

Ten Thousand Were at School Picnic Seven Thousand Were Rising Generation

Annual Outing of the Local Schools Attracted Immense Crowd to River Park—Fine Weather, a Good Time for Everybody, and Day Passed Without the Slightest Mishap—The Feature of the Picnic.

A tremendous crowd, splendid weather and a good time for everybody, marked the school children's picnic yesterday at Springbank. Beyond a doubt, it was one of the most successful picnics ever held by the board of education.

Manager King, of the street railway, estimates the crowd carried to the park at between 8,000 and 10,000. Six or seven thousand of these were school children from the Collegiate Institute and every public school in London.

The little ones were carried to Springbank before noon. Twelve cars were placed in service for the picnic, and each car carried close onto 100 prattling, joyous youngsters.

In the afternoon large numbers of parents and others took in the picnic, and until 9:30 in the evening, the cars kept disgorging passengers at the favorite resort.

No Accidents.

When the picnic was over, the car service, though it certainly was a good one, proved inadequate for everybody wanted to go home at once. The officials of the company had their hands full to keep the crowd from getting hurt as people tried to rush into the trolleys before they stopped, and it is to the company's credit that during the entire day and night not a single accident occurred. It was close to midnight when the last load of passengers was brought to the city, but there were no growls.

The picnic, on the whole, proved very successful. The different events on the sports programme were carried out without a hitch, and for this fact the chairman of each of the schools divisions is to be congratulated.

The trustees had spared no pains to make the affair a most enjoyable one, and that they succeeded was the verdict of all who were at Springbank yesterday.

A Brilliant Spectacle.

The large park presented a brilliant sight yesterday when the crowds began to arrive in earnest. Under almost every tree lunches were spread, and the children especially appeared to be having a whale of a time.

In the afternoon, it appeared as though every bit of shade was being used, by some party or other, for the heat was intense after three o'clock.

Along the river, thousands sat and enjoyed themselves. Others, who take pleasure in boating, rowed around in rowboats, or paddled up and down the stream in canoes.

On the hill, the school games were run off as usual in divisions, and these attracted a large number of sightseers who took a great interest in the competitions of the little ones.

In the casino hundreds of people acquired the ice cream habit, and tried to keep cool. But the children didn't appear to mind the heat, however. They were in for everything that was going, and remembering that it is a long time between picnics, they let nothing in the shape of fun go by. The merry-go-round and ocean wave, etc., did a land office business all day, and at night the vaudeville in the theater attracted a bumper house.

Chief of Police Williams had taken the precaution to have two officers, P. C. Black and Downs, stationed on the grounds and both men did excellent work. Not that they were called upon to keep the peace, but they knew how to handle picknickers and their work was much appreciated by those in charge of the picnic.

To Whom Honor Is Due.

Ald. Thos. Gillen and Mr. B. C. McCann were also present, and they with Trustees MacRobert, Fitzgerald, Tillman, Westervelt, McCormick, Teasdale, Principal Radcliffe, of the Collegiate Institute, Inspector Edwards, the various principals, teachers, and others did much to bring about the success of the giant outing.

Dr. English until lately a member of the local board of education, but now of Hamilton, carried out the programme of sports for the division with which he had been so long connected. The Seventh Regiment band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Slater, rendered a splendid programme of music all through the afternoon, and the playing of the musicians was highly complimented by all.

Feature of the Picnic.

The feature of the picnic this year was the drill of the Collegiate Institute girls. Only one corps took part and it was composed of girls from the commercial form.

For some years the girls of the commercial have especially distinguished themselves by their drill corps, and this year was no exception to the rule. In the broiling sun they executed the most difficult movements gracefully and rapidly. Lieut. Gregory, the competent drill instructor at the Collegiate, was in command.

FRENCH TROOPS JOIN THE ENEMY

Four Hundred Armed for Battle
Desert to the Rebel Wine-Growers.

Paris, June 21.—A battalion of the Seventeenth Infantry Regiment, stationed at Agde, in the Department of Hérault, has deserted with its arms and ammunition, and joined the insurgent wine-growers at Beziers, the headquarters of the regiment. The mutineers, who mostly were recruited among the wine-growers, number about 400 men. They marched into Beziers, which has about 50,000 inhabitants, with drums beating and colors flying, and are now camping in the principal square of that city, with stacked arms. The deserters tried to enlist the sympathies of the remainder of the regiment, stationed at Beziers, but failing to do so, they promised to eject them from the barracks.

A detachment of gendarmes tried to bar the road, but after the mutineers had fired a volley in the air, they were permitted to pass.

The mutineers, although without officers, marched into Beziers, in perfect order, at 6 o'clock this morning, the cheers of the local crowds mingling with the rolling of the drums and the strains of the bugles.

The news of this momentous defection of troops, together with reports of other mutinies from various points in the revolutionary provinces, reached the Government this morning, and caused the gravest concern. Premier Clemenceau immediately summoned a cabinet meeting.

At the ministry of the interior at noon inquiries were informed that the deserters from Narbonne and Montpellier, showed that both cities were comparatively quiet.

At 9 o'clock this morning it was announced that the Government's watchword remained: "The law must reign."

Minister Briand indignantly denied the rumors that he had resigned. He said he was not such a coward as to desert his colleagues under the present circumstances.

SENT TO THE CENTRAL

Charles Walsh Was Found Guilty of Stealing an Overcoat.

There was but one case worthy of note disposed of in the police court this morning. Charles Walsh, a middle-aged vagrant, was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison for the theft of an overcoat. Walsh protested that he was no "vag," and had been working steadily until a few days ago. His statements, however, were not supported by any evidence to that effect and he had to go down.

Walsh recently stole a $25 overcoat from a boarding-house and pawned it for $15.

George Leitch, one of the participants in the West London disturbance of recent date, appeared in answer to a charge of assault and wounding, preferred by Mary Sullivan, and was allowed to go on bail until next Tuesday.

Chief of Police Williams had taken the precaution to have two officers, P. C. Black and Downs, stationed on the grounds and both men did excellent work. Not that they were called upon to keep the peace, but they knew how to handle picknickers and their work was much appreciated by those in charge of the picnic.

THE CURIOUS TALE OF A BALKY HORSE

How a London South Citizen Got a Holiday Ride at Small Cost.

His Honor Judge Macbeth heard a somewhat amusing case in the first division court this morning, in which C. J. Hartford, a drayman, was the plaintiff, and Thomas Legg, of South London, was the defendant. An alleged balky horse was at the bottom of the trouble.

Hartford swore that previous to May 24 young Legg had been dicker with him for a horse. On the holiday Legg went to Hartford and bought the horse, promising to bring his father's note for $50 for the animal the next day.

But instead of the note, Legg brought the horse back, and left it in Hartford's stable during the latter's absence.

Hartford sought to recover hire for the horse, stating that he believed Legg simply wanted to enjoy a drive on the holiday, and stated that he wanted to buy the horse to befool Hartford.

Legg swore that the horse was balky. He had gone to West London to take a young lady for a drive, and after allowing the animal to remain tied for a while, it refused to budge.

All the persuasion of Legg and a neighbor could not induce the animal to move for a quarter of an hour, but when it did go it refused to travel in the direction Legg desired it to go.

Later he swore he learned the animal had the heaves, and he returned it to Hartford.

"Did you expect to get a horse for $50 to take a lady out for a drive?" asked Judge Macbeth.

"Yes, I agreed to," the witness replied promptly.

The judge dismissed the case. "The horse was sold, but it was returned to you, and you did not object," said his honor. "I don't think you can recover hire for the animal."

THREE BADLY BURNED

Attempt to Hurl Up Fire With Coal Oil Ends Disastrously.

Toronto, June 21.—Mrs. Mary Mills, 38 Sutton avenue, 23 years of age, was badly burned in a fire which was due to her lighting the fire with coal oil this morning. Her husband, Frederick Mills, was ill with rheumatic fever, and was unable to move when he heard the explosion. He and their little 17-months-old child Eva were also badly burned. The fire brigade came in time to save the lives of the family. The three were all taken to the general hospital.

GUROFSKY PARDONED

Toronto, June 20.—Joseph Gurofsky, a Jew, who was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison by Police Magistrate Denison for shooting an Italian in an affray, has been pardoned by the Minister of Justice. He is a brother of Louis Gurofsky, the well-known political worker.

Three Italian Noblemen Die in Motor Crashes

Appalling Automobile Accident
Reported From Naples, Italy.

Naples, June 21.—A most appalling automobile accident occurred at Capua, about 100 miles distant from Naples, yesterday, five men being killed. The motor car, which was going at high speed, ran into a rock and was demolished. Among the killed was Prince Pescara, a member of the Italian nobility, and related to the Spanish royal house, on account of whose death the aristocracy of the whole of Lower Italy will be in mourning.

Rome, June 20.—Word has been received here that an automobile containing Marquis Ferrara, the Duke De La Regina, two guests, one of whom is believed to have been an American woman, and the chauffeur, plunged into a ravine on the Naples road. All of the occupants of the car were killed.

SUING FOR WAGES

Two Dorchester Farmers Are Charged With Non-Payment.

Dorchester farmers are having their own troubles these days, and two of them have been summoned to appear in the county magistrate's court to answer to charges of non-payment of wages. Thomas Williams, a farm laborer, laid a charge of non-payment of wages against Wm. Moore, a farmer, while Bert Leishman, also a laborer, charged D. D. York with refusing to pay him wages due, and of assaulting himself and wife.

The first case will come up before Squire Chittick this afternoon, while the other affair will be aired on Monday next. Constable Sadler served the summons.

BRAZILL—MCPHEE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. McPhee, Mill street, West Lorne, on Wednesday night, when her daughter, Miss Belle McPhee, was united in marriage to Mr. George Brazill, of this city. Rev. Mr. Vance performed the ceremony in the presence of a small number of relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Brazill will reside in London.

Fought With Pickpocket on Heavily Loaded Car

Abraham Slater Relieved of $700
While Returning to the City
From Springbank.

A fight with a pickpocket on a heavily-loaded trolley car, two runs after the individual, and a loss of $700 were included in yesterday evening's experiences of Abraham Slater, a member of the firm of Slater Bros., tailors, and who resides at 16 Picton street.

Mr. Slater was returning to the city from Springbank between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening. He was riding on the rear end of a trolley, together with a number of other men, and when half-way between the city and the river park he felt a hand slip gently into his trousers pocket. He seized the hand and found it belonged to an individual standing immediately next to him, whereupon the thief jerked himself free and showed fight.

He had secured Slater's money, and Slater was bound not to let him go without an effort. He accordingly seized the crook, but the latter was much the younger of the two, and also stronger, and he succeeded in again breaking away, following up by jumping from the platform into the ditch.

Slater Gives Chase.

Slater went after him, but after a short chase lost all trace. He made his way up town, and between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning he found a man at the Grand Trunk depot who very closely resembled the pickpocket. Slater, however, was not sure enough on the point to go and openly accuse the man of the theft, but he managed to get into conversation with him, and asked him where he was bound for, whether he was in a hurry to leave the city, and other such questions. Nothing whatever was said of the theft, and Slater decided to think the matter over. He started to walk away from the stranger, but after going a few feet he decided to return, and strike up another conversation. As he turned around, however, he saw his man bolting out by the back-door route.

Another Footrace.

That settled the question of the man's identity in the tailor's mind, and Slater started in pursuit. Across the corner of York and Richmond the pair went, thence up Richmond street to the market, where Slater noticed the thief make a motion as if to throw Continued on page eight.

"Four Hundred" Gets a Rap In a Debate on Gambling

Synod of Huron Engages in a Very Lively Discussion on the Practice.

"That this synod deeply deprecates the prevalence of gambling, whether in social circles, or in sports or in commerce, and calls upon the clergy to preach against, and watch for and originate opportunities for common action with all Christian denominations to extirpate the demoralizing practices from our society and commerce."

The foregoing was the resolution passed by the synod of the Diocese of Huron, after a lively discussion last night, which arose out of the reading of the report of the committee on gambling. The debate was exceedingly lively.

Lament About the Laws.
Rev. Canon Dann, convener of the committee on gambling, read the report which lamented the fact that the laws dealing with gambling had not been changed during the last year and that the evil was, if anything, on the increase. It also told of two meetings of the committee being held and many other efforts having been made to suppress the evil. By the discussion which followed it could be easily seen that the report was not just what the majority of the members of the synod wanted.

After a short discussion as to whether gambling was to be classed as a sin or a social evil, Mr. J. Higginbottom asked: "What has been done to guard against this evil?" Canon Dann replied in a few words. Continued on page nine.

CABRERA DYING WREAKS VENGEANCE

Facing Certain Death—Plunges
Into Terrible Atrocities
Is Mexican Report.

Mexico City, June 21.—President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala is dying. This startling statement was made last night by Jose E. Ed Gomez, who is in this city as the confidential agent of President Zelaya of Nicaragua. Mr. Gomez claims to have received information from an unquestionable source to the effect that President Cabrera is suffering from blood poisoning, which followed the extraction of a tooth. According to Mr. Gomez, President Cabrera has not left the executive mansion for eight days. This report was further corroborated by a Spanish planter, who recently arrived from Guatemala. He declared that Cabrera's illness is a measure accounts for some of the recent terrible atrocities alleged to have been committed by him. This man says that those who know believe that Cabrera, realizing his condition, is recklessly wreaking vengeance upon his enemies. Nothing is known in official circles of Cabrera's reported illness.

"I may tell your honor frankly," broke in Mr. Pugsley, "that in view of the strong feeling I have, if you refuse application to refer the case to the supreme court, I would feel it my duty before going to trial to exhaust every resource that law offers. I may tell my learned friend that he need not have his witnesses here on Monday, as I will not go on then nor at this court."

"Do I understand that my learned friend will enter a nolle prosequi?" asked Mr. Hazen.

"No, I have made my statement. I do not propose to add to it."

STORMY SCENE IN CROCKETT CASE

Judge Refuses Prosecution's Request for Commission—Mr.
Pugsley Threatens.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Fredericton, N. B., June 21.—The libel case opened this morning with promise of storm.

"I apply," said Mr. Pugsley, "for commission for the examination of two witnesses named O'Brien and Foster."

"Does the motion include a motion for adjournment?" asked the judge.

"Yes," answered Pugsley, adding that the men were in England and Boston respectively. They were porters at the St. Lawrence Hall at the time of the Emmerson incident, and the crown thinks one of these porters apologized to Mr. Emmerson's lady friends, and told them they need not leave the hotel."

An affidavit declared that the motion was not made for the purpose of delaying the trial.

Mr. Pugsley continued, and asked the judge to refer to the supreme court, which meets on Aug. 30, the question of law as to whether or not he should have overruled the demurrer. He held that under Judge Landry's decision all a defendant had to do was to give his source of information, and say that on reasonable ground he believed the statements were true. There could be no successful prosecution for libel if this point was sustained.

"I said yesterday," said the judge, "that I was not convinced that the Gleaner's publication was not in the public interest. But I am ready to make a stronger declaration and say I believe it to have been in the public interest."

"This put Mr. Pugsley out somewhat. Mr. Douglas Hazen combatted the application for a commission, and was prepared to submit affidavits to show that no such men were employed at St. Lawrence Hall in June, 1906."

This affidavit is made by John Lloyd, for 35 years night clerk at the hotel. Lloyd was put on the stand and denied positively that either of these men were in the hotel at the time in question.

Harry Dean, another porter, was sworn. O'Brien was dead now, and Foster he never knew.

Judge Landry, after lengthy argument from opposing counsel, refused Mr. Pugsley's application. He had decided no good purpose would be served.

On the question of referring the case to a supreme court, he reserved decision till Monday, adding significantly, "I would advise you to have your witnesses ready."

"I may tell your honor frankly," broke in Mr. Pugsley, "that in view of the strong feeling I have, if you refuse application to refer the case to the supreme court, I would feel it my duty before going to trial to exhaust every resource that law offers. I may tell my learned friend that he need not have his witnesses here on Monday, as I will not go on then nor at this court."

"Do I understand that my learned friend will enter a nolle prosequi?" asked Mr. Hazen.

"No, I have made my statement. I do not propose to add to it."

LIKES ALL-RED SCHEME

Lord Strathcona Hopeful for Its Early Realization.

London, June 20.—The Daily Chronicle has interviewed Lord Strathcona on the all-red route. It says that the grand old man of the empire is full of ardor for the new scheme, hopeful of its early realization and confident of its success. Lord Strathcona considered that the new route would not be confined to a passenger and express service. Canada was ready with a contribution equal to that of the United Kingdom for a new service to Halifax.

DEATH OF MRS. LENNOX

Former Resident of This City Passes
Suddenly in Detroit.

Many London friends will be sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Sarah Jane Lennox, wife of Mr. James Lennox, and mother of Mr. Harry Lennox, the former a well-known London tailor, but who has resided in Detroit for some years. The late Mrs. Lennox died at her residence, 610 Fourth street, Detroit. Her death occurred very suddenly, as up till yesterday morning she appeared to be in the best of health.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Hugh McKenna, and was born in Syracuse, N. Y., 69 years ago. She married with her parents to this city when she was quite young, and in 1853 was married to Mr. James Lennox in London. For the past seven years she had resided in Detroit. Besides her husband, she is survived by four children, as follows: Harry, Arthur, Mrs. W. S. Joy and Mrs. George J. Brady.

LONDON, FRIDAY, JUNE 21.

LONDON'S SOURCES OF GROWTH.

An industrious journalist has worked out the following table, showing the value of the manufactured products per capita in the leading cities and towns,
based on the statistics issued by the Dominion census bureau:

City	Population	Output per head
Peterboro	15,000	$11,000,000
Sault Ste. Marie	11,000	6,000,000
Berlin	12,000	5,400,000
Brantford	20,000	8,500,000
Sarnia	9,000	3,900,000
Georgetown	15,000	4,500,000
Hull	14,000	5,000,000
Hamilton	70,000	24,000,000
Galt	8,600	2,900,000
Sherrbrooke	12,000	4,000,000
Chatham	11,000	3,600,000
Stratford	12,000	3,500,000
Sydney	13,000	4,100,000
St. Catharines	10,000	3,100,000
Toronto	300,000	84,000,000
Montreal	350,000	97,000,000
Woodstock	11,000	3,000,000
London	45,000	12,000,000
Kingston	21,000	4,400,000
Lindsay	7,000	2,000,000
Calgary	12,000	2,400,000
Winnipeg	100,000	19,000,000
Brookville	10,000	1,700,000
Vancouver	65,000	11,000,000
St. Thomas	15,000	2,200,000
Quebec	79,000	12,000,000
Belleville	11,000	1,600,000
Ottawa	76,000	9,400,000

London does not show up to advantage

In comparison with some of the smaller places, but the reason is not a discouraging one. In cities like Peterboro, Sault Ste. Marie, Berlin, and Brantford, the bulk of the population
is supported by factories, but London has other elements of growth. It will be noticed that Montreal and Toronto,
the largest cities in Canada, have, like London, a relatively small per capita output of factory products. They are financial and distributing centers, and have had many causes of growth other than their industries. Our own city is in the same position. It is not dependent entirely upon its industrial activities. It has more than one string to its bow.
It is a great wholesale center and a railway divisional headquarters. Its beauty and attractions as a place of residence draw many people from the surrounding district. Within a radius of 50 miles are more flourishing towns
and a finer tract of agricultural country than are embraced in a similar circle drawn around any other city in the Dominion. London is growing as fast as any municipality in Eastern Canada, and is under no disadvantage
because it is not so exclusively a factory center as some other communities.

THE MENACE OF DUST.

Professor Honan asserts that efforts towards the eradication of human tuberculosis will fail which do not take full account of household dust
as a factor in the dissemination of that disease, says the Medical Journal.
Scientific tests have shown that the seeds of pulmonary tuberculosis, har-
bored within doors in the dried state,
are capable of retaining their effective vitality for prolonged periods of time. Any method or procedure employed in inhabited buildings which causes dust to be disseminated must be considered as tending to spread the seeds of consumption. Hotels, clubs,
theaters, office buildings, schools,
churches and business establishments
generally should be required by law
to introduce and operate dustless
methods of cleaning, this part of the mechanical equipment being as necessary as provision similarly made for warming, ventilation and for fire protection and fire escapes. The employment of dustless methods in private residences is urged as being equally imperative for the control and suppression of all forms of tuberculous
disease.The time will come when street
watering in all urban communities,
where the danger of spreading infection is greatest, will be compulsory instead of optional as at present. The whole city of London was for some weeks last year enveloped in a cloud
of dust, because of the shortage of water. But is it enough that when water is plentiful a comparatively few streets should be watered? It would be a wise policy to water all streets
and charge the cost up to the properties on the local improvement plan.
Dustless streets are as desirable as good pavements or sidewalks. Why not pay for them in the same way?
The owners of vacant lots would not
then be able to block street watering petitions, and would pay according to their frontage. The present system is a hardship and injustice to many people who are willing to pay street
watering rates, but cannot induce their neighbors to do so. This is a question which should be taken up when the problem of the water supply is solved.

DR. SPOULE AND HIS BOGEY.

Two or three years ago Dr. Sproule,
M. P., attacked King Edward for calling on the Pope. The doctor hinted that his majesty's visit boded no good to his Protestant subjects.The grand master aspires to be more loyal than the King and more Protestant than was William of Orange. His latest fulmination is as ridiculous as his rebuke of royalty. He solemnly parades the story that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding visited Rome
to secure the sanction of the Vatican to Mr. Fielding's succession to the premiership, and warns his Orange brethren to be on their guard. This absurd fiction appeared in Le Nationaliste, the organ of Bourassa, and his little party of extremists, whose habit
is to stab Laurier as an enemy of his race and religion. Dr. Sproule "hesitates to believe that Mr. Fielding would go to Rome seeking the premiership of Canada," but the story is "calculated to arouse suspicion." A fair-minded man who hesitates to believe a calumny will hesitate to publicly avow his suspicions.Dr. Sproule also speaks of "these constant pilgrimages to Rome before every general election." This is a studious misrepresentation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has gone to Rome only when he has been in Europe for the purpose of attending the Colonial Conferences. After the arduous labor of each conference he has taken a few weeks' holidays on the continent. It would be strange if a Catholic refused an opportunity to pay his respects to the head of his church. As for Mr.
Fielding, he is taking a well-earned rest in Europe, and if he has called on the Pope he has done what any visiting Protestant (excepting, perhaps, Dr. Sproule), would do if the privilege were accorded him, from a natural desire to meet persons in exalted positions.The problem of governing this country is made more difficult by such men
as Sproule and Bourassa, working on prejudices of nationality and creed.

This is the longest day in the year.

The Toronto Mail has an editorial headed "Disappointed in Mr. Aylesworth." If the Mail had not been disappointed in Mr. Aylesworth, Liberals would suspect him.The Tory editors of the country have been holding a conference with Mr.
Borden at Montreal. The idea is to get them to sing the same tune. The public may expect to be deluged with factory and machine-made editorials.E. B. Osler, M. P., is admittedly a great financier, yet he is a defender of Foster. That man Foster is putting an awful strain on the consciences of his fellow-Conservatives, but they seem to be equal to it.At the waterworks convention in Toronto yesterday the city engineer of St. Louis explained that the people of that city drank river water after sedimentation. There cannot be any danger in putting Thames water on the streets of London.It is rather amusing to find Tory
newspapers, such as the London Free Press, accusing a Liberal Government
of virulent militarism, and attacking
Sir Frederick Borden's scheme for increasing the militia force. These same newspapers were enthusiastic over Lord Donaldson's proposal to fortify
the frontier from one end of the country to the other.

JOHN AND JONATHAN.

[Cincinnati Inquirer.]

Mr. Bryce might be fairly called the American ideal of diplomacy. There is not much out of the ordinary routine for the English representative to do in this country at this time. Things are running smoothly. There is no tale-telling on one side or patronizing on the other. The two English-speaking countries seem to be drifting together, and it will be a good thing for the world if they get to a working alliance. The English may put some questionable trick on us sometimes, but we have sold them a good many "gold
bricks," and have taunted them occasionally about things that should be bygones.
That is all past now—scarcely a reminiscence. Mr. Bryce has plenty of time to study our country, and to make addresses
which show good-will, and are rich in useful information to Americans.

JUNE ROSES.

[Detroit Free Press.]

June roses are fair,
As they wait in the breeze;
And the scent-laden air
May delight and may please.
Let them wait in the wind,
They are not half so fair
As the rose you will find
In the graduate's hair.In the garden the rose
May toss in the air;
And some may suppose
There's no blossom so fair.
But fairer, I swear,
Is the rose that is placed
By the graduate fair
In her peck-a-boo waist.

A GRUDDING PATRON.

[Washington Star.]

"An artist," said the man with the pointed whiskers, "must not think about money."
"I suppose not," answered Mr. Cumrox.
"Every time I buy a picture the artist wants enough to keep him from thinking
about money for the rest of his life."

THE NEED FOR PLAYGROUNDS.

[Toronto News.]

New York has had to demolish buildings
in order to make playgrounds at a cost of nearly one million dollars an acre. Action of a somewhat similar nature has been found necessary in Boston, Chicago and Washington. There are numbers of children in Toronto who have nowhere to play
but on the streets, and this condition of affairs has proved itself to be one of the most harmful elements in counteracting

any efforts made on behalf of the education and upbringing of children. Mr.

Jacob Ellis, a foremost authority on what should be done for city children, says that
"the child without a playground is the father of the man without a job."

THE MAN WITH THE HOE.

(Revised Edition.)

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

Oh, the man with the hoe is a merry old

soul,
A merry old soul is he,
As he turns the sod, and plants the seed,
And dreams of the crop to be.

He digs and he hoes with a right good will,

And he hums a merry old lay,
As he plants and he sows and he rakes and
he hoes,
Beginning with break of day.

And the sun looks down on this merry old

soul,
This merry old soul with the hoe,
And he turns on him his brightest smile,
And watches his face all aglow.

For he knows that it's good for a man to sweat,

And to enjoy the rewards of his toil,
And so he coaches this merry old soul
As he tills away in the soil.

And this merry old soul as he digs and he

hoes,
Mops his brow with the back of his hand;
And he laughs "Ho he," and he laughs
"Ho he,"

As he works away on his land.

But there are times of grief for this merry

old soul,
This merry old soul with the hoe,
For when rains come down, the weeds come
up,
To vex this toiler so.

And the old worms out, and grub worms

grub,
And the chicklets chick with gloo,
And the henlets scratch with both their feet,
For it's all they have, you see.

Then the heart of this merry old man

grows sad,
As they slash and they scratch and they
grub,
And his soul is filled with an inborn ire,
While his hand is filled with a club.

Then the air is filled with a din and a crash,

And a shriek and a cloud of dust,
And the neighbors are filled with much
surprise,
While the hens are filled with disgust.

But in spite of his trials—he's a merry old

soul,
And he begins each day with a smile;
He's up with the lark, and he works with
a will,
For his work is a work worth while.

So here is our hand to this tiller of soil,

And here is a smile as we go;
And we'll doff our hat to this merry old
soul,
This merry old soul with the hoe.

RIGHT YOU ARE.

[Montreal Star.]

We must not make the mistake of assuming ourselves in the minds of the British workman with any degree of that he
tax his loaf for the benefit of our farmers,
whose prosperity he is constantly taught
to envy.

GETTING LONESOME.

[Houston Post.]

"John, is it true that money talks?"
"That's what they say, dear.""Well, I wish you'd leave a little here to talk to me during the day." "I'm getting mighty lonesome for some of that conversation."

WILL NEVER DRESS LIKE MEN.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

"Will women ever dress like men?" asks
a New York reformer. No. Even if they were trousers they would want to put them
on by poking their heads up through from under.

BRIDGE.

[New York Mail.]

Says the Atchison Globe: "What has become of the old-fashioned woman who expected that the boy who played cards
would eventually become a gambler?"
She's busy playing bridge.

AUNTIE WASN'T READY.

[New York Tribune.]

Norman Hapgood, journalist and essayist, was discussing veracity. "Truth telling," he said, "is not always wise or praiseworthy. Indeed, it is sometimes the reverse.""Thus, a young man called on a young woman early one spring morning. He had his automobile along. He wanted to give the young woman a morning spin through
the country.""A little girl, the young woman's niece,
answered the bell."
"Is your auntie in?" said the young man."Yes, sir," said the little girl.
"That's good. Where is she?" he went on."She's upstairs," said the little girl, "in her nightgown, looking over the railing."

FELLOW SUFFERERS.

[Philadelphia Record.]

"Excuse me, sir," remarked the weary wayfarer, "but I don't know where by next meal is coming from.""Neither do I," replied the prosperous-looking individual. "My cook left this morning, too."

WAITING FOR THE CIRCUS.

[Woman's Home Companion.]

An old gentleman, rather portly and clad in a somewhat youthful suit of light
gray flannel, sat on a bench in the park enjoying the spring day."What's the matter, sonny?" he asked a small rube who lay on the grass just across the walk and stared intently. "Why don't you go and play?""Don't want to," the boy replied.
"But it is not natural," the old gentleman insisted, "for a boy to be so quiet.
Why don't you run about?""Oh, I'm just waitin'," the little fellow answered. "I'm just waitin' till you get up. A man painted that bench about fifteen minutes ago."

THEIR ONLY WORK.

[Washington Star.]

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "say day
is lookin' for work, when in reality day
is only huntin' for a chance to draw down
de pay, regardless of services rendered."

WANTED THE COMPLETE WORKS.

[Puck.]

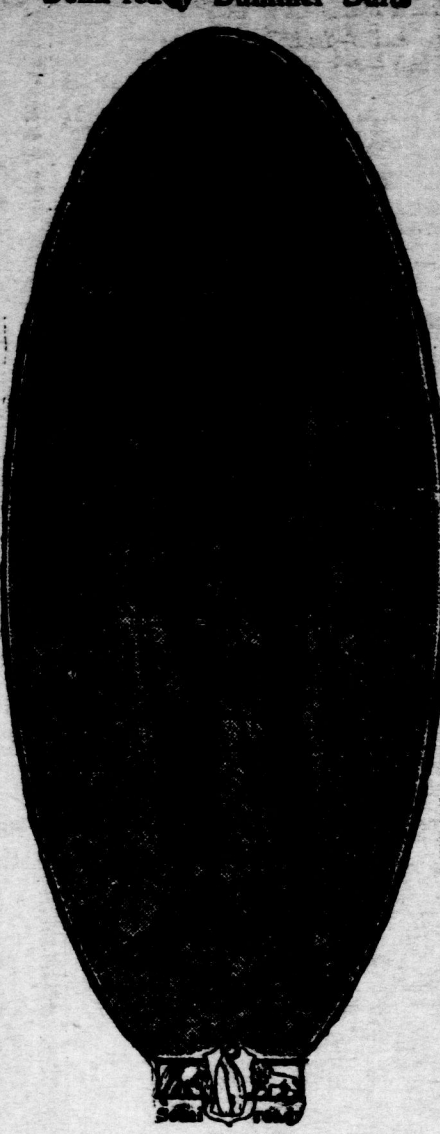

Newsday—"I want the complete works
of that man that's edited so many of the standard authors."Bookseller—"Who do you mean?"
Newsday—"That fellow De Luxy."

GARDEN HINT.

[Fodder Weekly.]

The easiest way to keep your neighbors'
children out of your garden is not to have any garden.

FIRE SWEEPING

THE NORTH WOODS

The Government Endeavoring to

Check Terrible Devastation

of Timber Lands.

Toronto, June 20.—Hon. Mr. Cochrane, minister of lands and mines, is busily seeking to circumvent the forest fires in Northern Ontario. Special rangers have been promptly dispatched
to James, Smyth and Tudhope Townships, and special officers appointed in charge to assist Fire Chief Ranger S. C. Macdonald. Telegraphic
reports of the exact condition of affairs have been asked for immediately
from all the districts, and these are reaching Mr. Aubrey White, the deputy minister, with increasing regularity.Rangers on the T. and N. O. Railway report no serious damage, except in the Gilles (the smaller). Fires started at several points, but they were all put out promptly and none spread.
The rangers have the entire section
under control.Sault Ste. Marie rangers report no great damage in their agencies. Ugly fires broke out in DeRoche and Hodgins Townships, but the Sault Company succeeded in confining them to the old cutting, and it rained heavily on Tuesday, removing immediate danger.Fire Ranger Hector McDonald, from the Thessalon district, reports that considerable alarm was experienced for some days, but a heavy rain on the 17th saved the situation.From Chapleau, on the C. P. R., the seat of the reported fires, there is silence. No message to the department has got through.Rangers at Webbwood and along the Spanish River report a very serious
forest fire raging in Dunlop Township,
and that the timber in Shakespeare Township is also on fire. It is spreading rapidly. There has been no rain in this district since June 3.Up to noon these were all the reports received."So far as we can learn from the rangers," Mr. White said, "no life has been sacrificed, and the fullest inquiry
is being made wherever there was special reason to fear danger.""So far as yet learned, too, there has been no pine damaged on the crown
reserve, which is being fully manned and watched by special officers."The department is sending out instructions to all rangers to be exceedingly diligent. It is possible that the force may be increased.

DISAPPOINTED.

THREE FACTS

For Sick Women
To Consider.

First.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements of the female organs, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female system as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, inflammation of the female organs, weakness and displacements, regulating the periods perfectly and overcoming their pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

Third.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.—Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

The Hound of
The Baskervilles

BY SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

CHAPTER XII.

For a moment or two I sat breathless, hardly able to believe my ears. Then my senses and my voice came back to me, while a crushing weight of responsibility seemed in an instant to be lifted from my soul. That cold, incisive, ironical voice could belong to but one man in all the world.

"Holmes!" I cried—"Holmes!" "Come out," said he, "and please be careful with the revolver."

I stooped under the rude lintel, and there he sat upon a stone outside, his gray eyes dancing with amusement as they fell upon my astonished features. He was thin and worn, but clear and alert, his keen face bronzed by the sun and roughened by the wind. In his tweed suit and cloth cap he looked like any other tourist upon the moor, and he had contrived, with that catlike love of personal cleanliness which was one of his characteristics, that his shirt should be as smooth and his linen as perfect as if he were in Baker Street.

"I never was more glad to see anyone in my life," said I, as I wrung him by the hand.

"Or more astonished, eh?" "Well, I must confess to it."

"The surprise was not all on one side, I assure you. I had no idea that you had found my occasional retreat, still less that you were inside it, until I was within twenty paces of the door."

"No, Watson, I fear that I could not undertake to recognize your footprint amid all the footprints of the world. If you seriously desire to deceive me, you must change your tobacco; for when I saw the stub of a cigarette marked Bradley, Oxford Street, I knew that my friend Watson is in the neighborhood. You will see it there beside the path. You threw it down, no doubt, at that supreme moment when you charged into the empty hut."

"Exactly."

"I thought as much—and knowing your admirable tenacity I was convinced that you were sitting in ambush."

6899—AN EXCELLENT OFFICE

APRON.

Aprons have been designed for every sort of use except office work, and why not this when so many need some sensible protection while performing such tasks? Here is sketched an apron for this work which will be found satisfactory because it anticipates all needs. The upper portion covers the front of the blouse and the sleeves—the two parts which are most quickly soiled, yet is not bulky anywhere, and is of becoming shape. The skirt is short and a bit full at the belt. The back edges meet so that the constant rubbing on the chair will not harm one's dress. The usual white materials are suitable for use here 3 1/2 yards 36 inches wide being needed for the medium size.

6899—Size, small, medium and large.

a weapon within reach, waiting for the tenant to return. So you actually thought that I was the criminal!"

"I did not know who you were, but I was determined to find out."

"Excellent, Watson! And how did you localize me? You saw me, perhaps, on the night of the convict hunt, when I was so imprudent as to allow the moon to rise behind me."

"Yes, I saw you then."

"And have no doubt searched all the huts until you came to this one?"

"No, your boy has been observed, and that gave me a guide where to look."

"The old gentleman with the telescope, no doubt. I could not make it out when first I saw the light flashing upon the lens."

"Ha, I see that Cartwright has brought up some supplies. What's this paper? So you have been to Coombe Tracey, have you?"

"Yes."

"To see Mrs. Laura Lyons?"

"Exactly."

"Well done! Our researches have evidently been running on parallel lines, and when we unite our results I expect we shall have a fairly full knowledge of the case."

"Well, I am glad from my heart that you are here, for indeed the responsibility and the mystery were both becoming too much for my nerves. But how in the name of thunder did you come here, and what have you been doing? I thought that you were in Baker Street working out that case of blackmailing?"

"That was what I wished you to think."

"Then you use me and yet do not trust me!" I cried with some bitterness. "I think that I have deserved better at your hands, Holmes!"

"My dear fellow, you have been invaluable to me this, as in many other cases, and I beg that you will forgive me if I have seemed to play a trick upon you. In truth, it was partly for your own sake that I did it, and it was my appreciation of the danger which you ran which led me to come down and examine the matter for myself. Had I been with Sir Henry and you it is confident that my point of view would have been the same as yours, and my presence would have warned our very formidable opponents to be on their guard. As it is, I have been able to get about as I could not possibly have done had I been living at the Hall, and I remain an unknown factor in the business, ready to throw in all my weight at a critical moment."

"But why keep me in the dark?"

"For you to know could not have helped us, and might possibly have led to my discovery. You would have wished to tell me something, or in your kindness you would have brought me some comfort or other, and so an unnecessary risk would be run. I brought Cartwright down with me—remember the little chap at the Express Office—and he has seen after my simple wants—a loaf of bread and a clean collar. What does man want more? He has given me an extra pair of eyes upon a very active pair of feet, and both have been invaluable."

"Then my reports have all been wasted!" My voice trembled as I recalled the pains and the pride with which I had composed them.

Holmes took a bundle of paper from his pocket.

"Here are your reports, my dear fellow, and very well indeed, I assure you. I made excellent use of them, and they are only delayed one day upon their way. I must compliment you exceedingly upon the zeal and the intelligence which you have shown over an extraordinarily difficult case."

I was still rather raw over the deception which had been practiced upon me, but the warmth of Holmes' praise drove my anger from my mind. I felt also in my heart that he was right in what he said and that it was really best for our purpose that I should not have known that he was upon the moor.

"That's better," said he, seeing the shadow rise from my face. "And now tell me the result of your visit to Mrs. Laura Lyons—it was not difficult for me to guess that it was to see her that you had gone, for I am already aware that she is the one person in Coombe Tracey who might be of service to us in the matter. In fact, if you had not gone today it is exceedingly probable that I should have gone tomorrow."

The sun had set and dusk was settling over the moor. The air had turned warm. There sitting in the hut of light, I told Holmes of my conversation with the lady. So interested was he that I had to repeat some of it twice before he was satisfied.

"This is most important," said he, when I had concluded. "It fills a gap which I had been unable to bridge in this most complex affair. You are aware, perhaps, that a close intimacy exists between this lady and the man Stapleton?"

"I did not know of a close intimacy."

"There can be no doubt about the matter. They meet, they write, there is a complete understanding between them. Now, this puts a very powerful weapon in our hands. If I could only use it to detach his wife—"

"His wife?"

"I am giving you some information now, in return for all that you have given me. The lady who has passed here as Miss Stapleton is in reality his wife."

"Good heavens, Holmes! Are you sure of what you say? How could he have permitted Sir Henry to fall in love with her?"

"Sir Henry's falling in love could do no harm to anyone except Sir Henry. He took particular care that Sir Henry did not make love to her, as you yourself have observed. I repeat that the lady is his wife and not his mistress."

"But why this elaborate deception?"

"Because he foresaw that she would be very much more useful to him in the character of a free woman."

All my unspoken instincts, my vague suspicions suddenly took shape, and centered upon the naturalist. In that impassive, colorless man, with his straw hat and his butterfly net, I seemed to see something terrible—a creature of iron will, patience and craft, with a smiling face and a murderous heart.

"It is he, then, who is our enemy—it is he who dogged us in London?"

"So I read the riddle."

"And the warning—it must have come from her?"

"Exactly."

The shape of some monstrous villainy, half-seen, half-guessed, loomed through the darkness which had girl me so long.

"How do you know that the woman is his wife?"

"Because he so far forgot himself as to tell you a true piece of autobiography upon the occasion when he first met you, and I dare say he has many a time regretted it since. He was once a school master in the north of England. Now, there is no one more easy to trace than a school master. There are scholastic agencies by which one may identify any teacher who has been in the profession. A little investigation showed me that a school had come to grief under atrocious circumstances, and that the man who had owned it—the name was different—had disappeared with his wife. The descriptions agreed. When I learned that the missing man was devoted to entomology the identification was complete."

The darkness was rising, but much was still hidden by the shadows.

"If this woman is in truth his wife, where does Mrs. Laura Lyons come in?" I asked.

"That is one of the points upon which your own researches have shed a light. Your interview with the lady has cleared the situation very much. I did not know about a projected divorce between herself and her husband. In that case, regarding Stapleton as an unmarried man, she counted no doubt upon becoming his wife."

"And when she is understood?"

"Why, then we may find the lady of service. It must be our first duty to see her—both of us—tomorrow. Don't you think, Watson, that you are away from your charge rather long? Your place should be at Baker Street."

The last red streaks had faded away in the west and night had settled upon the moor. A few faint stars were gleaming in a violet sky.

"One last question, Holmes," I said as I rose. "Surely there is some secrecy between you and me. What is the meaning of it all? What is he after?"

Holmes' voice sank as he answered.

"It is murder, Watson—refined, cold-blooded, deliberate murder. Do not ask me for particulars. My nets are closing upon him, even as his are upon Sir Henry, and with your help he is already almost at my mercy. There is but one danger which can threaten us. It is that he should strike before we are ready to do so. Another day—two at the most—and I have my case complete, but until then guard your charge as closely as ever a fond mother watched her ailing child. Your mission today has justified itself, and yet I could almost wish that you had not left this side. Hark!"

New Line to Muskoka.

Canada's greatest railway, in building a line to connect Toronto with the main transcontinental track at Sudbury, has incidentally given us a new direct route to the Muskoka Lakes district, over which fast passenger trains will be running after Saturday, June 22. Bala, which is reached in three and a half hours from Toronto, will be the Lakes terminus this summer, and there steamers of the Muskoka Navigation Company will connect with trains, carrying travelers to all points on Lakes Muskoka, Joseph and Rosseau. The roadbed is heavily laid and well ballasted, train equipment is new and handsome, and excellent time is made. In addition to the local trains there will be two flyers to the Lakes, the Lakeland Limited and the Sunset Express, and two flyers southbound, the Queen City Flyer and Twilight Limited. Through sleepers will run to and from Toronto, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and New York, and, of course, a splendid equipment of parlor cars, dining cars, and luxurious day coaches. C. B. Foster, district passenger agent, C. P. R., at Toronto, will be glad to mail full particulars of trains and handsome illustrated Muskoka folder, or same may be obtained free from local C. P. R. agent, 161 Dundas street, corner Richmond. 70c

No Good Flour Can
Be Made

EASILY. It takes time, trouble and the closest attention to the minutest detail of every milling process, to say nothing of adding considerably to the cost of production, to make a good flour.

You know you must watch your bread carefully during every process, from the mixing to the baking, but however close the attention you may give it your trouble will be wasted, unless you are using a flour which has been made with corresponding care.

No brands on the market today are made more carefully than our "FIVE ROSES" and "HARVEST QUEEN." The grain itself is cleaned by the newest and most perfect machinery before being ground, and the flour is sifted and tested by experts at every stage of the milling in order to insure the nearest approach to perfection. It is possible to obtain by modern methods.

If you use these brands and give corresponding attention to the details of your baking, you will have as a result bread which cannot be equalled for quality and nourishing value.

legiate Institute, putting them through the evolutions.

All were attired in dainty, simple white dresses, and they wore the Collegiate colors jauntily over their shoulders.

When the drill had been completed, Miss May Beattensby stepped forward and read an address to Lieut. Gregory, and Miss Pearl Anderson presented him with a very handsome gold-headed umbrella on behalf of the girls of Commercial A.

Honored Lieut. Gregory.

The address was as follows:

Dear Mr. Gregory—it is with feelings of duty as well as pleasure that we, the girls of Commercial A, take this opportunity of expressing to you our heartfelt appreciation of your untiring efforts in our physical training. Always cordial in our direction, always zealous in your endeavor, always prompt in your appreciation of our efforts, however misdirected they may have been at times, you have endeavored yourself to us so much that you will always remain in our bright spot in our remembrance of this our first year at the Collegiate Institute. Now, sir, painful as it may be, still we all must know that this is about our last meeting as a class of the first year, and as many changes, that are bound to take place render it improbable that we shall all be under your guidance for another year, we will now endeavor to show in some tangible form the thankfulness that we all feel towards you. Would you sir, accept this little gift from us as a class, not for its intrinsic worth, but in the spirit in which it is given, out of the fullness of heart and deepest respect from our class of girls who regard it as an honor to have been taught by so estimable a teacher, to know whom is to respect? Wishing that your path in the future may be far from the thorny kind, we once more thank you for the many kindnesses that we have received from your hands.

Signed in behalf of Commercial A.

Those in the Drill.

Lieut. Gregory was taken completely by surprise, but he made a neat speech in which he thanked all for their many kindnesses of the past, and also for the address and the handsones present given him. He expressed the hope that the relations of the future between himself and the students will be as pleasant as they have been in the past.

The girls were then drawn up in line, where they were photographed by The Advertiser photographer.

The following are the names of those who took part in the drill:

Bessie Jones, Annette Taylor, Josephine Whitehead, Annie Phillips, Edna Lewis, Jetta Thornton, May Belten, Bell Stoneman, Ethel Walter, Mary Robinson, Violet White, Pearl Anderson, Lotta Hayman, Ella Ram, Gladys Freeland, Mabel Eggleton.

Miss Violet White, one of the most winning of the drill corps, was overcome by the heat shortly after completing the drill, and Dr. Tillmann and Teddall were summoned. Both ordered her to take a rest. It was feared that she had taken a sunstroke, but happily this did not prove the case. At the suggestion of Principal Radcliffe Miss White was sent to her home at Eglarburg, in a carriage, at the expense of the board of education.

TEMPERANCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT ADOPTED BY SYNOD OF HURON

Opposed to Treating—Educate Young to Abstain and So Diminish Demand.

The chief subject of interest which came up for discussion at the meeting of the synod of this morning was the report of the committee on temperance submitted by the convener of the committee, Rev. Dyson Hague. It read in part as follows:

"On the whole the state of temperance in the Diocese of Huron is improving. There seems to be a general impression that the license laws are being more stringently enforced than a few years ago. Your committee are of the opinion that while the general sentiment of the church people of the diocese is favorable to every enactment not in violation of the workable temperance sentiment of the community—it is undeniable that there is a conviction in the minds of the Church of England people that there might be a revival of a more scripturally founded and more lasting method of dealing with the very root of the evil, viz., exhortation, and country is education. Your committee on record would again put themselves on record against treating, and urge both the clergy and the laity to clearly realize that the drink problem is by no means moribund.

"The stream of young men to the bar-room in city, town and country is steady and strong. The forces of intoxication are organized and aggressive. The bar-room is building up its influence and power by establishing a supply and a demand to be supplied. "Our conviction is that while both the press and the legislature should incessantly force the cry of Christianity and humanity for a purified civic and national life, the one solution of the drink problem in this or any other country is not only to try to stop the supply, but try to stop the demand. It is an appeal to faith and action, to personal effort, not to sentimental theorizing. In one word, diminish the supply by diminishing the demand, and diminish the demand by influencing the patronage of the bar-room and the individual drinker.

"Instill with greater earnestness in day school and Sunday school the advantage of total abstinence for our young Canadian boys and girls. Prosecute with practical sagacity feasible legislative endeavors, but above all, put more and more to the front the idea that the only way in which the bar-room can be done away with is by the transformation of the heart and mind of the man who patronizes it."

The report also recommended continuing the annual temperance Sunday and also the good old-fashioned practice of the pledge employed by the Temperance Society.

The report was accepted.

Comment on the Report.

This report, although adopted, caused considerable comment. Rev. J. W. Andrew, of Berlin, objected to the report on the ground that he believed that the evil of drinking was decidedly on the increase in the diocese.

Rev. M. Turnbull, of Goderich, agreed with the report in that the temperance conditions were improving, and that he was sure that there was far less drinking in his town, at least, than there had been in years past. He said: "I object to forcing young people to make resolutions with regard to drink when they do not realize the temptations which will befall them in after-life. My belief is that we should teach our young people, 'Whatsoever ye do, do it unto the Lord.'"

Mr. McElhennan said that there were now no saloons in Ontario which should be closed—it was the bars connected with hotels which were now to be done away with. The term "saloon," he said, had come over here from the American side, where there is a saloon or low dive on every block where people could go and drink. He did not agree with the previous speaker about not asking children to sign the pledge, and said, "Some children know how to keep a pledge better than their elders, and let the children make pledges and they will keep them better than grown-up men."

Mr. R. S. W. Howard suggested that the two pledges, one for total abstinence and the other for moderate drinkers, should be done away with, and that one pledge should be substituted. There was no line which could be drawn in the temperance question, so he thought.

Helped by Pledges.

Another clergyman declared that he had seen more drinking in the Synod of Huron than in any place in Canada. He continued to tell of having seen many drunken men on the streets since coming to attend the synod meetings. He said the saloons had been opened at Fingal, and always tried to secure seats on the corners of streets, where they could have two doors, one where they could slide out, and the other where they could slide in. He knew that many men had been helped greatly during their lives by pledges which they had taken while young.

Mr. Macklin, of this city, stated that according to the best information which he could get, drinking was slightly on the decrease in Canada. He thought that there was a sin worse than drunkenness, and that was hypocrisy.

Rev. Dyson Hague said: "I have great faith in temperance and total abstinence for young Canada."

Mr. J. Higginbottom said he had done a lot of traveling about the Province, and that he was sure that drinking was on the decrease.

Mr. R. Williams, of Chatham, stated that he had signed the pledge when young, and had never broken it.

Lord's Day Observance.

The committee on Lord's Day observance reported satisfactory conditions under the new law. A resolution was passed to the effect that the synod pledges itself to support the Lord's Day Alliance in accordance with the new Lord's Day Act.

A short discussion preceded the passing of the resolution. Rev. Dyson Hague spoke of the great good which had been done through the Sunday schools, and lamented that there seemed to be a great inclination among people, both of the cities and of the country, in pursuit of driving, walking and other pleasures.

Mr. J. H. K. Pope said: "This is a point on which we should all be united, for there are large corporations which care neither for God nor man, which will evade the law of the country relating to the observance of the Sabbath, and would have their employees do the same. He pointed out the good influence which Christians could have by leading a good example in this matter."

The report of the committee on the widows' and orphans' fund was also submitted to the synod.

When arrested yesterday Piper produced the amount of his fine—$11—willingly enough, when he learned that the costs of his second arrest amounted to some $3, costing him in all $14.

RETIREMENT OF REV. DR. RYCKMAN.

Rev. Dr. G. B. Ryckman, who was a well-known figure in London Methodist circles a number of years ago, has decided to seek retirement and rest from pastoral duty faithfully performed for over half a century. In view of this regrettable fact, his Almonte congregation met on Tuesday to tender Dr. Ryckman and his family a farewell social. After a short programme of music and addresses, the chairman read a suitable address, which was neatly engrossed and surmounted by a fine water-color sketch of the Almonte church edifice. Accompanying the address were two handsome oak rockers. Dr. Ryckman, who is in his 77th year, entered the ministry in 1856, and had filled the pulpits in London, Chatham, Guelph and Brantford for two terms; Dominion Church, Ottawa, and two terms each in Montreal and Kingston.

TOO MUCH FAMILY WAS HIS TROUBLE

Wife, Mother-in-Law, Sister-in-Law, Nephew, Pounded Him Says Joseph Owens.

Joseph Owens, a colored man of London, Ontario, was arrested yesterday by Constable Norgrove on a charge of assault laid by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Green, who, notwithstanding the fact that the alleged assault took place a week ago, exhibited a beautiful black eye as a result of the fracas.

The stories given out by the complainant and the defendant differ widely.

The defendant alleges that his mother-in-law and her daughter have been living off his bounty for the past nine months, and that despite his urgent protests, they apparently intended to continue stopping at his home, which, he says, is only big enough for two, or at the utmost, four people.

His brother and a nephew also reside with Owens and his wife in a cottage which is said to be a patent of two rooms. Owens is quoted as saying that the sister-in-law has gone out each day for several months to look for a house for herself and her mother, and has come back intoxicated each time.

Owens alleges that on the night of the alleged assault he came home quietly and prepared to go to bed, when his sister-in-law made some slighting remark, and then when he replied in kind, his wife, the mother-in-law and the nephew all set upon him and began to pound him in earnest.

One woman, he claimed, had a rollingpin in her hand, another had a pair of scissors, the third one just used her bare fists and her feet, while the nephew was armed with an axe. Just by way of self-defense, so Owens says, he chastised the female end of the argument with his fists, while his brother, who is a cripple, took the axe out of the nephew's hand.

On the other hand, however, Mrs. Green, as she mournfully nursed her abused optic at the court house yesterday afternoon, told a far different tale.

Owens, she said, was insanely jealous of his wife, and a week ago last Thursday night he came home and attempted to put the sister-in-law out of the house, bag and baggage. His wife remonstrated, and was presented with a pair of Black optics for her pains. Mrs. Green, who says she was a disinterested spectator, was also violently assaulted.

The matter was hushed up until yesterday, when Mrs. Green swore out a warrant for Owens' arrest. Squire Chittick allowed bail on $500, and the matter will come up for hearing on Thursday next.

The house in which the Owens and their respective relatives abide is located on the Gore road.

COBALT NEWS

A dispatch from Ottawa states that Col. Rogers, who returned from the Reddick mines, at Larder Lake, has brought with him a quantity of gold ore. It was obtained at the nine-foot level. This strike is parallel to one made by Col. Rogers a month ago on a vein feet in width. It is said that free milling gold shows all through the nugget, and that the same material has been taken from the shaft all along.

Prospecting has commenced on the Nipissing property north of Cobalt town, adjoining that of the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay. Several of the veins of the latter proposition have been traced into the Nipissing property.

Work is progressing favorably with the concentrator building of the Comins Company, and it is now expected the machinery will be in operation by Aug. 1. When the concentrator is started the management of the Comins intend stopping more vigorously than heretofore.

A syndicate is being formed to develop copper properties comprising seven claims near Grassy Lake, in the Larder Lake district. The syndicate is headed by a little depth the metal is present in immense quantities. Mining will be cheap when the railway facilities are provided. Near this property is the Cover Leaf mine, with a 50-foot shaft, which has been worked for some time, and from which 150 tons of copper have been taken. The ore is ready for shipment as soon as the railway is built. This mine is owned by Pennsylvania capitalists.

About 200 mining engineers from the United States will visit the Cobalt camp on July 25 and 26. The party expected are members of the American Institute of Miners, and arrangements are being made for their reception by the Cobalt branch of the Canadian Institute of Mines. Every year delegates are appointed by the different branches of the American Institute of Miners to join in a large excursion and visit some noted mineral section. This year that association has decided upon making their excursion to Cobalt. They will be received upon their arrival by a committee of Cobalt mining men, and during their two days' visit will practically be the guests of this branch of the Canadian Mining Institute.

Greater New York has during the last five years built 16,158 flat houses, furnishing homes for 58,021 tenants. The cost for construction has been $390,512,585. When the cost of land is included the total investment has reached $1,000,000,000. The investment to house each person has been $1,710. If each tenant has paid, on the average, 10 per cent a year for housing accommodations, the annual rent which such an investment demands from each tenant is $171.

TALKED ABOUT THE MURDER

Two Italians Arrested in Connection With Rosenheimer Case.

New York, June 21.—Two Italian
laborers, John Menita and Nicola Car-
dona, were arrested on a Third avenue
elevated train at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, when they were believed that they knew something about the murder of Julius T. Rosenheimer, the rich needle manufacturer, which occurred on the grounds of his home at Pelham Tuesday night. They were locked up.

David Wynn, a railroad detective,
who made the arrests, speaks Italian.
He overheard the prisoners talking on the train about the murder. They mentioned a third man, whose name
Wynn did not catch, who, they said,
knew more than they about the case.
Both Italians said when arrested that they did not know anything about the murder.

NEW GOLD STRIKE.

Sydney, N.S.W., June 20.—While digging a grave in the cemetery at Ballarat the workmen struck a vein of gold-bearing stone 19 inches thick. It is reported that experimental crushing yielded about six pennyweights to the hundredweight. Prospectors are rushing out to peg the country around the cemetery. Many claims have been already pegged, and it is expected that a few days will witness a stampede
similar to that of the early days of gold mining in this country.

SYNOD CHANGES FUNDS MANAGEMENT

May Pass Them Over to a Trust
Co.—Election of Delegates to General Synod.

At last evening's session of the Synod of Huron, a new canon, permitting the diocesan funds to be invested
through the agency of a loan or trust company, was passed, after a discussion which lasted all through the afternoon. The following was the canon agreed upon:

"That the control, custody and management of all or any of the financial affairs of the synod, of what nature or kind soever, shall be vested in and be
and remain under the direction and supervision of the executive committee, and the same, including the investment and reinvestment of all the monies of the synod shall be administered by or through such sub-committee, officer, agent, corporation, company or otherwise, and upon such terms
as the executive committee may from time to time agree upon or provide.
Provided, always that all investments
shall, before completion, receive the sanction of a sub-committee of the executive committee."

For some time the question of how best to invest the synod funds has been a matter of dispute among the synod, and among those who were
the strongest supporters of the move
to have the funds administered by some financial agency, was Bishop Williams. The passing of the canon
last night greatly pleased him, as it did many others, who contended that such a course would be of great advantage in that it would be a saving and a means toward security. Many of those who most determinedly opposed the measure when it was brought before the synod last year, and was defeated, were its strongest supporters
this year. Among those who took part in the debate were many of the oldest and most influential clergymen and laymen in the diocese.

Mr. H. E. Bray, of St. Williams, thought that those who opposed the canon were looking forward to difficulties which would never be met with,
and were too conservative, being afraid
to try any new methods.

Mr. Henry Macklin, of this city,
thought that after having the synod
funds managed without any loss for the past twelve years they should know
the reasons for making any radical change. "Before we consent to any change," he said, "it should be shown that the management at present is not competent." Mr. Macklin proceeded to show wherein he thought the present
was as economical as any system could be and concluded: "I think, my lord,
and gentlemen, that we ought to go slowly in dealing with this matter."

Proper Scrutiny Advantageous.

Mr. W. E. Rispin, of Chatham, expressed himself as being in favor of the change in the method of handling the funds. He pointed out that because the old system had been a success in the past was no argument to show that a better method could not now be secured. He did not think that there would be any danger of the funds
slipping out from under the control of the synod under the proposed system.

"I question if an inspector were sent out to make a valuation of the loans
of this synod, whether the members of this committee would be satisfied to accept many of them," he said. The advantage of having the services of an experienced valuator of a loan company was then pointed out by Mr.
Rispin.

Mr. M. A. Gilbert, of St. Thomas,
also spoke in opposition to the canon.

Mr. John Ramsford, of Clinton, was the next speaker. He introduced the canon at the last synod meeting when it was defeated. He spoke at some length in favor of the change.

Mr. Robert McCosh, of Chatham, thought it would be best to leave well
enough alone.

Mr. E. A. Henderson, from Windsor,
spoke in favor of the proposed change.

He read over a copy of the contract
which any company would probably enter into with the synod. He estimated that the benefit of advice which was that of experienced financialists
would be secured by this change, and
that $1,000 would be saved.

Rev. John Downie, of St. Thomas,
also spoke at some length in favor of the change.

Mr. John D. Noble, from Petrolia,
was in favor of the change.

Mr. V. Cronyn, of this city, chancellor of the synod, gave a great deal
of timely information regarding the security of investments made by the synod.

Mr. T. H. Luscombe expressed himself as being adverse to the change.

Rev. Mr. J. W. J. Andrew, of Berlin,
thought that the systems used in the synod office was antiquated and was not altogether satisfactory. He also denounced some of the securities which are now held as being not the most secure.

Mr. Charles Jenkins, of Petrolia, thought that the synod having lost
no money during the past was more through good luck than good management.

Mr. Matthew Wilson, who presented the canon to the synod, spoke, and then the bishop put the motion which was moved by Mr. Matthew Wilson, and the canon was given its first
