

PECULIAR TORONTO

Moody Thinks the Queen City an Anomalous Place.

ENTHUSIASM IS NOT FANATICISM.

Politicians Who Can Give Examples to Preachers.

The Evangelist's Meetings Continue to Attract Immense Throngs to the Music Hall—Fifth, the Tallman Which Brings Blessings on This Sin-Cursed Earth—The Kind of Christianity That is Empty Profession.

It was unequivocally demonstrated yesterday that Evangelist Moody's meetings do not depend on those who only go to church in Sunday clothes. His congregations on the previous day were as fashionable as those in any of Toronto's churches. Such was not the case yesterday, especially in the afternoon. The crowds that filled Massey Hall consisted of a very large extent of women of the humbler class. Their attire was more homely than fashionable, and most were past the heyday of youth. Looking over the "serried ranks" there was a marked lack of color, save that indicative of mourning or sombre hue.

The Preliminary Service. The doors of the hall were opened at early as 2:30 o'clock. Nearly an hour elapsed before Mr. H. Blight had a sufficient number of chorists to commence with Bishop Heber's fine hymn, "Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty." Mrs. Blight presiding at the organ. Then followed such gems of sacred song as "Tato and Brady's As Pants the Heart," "Jesus Saviour, Thee I Praise," "Kehle's 'Sun of My Soul,'" An agreeable innovation was the singing of the sacred song entitled, "Little Mary." The choir sang:

Mother, in that golden region, With its peary gates so fair, Up among the happy spheres, Is there room for Mary there? And then comes the chorus, in which the people joined:

Come, there's room; come, there's room; Down with the glorified angel band; Yes, there's room; yes, there's room; Room in the beautiful heavenly land.

Then Mrs. Patterson, who possesses a sweet voice of good compass, sang as solo:

Some one will enter the peary gate, And by and by, by and by; Taste of things that are sweet, Oh, my soul, shall I? Some one will enter the peary gate, Beautiful visions will long behold, Visions and pleasures so long foretold, Oh, my soul, shall I?

A Great Gathering. It was now 4 o'clock, and the vast hall was filled in every part. Mr. Moody gave out a copy of the program, and gave out Rev. Ray Palmer's touching hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee, Thou Lamb of Calvary." Silent prayer both preceded and followed an interesting petition by Rev. Dr. Thomas. Mr. Moody's prayer was most fervently. His hoarseness had departed; he looked brighter than on the previous day, and seemed, if possible, happier in his remarks. After the quietude of silent prayer it seemed in the fitness of things to sing the hymn written by the Bishop of Exeter, "Peace, Perfect Peace, in This Dark World of Sin." This was the best vocal essay of the afternoon. Rev. Elmore Harris read a most appropriate scriptural passage, "God's Message to Joshua, which, four times over, he is told to be 'strong and of a good courage.'"

Then the devotion was made, and a popular hymn, not in Sankey's book, was sung with all the enthusiasm which the stimulating creature of the Lord, "Throw Out the Life Line," popular at the recent Baptist convention, was sung with more enthusiasm than ever before in Toronto.

Mr. Moody is such a strong believer in prayer that, although the time was rapidly passing, he could not commence calling on Rev. Dr. McFarlane and he called on him with invocations.

Elements of Success. The evangelist had the ground clear at last. In louder voice than he could command yesterday he said: I spoke to you yesterday on the elements of successful prayer; today I shall treat of the elements of success in work for the Lord, or necessary qualifications for an efficient Christian worker.

He was very outspoken and did not beat about the bush in his strictures. He told them that he had no desire for the extension of Christ's Kingdom, their Christianity was all empty profession. The first element, he said, was faith. This was the great tallman which brought blessing on this sin-cursed world. A Scotchman in 1878 (Mr. Moody) still burned in his Saul's army but believed that God would be defeated, but there was the youthful David, who was sure that Goliath would be defeated.

Small Means, Great Results. Then Mr. Moody showed that let man claim the glory, God used humble instruments to achieve the most glorious results. God has worked for 6000 years on this line, and He's doing the same thing still.

Then the Lord wanted a book written about the Bible. He didn't go to Oxford or Cambridge Universities to get the job done, but to Bedford Jail, and He entrusted the work to a drunken tinker.

The story of the Canaanitish spies afforded theme for comment. Faith never sends out spies. A majority and minority report was the result in the olden days. The faithless and unbelieving are always in the majority. The world is quick to believe a lie, and the people believed the story of the giants, compared with whom the ten said they were grasshoppers. Caleb and Joshua, men of faith, said it was the giants who were grasshoppers. (Laughter.)

GENERAL DEBILITY.

How to Secure Release from the Distressing Symptoms That Follow in the Train of a "Run Down" System.

The expression general debility is frequently made use of in referring to those who are weakly or whose system is run down, and it covers a multitude of symptoms that either singly or in the aggregate make life miserable, and hurry the victim to an early grave unless prompt and efficient means are taken to restore exhausted nature by building up the blood and assisting it to absorb oxygen, your weak medicine and organic life.

Another World-Beating Remedy. Albert Lyotte, the young student, who attempted to commit suicide by taking a dose of laudanum, was arraigned at the Court yesterday, but, upon his father consenting to be responsible for him in the future, the magistrate allowed Lyotte to go.

Death of Mrs. Thelma Johnston. The death occurred Monday morning at the residence of her brother-in-law, Dr. J. Ogden, 198 Bathurst-street, of Mrs. Louisa J. Johnston, wife of Mr. Thelma W. Johnston, who was born in England, and mother of Mr. James Johnston, druggist, Carlton and Bloor-streets. The deceased, who was the daughter of Mr. Daniel MacFarlane, died for nearly half a century a resident of Toronto, and was a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Johnston was a sister of Walter MacFarlane, coal and wood merchant, Mrs. C. D. Waterhouse, 25 Howard-street, and Mrs. J. Ogden, 198 Bathurst-street. The remains were taken yesterday afternoon to the family residence at 2431 Miss E. L. Taylor, Holland, Man.

California and Mexico. The Wabash Railroad Company now offers the advantage of a daily tourist train to Los Angeles and San Francisco leaving Dearborn Station, Chicago, 10:50 a. m. on arrival of the morning train from Toronto. The route is by the only true Southern route, avoiding mountain ranges and snow blockades. Four nearest ticket agents, with time tables and other information of this route, are: J. A. Richardson, 100 King-st. West, Toronto; J. A. Richardson, 100 King-st. West, Toronto; J. A. Richardson, 100 King-st. West, Toronto; J. A. Richardson, 100 King-st. West, Toronto.

To Improve Drainage. The York Township Council occupied 10 hours yesterday evening, which was principally devoted to routing business. Mr. John W. Moyes, representing the council to grant them the right to apply electric light and electric power for lighting manufacturing and other purposes within the limits of the Township of York.

Backbone Wanted. A friend of mine in Virginia said he weighed 100 lbs. and 88 of that was backbone. (Laughter.) I like such a man, said Mr. Moody. That is what we want—backbone. (Laughter.) Some churches in the United States say, "Come in and be saved, or stay out and go to hell." Perhaps you have heard that kind of talk in Toronto. I hope you have not.

That Big Humbug. Just try, the speaker, to get some one to "come and hear Moody." What will the answer be? "That big humbug! That mountebank! I'm disgusted with the Toronto ministers bringing him here." I would rather hear a man speak like that, added Mr. Moody, than one who would smile, say yes, and who has heard the Gospel for 25 years, and it rolls off him like rain of marble. There is more hope for the other class, so go for them; go for them.

The Tide at the Fall. Wonderful was the sight presented at Massey Hall last evening. The vast building was densely crowded long before the time of meeting. Thousands were unable to gain admission, and an overflow meeting was held in the Metropolitan Church.

Mr. Moody entered the hall at 7:15 and the service commenced. The special hymns sung were: "Awake, Awake, O Heart of Mine," "We Shall Stand Before the King," "Joy to the World," "Must I Go Empty-Handed?" "Whither Thou Shovest," "Nearer to Thee," "Now the Night is Over." Rev. Elmore Harris and Rev. Dr. Parsons led in prayer. The latter also read a Scriptural lesson, Luke x—the story of the Good Samaritan.

Mr. Moody asked all to rise who were on the Lord's side, and nearly the whole of the great audience sprang to their feet. "Thank you," said Mr. Moody, "I wanted to see whom I had for an audience."

The Snares of War. Mr. Moody said: I saw some collection plates, boys. I do not object to a collection, if it is understood that it is not for myself. This magnificent hall cost $75 a day. That is very cheap, Carnegie Hall, New York, no bigger than this, costs $600 a day. I think it will do you good to pay this rent. Don't give unless you want. Give your tobacco money if you smoke. Each give something and the rent will be a bagatelle.

Then the clerk was cleared for Mr. Moody to resume his afternoon's discourse. Love was the fifth element of success he treated of. He regarded this as the motive power to Christian work. The 13th chapter, I Cor., sounding the praise of love, ought to be read in all the churches at least once in 30 days.

Love Versus Indulgence. Mr. Moody told how he won the Chicago saloon keeper by loving respect. The man said, "I'll read the Bible, Mr. Moody, if you'll read Paine's 'Ages of Reason.' I agreed, but he got the best end of the bargain." (Laughter.) Then it was agreed they should have a joint meeting and speak for and against the gospel. The result was that Mr. Moody, by persistent love, gained the victory.

Need of Good Samaritans. The above was only one of many stories Mr. Moody told. His next topic was essential for successful work. He spiritualized the story of the man who fell among thieves, and was sarcastic on the conduct of the moral and respectable priest and Levite who "passed by on pews would do more good than preachers in the pulpit."

We Are Preached to Death. Continuing, Mr. Moody said: "We are being preached to death. It is 'Preach, preach, preach.' I understand you are in Toronto are the best preachers in Canada. We want more sermons of hands and feet—not sermons in manuscript."

Then he seriously suggested that the wealthy ladies with carriages place them at the disposal of the poor for healthy outings, and he urged the poor people to the churches rather than sermons. "Yes," said he, "I believe in sermons on wheels, sermons with grapes and fruits."

Other examples of human sympathy were seriously and peculiarly enforced, and the audience thrilled by stories of self-sacrifice for the rescue of the fallen, the drunken and the harlot.

At the close of the impressive address there was a brief prayer meeting, at which nearly every one of the 6000 persons present testified.

A Plain Facts. As a plain, pleasant and perfect cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, sore throat, pain in the chest, asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, influenza, and all throat and lung troubles, Norway Pine Syrup is the best remedy known.

At the well dinner given by the 11th (Devonshire) Regiment Deuts and Gelderman's Gold Lock Sec Champagne was specially selected.

PUT A PISTOL TO HIS HEAD.

But Through Mistaken Kindness, a Spectator Knocked It to One Side.

Oscar Cummer, a printer, recently arrived from the United States, was standing at Simpson and Adelaide streets yesterday, when a man named Thomas Ellwood came along. WHO INSPIRED MCGOWAN? The investigation into the electric light trouble charges began yesterday before Judge McLaughlin, who was glad to see, expressed his determination to sift the matter to the bottom.

THE NEW LIST OF THE COMMISSIONERS. The new list of the commissioners of the University of Toronto is built on the plot of ground to the south of the meteorological observatory, and is externally unpretentious, but the interior is fitted up most luxuriously, and is probably as well, if not better, arranged than any chemical laboratory on the continent.

FOR EXPERIMENTS WITH EXPLOSIVES. There are besides a gas analysis room, a specially constructed room for experiments with explosives, and a room for the storage of a large amount of dynamite.

THE LARGE LECTURE ROOM. Another feature of the building is the large lecture room, capable of seating 300, with a separate entrance for the ladies, and a separate entrance for the gentlemen.

PERFECT SANITARY ARRANGEMENTS. The sanitary arrangements throughout are perfect, the ventilation being accomplished by means of electric fans and a main shaft about 40 feet high leading directly to the air alongside the main entrance, which faces the north.

READY FOR OCCUPATION NEXT FALL. It is likely that the building will be ready for occupation next fall, and it is estimated that the cost is only $50,000, with very few extras.

THE OVERLAND ROUTE TO THE ISLAND. The city ought to try and arrange with the Harbor Commissioners to get possession of whatever part of the strip of land they do not now control between Hanlan's Point and Queen's wharf.

A CENTRAL PROVINCIAL BUREAU.

An important meeting of the County of York Constables' Association was held last evening, President Wason in the chair. It is generally known that the laxity in the administration of justice in rural districts is due to the fact that county constables who turn out to hunt down criminals are not only inadequately paid, but frequently have their labor for their pains.

It is now proposed to form a provincial bureau, with headquarters in Toronto, over which a chief will preside, with inspectors in each county. As soon as a crime is committed, the inspector will notify his chief, and prompt steps can then be taken to apprehend the perpetrator, from which the expenses of the constable will be met. This resolution was passed.

Whereas, it appears expedient that some better method should be adopted in this province for police protection in rural districts, there being at the present time no organization amongst the constables of inquiry, repository, classification, so that outside constables may obtain information, etc., and thus render more efficient as possible, the present constabulary.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

R. Wilson Smith after the Council. R. Wilson Smith, the disappointed Montreal tenderer for the Toronto city bridge, arrived in the city yesterday morning. He will meet the council this afternoon and the entire matter will be reviewed. It is believed that the council will not have acted as they did, if they still persist in a do-nothing policy, when every day the expenditure of the city is being taken on my part and taken up.

THE OVERLAND ROUTE TO THE ISLAND.

The city ought to try and arrange with the Harbor Commissioners to get possession of whatever part of the strip of land they do not now control between Hanlan's Point and Queen's wharf. At a meeting of the Harbor Commissioners yesterday it was stated that the cost of this strip would be required in the event of a twenty-foot channel being decided on for navigation purposes, as the present channel is as deep as it is possible to make it, and is insufficient for floating vessels of deep draught.

CHURCH GOVERNMENT.

Presbyterial Pastors to French Sermons to Their Congregations on This Subject. Rev. Prof. McLaren delivered an address on the principles of Presbyterian Church government to a score of the members of the Presbyterian Council, who met in the school room of Knox Church. In the discussion which followed, some of the members of the council all favored the position of the Board of Managers, leaving the full control of the church to a board of deacons. Others, however, were in favor of the present constitution of the governing powers of the church, but the council was unanimous in its favor of the resolution, asking the clergy of Toronto Presbytery to preach to their respective congregations, at least once a year, a sermon on the ordinances and government of the church.

B'RRER SUNDOWN WHITE.

FUNERAL ORATION BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE LIMEKILN CLUB.

A Plain Every-day Sort of a Man, but He Had a Lot of Horse Sense—Skilled in Woodpile Philosophy.

"In announcing the death of Bradder Sundown White, which took place last week," said Brother Gardner, as he arose at the last meeting of the Limekiln Club, "I wish to state that he was no hero. He was not known by sight or name to fifty people in all his world. Probably the greatest thing he ever did in all his life was to stop a runaway mule. Nobody heard of him in connection with Congress, or Legislature, or Common Council or any other public office. He nebbber published a book, wrote a song nor deliberated a leckter. If he ever took laughin' gas, rode on a lectric street car or had a chimney on his house burn out. He was just a plain, every-day sort of man, an' strangers passed him by as they nebbber looked. A few of us in dis club, but only a few, knowed him fur what he was—a man of horse sense.

"Bruder White didn't know nuffin' 'bout de pyramids of Egypt, but he was de pusion who diskered dat salt would make cabbage head up a pokey airier dan usual.

"He nebbber read 'lines of poetry in all his life, an' yit in one year, he found three plaice of terbacker, two jackknives an' a $3 bill on de sidewalk.

CREMATION SCENES IN INDIA.

Dodies Rising to a Sitting Posture While Lying on an Open Fire.

In travelling through India large bonfires are frequently to be seen in secluded spots on the outskirts of cities, surrounded by apparently merry-making circles of natives. The scenes which greet the observer as they are often grand and impressive. Such was the one which it was the good fortune of a writer for The Boston Transcript to witness. One afternoon, while wandering through the suburbs of Bombay to escape for a while the bustle and confusion of this magnificent city, a temple and palaces, he discovered through the trees in the distance the familiar bonfire. Being an American, with the burning curiosity strongly developed, an irresistible desire to approach this particular spot predominated. The scene contrasted strangely with what was anticipated. A group of men sat piously guarding this sacred fire, for it proved to be that the last rites were being enacted to a kinsman. Among this particular caste the last tribute to the dead is one striking in its solemn originality. When life becomes extinct the body of the deceased, strongly impregnated with the odor of sweet spices, is swathed in the finest linen and permitted to remain a few hours in the midst of the bereaved friends, whose lamentations and strange utterances, as if from another world, are to be heard. In token of their intense grief each member of the family submits immediately to the operation of having the hair cut off the head. Should he be a widow who is left to mourn, her sorrow is still greater, her head is completely shaved. These daughters of the east overflow with pride for their beautiful tresses. Hence it is that it is sacrificed at the altar of the dead.

Meanwhile the remains, with much ceremony, are borne forth on a wagon, with an arch of rush matting of considerable height concealing it from the vulgar gaze. It is usually drawn by bullocks and accompanied by immediate friends only, to receive earth's last peace offering at the shrine of the gods.

Arriving at the holy place the deceased is taken from the bier and placed with much solemnity in the heat of the hot slowly kindling brands. The men, wrapped in the purest white sheets, withdraw to a little distance under the shade. Not a word is spoken, no religious observance, save a few muttered applications to the gods whose azen or stone figures stand near by in attitudes of the profoundest humility.

At intervals raising their heads apparently, then falling to the earth on their faces, again standing with their arms extended, they offer their petitions. A few sit gloomily under the olive trees, whose duty it is to keep the fire up to a certain pitch, never seeming to relax a muscle.

Suddenly the gestures cease. An attitude of intense anxiety now prevails. The anxious eyes are fixed severally on the fire that is slowly consuming the remains of their fellow-man; they look expectant, or as if on the alert for something. Presently the body, released of its pinions, severed by the fire, moves, springs, perhaps to an upright position amidst the flames, scattering the fire in all directions. It is a sight most revolting and horrible to the eyes, causing even a little nervousness among the natives. To the stranger the spectacle is agonizing to behold, for it seems a human soul urging and striving amidst a whirling mass of blue vapor, as if struggling in death's agony.

We are told that, when the fire ceases, a particular portion of the back the contraction causes the body to rise to a sitting position. All the mourners stand in a circle, and in the name of the Most High, then rush to the spot and press heavily on the ghastly figure with great violence, until it resists no longer and sinks, to be finally laid amid the fury of the flames, the fire having by this time increased to its height.

Once more the mourners seek their retreat and prostrate themselves silently at the feet of the deities for some moments, then utter loudly ejaculations and supplications to the gods, this time, if possible, with greater solemnity and reverence. Then they resume their former positions, to keep again their vigil of the dead. The vigil is not interrupted until the embers smoulder away until all is over, and the ashes of the deceased are floating widely through the air.

Photographing a Battle-Ship. The snapshot photographer has often demonstrated his efficiency. But it has remained for Mr. O. V. Lang, the photographer of the Union Iron Works in San Francisco, to sight his "finder" and press the button in the face of what looked very like impending death. He attended the preliminary trials of the new battle-ship Oregon, and photograph her from all possible points of view that would seem to afford data for theories of wave resistance. Amongst others, a slight run right ahead was wanted, and it was agreed that the photographer's tug should steam across the Oregon's bows at a distance of about 200 yards.

Now it may seem an easy thing to a landsman to calculate distances correctly under such conditions, but sailormen know that it is not so easy as it looks, and Capt. Jansen, of the tug Rockaway, found himself 100 yards too near. The miscalculation was probably due, in part, to the failure of the captain of the Oregon to favor the tug quite enough.

At all events, Mr. Lang's camera in hand, was suddenly aware of two great "feathers" of blue Pacific water, back- ed by the grim iron ram and topsmelter in a modern battleship, rushing upon him at a speed of some 20 miles an hour, and close aboard. Capt. Jansen, too, saw the danger, and instinctively did the right thing—namely, rang four bells, and sent the tug ahead for her life. Then she turned into Mr. Lang's artistic soul a sort of photographic berserker's rage. In his own words, "There came a determination to get that picture if it was my last." So the plucky fellow sighted, clicked his shutter, and ran to the nearest station just in time to feel the tug lifted and tossed aside by the great wave that surged away from the Oregon's bow.—Harper's Weekly.

"Spending it recklessly?"

"Great Scott, yes! he's done nothing but pay up honest debts for the last six months."

Trankey Will Hang. Ottawa, Nov. 5.—An order-in-council has been passed by the Dominion Government allowing the law to take its course in the case of the Sandwich murders, so that if the courts will not interfere by granting a new trial, Joseph Trankey will be hanged on the 14th of December next for the murder of William Lindsay.

A MONTH AND STILL NO CLOVE

By Barrister Holmes of 1, D'Amore-avenue, who testified that one night in September Mrs. Rice, a neighbor, had come to him and told him that there was a stone- booker out in the lake and that two men were trying to break into Mr. O'Brien's boat-house. Witness with sister and young Rice embarked in a canoe to Jansons-avenue, where they found two boats and some men, including two policemen, the stonebooker to it and roused up the crew. He told was close in shore and he paddled out them that they might get lost instead of stones if they went in shore that night. Barrister W. H. F. Clement continued previous witness as to the alleged attempt on his boat-house. He also recalled the fact that a man had sat in his place in Jansons-avenue on the day of the shooting, enquiring for the West- wood place. This is presumably the piano man, who also enquired his way of young Willie Westwood.

The Brother's Wife Testifies. Mrs. Bert Westwood was put on the stand, and added nothing new to the evidence already published. She first learned of the shooting on Sunday morning, after word was sent to her husband. The latter had never made any suggestion to her as to how the shooting occurred.

TALKED OF LAW REFORM.

Lively Debate at the Young Liberal Club Last Night.

President Stewart Lyon occupied the chair at the meeting of the Young Liberal club last night.

An interesting and spirited debate took place upon a motion by J. E. Atkinson calling for the abolition of Divisional Courts of the High Court, to lessen the number of appeals in civil cases, also to restrict the power of the Supreme Court from the point of appeal of Ontario and to expedite its civil proceedings.

Mr. Atkinson spoke in favor of his proposition. He first pointed out that in the matter of percent officers of the court one set of officers would very well do. He talked of juggling by counsel to get their clients out of court, which was aided by the system of subdivision of the court into Queen's Bench, Chancery and Common Pleas. He also suggested that in the matter of nisi prius appeals, there should be an appeal from the trial judge at the assize direct to one court of appeal, and that that should not be the case. The motion was seconded by Mr. Trethewey.

George Ross, while not entirely agreeing with Mr. Atkinson's motions, strongly favored an amalgamation of the courts, abolishing the divisions.

J. Holden pointed out that judges were a great deal too much struck on precedent.

James E. Day moved the following amendment: "That it is not wise for persons who have no practical and thorough acquaintance with the principles of the system of legal procedure to endeavor to force changes in its details; and that the Government should be urged to take any proposed changes considered in such a conference."

The debate was adjourned until next week.

It was decided to hold the annual banquet of the club early in December. Sir Richard Cartwright will be invited as the principal guest.

The club has taken up the idea of a young Liberal convention in January with vigor, and a grant of $50 was made towards meeting the preliminary expenses.

Young Conservatives.

At the meeting of the Young Conservatives at the meeting of the Young Liberals last night, the latter party was received from the Young Liberals at the meeting of the Young Conservatives, to urge upon the Dominion Government the adoption of registration of votes in cities in Dominion elections.

The Executive recommended that legislation be passed disallowing Ontario Government employees in the Dominion elections until such time as the Ontario Government has agreed to accept the provincial elections shall be repealed.

Suitably engrossed resolutions of congratulation were passed to the Young Conservatives, to urge upon the Dominion Government the adoption of registration of votes in cities in Dominion elections.

There are rumors of a poll order to close the Volka shops in towns along the route of the funeral train and its entourage, which has been caused by the trouble in several districts. The truth of these rumors cannot be ascertained. The goldsmiths of St. Petersburg and Moscow are receiving innumerable orders for gold and silver memorial crowns and crosses.

Gen. Yvanovsk, Minister of War and an officer under the late Czar at the capture of Rostchuk, has ordered a silver crown 24 inches in diameter. The inscription is to be: "To the Chief of the Army of Rostchuk from the Chief of the Staff."

Yvanovsk has obtained permission to place this crown on the Emperor's tomb.

Complimentary Smoker.

The members of the Canadian Military Institute turned out at its rooms last night in large numbers to join in the complimentary smoker tendered to Capt. J. Macdonough on the eve of his departure from Toronto to his new station at St. John's, Que. The institute does not "go in" very much for that sort of thing, and the large attendance speaks well for the good name that the gallant captain will have behind him.

The recent article in The World in reference to South Oxford seems to have been taken to heart by Sir Richard Cartwright, who has been elected as candidate of Mr. S. H. James means something more than talk. Sir Richard will address his constituents at Orterville on Thursday, and at Burford on Friday.

A Liberal-Conservative mass meeting in the forenoon was held at the residence of Mr. S. H. James, M.L.A., leader of the Liberal-Conservative Opposition, to conduct debates relative to parliamentary reform.

Another for No. 3.

Ex-Ad. Millicamp is to contest Ward Three for city council seats. When he was in the council before he was a good representative, and ought to do so again.

London, Nov. 5.—The Globe prints a despatch from Tokio containing a news agency in this city, saying that the Pacific Mail steamer Gaelic, Capt. Pearce, from San Francisco, was about to sail for Hong Kong, on suspicion that she was engaged in carrying articles of contraband. A search was made of the steamer, and no contraband articles being found, she was allowed to proceed for her destination.

A despatch from Shanghai to The St. James' Gazette says that the Chinese troops under Suning have evacuated Chin-Lien-Chong and now occupy the mountain pass on the high road to Peking. Orders have been given to all military commanders to defend Peking at all hazards. The Japanese are marching northward, aiming to get behind General Sun's army. It is expected that all foreigners will be requested to leave Peking within a fortnight.

First Aid.

She had attended the ambulance classes and obtained the certificate. The street accident she had earnestly prayed for took place. She stepped on his leg. She confiscated the walking-stick of a passer-by and broke it into three pieces for splints. She tore up her skirt for bandages. When all was completed she summoned a cab and took her patient to the hospital.

"Who bandaged this leg so creditably?" inquired the surgeon.

"I did," the blushing girl replied.

"Well, it is most beautifully done; but beautifully done; but you have made, I find, one little mistake. You have bandaged the wrong leg!"—Tid-Bits.

A Good Reason.

"But my dear boy, why can't you wait? You are still in college and I don't think it well for a man in college to be engaged."

"Perhaps not, Jennie; but if we've engaged, we've got to get on with it. I've got out now, people will say it was because I couldn't pass my examinations."

"Well, what if they do? You don't care what people say, do you? You don't care when they tell the truth."—Harper's Magazine for October.

Pie and Beer in Chicago.

Five has joined hands with the serpentine pretzel, and now graces the free lunch counters of the majority of the downtown saloons. The reason: The American public demanded pie with its beer, and saloon keepers are not slow to heed popular clamor. Just exactly how this side-saw combination is going to work is just now a matter of conjecture. But that the pie has come to stay—also to disappear—is hard stubborn fact.—Chicago Tribune.

It Was Mutual.

Fater (entering room)—Phurrr! What do you mean, sir by this embracing my daughter? Ethel, I am surprised.

Ethel (bravely)—So are we, poppa. Dear, so are we.—Truth.
