The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER XXXIV.
CONTAINS SURPRISES.

Only those who, strength and spirit spent after a fight, have dragged themselves for a little respite, a little tender healing, to the one human source that never yet has failed them, and found that source cut off forever—only such can tell the agony of an announcement signified to Sydney.

A great billow of despair seemed to close over her; an unconsciousness of everything save that another hard blow had come upon her when her forces were at their lowest ebb, and none of her once full fund of buoyancy left to meet it.

Nancy's frightened cry to her mistress; Miss Ambler's scared appearance down-stairs; these were a blank, emerging from which she found herself upon a slippery chintz covered sofa, the black-robed landlady crouching beside her with cold water, while the excited domestic, leaning the hair about into its temporary gait, with the Stillcock-Upton Weekly Express.

"There, there," said Miss Ambler, soothingly, as Sydney's great sobs and eyes opened once more with sense and questioning. "You are coming to us nice as can be. Don't try to talk yet, miss. Nancy didn't ought to have told you all of a sudden. Shocks are bad; I have had them, and know. Here comes your luggage. You lay quiet, miss, while I take it in. We're ready for you, so to speak, for—"

"I am better," she said, turning, with a most wistful attempt at a smile, to the mellow, late afternoon light. "Please don't be frightened for me. And—will you tell me—about it now?"

Miss Ambler, more exercised than Sydney divined, had to cough and snuff a great deal before she was equal to meet this request; but presently, perched bolt upright on the edge of a chair, since the young lady made her sit, she managed to give account of as happy an exit from this troublous sphere as the best heart could desire.

"He talked a many times this month past of when Miss Grey—he called you Miss Grey"—Sydney made a movement of confirmation, the slightest color rising, not unobserved—"or when you were coming for a holiday to him, and seemed as pleased about it as a prince. He'd not been well this winter, but he was always cheery the days he got your letters. He was looking for one this very time last week, and spoke put-out-like, for him, when I carried another instead. 'But,' said he to me when I fetched his breakfast-things down (for I waited on him myself, Miss Grey, and marked his appetite, and got him many a spring brocolow or new-laid egg my own self since I could afford it, for mean by nature I'm not, though close by habit I've had to be!)—'Miss Amelia,' he says, 'I'd no right to grumble at that letter. It's brought me great news. I shall tell you of it some day.' And almost every time I came to his room he seemed to have been reading it, and I can't picture how he looked, miss, but more glad and young-like than I'd seen him these long whiles. He played a deal of music that day. Long pieces such as he learned forty years ago with his rich master, as was then. And at night when I went to put his sitting-room lamp out he'd just finished 'And Laug Syde,' the tune the clock at Sturats used to play last time before he left, he's often told me. He was so fond of it. He said 'Good-night,' and went off sort of singing it. And he might have been listening to it when he was—sent for—Miss Grey. For in the morning, when Nancy couldn't wake him, I went and found him with a tear on his cheek and a smile on his mouth, as easy-looking as a baby asleep. That was the morning your letter came, miss, which," said Miss Ambler, after a gallant struggle with an obstinate sob, "you'll find in poor Mr. Cheesne's rack, upstairs, for, of course, you'll like his room to yourself while you stop here. Nothing would have pleased him more than for you to use it. And till the gentleman comes who knows what's to be done with the things, it's freely yours."

Miss Ambler ended with a good heavy cry behind her handkerchief. Sydney had not yet reached that merciful caseant, but stупped as she still felt, the instinct born with her name did not desert her. This good landlady of Jacob's must not be encroached upon.

From her purse she took out three sovereigns. "If I may stay here while these last," she said, "I cannot tell you how thankful I shall be. For," moving her first face into shadow again, "I did so want this for a home a little while."

With a curious look, Miss Ambler pocketed the gold; but if dissatisfied at the loose bargain, showed no signs of being so; for, when the now lodger was fairly ensconced among the old lodger's household goods she was rebuked.

"Oh, I would not, indeed," cried Sydney, shrinking from intrusion. "If you think this will not be wanted for ten days more, I will be gone before it is dismantled."

With that last word her voice quavered. It was difficult calmly to discuss these last relics of her father, dear old Jacob's treasures, being dispersed.

"Ah, I'll answer now," said Miss Ambler. "You'd like a little something out of here as a keepsake like of poor Mr. Cheesne, wouldn't you, miss? Now, if you'd choose anything I'd see it was bought for you if the things are sold."

"She had no storing-place for sight. Her very capital she would not count her own."

The World's Most Wonderful Garden.

For eighty years Kew Gardens have been the Mecca not only of the world's horticulturists but of millions of admiring visitors.

The history of the Gardens, which date from 1770—seventy years before they were thrown open to the public—is closely associated with Royalty. The Gardens were first opened originally from the grounds belonging to Richmond Lodge and Kew Palace, two Royal estates that were separated by a bridge-path known as Love Lane. The grounds were linked together by George III, whose "good, little old Queen Charlotte" did much to beautify them, enlisting the assistance of eminent men like Sir James Smith, the noted botanist, and Sir Joseph Banks, the still more celebrated naturalist and gardener.

Banks, who was unpaid director of the Gardens for fifty years, instituted the system of importing foreign plants, which has been continued to the present time.

In Queen Charlotte's day the Gardens were the resort of rank and fashion. It does not need a vivid imagination to picture the "little old Queen" dispensing tea under the beeches, while about her hovered the great ladies of the period, with their powdered wigs and lace fans.

Since those days Kew has been transformed out of all knowledge, although one or two of its features, such as the Orangery, built by Sir William Chambers in 1761, and Queen's Cottage remain substantially the same.

Kew Gardens do not exist solely or even primarily for the purpose of providing relaxation for jaded Londoners or wondering visitors from the country. Their chief object is the advancement of the study of plant life, combined with the introduction into Britain of new and foreign plants.

The Gardens, which cover 238 acres, contain 25,000 different varieties of plants arranged systematically in hot-houses and in the open. The Palm House, which attracts more visitors than any other building, is 362ft. long and 66ft. high. It is warmed by huge ovens, the heat being conveyed through 17,500 ft. of pipes.

A Cannibal Plant.

One of the treasures of the Gardens is the Victoria Regia, the queen of water-lilies and the biggest flower known. Its leaves are so broad that they are capable of supporting the weight of a child of five. This wonderful plant, which has a house to itself, was discovered in 1801 by a Spanish monk, who described in a report to his Government his astonishment at first seeing the glorious blooms.

Thirty years later an English botanist found the plant floating on the Berbice River in British Guiana, and his description created tremendous interest. Soon afterwards it made its appearance at Kew, where the wonderful plant has received the homage of hundreds of thousands of visitors.

Another source of attraction are the pitcher plants. The Flytrap variety is almost unvarying. No sooner does an insect alight on the inside of its cup than the lid shuts down tightly, remaining closed until the prisoner has been completely digested by the plant.

But to catalogue the plant marvels of Kew would be to essay a gigantic task, just as to inspect the contents of the Gardens thoroughly would occupy many days. For the visitor who is interested in Nature and who has an eye for beauty, the possibilities of Kew are inexhaustible.

Brick's Tasteless can be purchased at J. Brown's Grocery Store, Cross Roads, West End. Price $1.20 bil. Postage 20c. Extra—sepb.12

Blowing Bubbles to Break the Waves.

Air bubbles are being used with success to fight the tremendous force of the waves that are dashed against the shore during fierce storms.

An American engineer found that stone breakers were useless in certain exposed places. He conceived the idea that compressed air injected into the body of the waves from below would impair their strength.

An experiment was made at a point some distance from the shore. A pipe was fitted to carry the compressed air out along the bottom of the sea, and it was arranged to release the air at a certain distance, so that the bubbles would rise in a cloud through the billows.

The first plant was erected at Croch Island, Maine, U.S.A. This is a very exposed spot where boats could not be loaded when an east wind was blowing.

With that last word her voice quavered. It was difficult calmly to discuss these last relics of her father, dear old Jacob's treasures, being dispersed.

"Ah, I'll answer now," said Miss Ambler. "You'd like a little something out of here as a keepsake like of poor Mr. Cheesne, wouldn't you, miss? Now, if you'd choose anything I'd see it was bought for you if the things are sold."

"She had no storing-place for sight. Her very capital she would not count her own."

U-m-m! It Makes Cereals Taste So Good!

And in puddings and desserts, Carnation Milk adds such flavor and deliciousness that it sets any little one's appetite on edge.

Children eat more, enjoy their meals more, whenever Carnation Milk is used.

Especially do they like to drink Carnation Milk diluted, of course—with an equal amount of water, or more, according to taste.

The freshness, wholesomeness and nourishment of Carnation Milk is not the only reason why you will like it.

It is pure, safe, "whole" milk—distributed to you in a more convenient way.

Milk from fine farms in Canada's best dairying districts is delivered fresh to the Carnation condenseries. Part of the water is taken away by evaporation. Then this rich, creamy milk is sealed in air-tight cans—to safeguard against contamination.

For extra safety, it is STERILIZED.

That is why Carnation Milk "keeps." It contains neither sugar nor preservative of any kind.

And because it keeps you can store your milk supply ahead on your pantry shelves. You need never run "short" of milk for the children's drink. Frozen milk—and milk "turned" by summer's heat—no longer worry you. And there is no taste with Carnation Milk.

It serves every milk need of your home and can be used as cream.

Buy this convenient and economical milk from your grocer.

Try Carnation Milk one week. Order half-a-dozen cans, tall (16 oz.) size, or a case of 48 cans from your grocer.

Making a Silk Purse From a Sow's Ear.

This hardly belongs to industry in the commercial sense, but it is a unique object lesson and a contribution to philosophy. First there is the sow which "passed on" as the saying is—but into provisions here present in accordance with her genius rather than into the less definitely known Great Beyond. The ears, instead of going into pickle, went into glue and the glue was softened in water, brought almost to the point of precipitation with acetone in a V-tube. It was picked out of the V-tube, reeled, dried, treated to a 40 per cent. glycerine bath, in which it was also dyed, then reeled and dried again, woven and sewed up—and there is as handsome a silk purse as ever was carried by the gentle abbees of whom Chaucer sings and who never mended up her window-glass while engaged in the conviviality which now, alas, is denied to us. As a chemical achievement it was played more play; an incident of modern research. Our interest in it is a contribution to philosophy. This trinket, of which the silk is not even strong or of especially good quality, should serve as a mighty club in argument. The wretched old saw, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," has been echoed down the ages, the Bourbon chorle of those who never learn and never forget.

Let's hope that it may serve to refute the foolish arguments of the ignorant and that it will help to lay those hoary ghosts of the past that jabber against progress. Science can do—Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering (New York).

Bell Lowers Five Mile Record.

British Government Has Gone to Utmost Limits--Churchill's Declaration at Dundee--Canada Will Have General Election in December--Hungary Does Not Want to Enter League--Arthur Griffiths Makes Statement.

HUNGARY SUSPENDS APPLICATIONS.

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—Hungary has asked the Assembly of the League of Nations to suspend action on her application for admission to the League until next year. Count Albert Apponyi, Hungarian delegate here, to-day wrote to President Van Karnebek of the Assembly that on account of the trouble in Burgenland, awarded to Austria by the Trianon Treaty, Hungary prefers to wait.

UTMOST LIMIT REACHED.

DUNDEE, Sept. 24.—Winston Spencer Churchill, Minister for the Colonies, speaking here to-day, said that the British Government had gone to the utmost limits possible, in its offer to Sinn Fein, and that if it was rejected, the Government had not anything else to give. "We have reached the end of our tether," he declared.

NOT YET, BUT SOON.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 24.—Hon. Mrs. Smith, minister without portfolio in British Columbia Legislature, announced that she will not be a candidate for Federal honors this year though she hoped to go to Ottawa House ultimately.

CANADIAN ELECTIONS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—The proclamation dissolving Parliament and announcing the date of general elections will probably be issued next Friday when Premier Meighen returns from the west, according to the Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Star. The opinion of Ottawa is that elections will be held in the first week of December, the correspondent says.

FARMERS TO FIGHT KING.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—R. W. E. Burnaby, President of the United Farmers, Ontario, and Farmers' nominee for the Federal House in North York, announces that the decision of Hon. Mr. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, to battle for election in North York, would not affect the Farmers' plans at all. When asked whether the Farmers would be likely to withdraw their candidate from North York, J. J. Morrison replied "Not a chance."

ARTHUR GRIFFITHS INTERVIEW.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—British recognition of Sinn Fein claims of independence as a preliminary condition to conference were never asked by Sinn Fein, declared Arthur Griffith, a member of the delegation chosen at Duglin to confer with Premier Lloyd George, in an interview with the Daily Mail's correspondent in Dublin yesterday. He added "Our entrance to a conditionless conference would not give Ireland any fresh international status. If the conference broke down Ireland would have the same international position that she holds at present. Irish Republican leaders have contended they were entitled to enter the conference, holding their own opinion, but the holding of those opinions would not entitle them to anything from anyone else. Nevertheless it would be unjust and high handed to ask Sinn Fein to modify its attitude by abandoning its standpoint."

BELFAST RIOTS.

BELFAST, Sept. 24.—Ride bring was renewed this morning in districts of this city affected by last night's disorders, one man being wounded. The only death resulting from the rioting since his resumption yesterday was accidental, one man being run over by an armoured car. The rioting was so severe last evening that tram cars were withdrawn from the troubled areas.

AN INTERNATIONAL TROUBLE.

TOKYO, Sept. 24.—Japan will protest to China against the signing of a contract with the Federal Radio Company of America for a wireless telegraph station at Shanghai. It is declared by newspapers here. This country will hold, it is said, that signing the contract would be in violation of a previous agreement between China and the Mitsui Company, a Japanese concern.

FLOODS IN PORTUGAL.

LISBON, Sept. 24.—Another terrific thunderstorm swept Portugal yesterday, torrential rain falling in many parts of the country. In this city the tram car service was stopped, cellars were flooded and the roofs of houses were blown off, the Lisbon Exchange being badly damaged. In some quarters of the city water was more than ten feet deep and the people living there were rescued with difficulty.

CHILI AND BOLIVIA.

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—Announcement was made this morning in the Assembly of the League of Nations that the text of the finding reached by jurists in the controversy between Bolivia and Chili, which has been cabled to South America, is not as yet regarded as the final official decision. It may be modified, it was said, so that direct application to the Bolivian demand for a report on the Pacific Coast may be avoided.

WANDERERS A.A.A. RESULTS.

HALIFAX, Sept. 24.—Bell, of St. John's won the five mile event in the annual athletic meet of the Wanderers Amateur Athletic Association here to-day, 25 mins., 51 seconds, lowering the track record of 26.01 4-5. A dispute arose over whether the first twenty laps had been run, some claiming that only 19 had been covered. The judges declared the full distance had been gone. Other results included 100 yards, E. Smith, Halifax, first; Phalen, St. John's, second; time 10 2-5 seconds. 220 yards, Joe Smith, first; Phalen, second; time 23-5 seconds. 440 yards, Holmes, first; Phalen second, time 54 seconds; Mile La Pierre, Halifax, first; Skiving, St. John's, second.

JAPAN AND U.S. CLAIMS.

TOKYO, Sept. 24.—Japan will consult with other members of the League of Nations relative to the desire of the United States to receive equal treatment in the Mandate Islands of the Pacific as a feature of settlement of the Jap question, it is said by newspapers here. Japan will also study the United States' claim to land ownership in Yap, as foreigners do not have the right to land ownership in Japanese territory.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—In the matter of unemployment in England, apart from considering of the question of giving immediate relief to the unemployed, it is understood that the Government is studying the problem in a broader light and framing a new policy with a view to averting the heavy drain on the national resources from helping the workless, in event of trade and industrial operations now immediately reviving. It is stated that the plan will take the form of actual financial assistance to promote such trade revival. It is not unlikely that bankers will be asked to give more generous support to industry by means of treasury guarantees against, or participating in, losses.

Express Passengers.

The Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 8:25 a.m. yesterday morning, bringing 125 sacks mail matter and the following passengers, who reached town by express at 1 o'clock to-day:—W. D. Dobson, J. and Mrs. Baker, M. Basha, W. Mahoney, E. C. Clarke, J. D. Oake Wm. and Mrs. Martin, W. H. Saunders, Mrs. W. Wright, Miss R. Doyle, Rev. Fr. Thibault, J. Foster, P. Green, E. J. Halloran, W. Moore, S. Walsh, Mrs. M. Vincent, Mrs. A. Chalvey, Dr. D. J. Bethane, S. E. Wetmore, G. Bell.

Non-Production and Unemployment.

The only solution of the problem of unemployment is to find employment for those out of work. That this is a bald way of putting it is incontrovertible, but that it is the only means is equally undeniable. Find employment and the problem ceases to become vexatious or difficult. It is wiped off the slate at once and gives no further trouble to the mental capacity of those concerned. It ceases to exist. But the main difficulty appears to be to discover the panacea. Those who formerly employed many hands about and around their premises say they can no longer find labor. There is nothing to be done. Shipping men complain that they cannot man their vessels, because there are no charters offering for them, consequently the men who once made up the big list of merchant sailors have also to be numbered with the unemployed. The steam sailing fleet has dwindled down to but a flotilla of vessels, taking but a fraction of the complement which formerly went to crew the large fleet. The sailing vessel has disappeared altogether from this fishery, and the thousands formerly carried by the hemp and cordage craft have been obliged to seek other avenues of employment. The fisheries, Bank, Shore and Labrador have not been using so many men as in other years. The manufacturing industries have curtailed their working staffs, and the great interior plants engaged in paper making and lumbering have been compelled to reduce the number of their employees. All this tends to release an army of men from regular toil, who are thus thrown back upon themselves, and who while perfectly willing to set their hands to any form of manual labor, cannot secure work, because—and that is the pity of it—there is not any. What has caused this great, this unprecedented slump in the labor market, where hitherto the demand was usually in excess of the supply?

Can the answer be that the labor situation as it exists today—not alone in Newfoundland, but everywhere—is international, and requires international solution, as declared by the General Secretary of the National (British) Union of Railwaymen. That may be in countries where conditions are vastly different from that which they are in Newfoundland, for we are rather inclined to the belief that unemployment in this country is rather more local than general. We have always managed to worry along, more or less successfully, without imploring outside assistance or requesting that others come in and solve our own problems for us. Newfoundland has yet to solicit charity, though others come to our shores almost daily looking for financial aid in carrying on philanthropic work abroad in which we do not participate beyond contributing our donations. Therefore we are still going to worry along and adjust our own internal affairs without having recourse to extraneous aid, or requiring of international arbitrators that they settle our labor troubles. Much good would their superficial knowledge turn in to us, and an appeal to them might plunge us into deeper waters. The time is not yet ripe nor the hour opportune for this country to require outside interference. We have paddled our own canoe and still hope to paddle it safely through the tide rips and rapids of the present labor depression. Our natural resources are still undeveloped. The interior of the country is rich in minerals and forests, which only need to be exploited to prove their immediate value. The untouched internal wealth of our island remains yet in almost virgin soil. Now then is the time to turn it into coined gold, thus giving unlimited employment not only to the present but to future generations. Develop and Produce: these should be the watchwords of the hour.

Well Done, Newfoundland!

The Halifax Sports are over and we have good reason to feel proud of the team which represented us, for their success has exceeded our wildest expectations. To gain one first place, by four seconds and three-thirds against the best runners of the Maritime Provinces is indeed an enviable record. It shows that our athletes compare favourably with Canada's best, and with more practice and experience, they will be able ultimately to excel them all. The Amateur Athletic Association may be still in its infancy, but it has fully justified its organization, whilst at the same time, it has risen triumphant over the sneers and doubts of all who looked upon its Halifax venture as a wild goose chase. Not only will our successes at the Halifax sports encourage our athletes to greater efforts, but it will also serve to make the A.A.A. under whose colors our team competed, more widely recognized. Who knows but before long we shall be sending a team to represent us at the Olympic games? That day may not be so far distant, and when it does come it will be mainly due to the efforts of the A.A.A. which, whilst still in an embryonic stage, has served to make Newfoundland better known than anything since the arrival of the sport that has incited into the British nation that love of fair play for which it is famed, and the Newfoundland A.A.A. is doing a great part towards its encouragement in Newfoundland.

Physical Culture Article.

In consequence of our contributor being out of town, there will be no Physical Development article in today's issue. We hope, however, to have it on Wednesday and Friday, and thereafter regularly without a hitch until the completion of the series.

Shoe Repair Store Burglarized.

The shoe repair store of Mr. McGrath, on Catherine Street, was burglarized on Friday night last and a number of pairs of boots stolen. The thief gained entrance to the premises by breaking a pane of glass and removing a bar from the window. This is the second time the store was entered within the past month, and the goods stolen mean a heavy loss to Mr. McGrath, who will have to make good to the owners.

Dissatisfaction Over Appointments.

There is said to be considerable friction over the recent changes in the Customs Department, and it is rumored that certain changes were made during the absence of the Minister of Finance and Customs without his knowledge or consent. In the matter of new appointments there seems to be some dissatisfaction also, and recently two were made and ex-Servicemen who applied were not considered. It is hoped that the Government will keep these latter in mind when filling positions on N.P.S. Lists, as we understand there has been a large number of applicants who should receive first consideration.

Good Fishing.

At Torbay and other nearby settlements hook and line have been doing exceedingly well during the past two weeks. But is much more plentiful than it was, and nearly all the fishermen are making good catches. One man brought in nine quintals recently. All the fish caught are of a fine size and quality.

Rally Sunday at Kirk.

Yesterday was a memorable day at St. Andrew's, a day of "rally." At both services large congregations were present. At the morning service the pastor gave a beautiful illustration of the Lord's keeping Sunday, contrasting the stand as taken by our Lord, with the doings of the present age, when man regards Sunday as a day of pleasures and personal pleasure. He laid stress on the fact that Sunday was given to humanity as "a day of rest," when help and peace should come from worship in God's House. Mrs. Chas. Whelan sang sweetly, "Oh, Rest in the Lord." The Sunday school service was largely attended. The scholars were greeted by a visit from the Rev. Mr. Holden of the Congregational Church, and his address to the children was one with which every boy or girl present could not be other than impressed. In the young lives of the scholars what tends to make life worth while is the good impression made by their helpers in the Sunday School. The sermon at night was certainly a masterpiece. The Pastor, Rev. Mr. Power, took as his text "The Building of a Church on a Rock," illustrating what is required of a congregation to help in "winning a church," believing in the fundamental, being militant, interested in the problems of life and lastly in the individual. Space prevents further remarks on the services, but one and all present could not but feel that it was good to have had the opportunity of taking part. In the services and listening to the Pastor's impressive words. Special praise is due the Choir for their help, and all encomiums are due Professor Mawer for his selection of anthems. Miss Mitchell sang to great advantage "There is a Green Hill," by Gounod.—COM.

The City's Health.

A case of diphtheria was reported to the Health authorities on Saturday, and also one of typhoid fever from Angel's goods of their kind in America, and the establishment of a local agent in the person of Mr. Gerald Doyle is certain to result in the making of these goods better known and their more extensive sale in this territory. One of their outstanding specialties is Hurdut's Dentalux Tooth Paste, which years ago, had a certain vogue among a small but appreciative clientele in St. John's, but later dropped rather out of sight. A small stock of this dentifrice has again been placed with us, and we bespeak for it a trial on the part of the discriminating. Price 45 cents a tube.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church.

The services at Cochrane St. Methodist Centennial Church were splendidly attended yesterday, quite a number of visiting friends being present. Rev. C. H. Johnson, B.D., occupied the pulpit at both the morning and evening worship. The Rev. gentleman has given during the last two Sundays, three short well thought out, practical and helpful sermons on the Benediction, which certainly must have given the members of his flock new and choice thoughts of the closing words of all the church services. The Benediction was taken up under three divisions: "The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ," "The Love of God," and "the Communion of the Holy Ghost." A well balanced choir rendered two anthems, one of which "Father in the Spirit" was given unaccompanied. At the evening service special reference was made on the passing of Miss Bessie Taylor, who for very many years was a most faithful and devoted worker in every department of the Church's activities, especially as a Class Leader, Sunday School teacher, and choir. The pastor spoke most touchingly of his visits to the home and paid a loving tribute to the memory of this good woman, at the close of which while the congregation was in the attitude of prayer the Choir rendered several verses of the following hymn:—"Now the labourer's task is o'er; Now the battle day is past; Now upon the further shore Lands the voyager at last. Father in the Spirit, keep us, Leave us now thy servant sleeping."

Police Court.

(Before Judge Morris.)
Several drunks were discharged. A drunk and disorderly whose language was not quite that which would be permissible in a drawing room, was fined $3 or 7 days. A prohibition case which had been postponed for the preparation of the defence, the Crown having previously concluded its case, was, at the request of Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., for the accused, further postponed until Wednesday. Another prohibition case in which the defendant is a native of Holyrood, was postponed sine die.

Held on Remand.

A man was charged in the Police Court this morning with the larceny of a carriage rug, a pair of pants and three dishes. The accused, who is being defended by Mr. G. W. B. Ayre, was remanded until to-morrow, when Inspector-General Hutchings will be prepared to proceed with the case. At present there are a large number of prisoners held on remand and the Supreme Court will have a busy time when the Fall Criminal Sessions open, as it is probable that several will be committed for trial.

Case Postponed.

A man was charged before Judge Morris this morning with obtaining money under false pretences. He secured endorsement of a note for $350 on declaring that he was in business with his father. The Crown consented to have the case tried summarily and it was then temporarily postponed. Mr. W. J. Higgins represents the endorser of the note and Mr. Ayre is acting for the defence.

Along the Waterfront.

There is very little doing yet on the fish wharves, and so far but few schooners have arrived in port with cargoes. Hickman's appears to be about the most busy premises. Here there are four or five schooners discharging and several loading. The aux. French barque Omega hauled there to-day for that purpose. The Russell Zink has finished and will sail this evening or to-morrow morning. The schooner Optimist is loading and will be ready in a day or two. The Danish schooner N.E. Schmidt is at the firm's Southside premises loading from several schooners. There is a little activity at Barrs and several schooners are discharging. Three Western schooners are discharging at Barrs premises, and others are due during the week. Last week was a busy one on these premises, most of the fish however coming in by pony and truck from nearby settlements. The price of Shave fish remains unchanged at $5 for No. 1; $3.50 for No. 2; $2.50 for No. 3. Labrador fish has declined 50 cents from the opening price and is now fetching $4.50 per quintal.

Sable I. in Port.

S.S. Sable I. arrived in port at 11 a.m. from North Sydney, bringing a full freight and the following passengers: A. A. Chisholm, B. Nossworthy, W. D. Morton. The ship is expected to get away to-morrow, and is taking a considerable outward freight consisting mostly of partridge berries.

TO-NIGHT—C. C. C. Band Promenade Concert, Prince's Park, at 8.15. Hear the new waltzes "Mello Cells" and "Take it from Me." Admission 20c.

Newfoundland Field Day at Halifax.

Terra Nova's Athletes Give Splendid Exhibition--Bell Wins Five Mile Race--Phelan, Butler and Skirling Show up Excellently.

(Daily News Official Report.)
 The Wanderers' Sports at the big Halifax Athletic meet, were held on Saturday afternoon at their grounds in the Nova Scotia Capital. This event is always looked forward to by the various Athletic Associations in Eastern Canada and picked teams are sent to compete in the various events. This year was no exception to the rule, and over 70 athletes entered for the different contests. A big attraction which aroused new interest in these sports, was the fact that Newfoundland, for the first time sent along a team to take part. Messrs. F. Phelan, T. Butler, H. Skirling and J. Bell, being the representatives of the Newfoundland Athletic Association, in St. John's great interest was manifested in the event, and all were looking forward to see how our local athletes could compare with their brother Canadians. That Newfoundland was not disappointed in her choice of a team, and that her representatives were as good as her best, was fully demonstrated when on Saturday evening the results began to come through, and were bulletined at the Anglo office. Shortly after 5 p.m. large crowds began to gather in Bank Square, and all through the evening until the final message, thousands waited with eager anticipation each report. So dense was the throng at times that traffic was temporarily held up, and the police were compelled to make way. At 5:30 the first message announced that Fred Phelan had won his first two heats in the 100 yards, with Butler also in the running and that both would be in the finals. This was indeed gratifying news, and enthusiasm knew no bounds. Shortly after the messages began to come in, and the following was the position of our boys in the sports:

- 100 YARDS.
(run in heats)
 Second Heat--Fred Phelan, Newfoundland, first.
 Third Heat--T. Butler, Newfoundland, second.
200 YARDS.
 Semi-Final
 First Heat--Fred Phelan, Newfoundland, first.
 Second Heat--T. Butler, Newfoundland, second.
FINALS.
 First, Smith, Halifax Crescents; Second, F. Phelan, Newfoundland; Third, T. Butler, Newfoundland; fourth, Naylor, St. John's, N.B.
Time--10.25 seconds.
QUARTER MILE.
 First, Grant Holmes, M.P.A.A.A. Champion; second, F. Phelan, Newfoundland; third, T. Butler, Newfoundland.
Time--4.46 1-5.
SKIRLING'S TIME--4.51.

The above results were most gratifying, especially as our boys were handicapped in 100 yards, 200 yards and quarter mile, Butler and Phelan doing in all five heats, whereas the other clubs had special men for each event, so that in the majority of cases, our lads were in competition with fresh entries. Grant Holmes, (Halifax Wanderers) winner of the quarter mile, is champion of the Maritime Provinces, and has been going strong during the season. La Pierre, who defeated the salient little Skirling in the mile race, by a very narrow margin, is a runner of repute. He served overseas with the Canadian Forces, and represented Canada in the Allied Army's big athletic meet, in Paris, coming third in the mile. Skirling is deserving of great credit for the splendid showing he made. He has an athletic future in store for him. Smith represents the Halifax Crescents, and is also a champion of no small standing in Canadian sporting circles. Our showing, therefore, taking all the circumstances into consideration, was a remarkable one, seeing that our team never competed on a cinder track previously, their own experience being what they received at St. George's Field.
 After the first results had been known, enthusiastic thousands, overflowed by the splendid showing they had made in the sprint, waited patiently for the results of the five mile contest, in which Jack Bell, our local champion, was taking part. For nearly one hour nothing came through when at 8:10 p.m. a flash was received containing the glad tidings, "Bell wins."

An enthusiastic committee man could not restrain himself, and from the Anglo window, shouted for cheer for Bell, which was the announcement of his being victorious. Bank Square's "win" was with excitement, and it was some minutes before the cheering for Bell had our Halifax team had subdued. It was a spontaneous outburst of appreciation of the work of our boys. The first announcement was followed a few minutes later by the following message from Manager Goodland:

 "Big Newfoundland day. Bell wins five miles in 25.51, was fouled by Rogers in third lap, fell, fouled by Rogers also in second mile, and made the third mile, when Rogers went down and out. A fine race between Bell and Power. Bell made a lap, when Bell pulled away, winning by 300 yards. Phelan, Skirling, and Butler ran well. La Pierre finished mile and fell sick, having been run to a finish. Sympathy of Halifax with Newfoundland Athletes."

Later messages also give similar particulars of Bell's victory which is a new record for the five mile.
 From the messages it is apparent that an effort was made to beat our champion, but his grit and perseverance, and all were looking forward to see how our local athletes could compare with their brother Canadians. That Newfoundland was not disappointed in her choice of a team, and that her representatives were as good as her best, was fully demonstrated when on Saturday evening the results began to come through, and were bulletined at the Anglo office. Shortly after 5 p.m. large crowds began to gather in Bank Square, and all through the evening until the final message, thousands waited with eager anticipation each report. So dense was the throng at times that traffic was temporarily held up, and the police were compelled to make way. At 5:30 the first message announced that Fred Phelan had won his first two heats in the 100 yards, with Butler also in the running and that both would be in the finals. This was indeed gratifying news, and enthusiasm knew no bounds. Shortly after the messages began to come in, and the following was the position of our boys in the sports:

At the final meeting called to arrange the plans for their trip (at which these athletes were present by invitation), each expressed the desire of being permitted to run under their respective Club colours viz:—the blue and white ash of the M. G. Comrades, the green and gold of the B.I.S., and the red, yellow and blue badge of the C.L.B. The National Sports Committee felt that this could hardly be permitted, as they were being sent not as representatives of their various organisations—but of Terra Nova. Their costumes would necessarily therefore have to be uniform, as with a motley collection of colours their identity as the Newfoundlanders would be lost. Black and white were selected by the National Sports Committee, first, because they were neutral, (not being the colours of any local club or organisation) and secondly, because they made a particularly attractive suit of white with black borders, and the letters "A.A.A. N.F.L.D." across the breast.
 Up to the present the A.A.A. have not adopted any colour or combination of colours, and this is a matter to be discussed at the winter sessions of the Association. Trusting this explanation will clear the air, and preclude further heated debates over the action of the National Sports Committee in adopting black and white for the Halifax team, I am,
 Yours truly,
 PATRICK GRACE,
 Secretary N.S.C.

C.C.C. Congratulate Bell

At yesterday morning's meeting of the C.C.C. Athletic Association, several of important matters were discussed and the following congratulatory telegram was ordered to be sent to Jack Bell at Halifax:
 "Catholic Cadet Corps Athletic Association heartily congratulate you on your victory. The news of your success was enthusiastically received at today's meeting. The Association is proud you are a member and wish you further success in the big race to come."
 Bell was a prominent member of the Association, and used the Armoury for practice during the past winter and gave an exhibition in the Indoor Sports held in April. The Association was very successful during the past summer, the football team having won third place in the League as well as several "Fives" and the Boat Race on Regatta Day. The Fall and winter programme will be outlined at the meeting to be held on Sunday next.

Sporting Editor Halifax Herald

Pays glowing tribute to Mtd. Athletes in HALIFAX, Sept. 25.
 That the four starting athletes, representing the Newfoundland Athletic Association, in Saturday's Sports at the Wanderers' grounds made a big win, with Halifax sports enthusiasts was plainly shown on several occasions on Saturday. In recent years some great athletes have come to this city and they have been accorded won-

The Reason Why—

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir—Despite your fat. I must crave your permission to venture into the controversial sea concerning the colours worn by our athletes now in Halifax. My only reason for so doing is that there appears to be a great deal of discussion in various circles over the question, and perhaps a little explanation of the Committee's action in adopting black and white may be desirable.

It might be as well to explain at the outset that these men have not been sent to Halifax by the Amateur Athletic Association, but by a private committee of citizens known as the National Sports Committee, consisting of Messrs. Geo. Ayre (Chairman), Harry Phelan (Vice-Chairman), Billy Burke (Treasurer), Harold Rendell, Fred C. Brown, Rex Field, A. H. Thompson and the writer. This Committee was organized primarily for the object of securing the necessary funds to send Bell to compete in the Halifax Road Race. Emboldened by the whole-hearted support which the public gave the project, the National Sports Committee undertook to send our fastest sprinter and middle distance men as well. Butler, Phelan, and Skirling were selected, strictly on merit, in view of their splendid achievements in the Championship Sports.

At the final meeting called to arrange the plans for their trip (at which these athletes were present by invitation), each expressed the desire of being permitted to run under their respective Club colours viz:—the blue and white ash of the M. G. Comrades, the green and gold of the B.I.S., and the red, yellow and blue badge of the C.L.B. The National Sports Committee felt that this could hardly be permitted, as they were being sent not as representatives of their various organisations—but of Terra Nova. Their costumes would necessarily therefore have to be uniform, as with a motley collection of colours their identity as the Newfoundlanders would be lost. Black and white were selected by the National Sports Committee, first, because they were neutral, (not being the colours of any local club or organisation) and secondly, because they made a particularly attractive suit of white with black borders, and the letters "A.A.A. N.F.L.D." across the breast.
 Up to the present the A.A.A. have not adopted any colour or combination of colours, and this is a matter to be discussed at the winter sessions of the Association. Trusting this explanation will clear the air, and preclude further heated debates over the action of the National Sports Committee in adopting black and white for the Halifax team, I am,
 Yours truly,

 Secretary N.S.C.
 Sept. 24, 1921.

derful receptions, but the Newfoundlanders came in for more demonstrations on Saturday than any other athletes ever received at the local Park. The fact that the boys from the Oldest Colony, travelled the seas to the Halifax Sports, to meet the best athletes in the Maritime Provinces, boosted their stock considerably. Freddie Phelan, the speediest over the century mark, was only beaten out for first honors after three heats. He won with ease both the preliminary and semi-finals in the hundred yards and lost to Smith the great Halligonian by a few yards. His mate, Tom Butler was well to the front and lost by only a few inches. The work of Phelan and Butler impressed locals as good considering the fact that they were running on a cinder path, whereas they compete on turf tracks in Newfoundland. Phelan and Butler made themselves solid and exhibited the real old Newfoundland spirit when they clasped the hand of their victor at the finish. Their act brought loud "rah for Terra Nova" from the 4,000 spectators who cheered them loudly. Diminutive Harold Skirling was up against the fastest field of milers in the East, but he chased the Eastern Canada Champion, Harold La Pierre, right to the tape. La Pierre who has had things easy on the mile events around Halifax the past two years, was unable to shake Skirling until the final hundred yards. Skirling has a nice swinging stride and was loudly applauded for beating several local prizes. Although Phelan, Skirling and Butler proved themselves able performers to Halligonians, John Bell, the long distance runner, was the big outside attraction. All eyes were on the Newfoundland champion and after the first mile of the five mile event which had 19 starters, many wagers were placed on him to win. He ran a splendid race from start to finish. Going to the final lap of the first mile, Alfred Rogers, Maritime long distance Champion, elbowed Bell, and several spectators who were handy enough to see the foul by Rogers, protested to the judges. He was warned for his crowding, but the pace became too hot for him in the second mile and he retired. Power, Halifax star, and Bell then took a long lead, but the crowd were with Bell, and he was wildly cheered. Halligonians do not support a poor loser, and Bell was soon the "white haired" boy of the crowd. Power trailed Bell until the final lap, when the Old Colony star out leese and won by 25 yards. He was escorted around the field on the shoulders of admiring locals. The Newfoundland athletes proved that they were both good winners and good losers, and when they went to the stand to receive their prizes, the reception accorded them was splendid. All Halifax's sports enthusiasts to entertain the young Newfoundlanders and after Saturday's events, invitations to the visitors were numerous. Bell's stock is greatly boosted over his defeat of Power and Rogers, the latter the winner of the Herald Marathon the past two years. He now stands as the logical choice in the big event. To-night Halifax is ready to congratulate the Newfoundlanders who impress Halifax as the finest type of athletes. They are not boasters or knockers, and their quiet unassuming manner speaks well for Newfoundland athletic representatives.
 J. E. AHERN, Sporting Editor Halifax Herald.

What About Team Prizes

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir—In view of the wonderful showing made by our athletes on Saturday, at the Wanderers' Sports in Halifax, there is still a chance for us to attain even greater honors and which I feel confident can be done. The Halifax Marathon is scheduled for October 15th, and as everything points to Bell winning, what about the Team Prizes consisting of a Cup and four Gold Medals. I know of three young men who are anxious to make the trip, and who I understand are in condition; two of the men in question ran second and third when Bell covered the ten miles in 56:23, the other ran second when he covered the distance in 58 minutes. The performances of these men deserve recognition.
 I am only throwing this out as a suggestion, and one that should not be overlooked as it would tend to lessen any particular attention being paid any one competitor of Newfoundland, especially after the showing made on Saturday. The sending of these three men would cost in the neighborhood of eight hundred dollars, an amount which I am sure would be forthcoming without any difficulty.
 In conclusion I offer my heartfelt congratulations to these athletes who have brought honor to Newfoundland and to those who made the trip possible. I especially congratulate Bell who has been a team mate of my own for the past three years.
 Yours truly,
 JOHN M. TOBIN,
 Sept. 24, 1921.

Steamers Leaving.

WILL NOT BE REPAIRED HERE.
 S.S. Oskaloos, which was towed back on Saturday in a disabled condition by S.S. Monroe, will not be repaired here, but will leave today in an attempt to reach New York. The Monroe will again take her in tow. The Oskaloos was 15 days out from Astwerp and encountered some terrific gales during the trip, which stripped the deck of movable. Finally, when engine trouble developed, assistance had to be asked. The Monroe was also badly battered by the recent storms.

Deceased, who for the past 44 years has been a faithful and trusted employee of the Municipal Council, was taken ill on Thursday last, and his almost sudden passing comes as a severe blow to his family and friends. Left to mourn are five sons and seven daughters, to whom the funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon from his late residence, Fleming St.

EDWARD'S LIVERY & RECEIVING DISTRICT.

C. L. B. Cadets
 ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE.
 The C.L.B.C. Battalion, Old Comrades and Band, numbering 300 strong in command of Lt. Col. Goodridge, attended Divine Service at 11 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Mary's Church, Southside. At 10.15 the battalion formed up and headed by the Band, under direction of Capt. Morris, marched along LaMarchant Road, Springdale Street, Water Street to the Church. On arrival of the Brigade the clergy and choir were in waiting to conduct the special C.L.B.C. service. The service opened with the singing of the hymn "Through the night of doubt and sorrow." The Brigade colours were received by the Rector and unfurled and placed on the altar. The Rector, Rev. A. B. S. Sidling, occupied the pulpit and preached a simple, though impressive sermon, which was listened to by all with an attentive ear. After service the battalions formed ranks and marched back to the Armoury via Water, Queen, New Gower and Duckworth Streets, Military and Harvey Roads. After arrival at the Armoury Lt. Col. Goodridge addressed the Battalion. He stated that he was proud to see such a turnout in all ranks of the Brigade, especially the Old Comrades. He impressed upon the younger lads of the Brigade the importance of punctuality on drill nights and other occasions. He also impressed upon the lads that they belonged to a Brigade that they could well feel proud of, and that where they were standing to-day others stood years ago and passed through the ranks, many of whom enlisted in the service of their King and Country and paid the Supreme Sacrifice. Various officers were presented with official commission certificates by the Lt. Col., after which the National Anthem was rendered and the Battalion dismissed.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN DOWN.

(By Canadian Press Cable)—Negotiations between engineering and ship-building employers and their workmen, on the question of the withdrawal of the war bonus of twelve and half per cent on total earnings of time workers, and seven and half per cent on earnings of piece rate workers, have broken down.

A RECRUDESCENCE.

CORK, Sept. 25. According to reports made by Republican Liaison Officers, incidents occurred, Saturday night and early this morning, reminiscent of the conditions that prevailed prior to the signing of the Truce. A party of citizens returning from a social gathering are reported to have been beaten in the streets and roughly treated by members of the British Constabulary.

BELLEY IS OPTIMISTIC.

QUEBEC, Sept. 25. (By Canadian Press)—That the Meighen Government secure a majority over Liberals and Farmers, and that it did not get an absolute majority over both those parties, there would be a group who would amply suffice to control the situation, was the statement of Hon. L. C. Belley, K.C., Postmaster General in the Meighen Administration, and representative of the province of Quebec in the Cabinet, who arrived here Saturday afternoon from Ottawa.

BELFAST'S CONTRIBUTION.

BELFAST, Sept. 25. Two persons were killed, and thirty six wounded in rioting here last night, during which bombs were thrown. Two children, playing in the streets, and a girl were wounded by stray bullets during the rioting in Seaford. One man was shot and killed, and a woman wounded during rioting in Newtownards Road District, in East Belfast, Saturday afternoon.

FAVORS LIBERALS.

TORONTO, Sept. 25. Hope for Canada does not lie in the election of a Farmer or Labor Government, nor in a combination of both, declared James Murdoch, formerly of the Board of Commerce of Canada, and Vice President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in a statement to the Toronto Globe, which appears tomorrow.

EDUCATIONALIST DEAD.

RESCUED AT SEA. NEW YORK, Sept. 25. Rescued after spending three and a half days in two small boats on the open sea, when their ship, the Italian freighter Alacritia, foundered on September 17, after a terrific hurricane, Captain Giuseppe Schiavone and his crew of twenty nine men, arrived here today, none the worse for their experience, on the Spanish cargo boat Cabo Cruz. The Alacritia encountered the hurricane on September 15, when her rudder was disabled, and thrown into the trough of the seas her cargo of grain shifted. The steamer listed and waves tore off the hatchways, allowing the water to pour into holds. After eight hours the storm abated, but the ship was sinking rapidly, and at dawn next morning the crew put off, a few moments before the Alacritia took the final plunge. They were sighted by the rescuing ship, at noon of their fourth day adrift. The Alacritia, 1,690 tons register, was bound from New Orleans and Norfolk for Barcelona.

CHURCHILL SPEAKS.

DUNDEE, Sept. 25. Churchill said the Government was "profoundly disappointed by De Valera's rejection of the offer of Dominion Home Rule, although Great Britain could unquestionably enforce existing law upon Ireland, she none the less is called upon to clear away all misunderstandings. If our offer is rejected, we have the conviction that our countrymen will support the Empire, as will the opinion of the civilized world." The Colonial Secretary said the British Government's offer was generous, sincere and unanimous, and could be carried into effect immediately. Allegiance to King whether as King of Great Britain or of Ireland must however be insisted upon, he declared. He asked, "How could we agree to the setting up of separate foreign republic in Ireland? Not peace, but real war, which was not mere bush ranging, would follow such a course. We want a conference but a successful one. Under Mr. Churchill said, "had made a real sacrifice, and was no longer a stumbling block to the rest of Ireland." He could not see much real foundation for the optimism which prevailed, he asserted, and he still was uncertain where the Irish leaders stood. The proposed Conference, he declared, was the only thing which stood between the Government and failure.

Will Consolidate Cases.

The cases of a man charged by his wife with assault, and that of the same man against his stepson, will be heard to-morrow, when they will be consolidated. Mr. Ayre is acting for the wife in the first case and Mr. Barron represents the husband in both. The whole thing appears to have arisen out of a melee in which the husband was on one side and the wife and her two sons on the other.

Bait Scarce.

S.S. Prospero brought up a large quantity of fish in casks for transhipment to Mediterranean ports. A quantity of oil was also brought along. According to passengers who arrived by the ship there is very little doing to the northward with fish, owing to stormy weather and the scarcity of bait. There is no squid to be had and very few herring have made their appearance.

Gas. Co.'s Meeting.

Mr. G. W. B. Ayre Elected President. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre was elected President of the St. John's Gas Light Co. at the adjourned meeting held on Saturday afternoon in the Seaman's Institute. A new directorate was also elected and a resolution in the price of gas was promised from November 1st. Mr. Ayre presided over the meeting. Before proceeding with the business on the agenda, Mr. Ayre referred to the death of the late Hon. John Browning, who had, for the past half year, as acting Chairman, been very actively engaged in the affairs of the Gas Co. His sudden demise was a great loss, not only to the Company, but the community in general. Hon. D. A. Ryan then moved that the deep regrets of the shareholders at the death of Mr. Browning, and their appreciation of his past efforts in the Company's behalf, be recorded, and that a letter of condolence be sent to Mrs. Browning conveying the sympathy of the shareholders for her in her sad bereavement. The motion was adopted unanimously. Mr. Ayre, chairman of the Finance Committee appointed at the annual general meeting held in May last, then gave his report on the work of the committee since that time. He referred to the removal of the duty on Gas Coal for a period of two years, and to the substantial help which the Government had given the Company in this and other matters, which had enabled the Company to carry on, over a critical period, up to the present time when he was glad to say conditions were so much more encouraging. He informed the meeting that a very advantageous purchase of Gas Coal had been made, and that a cargo of 2,000 tons of the best Westmoreland Gas Coal had arrived per s.s. Maersk, and was now being carted to the Gas Works, and that the city was thus assured of a satisfactory gas service for the ensuing year. The lower cost of this coal had made possible a reduction of 50 cents per thousand feet of gas as from November 1st, next, a concession to users of gas amounting to $13,000 on the estimated business for the ensuing year, and further reductions would be made as soon as circumstances permitted. He referred to the improved condition of the plant at the Gas Works, and the encouraging results obtained from the Westmoreland Gas Coal in use since the 1st April last. The recent arrival of a cargo of this coal made the prospects still more hopeful, and he was confident that the Gas Company had passed the period of misfortune and was now on the road towards its past prosperity.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)

Codfish.—The total export of dry codfish from Newfoundland this week was 30,984 quintals, as follows: From Outports—By schr. Geo. A. Wood, 3,902 qts. from Messrs. W. & T. Hollett, Surin, to Malaga; by schr. E. M. Barr, 4,428 qts. to Bahia; by Mr. Breton, 2,227 qts. to Oporto; by schr. Kristina, from P. Templeman, Catalina, 2,598 qts. to Alicante; by schr. Jas. Baird, Ltd., 5,794 qts., to Pernambuco; by schr. E. E. Martin, from E. M. Barr, 4,428 qts. to Bahia; by Mr. Rosalind, 4,427 qts. to Liverpool, from Messrs. Harvey & Co., Balne Johnston & Co., A. H. Murray, James Baird, Ltd., C. F. Bennett & Co., A. S. Rendell, A. E. Hickman Co., Ltd., E. M. Shipman, Jas. Ryan, T. H. Carter, Terra Nova Co., A. Hearn, and G. P. Barnes.

Cod Oil.—The export of common cod oil by the s.s. Rosalind since last week to New York, was quite heavy and amounted to no less than 35,091 gallons. Mr. A. Ebsary sent out 20,500 gallons, and the rest was made up by Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., and the Franklin Agencies, Ltd. The foreign demand is somewhat improved, but the local price seems to be about at its highest for this season.

Flour.—Imports are now increasing. The consignments by the steamers Sable I, Seal and Manoa last trip amounted to 8,131 barrels. The wheat market has been declining steadily in Canada and the United States, but as the latter country has exported about all that can be spared, United States dealers will henceforth be drawing on Canada, which circumstance is likely to halt the decline. Leading brands in the St. John's market are now down to $12.00 wholesale. The imports for St. John's are 47,000 barrels in excess of last year at this date.

Beef.—American packers' cables indicate a quiet demand with prices showing little change. Local stocks are considered ample for the anticipated fall demand. These stocks include purchases of beef now on the way here, which are said to be considerable. It is expected that the fall demand will run principally to beef this season, owing to its relative cheapness compared with pork, especially as enforced economy will be more pronounced than ever. Prices are: Bee Brand, $26.00; Boneless, $21.75; Family, $21.35; Choice Boneless, $19.50.

Pork.—The market is quiet with demand limited. The undertow is barred.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Grafton, Pa.—I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my side and back. After doctoring with diff. medicines and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I bought a bottle and had it sent to me. It helped me so much that I had to buy another. I am now well and healthy. I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."—Mrs. BEAN L. FISHER, R.D. 1, Box 97, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that results in backaches and aches? But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

by steady. This is the latest advice received during this week by various local brokers. The imports to St. John's to date total 14,532 barrels at this date, against 21,949 barrels at same date last year. Heavy Moss is difficult to obtain and local stocks are small. This week's prices are: Moss, $31.00; Short Cut, $31.00; Ham Butt, $38.00; Fat Back, $31.00; Family, $37.00; Spare Ribs, $27.50.

Melasses.—The schooner Gaspe arrived from Barbados this week with 588 puncheons, 25 tierces and 50 barrels to Messrs. Bowring Bros., Ltd., T. & M. Winter, Jas. Baird, Ltd., A. Harvey & Co., Monroe Export Co. and Knowling. This will make the total for St. John's about 5,500 as against 7,131 this date last year. The Agnes P. Duff loading at Barbados, was driven to sea. The local price is still 55 cents a gallon wholesale, fancy.

Sugar.—The large surplus stock of raw sugar held in Cuba is having the inevitable effect on the market in spite of all efforts to sustain prices. This week an important decline in prices was cabled from American Refineries. How far this weakness may go it is difficult to forecast. Present quotations are: $11.50 for American Granulated in barrel lots, and $11.75 for single barrels. If the duty were same as last year, sugar would now be selling at 7 cents per pound.

Potatoes.—There is no change in the market. Farmers here are selling freely now at $4.00 per barrel, and at $2.30 the half barrel, and $1.20 the quarter from small farmers and milkmen at the doors. The local crop is quite up to best expectations and only needs the next 10 or 15 days' dry weather to be perfect.

Feeds.—All feeds are very cheap just now. The wholesale quotations in St. John's are as follows: Bran, $2.50; Corn Meal, $3.15; Homco, $3.10; Table Meal in barrels, $10.30. The present is evidently a good time to buy for winter requirements.

OATS.—The market at present is well supplied, 1,247 sacks having arrived this week. There is no change in the local prices. The wholesale quotations are: $4.10 to $4.20 per sack for White, and $3.80 to $3.90 for Mixed. The Canadian crop for this year is estimated at 7,355,000 bushels, against 347,000 last year. The price can hardly advance in the face of the figures.

Apples.—There is a big stock in the local market at present and we are in the height of the Gravenstein season. The price declined 50 cents a barrel this week and No. 1 Gravenstein can be bought at $6.25 wholesale, and Domestic at $5.75, and No. 3 at $4.75 per barrel in lots. The retail price (the dozen) is now down to 17 cents.

Hay.—The Canadian market shows more firmness, but the local quotations are unchanged. The wholesale ton according to quantity at purchase, and at the rate of $5.00 to $5.50 by single bales. According as the season advances no doubt prices will be higher. The imports this week were 1,173 bales from Montreal.

Arrived by last steamer, a new shipment of Ladies' Coats in assorted Tweeds, from $6.50 up. Also a few manufacturers' samples of Ladies' Coats, worth $40.00. Sale Price $14.00 to $19.50. I. LEVITZ, 252 Water St., opp. Dicks & Co.—sept 23, 21

"Enumerator" Takes Exception.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Will you please allow the space to reply to a severe castigation in your paper of yesterday's date by one "Pro Sono Enumerator!"

Not being acquainted with foreign languages I endeavored to do some dissecting in order to get what English I could out of it, and the only conclusion which I came to was that the person writing that name must be closely related to the rodent family as the surname would suggest, and the full name must be Bonehead Rat, by which name he should in future be designated.

Could anything be more ridiculous than for a person by quoting a phrase easily found in any ordinary dictionary, to attempt galling the public with the idea that he or she is in possession of phenomenal scholarly ability. The writer of that article expresses pity for me, because I am deficient of a very necessary qualification of competence for Census enumeration, namely humour. I wonder if it is possible for this local Mark Twain to become aware of the fact that one is very apt to carry that qualification too far.

The Census Act says that any person refusing to answer questions will be liable to fine or imprisonment, and my friend may find that facility to lawlessness would be no joke. I have been politely called in said article a fool by using a very familiar quotation.

What an extraordinary individual, that even the Angels would quail in his presence. I would not advise him to go to a cold storage to reconsider his articles published as the temperature would not be suitable, for if he doesn't mind the manner any person desirous of his company will have to go to where the temperature will be exceedingly high.

Yours respectfully,
ENUMERATOR.

"SEEING A WOMAN ACT LIKE A FOOL."

What made you get over it?"

The Feet of the Chairs Put Into Tumblers.

"Seeing a woman act like a fool," she answered simply.

Then she went on. "When I was living at the J's taking care of their little girl, Mrs. J. used to almost go into hysterics whenever there was a thunder storm. She had every door and window in the house shut tight, and she put the feet of the chairs in tumblers because she had heard that glass was a non-conductor and that she trembled and cried and—oh, just generally acted like a fool. I made up my mind I would never be such an idiot and coward."

"Don't you mind them any more?"

"I don't like them but I don't mind them the way I used to."

How is that for an instance of what I have always claimed to be the incalculable value of the bad example?

Is The Good Example Any More Valuable?

They tell us about the value of a good example but I have always claimed it has no more power for good than the value of a bad example, if as much.

I have seen several people give that girl the help of a good example when she used to get all worked up over her terror of thunder storms but I never observed that it had the slightest effect. It took a "woman who acted like a fool" to cure her.

Nothing ever helped me to stand up straight like the bad example of a neighbor of ours who stood all lopped over.

Cheapsness of Public Quarrels.

Nothing ever impressed upon me the dreadful cheapness of quarrelling among members of a family before outsiders (not to imply that it is desirable in the privacy of the family) so much as a day I spent with a family who frankly and vulgarly and hideously quarrelled all day long.

Of course you have got to recognize the bad example as bad before it can help you. And I suppose in order to do this you need the background of unobtrusive good examples to help you distinguish. So both play their part.

But the praise of the good example has been sung in copy books and moral tales for ages, while I insist that the bad example is my original discovery.

World's Richest Island.

No matter how rich you are, how powerful the nation to which you belong, and to what height of civilization you have reached, unless you can get enough to eat, you will die.

In other words, unless the world can obtain sufficient supplies of fertilizers there would not be sufficient food.

Every year the population of the world is increasing, and every year the amount of "virgin soil" is decreasing, which means that to make the land sufficiently productive we must have more and more fertilizers.

There are several fertilizers, but the most important is phosphate.

Our Government realized this and sent an expedition to a tiny island in the remotest part of the Pacific Ocean at the very start of the war.

The reason for this was that for untold years millions of sea birds, attracted by the loneliness of this spot, had nested there, and their inhabitants had left a huge deposit of phosphate, something like sixty feet deep, and amounting to three hundred million tons.

Nauru was the name of this island, and up to the outbreak of war, it belonged to Germany.

The island, with its deposits enough to keep the whole Empire going for years to come, is now the joint property of Britain, New Zealand, and Australia.

Potash is another fertilizer which before the war was almost entirely a German monopoly.

Fortunately that is now broken. France having taken very good care at the peace to secure the potash mines in Alsace-Lorraine.

Armies, navies, and wealth are all very well, but a nation wants something to eat!—Pearson's Weekly.

Bride to Take a Holiday Before Marriage.

A wedding which was to have taken place in a North London register office was put off in a novel way.

The bridegroom with his friends arrived for the ceremony and waited for the bride. Nearly an hour later she rang up the office and asked to speak to her fiancé.

The bridegroom went to the telephone and was told by his bride-to-be that, having thought the matter over, she did not intend to come along and be married. The registrar was asked to hold the licence over as the woman might be induced to change her mind, and the bridegroom hurried off to reason with her.

An hour later he came back and told the registrar that the marriage could not take place as his fiancée wanted to have a long holiday before she was married.

A Soldier of Fortune at the Cape.

The strange history of a Prussian soldier of fortune who enlisted in the service of the Dutch East India Company, and rose to a position of wealth and influence at the Cape in the first half of the eighteenth century, was recently brought to light by the Van Riebeeck Society of Cape Town. The manuscript, excellently translated from the German by Margaret Greenless, M.A., is by no means always historically correct, but the inaccuracies have been pointed out by a careful editor, and detract not at all from a lively picture of manners in the Company's dominions at this period.

The hero of the story, Herr Rudolph Siegfried Allemann, owes his biography to Mentzel, also a German and a soldier of fortune, who came to the Cape in the Company's service. In time he became tutor to Allemann's children, and writes from an intimate knowledge of official circles, in which it seems there was plenty of crooked dealing.

Allemann's career was curiously adventurous. He began life as a lieutenant in the army of Frederick William I. of Prussia, and having been slandered to his master, he thought it advisable to ride across the frontier before he was arrested. He afterwards wrote asking leave to return and make his defence, but received no answer, nor was his family permitted to send him money.

His plight was serious, and he was obliged to sell his uniform and his horse, and eventually arrived in Amsterdam without a penny in his pocket. Like many another soldier who had fallen on evil days, he decided to enter the service of the Dutch East India Company, and thanks to the good offices of a friend, he was admitted by a private entrance to the room where sat the Commissioners appointed to enroll recruits. The eagerness to enlist can only be explained by his desperate straits, for his pay was miserable and the prospects poor. Nevertheless, the doors of the East India House were besieged by hundreds of despairing men who fought like wild beasts for admission. Europe at this time swarmed with ragged adventurers who had borne arms, and to whom civil life offered even fewer advantages than marching at the heels of wrangling monarchs. Dreams of wealth in the golden East may have tempted some, but such dreams were rarely fulfilled, for the Company was a close oligarchy, and gains, honest or dishonest, fell to few except high-placed officials; to most enlistment meant but the immediate starving off of starvation. The test for the recruit was not exacting, and Allemann who picked up a musket in the approved Prussian manner, was accepted without further proof of his military knowledge.

He was fortunate in being told off for service at the Cape, where the climate was healthy, and pay slightly better than in Batavia, but even there it was so poor that he could hardly feed himself out of his earnings. It is true that his biographer tells us with an amusing simplicity that the fresh vegetables and delicate Cape mutton tempted our hero to live somewhat generously while he was a member of the Castle forces, but good trencherman as he appears to have been, he was of sober habits and ran up no heavy scores at the tavern.

Hoping to better his position, he accepted an offer to become one of the Governor's huntmen, who had full leave to roam all over the country provided they sent a regular supply of game to the Castle kitchen every week. Allemann was a good shot and liked the pleasant free life, and the generous hospitality of the Cape farmer made him sure of bed and board wherever he went, but game was so scarce that his difficulties were many. His fellow-huntmen refused to tell him of the secret haunts of buck and wild fowl, and he was often reduced to buying from them to furnish his quota for the Governor's table. The fear of hunger, however, was banished, and Allemann became so popular with the farmers, that they allowed him the run of their land, and even sent the game into town by their own slaves.

It was as the guest of a certain wealthy Heer, Melboom, that Allemann met his future wife, Juffrouw Abbetje Melboom who kept house for her father, treated his guest with such scant respect that he was given a bed in the kitchen, a slight which Allemann bitterly resented, and the lady afterwards regretted. On one of his shooting expeditions Allemann encountered an official of the Government, Euslign Rhenius, who persuaded him to go back to his military duties, promising to watch over his fortunes. The promise rightly made was forgotten, and Allemann soon found himself worse off than before.

He had to buy himself a new outfit, and his healthy appetite had increased with his open-air life on the veld, and now, instead of enjoying good food, provided by his farmer friends, he was reduced to living on ration bread and sea. His troubles, however, had a dramatic solution. One day, exhausted by hunger and by his watch on the Castle walls in the fierce heat of noon, he determined to take his life. He was just about to blow out his brains when two of his comrades rushed forward and snatched the musket from his grasp. The news of his intended suicide spread rapidly and came to the ears of Rhenius, who, overwhelmed with remorse, not only plied his famishing friend with food, but secured for him the post of Corporal at the schuur or barn on the Company's estate, where the wagons and teams of oxen were kept.

F. SMALLWOOD,
The Home of Good Shoes,
218 and 220 Water Street.

A sober and industrious man, Allemann brought order among his subordinates, and in time was rewarded by being made Opperbaas with a house and kitchen garden. By the sale of his vegetables and by means of various other sales and perquisites he added to his income.

He had other ways of making money also which were not quite so reputable. He stood well with the acting Governor de la Fontaine, for whose private use he was commissioned to gather the Company's wood, and deliver it secretly. In payment for this his patron gave him part of his unworked gains.

In 1727 the new Governor, the infamous van Noot, arrived; according to a picturesque legend, he died at the moment when he was summoned before the judgment seat of God by a man whom he had unlawfully condemned to death. Van Noot had a grudge against his predecessor, and by bribes and threats tried to force Allemann to betray de la Fontaine by giving away the secret of his gains. Sycophant though he was, Allemann was man enough to stand up for his former master, a loyalty which van Noot rewarded by ordering him to be shipped off to Batavia as a common sailor. But fortune was to favor him again, and once more his Prussian military training was to serve him in good stead.

Van Noot, knowing that he would have to travel from one station to another, had brought with him a military tent of a capacious and comfortable kind. To set this up, however, was beyond the powers of any soldier at the Cape, and in vain the Governor invoked all the devils in hell to come to his aid. This time Rhenius, not forgetting his protégé, asked Allemann whether he could perform the service. Allemann declared himself capable, and in the presence of the Governor set up the tent, and so charmed was van Noot that he took Allemann into his private room and, after dismissing his attendants, said: "Allemann, will you serve me as faithfully and discreetly as you did Heer de la Fontaine?"

"Sir," replied the pliable Allemann, "Des Brod ich esse, des Lied ich singe."

From that day he enjoyed the Governor's favour, who sought to reward him by finding him a rich wife. By a strange chance the lady whom the Governor destined for his new favourite was Juffrouw Abbetje Melboom, who had treated him with such scant ceremony when he visited her father's farm, and who had now come to live in Cape Town with a married sister. She had flocks and herds, and a store of gold, and Allemann proved no laggard.

The ladies were invited to dine with the Governor and, when the feast was over, van Noot took Mistress Abbetje to a window at the end of the room and told her that he wished her to marry his invaluable Prussian. She consented, and forthwith a soldier was sent to summon the bridegroom, who, protesting his devotion, and the betrothal was announced.

Allemann continued to prosper—a man so pliable and obliging could hardly fail to do so. He looked well after the interests of his own countrymen, taking care that all military appointments were given to Germans. To his credit, he it said, he modified the harsh punishments customary at the Castle.

A curious fate overtook Allemann's biographer, who was carried off home in an East Indiaman against his intention. He had taken letters on board the vessel, which was lying out in the Bay, and so high a sea was running that the skipper told him he would have to remain where he was until the next morning. Mentel awoke at day-break to find that he had been forgotten, and that the ship was racing before a high wind. The captain promised to put him on board an outward-bound vessel if by good fortune they should sight one; but no such luck was to favour the schoolmaster, who had to make the voyage to the Texel with no kit and only a few gulden in his pocket. It was in a sorry plight that he reached his home in Germany, and never again did he venture to return to the Cape.—(Ethel L. McPherson, in United Empire)

Wonders of Liquid Air.

IT IS PURE TO ALL SORTS OF USES.

Not many years ago scientists discovered that the air we breathe could be made to change from its gaseous state to that of liquid. This was brought about by a special apparatus which reduced the temperature of the air enclosed in it to something like 192 degrees below freezing-point.

This, naturally enough, is also the temperature at which liquid air will actually boil.

It has been the means of saving many lives in mine explosions, for in such cases oxygen has to be brought immediately in great quantities. The method previously employed, that of lowering tubes of compressed oxygen, was very slow and generally unsatisfactory.

By using liquid air, however, not only can larger supplies of the much-needed oxygen be conveyed more easily and in quicker time, but the unbreathable gases formed after the use are in far smaller quantities than when the old method was used.

Allemann also uses it. At certain altitudes where the air is so thin that artificial breathing apparatus is necessary, liquid air is caused to evaporate and the gas formed goes into a breathing bag and through a tube to the pilot's mouth.

Recently this wonderful liquid has been put to a further use. It satisfactorily replaces dynamite as an explosive—in fact, it proved better, as it is not so dangerous to use as dynamite.

In Middlesex an eight feet diameter tree-trunk which would have taken two men over a week to saw, was blown up by this means.

Explosion made with liquid air can be prepared on the spot where it is to be used. The liquid is conveyed in special vacuum flasks to keep it as far as possible, at its exceedingly low temperature.

Laboratory workers and specialists also use liquid air to help them in collecting scattered particles of valuable radium and mercury after experiments are operation. It will collect these minerals as a magnet will.

A few queer experiments can be performed with it. A piece of rubber soaked for a few moments will be taken out as hard as lead, and will require a hammer to break it. This is because it has become frozen and stiff. A piece of iron or other metal soaked in this manner will be covered with frost after having been put in a fire! Of course, as it becomes hotter the frost will disappear.

Still further developments are expected shortly, but its chief use for some time will be as an explosive, and it is now employed to a great extent in stone quarries for blasting with great success.

Surplus Women.

EMIGRATION PLANS.

The problem of Britain's two million surplus women is to be dealt with by the emigration authorities.

"At their next meeting the Overseas Settlement Committee will most probably consider the matter in the light of the Census report," said the secretary to a Daily Mail reporter recently, "and they will formulate suggestions to be placed before the Treasury."

More than 2,000 men, women, and children left this country last week for Australia, and 1,250 more will sail on September 23 in the P. and O. liner Buradne.

A large proportion of recent emigrants to Australia, Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, and Newfoundland have been ex-Service men granted free passages under the Overseas Settlement scheme, but the numbers of unassisted emigrants to Australia are increasing.

"On an average," said the director of emigration at the office of the High Commissioner for Australia, "well over 1,000 ex-Service men and their wives and children are being sent to Australia each month. The need is for rural workers."

"We expect a big rush next year, and the Australian Government, I understand, are preparing to grant 2,250,000 for free passages. Ex-Service men and women, provided they make application for a free passage before the end of the year, will be allowed to make use of the privilege any time during 1922."—Daily Mail.

Lonely Island Girl.

QUEST'S ROMANTIC MAIL.

Romano lies hidden in a parcel sent to the Shackleton-Rossett expedition ship Quest for delivery at the lonely British island of Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic. It is being sent to a young woman by a sailor who formed a strong attachment for her during his stay on the island. He is anxious that a photograph of her should be taken and sent to him. This will probably be done.

Among other parcels sent to the island are some addressed to "The Oldest Inhabitant" and "The Principal Lady." It is believed that the oldest inhabitant is by common consent the moral ruler of the island, but there may be a delicate conference with regard to "The Principal Lady."

Reformatories.

Editor Evening Telegram.

The Sir—The editorial on "Walls and Straws" in Friday's Telegram must commend itself to every thinking person. It is manifestly absurd to provide dinners for children in other lands when your own children are starving at home. It is equally absurd to contribute towards the Bernardo Homes when we badly need such an institution ourselves. About this time last year, if you will remember, the houses of prostitution cases, were on, in two of which I figured, and His Honor, Judge Morris, who has done such excellent work in reclaiming many who otherwise would have been lost to humanity, ordered that the inmates of these houses leave, and in a letter to the Telegram, stated that the Judge's decision did not go far enough because the Judge did not say where they were to go after they had left. They could not leave the country, no one would employ them, no respectable home was open to them, they had to leave, they must get money, and there was only one way for them to get it and so they had to go back to similar houses and again take to the path which no doubt they did. That is the state of affairs in the town today and the consequences are terrible to contemplate. We isolate cases of diphtheria and smallpox. The effect of these cases are not nearly as pernicious as these of which I am writing, which keeps on enlarging until the whole ocean has been moved. We have sons and daughters growing up. Are they safe? Are we doing what we ought to keep them safe? We are not. We are doing practically nothing. Lately a band of noble people have taken the first steps to deal with the situation but they are short of funds and almost everything else. These people should be helped in their godly work. Before considering helping the Bernardo Homes learn the needs of these people and after helping them if you have the money to spare then help outsiders. The Judge is compelled to send an unfortunate girl to the penitentiary. When she comes out where is she going. No home will receive her. As before she cannot starve. Only one course is open. She must go back to where she came from, to degradation and death. How many would be saved and reclaimed if there was a proper institution to which the Judge might send them. Take the case of young boys who hardly know they are doing wrong. The Judge has to send them to the prison with criminals of the most hardened type. They are at the most impressionable age. What they learn during their incarceration is never forgotten. Instead of being benefitted they are destroyed. The chances are ten to one against their ever becoming any value as citizens whereas were there a reformatory where they might be corrected, disciplined, taught a trade, they might become useful citizens and an asset to the country. Remember this, we have to pay. We either pay for a reformatory or a prison. We are making assets or liabilities. Are we spending the money judiciously? Think it out. Let us then do as Judge Morris so often has suggested. Put up a place where these erring girls, women and boys can once more be made into successful citizens. Having done that let us turn our attention to a better path namely starting at the source and endeavoring to alleviate the improper conditions under which children are born, reared, educated and brought up and reduce to a minimum the cause, the effects of which are to-day being in our police courts, our penitentiaries, our poor houses and our asylums.

Let us honour those who are working towards that end. The Childs Welfare, The Industrial Home Workers, etc. and then we shall have less need for the Dorcas and the St. Vincent de Paul Societies.

Yours sincerely,
Sept. 26, 1921. GEO. W. R. AYRE.

Just Folks

THE SILENT VOICE.
The voice is mute; the singer is forgot;
The curtain falls, the actor's art has fled.
In memory survive these glorious dead
Where all they did to comfort men cannot.

The soldier falls, but still above his grave
The starry banner flies for men to save.
A shining symbol of man's liberty,
That flag is ours because the lad was brave.

Each leaves his symbol when his work is done,
Some marked by steel and some by finished stone;
By something real the worth of man is known.
To win the praise of those who follow on.

But when the voice of sweetness fades away
Men may remember, for a little while,
The songs which set their spirits all a-while,
But music passes with its hours of clay.

BETTER DAYS.

When young I worried under the ill that children know; my colic was a wonder; I had nine mumps or so. Then grandma made me swallow a stoup of castor oil; and life seemed vain and hollow, a thing of tears and toll. If sickness was disaster, the remedy was worse; the taste of oil of castor long weeks could not disperse. Then all our pills and potions refused to wear disguise, and they stirred up emotions this age can't realize. Then every ailing childer was doomed to drink a tea made up of yarbs as bitter as any yarbs can be. But science is a dandy, its triumphs never stop; our pills are now like candy, our bitter taste like pop. They used to hold our noses and pry our jaws apart, to pour down noxious doses designed to break the heart. The old time methods savored of martyr at the stake, but now our dope is flavored like icing on a cake. And thus the world grows brighter in big and little ways, our burdens all grow lighter, and sunnier our days. My heart is light and tuneful, and full of glee I am, as I consume a spoonful of dope that tastes like jam.

Yacht-Like Liner.

EX-GERMAN SHIP FLIES WHITE STAR FLAG.

The latest addition to the White Star Line, the 17,300 tons steamer Arabic, formerly the German steamer Berlin, has been reconstructed and left Southampton for New York recently. A graceful yacht-like ship, the Arabic steams 17 knots. She has spacious writing and reading rooms, a veranda cafe, and a domed, beautifully appointed grill-room dining saloon. Luxurious suites of bedrooms with bathrooms attached are a special feature. The Arabic will later be put on the White Star Naples to New York route. Misses' Lieutenant for Burns, etc.
