$600 REWARD OFFERED

For Information Leading to Arrest of Hamilton Murderer.

Provincial Government So Decided on Thursday—Detective Greer to Remain on the Case Till Something is Accomplished—Thousands of Circulars With Portrait of Victim and Descriptions Will Be Sent Out.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—The Provincial Government decided yesterday to offer a reward of $600 for information leading to the arrest of the perpetrator of the Hamilton murder.

Detective Greer was at the buildings yesterday and made his report to the Government. He stated he was issuing several thousands circulars giving full descriptions, pictures of the jewelry and a portrait of the unidentified victim. These will be sent all over the United States and Canada.

"It will also send a number to England," said he, "It is possible she may have come from there. The brooch she wore looked like an heirloom. The girl was dressed too well to carry such an ornament, which was one of the old-fashioned kind. I intend to devote my whole time to the case for the next several weeks until something is accomplished."

TO JAIL FOR PERJURY.

Man and Woman Severely Punished For False Testimony.

St. Catharines, Oct. 20.—Judge Carman yesterday morning sentenced John A. Secord to one year in the Central Prison, and Jane Tapp of Grimsby to six months in the Reformatory for perjury.

Secord was charged with having on Sept. 27 assisted Mrs. Tapp to abduct Jessie Eckers from Smithville fair. When Mrs. Tapp was tried for abduction before Magistrate Forbes at Grimsby, she swore that she had not abducted the girl, and John A. Secord, in turn, took oath that he had not been a party to the abduction. It had been seen driving the girl in a buggy on the day in question.

This led to a charge of perjury being laid against Secord and the Tapp woman. Mrs. Tapp pleaded guilty to perjury when arraigned, but Secord stoutly maintained his innocence.

Interesting Case.
Belleville, Oct. 20.—Mr. Hellmuth, K.C. of Toronto, will prosecute in the conspiracy case against Magistrate Harrold, of Bancroft, and in the criminal libel case of King vs. Carman at the coming sittings. E. Meredith, K.C. of London, will prosecute in the two murder trials.

Chase Cree Indians Down.
Winnipeg, Oct. 20.—On Sept. 8 last, Inspector McInnis, of the N. W. M. P., accompanied by Detective Egan of the force, passed through here from Regina on a mysterious errand about which nothing could be learned except that it would take the party many hundreds of miles into the northern wilderness. After six weeks of silent battle with the untracked and unknown Indians, the party returned to civilization with his prisoner, John Kistegeick, a Cree Indian, who has terrorized his district for many moons and who now lies in Kenora Jail for the Assizes when he will stand his trial for the brutal murder of a woman.

Dean Granted Bail.
Toronto, Oct. 20.—John Dean, the motorman, was yesterday granted bail in $2,000 by Justice McMahon. Mr. Robinette says the Attorney-General in the morning, and obtained his consent to Dean's release. John Wilson, a fellow motorman, went on Dean's bond.

Begging Justified.
Ottawa, Oct. 20.—The four Syrian beggars arrested here were quite justified in doing so, according to the decision of Acting Magistrate Rosenthal yesterday morning.

Cunliffe Is Arrested.
Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 20.—Edward George Cunliffe, wanted in Pittsburgh for the robbery of $100,000 in cash from the Adams Express Co., was arrested here yesterday.

Charged With Embezzling.
Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Kelly, clerk of markets in the Department of Public Service, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of embezzling $7,700 of the city's money.

C. P. R. Reduces Rates.
Montreal, Oct. 20.—Montreal and Toronto merchants are bound to gain a big advantage over Vancouver merchants by the big reduction made in the through C. P. R. freight rates from Montreal and Toronto to Edmonton. The reduction is an unusually large one, amounting in some cases to as much as forty cents per hundred pounds. This is on first-class freight matter, and the reduction is slightly smaller on the lower classes.

Trolley Cars Collide.
Quebec, Oct. 20.—A runaway freight car loaded with stone, collided with a passenger car on the Levis Electric Railway line yesterday and as a result, a passenger who was on board the electric car, H. M. Henderson of St. John, N. B., the new agent here for Collier's Weekly, was probably fatally injured and is now at the Levis Hotel Dieu Hospital. Conductor Richard of the electric car was slightly injured.

Gibson Girl No More.
New York, Oct. 20.—After this week Charles Gibson will draw no more in black and white. The originator of "The Gibson Girl" wants to enter a new field, and in November he will sail for Europe to study art. The cost of Mr. Gibson's freedom will be about $65,000 a year, the amount of income that he will sacrifice.

There may be a difference between the simple life and simply living.

TRIBUTE FROM GOVT. ENGINEER

Pays High Compliments to Electric Road and Approves it

Trip Over the Road—Other Railroad Officials Guests of the Company

"It is one of the best built and equipped roads I ever inspected." Such was the tribute of Government Engineer Simmons, of the Board of Railway Commissioners, at the conclusion of his official inspection of the Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie Electric Railroad yesterday.

Engineer Crowley, of the Grand Trunk; Engineer Cooper, of the P. R., and Engineer La Scur, of the Pere Marquette, accompanied Mr. Simmons on his trip over the road. Mr. Simmons reported that the road in all shape and gave the official consent for its operation.

The commendation of the Engineer is a tribute to the ability and energy of General Manager W. N. Warburton, who has been in charge of the road since its commencement and deserves great credit on the success achieved.

MAY MOVE TO CANADA

Marine City, Mich., Oct. 18.—General Manager Sauber, of the Marine City Sugar Co., says:

"We have a full supply of beets for a three months' run, but many of them come from Canada. The farmers around here won't raise beets, but the Canadian farmers will. We don't want to leave Michigan, but if we cannot get the sugar beet on the same tariff schedule as other vegetables coming in from Canada, we will probably find it to our benefit to move across the river. We certainly can't make sugar without beets, and we can't afford to pay the present duty."

WERE HOBOES

The Local Lodge of Elks Had a Very Pleasant Time in Their Club Rooms Last Evening

The local lodge of Elks held a hobo night in the club rooms last evening, and the affair turned out to be a most amusing and enjoyable one.

Every member of the lodge went dressed as a hobo, and the lodge was decorated with a piece of chinaware with which to decorate the walls of the club. In this way a pleasant evening was spent and the club rooms were bedecked and beautified.

Some of the costumes worn were the real thing in the hobo line and excited great merriment. Among the best were those worn by A. C. Woodward, Geo. W. Sulman, C. D. Kent, N. McLeod, Capt. Geo. Massey, Geo. Heyward, M. Sheldon, Dr. Musson and many others.

A program was given, consisting of selections from Chas. Hadley, Dr. Musson, Cap. Stevens, Walter Seane, Geo. Sulman, J. M. Pike, J. W. Aitken and others. Ed. Burns, of Toronto, sang, which were much appreciated.

The evening was one that will be long remembered by the Elks.

A TREAT FOR THE CULTURED

D. S. Paterson of the C. C. I. Staff Announces His Lecture Course

Lectures Will be Popular, Entertaining and Scholarly—First One on Nov. 2

It must be conceded that among the many social, musical and dramatic successes achieved every "season" in the city of the Maple Leaf, the intellectual enjoyments of literature and oratory should have an honored place; and it is certain that the culture and intelligence of Chatham will enthusiastically support a well-selected lecture course.

It is with a knowledge of this fact that D. S. Paterson, of the C. C. I. staff, has arranged to provide for the culture and intelligence of Chatham a course of three lectures, the equal of which have not been heard in Chatham for some time. It is predicted this new departure will be popular, entertaining and scholarly, and the fact that it is strongly recommended by Mr. Paterson, whose literary ability is so well known, should assure its success.

The course will consist of the following:

1. A dramatic recital of General Lew Wallace's great creation, Ben-Hur, by Montaville Flowers, of Cincinnati, the leading impersonator on the American platform, on November 2nd, 1905.

2. Wit, humor and philosophy, in a lecture entitled, "Weighed in the Balance," by Ralph Parlette, humorist, on January 29th, 1906.

3. An oration on "The Anglo-Saxon and the Future Rule of the World," by Dr. John Merritt Driver, pastor of the People's Church, Chicago, on April 4th, 1906.

These three lectures were on the Detroit Y. M. C. A. course last year and gave great satisfaction. They have appeared before many of the largest Chautauqua assemblies and other lecture courses in America, and together form the strongest combination of literary excellence that the citizens of Chatham have ever had the privilege of hearing.

It will be seen that the first number comes to the Opera House on November 2, and it should be greeted with a big house.

The St. Thomas Times Man Gives Vent to His Jealousy Over Chatham's New Steam Heating System

"Under the caption of 'St. Thomas Leads—Chatham Follows,' the St. Thomas Times man fills his pipe and dreams the following:—

"Following the lead taken by St. Thomas, who now heat the city hall and public library with exhaust steam from the electric light works, the Wallaceburg, Chatham & Lake Erie Railway Co. are behind in a project which has as its object the heating of stores and residences throughout Chatham, with exhaust steam from the railway's power house. At present 3,000 feet of pipes are being laid along the main streets of the city at an investment of $25,000, and next year the pipes will be extended wherever there promises to be enough business to make the outlay pay. The cost of laying the pipes is $8 per foot.

"The system in St. Thomas has proved to be a success, and will in all probability be extended next year."

It might be mentioned that the system is not an experiment in Chatham, but it is being entered into upon a larger scale than has heretofore been heard of in either St. Thomas or Chatham. When it is completed the St. Thomas Times man's one-horse plant will look like a molehill beside a mountain.

M'CURDY WON'T QUIT

Nothing Can or Will Drive Him Out of $150,000 a Year.

Examination of President of the Mutual Life Insurance Company Concludes With the Week—On Stand For Three Days and Some of His Testimony Was Startling—Has $1,150,000 in Trust Company.

New York, Oct. 20.—Richard A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. yesterday made the statement to a reporter that he had no intention of resigning, that he was elected to serve until June 7 and that nothing can or will drive him out. It was announced from the district attorney's office that no action will be taken regarding the George J. Plunkitt matter, which was turned over to the district attorney Thursday by the Legislative Committee that is investigating the insurance companies.

Closing one of the most sensational weeks of the investigation, the committee just before adjournment yesterday, concluded the examination of President McCurdy, with the exception of a few details he is to supply next week.

McCurdy has been on the stand the greater part of three days of this week's session and some of his testimony has been most startling.

When he resumed the stand yesterday he took up his testimony as to the Mutual Life's connection with trust companies. Mr. McCurdy disclosed the fact that the trust companies with which the Mutual Life was connected became prosperous soon after they were taken up. Two cases in point were the Morris Trust Co. at Morrisville, N. J., where the McCurdy family live and the United States Mortgage and Trust Co. of New York.

The former is now controlled by the Mutual Life and Mr. McCurdy testified that besides being a director of this trust company he is a large shareholder and would take more stock if he could get it. The Mutual Life keeps a balance of not less than $200,000 with this company, on which it draws from two to three per cent. The latter rate has been paid only since Sept. 1. Mr. McCurdy said he knew the holdings of the other members of his family in this company. In the syndicate operations Mr. McCurdy said he participated not with the idea of drawing bonds but to obtain his share of the commission allowed bankers. There were 15 in all and his participation amounted to $1,150,000.

Mr. McCurdy was asked what life insurance he carried and was unable to say at once, but James Beck, his counsel, presented a statement showing when the policies were taken out and for what amounts, and the plan. These aggregated $200,000 all in the Mutual. Mr. McCurdy testified that he was also insured in the Equitable, the Washington and the Connecticut Mutual. He said he paid $4,500 for his apartment in the Grosvenor building which is owned by the Mutual.

Traveling Expenses.
When Mr. McCurdy was excused, his son, Robert H. McCurdy, was called to explain some charges for traveling expenses in 1904. He said that one of his duties as general manager was to visit such trips were made, the expenses of which aggregated about $3,000. Mr. McCurdy said that while on one trip he was accompanied by his father, mother, wife, and the latter's maid, but that the expenses accounts were for himself individually and did not include those of any other member of his family or party. He had a private car on one of those trips. He could not tell why the expenses on these trips were so large, but said he would furnish the details later.

Mr. McCurdy was followed by W. W. Richards, comptroller of the Mutual Life, who was explaining the manner in which the Mutual Life acquired some properties by foreclosure, when the committee adjourned until next Tuesday.

Developments Startling.
Pittsburg, Oct. 20.—The investigation of the affairs of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny City, following the sensational suicide of T. Lee Clark, the cashier, is making good progress. The developments following the tragedy and the closing of the bank do not seem startling, involving as they have been several prominent citizens who have been active in state politics.

Prince Charles Consents.
Copenhagen, Denmark, Oct. 20.—An important dispatch was received from the Norwegian Premier, M. Michelsen, notifying the Danish court that a full agreement had been reached by the Norwegian Government on the advisability of a prompt settlement of the throne question by a resolution of the Storting.

The Danish Ministerial Council sat for two hours and announced that Prince Charles of Denmark was willing to accept the crown of Norway when elected by the Storting.

Entomological Officers.
Guelph, Oct. 20.—The sessions of the Ontario Entomological Society came to a close last evening.

The election of officers resulted: President, J. D. Evans, C.E., Trenton; vice-president, Dr. James Fletcher, Ottawa; secretary, W. E. Saunders, London; treasurer, J. A. Baskwill, London.

Not Dead Yet.
Toronto, Oct. 20.—In spite of the report which crept into the papers yesterday, that Fred Snow died from the result of injuries sustained in a street car accident on Wednesday, the young fellow was last night reported to be doing well at Grace Hospital.

Not a moment without some duty.

WRITER OF "QUO VADIS"

GETS A UNIQUE SENTENCE FOR PATRIOTIC ACTIVITY.

A fortnight's detention in the Unpretentious Flat He Occupies in Warsaw—His Gift Home in the Country a Burden to the Author, and a Source of Expense to Henryk Sienkiewicz—Thrice Married.

Henryk Sienkiewicz, the novelist, who makes his home in the turbulent city of Warsaw, has recently been experiencing the displeasure of the Russian authorities. The distinguished author of "Quo Vadis" recently joined several of his fellow citizens of Warsaw in drawing up and publishing a vigorous protest against the Russification of Polish schools, and for so doing was arrested and sentenced to a fortnight's detention in the unpretentious flat which he occupies in Hozza street. Sienkiewicz's Warsaw home is of modest dimensions and plainly furnished. Although situated in the best part of Warsaw, Hozza is not an inviting street. One end of it resembles a street in the ghetto of New York, and the neighborhood is a favorite haunt of the professional classes known in Poland and in Russia also as the "intelligents."

In Warsaw, as in his country home at Oblęgorek, the author lives a quiet and regular life. He is not an early riser, at least not in the city, and it is usually 10 o'clock or later before he sits down to the ordinary continental breakfast of coffee and rolls, supplemented perhaps with eggs. After breakfast he reads the Warsaw papers with the keen interest of the Polish patriot that he is. Following the custom in Warsaw, he dines about 1 o'clock. "Barzch," a delicious Polish soup, a kind of bouillon with essences of beefsteak, and "bigos," a Polish stew prepared from cold meats and cabbage, are two of his favorite dishes.

After dinner a walk, usually into the city, tea, and then a light supper, and Sienkiewicz is ready for work. Almost invariably he works at night and often far into the early morning. Recently, however, his health has interfered with this practice and compelled him to keep more reasonable hours.

Spending his winters and most of the spring in Warsaw, the author and his family go off to Oblęgorek as soon as the weather begins to get warm. Oblęgorek is a fine estate in the province of Kielce, southern Poland, and was presented to Sienkiewicz in 1900 as a mark of the admiration and esteem felt for him by his fellow countrymen. It cost $40,000 and the money was raised by public subscription. Many friends sent articles of furniture, china, bric-a-brac, and other things both useful and ornamental for a household, so that Sienkiewicz found his new home to a large extent ready for his occupation.

The house has an imposing exterior and is of the type usually occupied by the Polish landed gentry. Surrounded by extensive park lands, it lies in a beautiful hilly and wooded country. The soil, however, is rocky, poor, and unproductive. Although the truth must be told, Oblęgorek has proved a sort of "white elephant" to the novelist, who, it is said, has put his hand in his pocket pretty deeply to keep up the home presented to him by his admiring fellow countrymen.

In spite of the great literary talent and the undoubted success of "Quo Vadis" is not believed to be rich. His works have brought him more fame than money. While they have been translated into many tongues and published in many lands, they have never yielded him anything like what might reasonably have been expected. Russia's lack of copyright laws makes it difficult for her literary men to protect their work abroad.

At the present time Sienkiewicz has arranged to have his books appear first in English, a course which has greatly offended the patriotic sentiments of the Poles, but it is only fair and reasonable, after all, that he should be anything possible to get the best remuneration for his toil.

When in Oblęgorek, Sienkiewicz rises much earlier than in town, spending a considerable part of the day in the open air. He walks, rides, and drives a great deal, delighting in exercise generally. Shooting is his favorite pastime, and there are few days in the season when he does not go out with his gun in hand. He is a remarkably good shot, too. On his own estate there is only small game, such as hares, pheasants and partridges; but he is constantly invited to big shoots in Lithuania, where bears and wild boars abound. Sienkiewicz has shot much bigger game still in British East Africa, and has written delightful stories of adventure in those lands.

Sienkiewicz's domestic life has not been uneventful. In fact, his three matrimonial affairs have afforded much material for gossip. He married first Maria Szotkiewicz, with whom he lived happily for several years. They had two children, a boy and a girl. The former is now a student in the Polish university at Cracow. The girl is remarkably pretty, of an English type, with a lovely complexion, and beautiful, fair hair. She is of a charming disposition, and popular among the younger members of the intellectual society in Warsaw.

Sienkiewicz remained a widower for some years, then married the young and beautiful daughter of a Polish landed proprietor, named Wlodkiewicz. She had read Sienkiewicz's books and conceived a violent passion for the writer. Her affection was requited and after a brief courtship they were married and started on a foreign tour for their honeymoon. During the honeymoon the youthful bride left her middle-aged husband in the Austrian capital. Husband and wife never met again, and later a divorce was obtained.

His third wife was Mme. Babaka, one of the Warsaw canones, and the marriage has been happy.

The Life Insurance Inquiry. Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the Legislative committee which is investigating the whole scheme of life insurance as conducted in the state of New York, has already made a reputation in this line of work. He was counsel for the Legislative committee which probed the gas monopoly in New York city last spring and broke all records in civic investigation. As inquisitor in chief of the gas investigation he drew from the officials of the gas and electric companies a large sum of information in a short time, surprising the politicians by his ability to grasp details of importance. The thoroughness of his work enabled the committee to make a report to the Legislature upon which important legislation was based before the closing of the session.

Mr. Hughes was born at Glens Falls, N. Y., forty-three years ago and since boyhood has resided in New York city. He is a graduate from Brown University and from Columbia Law school, where he was a prize fellow from 1884 to 1887. He taught law at Cornell University in 1891 and 1893 and was a special lecturer at Cornell several years. He also lectured at the New York Law school.

There is nothing remarkable in the personal appearance of Mr. Hughes.

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

He is about five feet ten inches in height, with a rather slight but well proportioned figure. His brown hair is becoming thin on top, and his forehead, which is high and rather narrow, indicates intellectuality in a high degree. His blue eyes are wide apart and deep set, and he has a trick of allowing the lids to droop until they half cover the eyeball, which gives an impression of anything but alertness. The instant that Mr. Hughes becomes interested, however, the "immobility" of his face vanishes, but he never loses the calm poise for which he is noted.

Mr. Hughes is the senior member of the law firm of Hughes, Rounds & Schurman. He belongs to several clubs and is a member of the Baptist Social union.

A Dress of Postage Stamps. More than thirty thousand postage stamps were used in the making of a dress for a woman worn at a ball in Bermuda. Years had been spent in collecting the stamps, and three weeks in making the dress, which was of the muslin. The lady appealed to her friends to help her, and the dress was completely covered with stamps of all nations. In the centre of the breast was an eagle made entirely with brown Columbian stamps. Suspended from the talons was a globe made of very old blue revenue stamps. On either side of the globe was an American flag, the stripes of blue and red stamps. A collection of foreign stamps was pasted on the back of the bodice in the form of a shield, the centre of which was made up of a portrait of the brave Sir George Summers, cut from old revenue stamps. A large picture hat covered with red and blue stamps was worn with the costume.—New York Tribune.

How Long Does It Take to Wink? Science divides winks into the wink slow and the wink rapid rather than into the wink flirtations and the wink instinctive.

By passing a bit of paper upon the eyelid a photographic record has been made of the duration of time required in this eye cleansing process, and it has been found that a wink requires .395 of a second, though some deliberate winks require an additional .010 of a second.

In a quick wink the closing of the eye requires .075, there is a rest of .150, and .179 is required for the opening. To the casual observer it would seem that the eyelid opened and closed with equal rapidity, but the camera test shows that almost twice the length of time is required for the recovery, and in a slow wink the additional time required in recovery is proportionately greater.

London Street Names.

Canadians in London are apt to be confused by the fact that the same thoroughfare bears many different names as it pursues its crooked course through the fascinating old city.

Two young Toronto women, wandering through what they affectionately called "Dickens' London" last summer, went into a bun shop to ask the nearest way to one of the less frequented spots that the great writer has made sacred to all lovers of his stories.

A good-natured clerk gave them minute directions, to which they listened anxiously and with strong efforts to be intelligent when he spoke of the "top" or the "bottom" of certain streets, told them to go "straight away," and that the place was only "ten minutes off."

"Thank you so much," said the younger girl, "but I'm afraid that we may lose our way after all. Your streets here have such a perplexing habit of changing their names every few minutes that we are never really sure just where we are."

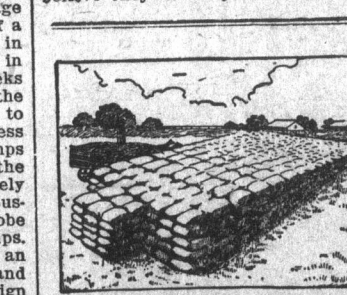

"Why, madam," remonstrated the clerk in a tone of mingled reproach and pity, "these streets don't change their names. They have had the same names for hundreds of years!"

Stories of Bishop Stubbs.

In the letters of Bishop Stubbs by William Holden Hutton, not only his strenuous side is shown but also his human and humorous one. Take for example, his parody on Cowper's poem on Alexander Selkirk. I am bishop of all I survey, Dean and chapter don't matter a fig. In the central demesne of the see I am master of peacock and pig. His remark when transferred from one see to another with less income was "Like Homer, I lose much by translation." The best story of all I have heard better rendered than it is by Mr. Hutton—that of his lordship when leaving a room saying to the admiring throng, "I must be leaving. I have got to study one book which I have ever had to devote myself to night and day. You know what I mean—it begins with B: 'The Bible, my lord,' was the answer. "No—Bradshaw!" said the bishop as he made his exit. Equally reckless was his remark after a dinner; when asked how he had enjoyed the evening he replied, "I walked back to Lambeth. It was quite well, thank you, but my boots were tight."

The watchmaker may pay his bills, but he lives on tick.

Some positively lazy men honestly believe they are only economical.

"DOLLAR WHEAT."

Trusts and monopolies are usually considered to be unfair, because they tend to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. Nevertheless, in some cases, the producers are directly benefited. For instance, when a "big" farmer raises the market price of grain and produce to a fabulous sum, the farmer benefits, if he does not part with his wheat too early, and a dollar a bushel would mean, on an average, that over $750,000,000 would go annually into the pockets of the farmers of the United States. The operators, later, buy up all the available grain and store it in big elevators, awaiting the proper moment to unload it on the market at the best price. In the same way that the earth yields food for man, so does it provide remedies for human ills. Thousands of households throughout the farming districts of the United States know the value of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is nature's most valuable and health-giving remedy, made without the use of alcohol. It contains roots, herbs and barks, and is the concentration of nature's vitality as found in the fields and woods. This remedy has a history which speaks well for it because it was given to the public by Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalid Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., nearly forty years ago, and has since been sold by dealers in medicines in ever increasing quantities. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved such a reliable blood remedy, tonic and liver regulator, that it often enjoys the confidence of several generations in a family, and its increased sales year by year coming from the recommendations of those who have tried it, prove its lasting merit, so that every bottle bears the stamp of public approval.

MYSTIC DRUID RITES.

Pilgrimage of 637 of the Quarter of a Million Brethren Visit Historic Pillars of Stonehenge.

Brothers of the Oak, known to the unenlightened outside world as the Ancient Order of Druids, made a pilgrimage recently to the Mecca of Druidism, and beneath the gaunt, historic pillars of Stonehenge, on Salisbury Plain, high Druidic revelry was held, and mystic rites were performed with song and fire, says The London Express.

The Ancient Order of Druids claims some remote connection with the warlike priests of the ancient Britons, who in the day of Boadicea and her predecessors offered up the living sacrifice in their massive temple on Salisbury Plain. Why the Brothers of the Oak should seek to perpetuate the memory of these leaders of a savage faith is not particularly clear, even to the brethren themselves. It is nevertheless a fact that the modern order has a membership of over a quarter of a million, with branches in South Africa and other colonies.

A special train from London brought the greatest of the Druids, with many hundreds of their lesser brethren. They came from all directions, and concentrated at Stonehenge, where 637 were gathered to do honor to the first occasion on which an organized pilgrimage had been made to the temple that stands for everything in Druidism.

One of the chief objects of the pilgrimage was the formal initiation by bell, book and candle of 25 new brothers, one of them being Sir Edmund Antrobus, the owner of Stonehenge.

The ceremony was begun soon after luncheon and the speeches. The initiates were obliged to station back by the bonfire fence, out of earshot, and any one who did not wear a buttonhole of oak leaves and acorns, or some other sign of brotherhood, was challenged, and if he failed to give the mystic sign was ignominiously banished.

The altar (a wooden one, painted to represent marble) was erected in front of the greatest trilithon, not far from the "slaughter stone," where, before the Roman invasion,

"Druid priests, sprinkled with human gore,

Taught mid thy massy mazes their mystic lore."

The brethren formed themselves in an oval round the altar. About a hundred, forming the inner line, wore the white gown and cowl of bards, and were disguised with flowing white false beards that streamed below their waists. Others, consisting of most noble arches, past noble arches, past arches, grand arches and vice-arches, wore gowns of red, blue and gold, with golden beards, gold lace collars, and a profusion of medals, mystic symbols and orders.

All carried brass sickles on the end of long staves or brass spears. When all was ready the bards formed an arch with their sickles, and the most noble grand arch, G. A. Lannard, the head of the order, emerged from the tent, and, accompanied by other great Druids, marched slowly and solemnly beneath the sickles to the strains of the "War March of the Priests," played by a Druidic band.

The most noble grand arch took his place at the altar, and the 25 initiates were led from the tent, with Sir Edmund Antrobus at the head. They were blindfolded, and walked in Indian file, with their hands on the shoulders of the man in front of him. The curious procession excited the merriment of the distant crowd, who roared with laughter and shouted sarcastical figures.

As they approached the bards and brethren burst into the song of welcome, and as the altar was being prepared the following verse was sung:

Now, now, your rites prepare,
With secrecy and care.

When the flames arise,
Unbind their eyes.

Our mysteries let them share.

The initiates, still blindfolded, then took the obligation, and directly they had done so, the sacred fire at the altar was kindled, while the brethren sang:

See, see the flames arise!
Brothers now your songs prepare,
And ere their vigor droops and dies
Our mysteries let them share.

With evergreen their brows entwined,
And hail them with your songs divine.

And let them know the mistletoe,
And Togo Dublinne.

The gentleman with the familiar name was born in Druidic times, in a hollow oak tree. He is stated to be no relation to the Japanese admiral of that name.

The initiates were then sworn by the solemn oaths which bind all Druids to eternal secrecy, and after more singing and other rites, which were carefully shielded from the eyes of the prying public and the still more prying camera, the most noble grand arch descended from the altar and whispered into the ear of each man.

This was the most secret part of the ceremony. It consisted of placing the mystic signs, countersigns, inner and outer passwords, and counter-passwords, and the methods which enabled one brother to recognize another if he meets him in the Arabian desert—but of these a Druid may not speak even to the wife of his bosom.

"All Round the Oak" was then sung to the tune of the National Anthem, and the final chorus, which closed the lodge. The sacred fire of salt and mistletoe was then put out, the wooden altar removed, and the bards and grand officers, having abandoned their beards and gowns, drank many cups of tea and discussed the lore of the ancients.

By 8 o'clock they were gone—Druids, sickles, holiday-makers and all—and there was a blood-red sunset on the western edge of Salisbury Plain that threw up the pillars of Stonehenge against a background of fire.

British Throughout.

It is possible to go round the world touching only on British territory all the way—viz., from England to Halifax, N. S., across Canada to Vancouver, across the Pacific to Hong Kong, thence to Singapore, Penang, Mauritius, Cape Town, St. Helena, and England, or from Penang to Ceylon, Bombay, Aden, Perim, Malta, Gibraltar and home. Such a "sea connection" no other nation in the world possesses.

Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum For Coughs and Colds.

CHILDREN'S DISEASES.

Try to Avoid Them by Proper Sanitary Precautions.

It was formerly supposed that every baby had to have measles, mumps, scarlet fever, chicken pox, whooping cough, frequent colds and a periodical attack of cholera morbus or summer diarrhea. It is now believed that many children can be kept wholly from these disorders, and with the advance of sanitation so that one can control the infection from neighboring children it will be possible to eradicate all infectious diseases of child life.

It is a distinct danger to all children to pass through these disorders, and, while many of them escape practically harmless, many others suffer through their entire lives from the ill after-effects of measles, scarlet fever and other contagious disorders.

Drs. Preisch and Schuitz have investigated the subject of the infectious nature of the nails and fingers of infants at crawling age, says Healthy Homes. The outcome of this investigation was that out of thirty-six children examined fourteen contained the tubercle bacillus under their nails.

Infection of such origin might be avoided by putting a clean sheet upon the floor for the child to play upon. Surely the war against tuberculosis should begin in the homes, where the disease is bred in the child. Adenoids and hypertrophied tonsils have little power of resistance and are the open doors of commerce for the tubercle bacilli.

THE NEW WOMAN.

She is Both Disciple and Apostle of the Gospel of Good Health.

The new woman is simply the one who by experience, education and common sense is qualified to make the largest and best use of her capabilities. She is more delightfully feminine than ever—the attractions of her womanhood more charming. But she is both disciple and apostle of the gospel of health. She is gradually breaking down the terrible conventionalities that has bound woman to styles of dress, methods of life and inactive activity of mind and body, which heretofore fettered her fullest development. Her marvellous individuality seeks more freedom of growth and expression. Nature makes no two individuals alike, either animate or inanimate, and the new woman would follow this universal law to a reasonable extent rather than submit to repression of her individuality down to the dead level of uniformity. Yet this individuality is attained with a tact, a femininity, an intuitive appreciation of public sentiment which is as delicious as it is effective.—Good Housekeeping.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Remove stains before sending garments to the laundry.

A faded cotton dress can be made white by boiling in cream of tartar water.

Woolen clothes should be washed in very hot suds and not rinsed. Lukewarm water shrinks them.

Unpainted wire netting not only makes a good rest for flatirons when several thicknesses are used, but is most effectual to clean them on.

Never rinse white lace in blue water under the impression that this will improve the color. Real lace should be finally rinsed in skim milk, which will give it the soft, creamy tint so much admired.

For the Children

"To my own knowledge," said the head of a real estate firm in London, Eng., recently, there have been plots sold in London at a rate of £118 per square foot. Think of it. An ordinary building site, 25 feet front, and 100 feet deep, would at that price be worth nearly a million and a half dollars, and an acre would be worth more than twenty-three millions.

SUNDAY PAPERS

Speaking at the First Baptist church, Brantford, on Sunday, Rev. Mr. Farmer strongly condemned the practice of selling Sunday newspapers in that city. Not only did he denounce the sale, which is increasing with the advent of the main line trains, but he also scored the papers themselves as not being conducive to the development of a high standard of morality. It was intimated that the practice of selling newspapers on Sunday would be stopped in Brantford.

Men are too often influenced by the fear of being called cowards.

It is far easier to argue eloquently on economy than it is to practice it.

Miss Hart, of Embury, was in the city to-day on her way home from Tupperville, where she gave a number of recitations at a concert last evening.

The Young Peoples Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold a social and reception for the students of the city in the Sunday school room this evening. A good program has been provided and all the students in the city are invited.

Jennie Kettle had rather an exciting experience on King street yesterday. She fell in the trench on King street made by the Steam Heating Company and had to be assisted home by Chief Holmes and Officer Henry Sarr.

A large number of young people from Chatham are attending the Epworth League convention in Blenheim to-day. Among those who left the city this morning were Rev. Mr. Malott, Rev. Mr. Rutledge, Mr. Salder, Dr. Hicks, Miss Bedford and Mrs. Poole.

THE PRESBYTERY

A meeting of the Chatham Presbytery was held in St. Andrew's church this morning when the call of Rev. H. Cowan, of Shakespeare, to the St. Paul and Bethel churches was sustained and arrangements were made for his induction on Nov. 14, providing he accepts the call.

BOTHWELL OIL FIELD

The Beaver Oil and Gas Company have just completed a splendid well on the Roberts farm, immediately west of the Fairbanks and Walker properties. There is very little water in the well, and the oil filled in to a depth of 175 feet, while the drill was going through 20 feet of oil rock. This find has set oil men thinking, as it was generally reported that oil would not be found in paying quantities outside the present field.

It takes more than an amateur gardener to raise hopes.

SUNDAY SELLING

Eugene Martin complained that Zephira Emery, of Big Point hotel, had sold her and his brother some whiskey on Sunday, Oct. 1st, and preferred a charge against the hotel man. It was ventilated before Judge Houston at County Court this morning. The brother had a bad me and the hotel man denied it, an acquittal resulting. O. L. Lewis defended.

CANADIAN POET HONORED

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has ordered a special library edition of 500 copies of the forthcoming volume of Mr. Wilfred Campbell's verse to present to his libraries throughout the English-speaking world. The edition is to be called the "Carnegie Edition," and each volume will have the inscription, "Presented by Andrew Carnegie." This is a high compliment to our distinguished Canadian poet.

THOSE LIGHTS

"I see that the Property Committee report having their electric light plant in first class shape," remarked a citizen this morning. "What was the matter last night with all of the lights south of Harvey street? not one of them were lit and the night was inky black!"

Ald. Westman, when seen regarding the matter, replied that one of the Gas Company dynamos got out of order, but will be all right either tonight or to-morrow night. The Thompson machine is working well and, if it proves a success after a severe test, the other Thompson dynamo will be put in the same shape and then the city will not have to purchase a new dynamo at all.

GOOD DAYS' HUNTING

Sergeant "Trooper" Glover, of "B" Company, 80th, Jack McCormick of "A" Company, and James Rouse, of Radley's drug store, were out hunting yesterday in Botany. They had a very successful day of it, notwithstanding the inclement weather. The trio got 44 black squirrels, two grey squirrels, two coons and one rabbit. The black squirrels were all big fat fellows. One of the grey squirrels was a big beauty and "Trooper" Glover presented it to the non-coms. mess. The non-coms, are having it mounted and it will grace the mess room.

LEG CUT OFF

A young man named Marx had a narrow escape from death at Blenheim last evening. He was employed by the Pere Marquette as a brakeman and while engaged in shunting some cars he slipped and fell under one of the cars. One of his legs was cut off below the knee.

He was brought to Chatham on a special and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where Dr. Egan attended him. He was doing as well as could be expected to-day.

CAUGHT HIS MEN

Two young men from the city visited McKellar's sugar camp, out in Harwich, Monday, and stripped the engine of all its brass works.

Mr. McKellar did a neat bit of detective work this morning, when he located the mountings out at the G. T. R. and identified the two fellows who did the deed. The father of the young men pleaded earnestly for leniency, which Mr. McKellar promised to give, stipulating, however, that restitution in full be made.

IMPORTING ALIEN LABOR.

Another Case Finds Its Way to the Legal Boneyard.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—Another alien labor action found its way to the legal boneyard yesterday morning when the case of Spittal v. Breckenridge was dismissed by the Divisional Court. Frank E. Breckenridge, general agent of the International Harvester Co., was alleged to have imported E. L. Spittal, an alien, to work in his office. A conviction was made by Magistrate O'Keefe of Ottawa, who fined the defendant $50. A stated case was sent to the Divisional Court, and yesterday morning they quashed the conviction on purely technical grounds.

It is necessary before prosecuting under the alien labor law to get the consent of the Attorney-General or of a County Judge. In this case Judge O'Meara gave his consent, but did not stipulate any of the particulars under which the prosecution was being made. Chief Justice Meredith, Justices Anglin and Clute all agreed that something more than the formal consent was necessary, and that County Judge must specify the charges under which a prosecution is to be made.

CANADIAN CHEESE.

Cheshire Farmers Think That Importations Will Be Lessened.

London, Oct. 20.—(G. A. P.)—At the Chester Show of the Cheshire Dairy Farmers' Association, John Emberton, chairman, said he had been informed that this year customers who had previously used imported Canadian cheese had been using Cheshire cheese more freely than ever before. Mr. Chaloner, the secretary, said the Canadians had made up their minds not to send cheese to England unless it paid them to do so. As soon as cheese in Canada went below a certain price farmers stopped cheese-making. He did not think that in future Cheshire farmers would have the same competition to meet from Canada they had in bygone days.

PRINCE OF WALES FOR INDIA.

Will Spend the Winter in That Far Off British Dependency.

London, Oct. 20.—The Prince and Princess of Wales started on their six months' tour of India yesterday. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the other members of the royal family and the Canadian Ministers were in their farewell at the railroad station.

The Prince and Princess of Wales are going overland to Genoa, Italy, where they will embark on the British battleship Renown, which is due to arrive at Bombay Nov. 2. They will stay in India until March, visiting the principal cities and native states.

Regina, Oct. 20.—The campaigns in Alberta and Saskatchewan are now being vigorously carried on. Both sides profess confidence and are concentrating every effort.

Quebec Honors Mr. Parent.
Quebec, Oct. 20.—The banquet given by the citizens of Quebec to ex-Premier Parent last evening at the Chateau Frontenac was a brilliant success. It was a non-political function, at the tables being seated both Liberals and Conservatives. Among those present were Lieut.-Governor Jetté, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, and Hon. R. Lemieux. The toasts were to "The King," "Our Guest," "Canada," and "Commerce and Transportation." All the speakers avoided everything of a political or partisan nature.

Modesty has a way of thrusting itself forward without being considered obtrusive.

JOE MURPHY IN "KERRY GOW."

Joseph Murphy & Co. plays "Kerry Gow" here on Monday next.

There is an enjoyable element throughout the production: "Kerry Gow" is a rich study of character types. If a word of dialogue was not uttered throughout the four acts the audience would be admirably entertained in the study of characters in the cast. As Dan O'Hara, the blacksmith, Mr. Murphy is at his best, he seems to realize that there are people in the audience who have not been inside a theatre for years or since he appeared at the house perhaps years before, and he also realizes that there are others present who used to sit in the gallery in the old days and swear by him for so much sincerity that it is commendative. The audience is moved by his impetuous Irish wit. It is swayed by his confidence and entertained by his actions. The part which he plays is much younger in years than he is, but this is not noticed in his work, and he is to all appearances as clever now as he ever was.

DISEASE THAT WORKS OVERTIME

Dyspepsia Once Started Never Quits

Till Stopped—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the One Sure Way to Stop It.

Some diseases have peculiar seasons in which to do their deadly work, but there is one that works all the time and overtime at that. It is almost needless to say that disease is Indigestion or Dyspepsia. Once started Dyspepsia never quits till it is stopped and there is only one sure way to stop it and that is by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There is abundant proof that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets always stop Dyspepsia. Thousands of Canadians who speak as does Mrs. John F. Salars, of Western Bay, Newfoundland, say: "It gives me great pleasure to say I have been cured of Dyspepsia by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I suffered for seven years. I could not eat without suffering intense agony, and had given up to die before using the Tablets. I felt relief from the first and after the use of five boxes am well and strong."

THE AFRICAN INVASION

ARMIES OF TOURISTS AND SETTLERS ARE ON THE MARCH.

They Have Already Driven Big Game From the Coast—Opening Up of the Zambezi Region to Commerce, Tourists and Hunters—Just Fifty Years Since Livingstone First Saw Victoria Falls.

South Africa is a great place for big game, but it will not remain so long now that tourists and hunting parties are invading it in railroad trains and steamboats. A few weeks ago the bridge over the Zambezi river, the highest bridge in the world, located near the once inaccessible Victoria Falls, was formally opened in the presence of numerous dignitaries. At the conclusion of an oration which touched upon the significance of the occasion an electric button was pressed, and on which the baby to keep the first formal trip over the bridge was made. The Victoria falls were discovered but fifty years ago. It was in 1855 that Livingstone, first of white men to behold them, gazed upon the mighty cataract, and the tree is still pointed out on which he cut his initials soon after the wonderful scene burst upon his delighted vision. The eminent personages who traveled thither to take part in the opening of the bridge did not have to spend months on the route and encounter the severest of hardships, but journeyed in a "train de luxe," with all the conveniences of modern travel, including dining rooms, kitchens, bedrooms, bathrooms, smoking parlors and observation cars. At the falls they found the hospitable of a modern hotel awaiting them.

Africa is the last of the continents to yield to the all conquering power of modern civilization. Its interior remained a mystery up to a comparatively recent period. As the equator cuts the continent in two, and the climate is tropical from the Mediterranean to the Cape, vegetation is luxuriant, and the rank growth of trees and plants often hides animals of huge size and rapacious appetite. But already these animals are beginning to flee from the scorching heat of the sun. The lion is the typical carnivore of Africa, and next to him in ferocity is the leopard. Elephant and rhinoceros herds abound and hippopotami swim in the big lakes and rivers, occasionally coming to the surface, their huge backs looking like strange and marine vessels suddenly appearing above the ripples and the waves. Another animal peculiar to Africa and found elsewhere in the giraffe, while the forests of the central portion of the continent resound to the cries of chimpanzees and gorillas and jackals and hyenas. There is still plenty of big game to be had, but the hunting parties, the commercial traffic in elephant tusks, the quests to supply the demands of circuses and hippodromes and the gradual settlement of the countries on the coasts are driving the large wild animals farther and farther into the interior. The railway lines which now penetrate Rhodesia make arrangements to carry hunting parties in special cars with all conveniences for prolonged stays, so that the cars may be sidetracked and used for headquarters during the hunting trip. When railways were first introduced in Rhodesia it used to be customary to stop the trains sometimes for passengers to take shots at wandering lions or at some of the game birds which abound, but nowadays there are no such interruptions to the railway schedule.

At Victoria falls a fine hotel in the Byzantine style of architecture is in the process of erection to take the place of the temporary structure now in use for the accommodation of tourists. It is in the "Park of Peace," which is being laid out on the south side of the falls. Even this attraction for tourists steps have been taken to preserve the natural beauties of the location. It is estimated that in the flood season at least 35,000,000 horsepower is continually going to waste at Victoria falls. The project of harnessing them is now talked of, but it will be some time before diversion of the water for industrial purposes will be in danger of destroying the grandeur of the scene.

TO STOP A CRYING BABY.

Babies cry because they are sick. It may be a pain in the stomach, colic, or cramps,—but in any case a few drops of Morrill's soothes away the distress and allows the baby to sleep peacefully. Where there are young children there should also be Morrill's. It cures all the minor ailments just as promptly as the doctor and not so expensive. For nearly fifty years Morrill's Nervine has been the great household remedy of Canada. Sold everywhere in large 25 cent bottles.

Airing Baby's Clothes.

It is a most important thing that all baby's clothes should be well aired the day before he wears them, but they should not be put on warm from the fire. It is well, where it can be done, to let him have clean clothes every day, but if this cannot be afforded his clothes should be well aired every night, so as to be free from perspiration and ready to put on again the morning, and be washed as frequently as possible.

IS YOUR CATARRH ANY BETTER?

Probably getting worse all the time. Why not give up that snuff and stop dosing your stomach? The best cure for Catarrh is "Catharho," sure to cure because it goes where the disease really is. Certain to cure in your case because it has restored tens of thousands worse than you are. Catharho is a thorough cure because it destroys the causes as well as the effects of the disease. Relief is prompt, cure is quick with this powerful remedy, which is guaranteed to cure Catarrh in any part of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes or lungs.

Morning Baths.

Every child in health ought to be made every morning of his life upon rising and while the body still retains all the warmth of the bed to sponge the whole body and if he is too young to do this for himself it must be done for him. Sea salt is most strengthening and healthy addition to the bath and may be used with great advantage. If the child is robust cold water may be used throughout the year; if not, the water must be tepid.

A JUDICIOUS INQUIRY.

A well known travelling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if got a child he almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

Mending Table Linen.

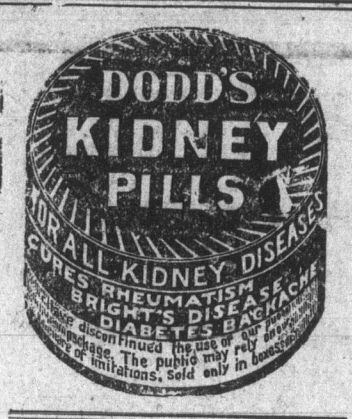

Table linen is best mended with embroidery cotton of a number to correspond with the quality of the cloth. Under the ragged edges of the tear baste a piece of stiff paper and make a network of darts stitches back and forth over its edges, carrying the stitches about an inch beyond the tear. Thin places and breaks in linen may be run with flax or embroidery floss and the towels should be mended in the same way.

HOW TO CURE CORNS AND BUNIONS.

First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by all druggists.

A hard head seldom goes with a soft heart.

Excelsior Paint will give you what you desire—a nice glossy finish. Try it. Drew & McCallum.

Story of Adolph and Anna.

Adolph, an Austrian artisan, adored Anna, an aristocrat. And Anna adored Adolph. Another aristocrat, Alfred, an ambassador, adored Anna. Anna admitted Adolph. Alfred assumed adoration. Alfred adored Anna. Anna adored Adolph. Alfred's audacity alarmed Anna. Alfred attempted abduct Anna. Anna, afraid and agitated, acquainted Adolph. Adolph accused Alfred. Alfred answered, abused Adolph awfully. Adolph answered Alfred. Alfred attacked Adolph. Anna, aghast, aided Adolph. Adolph and Anna almost annihilated Alfred. Alfred adopted a new name. Adolph accepted Adolph. Adolph and Anna absolutely absconded and abandoned Austria altogether, arriving at Antwerp, and always abiding abroad afterward.

Morning Baths.

Every child in health ought to be made every morning of his life upon rising and while the body still retains all the warmth of the bed to sponge the whole body and if he is too young to do this for himself it must be done for him. Sea salt is most strengthening and healthy addition to the bath and may be used with great advantage. If the child is robust cold water may be used throughout the year; if not, the water must be tepid.

A JUDICIOUS INQUIRY.

A well known travelling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if got a child he almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup it is unsurpassed. For sale by all druggists.

Mending Table Linen.

Table linen is best mended with embroidery cotton of a number to correspond with the quality of the cloth. Under the ragged edges of the tear baste a piece of stiff paper and make a network of darts stitches back and forth over its edges, carrying the stitches about an inch beyond the tear. Thin places and breaks in linen may be run with flax or embroidery floss and the towels should be mended in the same way.

HOW TO CURE CORNS AND BUNIONS.

First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled. For sale by all druggists.

A PLACE OF DREAMS.

Back-gazing to my childhood home I saw a place of fairy bowers. Glowing with sunshine. Palace walls towered from a fairland of flowers. Mid mighty pines pointing so high Their tall tops touched the sunny sky. After long years once more I came. How poor the palace and how small Stunted the pines! The flowers gone! I wondered, could it be the same? For childhood saw with dazzled eyes. The world when new the fairer seems. Yet still, old home, I'll fancy you. A place of sunshine and of dreams. Victor Lauriston, in Valley Magazine.

TO MARRY, AIM OF WOMEN.

Minister of Agriculture Deplores Rush of Country Youth Citywards.

Hon. Nelson Monteth, Minister of Agriculture, is somewhat concerned over the apparent lack of interest in the science of agriculture as exhibited by the young of the province. There is no noticeable diminution, he says, in the rush citywards of the young men and women, who at an early age, began to find farm burdens irksome, and long for the pleasures and excitement they fondly imagine await them when they set foot in the magic city, they hear so much about. "The farmer and the farming industry is the backbone financially of our nation," said the Minister recently, "and we will be in a bad way indeed, if the time comes when the tilling of the soil is regarded as menial or excessive laborious. Thinkers in the United States express the conviction that the influx of women into the professions and even the clerical trades formerly monopolized almost entirely by men, is now having the effect of driving the men, young and old, back to the farm to obtain a livelihood."

"I cannot say that we notice this effect in Canada yet, and it will be some time before we do, as we are a young country compared with the United States, but all our towns tell the same story. The young people are flocking to the cities. They are dazzled with what they believe is there, and they find when they do go that the realization is not the same as the anticipation. The best influences are lacking in the city. The city is not the place to foster and develop the ideal home life, even in Canadian cities. The country affords the most natural scope for the life of the young man, whether he live in the city or country, is towards matrimony, and the training afforded by the city environment is not the best training for a wife and mother. It is as good and helpful at any rate as that found in the country. The press of this country should wield its great influence in an educative capacity, towards keeping the country ideal strong and vigorous, and to remove from the minds of the young the thought that they may be wasting time by staying on their fathers' farms."

"Farming is not what it was. Of old it was all work and no play, and very little financial gain as a reward. Now farmer exercises a much keener business instinct. Running his farm, labor-saving machinery takes away the manual toll formerly an unavoidable adjunct of his work. Prices are better, and he handles a great deal more money than his grandfather was able to do. In fact it takes a good business man to be a farmer with success nowadays."

"I would like to see our boys and girls content to stay in the country. The outlook for farming is good now, and better in the future. If a whole-sale exodus from our farms takes place, it will mean either serious trouble for us as a nation, or the invention of labor-saving machinery to entirely change the place of the former workers, who have adopted some other calling."

Related As a True Story.

The curious legend of how the foxes in the olden days succeeded in catching birds after they had sought refuge in the trees is borne out by a story told of a settler's dog in Northern Ontario. The story is looked upon with a smiling eye by all the friends of the tourist who tells it, but he swears it is the truth, and the story does not differ in any material sense in any of the large number of times that he has been called upon to repeat it.

"I was talking to Joe, an old settler in Muskoka," I don't know his name—about hunting," said the story teller. "After some time the conversation fell upon dogs. He remarked that I had a pretty fair setter. He immediately asked me whether I could catch birds. I said no, because I shot all I could see and draw a bead on. He immediately said his little yaller dog was better than mine. I told him to prove it, and he led the dog and myself out into the bush."

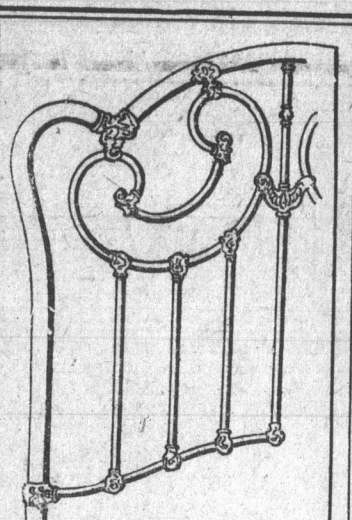

"Within a few moments after commencing the hunt, the dog treed a partridge," continued the tourist. "He waited for us to come up nearly under the tree; then he commenced his antics. Starting some distance away from the tree, he ran a rush at it, and then began to run around an eight-shaped figure as fast as he could go. With his eyes on the ground and his tongue hanging out, the cur seemed suddenly to have gone mad."

"The bird, perched on a limb above as if to say, 'What is that little beast doing anyway?' However, the bird kept a sharp watch on the yaller fellow flying around on the ground. If I speak the truth, its eye was seen to follow the movements of the dog very closely. The bird became more interested, and its head began to sway, keeping time with the motion of the animal on the ground. The motion of its head became more pronounced, and suddenly it overbalanced and fell to the ground with a flutter of wings. Before it could recover from its dizziness the dog had it in his mouth."

"Now, this may seem like a fairy tale," concluded the tourist, "but I've got the proof of another reliable witness in Toronto, who will hold me out, and if you don't believe either of us, see the caretaker of one of the islands in Lake Joseph, Muskoka."

Brother Smiff and the Phone Girl.

The girl's phone is the latest. It won't go. The seedless orange is all right, and the horseless carriage can be put up with. But a phone without a girl? No, sir. No one would be seen talking to such a thing.—Bobcatygon Independent.

Ives' Brass Beds give brightness and dignity to a room.

Many artistic home furnishers have adopted the metal bed instead of the cumbersome and sometimes unsightly wooden beds. A metal bed adds grace and beauty to a room, imparts an atmosphere of dignity often-times hard to secure with a wooden bed. Its lines are light and graceful and if it is an Ives bed it will be handsome and artistic in design.

Ives beds are always beautifully designed because Ives artists are the most proficient metal designers in America. They have made Ives famous for high class metal bank and hotel fittings.

Ask to see an Ives bed and you will like it.

Multiple Screws.

Multiple screws were used as early as the American civil war on certain vessels known as "tin clads" on the Mississippi, their adoption being necessitated by the shallow draft. The great advantage they possess in securing a vessel against total disablement and for maneuvering soon made them the rule in the navy. They were much longer in coming into use in the merchant service, but since the era of the very large transatlantic steamships, including with the Paris and New York and the Teutonic and Majestic, all very large vessels have been built with twin screws.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The sour of a foul stomach is not the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of the blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour stomach sweet, it does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every taint or corrupting element. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant and no narcotic.

THE PEOPLE'S RAILWAY

Hon. Mr. Emmerson is Preparing a Complete Statement.

Leaky Are Being Plugged Up and Other Things Done to Convert a Deficit on the I. C. R. Into No Loss at Least—Rates Will Go Up, and Savings by Modern Methods Are to Be Effected.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, was in the city yesterday, on his way to the Soo, and then through west, where he will inspect the route of the C.T.P.

"My idea about the Intercolonial is this: That it can be made one of the best assets of the Dominion and one of the most productive," he said.

"It is within sight that the Intercolonial can be made, if not a paying, at least a losing venture. It is simply a question of rates after all. Naturally there were some leakages and these things have to be shaken up once in a while to discover where they are, but these are easily cured. I think it will be shown that the leakages are now pretty well stopped.

"It is necessary to have modern methods, in handling coal, for instance, I can see where savings can be made which will greatly reduce the expenses, and I am preparing for my colleagues a complete statement of the causes of the financial situation on the Intercolonial, and shall recommend the application of certain remedies, which, if carried out will, I am sure, forever hush any question of the transfer of the Intercolonial to any company or syndicate, or to anyone else.

"The rates on the Intercolonial have been certainly very low. They were established at the time of the creation of the road, with the view of bringing the people of Ontario and Quebec in closer touch with Maritime Province people. It was necessary to make rates inviting, and when once these were established it was difficult to make a change without creating a little disturbance.

"I think they ought to be changed, and can be changed, within certain limits, without any volcanic results. I have a plan for the amelioration of conditions upon the Intercolonial, but I have not time to develop it here, even if I gave it to the public prints first were the proper way, as you know it is not.

"Although the financial statement of the Intercolonial has not shown a balance to the good, it has a very large surplus carried in the pockets of the people of Canada, and very largely in those of the manufacturers and merchants of Ontario."

Quinto Steamers Collide.

Kington, Oct. 20.—The steamer Althea, running between Kington and Pictou, had a collision with the steamer Reindeer of Napanee, at Cressey, on the Bay of Quinte, Tuesday night. The latter had run into the Cressey wharf first, and the Althea went ahead to make the landing, her captain being unable to see the Reindeer. The steamers collided and a woman who was walking from the Reindeer's gangway to the wharf was thrown into the water, but was quickly rescued.

A HATLESS MULTITUDE.

Pays Reverence in London to the Ashes of Sir Henry Irving.

London, Oct. 20.—The ashes of Sir Henry Irving, enclosed in a plain oak coffin, are now lying in the chapel of St. Faith, Westminster Abbey, awaiting to-day's elaborate ceremony of interment in poets' corner.

Their removal from the residence of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts occurred at 6 o'clock last evening. The entire route to the abbey was lined by thousands of people, the men standing bareheaded, who waited in respectful silence until the hearse passed and who then joined in the procession behind the police. On arrival at the abbey the entire square was filled with a hatless multitude. The hearse was driven into the deans' yard, where it was met by the Dean of Westminster and a number of clergy.

The scene was most impressive as the procession moved and disappeared among the gloomy cloisters. As the procession entered the great organ softly played the dead march from Saul, until the chapel of St. Faith was reached and the coffin had been placed on a catafalque when the music stopped and a short prayer was said by the dean.

GUELPH DRUGGIST'S SUICIDE.

Found Dead on Floor From Carbolic Acid Poisoning.

Guelph, Oct. 20.—"God has commanded me to his Kingdom right away; good-bye."

This was the farewell message of J. L. Luckham, a local druggist, who was found in an unconscious state on the floor of his store yesterday morning. A pound bottle of carbolic acid was standing near by and two ounces had been taken out of it. An empty glass and a note was found on the table.

Mr. Luckham had been in poor health, which probably rendered him temporarily insane and caused his rash deed.

Deceased came to Guelph recently from Glencoe. His wife and two children were coming to Guelph yesterday to live.
