

CRIPPEN AND WOMAN TRAPPED ON DECK OF LINER MONTROSE BOTH CLOSE TO COLLAPSE

Inspector Dew Boards the Steamer at Father Point Disguised As a Pilot and Arrests Couple While Promenading On Deck—The Physician Shows Great Fear When Arrested and Miss Leneve Becomes Hysterical.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

Father Point, Que., July 31.—Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, with Canadian officers, boarded the steamer Montrose at 10 o'clock this morning, and Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve were immediately identified and placed under arrest. Crippen made no resistance.

Father Point, Que., July 31.—The world-wide search for Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, wanted in London in connection with the murder of his wife, formerly Belle Elmore, a variety actress, came to an end this morning when "Rev. Mr. Robinson and son," the passengers on the C. P. R. steamship Montrose, from Liverpool, suspected of being Dr. Crippen and his stenographer, Miss Leneve, proved to be the persons wanted, and were promptly placed under arrest.

WERE PROMENADING DECK.

The Montrose arrived off Father Point at 8:30 a. m., when Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, with Chief McCarthy and ex-Chief Denis, of the provincial police, went out to her in the pilot's boat, as pilots. Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve were promenading the deck with Dr. Stewart, of the Montrose, when the rowboat came alongside. Dr. Crippen asked why there should be so many pilots, and Dr. Stewart replied they were probably pilots off duty returning to their homes.

The supposed pilots walked along the deck until they passed where Crippen, the girl, and Dr. Stewart were promenading. When Inspector Dew had a good look at the two, he gave the agreed-upon sign, and Chief McCarthy and Constable Denis at once arrested both Crippen and the girl and took them down to their own cabin, where they are now confined in custody of Inspector Dew.

CRIPPEN TURNED PALE.

Not fifteen minutes elapsed from the time the constables went aboard with Dew until the arrest was effected. Crippen turned pale as death, and his voice gurgled some unintelligible sound as he was hurried below, while Miss Leneve became hysterical.

When the arrests had been made, a signal was given to the steam tender Eureka, lying some distance off, by the whistle of the Montrose, and the tender came alongside, enabling the press representatives and photographers connected with the press to board the Montrose and proceed with her to Quebec, where the vessel will arrive about midnight tonight.

[Associated Press.]

Father Point, July 31.—Dr. Hawley Crippen and Ethel Clara Leneve, his stenographer, who fled from London after the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, were arrested here today, aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, at the command of Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard.

The Climax.

The identification of the fugitives by the English detective marked the culmination of one of the most sensational flights in recent criminal annals. Accompanied by two Canadian officers, he boarded the vessel at 8:30 this morning, and fifteen minutes later both man and girl were locked in their staterooms. Crippen, broken in spirits, but mentally relieved by the relaxed tension, the girl, garbed in boy's clothing, sobbing hysterically. They were no longer the Rev. John Robinson and son, as booked from Antwerp, on July 20.

Going Back Thursday.

After a brief delay, the Montrose continued her 160-mile journey up the river towards Quebec, where jail awaits the pair. Crippen is charged with the murder of an unknown woman. The girl is held as an accessory. They will be taken back to England on the steamship Royal George, leaving Quebec on Thursday.

A Dramatic Scene.

The scene enacted near the little settlement this morning was dramatic. Inspector Dew had spent a sleepless night at the Marconi operator's side communicating through the fog with the Montrose.

At 4:30 a. m. the approaching ship's whistle was heard. It awakened the villagers and the newspapermen, who dressed hastily and waited in a drizzling rain for the liner's arrival. Shortly after 7:30 o'clock the Montrose pushed her nose through the fog and at 8:15 the pilot boat Eureka set out from shore. She carried a host of newspapermen and photographers and as many townspeople as could be loaded on. But Inspector Dew was not among them. He had embarked on the Eureka's small tender, accompanied by Chief McCarthy, of the Quebec police, and Ex-Chief Denis, of the same city.

Passed as Pilot.

All wore the garb of pilots, and over his florid face, Inspector Dew had pulled a pilot's visored cap. He did not wish Crippen to recognize him before he could approach and take advantage of the only avenue of escape—suicide. Four sailors quietly rowed the tender alongside the Montrose and Dew and his companions stepped aboard.

Crippen Very Nervous.

CRIPPEN AND COMPANION JAILED WHEN STEAMER REACHED QUEBEC

Probably Be Deported and Rushed Back to England Thursday—Girl's Relatives Believe She Has Been Hypnotized.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Quebec, Que., July 31.—The steamer Montrose, of the C. P. R. line, arrived in port from London about 12:30 o'clock this morning. In spite of the late hour there was a large crowd at the landing at the commissioner's wharf anxiously waiting for the arrival of Dr. Crippen and Miss Leneve. The prisoners were in charge of Chief McCarthy, of the provincial police, Chief of Police Gauvreau, of Rimouski, Detective Denis, of the provincial police, and Inspector Dew, of Scotland Yard, and closely guarded they were immediately driven to the provincial police station at the Parliament House and incarcerated there for the rest of the night.

Prisoners Are Haggard.

The prisoners appeared haggard. Crippen wore clerical clothes of Anglican cut, spectacles and a short beard. The two prisoners will appear before the police magistrate tomorrow morning. Dr. Crippen will probably be rushed back to London to stand his trial. The return will probably be on the Royal George, which leaves Quebec on Aug. 4. This would probably set the couple in London in time for the hearing to Aug. 15. The London authorities wish to avoid another postponement.

May Be Deported.

London, July 31.—Scotland Yard officials tonight did not have any exact information as to whether Crippen would be deported or extradited, but they expect deportation, in which case, it was stated, Crippen would be placed on trial within three weeks. So that there might be no delay the officials made arrangements today for the prompt dispatch to Quebec of Sergeant Mitchell, should that be necessary.

Was Woman Hypnotized?

Ethel Leneve's relatives tonight are relieved that their long suspense is ended. They are convinced now that the woman can prove her innocence. Her mother says she is certain that Crippen hypnotized her daughter, otherwise she would never have donned boy's dress.

NO TROUBLE WITH ENGINEERS SAY GRAND TRUNK OFFICIALS

A New Schedule of Wages Is Being Drawn Up—A Conference With the Men Is Likely to Be Held—Strike Could Not Take Place Inside of Six Weeks.

Grand Trunk officials stated positively to The Advertiser last night that no trouble is likely to take place between the company and their engineers. For several days there have been many rumors that the engineers would go out today in sympathy with the other men who are out.

"A new schedule is being drawn up now," said one official, "and will be submitted to the men as soon as possible. If they do not agree to it there will be a conference, probably, to adjust matters, and in any case there would have to be arbitration before the men could go out. The engineers could not declare a strike in less than six weeks."

No Strike.

At strike headquarters it was stated that it was unlikely that the engineers would go out, as their agreement with the company would in all probability be fixed up all right, and the engineers would have no great complaints to be adjusted.

A number of the freight engineers and firemen will be short this month in their pay as the result of the tie-up of freight engines. It is said that there are at least 65 engines out of commission in and around Mimico, and there are a number of others at other points. Most of these engines have not moved a wheel since the strike was declared on July 18.

NO PLACE PROVIDED FOR SPECIALS TO SLEEP

Grand Trunk Constables Felt Sore When They Arrived in London.

A party of special constables who came up from Toronto yesterday to do picket duty on the Grand Trunk Railway, and who were placed on guard at different points, were greatly displeased last night when they discovered that no provision had been made for their sleeping accommodation.

They looked all about but the only place they could find was the waiting room. It was stated that the men went to hotels looking for accommodation, and could find none. The company still has men out night and day guarding every mile of track in the district.

FORMER LONDONER IN THRILLING RUNAWAY

Dr. English and Family Have Miraculous Escape From Serious Accident.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, July 31.—Bolling as the gate of an incline car was raised, a horse, driven by Dr. English, superintendent of the insane asylum here, who was taking his wife and family to church, ran away this morning from the foot of James street, and was not stopped until it reached the bay. In its mad dash the animal raced across railway tracks leading to the T. H. and B. depots, over street railway tracks and through church-going crowds, who expected every minute to see the occupants of the buggy dashed out. The doctor pluckily hung on to the lines, but could not get control of the animal until it exhausted itself. His family clung to their seats, and although they were not injured, they were badly frightened. Right at the head of James street, there is a sharp curve, and the buggy came within an ace of toppling over and crashing against a telegraph pole.

The road from the mountain to James street is paved and Dr. English believes this was alone responsible for the family's fortunate escape.

Dr. English formerly practiced in this city, and took a prominent part in public affairs, being at various times on the board of education and hospital commission.

WOLSELEY BARRACKS MEN ORDERED FOR STRIKE DUTY AT FORT ERIE

Twenty Men From London Joined by Detachment From Toronto at Hamilton—Grand Trunk Will Commence the Moving of Freight at Fort Erie Today—Local Strikers Look for a Settlement by Tuesday

Rumors of the most sensational character went around the city last night when a detachment of twenty soldiers from Wolseley Barracks, in command of Lieut. Griffiths and Lieut. Chrysler, marched at the double to the Grand Trunk station, and arrived just in time to board the Eastern Flyer before she pulled out at 6:50. The men were fully armed and carried their whole military kit as they would on active service.

The men were ordered to Fort Erie and were joined at Hamilton last night by a large detachment from Stanley Barracks, Toronto. The Grand Trunk will commence moving freight at Fort Erie today, and fearing trouble asked for protection, which was promptly furnished. The men at Wolseley Barracks, it is said, were only given fifteen minutes in which to pack up and get ready.

Wild Rumors.

When they were seen hurrying to the G. T. R. station the wildest rumors flew about. One story was that a mob had made an attack at Niagara Falls and was burning cars and buildings. Another story had it that another attack had been made on G. T. R. employees at Belleville.

There was also a story that a train had been wrecked, that the men from Wolseley Barracks were called out to guard it, and that the 7th was to be sent as soon as it could be got together. Inquiry at the Grand Trunk offices, however, showed that all was quiet along the line. Superintendent Bowker stated that there had not been any trouble of any kind reported through the day and that passenger trains were moving freely.

"If the strike is settled and the men want to they can come back at any time," said an official last night to The Advertiser.

STILL CONFERRING OVER STRIKE SETTLEMENT A FEW HOURS OFF

Leaders of Trainmen and Grand Trunk Officials Held Several Conferences Sunday at Montreal and Feeling of Peace Is In the Air

Montreal, July 31.—There were strong rumors here throughout the day that the settlement of the Grand Trunk strike is merely a matter of hours. Several conferences between the strike leaders and officials of the company have been held today, but officials refuse to make any statements, saying there is nothing definite for publication yet. It is believed, however, that good progress is being made toward a settlement, and the whole situation seems more hopeful than it has since the beginning of the strike two weeks ago tomorrow.

An Arrest Made in the Enos Case

Chatham, July 31.—James Johnson, the negro wanted as an accessory to the murder of Jacob Enos, on the night of July 18, in this city, was arrested at noon Saturday in Windsor, and was brought here the same day.

The jury at the inquest on Enos brought in a verdict Saturday morning of murder, and that Frank Jackson, colored, shot Enos, and that James Johnson, also colored, was an accessory to the crime. The only evidence taken at the inquest was that of Cassie Vincent and Louise Lewis, both colored, who skipped to Windsor after they had been subpoenaed to appear as witnesses, but were arrested there and brought back. Their evidence corroborated evidence of the preceding witnesses, but the crown is inclined to think that they had something back.

Crown Attorney Smith will go ahead at once with extradition proceedings to get Jackson from Detroit to stand trial for the murder.

POLE MADE THREATS AGAINST COUPLE'S LIVES

A Nelson Street Man Created a Lively Row on Saturday Evening.

Somebody telephoned the police on Saturday evening about 10 o'clock that there was a riot going on in the house of William Wildchek, a Pole, who lives on Nelson street. The police wagon, with Sergeant McDonald and P. C. Marshall, went down as fast as the horses could run it and the officers found a worthy man raging that could be heard all around the neighborhood.

Wildchek explained to the police as well as he could that he was afraid to go to bed because one of the Poles who boarded with him had told Mrs.

Wildchek that he was going to kill both her and her husband, while they were asleep. The arrival of the police, however, effectually quelled the affair, and no more was heard of the trouble.

LONDON TP. FARMER DROPPED DEAD IN FIELD

Very Sudden Death of Mr. John McLennan, of Lot 4, Concession C.

John McLennan, of lot 4, concession C, of London Township, dropped dead Saturday afternoon while on his way in from his fields, where he was looking over his crops. He had just reached the gateway of his home and fell. Neighbors who saw him fall rushed to his assistance and carried him to the house, but before he arrived there he was dead. Dr. Stevenson was sent for, but nothing could be done.

Mrs. McLennan had gone to the city, to market, and on returning was greatly shocked to find her husband dead. Mr. McLennan was 59 years old, and came to this country from Scotland and settled on the Gore of London. Beside his wife, Mr. McLennan leaves two sons and two daughters. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon to the Gore Cemetery.

PORT STANLEY VISITORS
STRANDED BY STORM

Obliged to Tarry at Traction Company's Depot—No Serious Damage Done.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Port Stanley, July 30.—The heaviest blizzard of the season fell here at 6 o'clock last night. The streets in the village were transformed into rivers, and the beaches at the foot of the various hills were turned into large ponds. Small landslides occurred in many places. The lightning struck and shattered a large maple tree in front of Mr. Eastwick's bakeshop on Colborne street, and put the Traction Company temporarily out of business. Hundreds of people were stranded at the Traction depot. Severe as was the storm no serious damage has so far been reported.

Miss Marion Keene, of Ynotrest Cottage, Willow Beach, entertained her Sunday school class of the Maitland Street Baptist Church, London, and a few other friends last evening.

Miss Clara Watt, of St. Thomas, who is summing with her sister, Mrs. (Dr.) McKillop, at Lorne Villa, Fraser Heights, entertained about 40 of her friends to a most delightful marsh-mallow roast on Stanley Beach last evening.

The towns of Dutton and Rodney will celebrate their Civic Holiday here on Wednesday. Seven rinks of their bowlers will try conclusions with the Port Stanley Club on their green on Willow Beach.

While bathing off Orchard Beach yesterday afternoon, Miss Cora Matheson, of Detroit, who is visiting Miss Isabella Tanton, of Sumach Ridge Cottage, was caught by the heavy undertow and swept from her feet. The young lady cried for help, and was quickly rescued by Mr. Martin McLaughlin, of St. Thomas, who was in bathing at the time. Miss Matheson is none the worse for her scare.

Mr. H. H. McCall and family have returned to their home in Alisa Craig after spending ten days at Good Times Cottage, Willow Beach.

Miss Irene Bartlett and her brother "Bill," of London, spent a couple of days this week with Miss Pearl Coles, of Bide A'Wee Cottage, Erie Rest.

Mrs. Harry Archer, Mrs. R. Thomas and Mrs. Harry Graham, of London, spent Thursday with their brother, Mr. John Graham, of Victoria Cottage, Erie Rest.

Ten coaches of excursionists came here from Springfield on Tuesday. Dr. Leonard Douglass, of Springfield, spent Thursday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Douglass, of Lillabue Cottage, Fraser Heights.

A Gay Time.

The sojourners of Shady View, Bide A'Wee and Alexandria Cottages, Erie Rest, have been having a gay time these last couple of days. Thursday evening they had a monster bonfire and tuffy pull on the beach, at which about 30 were present. During the evening some were rendered by Miss Glen Wilson, Miss Hilda Keene, and Mr. John Dyer. Then yesterday the same crowd of merry-makers repaired to Lookout Hill, Erie Rest, and indulged in an Auld-Tyme Picnic, cooking everything they ate over a camp fire. All had a jolly time, and are much pleased with the outing.

Footbridge Collapsed.
The eastern approach to the Erie Rest steel footbridge, which was reported out of repair in The Advertiser a week ago, has now entirely collapsed, which has cut off all communication between Fraser Heights and Erie Rest by this most picturesque route. Steps should be taken to repair the structure without further delay.

It is expected a large number will take in the London Civic Holiday excursion on the Forest City to Cleveland this evening.

Rev. O. D. Fournier, of Idlewild Cottage, Orchard Beach, is spending the week-end in Mosca.

The Sunday evening services at the Casino conducted by Canon Downie are being well attended.

ILDERTON.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ilderton, July 30.—Grace Church congregation and Sunday school intend picnicking at Springsbank next Wednesday, Aug. 3. Teams will leave here at 8:30.

St. George's Church, which has been extensively renovated, in the way of being painted and decorated, will be opened for divine worship on Sunday, Aug. 7. There will be services at 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Rev. William Lorne, of St. Matthew's Church, London, will be the preacher. The interior of the church has been redecorated throughout. The wooden ceiling has been painted and grained in imitation of quarter-cut oak, the moldings and principals are done in cherry color, for relief. The walls of the nave are of a green, grey tint, making a pleasing contrast with the woodwork. A church gothic border in five tints, hand painted, extends all around the top of the walls, and at the bottom of the walls a dado border 30 inches wide is painted all around. The jambs of the windows are painted a light old gold color, with an ornament around all the windows. The text, "Worship the Lord in the Beauty of Holiness," looks beautiful over the chancel arch. The side walls of the chancel have a gothic border painted near the top, and from there to the wainscoting is painted a dark, sage green ground, ornamented by cross and crown and fleur-de-lis in gold. The end of the chancel has a crimson ground, containing a double triangle on either side, inclosing the letters, "I. H. S.," in gold on a dark blue ground. On each side of the chancel windows are gothic, oak panels, with dark blue ground, containing "Alpha and Omega," and the words, "I Am the Bread of Life," and "I Am the True Vine." All the other woodwork inside has been painted and grained. The outside woodwork has been painted an umber drab. The work has been done in a highly first-class manner by Mr. James Matthew, of St. Thomas. A special collection is asked for at the opening services.

A Special Invitation to Our Out-Of-Town
Friends to Visit This August Furniture Sale

Always have we advised buying in your home towns and cities where you can find what you need for your home and personal use. But there are many out-of-the-ordinary and unique pieces of Furniture in this sale, which we believe can be bought in no other place, except in a few of the larger cities. Besides the price advantage, being large dealers we buy in quantities big enough to secure every advantage in price and discounts, in the regular lots as well as being able to take clearing lots from factories, thereby obtaining prices with which it is impossible for small dealers to compete.

Again, the variety you have in choosing from such a stock as ours; instead of one or two, it is safe to say you will find a variety of half a dozen or more styles to choose from in any article of furniture you may require.

Again, we are not only furniture dealers, but general home furnishers. In the first place, WE ARE DECORATORS, carrying a large stock of wall papers and have expert workmen to carry out our ideas. Then we have the carpets and rugs to match the decorations, also the draperies, lace curtains and furniture coverings to harmonize.

Behind all these departments is practical experience and our ideas.

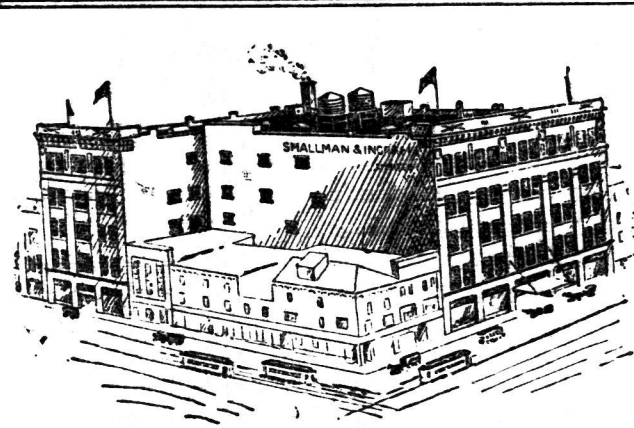

Let us show you how much we can help you when furnishing your home.

For these and many other reasons we extend this personal invitation to people within at least 100 miles of London. We say "within a hundred miles," because the savings on the furniture will more than pay your railroad fare, here and return, from that distance, also the shipping of the furniture--and you will have a pleasant day's outing in addition.

In fact, where entire rooms or houses are to be furnished, people have come from a distance of over one hundred miles and from cities much larger than London (as we must admit there are bigger cities and larger stores), but we leave the public to judge where the best is to be found.

We would not ship the large amount of Furniture we do to outside towns and cities were we not rendering the best all-the-year-round service in Furniture, nor would we expect to hold this outside business were

BATTLE IN DARK

Fatal Clash Between Striking Miners and Troopers.

Greensburg, Pa., July 30.—In a desperate hand-to-hand battle last night, near the export coal mines, 16 miles from this place, a striking coal miner was shot and killed, and George Davis, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a member of Troop A, Pennsylvania State, was seriously wounded. Nearly a score of others received minor injuries. The battle between the strikers and authorities was fought out in the dark, and was the result of the efforts of the law officers to arrest sharpshooters, said to be strike sympathizers, who for the past week have nightly endeavored to shoot a searchlight placed on the tipple of one of the mines, where a strike has been in progress for the past three months.

It is now possible to telephone from Liverpool to Paris, Brussels and several smaller cities and towns in France and Belgium.

AN INSURANCE POINT

The Supreme Court To Decide as to Jurisdiction.

Ottawa, July 30.—The issue raised by the decision given last winter in a Montreal court, that insurance companies were exclusively under Provincial rather than Federal jurisdiction, will be submitted by the Federal Government to the supreme court.

When the new insurance act was before parliament last session the point was raised that, according to the Montreal decision, the whole act might be ultra vires of the Federal Parliament, and that Provincial Governments might have the right under the British North America act to issue licenses and enforce penalties.

Notice is now given in the Canada Gazette that the supreme court has been asked to decide if sections 4 and 70, of the insurance act of 1910, the license and penalty sections, respectively, are ultra vires of the parliament of Canada, and also if section 4 operates to prohibit an insurance company incorporated by a foreign state from carrying on the

Bosses at Recent Windsor Meet
Make Clean-Up As Result of Queer Work.

FOUR JOCKEYS ARE OFF

J. C. Yeager Ruled Off Tracks for Heavy Betting on Frameup Race.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 31.—The clean-up made by Judges C. F. Price and Francis Nelson, following the recent meeting at Windsor under the auspices of the Windsor Driving Association, has proven to be the greatest ever known on the American turf.

Four jockeys, a notorious colored clocker, a valet and one of the largest owners now racing in Canada, have been suspended, and it is up to the Canadian Racing Association whether or not they ever race again. Besides the above, S. A. Clouton, an owner, and J. C. Yeager, well-known operator, are under investigation by the judges.

The "sure thing" men have been working rather strongly on the Canadian circuit this season, and it was not until Judge Price brought to Windsor by Mr. Hendrie to officiate, that any notice was taken of the matters as they stood.

Pease's Ride Starts It.

The first ride that looked suspicious to the officials was that put up by Jockey Pease on the mare Woodlawn, who under a most listless ride as his hands finished second, when the judge thought that she was good enough to win.

Nothing was done in this matter, as they bided their time and waited to catch the culprits with the goods on them a few days later, when Caper Sauce was deliberately pulled by Pease, for which he was suspended. The story has already been told.

This was followed by the ride on Monieret at the hands of Pease, who in the opinion of the judges, did not try to win, and at the same time Trainer McDaniels stated that he thought that Monieret was only breezing when Red Wine was allowed to pass him.

After Bigger Graft.

Next came the bigger game in a steepchase. Dr. Heard, who was held in the betting at 15 to 1, was heavily bet on by J. C. Yeager, and ran a good race until he fell at the last jump. A few days later, the same field, but not bet on and ran a wretched race, for which his rider, Jockey Kellerher, was suspended.

Information was given to officials to the effect that Phil Chinn approached W. A. Burtischel, they each having two horses running on the same afternoon.

Asked to Pull Horse.

Chinn, it is charged, asked Burtischel to pull Port Worth to Redwine, and he would pull Stafford for Cooney K. To this Burtischel would not agree, and won with both horses. Burtischel made an affidavit to this story.

The next evidence against Chinn was laid by Jockey Goldstein, who said that one J. Henry, a rider, had approached him and said that Phil Chinn would pay him $100 to pull Teddy Bear, which horse he was riding, to let Elmeta Hamilton win. Goldstein would not agree to this, and on the way to the post, Jockey Henry increased his offer to $200, but Goldstein still refused. Teddy Bear, in the opinion of the judges, ran a good race, although he was beaten.

Goldstein made an affidavit to this, and further added that when he arrived here at the request of C. F. Price, he was met by Henry, who told him to stand "pat."

Pease Had a Chance.

Pease was still given a chance, and all that he had to say was that only one that ever asked him to pull a horse was W. A. Burtischel. The latter denied it, and the judge stated, as Burtischel had always raced under them in a fair manner, that there was nothing against him, so that Pease and Henry were suspended.

Chinn was given a chance to exonerate himself with an affidavit, but would not do so.

J. C. Yeager is still undergoing an investigation, and his case will be referred to the Canadian Racing Association. He admitted betting $500 on Mill on the Floss the day that Caper Sauce was pulled to allow her to win, but denied that he offered money to Musgrave to win with her. He also admitted that he bet on Dr. Heard the day he was at a long price and another the next time Dr. Heard faced the flag.

What Happened.

The summary as it stands at the present time sees Jockeys A. Pease, A. Palma, J. Henry and P. Kellerher suspended, and a recommendation to revoke their licenses.

Valet George Kelley has been suspended with the same recommendation.

Phil Chinn is suspended in the same manner. Colley Thompson has been waived away from the Canadian tracks, and the cases of S. A. Clouton are being investigated.

Albert Simmons, who trains for J. W. Schorr, was closely questioned, but no evidence could be found to connect him with any of the numerous frame-ups, so that the case against him will be dropped.

ST. JOHNS AND YOUNGS
SPRINGBANK WINNERS

Two Good Games Played in League
Down the River Saturday Afternoon.

The St. Johns and the Youngs were the winners in the Springbank League Saturday by scores of 4-3 and 5-2.

The Saints beat the St. Georges in the first game through opportune hitting and superior fielding. W. Baker, for the winners, had fifteen strikeouts to his credit.

The following was the lineup:
St. Johns—Stinson 2b, George s.s., Watts 1b, McIntyre c.f., R. Baker, r.f., Pirie 3b, Legg 1f, Wright c., W. Baker p.

St. Georges—Dwyer c., McIntyre 1f, T. Murray s.s., Spence 2b, F. Murray p., W. Murray 2b, Nichols r.f., Thomas c.f., Powell 1b.

Score by innings:
St. Johns 200100010-4
St. Georges 000300000-3

Youngs Win.

In the second contest the Youngs won from the Y. M. C. A. in a good game, although the Y. M. C. A. did not play together well, and thus caused their defeat.

The lineup:
Youngs—Stevens 2b, Moore c.f., Hardy s.s., Orr 3b, Rossiter 1f, Russell c., Sullivan r.f., Clark p.

Y. M. C. A.—Tanner 3b, Yule s.s., McTagg 1b, Mason c., Whiting 2b, Fitzallen c., Smith r.f., McKeown c.f., Wright p.

Score by innings:

A POPULAR SPORTSMAN
GOES TO WALKERVILLE

Mr. Jack Smith, of the North End
Football Team, Given Farewell
By Fellow Employees.

Saturday afternoon a well-contested game of baseball between picked teams of the London bolt and hinge works employees was played on Carling's Heights. Bill Oliver captained the winning team, and W. Bartholomew, the losers. Score 12 to 9. Mike Buller umpired.

After the game the bolt workers and their friends partook of light refreshments, the affair being a farewell to Jack Smith, who has severed his connection with the London bolt and hinge works. On Tuesday next he leaves for Walkerville, where he will reside.

A committee of the North End football team were present, and W. Bartholomew, on their behalf, expressed the deep regret the team felt on losing their manager, and presented Mr. Smith with a beautiful gold-mounted walking stick as a token of the respect the team has for him. As they lose a good manager and a true sport, they are sure some other team will be benefited.

Mr. Smith, although completely taken by surprise, expressed his appreciation of their kindness.

Shamrocks Have Easy Time in Mud
—Caps Win at Last.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, July 30.—The Shamrocks sprang a surprise here today when they administered a decisive beating to the Tecumsehs of Toronto, the score being 8 to 3 at full time. The Irishmen were much the better mud horses, and had things much their own way. The teams lined up as follows:

Shamrocks—Goal, Muller; point, Dillon; cover, Clingan; defence field, Barry, Rochford, Tobin; centre, Munday; home field, George, Quinn, MacCarthy; outside home, Hyland; inside home, McIntyre.

Tecumsehs—Goal, Kinsman; point, Green; cover, Yeaman; defence field, Graydon, Mackenzie, Ions; centre, Kelker; home field, Querrie, Murton, Durkin; outside, McGregor; inside, McDougall.

LEAFS 6, CORNWALL 5.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, July 30.—The rejuvenated Capitals showed form today when they won from the fast Factory Town team in a close, hard game by a score of 6 to 5. There was a big crowd to witness the performance. The win was quite a surprise to many.

The teams lined up as follows:
Capitals—Goal, Lessieur; point, Currie; cover, Goodwin; first defence, Fritchard; second defence, Pringle; third defence, Gorman; centre, Dooley; third home, Marcellus; second home, Groulx; first home, Moffatt; outside, Eastwood; inside, T. Gorman.

Cornwall—Goal, Cummins; point, Cameron; cover, Somerville; first defence, F. Degan; second defence, F. Cummins; third defence, C. Degan; centre, White; third home, Phelan; second home, Donihue; first home, Nicholson; outside, G. Smith; inside, Anderson.

Referee, Johnny Brennan and Desse Brown, Montreal.

Jim McPhee, trainer and driver of Flying Jib, says the gelding has not shown his true form yet this season. He looks for Jib to pace a mile close to 2:10 before the racing season ends.

LAPORTE ILLUSTRATES THE UPS AND DOWNS OF A BALL PLAYER

FRANK LAPORTE, A SECOND RATER LAST YEAR AND A STAR NOW.

Hughy Jennings or some other equally famous teacher of baseball as it should be played, once remarked, sentimentally, that a ball player is a dub one day, a star the next, and forgotten the next. Jennings had the right dope all right, as instance the case of Frank Laporte, the husky young athlete who is third basing for the New York Americans.

Laporte began last season with the Boston Speed Boys, was found wanting and on fire, and frequently he heard the faint but distinct rumbling of the world on fire, and frequently he heard the faint but distinct rumbling of the world on fire. Laporte wasn't backed on for much this season when Stalling and Hal Chase began working with the team down south, but he fooled the wise ones. They stuck him on third base and the way he played that bag was a revelation, albeit a pleasant one. He has been on third base practically all season and is really one of the stars of the American League. His batting and fielding have done as much as any other one man's play to keep the Highlanders in the race and Laporte now is an idol of the bugs who this time last year had more trouble seeing him than the wise astronomers had, seeing Hon. Halley's comet.

FACTORY FIELD
DAY BIG SUCCESS

Athletics at Queen's Park Saturday
Attracted An Immense Crowd.

TUG-OF-WAR A FEATURE

McClary's Men Had No Trouble Winning
From All Opponents—
The Results.

Fair weather and a large crowd favored the first annual athletic meet of the Manufacturers' Athletic Association held at Queen's Park Saturday afternoon.

Over twenty-two hundred people were in the stands during the games, and the affair, which will be held annually, bids fair to be one of the feature events of the summer entertainments.

Nineteen teams from different city factories were entered, George White & Sons' representatives carrying off the honors with the highest aggregate, 32 points.

First Aid Men Out.

Four members of St. John's Ambulance Association were posted around the track to administer first aid to the injured. Mr. W. B. Clarke, the captain, had the only casualty, Gordon Scott, of 587 Central avenue, fell from his wheel while speeding around the track into the home stretch. He shot under the inside fence, spraining his hand badly. Mr. Clarke fixed him up in a few minutes. The other members of St. John's Association on the grounds were Geo. Noble, Ben. Wilson, W. Morton.

The sports were handled by a very capable committee, the officials being: Starter, E. A. Sovereign, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. Referee, S. Milroy. Clerk of the course, Publicity Commissioner C. E. Carruthers. Timekeeper, Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, local representative of the C. A. A. U. Judges, H. Drenney, R. I. Watson, J. Sherlock and J. Eagan.

Mr. W. Evans officiated as referee of the tug-of-war contest.

Tug-of-War a Feature.

This event was one of the features of the afternoon. McClary's foundry team found their opponents easy pickings and pulled down men weighing a great deal more than themselves.

The association desires to thank the merchants and manufacturers who donated the prizes to make the meet such a success. The field day was promoted to create interest in sports in this city, and the efforts of the men behind the scheme were amply rewarded. The meet was sanctioned by the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association and all competitors are registered with that body.

The Results.

100-yard dash—H. Eckert, Havana Cigar Company; W. Hunter, Advertiser Company; A. J. McLachlin, Geo. White & Sons; Gordon Scott, Globe.

220-yard dash—W. Hunter, Advertiser; H. Eckert, Havana Cigar Company; J. Wilson, Time 23 3/4 seconds.

Half-mile run—R. Campbell, Geo. White & Sons; Gordon Scott, Globe Casket Company; A. Ashford, McCormick Company. Time 2 minutes 15 1/2 seconds.

Half-mile walking race—C. McLachlin, Geo. White & Sons; W. Wells, Lawrenson & Co.; Alex. Ross, Ross & Son.

One-mile run—R. Campbell, Geo. White & Sons; J. McDougall, McCormick & Co.; C. McLachlin, Geo. White & Sons. Time 5 minutes and 8 seconds.

Relay race, 1 mile, four men—Geo. White & Sons, McCormick Manufacturing Company, Empire Manufacturing Company. Time 4 minutes.

THE WOMAN'S CORNER

A CHARMING SUMMER COIFFURE

Simple curls, soft waves and a wreath of diminutive yellow and shaded pink roses—that's all.

FASHIONS

Many very large flat hats are seen, trimmed underneath the brim.

New handbags are made of black velvet and colored suede leather.

A novelty in the binding of hats is to take a ribbon about three inches wide, gather at each edge, and draw up to fit over the brim edge as wide on the lower as on the upper side.

The gumpes of plain sheer tulle or net is more frequently used than that of tucks. The yoke is extremely shallow and flesh tint is the usual color.

Wreaths of simple white roses lie flat upon the broad brims of plain black hats for those who would avoid the flaring brim.

The kimono and obi scarf effect is strongly hinted at in some of the new Paris costumes, which lean toward orientalisms.

Pumps of panama straw for warm weather wear are made with moderately thick soles.

Lapis-lazuli, jade, malachite, ruby, crystal and coral are among the stones most frequently used for earrings.

Little fans must match the evening gown in color and material, and the same pattern of embroidery must be used for their decorations.

Pumps of black satin are finished with simple flat bows.

PACK SUFFRAGE IN WITH THE GROCERIES

New York, July 30. — (Special.)—If Selva Lockwood had thought of the latest suffrage scheme for advertising the cause, she might easily have won her way to the White House in 1884. Over in Brooklyn they are getting suffrage with their coffee for breakfast, with their salad for lunch, and with their porthouse steak for dinner. Probably they will be getting it next with their pajamas and nightgowns, but it hasn't quite come to that yet.

And all because the suffrage promoters adopted the wiles of the modern advertising man. They had hundreds of thousands of paper bags printed with a little suffrage boomlet on one side, and distributed them gratis to the grocers and butchers of Brooklyn. Naturally, these dispensers of provender were perfectly willing to use the bags. Now every housewife receives a little lesson in equal suffrage along with the baking powder, the vanilla extract and the shredded bath-mats. She finds out how to get in touch with her district organization, and learns that no dues are required.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Miss Grey: My hands perspire very much, making it impossible for me to wear gloves, even in the winter. I wish you would please tell me what to do for them. INQUIRY.

A.—Improve your general circulation by long walks. Take a hot bath twice or three times a week, followed by a cold sponge or spray. Rub your entire body vigorously with a rough Turkish towel morning and night. Dust a little talcum with one-sixth part powdered alum in it, into your gloves.

Dear Miss Grey: A schoolmate has been paying a great deal of attention to me. He is engaged to a girl who is away, but he never goes to see her unless he goes on the sly, and he does not mention her to me. I invite him to call, and he says he will, but he has called only once. How can I find out if he means to be true to me? My mother is also anxious. My father is dead. Please advise me. LILLIAN.

A.—If you know this young man is engaged, you are doing wrong in accepting attentions from him. It looks as if he may be a would-be "mascher." If he does not care enough about you to call at your home, he certainly is not worthy the thought you are giving him. Drop him.

Dear Miss Grey: I had some work done with the electric needle, and brown scars have resulted. What can I do for them? GREENHORN.

A.—Better consult the operator who did your work.

HILMA

William Tillinghast Eldridge.

She had told me of Zergald's endeavor to get a law passed in the State of fact unknown to any of us. She had no need to tell me of that and much more that she did. And so I accepted what she said and believed in her. Of course, I could not help realizing all she purposed doing would affect Heinrich's interests, and far more than my telling Sir Charles of his threat against me at her villa. Yet when she told me an underground passage connected the house where we were and the palace, and that she would lead me through it, and to the documents, I was ready and eager to follow her.

I may have been easily persuaded. I may have allowed my desire to recover my papers to outweigh my judgment, perhaps I did. And yet if I did, all I can say is that the Countess Merdith talked convincingly, and I believed her. It seems today, as I review events, I was easily persuaded, easily led. But as I write have not the countess before me. Her handsome, eager face, her deep eyes, her frank look are not here to add evidence to the statements. Let the man who condemns my over-confidence and calls me a fool for rushing in as I did remember that. Let him meet the countess once—and she can be found today in a certain capital of Europe—it is best to keep track of a few people—and there talk with her. He'll believe what I tell him. I'm mistaken.

However, why excuse myself? The fact is I bade the countess lead on, and we instantly set out for the castle. The documents were in Heinrich's room, she said, and all we had to do was to go down and enter by a secret door she knew well.

Taking a candle, we went into the hall and down a flight of narrow stairs. The countess led the way, and soon we were in the cellar of the house piled high with old boxes and rubbish already begun to rot.

From there she led me on through a narrow stone-lined passage, cold and damp. The ground fell away a bit and we kept going down lower and lower. Then suddenly we came to a flight of steps, some ten in number, down which we passed, to find ourselves in a fair-sized room containing a small pine table and two chairs.

It seemed much like a dungeon, and as inviting. For the first time the countess paused and spoke to me. "I must leave you here for a moment. A guard is beyond. She pointed to a black spot on the other wall, which I made out to be a second opening. 'I will have to get him away.' My confidence in her was not shaken, so I lessened. The long wall through the narrow passage and the request to wait in darkness in a dungeon-like room was not conducive to trust. Yet I had come so far and could not well turn back.

So I seated myself on the chairs by the table and bade the countess go on. She left me without another word, and left me in black a darkness as I have ever seen. As soon as she was gone through the archway at the farther side I whipped out my revolver and sat, all nerves keen, listening for the slightest sound.

I knew if I was to be attacked it would be while I waited here, and if I passed through this I could be certain my trust was not misplaced. How long I sat there listening and hearing nothing but the beating of my own heart I do not know. It was not over ten minutes, and yet in such a place ten minutes were like as many hours.

Then as I began to grow more accustomed to the stillness, I thought I heard a slight shuffling sound at the farther end of the room.

I leaned forward, my pistol ready, and tried to pierce the darkness. The sound came on, but came no nearer. As far as I could judge, it came from the doorway where the countess had passed out. Then it ceased as suddenly as it had begun and silence reigned again. For a moment I sat listening for a repetition, and then it seemed I heard the sound of running water, and a slight breeze sprang up where before the air was heavy.

Wondering on this, and listening to find my ears had not deceived me, I suddenly saw a faint light, but only for an instant.

a shot when the sound of some one moving again fell on my ears. "John!" It was Karl's voice, and the relief at finding friends instead of an enemy almost drove caution from me. "Yes," I whispered, and moved across to where Karl and Barnsmurk crouched in the corner.

"We followed you in through the window," he explained. "What's happened?" For a moment I hesitated, and then before I could speak a dim light flashed in the entrance to the passage.

Drawing Karl and Barnsmurk back with me, I crouched behind a huge pile of boxes, and the next instant Heinrich and the countess moved like ghosts across the further end of the cellar.

Karl stirred ever so slightly, and like a vice my hand gripped his arm. "The steps!" Heinrich cautioned. "Be above."

We heard them mount to the first floor, their steps echoing in the darkness over loud. "Well?" Karl demanded as the heavy footsteps of Heinrich sounded on the floor above.

"Wait!" I cautioned. "Let's see what they do." It was turning over in my mind a plan that had come to me suddenly.

"There," I said, straightening up again.

"The street door closed. They've gone," I eagerly. "Did you succeed?" Karl demanded.

I paid no attention to his question, but turned to Barnsmurk and said: "You'll find a spring in the wall on the left side. It opens the street door. Go! Follow them, but be certain they do not see you."

"Shall I come back here?" Barnsmurk asked. "Undoubtedly they'll go to the countess's villa. If Heinrich goes in, leave him there and go back to the castle. Tell her Highness nothing has been accomplished. Hurry!"

Without another word he moved silently across the cellar and up the stairs. As the street door clicked after him Karl turned to me, disappointment in his voice.

"Nothing accomplished," he cried. "Why didn't we stop them?"

I explained quickly what had transpired; how I had talked with the countess and of the close call in the passage. "By God, John," he exclaimed, "it was a close call!"

I nodded while a cold chill ran up my spine and I had a gone feeling in the pit of my stomach, so vivid was the recollection of the moment when I discovered I was standing on the edge of the open stairs, where one false step would have sent me to eternity. "Yes," I said, speaking slowly. "It was as close a call as I ever met with, and once I had a wounded grizzly on my hands and not a cartridge left in my magazine."

There was only one thing I was glad of, and that was to feel the countess had not had a hand in the scheme. Of course, I realized I had been duped, and she had lured me on to fall into Heinrich's hands, but for that I could forgive her. I had heard her sincere exclamation over my fate when she thought I was dead; and, too, she had called me a poor fellow.

I was one, I guess, to be so easily led. That, however, was more through my anxiety to recover the papers than because I was easily beguiled. Such a thought was a balm to my over-confidence.

PUPPY AND THE FAIRIES.

In the first place Puppy didn't see the fairies, much less did he know the upturned calla lilies on the ground were their camping-out tents. How could a puppy know about such things?

Having nothing better to do Puppy had upset the lily tents and even carried some of them away. And when the breezes blew away the uncovered thistle-down beds, he had chased them wildly through the garden, overturning all their toadstool furniture on his way.

That the upstart Puppy needed punishing, the fairies agreed.

At last when Puppy was tired from play he stretched himself out in a nice shady spot to sleep.

But dear me! What was that which kept tickling his nose and making him sneeze? He had scratched his nose with his paw and rubbed it in the dirt, yet every time he dozed off there was that queer tickling again.

Then something would bite his ear. No sooner did he start to scratch with

GIANTS BUY FIRST BASEMAN IN BRUSH

John McGraw has a liking for Texas League players, particularly the kind Joe Gardner raises in his ball yard down in Dallas. Jack Gowdy is the second member of the Dallas team McGraw has purchased this season, and Gowdy is slated to join the Giants immediately after the close of the Texas League season in September. The purchase price was not made public.

Gowdy is a first baseman who was in the Ohio State League last year. His work since going to the Texas League has been one of the real sensations of the league, and in batting and fielding he is said by critics to be far superior to Pat Newman, purchased from Houston this summer by the St. Louis Browns. When Gowdy joined the Dallas team this year he offered to forfeit $100 of his salary if he didn't stick over $300 for the season, and present indications are that he won't be compelled to take up the forfeit.

Chicago, July 30.—For the sixth successive time Detroit emerged a winner from a game, and for the first time in four games has a team scored on a Tiger twirler. It all happened on Charles Comiskey's new ball park this afternoon. The final count was 4 to 2, and one of the White Sox tallies came because Edgar Willett's wild throw got him into a hole in the first inning and Chicago set up a one-run lead. Fred Payne, acting as pinch hitter, drove in the second run in the ninth inning.

GIANTS BUY FIRST BASEMAN IN BRUSH

John McGraw has a liking for Texas League players, particularly the kind Joe Gardner raises in his ball yard down in Dallas. Jack Gowdy is the second member of the Dallas team McGraw has purchased this season, and Gowdy is slated to join the Giants immediately after the close of the Texas League season in September. The purchase price was not made public.

Gowdy is a first baseman who was in the Ohio State League last year. His work since going to the Texas League has been one of the real sensations of the league, and in batting and fielding he is said by critics to be far superior to Pat Newman, purchased from Houston this summer by the St. Louis Browns. When Gowdy joined the Dallas team this year he offered to forfeit $100 of his salary if he didn't stick over $300 for the season, and present indications are that he won't be compelled to take up the forfeit.

Chicago, July 30.—For the sixth successive time Detroit emerged a winner from a game, and for the first time in four games has a team scored on a Tiger twirler. It all happened on Charles Comiskey's new ball park this afternoon. The final count was 4 to 2, and one of the White Sox tallies came because Edgar Willett's wild throw got him into a hole in the first inning and Chicago set up a one-run lead. Fred Payne, acting as pinch hitter, drove in the second run in the ninth inning.

MURDER SUSPECT RUN TO EARTH

Police Get Joseph Wendling After Long Chase Over the Continent.

WAS AT SAN FRANCISCO

Charged With the Brutal Slaying of Little Louisville Girl.

San Francisco, July 30.—Wendling, the Louisville church sexton, who has been under suspicion as the murderer of Alma Kellner, was caught here today.

Wendling was captured in a Third street lodging-house by Detectives Ryan and Burke, of the local department. He made no resistance, and admitted to the officers on the way to the city prison that he was Wendling, with the murder of the girl in his talk with the district attorney and police. He described his wanderings since leaving Louisville, saying he went to New Orleans, thence to Texas and finally to Vallejo, where Carney found his trail.

The capture was due to a tip given the detectives by a note from some unknown person. The note stated that Wendling would be found at No. 341 Third street. That was three days ago, and when the detectives went to the place they found a vacant lot. Adjoining this was a lodging-house at 345 Third street. The place is conducted by a French woman, who insisted that no man answering to Wendling's description had ever stopped there. A watch was maintained about the place, however, and this morning the detectives determined to search the house. Wendling was found hiding under the sink in the kitchen.

He denied he was the man, but the mark of the bullet wound in the hand received while he was in the French army was discovered, and investigation disclosed the ship tattoo on his body. When the officers spoke of these Wendling broke down and admitted his identity. Wendling has been sought for in this city for three weeks. He was trailed to Vallejo, a town 30 miles from here, by Chief of Detectives J. P. Carney, of Louisville, after a chase that led across the continent.

PLAN TO BALLOON ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

Vaniman and Wellman Will Start Their Dirigible at Atlantic City.

WAS AT SAN FRANCISCO

Charged With the Brutal Slaying of Little Louisville Girl.

New York, July 31.—Melvin Vaniman, aviator, and mechanical engineer, returned from San Francisco today by the liner La Touraine, full of confidence in the flight across the Atlantic, which he proposes to undertake with Walter Wellman in their dirigible airship America. Mr. Wellman met him at the pier and both left immediately for Atlantic City to make ready for housing the America, which is to arrive here on Wednesday by the Oceanic.

"The America will carry an unshakable lifeboat on her voyage," said Mr. Vaniman. "This lifeboat will be 25 feet long, 6 feet in beam, and will be stocked with provisions, sufficient to last the crew for 30 days."

"Besides Mr. Wellman and myself we shall carry two mechanics whom I have brought over with me from France, a wireless operator and one other man not yet chosen."

The wireless operator will supply news of the voyage to the New York Times, the Chicago Record-Herald and the London Daily Telegraph, none of which, however, stand back of the enterprise otherwise than as customers for whatever of interest it may have to tell.

"Flying above the ocean," continued Mr. Vaniman, "will be play, compared to some of the flights we made in the Arctic. In both our failures there the fault was not with the dirigible proper, but in one instance, with our instruments, which failed to give us an exact idea of where we were going, and in the other with our guide rope which broke by reason of a defective piece of leather."

"Crossing the Atlantic we shall try to keep at a level of about 300 feet above the water. In case of any accident short of a disaster we ought to have no trouble, equipped as we shall be with wireless, in getting in touch with one of the many trans-Atlantic liners. For fuel we shall carry four tons of gasoline."

"It is necessary to start from Atlantic City because only there could we find a balloon shed big enough to receive the America, but conditions permit us to start from any place. Our objective point will be London, but any place in England will look good enough to land on."

LONDON BANK CLEARINGS INCREASE 25 PER CENT

Figures for Last Month of July Are Much Greater Than in 1909.

The returns for the week show that the local bank clearings were 25 per cent greater for the week ending July 23 than during the same period last year.

Braintree's report of the week ending July 23, aggregates $2,789,399.00, against $2,484,900 last week, and $2,564,455 in the week last year. Canadian clearings aggregated $18,831,000, as against $12,765,000 last week, and $9,973,000 in this week last year.

Following are the returns for last week, with percentages of changes from the same week last year:

THACKERAY'S GENEROSITY.

[London Daily News.]

The Rev. F. St. John Thackeray, at yesterday's dinner of the Authors' Club, referred to the generosity of his distinguished relative, Thackeray was, indeed, one of the most generous of men. When editor of the Cornhill Magazine, he could not bear to reject contributions, and he would frequently return an unsuitable M.S., with a sun of money. Many instances of his kindness have been preserved. His daughter, Lady Ritchie, relates how on one occasion he filled a pillbox with money, writing on it, "One shilling taken occasionally when required," and gave it to his mother to send on to a lady friend in reduced circumstances.

Palestine, Texas, July 31.—At least fifteen, perhaps twenty, negroes, all probably unarmed, were hunted down and killed by a mob of 200 to 300 men in the Stoumen and Benson Springs neighborhoods of this place last night and yesterday, according to Sheriff Black, who returned early this morning after 24 hours in that district. He told of a fierce manhunt in the woods, of riddled bodies found on lone trails, and of the terror among the inhabitants in the southeastern part of the state.

A General Massacre.

"I found the greatest excitement prevailing throughout that section of the country," continued the sheriff. "Men were going about and killing negroes as fast as they could find them, and so far as I was able to ascertain, without any real cause. These negroes have done no wrong that I could discover. There was just a hot-headed gang hunting them down and killing them."

TWO HORSES KILLED STANDING BESIDE MAN

a Miraculous Escape From Death in a Storm.

Fred B. Gibson, son of Mr. John Gibson, a farmer living near Arkona, was very seriously injured on Friday evening, during the terrific wind and thunder storm which swept over this district.

Young Mr. Gibson was in the barn at the time of the storm, and was looking after a couple of horses, when the wind blew in one end of the structure. A large beam struck the horses, which were standing close beside him, and killed them both. The beam also grazed Mr. Gibson, injuring him about the head, and a jagged piece penetrated the eye, cutting it badly.

It is not thought that he will lose his sight, although this will not be definitely known for several days. Dr. Wishart attended the injured man.

THREE NEAR DROWNINGS ON THE RIVER SUNDAY

Boys Who Went to Rescue a Couple in Trouble Thrown Into Water—Two Others Reached the Boat.

Three boys named Russell Grover, Nelson Balkwell and Lee Mason had a narrow escape from drowning on the Thames on Sunday afternoon.

Had it not been for the timely help of a boatman, another tragedy of the river might have been enacted.

The boys rented a canoe and were on their way to Springbank. When part way down, they saw a man and a woman in a rowboat in trouble.

They immediately went to their assistance. When near them, one of the boys leaped into the rowboat to help the couple. The impact caused the canoe to dip water, and it rapidly filled. The two lads left in the canoe were thrown into the water, but another boatman, who had also seen the trouble, hurried to them. He picked them up and took them ashore. The other boy rowed the couple, who were first in distress back to the boathouse.

They were all badly frightened, but none suffered any ill effects of their tumble in the river.

Other lads by the name of Edmunds and Richardson were also thrown out of a canoe. One of the boys rocked it, and the craft filled with water. They managed to keep it from sinking until they paddled to shore, a short distance away. Other than receiving a wetting, they were unhurt.

WOMAN WITNESSES IN ENOS CASE

Windsor, July 30.—Cassie Vincent and Louisa Lewis, the colored girls, who claimed they were brought to Windsor on a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train, have been sent back to Chatham. The girls are wanted there as witnesses at the inquest into the killing of Jacob Enos, the night of July 18. It is supposed they boarded the train for Windsor in order to avoid the inquest.

CAUGHT IN CELLAR.

Toronto, July 30.—A man giving the name of J. B. Smith was caught this morning by the police in the basement of Professor Lennox's house on St. George street. The family is away and the object of the intruder was burglary and theft.

PROSECUTE LAUNCHERS.

Toronto, July 30.—The Attorney-General's department has ordered that Reginald Cooper and Frank Logan, who had charge of the gasoline launch from which the "shell" of being struck by the ferryboat John Hamilton, two women were drowned in the bay a month ago, shall be prosecuted on a charge of criminal negligence.

nose, and from them his eyes looked out dully. His face was pale and drawn.

Doctor Handcuffed.

With both under arrest, the Montrose's whistle sounded hoarsely, a signal to the waiting Eureka that Dew's search was at an end. Immediately the pilot boat came alongside, and the newspapermen and photographers swarmed aboard. Crippen they found handcuffed in his stateroom, and Miss Leneve under the care of a physician in her room.

The news by this time had spread among the passengers, who had been duped throughout the voyage by the bogus clergyman and his effeminate son. Captain Kendall had kept from them the identity of the two mysterious passengers, and although the recent bombardment of wireless messages had aroused their suspicions, none on board besides Llewellyn Jones, the wireless operator, knew that the two were Dr. Crippen and his girl companion.

The Crippens' Maid.

London, July 31.—The Crippens' French maid, Mile. Lecocq, is now at Boulogne, whence she was sent by the detectives after she had told them all she knew about Crippen and Miss Leneve.

She entered Dr. Crippen's service on the 11th of June. Miss Leneve she took to be the doctor's wife, and she says they appeared to be very fond of one another. Crippen was always perfectly self-possessed, and when she went into the cellar to chop wood or fetch coal she found nothing to suggest that the flooring had been removed in any part.

"One day," she says, "Dr. Crippen came to help me chop wood. All the time he joked. On Saturday, July 9, two detectives presented themselves. When they left I saw that madame was trembling. Next morning I saw that she had been crying a great deal. Madame went out a little later, as was her wont. Later on I received a letter from madame saying that I was not to be uneasy, adding: 'We are going to the theatre, and shall not be back until late.' The next day my master and mistress did not return, and on the day following a lady whom I did not know, except that she was the wife of the person whom Dr. Crippen invited occasionally to dinner, came to the house. She was accompanied by her husband. My girl said, 'You must go away. Your master is not coming back.' She made madame's dresses into a parcel, which she took away with her, and her husband paid me what was due to me for wages."

Was Mrs. Crippen Poisoned?

London, July 31.—The inquest on the death of Mrs. Crippen has been adjourned until Aug. 15. The coroner, Dr. Denford Thomas, explained that the adjournment was necessary for the reason that an analysis was being made of the remains to see if any poison had been administered.

How Suspicion Was Aroused.

The English papers received Saturday give an account of the important evidence taken before the coroner on July 21.

The first witness was Mr. John Edward Nash, who first gave information to the police. He described himself as a theatrical manager, of 29, Park Mansions, Vauxhall Park. He proceeded to state that his wife and himself were great friends of Belle Elmore (Mrs. Crippen), as well as of Dr. Crippen. On Feb. 7 he heard that Belle Elmore had resigned from the Music Hall Ladies' Guild and had left for California. On Feb. 27 there was a dinner given by the Benevolent Institution, presided over by Mr. Joseph Elvin. The witness and his wife were very surprised to see Crippen enter the room with his lady typist, Mrs. Paul Martinetti, who was sitting next to him, recognized a brooch which the woman was wearing as having belonged to Mrs. Crippen. The witness continued: That made a great impression on me. On the 23rd March my wife and I sailed for New York on business. During the first week in May we received a letter from Mrs. Martinetti telling us that poor Belle had died. About the middle of May we met Mrs. Fred Gihnett in New York. She is the president of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, and she was very upset about Belle Elmore dying, and wrote to the authorities at Los Angeles. The police replied that no such woman had died in Los Angeles. Being great friends of Belle Elmore we both felt very bad over the matter, and felt it was a most mysterious affair.

An Interview With Crippen.

On June 23 the witness went on, I visited, in company with my wife, Dr. Crippen at his office in London. That is the first time we had seen him since the reported death of Belle Elmore. We went to offer condolence, and he seemed to be very much cut up. In fact, he sobbed. He seemed to be very nervous and he was twitching a piece of paper throughout the interview. He gave it out at first that his wife had died at Los Angeles. When I questioned him he said it was not Los Angeles, but some little town near San Francisco. Not knowing that I had lived for two and a half years in San Francisco, he was rather surprised when I questioned him about a number of the districts. I mentioned several small towns, and he said it was some little Spanish town. I then mentioned Alameda, and he said he thought that was the place. I asked him if he was sure of this, and he said, "No," and I said to him, "Peter, do you mean to say that you don't know where your wife has died?" He said he could not remember the place. She then said to him, "I hear you have received her ashes," and he said, "Yes, I have got them in the safe." I asked him the name of the chemist and about the certificate of death, and he then commenced to get very nervous. At this time I began to feel that there was something wrong. When a man cannot tell where his wife died, and from where he has received the ashes of her remains, I made up my mind that there is something wrong. I made an appointment to see Superintendent Frost and Inspector Dew on June 30.

In answer to the coroner, the witness said: I came over here and I found that no one had had the courage and pluck to take up this matter. I, therefore, felt it my duty to take action myself.

Crippen's Story to the Police.

Inspector Walter Dew was the next witness. He said that after seeing Mr. Nash on June 30 he made inquiries in London and elsewhere, was not satisfied, and determined to interview Crippen. Early on the morning of July 8 he called at 39 Hilldrop Crescent with Sergeant Mitchell. He saw a French girl, who said she was the servant, and Miss Leneve, whom he recognized as Crippen's typist. She said she was Mrs. Crippen's housekeeper, and that Mr. Crippen was out. The witness went on: I proceeded with her and Sergeant Mitchell to Albion House, New Oxford street. On the third floor Crippen was carrying on some sort of dentistry business. He at once saw me, and I told him who I was. I said that certain information had reached me as to the stories circulated by him concerning his wife's death, and that I had come to him because I was not satisfied with the inquiries I had made. He said he was quite willing to give me any explanation, and added, "I suppose I had better tell the truth." He then made a long statement to me, which I reduced to writing, and which I do not propose to put in at present. In the statement was contained a remark to the effect that what he had said about his wife's death was all lies. So far as he knew she was not dead; but on Feb. 1 he gave a little party to some friends, including Mr. Paul Martinetti, and during the evening an incident occurred in which she abused him (Crippen), and said she had had quite enough of it and was determined to leave him and go away. He said she had told him that he would never see her again, and that she knew someone who wanted her, who was willing to keep her and find her with all she required. He said she had repeatedly made that statement, and he had taken no notice of it, and in the present case he did not attach any importance to it. As far as he knew the man to whom she referred was Mr. Bruce Miller, who he thought lived in Chicago, and he thought she had gone to him. I questioned him about his wife's jewelry, and he said she had taken some with her and had left some behind. She had often said she did not want anything he had bought, but might have taken a basket with her. I then saw Miss Leneve, whose statement I do not propose to give today. I told Crippen I was not satisfied. I asked him whether he would mind coming up to the house at Hilldrop Crescent with him, and he said he would be very glad that I should do so.

Searching the House.

We proceeded to 39 Hilldrop Crescent, continued the witness, and before I went into the house I just walked round the garden, but there was nothing to indicate that there was anything wrong. We searched the house, and everything seemed to be in perfect order, except that in one of two of the rooms carpets were rolled up and some boxes had been packed. It is a very well-known fact that Crippen meant to go away within a few months. I then saw Sergeant Mitchell between the rafters of the house to look for anything suspicious, but he found no papers or any indication of any disturbance. Of course I reported the matter to my superior officer and continued the inquiry. On the following Monday I called at Albion House, and discovered that Crippen and Miss Leneve had disappeared on the Saturday afternoon, leaving a letter for a man named Long.

The Coroner (reading the letter):

This is a letter from Crippen suggesting to someone to wind up his affairs.

The Witness: That is so; that he had got to go away. The same afternoon I went to Hilldrop Crescent again, and there I found a French girl, who had only been employed there about a month, and who could give me but little information. She did, however, say that on the Saturday Crippen left the house in the usual manner in the morning, taking nothing with him out of the ordinary, and that Miss Leneve also left about an hour afterwards, also taking nothing with her, with the exception of a small reticule bag. The girl was taken charge of by the police authorities, and was sent back to France the next day.

The Discovery of a Body.

On that day there was nothing to indicate anything wrong, but in a wardrobe of the bedroom occupied by Crippen and Miss Leneve the witness found a fully loaded five-chambered revolver. Inspector Dew continued: I visited the premises on the Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Wednesday, when we were examining the cellar in the passage, leading to the floor, we had our suspicions aroused, and we decided to make a most minute examination of the floor of the cellar. Gropping about, we found that some of the bricks were looser than others, and we took some of the bricks up with a spade and other instruments. Then we dug into the ground, and after a short time came upon what I thought to be a piece of human flesh. I at once sent for the divisional surgeon, Dr. Marshall, and then procured other officers and caused the whole of the floor to be dug right up, and a large quantity of human flesh was discovered.

The Head Missing.

The Coroner: Did you find the head? The Witness: No, we found no head, but amongst the things we did find, particularly indicative that the theft had been going on for weeks and possibly months before it was discovered.

How such a state of affairs could have existed is difficult to understand,

had been tied in the reefer fashion. We found no portion of the head at all, and no bones whatever. It seemed as if someone had carved the flesh to pieces. There was a quantity of lime associated with the mold and flooring. The conclusion I draw from this is that whoever committed the crime had the idea of destroying the whole of the identity of the person murdered. The bones could very quickly be got rid of.

The witness said that they found two pieces of string, and the clothing amongst the remains included a portion of a man's shirt or pyjama jacket. On the tab of this jacket was the name "Jones Brothers, Holloway Road." Subsequently he discovered a suit of pyjamas in a box upstairs similar to the jacket which was found amongst the remains, and also a pair of pyjama trousers, which had been very much worn. He could not find any jacket to go with those trousers, so it was thought that the missing jacket might be the one which was found with the body. The string and the handkerchief might have been used for the purpose of strangulation, or they might have been used for the purpose of dragging a portion of the body along.

A Doctor's Testimony.

At this point the witness said he thought that the interests of justice would best be served by an adjournment being granted by the coroner.

The coroner, however, declined to call Dr. Marshall, the divisional police surgeon, who said that he only believed the remains were those of a female by what he had heard. The man had evidently endeavored to remove every evidence of sex.

The Coroner: Do you believe, in view of all the circumstances of the case, that it is one of homicide? Yes.

The Coroner: Well, of course, the girl could not put herself in such a position.

Mr. Paul Martinetti, describing himself as a retired professional, of King Edwards' Mansions, Shaftesbury avenue, said he had known Dr. and Mrs. Crippen for about a year. They appeared to be on good terms. On a date which he could not give exactly Crippen called at the witness' flat and told him his wife had gone to America on very important business, that she might be away for six months, and that it might lead to a title. He said he was going to sell his furniture, and might leave the house. Next day Crippen said something about his wife having double pneumonia. He subsequently saw Crippen at the Music Hall Benevolent Fund Ball with the lady typist. Crippen looked very glum.

A Change of Clothes.

William Long, a dental mechanic, said he first met Crippen in 1896 or 1897. On Saturday, the 9th July, at Albion House, Crippen gave the witness a list of goods he required, which included a suit, a hat, some collars and ties, and various other things. The witness went for the clothing to Baker's, and placed it in Crippen's room upstairs. On the following Monday he found a suit of clothes in the foreman's cupboard. The last time he saw Crippen was at 1 o'clock on Saturday, July 9. The same evening he received a letter from Crippen, who said: "Will you do me the very great favor of winding up as best you can my household affairs?"

Who Gets the Reward?

Father Point, Que. July 31.—The bitter warfare that has raged between Chief Constable Charles Gauvreau, of the Dominion police, and Chief McCarthy, of the Quebec provincial police, Saturday, culminated in a threat from Gauvreau that he would charter a tug and intercept the steamer Montrose below Father Point to arrest Dr. Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve.

This followed a second rejection of Gauvreau's claims by Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, who since his arrival on the Laurentic, has given his support to McCarthy.

"I have been delegated by the authorities at Montreal to make the arrest," said Gauvreau. I was first on the field, and I am the representative of the Dominion police in the Rimouski district. I am going to uphold my dignity if I have to outflank those who dispute my power."

The reward involved is $1,250.

New York Detectives Capture Man Who Made Big Bond Steal.

New York, July 31.—A frail little man with gray cheeks and hollow eyes, in whose presence there was nothing to suggest that singlehanded he had lifted $500,000 in bonds and stocks from a strong box of a bank, was arrested this afternoon in a downtown restaurant, not five minutes' walk from the bank he is alleged to have robbed. He was Edwin Wider, cashier of the Russo-Chinese Bank. In the court of general sessions his lawyer, Leon Ginsberg, said that he would plead guilty, and he was committed to the Tombs in default of $25,000 bail.

Ginsberg pleaded with Judge Warren Foster for a lower amount. The sum asked, he said, was prohibitive, whereas $10,000 might be obtained. "And I want to add," he said, "that none of this money is in my client's possession. It was swallowed up in Wall street speculation."

The plea was refused, the district attorney commenting:

"I do not see that there is any need of bail. This entire case can be ended in a couple of days."

Almost as Wider was arrested the grand jury handed up an indictment against him, charging specifically that he stole three certificates of Baltimore and Ohio stock and disposed of them through the brokerage house of Dick Bros. on May 22 last. These particulars indicate that the theft had been going on for weeks and possibly months before it was discovered.

THE LAST TRIBUTE

All Journals of Toronto Represented at Funeral of John Ewan.

Toronto, July 31.—In the very large attendance, which gathered at the funeral of the late Mr. John A. Ewan, associate editor of the Globe, on Saturday afternoon, were representatives of all the journals of Toronto, of all shades of politics, and all classes of the community, as well as of the various religious bodies. No higher testimony to his kindness of heart, to the high-mindedness of his character, and to his ability as an editor, could be paid than was paid by the singularly cosmopolitan character of those who stood around the open grave in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The services at the house and the grave were conducted by the Rev. J. D. Fotheringham, of St. Matthew's Anglican Church. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. S. Willison, of the News; John Lewis, of the Star; W. G. Jaffray, J. F. MacKay, T. S. Lyon, of the Globe, and Dr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, deputy minister of education. A beautiful array of floral tributes were sent by the bodies with which he was connected, and by his numerous private friends.

IRISH OYSTERS.

Irish eggs have made their way into England, and Ireland generally is beginning to assert prosperity and predominance. But have you tasted Irish oysters? The club launchers the other day sat down to a providential incursion of some five and twenty dozen Red Bank oysters, which at 3 o'clock on the previous morning were in the sea on the west coast of Ireland—in Galway Bay. They were rushed across as an experiment in Irish industry. Do you know Red Bank oysters? If you have eaten the favorite oyster of Paris, you will recognize the Irish oyster as its father and mother.

Lovers of oysters will note that the Irish oyster has not the coppery flavor of the Whitstable native. It is fatter and sweeter than that supreme ruler among shellfish. But for years it has been sold at 8s a dozen to Paris gourmets. Yet it has not reached London. The beds around Eddy Island on the Irish coast are many miles from drainage of any kind, and with quick passage the Red Bank oyster should be as popular in London as in Paris, to the profit of the west coast fishermen—London Chronicle.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE PEARSON PLOT
SCARED WALL STREET

Until Unearthed the Speculators
Feared Country's Credit Involved.

New York, July 31.—The important financial and railroad news which became known last week went far to explain the recent turmoil and unsettlement in the stock market, and served at the same time to relieve it by a settlement of a threatening situation. The surrender to an international syndicate headed by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of holdings accumulated by the so-called Pearson syndicate, looking into the formation of a railroad combination, reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, transformed the speculative position. The transaction, in its first bearing, relieved the stock market of any necessity for forced liquidation, such as Tuesday's stock market gave an example of. The selling out of loans to the hard-pressed holders of the stocks designed to form the combination, threw the market into demoralization on that day. An excited price of corn caused the apprehension that prospective partial failure of that crop and fears for the country's general credit position, were involved in the demoralization on that day. The disclosure of the Pearson plot, the immediate cause of the action of the stock market, the part attributed to general causes in the depression was less considered.

The Pearson Surrender.
While the trouble which overtook the Pearson plot might be traced primarily to the market, the decision growing out of general causes, it was recognized that probably it was much aggravated by the attitude of groups whose interests were likely to be impaired by the proposed protective measures in the stock market for some time past, was explained by the unwillingness of these opposing interests to afford support for the extrication of the embarrassed market. The situation chosen for the relief of the perilous stock market situation was the moment of surrender of the aggressive new projectors in the railroad world. The antagonism involved lay not only in the railroad field, but in the industrial field, as well touching some of the most powerful financial interests in existence. These facts fostered a conviction that the settlement covered not only a relief of the immediate pressure on the stock market of the embarrassed holders, but rendered also a cause for the reluctance to afford the usual support for market values by powerful inside interests, which have been ominously manifest in the stock market. This conviction led to a modified view of the force of other factors, which have been supposed to be solely responsible for the deep depression of the market. It was especially, there had grown up an anxiety lest the action of the stock market might reflect secret knowledge of unfavorable conditions in the general credit situation in the country at large. This anxiety was relieved by the week's explanation of the true cause of the weakness of stocks.

The surface showing of improvement in the banking position was allowed its due influence on sentiment. The private settlements of the week involved placing large blocks of securities abroad, and have sprung up an important demand in the open market for foreign account. The foreign credit account of the New York money market was correspondingly strengthened. The building up of this reserve in addition to the large surplus resource of the New York banks, gives confidence in the money outlook.

The quarterly earnings of the United States Steel Corporation were unusually large, and the heavy decrease in unfilled orders, while significant of shrinkage in trade activity, was not reflected in the reduced prices at which orders must now be booked. Reports of agreement by the principal copper producers to curtail output were revived, the latest news being the cotton crop had little effect on stocks and the early fears regarding the corn crop were relieved.

Cattle on Streets.
 The charge against a Westminster man of allowing his cattle to roam on to city property at Springbank, was dismissed by Squire Chittick Saturday morning at the court house, as there was no fence under the law governing such cases.

Check for Firemen.
 John Callard, of Callard & McLachlan, forwarded a check for $25 to Fire Chief Aitken Saturday for services during the recent fire at the credit of the firemen at the city hall.

Small Blaze.
 The fire brigade had a run to Mr. Lui Paladino's clothing store, corner of Anderson avenue and Hamilton road, Sunday morning at 1 o'clock. Some rubbish in the cellar caused the blaze. It was extinguished by the central fire department with little loss.

Late Mrs. Albert Brown.
 The funeral of Mrs. R. Albert Brown took place Sunday afternoon from the residence of her father, Mr. Alfred Robinson, 821 Dufferin avenue. The service, which was private, was very impressive, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. Manning, of the Dundas Street Central Methodist Church. The floral tributes were very numerous and beautiful and testified to the affection in which the deceased was held. The pallbearers were Messrs. A. E. Silverwood, Charles D. Brown, Wm. R. Waugh, Ed. Cook, R. I. Watson and David Mills.

Edward Carlin Dead.
 One of London's oldest and most respected residents passed away Sunday morning in the person of Mr. Edward Carlin, of 111 Maple street. The late Mr. Carlin was 86 years of age, and was born in Ireland. In the early forties he came to Canada and settled in the township of Nissouri, where he became a prosperous farmer, and enjoyed to the fullest the confidence of

One of the most delightful picnics of the season was that held by the staff of the Prudential Life Assurance Company at Port Stanley on Saturday. A private car was placed at their disposal by the Pere Marquette. Going down the feature was the "Baby Rattle." This was very funny. Superintendent Bradley, of Stratford, was the winner. That he was pleased with the prize is putting it very mildly. The prize for the largest family went to Mr. F. G. Bourne. It is said that Superintendent Geo. H. Davis was tied with Mr. Bourne, but relinquished the honor in favor of the winner. A special prize of a gold ring for the youngest member of the party was awarded to Miss Taylor, of St. Thomas. After the sports the whole party went for a boat ride on the lake and were later entertained to dinner at the hotel.

Special Prices.
 A short conference of the agents was held on the lawn, when Messrs. H. G. Bourne and D. J. Tallant were awarded the special prizes for leading the district during the second quarter of the year.

A number of out-of-town visitors were present, among them being Mayor Guest, of St. Thomas; Superintendent F. B. Hilliard and wife, of Guelph; and Superintendent F. G. Bradley and wife and son, of Stratford.

Mr. Carlin is survived by one son and three daughters—Edward, of Brantford; Mrs. O. W. Coleman, Toronto; Mrs. J. N. Cruise, Detroit, and Mrs. Agnes White, Maple street, city. The funeral, which will be of a private nature, will be held on Tuesday morning at 8:30 to St. Peter's Cathedral. Requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock.

New Wheat.
 Hamilton Spectator: The first load of new wheat was purchased by the Wood Milling Company Saturday morning, paying $1.03 a bushel to J. Lottridge, of Stoney Creek, for a consignment of first-class No. 1 hard, the first to be marketed in Hamilton. According to the milling officials, the price was high, owing to the fact that it has been impossible to secure new wheat from the north, on account of the G. T. R. strike, which has played havoc with the company's business. The wheat prospects are good and the price will prevail around a dollar a bushel for No. 1 hard, although a better price rules just at the present time.

 Assistant Superintendent H. E. Parsons and his sister, Miss Parsons, won a number of good races, and were quite the athletic champions of the picnic. W. E. Vandervere, London, won the fat man's race in a hairline finish. "It was an enjoyable picnic," said Superintendent Davis.

BUILDERS' PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

Large Crowds Enjoyed Splendid Outing at the Lakeside Saturday.

SOME EXCELLENT SPORTS

Tug-of-War Was a Notable Event—Any Quantity of Fun Was Provided.

The Builders' Exchange picnic, held at Port Stanley on Saturday, was a big affair, and one of the most enjoyable events of the kind yet held. As entertainers, the builders established a reputation worthy of mention, and the future events of the sort will undoubtedly be attended by even larger crowds than were present on Saturday.

About 2,000 people, associated with the building trades of London, went to the Port, particularly to participate in this programme. A few thousand more, who were at the lakeside on account of the matter, joined the builders in making the affair a notable one.

Ex-Ald. Donald Ferguson, as chairman of the committee, had a great deal to do with the arrangements, and that the picnic was so successful was largely due to his efforts. He was master of ceremonies, and everything was conducted in an excellent manner.

Baseball Match.
 The first event in the afternoon was the baseball match, the metal workers against all other trades. The combination was too much for the metal workers, winning by a score of 9 to 1. "Fat" Early pitched the last innings of the game for the metal workers under protest, but Fat Brooks finished for the other trades, and assisted in winning for the combination. There were many features, in fact, too many for enumeration.

The sports programme was excellent, the races being well contested and the entry list large. The bricklayers endeavored to pull the other trades, but they were not nearly strong enough. The allied trades won in two straight pulls.

"I told you we would have a good picnic," said Mr. Ferguson. "With the exception of the Irish and Travellers' picnics it is the best yet held."

The results were as follows:
 Boys' race, 7 and under—Swayzie, Smith, Brown.
 Girls' race, 7 and under—Marjorie Jones, Bella Riddell, Posie Charlton.
 Boys' race, 10 years and under—C. Bowie, W. Hill, B. Swayzie, J. Goings.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC HEAVY SPECIAL RATES POPULAR

Coaches on All the Lines Were Crowded to the Limit on Saturday and Sunday.

Traffic on the railroads yesterday and on Saturday was very heavy and all trains were filled with big crowds both going out of the city and coming in.
 The special holiday rates, which commenced on Saturday and held good until tomorrow, proved a big inducement to thousands to visit relatives and friends.
 The C. E. R. report a big business. A good deal of extra traffic was handled on account of conditions on the G. T. R. The Grand Trunk, however, had all the traffic it could handle, as people who were travelling soon found out when they tried to get seats. The through evening trains were very much crowded.

VICIOUS ASSAULT MADE ON G.T.R. STRIKEBREAKER

Conductor Kenny Attacked by Two Men in East London.

Grand Trunk Conductor Kenny, who has been running out of London on Express No. 23, was the victim of a serious assault on Ontario street late Friday night. He was on his way home after bringing his train in from Detroit, when he was attacked by two men who apparently were waiting for him in a secluded spot.
 When Conductor Kenny was passing they jumped out and made a vicious assault on him with their fists. Conductor Kenny put up a good fight and when the men saw some people coming down the street they made off. The matter has been reported to the police, and they are investigating.
 Conductor Kenny was able to take his train out as usual on Saturday morning.

This is the second assault that has been made on strikebreakers in the east end, as a few days ago a yardman had his hand smashed in a sliding near the Empire Brass Works by a big stone thrown by some unknown party.
