will be unique, and according to the announcement, "will mark a distinct development in the effort of the medical profession to bring about a more thorough understanding of and better treatment of mental diseases." Its direct objects will be the investigation of mental disease and the training of doctors, in the treatment of mental disorders.

Permanent Cures to Be Sought. The hospital will have from 150 to 200 beds for patients under observation. Victims of mental disease whose cases do not present special interest will be taken care of in other State hospitals for the insane, of which there are now fourteen.

The new research hospital these patients will be studied by the staff of psychiatrists under observation. Methods of effecting permanent cures will be studied and the information gathered here passed along to the other State hospitals.

The State Hospital Commission plans to expend at least $1,500,000 on the new hospital and will make an recommendation to the Legislature when it convenes in January. That sum is available under the $30,000,000 bond issue for State hospitals already approved by the voters.

Columbia University and Presbyterian Hospital own 20 acres extending from 165th to 168th streets and from Broadway to the Hudson River. The ground was formerly the American Baseball League park. The Joint Administrative Board of these two institutions has agreed to give property for the State psychiatric hospital, and this has made the hospital possible. The State had desired for some time to build such an institution, but no suitable site had been available.

WANTS BRANCH LINE CONSTRUCTED

Would Link Montreal With National Transcontinental via Joliette.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—After a prolonged discussion at the weekly meeting of the Chambre de Commerce on the question of a branch railway connection Montreal with the National Transcontinental Railway via Joliette it was decided to arrange for a joint deputation from the Montreal and Joliette Chambres de Commerce to wait upon Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C. N. R., to discuss the whole matter with him. Should the project appear feasible after discussion with Sir Henry Thornton, it was decided to send a deputation representing the two chambers to Ottawa to lay the matter before the Minister of Railways, and ask that such a connection between Montreal and the N. T. R. be built without delay.

This matter was brought up by J. Denis, M.P. for Joliette, who spoke at length for which he spoke of immediately constructing a branch railway to connect Montreal with the National Transcontinental, such line to link up Joliette with the whole system. Mr. Denis said that this province needed such a connection if it was to compete with Ontario in trade matters, and that such a line would bring to Montreal much traffic which was now going to Toronto or Quebec.

Resources in District. There were, he said, immense resources in the district through which the proposed branch would run, mining, forestry and agricultural. The whole district for which he spoke, including Joliette, was suffering from lack of transportation facilities, and especially from lack of communication with the National Transcontinental, for which they, in common with the rest of the country, had paid.

Detectives Identify Bandit. When Detectives John Walsh and George Ferguson of the West Forty-seventh street station arrested, they recognized the man as one who had been extradited from Ohio two years ago to answer a charge of complicity in a film robbery. Papers in the dead man's pocket established his identity as Burns and gave his address as 214 West 146th street. No money was found on the man, but in one pocket was a pawn ticket for a small amount. After an examination by Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner, the body was taken to the Morgue.

A Slogan. A butcher in a certain town had read considerable about the "Milk from Contented Cows," and wanting to keep up with the times, he placed this sign in his window: "Sausages From Pigs That Died Happy."

PARACHUTE ACTS ARE PROTESTED

French Girls Engaged for Perilous Work and Poorly Paid.

Paris, Nov. 18.—Spirited protests have been made here against parachute performances at aviation meetings, as they sometimes end in disaster.

The parachutists are frequently totally inexperienced girls recruited from the ranks of typists, milliners, or chorus girls. The bait held out is $25 and "all the girls have to do is to jump out of the aeroplane when they are told, and the parachute will do the rest."

Of course, there is a catch in it. When the "impresario" pays up, the promised fee has more often than not been whittled down to $3. The girls, who provide their own clothes, must be young and pretty.

One of the latest victims was a girl named Therese Le Corre, who took the name of Liane d'Arcy. She had never been in an aeroplane before. She wore a pretty pink dress, a neat little hat, Louis XV. heels, and silk stockings. The parachute never opened, but fell like a stone. Liane lived only a few minutes, after they picked her up. If she had lived she would have been paid $51.

Many girls have come forward to tell of their adventures in the air. One said that she was promised $25 for each performance, but she had to give the first performance free. The second time she had to drop into the sea, and the next time on land. She received $25 for the two performances, but was informed that for all subsequent performances she would be paid $5.

The money is handed over as compensation, and thus the promoters escape the responsibility of the Employers' Liability Act. Some months ago in the provinces a parachute act was advertised, but instead of a girl a clay figure was used, and the crowd protested violently, and demanded their money back.
