A Millionaire's

Countess Westerleigh

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Vane and young Tempest entered the house, and were met by Lady Florence's maid. The bride, already attired in her white satin and Brussels lace, had watched for his coming and sent to greet him.

"Her ladyship's love, sir," said the maid; "and she will come down as soon as possible."

Vane nodded and passed into the library. As he crossed the hall, the servants noticed his haggard face, and the grave countenance of the best man, and exchanged glances and whispered comments.

"More like a funeral than a wedding," said one.

Vane nodded and passed into the study. The old man was not in the best of humors. He hated a wedding, not only because of its attendant fuss, but because it necessitated early rising and he did not get down usually till the world was well aired.

"Oh, here you are!" he said, rather shortly. "Thank the Lord, it will soon be over! I swear that if I were going to be married again—which Heaven forbid—I'd take the woman on my arm and be married at a registrar's, with his clerk for witness. How'd do, Harold? Years since I've seen you—when you were in the chicken stage—all legs and wings. You're looking—No! I'm hanged! I can say you are looking well! Wh, I'm dashed if you don't look as if you'd spent the night before the wedding as we used to in the good old times—three bottles apiece, and the bridegroom first under the table."

"Well, Lord Warlock, we've—we've had news," stammered Harold Tempest; and then he told him.

The earl was terribly shocked and upset.

"I knew it would happen!" he declared. "I always told him he'd break his neck over that cursed coaching business! And the boy, too! Oh, Lord, such a nice boy! But—He started and looked at Vane, who stood by the window, haggard and silent. "Then you are the new earl, eh, Vane? Heavens! who'd have thought you'd ever get that title!"

Vane nodded gloomily. The old man leaned back in his chair, shading his eyes with his hand for a moment or two. He looked suddenly with a start.

"But what the devil are you doing here, Vane? You ought to be at Westleigh."

Vane colored.

"The—the wedding, sir," he said, in a low voice.

"The earl stared at him aghast.

"Wedding—wedding! Why, you know there can't be any wedding to-day. What! Westleigh and his boy lying dead, and you talk of wedding! It must be put off. Harold, go and tell them the news, and send down to the church to stop those confounded bells. Wedding! You must be out of your mind to talk about such a day as this. The marriage must be put off till after the funeral at any rate."

ment or two then he looked suddenly with a start.

"But what the devil are you doing here, Vane? You ought to be at Westleigh."

Vane colored.

"The—the wedding, sir," he said, in a low voice.

"The earl stared at him aghast.

"Wedding—wedding! Why, you know there can't be any wedding to-day. What! Westleigh and his boy lying dead, and you talk of wedding! It must be put off. Harold, go and tell them the news, and send down to the church to stop those confounded bells. Wedding! You must be out of your mind to talk about such a day as this. The marriage must be put off till after the funeral at any rate."

CHAPTER XXXIX.

As Lord Warlock spoke, Lady Florence entered. She was fully dressed and looked like a queen in her nuptial splendor. It is said that a beautiful bride is an anomaly; that the dead white suits no complexion, and that a woman never looks to worse advantage than when she stands at an altar in her spotless satin and costly lace; but if it be so, then Lady Florence was the exception which proves the rule. Harold Tempest started. He thought that he had never seen a more lovely woman. She was pale—as becomes a bride—and he looked at Vane questioningly.

she was uncertain how he would receive her after the scene of last night; and when he came forward, she grasped his hand with one of hers and covered it with the other. He took no notice whatever of Harold Tempest; it seemed as if, for here were only one man in the world.

"Vane," she said, "what is it papa is saying? What does he mean by saying that the wedding must be put off?"

"You shall judge," said Vane. Harold Tempest, considering himself a trifle out of the room. "Florence, my cousin, Lord Westleigh, and his son are dead; they died yesterday."

She drew a long breath.

"Then—then you are the earl now, Vane, I—I am so glad!"

Vane drew back with something like horror in his face.

"Florence, Florence!" he said hurriedly, "you can not know what you are saying; you—you do not understand—realize."

"Yes, I do," she responded, almost fiercely. "What are he and his son to me? I am sorry that they should die, but—Oh, Vane, you are all the world to me—you are my world, and I can only be glad or sorry on your account!"

His heart sunk, ached.

"And what about the wedding being put off?"

"Why should it be—"

Her father jumped up from his chair with something like a muttered oath.

"Florence, you are beyond all conscience! Your—your selfishness is simply— Confound it all! I say the wedding hall not take place. If you haven't any sense of decency, I have, and I—I won't permit it! Why, at this moment he ought to be on his way to Westleigh. Go to your room, take off that finery and look out a black dress, and—and tell the servants to tell the people who are coming what has happened, and that the wedding is postponed."

She turned upon him almost fiercely.

"No," she cried in a low voice; "it shall not be! What are they to me?"

Then her voice broke. "Oh, papa, papa, do not let it be put off. You know—you know what they say—that a wedding postponed will never take place."

"Superstitious nonsense!" grunted the earl. "I tell you I won't have it!"

She clung to Vane's hand and appealed to him with white face and eyes distended, as it seemed, with superstitious fear.

"Vane! Vane—"

"I am ready," he said, pressing her hand. "I will go to the church with you now—we need not wait—and catch the next train after the ceremony."

"Yes!" she panted, eagerly. "Papa—"

But the earl was in a fairly royal blaze by this time. With an oath he rang the bell.

"Lady Florence's maid!" he thundered. Then he turned upon Lady Florence. "Go to your room! I say it shall not be! After the funeral, as soon as you like. And you be off, Vane Here!"—he stamped to the door and called a footman—"order the phaeton and pair, and drive Mr. Tempest—I mean the Earl of Westleigh—to the station, and drive like the devil."

Florence clung to Vane's hand for another moment, then she let it fall and turned away with half-closed eyes.

"If—if it must be!" she said, almost inaudibly; "but—facing her father, still bubbling over with wrath and gout—"but if anything happens to separate me and him, remember it is your doing!"

"Now, don't be a fool, Florence!" he stuttered. "What can happen will come back after the funeral."

She drew nearer to Vane, and held up her white face, with the singular look of dread in her eyes.

"Good-bye!" she said. "Kiss me again!"

He kissed her twice—his lips were old upon her burning ones—and she turned, and with a long look at him left the room.

"You were rough with her, sir," Vane could not help saying.

"Rough be damned!" retorted the old man. "The fact is—well, bump!—I ought not to say it to your face though it's too palpable—Florence is infatuated. I only hope it will last. If it does, I suppose you'll ill-treat her. Men always ill-treat a woman who gives herself away so completely."

"God forbid!" said Vane, sadly.

"For Heaven's sake, be off!" said the earl, impatiently. "I shall have the devil of a fit of gout after all this fuss. I wish to Heaven you were both married and out of my sight. There—there, I don't mean it, of course, only— The phaeton? Thank God!"

So Vane the bridegroom and his best man were driven swiftly to the station and away from the church, and his bride was left in her chamber to mourn alone.

Her maid had offered to remove the bridal-dress, but Lady Florence had impulsively sent her away, and leaning into a chair, sat with her face buried in her hands, the costly satin and dainty lace all crushed and crumpled.

She heard the carriages roll up and, after a short interval, roll away again, not empty, but with the amazed guests. The bells ceased ringing, and the bustle of excitement in the house lulled and sunk into what seemed to her foreboding quietude.

The wedding-day was passing away, but she was not Vane's wife. He had gone away; the wedding was postponed.

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years' Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my household work with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system. 50 cents a box, $ for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

W. Clark, Mfr., Montreal

poned. "A wedding postponed will never come to pass!" The burden rang in her ears like a knell.

Would he desert her? She knew that he did not love her, that he loved this unknown woman of whom he had told her last night. Would he desert her, Florence, now that he was wealthy and did not need her money? Would he go back to this wretched girl, this peasant wench, seamstress, dairy maid, or whatever she was?

The thought drove her almost mad. She rose at last, suddenly, as if she could not endure the silence, the solitude any longer, and with feverish haste tore off the wedding dress, slitting the lace—at so many guineas a yard—into tatters. A costume lay on the bed, a tailor-made traveling-gown, the gown in which she was to have started on her wedding tour—her honeymoon with Vane. She put it on, scarcely seeing what it was, heedlessly put on hat, and went down the stairs. The house seemed to stifle her; she felt as if the walls were closing in upon her and crushing her, as if she must escape into the fresh air or die.

Wishing Time Away.

BY BETH CANNON.

The astonishment with which the years of our life pass is something which everyone, or at least everyone over thirty, realizes. Birthdays fly by like the telegraph poles on a railway journey; the little pig-tailed girl down the street goes away to boarding school for a year or two—surely it was no longer than that—and when next we see her, she has become a young lady. The pig-tails are wound in a shining crown around her stately head and the thin little legs which used to twinkle out from under her abbreviated skirts are decorously hidden in a grown-up gown. We go away ourselves for a year or two—surely it was no longer than that——we come back again and lo, another miracle, the young lady of boarding school dignity is pushing a go-cart down the street. We wonder whose baby she has borrowed, and can scarcely believe it when our family tells us that she has been a matron for two years. And so it goes. "We come to earth to cry, we grow old and then we sigh, older still, and then we die," as the Englishman says; and all with the dazzling, breath-taking swiftness of the flash of a gull's wing, or, to be more modern, the passage of a moving picture film.

And now to the point. Since we realize that all this is so, why do we perceive all too well the evanescence of life and for the most part regret it (for while we may admit that life is all a fleeting show, most of us are eager to stay and see the show a little longer), why should we be continually wishing that some period of time would pass even more swiftly? Time, you know, is just another word for life, and yet how often one hears people wishing time away! And for what trifling reasons!

"It doesn't seem as if it could wait for the twentieth of the month," said the young lady next door. We ask her why and she explains that the magazine containing the next installment of the most fascinating novel ever written comes out on that day. "Oh, dear! It seems as if Friday would never come!" sighs the little High School girl across the way. "What's Friday? Why, I don't you know? Our big dance." Foolish little girl, to wish away even a day of the happiest time of her life!

"How I hate this autumn weather!" says a neighbour of mine, "every year it seems as if I could hardly wait for winter!" Another neighbour of the masculine persuasion, is always impatiently marking time from the twentieth to the twenty-eighth of each month. Why? Because the twentieth is about the date he runs out of money, and the twenty-eighth is pay day.

Myself, I used to hate school bitterly, and if I could have wiped away the time from Monday morning to Friday afternoon of every week I would surely have done it. In my mind I divided the school week into fifths and tenths, and rejoiced at the end of each session that I was one tenth nearer Friday.

So far as we know this is the only life we shall ever live on this earth. Let's live it, then; let's get the best out of every moment, every hour and every day, and remember that time is just another name for life, and not to be continually wishing our lives away.

Ghosts Are Observed in Tower of London.

Old Prison Where Queens and Nobles Were Beheaded is Declared to be Haunted—Strange Wraiths Walk—Spectre of Henry VIII. is Said to Show Itself to Henpecked Pensioner.

London, October 24.—If the Americans who come to London this year find time hanging heavily on their hands, they might do worse than divert themselves with ghost hunting. It is well known, of course, that the shade of the famous American lawyer Judah P. Benjamin, haunts the picturesque old temple, where as one of the most successful "K.C.'s" in the history of the English bar, he once had chambers, and now we have it on the authority of one of the leading spook experts in this country that the Tower of London, where, so many celebrities, from queens downward, lost their heads, is haunted, too, though not by as many spectres as might have been expected, considering the wholesale killing that once went on there.

Thousands visit the "temple" every year—mainly to see the grave of Oliver Goldsmith—and thousands more explore the grim old tower, with its racks and dungeons and site of the scaffold where Queen Anne Boleyn, Lady Jane Grey and the earl of Essex were beheaded, and perhaps if these visitors stayed on after night-fall, instead of going back to their respective hotels and boarding houses, and kept a sharp eye out, they might, be rewarded at the temple by a glimpse of the ghostly Benjamin, or maybe even of the ample shade of Dr. Johnson, who likewise lodged there, or, at the tower with a view of Henry the Eighth; the much-married, whose spectral form has been seen in the neighborhood at least once.

Tells of Tower Ghosts. Elliot O'Donnell, who, of course, is one of the most eminent authorities on ghosts in England, tells about the tower ghosts in the pages of our current Occult Review, and an astonishing crowd they prove to be. One of them which was "undoubtedly," according to O'Donnell, the shade of Queen Adelaide, the wife of George IV., appeared to two persons, one of them a former keeper of the crown jewels at the tower, as a "cylindrical figure, like a glass tube, about as large as one's arm and seemingly filled with a dense fluid," and another in the shape of a "huge bear" which issued from underneath the jewel-room door. "A soldier thrust at it with his bayonet, which, going right through it, stuck in the doorway, whereat he dropped in a fit and was carried senseless to the guardroom, dying on the following day."

Another grisly experience is said to have befallen a workman at the tower, some years ago. "Two masons," writes O'Donnell, "were once engaged, doing some repairs, in one of the vaults, when one of them, casting a look of the utmost terror at his comrade, threw down his tools and fled. The man who was left at first laughed, thinking, not unreasonably, that his mate had taken leave of his senses, but on glancing down at his hands, he received a shock. Instead of the fist he knew so well, he saw a white, gleaming something, covered with brown scales, and in the place of his mud-spattered corduroys, the bare and pulpy semblance of a leg. For some seconds he was too paralyzed even to think and could only stand still and stare.

Vividly Apparent. To make sure, he was not dreaming, he shut his eyes, but on opening them the metamorphosis was quite as vividly apparent. The horror of the thing then, came home to him in full force. He was no longer himself, but an abnormality, an unnamable something, nude, brown and revolting. All sorts of vile, unspeakable passions rose up within him. Like some serpent just awakened from its sleep, he bent and twisted himself and neck around first on one side and then on the other, looking for some victim, some suitable object on which to satisfy the outrageous feelings that predominated in him. "Something white attracted his attention; it appeared to be the recumbent form of a woman, clad in a filmy, white costume. Chuckling gleefully, he instantly started toward it, and covered half the distance, when a loud clatter burst upon his ears, and half of his arm, pinned him back. There was a full ringing in his ears, the far-away echoes of a strange continuous cry, and he was himself once again."

A story is told, too, of the spot where the bones of the young King

Something Digs In Soil.

One March evening, just about twilight, an official of the tower heard the sound of digging and the loose spluttering of gravel, and on turning aside saw the shadowy outlines of an enormous man, digging furiously in the soil. Much alarmed, the official drew back, and as he did so the figure swung round and faced him. When he perceived to his horror a skeleton clad in a richly fashioned garment, on the breast of which was emblazoned the royal arms, the official uttered an ejaculation, whereupon the figure vanished, though the sound of the digging continued for some seconds.

And here is a cheerful story told to the writer of the article by an aged pensioner, well-nigh twenty years ago:

"I was on duty in the Beauchamp tower," he said, "just outside the cell where Anne Boleyn was imprisoned. I was thinking of old Henry VIII, and wishing I had his luck with wives, for my one and only misgiving was as ugly as Newgate, when all of a sudden I heard my name called, and on turning round, nearly died with fright. Floating in midair, immediately behind me, was a face—God help me, it makes me shiver, even now, to think of it—round, red and bloated, with a loose, dribbling mouth, and protruding, heavy-lidded, pale eyes, alight with a lurid and perfectly hellish glow.

"I knew the face at once, for I had often seen it in the history books—'Henry VIII.

"The affair was hushed up in the usual way. We were all threatened not to breathe a word as the tower was haunted. "The oddest thing about it is that, on my return home, I found my misgiving was dead."

Sick, Sour Stomach Indigestion Or Gas

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; betch gases and acids and eructate indigestion food; breath foul, tongue's coat—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin, and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a "damage" instead of a "kick," remember the "quietest, surest, most harmless" relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

Sometimes a soft drapery will disclose two or more frownces at the footline, or a "beard" of small frills will reveal a slit in the skirt, which has been modestly filled in. To Cure a Cold in One Day. Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c. oct20m.12

Colonial Loans Have little Success.

In view of the monetary outlook abroad, and the falling revenue at home, the Government will find it difficult to raise money to complete the Branch Railway contract and to carry out the pledge to extend the railway to St. Mary's and through the Burin peninsula. The Dominion of Canada put on the market £3,000,000 of 4 per cent registered stock at 99. Fancy the great Dominion offering a registered stock below par, and offering to pay 4 per cent on it, and the public not jumping at it.

The Province of Alberta also offered registered stock to the extent of a million sterling. Alberta offered to pay 4 1/2 per cent and offered the stock at 95. In other words offering to pay 4 1/2 per cent interest on every 95.

The Empire Review for November makes this comment:—

"Five Canadian Government and Municipal issues have been offered during the month—one by the Dominion, one by the Province of Alberta, and three by cities. On the whole they have met with as little success as new issues generally, the public being still inclined to pick up such securities at the discounts to which they fall after allotment."

Turning now to another Dominion, we find the following statement as to a New Zealand issue:—

"The most interesting loan of the month was that of New Zealand. The amount offered was £3,500,000 in 4 per cent. Ten-year Debentures at 98 1/2. These debentures are convertible on favourable terms into 4 per cent. Inscribed Stock, 1943-63, which is a trustee investment. This conversion option made the issue a means of obtaining a 4 per cent. trustee security on exceptionally cheap terms. Nevertheless only 8 per cent. of the issue was subscribed by the general public, the rest going to the underwriters, and this unsatisfactory response led to a decision among the Stock Exchange underwriters of Colonial Government loans not to underwrite any further issues of this class until the large amount of undigested stock had been absorbed by investors."

The position then of the market is that the public are not taking up even Four Per Cent offered at a discount, even when offered by Governments with the great resources of New Zealand, and that for the present underwriters have decided not to underwrite any more Colonial loans. What chance would there be then for a Newfoundland loan, now the revenue is falling, the public are not investing and underwriters have called a halt generally in flotation of Colonial Government loans.

The Morris Government is hard up against it. The revenue is unsatisfactory and the Government is a Minority Government. Twenty-one members have been returned to support it by a minority of 51,000 votes. It will be faced by an active and fighting opposition of fifteen men, who will be inspired by the fact that they represent 61,000 voters, and that they represent the will of the people, so far as majority rule goes, and their duty will be to leave no stone unturned until the Majority rule. Constituencies have been stamped by sectarian appeals. The Government has been returned by the success of sectarian appeals, and the duty of the Opposition will be to fight until Right prevails and the majority rule in Newfoundland.

COULD NOT IDENTIFY REMAINS
—Two North Sydney men together with Captain Evans, who knew some of the crew of the Annie Roberts, recently sunk in the harbour, went to Glace Bay to view the body cast up on the beach at Dominion No. 6. They were under the impression that it might have been that of William Francis, of the lost vessel. But on viewing the remains it was impossible to identify them. They were so badly decomposed. — Sydney Post, Nov. 14.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES
BURNS, ETC.

Successful Captain.

Capt. Thomas Shave, a successful banking skipper of Burin, arrived in the city by Saturday night's train to attend to his fall business. Though Capt. Shave was rather late beginning operations the past season he secured a good voyage, landing 2040 quintals. His shermen made over three hundred dollars. During the latter part of the season, he had been fishing in the vicinity of Cape Pine, and while operating there secured 800 quintals for two trips. Captain Shave is a hustler and as a fisherman has few equals. He is contemplating getting a new vessel for next season.

Protection for Food Fish.

Congressman J. Charles Linthicum, of Baltimore, author of the bills proposing to give the Federal Government protecting supervision over migratory fish, makes a sharp attack upon the fish fertilizer factories in a speech which he inserted in the Congressional Record on Saturday last explaining the character of his bills and the reasons he has taken up the fight to save the food fish from extermination. Mr. Linthicum has been deluged with demands from Maryland and Virginia and other Atlantic coast States for information bearing upon his bills. He has, therefore, prepared a 10,000 word explanation of the proposed legislation, which will be sent out as a public document to persons asking for information on the subject. The Bureau of Fisheries officials helped Mr. Linthicum in the preparation of some of the data.

Regarding the fish fertilizer factories, Mr. Linthicum says: "I have no desire to do these factories the least injustice, for I admire honest industry. But when one beholds a business of this character accumulating wealth so rapidly that it is able to pay enormous dividends; when one reflects that these dividends are amassed through the taking from the water of the earth the fish that belong to us all; when in the reckless pursuit and inordinate desire to acquire this free-gotten wealth these wealthy corporations are prone to ride roughshod over the common rights of everybody, to deprive our fishermen of a smaller scale of the means of livelihood, to influence higher the already increasing cost of living, I submit that it then becomes the imperative duty of our national government to extend its protecting arm. Unfortunately, however, our scandalous wasteful destruction of food fish is not confined solely to the fish fertilizer factories."

Mr. Linthicum scores the maze of nets which prevent the spawning fish from seeking fresh water. He also quotes a number of letters from Maryland and Virginia fishermen, asking that steps be taken, to protect the fast disappearing food fish. He says that the States of Maryland and Virginia have many good laws regulating fishing in the Chesapeake, but says these laws are not enforced.

NICKEL THEATRE!

"THE CROOKED PATH," in 2 Reels.

The title of this picture practically explains itself. It is a beautifully told story, the leading characters being portrayed and enacted by such well known "silent" players as Miss Ormi Hawley, and Messrs. Halliday and August. See the mental struggle to keep on the straight path. See Rodents being used as messengers. See the escape from prison. 2 REELS.

THE MANICURIST AND THE MUTT—A particularly humorous story, showing how a bright young girl makes "wise men" foolish.

JOHNNIE GOES DUCK SHOOTING—Does he? He does! But you must see him. It is too funny to explain.

THE UNDERSTUDY—How a young country girl being anxious to go upon the stage. Eventually having an opportunity to show her ability through the result of an accident to the Leading Lady, and how she "made good." A story to the life, splendidly acted.

Balance of entertainment consists of Peculiar Songs by Aruthur Priestman Cameron, Ballads by Al. D. Fleming, and Incidental Music by Professor McCarthy.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.

Sir Lionel Carden, British Minister, to-day again reflected the support given by the British to the policy of the administration at Washington, by causing a notification to be sent to all British subjects through the Consuls in all parts of the Republic, advising them of the notice served by John Lind on Huerta, and ordering that they be ready at a moment's notice to leave for places of safety. Those in outlying places are advised to gather in large centres where escape from the country can be the more easily accomplished. Carden is said to have given O'Shaughnessy a personal assurance on the instruction from his Government of British support of Wilson's attitude toward Mexico. Huerta is unable to bring his new congress fully to life to-day. The Chamber of Deputies met and effected a temporary organization, but the Senate proved reactionary and the lack of a quorum prevented the organization. Huerta and his friends believe the greater part of their work is done because the newly created Lower House has formally, and in their opinion legally, met officially. The Senate, they think, can be induced to move into line on Monday, when the Senators will be convened again. Long after the hour fixed for the Senate to convene to-day, the roll call showed twenty-one Senators present, nearly all these being Generals in the Army. Twenty-nine are necessary for a quorum, none of the Catholic Senators were present. This is understood was by agreement among themselves that the party should not participate in the Senatorial Session. These Senators are regarded as influential and their refusal or failure to attend is regarded as significant of the attitude of the Church Party. Reports from Vera Cruz of impending friction on the part of the States, continue to be received here. To Lind, Wilson's personal representative, was attributed the statement that the American Embassy will be withdrawn on Monday and the possibility that marines will be landed at Vera Cruz.

SUEZ CANAL opened 1869. This famous canal, which shortens the passage to Bombay by 24 days, owes its existence to a French engineer M. de Lesseps. It is about 100 miles long. Tens of thousands of vessels pass through every year. England holds nearly half the shares in this great canal owing to the action of Greenwood of the "Pall Mall Gazette," who in 1875, suggested to Disraeli to buy the shares, which belonged to the Khedive of Egypt.

Straight Talk for the Fishermen.

There are to-day in Newfoundland over 125 FAIRBANKS Morse engines, all of which were in constant use this past season.
Every one of them gave perfect satisfaction and not even one cost their owners $1 for repairs since installation.

They have been operated in all kinds of weather, and have proved our claims that they run as well with water pouring over them as other makes would under ideal conditions. Quite a few have been operated on a mixture of kerosene and gasoline, whilst a considerable number gave perfect satisfaction on pure kerosene.
At the Battery, famous last year for buying engines of a certain kind, Fairbanks Morse gave perfect results this summer, and are regarded as "good engines."

We make no extravagant claims or make statements that the Fairbanks cannot substantiate, and when we say that Fairbanks Morse will be the popular engine even at Pouch Cove, we know we are stating facts.
Don't take seriously "hot air" selling talk, or pay any attention to abuse, as this latter mode of selling, lately cultivated by some, is the finest compliment that can be paid our engine by competitors. The Fairbanks Morse "Make & Break" engine is the sturdiest, most reliable, most accessible and simplest engine for a fisherman, and as to its durability, it will be running when other engines, even those of the dreadnought type, are in the scrap heap.
If Fairbanks Morse engines are no good, how comes it that there are over 134,000 in successful use to-day? If it is obsolete how is it that nearly 10,000 were sold last year, more than the total output of one largely advertised engine?
If Fairbanks Morse engines are out of date, why are they being bought now for light-houses?
You are doubtless thinking about buying an engine, so remember we ask you to buy without first inspecting an engine, so remember we don't accept dreadnoughts, and then come and look at the Fairbanks Morse running with water pouring over it. You will then realize which type is the fisherman's engine.—nov17,tt

"Sun Crowned."

God give us men? A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands. Men, whom the lust for office does not kill. Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honour; men who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue And damn his treacherous flatterings without winking; Tall men, sun-crowned who live above the fog In public duty and in private thinking.

Obituary.

The many friends of Mr. John Kearsley, will learn with regret of his death which occurred at his late residence, 37 LeMarchant Road, at 11 o'clock Saturday night, at the age of 67 years. Mr. Kearsley was a respected resident of the Higher Levels and was held in much esteem by his friends and neighbors in that part of the town as also by his acquaintances throughout the city. He died a peaceful death fortified by the last rites of the Holy Church, after an illness of a little more than a week's duration. A sorrowing wife, three sons and two daughters, one brother and two sisters are left to mourn. Two of his sons, Mr. W. J. Kearsley, a trusted employee of the J. F. Hall Co., Rumford, Maine, and John of the s.s. Stephano, are absent on this mournful occasion. To the sorrowing family, the Telegram extends sympathy in their bereavement.

Sunday at George Street Meth. Church.

MORNING SERVICE.
Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite officiated at George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning, and gave the congregation one of his old-time discourses on the fundamentals of the Christian Religion. He did not think the present age needed a new gospel or new forms of religion, but that the old doctrine of Faith and Repentance were as applicable and necessary now to the life of the Church and the spread of Christianity as they were in former years. The Rev. Doctor is always highly appreciated by the George Street congregation.

EVENING SERVICE.

The evening service was conducted by the Pastor, Rev. J. W. Bartlett. It opened with the fine old hymn, by Perrenet—the Church's Coronation hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," which with the deep tones of the new organ, gave solemnity and inspiration to the whole service. The sermon, by the Pastor, based on the words, "I am the door," was both timely and edifying. Miss Story rendered a solo in a very pleasing manner. During the service Mr. C. Steer, Secretary of the Quarterly Official Board, read correspondence relating to the appointment of a new Superintendent clergyman for George Street Church, which informed of the congregation that the Rev. J. M. Guy, of Grand Falls, had accepted the call to that position. A Service of Song then followed which was apparently very much enjoyed by all present. A very remarkable feature of last evening's service was the exceedingly large number of young people of both sexes in the audience. The youth of the West End seem to be rallying to George Street Church to hear the edifying discourses given by their beloved Pastor, whose departure they will very much regret when he removes to another field of labor. The organist Mr. G. Christian, performed splendid service at the new organ last evening.—Com.

On the Roof of the World

First Tibetan Woman to Cross Great Tibetan Plateau.

One of the most extraordinary trips ever undertaken by women travelers was the recent ride across the roof of the world—that part of the Himalayas which separates India from eastern Turkestan—by Miss E. G. Kemp and Miss McDougal of London.

They crossed mountain passes which had never before been trodden by white women travelers and owing to the proposed building of new roads would probably never be used by white women again. They met a saint of Tibet. They conversed with him, made a sketch of him, and told him the latest news of Tibet. They visited monasteries filled with figures of local saints and devils and schools of many colors.

In Leh they were received at the King's palace and provisioned themselves for the most arduous part of the journey. They took with them a cook who, when at home in Leh, was also a pillar of the church, a doctor's assistant, sportsman, hymn writer and general handy-man. He spoke English, and Miss Kemp was loud in her praise of his service. Four men servants, interpreters, eight ponies, to carry the tents, and two yaks—the latest of the stately chargers upon they rode—completed the caravan.

They started in the direction of the Pangon lake noted for its brilliant color, and ascended to a height of 18,000 feet. For one month they lived away from civilization. They passed large monasteries, and villages of poor but attractive people. The women dressed in lamb's wool head-dress, with turquoise and silver or-

Honest Goods at Honest Prices.

FAIRBANKS MORSE ENGINES being Honest engines are sold at honest prices.

To-day engines can be bought at all kinds of prices, some being even sold for a song, and one doesn't need to be a Caruso to become the owner of a motor engine.

If an engine is only required for a year or so it is alright buying a cheap one, but if it is expected to do years of hard work, get something in the Fairbanks line.

Remember a cheap engine is dear at any price, as one break down in the fishing season may cost hundreds of dollars. Certain it is it will cost you more than the difference between a cheap motor and a Fairbanks Morse.

With the Fairbanks there will be no break downs, as it is the engine of quality.

"Ma," said little Ethel sleepily at two o'clock on a cold morning. "I want a drink."

"Hush, darling," said her mother, "turn over and go to sleep."

"But I want a drink."

"No, you are only restless. Turn over, dear, and go to sleep."

Silence for five minutes. Then: "Ma, I want a drink."

"No, you don't want a drink. You had one just before you went to bed."

"I want a drink."

"Lie still, Ethel, and go to sleep."

"But I want a drink."

"Don't let me speak to you again." Two minutes of silence.

"Ma, I want a drink."

"If you say another word I'll get up and spank you."

"Ma, when you get up to spank me will you get me a drink?"

She got the drink then.

The Hermit Minister.

Pitt's House to be Offered for Sale Again.—Room of Mystery.

Within the next few weeks one of London's most interesting houses will have been offered for sale by auction. On the 29th inst., Messrs. Lowe, Goldschmidt and Howland are offering Pitt House, Hampstead.

It is just three years ago that Pitt House was offered at the Mart and withdrawn at £15,500. The place has been known at different periods as "Wiltwoods," "North End House," and "North End Place." It is of great historical interest, for it is here that William Pitt, first Earl of Chatham, retired when he withdrew from public life during his extraordinary affliction. The strange little room upstairs, on the second floor, which he used, for the most part remains intact, and many relics of his occupation are to be found there, including the original serving hatchway, fireplace and cupboards.

Pitt House, which has a fine situation on the Heath, stands in about 3 1/2 acres of ground, and is some 200 years old, though its exterior to-day is of comparatively modern appearance. There is a fine view to the north. There is a fine view to the north. Here it was that this great Minister shut himself away, not only from the other occupants of the house, but also from all communication with the King and the members of the Government which looked to him to direct its policy. This was in 1767, when the property belonged to Lord North. The room in question is about 13 feet by 8 feet, and in the upper right-hand panel of the door was fixed the "food box." In it Pitt's meals were placed by a servant, while he himself was hidden from view. Americans might visit this room with interest, for had not Chatham lain enfeebled there the Boston tea duties had never been imposed, and—who would dare to say

The Frailty of Man.

We are all liable to error and will be so to the end of time—the most careful will make mistakes, sometimes, for we are not merely human? With the fact of our own frailty staring us in the face, would it be reasonable on our part to neglect the means placed within our reach for the elimination of error? Errors in the counting house are costly but they can be avoided by the use of present day inventions, constructed as well as human ingenuity can suggest. To busy men the "Globe-Wernicke" devices come as a boon and a blessing, guarding as they do the essential records, which are the main vitality of business. These appliances are on view at Mr. Percie Johnson's office, and need only be seen to be appreciated.

Showed an Air Of Depression.

Special to The Evening Telegram. MEXICO CITY, To-day. The American charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy, showed a depression and an air of pessimism prevailed at the Embassy. He has received no intimation from the Mexican Government that General Huerta is willing to avert complications by acceding to Wilson's demands. The departure of foreign residents and even Mexicans for Vera Cruz is more pronounced, trains being run in sections. The managers of Lord Cowdray's Oil Company received orders to send all women, children and as many men as desired to go, as well as the more important part of the Company's archives to Vera Cruz. These instructions are based upon information gathered at Vera Cruz. The reports that rebels are gathering in force around Orizaba, added to the general anxiety and furnished contributory cause for increased exodus. Orizaba is the station on the Mexican railway and the capture of this town by rebels would almost certainly mean the interruption of traffic by this road to the coast on the Inter-Oceanic Railway. The only other line to the port the rebels have already begun by robbing trains and to the fear of probable drastic action is added that of the isolation of the troops.

Cunarder Aids Burning Cotton Steamer.

Special to Evening Telegram. HAMILTON, Bermuda, To-day. The Spanish steamer Balmes, with a cotton cargo on fire, was towed into St. George's Harbor yesterday by the tugs Gladysden and Powerful, convoyed by the Cunard liner Pannonia. The Commander had aboard 103 passengers of the Balmes, taken off the burning ship on Friday morning in mid-ocean, while heavy seas were running, after a forced draught race to the rescue in answer to wireless calls for help. When the Balmes' hatches were lifted great clouds of smoke belched forth, but powerful pumps soon sent tons of water into the hold and drowned out the fire. The steamer is in good condition except for the damage done by water and fire to her cargo. The Pannonia, when she had finished the task of conveying the Balmes, pointed her prow towards New York and steamed away. The fire on the Balmes was discovered on Wednesday night, at 11 o'clock, while the steamer was ploughing eastward on her trip to Cadiz, Spain, from Galveston, Havana. The wireless operator, by the direction of Captain Rulse, began sending out calls for assistance. The call reached the Pannonia, some 180 miles north, bound for New York. Captain Capper answered he would come to the Spaniard's aid. The British-cruiser Suffolk also answered the Balmes call, but the message she sent was indistinct. All Wednesday night and throughout Thursday Captain Capper pressed the Pannonia. On Thursday night the Spaniard hove in sight of the Cunarder, which was soon to leeward and alongside the burning vessel. Captain Capper stood by the Balmes until morning, then took off the passengers, the captain and crew electing to remain aboard their ship to navigate her and fight the fire forward. When the transfer of passengers had taken place the Pannonia and Balmes headed for Bermuda.

Sagona Arrives.

The s.s. Sagona, Capt. Barbour, arrived from the northward at 10:15 a.m. to-day, bringing a very large freight, including fish from points along the coast and a large shipment of whale oil from Beaverton. Fair weather was experienced until Saturday, when a gale raged accompanied by heavy snow squalls. She brought as passengers, in saloon: S. Keats, Chas. Brett, E. Head, Miss Miller, Clarence Green, P. Frampton, Mr. Hoddinott, Miss Hodder, F. Hodder, Mr. and Mrs. Forsey, T. Bemister, Wm. Bemister, W. J. Bemister, S. W. Abbott, Rev. Mercer, Stephen Abbott, Rev. Davis, Mrs. A. Parsons, Jas. Roberts, Miss Parsons, Misses Feltham (2), Mrs. F. Duke, C. Snelgrove, Thos. Martin, L. Howard, Chas. Baxter, Thos. North, Miss Bourne, Miss Howard, Mr. O'Neill and 62 second class. Quite a number of men who had been at work on the whale factory at Beaverton, came by her en route to their homes in Placentia Bay.

Travel.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old St. John's."

Travel is one of the greatest broadeners of the mind. It is also one of the greatest flatteners of the pocketbook.

After a man has travelled extensively for a few decades he has a friendly sympathy for all nationalities except his own and can order a meal from a French menu from memory and know exactly what he is going to get it before it arrives.

He will be able to tell what time the express leaves Taormina in the morning and just how to keep his baggage from getting stolen en route; and he will be able to shiver with horror at the thought of riding in an American sleeper and consuming the ham sandwich of his native land.

He is able, moreover, to spend long months in rapt contemplation before a smoking oil painting showing two soldiers in the act of cutting up an earl's Christmas martyr. But the fresh, pure air of America, where every man is as good as another and a blamed sight better, gives him the mulligambo and he regards the Grand Canyon of Colorado as the childish enthusiasm of the ignorant.

In such cases as these it almost seems as if it is too bad to broaden a mind and to leave it so thin in spots. Travel is a great education, but the tuition is so high that the course of study should be chosen with care. Some women spend $2,000 for three months in summer travel school and devote all their time to learning how to slip another thousand dollars' worth of goods through the customs house. Some men could pass an examination on a European wine list, but would be entirely stumped if asked who Shakespeare was.

It is a mistake to travel through a foreign country trying to eat all the food that can be obtained. Most people who do this underestimate the country's resources. Thousands of Americans have come back from France with digestive systems all warped out of shape; but dinners can still be had in that country on short notice.

A man ought to travel for the purpose of picking up enough information and assorted beauty and amusement to keep him happy after he gets back home and has to live on corn beef while saving up more steamer fare. But most Americans travel as if they were broadcast seeders built for the purpose of sowing American dollars over the surface of Europe.

Congress ought to offer a prize to the American couple who can tour Europe with the least expense. It doesn't take talent or genius to spend four bales of $1,000 bills in 100 days. All that is required is endurance and a brain that can be shipped out of gear readily and left standing idle when Monte Carlo is reached.

All European travelers should be compelled to carry certificates showing that they have practiced extensively in America. The man who sees America first will be able to see through Europe more easily.

A Happy Child In Just A Few Hours

When cross, constipated or if feverish give "California Syrup of Figs" then don't worry.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

DUBLIN, Nov. 16. The Irish Executive has taken in hand the Labour war here. The officials are reticent about the matter, but it is known that the Transport Companies have been asked what modifications of the Board of Trade proposals rejected by them, they are willing to accept. The Chief Secretary of Ireland, Augustine Birrell, told a Labour deputation at Bristol yesterday that he was hopeful of a settlement of the trouble.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16. Sir Lionel Carden, British Minister here, has conveyed to President Huerta the intimation that the United States is in earnest in its intentions. He is said to have told the President that the British Government is disposed to back the United States morally. For publication Sir Lionel is reticent regarding the representations to Huerta, but it is an open secret that they were made. Huerta is said to have been deeply impressed when he realized that the nation which he believed would stand by him indefinitely had joined with one which he already regards as an enemy.

EL PASO, Nov. 16. Juarez, a Mexican town across the border, has been attacked by a force of rebels from Sonora. The rebel troops deployed about the town under cover of the darkness and attacked it from several sides. At 3 a.m. it had taken possession of the Custom House. Major Mitchell and Adjutant General Scott, commanding the United States troops on the border patrol here, took command of the States troops. When the fire began he threw out patrols to keep the people of El Paso back from the danger line. Street cars hurried from the barns to Fort Bliss to bring additional soldiers to the border. At 3.30 a.m. a telephone message to the military headquarters in Juarez from El Paso brought information from the rebel officer, who answered the telephone, that the rebels were in control of the town, and that Sanchezvilla was in command of the attacking party, with 7,000 rebels under his command.

Another constable jumped into the ring and he, too, was quickly put out of business by the stalwart navy man. Then Detective Byrne came along and took sides in the bout. He grappled with the prisoner and a fierce struggle ensued. The two constables who had recovered themselves gave assistance and after great difficulty succeeded in handcuffing the navy man and drove him to the police station in a cab. The prisoner appeared in court to-day to explain his conduct.

Obituary. EDWARD WAUGH. There passed away on Saturday, at Grand Falls, after a brief illness of pluro-pneumonia, an old and respected fellow-townsmen in the person of Mr. Edward Waugh, at the age of 72. Deceased was a son of the late Sergeant Waugh, a native of St. John's West, and a baker by trade. "Ned," as he was best known among his friends, was an ardent lover of sport, being particularly fond of the rod and gun. He was well known in social life also, as he was for many years in the West End C.E.I. and Mechanics' Club. He was an adept at billiards and five years ago, when he represented the Mechanics' made a name for himself with the cue in the Inter-Club Billiard Tournament. Deceased is survived by a widow, three sons and three daughters, several grand and great grandchildren, besides a large circle of friends. To the bereaved family the sincere sympathy of the community will be expressed.

MRS. G. B. WHITTEN. We note with regret, the sudden demise of Mrs. George B. Whitten, which sad event occurred at her home on the Southside, on Saturday afternoon. Deceased had been only a short while ill, but not seriously, consequently her death was unexpected and came as a shock to her husband. Deceased was 56 years of age. Had Itching Piles For 27 Years. Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment. Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praising Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Alta., writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind, itching piles of 27 years' standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed. "Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the time, and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure. This ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

SAVORY ROASTER.

Our many customers who had the pleasure of examining and trying our sample of this very useful household article will be pleased to hear that we have just received a shipment, so that all orders can now be filled. What is a Savory Roaster? It is such a good thing that it must be seen to be properly understood. A Savory Roaster is a Pan for roasting meat, but it is more than this. It is a self baster. No torment or burning your fingers removing it from oven to baste the meat. You simply place your roast of meat in the roaster, close the pan—trouble no more about it until it is cooked. The meat is really steamed all through. None of the nutritious properties of the meat can escape. It is a marvel and the price is within the reach of everybody, $1.50.

Morticians. Here and There

Long ago, when man departed from this earth to face his Maker, then his loved ones, broken hearted, called the village undertaker; now when man's in that condition, dead as Death can ever make people summon the mortician to embalm and undertake him. When my beard begins to harbor wrens and robins, great and lesser, I consult the nearest barber, not tenuous professor. When I have some news that order printed be, to stir men's wonder, I find up a good reporter—not a journalist, by thunder! When the surgeon and physician do their worst and leave me dying, I will murmur: "No mortician round my carcass shall come prying! When I'm carried to God's Acre, see the doings are conducted by a good old undertaker on old-fashioned lines constructed!" How I hate these fancy handlings men adopt, to soothe their vitals; they are dull witted vandals who reject time honored titles. He is safest, sanest, smartest, who eschews all sounding lingo; do not claim to be an "artist" if you're grooming mules, by Jingo!

Mr. King Does Well.

CATALINA, Nov. 4, 1913. Messrs. Franklin & Company, St. John's, Nfld. Dear Sirs,—Having used a 6 H. P. FRASER engine with kerosene adapter the past season, I feel compelled to write and let you know something of my feelings towards this engine. It has given me perfect satisfaction, never having one minute's trouble from the time I installed it in my boat. I have only used two gallons of gasoline for the season and could have done without any as the engine will start as well on kerosene as on gasoline. I heartily recommend the FRASER engine to all fishermen who are thinking of investing in a motor as the best engine on the market. It is simple to manipulate and strong enough to tow a boat load of fish and keep up with other engines without anything in tow, as I have proved this the past season. I secured 300 quintals of fish this summer, my cost for running was under $20 for kerosene, without the engine 70 to 100 quintals would probably have been my voyage. You have my permission to use this letter should you care to do so. Yours truly, THOMAS KING. nov15,17

Suggests a Commission of Morals.

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—"Public morality is a problem with which the States must deal," said Herbert S. Gernert, of New York, in the principal address at the opening session of the International Purity Congress here today. "The Federal Government is doing a great work in this field, but it is seriously handicapped by the limitations of the constitution, the large territory to be covered and the extent to which the evil has grown," he continued. "The state police powers are unlimited, while the outlay by each to control the evil would be comparatively small. "Public morality is not unlike public health, public business or public safety in the institution which must control it. In our plan of government this duty devolves upon the various states, and to-day we have our departments of health, our state commissioners of railways and of insurance and our boards of public safety. But not so with morality. We have left this field practically untouched, and yet it is by far the most important. "A commission of morals would be established in each state, whose duty it would be to take cognizance of the morals of the people; to aid in the enforcement of all laws directed against vice, and to work for the best moral conditions in factories, schools, dance halls and other places. "Miss Alice Stebbins Wells, of Los Angeles police department, said: "The police woman has come in answer to modern needs and she has come to stay—not to displace the men but to supplement their work. For countless ages the business world was a man's world, with women and children secluded in the home. When cities fully realize the value of women in preventive work, there will be such women in every city. "Besides an address of welcome to the delegates by Douglas Fish, president of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, addresses were made by W. L. Clark, of Leamington, Ont., and the Rev. Charles W. Gordon, of Winnipeg, Man.

Compromise Suggested for Ulster.

LONDON, To-day. The Government has decided to seek to arrange a compromise with the opposition leaders in Parliament on the Home Rule Bill and according to the Times, Aquith, it says, will within a week make an offer of a clause suspending the operation of the Bill in Ulster for a definite term of years and also propose to place an additional burden on British taxpayers in order to compensate Nationalists in Ireland for the temporary loss of wealth of Ulster. The Times adds: "Bonar Law, leader of the Unionists in Commons and his colleagues are ready to consider any such proposal, but are not likely to accept it, while the followers of John Redmond strongly oppose it.

GREAT EXODUS. Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, To-day. Negotiations between Charge d' Affaires and John Lind and the Huerta Government in Mexico are continuing, according to dispatches received at the Department to-day, but no tangible conclusions have been reached. William Bayard Hale, who has been industriously conferring with the Constitutionists at their Nogale headquarters, also telegraphed at length to the Department. That the situation was not regarded as critical, was evident from the attitude of official Washington and the Administration here is still confident of the ultimate retirement of Huerta, as well as satisfactory assurances for the Constitutionists for a suspension of military activities pending the establishment of some form of a provisional Government after General Huerta disappears.

New Solicitor-General Amused by His First Case. "Are servants of servants the servants of those servants or the servants of the original employer?" This complicated question was put to Justices Ridley, Scrutton, and Bailhache in the King's Bench Divisional Court yesterday, and the Solicitor-General (Sir Stanley Buckmaster, K.C.) smiled as though conscious of the fact that his first query as a Law Officer of the Crown was one giving food for considerable thought. Their lordships were hearing an appeal under the Insurance Act with reference to some girls at Dartford who are engaged and paid by printers, silk factory. The matter was involved by the fact that, although the girls take their instructions from the printers, they have to obey general orders from the foreman of the factory. HOW EYE STRAIN CAUSES EYE DISEASES.

Eye strain is the first cause of most eye diseases. It produces irritation and congestion and a consequent general weakness of all the nerves and muscles of the eye. In this way any eye disease, such as Cataract, Optic Nerve Paralysis, Ulcers, Glaucoma, Granulated Lidia, etc., may be produced. Any of these diseases, if neglected, may result in blindness. The best time to treat the eye diseases is in the "eye strain stage." If you are having any trouble whatever with your eyes, no matter how slight, consult us.

Don't Worry over trouble in Transvaal

London, Nov. 12.—The many thousands of Indian and Boer followers into the Transvaal, and the fact that the South African Act is watched with interest and anxiety, and that the problem of the Boer is admittedly highly responsible and able. He did good work in organizing the Indian and Boer service during the Boer war. His cause commands the respect of the Government of India. "Beyond all question, the grateful cause of Indian South Africa may be sure millions of Indians are watching the fate of three thousand, and regard it as the capacity of the Boer."

C.L.B. Celebration.

The Church Lads Brigade celebrated their 22nd anniversary yesterday, and to commemorate the occasion the battalion turned out in large numbers to the morning and afternoon services at the Cathedral. The attendance at Holy Communion was a record one. Rev. Canon White officiated and was assisted by Revs. Gordon Holt, Brinton and Stokings. At 1.30 p.m. Divine Service was conducted by Rev. Canon White assisted by Rev. Canon Holt; the former occupied the pulpit and delivered an excellent discourse on "Perseverance" which was listened to with the attention of all present. The singing being over, the corps, fully one hundred strong, paraded to their headquarters by way of Gover Street, Exchange Street, Military and Harvey Roads, the band discoursing beautiful selections along the route. On arrival at the Armoury the Brigade was addressed by Lt.-Col. Rendell who expressed his gratitude to the ex-members and old comrades for their valuable assistance in all matters pertaining to the interests of their old corps, and in doing this was venturing the sentiments of his fellow officers and the whole battalion. He also stated that in response to a circular issued recently, considerable financial assistance had been received from ex-members in far off lands, which aid was greatly appreciated. Before concluding he made reference to the expansion of the corps to Bell Island, and intimated that the new company recently formed there would be known as a detachment of Company A. After enthusiastic cheering for the past and present members, the Brigade was dismissed.

Britain Worried over Trouble in Transval.

London, Nov. 12.—The march of Ghandi and his three thousand Indian followers into the Transvaal as a protest against the South African Immigration Act is watched here with interest and anxiety, and it is recognized that Ghandi's arrest does little to solve the problem. Ghandi is admittedly highly respected, loyal and able. He did good service in organizing the Indian ambulance service during the Boer War, and his cause commands the sympathy of the Government of India. As the Westminster Gazette declares, "Beyond all question, the treatment of Indians in South Africa is a grievous cause of Indian unrest, and we may be sure millions of people in India are watching the fate of the three thousand, and regard it as a test of the capacity of the British

New Pastor for Georges Stree. Meth. Church

During the Service of Song at George Street Methodist Church, last evening, Mr. C. R. Sizer, on behalf of the Quarterly Official Board, stated to the large congregation present that an invitation had been extended to the Rev. Norman M. Guy, M.A., of Grand Falls, to assume the Superintendency of George Street Circuit in succession to the Rev. J. W. Bartlett, whose term will expire in June next. The Rev. gentlemen, after giving the matter due consideration, has been pleased to accept the invitation, and will take up his duties at the beginning of next Conference year. Rev. Mr. Guy is a native of the Colony, and though only ordained about two years is rapidly becoming one of the most popular preachers in the Methodist connection. Rev. Mr. Bartlett goes to Canada in June.

Wedding Bells.

The wedding of Mr. Richard English, the popular school teacher of Job's Cove, Conception Bay, to Miss Lill Oliver, daughter of Andrew Oliver, Esq., of Gull Island, took place in the R. C. Church at Northern Bay, on Thursday, Nov. 6. The exquisite costume of the bride excited the admiration of her many well-wishers. About fifty persons accompanied the bride and groom to the church. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. Lynch, the happy couple drove to the home of Mr. A. English, where a reception was held. About one hundred and twenty guests were present and a most enjoyable time was spent. Amongst those who had been invited were Rev. J. Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Doyle and Mr. James Fitzgerald who read the congratulatory messages received by the bride and groom, and expressed the best wishes of all who were present for the future happiness of the newly married couple. Rev. J. Lynch congratulated them upon the happy event. He spoke in highest terms of the groom who had worked under him as teacher for several years past. Mr. R. English, Miss E. Morris, Librarian at the College, and gave them every assurance of a most enjoyable evening. The bride received many beautiful and costly presents. To her as well as to the groom we wish many years of wedded life, filled with all the happiness this world can afford.—Conn.

Healthy and Unhail by Lighting

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vibrate, nor does it purify. Hear what these eminent men have said:—
Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.
He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting had been employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov 8, 11

German Insults Alsations.

Townspiece Attack Officer and the Troops are Called Out.
Seaborn, Alsace, Germany, Nov. 10.—A violent outbreak of indignation accompanied by riots, was brought about in this little garrison town last evening by the publication of some remarks of Lt. Baron von Forstner, of the 99th infantry to the recruits of his company while he was instructing them as to the manner in which they should conduct themselves towards the townspeople.
The lieutenant said he would reward by the sum of $2.50 any of his soldiers who "ran through any Alsatian vagabond" molesting him.
A crowd of angry residents layd the lieutenant during the afternoon at a house where he was making a call and he was obliged to send for a squad of soldiers who armed with loaded rifles, escorted him to his residence.
In the evening thousands of people besieged the officers' club. The police were helpless and the firemen were summoned to disperse the crowd with the help of their hose, but the hose were soon cut by some of the most daring.
Troops were then called out and with loaded rifles and fixed bayonets cleared the streets.
A sergeant of the regiment who was reported to have told the recruits he would add 75 cents to the lieutenant's $2.50, was caught by the crowd, dragged into an alley and badly handled.
No denial has been issued of the lieutenant's remarks.

To a nice inch gun.

This poem came to the New York World office on a crumpled piece of soiled paper. It was signed "P. F. McCarty," and the author's address was given as "Fourth Bench, City Hall Park".
"Whether your shell hits the target or not,
Your cost is five hundred dollars a shot.
You bring of noise and flame and power,
We feed you a hundred barrels of flour.
Each time you roar, your fame is fed
With twenty thousand loaves of bread.
Silence! A million hungry men
Seek bread to fill their mouths again."
There are three fashionable skirts—silhouettes, the full hip drapery, the tunic and a back drapery, prefiguring the bustle.

The schr. Cleopatra, Capt. E. Taylor, left this morning for Spaniard's Bay with a load of coal from the Harbour Grace Coal Company. This company is now doing a good business, and it looks as if Harbour Grace is to be the future centre for the coal trade of Conception Bay.

Mrs. W. Churchill, of St. John's, returned home on Tuesday after a pleasant visit to her daughter, Mrs. R. T. Parsons and other friends here.

Thomas Hanrahan, Esq., M.A., is now on a school inspection tour at Grand Falls.

We are sorry to report that Dr. Charles Cron is very ill from the effects of a bad cold. A doctor's life is not a bed of roses, in fact a bed is of very little good to the popular medico, as he is liable to be called at any moment. We hope the doctor will soon be sufficiently recovered to be able to get out again.

The schooner Studland is now receiving a new mainmast, and will be ready for another trip to St. John's next week, where she will take a full load of shop goods for her owner, Mr. E. Simmons.

Word comes from British Columbia that Captain James Noel, son of Mr. Simon Noel, formerly of this town, was married recently to Miss Lennis Mary of that place. The many friends of the groom here will wish them much happiness.

One Dose Relieves A Cold--No Quinine

"Pape's Cold Compound" makes you feel fine at once—Don't stay stuffed-up! Take it now.
Relief come instantly.
A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will end grippe misery and break up a severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.
It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.
Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

Carried Severed Ear to Hospital.

Joseph Romaine, 22 years of age off his right ear.
ing repairs on premises just at the corner of Victoria avenue and Westmount Boulevard, yesterday afternoon, met with a curious accident.
He was working upon a scaffold twenty feet high, when he lost his footing and fell to the ground. In falling he struck a guy wire, cutting off his right ear.
He was only slightly dazed by the fall, and taken to the Western Hospital, carrying with him his ear that had been picked off the ground.
At the hospital his ear was immediately sewed on. It is reported that the injured man is doing well, and the doctors expect his ear will be as good as ever.—Montreal Telegraph, Nov. 8.
