CHAPTER V. A DARING ATTEMPT.

"But a reaction soon set in, and Dessie began to fear that such a victory over such a man had been won too cheaply, and that this apparently weak compliance with her terms was only meant as a cover for some much stronger move."

And she soon had a terrible proof that this was so.

When the Count did not keep his appointment for that afternoon, Mrs. Markham was first impatient, then irritable, next nervous, and lastly full of anxiety lest some accident had occurred; and she passed quickly through these different moods. Dessie could not, of course, tell her what she knew the reason to be, and that in all probability the expected visitor would not come at all. But she was certainly unprepared for what happened.

After some two hours of waiting, in which Dora shed tears more than once and seemed inclined to be hysterical, the Count was announced. He came in full of apologies to Mrs. Markham for the delay, and told copious untruths, as Dessie knew, about the cause of his lateness.

The widow was too excited and agitated by his arrival to pay any heed to the greeting between the other two. The man's nonchalant impudence was so complete that Dessie was at a momentary loss what to do, and before she had recovered herself, he was bending over her with a grave bow. "I have brought the proofs," he whispered and then turned to speak again to Mrs. Markham.

He had scarcely arrived when afternoon tea was brought in, and with it came the young fellow who had long been in love with Dora, George Vezey. After greeting the Count in any but a cordial manner, he sat down by Dessie and lapsed into a silence so unusual that the others rallied him upon the change.

The Count, on the other hand, was all lightness of speech, jest, and compliment; so much so that Dessie was sure he had some purpose to hide, and she watched him with quiet but unrelaxing vigilance.

Something in his manner made her very suspicious of him. Presently she noticed that while insisting upon handing her a cup of tea, he stood holding it for a moment with his back to her, while he finished telling a story he had begun, and he let the spoon fall, and had to stoop, with his back still towards Dessie, in order to pick it up and replace it on the saucer. It was only a little thing, but Dessie saw that he had dropped the spoon intentionally, and believed he had done it to get an opportunity to tamper with the tea.

She knew the man was an expert in poisons; and instantly she resolved not to drink a drop of it. She stirred it slowly, pretended to taste it, and making a wry face.

"My dear Dora, what have you done with my tea? You are so excited, you have given me yours. It is all sugar. It will just suit you. Give me yours."

"Very well, dear. Give it me."

"Allow me," said the Count, quickly going to Dessie, and holding out his hand for the cup.

"Thank you, don't trouble. I am going to change my chair," answered Dessie, coolly, trying to keep the cup from him.

"Pardon me, I cannot allow that; it is a trouble," he replied, and pushing forward, he deliberately took the cup and saucer from her, and then, as if in confusion, let them drop with a crash to the ground, uttering loud apologies and expressions of regret for his clumsiness.

A glance showed Dessie that though the cup was broken, and most of the tea spilt, there was yet enough left in the fragment of the cup, and in the saucer, for the purpose of analysis, to confirm or dissolve her suspicions.

"Oh, Dora, it is my favourite cup," she cried, and stooping took the larger half of the broken cup, poured into it what tea remained in the saucer, and, without waiting to say more hurried than it out of the room. As she was passing the Count, he made a quick movement, as if to strike the cup from her hand, under the pretence of assisting her, but she avoided him, and as she glanced into his face their eyes met, and he knew that she had discovered his daring attempt to poison her, and was escaping with the proofs of his guilt.

She knew now well enough why he had ventured to return to the house, and why he had seemed to yield so readily when they had met in the Square.

He had been to fetch the drug which he needed for the attempt on her life.

CHAPTER VI. A RECKLESS ENEMY.

The incident had happened so suddenly, passed so quickly, and arisen out of such a commonplace circumstance, that until Dessie was alone in her own room she did not realise fully that she had actually had a most narrow escape of losing her life.

The simple manner in which the attempt had been made, its consummate daring, and the audacity of endeavouring to poison her in a cup of tea given so openly before her friends filled her with such intense astonishment, that she could only marvel at her assailant's recklessness.

But astonishment soon gave way to fear. The man who dared such an attempt would dare anything; and Dessie longed earnestly for Tom Cheriton's return, and began to regret that she had taken her first step in his absence. She was no match for this murderer, and as she sat and eyed the broken fragile cup, with its few drops of what she believed to be a subtle poison, she grew almost afraid to be alone, and trembled and glanced about her nervously, as if expecting an attack even in her own room.

It was some minutes before she could shake off her agitation and regain any degree of self-possession. Then she emptied the contents of the cup into a small bottle, and this she carefully hid lest anyone should take it away in mistake.

After that she washed out the cup, placed it on the table that had been arranged for her writing materials, and then returned to the small drawing-room in which the incident had occurred.

"Whatever is the matter with you to-day, child?" said Mrs. Markham, as she entered. "You've been doing all sorts of curious things."

"I suppose it must be the effect of Tom's absence," answered the girl, with a smile.

"Or the result of being introduced to de Montalt," said George Vezey. "People do all sorts of things after they've been introduced to him." This with a glance at Mrs. Markham. "I believe you have the evil eye, Count, or some such beastly thing as that."

"That is a very unpleasant as well as a very stupid thing to say, George," said Mrs. Markham, annoyed by this; but the Count laughed good humouredly and easily. He did not care a rap for the young fellow's temper; indeed he rather enjoyed it. It was not in any way likely to interfere with his plans, so he could afford to be tolerant of the others temper.

The relations between Mrs. Markham and young Vezey were naturally strained just now. Till the Count's coming they had been virtually engaged. Vezey was good-looking, fair, slim, and well-tailored; and he rather affected the effeminate manner of a young fellow about town. But in Dessie's opinion there was more affection than effeminacy about him; and she liked him, and believed him to be much more capable than his surface manner suggested.

Mrs. Markham had been in the habit of making use of him for all conceivable purposes; and he had taken a genuine pleasure in dancing attendance upon her everywhere, and helping her in a thousand odd one ways in which an attentive man can help the woman he loves to get the most enjoyment out of life.

But the promotion of de Montalt had changed his views of things altogether. Vezey found himself depressed from his position, and took the change in very ill parts, disliking the Count proportionately. Nothing irritated him more than for Dora to take the other man's part against him.

He let the matter pass now, however, with nothing more antagonistic than an angry glance at de Montalt, who smiled more broadly as he saw it. The relations between three out of the four were thus ruffled, and the conversation lagged rather heavily

THE WOES OF THE WEAK-STOMACHED MAN

Relieved by Father Morrissy's "No. 11" Did you ever see a happy dyspeptic? Or a man cheerful over his indigestion? No wonder you didn't, for the man who cannot digest cannot enjoy very much. When the stomach refuses to work the whole system goes wrong, and there follows heartburn, headache, constipation, bad breath and severe pain. Then the mind is affected; a person becomes irritable, sarcastic, surly—in fact, almost unbearable. Father Morrissy gave this matter special study, and devised a tablet now known as "Father Morrissy's No. 11," which relieves the misery. Each tablet is capable of digesting 1 1/2 pounds of food—a good square meal. One tablet after eating, with a half tumbler of water, insures perfect digestion, providing reasonable care is taken to avoid foods that have been found especially disagreeable to the stomach.

If you have suffered from a weak stomach, why not do as thousands have done—take Father Morrissy's No. 11 Tablets and be cured? 50c. at your dealer's, or from Father Morrissy Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que.

until the two men left the house, to which they were to return later to dine.

After dinner the Count and George Vezey stayed so long over their wine and cigars that Mrs. Markham grew impatient; and when they came into the drawing-room Vezey went and sat by Dessie at one end of the long room, in one of the large bay windows.

"I hate that chappie, Miss Merrion, don't you?" he said, soon after he joined her. "I believe he's an awful bounder, and I can't for the life of me see what she sees in him. Can you?"

"Why did you introduce him?" asked Dessie. (To be continued.)

What Alcohol Does to the System.

Alcohol has a profound effect upon the central nervous system. There are two theories with regard to its action. By some it is considered a stimulant, by others it is thought always to cause depression. Small amounts of alcohol may bring about an increased sense of well-being and a general feeling of cheerfulness which is most pronounced when the lights are bright, and the company congenial. Larger quantities induce incoordination of speech and movement, whereas still larger quantities result in complete anesthesia which may be fatal to the individual. For the first few minutes after taking alcohol, it has been found that a larger quantity of physical work may be performed. This is followed, however by a period of depression during which the quantity of mechanical energy which may be expended by the individual is greatly reduced. The sum total of the effect is very decidedly to reduce the amount of mechanical work which can be accomplished during the day. It is on this account that alcohol is no longer given to soldiers on the march in the hope of increasing their endurance. The actual result would be quite the contrary. Experiments regarding the action of the brain after taking alcohol as compared with its action before taking alcohol have been made by Kraepelin. Typesetters were used as subjects. It was found that those who had taken alcohol made a greater number of errors and worked less rapidly than those who were abstemious. Kraepelin has found that this effect lasts as long as twenty-four hours after alcohol has been taken. Curiously enough, those who had taken alcohol thought they were doing their work to better advantage than those who had not.—Professor Graham Lusk of Cornell Medical College, in the Popular Science Monthly.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I heard something the other day which made me fairly sick at heart with horror and disgust. A certain married man—I hate to give him that name, but must for purposes of convenience—was going about telling his men friends and generally circulating the story that a young girl, with whom he has been seen a good deal of late, is perpetually chasing him up and begging him to take her to dinner, walk to the train with her, etc.

This is the girl's side of the story, which, of course, has not received any such general circulation. The man has told how unhappy he is at home, that he is not understood, that she is one of the rare creatures who can understand him, that it is not just because he made the mistake of marrying a woman not suited to him that he should be entirely denied the stimulus and inspiration of her society, there is no possible harm in her going to dinner with him at a reputable restaurant occasionally or letting him walk to the station with her, and that people who would talk about her are evil minded and not worth noticing.

The girl is at heart a nice little girl, who wants to do what is right and has no real idea of the desolate wilderness into which the primrose path she is treading may lead her.

Of course, she knows in a general way that it is something of which mother would not approve, but mother is so old-fashioned she justifies herself that you can't always tell by what she thinks. And there she has been so lonesome and worked so hard, and had so little fun since she came to the city, and he is the first man who has been especially kind to her, and the diversion of his friendship and kindly attentions, the delight of having something to look forward to from day to day, has gradually become very important to her. The wrong is partly glossed over by his specious arguments and partly by her feelings that she is really of use to him. And for the rest—well, loneliness and overwork are not very good as stimulants of the moral sense.

That she hasn't the vaguest notion of the abominable and utterly unfounded story he is circulating about her goes without saying. Poor, foolish little girl!

How I wish that you and all your poor foolish little sisters who trust men like this one so blindly might see your true positions for a moment! I think it would mean some pretty sharp, short stops for you and some pretty hard croppers for some of the cads if you could.

Of course, you each think that the particular man who is being a philistine friend with you is really and truly to be trusted and holds you in honor as dearly as his own.

Listen, girls. Why should this man who is betraying his wife, the mother of his children, the woman he has every reason to love and honor—and in your heart of hearts you must acknowledge that if you were that wife you would certainly resent and regard as a betrayal the way he talks and acts to you—why should he be any more faithful and honorable in his treatment of you?

No, you don't think your particular man would be capable of saying that you were running after him. Perhaps not.

And yet, again, there is the chance that he is saying that or something worse.

Is it a chance that you care to take?

Ruth Cameron

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex, should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds these distasteful examinations as generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

Fads and Fashions.

colored grounds are in high favor. One of the most useful hats for travelling or country wear is suede Fichus and sashes and scarfs are the present hallmarks of the lingerie frock. Fine serges are seen everywhere both in fine twill and in herringbone effects. Volles are in great demand and are seen in plain and printed or fancy effects. Smoking is one of the most artistic and effective decorations for children's frocks. White holsey and shoes can only be worn with the all-white or floral and white fabrics. The latest novelty in velvets is a rust shade veil, which is exactly the color of rusted iron. Bordered cottons made up crosswise do not set as well as when made up lengthwise. There are lovely bags of white velvet decorated with narrow stripes done in black beads. Patent leather belts in black, blue red or white are to be a stylish finish for linen frocks. In embroideries, a special tendency has been noticed in the direction of Egyptian styles.

OBITUARY.

After an illness of seven weeks, Esther Whalen, wife of Michael Whalen, of Salmonier, north, died on Good Friday, leaving a husband, one son and four daughters to mourn the loss of an affectionate wife and mother; funeral, took place at 3.30 p. m. Easter Sunday. Interment was at Mount Carmel. Salmonier, April 21, 1911.

Nervous?

Let your doctor prescribe the medicine. He knows best. The fact, however, that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has such strong tonic properties, and is entirely free from alcohol, may make it precisely to his liking. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Modern Crusoes

There has been more than one attempt on the part of modern Crusoes to isolate themselves from the world. A Spaniard named Rodriguez settled, in 1884, on an islet off the south-west coast of Cuba, taking solemn oath that there he would remain until his death. He kept his vow for two years; and but for a cyclone, accompanied by a tidal wave, which destroyed his tent and entire stock of provisions, he would undoubtedly have remained till his death. He was on the point of starvation when rescued, and he was much against his will, removed from his islet.

One of the most interesting attempts at self-exile whereof there is any record was that made by one Mackintosh, a religious fanatic, but an exceptionally energetic man, whose head-strong conduct brought him into conflict with the authorities of Sydney, Australia. He disappeared from that city and was found a year later on an uninhabited island of the Marquesas group in the West Indies. How he got there was not known; but he had made good use of his time, for he had cultivated a small tract of land, erected a neat cabin, and maintained a score of pigs. He resolutely refused to quit his little kingdom, declaring ironically that he preferred to "rule pigs than be ruled by them."

A wager was the cause of the voluntary exile of one Moma Lebedieff, an officer in the Czar's Guards, who left St. Petersburg in 1900 for Red Island, in Udeksaya Bay, in the Sea of Okhotsk, where he undertook to remain a whole year. The difficulty in winning the wager lay in the frightful climate of the island, which is in the same latitude as Central Kamchatka. Lebedieff lived alone for six months; but in January, 1901, being unable to withstand the cold, then at its worst, he abandoned the attempt. After enduring frightful hardships, he succeeded in reaching Nikolaievsk, at the mouth of the Amur River. Sooner than spend the remainder of the winter in the awful darkness and solitude of Red Island, he paid his opponent thirty-five thousand dollars.

In the '80's, an Englishman named Chandler lived alone on an islet of the Ladrone group, in the Pacific, for a year and a half. Chandler, an avowed misanthrope, threatened to shoot the man who should invade his domain. For sixteen months he lived on the fruits and herbs grown upon the islet. Then he went mad. The master of the American trading barque Louisa, when six miles west of the island, observed Chandler through a glass, capering and dancing stark naked. He took the exile aboard and landed him at Manila. When Chandler succeeded in insisting on returning to his islet. He left San Francisco in 1884, and was never more heard of.

An island in the Sea of Aral, near the mouth of the Oxus, was the strange place of refuge selected by one Zingler, a Berlin fur trader of considerable wealth, who, to use his own words, "suffered from civilization sickness."

In 1895, Zingler repaired to the island in the Sea of Aral, and gave to it the name of "Eternity," as it was part of his doctrine that only by self-communion could man attain to perfection fitting him for immortal life.

In 1905, Signor Cortesi, a highly esteemed merchant of Milan, announced that he had found a modern Garden of Eden somewhere in the Adriatic, and proposed, in the company of his wife, to establish himself there permanently. Accordingly he completed arrangements to take up his Crusoe-like existence, and so far as is known, he is still there.

Girls Receive $1000.

Canton, Ohio, April 15.—Samuel Rudy, 56 years old, a bachelor, who is said to be worth $200,000, and with no near relatives, to-day drew up a will in which he made ten young women employed in the County court-house offices beneficiaries to the extent of $1,000 each. Rudy met the girls during the long litigation in the courts over the question as to whether he was able to take care of his own property, in which he was finally the victor.

The Parliament Bill.

For some few days the House of Commons has had under consideration clause two of the Parliament Bill. It is around this clause that the main political battle is being waged. On clause one the fight was but perfunctory, as the protagonists of the House of Lords do not seriously contest the principle embodied in this section which renders rejections and amendments of Money Bills passed by the House of Commons and sent up to the House of Lords, at least a month before the close of the session imperative.

Under such circumstances, after the lapse of a month from the sending up to the House of Lords, the bill is to be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament, on the Royal Assent being signified, although the House of Lords has not consented to the bill.

Clause II, deals with any bill not included in Clause I. This second clause purports to place a limit of time and other circumstances on the power of the House of Lords to prevent a bill becoming a statute.

The clause does not apply to any bill sent up to the House of Lords within one month of the close of the session. In regard to these, it is not proposed to curtail the power of the Lords. To take advantage of this clause when it becomes law, the Government must send bills up to the Lords at least one month before the session closes. In regard to these, if the Lords reject them for two successive sessions, a rejection will prevent the bill becoming law; but if the Lords reject a bill in a third successive session and the bill is presented to the King, it becomes law, although the Lords have not consented to it, but to give it the force of law, two years must have gone by since its first introduction into the House of Commons. It is on this clause that the main battle is being fought, but the issue of the battle is a foregone conclusion. Last fall the Bill passed the House of Commons, and on the House of Lords playing for delay in considering it, the Government dissolved and went to the country on it and came back with a big majority pledged to put it through.

Under such circumstances, after the lapse of a month from the sending up to the House of Lords, the bill is to be presented to His Majesty and become an Act of Parliament, on the Royal Assent being signified, although the House of Lords has not consented to the bill.

New Seamen's Home.

Mr. W. A. O'D Kelly, representing W. J. Ellis, has upwards of one hundred men employed at the erection of the new Seamen's Home which is being erected for Dr. Grenfell on Water Street east. This force will be considerably increased as the work proceeds. Having every facility for the doing of this kind of work with electric concrete mixers, etc., this firm intends to rush this building to completion.

Tory Treatment.

People who were passing that way say that on Monday night, shortly after midnight, the attendant who looks after patients going to hospital could be seen going towards the institution with a poor woman, a patient, evidently, and who had come from the train. Both were walking in the teeth of a blizzard with a biting N.E. wind and the unfortunate female must have suffered greatly. Certainly a cab could have been procured to get the poor woman to hospital instead of subjecting her to so much misery. However, she was poor and friendless and therefore the Plenic Party did not pay much attention to her.—Com.

Annual Meeting at Cathedral Parish.

At the annual meeting of the Cathedral Parish on Monday night, the Rector, Canon White, presided. Hon. S. D. Blandford made a touching reference to the loss sustained by the parish by the death of Mr. Edward Davey. The Rector also spoke of the good work done by the deceased.

The report of the Finance Committee was received and adopted. The following Committee for 1911 was elected: Messrs. N. Snow, P. E. Outerbridge, F. C. Grant, J. Carbery, W. Hitchcock, Andrews and W. Godden, with power to add to their numbers.

Select Vestry Committee: Sir W. H. Horwood, Hon. S. D. Blandford, S. G. Collier, W. M. Clapp, W. B. Grievie, Dr. Hallett, G. A. Hutchings, E. M. LeMessurier, J. Outerbridge, A. S. Rendell, G. R. Williams, J. Withers. Auditors: Messrs. G. A. Hutchings and E. M. LeMessurier. Synod Representatives: Messrs. W. B. Grievie and G. Davey. Cemetery Committee: Messrs. S. G. Collier, W. N. Gray and F. The carmen of Quidi Vidi had to turn out yesterday and shovel the snow off the road on the south side of the Lake. It was the greatest snow blockade of the winter. The school mistress, Miss Doyle, who left home to go to the school at Quidi Vidi, had to return, not being able to get down.

"England's Noble Inheritance."

The King's Reply to a Bible Deputation—The Most Valuable Thing in the World.

In receiving at Buckingham Palace recently, a representative deputation, which presented to His Majesty an address on the occasion of the tercentenary of the Authorised Version of the Bible in England, and a specially bound copy of the Book, the King made the following reply:—"It has given me sincere pleasure to receive this deputation and to learn that it represents the joint celebration by the English-speaking people of the issue of 1611 of that world-famous translation of the Bible into our tongue, which has ever since been known as the Authorised Version. The happily chosen words of the address bring home to us all the profound importance of that event. The labours of the translators, and of my ancestor King James I., who directed and watched over the undertaking, deserve to be held in lasting honour. This glorious and memorable achievement, coming like a broad light in the darkness, gave freely to the whole English-speaking people the right and the power to search for themselves for the truths and consolations of our Faith, and during 300 years the multiplying millions of the English-speaking races, spreading ever more widely over the surface of the globe, have turned in their need to the grand simplicity of the Authorised Version and have drawn upon its inexhaustible springs of wisdom, courage and joy. It is my confident hope, confirmed by the widespread interest your movement has aroused, that my subjects may never cease to cherish their noble inheritance in the English Bible, which, in secular aspect is the first of national treasures, and, as you truly say, in its spiritual significance the most valuable thing that this world affords. THE ADDRESS. The address from the deputation stated: We remember with special thankfulness that it is your Majesty's illustrious ancestor, King James I., who appointed companies of scholars to revise the English Bible in the light of the best Hebrew and Greek texts available in their days, and after a careful comparison of earlier versions in English and in other tongues. The growth and strength of the Empire owe much to the English Bible. It has sweetened home life; it has set a standard of pure speech; it has permeated literature and art; it has helped to remove social wrongs and to ameliorate conditions of labour; it has modified the laws of the land and shaped the national character, and it has fostered international comity and goodwill among men. Above all, the English version of the Bible has made accessible to us the revelation of God our Father in His Son Jesus Christ our Lord. We feel that the indebtedness of the British people to this Book is so great that the tercentenary of its version, which has been treasured through three centuries, should be observed as a national thanksgiving, especially as it happily coincides with the year of your Majesty's Coronation. We praise God not only for the benefit of the Bible to past generations, but also because the truths, as long as they are made the standard of life, will preserve the glory of our Empire through generations to come. THE DEPUTATION. The Archbishop of Canterbury headed the deputation, which also included:—The Bishop of London. The Bishop of Southwark. Rev. Charles Brown, President of the National Free Church Council. Rev. C. Silvester Horne, M. P., Chairman of the Congregational Union. Rev. John Hornbrook, President of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference. Rev. S. S. Henshaw, President of the Primitive Methodist Conference.

Disaster to N.W. Expedition. Dawson, Yukon, April 18.—The bodies of the mounted policemen who set out on December 22nd from Fort MacPherson for Dawson were found not far south of MacPherson by the relief expedition which left Dawson on Feb. 1st. The men of the ill-fated expedition, which was under the command of Capt. F. J. Fitzpatrick, of Halifax, and including Constables Carter, Kinzel and Taylor, perished on the banks of Peel River after their supplies had given out and they had eaten their dogs. The relief expedition took the bodies to MacPherson and returned to Dawson, arriving here yesterday.

Two Men Killed in Row at Glace Bay.

Special to Evening Telegram.

GLACE BAY, April 25.—A tragedy occurred here last night at a labour meeting, resulting in the shooting of William Bryant, miner, and Michael Murphy. Bryant was instantly killed and Murphy died tonight. James McLellan, Labour organizer, was addressing a meeting when a man persisted in interrupting. Fred Beal, prominent in labour circles, started to leave the hall for a policeman. He was struck by Murphy, who was a friend of the man who had been interrupting. A scuffle ensued during which Beal fired three shots from a revolver. One lodged in Murphy's stomach and another took effect in Bryant's heart. Beal has been arrested.

Ploughing Through Amendments.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-Day.—Yesterday the session of the House was again continued to the small hours of the morning. It was notable for the reason of the Prime Minister favouring the so-called "Kangaroo" clause of the procedure, whereby whole pages of amendments of the Parliament Bill for the curtailment of the powers of the House of Lords can be skipped at the Chairman's discretion. An important amendment, proposing a joint session of the two houses in cases of disagreement was opposed by Premier Asquith on the ground that such a plan would always give the House of Lords the last word in legislation. In his opinion it would be impossible to devise a scheme which would not place the representative body at the mercy of the Second Chamber. This amendment and another proposing instead of a joint session a conference of ten members in each house, were both rejected by large majorities. After this number of amendments, selected by the Chairman, for the most part proposing various modifications and delay in the curtailment of the powers of the House of Lords, were rejected after the application of the clause.

Only to Establish Order

Special to Evening Telegram.

CASABLANCA, April 25.—A proclamation has been issued to the rebellious tribesmen stating that France does not intend to occupy new territory, but merely to assure the safety of foreigners and to re-establish order under the authority of the Sultan. If it will end the rebellion, France will stop the march of troops towards Fez; otherwise the French Government will be obliged to pacify the country and punish the leaders of the revolt.

Likely More Schrs. Were Robbed.

When the police yesterday read the extensive report in the Telegram as to the robbery of Mr. Dally's watch, and the breaking into the cabin of the schr. Ermine, they were not surprised as these vessels are left here in the stream winter after winter and none to look after them. They think it not at all unlikely that the thief who ransacked this vessel visited others and stole what he could lay hands on. About 3 years ago a man named Seymour made a thorough search of all the schooners lying up in the harbor and committed extensive thefts on them, stealing rope, canvas and everything of value he could lay hands on. He, however, was captured by the police and did a long term in jail.

Change Island Tit-Bits.

Spring has come again, and along the water front men are busy preparing for the coming fishery. Some of the skippers experience a difficulty in getting crews for their schooners, the fishery being so bad last year that they are afraid to take the risk of going another year.

Several of our men who were at work during the past winter at Grand Falls and Millertown have returned. They have made good wages, and rather than go to the fishery some of them have chosen to return again.

Mr. F. E. Earle has gone to Montreal to have an operation performed on his neck. He is suffering from cancer. We learn from friends that he is doing fine, and expects to be back within a few weeks.

Some of our men were out in the S. S. Newfoundland, and owing to the quarantine they will be late in getting ready for the fishery.

Mr. Ronald Moores has left for St. John's to fit-out the schooner "Bessie R." for coasting and trading during the summer months.

Two of our schooners have left for the ice in quest of seals. Mr. John Elliott in the "Tugela" with fourteen men, sailed on April 8th, and Mr. Alex. Scammell in the "Star of Hope" with ten men, sailed on April 10th. Mr. Arthur Scammell's schooner, "Gertie May" is also ready to sail, as soon as the wind is favourable. If these schooners come up with any seals the men may make fair wages.

Cart Horse Wins $2,495 for Driver

Boston, April 15.—Glistening coins and crumpled bills to the amount of $2,495 greeted the eyes of Peter J. Pitts, a teamster, when a restless cart horse backed a wagon over a discarded lounge which had been thrown out into an East Boston street.

Pitts was in the act of loading refuse from some old buildings, which were being torn down, when a wheel of the wagon broke the lounge to bits. A bundle wrapped in cloth fell out. Pitts opened it carelessly, but when his eyes rested on the coins and bills he shouted and workmen employed in tearing down the structures rushed to the scene.

Pitts gave the laborers a share of the money and a holiday was at once declared on the whole job. No clue to the original owner of the money has been found.

Another Assault.

Only a couple of days ago we referred to an indecent assault which occurred on the Topsail Road, a young girl being the victim, and it is now our unpleasant duty to record another of even more glaring character. From what we can learn a domestic in a residence on LeMarchant Road was plowing up Barter's Hill about 10 o'clock Friday night when a man met and spoke to her, and when they came to a quiet part of the thoroughfare, she alleges he caught her and maltreated her. She says she attempted to cry out but he placed his hand over her mouth and prevented her doing so. The police we learn have been apprised of the affair, and if the man is found and convicted he will do a time in jail.

Had Free Fight.

At 3 p.m. yesterday two men had a free fight on Duckworth Street, and on seeing officers Stanford and Thompson approaching they fled. The more disorderly of the two ran away and took refuge in a forge on York Street, but the police secured him. When the man reached Duckworth Street he fought like a lion and had to be handcuffed. He was with great difficulty taken to the station.

Fogota Here.

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. Horwood, arrived here from Fortune Bay yesterday to Crosbie & Co., where she had been doing the route of the S. S. Susu the past four or five weeks. She made three trips around Fortune Bay, and during the past fortnight had very adverse weather. Last week the Fogota went to Louisburg and brought back a load of bunker coal. Capt. Horwood had to make a detour of 45 miles out towards "Quero" Bank in order to get clear of the Gulf Ice. The run from St. Jacques to Louisburg was made in 50 hours. She brought a small quantity of freight and a few passengers.

Concert at Synod Hall.

A fairly large audience was present at the concert given by Miss Phoenix Jordan's pupils last night in the Synod Hall. A musical sketch entitled "An Old Maid's Tea," that followed the concert was very enjoyable. Those who took part were:—Misses Ellis, Pike, Pippy, Worsley, Alsop and Worsley did their parts very cleverly. The vocal and instrumental items in the regular programme included solos by Misses Alsop, Worsley, Pike, Jordan, Fever, A. Pippy and Master J. Foley; vocal duet by Miss Pike, Miss Jordan; vocal duet by Miss Pippy and Master Foley; piano, solo, Miss Pippy; instrumental trio, Misses Pippy, Bearn and Jones.

The teacher, Miss P. Jordan, and her pupils deserve to be congratulated on their success.

Murder Panic in a French Church.

Paris, April 15.—The old saying that it takes seven tailors to make a man was tragically disproved in Paris this morning, when a journeyman tailor, after murdering his wife, wounded two policemen and seven other people before he was made prisoner.

The story is a sordid one. Clement Bocheher married his wife, Jeanne, two years ago. He ill-treated her, and a month ago she left him. For the last fortnight Bocheher, who knew his wife's address, had made appeals to her by letter, and had waited at her door for her on her return from work to beg her to come back to him. Five days ago he threatened her. This morning he broke into her room and killed her.

Jeanne Bocheher had a room in the Rue des Graviillers, near the Boulevard St. Martin. At half-past seven this morning there was a knock at her door. It was too early for the post, and when, in answer to her cry "Who is there?" she heard her husband's voice say, "Open!" Jeanne Bocheher pushed a table up against the door, pushed her box underneath it, and heaped chairs on it.

She was mad with fear, and she had reason to be frightened. She rushed to the window. Her husband thundered on the door, and then smashed a panel, tore out another and clambered into the room over the barricade.

He rushed straight at her, and the shrieking woman saw a butcher's knife in his upraised hand. The gleaming blade was the last thing she saw except her husband's furious face above her own.

The knife fell six or seven times with terrible effect, and one of the blows severed the carotid artery of the unfortunate woman. Dying though she was, Jeanne Bocheher dragged herself out of the room and called for help.

Help came, but too late for her. She had only time to point down stairs and say "My husband," and died.

Bocheher had run down the stairs and got out of the house unnoticed but the concierge and another man who had rushed up at his wife's call for help, now ran after the murderer shrieking, "L'assassin!" as they ran.

No cry raises a bigger crowd in Paris than the cry of murder, for it is known to be unfortunately no exaggeration here. A great crowd rushed along the narrow street in hot pursuit of Bocheher.

Still carrying his dripping knife he lunged furiously at all who tried to stop him. He cut the finger of one man, ran his knife through the shoulder of another, tripped up three or four men and women—for even women threw themselves in his way—and doubling this way and that up and down the streets which run behind the boulevard, rushed at the corner of the Rue du Temple into the Church of Notre Dame de Lorette, where early Mass was being celebrated.

In the church Bocheher knocked down two men who tried to lay hands on him, stabbed the handle in the face, and escaped through a side door out into the street again.

There two policemen rushed at him. He kicked one and stabbed the other in the arm, but just as he broke away and ran again the crowd closed in around him and threw him down.

Eczema for Nine Years

Zam-Buk Works Another Great Cure.

Another wonderful cure of the dread scourge, eczema, by the great herbal balm, Zam-Buk, is reported from Montreal by Mr. Thos. Amesse, of 600 St. Timothee St. He says: "For about nine years my son, Emile, was a great sufferer from eczema. The disease broke out on his face and arms, which were covered with sores. These would scale over for a time, but would then break open again and cause him terrible agony. At other times they would itch and burn, and it was impossible for him to refrain from scratching.

"We tried salves, and soaps, and preparations of all kinds, but it seemed that we could get nothing to benefit him. This state of affairs went on during nine long years, and you can well imagine the agony he suffered!

Zam-Buk was recommended to us, but we feared it would prove useless! We got a supply, however, and it was not long before we found out its virtues. It eased the pain and removed the irritation. Then it began to heal the sores, until bit by bit the patch got less and less. The skin which was cracked and sore became soft and smooth, and in the end every trace of the disease was banished."

Not only for eczema, but for ulcers, blood poisoning, bad leg, varicose ulcers, itch, salt rheum, scap sores, children's rashes and piles, Zam-Buk and Zam-Buk Soap constitute a certain cure. The soap is fine for baby's bath! It cures pimples, rashes and aches those chafed, inflamed patches. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Soap at 25c. a tablet, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price.

Strikes Prohibited.

Special Evening Telegram.

MELBOURNE, To-Day.—New labor legislation will be brought forward by the Commonwealth Government—A Wages Board will be created and industrial arbitrations, with courts of appeal to settle appeals. Strikes will be prohibited. Strikers who refuse to recognize the courts, provided for the settlement of disputes, will be fined.

Theft at Consolidated Foundry.

Yesterday the Telegram exclusively stated that a larceny had occurred at a large industrial establishment on Hamilton Street. This was the Consolidated Foundry Co. For some time past the manager, Mr. W. S. Cornick, has been aware that coal has been missing from the building, but could not discover how it was occurring. Recently he and his brother, Mr. John Cornick, decided to watch the place at night, withholding their intention even from the night watchman on the premises. Both men were soon rewarded in catching the thieves red-handed while they were about to carry some of the coal away. They proved to be the son of the night watchman and a man who is a boarder in the son's house. The Messrs. Cornick believed that the men were acting in collusion with the night watchman who is 69 years old. The three men were arrested yesterday under warrant, but the old man was released last night the police not wishing to keep him in the cells. The thefts covered a period of over 5 months, and the men will appear in court to-day. Several tons of coal were stolen.

Wonderful Religious Procession.

New York, April 15.—The Post's London special says: "London looked curiously continental this Good Friday, owing to the brilliant south European weather, the closed shops, the holiday dresses and the influx of dusky foreigners, but principally owing to the extraordinary religious street procession which wended its way from Trafalgar Square to St. Paul's Cathedral. It was made up of the Bishop of London, his suffragan bishops, 200 priests in vestments, several Anglican monks in habits similar to those worn by the Franciscans in the Roman Catholic Church, 3,000 laymen and many surpliced acolytes. During the slow and solemn march through the street crosses were carried, hymns were sung and litanies were chanted. The procession was a success throughout and was watched by large and reverent crowds.

"A similarly fine medieval procession was seen at St. Paul's on Maundy Thursday, when the brilliant Yeomen of the Guard and the Children of the Alms were present. On Tuesday there was an enormous congregation at St. Paul's to listen to a magnificent rendering of Bach's Cassion music.

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.

It is a common error to suppose that the body is made of many parts, but few of them really exist. It is simply a mass—a break down of the old forces of the substance system. No matter what may be its cause (for they are all the same) the result is the same: a sense of prostration or weakness, deep sense of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what is also absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigor.

Missing Furs. Sensational Case.

Mr. Stephen Taylor, of Bonne Bay, is now in town. He sent seven bags of valuable furs from Bonne Bay to fur dealers in London during the past winter via St. John's by parcel post. He received a letter in March saying that only four bags had been received. The other three, worth thousands of dollars, were missing. Mr. Taylor wrote again to the consignee and to the Post Office but could get no information. He came on to the city a few days ago and on going to the Post Office an enquiry was made by order of the P. M. G. The result was that the three missing bags were found under a lot of mail bags in the basement.

Became Insane.

Mrs. Norris, of Island Cove, was stricken suddenly with insanity Tuesday week and in a few hours became a raving maniac. She threatened to kill her children and had to be tied down with a rope. Uncle Walt THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

I stood in the sweet, soft gloaming, alone by the pasture bars, and there, with deep emotion, I gazed at the glowing stars, and my bosom was filled with yearning for better and higher things. MEDITATIONS and I wished that my soul might journey up there on its shining wings. To roam in the maze of planets! To follow the starry track! Then a bag of sand from an airship fell on me and broke my back. I stood on the frozen river, and thought of the prisoned stream, that journeyed along beneath me, shut out from the sunlight's gleam. "How much like my own existence," I mused, "is this river's flow! Shut out from the rays of sunshine, and doomed to the dark below! How much like this sudden river, concealed from Dame's Nature's smiles—" Then I stepped in an unseen air-hole, and drowned in a dozen styles. Wherever I pause to ponder on problems that vex the soul, catastrophes always happen, and put me deep in the hole. And so I shall cease to question the streams and the heavens dumb; I'll kick up my heels and gambol, and take things just as they come.

In the Police Court.

In the Police Court to-day a drunk was fined $1 or 3 days.

Two men who worked there, pleaded guilty to the larceny of coal from the Consolidated Foundry Coy. during the past 4 months and were each fined $10 or 30 days. It was their first offense.

The case against the night watchman was not pressed but we learn that the man has been dismissed from his position.

A drunk and disorderly was fined $5 or 14 days. Four owners of unlicensed dogs paid their fees. An Outer Cove man summoned a neighbour for breach of the Fishery Laws in setting his trap nearer to plaintiff's than the required 80 fathoms. The case was postponed until to-morrow.

Pilot Badly Hurt.

Pilot Wm. Vinnicombe has been laid up the better part of the winter and was under the care of Dr. Mitchell until recently. While boarding the Almeriana on the 13th of January in the Narrows, and while a storm and heavy sea prevailed, he lost his footing and went overboard. He was fully ten minutes in the water, was chilled and drenched, and to make matters worse, before he was rescued the pilot boat hit him repeatedly, breaking a bone of his chest, and though he piloted the ship to port wet as he was, he had to go quickly home after landing and get the services of a doctor. He is now fully recovered.

Had $200,000 on Him When Arrested.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 15.—An elderly man found by the police last night while wandering about the streets with $200,000 worth of securities and valuable jewellery in his possession, to-day was identified as Dr. Halzey J. Howe, a retired dentist of Dunkirk, N.Y.

Dr. Howe until to-day denied that he was in Pittsburgh, Pa. He told the police that when found last night he was hunting for the home of a friend on High Street of that city.

Confession of A Millionaire.

It is seldom that a millionaire will consider much less admit for a moment, that perhaps his fortune has not come to him without injury and injustice to the community in general. But one millionaire, at least, is not afraid to tell the public that he is convinced that unless the people's rights were infringed neither he nor any of the other great figures in the financial world could have reached their present position. Mr. Joseph Fels, the man who makes this confession, is a self-made man. His present great fortune was made legally enough. But Mr. Fels is not satisfied with the legal aspect of the case. He has given the whole question deep thought, and he makes the amazing declaration that the millionaires in the United States, himself included, have grown wealthy by a general method of swindling people. The Morgans, Rockfellers, Carnegies, Goulds and others are included in this indictment.—Ottawa Citizen.

Abused The Court And Got Six Months.

New York, April 15.—The night court here was treated to an unusual sensation just before midnight when Dominick Hearn, a Brooklyn resident, was fined $10 for disturbing the peace. Hearn was ill-pleased with the court's decision and expressed his opinion in a loud tone. "You'll wait a long time for that $10, Four Eyes," he shouted to the spectators. "I'll change that fine and send you to the workhouse for twenty days," said the magistrate. "Aw, gwan, make it more," said the prisoner. "One month," replied the court. "Once more," shouted Hearn. "Two months," shouted the magistrate. "Do it again," sneered Hearn. "Six months," adjudicated the court. Hearn then demanded a year and expressed his opinion of the court in caustic terms. It took three policemen to remove him from the court room. "I wish I could have made it a year," said the magistrate. "Unfortunately six months is the limit."

Wedding Bells.

MCDONALD-BLANDFORD At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Katie Blandford, eldest daughter of Capt. Arch Blandford, of the S. S. Home, was married to Mr. Kenneth Macdonald, chief engineer of the S.S. Adventure and eldest son of Dr. Macdonald of Salvage. The Rev. Mr. Sutherland of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church officiated at the pleasing and interesting ceremony which was held in the drawing room of Capt. Blandford's residence, 88 Circular Road. The bridesmaids were Miss Mame Macdonald, sister of the groom and Miss Mona Blandford, sister of the bride, whilst Mr. Charles Edgar, a first cousin of the groom and a popular official of the Newfoundland Express Co., most pleasantly performed the duties of best man. The pretty young bride was neatly dressed in a costume of cream broadcloth, handsomely trimmed and braided, and displayed also a beautiful bouquet of orange blossoms. The pretty bridesmaids were also charmingly arrayed in cream silk dresses, whilst the neat attire of the groom, his best man, and the assembled company, as well as the handsome array of room decorations all tended to enhance the prettiness of the happy scene and event. The groom presented his fair young bride with a splendid gold watch and chain, a masterpiece of the jeweller's art, and also gave to each of the bridesmaids an elegant gold brooch. The guests present at the ceremony consisted of a number of near relatives of the young married couple, both. At the conclusion of the marriage ceremony a wedding repast was held in which all present took part, until 5 p.m. when the bridal party and guests left in several Victoria carriages for the railway station driving via Monkstown Road, Queen's Road and Water Street. At 6 o'clock the young married couple embarked on the express to Carbonara where they will spend the honeymoon and be guests at McCarthy's hotel there until Saturday when they return to the city again by the afternoon train of that day. Here they will reside in their comfortable and newly furnished home at No. 2 Mullock St. The presents to the wedded couple included many expensive and useful pieces of silverware, fancy ware and other valuable articles of domestic and ornamental utility. There will be numerous well wishers, including the Telegram, that Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald will have a long, happy and a prosperous matrimonial voyage together.

McMurdo's Store News.

WEDNESDAY, April 26, '11. Everyone who has a garden should reserve some space for flowers, even if it be only a plot. Flower culture represents the less utilitarian side of ground culture, but is not by any means the least interesting, or even the least useful portion of the art. Children, especially, are easily interested in horticulture, and it is a good training to encourage them to do a little gardening. A great point about Sutton's Flower Seeds is that they are carefully and skillfully selected, and you are not likely to find all your time and trouble wasted if you insist on obtaining Sutton's Flower Seeds. We have a great variety of flower as well as vegetable seeds, and invite everybody to call for a catalogue, and select their seeds from that.—adv.

TO H.M. THE KING
BY SPECIAL WARRANT OF APPOINTMENT
TO H.M. THE PRINCE OF WALES

Trinity East Progresses
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper to make a few remarks about the doings at Trinity East during the winter and spring.
On Dec. 28th, the Women's Sewing Class held a Sale of Work in the Parish Hall and raised $305, a record for the parish. A short time afterward a concert led by Miss Jessie Watts made $30.
On March 28th at a String Sociable $32 was raised.
On Easter Monday, a tea was held in the Parish Hall by the W. S. C. and a Lantern Show given by the Rev. W. J. Lockyer, who is always ready to give a helping hand. The proceeds amounted to $53. The total will go to the new church building fund.
Since my last note, a little criticism of my remarks by Trinity East appeared in your paper. He says my remarks are calculated to mislead the general public. Now, Mr. Editor, it is not my intention to mislead the public. What I stated was true. The writer does not state it is untrue, but he does not like the idea of the general public knowing that Trinity East is growing.

He says one of the churches referred to is the old building which has been used by church people of Ship Cove, Robin Hood, and Trinity East during the past fifty years and is still being used by all these people. Quite true. It is used today by the people of Trinity East and Port Rexton. We have built a smaller church for ourselves. But we think it is large enough for us at present. It is now ready for the congregation. When we begin to use this new church, we do not know what will be done with the old one. The new church building at the dividing line between Trinity East and Port Rexton is being built by the people of Trinity East and Port Rexton.
The railway through the town has been a profit to date. The future we cannot give account for.
Mr. Editor, I must agree with the writer about the people going over to the West Side. I say a shot a six inch, quick-firing breach-machine-gun stop them.
But I think there is a great improvement here. Once if you only wanted a paper of needles you had to go to the West Side to get them. Now we have a first class carpenter, who would almost make a needle, if we wanted him to do so. He has been here only seven or eight years.
The doctor has been here about six years. The shoemaker has been here a little longer. But judging from the number of people he has to do for, about 2,200 within the space of five miles, two or three more would find plenty of work to do.
Now, sir, this is what I call improvement and not giving the public a false idea of our growth.
Thanking you in anticipation of space.
I remain, yours truly,
TRYO.

Complaint About Road Money.
Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—Just a word or two to let the public know how things are getting on here. When the People's Party got in power some of the wise men got on the Road Board, and they had so much Government money that they did not know what to do with it. They sent people in the woods to bring out boughs and planted them on the Straight Shore, and they withdrew away. That's about all the good we get out of that, and that's the way our main line money went. Now, Mr. Editor, in the face of that the Government gave us money to build wharves, and the Board is longing to the P. P. U. used the money to the advantage of their members. If you were not a member of the P. P. U. there was no work for you. That's the sort of men we have here. When we have to help pay out part of the revenue and the money is sent to the place, we would like to know the reason we cannot get our part, and we will know before it is over.
Yours truly,

"MARY"
On the Bureau Again.
A Visit From Uncle Nath, of Spaniard's Bay—Interesting Dialogue at Mary's Headquarters.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Since meeting you last I have found out more than ever I knew about the Information Bureau. Oh, dear, I never thought it was so bad as it seems to me now. One of the most pertinent of the People's Party men told me skipper only last night that the Bureau was all right. Tom says the meaning of it is that they are going to try and get a lot of people to come from foreign places to burrow here, and when they do come I am afraid that they will undermine the whole place, and our houses and homes will fall and we will have to go away. But, my laws, my old head can't understand why they can't induce our own people to remain. If they do induce a lot of foreigners—Chinamen, niggers, Syrians, Italians and others to come, ten to one they will get bigger pay than our people, and not only that but they will soon find their way to all the important positions, even to the House of Assembly, and it is our own Newfoundlanders that will have to do the burrowing after all. But bother it, there is a knock at the door, and some person is coming to disturb me while I am trying to write you, and it is no easy task for my old brain, I assure you. But tap, tap, again, I suppose I must go.
"Well, well, well, but it is not Uncle Nath from Spaniard's Bay; how are you at all, and how is Aunt Diana and Uncle Ezekiah and all the friends; hold on and I'll put the kettle on while you telling me."
"Why, Mary, we are all well; I was very sick for a time with the grip, but I am picking up my crumbs again, now."
"Do you like eggs, nele Nath, although I suppose you have plenty up there now, as this is the meal and molasses Government, and it is great hen food."
"Oh, Mary, you're still talking politics, but really I am most tired of politics, there is nothing in it for the poor people anyway."
"But Nath, you, there ought to be something in it for the shop-keepers, especially if they are on the right side."
"So there may be, but there is nothing in it for the working man, and odds we are to worry and sometimes to lose our tempers over politics during election times. Of course we get a good bit of work our way this winter snow shovelling and so on, but it was a case of emergency we had to take our notes to the stores of certain individuals and there barter them for provisions, almost like they used to do under the old meal and molasses reign."
"Now, Uncle Nath, come over on the settle and take this good cup of hot tea, it will revive you. Why do you seem as if you were drawing towards civilization to see you coming in. How's your tea? And so the Poor Government could not afford to pay you in cash for snow shovelling. No, and that's the reason that poor man's friend Mr. Seymour, went away, because he couldn't get money enough here I am told."
"Of course we were awful glad to get the work, Mary, and as there was no money at hand we were given our notes. But it did seem like old times to go to the store with your finger in your mouth and your note in your hand. Some of the Mint Cove and Baggs' Hill men kicked about it, but you know the labourers' voice is only heard and listened to during an election time, but if I am not greatly mistaken they will make their voice heard next election."
"Hullo, Nath, boy, how be, why it's good for bunions to see you, I heard you were down and I ran up to see you and have a chat; don't you think Min is after getting fat the winter?"

Nerves Were Exhausted
Wants others to know of her remarkable cure by use of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.
Mrs. Martin's condition as described in her letter below gives some idea of the extraordinary reconstructive power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Such cures as this have placed Dr. Chase's Nerve Food where it stands today as the most popular and most effective nerve restorative that money will buy.
Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayo's Cliff, Que., writes:—"Before I began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor in a faint. I could not even sweep the floor without fainting and my nervous system seemed to be entirely exhausted."
"The use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has built up my system wonder fully so that I can do my housework and washing without any trouble, and I want others to know about it." "Yes, Tom, I think she is looking well after such a long hard spurt; you said it was good for bunions to see me down here, the bad road from here to Spaniard's Bay is also good for bunions, as I had to walk a good deal of the way down owing to an accident to my cart."
"Now, Tom, stop your foolery about me getting fat (it's the other way, Mr. Editor, there's not fat enough on me to fry one of Mr. Seymour's grubs). Let Uncle Nath tell me the news and I promise you I tell you the part you use on while hezekiah and all the friends; hold on and I'll put the kettle on while you telling me."
"Why, Mary, we are all well; I was very sick for a time with the grip, but I am picking up my crumbs again, now."

Ice Detains Steamer.
The S. S. Spica has been detained several days in port. She is ready to sail for Cherris, N. S., to load plaster for Norfolk, Va., but there being ice on that section she could not go. She sailed, however, this morning. The Kamford is now ready to leave Sydney with coal for A. J. Harvey & Co., but the port being blocked with ice she cannot leave.
PATIENTS DOING WELL.—The patients who are down with typhoid at Signal Hill Hospital are doing well, and will be all right when the disease runs its course out.

Firemen Hold Meeting.
THEY WILL DEMAND HIGHER WAGES.
A largely attended meeting of the Firemen's Protective Union was held in the British Hall last night when the question of wages of firemen who will be engaged on the Bonaventure and Belleaventure down south the coming summer was discussed. The conclusion arrived at was that, considering the nature of the service, firemen in the fruit trade should be paid $40 a month instead of $35, the pay given them last season. The firemen sailing out of Boston and New York receive $40 a month. Delegate Woods was selected to interview the steamer owners and lay the decision of the meeting before them. Local Union men, it is expected, will be engaged on the s.s. Rosalind, and s.s. Florizel and s.s. Stephano the coming season, and that all the local men will find employment without going to the West Indies at all.

Coal Very Scarce.
For the past two or three weeks coal has been very scarce in the city owing to the fact that ice conditions prevented cargoes leaving Sydney. Now that there is a sign of a change no doubt the ice will be driven off the Cape Breton coast and several cargoes will arrive here. The stuff which has been sold of late to unfortunate householders, in many cases, is not much better than dust, yet people are charged the highest figure for it. It is a pity that some other fuel cannot be utilized so that the poor may not be oppressed with such high prices for firing.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia
In all its Forms can be Cured.
It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.
Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Promenade Concert.
The intermediate girls of the Methodist College held their promenade concert in the College Hall last night. The M. G. band rendered some very fine selections during the promenade. Candles and ice cream were on sale during the night and quite a handsome sum was taken. A piano duet was rendered by Miss Tait and Miss Trappell; a vocal solo by Miss E. Mews; a sextalogue by Messrs. Fenwick and Hatcher, Misses James, Archibald, Duley and Mitchell; our drill by the intermediate class, which proved a particularly attractive exhibition. The "Poppy's Song" from the Cantata was one of the best items on the programme, and much praise is due Misses Lawrence, Duder, Mews, Matthews and Oke. Miss Hocken, the lady Principal, was heartily congratulated on the success achieved.

The Cochrane St. Athletic Association is getting busy and are now negotiating for a field to practice on during the summer. At the recent annual meeting new officers were elected, viz.: Hon. H. J. B. ### 'Paisley Flour'

The SURE raising powder.

The most digestible and enjoyable suet puddings are made by adding one part of "Paisley Flour" to eight parts of ordinary flour before mixing the dough. Steaming instead of boiling also helps to make puddings lighter.
"Paisley Flour" mixed 1 part to 12 of ordinary flour, makes delicious light piecrusts and plain pastry for tarts—no doughiness.

"Paisley Flour" is packed in 22c., 14c. and 5c. tins.
The 22c. tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise half a stone of flour.
" 14c. " 7 ozs. " 3 1/2 pounds of flour.
