MARKET REPORTS

indicate that there is no surplus of Anthracite Coal in the U.S. The shortage caused by the strike of Anthracite Miners last year has not been made up, and American hard coal will, in all probability, be hard to get and high priced. Coke is an excellent substitute for hard coal, and we have on hand a stock of same that will soon be disposed of, because a shortage of hard coal invariably creates an increased demand for our product.

We advise our customers to book their requirements as soon as possible.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Eberts, Ont.—"I started with cramps and bearing-down pains at the age of eleven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. At eighteen I married, and I have four healthy children. But I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law, who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it and I recommend it now, as I have received great relief from it."—Mrs. NELSON YOTT, R. R. 1, Eberts, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Yott, by taking this splendid medicine.

An Indispensable Favorite Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XV.
"As an indispensable favorite, don't tell you, Dallas?" Joyce replies, her pretty, red lip curling more and more. "She is head nurse and confidential companion, private secretary, general tell-tale, spy, and toady. A most charming person, possessing universal talents! She is a favorite with your wife, too, you see; and there is Lyulph the Lanky, making his way up to her, looking quite hilarious. There is quite a happy family party at Pen-treath at the present time, Dallas. Joyce adds, with a forced smile, "and clever mademoiselle is the center of attraction. Meither and I," Joyce adds, with a bitter, little laugh, "are quite out in the cold."
"I am out in the cold, too, Joyce," Dallas says, softly, looking into her eyes; and the blue eyes smile back at him as sweetly as ever they have smiled on him.

"We must console each other, Dallas, for being shut out of the happy family party," Joyce murmurs.
It is a large, well-furnished room of handsome proportions and exceedingly uncomfortable appearance, presenting the aspect of a first-class hospital ward and a surgical-appliance-manufacturing-in one, with an all-prevailing odor as of a fashionable chemist's shop. A large likely couch, covered in crimson damask and adjusted to half a dozen angles, is extended before one of the lofty windows, which has a red silk curtain on one side and a green one on the other. These curtains are very full, but rather short, not quite touching the floor, which is of well-polished oak parquet, and they are uniquely ugly in appearance.

Before the other window, through which the bright sunlight streams unchecked, is a large, marble-topped table, on which are a plectre and mortar, a charcoal filter, a great jar of distilled water, and an open cabinet of large and small bottles; on a mahogany stand nearby is an elaborate galvanic appliance, with an array of gleaming handles and wires and cylinders, and a big burnished dial plate above all.

The opposite corner of the room is taken up with a gruesome-looking arrangement of pulleys and ropes and horizontal bars, and a wooden seat in the midst of all, as if some unfortunate were to be put to the torture there. Ward-looking chairs, with queer curves in their backs and protuberances at their sides, and leg-rests and reading-seats are scattered about the room, the floor of which is covered with a dull, grayish-brown, thick carpet in the center square, the wide margin being bare and polished.

On the walls hang several portraits of grave and scientific-looking men, and a low bookcase running along one end of the room near the big chair couch contains an ample supply of large, well-bound volumes—books on religious subjects and books on diseases of the body and the mind; and around float the subtle odors of ether, Turkey rhubarb, spirits of wine, musk, camphor, rose-water and lavender.

This soothingly delightful apartment is the private sitting-room of her ladyship, Maria, Viscountess Glynn. Yolande experiences the sickly sensation of entering a dentist's waiting-room—fingers and toes tingling and growing cold, and the mental question repeating itself with extreme rapidity, "Why was I fool enough to come" as mademoiselle ushers her in on the following morning.

"It is one of her dear ladyship's good days!" she says, with the beamings of a devoted nurse.
And Yolande, resting timidly into the corner where the lilac couch is in green light of the emerald-hued curtain, wonders speechlessly what her ladyship looks like on her "bad" days.

A female form, looking horribly like one which has been disjoined and is waiting to be put together again, is extended on the couch, so odd is the attitude on the "ups and downs" of the surgical couch, so painfully defined are the joints of her ladyship's skeleton-like limbs, so cadaverous is her ladyship's long, thin face, with its prominent, long, blue-white teeth and large eyes with pinkish eyelids and long, thin, drooping, pinkish nose.

"I am sorry to have to ask you to visit me in my invalid retirement, Mrs. Glynn," Lady Maria says, languidly, but in querulous, high-pitched tones, as she puts out one chalky-white, bony hand from beneath the coverlet, and then replaces it suddenly; "but I am not equal to any exertion at times. Isabelle, the temperature is getting lower; it has quite chilled my hand."

Mademoiselle trips briskly across to the pier between the windows, where a large barometer and thermometer hang side by side.

"It hasn't varied a decimal, Lady Maria," mademoiselle says, with scientific decision; "but your temperature has, I dare say, allowed me." She has picked up a dainty little instrument of glass and silver from the marble-topped table, and, to Yolande's dismay, Lady Maria opens her mouth, and mademoiselle puts the little tube under her tongue.

"Ninety-seven! You have got up a degree," she announces, thoughtfully. "You must have your beef es-ence and a tablespoonful of local champagne."

"Very well, Isabelle, you know best," the invalid returns, wearily, closing her eyes; and mademoiselle glides into an adjoining room, where Yolande can see more marble-topped tables and a large, polished, brass spirit stove, and more bottles and jars and labeled drawers, like a dispensary.

Lady Maria opens her eyes presently, and look at Yolande, with a faint gleam of interest from beneath the pink eyelids.

"I am a great invalid; I lead a life of constant suffering," she says, with a faint smile, which is curiously complacent. "You, I suppose, Mrs. Glynn, know nothing of aches and pains and sleepless nights and weary days?" and she sighs wearily enough as she speaks. "I am obliged to live according to rule in every single particular," she continues, her wasted, bloodless face growing more animated as she expatiates on the intolerable existence she terms "living"—"to eat, drink, sleep, be clothed, go in and go out according to rule, or I could not live at all. I must rest so many hours in the twenty-four; sleep so many hours, have so many ounces of food and drink—the liquids and solids must be most carefully calculated, my doctor tells me—have restorative and strengthening mixtures—my maltine and peppin and bitters and mineral waters—all at their stated intervals, or I should never know what a moment's health was!"

Penury and Wealth March Side by Side in Brazilian Capital

Rio de Janeiro.—The million and a quarter citizens of this city are fighting a gallant but losing battle against the constantly increasing cost of living. The besieging army of speculators, profiteers, corner manipulators, and "middlemen" are pushing the attack with relentless vigor, while the desperate populace is making feeble but bitter resistance.

It is estimated that the cost of living here has increased 100 per cent. within the last twelve months. At the beginning of that period it was nearly double what it was five years ago. Many commodities which the common people considered necessities a few short months ago are now looked upon as luxuries.

Not only have prices doubled and tripled on food, clothing and housing, but the quality of all these things has deteriorated just as rapidly. Imitation, falsification and adulteration have become so common that they no longer cause comment. Owing to the cost of materials, only unavoidable repairs have been made on all buildings, and there is practically no new construction going on.

The local authorities, recognizing the desperate nature of the situation, are struggling to ameliorate conditions. The municipal council has created a committee to confer with the minister of transportation and the agriculture committee of the Senate to seek a solution of the problem.

The street fairs which were established in every section of the city a little more than a year ago have become tremendously popular institutions. Food staples and articles of clothing and household use are sold at these fairs at prices considerably lower than prevail in the stores. Rich as well as poor are patrons. It is no uncommon sight to see a richly dressed lady loading her limousine with her purchases as a street fair.

Two or three of the popular newspapers have been conducting campaigns against what they term "The Daily Tragedy," in which for weeks they have covered their front pages with pictures and heartrending stories of the poverty and misery that is found in all parts of the city, and which they assert has not been equalled here in modern times.

In contrast to these gloomy pictures, however, is the undeniable fact that never in Rio's history has there been such a display of wealth and luxury on the city's downtown streets as at present. The Avenida Rio Branco, on any pleasant afternoon, is almost impassable because of the fashionably dressed crowds that throng its sidewalks. Silks and jewels are conspicuous, and high priced automobiles pass in endless procession. The shop windows are lavishly in their displays of luxuries sold at fabulous prices. Motion picture shows, theatres, and amusement clubs are crowded to capacity by pleasure seekers.

There is little unemployment, and while wages have not increased in proportion to prices, there have been no strikes nor serious talk of strikes for more than two years.

Despite the increasing flow of immigration from Europe, both manufacturers and agricultural interests complain that they are unable to maintain or expand their activities because of labor shortage.

The Church of England Loses Two Bishops

The Bishop of Chelmsford.

The Church of England has lost within two days two bishops who were both peculiarly identified with London. Dr. Watts-Ditchfield, the Bishop of Chelmsford, entered the Church in an unusual way, having been trained for the Wesleyan Ministry and only ordained at the age of thirty. He remained all his life a fervent Evangelical, and from the time of his appointment in 1907 to St. James-the-Less, Bethnal Green, he became a great force in the Church at the East End of London. Practical and wide-minded, unconventional in manner, and a forcible and attractive preacher, he drew crowded congregations, and at the same time worked as effectively outside his church as within its walls. One of his gifts was a great hold over men, and he made a deep impression in Australia, Canada, and New Zealand during a pastoral tour as representative of the Church of England Men's Society. Mr. Asquith's bold choice in 1914 for the new and heavy See of Chelmsford was fully justified by the Bishop's work during the rest of his life, and his example should long remain as an inspiration to his successors and the clergy of the diocese.

The Bishop of Islington.

Like the Bishop of Chelmsford, Dr. Turner, the late Bishop of Islington, did all his best work in the East End of London, beginning with his appointment to St. George's-in-the-East in 1882 by Bishop Jackson, to whom he was for some years domestic chaplain. But in other respects there was little likeness between the two

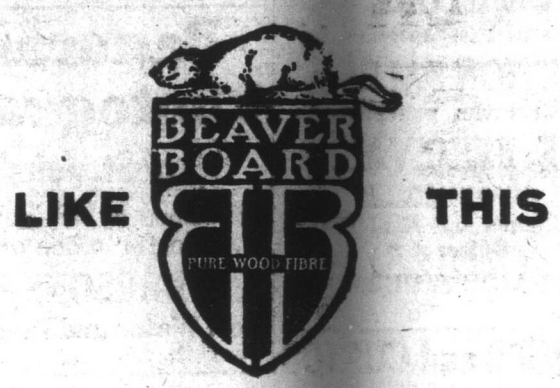

The Truth About Beaver Board.

Beaver Board may be had in widths of 32 inches or 48 inches, and in lengths of 7, 8, 9, 10 and 12 feet. You can buy one board or several boards, just the right size for your purpose and so avoid all waste.

Beaver Board is sized back and front and is therefore damp proof and rot proof, besides you are spared the expense of having it sized by your painter. The expense thus avoided may amount to more than $5.00 per thousand feet. Remember this when you are computing cost of Beaver Board.

Beaver Board will not crack like plaster, costs less, and looks better. In addition, Beaver Board costs less for repairs or alterations than plaster. Less than $10.00 worth of Beaver Board will ceil any room in your home.

The back of every genuine Beaver Board is branded

Look for this brand on the back of the board you buy.

Beaver Board does not show ugly seams like V jointed or pitch pine ceilings, is not wasteful, takes paint better, is more easily cleaned, is much more artistic and is in many other ways superior to V jointed or pitch pine ceiling.

Beaver Board has shown its superiority to inferior wall boards; its merit has been proven. We can show you two panels on the OUTSIDE of our store which have been exposed to the rain, sun and snow, since 1912, and are still in good condition. Beaver Board costs slightly more than inferior wall board but once your house is done with Beaver Board you won't have to replace the boards in 10 or even 20 years time, in fact Beaver Board will last as long as your house and is therefore really cheaper than inferior wall board.

The price of Beaver Board is now 5 1/2 cents per square foot retail.

bishops just deceased. In speech Dr. Turner was distinguished by a very quiet and unemotional style; but he was gifted with common sense and wisdom and an aptitude for all practical business. Educated at Highgate and Trinity, Cambridge, he was ordained in 1868, and first benefited in Fitzroy Square in 1877. He was consecrated as a suffragan to Bishop Creighton in 1898, and transferred in 1912 to St. Andrew, Undershaft, which he resigned in 1912. He was eighty-one at the time of his death, and for the last few years had been much incapacitated by increasing infirmity.

A young man and his wife were staying at a hotel in the country. On the evening of their arrival his wife went up to bed and left him smoking his pipe.

Presently he, too, went up, but it was dark, and he could not find the room. After a good deal of wandering about, he thought he had at last found it.

He tapped on the door and said, "Honey! Honey!"

A voice from inside the room answered: "Go away, you idiot! This is a bathroom, not a beehive!"

The Territorial had just finished his first route march with his detachment. In the evening a friend happened to meet him on the way home, and stopped to inquire how he liked being a soldier.

"Oh, not so bad," replied the new recruit in an off-hand way.

"Why, what do you mean?" said the friend, surprised at his lack of enthusiasm. "You were so keen on it last week."

Washington Honours Her President's Remains.

German Chancellor Declares French Procedure in Ruhr Makes Negotiations Impossible--Youth Shoots His Sweetheart--Insulin Treatment Obtainable by All.

IMPRESSIVE ARRIVAL OF FUNERAL TRAIN AT WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. President Harding's funeral train reached Washington at 10.22 last night. Thousands jammed the station and approaches; the concourse waiting for hours the arrival. The train backed into the station so that the funeral car, with its flag draped casket came in first. The lights in the car cast a brilliant glow in the train shed as Mrs. Harding stepped off the car, leaning on Secretary Christian's arm and with Dr. Sawyer on her other side. The band in the concourse played "Nearer My God To Thee," as the casket was lifted from the special door cut in the side of the car and placed on a rolling platform. Mrs. Harding reached the White House at 10.45 p.m. just as her husband's body was being taken into the President's room. At the station it was borne through the long room and to the plaza beyond and lifted to the black draped gun car, then with military escort, and followed by a long cortege, including President Coolidge, Chief Justice Taft, Secretary Hughes and members of the Cabinet, the body was taken to the White House and was carried in its casket tenderly into the East room with its endless bank of flowers from the kings and great ones of the world.

THOUSANDS PAY TRIBUTE TO THEIR DEAD PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. A swelling tide of honorees bore Warren Harding to-day back over the road by which he came triumphant to the Presidency two crowded years ago. Among tens of thousands of his silent countrymen grouped along the way he passed in such state as only the great dead of the nation is accorded. He was carried to-day down the wide avenue with marching legions tramping ahead to lay him under the Dome of Capitol for a brief space before his native state received the mortal remains of her most distinguished son. General Pershing rode ahead of the cortege that passed down the silent crowded street from the White House to the Capitol, while behind him and preceding the carriage marched thousands of military, their bayonets glittering in a warm sun. Following was President Coolidge, grieving that high office came at such sorrowful cost and with him the only living man who before had held that office, one so crippled in illness that he might not give himself as he would to the sorrowful duty of the day. Woodrow Wilson and William H. Taft. The flag draped casket was laid open beneath the Dome where thousands passed in silent procession throughout the day to bid their last farewell to the much loved President, so soon to leave Washington forever.

FRENCH PROCEDURE SAYS CHANCELLOR CUNO TO PEACE.

BERLIN, Aug. 9. French procedure in the Ruhr and Rhineland makes negotiations with the French wholly impossible, Chancellor Cuno told the Reichstag this afternoon in the course of his promised review of the internal and foreign situation. Referring to the present stage of the Anglo-French conversations, he said "In her endeavour to continue cordial relations with her former comrades in arms, England undoubtedly made concessions to France, and while it is not for us to pass judgment on them, we at the same time believe ourselves free of the folly of expecting sympathies in quarters where we know they are not present." It current purporters among the entente nations are not productive of tangible results Germany will be wholly reconciled, said the Chancellor, to the realization that she is dependent upon herself and that her battle will be fought in spirit of self-reliance.

BATTLE BETWEEN POLICE AND RELIGIOUS FANATICS IN PHILIPPINE ISLAND.

MANILA, Aug. 9. Details of a battle between a detachment of Philippine Constabulary and Moro Religious Fanatics, which began last Saturday in Lanza District, Island of Mindanao, resulting in the killing of forty-six maddened natives and wounding of three constables came to Governor Wood by telegraph to-day. A band of crazed Moros have been causing trouble for some time and the Commander of the troops in that district decided delay in cleaning out the danger zone would mean greater loss of life and a body of Constabulary set out into the wild country to wipe out the band. Thirteen natives deserted the band, thirty-six were killed and twenty were reported to be still holding out in their mountain fastnesses but would be captured or killed.

Critics Praise It.

The best advertisement for Three Flowers Toiletum is that it is praised by critics everywhere. Persons who never were satisfied with talcum before are happy in the use of Three Flowers, for this delicately perfumed powder possesses a rare charm and dainty tone that is most desirable in any toilet need. You should use Three Flowers. Most drug stores now have the face powder, talcum and vanishing cream. Will you try these high class toilet preparations or will you be satisfied with cheaper brands? For the lady of good taste and refinement there is only one answer to this question. The answer is "THREE FLOWERS."

The Guardian's Grievance.

ENFORCEMENT OF UNJUST LAWS.
(The Guardian.)
Inspector General Hutchings and the police under him have recently become very active in the enforcement of a law that is to say the least an unjust and discriminatory one. A number of men who happen to own motor vehicles, the purchase and use of which have brought enormous revenue to the country, are forced to pay a special direct tax for road purposes and for which they are already taxed to the hilt. The Dept. of Public Works has failed in its duty to see that the public roads are kept in decent repair, and another department, shall we call it, The Nfld. Road Commission, is brought into being to do the very work the Dept. of Public Works should be doing. What a farcical way the affairs of the country are managed. And citizens are unmercifully fleeced by taxes to continue and perpetuate the farce. And if you happen to consider this thing unjust and unfair, and make a protest, you receive visit after visit from the police and finally you have to pay or be haled before Court. But, and here is where the shoe pinches, other laws on the Statute Book are winked out of sight, and the same police activity is not displayed, although some of these laws are far more important than the one to which we make special reference. As the Telegram recently remarked: "We have become the slaves of the professional politician, and have danced too long to the tune which he pipes."

In the matter of the "Quelling of Titles Act, 1921," and in the matter of that piece or parcel of land situate at Heart's Content, in the Electoral District of Trinity, now in the occupation of John G. Wilcox, of Heart's Content, Telegrapher, tenant of The Western Union Telegraph Company.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to all parties that The Western Union Telegraph Company, of New York, have made application to the Honourable Mr. Justice Kent, a Judge of the Supreme Court, to have their title to ALL THAT piece or parcel of land situate near the Main Brook of Heart's Content, and bounded as follows, on the North by vacant land, measuring thereby forty-three feet, on the East by a public pathway, measuring thereby sixty feet, on the South by land of Ambrose Cumbly, measuring thereby one hundred and four feet, and on the West by a public pathway measuring thereby eighty-five feet six inches, the same being more particularly described in a diagram thereof annexed to the conveyance of the said land from Aaron Cumbly, of Heart's Content, Administrator of the estate of William Cumbly, to John G. Wilcox, and registered in Volume 72, Folio 433 of the Registry of Deeds for Newfoundland, and subsequently conveyed by the said John G. Wilcox to four petitioners by conveyance dated the 29th day of March, 1921, and registered in Volume 72, folio 525 of the Registry of Deeds for Newfoundland, and his Dependencies, of which they claim to be the owners, investigated, and for a declaration that they are absolute owners thereof in fee simple in possession by their tenant, John G. Wilcox, except as against His Majesty and the said Judge having ordered the notice of the said application to be published as required by the above named Act. All parties having claims adverse to the said title claimed by the said Western Union Telegraph Company shall file in the Registry of the Supreme Court, at St. John's, particulars of such claims, and serve the same, together with an affidavit verifying the same, on the undersigned Solicitor for the petitioners on or before the 4th day of September, 1923, after which no party having any such claim shall be permitted to file the same or to be heard except by special leave of the Court, and subject to such conditions as the Court may deem just. All such adverse claims shall then be investigated in such manner as the said Judge shall direct.

A PRETTY HOUSE OR PORCH FROCK.
4270. Checked gingham in brown and white is here illustrated. It is trimmed with white pique. Figured voile or percale will also be good for this model. Taffeta or tub silk would be very pleasing, with stitching or embroidery for trimming. The Pattern is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size requires 5 1/2 yards of 32-inch material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2 1/2 yards. To trim as illustrated requires 3/4 yard of 18-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A SIMPLE FROCK FOR THE GROWING GIRL.
4288. Blue wool jersey embroidered in colors, or green taffeta with plings and vest of pongee in a natural shade will be pretty for this model. The Pattern is cut in 3 Sizes: 12, 14 and 16 years. A 14 year size requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A CHIC LITTLE DRESS.
4421. Foulard in tan and blue was used for this model. It makes an ideal wrap-weather dress, with its simple sleeveless lines. The waist back over laps the fronts in long shoulder extensions. A sash of ribbon or a girde of silk will form a pretty finish. The dress is cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years. A 16 year size requires 4 yards of 32 inch material. The width of the dress at the foot is 2 1/4 yards. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

TWO PRACTICAL KITCHEN "SENTINALS."
Pattern 3600 supplies these models in One Size: Medium. For the Apron one may use percale, madras, gingham, seersucker, drill or cambric. It will require 1 1/2 yards.
For the Oven Cloth, unbleached muslin, denim or drill would be suitable for the foundation, and acetone or gingham for pockets and facings. An interlining of asbestos is very desirable. 1/4 yard of 36 inch material will be required.
Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A PRACTICAL MODEL.
2872. Here is a popular shirt style, good for madras, cambric, muslin, silk, sannel or khaki. The fronts are closed in coat style. The sleeves may be finished in wrist length with a cuff, or in elbow length without hie cuff. The Pattern is cut in 11 Sizes: 13 1/2, 14, 14 1/2, 15, 15 1/2, 16, 16 1/2, 17, 17 1/2, 18 and 18 1/2 inches neck measure. A No. Size Name Address in full:

JOSEPH'S REGATTA THIS AFTERNOON.

The inclement weather which prevailed yesterday made it necessary to postpone the St. Joseph's Regatta until this afternoon. Even had the weather been ideal it would have been impossible to hold the regatta on account of the high wind prevailing. The C.E.I. who were out for a practice were nearly swamped by the buoys at the bottom of the bay. The first race this afternoon will be the Dory at 4 o'clock, which will be followed by the Cabmen. The programme will therefore be as follows:

- 4:00—Dory Race
- 4:30—Cabmen's Race
- 5:00—Amateur
- 5:30—District
- 6:00—Fishermen

Fishermen Rescued.

Two fishermen of the Battery, namely Thompson and Compton, owe their preservation from a watery grave to a splendid piece of seamanship and prompt action on the part of Capt. Rose, of the tug Hugh D. Yesterday at 2 p.m. caretaker Bartlett, of the Tower telephoned the owners of the tug that a motor boat was on the rocks at Sugarloaf. Capt. Rose was immediately sent to the scene and after some difficulty rescued the two men and secured the motor boat. It appears that the engine broke down and a small sail was carried was of no use in saving the boat of the land in the breeze that prevailed.

Magistrate's Court.

A drunk received his discharge. Two young men residing at Topsall were arraigned before Court on a charge of stealing one horse collar, and a set of traces, the property of Mr. Chas. Steer, valued at $20.00. The accused were represented by Counsel W. J. Higgins, K.C. One of the defendants who worked at Steer's Farm pleaded guilty to stealing the collar, but denied the larceny of the traces. The second man pleaded not guilty of both charges. After the evidence had been heard, Mr. McCarthy, J.P., withdrew the charge for stealing the traces, and convicted both for the larceny of the collar. They were each fined $10.00 and costs or thirty days imprisonment. It being their first offence.
An old offender, charged with the larceny of $5.00, the property of a boarder of the same house, pleaded guilty. The accused who has a bad police record, having served various sentences for larceny was sent down for three months.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Thursday, August 9, 1923.

The Export of Pulpwood.

Any enterprise which will help to relieve the industrial situation in Newfoundland, provided it is undertaken by an individual or a corporation whose financial reputation is beyond question, is certain of general support.

Conditions are such that the immediate need of the people must be considered regardless of anything. The first responsibility of a Government is to provide for them, through industrial channels if possible, by less economical means if absolutely necessary.

In 1921 the depression in trade was keenly felt and means had to be devised to provide many with the bare necessities of life. A measure was passed entitled An Act respecting the Exportation of Timber, and repealing previous statutes which had wisely prohibited the exportation of pulp wood.

We previously referred to the necessity of adopting even uneconomical measures to meet unusual conditions, and the above mentioned Act is a case in point.

The supply of our timber is by no means unlimited. Fires have wrought havoc in our forests, and the immensity of the cut each year by the companies in operation is threatening to reduce their value considerably.

The statement has been made so frequently of late that our fisheries are, and will remain the chief industry of this Island that it should be by now stamped indelibly on the minds of all.

Canada to-day views with alarm the inroads that are being made on her forests, and the industrial losses that she is sustaining by permitting pulp wood to be exported to the United States.

The Harnsworth and the Armstrong-Whitworth Companies by their vast investments in Newfoundland have proved to the world that our natural advantages offer unequalled opportunities for the manufacture of pulp and paper, and it is our business to help the development of this industry in every way.

Let us not be persuaded to part with our heritage for a mess of pottage.

Express Passengers.

S.S. Kyle, Capt. Stevenson, arrived at Port aux Basques yesterday morning bringing the following passengers who are on the incoming express:—C. S. Pearce, Chas. and Mrs. Fewer, Miss M. In Passing.

Never in the country's history were we so destitute of public opinion as we are to-day.

Day after day in every way the cost of our indifference is growing despite the many pronouncements of the politicians who up to a few months ago were pleased to make extravagant promises of an economical and reduced expenditure of the public debt.

Recently new loans have been floated for which an already overtaxed community must provide hundreds of thousands yearly to pay the interest.

These thousands of dollars are equivalent to many millions added to the public debt of the Colony this year.

To-day's list under the title "How the millions are spent" which will be found elsewhere in this issue are but small items in comparison with the many already published and the still greater ones which will be reviewed in the course of time.

The Pension list of 1922-23 is nothing short of an outrage or a premeditated attempt to raid the Treasury. Here we have officials who are qualified in every respect to fulfill their duties but who are paid salaries to retire in order that some beaker of the Government might be awarded for his election campaign work.

Every department of the civil service has been thus prostituted with the result that we have to-day incompetent officials enjoying remunerative positions for which the capable and experienced who were satisfied to continue in office are forced to resign.

It is now almost three weeks since the announcement was made that an immediate investigation would be conducted re the alleged scandals that brought about the resignation of Sir Richard Anderson Squires and those which were openly stated in connection with the Agriculture and Mines Department also that of the Controller's Department as the outcome of the suspension of the late acting controller.

Why the delay or indifference? If the present government is desirous of securing the confidence of the country such demands must not be trifled with. If Premier Warren is sincere in his assertions to have a general clean up of state matters, he must first deal with these scandals in a manner that will be acceptable to all concerned.

During the tenure of office of the present government we have had grave scandals publicly admitted, but no serious investigation was instituted. For the cost of the Steamer, Salt, Fishery Supplies, and Steamer scandals will for many years to come be an expensive one for the wage earner and producer.

They are now written with past history. Surely the scandals of 1922-23 are not going to be thus treated. The people want to be reassured that we have a patriotic, honest, economic government in power.

The deception practised by wily politicians on the people of Newfoundland as characterized by the government will no longer be countenanced.

These investigations must be proceeded with immediately, we can no longer afford to accept philosophical or the successful operating of tricky politicians. Now's the day, now's the hour!

Important.—We draw the attention of readers to two notices of motion which are placed in the order-to-day which read as follows:—

Hon. the Minister of Justice.—To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider an Agreement between the Government and Malcolm J. Mooney.

Hon. the Minister of Justice.—To move the House into Committee of the Whole to consider an Agreement between the Government and Harry J. Crowe.

No Half Holiday.

Efforts were made this forenoon to have the stores close earlier than usual to permit the employees to witness the St. Joseph's Regatta. The Importers Association could not see their way clear to grant a half holiday following the usual close up on Wednesday, and consequently the stores will remain open until the usual closing hour. The Telegram, in order to give its employees a chance to see the races, went to press at an earlier hour than usual.

Rev. Dr. Whelan Laid to Rest.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK THE OCCASION.

All that was mortal of the late Rev. Dr. Whelan was laid to rest at North River yesterday morning. Citizens from all parts of Conception Bay came to pay their last respects, while a large gathering of prominent citizens of Church and State motored in from the City to attend the obsequies.

C. L. B. Notes.

(Wednesday.)
Weather cold at Topsail this morning. The Camp Commandant telephoned the Officers Hut. Everybody's health and food excellent.
Major finds he has to keep up an enormous supply of fresh beef, bread and butter to satisfy the fancies of the substantial afternoon Consuls.

Fr. O'Callaghan's Party.

On Sunday next, oh, let you rove To see the good old stock, Sir O'Leary, and O'Callaghan's party.
Down there His Reverence the Priest Will welcome you most hearty.
Oh pleasure there you'll get a feast At Father O'Callaghan's party.

His Reverence will shake your hand And crack a joke also, Sir.
All sorts of folks in Newfoundland Speak well of him you know, Sir.
So don't be slow on going down. He'll welcome you most hearty.
I think there'll be a rush from town To Father O'Callaghan's party.

Perlin. All ranks were delighted to see their old Lt.-Col. Sir Joseph Outerbridge and Lady Outerbridge and Lt.-Col. R. G. Rendell in Camp yesterday. Sir Joseph being the first Colonel of the C.L.B. and was succeeded by Col. R. G. Rendell, both having done magnificent work. Col. Outerbridge securing the first C.L.B. Armoury on King's Road and Col. R. G. Rendell being responsible for the building of the big forty thousand dollar armoury at present in use and handed over by him free of duty when resigning his charge. Their continued interest in their old Regiment is highly appreciated by the present executive.

Mrs. Hollands of the Sea View House, Topsail, kindly contributed a prize cake, which is being awarded to the lady having the best kept tent in camp.

Last evening it rained and blew a gale, but all ranks were safely under cover and the tents were inspected and in perfect shape. The Officers are grateful to Mrs. Hugh Baird for the kind treatment given them to use the tennis courts at her residence. The following Officers—Lt.-Col. Walter F. Rendell, C.B.E., Major Tait, M.C., Camp Commandant, Major Williams, Captains J. Snow, Adjutant, A. S. Lewis, A. Morris, Phil B. Rendell, W. J. Short (Grand Falls), James J. Miller (Bell Island), N. French (Bay Roberts), Lieuts. W. R. Mott, R. G. Erley (Grand Falls), M. J. Taylor (Orderly Officer), A. B. Perlin and Arthur Sterling. Prayers were said by the Rector of Topsail at 9.30. The bugler sounded lights out at 10 and all were soon asleep excepting the Officers and their friends, who were at their dance in the Orange Hall tripping the light fantastic to the music of Captain Sandy Morris's musical artists.

Is This the Lost "Tut"?

Dear Sir,—In your advertising columns on Tuesday I noticed an enquiry for a lost collar answering to the name of "Tut". For the last week or so the residents of one of the streets near Buckmaster's field have been kept awake the greater part of the nights by the constant barking and growling of a number of dogs that seem to have quite suddenly taken up residence there. Early yesterday morning, after sitting by an open window for hours listening to the annoying yelps of these brutes, a neighbour who had been kept awake like ourselves, leaned out of his open window and was heard to remark, "Tut, tut, tut, this is terrible." I wonder is this the "Tut" that is wanted. We hope it is and that the owner will find him and bring him home. Should he find his canine through the letter I would suggest that he give the reward to one of the city constables. "Tut, tut, tut" it is surely annoying to be kept awake thus.

Junior League Football.

SCOUTS DEFEAT ST. MARY'S—SCORE: 5-0.
A small gathering of fans attended last night's Jr. League game, the contesting teams being the Scouts and St. Mary's, which resulted in a win for the former by a score of 5 to 0. Two goals were scored in the first half, Haynes and Stacey being responsible and 3 in the second half, Haynes scoring two and Driscoll one while the St. Mary's draw blank. The Scouts team is strengthened since their last game and easily had the best of play over their heavier opponents. The game was a good one despite the nasty weather that prevailed during the evening.

Obituary.

GEORGE J. KEOUGH. (H. F. SHORTIS.)

It is with deep regret we record the death of Mr. George J. Keough, well and favorably known in this city, as well as in Conception Bay, which occurred at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. D. Williams, No. 7 Leslie Street, in the West End, on Tuesday morning, Mr. Keough was born in Carbonear, 72 years ago, being the son of Mr. Keough, a well-known and highly respected master cooper of that town. He received his education at the Grammar School, presided over by that brilliant scholar, Alexander O'Donovan, M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and after the demise of the famous teacher, under the tuition of the late Lawrence Mackey. When about fifteen years of age he came to St. John's, and entered the flourishing and enterprising firm of R. O'Dwyer, where he remained for some years, after which he entered the employ of George Knowling. After leaving the latter firm he became connected with the firm of Berney & Fitzgibbon. After some time in that employ, he started business on his own account in the shop at the junction of Queen and Water Streets, opposite Connor's Drug Store. After the year of the crash, he entered the employ of A. Harvey & Co., in which firm he had been a faithful and trusted employee for the past twenty-three years. During his life Mr. Keough filled various important positions, everywhere winning the sincerest regard of all who came in contact with him by his ability, dutifulness and integrity. A man of noble character and pleasing personality—a citizen of the highest type—a Catholic who practised his religion, he held the confidence of all classes. His candour and unbiased regard to truth had always been prominent among the many excellent traits of his character. Indeed his whole life has been in strict accordance with the sentiments he entertained of the Christian religion. He was a firm believer in the resources of our country, and years ago he was financially connected with the developments of the mine in Harbor Main District, as well as connected with other industries. His wife (nee Miss O'Brien) predeceased him about 17 years ago. He has left two sons, John, who is working with the Bell Telephone Co., Montreal, Leo with the Engineering Co.'s Plant at Lachine; two daughters, Mrs. D. J. Williams, of this city; Mrs. C. A. Leverman, of Halifax, who arrived in time to be at his bedside, and one brother, Peter, the well-known cooper of Carbonear, to mourn their sad loss. The funeral, which took place this evening from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. D. J. Williams, 7 Leslie Street, was largely attended, and Undertaker M. W. Myrick had charge of the arrangements. The Telegram extends sincere sympathy to the family in their bereavement. Requested in pace.

Household Notes.

Waffles will not stick so badly if you do not wash your waffle iron very often, but keep it well covered from dust.
Alternate layers of chilled blackberries with layers of sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with a dash of cinnamon.
When using lemon juice, tomato juice or vinegar with gelatine, about one-third more gelatine is required than with milk or coffee.
Chopped olives and preserved ginger mixed with cream cheese and mayonnaise make a delicious spread for hot bread sandwiches.
When making a chocolate sponge cake heat the milk and chocolate together in a double boiler and cool before adding to the dry ingredients.

The Best Shops Throughout the World Sell Sunlight Soap

PIN THIS UP TO YOUR KITCHEN WALL
FOLLOW DIRECTIONS AND SAVE MONEY

Use Sunlight Soap in this way which saves time and trouble. Put your linen and cotton clothes to soak in cold water overnight, or for at least two hours. Wringing out in the morning, then rub each article with Sunlight Soap, see that you put Soap on all of each article. Roll each article tightly and place the entire wash in a tub of hot water.

LEAVE SUNLIGHT SOAP ONE HOUR TO DO IT'S WORK

Then rub the clothes lightly on the washboard, turn each garment in-side out and rub Sunlight Soap on the seams and soiled places. Next, rinse in lukewarm or tepid water, wring out and hang up to dry.

THE SUNLIGHT WAY IS THE EASIEST WAY

For woollens and flannels first shake each article well to get rid of loose dust. Cut a piece of Sunlight Soap into chips or flakes, put the chips of Sunlight into a pan of boiling water and make a good lather. Wait until the water becomes lukewarm, then wash out each article in this lather without rubbing. Don't use the washboard, let Sunlight Soap do the hard work. Squeeze out the water, don't twist. Rinse well in two relays of lukewarm water. Squeeze out the surplus water, don't twist. Hang up the clothes to dry.

SPEAKING OF POPULAR SONGS.

"Where does that phrase come from and what is the sense of it?" "Where," said the Authorman, "could it come from except from a popular song? And why do you demand my sense from a popular song? Has your experience taught you that that is the place to look for sense? And starting from that we held a symposium on popular songs we could remember and their sometimes engaging and sometimes disgusting idiocies.

"And I Had But Fifty Cents!" One of our earliest recollections (I will risk detection by admitting that I have a memory of hearing the flappers of that day sing it, though I insist that I was not old enough to sing it myself) was: "She said she wasn't hungry but this is what she ate." Perhaps some Reader Friend who is not afraid to give data bearing on his age can help me remember exactly what she ate. Ice cream and cold cream, fish balls and cannon balls are all of her diet that still sticks in my mind. But of course I do know the tag line: "And I had but 50 cents."

The song which ended: "Can't get away to marry you to-day, my wife won't let me," was of the ironic class whose humor really seemed to have a little more sense behind it, and we all agreed that we had enjoyed that.

"Poor John" was another of the old popular songs that did not depend either on absolute idiosyncrasy or on sentimentality for its appeal, and that got a unanimous vote of thanks.

The Tree Song. The tree songs were an interesting example of the way one song may breed a whole litter. I thought the original ancestor was "Under the Bamboo Tree," but my neighbor reminded me of, "In the Shade of the Sheltering Palm," a rather serious affair as we remembered it. But from the seed of the palm came several kinds of trees, some sentimental and some frankly meant to be humorous. There was the old Apple tree, and the bamboo tree, and the banana tree, and we felt there were others we could not recall. (Again I appeal to Reader Friends not too sensitive on the subject of age.)

Which Do You Think? We could not agree on the palm for the most idiotic lyric. The Authorman wanted to give it to: "Chinatown, my Chinatown, when the lights are low.

CUTTING THINGS OUT.

WALT MATON.

"Oh, cut out this, and cut out that," the deos have told me, all my days; "you eat too much, you are too fat, cut out the pork and live on maise." I did not heed their warning words, on winds rich I'd dine and sup; I laughed to scorn those wise old birds, and still you see me right side up. "Cut out the pipe," I've oft been told, by earnest friends who wished me well; "the nicotine will knock you cold, or send you to a padded cell. Tobacco is a filthy weed, it knocks your morals out of plumb, it makes you blind and broken-kneed—cut out the pipe and chew spruce gum." I did not heed the things they said, and at my pipe I tolled away; the smoke wreaths eddy round my head, and I am still on earth to-day. And ever as I garden walk, containing bodies, two or three, of men who did not smoke at all. And in the padded cells I find poor drooling gent who used to bet that smoke would paralyze my mind—and their misfortunes I regret. "Oh, cut out that and cut out this," some folks are crying evermore; they'd have us cancel all the bliss, and make of life a grievous bore. And some who make the loudest noise, don't sacrifice, to great extent; they don't forego their little joys, their thorn habits, worth a cent.

An unusually delicious filling for a layer cake is made with blackberries. Beat half cupful of butter until creamy, and one cupful sugar, one and a half cupfuls of blackberries and half cupful of cream beaten stiff.

More Home (Un)truths.

"The bride looked a perfect fright," wrote the Society reporter; "but the bridegroom, who was tastefully attired in the usual black, looked charming, and was the centre of all eyes." "No, sir," remarked the clerk, "I feel that I cannot accept a rise. I am not worth it, and I think you are paying me more now than you should, and so does my wife." "I love school, and I am awfully fond of my teachers. I always pay attention, and like to learn all I can. I hate the idea of holidays!" said the child from round the corner to us the other day. "I never powder my nose," remarked a flapper to us recently. "I think it looks so silly for a girl to powder her nose in the street or office!" "My dear," said the husband to his wife, "you look so tired to-night that I think I will stay away from the club and do the washing-up for you!"

Cook apricots in a sugar and water syrup, cool, place in a serving dish, sprinkle with chopped peanut brittle, cover with sweetened whipped cream and more brittle and chill.

Another Promotion.

A certain Colonel X., who was always hard-up, was unable to pay his tailor's bill, and, as he had no money with which to settle, he offered to introduce the sartorial gentleman into Society instead. This was agreed to, and the colonel asked the tailor to a dinner he was giving during the following week. When the tailor arrived he was so well-turned-out in perfectly fitting evening-dress that the colonel did not recognize him, and as he shook hands he said: "Pardon me, my dear fellow, but I have quite forgotten your name." "Very likely," replied the tailor in a low, sneering voice. "I made your toga."

Economic Conference Will Discuss Frankly Imperial Conference.

PREMIER SMUTS ON BEHALF OF SOUTH AFRICA WILL OPEN UP WHOLE QUESTION OF TRADE RELATIONS WITHIN THE EMPIRE.

(By GEORGE HAMBLETON, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 8.—Concurrently with the opening of the Imperial Conference proper, the Imperial Economic Conference will, in October, begin its deliberations. The proceedings and decisions of the Economic will not be less important than those of the parent conference. The Imperial Conference will deal with the broad questions of foreign policy and defence. But the point is taken that, the war over, defence has ceased to be the major problem. It is urged that the prime consideration now is restoration of the world to some approach to normal conditions, that what is needed more than anything is world-wide resumption of trade.

"Europeans," comments Premier Smuts of South Africa, "know how to make war, but unlike South Africa, they do not know how to make peace." "I intend," he further declared, "to fight on behalf of South Africa a battle for peace at the Imperial Conference."

Sir Philip Lloyd-Greaves, President of the Board of Trade, has indicated the importance which the British Government attaches to the Economic Conference. The Conference is not to be one for the passing of plums resolutions. The policy of the British Government will be co-operation with the Dominions for the acceleration of development, with consideration of the question how best the credit of the Mother Country may be used.

Australia intends to bring extension of Imperial Preference before the Conference and thereby bids fair to raise a crucial issue. Imperial tariff first came concretely before the Dominions when at the Colonial Conference of 1889 South Africa proposed a two per cent duty on foreign goods, the proceeds to be devoted to the maintenance of the Imperial Navy.

Since those days Imperial Preference has made great strides, particularly in the overseas dominions. Canada substantially led the way in 1897 by giving a tariff preference of 25 per cent to British goods. Subsequently she increased her British preference to 33 1/2 per cent, and according to Premier King it now reaches on certain goods as high as 50 per cent. With the exception of Newfoundland and Australia its advantages extend to all the larger British possessions.

In return Canadian goods are now granted a tariff preference in the United Kingdom (including Northern Ireland), Irish Free State, New Zealand, Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia except Congo Basin, British Guiana, British Honduras, Trinidad, Barbados, Grenada, St. Vincent, St. Lucia, Dominica, Antigua, Montserrat, St. Kitts-Nevis, Virgin Islands, Jamaica, Bahamas, Cyprus, Samoa, and Fiji—a long list, running across the Seven Seas to remote corners of the Empire.

In 1917 the Imperial War Cabinet accepted the principle of Imperial Preference and the Mother Country herself has made some departures from the orthodox lines of Free Trade. In the Chamberlain budget of 1919 the main feature was recognition of Imperial preference by giving an abatement of one-sixth on the duties levied on such imports as tea, coffee, cocoa, sugar, tobacco and motor spirit and one-third of those levied on cinema films, clocks and watches, motor cars and cycles. A further development in Great Britain of the scheme of Imperial preference was in the imposition of duties under the Safeguarding of Industries Act. Goods covered by the Safeguarding of Industries Act are dutiable at 25 to 33 per cent when imported from a foreign country and are free when of Empire origin. The majority of goods affected by the foregoing are perhaps not of great industrial importance to Canada. Canadian automobiles have chiefly benefited. In 1919 Canada exported 1,472 passenger automobiles to the United Kingdom, valued at $719,920. Last year she exported 12,548 valued at $5,116,752.

Australia and New Zealand now want further preferences in the British market. Australia has given official notice of her intention to raise the question of Imperial Preference at the conference. Unofficial notification from New Zealand is to the same effect. South Africa intimates that she would welcome more preference for her products but has no desire to use any form of pressure. Canadian delegates it is expected will follow the lead of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at earlier conferences, namely, that Canada would welcome any additional preference extended to her exports but that the granting of preference is essentially a question for each parliament to decide for itself. So far as Great Britain is concerned difficulty will lie in the fact that imports on which the Mother Country imposes customs duties and is therefore able to grant a preference are limited in number. Should extension of Imperial Preference be pressed to the point that it would involve general taxation of foodstuffs in Great Britain, there may be some lively clashes of view. Already some signs of brewing storm. A parliamentary committee of Liberal and Labor members has been formed at Westminster to defend the principles of Free Trade. On behalf of the Baldwin Government it has been intimated that any changes in preference considered desirable would be recommended to Parliament providing they do not involve fundamental change in the present fiscal system of Great Britain. In this connection it is also worth recalling that when Mr. Bonar Law announced in 1917 that the Imperial War Cabinet had approved the principle of Imperial Preference, he likewise intimated that it did not involve the taxation of food. But Imperial Preference will be only one of the subjects to be discussed at the Economic Conference will deal not only with tariff but with the allied subjects of shipping and communications. Work in technical research, fostered by war conditions, goes within its ambit in consideration of means whereby such research may be co-ordinated throughout the Empire. Post-war problems of currency, the problem how best to keep the Empire informed of trade possibilities, the natural resources of the Empire and how they may be developed to the greater advantage, unification of laws in regard to trade and trade practices—all these are topics for consideration by the conference. Departments of the Dominion Government are now at work collecting and shifting great masses of statistical and other information in order that the case for Canada may be presented effectively.

Just Folks.

TEMPTATION
There's a lake outside my window that is laughing at the sky
And from the cliffs along the coast the St. Kitts-Nevis, Virgin Islands, Jamaica, Bahamas, Cyprus, Samoa, and Fiji—a long list, running across the Seven Seas to remote corners of the Empire.

I know the fish are biting for I saw Paul Strabing come
With a string of bass he'd taken from this region of the Thumb.
And off yonder in the distance I can see a boat or two.
But a fellow can't go fishing with a lot of work to do.

There's a pine woods nearby starting now its softest melodies
And I catch the faintest humming of their music on the breeze.
I could spend the day exploring nature's wonders ever new.
But instead I'm at my table with a lot of work to do.

Should the good Lord in the future ever look at me and ask
That all important question: "Was I faithful to my task?"
I shall answer, one glad summer in a place he'd built for play
I'd a lot of work before me, and I didn't run away.

The Overland Route.

(Chambers' Magazine.)

Until the opening of the Suez Canal, when people spoke or wrote of the Overland Route it was always understood to refer to the British Isles at any rate, to that small section of land which separates the Mediterranean and Red Seas, and which obliged any one wishing to go to India by sea to take the long route via the Cape of Good Hope. There was no steam navigation in the eighteenth century, and a voyage to India usually occupied six or seven months. Some adventurous people tried to escape the monotony of the long sea voyage round the Cape by an overland route across during the eighteenth century. To most a good deal, and though they possibly evaded some monotony, they had to encounter hardships, dangers, and disadvantages which must have made some of them regret their choice. They by no means escaped the sea, and were often delayed at ports on their journey for want of vessels in which to continue it. No considerable part of the route was through inhospitable Turkish territory.

One of the East India Company's Civil Servants, George Forster by name, went from Bengal to St. Petersburg through Afghanistan and Persia, and across the Caspian Sea, and wrote a book recording his experiences; but the majority of the overland travellers seem to have chosen the route via Constantinople or Aleppo. Major Taylor, who was accompanied by his wife and a Mr. Blackader, wrote a detailed account of the experience of his party. They had two servants, and left London on the 21st of August, 1789, proceeding to Dover in their coach. There they paid twelve guineas for a packet to carry them and their belongings to Ostend. From Ostend they proceeded in their coach to Venice, which they reached on 8th September. Their expenses between Ostend and Venice amounted to about £100. They were three days at Venice where they chartered a vessel to take them to Zante, at a cost of £71. They were detained twenty-four days at Zante, and did not reach Zante until November 1st. At Zante they chartered an English brig to take them to Alexandretta, or Scanderon, as it was then called, which they reached after a fifteen days' voyage.

On the 28th November. They left again on the 30th November, mounted on small wretched horses of Turkish breed, with uncomfortable Turkish saddles. After ascending high and rugged hills, they reached Ballan at dusk, and Antioch on the following day. The people of Antioch were notorious for their discourtesy to Christians, and acted in accordance with their reputation. They assailed Major Taylor's party in the most vile terms of reproach. They laid hold of Mrs. Taylor by the arm and tried to pull her from her horse. Reaching Aleppo on the 4th December, the travellers found the inhabitants more civil to strangers. At Aleppo they remained until the 15th December, this being the place where arrangements had to be made for crossing the desert. People who wished to study economy usually remained at Aleppo until a caravan set out. These sometimes composed of more than a thousand souls. Each caravan was licensed by the Turkish Government, the license specifying the number of men and animals composing it. As there was a lady in Taylor's party, it was not thought desirable for them to attach themselves to a public caravan, they therefore formed a private one. It consisted of forty men, armed with matchlocks and scimitars. Each member was provided with a riding camel and a horse, and there were sixteen camels to carry the baggage, tents and water. For meat they depended on what they could obtain on the way—horses in the desert, and sheep, goats, and fowls in the villages. The guard and transport across the desert cost about £280. In addition to this they had to pay £120 for Turkish clothes, provisions and ammunition. Leaving Aleppo on the 16th December, they reached Basra on the 17th January, and were entertained by the British Resident, Mr. Mainsby. They found the nights very cold. On the third day from Aleppo ice three inches thick was found in a pool, which had to be broken with hammers to enable the party to replenish their water-bottles. The desert was reached on the sixth day out, when they encountered a good deal of rain. There was no scarcity of water, which was obtained from pools in the cavities of rocks. There being no vegetation, the camels had to be fed on barley cakes. On the 2nd January a naked Arab informed the sheik in charge of the escort that a large band of robbers was in the vicinity. In order to avoid them a detour was made; but subsequently it was found that the supposed robbers were a large body of merchants with 300 camels laden with dates on their way to Aleppo.

Major Taylor left Basra on the 24th January, having secured passages to Bombay for his party at a charge of £135. They did not reach Bombay until the 23rd February, having been detained six days at the Basra bar owing to the vessel losing her rudder, and four days at Bushire waiting for the Resident's despatches. Major Taylor's party thus spent 185 days on the journey from London to Bombay, but of these no fewer than eighty were lost in unnecessary delays. He estimates his expenses at £1425, 3s. 6d. Had they not been the guests of the British Resident at Basra and Bushire the total would have been higher. One party had to undergo thirty-five days' quarantine at Trieste. Many of these early overland travellers wrote books recording their experiences, and perhaps the sale of these may have helped to recoup the cost of the journeys. They were hardly such as to tempt others to try new ways to escape the monotony of the sea journey round the Cape. Only in very rare instances was any time saved. Every one seems to have experienced vexatious delays. Colonel Capper of the Madras service appears to have made the most speedy journey in the eighteenth century. It occupied four months and ten days from Loughora to Bombay, and he complained that forty days of this time were wasted on account of transport difficulties. The present generation, which grows in the comfortable mail-steamer, are an hour or two beyond their schedule time in reaching Bombay, knows nothing of the difficulties of travel experienced little over a century ago between England and India.

A Pastor's Tribute.

On the night of the 28th of March the writer was preaching in Pouch Cove Church. Just as he was closing his sermon he was moved to remind his audience of the uncertainty of life and of the fact that any day may be our last. The closing words of the discourse were "for anything we know this may be the last hour for some one of us, and he may be now drawing his last breath." Just then, all unknown to the speaker and his audience a young man of eighteen years belonging to the congregation was "drawing his last breath" on board the S.S. Terra Nova at the Seal-Behery. It was Levi Nopeworth's first voyage. Ardent and greatly desirous of helping his parents in supplying the needs of home he had begged permission to go and earn what he could. They had reluctantly consented, and the high-spirited boy had gone forth telling his friends that his father would have all the flags flying for him when he came home. And so they were indeed! All the flags in Pouch Cove were flying half-mast when the precious remains were brought home to his broken hearted parents who had to wait four long weeks for them. The consolations of religion were brought very comforting to the heart of the young man by Bro. Levi Butt of Western Bay, who in a letter, written under the shadow of a personal bereavement, says: "I visited him in his sickness, sang and prayed with him until he could sing no more. He was so happy when we sang together 'Oh think of the home over there.' His last song was: 'I will love Thee in life, I will love Thee in death, And praise Thee as long as Thou lendest me breath!'" "His last words, as, in response to his wish, I kissed him, were 'I am satisfied!'" The congregation at the funeral service was the largest ever seen in the Pouch Cove Church. Deep and widespread sympathy with the bereaved parents was very touchingly revealed by all classes. Sorrow that one so young should die, and die under such circumstances was universal. And yet as the scholars of the Sunday School, of which he was a most regular attendant, sang the hymn which he had sung with his dying breath—"My Jesus I love Thee I know Thou art mine," a solemn gladness mingled with our sorrow; for we realized that though he has gone, he has gone where the lovers of Jesus go, and therefore for him "to die is gain."

A DELIGHTFUL FRAGRANCE.

In Hudnut's Three Flowers Face Powder you find a rare fragrance—a charm—a fascination that will instantly appeal to good taste.

Here is a toilet necessity that any lady can be proud to be identified with.

The THREE FLOWERS odor which is so subtly incorporated into this most refreshing powder is a real treat in itself. For summer's hot days and nights there is a real luxury in this beautiful toilet necessity. We now have all the THREE FLOWERS specialties and will be pleased to give you the benefit of our experience when making your selection.

BROTHER BILL.

A Dutchman riding in a little cart drawn by a goat was stopped at a bridge by the tollkeeper.

"I got to pay toll?" said Hans.

"Yes; twopence to cross the bridge."

After an argument he paid the toll and went on. In the afternoon he came back again. Only this time he had the goat sitting in the cart and was drawing it himself. Out came the tollkeeper. "Here, you know you've got to pay twopence."

The Dutchman shook his head and, pointing to the goat, said: "Don't talk to me—ask the driver."

Similar Story at the Nickel To-Night.

GREY'S "GOLDEN DREAMS" IN SCREEN FORM.
 One of the most popular stories of the year is Zane Grey's novel, "Golden Dreams," which is the story of a man who goes to the West to make his fortune. This is an absorbing story, one of which takes place in a Spanish state known as Aragon, where an American mining man is delving for oil on the Mesquitas. The adventurous story gathers momentum with the advent of film and crashes into its climax as the screen has never known in many a month. The photographs are clear and excellent in every particular. The exteriors were taken in the most beautiful spots in the West.

Prepare the Indeflexible.

Baldwin has begun on the final situation as a new broom. I only wish I could see how he will make a clean sweep of the situation as Monsieur Poincare, in France, persists in his course, the choice for us is letting him go on and stop him. As there are no visible signs of stopping him, and as he does it is certain to provoke something which remains but to let him do it. I do not see any way out of this dilemma. M. Poincare and his government, being nothing if not stubborn, may be assumed to see none of Mr. Bonar Law, on the result of his own proposals, elected to the side while the French occupy the Ruhr. he resigned to the initiative in dealing with Germany. It follows that inevitably that which would remain with Germany she chooses to resign it. M. Poincare himself will not do it. There is consequently no possibility of any material change in the situation until France is convinced by the inexorable teaching of events, and for that we must wait.

Only a few among us like to see a certain number of firm believers in their opinions. Either they still expect to see him justified by the results or they are so delighted with his occupation of Germany that they do not care how long it lasts. It is widely it is extended. A larger number are so impressed with the danger to us involved in the situation of the present situation that they feel we cannot acquiesce in anything must be done. The Government has this feeling very much and has decided to try and do something.

It would be unreasonable to blame the Government for this. We are entering a period in which a Government would be committing suicide by setting silent folded hands while things take their course. Besides, there is a note still waiting to be answered. Granting for these reasons something must be done, the Government could hardly have done anything less than the declaration of its intention to do so. The document is like a choice, it is a choice between Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Poincare. It has proved itself to all the nations concerned except the French, and even have swallowed it without uttering faces than were to be seen.

What does it all amount to? Government is going to frame a note to the last German Note in the hope of securing the assent of all nations. It is hoped, therefore, with Mr. Poincare what Mr. Law was unable to do, day after day ago, and what Mr. Baldwin and Lord Curzon have been unable to do the protracted questionings and wranglings of the last few weeks. When Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Baldwin settled matters so agreeably themselves over their golf at home. It may be that Mr. Baldwin and Lord Curzon are equal to the task. But until I see it done, I cannot believe that anyone in this country is going to stop Poincare.

A Sure Cure.

The bride of a year was certain that her husband did not love her nearly so much as when they were first married. Accordingly she went to a fortune-teller in order to find out what the stars had to say about the matter.

The mystery woman looked in her glass for a while, then, in a low, sonorous accent she said:

"Get a raw piece of beef, cut flat about an inch thick. Slice an onion in two and rub the meat on both sides with it. Put on pepper and salt to taste, and grill it on both sides over a bright fire. Drop on three small lumps of butter and two sprigs of parsley. Serve this up with the usual trimmings and get him to eat it."

The young wife did so, and her husband's affections never again wavered.
