MAIL ORDERS

We solicit out of town orders, which receive our personal attention. The length of time taking to fill orders is governed very largely by how busy we are in the department of our factory, by which the material goods are made. While we have excellent facilities for promptly filling orders it is important to place orders as far ahead as possible. Orders are filled to us in the rotation in which they are received,
 and customers can always depend on our doing everything in reason to give prompt despatch.

There is now no Doubt Whatever of the increasing popularity of the English Styles.

 They're gaining fresh foothold
 every day.

No greater evidence
 can be advanced than
 the present demand
 from the followers of correct dress for neat-
 er fitting garments.
 The word English applied to clothes usually conveys the skin tight impression of a fit so close that it almost convinces one that the man must have been poured into molten form.

What English really means is a closer adherence to the correct measurements of one's figure so as to give a fit that conforms to one's shape and is at once smart and stylish.

Our best illustration to you would be an "Art Suit," tailored to your particular measurements. "Art Clothes" on a suit stands for the best that money can buy.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN I.C.R. COLLISION

Two Freight Trains Collide
 Head-on Near Antac—
 Bodies Burned

Moncton, Sept. 24.—Four engineers killed, two residents of Moncton, and two brakemen injured, at least a damage of $40,000 to the I.C.R.; the fire between Moncton and Halifax tied up for hours, which necessitated the transportation of passengers, mails and baggage from one side of the wreck to the other,
 were the sad results of one of the worst wrecks ever known to have taken place on the I.C.R., in which two trains, each travelling at about fifteen miles an hour, came together in a head-on collision yesterday afternoon at a point known in the I.C.R. time table as Siddle's Cut, about one mile east of Antac, or about six miles east of Sackville.

The dead:
 Enoch Rushton, driver on No. 231, Dufferin street, Moncton.
 Byron Colpitts, fireman on No. 231, Moncton.

Frank Lyons, driver on No. 234, Truro.
 Hingley, fireman on No. 234, Stewiacke.

The injured:
 R. H. Sharpe, forward brakeman on No.
 231, Moncton.

Banks, forward brakeman on No. 234, Truro.

The collision occurred on a curve, and it is estimated that about twenty cars, containing articles of every description, telegraph, spools of them piling up on top of one another, while others were broken to splinters, and one to view the wreck would think that the box cars were made of some paper or some other weak material which would not stand such a force.

The strongly built cars, some fortified with steel, nevertheless broke in fragments, which gave one an idea of the force of the collision. The wreck happened about half past four. Number 231, known as the "Way freight," is in charge of Conductor George Armstrong, of Moncton, with Driver Enoch Rushton, were bringing their train to Moncton, running, it is said, about two hours late. The other train in the wreck is known as No. 234, a "special," although it runs on schedule, was in charge of Conductor John D. McDonald, of Truro, known among railway men as "Foxy Jack."

He had a "special" like the "special," was running behind time.
 The accident occurred on the sharp curve at Siddle's Cut, and both engines were only a short distance apart when, it is believed, the two drivers saw the approaching train. At any rate, it was too late to avert an accident, as from the position of the badly mutilated machinery on the inside of both engines, it was thought by all those who inspected it, that both drivers had applied the emergency brakes.

The four men killed, namely, Drivers
 Enoch Rushton and Frank Lyons, and Firemen Byron Colpitts and Hingley, were instantly killed.

Shortly after the collision occurred, a fire started and the bodies of these four men were burned beyond recognition. At an early hour this morning the body of Lyons, the engineer, had not been taken out of the wreck, although it was discovered after the fire had been extinguished. From the position of the body, it is believed that he made an unsuccessful attempt to jump or crawl out of the cab before the collision, to safety. The man was caught about the middle of the body between the tender and the cab of his engine, while other pieces of machinery in flying about, no doubt, helped to kill him instantly. Coupled with this the boiler exploded and he was found terribly scalded. When he was found by rescuers, who had to cut a large hole in the wreckage to reach him, his head and shoulders were dangling out of the side of the engine. It is believed that the man is Driver Lyons, although he was not positively identified, and it might be Fireman Hingley.

After the two injured men had been attended to, Dr. Calkin, the coroner, empaneled a jury, who after viewing the bodies, adjourned until today. A large number of witnesses have to be summoned, and it is expected that the inquest will be a long drawn out affair.

The two forward brakemen on each train were riding in the engines with their respective drivers, and how they escaped death along with the other occupants of the two engines, is nothing short of a miracle. At it was brakeman Robert H. Sharpe, of Moncton, was very badly injured, being cut about the face and body badly. He was also badly bruised and was picked up in a critical condition and taken to the "Amherst" hospital.

At an early hour this morning he was resting as well as could be expected. He will recover.

Banks, the other brakeman, who was in the cab of Driver Lyons' train, was also badly injured, but it is thought that he will recover.
 He received many bad cuts and bruises which proved to be very painful. He was resting easy at an early hour this morning.

The cause of the head-on collision was due to Conductor George Armstrong of No. 231 train, and Driver Enoch Rushton of the same train mistaking their cars with No. 234.
 According to the time card, the regular crew of these two trains is at Amherst, but both the conductor and engineer thought they were to cross at Sackville, and they were enroute to that point when the collision occurred. Both of these trains, only being put on recently by the I.C.R. officials.

TRAGIC DEATH OF VISITING DOCTOR

Caribou Physician Choked
 With Particle of Food in His Throat

Dr. S. P. LaFleche of Caribou, Me., who was visiting here a few days last week, met with a tragic death on Friday evening. The deceased gentleman who arrived here on Thursday was a guest at Hotel St. Louis, and on Friday evening entered the dining room in good health to partake of supper. During the progress of the meal the waitress attending on the doctor noticed that he seemed distressed, and she hastily summoned the professor, Mr. Boudreau, saying that one of the diners was sick. Mr. Boudreau assisted the doctor from the dining room not knowing the nature of the illness and just as they reached the kitchen door the unfortunate gentleman collapsed in his host's arms.

Medical aid was immediately summoned, and Dr. Martin and Price responded, but before they arrived the unfortunate man was dead.

Dr. Martin the Coroner, held an inquest in the evening, and by the medical evidence given it was shown that a piece of potatoe had lodged in the throat, causing death by choking.

The body was taken to his late home on Saturday morning via the International Railway, Mr. D. F. Graham accompanying the remains.

The tragic ending caused great consternation among the guests in the St. Louis, the hotel being well filled, none of the guests being aware of the nature of the illness, and therefore unable to assist. What made the occurrence all the more sorrowful was the fact that there was a medical gentleman in the dining room at the time, unaware of anything out of the ordinary happening.

The S.S. Gagetown is loading pulp here by the Dalhousie Lumber Co. She is expected to make a few more trips this season.

Word received from the Gaspe Coast goes to show that the fishing in the gulf has completely failed this season. It is a disaster for that part of Gaspe county. In the Bay de Chaleur fishing was better and in that section
 the country is developing with great rapidity.

At Pabos in particular, the progress is extraordinary and the St. Lawrence Pulp Company is contributing considerable for this development. In the near future Pabos will be an important town.

Dr. Lemieux, M. L. A. for Gaspe county, has been holding public meetings during the month of September to render an account of his conduct in Parliament. He has already spoken at Cape Chatte, St. Anne, Marsouin, Mount Louis, La Madeleine, Clorydome,
 Petite Vallee, Anse-Aux-Griffons, Anse a Louise. Everywhere the electors appreciate the great work done by their local representative, who did not fear travelling hundreds of miles to meet his constituents.

It is reported here on good authority that the Sydney Lumber Co. will begin the erection of a new saw mill combined with a saw factory in a few days. This mill will replace the one destroyed by fire in the early part of the summer. This is very encouraging news to the working men of Dalhousie and to the business community.

TO LET

Lower part of new house, several room and shed attached. Suitable for druggie, millinery, dressmaker or both combined, can be arranged to suit any line of business. Best location in commercial part of town. Apply

HORSE RACING AT NEW RICHMOND

Mr. W. H. Gray's Nellie be Sure Popular Winner in The 2.30 Class

Interesting racing was seen at New Richmond track on Wednesday, the various events being enjoyed by a fair turnout of spectators.
 Campbellton sportsmen were out in force and had the pleasure of seeing Mr. W. H. Gray's mare, Nellie be Sure winning the 2.30 in dashing style, her competitors being locally owned pacers.

The morning was dull and threatening and the course was in good condition but latterly got rather heavy with the afternoon's rain.
 The going of Mr. Gray's mare was greatly admired, the animal being classed as a wonder and Curtis felt as much pleased by driving her as well as the winner of the 3 minute class.

REPRESENTATIVE OF ORGANIZATION

Miss Ella Sykes Touring Canada in Interest of Important Work

Miss Ella Sykes, a representative of the Colonial Intelligence League for educated women, a British organization having as its aim the provision of home and occupations in the colonies for the million and a half of women in England, who are unemployed and represent a surplus population, is at the Royal Hotel, The League was instituted by the Hon. Mrs. Norman Grosvenor in London, and already much good work has been done. Money to carry out the aims of the League is provided by private subscriptions and upwards of $6,000 was recently realized at a bazaar held in Grosvenor House. So far the association has brought to Canada over 160 women and in some cases has advanced half the cost of transportation. In these cases the women have lost no time in repaying the loan, and so far not a cent has been lost by the League. The League proposes to establish a farm settlement at Verdon, B. C., where the women may become familiar with mixed farming. A hotel has been erected and is soon to be opened for their accommodation. The place is to be known as the Princess Patricia Ranch.

Miss Sykes has been touring the Dominion looking up the women who have been brought out by the League, and she reports they are practically without exception doing well. Many are nurses, some are school teachers, and one has a business as broker and insurance agent. Miss Sykes is the bearer of letters of introduction to President of the Women's Canadian Club and the Daughters of the Empire and other organizations. It is her intention to arrange a meeting of women here, if possible, to explain and develop an interest in the aims of the League.

Among the ladies active in the work of the organization are Lady Sybil Grey, daughter of Earl Grey, and the Lady Wendolen Guinness, both of whom are members of the executive committee. — St. John Globe.

NO ALUM WILL MAKE FUEL OF MILL WASTE

Converting Nuisance Into Profitable Product by a New Process

SAYS REPORT IS LIBEL ON PROVINCE

St. John Times.—A prominent potato shipper of this city said this morning, when asked concerning the report from Toronto that many barrels of potatoes exported from this city had been found to have rotted in the Upper Canadian market, did not place much belief in the statement. "We have already stored many barrels in our warehouse," he said, "and have yet to find any evidence of rot. Look at these," and here he showed the reporter a specimen of the New Brunswick potato, which certainly did not appear to be in otherwise than a healthy state. "Those are pretty much the same as are being shipped from other points in the province, because we are receiving them from all sections, including Carleton county and the North Shore. It is possible that a rot may have set in during the transportation, but that is no reflection upon the New Brunswick potato, which certainly did not appear to be in otherwise than a healthy state. "Those are pretty much the same as are being shipped from other points in the province, because we are receiving them from all sections, including Carleton county and the North Shore. It is possible that a rot may have set in during the transportation, but that is no reflection upon the New Brunswick potato, which certainly did not appear to be in otherwise than a healthy state."

The problem of disposing of the waste product of a lumber mill is one which has been considered for years by mill men. At present such material is disposed of by burning. Recently the city council considered complaints from residents in the mill district against the nuisance occasioned by the particles of half burned sawdust being distributed over that section from the mill burners, but local mill men pointed out that, despite the introduction of the latest type of burners, this nuisance could not be wholly obviated. At that time J. O. Cameron, of the Cameron Lumber Company, informed the council that his firm was about to experiment with a system of fuel manufacture by which it was hoped the waste material could be utilized as a fuel product, and the installation of the plant now ordered is the outcome of these experiments.

PRESENTATION OF AN ADDRESS

Rev. Fr. Murdoch Surprised by Congregation Last Sunday

A surprise awaited Father Murdoch, being presented with an address and a present by the congregation on the eve of his departure for his new field of labor, being the new parish of Eel River and Dundee, to which parish he has been lately transferred. The people expressed their feeling of regret at losing him as their parish priest, and in connection with the address they solicited his acceptance of a purse enclosing a money present as a token of their appreciation during the time he had charge of the parish.

Father Murdoch who was taken completely by surprise, was very much moved and very feelingly replied, thanking the congregation and bestowing his blessing on its members whose kindness during his stay among them he would always recall with affection.

The members of the Eel River and Dundee congregation are to be congratulated on being served by a priest of the ability of Father Murdoch who will always be anxious to serve the spiritual wants of his people in such a way as in his judgment will best advance the kingdom of Christ.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors offered a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. SOMETHING IN IT

There are deep mutterings heard those days among the legitimate insurance brokers anent the trespass into their rightful field by men who although holding positions at which they earn their weekly wage, make a little on the side by selling insurance. And there is something in it too. An insurance agent whose business it is to sell insurance should not be kept from his business by other men who are employed in other walks of life and who are able to pick up a little insurance now and then to add to their already large or small salary. If a man is employed in any concern he ought to bend all his energies and give his whole thought to the position he holds, and leave the matter of interviewing prospects and selling insurance to the man whose legitimate business it is. That is only a square deal.

THEIR RIGHT PLACE

There's a place for everything and everything has a place, but to the many of the residents of this town, this old adage does not appeal as it used to do. Hens are indeed a blessing to the family desiring that most maligned article a fresh egg. And many of our people are of the opinion that the proper place for hens is in an enclosed back yard, not on the front lawn holding a scratching party. There is no objection to any one keeping as many hens as they like but keep them locked up where they will do no damage to a neighbour's struggling flower bed.

STUMP BLASTING DEMONSTRATION

Interesting Experiments With New Blasting Powder at Alexander Farm

On Monday afternoon a series of experiments with a new blasting powder was carried out at Jas. Alexander's farm. A number of interested spectators watched the stump clearing, which was done by Mr. E. H. Morrison, a demonstrator for the Canadian Explosives Co., Halifax. In all, seven stumps and one large boulder were taken out of the ground, the work of the powder being very satisfactory. This new blasting powder, which is as powerful as dynamite, but slower in action, and less liable to explosion in handling, is done up in waterproof sticks. Three or four of these sticks are placed well under the root of the stump and a short fuse attached. The charge is exploded by a dynamite cap attached to the fuse, and the stumps are lifted clear from the ground free from all earth. On Monday one of the charges lifted a large cedar stump clean out of the ground leaving the wood clear and ready for sawing for firewood. The boulder which had a charge of four and a half sticks, was blown clear out of the ground unbroken and rolled back to the cavity made by the blast.

To show the power of the explosive a few sticks of the powder were placed on the top of rock and covered with mud. The fuse was lit, and with a deafening report, the boulder was sent into fragments. The cost of this new explosive is very low, taking it by ounce it will work out about eight cents per stick, and the average cost for blasting any ordinary stump would run about 35 cents. The demonstration was much appreciated by those present, and the new explosive will be found to be a very cheap method for clearing of stumps or boulders on farm lands.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT PETITCODIAC

Six large Buildings Destroyed With Loss Well Covered by Insurance

A most disastrous fire visited the village of Petitcodiac, Monday evening, shortly before 10 o'clock, and a part of the business section of this town is in ruins. The loss through the disastrous conflagration is estimated to be in the vicinity of $20,000, and perhaps more. The fire was without doubt the worst ever experienced in this village, and it was also very spectacular. Reflections on the sky could be seen for miles away, it being noticed by people on the Salisbury Road just a mile or so out of Moncton. The fire started in a stable at the rear of the Mansard House, which was on Saturday purchased by Mr. Freeze Taylor, of Moncton, a former I.C.R. employee, who was continuing keeping business there as a livery stable. When the fire was discovered, the building was a mass of flames, and before the alarm was rung in by the ringing of the church bells, the stable was a seething mass of flames. By the time that the small and inadequate fire-fighting apparatus of the village was rushed to the scene and a small stream of water played on the building, the fire had spread to the house of Mr. E. R. Lockhart, situated just a few feet distant. The fire swept everything in its path, and by the time that it was announced about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning—that the fire was completely under control it was seen that seven buildings were destroyed, including five business establishments, the homes of six families destroyed, who were forced to take shelter on the street. Quite a quantity of goods were removed from the destroyed buildings and piled on the street, but this was more or less damaged by fire and water and the rough handling it received, so that it is a practical loss. The buildings destroyed and their individual losses follow: Dr. McDonald, Dorchester, residence $2,000; Ur King, occupant, $1,000. Jones building, dealer in hides, etc., $300. Thadde Drysdale, harness shop, $2,000. W. M. Bickerton, merchant tailor, $1,000. Parkinson's gent's furnishings store, $1,000 on building, and at least $2,000 on stock. Robert Wilnot, who resided upstairs in the Parkinson building, $1,000. Parker's new livery stable, $1,000. (No horses lost.) Mrs. Pollock's millinery parlors, $2,000 on building and $1,500 on stock. She resided upstairs, and her loss in house furnishings is $800. E. R. Lockhart, residence, $2,500; $800 on furniture. Mansion Hotel, $300. Freeze Taylor, of Moncton, about $500. The loss to Jacob Jones' residence is about $200, and there were also a number of other small losses which could not be ascertained at the time of writing.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT SHIVES ATHOL

Warry Blanchard Succumbs to Injury

Warry Blanchard, a young boy of 12 years, met with a fatal accident at Athol saw mill today. He got caught in a moving chain. He was very badly cut up, the abdomen being ripped open. He was attended to by Dr. Martin, who ordered his removal to the hospital. The doctors operated on him there but held out little hopes for success, and the little fellow died within two hours of the accident.

ROYAL DEAF MUTE

Manchester, Eng., Sept. 22.—Relatives of the Queen of Spain have been shocked by the news that the second daughter of the queen will be "like her second son, both deaf and dumb" says the Manchester Guardian. It is feared that the little Spanish princess is totally deaf and unless this can be corrected she will probably never be able to speak.

GETS FOUR YEARS

Kingsport, Ont., Sept. 22.—Four years in the penitentiary was the sentence handed out this morning by Judge Price to Jack O'Brien, a Kingstonian, when he pleaded guilty to robbing a mail bag at G. T. R. Junction in January last. The bag contained about $1,000 and was taken during the night while waiting to be put on the train for Montreal.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Pisa, Italy, Sept. 23.—Giacomo Puccini, the composer, had a narrow escape from drowning today on Lake Massaciucoli, on the shore of which he has a villa. While steering his motorboat he collided with another motorboat containing the members of his family. Both boats were badly damaged and began to fill rapidly. Other boats rushed to their assistance and Puccini and his family were taken aboard.

PROBATE COURT RECORDS

Hon. John Morrissey, Minister of Public Works in the Local Legislature, was in St. John this week investigating the methods employed in preserving the records in the Probate Registry office. Heretofore the records have been filed in vaults in the office of the Registrar, Mr. H. O. McInerney, but no steel receptacles and other modern appliances have been provided. Hon. M. Morrissey paid a visit to the office of the Registrar of Deeds to ascertain whether there would be room for the probate records there, as it is felt that it would be a great convenience to have records of all descriptions available in a single office. It is expected that the minister will submit a report to the government recommending changes in the methods of preserving these valuable records.

OBITUARY

A gloom was cast over Black Point when they heard the sad tidings that Mrs. David McLean had passed away. Though ailing for the last twelve years or more, she was always cheerful and happy. We will sadly miss the welcome we always received at her hospitable home and though we grieve, we mourn not as those who have no hope. She has just reached the end of her journey a little before us, there to welcome us where parting shall be known no more. She leaves a loving husband and two worthy sons John Angus of Abbotsford, B. C., and N. Wilfred at home also a niece Miss Annie Dickie, four sisters and two brothers in Vancouver. The funeral was held on Monday, Sept. 22nd and was largely attended being upwards of a hundred guests. The casket was crowned with handsome wreaths. One from the Order of the Blue, one from the Orange Lodge and a number of others. The service was conducted by Rev. F. L. Jobb and Mr. Craig.

A FEW REMARKS!

We ask for the floor for just a moment while we offer you a few Fall Shoe suggestions for your consideration.

Firstly—Of all the things you wear, man, woman or child, your shoes give you the best returns for the money invested in them.

A shoe that fits uniformly, lasts much longer than one where the wear falls all in one spot; and so you owe it to your feet and your purse to wear good fitting shoes.

Secondly—we offer you the advantage of a large stock to choose from and the service of salesmen that know how to fit shoes correctly and who are a real help to you in finding out just the shoes you want.

Thirdly and Lastly—You'll save time and money and obtain perfect satisfaction and foot comfort if you buy your shoes here.

The Legislature of Illinois has passed an Act requiring railway companies to equip their locomotives with electric headlights. The law has no reason in sound railroading, but electric locomotive headlights are made in Illinois, and the act is good for business. In Chicago is an ordinance forbidding the use of dazzling headlights on automobiles on the ground that they confuse a person who gets in the path of the rays. Dazzling locomotive headlights in or near a station or in railroad yards must have the same effect.

Few, if any, medicines have met with the uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cures of colic and diarrhoea which it has effected in almost every neighborhood have given it a wide reputation. For sale by all dealers.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup and is my best seller. For sale by all dealers."

INSURANCE COYS TURNING TO CANADA

British Institutions, However, Will Consider Only Glit-Edged Investments

Ottawa, Sept. 19.—Trade and commerce reports from Great Britain indicate that a considerable amount of British insurance money is likely to find investment in Canada. Lately British insurance directors have had their attention called to the investment possibilities of the Canadian fields. Rates of interest are higher in Canada, and altogether the field presents better investment opportunities than can be found at home.

The investment of funds is one of the most important duties which insurance companies can be called upon to perform. It is absolutely necessary that the margin of safety should be above question. A second important factor is the rate of interest. During recent years, reports say, the investment field of Canada has been broadening and if proper care is taken in presenting the attractive figures to British insurance houses and others seeking careful investments, the result will be of the utmost benefit to the dominion.

In making offerings to the insurance companies it will be absolutely necessary that nothing of a fictitious or wild-cat nature be brought to the attention of the Britishers.

SNOW STORM

Fort William, Sept. 22.—The worst storm to strike the head of the lakes for years broke on Saturday, when a fifty-mile gale, accompanied by rain and sleet ending in snow, raged for three hours. Telephone poles were laid low, signs destroyed, and trees uprooted by the wind. On the lakes the vessels were driven to shelter and ten could be seen from the city, lying in Thunder Bay. Eighteen more were reported in the shelter of Thunder Cape and more beside Isle Royale.

WHALE RAMS VESSEL IN MID OCEAN

Steamer Well Known Here Has Hole Knocked in Bow

The steamer, Wladimir Ritz, which is well known in Miramichi ports, met with a curious mishap on its recent trip from Campbellton to England with lumber. A despatch from St. John's Nfld., says:

A collision with a whale caused such serious damage to the Danish steamer Wladimir Ritz that the vessel was forced to put in here today for repairs. The accident occurred Monday afternoon about 150 miles east of St. John's. The crew of the steamer say that the whale approached at terrific speed and they could not alter the ship's course in time to prevent the impact. The whale struck the steamer head-on, knocking a four foot hole in the bow. The accident is supposed to have killed the whale for the monster sank immediately, its blood discoloring the water over a large area.

UNITED STATES AFRAID OF POTATO DISEASE

Washington, Sept. 22.—To prevent the introduction into the United States of a dangerous potato disease known as potato wart, potato canker or black scab, the federal horticultural board has decided to continue indefinitely the quarantine against potato importations from the British Isles, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Newfoundland and Miquelon.

The London Bureau of Agriculture recently, through the British Embassy, asked that this quarantine be raised or modified, but the horticultural board has ruled against a change in the regulations.

The board declares that the present chipment of the 1913 potato crop in the United States is most promising and that indications are no importations of potatoes from abroad will be required this winter.

DUNLAP PONY CONTEST

EVERY CHILD HAS A CHANCE

The contest embraces one of the most liberal offers ever presented exclusively to the little folks of Campbellton, and will afford them an opportunity to develop their hustling propensities and at the same time win a splendid reward. The Pony outfit is not to be given to the prettiest child, nor the ugliest or best-old either. It will be given to the boy or girl who can hustle. Every child under the age of sixteen years has same chance.

THE PLAN

The plan is as simple as the offer is liberal. Any child can understand it after a few minutes' explanation. During the contest the business men who are participating in this trade booming carnival will give Pony-Votes on all cash purchases and for the payment of old accounts. With every five cent purchase a five vote coupon will be given. With every ten cent purchase a ten vote coupon will be given. With every twenty-five cent purchase a 25-vote coupon will be given. With every dollar purchase a hundred vote coupon will be given. With every ten dollar purchase a thousand vote coupon will be given to the amount of any purchase made at these business places during the contest. The contest will last for thirteen weeks, ending Dec. 24th. The Pony, Vehicle and Harness will be given to the child who gets the most votes during the contest. Should two children tie for first place $300 in gold will be divided equally between them. A pretty liberal present, isn't it.

HOW TO ENTER

Any boy or girl can enter the contest by going to all of the above named places and enrolling his or her name in the contest registry book. Or if preferable the contestants can have their parents or some friend do the enrolling for them. Each of the little contestants will be given some printed matter to assist them and the plan will be thoroughly explained to them.

HOW TO VOTE

On every vote coupon given out by the business men who are in the contest is a black line on which can be written the name of the child voted for. These names should be written plainly.

WHERE TO VOTE

There will be ballot boxes at each of the places interested in the contest. They will not be opened until the contest is over. No contestant can thus find out how many votes another contestant has, and as a result the contest is bound to be fair and above board throughout.

TORONTO WOMAN WELL AGAIN

Freed From Bearing Down Pains, Backache and Pain in Side by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Toronto, Ont.—"Last October, I wrote to you for advice as I was completely run down, had bearing down sensation in the lower part of bowels, backache, and pain in the side. I also suffered terribly from gas. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now entirely free from pain in back and bowels and am stronger in every way. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound highly to all expectant mothers."—Mrs. E. WANDBY, 92 Logan Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

Consider Well This Advice.
No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.
This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

LIVERY STABLE.

I am prepared to take picnic crowds to any part of the surrounding county, as I am fully equipped with hacks, also double seated, rubber tire waggons. (Something special). 4 rubber tire, single waggons, all new, and good horses to draw them.

MANNING I.C.R. WITH ONTARIO OFFICIALS

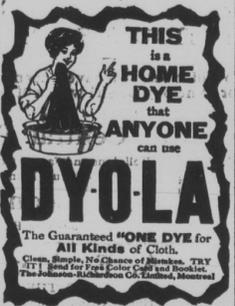

Minister Passing Over Competent and Experienced Men

Eastern Chronicle.—"An issue or two ago, we mentioned the fact that Mr. C. W. Archibald, of Truro, who almost since the change of Government has been holding down the position of Engineer of the Eastern Division of the Intercolonial had given up the new job and returned to his earlier work of Trackmaster. No public reason has been assigned for the step backward in position, it is a safe assumption that the next position did not pan out as Mr. Archibald might have reasonably expected. He was not provided with ample office quarters, equipment or staff, and the difference in salary was not enough to induce him to leave his native town of Truro for the new environment. So a man to have given his life to the service and withal possessed the requisite political faith, found advancement anything but alluring.

New men, new faces, have come places which have been vacated. Further, they have come a long distance. More than that they are not old tried servants of the Intercolonial service. They are promoted from another railway. They come from the C. P. R. and incidentally they come from Ontario. They are H. T. Ruhle and E. H. Williams, former to fill the position of Engineer of the Eastern Division and the latter to be his assistant.

Of the men and their abilities we know nothing; no doubt they are capable and possess the qualifications necessary to make them useful citizens. But it's certainly a curious policy that fills every available position on the Intercolonial Railway with men imported from the Upper Provinces. The case here cited is only one of hundreds from Montreal to Sydney. Practically all the good positions are being parcelled out to favorites of the minister of Ontario. It is grossly unfair to Nova Scotians and contrary to the system of advancement which should exist among the employees of the road. They should have the preference in all such cases.

The crux of the trouble seems to be in the Minister's range of vision. He cannot see beyond the confines of his own beloved Province of Ontario. He hates and distrusts the Maritime provinces and the people therein. The Intercolonial will be manned to his satisfaction when every position is filled with men from Ontario and the Maritime Province men are begrudged the left over.

Louis J. Horowitz, the sky-scraper builder, who in twenty years has risen from a position of $3 a week to one of $100,000 a year, was talking about success.

"I go to bed at 9 o'clock," he said, "and I get up at 5 o'clock. I play a little, but my play is exercise to keep me in good trim for my office. I play to work—as other men work to play."

Mr. Horowitz mused a moment; then in his terse, epigrammatic way he said, shaking his head:

"Success demands sacrifice! Two men set out to achieve fame. One succeeded. The other lived."—Washington Star.

An old colored woman came into a Washington real estate office the other day and was recognized as a tenant of a small house that had become much enhanced in value by reason of a new union station in that neighborhood.

"Look here, auntie, we are going to raise your rent this month," the agent remarked briskly.

"Deed, an' Ah's glad to hear dat, sah," the old woman replied, knocking her head politely, "Mighty glad, for 'sho', case Ah des come in hysk terday ter tell yo' all dat Ah couldn't raise hit dis month."

Because He No Longer Suffers With Headaches

TAYLORVILLE, Ont.
"I was a sufferer from Fearful Headaches for over two years. Sometimes, they were so bad that I was unable to work for days at a time. I took all kinds of medicine, was treated by physicians, but yet the Headaches persisted. A short time ago, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives' and I did so, with I confess, very little faith. But after I had taken them for three days, my Headaches were easier and in a week they left me. After I had taken a box of these tablets, my head was quite cured. My appetite was always poor and my stomach bad—and now my appetite is splendid and my digestion excellent. I had become thin and weak from the constant Headaches but now not only have I been cured of all these awful Headaches, but my strength is growing up once more and I feel like a new man!"

Short Biography of Graduates as Seen by Editor of U.N.B. Monthly

Hazel P. Lingley, B. A.—From Campbellton came Hazel, the jolliest good fellow of the crowd. As a student Hazel showed up well, she could easily have been a class leader if her busy little head had not been so full of plans for banquets and snowshoe tramps. She was an all-around college girl. In the athletic department "Hazel" shone. Never did the hockey or basket ball teams meet without her, and right lustily did she yell and cheer the red and black boys on the college football field. With equal readiness did she lift her voice in debates and Y. W. C. A., of which she was president in her senior year. She shared the dramatic honors with Miss Carleton, and no one who saw her in her various roles will doubt her histrionic ability. It is rumored that "Hazel" bases her hopes for the world's future greatness on the '14 class, but means while she will do her best to develop the brains of Campbellton's rising generation.

C. S. MacLean, B. Sc. in Electrical Engineering.—Popularly known as "Salmon" perhaps because he came from that country of wild fish stories—the North Shore. A man of amazingly abundant vocabulary, which he applied on all imaginable occasions and then some. He took a six year's course at the U. N. B. and all that time held a post of honor in the Hotel de Colwell. During the latter part of his course he became distracted much to the concern of his friends, who always considered him immune. He is at present with the Peterboro Electrical Company.

Arnold Murray, B. Sc. in Electrical Engineering.—Arnold was one of our numerous North Shore representatives. After three years of devoted "Church" going he fell away from the fold, but made up for it by his "sterling" attendance at the better. He was a good football player, and was one of the most prominent contenders for first team honors in the last two seasons. A serious student he stood well up in his class and graduated in the first division in Electrical Engineering. He was generally popular and will be much missed in Fredericton.

Silvio E. Renault, B. Sc. in C. E. Graduates in first division. "Silvio" was undoubtedly one of the best liked men in college. Always a prominent figure at college functions (i. e. masculine), he was also the leader of the North Shore bunch on their homeward trips at Xmas and Easter, proving worthy of the titles "The Conductor's Horror" or "Leader of the Wrecking Crew." Always a good college man Silvio only lost a place on the first football team through an accident in the first game of the season. It may be truly said that he will be missed by more than the boys of F'ron.

Robert K. Shives, B. Sc. in Forestry.—Generally popular and possessing good ability both scholastic and athletic, "Bob" was content with a good pass until his final year when he distinguished himself by his high standing in the Forestry course. He was a member of last year's track team and could have achieved success in other branches of sport if he had been so minded. He was the acknowledged leader of the class in social affairs and con-

The Hand That Moves The Lever Saves 16.2-3 Per Cent. of Your Coal Bill

Here is the opportunity for the housewife to deal the high cost of living question a hard jolt without any effort on her part.

The way is to make sure that her new range is controlled by a Gurney Economizer, which will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 burned in an ordinary range.

The Economizer is to the stove what the control lever is to the engine or automobile. Without control neither is efficient.

With the Gurney Economizer it is possible to quickly vary the heat of the oven. Various foods require different temperatures. The Economizer keeps this desired temperature absolutely uniform.

It also means that when cooking is over, you may have a cool kitchen and still have your fire going—while you can have the fiercest heat in a few minutes by a slight pressure on the lever.

If you possess a Gurney-Oxford your advantages are innumerable. The Divided Flue means heat for every hole on the stove. The New Special Grate guards the lowest fire. The Broiler exposes every inch of the coals.

These features are exclusively "Gurney-Oxford."

It will furnish your kitchen handsomely—it will do your work adequately.

CHAPTER I

The Venetian Portrait.

Evelyn Grayson, meeting me on the old Boston Post Road, between Green- wich and Stamford, gave me a message from her uncle. That is the logical beginning of this story; though to make everything quite clear from the start it may be better to back back a few months to the day on which Evelyn Grayson and I first met.

Then, as now, we were each driving our own car, she a great sixty horse-power machine, all glistening pale yellow, and I, a compact, six-cylinder motor, of dull dusty gray. But we were not on any such broad, rosy thoroughfares as the Boston Post Road. On the contrary we were short-cutting through a narrow, rough lane, beset by stone walls and interrupted at intervals by masses of fern and treacherous angles.

I know I shall never forget the momentary impression I received. Out of the golden sunlight it seemed to me, there had emerged suddenly a tableau of Queen Titania on a topos throne—the fairest Queen Titania in agitation ever conjured—and I, in my mad, panting speed was about to crash into the gauzy fabric of that dream creation and rend it with brutal, torturing contact of reluctant, hand-driven wheels. I take to credit to myself for what I did. Volition was absent. My hands, aided, on a tramping above and beyond all tardy mental guidance. For just a flashing instant the gray nose of my car rose before me, as its momentum sought to mount half way to the coping of the roadside wall. I felt my seat dart away from beneath me, was conscious of my body in swift, unassisted aerial flight, and then—but it is idle so attempt to set down the conglomerate sensation of that small fraction of a second. When I awoke, consciousness, Queen Titania lay kneeling in the dust of the lane beside me—a very distressed and anxious Queen Titania, with wide, startled eyes, and quivering, sympathetic lips—and about us were a half dozen or more of the vicinal country folk.

Between that meeting in mid-May and this meeting on the old Boston Post Road in mid-September, there had been others, of course, for Queen Titania, whose every-day aspect, as I have said, was Evelyn Grayson, was the niece and ward of my nearest neighbor, Mr. Robert Cameron, a gentleman recently come to reside on what for a century and more had been known as the old Tobiasburg Estate, extending for quite a mile along the Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound in the neighborhood of Greenwich.

The intervening four months had witnessed the gradual growth of a near approach to intimacy between Cameron and myself, as was possible considering the manner in which Cameron was. By which statement I mean to imply naught to my neighbor's discredit. He was in all respects admirable—a gentleman of education and culture, widely traveled, of sound ideals and noble principles to which he gave rigid adherence. But I was about to qualify this by describing him as reserved and taciturn. I fear, though, to give a wrong impression. He was scarcely that. There were moments, however, when he was unresponsive, and he was never demonstrative. He had more poise than any man I know. He allowed you to see just so much of him, and no more. At times he was almost stubbornly reticent. And yet, in spite of these qualities, which appeared to be contradictory rather than inherent, he gave repeated evidence of a nature at once so simple and kindly and sympathetic as to command both confidence and affection.

To the progress of my intimacy with Evelyn there had been no such temperamental impediment. She was disarmingly outspoken, with a frankness born of unpolished innocence; barely six weeks having elapsed between her graduation from the tiny French convent of Sainte Barbe near Paris and our perilous encounter in that contracted, treacherous, yet blessed little Connecticut lane. And she possessed, moreover, a multiplicity of additional charms, both of person and disposition—charms too numerous indeed to enumerate, and far too sacred to discuss. From which it may rightly be inferred that we understood each other, Evelyn and I, and that we were already considerably beyond the stage of condition of mere formal acquaintance.

It was no Queen Titania who now came gliding to a stand beside me on the broad, level, well-oiled highway, under a double row of arching elms. It was no gossamer fairy, but Hebe, the Goddess of Youth, with creamy skin and red lips and a lilting melody of voice.

"Well, Mr. Sir Phillip! We are well met!"

And then she told me that her Uncle Robert had telephoned for me, bidding me come to him at my earliest leisure

the round lenses of his spectacles; the high, broad, sloping, white brow and the receding border of dark brown, slightly grizzled hair. That, superlatively, was the face. But I saw more than that. In the visage of one naturally brave I saw a battle waged behind a mask—a battle between courage and fear; and I saw fear win.

Then the mask became opaque once more, and Cameron, giving me ample room for smile, was replying:

"There are anonymous letters and anonymous letters. Ordinarily your method is the one I should pursue. Indeed I may say that when, about a month or so ago, I received a communication of that character, I did almost precisely what you now advise. Certainly I followed one-half of your prescription—I forgot the letter; though for lack of fire in the dog days, I did not burn it, but thrust it into a drawer with an accumulation of advertising circulars."

My apprehension lest Evelyn and I were personally affected had been by now quite dispelled. It was perfectly apparent to me that Cameron alone was involved; yet my anxiety was none the less eager. Almost a sympathy and co-operation were enlisted. I could only hope that he had mentally exaggerated the gravity of the situation, yet my judgment of him was that his inclination would be to err in the opposite direction.

"And now something has happened to recall it to your memory?"

"Something happened very shortly after its receipt," he replied. "Something very puzzling. But in spite of that, I have inclined to treat the matter as a bit of clever chicanery, devised for the purpose, probably, of extortion. As such, I again put it from my thoughts; but today I received a second letter, and I admit I am interested. The affair has features which, if it, indeed, uncommonly perplexing."

I fear my imagination was sluggish. Although, in spite of his dissembling, I saw that he was strangely moved by these happenings, I could fancy no very terrifying concomitants of the rather commonplace facts he had narrated. For anonymous letters I had ever held scant respect. An ambushed enemy, I argued, is admittedly a coward, and so I was in danger of growing impatient.

"When the second letter came," he continued, bringing his left hand forward to lean his right on the detailed white ground of the table's damask, "I searched among the circulars for the first, and found it. I want you to see them both. The writing is very curious. I have never seen anything just like it—and the signature, if I may call it that, is still more singular. On the first letter, I took it for a blot. But on the second letter occurs the same black blot or smudge of identical outline."

Of course I thought of the Black Hand. Was that the natural conclusion, seeing that the newspapers had been giving us a surfeit of Black Hand threats and Black Hand outrages. But, somehow, I did not dare to voice it. To have suggested anything so grisly to Cameron in his present mood would have been to offer him offense.

And when, at the next moment, he drew from an inner pocket of his evening coat two thin, wax-like sheets of paper and passed them to me, I was glad that I had not uttered a word. For the letters were no rough, rude scraps of an illiterate Mafia or Camorra. In phraseology as well as in penmanship they were impressively unique.

"If you don't mind," Cameron was saying, "you might read them aloud."

He had written on a group of electric wall lights at my back, and I marked for the hundredth time his powerful shoulders, his leanness of hip and straightness of limb. He did not look the forty years to which he confessed.

One of the long French windows which gave upon the terrace stood ajar, and before resuming his seat Cameron paused to close it, dropping over it the roped curtain of silver gray velvet that hid the wall. In the succeeding moment the room was ghostly silent; and then, breaking against the stillness, was the sound of his voice, reading:

"That which you have wrought shall turn be wrought upon you. Take warning therefore of what shall happen on the seventh day hence. As sun follows sun, so follows all that is decreed. The ways of our God are many. On the righteous he showers blessings; on the evil he pours misery."

That was the first letter. The second began with the same sentence:

"That which you have wrought shall in turn be wrought upon you."

But there, though the similarity of tenor continued, the verbal identity ceased. It went on:

"Once more, as earnest of what is decreed, there will be shown unto you a symbol of our power. Precaution cannot avail. Fine words and a smiling countenance make not virtue."

He was leaning forward, a little constrainedly, his left hand gripping the arm of his chair, the fingers of his right hand toying with the stem of his gold-rimmed Bohemian liqueur glass.

"An anonymous letter!" I repeated, with a deprecatory smile. "Anonymous letters should be burned and forgotten. Surely you're not bothering about the writer?"

I wish I could put before you an exact reproduction of Cameron's face as I then saw it; those rugged outlines, the heritage of Scottish ancestry, softened and refined by a brilliant intellectuality; the sturdy chin and square jaw; the heavy, underlip meeting the upper lip in scarcely perceptible curve; the broad, honest nose; the small, but alert, gray eyes shining through fore I had quite come to the end, my companion was speaking.

"Well!" he said. And the light cheerfulness of his tone was not only in marked contrast with his grave absorption of a moment before, but in jarring discord with my own present mood. "Well! What do you make of them?"

My annoyance found voice in my response.

"Cameron," I begged, "for God's sake be serious. This doesn't seem to me exactly a matter to be merry over. I don't want to alarm you, but somehow I feel that these—and I shook the crackling, wax-like sheets, "these cannot be utterly ignored."

"But they are anonymous," he retorted, not unjustly. "Anonymous letters should be burned and forgotten."

"There are anonymous letters and anonymous letters," I gave him back, in turn. "These are of an unusually convincing character. Besides, they tell him of that elusive encompassment of sinister portent which had so impressed me; of that malign foreboding beyond anything warranted by the words; but I stumbled in the effort at expression. 'Blessed,' I started again, and ended lamely, 'I don't like the look and the feel of them.'"

"Ah!" he cried, leaning forward again and reaching for the letters. "You have experienced it, too! And you can't explain it, any more than I? It is something that grips you when you read, like an icy hand, hard as steel, in a glove of velvet. It's always between the lines, reaching out, and nothing you can do will stay it. I thought at first I imagined it, but the officer I have read, the more I know of the man, the more I find of themselves are nothing. What do you suppose I care for velvet threats of that sort? I'm big enough to take care of myself, Clyde. I've met peril in about every possible guise, in every part of the world, and I've never really known fear. But this is different. And the worst of it is, I don't know why. I can't for the life of me make out what it is I'm afraid of."

He had gone very pale, and his strong, capable hands, which toyed with the letters, quivered and twitched in excess of nervous tension.

"Then, with a finger pointing to the ink-stain at the bottom of one of the sheets, he asked:

"What does that look like to you?"

I took the letter from him, and scrutinizing the rude figure with concentrated attention for a moment, ventured the suggestion that it somewhat resembled a boat.

"A one-masted vessel, square-rigged," he added, in elucidation.

"Exactly."

"Now turn it upside down."

I did so.

"Now what do you see?"

"The head of a man wearing a helmet. The resemblance was very marked."

"A straw helmet, apparently," he amplified, "such as is worn in the Orient. And yet the profile is not that of an Oriental. Now, look at your vessel again." And once more I reversed the sheet of paper.

"Can it be a Chinese junk?" I asked.

"It might be a sailing pros or banca," he returned, "such as they use in the South Pacific. But whatever it is, I can't understand what it has to do with me or with it."

I was still studying the black daub, when he said:

"But you haven't told me about the handwriting. What can you read of the character of the writer?"

"Nothing," I answered, promptly. "It is curious penmanship, as you say—heavy and regular and upright, with some strangely formed letters; especially the 's' and the 'p'; but it tells me nothing."

"Cut from the canvas," he went on, in lowered voice, "clean and sharp from crown to collar. And the hands of the clock pointed to twelve minutes past three."

The honest farmer who took in summer boarders greeted the new arrivals with truly rural enthusiasm. "I swan, I'm right down glad to meet ye," he cried as he extended his horny hand. "Heow's the folks to hum?"

The man of the party looked at the enthusiast with some suspicion. "Farmer," he said "your dialect strongly reminds me of the stage variety."

The agriculturist grinned.

"It's all right, ain't it?" he asked. "I gave an actor feller a month's board free to teach it to me."

IN NOVA SCOTIA EXPANSION REPORTED

New Glasgow and Other Places Down By the Sea are Progressing

A Halifax letter to the Montreal Financial Times reads: "It is no exaggeration to say that the industrial situation in this province was never brighter than it is today. And the outlook for the future is especially bright. Nova Scotia has entered upon an era of genuine expansion and prosperity."

"The city of Halifax is not the only portion of the province to feel the warm breath of good times. New Glasgow is sending out a call for help. The Eastern Car Company is ready to proceed with the work of car building and is offering inducements for five hundred additional men. This is something unprecedented in New Glasgow. There are no idle men there. There are no idle men in the province, for that matter. Big wages are being offered. Every opportunity will be offered the right men for promotion with good permanent positions." So says the appeal.

Works Ready to Operate. "Only a year ago the Eastern Car Company was organized by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company. The work of erecting a plant was started shortly after the company was organized. Orders are already booked to keep the works constantly working for the next six months. That means an output of thirty cars daily."

"The car works are New Glasgow's latest industry. There are a hundred other going concerns and the streets of the town present the appearance of a real, live community. The coal mines adjacent are being equipped with machinery that will permit their output being doubled and the federal government is deepening the east river so as to give an easy and safe approach to the sea and thus give the town the advantages of water transportation."

"The industrial centres of Cape Breton all report expansion and improvement. Halifax Gets Busy. "The contract for the building of four miles of railway to connect the new terminals at Halifax with the railway system, has been awarded. This work will give employment to a large force of laborers. The government officials are preparing the plans and profiles for the new terminal site, the sign-board bearing the inscription: 'Government Ocean Terminals.' So soon as work on the terminals proper begins Halifax will become a very busy place and the housing problem is beginning to receive attention from those who feel what is coming. The price of real estate, however, remains at a reasonable figure and many desirable lots are changing hands."

FREE TRADE AND PROTECTION

England and Germany Contrasted—The Lesson That is to be Drawn for East as Well as West

Germany has made prodigious strides in commerce and industry since 1888, and much statistical information showing these increases has been published in connection with the celebration of Emperor William's quarter century on the throne. It is now claimed that Germany is ahead of England as a producer of merchandise. In the last twenty-five years Germany's imports have risen from $218,000,000 to $2,541,000,000, and her exports from $228,000,000,000 to $2,146,000,000. Germany loses little population by emigration. The people fly from Britain by hundreds of thousands. Germany has a protective tariff and England Free Trade. Just so Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and all eastern Canada have greatly benefitted of late years from the operation of the Canadian Policy of moderate protection. It has encouraged the establishment of manufacturing centres, which in turn provide convenient and profitable domestic markets for Canadian farm products.

Packing Plants. Writing from Moose Jaw to his paper, Mr. Norman Lambert, Western representative of the Toronto Globe, says:

"Already plans are being made by public and private interests for the accommodation of the increased volume of mixed farming products which will be marketed in this Province in future. The Gordon-Rossides-Pares Co. have arranged to build a large packing plant at Moose Jaw, and Hon. Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan, is now talking of the establishment of a packing plant and abattoir on a co-operative basis, similar to that of the elevator and cannery companies in Saskatchewan."

BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

Many prosperous citizens have lost their valued possessions over night. Then they kicked themselves because an outlay of a few dollars on every thousand of valuation every few years would have left them protected and prosperous. Don't be foolish. Few things are as cheap as fire insurance in the beginning, and nothing may prove more costly in the end than its lack.

DO YOU THINK OF IT AS PAINT OR PAINT ?

The far-sighted fellow thinks of it in big type. He realizes the importance and economy of painting his buildings when they need it, so that they will be protected from the wear and tear of the weather and do not rot and go to pieces in a few years. The other fellow thinks of paint in small type and his home and his building soon go to wreck and ruin.

SIMPLY THIS We want to talk Paint to you. We want to talk Sherwin-Williams Paint to you because it is so good. It's made of pure lead, pure zinc, pure linseed oil, all ground together by special machinery. Come and see us and let us give you information that will save you money on your property.
