KINGDON MEMORIAL MATTER GOES OVER FOR A YEAR

Bishop Surprised That St. John Delegates Did Not Urge it More Strongly—Reception By Bishop and Mrs. Richardson

Friederickton, N. B., Nov. 4.—At the meeting of the Church of England Synod this afternoon Rev. G. A. Kuhring, after paying an eloquent tribute to the memory of the late Bishop Kingdon, moved the following resolution:

"This synod in session, conscious of the valuable and self-denying labors of the late Bishop Kingdon, deem that the time has come when a suitable memorial from the whole diocese be erected to his memory and the glory of God. That a committee be appointed to prepare a building to be known as the Bishop Kingdon Memorial House and to secure funds for payment of the cost of such building to be erected in the city of St. John, said committee to have full power to proceed with the erection of said building, when in their judgment sufficient funds have been received."

Speaking to the resolution Mr. Kuhring dealt eloquently upon the work of the late prelate, not only in the capacity of bishop but during the eleven years he served as coadjutor. He made special reference to the late bishop's great scholarly attainments and to the valuable contributions he had made to church literature. He strongly advocated the claim of St. John as the site of the proposed church house, pointing out that Friederickton, as the Cathedral City, was already provided for. He hoped the synod would give the matter its earnest consideration.

H. B. Schofield seconded the resolution and endorsed the previous speaker's remarks concerning the late bishop. Rev. E. B. Hooper presented a resolution on the subject adopted by the Church of England Institute. F. E. Neale, of Chatham, thought it well to carefully consider the financial phase before undertaking to carry out the project. He pointed out that funds were badly needed for other purposes, and while St. John was, no doubt, well able to contribute to the scheme liberally, the same could not be said of the county parishes. If St. John wanted the proposed building and were willing to pay for it they should have it, but the other parishes should not be called upon to contribute. He was opposed to undertaking any further work at present. He moved the following amendment:

"As this is a matter that should not be entered upon hurriedly the matter be referred to a committee to be appointed by the bishop and to report to the next synod."

This was seconded by J. T. Armstrong. Canon Neale approved of the principle of the resolution that a memorial be erected, but expressed sympathy with the amendment. He pointed out that funds were badly needed for other purposes, especially an increase of stipends of the clergy which were miserably low.

Archdeacon Forsythe had no desire to throw cold water on the proposal, but he was bound to say that he was in sympathy with the amendment and thought it should have the support of the meeting. Rev. Mr. Kuhring made an earnest appeal to the synod to pass the original resolution and Mr. Neale urged support for the amendment.

The bishop, in putting the question, expressed surprise that the St. John delegates had not come out more strongly in favor of the resolution. He remarked that St. John had subscribed $20,000 of the $12,000 raised for the Pan-Atlantic conference and he asked if St. John was not prepared to contribute in like proportion on this occasion. The amendment was then put and carried.

The report on church literature was read by Rev. Mr. Sampson and adopted. The usual standing committees for the year were appointed. The bishop appointed the following on the ordination committee: Clergy, Dean Schofield, Archdeacon Forsythe, Canon Smithers, Rev. B. A. Armstrong, R. P. McKim and A. W. Daniel; laity, H. B. Schofield, J. Roy Campbell, George Hazen, A. E. L. Raymond, F. W. Daniel and L. H. Bliss.

This evening the delegates attended a reception given by Bishop and Mrs. Richardson at their residence. Hanson's orchestra furnished music and the function passed off very pleasantly. Mrs. Schofield assisted in receiving the guests.

LOOK FOR BIG GRAIN BUSINESS THROUGH HERE THIS SEASON

In Boston They Think They are Profiting at Expense of Montreal—Portland's Hopes

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—Grain shipments from Boston during the past two weeks have been very heavy and the despatch from Montreal stating that that port was losing trade to this city is regarded as correct by men engaged in the grain traffic but the movement is not believed to be one which will extend to any other season than the present time of year or to a brief period in the spring when the insurance men feel obliged to increase rates on vessels engaged in the St. Lawrence trade because of the greater risks.

Grain shipments from the port of Boston this week will reach 393,000 bushels, the greatest total in two years. Last week the shipments were 324,193. Shipping men here regard the present state of trade as normal meaning by that that conditions for a long time have been abnormal. At one time as great a quantity as 1,000,000 bushels has been shipped from this port, the totals occasionally exceeded the amount of the shipments this week. The abnormal conditions of the past two years are attributed to the granting of better rates by the trunk lines to other seaports and therefore to the detriment of Boston. During the summer season Montreal gets the bulk of the grain trade from the Canadian Northwest and a large share of the wheat grown in the American west, due to the cheaper rates from Port William to Montreal. The grain is transported largely by water, by way of the great lakes, the canals and the St. Lawrence River, the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railroads entering half a dozen states in the American west.

J. W. McLachlan, the export manager of the White Star and Leyland lines at this port, who above the Montreal steamer line usually closed about Nov. 20 or Nov. 25, and that after Nov. 1 the underwriters advanced their rates because of the increased risk at this season of the year in the gulf and river. Should a steamer meet with a mishap during November she might find it difficult to get away from St. Lawrence waters before the ice formed. The government usually picks up the buoy in the river in November, thus adding a greater risk. In the spring-time there is also more danger, naturally than in the summer season. The lake traffic late in the fall is also a factor in diverting trade from Montreal. The reason that Boston received so much grain recently was largely due to the rush of vessels to Buffalo at the declining part of the season on the lakes.

As soon as the St. Lawrence river is closed to shipping the Canadian Pacific railroad will use St. John (N. B.), for most of its grain export traffic and the Grand Trunk system will divert most of its Montreal business to its Atlantic terminus, Portland.

Boston business men anticipate more or less activity in grain shipments here, but in view of the position held by the railroads they do not expect that grain shipments from this port will become abnormally heavy. The Canadian Pacific railroad has close relations with the New York, New Haven, Hartford and Boston & Maine systems and in time it is hoped part of the transcontinental line's grain traffic will be shipped by way of this port during the winter season, but no great business from this source is expected as long as the Canadian Pacific Atlantic line terminal facilities at St. John are able to handle the road's western trade. The insurance rates complained of by Montreal do not apply to either St. John or Portland and it is understood that those cities are receiving grain which would go to Montreal except for the high St. Lawrence insurance rates as well as Boston.

Portland, Me., Nov. 4.—John L. Torrance, local agent of the Dominion line when shown the despatch from Montreal tonight said that insurance rates always go up tremendously on the St. Lawrence after Nov. 1, and he was not aware that they are any higher than they have been in the past.

But one steamer has loaded grain from this port so far this fall, but some 700,000 bushels will be taken out in the next ten days.

Mr. Torrance said that the high insurance rates furnished perhaps one reason for the shipment of this grain from Portland, but it was not the only one.

Agent J. M. Bidde of the Grand Trunk said that the amount of grain to be shipped from Portland this month is a good showing, but not abnormal.

A BROADTAIL EVENING WRAP.

For garments for evening wear are quite different in cut from the more tailored styles intended for street use. This broadtail wrap is in the chasuble shape; that is, a scant cape, slashed up at the sides and with the shoulders elongated into loose sleeves. The wrap is lined, like most of the handsome fur evening garments this winter, with very rich broadtail satin in a pastel shade, and the big bust is also lined with this color. Narrow pleatings of black satin ribbon trim the collar and there is a broad tie of black satin.

that she sent her mother to solicit money from her lovers, and she insisted that her husband never profited by her own immoral life. Admitting that she had done wrong, in a tearful voice, she besought the jury to pardon her faults. She defended herself by saying that since she did not live with her husband as his wife she longed for sympathy and love.

When confronted with the inconsistency in her stories she justified them by saying that she lost her head when harassed by journalists and detectives, and had thus been led to believe that those whom she had accused were perhaps guilty.

The judge led the woman again and again over the story of the crime itself, and after suggesting that she had probably worked out a fantastic plot, in which she introduced red-headed men and a reclining woman, taken from books or adapted from some similar crime of which she had read in her youth, confronted her with the charge of having dyed her dress-gown after the murder, to get rid of tell-tale ink stains, and of having changed some of her stepmother's bedding. He also pointed out that the gag when taken from Mme. Steinheil's mouth was not moistened by saliva, and declared that therefore the gagging was a farce and the whole story trumped up.

Mrs. Steinheil indignantly denied these charges, and boldly declared that if the gag did not show saliva it was because the doctor examined the wrong gag. She asserted that she had no motive in dyeing her gowns.

On further examination before a magistrate, Lefevre said that his name is Rene Lefevre, asking that he be permitted to confess, and then he pointed to the man and said:

"This is Jean Lefevre." Mme. Steinheil gazed at him wearily and after he had made a rambling statement, in which he said that he had taken part in the murders of which Mme. Steinheil was charged, she could not identify him as one of the murderers who she had previously described.

A summary of the day's evidence shows that the judge failed to shake Mme. Steinheil's original version of the crime. She admitted intrigue, but heatedly denied

SECRETARY OF STATE GUEST AT BANQUET

Ottawa Citizens Honor Mr. Murphy—Bright Future for Canada Predicted

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Hon. Charles Murphy, secretary of state for Canada, was honored tonight by his townsmen of Ottawa, who gave him one of the most successful and enthusiastic banquets ever held at the capital. The banquet hall of the Russell House, the largest in Ottawa, was crowded to its capacity, almost 500 guests sitting down.

The banquet was of a non-partisan, or rather a bi-partisan character. It was presided over by Mayor Hopewell, who had Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Charles Murphy on either side. Others at the table were Hon. William Fielding, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Senator Costigan, Senator Edwards, Senator Belcourt, H. B. McGivern, M. P.; H. N. Bate, chairman of the Ottawa Improvement Commission; Thos. Birckett, former member for Ottawa (Conservative); Robert Stewart, ex-M. P. for Ottawa (Liberal); and many occupying leading places in the professional and commercial life of Ottawa.

The health of Hon. Mr. Murphy was proposed by Mayor Hopewell, who said that Mr. Murphy had gained and held a place of honor in the opinion of his fellow Canadians, and was proud of him. They knew him as a man who could be trusted to fill the duties of any position, however high, and to fill it with honor and distinction. They knew him as one who would be a Canadian first, last and always, and ever a worthy representative of Ottawa.

Hon. Mr. Murphy, in acknowledging the toast, predicted that Canada would take a great place in history. A recent trip through the west had broadened his sympathies, had given him a better opinion of his fellow-Canadians, and given him a firmer belief than ever before in the splendid destiny that the future has in store for Canada, with her prairies filled, her water powers harnessed, and her resources developed. Canada in a few years would be an industrial hive and the dominant partner in the British Empire.

In responding to a toast to parliament, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that there were two things upon which both parties on Parliament Hill were united before the naval debate, in which all had determined to do their duty as British citizens. Another of the nationalists to support the budget. Their support, however, could hardly have been expected, in view of the fact that they opposed the government on the second reading.

The abstention of the Nationalists is a declaration of war against the House of Lords when the struggle is carried into the country at the general election. Timothy Healy, Nationalist M. P. for the north division of Louth, tried ineffectually at yesterday's meeting to induce his party to vote against the budget, but he got only nine colleagues to support him. In announcing his party's decision to abstain, John E. Redmond, in a speech in the house later, emphatically declared that if it were to be a question of the Lords' power to block the country's legislation permanently he would not be on the side of the Lords but on the side of the Commons, and he would not allow himself to be cajoled from this attitude by reason of his opposition to increased taxation in Ireland.

At the meeting the Nationalists also resolved to call upon the government to reject the amendments made in the House of Lords to the Irish land bill. In connection with the idea that the Lords have decided to reject the budget, Mr. Aquith, in a brief speech closing the debate, said that it was incumbent upon those who objected to the government's taxes to provide some alternative scheme to meet the nation's necessities. Where was his scheme, he asked. Sooner or later Mr. Balfour must show his hand and it would have to be a hand that would suit the game of the nation's reformers.

The government, continued the premier, might well be content to rest themselves in patience. There were only two issues before the house—the taxes proposed by the budget, or tariff reform.

Division was then taken, and the announcement of the vote, showing the government's majority was larger than had been expected, was greeted with prolonged ministerial cheers. The Conservatives had counted upon a score of Liberal absences, but apparently only two Liberals joined the Nationalists in abstaining from voting.

The bill will be formally passed on its first reading in the House of Lords tomorrow.

CONTROL YOUR FAT

One can now take off and keep off extra fat at will. If you have an over-fat abdomen or double chin you can clear it away completely without a minute's bother, exercising or dieting. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time of the mixture: 12 oz. Marmola, 34 oz. E. P. Extract Cascara Aromatic and 1 1/2 oz. Peppermint Water—any druggist has these, and go on eating as usual. It pleases you, don't worry about results.

The double chin and protruding stomach will soon show signs of melting away. They will not sag or wrinkle however, just go down nice and smooth and even. That effect is due to the harnessing natural action of the mixture. This is explained as follows: blame over-fatness to the stomach. It is getting lazy. Instead of making energy and muscle from your food, it is manufacturing fat. The above mixture corrects this defect and hence it makes you stronger and healthier at the same time. It is taking off of you 12 to 16 ounces of useless fat a day. The reason it affects double chin, hips, etc., first is because the fat on them is softer and can not resist the remedy as long as that on the limbs. But eventually all the fat has to go if you keep up the treatment.

row. The debate on the second reading, which will determine its fate, will begin Nov. 22. The Liberal papers this morning are pleased that the budget has left the House of Commons backed by a solid majority representing the whole strength of the party, including the Labor members. The only matter of dissent is the refusal of the Nationalists to support the budget. Their support, however, could hardly have been expected, in view of the fact that they opposed the government on the second reading.

We Cannot Improve It

Taylor's Infants' Delight represents over forty-three years of constant effort along one line—the effort to make a perfect soap.

A liberal reward is waiting for any one who can tell us how to improve it in the slightest. We ourselves believe it to be perfect and can conceive of no way of improving it. The choicest oils from the Orient enter into its composition—olive oil from the first pressing of selected fruits—cocoanut oil, the best the market affords, and that refined with extra care—and with all this just sufficient otto of roses—that choicest perfume from the Sultan's Domain—to impart a delicate, wholesome fragrance to the skin. In

Infants' Delight Soap we have produced a soap so mild and soothing—so wonderfully cleansing and healing, that it is universally used in homes of wealth and refinement where the best is considered none too good for the toilet. We ask you to try at least one bar and know that we have not exaggerated its goodness.

ALWAYS UNFAIR

The St. John Standard is hopelessly unfair in all that relates to the minister of public works. On Thursday it printed a story about the steamer Premier, in which it was sought to convey the impression that Dr. Pugsley had grossly deceived the people when the steamer was launched; that he had somehow concealed the facts about her sale, and was paving the way to have her engaged as a dredge tender.

The attempt to make political capital out of a well-known business enterprise in which members of both political parties joined, but which was not successful, is a low-down partisanship. Yet the Standard returns to the subject today and tries to weaken the force of the Times' exposure by expressing disbelief in statements made by this paper. The Standard simply cannot be fair in any matter in which Dr. Pugsley is in any way concerned.

TRADE SCHOOLS

The Times had an interview a few days ago with a young man who was in search of work. He was under twenty years of age, had received a fair amount of education in the public schools, was sober and steady, but was in search of work. He had not learned a trade nor studied for a profession, and could only do the ordinary work of a day-laborer.

There are hundreds of young men in this city and thousands in this country who are in the same position. They have no trade or profession, and if they have not secured steady work, and do not practise wisdom and economy in their expenditure, their outlook in life is far from being bright—even in this land of opportunity.

ALONG ELECTRIC LINES

Norway boasts of the first electric smelting plant in the world to produce pig iron. It takes more than fifteen million miles of single wire for the people of this country to communicate with one another over the telephone and telegraph. Thirteen million miles of this wire are used for telephoning, and the total length of all the wire would circle the earth at the equator six hundred times.

owned. At the school is a complete railway equipment in miniature. Also there they have a school for training post office officials. Horological schools are numerous for the training of watchmakers. Winterthur, an iron-working centre, has a school for training men for iron manufacturing.

"Bavaria and Prussia were the German states visited. The famous trade school at Munich was a revelation. Dr. Kirschstein, the director, revolutionized the system of training mechanics in Munich, and was Dr. Seath's chief informant.

"In Germany they have trade schools for every trade," said the doctor, as he cited schools for tailors and chimney-sweeps. In most of the states of Germany they have a law by which the local board in charge of trade schools can compel manufacturers to send their apprentices to attend the trade schools from 6 to 10 hours per week. In Munich that law is enforced. Everyone must attend after the compulsory period a continuation school, in order to graduate. Elevator boys and servant girls attend these classes, the majority of which are held on Sundays.

"Berne's trade school was not popular, as the pupils competed with tradesmen and took contracts. At Aachen apprentices overfilled with orders turned some of them over to the textile trade schools to be filled. Night trade schools were more popular than day schools.

His fellow citizens in Ottawa last evening gave notable expression to their esteem for and confidence in the Hon. Charles Murphy, whose recent visit to St. John won for him many warm friends here.

In view of the terrible results of the wrecked steamer Hestia, and the deliberate attempt to make political capital out of the affair, a public enquiry should be held at once, and that is doubtless the intention of the marine department.

The Ottawa Citizen (Conservative) says—"The present Liberal government has amply supplemented the promise of its distinguished leader to make Ottawa a city beautiful. To Hon. Mr. Pugsley and Mr. McGivern also the Capital owes its sincere thanks. The minister of public works has evinced a deep interest in the development of Ottawa—an interest second only to that of our esteemed fellow citizen, Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

BUGHT WESTERN CATTLE (Sackville Tribune)

W. B. Fawcett returned a day or so ago from the Canadian west where he spent the past few months. Mr. Fawcett brought back from Manitoba two carloads of fine cattle, some sixty in all. The animals were bought by Mr. Fawcett for himself and his brother, A. Chase Fawcett, Upper Sackville. The cattle are for the most part two-year olds. They are all well bred stock and are expected to prove of fine class value. They have already attracted quite a bit of attention from farmers who are desirous of seeing how western stock compares with that raised in the maritime provinces.

POOR MR. HENPECK

There is a little nub of a man over on the west side who jumps through doughnuts when his wife is around. She is a large person with definite opinion about any given thing, and she can give him one look and write him up like dried beef.

Not long ago this man and his wife were invited out to dinner. She went early in the afternoon, and he was to go home from the office, change his clothes, and get around to the scene of the dinner festivities as soon as he could.

When he started to dress he ran across a large pasteboard box in a clothes closet containing a black sack suit that he hadn't seen for months, and which his wife had told him was lost or stolen. He decided to surprise and delight her by wearing that suit and showing her that the lost suit was found.

Well, here's what happened, according to eye witnesses, and this is one of those true ones. His wife gave him a cold storage look, and inquired right sharply where he got that suit. He told her.

"And after this," says she, raising her voice to its height, "don't you wear clothes that have been put away without asking me. I was saving that black suit for your funeral."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ROMAN JUSTICE

How Technicalities Were Avoided in the Courts

The bar was an open profession in ancient Rome; the litigant enjoyed the utmost latitude in the choice of an advocate, whose right to represent his client in court was fully conceded. Slavish imitations of the Greeks in literature and art, the Romans asserted the entire independence in the domain of law. Their innovations had the stamp of originality; but these did not comprise any close connection between bar and bench. It is noteworthy that during a very long period in the history of Roman law there was no exact counterpart of our judge. The magistratus was a public official charged with the administration of the law; the judge was a species of referee appointed by the magistrate to hear and report upon a particular case. Then there was an arbiter, who acted alone, or with others, in arbitration cases (arbitra). Finally, there were recaptors who assisted in the international questions.

The hearing before these various types of judge was called the iudicium, as distinguished from the ius, the hearing before the magistrates properly so called. The names of citizens qualified for serving as judges were inscribed in a public book known as the album. Moreover, litigants had the right of objection to a particular judge. Not only so, but this right was extended during many centuries to criminals, who were tried before centumvirs and decemvirs, sitting on the permanent tribunals. If the Roman Bill of Rights never thought of putting forward the demand of the English congener that "we all ought to have a voice in making the laws as we suffer by," yet we may be well assured that he would not fail to take a sporting chance, make a prime favorite of the judge who most reversed on appeal, and strenuously object to the others.

The point which calls for our special attention is that none of the men who discharged the various judicial or semi-judicial functions described were drawn, except in most exceptional cases, from the advocate class. Nor is it possible to conceive any arrangement better calculated than that in force in Rome to exclude their narrow, professional technicality from the settlement of civil cases. The presiding magistrates of the great criminal tribunals were seldom or never men who practised at the bar. Even in later times, when the distinction between jus and iudicium had disappeared, and the functions of magistrates and judge were merged in one official, there is no evidence that the bench was recruited from the bar more frequently than before.—Westminster Review.

TEACHING CHINESE WORK FOR MEN ONLY

Missionaries from China Explain Real Dancer in Individual Instruction by Young Girls

(Toronto Telegram)

Some new light upon the problem of teaching Chinese in Sunday schools is contained in a letter to the Globe by Omar E. Kilborn, R. Gifford Kilborn, Mrs. G. E. Hartwell, W. J. Mortimer and E. W. Morgan, missionaries in China, who are now home on furlough. They have acquired much first-hand knowledge of the Chinaman, and their letter bears some important information on the subject of individual instruction by young ladies.

"Because of the prominence into which the teaching of the individual Chinese by young ladies has been brought, we the undersigned being aware that the majority of Canadians are unfamiliar with Chinese customs, are moved to express, through your excellent paper, our profound convictions on this vital question. That it is not a Canadian custom goes without saying. For while classes of boys and even young men have had, and frequently now have, young women as teachers, yet who would think it becoming for each young man to be taught separately by a young lady? But some have as much as said that they presume this practice was in accordance with Chinese custom. How utterly erroneous this supposition is those who have labored in China know all too well.

"In most districts the young girl of over thirteen or fourteen is rarely allowed to appear in the streets or any public place frequented by men. In some places old etiquette is breaking down; but, speaking for our own field in West China, we can say that in our oldest church a partition still divides the men from the women, and in our second oldest church the partition, though removed for a time, was at the request of our Chinese Christian men and women, replaced so as to shield our schoolgirls from the offensive gaze of a crowd of students who came over from a large Government school near by. How flagrant a violation of Chinese good taste it is, then, for a young lady to teach a young man can readily be guessed.

"We would like to think that only pure motives inspire the Chinese to request that young ladies be appointed as their teachers, but when it has again and again been found that almost all these Chinese request to come if they are given men teachers, we find it impossible to avoid suspecting their motive, especially in the light of the fact that they must be all too conscious how their request—demand we might almost say—would be viewed by their own fellow-countrymen. As for the young ladies who have acted as teachers, we certainly believe that the work of many, if not all, has been marked by the true missionary spirit—a burning desire to save those young men who have come to our shores; but even sincerity and consecration, if directed along unwise and imprudent lines, far from advancing, may all too surely injure the interests of that Kingdom which we daily pray may be established upon this earth. That an earnest and persistent attempt should be made to lead these Chinese to Christ we sincerely believe. But what of the great army of Christian young men in our churches, young people's societies, Sunday schools? Will they not volunteer? And if the success appears smaller will it not be sure?"

LEAVES MINISTRY, WILL RUN THE FARM

Brother of Mrs. Robinson to Aid Family—Resignation is Accepted

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—The Ottawa Presbytery has accepted the resignation of Rev. Peter Matheson, of Richmond, Ont., with considerable regret. The pastor is now running the farm of his brother-in-law, Jas. Robinson, of Warren, Ont., where the terrible crimes so recently exposed were committed. He also attended Robinson on his return to that farm and handed him over to the authorities.

His resignation was before the Presbytery at last meeting, but he was asked to reconsider it and to take a long, thorough. Rev. Mr. Matheson, however, decided to assist the unfortunate family on the farm, and insisted on resigning.

CANADIAN MOOSE FOR NEW ZEALAND

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 5.—It is expected that the Canadian-Australian liner Marquis will have on her approaching sailing for Antipodean ports a unique consignment for New Zealand in the form of a herd of Canadian moose. These are now at Vancouver.

Early last Spring Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand, wrote to the Hon. A. Forster, Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan, saying that the government was anxious to experiment with some of the big game of the Canadian Northwest. Mr. Forster turned over the correspondence to Howard Douglas, of Banff, commissioner of Dominion Parks, but as the season was then fast advanced nothing was done last year. Early this spring, however, Mr. Douglas gave an order to a trapper and hunter of the Beaver Hills to secure twenty young animals, with the result that seventeen baby moose have already been sent here.

The young moose are thriving well in their partial captivity, and will be in good condition to stand their long sea voyage all New Zealand's deer, it may be mentioned, have thus been introduced, none of the present big game of that dominion being indigenous. A herd of this present herd out of the country was readily granted by the Saskatchewan and Alberta governments.

GEORGIA BAY CANAL

Hon. Chas. Murphy's Speech Before Reform Club in Montreal

Hon. Charles Murphy, secretary of state, addressing the reform club in Montreal on Saturday evening, said that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had stated that the Georgian Bay Canal would be postponed on account of a falling revenue, but the revenue was now on the upward trend, and the great work will be started sooner than was expected. He predicted that Canada, through the canal and the St. Lawrence would have absolute control of the grain trade of the continent, and the power generated along the route would pay the interest on the cost of the work, which is estimated at $100,000,000.

As for the Hudson Bay Railway, that would be started as soon as the Hudson Bay port was decided upon. He could not say who would build the road, but one thing was certain, the terminals would be held by the government and thus secure to the people the full benefit of cheap transportation.

While not speaking for the government, he felt that every vessel for naval defence should be built and, if possible, manned by Canadians. Two classes, he said, were opposed to this idea, which R. L. Borden and the opposition had endorsed, and the opposition had endorsed, and consequently he would treat it in a non-partisan manner. The first class claimed that the building of ships here would engender graft, while the second claimed that we would be unable to do the work.

The secretary of state reminded his hearers that it was the Halifax and Quebec Navigation Company which, as far back as 1838, had built the Royal William, the first vessel that had crossed the Atlantic under her own steam, and this company comprised the three Canards, one of whom, Samuel Cunard, had founded the great Cunard line. Mr. Murphy did not believe that the energy and ability of these men had died with them, but that it had been handed down to successive generations to work out this problem for Canada.

THE HESTIA INQUIRY

(Montreal Herald.)

The Ottawa correspondent of the Herald interviewed the deputy minister of marine this morning in regard to the criticism made by Third Officer Stewart of the wrecked steamer Hestia concerning the alleged improper safeguarding of the Proprietor Lodge and the neglect of duty by a lighthouse keeper stationed near there, who might have averted the Hestia disaster. The protest of the Hestia's officers was printed exclusively in yesterday's Herald.

The deputy minister states that a full and thorough investigation has been ordered into all the circumstances surrounding the wreck of the Hestia and that the charges made by Officer Stewart will be thoroughly gone into.

Until that investigation is completed the department will withhold action in the matter.

SMALLPOX TIES HANDS

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—(Special)—Smallpox has interfered with the plan of the marine department to strengthen one of the guide lights at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy. It was announced that about November 1 the power of the light at Cape St. Mary's was to be increased and the white and red light changed to a white. The light is on the Nova Scotia side of the Bay of Fundy, between Westport and Briar Island. An outbreak of smallpox on the island has made it impossible to get men to change the light so the old one will stand until further notice.

Because Special Detective Tim Donohue of the customs service in New York has a pretty good eye for the human form, he was able to detect two smugglers who were trying to bring $5,000 worth of jewelry in without paying duty.

Donohue saw a tall thin man get off the Cincinnati of the Hamburg-American line, when that boat docked at Hoboken recently. That is the man looked pretty thin. His face was pale and pinched and his legs were long and lean.

HESTIA INQUIRY

Capt. Lugar Private Questioning Survivors in Preliminary Investigation

A private preliminary inquiry into the conditions surrounding the wreck of the steamer Hestia is being held today in the room of the examiner of masters and mates in the customs house. Captain Lugar, wreck master of Halifax, is conducting the inquiry for the marine department. The only witnesses to be examined are the survivors of the disaster.

Capt. Lugar said this afternoon that the inquiry was entirely on a preliminary nature. The men are not put upon oath, but simply questioned about what they knew of the wreck. Their statements will be forwarded to Ottawa and if it is deemed advisable a public investigation will be held at a later date.

The men giving evidence are: Third Officer Stewart, Second Engineer Morgan and Seaman Mackenzie, Breen, Smith and McVicker. Captain Logan of the London Salvage Association and Capt. Gillies, marine superintendent of the Donaldson line may also be heard. It is probable that the hearing will be concluded this evening.

TEARS BUTTONS OFF POLICEMAN'S UNIFORM

Joseph Cahill Given Double Sentence in Police Court This Morning

In the police court before Judge Ritchie this morning Joseph Cahill was fined $4, Matthew McLeod $8, and Emma Lester a like amount, all on charges of drunkenness.

Joseph Cahill, besides answering to a charge of drunkenness, also faced one of resisting the police. He pleaded guilty to the first but denied all knowledge of resistance.

Policeman Hamm, who made the arrest, said that about 12 o'clock last night he heard a noise in Sheriff street, and on investigating found a woman and a man standing near the corner and on his coming nearer the man fled into an alley. The two were talking loudly, and were joined by another man, who, on seeing the policeman, also made away. Policeman Hamm said he located Cahill in Main street in a drunken condition, and advised him, if he had a home to go to, he had better go there at once. Cahill replied that he didn't want to go home, and as he continued to resist the policeman the policeman placed him under arrest. As he was being taken to jail the prisoner squirmed and kicked with considerable violence, tearing the buttons from his captor's coat and manifesting plainly his desire not to accompany the guardian of the law. Hamm described Cahill as being one of the worst toughs in Sheriff street, and said he was responsible for half the mischief done in that locality.

Cahill was fined $8 for drunkenness and $10 or two months on the charge of resistance.

BOYS IN COURT

The Breaking of the Opera House Window--Judge Gives Advice

In the police court this morning before Judge Ritchie, Frank Sheehan, aged 14 and Earl Penn, 16, were reported for loitering in the lobby of the Opera House and charged with breaking a large window in the hallway. Young Penny told his honor that he worked in the Hygienic bakery. He went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning. On the night he was reported, he was in the Opera House waiting for a companion.

Manager Anderson said that Sheehan had not broken the window but Penny had and lied about it. Sheehan was placed on the stand and told what he knew of the matter. On the night in question a number of boys were with him in the corridor. He heard a crash of breaking glass and saw the boys entering. The glass broken was on the main stairway.

Mr. Anderson said that on the evening of the 29th he saw these two boys and another, named Bridges in the hallway of the house. He saw Penny run down the stairs but did not see any one with him as was told by Sheehan. Young Penny said that there was another boy with him and that he went out of the house a few minutes before Mr. Anderson arrived on the scene. The boy's name was Charlie Howard and he lived in Rockland Road. He blamed this boy for breaking the window.

His honor severely reprimanded the young fellows saying that they should have been in bed instead of roaming about. He also told them of the serious consequences of the life they were apt to fall into by becoming mixed up with bad companions, whom they would find in the streets late at night.

The case was dismissed.
