RESIGNATION OF L.R. HETHERINGTON

Academy Has Had Successful Four Years Under His Care

The town schools close today. The pupils of the Harkins Academy High School will learn with regret that their Principal, Mr. L. R. Hetherington, M. A., will not be with them when school re-opens, he having resigned to take up his duties elsewhere.

Principal Hetherington, during his four and one half years here has, with much success, made special efforts for the improvement of the High School. Starting with an enrollment of only 18, he now leaves it with 42, which speaks well of the great interest he has taken in the work.

The Northumberland County Scholarship at the University of New Brunswick, has been taken by pupils from this school for three successive years. Five times as many pupils have written the matriculation examination as ever wrote in the same number of years in recent times, and last year Newcastle High School sent more pupils to the U. N. B. than any other North Shore town. This is the first time Newcastle has held this record since the days when Dr. Cox was principal.

Mr. and Mrs. Hetherington's departure from our midst will be greatly regretted by a large host of friends who will wish them every success where next they make their home.

In church circles Mrs. Hetherington, particularly, will be much missed, as she has always taken an active part in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the Church. With her will go the best wishes of a large host of friends and co-workers.

Recommended For Bravery in Field

Corp. Ainsley Hicks, of Jolicure Recommended by Sir John French

From the Moncton Times we clip the following:

"Ainsley Hicks, a native of Jolicure, Westmorland County, New Brunswick, has brought signal honor to Anderson's 8th Battery. He was one of the Canadians who distinguished himself at the battle of St. Julien (Ypres) and was one of those whom Field Marshal Sir John French recommends for gallant distinguished service in the field. Today all Westmorland County will be justly proud of the Jolicure boy who has won such distinguished mention.

Corporal Hicks, in the face of what seemed almost certain death, saved one of the battery guns and retreated successfully. He was wounded and it is believed that he is now in an English hospital on the road to recovery. Corporal Hicks is about 24 years of age and is a son of the late Clarence Hicks. His mother is also dead. From boyhood he liked the military life and went to Camp Sussex one year with Major S. B. Anderson, Commander of the old 19th. As soon as war broke out he was very anxious to enlist, and as a matter of fact he was the fourth son enrolled on the list with Major Anderson. During his stay in Moncton Corporal Hicks made many friends, who will learn with pleasure the news of his gallant service."

Corporal Hicks is a brother of Harold Hicks, of the A. J. Bell Co. Ltd., of this town.

STRATHADAM

June 28--The funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. McKay took place from her late residence Sunday afternoon, interment in the Baptist cemetery, Whitney. Her illness, which was borne with Christian resignation, lasted about six months.

Miss Sarah Hall was the guest of Mrs. John McColm Saturday.

Misses George Menzies and Mildred McColm, spent a few days last week at Redbank, the guest of Miss Georgia Tozer.

Miss Rena Russell of Doaktown, the popular, music teacher who spent last summer giving vocal and instrumental lessons in Redbank, Whitney and Strathadam, spent a few days last week in each of these places endeavoring to get pupils.

We are glad to know that Mr. John Ashford has been appointed mail carrier, as he is giving good satisfaction on this route.

Laying of Corner Stone For Miramichi Hospital

Ceremony Will Take Place Tomorrow Afternoon at 3 O'clock--Prominent Citizens Will Take Part

Under the auspices of the Board of Trade, on Thursday, July 1st at 3.00 p. m., the corner stone of the Miramichi Hospital, now under construction will be laid. The Newcastle band will be in attendance, and prominent citizens throughout the County and Province, have been invited to attend.

The day selected for the celebration has been well chosen, being the birthday of our "Glorious Dominion" and also that of the public institution which our citizens feel will fill a long felt want throughout the north shore counties of this Province.

It will be the aim of those in charge of the construction and equipment of the hospital building to have it up-to-date in every respect. It is estimated the building alone will cost in the vicinity of $40,000, and it affords the Board of Trade much pleasure to announce that, through the unexampled generosity of one of our prominent citizens on the Miramichi, sufficient funds have been contributed to complete the building.

We are satisfied there does not exist a single county in the Maritime Provinces which has received such a princely donation from one individual for a public institution which is calculated to be of so much benefit in future years.

The Board of Trade regret that they are not in a position to give to the public the name of the benefactor who has given so liberally to the hospital building fund, but, while he does not wish to give publicity to his generous act, it is none the less appreciated by our citizens in general.

Funds have also been donated for a first-class X-Ray machine.

The hospital building will be constructed of Miramichi sandstone and will be of four stories, including a high and well lighted basement. Provision will be made for two medical and two surgical wards, each containing six beds; also seven private rooms, operating, X-Ray and sterilizing rooms, besides many other conveniences incidental to a first-class hospital.

A cut of the building will appear in a subsequent issue of this paper, when a full description will be given.

Military Expert Sees Strategy in Russian Retreat

Declares Forces of the Czar May Continue to Fall Back All Summer and Still be Performing Valuable Service in the Gigantic Struggle of Iron and Men,

American military experts look upon the German occupation of Lemberg not as a German victory but as an excellent sample of Russian strategy.

One of the best known officers in the United States army, in discussing the Lemberg evacuation with special reference to the part it will play in the Allies' campaign, said: "When Lemberg fell, Berlin heralded it as a great victory and the German people celebrated.

"On its face it looks like a victory, and if Lemberg were the German objective it would be a great victory but Lemberg is not the German objective, and the Russian evacuation of the city is in reality a very good piece of strategy from the Russian standpoint.

"In considering the war on the Russian frontier there are several vital facts which must be kept constantly before the mind, or else the layman is likely to lose his perspective completely. The fighting at Lemberg is merely incidental to the general program.

"Germany today is confronted by two enemy lines. One of these, the French line, is approximately 500 miles in length. The second, the Russian line, is approximately 1,600 miles in length.

Allies Gaining in Strength

"Because she has been preparing for this war for years Germany was in the best of condition last August. With the exception of France the allies were unprepared. Finally, it will be a war of iron and of men--these are the two great elements that must be conserved.

"England is short of guns, ammunition and men. Within a few months this shortage will be wiped out. Russia is dreadfully short of guns and ammunition and of trained men. Within a few months these weaknesses will be wiped out. In the case of Russia it may be in the Spring of 1916 before she is in a position to put a real army with modern guns and ammunition in the field.

"Although it may appear to be a bit pedantic to state them, these facts must always be borne in mind in relation to the present war.

"For many reasons--because the line is shorter and because the victory would be quicker and greater--Germany at this time should be giving all her attention to the French lines. She should break through them at all costs and destroy France, following her victory into Italy.

"Likewise, the allies, operating from France, should make their strongest fight along those lines, in the hope of piercing Germany without delay.

KING'S HIGHWAY A BOULEVARD

Movement Between Council and Auto Owners to Turn Road Into Boulevard

There is a movement on foot between the Town Council and owners of automobiles to convert the road running from the Mill Cove bridge to Sinclair's, into a boulevard. The matter has been taken up in earnest, both by the Council and auto owners, and if the arrangement as suggested by the council will be received with favor by the parties of the second part, namely, that if all owners of autos in town and vicinity are agreeable to paying the sum of $10 each towards the work of putting the road into shape, the Council will go as far financially as is in its power to do so to make up the balance of the cost.

This piece of road could be put into splendid shape at a very small cost, and besides being of special enjoyment to joy riders, would be an added improvement to the town. The Council in itself can not at the present time bear the whole expense of the work, and what they could spare would not be noticeable. We understand the matter is looked upon favorably by auto owners, and in all probability the work will be begun at an early date.

It might further be suggested, that residents along this street, and others as well, do their share towards street improving, by looking after the small holes and bad places in front of their own homes. Very often much valuable assistance can be rendered the town in this way, and thus save the town many dollars during the year, besides the help it would be in keeping the streets in good repair. It is trusted the undertaking will not fall through.

ORANGE SERVICE AT CHELMSFORD

St. Andrew's L. O. L. No. 147 Held Successful Parade Sunday Afternoon

St. Andrew's L. O. L. No. 147 held their annual church parade at Chelmsford on Sunday afternoon last, and was one of the best attended yet held. The day was a suitable one, and there was a good representation from Newcastle, Douglstown and Chatham.

The Orange Auxiliary band of Douglstown headed a procession of about one hundred members clothed with the regalia of the different degrees.

Rev. Alex. Rettle, Past County Master of the order, preached an able and eloquent sermon, taking as his text Esther 4:16: "I will go in unto the King, and if I perish, I perish." His closing remarks were a strong appeal to all to be true to King and country, and to the teachings of Jesus Christ, the King of Kings.

The visiting brethren were served an excellent dinner and supper in the hall, by the members of St. Andrew's lodge and the Ladies True Blues, and their hospitality was much appreciated.

The splendid showing made by the Douglstown band under the efficient leadership of John Stapleton, of Chatham, called forth much favorable comment. The band, which is only of recent organization, now has a membership of about twenty and is making excellent progress, and doubtless will hold its own with any of the numerous musical organizations which will be present at the Provincial demonstration to be held at Fredericton on July 12th.

The Austrian border or whether it is pushed back 100 miles into Russia.

"As long as the Russian line holds the Kaiser's efforts will be wasted, because every movement he makes costs him a life that is worth to him five times as much as the life that went with it is worth to the Czar.

"It is highly probable that the Russians will continue their defensive movement all summer. However, whenever the Germans show a tendency to relax and strengthen their lines on the French front, you will find that the Russians will change to offensive tactics, and thereby they will compel the Germans to maintain a great force before them at all times.

"Considering the shortage of munitions, the Russians have handled their campaign magnificently. If it had not been for the Russian forces it is probable that the Kaiser would have broken the backbone of the allies in France, and the decisive stages of the war would have been passed before this time."

A short time ago I spent a few days in Chicago in attendance upon the Rifle and Revolver Tournament of the Sportsmen's Club of America.

Chicago has a very live aggregation of shooting enthusiasts who are doing everything possible to boost the sport of shooting in all its branches.

I have always noticed that when a sporting goods dealer spends a little time and trouble on his shooting customers, the interest in the game is considerably stimulated.

Chicago is to be congratulated on a very successful tournament.

WHEN THE GERMAN FLEET COMES OUT

We should not blind ourselves with the belief that the many terrific sacrifices of the German forces have been in the nature of forlorn hopes.

At the present time, the British first line fighting ships are just about double the number of the German. The superior equipment of the British make the advantage about three to one in favor of the British.

The first plan of the German navy was to keep in safety until its destroyers and submarines could gradually wear down the British fleet to a more equal footing and then to issue forth and engage in the one decisive struggle.

THE ALLIES' PROBLEM

Mr. Lloyd George's recent speech may be well summarized by paraphrasing Napoleon's famous epigram: The first great requisite of victory is munitions; the second is munitions; the third is more munitions. Better methods of production have eliminated boots as the first problem in warfare; armies today are well shod, and without great exertion. The other maxim of the great Corsicans, that an army marches upon its stomach, is likewise no longer a cardinal point; for while feeding the tremendous armies in the field is a task of immense proportions, it can be done so long as money is available without great difficulty. Modern methods of transportation have solved that question. But the munition problem has been created by this war. The Austro-German empires were long ago fully aware of the necessity for storing up tremendous stocks of ammunition. Russia and England were practically without munitions to start the campaign, while France was not nearly so well equipped in this respect as has since been found necessary. Germany anticipated trench warfare, anticipated a long war, and was prepared for it with a preparation so complete as to be hard to comprehend. The Central European powers, according to Mr. Lloyd George, are turning out 250,000 shells a day, or as many as would be used in months of such warfare as that in South Africa.

Mr. Lloyd George's speech is reassuring however. The munitions problem he says is by no means incapable of solution. When the engineering and chemical resources of the British Empire are organized, he states, Britain and France, with the help of the overseas Dominions, will be turning out more than the whole Teutonic output, while in addition, Italy, Russia and other countries will be drawn upon also. In addition to this, the output purchasable in the United States, a source of supply that Britain and France cannot tap, but which Germany cannot, will leave the Allies in a vastly better position than the German forces.

To organize the British and French Empires for the manufacture of munitions, will of course take some time, but with the work in France in charge of the most vigorous organizer among French statesmen, Albert Thomas, and with Lloyd George in charge in Britain, much will undoubtedly be accomplished in a short period. Canada has already played her part in this respect pretty well. General Bertram's statement, recently made at Ottawa, showed clearly how well the Canadian Government had anticipated the needs of the moment, and how much had been done in the way of organizing the engineering forces of the country for the manufacture of munitions.

CANADA'S DEBT

The announcement from Ottawa that at the end of May the total debt of the Dominion was $432,000,000, as compared with $313,000,000 at the same date last year, inspires a Liberal politician to ask: "What is the end to be if the Tories keep up their 'how-else-extravagance'?" This gentleman found it convenient to ignore the fact that war expenditure accounts for practically the whole of this big increase—a much more serious question to be answered is what is the end likely to be if the government has to undertake Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pet scheme, the tremendous task of carrying out the National Transcontinental Railway. It has already been taken over by the Railway Department, and its half-brother the Canadian Northern is in a precarious situation. A good crop would help matters; but if there is not a good crop, what then? When the boom was on a few years ago, many things were done that were more or less injudicious, but the construction of these two lines mainly out of Federal and Provincial subsidies was the crowning effort of temporary insanity. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's speeches which are to be found in Hansard on the vast natural wealth of the regions that were to be developed, on the low rates that were to be offered, and on the enormous profits that were to flow in a steady stream to those who were fortunate enough to have invested in these projects, will cause him to be looked upon by future generations as the wildest visionary of a visionary generation. Every Liberal between the two oceans believed his predictions concerning the roads, and now that they are in their present plight, the most hardened Grit is inclined to suspect that he really did not know what he was talking about.

But says the same politician before quoted, "If things are looking blue for the N. T. R. & C. U. R. why do the Tories maintain that iniquitous provision in the Canadian Pacific charter which exempts it from rate supervision by the Railway Commission?" There is no longer any exception. In the original charter it was provided that the company's rates should not be subjected to regulation until such time as it was earning 1 per cent. per annum on the capital actually invested. This was a heritage from the old days when we sought to attract British capital into Canadian railway ventures by all sorts of devices. But long before Sir Robert Borden was returned to office, the company had abandoned that protection, had ceased, in other words, to plead that it was not earning 10 per cent. had submitted itself to the Commission and allowed itself to be dealt with as regards rates in precisely the same manner as the Grand Trunk or any other line. The only road which now enjoys exemption from rate regulation is the Intercolonial, in which the Canadian taxpayer has a very large interest indeed.

Meanwhile unless Canada is going to back out of the war on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's theory that a self-governing colony should be permitted to remain neutral if it desired, we must be prepared to borrow more and still more, for war purposes from the British government. We can afford to do so, and still thrive—always provided that he does not come back to office and inflict us with new visions.

BOOM ROAD

June 28—The sad death of Mrs. Wm. Forsythe, of Boom Road, whose husband passed away little over three years ago, took place at Hotel Dieu, Chatham, June 22. She was ailing about eight weeks with cancer of the stomach, but only kept her bed one week and passed away very suddenly.

PRESENTATION FROM SCHOLARS

Pupils of Grade VIII Present
Mr. Drummie With Address and Fountain Pen

Mr. Harold Drummie, who for the past six months has been Grade VIII's teacher in Harkin's Academy, but who has resigned his position here to accept a similar position in the Grammar School at Sussex, was waited on by the pupils of his grade on Friday afternoon and presented with an address and fountain pen. The presentation was made by Miss Marion MacArthur and the address read by Jack Nicholson.

The Address
Newcastle, N. B.
June 25, 1915.

Dear Teacher:
We, the pupils of Grade VIII Harkin's Academy, on the closing of this term, nineteen hundred and fifteen, desire to convey to you our heartfelt appreciation of your work among us this term.

The time has simply flown since you became our teacher. You made our studies so interesting and our work so pleasant, that it is with regret we contemplate now the severance of the tie that has been between us for the last six months as teacher and pupils. Notwithstanding the loss of time at the first of the year through circumstances over which we had no control, thanks to your painstaking diligence and persevering encouragement, we stand today as well prepared for our grading as if we had not had these unforeseen interruptions. We beg of you to accept this slight token of our affection and respect, and we hope that wherever your lot should be cast in the future, you will meet with success.

We wish you to carry away the feeling that we truly enjoyed our studies this winter and we are sincerely sorry that we cannot take you along with us into our next grade, but what is our loss, will be Sussex gain.

Signed by:—A. Elva McCurdy, Lawrence Fitzmaurice, Annie M. Dickson, Roy Creamer, Marion C. MacArthur, John B. Gough, Jennie L. Copp, Victor D. Moody, Elsie E. Whitney, Hubert Craik, Ethel Crocker, Richard Fagan, John R. Nicholson, Redvers R. Bate, Nicholas J. Gorman, Alexander Ryan, Charles Donavon, Hugh Morell.

Mr. Drummie, who has taken a lively interest in sporting matters since coming to Newcastle, will be much missed by his many friends in last winter's hockey team he was one of the star players, and in baseball and other lines of sport he has taken an active part. His numerous friends wish him success in his new home town.

Under Surveillance Arrested at Amherst

Wolfgang Bolze, a German Lawyer, Had Camera and Films and $5000 in Cash

Amherst, June 25—Policeman Spence on Thursday evening arrested a German named Wolfgang Bolze on suspicion and he is now confined in the county jail awaiting further word from Ottawa. Bolze, who was a lawyer in Germany, came to Canada about two years ago and since that time has been in and around this place. Two of his daughters were students last year at Mount Allison Ladies' College; his son is attending the Amherst public school. Fellow students noted with interest that whenever the national anthem was sung, the Teutons joined in as lustily as anyone. When arrested, Bolze had in his possession a panoramic camera and some films, the pictures on which could not be learned. Recently Bolze has been residing in Sackville. He is very eccentric. Sometime ago Bolze was ordered to report to the authorities, which he has been doing faithfully. On the day that the 26th Battalion sailed from St. John, he obtained permission to go to that city, saying he wanted to see a lawyer and see if it was not possible for him to practice law in this country. As the authorities did not know anything about the sailing of the 26th, permission was granted and nothing thought of the affair, but now it seems a strange coincidence that Bolze visited St. John the same day the N. B. boys sailed.

Then again it was alleged that Bolze was spying on officers of the French-Canadian regiments during their stay in Amherst. A large number of the officers were staying at the St. Regis Hotel, and suddenly Bolze also decided to live at the St. Regis. Col. Gaudet and other officers complained about Bolze, with the result that he left the hotel. In fact, Col. Gaudet is reported to have said that Bolze was spying on him and watching his room. When the house where Bolze lived was searched $5,000 in cash was found. Bolze frequently visited Moncton and he claimed to have land out west—Moncton Times.

Some of The 55th Have Reached England

Overseas Draft From Sussex and Other Troops Land From Allan Liner

Montreal, June 29—The Allan Liner Corsican, which left here on Saturday June 19, arrived in England yesterday afternoon. She carried the 36th Battalion under Lieut. Col. Ashton of Hamilton, and reinforcements from the 55th, which was recruited about Sussex, N. B., and Prince Edward Island and from the 34th from London. As usual, the men were taken directly to the sheds and placed on the ship without any publicity. It is doubtful if more than 100 people in the city knew that they had gone.

FRENCH TROOPS CLEAR WAY TO LILLE FROM LINES ABOUT ARRAS

Paris, June 29—An eye witness with the German army in the region north of Arras, telegraphing a description of the fighting for Lorette Heights, every square foot of which is drenched with French and German blood, says:

"Germany's wall of iron and blood between Arras and Ypres is holding. It has bent a little, but has not broken nor even cracked under the terrific battering-ram-like attacks of General Joffre and General French. Joffre's offensive, now rapidly waning, has resulted in a deluge of blood, but little else.

"Today I looked into a veritable hell of death as the little stretch of three or four miles between Neuville and the heights of Lorette is called by the Germans.

"It deserves the name. In no other place in this war has there been such a merciless, desperate combat, or has so much blood flowed to the square yard as in this spot.

"The first week of June I was with Marshal Von Mackenzen's army at the fall of Przemysl, on the extreme eastern front, where the Germans and Austrians are engaging in the greatest offensive movement of the war. Today, 900 miles to the west, I am with the armies of Prince Rupprecht and General Luchow, engaged in the greatest defensive struggle of the war, holding back the French line and English while matters are being settled with the Russians.

Safe Landing of the 26th Batt. In Plymouth Harbor

ed to the mission upon which they were embarked on a steamer at the west side docks and during the morning courtesies were exchanged by signal, and cheers were reciprocated.

It was sharp 11 o'clock when the lines were dropped and the tugs—Neptune and the J. S. Gregory—began to move the great liner from the wharf. The crowd was all excitement and the swarm of little boats in the harbor scurried around, screeching their piping whistles and creating as much uproar as they could. The Governor Cobb and the Yarmouth were listed by the crowds that lined them on the harbor side, and all convenient crafts in the vicinity were utilized by spectators.

It was a pretty sight indeed to see the neat and monstrous raft, littered with khaki men, as she began to move down the harbor under her own steam. The government steamer Lansdowne acted as escort, and the two tugs and hundreds of other boats followed as fit as the island. A bevy of motor craft and other small boats had flocked about the troopship as she edged away from the dock into the stream and they encircled her time and time again as her bow was being swung about by tug-boats. Whistles blew, sirens screeched, crowds cheered, the immense liner, her decks a mass of khaki soldiers, steamed majestically down the harbor and for twenty minutes until she passed behind the island and out of sight, a reverberation of the harbor, voiced in many, many ways. Whistles of factories and mills all over the city took up the signal and one grand, harmonious but cheerful chorus bespoke "bon voyage" and "God-speed."

Lieut.-Colonel J. L. McAvity's battalion of 1,250 men had departed. Their lives henceforward depended on the ruling hand of Fate. These were thoughts that probably filled the minds of those hundreds of spectators as they sauntered away from the pier, satisfied that the climax of the series of events connected with the organization, training and preparation had been most impressive.

Night Watchman Arrested as Suspect

As a Result of the Finding of Dynamite Near Motor Truck Factory

Windsor, Ont., June 25—William Laffer, night watchman at the plant of the Tate Electric Auto Company, Ford City, is under arrest as a suspect in connection with the discovery early this morning of sixty sticks of dynamite at the rear of the factory of the Gramm Motor Truck Company, Walkerville, which is making automobiles for the British army. Laffer claims Detroit as his home, but refuses to give his street address. He claims to be of Dutch parentage, but speaks with a strong German accent.

The police believe that the dynamite, which was found hidden among weeds, was not to be used in an attempt to destroy the factory, but was being kept for future use. The markings of the wrappers of the explosive corresponded exactly with those on the dynamite found under the Windsor Armouries on Monday and the authorities are convinced that the explosive was made in or near Detroit. The police express the conviction that the explosive was brought across the river in a gasoline launch.

Canadian Fruit Trade

Canadian Fruit Trade ... prqf4p. As showing to some extent how much a good fruit-growing means to Canada it is worth while noting the amount of trade formerly done by the countries at war that lies open for cultivation by this country.

ON PRINTING

FINE PRINTING IS AN ART

Do you know good printing? Do you like good printing? Do you know that it always pays to have the BETTER kind? Perhaps you have been used to the one class of printing and know no other.

1st—We cater to that class of people who use only the best stock, and who know what BETTER printing is.

2nd—In order to give these customers the class of work they want, we have to keep in stock only the best grades of material.

3rd—In order, again, to be able to turn out that BETTER class of printing, we employ only experienced and competent printers, who keep abreast of the times and watch the styles.

4th—What is as important as the above is equipment. If The Advocate Job Department was not fitted out as it is, with the most modern machinery and the very latest in type faces, it could not handle the fast growing trade...

REMEMBER THAT WE DO ALL KINDS OF PRINTING

For commercial use, we have superior grades of Letter, Note and Bill Head Stock, at prices and quality to suit any business and any purse.

More Business IS WHAT WE WANT

You want the work—we want to do it for you. We have just the grade of paper you want, so why not let us get together in a co-operative way and make a strong pull for increased business—more business than usual.

Have Placed Garbage Cans
During the reign of last year's Council the Advocate advocated the placing of garbage cans at different points around the square. The idea was not looked upon in a favourable light, however, and nothing was done. We are pleased to state now that the present council has taken the matter up and six cans have been or will be, placed in the following places: At B. F. Maltby's store, Lounsbury's Corner, Ryan's Corner, Dickson & Troy's, square, opposite Stables' grocery, and one in square opposite Mrs. S. A. Demers' grocery. It is hoped that the public will take every advantage in using these cans, and show appreciation of the Council's efforts to keep the public thoroughfare in a clean and tidy state.

How the Race was Won
A barroom argument on the speed of Chatham horses elicited the assertion that one of the stables had at least two horses that could be driven to Newcastle in fifteen minutes. One of the party offered to bet that they couldn't do it, and a representative of the stable accepted the wager. Unlike most barroom bets, the money was put up and the next day named for the test. The liveryman thought he could win, but, to make assurance doubly sure and avoid the risk of injuring either of his two fast horses, which looked very much alike, he resolved to use both of them. So he started with one of them a half an hour before the racing started, to warn other teams to give the racer a clear road, he said, and jogged along to a point a little more than half way to Newcastle. Then he stopped and waited for the racer. The racing driver jumped from one sleigh to the other and drove on with a fresh horse, arriving at Sergeant's stable inside of fifteen minutes and winning the race. The secret was kept for a time, but it has leaked out as a good joke.—World.

Young Lady Wins Battle
A young lady resident of the King's Highway had an exciting experience on Friday last while endeavoring to give assistance to a young child against the vicious attacks of a bold bad rooster. Her appearance on the scene of trouble, whether by the radiance of her becoming costume, or the dainty silk stockings she wore, caused the monarch of the roost to cease his attacks on the child and renew his energies upon his new adversary. Every pick he gave told on the delicate stockings, but after a few well-directed kicks he decided he had had enough, and with what strength he had left he made off to his own domain. We understand he has since been condemned to the gallotie.

HAD CLOSE CALL FROM LIVE WIRE

Allen Devlin Had Fingers Burned to the Bone by Live Electric Wire

While Allen Devlin and Lester Jeffrey were crossing the Morrissey Bridge last Wednesday night about nine o'clock, coming to town, the former noticed sparks flying from a wire, and on jumping over the railing to investigate, was suddenly charged with a heavy charge of electricity drawing his right hand in contact with the wire. He was unable to let go, and told his companion to go with all possible speed to the power house and have the current turned off, which he did, but not before Devlin's fingers were burned to the bone.

When Jeffrey first noticed his companion's predicament, he thought he was only jesting, but when coming handy enough for Devlin to reach him with his free hand, taking hold of him, the shock he received brought him to the realization that if his friend was not soon released, the consequences might prove fatal. He then hastened to the power house and the current was turned off.

His call was a close one, and it is now being wondered why this coil of wire has been allowed to remain where it was, since it is not in use. While the bridge was in course of construction, this wire was used at night to light up around, to enable the work to be carried on at night. It is a case of ignorance or carelessness that this wire has been allowed to remain there on the ground, which was wet and heavily charged, and where children playing around might have met with a similar, but more serious accident. To save further accidents, it has been cut.

A Misfit Hero At Opera House

Given by Chatham Amateurs was Enthusiastically Received

"A Misfit Hero," in the opera house on Friday evening, given by Chatham amateurs under the auspices of the Chatham Red Cross Society, was greeted by a large house, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The play was staged under the direction of Mr. Henry M. Astle, who will be remembered as being a member of the Welsh male quartette which visited Newcastle about a year or so ago.

Among the ladies who took part, Mrs. W. Stuart Loggie, as Vivian Westford, the widow, played an exceedingly pleasing part. Her lines were carried with an ease and grace becoming a finished artist. Miss Jean Loggie, as Rose Westford, Miss Kathleen Fisher, as Minnie Vaughn, and Miss Muriel Ellis as Rebecca Arnold, also made a very creditable showing.

Mr. Fred Moar, as the misfit hero, had a most difficult part and while under many trying circumstances, he showed himself master of all situations and to be a past master in the Annulus stunt, Joseph Currie, as the real hero, Leo Troy as Doctor Pelletts, Lawrence Bailey, as Ned Brockaway, and Arthur McEachren, as Bill Dawson, the fixer, all filled their parts with an air of professionalism.

The feature of the evening was the splendid orchestra, which under the efficient direction of Mrs. H. B. McDonald, rendered a most pleasing program of exceedingly high-class music. This orchestra, the cream of Chatham's talented musicians, made a decided hit with their Newcastle audience, and their fine playing elicited many favorable comments.

Another pleasing feature of the program was the singing by Mr. Astle, who pleased the audience with two numbers, The Rosary, as an encore to his first song. The play, taken as a whole, was very creditably performed.

Five Men Drowned
A small fishing smack owned by Jean Hachey, of Isle Lemeque, N. B., was overturned in a heavy sea on Wednesday of last week, and the owner with his small son and three other men were drowned. The little ship had been sighted from shore the previous day, but rescue was impossible, owing to the raging fury of the storm. The other bodies are as yet unidentified.
