THE WEEKLY ONTARIO

AND BAY OF QUINTE CHRONICLE

ESTABLISHED 1841 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1920. MORTON & HERRITY, PROPRIETORS

Congratulatory Message From Montreal Pastor

Outremont, Que., March 30, 1920
Editor Ontario
Please accept my hearty congratulations on the occasion of the "Golden Wedding" of "The Daily Ontario." I have just finished reading the "jubilee" number from cover to cover and it is a richly laden array of history, romance, and achievement served up in charming style. I am sure that most of your host of readers will "get wise" to its value as a historical souvenir of Belleville's journalistic evolution through the long years and that this "jubilee" copy will go "on file" for future handy reference. As a constant reader of your paper during the past ten years I will allow me to say how much profit and pleasure it has daily afforded me and how nobly you have ever upheld the public weal and the people's right, "unswayed by influence and unshooked by gain." I have ever felt that your paper deserved the high encomium paid to the great newspaper of Greeley: "Here Patriot truth her glorious precincts draw, pledged to religion, liberty and law." The sturdy and helpful editorials you have given us from time to time have not been a mere transcript of the city's rumor or gossip, far less have they been political expostions or reform-philis. You have been the apostle of progress and your columns have ever been a mighty fortress of truth and the executor of the common people's will. In the days of "consolidation" and "united absorption" in newspapers it is a source of regret to me that the Ontario Chronicle has not been a more prominent and complete contributor to the public opinion in regard to their own special enterprises or those of their political friends. May your how abide in strength for many years to come and may prosperity attend all your endeavors in the sincere wish of yours sincerely,
Chas. Geo. Smith

Important Notice to the Public

We have to announce that after occupying the same offices for over fifteen years, that owing to our inability to make satisfactory arrangements, we have decided to remove to other quarters, and in order to get up-to-date and satisfactory offices, we are going to No. 327 Front St., two doors above Crystal Hotel, where we will have an office with two plate-glass windows, and prism glass over top, hot water heating, very comfortable waiting room, and a Newly Equipped Examination Room.
We take this opportunity of returning thanks to our patrons of Belleville, Counties of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland, for their manifest appreciation of our services as an Eye-Sight Specialist for the past 15 years in particular, and sincerely trust that none of our patrons in South Belleville, Prince Edward, Trenton, Point Ann, and Deseronto Districts, will fail to call on us at our new office even for minor repairs, particularly so as the extra distance is less than three minutes' walk, so far as our many patrons in North Belleville, G.T.R. and outlying Districts are concerned. It will be more convenient for them than formerly. RUSKIN has said about "the man who can do something better than any one else that he may plant himself in the wilderness and the public will make a path to his door." With all modesty (being the only Exclusive Eye-Sight Specialist in Belleville), we do claim to be able to test and correct Eye-Sight defects better than any one else in Belleville, but the public will not have to pass through a "wilderness" in order to reach us, but a very short distance from old office through a pleasant and rapidly improving part of Front St.
Our last day in old office will be Saturday, April 10th. On and after Monday, April 12th, we will be in our new office, and we most cordially invite all our friends to call and see us there irrespective of whether they need our services or not. Alexander Ray, Opt. D. Exclusive Eye-Sight Specialist, Belleville.

John Brown, a St. Catharines colored man, was found dead in an old shed in the rear of a vacant house. The "find" has carried off eleven persons within a very short time at Fenelon, Ont., several homes being broken up.
Seven hundred sheep out of a flock of 1,000 perished on a farm near McDonald, Man., during the recent storm.

The Old Boys' Reunion, 1920

Detail Work Being Rushed by the Committee
The Old Boys' Reunion Committee of 1920 are getting into their stride. Much detail work has already been done. A public meeting of citizens is called for Wednesday April 7th in the city hall and citizens are urged to attend in large numbers as the co-operation of all is required to make July, 1920 a memorable time in this city.

Fourteen Years for Brutal Crime

John O'Connell Attempted to Murder Miss McGee at Their Employer's
Brookville, March 30.—Fourteen years in Kingston Penitentiary with hard labor was the sentence passed on John O'Connell by Mr. Justice Logan in the Assizes here tonight, for attempted murder of Miss Margaret McGee on the afternoon of March 10th, at the residence of Wm. A. Moulton, near Lansdowne, where the two were employed.
The offense was a most brutal one, Miss McGee being left for dead on the bare floor after the clothing had been torn from her body and twelve knife wounds inflicted, also several blows on the head from a sledge. O'Connell later attempted to take his own life by cutting his throat with a razor, but was brought to the hospital here and his life was saved.

Seven Nation Indians Do Not Want Vote

(Special.)
OTTAWA, Mar. 31.—With a bill of wampum to be kept in perpetual memory of the treaty between the King and his Indian subjects, dated October 7, 1868, chiefs of the Seven Nations of Lower Canada or Oka, have memorialized the government in disapproval of Bill No. 14, which was to have amended the Indian Act. They do not wish to send their children to boarding or industrial schools, and are decidedly opposed to that section of the bill providing for their enfranchisement. They point out that under the treaty they were to be given complete freedom in the reservations, being subject only to the dictates of the chiefs.
Chief Joseph K. Gabriel, of Oka, Mitchell Cole, of Oka, Lorain Joeko, of St. Regis, and Alex. R. Thompson, of St. Regis, composed the delegation who waited on Mr. J. D. McLean, assistant deputy minister of the Indian Affairs Department and presented him with a petition against Bill No. 14, and signed by ten chiefs and 20 warriors. The petition is as follows:
"To the Honorable, the Ministers and Senators:
"Know all men by these presents that we, the undersigned chiefs and warriors of the Lake-of-Two-Mountains band of Indians, now residing on that place and parcel of land, and marked as our forstathers made treaties by the King of France.
"We have heard his words concerning the times of his father, whom we loved him as his son, and we will enjoy the most profound peace and tranquility (13 of Feb. 1758).
"Moreover that the wampum belts were to mark the calming of the spirit of war and the opening of the path of peace.
"In our former days we agreed to follow the wisdom of our ancestor, that it should never be extinguished a treaty dated 13 of June, 1754.
"By the treaty of the 7th day of October, 1763, protection from being molested or disturbed in the possession of such parts of His Majesty's Dominion and territories set us free and open to all his subjects whatever.
"All those made by our forefathers between the English—we would rather to keep our treaties good.
"And we will not give up our Birch bark canoes.
"We do not wish to become as whitemen.
"The Seven Nations of Lower Canada and Oka had rules the Session should not pass an Act injurious to our race.

Found Dead at His Home

Mr. Angus Dumville, Well-Known Citizen Passed Away Suddenly
Angus Dumville, a well-known citizen, was found dead in bed at his home at 98 Pinnacle street this morning. He had been visiting his son, Mr. W. J. Indians Subject to Laws of Chief

Chief Joseph Brant Protests Government Making Them
OTTAWA, Mar. 31. (Special.)—"It is not in the treaty that the Government should make laws for us and therefore we object to it. We have always understood from our fathers that, insofar as affects our relations with each other, the Indians in Canada are subject only to the laws made by the chiefs of the reservations."
Chief Joseph G. Brant, of Tyendinaga, a direct descendant of the great "Joe Brant," one of the foremost figures in Canadian history, expressed the foregoing opinion this morning in discussing the gathering in Ottawa of the representatives of the Indian reserves in Canada for the purpose of impressing their views upon the Government in regard to the legislation to which they object.
Chief Brant, who with representatives of the other Indian reserves, is a guest at the Windsor, is a man of striking appearance. When he told his name to the reporter this morning the natural observation in response was "That's a famous name."
"I am a direct descendant," Chief Brant said with pride.
Speaking of conditions among the Indians, he said that as far as he could learn from representatives of the other reserves they were generally prosperous, although the high cost of living has hit them in common with their white-breasted brethren.
The conference between the "chiefs" and the members of Parliament will probably continue until tomorrow and the delegates are confident that success will attend their mission and their ancient rights will not be interfered with.

THURSDAY MARCH 25, 1920

TIME SOMEBODY SAID SOMETHING

There is much in what Mr. D. Martin, manager of the Woolworth store, said at the meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association on Friday night when he told the reason for farmers trade being driven away to the catalogue houses. Daylight Saving was one of the plans chosen by the cities to alienate the good-feeling and the patronage of the farming community.

It is about time somebody had something to say about this extravagant clamor of a group of lazy agitators who are continuously demanding "more pay for less work."

There are worse calamities that can befall men engaged in ordinary work than to put in ten hours a day.

Farmers are forced to work fourteen to sixteen hours a day and they do not view with any too great complacency the desertion of the farms by the hired men who hurry to the cities where the short hours and easy money are to be found.

The inordinate demands of piratical sections of labor are fast bringing about conditions that are intolerable to all. Many of them have been granted a six-hour day and still are agitating.

The recent huge increase granted to coal miners is a case in point. These toilers go to their work in many instances in limousines, put in six or seven hours a day, for which they are paid ten to twenty-five dollars.

The plumbers of Birmingham, Alabama are demanding $12 for a day of eight hours, with time and a half for overtime and double pay if they work on holidays.

Such robbers are the worst enemies of honest labor, just as they and their kind are largely responsible for agricultural depopulation, and famine prices for food and all other necessities of life.

The Farmers' Sun made a sensible suggestion the other day. The Ontario government was requested to conduct a demonstration farm and pay the manager and his help the same scale of wages as is being paid to the eight-hour mechanics in Toronto, also with the customary fifty per cent. increase for all work done beyond the eight-hour limit.

There is food for thought in The Sun's argument.

RURAL COMMUNITY CENTRES

Intimation in an address of the minister of agriculture, Hon. Manning Doherty, a few days ago, is given of the Government's consideration of a plan to establish community centres in rural districts. Such an undertaking would be a really constructive move on the part of the Government, for certainly there is no greater hardship nor drawback mitigating against the popularity of country life today than the isolation from one's fellows which it entails.

One of the things which has contributed very much to the disheartening of returned soldiers located on New Ontario land grants has been the loneliness and remoteness of an undeveloped country, and the entire absence of means of recreation so readily afforded in urban life.

It should not be too difficult to work out a feasible plan for the establishment of community centres on at least an adequately experimental scale, both in the new and old rural settlements of Canada. And old Ontario, as well as New Ontario, the Maritime Provinces as well as Saskatchewan and Alberta, need the community centre. Some critics may say the community centre idea might better be left to the provinces to be worked out in conjunction more or less with the public school system for most of the provinces to handle. The community centre is an ideal method to continue the education of Canadians into adult years, and offering a common meeting ground for native-born Canadians, as well as immigrants of all races and types, it should prove a splendid institution for the assimilation and amalgamation of all into one common, vigorous and united Canadian nationality.

Citizenship lectures, courses of lectures in historical and literary subjects, moving pictures, night schools for foreign-born immigrants, drama leagues, literary societies and musical organizations, are means of instruction and entertainment which would be greatly fostered by the establishment of community centres where every member of the community, irrespective of religion, race, education, vocation or station in society, would be encouraged to meet and better understand the other members.

Great as the convenience of free mail delivery in the rural communities has been, it has to a considerable extent removed what formerly was the time-honored rudimentary community centre, the village postoffice. With no reasonable excuse for waiting for their mail at the crossroads grocery store, the members of the old-time informal debating society which congregated nightly around the square box stove and swapped stories about Sir John A. Macdonald is no more. The farmer gets his mail at the door and buys his groceries from his co-operative consumers' association.

Community centres some day will possibly be as common as schools and churches, and then with their thoughts centred in their own little country section, the boys and girls will no longer dream always of the far-off city. Just as good gymnasia, just as entertaining motion pictures, just as fascinating bowling alleys, week-end community dances, community choruses, debating clubs, dramatic clubs, social evenings and all other forms of entertainment and wholesome amusement, as are found in the city will be provided near at home in the community centre. It is to be hoped that the Government will at an early date announce that the splendid ideal proposed will take practical and actual form in as many communities as possible.

THE THINGS HE DIDN'T GET

There's a lot of folks, they say, that's a-holdin' up to-day Several mercies that they only just have found; There's a river full o' thanks, that's a-bustin' of its banks An a-inundatin' all de country round. Here's dis rheumatiz; I spose it's a blessin' in repose Fur I'm happy when it isn't to be found Must've ketcht it from de moon in de season of de coon. An' I spose, ob co'se, de Lawd was watchin' round. Here's dis bullet in my knee, 'twan't by no request ob me, But it cured me from de nights I used to roam An' I think in that affair dat de Lawd was surely there. Fur I'm raisin' all my chickens now to home My ten children, I s'pose, good as offspring gen'ly goes, But their everlastin' tricks won't let me be; All de fool'ry I concealed, in deir actions is revealed. An' dat's whar de Lawd has got a joke on me When dere comes a melon famine, and de vines is all a-shamm'n' It's intended I wid gratitude should think Of de season furdur back, whern dere wasn't any lack. Ob dat hebbently fruit containin' food an' drink. Ah' a million joys dar are, from de daisy to de star. Dat is worth de time of countin' o'er and o'er But of all thank-timber yet, it's the things I didn't get. That I think I hev to be the thankfulest fur. —Will Carleton

The Appointed Way BY REV. W. HARRIS WALLACE

A Timely Sermon Delivered Recently in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church.

"Follow peace with all men and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Heb. 12:14.

This text might be adopted as a motto for life and it would be worth while to do so. If there is anything that will bring large returns for the life that now is and that which is to come and give the very greatest satisfaction, I would advise that we take more stock—to use a commercial phrase—in the things that make for righteousness and peace. God continually puts these before men for their adoption. "Follow peace with all men and holiness," is the apostolic appeal. How many are making a vain search for the things they think are, worth while in life and are seen grasping the shadow and missing the substance! We who are children of God, by faith in Jesus Christ, must be on our guard and not be deceived by the foolish example of the worldly-wise, but make sure that we grasp the substance and not the shadow. And in order to make this certain, we ourselves must be true disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ and give proof daily that we are in the school of Christ, learning the things He taught and following His spirit and method in daily life. Men of the world are being trained and educated for time, but the children of God are in training for eternity. What a vast difference!

To be true sons of God and loyal to our Father, we must, like our Lord and Saviour, be found in the Divinely appointed path of duty. "As the Father sent Me into the world, even so send I you." The way into the kingdom that is everlasting is of the nature of that kingdom—"righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." These shall today be the things that we shall think, and rather than the way, and consider with our hearts, God's leading in the way.

"If ye be listening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?" (Vs. 7.) The need for chastening in all of us, is quite manifest. We are all apt to be disobedient at times and even rebellious. The chief need may not always be conformity to the Divine will, but rather, "Many are willing in mind and heart to do God's will, as they come to know it, but are backward in soul culture. For this very reason some of the best souls are 'salted with fire.' It is then we may truly sing:

"Let sorrow do its work. Send grief and pain. Kind are Thy messengers. Sweet, their refrain. When they can sing with Thee. More love of Christ to Thee This is my only plea. More love to Thee." We can never question the spirit in which the Father chastens—it is always in love. "For whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth." (Vs. 6.) If trials come to any of us we must always take each trial as a token of the Lord's presence and His love. Many are willing to thank God and take courage and be confident that God is dealing with us in love and remember that none are without chastisement, for all true children are chastened. "God dealeth with you as with children—then are ye children."

And we may question why God deals with His children, when He chastens them, but never in the Jewish spirit. "Did this man sin or his parents, that he was born blind?" God may reveal the reason we may never know in this life why certain things happen. And when we do not know we may be sure that God makes no mistakes in any of His dealings with us. But the result will surely be satisfactory, more so from the Divine standpoint, when the Master can see His image in the soul that has been refined by passing through the fire.

Our Personal Effort in the Way. Remember those who are weak, who probably are always to be weak, we are to consider such, if we would follow in the footsteps of the Master. (Vs. 12.) We are not to forget the apostolic injunction, "Ye who are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak." And again, we read, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ." This "law of Christ" which is the law of love, we must continue to practice, if we would give evidence that we are walking in the Divinely-appointed way. This is the way, walk ye in it.

We should consider not only the weak brethren, we often overtake and pass in the way, but remember, the path they travel—it is not always easy. It is our duty to make the path as easy for them as possible. There are some who are lame sheep and they will always be lame—for their sake we must take care and make straight paths for our feet, and thus make the way easier for them. And it may be by our good example, the weak and the lame shall follow our steps, and conform their lives to the gospel of Christ. If we would adopt even the one principle, taken out of many, by the apostle Paul, I am sure it is worth a score of temperance sermons; "If meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no meat while the world standeth."

Here is a further injunction, perhaps a harder one, but one which, if we obey it, will pay us an hundred fold, the one we have as our text for today: "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Peace is one of the bulwarks of the heavenly kingdom. If you wish to be safe from any attack of the enemy, just let the peace of God guard your heart and mind. If you find within the camp of Christ's followers those who offend against true Christian liberty and Christian courtesy—Paul speaks to us again, in view of such occasions today, they do arise—"As much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men." Yes, "seek peace and pursue it." Let there be no strife between the followers of Christ.

In our God-appointed way, we are not only to pursue peace, but "holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." This means our own personal sanctification. This must be our chief aim in making progress in the way. How can we live in peace ourselves, apart from all men, unless we are pure in heart? There is no peace to the man who harbours sin of any kind. Holiness is the ideal set before every follower of Christ; there is no exception; every man must be true to his profession and pursue his own personal sanctification. Do not presume on the absolute holiness of God, and say, "By faith Christ is mine," while at the same time you may be living in secret or open sin. Do not rest satisfied until you have reached the goal Christ has set before you—then you shall have laid hold on that for which God laid hold of you in Christ. This is the will of God, not only that you believe in Jesus for your salvation, but your sanctification.

The Warning for the Way Against the possibility of coming short of the grace of God. Some of us at the last may be found in the foolish virgins—they all had lamps, but no oil. Keep in the appointed path and seek grace sufficient for each day. The grace we received last year will never do for this year. The grace we received yesterday will not suffice for today. "He giveth more grace," and grace for every day, grace sufficient for all the way. We are saved by grace, and we are kept by grace, and by grace we shall share in the glory of Christ.

We are also warned against the root of bitterness. The root is dangerous not only to the one who has it, but it spreads and defiles many. How can we overcome and conquer the root of bitterness in ourselves or any others? Not by our talking about or even against it, but taking it to Christ in prayer. We should pray more about everything. Prayer is the way of peace and holiness; prayer is the way we generate power from on high by which we can destroy all evil and attain all good.

"O what peace we often forfeit, O what needless pain we bear, All because we do not carry Everything to God in prayer."

We are also warned against despising our spiritual brightness and treating it lightly as Esau treated his. Reserve your body and soul for God—do not be common and live like a worldlyling. We must keep ourselves separated from sinners, remembering that we have been redeemed by the precious blood of Christ. Therefore we are not our own, but God's peculiar heritage. We are born of the Spirit, to live a spiritual life, and "carry on" a sorrow.

spiritual work. Let us guard our spiritual brightness as children of God. Let us keep the Divinely-appointed path lest we miss the blessing God our Saviour. And if God calls us, we know that Esau missed the blessing because he despised his birthright. No use of vain search, or seeking for the blessing, even with bitter tears, after despising the best things in life. Let us take our place as true children of God and be found in the path of obedience. We shall then surely receive the blessing that maketh rich and addeth no spiritual work. Let us guard our spiritual brightness as children of God. In order to maintain our walk in the true path of life, we must never neglect our true relation to our neighbours, nor our fellowship with God our Saviour. And if God calls us to suffer, He will surely be with us. And in our duty to our fellow-pilgrims and ourselves we can find God's abounding grace to keep us faithful so that at the end we may receive the crown of life that fadeth not away. Resolve to be thyself; and know that he who finds himself loses his misery.—Matthew Arnold.

Markets Needed by the Farmers

Presence of Thriving Cities Near By, Important to Residents of Country.
MERCHANTS DO THEIR PART
Town and Rural Community Are Dependent Upon Each Other—Co-operation Alone Brings Prosperity to Both.
(Copyright.)

Residents of towns and cities everywhere are beginning to realize more acutely the fact that, except under very unusual conditions, their communities will prosper and develop only in proportion to the prosperity and development that comes to the farming sections which surround them. Realizing this fact, commercial clubs and chambers of commerce have in recent years been devoting as much of their attention to developing the country districts as they have to securing new industries and attracting new residents. They know that as the country about the towns becomes more thickly settled and as the farmers become more prosperous the more money will be spent in the towns and the faster these towns will grow. It is largely for this reason that the residents of the towns and cities have been doing more

SPRING IMPURITIES
MEAN WEAK BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine is a Necessity at This Season.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all year 'round tonic, blood builder and nerve strengthener. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is clogged with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills improve the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood most often find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In spring anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism and many other troubles are most persistent because of weak, watery blood and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood must seriously needs attention. Among those who have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Archie D. Carmichael, Tarbot, N.S., who says: "For a number of years I was bothered with pimples which would break out on my face and body. The trouble was always worse in the spring, and although I tried different treatments, it was without much success. In the spring of two years ago the trouble was worse than usual, and although I was taking medicine it did not help me until I finally decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under this treatment the pimples disappeared, and there has since been absolutely no return of the trouble."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams, Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Instruction in Poultry Raising to be Given Soldiers in Hospital

Kingston, Mar. 31.—Resolved: That we, the members of the Kingston Poultry Association, go on record as being thoroughly opposed to buying or importing any fowl or poultry supplies from the United States until such time as Canadian currency be received by that country as 100 cents on the dollar.

This was carried unanimously at the regular meeting held on Thursday, March 25, every member pledging himself by a standing vote. The meeting was one of the most successful ever held by the Association and a large number were present. The meeting opened promptly at 8 p.m., President Whitley in the chair.

The judges for the next exhibition which will be held in the Armouries next November, were selected. They are Mr. George Robertson, assistant director of poultry husbandry at the Ontario Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and Mr. Lester, of Mount Forest. With these two competent men engaged all exhibitors are assured of a square deal.

The subject of increasing the membership fee was taken up. It was felt that $2.00 per annum was necessary to carry on successfully, and this amount was decided on. For the present the increase of $1.00 would be optional on the part of all members who are not exhibitors at the annual show.

It has been arranged that during the next few weeks the members are going to visit the military hospitals of the district, giving a series of film features on poultry subjects, hatching and raising of chicks, etc. The members will meet at a central point and be conveyed to the institutions. Each member, as far as he may be able, will act as an instructor by answering any questions asked by the patients individually. A large turnout is assured and much benefit to the patients is expected from this little enterprise. The plans have been heartily endorsed by the Minister of Agriculture, and he has kindly assured the Poultry Association of support and assistance.

Poultry raising appeals to these crippled heroes, as many will never be able to follow occupations that incur great physical exertion. The films that will be shown have been prepared for the Agricultural Department of Ontario, for work along these lines. The district representative, Mr. A. W. Street, is also interested in the work, and is supplying the machine and operator, if needed.

Address and Presentation

On Tuesday evening, Mar. 23rd, about fifty of the friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Kelley, of Sidney Crossing, to spend the evening with them before their departure for their new home. At an early hour the meeting was called to order, with Rev. Mr. Mytton acting in the capacity of chairman. The following address was then read by Mrs. Jas. Donaldson:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kelley and Mr. Webster Kelley:—We, your neighbors and fellow-members of White's Church, have gathered this evening to express our regret that you find it necessary to leave our midst.

While we are glad that you are not moving entirely out of our reach, we shall miss you greatly in the closer association of which we shall now be deprived.

You, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley, have in the past given unsparingly of your time and energy to every good work, and especially we must mention your service in connection with the Sunday school, where you were faithful workers. While of late, owing to physical disabilities, you have not been able to be much with us, we are sure that your sympathy and prayers are always ours. You have also proved yourselves true neighbors; and while we shall be poorer for your going, another neighborhood we know will be enriched by your presence.

And you, Mr. Webster Kelley, we shall miss none the less. Your quiet Christian life and unflinching neighborly kindness have always been an inspiration and a help to all who have known or come in contact with you. Now while we deeply regret the loss of three Christian friends and neighbors from our midst, we wish to make some slight expression of our appreciation of your life among us, and we therefore ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley, to accept this table, and you, Mr. Webster Kelley, these slippers, with the hope that they will sometimes remind you of pleasant associations and your many friends here who will follow you with their prayers and good wishes for health and happiness in your new home.

Mr. Jas. Donaldson, Bruce Hogle, Charles Moon, Seldon Ketcheson, Messrs. Ritchie Ketcheson and Will Jeffery made the presentation, which was a handsome round oak dining table.

Mr. Kelley made a suitable reply thanking the donors on behalf of himself and wife for their kindness and so appropriate a gift, after which a dainty lunch was served by the ladies. Owing to the illness of Mr. Webster Kelley there were not as many present as would have been, and the gathering broke up at an early hour.

Mr. Kelley has sold his farm to Mr. Jacob Thompson and has purchased a home at Centenary.

Wedding Bells

ROLLINS—FRANCIS

At the Methodist parsonage 1010 Main St., Moose Jaw, Sask., Tues. Mar. 23, by Rev. Dr. Crummy, Mary Laura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Francis, 2nd of Sidney to Mr. Rollins, of Luseland, Sask., formerly of Ivanhoe, Ont.

CUNNINGHAM—WEESE
A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday, Mar. 23, at "Willow Knoll", Ameliasburg, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morton B. Weese, when their elder daughter, Carol, Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry W. Cunningham, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cunningham, of Ameliasburg. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. M. Sharpe of Rednersville, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked smart in a Spring suit of French blue Jersey cloth with white corded silk vest and georgette blouse, a small white feather toque with wings, and carried a sheaf of sweetheart roses.

The couple was unattended except for the bride's little sister, Geraldine, as ring-bearer, who wore a frock of all-over embroidered swiss with blue ribbon trimmings and carried a basket of pink and white carnations.

The wedding march was played by Miss Andra Brickman, who also sang very sweetly "Because" during the signing of the register.

Immediately after the wedding luncheon the happy couple left by motor for Belleville en route for Ottawa, amid a shower of confetti and good wishes. Upon their return on Friday evening a reception of over eighty guests was held by the groom's parents at "Evergreen Farm." Unfortunately the couple did not arrive until very late, owing to an accident on the C.N.R. tracks near Smith's Falls causing a delay of over seven hours. The bride's reception gown was of shell pink crepe de chine with rosebud handings and satin grille.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome cheque; to the little ring-bearer, a pearl ring, and to the soloist, a Morocco leather purse. The other wedding gifts included a cheque from the bride's father, several pieces of mahogany, wicker and oak furniture, silver, cut glass linen and china.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham are to reside in Victoria, Ameliasburg, where the groom has purchased a farm and where the bride will be at home after May 1st. The best wishes and congratulations are extended.

His Ideal

My mamma took me out to see.
A lady, and we stayed for tea.
She had ice cream, and a little girl
Whose eyes were blue, and her hair
Real curl;
I gave her a worm and a toad and a
Tack,
But she screamed and ran—and I'll
Not go back!
Last summer, down beside the sea,
I met a girl named Emmy Lee;
Her face is freckled, her hair is red,
But Emmy Lee I'm going to wed,
For she doesn't run from worms,
Toads and things,
And she sits in the sands and sings
And sings!

Queen's Girls'
Exhibition

OF GYMNASTICS AND DANCING
Under the Direction of Miss Ruth
Clark, the Girls Gave a Most Pleasing Demonstration

Kingston, Mar. 31.—Those who were fortunate enough to attend the exhibition of gymnastics and folk-dancing given by the girls of Queen's University on Friday evening, under the able direction of Miss Ruth Clark, enjoyed a rare treat. The untiring efforts of their friend and director, coupled with the wonderful and versatile adaptability of the girls, brought forth a result which astonished and delighted the throng of spectators that filled Queen's gymnasium.

The gymnastics and drill exercises in the opening numbers were marvellous demonstrations of the speed and endurance which may be attained with good instruction and long practice. The boys of the university were very much surprised, to say the least, when they observed several of their gentle sister-students climbing the ropes which hang suspended from the gym roof, hand over hand.

Miss Clark, accompanied by Miss Bessie Dolan at the piano, gave an exhibition of aesthetic dancing, which was the co-ordination of a wonderfully developed physique and a perfect sense of rhythm. In response to the storm of applause which followed her first dance, Miss Clark graciously consented to render a shorter but not less beautiful effort, which was a worthy sequel to her first number.

The folk-dancing, very quaint and pretty, was executed with remarkable grace and precision. Flemish, Swedish, French and English lasses and lasses tripped merrily through the intricate steps of their national dances, and at the end formed a "league of nations" for the singing of the National Anthem.

Coal Situation Too
Uncertain for Prices

Montreal, March 31.—That there was nothing certain in the coal situation which would warrant them in making a definite statement as to whether there would be an increase in the price or not, was the consensus of opinion gathered among coal dealers of the city. Prices of coal at the mines, freight rates and exchange rate would have to be known first, and none of them is fixed.

Mr. John Lewis, Fuel Administrator for Quebec, thought that if the scale of miners' wages as a result of the present arbitration was increased, the consumer would have to pay.

Battery Repairs and Re-insulation
Better Service—Better Batteries

Battery repairs are often the result of failure to use that service which Willard has established for the car owners of America in over seventeen hundred places.

There are two distinct sides to Willard Service: One is paid service—curing battery troubles by skill and thoroughness in handling repairs—doing the job in a workmanlike fashion so that it doesn't have to be done over.

The other side of Willard Service is prevention of battery trouble—and that you do not pay for. Registration of new batteries for special service, cards entitling any owner to testing and filling, good advice, informative literature and general helpfulness.

Every Willard Service Station sells the Still Better Willard Battery—a battery that was already better in material, workmanship and record of service, and was made Still Better by the invention of Threaded Rubber Insulation.

Church Union
the Subject of Winnipeg Man

M. A. Howlett States That Present
Form of Denominationalism
Will Break Down

Mr. M. A. Howlett, of Winnipeg, delivered an inspiring address before a large and attentive audience at the City Hall on the subject of Church Union. The speaker pointed out that the mere statement Church Union clearly implied there had been to this time dis-union, so why after 1800 years speak of Union. Contrasting this with the Scriptures he proceeded to show how the true Church had always been perfectly in harmony one unit with another and with their Lord; and that she

STANDS FOR EVERYTHING PURE
AND RIGHT IN MILLING

The Good Judge again reminds the farmers of the possibility of sowing increased quantities of spring crops. In addition to the report that Europe will want a large quantity of products, comes the report of possible damage to Western crops from the grasshopper pest. If we can successfully raise Spring Wheat, and other grains we will become more independent of the West. There should not be difference that now exists between Ontario and Manitoba. Wheat, and if the wheat board discontinues control this margin will be reduced.

The Judge Jones Milling Co., Limited,

did not need a Union of the kind contemplated. The word Church, he said, is from the Greek word Ecclesia, which means body, and so would include the whole body of the consecrated Christians from the time of Jesus until now. Continuing he said: "A woman is used in Scripture in symbol to represent the church, and is so spoken of by the Apostle Paul in II. Cor. 11:2—"I have espoused thee unto one husband, that I might present thee as a chaste virgin unto Christ." Eph. 5:22-23; Ps. 45:10. A false church system is spoken of as a harlot, and when reading particularly in the Revelation regarding harlots, one is really reading of a false church system that is making pretensions to being the Bride of Christ. The speaker emphasized the fact that he did not wish to be understood as meaning that there were no well-meaning people in the various systems, but was glad to confess his belief that there were thousands, but that these symbols applied to systems, and not to individuals. The speaker contrasted the belief of "free grace" with the belief of "election" and showed how that one being the antithesis of the other, both could not apply to the same period of time, and yet both were scriptural. Using Acts 15:14-18, he showed how this present age is the time in which God is trying to convert the world, but rather "calling out a people after His name," i. e. "the Bride elect," and that the age to follow would be the age of free grace when "the residue of men might seek after the Lord and all the Gentiles on whom my name is called saith the Lord" (Acts 15:17).

The speaker called attention to the treatment the Christian should expect to receive as was foretold by the Master in Luke 21:10-19, because of his persistently and consistently preaching the establishment of God's Kingdom and the ruins of the old (Ps. 2:9, Rev. 11:15) which preaching would be more or less looked upon as sedition and as being contrary to the present existing order of affairs. The 17th and 18th chapters of Revelation, he said, arraigned the whole ecclesiastical world in its present organized form from God's point of view and showed the judgments of the Lord coming upon her for her centuries of religious hypocrisy. Just as Russia in her great upheaval overthrew the great church system which had ground her down in ignorance, error and superstition. So will the peoples of this great continent rise up against the present form of denominationalism, and which will release millions of people who have been bound in creedal bonds and by denominational barriers of prejudices. Then the prophetic of Zephaniah's statement will be fulfilled, Zeph. 3:8-9—"For then will I turn to the people a pure language that may all fall upon the name of the Lord and serve Him with one consent."

The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the tissues and in the joints. Interesting Lecture at Women's Can. Club

Miss Ruth Clark of Queen's University addressed the Belleville Women's Canadian Club on "Physical Education."

Last night Miss Ruth Clark, physical director of the women's gymnasium of Queen's University, Kingston, addressed the Women's Canadian Club of Belleville in the High School Assembly Hall, on "Physical Education."

Physical education is not merely taking exercise but it is developing the body, making one healthy and strong and well formed.

The fashion of the day has great power on physical ideals. Girls will imitate the standing and sitting posture that fashion plates show and in consequence become physical wrecks.

These physical ills can be minimized by physical drill, games and dancing. The Swedish system of physical education is generally used although it has been changed by doctors and scientists of later years.

Discipline must be enforced in physical education which gives prompt obedience, great muscular control and will-power of controlling himself. A gymnast's mind must be centred wholly upon himself.

Games stimulate the body and refresh the mind. Every player should play the game for his own enjoyment. This calls for fair play, self-confidence and a public spirit.

Lantern slides were exhibited of correct and non-correct positions of standing, sitting and working at a desk. The proper position of the spinal column was shown and also how the curves were misplaced by improper position.

Miss Clark knows her work thoroughly and was in a position to make her lecture very interesting to her audience.

This was the closing lecture of the Women's Canadian Club. There were to be two more. Dr. Bruce Taylor of Queen's University and Dr. Arnold, of Ottawa, but they were unable to arrange the time so have very kindly promised to come next year.

The series of lectures put on by the Women's Canadian Club have been highly educating and very interesting to the public in general.

Obituary

GEORGE W. GREEN

In the early dawn of March 20th, 1920, a beautiful exemplary and useful life came to a close in the passing away of Mr. Geo. W. Green, of whom it might be truly said, "this sun went down while it was yet day." Sixty-four years, seven months and twenty-nine days previous to this sorrowful event, he was born in the home which now so deeply mourns his departure and loss, a loss which is keenly felt by the whole community. Reared in a Christian home, he early in his life became the subject of converting grace, and immediately began to "adore the doctrine of God, our Saviour in all things." His home was a little sanctuary where love and harmony and sympathy reigned supreme and flowed out into all the duties and affairs of life. And although nontrinitarian in his manner, yet was called to serve the community in different ways which he did with acceptability. He dearly loved the church and could truly say, "Beyond my highest joy I prize her heavenly work." And he has served with grace and great helpfulness for many years as a class leader and S. S. Supt. and was also on the trustee boards of both church and parsonage. He was ever a cheerful and liberal giver of both time and money toward the church, when such was required to aid her in accomplishing her God-appointed tasks. And withal was the sunny, happy, hopeful disposition which seemed to say

I shall not pass this way again. May I be courteous to men. Faithful to friends, true to my God. A fragrance on the path I trod.

Besides his deeply sorrowful wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. B. C. Tucker, of Harold, Ont. and Mrs. Albert Gibson of Lattie's Mills, Ont. and one son, John G. Green in the home, Harold, Ont. The funeral took place on Monday, March 22nd, and was conducted by his pastor, the Rev. James Batstone, who chose for his text Ps. 116, 15th verse, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints;" and in the course of his excellent address paid a high and well-deserved tribute to the personal worth of the departed.

The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful and the long procession of friends and neighbors which followed the remains to its last resting place in the Bethel cemetery most eloquently attested to the deep emotion which stirred the hearts of the community, but nevertheless

"Thank God for the dear one gone today Safe at home on the happy shore. Where the smile of the Father and the shadow of pain shall fall no more. Thank God for the hearts that are done with sin. Thank God for the beautiful entered in To the perfect rest of the deathless years."

The Daily Ontario Celebrates its 50th Anniversary March 26th

The Men Who Advertised In The Daily Ontario in the Year 1870

NO more interesting or useful index of the commercial life of a town can be found than that of the advertisers whose names appear in the local papers. Fifty years ago, Belleville with 7,000 population in a rich agricultural country surrounded with an important trading center. The numerous advertisements, from mercantile houses, appearing in the first issue of the Daily Ontario show that the new journal started off with a generous advertising patronage and also that Belleville had at that time a great variety of prosperous stores.

Advertising was more general then among business houses than it is today. Grocers seldom advertised their wares in those later years but in 1870 many grocers found that it paid them to advertise. Many physicians also had professional cards in the paper when the Ontario was first issued and probably needed the money well spent. The doctors have grown economical since that time and spend their money for more noble purposes that to inform the public through the medium of a card, where their place of business is located.

Advertising was also different. No form of commercial activity has changed in a more radical way in the last 50 years than has the science of advertising. The advertisers of 1870, as represented in The Ontario, didn't get down to brass tacks. They didn't quote prices, describe goods or particulars in any way. They tried to talk about everything in the store at once and to do it all in a few lines of cramped space. They didn't bother the printer about frequent changes.

Here for instance is the advertisement of George Ritchie & Co., then a leading dry-goods store of the town and the predecessor of the present Ritchie Company establishment.

GEO. RITCHIE & CO.
Belleville, Dec. 21, 1870.

This advertisement occupied six inches of space, single column. Its first appearance was in The Daily Ontario of Dec. 22, 1870 and it ran every day following, absolutely without change, until March 15, 1871, or nearly three months. The firm on March 14th, 1871 used the space to announce the arrival of "New Spring Goods." This latter advertisement continued until April 18th, when, for a time, the firm discontinued advertising. On March the 14th, 1871, we find Mrs. Membership still advertising "Dolls for Christmas Presents." Her advertisement also started in the preceding December. Robertson & Henry dealers in dry goods are also telling their readers on the same date, March 14th, "we shall merry by calling on Robertson & Henry during the Christmas Holidays and purchasing out of their stock of Dry Goods." At the head of James Brown's advertisement "Christmas Cheese" appears in heavy letters. This advertisement began in Dec. 1870 and continued without change to the following August. But as Mr. Brown was justified in telling's and Hennessy's Brandy, Irish and Scotch Whisky, Molson's, Dow's and Labatt's Ale," etc., as well as "Lager Raisins, Figs, Dates, Salmon, Mackerel and Labrador Herring" perhaps he was justified in keeping that "Christmas Cheese" idea so long and prominently before his customers.

Prices Never Quoted
In all the advertisements in The Daily Ontario of 1870 not one ever mentions the price of a single article advertised. It remains for the department store to bring forward that class of advertising in its "bargain" lists and special descriptions of goods.

The merchant of 1870 held safely to generalities. Wm. Cooper & Co. tell of "Remarkably Low Prices" for their groceries. Lecroix & Grant tell how they deal in "Every Variety of Furniture". James Glass advertises Hardware "Cheap for Cash." Robert Dick asks people to "Come and See for Yourself."

And so it is with all the several dozen advertisers. The merchant apparently regarded the space in the newspaper the same as the sign on his shop—a thing that seldom needed to be changed and make the announcement in a word or two.

The merchant of 1920 takes a different view of advertising. Instead of a sign, he regards the space in the newspaper as a show-window. To keep it fresh and attractive, it needs to be newly dressed every day. He knows that the newspaper show-window gets right into the homes of the people and reaches a larger number than the window in front of his shop can possibly do. He realizes that if he were to leave his front windows unchanged for two or three months at a time, they would produce an impression of lack of enterprise and a general air of deadness or stagnation. And he views his advertising in the same way. Frequent and skilful changes of advertising show that the merchant is alive and full of pep and keen to reach and serve the public. He has come to know that advertising demands study and consideration and is his most important aid to hold former customers and procure new ones. Badly written advertisements, he has come to feel are a detriment rather than a help to business. Just as a lot of sun-burned and dust-covered goods tossed promiscuously into the front windows of his store, would drive away custom rather than develop patronage and growth.

Those Who Advertised
Fifty years have wrought great changes in the persistence of the management of business houses of Belleville. Looking over the following list of business and professional advertisers it is surprising to find very few of the family and business names persist in the same association. We have still with us Mr. J. J. B. Flint and ex-Judge Frazer. And, if we mistake not, Lt.-Col. S. L. Lazier was then a partner in the law firm of Lazier & Lazier. Our esteemed townsman, Mr. Thos. Ritchie, was then, we believe, a partner with his brother in the firm of George Ritchie & Co. The G. S. Tickell Furniture Co. is now conducted by the late Mr. Tickell's two sons, under the name of Tickell & Sons. Mr. P. H. Hamby still survives, but he long ago retired from the business that was so long a feature on Front street. The sons of the late W. Dickens are pursuing the same line as their father and are among the most active and successful business men. Mr. Harry A. Thompson now conducts the ticket office formerly managed by J. H. Rous, Confectionery, Undertakers, Billie Flint, Real Estate, J. S. McNeill, Hats and Caps, Geo. W. Roney, Leather Goods, C. Ruffen, Photographer, George Chown, Hardware, Geo. H. Haymes, Hats and Caps, S. S. McMullen, Tombstones, Billie Flint, Bridgewater Cotton & Woolen Factory, Crocker, A. E. Proctor, Washing Machines, W. H. Wallbridge, Plows and Mowing Machines, W. J. McKay, Carriages and Sleighs, W. Y. Mikel, Groceries & Liquors, M. B. Roblin, Insurance, J. N. Yeomans, Insurance, J. Parker Thomas, Insurance, G. S. Tickell, Groceries & Liquors, G. S. Hamby, Teas and Coffees, Joseph Wilson, Trunk Factory, Cherry & Blackburn, Furniture, J. G. Vandusen, Grocer, Walter Fanning, Omnibus and Livestock, Brown & St. Charles, Carriage Factory.

The Lawyers of 1870
Belleville had then a number of lawyers of fine ability. The following carried cards in The Ontario in that year.—Robert P. Jellet, Morgan Jellet, Lazier & Lazier, George D. Dickson, B. S. Gilbert, S. B. Burdett, W. Simpson, Samuel Bull, Ponton, Falkiner & Denmar, P. M. Nulty, A. L. Maclellan, Duncan Maclellan, Flint and Robertson, Alexander Robertson and E. Baldwin Frazer, Esq., B.A.

The Physicians of 1870

The Dentists of 1870
Only two dentists carried cards in The Ontario at that time. These were Drs. Geo. W. Walker and M. D. Ward.

General Advertisers in 1870
And now comes the following formidable list of general advertisers.—

Belleville as it Was Fifty Years Ago Also a Brief Resume of Belleville's Early History

IN 1870, the year The Daily Ontario was founded, Belleville had become a vigorous town, with 7,000 inhabitants. The actual count by Dominion census the following year shows a population of 7,305.

The assessment showed a total valuation of property of $3,532,311 in the year 1870. Values as given by the assessment for 1919 are $6,538,615, showing that the value of our property has risen still more rapidly than our population, which was given by the assessor last year at 12,345.

Oh, Them Happy Days!
The tax-rate of 1870 was a "dream" such as would bring joy to hearts of the economists who have been pleading lately to cut out all expenditure this year and take us back to the happy days of fifty years ago.

The tax-rate for general purposes in 1870 was 8 1/2 mills on the dollar and for schools, 2 mills on the dollar, a total of 10 1/2 mills. In 1919 Belleville's tax rate for educational purposes was actually higher than the entire tax rate for 1870 or 12 4/10 mills. In 1919 the general rate was 23 9/10 mills, making a total for general and school purposes of 33 3/10 mills.

It costs more to live now but perhaps some will say it is worth the difference.

Of the business firms doing business in Belleville in 1870 we speak more intimately in the special article in another column on advertising.

The Town Council of 1870

In 1870 Belleville was divided into four wards. The mayor for that year was Mr. Alex. Robertson, a man of great enterprise who built several important business blocks along Front street and who was later elected to the Commons as representative for West Hastings. The aldermen for 1870 were: Samson Ward, W. A. Foster, R. Tannahill, Geo. E. Henderson, S. B. Smith, W. Kelso, S. B. Baldwin, W. J. B. Flint, Thos. Holden, R. S. Patterson, Coleman Ward, Paul Becket, Alex. Waters, J. G. Vandusen.

Belleville's Pioneer History

In 1787 Louis Kieffer surveyed the township of Thurlow, in those days known as "Nuttie Town." Lot No. 4 of the Township of Thurlow was blocked off as an Indian reserve. Lot No. 4 is now incorporated in that part of Belleville extending from the east bank of the river to Church street. Upon this site (Lot 4) Surveyor Whitton in the year 1816 laid out a village to give regularity to the settlers' homes already being grouped along the banks of the river. This village was later to develop into the present City of Belleville.

The townships of Sidney and Thurlow were settled first—largely by U. E. Loyalists. The little village languished for a time until Capt. John Singleton and Lieut. Ferguson moved into it. These gentlemen, hardy pioneers as they were, settled on Lot No. 6, now included in the easterly part of our city. Lot No. 6 was, at a later date acquired in turn by John Chant and Samuel Foster, both of whom were to found important families in this district. In 1789 Singleton died and less than three months afterwards Lieut. Ferguson also passed away.

In the year 1790, John Taylor arrived and acquired Lot 5, his farm now being incorporated in that part of the city east of Church street. The Indians in the Sagonaska, a name we would fain see preserved. The river was called Singleton's river, until, at a later date, the name was changed to the Moira in honor of the Earl of Moira.

Belleville's First Church
The first church in Belleville was erected by the Methodists in 1816. Belleville and the surrounding district has ever since been a stronghold of Methodism. The first church was a frame structure 30x50 feet. The pulpit was composed of rough boards. The seats were made of the same material with blocks of wood for rests. In 1831 the Methodists erected a new church on the same site. This ancient structure still stands on Pinnacle street, and is now used by Mr. Mark Sprague as a storehouse.

In 1860 the assessed value of property was $1,584,320. In 1861 the decennial census revealed a population of 6,377. Ten years later it had grown to 7,305. In 1881, it was 9,516; in 1891 it had reached 9,916; by 1901 it had declined to 9,117; the last Dominion census, taken in 1911 showed a rebound to 12,345. The census taken by the assessor last winter gave the population as 12,345.

Changing the Name to Belleville

In 1816 the village was renamed by Governor Gore, who called it Belleville, after his wife, Lady Bella. In that same year, Surveyor Whitton laid out the Indian reserve, on Lot 4 into town lots of half an acre each. A post office was established and S. McNabb in honor of being the first postmaster.

Increase of Population

There is little of moment in the history of Belleville from 1816 to 1836. Its growth, while progressive in its way, was very slow. In 1818, the village had 150 inhabitants; in 1824 it had 400; by 1829 it had grown to 700 and by 1836 the population had increased to 1700.

Mills, Tailor, A. N. Pringle, Planning Mill, Jas. W. Dunnet, Dry Goods.

In this latter year the first flagstone walk was put down. It extended along Front street from Dundas street to the Upper bridge.

In this same important year of 1836, Belleville separated from the Township of Thurlow and became an incorporated village. The first council, or board of police, as it was then called, consisted of William McCarran and Asa Yeomans, elected from the First ward and Zenas Datoe and William Connor elected from the Second ward, with Billie Flint, Jr. as a fifth member. Billie Flint was elected by the board as its first president or reeve of the municipality.

In 1838 the court house and jail were built, at a cost of $23,640. The contractors were Robert Matthews and David Duff, of Kingston.

In 1850 the village was incorporated as a town and was separated from the county the same year. The following were elected members of the council that year, mayor, B. F. Davy, (chosen by the council), Samson Ward, C. O. Benson, F. McAnnamay, Ketcheson Ward, B. F. Davy, Dr. H. Holden, Baldwin, J. J. Coleman, J. J. Coleman, J. J. Coleman, Burleigh Hunt and Jno. Donoghue. M. Sawyer was the town clerk.

In 1839, Benjamin Douglass presided at the first assembly of the quarter sessions. Edmund Murnay was clerk of the peace and J. W. D. Moodie, sheriff.

Belleville Police Court as Conducted in 1870

Belleville Police Court must have been a center of life human interest in the stirring days of 1870. Mr. Abraham Diamond, an early editor of The Ontario, was police magistrate at that time. The Ontario of March 30, 1870, gives the report of that day's proceedings before the court as follows: "There was quite a list of unfortunate. Mrs. Shean being drunk and disorderly got $2 or 30 days. Thomas Mohan, John Mohan and James Sarsfield, having been discovered on the corner with their hands in their pockets, got $1 or ten days in jail. To jail they went. W. D. Wilson, a farmer, from Thurlow, had been drunk and noisy, but this being a first offence, he was let off. "Sidney Savage was charged by Edward Barrett with back-biting and got $5 or 20 days. "Sidney Savage, aforesaid, was charged by James Barrett with biting his finger and lifting him over the head with a soda-pop bottle. This little amusement cost him $15 or 30 days."

H. C. of L. Hadn't Struck Belleville in Year 1870

Market prices for the family-bill-of-fare and products generally were very reasonable in 1870, though not so low as the level reached twenty years later.

WHAT THE ONTARIO PROPOSED TO DO

Favored the Principles of the Liberal Party and Was an Advocate of Temperance at Time of Establishment.

In the Prospectus, issued by The Ontario Publishing Company, that appears in a few of the early issues of The Ontario in March, 1870, it is interesting to note that there are definite pronouncements in favor of the Principles of the Reform or Liberal Party and in favor of temperance.

The Ontario's Political Principles

"The political principles of The Ontario, says the prospectus, 'will be those of the great Reform party of Ontario. The history of this party is the story of the successful struggle for religious and political liberty in this province, and he much mistakes the signs of the times who fancies that the country can any better afford to spare the labor of the Liberal party in the future than it could have done without them in the past.'

Coalition Then and Now

"When the Confederation of the Maritime Provinces and Canada was brought about by what seemed a necessary coalition of the parties, it was urged with a show of reason that that coalition should continue until the new machinery was got fairly to working. It is not necessary now to inquire whether that was a wise and patriotic policy, or how wide to accept as an axiom of statecraft that 'it is not wise to change horses while crossing a stream.' At all events let the dead past bury its dead. But every one who understands something be it ever so little of the workings of the British constitution, knows that in ordinary times and for the good of the country by party government. "Confederation, like our mother earth seemed born in chaos, a chaos of political parties which seem scarcely yet to have settled in their normal orders. As soon as they do, the reign of party government must reassert itself, whether it be a Liberal ministry, with Her Majesty's loyal opposition to watch them or a Conservative ministry with an equally loyal opposition to watch them.

"That which distinguishes British institutions from Absolutism on the one hand and Republicanism on the other, — Responsible Government — was secured for Canada by the labors of the Liberal party, and it shall be our effort to perpetuate the British connection with this country."

In Favor of Temperance

"Upon the Temperance and every other question which aspires after the well-being of the community at large, The Ontario will give no uncertain sound. Whatever may tend to the building up of Belleville and the Bay counties in material wealth or in those better riches—moral worth, will always receive sincere and earnest advocacy" in its columns."

THE BUSINESS AND MECHANICAL STAFFS OF THE ONTARIO

"The first essential of a newspaper is to pay its way. That is to say, before a newspaper can be published it must be on a sound financial and commercial basis. Time was when subscriptions were paid in cordwood or turpins. But the business is now conducted on a strictly commercial basis and barter is no longer the custom. Besides, cordwood and turpins have grown so scarce in late years that it would seem more reasonable to exchange them by jewelry than for anything so cheap and common as a newspaper.

The Ontario was fortunate in a business way, its having at its head for so many years, Mr. T. S. Carman, a gentleman with a genius for finance. Mr. Carman's name always stood for one hundred cents on the dollar in any business with which he was associated.

The present business manager, as well as one of the partners in the business, is Mr. W. H. Morton. Mr. Morton is a native of Huntingdon township, a graduate of the Ontario Business College and has been for a number of years the representative for the Belleville district before the Legislature. He is a man of practical ability and a Christmas, the great cheese and provision dealers of London, Liverpool and Montreal.

Assisting Mr. Morton in the business office are Miss Beattie Ashley, accountant and Miss Lottie Phillips, stenographer.

Mr. Embury has been with The Ontario 18 years. He has as assistant operators, Miss Clara McPherson, Mr. Horace Speer and Mr. William Philip.

The foreman of the Ontario Job Rooms, is Mr. Ed. Whittle, a printer who learned his trade in the Old Country but who has been long enough in Canada to learn the ways of Canadians. He has the artistic sense essential to a job printer, and them by the turns up representatives all in printing. Mr. Whittle was very seriously wounded while serving in the Great War but has now practically recovered.

Mr. James Cordes, press foreman for The Ontario is also a veteran of the Great War. The beautiful press work turned out by The Ontario Job Rooms is due to the skill Mr. Cordes has as head of that department.

During the War, The Ontario was forced to engage girls to operate the presses and other machines about the office due to the enlistment of practically all of the men. At this period, Miss Teresa Callaghan was engaged and she operates the ponderous newspaper press with all the speed and skill of an expert. Assisting Miss Callaghan are two helpers who are becoming almost equally expert, Miss Myrtle Pye and Mr. Leo St. Louis.

Mr. Thomas Soal has charge of the mailing and distributing department. The remarkable regularity with which The Ontario appears every evening upon the streets and at the post office is due above all to the excellent system organized and carried out by Mr. Soal.

Level Crossing Claims Life of Mrs. Robertson

Shocking Auto Tragedy at Gibson's Crossing of Canadian Pacific Railway on Sunday Afternoon—Dr. Robertson Has Narrow Escape—Thorough Invest- igation Will Be Made.

Mrs. Henrietta M. C. Robertson, was instantly killed and her husband, Dr. J. J. Robertson suffered shock and quite serious injuries, when their automobile was struck by a C.P.R. passenger train at 2.30 yesterday afternoon at the crossing a mile and a half east of the city known as "Gibson's Crossing" on the Kingston Road. It was one of the most shocking tragedies that has happened in Belleville for a long time. The automobile was a total wreck. Dr. Robertson was driving the car at the time.

Dr. and Mrs. Robertson left the city in the afternoon to pay a call at Point Anne. They had visited the Point and were on their way home when the tragedy occurred. The C.P.R. track cuts the highway at a sharp angle and in a slight hollow in the road. The facts of the occurrence have not yet been brought out exactly. Dr. Robertson's car which was a Maxwell had apparently reached the track as there are indications on the planking between the rails where the chains on the rear tire had cut the wood. Whether the occupants of the car realized that a train was upon them remains to be brought out in evidence.

The C. P. R. train from the east due at Belleville station at 2.28 p. m. struck the car on the right side. Mrs. Robertson was in the seat, a little to the rear of the doctor and received the full impact of the engine on her head. The doctor appears to have been thrown out by the shock of the collision and this will account for the saving of his life. Her body was apparently killed almost unperceptibly. The wreckage of the car was strewn, being almost unrecognizable. The engineer had not noticed the accident and the train had almost reached the station before it was known that an automobile was struck. Word was wired back to Shannonville to stop trains west-bound and the passenger train backed up to the scene of the accident.

Meanwhile Dr. Robertson picked himself up from the ditch. His face was badly cut in several places and was bleeding and he was suffering from shock. His clothing had in places been torn into shreds. He saw that his wife was apparently killed and he walked to Mr. James Gibson's house on the southeast side of the crossing. The crash had been heard at the house. Dr. Robertson walked back and Mr. Gibson hitched up a horse to drive him to the hospital. When he came out on the road, the doctor told him Mrs. Robertson was dead. Her body was lying in the ditch about one hundred and twenty-five feet from the crossing. The right side of her skull had been fractured and death had been instantaneous. Covering was secured and the body was covered in blankets.

The alarm was at once given and Dr. Yeomans, Gibson and Tennent and others hastened to the hospital to attend the injured physician. Doctor Dr. Yeomans then drove to the scene. Meanwhile a large crowd had gathered. The situation was looked over. The position of the body and the wreckage of the car was unchanged until after a number of photographs of the track, the wreckage and the highway were taken by Mr. Ernest McCormick at the instruction of the coroner.

The remains of Mrs. Robertson were then taken to Tickell's morgue. The wreck of the car was completely destroyed. It was carried comparatively a short distance. The wheels and tires were among the farther east wreckage, and the tangled and twisted chassis was farthest west, midway between in the ditch lay the engine and pieces of wood, metal, cushions, top, medicine case and so forth.

Particular attention centres upon this crossing as it runs almost parallel with the highway.

Inquest
Coroner Dr. H. A. Yeomans opened an inquest this morning at ten o'clock at Messrs. Tickell & Sons' morgue, before the following jury: C. M. Hall, foreman, T. F. Wills, J. D. Collins, John Penn, W. R. McCree, L. C. Yeomans, S. P. Hager-

Anderson, had no jurisdiction when the title to land was in question, and also claimed that the premises on which accused were trapping was not enclosed in accordance with the Game and Fisheries Act and therefore trappers could not be excluded. Trappers and hunters have made use of this marsh for a great many years and Mr. Barber's efforts to exclude them effects many persons. The court room was crowded with interested spectators. M. Wright appeared for Mr. Barber, W. C. Mikel, K.C. for the accused.

To Prevent Deer Extermination

Editor Ontario.—Some time in February I noticed an article entitled "Want Hunting of Deer by Dogs Prohibited." Let us first try to ascertain if the scarcity of deer can be attributed to hounding. The writer believes not. I have been hunting for a number of years, not far from Millbridge, and I agree with your article that many parties went home empty-handed last fall. I shall endeavor to give what I think, along with many others, helps to make deer so scarce. First, as you say, the game law of 1918, allowing two deer helped materially to diminish them, and even this generous allowance was abused. For instance, one party, not far from Millbridge, came out with two bucks each, all tagged for destination. Strange to say, this particular party killed five does and fawns to the writer's knowledge, and not one in sight. Question—where were they? Answer—search the boxes. Another party came from near Burnt Lake. They had their complement of deer, not all bucks. But a dispute arose at the station between the said party and the settlers, who conveyed them in and out again, over the account. The hunting party refused to pay the whole amount, but when warned by one of the settlers that he would send a message to Trenton to the police and have their boxes opened, the balance was paid without any further discussion, and they proceeded on to Niagara Falls or near there.

New Street Cars for Peterboro

Peterboro, Mar. 29.—Peterboro's street railway will be equipped solely with the new cars of the one-man type, according to Sir Adam Beck's statement to Ald. Gordon in Toronto on Thursday. The entire fleet of wooden cars will be withdrawn and steel cars similar to those now used on Charlotte street will be put into service. Ald. Gordon called at the Hydro offices to inquire what progress had been made in connection with the proposed radial line from Peterboro to Kilmont. He was informed that owing to pressure of other business the staff has not yet been able to deal with this project.

Baseball

Napanee Mar. 29.—The snow having departed and the fine weather returned, it was thought time to re-organize the N.C.I. baseball club for the season of 1920. A meeting was called and the new clubhouse was filled to its fullest capacity, there being about thirty-five members on hand. The subject of training quarters was brought up for discussion, and it was decided to train at home, following the example of our town team, who trained at home last season, and then made such a brilliant record in their league games. Our groundkeeper, Mr. Wilson, assures us that our league park will be in excellent condition in a week's time, provided the fine weather continues. With the excellent material on hand, and under the able direction of Coach J. H. S. Derry and Manager D. M. Halpenny, we hope to round out a formidable team which will give a good account of itself during the coming season.

PAID THE WRONG MAN
16-Year-old Boy Sentenced to Three Years in Penitentiary and to be Whipped Once

The Farm Labor Problem
Seventy dollars a month and board was offered the other day to a young farmer if he would remain in the neighborhood instead of taking up other employment. Another instance is cited of $50 a month, free house, privilege of planting a garden and potato ground, keeping cow, pig, hens and in fact conducting a farm of his own on a small scale as the tempting bait handed out to a married man. The farm labor problem is said to be very acute and many farmers will get along without hired help.—Cobourg World.

Paid the Wrong Man
An interesting case was held in the Division Court at Simsbury Friday morning before Judge Lavell. Mr. A. Macdonald rented pasture for his cows from Mr. Conville last summer. The cows broke out of Mr. Conville's farm and pastured in a neighbor's field. So Mr. Macdonald paid the neighbor instead of Mr. Conville for pasturing his cows. But Mr. Conville held Mr. Macdonald to his agreement and sued him for $27 for pasturing the cows, which claim the court granted. The defendant entered a claim for the day he had lost looking for his cows, but the court claimed that he should have held the plaintiff responsible for the delivery of his stock and disallowed the claim.

Legree and child and the former's mother. James L. may remove to Renfrew. Mrs. Lawrence Legree is experienced in the hotel business.

The purchase price is understood to have been $30,000. The U.F.O. will rent the flour and feed mill to the Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, Toronto.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Increased Fares
Railway ticket agents have been notified that commencing March 28 on increase of 10 per cent will be made in the price of tickets purchased for points in the United States. This action is owing to the high rate of exchange over the border on Canadian money. However, it does not affect the fare on tickets for border points like Detroit, etc.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

"Nick" Bawlf picked Hockey Winners
Varsity won from Sudbury by a score of 4 to 3 in Toronto on Wednesday night for the Allan Cup. A week ago, "Nick" Bawlf, coach for Queen's hockey teams, picked "Varsity" to win against Sudbury. "Nick" also picked Ottawa, to defeat Seattle in the Stanley Cup series. Ottawa has won the first two games, the score in Wednesday night's game being 3 to 1 in favor of the capital team, so it looks as if Queen's coach had the teams sized up pretty well.

Dairy Meeting at Inverary
On Tuesday next the dairymen of Frontenac are to meet at Inverary to organize a dairymen's association for the purpose of securing greater uniformity in methods in the manufacture and marketing of their produce. The meeting is to be addressed by G. G. Pablow, chief dairy inspector of Eastern Ontario. The establishment of milk condenseries in the district and the possibility of being induced to withdraw their milk supply to the detriment of the cheese and butter industry is a cause for uneasiness, as some factories are reported to be permanently closed.

The inspection at the Peterboro Collegiate Institute will take place about May 12 and General Williams will likely accompany Col. Gillespie at the inspection.

Power Line is Nearly Completed

Peterboro, Mar. 29.—The Hydro-Electric Commission's transmission line from Healey Falls to Peterboro by way of Norwood and Havelock is nearing completion and from the present prospects should be ready to receive the "juice" by April 1st. The poles in this thirty-mile stretch across the townships of Dogro and Asphodel were erected last summer and fall, the wires have been strung to the canal and there remains the connecting link between that point and the Auburn terminal.

The poles are of British Columbia fir, are exceptionally tall, and have been entirely dipped in creosote as a preservative against the effects of the weather. Aluminum wire has been used instead of copper as the conducting medium, and have a capacity of 44,000 volts, supplying 7,000 horse-power. Aluminum was used partly for the advantage that it is supposed to be proof against sleet, and also because of its comparative lightness. The poles are thus spaced at 470 feet, nearly four times the customary distance between poles. On either side of the canal and railway twin poles have been set up as an additional support and a precaution against collapse at these crossings of rail and water traffic.

Much is expected in the eastern villages of this link in the Hydro system. It makes a complete circuit of the entire Eastern Ontario system, offering routes both easterly and westerly. In other words, the east and west ends of this service which are supplied mostly from the plants at Healey Falls, Campbellford, Trenton and Frankford, have not only the former main transmission line along the Lake shore but also an alternative new route through Norwood and Peterboro. The new line parallels the highway known as the Norwood road.—Examiner.

Important Post to Gananoque Boy

Harold S. Johnston Receives Appointment as Engineer in Halifax
Gananoque, Mar. 29.—Mr. Harold S. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Johnston, Gananoque, has recently gone to Halifax to accept an appointment as hydraulic engineer of the Nova Scotia Power Commission. Mr. Johnston is a graduate of McGill University, and has had extensive experience in hydro-electric work both in Ontario and in Alberta. He was engineer to the Calgary Power Company, and for a period of four years, covering the construction of two hydro-electric plants of 30,000 horse-power capacity as well as storage dams incidental thereto. He was also engineer for the Dominion Parks Branch, Interior Department, in connection with water supply for Banff and the Rocky Mountain National Park.

For the past eighteen months and up to the time of his appointment to the Nova Scotia Power Commission, Mr. Johnston was assistant western district superintendent of the engineering branch of the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment with jurisdiction from Winnipeg to Victoria and covering the construction and maintenance of hospitals, vocational schools, etc., and particularly a $500,000 tuberculosis sanatorium.

While Mr. Johnston will generally assist in all the projects of the power commission, his immediate duties will be the preparation of designs and estimates for the Sheet Harbor project to supply the Pictou county industrial district.

Mrs. Johnston was born in Halifax, being a daughter of Rev. Canon Troop and a grand-daughter of Rev. Dr. Hill, both of whom were for many years connected with St. Paul's Church in that city.—Gananoque Reporter.

Argyle Light Infantry

Regimental Orders No. 49 by Lieut-Colonel R. Vanderwater, D.S.O., Commanding "The Argyle Light Infantry."

Belleville, Ont. Mar. 27, 1920. Designation 84.—In accordance with District Order No. 195 of March 19th, 1920, the designation of the regiment is changed: 15th Regiment is deleted and in future the Regiment will be known as "The Argyle Light Infantry."

Inspection 85, G.O.C.—The regiment was inspected by the General Officer Commanding Military District No. 3, on 28th March, 1920.

The General, in a lengthy speech, congratulated the officers and men on their appearance and soldierly bearing and particularly with their smartness at drill and steadiness on parade.

The commanding officer wishes to place on record his high appreciation of all ranks on this occasion. The conduct of the regiment has been very good, and the loyal co-operation untiring energy and attention to duty during the short period of training at their disposal has placed "The Argyle Light Infantry" whose motto "Nulli Secundus"—second to none—in the third military district.

The commanding officer feels sure that by the continuance of the esprit de corps at present existing that the good name of the regiment will be maintained in the future.

The G.O.C. was specially pleased with the showing of the bugle band under the capable leadership of Sgt. Bugler G. Hay, who was well assisted by Sergts. Sutton and Ranfield. In consequence the commanding officer extends his congratulations to all concerned in the bugle band of "The Argyle Light Infantry."

D. Thos. McManus, Capt. & Adj. "The Argyle Light Infantry."

THURSDAY MARCH 25, 1920.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS

The Daily Ontario is celebrating its semi-centennial today.

On Saturday, March 26, 1870, the first number of The Daily Ontario appeared from the press to seek a place in the estimation and favor of the public of Belleville and the Belleville neighborhood.

It was a modest appearing sheet of four pages, of seven columns each.

It was beautifully printed upon an excellent quality of paper. At the end of fifty years, every word and letter of the first numbers that we have now on the desk before us, appear as distinct in outline as though printed yesterday.

Fifty years is a long time, whether in the life of an individual, a business, an institution or a nation.

It is worth while, at times, to do as we are doing today—stop and look back over the past and carefully question ourselves.

In what have we made progress? In what have we failed? Have we realized what we set out to do? Taking it all in all, have we succeeded? Or, better still, have we deserved to succeed?

These and associated questions insistently come up today and they cannot be answered off-hand.

In the mad rush of this materialistic age, it is to be feared that we are forgetting the past and that we look with a feeling, akin to contempt, upon those who builded with their rude implements in pioneer days.

In the Daily Ontario of March 1870, every individual letter was taken out of a little compartment in a composing case and put in place by hand. It was a slow, tedious, laborious performance. The majority of workers set only two columns in a day of ten hours. An exceptionally quick compositor would set three columns in a day. Then after the paper was printed, every letter had to be put back in its little compartment again.

In today's issue of The Ontario practically the whole paper is set up by a machine, called the Linotype, by which a girl can, with a moderate expenditure of effort, set a whole column in an hour. Every day the paper appears with a dress of type, absolutely new, and when the paper is printed the type is not distributed, as in the old days, but is thrown promiscuously into a heap, soon to be melted and recast into new lines for the paper.

This type-setter is a masterpiece of inventive and mechanical skill—indeed one of the most marvellous machines in the world. It works with almost human intelligence and with far more than human precision, performing its complicated task with remarkable speed and without confusion.

The man who edited that first number of The Ontario that appeared March 26, 1870, had never talked over a telephone. His composing room was not made as bright as day by electric light. He would have regarded as a dream of insanity a prediction that at the end of fifty years the presses would be operated by power brought to Belleville over a slender wire from the Trent river. He had never ridden in an automobile, heard a phonograph, seen a moving picture or marvelled at a heavier-than-air machine flying about in the sky.

The man of 1870 had none of these "improvements." But the question that we might ask ourselves today is this—have the "improvements" brought us greater fullness and richness of life? Or have they bred up a discontented restlessness, a craze for vulgar display, a mania for speed and short-cuts to intellectual attainment?

The man of 1870 did not ride to his work in a super-six limousine. He was poor and we might consider him cramped in his outlook. But we might ask ourselves if we have any creators today who surpass John Bright or William E. Gladstone. Have we poets who excel Alfred Tennyson or Robert Browning?

Have we novelists who compare with Thackeray or Dickens? Have we essayists and prose writers equal to Thomas Carlyle, Walter Pater, John Ruskin or Goldwin Smith? Have we preachers of the type of Charles Spurgeon or Henry Ward Beecher?

These are just foolish, commonplace questions, but this being our fiftieth anniversary we may be permitted to take a few liberties. Anyway, what is the answer?

Aside from political issues, upon which there may be honest differences of opinion, it is reasonable to ask today how far The Ontario has lived up to the principles announced in its first issue to speak "with no uncertain sound" upon all subjects that aspired for the betterment of the community.

Has The Ontario kept itself free from sinister influences and has it spoken sanely and courageously and honestly upon public questions and moral issues as they have arisen? Has it given a wholesome leadership to public opinion and exerted a beneficial influence upon its environment?

Those are the standards by which a public journal must be judged, rather than by the number of pages or the amount of advertising it contains.

In a few days, it will be ten years since the present publishers took over The Ontario. These have been ten years of exceedingly hard, up-hill work. The Ontario was reduced in circulation. The mechanical equipment was worn out. Its advertising patronage was small in amount and low in price.

Today The Ontario is equipped with new material throughout. Two large presses, made by the Miehle Company of Chicago, the finest press-builders on earth, give us excellent facilities to turn out the most satisfactory press-work, in the least time. Our Linotype machines are of the latest model.

These and other features enable us to produce our work, promptly on time, and with all the attractiveness that skilled workmen and superior equipment can produce.

It is highly gratifying to the publishers to know that all this expenditure of money and effort has not passed unnoticed on the part of the public.

In those ten years, the circulation of The Daily Ontario has increased nearly three hundred per cent. Our advertising and job returns have increased in almost equal volume. Friends have not been slow to express their appreciation in kind words as well as in extensive patronage.

The work has been hard. The fighting has been up-hill. But there have been many compensations and many experiences of the most pleasant nature.

Life knows no greater pleasure than a congenial task well done.

We take to ourselves no especial credit but attribute our success, as far as we have been enabled to succeed, to the constant loyalty, support and encouragement we have received from our many friends.

From those friends we feel certain The Ontario will receive abundant wishes for at least another half-century of happy, useful and prosperous life.

ODE NO. 2 TO WOMEN

A woman is queer, there's no doubt about that. She hates to be thin, and she hates to be fat. One minute it's laughter, the next it's a cry. You can't understand her, however you try. But there's one thing about her which every one knows—

A woman's not dressed till the powders her nose.

You never can tell what a woman will say. She's a law to herself every hour of the day. It keeps a man guessing to know what to do— And mostly he's wrong when his guessing is through.

But this you can bet on, wherever she goes; She'll find some occasion to powder her nose.

I've studied the sex for a number of years. I've watched her in laughter and seen her in tears; On her ways and her whims I have pondered a lot. To find what will please her and just what will not;

But all that I've learned from the start to the close, Is that sooner or later she'll powder her nose.

At church, or a ball game, a dance or a show. There's one thing about her, I know that I know.

At weddings, or funerals, dinners of taste. You can bet that her hand will dive into her waist, And every few minutes she'll strike up a pose. And the whole world must wait till she powders her nose.

MESSRS. J. W. AND T. S. CARMAN The Men Who Established and Continued the Ontario

No history of journalism in Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district will ever be complete without mention of the names of two remarkable brothers, who have to their joint credit the founding and establishment of five newspapers.

James Walmley Carman and Thomas S. Carman were sons of the Ontario farmer, Samuel Carman, sr., who was a U. E. Loyalist. He was a wealthy landholder on Long Island and after the War of the Revolution he came to Prince Edward and purchased 500 acres in Cherry Valley. He used to make periodical trips between Long Island and his Prince Edward farm.

The late Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist Church, belonged to another branch of the same family that settled near Iroquois, Ontario.

The Carman family is English in its origin and the American branch of the family came to the United States about the same time as the "Mayflower" sailed to Massachusetts.

The wife of Samuel Carman, sr., was a sister of Gen. Andrew Jackson, who became President of the United States. The Jackson family was Irish in its origin and is connected with an earl of the House of Lords. An elaborate history of the Carman family, some two hundred pages, has been compiled and is now being printed in the British Isles.

The British American. In 1862, the two daily papers of Kingston, The Whig and The Patriot, both having become infected with virus of Toryism, merged with that of limestone content that they needed a medium to express their opinions on how Upper Canada should be governed. They therefore subscribed $14,000 to establish a newspaper and they invited

Mr. J. W. Carman, then an energetic young man, to take charge. This Mr. Carman did, and on Dec. 29, 1862, the first number of The British American appeared. The paper was an ambitious periodical for those days and consisted of four well-printed pages with an extensive telegraph service. Mr. Carman took Thos. S. Carman, then twenty-two years of age.

Mr. T. S. Carman did not remain long in Kingston. Mr. Richard Cartwright desiring a newspaper to promote his political ambitions in Lennox, induced Thos. S. Carman to leave Kingston and go to Napanee, prior to the general election of 1863 and found The Express.

Mr. Carman remained in Napanee about twelve years and made a fine success of his newspaper and incidentally laid the foundation for a comfortable fortune by a timely sale of the business when Napanee was selected as the county town.

Mr. J. W. Carman was appointed American consul at Kingston and later moved to Belleville to fill the same office. After two or three years the publication of The British American was discontinued, and Mr. Carman founded a weekly paper at Belleville which he called The Independent. He disposed of his interests to his brother in 1875 and after serving as editor for a few months he returned to his home in Napanee where he purchased The Journal and continued the publication of that paper until the time of his death, about ten years ago.

Mr. J. W. Carman has two sons, both of whom reside in St. Paul, Minn. The one son, Dr. Chas. Carman, is a physician of national reputation. The other son, Mr. Samuel Carman, conducts a large job printing business.

Mr. T. S. Carman also has two sons. The elder, Major Russell A.

Carman, is a leading barrister of Regina, Sask. Major Carman is a veteran of two wars. He served with distinction in the South African War and had the honor of heading a troop of cavalry at the coronation of King George. At the outbreak of the Great War he raised a cavalry troop and went with them overseas, remaining there three years.

Capt. Stanley Carman, the younger son, went overseas with the 254th Battalion and remained until the close of the war. He is a keen business man and, as managing director of the Belleville Hardware and Lock Manufacturing Company, he is one of our prominent men of affairs in the city.

Of Mr. T. S. Carman, Mr. W. S. Herrington has this to say in his history of journalism in Lennox and Addington: "The first proprietor and editor of The Express was Mr. T. S. Carman. Mr. Carman could write a good editorial but appears to have devoted most of his time to canvassing for advertisements, in which branch of the business he must have been eminently successful. In the issue of Oct. 16, 1868, now before the writer, there are no less than twenty-three columns of advertisements and practically all of them were local. There were in all 135 advertisements. For about ten years Mr. Carman continued to fight the battles of the Reform party and then he sold out to Mr. T. W. Casey."

Mr. Carman now owns up to being eighty years of age, but he is still vigorous and mentally as alert as ever. He retains that lively sense of humor which makes him a congenial companion and an interesting conversationalist. He has an original way of putting things and is decidedly a unique and forcible character. He is one of the largest property-holders in the city and has always been a builder and a man of enterprise. His success has not come by chance; for he has given the closest and most unremitting attention to business. His numerous friends will desire that he may enjoy many more years of happy life.

1848 Mr. Washburn, published a monthly magazine, called the Miscellaneous, which he called by various titles, "Wilson's Experiment," "Wilson's Canada Gazette," "The Electric Magazine" and so on, but none of them were of long or robust life.

Other papers were started, only to die after a few years' life. There were The Tribune, The Independent, The Free Press, The Patriot and last of all The Sun.

The Sun was an ambitious sheet and was established in 1874 by Mr. Cameron Brown, a son-in-law of Sir George Ross, and a gentleman of fine ability and rare business experience as a journalist. The Sun, during its chequered career of eight years gave an added spice to newspaperdom in Belleville and provided an admirable news and editorial service to its readers. But the field at Belleville was too limited for the successful publication of three daily newspapers. The merchants felt that they could not afford to cover the same ground by advertising in three newspapers. The two old-established papers with their long business and family connection, finally forced the newer-comer out of the field, and The Sun ceased to exist in 1882.

We will close this resume by referring to The Canadian, an ably edited semi-monthly paper, established in 1893 and since published regularly by The Ontario School for the Deaf. There are also those interesting magazines, The Elevator and The Albertus, issued from time to time, respectively by Belleville High School and Albert College. The number of a House Journal, which they have called "Store News." It is a free distribution and is an excellent product of its kind. Last of all we have had The Chamber of Commerce Bulletin, a periodical to promote the interests of our city and assist it in acquiring a position on the map. The first number has been in course of preparation, Mr. E. P. Fredericks, a gentleman well known in metropolitan journalism, is the editor.

Journalism in Belleville

THE STORY IN BRIEF

Many Have Ventured But Only Two Survive

While Belleville has two of the oldest established newspapers in the Dominion of Canada, our town also has been the scene of many other journalistic ventures and many failures. The story is a most interesting one and is worthy of more extended notice than was ever accorded it today. We give the record in tabular form, in hopes that some of our younger men, with time and skill at the disposal of their hands, more than bare statistics, and a little more of the human side, as Mr. Richard Bell has done in his all too brief article in the Standard.

The Chronicle Established in 1841. The direct progenitor of The Weekly Ontario was The Victoria Chronicle, established in 1841 by Washburn and Entoko. It was published in the Victoria buildings, corner of Victoria Avenue and Front Street. The company was headed by Mr. Raymond Zerkoff, who has his grocery, The "Victoria" was used because Belleville was then situated in the "Victoria" parliamentary division, a division that included several of our present counties.

In 1849 The Victoria Chronicle was acquired by Mr. Eliza Miles and he ran it successfully until 1873 when it became amalgamated with The Weekly Ontario. In 1856 Mr. Miles changed the name of the paper to The Hastings Chronicle, by which name it was known until its amalgamation. In fact the name "Chronicle" is still preserved in the weekly edition of The Ontario, which is now called "The Weekly Ontario and Bay of Quinte Chronicle."

In 1870 Messrs. J. W. Carman and Jacob Yeomans formed a joint-stock company, known as The Ontario Publishing Company. On Saturday, March 26, 1870, just 50 years ago today, they issued the first number of The Daily Ontario. The following week, the first number of The Weekly Ontario appeared. Mr. J. W. Carman, a very able newspaper writer of whom more is said in another column, became editor, while Mr. Yeomans acted as business manager.

The Ontario Publishing Company continued to issue the paper for five years when Mr. T. S. Carman, who had founded The Napanee Express, moved to Belleville and acquired the property. For a time he retained the services of his brother as editor, but Mr. Carman held control until April 15, 1876, when the present publishers, Messrs. W. H. Morton and J. O. Harty, purchased and took over the business.

Other Journalistic Ventures. In 1841, The Victoria Magazine was placed on the market by Joseph Wilson, who, with Mr. A. M. Hart (the latter the well known author) as editors, had the magazine lasted only a year. In 1847 and 1848 Mr. Washburn, published a monthly magazine, called the Miscellaneous, which he called by various titles, "Wilson's Experiment," "Wilson's Canada Gazette," "The Electric Magazine" and so on, but none of them were of long or robust life.

Other papers were started, only to die after a few years' life. There were The Tribune, The Independent, The Free Press, The Patriot and last of all The Sun.

WESTERN AMELIENBURG. On Wednesday evening about fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Wm. Alyea with well filled baskets and took them to the home of Mr. Wm. Alyea. They all spent an enjoyable evening visiting and playing games. After lunch was served they presented them with a handsome leather chair and address. The address follows: Dear Mr. and Mrs. Alyea.

It is with much regret that we learned of your intended removal from our neighborhood and now that the time for your final leave is so near and we are so grateful that you must go, we feel that we cannot say farewell without giving a little expression of the esteem in which you are held. You have been a neighbor long in our midst and always the same, sharing with us our sorrows and joys with ever a helping hand, pleasant smile and heart so true.

It is with painful hearts that we say adieu. We have one consolation thought (as ever) our hearts will follow you yet not too far away but that we yet may visit you frequently. Our prayers go with you that in your new home, you may obtain friends and neighbors as dear to you as those you are leaving. We know that he who is friendly will always gain friends and that has always been your motto. We beg you to accept this gift which may be a constant reminder of the happy days spent with your neighbors of the second concession of Amelienburg and surrounding vicinity. And in so doing we wish to assure you that with it goes our best wishes for your success in your new home and trust that God will bless you as He has so long been your guide and friend.

Mr. Wm. Alyea's sale was well attended owing to the nice day and good prices were realized and everything sold.

OBITUARY. MRS. W. H. KETCHESON. Mrs. W. H. Ketcheson passed away this morning at Caniffon after an illness of some months duration. Deceased was the daughter of the late Andrew Snider and was born in the Township of Huntingdon. Not long after her marriage she and Mr. Ketcheson moved to their fine farm in Thurrow, just to the north of Corbyville. Here they prospered and reared their family and remained there until about ten years ago, when they removed to Caniffon, where they afterwards made their home. Personal Recollections of a Veteran Journalist

Mr. Richard S. Bell, of The Kingston Standard, Writes of the Men Who Have Made the Newspapers of Belleville and of the Newspapers They Helped to Create.

The publishers of The Ontario are greatly indebted to former editor of The Ontario, Mr. Richard S. Bell, now of the editorial staff of The Kingston Standard, for the following comprehensive and accurate history of journalism in Belleville extending back over a period of more than sixty years.

Mr. Bell was successively editor of The Daily Intelligencer, The Daily Sun, and The Daily Ontario. He wrote with a vigorous pen and was a sturdy but strictly honorable controversialist.

Another newspaper which was established in Belleville was The Free Press, published by Messrs. J. L. Lewis and S. McCullough. It was able to pierce the sentimental armor of its opponents.

In the following article, Mr. Bell has given us a most valuable record of local journalism.

Some one who was for many years engaged in journalistic work in Belleville—as apprentice and journeyman printer, and three daily newspapers, which were published in Belleville during my residence there, my congratulations to the Ontario on having reached its semi-centennial will not, I hope be out of place.

When I first went to Belleville as a young boy there were three newspapers published in the town—all Conservative, namely, The Intelligencer, (Conservative), The Chronicle, (Liberal) and The Independent (non-partisan). All were of very limited circulation, none of them having a subscription list of over 300.

Mr. Mackenzie Bowell and His Paper The editor and proprietor of The Intelligencer was Mackenzie Bowell, who was then in his prime and was a vigorous and forcible writer, with a strong vein of sarcasm which was constantly engaged in bitter political controversy with The Chronicle, in whose editor, Mr. Abraham Diamond, he found an opponent worthy of his steel. Mr. Diamond, who afterwards became Police Magistrate, was a man of logical mind and of highly pleasing personality.

One of the visitors to The Intelligencer office was Mr. George Benjamin, founder of The Ontario. Mr. Benjamin was a short and very stout man in his own office. Mr. Miles was highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends and showed his enterprise by installing the first cylinder press in Belleville.

Mr. J. W. Carman, who published The Independent, was noted before the close of his career as a publisher, (namely two in Belleville, The Independent and The Ontario) in Napanea, in Picton and in Kingston. He was a fluent writer and, finding Belleville too small a field for his ambitions, sold out to my father, Dr. James Thompson Bell, Sc.D., who continued to publish the paper until 1885, when it was bought by Messrs. Bowell and Miles. Of my father's literary capability, I leave others to speak. He was appointed by the County Council to the Hastings Professorship of Mining and Agricultural Chemistry, which chair was especially created and endowed for him. Subsequently he was appointed County Clerk and held that office until he became incapacitated by illness a few months before his death.

Another newspaper which was established in Belleville was The Free Press, published by Messrs. J. L. Lewis and S. McCullough. It was able to pierce the sentimental armor of its opponents.

Belleville's First Daily

The first daily newspaper published in Belleville was The Intelligencer, which was first issued May 1st, 1867. Mr. Bell continued as editor. In 1870 he was succeeded by Mr. J. W. Carman, who was a strong supporter of the Liberal party and was a most able and successful journalist.

The Daily Ontario Makes Its Appearance

In 1876 The Daily Ontario, published by J. W. Carman, made its appearance. As the Ontario will say nothing further than that its first editor was Mr. W. W. Dean, who of course, in that capacity for but a short time, he wielded a brilliant pen and finally became a brilliant journalist. The Ontario has had many editors, and of these there are two whom I was pleased to number among my friends, namely Messrs. J. E. Ashley and George F. Stewart, both of whom were able men and both became teachers in the School for the Deaf.

The Sun Began to Shine

The Sun was established in Belleville in 1884 by Mr. Cameron Brown, of Toronto, a thoroughly trained and capable gentleman of genial personality. Mr. Brown, who was elected to represent North Hastings in the first Parliament of Canada, and continued to represent that constituency until he was appointed to the Senate, and finally became Premier, after having most capably filled various positions in the Cabinet. Always an ardent Orangeman, he rose to the head of that great organization as Grand Master and Sovereign of British America—an honor he prized as highly as any one of the many who were bestowed upon him. Associated with Mr. Bowell was Mr. W. A. Shepard, who was a very competent newspaper man and made many friends in Belleville. For several years he was a member of the Board of Education and became its chairman, an office which he filled very capably and successfully. His last days were spent in Toronto as superintendent of the Mail Job Printing Company.

George Benjamin, founder of The Ontario. Mr. Benjamin was a short and very stout man in his own office. Mr. Miles was highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends and showed his enterprise by installing the first cylinder press in Belleville.

Mr. J. W. Carman, who published The Independent, was noted before the close of his career as a publisher, (namely two in Belleville, The Independent and The Ontario) in Napanea, in Picton and in Kingston. He was a fluent writer and, finding Belleville too small a field for his

What the Citizens of Madoc Have Done for the Young Men

1. They say unto him, "Thou shalt not become intoxicated and be so found in public places. If so found thou shalt be condemned to pay into our Treasury a sum of money to be devoted to our use."

2. "Thou shalt not play pool in public places."

3. They have not made any provision for the physical development of the youth of this place. Not one foot of ground either by rental or purchase on which to play the national games of his country. Not even one 2x4 building into which he may retire to change his civilian suit for his playing costume.

In these golden scales of destructive immorality whose symbol is O and constructive morality whose symbol is $$ may our citizens be truly weighed.

The boys are inviting everyone to meet in the Town Hall Monday, March 29, at 8 o'clock, to consider the advisability of organizing some form of sport for the coming season. Good, clean, pure, amateur sport is one of the best and highest moral exercises in which the activities of youth can engage. It will be more productive of good results than the results obtained by the money donated to the "forward movement."

Chilsons, some to the hall at 8 o'clock Monday and inaugurate something that will wipe off this stain of neglect of provision for the leisure time of your sons and neighbors' sons.—Madoc Review.

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the tissues and in the joints. Parlelee's Vegetable Pills are known to have effected many remarkable cures, and their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will convince anyone of their value.

Maniwaki Man Victim

Serious Fire Accident

Gideon Boutin Terribly Burned When Car of Highwines Ignited

Ottawa, Mar. 24.—Suffering terrible burns, the result of the explosion of a can of highwines he was handling while he was returning home on the Gatineau train, Gideon Boutin, a middle-aged citizen of Maniwaki, lies in a precarious condition in the Maniwaki Hospital where he was taken following the accident.

While Boutin is suffering from the burns which made the flesh peel from his face, arms and legs, there is some slight hope for his recovery. He is under the care of Dr. E. A. Mulligan, of Maniwaki, who stated today that the condition of the patient is very poor, but he has some chance of pulling through.

An Immediate Explosion

The accident of which Boutin is the victim occurred on Friday evening on the Gatineau train a short while before reaching Maniwaki. Boutin, it is claimed, had a can of highwines in his possession. Wishing to fill a ginger ale bottle with spirits, he entered the lavatory and bolted the door securely. Dusk had set in and the lavatory being dimly lit, Boutin it appears struck a match to see if the bottle was full.

The effect was instantaneous as well as disastrous. The alcohol which saturated the bottle as well as Boutin's hands, immediately ignited, an explosion followed and Boutin found himself enveloped in a sheet of flame.

Writing in pain, he tried to extinguish the flames. His predicament was discovered when flaming highwines were seen percolating under the lavatory door and into the aisle. The door was knocked in and Boutin found lying on the floor in a state of semi-consciousness with the flames burning his clothing and his flesh.

Face and Arms Suffer

The flames were quickly extinguished and Boutin's terrible injuries attended to as well as the circumstances would permit until he reached Maniwaki, where he was taken to the hospital. Strange to say, while Boutin's face, arms and legs are badly burned, his body is practically untouched.

Boutin is under the care of Dr. Mulligan who is applying a skin treatment used extensively at the front during the latter years of the war in the case of soldiers suffering from the effects of poisonous gas or liquid fire.

THRONE HER PRIZE

Lucky Swimmer Ruler of Ancient City for Year

The ivory throne of the high priestess or oracle in the temple of Byblos might be won by any girl in the ancient city, no matter how wealthy or how poor her parents. The position was open to the society queen and the fisher alike, and once seated, she was in reality the ruler of that Syrian city for a year.

In the old days the city of Byblos, or Gabal, was famous for the art of its stonemasons, and in the Book of Kings those Giblites are mentioned as the stone "squarers" employed by King Solomon upon the temple. But it was mainly for its annual festivities held at Byblos, and known as the Mysteries of Adonis, that the city was most famed. There was located there a splendid temple to Adonis, and in the spring of each year hundreds of persons from all parts of Syria and the adjacent lands journeyed to the city to witness the celebration of the mysteries.

The soil of the land at the headwater of the river is of red clay, and when the spring rains began to fall in the hills the water of the river became red. The priests said Adonis had been slain. The myth was variously told, but briefly it narrated the story of Adonis being killed while hunting and his restoration to life by Jupiter at the prayer of Venus.

When the water of the river became red the people began to lament the death of Adonis. Streets and houses were draped with mourning and the people went about weeping and lamenting. This lasted a week. Then a great funeral procession formed and a wooden image of the god was carried to the river, where it was set adrift to float out to sea.

Then began the unique and interesting part of the ceremonies. The young women of the city assembled along the seashore and all day gazed over the waves. Sometimes several days were consumed in this part of the ceremony for the watch must be kept until an expected message was received from the waves.

The Daily Ontario Cost

$5.00 a Year in 1870

Papers were rather more expensive in 1870 than in 1920. The subscription price for The Ontario when it was first issued was $5, as compared with $3, by mail, at the present time.

The Weekly Ontario was $1.50 a year when paid in advance or $2 when paid in arrears. The announcement in the prospectus went on to say—"The Daily will appear as nearly possible at one o'clock in the afternoon and will have the latest news by telegraph and otherwise up to the time of going to press, with full and accurate reports of all meetings of public interest, carefully prepared reports of the markets at home and abroad, and all items of local news that may be transpiring from day to day in the town and neighboring counties."

The Men Who Have Edited The Daily Ontario

IN the making of a newspaper the editor is necessarily the central and directing influence. But the other parts of the organization, though merely contributory, are none the less important and, indeed, vitally essential. The business side, for instance, must be carefully looked after, for no newspaper can succeed unless it pays its debts, any more than it can be printed without the use of a press.

But the central mission of a newspaper is not the publication of advertisements or the collection of money for subscriptions. The first duty is to get the news to the people while the news is still new. A secondary, but almost equally essential duty is to give leadership by public opinion by interpreting news and advocating policies. These two duties are the special business of the editorial department. The papers that best thrive and survive are those that discharge these two duties most ably and conscientiously. Financial success follows as an effect follows cause.

Who's Who in The Ontario Sanctum Mr. Bell in his reminiscences, in another column, mentions that the first editor of The Ontario, after its establishment was Mr. W. W. Dean, who served but for a short time, who, as Mr. Bell states, "wielded a brilliant pen."

Mr. Dean was succeeded by J. W. Carman, who was one of the party in the business. Mr. Carman was also an able and virile writer and he remained with the publication for about five years, when he went to Catharines to take control of the Journal, which paper he had purchased.

Mr. J. B. Ashley succeeded Mr. Carman and edited the paper for about two years. He then resigned to accept a professorship in the Ontario School for the Deaf. Prof. Ashley was a forcible and scholarly writer and he exerted a strong influence on public opinion while in the editorial chair.

Prof. Ashley was succeeded by Mr. Geo. F. Stewart, who also resigned to accept a professorship at the O.S.D. Prof. Stewart, like Prof. Ashley, gave to The Ontario a fine literary tone, and he still edits, with marked ability, that high-class little school paper, The Canadian, issued semi-monthly by the O.S.D.

After Prof. Stewart came Capt. W. E. Anderson, a fearless and finally, far out, one might behold on object bulging up and down on the rollers. As soon as it was discovered a great shout went up from the girls, and all plunged into the sea, each striving to be first to reach and recover the object, an earthen jar, in which the message that the god lived again was supposed to come.

Several hundred young women, wildly swimming out to sea, was the unusual sight, for to the first girl to grasp the jar fell the honor of being the high priestess or oracle of the god during the coming year.

The lucky swimmer, on returning to the shore, was grasped by the hands of the crowd and borne in state upon an ivory throne to the great temple, where she was seated with solemn ceremony before the image of the god.

This swimmer might be the daughter of the wealthiest merchant and the leader of society, or might have spent all of her life in a hut of a poor fisherman. No matter what her former social position may have been, from the moment she recovered the jar, with its message, until another took her place at the close of the year, this girl was consulted about all matters of importance that were of interest to the people. Once seated upon the ivory throne the daughters of the rich came to consult her "mystic wisdom," and merchants planning voyages to lands of which she had never heard would appear with choice gifts. Nothing could occur without her sanction and her words were final.

Then at the close of the year, another was seated in her place. When the water of the river began to turn red the ivory throne was vacated, she, who for a year had ruled supreme and spoken the words of the god became a common attendant in the great assembly, amid the ascending clouds of incense before the image of the god, to see another seated on the prophetic ivory throne.

Belleville market was much larger in size today than it has been for some months past. In spite of threatening weather the market square accommodated a fairly large attendance of farmers. Potatoes were at their highest of five dollars per bag and maple syrup was away above the usual figure. It sold at 80c to 85c per quart. The precious fluid was not plentiful.

The inner market was well attended. Eggs fell away to 50c per dozen. Some wholesale purchasers are reported to have been made for shipment for 40c yesterday and today. There was a plentiful supply of eggs. Some recalled below 50c at the close. Butter held about steady, selling at 60 to 65 cents.

Poultry brought $1.75 to $3.50 per pair. Meats are stationary. Beef hind-quarters wholesale at 16c to 18c, lamb 20c to 25c, hogs 14c to 16c, $18.50, veal 20c to 25c by the carcass. Lettuce and cabbage were offered at the usual prices today.

An Ohio farmer took a beef hide to town and sold it for $11.70. He had to add 30 cents to this amount to buy himself a pair of shoes.

Two new unions, the stove mounters and the metal polishers, have been organized in Guelph.

Wednesday Half Holiday For June, July and August Recommended—No Daylight Saving but Likely Early Closing—Retailers and Bay Bridge—Discussion on Sunday Selling.

The Wednesday half-holiday is assured for June, July and August for the Retail Merchants, but the question of early closing is not yet decided. Daylight saving was also one of the problems considered by the Belleville Retail Merchants at their meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night, but the measure seems to be abandoned. The bay bridge situation was discussed and the merchants decided to be represented at a public meeting to be held on the issue next week.

The Retail Merchants Association decided to form a section of the new Chamber of Commerce. Mr. D. V. Sinclair, president, occupied the chair and Mr. B. F. Jennings was secretary. Retailers and Chamber of Commerce Mr. Ernest P. Fredericks, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, suggested a retail merchants' division of the Chamber which would relieve the association of much detail work. It would mean the removal of duplication of some work. The merchants would preserve their own identity and hold their own meetings but would have the backing of the Chamber of Commerce.

President Sinclair thought that the real benefit to the Retail Merchants in Belleville came from the Provincial organization. Field Secretary Beal of the Retail Merchants' Association thought the organization could be a section of the Chamber but under its own officers.

Mr. Fred B. Smith moved, seconded by Ald. Hanna, that the branch become a section of the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Fredericks said that three quarters of the members of the retail merchants were members of the Chamber of Commerce. The other members would be associate members.

Mr. D. V. Sinclair, Mr. John Cook and Mr. R. J. Wray expressed themselves as in favor of the resolution, which carried unanimously. On motion of Mr. Martin, seconded by Mr. Wray, the election of officers was deferred.

The Bay Bridge
On the bay bridge question, Secretary Manager Ernest P. Fredericks of the Chamber of Commerce said there would be a public meeting next week to consider the problem. The chief engineer of the Provincial Public Works department would be sent here by the Minister, Hon. F. C. Blythe. Maps and plans will be laid before the meeting. One point of discussion will be a proposal to create a suburban area commission. Two attitudes in connection with the bridge problem will be discussed—the purchase of the present bridge and the feasibility of the construction of a new bridge. Mr. Fredericks wished the retailers to be represented at the meeting.

Mr. R. J. Wray favored the business men paying the difference between the old price as asked for the bridge and the new present figure, provided the latter does not exceed $75,000. The merchants had lost during the past summer a great amount of business. He favored the difference in the prices being assessed against the business assessment of Belleville.

Ald. Hanna also spoke on the bay bridge question. Mr. Sinclair did not favor the merchants paying the difference. The government was ready to pay 40% of this and by the time Prince Edward's share was taken account of, only about $4,000 would remain to be paid. A special tax could not be put on only the retail merchants.

Mr. Wray moved, seconded by Mr. J. Cook that the association endorse the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to reach a solution of the bay bridge problem. The resolution carried.

Messrs. Wray and Sinclair were appointed to represent the association at the meeting.

Retailers and the D. S.
Daylight saving was the next subject of discussion. Mr. Sinclair thought Belleville had been a great business place for 35 years, not by reason of its industries but because of its great rural district. He did not think it wise to go against the rail-friends and relatives with deep regrets for the loss of such a valued and highly respected resident.

MRS. EDITH GRAHAM

Edith Idella Graham, beloved wife of Claude V. Graham, passed away on March 17th at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Derry. About a month ago she was taken ill with an attack of the "flu". She rallied but suffered a relapse which continued for about two weeks, during which time she grew weaker. Nurses and loving hands did all that could be done but she grew daily weaker, until on Wednesday she passed away in her 28th year.

The funeral took place on Friday, 19th of March, at Evergreen cemetery. It was conducted by Major Harry A. Frost, assisted by Rev. E. Ross, of Peterboro, a former pastor of the deceased. The service was held in Grace Church which was filled with people who came to pay their last respects to the deceased. During the service the choir rendered the selection "Some Time We'll Understand," one which the deceased had often sung. Rev. Mr. Ross spoke feelingly of the years during which he had known her and mentioned her many admirable qualities and Christian character. Major Frost referred to the many floral tributes which had been laid before her casket and the symbolism of each. She had been one of the most active members of the church in choir, in League, in W.M.S., in Ladies' Aid, and in the Sunday school.

Beautiful floral tributes of pillow, sheaves, wreaths, anchors and sprays were brought by the husband, the parents, the brothers of the deceased, by Mr. and Mrs. Borogard, Howard and Ernest Graham, Jean and Ruth Collins, Grace Church choir, League, W.M.S., Ladies' Aid and Pianos Club. A floral card was sent by Rev. and Mrs. Ross.

The pallbearers were Percy and Bruce Robertson, Chas. Allyn, A. Meyers, Stanley Jackson and Chas. King.

Mrs. Graham leaves a large number of friends in Grace Church and the community who shall miss her sunny smile and kindly greeting. She leaves to mourn her death, besides her husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Derry, and her older brother, Dan, of Trenton, and the younger brother, Roy, of Rochester—Trenton Courier.

PETER BERGERON
The death took place at the Hotel Dieu, Kingston, on Tuesday morning last, of Peter Bergeron, whose home was in Hungerford township, a couple of miles out of Tweed.

Mr. Bergeron attended Mass in St. Carthage Church last Sunday morning. During the service he complained of feeling unwell, and was taken to Dr. Doyle's office. Dr. Mathew was later called in consultation, and it was decided that an operation was necessary. He was taken to Kingston on Monday and was operated on the same evening for obstruction of the bowels. The operation was not a success and he died the following morning. The funeral took place at St. Carthage Church this morning where Requiem High Mass was celebrated, after which the remains were placed in the vault at Stocco. The deceased is survived by a widow, (taken) a brother, Tenos Bergeron, lives on an adjoining farm—Tweed News.

JOHN R. MACLURE
On the 17th of March, 1920, there passed away at his home in Demorestville one of Sophiasburg's most respected citizens, John R. MacLure, at the ripe age of 89 years. Mr. MacLure was born in the village of Dem' Ferne, Inverness shire, Scotland, of Gaelic descent. Gaelic was his mother tongue. He came to Canada at the age of sixteen, having spent six weeks of rough weather in crossing the Atlantic. He settled on a bush lot in Huntingdon township, Hastings county, where he was married in the year 1855 to Miss Christine Tennyson, a niece of the late Lord Tennyson, poet laureate of England. He with his family moved to Tudor township, Hastings county, in the year 1868, during the time of the gold excitement. He moved to Crofton in 1896, and to Demorestville in 1912. He had three brothers and three sisters. The youngest brother survives and lives at Ft. William. There remain six other survivors two sons, Cornelius, of Demorestville, and John, of Prince Rupert, B.C.; and five daughters: Mrs. Charles Johnson, Toftfield, Ont.; Mrs. Angus McKechnie, Redvers, Sask.; Mrs. Saul Ritter, Crofton; Mrs. Burt Thompson, Bethel; and Mrs. James Nelson, Belleville.

Mrs. MacLure died at Demorestville about a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. MacLure were both staunch Presbyterians and were very highly respected in the communities in which they resided—Picton Times.

MRS. EMILY DENIKE

There entered into rest Friday night, March 19th, 1920, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. C. Walters, Ferguson street, Picton, Rhoda Emily Williams, wife of the late John H. Denike. The deceased was the eldest child of the late Conrad and Elizabeth Williams—and was born 68 years ago. Her early life was spent in North Marysburgh, where she was united in marriage with her late husband in 1872, this union being brightened by a family of four daughters, all of whom are living. Her life was clouded by the long illness and affliction of her husband for over twenty-five years, during which time she bore the burden of caring and educating the family.

Mrs. Denike had been ailing since September last, but kept her bed for only five weeks previous to her death, which came as a happy release. She was a faithful member of the Methodist church and was always found in her place of worship when health permitted. The funeral took place on Monday at 3 p.m. at her late home, Rev. Alfred Brown officiating, her remains being placed in Glenwood vault. She leaves to mourn the loss of a loving mother and sister, four daughters: Mrs. J. Oscar Allison, Toronto; Mrs. J. M. Root, Smith's Falls; Mrs. Arnold D. Way, Picton; and Mrs. W. C. Walters, Picton; one sister, Mrs. T. N. Carr, Big Island, and two brothers, Daniel M. Williams, Waspos, and Delos Williams, Picton. A large number of friends and neighbors gathered to pay respect to one whom they loved and honored. The pallbearers were her brothers and cousins—Picton Times.

MR. GUY WEESE

Another young life has departed in the person of Mr. Guy Weese, whose death occurred on Friday evening, March 19th, at his home on Sydney Street, Trenton, and his death came as a shock to his wide circle of friends, it being caused by the "flu" which developed into double pneumonia.

Mr. Weese was the second son of the late Wesley Weese and Hattie Bryant of Ameliasburg, P.E. Co. and was born at Albany twenty-nine years ago. On March 26, 1918, he was united in marriage to Miss Lillian Harry, of Sidney, and for the past four years has been closely connected with the Hendrick's Company at Frankford.

The funeral took place on Monday, March 22nd at 2:30 p.m. at Grace Church after a short service at the house. The funeral was under the auspices of the Trenton, Ameliasburg and Frankford A.F. & A.M. lodges, the pallbearers being two of his friends out of each lodge. The church service was taken by the Rev. Major Frost and the Rev. Mr. Howard, the latter being the minister who conducted his marriage ceremony. During the service Mr. P. Skitch sang "Jernusalem the Golden." From the church the cortege proceeded to White's cemetery, where the lodges took over the remaining part of the service.

Many beautiful floral tributes from friends and societies expressed the sympathy of his many friends, a number being sent from friends and relatives in Woodstock, Bowmanville, Frankford, Belleville, Stirling, Campbellford, as well as Trenton.

Mourning his loss are his wife and one little daughter, Margaret and four sisters, Mrs. Arthur Allyn, Woodstock, Mrs. Harold Ross, and Miss Gladys Weese, Bowmanville, and Miss Hattie Weese, at Trenton, also two brothers, Kenneth at Trenton and Howard at Bowmanville.
