The Nova Scotia Almanac having been so long before the public, it is scarcely necessary to enter into particulars as to the contents of the present number. By a reference, however, to its pages, a variety of improvements will be found—in the increased number of the lists of public officers, &c. and also in their order of arrangement. A careful revision of the departments relating to the sittings of the Supreme and Inferior Courts—the arrival and closing of mails—travelling accommodations, by stage coaches and steamers, &c. &c.—has enabled the publisher to present to his numerous patrons a variety of statistical and general information, which may be confidently relied on for correctness, as well as fullness of details.

Agricultural information has always been a prominent feature in the Nova Scotia Almanac, and the assurances of intelligent farmers,—that the suggestions offered from time to time, have resulted favourably to those for whose interest they were inserted—have been very gratifying. Encouraged by such assurances, the publisher has, by renewed efforts, endeavoured to enhance the reputation of this little annual, and thereby to render the present Number what its additional title implies—an appropriate “FARMER’S MANUAL,”—in the hope that its usefulness may be fully and advantageously tested.

The Mariner—who has hitherto confided in the Nova Scotia Almanac as a source from which to obtain correct astronomical calculations,—will have in the present Number an equally efficient auxiliary in guiding his barque over the trackless ocean;—and the general reader will find in the pages—in addition to the Tables of Duties and Exemptions, Foreign and Colonial Importations, the Chronological Summary, and a sprinkling of sentimental, amusing and instructive readings,—a diversity of information, convenient and occasional, and valuable if preserved, for future reference.

Sold also at the Old-Book Store and at the Principal Stores throughout the Province.

CHRONOLOGICAL SUMMARY.

THE Summary of Events, connected with the history of this Province, were in our last Number brought up to the end of May, 1846—But before continuing the successive dates, we have concluded to place upon record the following abridged account of the Celebration of the Centenary Anniversary of the Settlement of the City of Halifax, on the 8th June, 1849; which had been compiled principally from the Times and Courier of that date, and published, during the past summer, in a more extended form:—

THE HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY of the day on which the expedition under Governor Cornwallis, destined to establish a Colony on the Atlantic Coast of Nova Scotia, arrived in the harbour of Chebucto, was celebrated with great enthusiasm and rejoicing by the citizens of Halifax, many of whose forefathers then first placed foot on that soil which has since afforded to their descendants in the third and fourth generations a happy and contented home.

The fleet, consisting of 13 transports and a vessel of war, left Portsmouth early in May, 1749. They had a short and pleasant passage, and the Sloop of War Sphinx, with the Hon. Edward Cornwallis, M. P., the Governor, was the first to arrive. She entered the Bay of Chebucto on the 8th June, and His Excellency and suite immediately landed on George's Island. This day was consequently selected by the Nova Scotia Charitable Society as the anniversary of the settlement, and has for many years been celebrated by that Society.

A universal feeling appeared to pervade the community that this anniversary should be marked by some general demonstration on the part of the whole population. A Committee of Citizens was, in consequence, formed for the purpose of managing the pageant and obtaining funds to defray the expenses of the day. This Committee comprised all ranks and grades in the community; all political and personal animosities were buried—all heartily united in the festivity, and the celebration passed off without a single unpleasant occurrence to disturb the harmony.

"The approach of day," says the Times & Courier of that date, was hailed by a salute of one hundred guns, fired by the Volunteer Artillery Corps of this City, stationed on the Grand Parade.

At six in the morning one of the halls of the Sons of Temperance opened for the installation of The Centenary Division, and at the same hour the Union Mark Lodge opened at Freemason's Hall for the transaction of Masonic work.

At seven, the Bells of the Churches again commenced ringing, and the doors were thrown open for Divine Service.

Fountains in both areas of the Province Building threw up their streams all day, descending in sparkling gems on the grassy lawns which enliven and refresh the centre of the city.

The citadel was gaily decorated with a profusion of bunting flaunting from every Staff, while from housetop, balcony, and window, of the dwellings of our citizens, and from all public places, were hung out a thousand colours, conspicuous among which were everywhere to be seen the British Ensign, and the Union Jack.

Several arches of evergreen were erected in different parts of the city.

Throughout the whole forenoon hundreds of strangers from the towns and villages adjacent to the city were thronging to witness the celebration.

At 10 o'clock, the Troops in Garrison were assembled on the Common for a Grand Review—His Excellency Sir John Harvey receiving the salute. The exciting spectacle of a sham-fight was added to the military evolutions, and a Royal salute, succeeded by a feu de joie, and three cheers for the Queen, completed the martial ceremonies of the day. The Review was witnessed by thousands of our citizens and strangers from the glacies of the citadel. As it terminated at noon, a salute of Twenty-one guns was fired from the Flag Ship Wellesley.

The various Charitable and other Societies of the City according to arrangement assembled on the Grand Parade, and about one o'clock the Procession commenced moving.

The Trackmen of the City forming a troop of cavalry, with their Banners, closed the procession; the whole of which extended a mile and a quarter in length.

"The vast body" (says the newspaper of the day,) "occupied more than an hour moving from the Parade in their respective places.

The Common was overspread with such a vast concourse of people as was never before witnessed in Halifax; and the slopes of the citadel were thronged with spectators. At two o'clock, a Royal salute announced the approach of the Lient. Governor, who, with a brilliant staff was received by an assemblage composed of Heads of Departments, City authorities, &c., with three cheers; after which appropriate addresses were presented to His Excellency by the oldest inhabitant on behalf of the assembled multitude.

After the presentation of the addresses, three enthusiastic cheers were given for Queen Victoria all along the line, and three more for Nova Scotia. His Excellency the Lt. Governor then rode along stopping at the head of each Society, conversing with the presidents—and exchanging salutations with the members as he passed—the bands playing "God Save the Queen."

This ended, the people gathered round a rostrum in the centre of the Common, where BEAMISH MURDOCH, Esquire, a descendant of one of the First settlers, delivered the following

ORATION:

Fellow Countrymen, and Fellow Citizens:

You are celebrating the foundation of your City, at the close of the first Century of its existence. A ceremony is now for the first time adopted which no living man has seen before, and now which no one living can reasonably expect to see repeated.

To express all the feelings that spring up at such a time, all the sentiments your patriotism excites,—to give them shape and form and voice is beyond individual power; but I feel encouraged by knowing that in every sensation that pervades this great assemblage I can fully sympathize. For if I view you as a British audience, I can proudly say, I am a British subject,—if you are Nova Scotians, I too am a native of Nova Scotia,—if you are men of Halifax, I was born in this city,—if, among you are descendants of her first settlers, I trace the same descent. In all, then that fills your hearts this day, mine too overflows.

One hundred years ago, our fathers left for ever their loved and happy homes to plant the Standard here that waves upon the hill. From England's smiling plains, from Erin's greenest vallies, from Scotland's lofty mountains, from Germany's broad fatherland—having wiped away the bitter tears of parting, they embark under the Royal banner,—they cross the broad Atlantic, resolved on the iron bound coast of Nova Scotia to build a home for their most remote posterity.

It was upon the 8th day of June, 1749, that little fleet which bore the fortunes of our province appeared upon the horizon. As the misty distance lessens, each ship is seen distinct on yon blue waters. Advancing nearer, they come inside the Cape, they pass the Islands, they steer up the channel, they are in the harbour, the anchors are let go, the sails are furled, “and the wild beach returned the seamen's jovial cheer.” On the day we commemorate, the day the expedition cast anchor in the Bay of Chebucto, these shores lay desolate in their primeval condition. The dark deep thicket, the woods aboriginal as their occupants,—the mouldering rock overrun with moss and lichen,—the still, silent waters comprised the scene. No roof tree marked the presence of civilized man, no footfall woke the echoes of the hills around. The wild sea bird's scream might break upon the ear, but lonely and dreary was this land, now resonant with life, activity, and cheerfulness.

To this savage solitude were our fathers thus suddenly, and somewhat unexpectedly introduced. There was no need of bold hearts and untiring spirits to stem the hardships and confront the privations involved in their situation, and the fortitude and firmness were not found wanting, for many of them had served the crown by land and sea.

“A various host—from kindred realms they came,
“Brethren in arms, but rivals in renown.”

Vision of Don Roderick Stanza LVIII.

The rocks to be removed, the trees to be extirpated, the climate's rigour to be encountered, were the smaller portions of the task. There were deadly ambuscades to be avoided, mortal pestilence to their ranks, and more than all these, there was the heart sickening for the homes and friends left in Europe to be enjoyed no more.

How shall we justly estimate the cost at which they procured for us the blessings we now enjoy? How we revere the men who held on their course unshaken under so many causes of disheartening and discouragement,—that they might found a city and a province for our benefit?

The fathers of the colony! Where are they? At rest in their peaceful graves, in the land their right hands redeemed from the rude wilderness. Should we not bless their memories, when we survey the goodly inheritance they left us? Consider Halifax, her superb harbour, her beauteous Basin, her lovely environs. Observe our city, her loyal population, her buildings public and private.—Mark well her bulwarks, her barracks, her ordnance, her dockyard, and the proud fortress that guards and crowns her height.

Regard Nova Scotia,—her woodland hills,—her alluvial plains,—her fertilizing streams,—her mineral treasures,—her exhaustless fisheries, her great future.—They who won this land have long since mouldered in the dust. Could one of that expedition have pierced in vision through the mists of time,—have seen this day, this multitude of the lovely daughters and intelligent sons of the soil,—of the children of Nova Scotia by birth and by adoption, how richly would that one glance have rewarded the anxious toil of the adventurous settler. Or, had we the power by some potent spell to wake from sepulchral slumber their shadowy forms; how intense, how deep would be the interest of our gaze upon them. Methinks among that airy group we see the brave Cornwallis, the gallant Laurence, the graceful Mascarene.

Halifax is now one of a great sisterhood of British cities and settlements dispersed to earth's remotest bounds. Our language is spoken as the mother tongue on the shores of a hundred seas. Still is our great nation busied in fulfilling her mission of civilization. Amidst Labrador's ice, on Afric's sands, on Aden's rocks, on Borneo's wilds, on far Australia's waste, our countrymen are at this moment laying the foundations of future empires.

“Come bright Improvement! on the car of Time,
And rule the spacious world from clime to clime,
Thy handmaid arts shall every will explore,
Trace every wave and culture every shore.”

Pleasures of Hope.

Halifax, a naval and military station, is rich in its recollections of the warriors both of the land and of the sea. Here came the immortal Wolfe on the path of victory, hence sailed Boscawen. Here have we seen Parry. Here have we known the Sherbrookes, Kempts, Dalhousies, Kennes, the lieutenants of Wellington. Here our fireside tales have been full of the sailor prince and King, William Henry, his boyish, open hearted gaiety, of the royal minded Edward of Kent, the Sovereign's father, and Nova Scotia's friend—of his boundless munificence, his graceful condescension, and not far away lie the last lingering ruins of his summer palace, once bright with gaiety, beauty, chivalry, and music. Even now we have among us a name heroic, and already historical, that of a chief of a thousand combats on the waves, Scotland's son, the world-renowned Dundonald.

Regiment after regiment has arrived among us and departed, during the century now closing. Fleets and armies have sojourned here. All this while a strong regard for the British Soldier has steadily grown up among us. A just esteem for his many virtues, his courage, his frankness, has been established. the British Sailor. With both services the intercourse of our inhabitants for the whole time has been cordial, unbroken, uninterrupted.

To the original settlers of Halifax, many valuable accessions were made. From the older colonies of Britain, from the army at each general peace concluded, many were added. Among the earlier were some of the heroes of Louisbourg and Quebec. In 1776, and 1783, many of the Loyalists came here. At later periods Ireland and Scotland have sent us emigrants.

Of these varied elements has the character of our population been formed. A new development is found in the native born, evincing in its impulsiveness much of the excitability of the Irish mind—in its steady and resolute tone, much of the English and Scotch origin.

The sons of Nova Scotia abroad have gained well earned honours. To the army Halifax has given a Beckwith—to the navy a Wallis and a Sir Edward Belcher. Nova Scotia has given to literature an Halliburton—to science a Gésner; and while our Province has supplied judges and public men of great ability to several of the other colonies, she has yet an abundant supply of talent and genius in store for her own uses—in the senate, at the bar, in the pulpit, in poetry and literature.

You commemorate to-day the building of your city. The true city, where is it to be found? not in the mere masses of buildings, but in the people. In your heads, in your hands, in your hearts. Here, then, assembled to-day I see the heart and the soul of Halifax. Other lands may boast greater wealth,—other cities a more numerous population; but where can you find a city or a province whose sons and daughters love her and cling to her as fondly, as proudly, as exclusively, as we do to Halifax—to Nova Scotia? The treasures of our land are her lovely and pure-minded daughters, the wealth of Halifax, is in the 30,000 hearts that this day beat in unison for its welfare, its honour.

The future, the coming century, the second century of Halifax. In this shall we not see her advance. Your children are to be the citizens of the coming century. Educate them in right principles, in useful pursuits. Providence has pointed out nautical and commercial industry as our vocation by giving us this peninsular situation. In this we should study to emulate the upright character and the enterprise of the British merchant.

Members of the National societies enrolled under the flag of your dear native lands! For the holy love you cherish for them is our best assurance of your worth. It tells us you will prove good citizens and faithful friends to the land of your adoption, the home of your choice, the birth place of your children. The charities that bind you to each other indicate your social value.

Society of Nova Scotians! True virtue becomes conspicuous in the most adverse circumstances, as your Mayflower blooms amid the snow. Act on the lesson your favourite emblem furnishes, and your patriotism will come out of every trial as pure and brilliant as your native amethyst.

Most ancient and honourable Society of Free Masons! You display the emblems of science, order, union, and of all embracing love of your fellow men. You thus teach us how to lay the only sound foundation of the social edifice. By such principles cities flourish, kingdoms prosper. To lose them is to lose true civilization.

CUNNABELL'S NOVA SCOTIA ALMANAC,

Sons of Temperance, members of Temperance Societies! Your high aim, your incessant struggle for moral reform is known to all.—The great influence you wield for good in Halifax is shown in your long array.

Members of Fire Companies! How can I sufficiently praise the vigilance, the activity, the courage and the discipline you bring to bear in your warfare with the terrible enemy you oppose. By day or night when danger call you out, your calm, resolute and unflinching efforts to subdue conflagration, to rescue property and life, are familiar to us all.

Brethren of the African Society! Your presence to day proves that while our laws secure your freedom, a kindness which no law could create has made you warm friends to the city you dwell in.

The aboriginal occupants of the soil have been invited and are here to add to the interest of this spectacle. True philanthropy knows no lines of distinction to divide man from man. Its wide circle includes all.

Citizens, friends, and spectators of this exhibition! You have united to recall the past, to mark the memory of bygone days—to pay a great and a merited honour to the founders, the fathers of our country. Fellow-countrymen, if this cheerful meeting shall increase concord among you, the day will not have been mis-spent.

Men of Halifax! You began this day by prayer to God on high, for the future prosperity of the City. It is the most solemn festival in your annals. May it knit you together in a close bond of brotherhood that none shall dare to sever, and its memory hereafter be one of pleasure unalloyed.

The Oration was honoured with three hearty cheers, after which the Societies returned to the City and dispersed. The following poem, prepared for the occasion by the Hon. Joseph Howe, was distributed during the day from the press in the procession :—

SONG FOR THE CENTENARY.

Hail to the Day! when the Britons came over,
And planted their standard with sea foam still wet!
Rejoicing to mark how we honor it yet.

Beneath it the emblems they cherish'd are waving—
The Rose of Old England the road side perfumes,
The Shamrock and Thistle the north winds are braving,
Securely the Mayflower blushes and blooms.

In the temples they founded, their faith is maintained,
Ev'ry foot of the soil they bequeathed is still ours!
The graves where they moulder no foe has profaned;
But we wreath them with verdure and strew them with flowers!

The blood of no brother, in civil strife pour'd,
In this hour of rejoicing, encumbers our souls!
The frontier's the field for the Patriot's sword,
And cursed is the weapon that Faction controls!

Then Hail to the Day! 'tis with memories crowded
Delightful to trace through the mists of the past,
Like the features of beauty, bewitchingly shrouded,
They shine through the shadows time o'er them has cast.

As travellers track to its source, in the mountains,
The stream, which, far swelling, expands o'er the plains,
Our hearts, on this day, fondly turn to the fountains
Whence flowed the warm currents that bound in our veins.

And proudly we trace them : No warrior flying
From city assaulted and fanes overthrown,
With the last of his race on its battlements dying,
And weary with wandering, founded our own.

From the Queen of the Islands, then famous in story,
A century since our brave forefathers came,
And our kindred yet fill the wide world with her glory,
Enlarging her Empire, and spreading her fame.

Ev'ry field she explores we are beckoned to tread,
Each laurel she gathers our future day brightens—
We joy with her living, and mourn with her dead.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, June 8th, 1849.

It was nearly four o'clock when the procession closed. The remainder of the afternoon was passed in sports and games and feasting on the Common. The Nova Scotia Society entertained the Indians, and there was abundance of sport provided for competitors in athletic games.

At dark the Province Building, Dalhousie College, and the other Public Buildings were illuminated, and the residences of many of the citizens were decorated with flags and appropriate devices, and brilliantly illuminated with gas. The weather was extremely fine, and the evening still and serene, with a cloudless sky—the harbour like a mirror reflected the brilliant lights from the city, and the streets were crowded with people until a late hour. The great attraction was the Province Building, in the centre of the City, splendidly illuminated, with its fountains playing high in the air, and falling with the most refreshing murmur among the fresh foliage of Spring—brilliantly illuminated with the revolving gas lights ; while the Military Bands in the area kept up the soft music until the hour of midnight. A triple arch of Evergreens extended from the centre gate of the building across the street to Mr. Fuller's Bookstore, lit up with revolving lights on each summit—which with the lights of the windows and the continual discharge of rockets, shed around more than mid-day splendour.

At nine o'clock the Wellesley, line-of-battle ship, bearing the Flag of the Earl of Dundonald, opened her fire, and continued to discharge broadsides which shook the City, reverberating among the hills like the most terrible thunder. This was truly grand. Each broadside was preceded by showers of Rockets, and the fireworks were so admirably arranged that in almost an instant of time the whole Ship, from truck to bowsprit, was illumined with Blue lights, picking out her beautiful model in the dark against the green hills of Dartmouth.

festivity of the day. It was well attended by the middle-classes, and the elite of the City and Garrison—and “all went off as merry as a marriage bell.”

We continue below, the Record of Events,—from the date at which the Chronological Summary was closed, in the 34th page of our last Number.

1846.—June 1st.—William Smith, George Smith, John Purcell, Charles Holland, Philip Harrington, Michael Sullivan, William Beverly, William Smith, William Gifford, Thomas Holland, James Ferguson, and Adam Horn,—the twelve fishermen who rescued the survivors from the wreck of the Laurel—were each presented with a Medal, at Ferguson's Cove, as a testimony of their noble and heroic conduct. A. M. Uniacke, Esq., representative for Halifax, made the presentation, on behalf of the subscribers. 2d.—The Repeal Association of Halifax, held a Pic-Nic at Birch Cove, which was attended by about 600 persons—A Bazaar was held at Masonic Hall, Halifax, in behalf of the building fund of Salem Church. 8th (Monday).—A grand festival took place at Lunenburg, which was got up by the Commemoration Society, for the purpose of celebrating the anniversary of the settlement of that town by the Germans, on the 7th June, 1753.—The Nova Scotia Philanthropic Society celebrated this anniversary, by a Pic Nic on the grounds of the Prince's Lodge, where about 300 persons were conveyed in the Dartmouth Steamer, accompanied by a military band.—The Youths' Society also celebrated the anniversary, at Veith's. 9th.—Admiral Sir Francis Austin arrived at Halifax from Bermuda, in H. M. Ship Vindictive, and landed under a salute from the Citadel.—The brigantine Roseway arrived at Halifax in a disabled state, having been injured by collision with a very large ship in a bank of fog, while both were sailing at a rapid rate. 18th.—An Episcopal visitation was held at St. Paul's Church, Halifax, when his Lordship the Bishop of Nova Scotia preached an appropriate sermon, and was waited upon by the whole body of clergymen with a complimentary and affectionate address.—Rev. William Cogswell returned to Halifax from the United States. 22d.—News arrived in Halifax of an extensive fire which occurred at St. John's, Newfoundland, on the 9th, and which destroyed the buildings on two streets a mile long, with all the public offices, rendering over 12,000 persons houseless.—An account was also received of a dreadful calamity at Quebec, which occurred on the 12th. About 10 o'clock in the evening a fire broke out in the Theatre Royal, St. Louis, (during the exhibition of an illuminated Diorama,) caused by the falling of a camphene lamp that had been suspended from the ceiling, which set fire to the curtain in front of the stage. Instantly the place was in a blaze; and in the rush that ensued to escape from the flames, not less than from 45 to 50 human beings perished. 23d.—A public meeting was held in the County Court House, Halifax, in behalf of the sufferers by the great fire at Newfoundland, at which nearly £100 was raised in an hour; measures were also adopted for providing further relief with the utmost expedition.—The Corner Stone of Christ's Church at Amherst, was laid by the Hon. Brenton Halibutson, Chief Justice of Nova Scotia, with appropriate services by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, and the Rev. Gorge Townsend, A. B.—An address was presented to the Hon. Alexander Stewart, by Members of the Provincial Legislature, Magistrates, and members of the

The bodies of those who were drowned, were interred at Newport. The funeral was witnessed by thousands; and as coffin after coffin was passed from the hearse to its last silent abode, the agonizing moans of the survivors were heart-rending in the extreme. 29th.—Rev. Joseph Dimock, of the Baptist Church, died at Wilmot, in the 70th year of his age, and 51st of his ministry.

July 2d.—Capt. Pipon, and Lieut. Henderson, of the Royal Engineers, with a detachment of Sappers and Miners, arrived at Halifax, for the purpose of commencing the survey of the line of Railroad from Halifax to Quebec. 4th.—At Liverpool, a public meeting was held, and £100 subscribed, for the sufferers by the Newfoundland fire; committees were also appointed to solicit subscriptions in different parts of the County. 5th.—A meeting relative to the fire at Newfoundland was held at Lunenburg, at which means were devised for procuring money, building materials and provisions, to be forwarded to the Relief Committee at Halifax. 6th.—The inhabitants of Truro held a public meeting to adopt measures for the relief of the sufferers by the late fire at St. John's, Newfoundland; the sum of £20 was raised on the spot, and arrangements were made for soliciting contributions throughout the County. 9th.—A meeting of the inhabitants of King's County was held at Kentville, in behalf of the sufferers by the late fire at St. John's, Newfoundland; appropriate measures for their relief were readily adopted, and general and local committees appointed for carrying them out. 11th.—First supply for the season of new potatoes in Halifax market, offered at three dollars per peck. 16th.—Intelligence was received at Halifax of the resignation of the Peel Ministry, and the Organization of a Whig Government, in consequence of the defeat of the Irish Coercion Bill in the House of Commons on the 26th June. 20th.—The Chapel of Ease, at Ferguson's Cove, was Consecrated by the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia. Vice Admiral Sir Charles Austin and family were present at the ceremony. 26th.—Rev. Mr. Taylor, pastor of the Seamen's Church, North Square, Boston, delivered an impressive address in the Brunswick Street Wesleyan Chapel, Halifax, which called forth for a time a considerable interest in behalf of the seamen of this coast, and facilitated the establishment of a "Sailors' Home" in Halifax. 29th.—Died at Port Hood, C. August 1st.—Addresses were presented to Viscount Falkland, Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia, by the Executive Council, the City Council, Inhabitants of the city of Halifax, &c., on the eve of his Excellency's departure from this Province. 3d.—His Excellency Viscount Falkland and Lady Falkland left Nova Scotia for England in the R. M. Steamship Cambria; and His Excellency Major General Sir Jeremiah Dickson, K. C. B. Commander of the Forces, was sworn in as Administrator of the Government.—The 2d and Reserve Battalion of the Rifle Brigade sailed from Halifax for Canada in the troop ship Bellisle: a complimentary address was presented to the commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Irton, by the City Council, previous to their embarkation. 4th.—A grand festival, consisting of a pic-nic, exhibition, &c. took place at McNabb's Island, in aid of a fund for building a Hall for the Halifax Mechanics' Institute. The day was observed as a general holiday. Over 6,000 persons were conveyed to the scene of festivity, during the day, by one of the Dartmouth steamers, and the sum of nearly £300 was realised. 6th.—A man, boy, and dog, were killed in one house by lightning, at River John. 12th.—A fire broke out on the Long Wharf, Halifax, which consumed several workshops, &c., with a quantity of valuable stock, to the amount of about £2,000. 14th.—H. M. Steamer Vesuvius arrived at Halifax from the Gulf of Mexico, having on board 39 men sick of the yellow fever; one midshipman and nine of her men had previously died of that disease. 17th.—The African Episcopal Methodist Church in Gottingen Street Halifax, was dedicated for public worship. 27th.—His Excellency Sir John Harvey landed at Sydney, C. B., from the Steamship Unicorn, (on her way from St. John's Newfoundland to Halifax,) and was welcomed with an address from the inhabitants, and by other appropriate demonstrations. 28th.—Sir John Harvey arrived at Halifax in the Steamship Unicorn, from Newfoundland; and on landing, was conducted to the Council Chamber, where the usual oaths were administered, and his Excellency assumed the command as Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Chief in and over H. M. Province of Nova Scotia, &c. 30th.—The 14th Regiment and 2d Battalion 60th Royal Rifle Regiment arrived at Halifax in the troop ship Bellisle, from Canada. 31st.—The Halifax Union Engine Company presented an address to their Captain, Alderman Caldwell, on his retirement from the Company and resignation of his commission.

September 1st.—Two addresses were presented to His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, by the inhabitants of Halifax and its vicinity, and an Address by the Charitable Irish Society, congratulating his Excellency on his arrival in this Province. Similar Addresses were also presented during this month from other sources. 3d.—The 77th Regiment sailed from Halifax for Quebec. 18th.—Major General Sir Jeremiah Dickson took his departure from Halifax for Great Britain, in the R. M. Steamship Britannia. Sir Jeremiah commanded the forces serving in this Province for nearly six years.

October 1st.—Intelligence received at Halifax, by the R. M. Steamship Hibernia, of the death of Lord Metcalfe, late Governor General of Canada. That amiable and much respected nobleman died on the 5th September, at Bashanger House, Basingstoke, where he had been staying for some time previous. 2d.—Vice Admiral Sir Francis Austin and family arrived at Halifax, in H. M. Ship Vindictive, from Quebec. 5th.—A Regatta was held at the First Dartmouth Lake, which excited considerable interest owing to the novelty of the exhibition at such a place. 9th.—Strawberries were gathered ten miles from Guysborough, at the Intervales. 19th.—R. M. Steamship Caledonia arrived at Halifax, with an account of the wreck of the steamship Great Britain, which was stranded on the night of the 22d September, near Liverpool, on her outward passage from that port to New York. 21st.—A new Masonic Lodge, called "The Lodge of Integrity, No. 771," on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of England, was installed in H. M.

14th Regiment at Halifax, by the Grand Lodge of Nova Scotia.—Vice Admiral Sir Francis Austin and family sailed in H. M. Ship Vindictive, for Bermuda. 22d.—Mackerel were taken in such abundance in the vicinity of Halifax Harbour that they were offered at the low price of 3d. per dozen. 25th.—A snow storm in the Island of Cape Breton. 28th.—Capt. Pison, R. E., of the surveying party, was drowned by the upsetting of a boat on the Restigouche, near Campbelltown, N.B. —During the early part of this month an alarming disease, similar to cholera, prevailed on Granville Mountain, supposed to have been occasioned by the badness of the water, owing to a long drought. Mr. J. Phinney and five of his children died within a few days of each other.

November 1st.—Mackerel were selling in Halifax market at only 3 pence per dozen. 10th.—A public meeting was held at Halifax, and a Committee appointed to form a Company to work the Coal and Iron Mines in Colchester. 17th.—Instances were recorded in the Newspapers of this date, of strawberries, apples, &c., having blossomed in the vicinity of Halifax. 25th.—Loss of the brig. Brothers, of Pictou, near Prospect, on her voyage from Boston to Pictou; there were fourteen souls on board, only five of whom escaped.

December 7th.—The new edifice of the Dartmouth Mechanics' Institute was opened by a Lecture by William Young, Esq. He was announced by Mr. Lowe as the person to deliver the first lecture in the first building erected in Nova Scotia for a Mechanics' Institute. 10th.—Mr. C. P. Allen's Bucket Factory, 12 miles from Dartmouth, and a large quantity of staves, were destroyed by fire. 11th.—Died at Halifax, Norman Fitzgerald Uniacke, aged 60 years: for many years Attorney General of Lower Canada, one of the Representatives in General Assembly, and Judge of the Supreme Court. 22d.—Died at Halifax, Sarah Herbert. Her literary talents were extensively known and appreciated; and she was justly celebrated for poetry, good sense, and the interest she manifested in the cause of morality and religion.

The condition of the sufferers by the great fire at St. John's, Newfoundland, called forth the sympathies of the people throughout the Province; and during the summer and autumn of this year successful efforts were made in every county—through the agency of public meetings, and other means which had been adopted—in procuring for their relief, contributions in provisions, clothing, money, &c.

THE FARMER'S MANUAL.

One Important Cause of Non-improvement in Agriculture.

I had occasion to visit the son of a friend of mine, at a school of great respectability in a wealthy agricultural district. The master, a very intelligent person, showed me the details of his well-arranged establishment, which was certainly a pattern in every respect. On entering the well-filled school-room, he observed that most of his scholars were farmers sons. Glancing at his library I enquired what books on agricultural subjects it contained? The master seemed struck with surprise (as if the thought of such books had never occurred to him) and replied, "with shame I acknowledge, not one; but send me a list of such as you recommend, and I will im-

Can we wonder then, that a youth who never heard the word agriculture at school, and who is seldom or never sent into different districts to be taught agriculture as a science, should go home to his parent, and follow his plan of farming, be it good, bad, or indifferent? In all other trades and professions an apprenticeship is considered essential to the acquirement of knowledge; but farming, the most necessary of all trades, is to be left to chance, or rather mischance. A system of uniformity is essential in making a hat, coat, or shoes; there are established educational rules for Sentimental, Amusing, and Instructive.

Economy is a good thing, and should be practiced by all, but it should show itself in denying ourselves, not in oppressing others.—We see persons spending dollar after dollar foolishly one hour, and in the next trying to save a penny piece off of a wood-sawyer, coal heav-er, or market-woman. Such things are disgraceful, if not dishonest.—T. S. Arthur.

Miser.—One who, though he loves himself better than all the world, uses himself worse.

A "Berdash" was a name anciently given in England to a sort of neck-dress, and the person who made or sold such neck-dresses was called a "Berdasher," now corrupted into "Haberdasher."

Why is a man wrong to go from home, leaving his daughter to attend to his business?—Because she will be Miss managing his affairs.

A gentleman who has occasion to walk with two ladies, with one umbrella, should always go in the middle—that secures a dry coat to himself, and is showing no partiality to either of the ladies.

Painted Britons.—The following passage is from a placard announcing a pleasure trip to Warkworth:—"The Gleaner is one of the finest and fastest boats on the Tyne. Her accommodation is in every respect good and comfortable; her crew skilful, steady, and obliging, being newly painted and decorated for pleasure trips!"

When do your teeth usurp the functions of the tongue? When they are chattering.

Patience is very good, but perseverance is much better. While the former stands as a stoic under difficulties, the latter whips them out of the ring.

the church, the bar, and the senate; but agriculture, the greatest interest of all, on which our very existence depends, economically and politically, is to be like a ship without a compass, tossed about by the ever-varying gale of individual opinion, without the hope of reaching the port of Perfection. Were a youth ever so much inclined to furnish his mind with comparisons and observations of the various systems of culture in our own or different countries, as well as in foreign climes, there is under the present school system no opportunity for his doing so; and no doubt he would be surprised if told that we are a century at least behind the Chinese in agricultural practice. I hope we shall soon see every school, and in fact every farmer's parlour, possess.

ing a few sound practical works on agriculture. I presume no man will consider he knows every thing in agriculture; if he does, it is unfortunate for him. Little as I am acquainted with the subject, I am fully convinced that it is full of interest, and of such extent that a life-time of study and practice would find us on the wrong side of perfection.—London Agricultural Gazette.

Liquid Manure.

It is now a pretty general belief among farmers that there is "some good" in liquid manures; but, somehow or other, we never see much preparation either for the collection or application of this, the cheapest and most valuable of all manures. Now, having for several years been an experimenter

Vulgar People.—"These are not vulgar people," says Dante, "merely because they live in small cottages, lowly places; but those are vulgar who, by their thoughts and deeds, strive to shut out any view of beauty." There are vulgar rich men, as well as vulgar poor men. Being poor is not of itself a disqualification for being a gentleman. To be a gentleman is to be elevated above others in sentiment rather than situation. And the poor man, with an enlarged and pure mind, may be happier, too, than his rich neighbour without his elevation. Let the former only look at nature with a large mind, "a mind which can see and adore the Creator in his works, can consider them as demonstrations of his power, his wisdom, his goodness, and his truth--this man is greater as well as happier in his poverty than the other in his riches. The one is but little higher than the beast; the other but little lower than the angel."

Value of Labour.—It is to labour, and to labour only, that man owes everything possessed of exchangeable value. Labour is the talisman that has raised him from the condition of the savage; that has changed the desert and the forest into cultivated fields; that has covered the earth with cities, and the ocean with ships; and has given us plenty, comfort, and elegance; instead of want, misery, and barbarism.

"Have you seen anything of a dog's collar anywhere around here?" inquired a gentleman of Cimon, a few days since. "Well," replied Cimon, "I've seen lots o' boy schoolars, and I yesterday seen a man trying to learn a dog to jump over a stick. That's the only dog scholar I've seen."

Money and worldly wealth is like a football, some few nimble-heeled and light-headed run quite away with it, while the most are only looking on, and cannot get a kick at it in all their lives.

in this way, and sensible of the very great importance and value of liquid manures, I shall here take the liberty of throwing in my mite to the general fund, by communicating the little I have gained by experience to my fellow-farmers.

Liquid manure, if applied upon a pervious or gravelly soil, in a fresh state, is not retained long enough for its decomposition to take place, or for the roots to drink it up. It is put on a liquid manure, and runs off in the same state, but apply it to a soil rich in decayed or decaying vegetable matter, and on which a vigorous vegetation is going on, and it never fails of its extraordinary effects. The plan of administering liquid manures in a perfectly fresh state is probably the best of any, were it not for the continued care and consequent expense necessary in supplying our crops with saturated water in all their stages throughout the year, and were we certain of the exact strength of the solution suited to their wants. As we, therefore, cannot apply our liquid manures on the best principles, on account of the expense, we must try the next best plan, that of decomposing them, by the aid of decomposed vegetable matter; and this can happily be done, to great perfection, by reducing the vegetable matter to a state of carbon or charcoal--which we make from peat, as being trifling in expense, easily pulverized, and withal an excellent manure of itself.

We divide a shed into two compartments, one of which we make water-

General Lovers.—There is no character more contemptible than what is called a general lover. He can have no maunliness of mind and resigns all pretensions to dignity. He is an imitator and commonly a very poor one, of the vain and heartless who have gone before him. He is generally laughed at by both sexes; and what would be most annoying to his self complacency, by those whom he seeks to conquer, no one thinks seriously about him, except when he succeeds in sacrificing the peace of some victim to his selfishness and vanity.

Aspect of Death in Childhood.—

Few things appear so very beautiful as a very young child in its shroud. The little innocent face looks so sublimely simple and confiding amongst the cold terrors of death—crimeless, and fearless, that little mortal has passed alone under the shadow, and explored the mystery of dissolution. There is death in its sublimest and purest image—no hatred, no hypocrisy, no suspicion, no care for the morrow ever darkened that little face; death has come lovingly upon it; there is nothing cruel or harsh in its victory. The yearnings of love, indeed, cannot be stifled, for the prattle, and smiles, and all the little world of thoughts that were so delightful, are gone for ever. Awe, too, will overcast us in its presence, for we are looking on death; but we do not fear for the lonely voyager—for the child has gone simple and trusting, into the presence of its all-wise Father; and of such, we know, is the kingdom of Heaven.

No man can know mankind without having lived alternately in a palace and in a cottage. A trencher and a silver plate must be equally familiar.

He is happy whose circumstances suit his temper; but he is more excellent who can suit his temper to any circumstances.

"It is very curious," says a young lady, "that the tortoise, from whom we get all our tortoise-shell combs, has no hair!"

tight, by puddling the side-walls with clay to the height, say of two feet, and separated from the other compartment by a low water-tight wall or boarding. This is my fermenting tank, which is filled half or three parts full of pulverized burnt peat, and the liquid manure from the stable, pig-styes, &c., directed into it. This is mixed up with the pulverized peat, and allowed to remain three or four weeks, till the decomposition seems about completed, being occasionally stirred about after the composition has become about the consistency of gruel. The whole is then ladled with a pole and bucket over the low partition into the second floor, which is also three parts filled with carbonized peat; and as the second floor is meant merely as a filter, we have it lower on one side than the other, by which means in the course of a day or two, the carbonized peat is left comparatively dry. The water having passed off at the lower side, the first, or fermenting floor, is again filled as before, and the contents of the second floor, if considered saturated enough, are then shoveled up into a corner, and allowed to drip, and further dry till used, which may be either immediately, or at the end of twenty years, as scarcely any thing will affect it, if not exposed to the continued washing of pure water, or exposed to the influence of the roots of growing plants. By being thinly spread on a grainery floor it soon becomes perfectly dry, and suited to pass through drill machines.

Leisure is a very pleasant garment to look at, but it is a very bad one to wear. The ruin of millions may be traced to it.

"Stammering," Dr. Turner says, "is caused by attempts to speak with empty lungs. In singing, the lungs are kept well inflated, and there is no stuttering. The method of cure is to require the patient to keep his lungs well-filled—to draw frequent long breaths, to speak loud, and to pause on the instant of finding embarrassment in their speech, taking a long inspiration before they go on again. I cured one of the worst cases I ever knew on this principle."

"This rebutting testimony that we read of in the courts," said Mrs. Partington, "must be to make it go down easier; the same way that they embezzle bibles with plecters, and make sugar-plums of rhubarb. How much better it would be if you could receive the truth without rebutting it. Don't you think so, sir?" continued she, accosting a counsellor present. "Certainly, madam," replied he, with dignity, "and consider the high price of butter, too."

The following instance is given of a chaos of figures employed by a lawyer of Baltimore:—"This man, gentlemen of the jury, walks into court like a motionless statue, with the cloak of hypocrisy in his mouth, and is attempting to screw three large oak trees out of my client's pocket."

He who has not experienced the friendship of woman, knows not half the charms and delights of friendship. Woman possesses the art of embellishing the saddest moments of our life, by unalterable sweetness of temper, constant care, and unwearied attention; she is man's best companion in prosperity, and in adversity his truest friend.

A Prosy man is like the clack of a mill when there is no corn to grind.

Nearly 150 tons of steel are employed annually to make 250,000,000 pens.

The mixing of the carbonized peat with the liquid manure on the first, or fermenting floor, it will be observed, is for laying hold of the gaseous matters as they escape during the fermentation; perhaps other substances may effect this more effectually, but none so cheaply. I think by this plan it will be obvious to every one that a great many desiderata are at once obtained. In the first place you get free of about 956 parts out of every thousand of the weight and bulk of manure, by the expulsion of water; while at the same time you link all the fertilizing properties contained in it to one of the most dandy vehicles—light, cleanly, and portable, and possessed of the peculiar property of holding together the most volatile substances, till gradually called forth by the exigencies of the growing plants. Lastly, you get free of the nasty tank, and the hogshead, and the watering cart, with all its appendages, and are no more bothered with an overflowing tank or over-fermenting liquid, with weather unsuited for its application. You have merely to shovel past the saturated charcoal, and shovel in a little fresh stuff, and the process goes on again of its own will; while the prepared stuffs lie ready for all crops, all seasons, and at all times.

The solid matter in the urine of the cow is estimated, by very high authority, to be equal in value to its weight of South American guano.—Inverness Courier.

Three Faults of Nurses.—1. To lisp in a baby style, when the same words in an endearing tone would please as well. The reverse should be the practice: the voice clearly emphatic, and each syllable distinctly articulated for imitation. 2. To tell of witches, ghosts, and goblins. 3. To direct a child to act like a man; whereas it is not becoming for a little boy to ape the man, but only to conform his demeanor to his age. Every age has its own peculiar decorousness.

Justice and generosity, rightly blended, constitute a dignified character, but certainly, so far as a person is more just than generous, or more generous than just, that character is defective.

Cyrus and the Wife of Tigranes.

Cyrus had taken captive the wife of Tigranes, and asked him what he would give to save her from servitude? He replied, all that he had in the world, and his own life into the bargain. Cyrus, upon this, very generously restored her, and pardoned what had passed. All were full of his praises on this occasion, some commending the accomplishments of the mind, others those of his person. Tigranes asked his wife whether she did not greatly admire him? "I never looked at him," said she. "Never looked at him?" returned he: "upon whom then did you look?" "Upon him," replied she, "who offered his own life to redeem me from slavery."

It is observed that the most censorious are generally the least judicious, who, having nothing to recommend themselves, will be finding fault with others. No man envies the merit of another who has enough of his own.

Money is a very good servant, but a bad master. It may be accused of injustice towards mankind, inasmuch as there are only a few who make false money, whereas money makes many men false.

A word spoken pleasantly is a large spot of sunshine on a sad heart.

Manufacture and Preparation of Butter for Market.

The great secret, if secret it may be called, employed in Holland, in making superior, long-keeping, and highly-flavored butter, is to be found in the cleanliness, and nicety in keeping the milk, cream, vessels, and apartments for making, and storing the butter when made. The butter is thoroughly worked by a ladle until all the buttermilk is extracted. Salt produced from the evaporation of sea-water, and not that which is obtained at the Salt Springs, is used, and after it is added to the butter, and worked well in with a ladle, the brine produced from the operation of salting is dried off, by pressing clean linen towels on the butter. When butter is intended for a long sea voyage, it is packed in firkins made of well-seasoned old oak casks which are thoroughly scalded in hot brine before being used. The bottom and sides of the firkin are rubbed with fine salt, and the butter is so firmly packed that no cavities nor brine are allowed to remain between the layers. When the vessel is filled, a layer of salt is spread on the surface, and a clean sheet of white paper being placed over the salt, and the top fastened on sufficiently tight to prevent the admission of air, complete the whole process.

In a late number of the New York Farmer and Mechanic, an admirable article on butter-making and packing appeared in its editorial columns. The principal feature of the method advanced by the writer, consisted in using a

A Lady's Eyes.—"I live in Julia's eyes," said an affected dandy, in Colman's hearing. "I don't wonder at it," replied George, "since I observed she had a stye in them when I saw her last!"

Ignorance is contented to stand still with her back to the truth: but error is more presumptuous, and proceeds in the same direction..

Courtship is often made up of the fact, that the girl calls her beau a noble youth, a hero, a genius—while he calls her a paragon of beauty and gentleness, and so they keep flattering each other till they get married, and then comes the scolding.

Every beautiful, and pure, and good thought which the heart holds, is an angel of mercy, purifying and guarding the soul.

Without sorrow life would be no better than a dream. Grief is reality, and though bitter as wormwood, mortals love it, for it makes them feel themselves, and know the value of each other.

A young gentleman of ardent temperament, was expatiating, to a friend on the matchless perfections of a young lady whom he was soon to lead to the hymeneal altar. The friend, aware that perfection is not to be expected in woman, slyly asked, "Is there nothing in her demeanour or conduct that can be construed into a fault?" "I know of none," replied the modest youth, "except the love she bears to unworthy me." "Oh, if that be all, she'll obtain forgiveness, for she'll sincerely repent."

Why is a vain young lady like a confirmed drunkard?—Because neither of them are satisfied with a moderate use of the glass.

There is a class of people who ask why you don't come to their house, but never say do. They are nearly related to the gentleman who has always "a bill to take up," whenever you wish to effect a small loan from him.

"composition" as it was styled, for curing butter, which "makes it taste sweeter, richer, and more marrowy, than portions of butter cured with common salt." This composition is made as follows:—take of sugar one part; of nitre one part, and of the best rock salt two parts; beat the whole into fine powder; mix them well together, and put them by for use. Of this composition one ounce should be added to every pound of butter, and completely mixed, as soon as it is freed from the butter milk. The other means employed for packing recommended by the writer, were the same as those used in Germany. In the Maine Farmer, which, by the way, is an ably conducted paper, a rather novel mode is given by Col. Craig, of Readfield. The butter is packed down solidly and carefully in firkins, and a clean cloth fitted on the top of each, before the covers of the firkins are closed down. He then takes a clean hogshead or large cask, and places a layer of salt on its bottom. The firkins of butter are then packed carefully in the hogshead, in such a position as not to touch each other, and the interstices are filled with salt, until the firkins are covered, and this process is repeated until the hog-head or cask is filled with the small casks and salt, after which it is headed up, and allowed to remain in that state until the butter is required for use, or is sold in market. Butter preserved in this way, has been kept for a long period, and during the hottest weather, and when overhauled for the purpose of selling it, butter, tubs, and everything connected therewith, have been invariably found as sweet and nice as when packed.

Let a man live as long as he will, the first thirty years of his life will always seem the longest; the daily routine of our after years passes like the round of a clock, while the hands on the outside and the movements within, mark the passing of time to others, till the weight has run down, and the pendulum stands still.

Duellist.—A moral coward, seeking to hide the pusillanimity of his mind, by affecting a corporeal courage.

The utmost excellence at which humanity can arrive is a constant and determinate pursuit of virtue, without regard to present dangers or advantage.

A lady who was attending a public exhibition in Albany, one evening, in consequence of the closeness with which the audience was packed, began to perspire freely. Unluckily she forgot that her cheeks were rouged highly, and with "one fell wipe," drew her snowy kerchief down one cheek, leaving it perfectly white, and forgetting to do the same to the other. She sat the whole evening with one cheek white, and the other a bright red.

He that is good may hope to become better; he that is bad may fear that he will become worse; for vice, virtue, and time never stand still.

Great talkers do not only do the least but generally say the least, if their words be weighed, instead of reckoned.

Water is composed of certain gases, one of them quite explosive. The other evening, when a lecturer on chemistry was decomposing water, and causing terrific explosions of its component gases, a rather free liver in the audience exclaimed, as he held his hands to his ears, "Catch me putting water in my brandy after this!"

A lively country girl had a bashful lover whose name was Locke. She got out of patience with him at last, and in her anger declared that Shakespeare had not said half as many bad things as he ought to about Shy Locke.

Valuable lessons from the foregoing, might be turned to some practical account by country merchants and others in the butter trade.—Agricultural Societies, from the highest to the lowest, should encourage the business of manufacturing butter for export, and by so doing a very short space of time will elapse before this country becomes famous for the production of good butter.—Toronto Farmer and Mechanic.

eggs that produce the worm. Having tried this remedy in a sandy soil, and in a stiff soil, and in places distant from each other; and having driven off the insect when the trees of others were very much injured or destroyed in the neighbourhood, he advises all those who are troubled by these insects to try the use of iron, rather than be under the necessity of continually topping off the limbs which contain the worm or young insect. He thinks it probable that the iron is unfavorable to the worm, which drops from the branches, and makes its wintering place at the root of the tree, and then the insect avoids an unfavorable place for its young. But whatever may be the theory, it is sufficient that iron has the desired effect.—Gardener's Gazette.

A young lady reprimanded her shoemaker for not following her directions respecting a pair of shoes which she had ordered; and, among other things, insisted that they were not fellows. Crispin replied that he purposely made them so, in order to oblige her, well knowing the chastity of her disposition, and that she was not fond of fellows.

A Frenchman stopping at a tavern, asked for Joseph. "There is no such person here," said the landlord. "'Tis not a person I want, sare, but the beer warm wid de poker." "Well," answered mine host,

"that is flip." "Ah, yes, sare, you are in de right, I mean Philip."

Soundness of Mind.—A lawyer who was testifying in one of the courts in relation to a man's sanity, said, "I have no doubt of the old gentleman being perfectly sane at the time referred to. I recollect that he refused to pay me my costs, or at least he made me strike several items off my bill."—Journal of Commerce.

Out and In—A Frenchman, who was travelling in a canal boat, was in the cabin at the time the boat was about passing under a bridge. The captain shouted "Look out!" to the passengers, at the top of his voice. The Frenchman understood him literally, and poked his head up out of the cabin. He received a severe bump upon the forehead which knocked him sprawling upon the floor. He jumped up in a great rage, scratched his head and addressed the captain in the most indignant style, "Sare! what you say 'Look out' for, Why you not say 'Look in'?"

An exchange says that a lady went into a hardware store the other day, in which were a couple of clerks, and called for a pair of snuffers. "Suppose you take us," said the clerks, "we both snuff!"

Dr. Johnson being asked his opinion of a very small volume with a pompous title, replied, "that it was like placing an eight and forty pounder at the door of a pig-sty."

Fattening Animals.

There are some rules which may be advantageously adopted in feeding animals, which, however obvious they may be, are too often passed over or neglected. Some of these will be specified; and

1st. The preparation of Food. This should be so prepared that its nutritive properties may be all made available to the use of the animal, and not only so, but appropriated with the least possible expenditure of muscular energy. The ox that is obliged to wander over an acre to get the food he should find on two or three square rods; the horse that is two or three hours eating the coarse food he would swallow in fifteen minutes if the grain was

All food should be given to a fattening animal in such a state, that as little time and labour as possible, on the part of the animal shall be required in eating.

2d. The Food should be in abundance.—From the time the fattening process commences, until the animal is slaughtered, he should never be without food. Health and appetite are best promoted by change of food rather than by limiting the quantity. The animal that is stuffed and starved alternately

If you want the milk of human kindness thickened into the cream of benevolence, or the cream of benevolence transferred into the butter of beatitude, all you have to do is to fly around and do good. As Dobbs very justly says, there is more sunshine in one act of kindness, than in all July.

The Drunkard's Liberty.—Drink promised me liberty, and I got it. I had the liberty to see my toes poke out of my boots—the water had the liberty to go in at the toes and out at my heels—my knees had the liberty to come out of my coat—and I had the liberty to lift the crown of my hat and scratch my head without taking my hat off.

At the late grand concert, says the Picayune, while Strakosch was performing a very difficult piece with variations on the piano, a cotton planter, who was admiring the dexterity with which the musician made use of his fingers more than the music, exclaimed to a friend, "What a magnificent cotton picker that fellow would make!"

Why is a talkative young man like a young pig?—Because, if he lives, he is likely to become a great bore.

An elderly lady, telling her age, remarked that she was born on the 22nd of April. Her husband who was present, observed, "I always thought you were born on the first of April." "People might well judge so," responded the lady, "in the choice I made of a husband."

A Good Cow.—An editor mentions a cow in Delaware, that enables the dairymaid to make on an average, twenty pounds of butter weekly. A contemporary exclaims, "a constellation in the milky way!"

"With knowledge sorrow increases," as the chap said when he found out he had drawn a blank in the lottery.

Why is the root of the tongue like a dejected man? Ans. Because it is down in the mouth.

may have streaked meat, but it will be made too slowly for the profit of the owner.

31. The food should be given regularly.—This is one of the most essential points in feeding animals. If given irregularly, the animal indeed consumes his food, but he soon acquires a restless disposition, is disturbed at every appearance of his feeder, and is never in that quiet state so necessary to the taking on of fat. It is surprising how readily any animal acquires habits of regularity in feeding, and how soon the influence of this is felt in the improvement of his constitution. When at the regular hour the pig has had his pudding, or the sheep its turnips, they compose themselves to rest with the consciousness that their digestion is not to be unreasonably disturbed, or their quiet broken by unwonted invitation to eat.

All creatures fatten much faster in the dark than in the light—a fact only to be accounted for their greater quiet. Some of those creatures that are most irritable and impatient of restraint while feeding, such as turkeys and geese, are found to take fat on rapidly when confined in dark rooms and fed at stated hours by hand. There is no surer proof that a pig is doing well, than to see him eat his meal quickly and then retire to his bed, to sleep or cogitate until the hour of feeding returns.—Albany Cultivator.

Why is a gunsmith's shop like a chicken-pie?—Because they both contain fowl in pieces.

"I am an old fellow," says Cowper, in one of his letters, "but I had once my dancing days, as you have now; yet I could never find that I could learn half so much of a woman's character, by dancing with her, as by conversing with her at home, where I could observe her behaviour unobserved, at the table, at the fireside, and in all the trying circumstances of life. We are all good when we are pleased; but she is a good woman who wants no fidule to sweeten her."

A man boasting in a company of ladies that he had a very luxurious head of hair, a lady present remarked that it was altogether owing to the mellowness of the soil.

Good breeding is a guard upon the tongue; the misfortune is, that we put it on and off with our fine clothes and visiting faces, and do not wear it where it is most wanted—at home!

Why is a petty dealer like a man travelling through a narrow street? Ans. Because he is in a "small way."

"Ah," said a mischievous wag to a lady acquaintance of an aristocratic caste "I perceive you have been learning a trade." "Learning a trade," replied the lady, indignantly, "you are very much mistaken." "Oh, I thought by the look of your cheeks you had turned painter."

Gentlemen.—Whoever is open, loyal, and true; whoever is of humane and affable demeanour; whoever is honorable in himself, and in his judgment of others, and requires no law but his word to make him fulfil an engagement—such a man is a gentleman, and such a man may be found among the tillers of the ground.

He that will give himself to all manner of ways to get money may be rich; so he that lets fly all he knows or thinks, may by chance be satirically witty.—Honesty sometimes keeps a man from growing rich, and civility from being witty.—Selden.

is useful, and both interesting and useful, to know from year to year the actual produce of his farm. Let every thing, therefore, which can be measured and weighed, and let that which cannot be brought to an exact standard, be estimated as if he himself were about to sell or purchase it. Let him likewise, as nearly as possible, measure the ground which he plants, the quantity of seed which he uses, and the manures which he applies. The labor of doing this is nothing compared with the satisfaction of having done it, and the benefits which must arise from it. Conjecture, in these cases, is perfectly wild and uncertain, varying often with different individuals, and at a hundred per cent. Exactness enables a man to form conclusions, which may most essentially, and in innumerable ways, avail to his advantage. It is that alone which can give any value to his experience. It is that which will make his experience the sure basis of improvement; it will put it in his power to give sage counsel to his friends, and it is the only ground on which he can securely place confidence in himself.

Eggs and Poultry.

Among all nations, and throughout all grades of society, eggs have been a favourite food. But in our cities, and particularly in winter, they are sold at such prices that few families can afford to use them at all, and even those in easy circumstances consider them to be expensive for common use. There is no need of this. Every family, or nearly every family, can, with very lit-

Cure for Weak Eyes.—An elderly gentleman accustomed to “ indulge entered the room of a certain inn, where sat a grave Friend by the fire. Lifting a pair of green spectacles upon his forehead, rubbing his inflamed eyes, and calling for hot brandy and water, he complained to his friend that “his eyes were getting weaker and weaker, and that even spectacles didn't seem to do them any good.” “I'll tell thee, friend,” replied the Quaker, “what I think. If thee was to wear thy spectacles over thy mouth for a few months thy eyes would get round again.”

A Mystery Solved.—A Western Editor stated in his paper, that during several days a young female had been at his house, who had never given any account of herself, or spoken to any person; and was frequently seen to weep. The incident was extensively circulated, and while public curiosity was in a great degree of excitement, the mystery was solved by the acknowledgement, that although the above statement was virtually correct, the cause was a very natural one, and it was hoped that in course of time the young lady would clear up the mystery by addressing the author of the above by the endearing name of—
“Father!”

An oil dealer sold some winter oil that was warranted to stand the severest cold, but it froze stiff. The purchaser went to the vender with loud complaints. “I told you it would stand the coldest weather,” said he; “I didn't tell you it would run. You see that it stands perfectly still, and you can't make it budge.”

Somebody who has evidently been abroad a good deal, says, that “If an ass goes travelling he will not come home a horse.”

A Painter's Misery.—Hearing a person say, “Well, to be sure, if it wasn't for the face, I should think that was meant for Miss E—,” it being intended for that identical person.

Patience.—A virtue some people think every one wants but themselves.

to trouble, have eggs in plenty during the year; and of all the animals domesticated for the use of man, the common dunghill fowl is capable of yielding the greatest profit to the owner. In the month of November I put apart eleven hens and a cock, and gave them a small chamber in the wood house, defended from storms, with an opening to the south. Their food, water, and me were placed on shelves convenient for them, with nests and chalk nest eggs in plenty. These hens continued to lay eggs through the winter. From these eleven hens I received an average of six eggs daily during winter; and whenever any one of them was disposed to set, namely, as soon as she began to cluck, she was separated from the others by a grated partition, and her apartment darkened. These cluckers were well attended and well fed. They could see and partly associate through the grates with the other fowls, and as soon as any one of these prisoners began to sing, she was liberated, and would very soon lay eggs. It is a pleasant thing to feed and tend a bevy of laying hens. They may be trained so as to follow the children, and will lay in a box. Egg shells contain lime, and when in winter the earth is bound in frost, or covered with snow, if lime be not provided for them, they will not lay; or if they do the eggs of necessity must be without shells. Old rubbish lime, from chimneys and old buildings, is proper for them, and only needs to be broken. They will often attempt to swallow pieces of lime and plaster as large as walnuts. The singing hen will certainly lay eggs if she find all things agreeable to her; but the hen is so much a prude—as watchful as a Bad men have always the lowest opinion of women. They mark God's work through their own base selfishness, and impiously pronounce it not good.

WEATHER WISDOM.—"I have observed," said a wiseacre, "that, when the moon is turned upward, we have fine weather after it; but, if it is turned down, then we have a wet season; and the reason I think is, that when it is turned down, it holds no water, like a bason, you know, and then down it all comes."

Riches of Intellect.—To be perfectly free from the insults of fortune, we should arm ourselves with these reflections:—we should learn that none but intellectual possessions are what we can properly call our own—that all things from without are but borrowed—that what fortune gives us, is not ours—and whatever she gives, she can take away. Why is the assessor of taxes the best man in the world? Because he never underrates anybody.

A great woman not imperious, a fair woman not vain, a woman of common sense not jealous, an accomplished woman who scorns to shine—are four wonders just great enough to be divided among the four quarters of the globe.

There is a young miss who, when her parents refuse to allow her to attend a ball, will set to and have a bawl at home.

Manners and morals, not money or titles, or costly garments, make men gentlemen, and women ladies.

A lad who had borrowed a dictionary to read, returned it after he got through, with the remark, that "It was werry nice reading, bnt it somehow changed the subject werry often." It was his sister who thought the first ice-cream she tasted, was "a leetle touched with the frost."

Sharp Talk.—"Paul," said a stranger in Razer Row, "where is Hatchet Harbour?" "I cannot tell you" replied Paul; "but you may find it if you are at the Post Office."

weasel and fastidious as a hypocrite—she must, she will have secrecy and mystery about her nest. All eyes but her own must be averted. Follow or watch her, and she will forsake her nest and stop laying. She is best pleased with a box covered at the top, with an aperture for light, and a side door by which she can escape unseen. A farmer may keep 100 fowls in the barn; eggs than the cottager who keeps a dozen, provides secret nests, chalk nest eggs, pounded bricks, plenty of corn and other grain, water and gravel for them, and takes care that his hens be not disturbed about their nests. Three chalk eggs in a nest are better than one, and large eggs please them most. I have smiled to see them fondle round and lay in a nest of geese eggs.

Pullets will begin to lay early in life, when nests and eggs are plenty, and when others are chuckling around them. A dozen dung-hill fowls, shut up from other means of obtaining food, will require something more than a quart of corn a day. I think fifteen bushels a year a fair allowance for them, and after they have become habituated to find at all times, a plenty in their little manger, they take but a few kernels at a time, except just before going to roost, when they will take nearly a spoonful in their crops; but just so sure as their provisions come to them scantied or irregularly, so sure will they raven up a whole cropfull at a time, and stop laying. A dozen fowls well attended will furnish a family with more than two thousand eggs a year, and one hundred full grown chickens for the fall and winter stores. The expense of feeding a dozen fowls will not amount to more than eight bushels of grain. They may be kept in cities as well as in the country, and will do as well shut up the year round as to run at large. A grated room well lighted, ten feet by five, partitioned from a stable or outhouse, is sufficient for the dozen fowls, with their roosting, nests, and feeding troughs. In the spring of the year five or six hens will hatch at a time, and the fifty or sixty chickens may be given to one hen. Two hens will take care of one hundred chickens well enough until they begin to climb their little stick roots. They then should be separated from the hens entirely. I have often kept the chickens when young in my garden. They keep the May bugs and other insects from the vines. In case of confining fowls in summer, it should be remembered that a ground floor should be chosen; or it would be just as well to set in their pen boxes of well dried, pulverized earth, for them to wallow in during warm weather. Their pens should be kept clean.—Scot. Ref. Gaz.

SARSAPARILLA.

The most Celebrated MEDICINE of the Age.

1,500,000 Bottles Manufactured Yearly!

Warranted to keep for any length of time, in all Climates. And is a SOVEREIGN REMEDY for all diseases arising from an Impure State of the Blood.

The number of diseases as cured by this preparation of Sarsaparilla may seem large; but we are, nevertheless, prepared to prove, by an extensive array of certificates, that such is the fact. A fraction of the evidence we possess concerning such diseases, would be received before any Judicial Tribunal as complete demonstration. It must be remembered that all this frightful array of maladies, though appearing in an endless variety of forms, are yet similar in their origin and causes; for they all spring directly or indirectly from a corrupt fountain. If the blood were in a pure, healthy, and active state, it would drive all these complaints from the system, and chronic diseases would be impossible.

RECOMMENDATIONS, &c.

HALIFAX, AUGUST, 1850.

MR SAMUEL STORY, JUNR.

DEAR SIR,—As Agent for Dr. S P Townsend's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla, I would inform you that for nineteen years past I have been a great sufferer from severe rheumatism, attended with great prostration of body and mind, and at times so ill from pain and weakness as to be confined to my bed, unable to sleep, with loss of appetite, pains in my right side, and almost despairing of relief. After trying medicine of various kinds, and fomentations and rubbing with highly recommended mixtures, without success, I was induced, from what I had read of the virtue of your Sarsaparilla, to give it a trial, and to my astonishment, after using one bottle, I was relieved in a great measure; and having used five bottles in all, I can now say that my health is very much improved—the severe pain has subsided—my appetite has become good, and my sleep sound and refreshing. I would also say that it is a perfect remedy for the Piles. You may make any use of this which you please. I feel, for the sake of the afflicted, that I should make it known, in order that they may know where to find relief.

Yours, truly, SAMUEL THOMPSON.

Mr. Samuel Thompson having been many years in my employment, I have reason to know how he was afflicted, and that he is much relieved since using S P Townsend's Sarsaparilla.

W. M. HARRINGTON.

HOPE FOR THE AFFLICTED.

MR. S. STORY, JUNR.

Halifax, N. S., May 13.

Agent for S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla :

SIR :—Having been afflicted for the last twelve months with an affection on the lungs, which prevented me attending to my work as well as I could wish, during which time I was under three doctors' hands, and must say, I derived no benefit whatever, and began to despair of ever getting better, I was induced to try S P Townsend's Sarsaparilla, that you are Agent for, by seeing it advertised, and after using two bottles, found immediate relief, and am now able to attend to my work as usual. I sincerely believe it has been the means of restoring me. I have also been afflicted with the Piles for the last seven years, and when I began using your valuable Sarsaparilla, to my astonishment, I was cured.

CORNWALLIS, JUNE, 1850.

MR. S. STORY, JUNR, General Agent for S P Townsend's Sarsaparilla, for British Provinces.

DEAR SIR,—My wife has been declining in health for the last fifteen years, with weakness and general debility; but the last twelve months, she has been getting worse and worse, being under three doctors' hands, and taking various kinds of medicines, but found she was getting no better, being much troubled with palpitation of the heart, &c. Her frame became emaciated, and her appetite and strength failed, and she was considered as she undoubtedly was, in the last stage of consumption. I was informed kindly by one of her doctors, that he could do nothing more for her, and did not wish to put me to any more expense. As a last resort, I purchased a bottle of your valuable Sarsaparilla, from your agent in Kentville, Mr. B. Calkin, at the same time expecting it would be of no use. But I am free to confess that I was disappointed, my wife commenced using it, and before one bottle was exhausted, she experienced a decided relief. She has now used about 7 bottles, and her health and strength are restored, and appetite good, and rests well at night. I also recommend it to suffering mankind, as a valuable medicine. You are at liberty to publish this.

Respectfully yours, SAMUEL STARR.

New System of Loan for the term of Life, Established by the National Loan Fund Life Assurance Society of London. October, 1850.

This Society offers to the Public, in addition to the low scale of Premiums, the following further inducement to parties about to insure their lives, viz :—

Half the Premium for whole Life can be had as a Loan by endorsement of the sums upon the Policy ; and without the Society requiring the Policy as heretofore, and also without any further security being demanded.

Secondly,—At any time half the amount paid for premiums can be demanded from the Society, for the surrender of the Policy by the party Insured, thus giving it a known cash value.
