Give the boys and girls in your home as much vocal and instrumental training as is possible. It will aid in opening many doors to them perchance in the days to come, and prove an accomplishment of real value in the employment and improvement of their musical talent. We put boys first—not that this is the customary method—as numerous parents appear to think that while training in music is a real necessity for the daughters, it is an unnecessary adjunct to the sons. It's a fine thing to hear a boy sing or see him handle a musical instrument with cleverness. Don't let the gramophone sidetrack the culture of the home voices or the ability to translate the ivories. If opportunity comes to young people to join a choir, orchestra or community club, be very willing to say yes, without coaxing. You will never regret it, and they will find it of real value in your coming years.

PAVING MEETING

There was a fair attendance of ratepayers at the meeting in the Lyceum Friday night, called by the Reeve to discuss the paving by-law. Councilor Connolly presided and explained the proposition. The meeting was a very quiet one, not a single word being said in opposition to the proposed work. The only point of importance advanced was as to the amount of assistance obtainable from the government, some claiming that 60 per cent. of the cost could be obtained from that source.

Mr. Muir, chief engineer of county roads for the province was the first speaker. He said that 60% was paid when the grant was paid through the county council. The amount of assistance was optional with the department. In the case of Watford 40% would be paid direct to the Corporation as soon as the contract was completed and the work passed by the government inspector.

Mr. W. E. Fitzgerald spoke strongly in favor of the projected work but thought a larger percentage of the cost could be secured from the Government.

Reeve Parker and Deputy Reeve Adam Higgins of Warwick spoke briefly. They were doubtful whether the County Council would in future pay to the village more than 100 per cent of the Good Roads appropriation when the village received assistance from the Government, but this year the village would get some $2,300 from the county for road purposes, or 125 per cent. of the $1800 paid in on this account.

Mr. L. W. Oke, M.P.P., for East Lambton, was the last speaker. He promised to give all the assistance he could in arranging matters and spoke in a general way on the Good Roads policy of the Government.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Muir and Mr. Oke for their attendance, and interest in the village.

PAVING BY-LAW CARRIED

A fair-sized vote was recorded by the ratepayers on Monday for the $18,000.00 Paving By-law, which carried by a majority of 116. As soon as the bylaw is finally passed, an engineer will be engaged and the work pushed forward with all speed so that the new pavement will be ready for use in the late fall. The vote stood

NOTE AND COMMENT

Armistice Day, November 11, has been agreed upon as the day for opening the disarmament conference at Washington, in which Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy and Japan will participate.

The Southampton Beacon says there was a little domestic trouble in that town, and hubby had his cranium battered with a milk bottle. Commenting on the episode the Hanover Post remarks that this is the milk of human kindness.

According to one estimate the provinces west of Ontario will have 80 members, as a result of the new census, instead of 57. Ontario would have 78 instead of 82, and Quebec and the Atlantic provinces 92, thus dividing the representations into three almost equal parts.

When the Hydro-radial Association holds its meeting in Toronto next month it is likely that a delegation from Lambton county will be present to have an effort made to have the Government take over the Pere Marquette Railway between Chatham and Sarnia with a view toward turning this line into an electric radial.

The Kingston Whig pleads with motorists who picnic on property near the roadside to leave the place tidy, not defaced with a litter of lunch boxes, plates, oiled paper, egg shells, sardine cans and banana skins. Burn up the litter, put out the fire, or carry the refuse away to a dump. This is good motor morality. Picnickers should also be careful about fires, and not destroy property. This much is due to good-natured farmers, and also to motorists who may follow.

Orillia Packet: "One might think to read the Farmers' Sun, that cheap power would fill every small town and every hamlet in Ontario with prosperous industries. Orillia has cheap power—none cheaper. Are new industries tumbling over each other in search of sites here. Much more than cheap power is needed, as this town has reason to know. A steady supply of labor, convenience of situation, railway facilities, and railway competition, if possible, and in many cases proximity to the United States border, are among the other factors which enter into the calculation of industries seeking for suitable sites.

How is it that while scores of young people can dash off many a musical number on piano or organ in genuine ragtime quality and quantity, 9 out of 10 possibly cannot correctly and efficiently play a hymn-tune, sacred song or voluntary? This should not be, and parents, instructors and students should see to it that a properly developed education in music is not by any means complete until ability to sit and play the good old tunes and hymns used in church, Sunday School and other public gatherings has been proficiently acquired and a freedom given to a performance of it that will be pleasing to all who share in the happy melody. A musician who can't fill the bill has something to learn yet.

Hon. Mr. Biggs, Minister of Public Works, states that the Government offices in Toronto have been deluged with complaints against constables and he declared that the root of the trouble is the abuses made possible by the fee system. This the Government intends to remedy as quickly as the necessary arrangements can be made. Under the system which now is being considered by the Drury Government, all constables employed will receive straight salaries without any fee remuneration and all fines will be devoted to the maintenance and improvement of roads, said Mr. Biggs. It is stated that the Government contemplates the establishment of a permanent Provincial Constabulary of about 150 men, preferably returned soldiers, who would be stationed in various places where they be available to deal with auto banditry or other serious crimes on short notice.

Rub it in for Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas Electric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

HOW TO STEADY THE CATTLE TRADE THIS FALL

The fall of 1921 will prove a delicate, if not a critical time in the Canadian cattle trade. If, due to panic, there is then a rush to sell cattle it will demoralize the markets and do the very worst thing for farmers. At the same time it will load the refrigerators of the packing plants with a huge quantity of meat, probably from thin cattle that packers do not want and will not be able to dispose of to the best advantage of the livestock industry.

As a precautionary measure, therefore, packers believe that producers should carefully guard against a heavy rush to market in the fall months. The state of the packing trade is very much like that which faces the farmers themselves—labor costs, upkeep, and all other charges still comparatively high, yet with a declining market for the output.

A glut in the freezers this fall would inevitably bring about that which packers are as anxious as farmers to avoid, i.e., a disastrous slump in prices. The basis of agricultural prosperity in Canada is the live stock industry, and a slump could not do other than injure producer, manufacturer and consumer.

Alone, packers cannot prevent this. With the co-operation of farmer-producers, much may be done to steady live stock market prices this fall. Farmers would be wise to get together and by co-operation with all organizations plan to spread their cattle shipments cautiously over the late summer and fall months, and to hold all cattle on the farms that are not well finished.

What appeals to the packer, from a business standpoint, is that the comparatively low prices at which feeders will probably be available this fall should be attractive to every farmer who has winter feed. While no one can positively foretell market conditions next spring and early summer, the history of past price depressions and advances makes packers believe, if faced with the same condition in their own business, they would be justified in taking what risk there is and holding their stocks for the better conditions of next spring if it were feasible. But packers cannot hold fresh beef in the coolers long enough to protect the farmer in the market. If loaded heavily this fall, they would have to freeze the meat, adding expensive holding charges, and bringing this into competition with fresh meat next spring.

It is probable that both railroad and ocean freight rates next spring will be much more favorable. Spreading the marketing of live stock over the fall, winter and spring will, therefore, prevent what may otherwise result in serious conditions.

FITTING CATTLE FOR SHOW

(Experimental Farm Notes)

The writer holds no brief to write on this subject to experienced showmen. The showing of cattle is an art which they have long since mastered and could give unlimited advice on if they would but put pen to paper. The purpose of the writer is to touch on a few points which may be helpful to beginners be they old or young.

In the first place if you would top the class and the judge knows his business you must have the goods, consequently select closely. In the second place fitting, in so far as proper fleshing is concerned, takes time consequently preparatory feeding should extend over a period of a few months previous to the time of showing. This preparatory feeding can be done on pasture in the case of cattle that are out.

Taking for granted then that these two factors have been taken care of the next step is to put the finishing touches or "bloom" on the animal. To do this the animals should be stable three or four weeks previous to the date of the show. During this time feed fairly liberally on suitable roughages such as good hay, green corn or other soiling crops, and a grain mixture containing ten to fifteen per cent. oil cake meal, the latter being ideal to put a good glossy skin on the animals. All animals should now be washed, particularly if white in colour. Stand the animals on some good washing platform and wet them all over. Then rub up a lather with soap, preferably some mild soft variety. Scrub with suitable brush until clean, then rinse soap off thoroughly as any left in the will tend to stain it yellow. In the case of white animals a particularly clear white color can be obtained by applying blueing water after the last rinsing this water being allowed to remain in the hair for a time before being pressed out. The animals should now be blanketed with light blankets, preferably with a soft finish next the body. Any work necessary to get animals in shape such as trimming feet, filing horns smooth so as to make later polishing easy, and trimming hair with clippers in those breeds where this practice is followed, should be done before leaving for the show. Special attention should be laid upon the proper training of the animal to lead, stand, etc., for often all the work of good fitting is offset by bad manners in the ring.

Having arrived at the show ground the first endeavor of the showman should be to make his charges feel at home, comfortable and well fed. This can be accomplished to a certain extent by a ration of home grown feeds brought along for the purpose as well as by liberal bedding, good water, etc. After they have become rested up the final washing may be given preferably just previous to the day on which they are to be shown.

This washing should be similar to the first with a somewhat heavier blanketing afterwards using where possible a fine flannellette blanket next the skin. After this final washing fresh bedding should be put down and an attendant delegated to remove all droppings as soon as voided and thus ensure cleanliness until the cattle are shown. Milk dows are usually milked out clean the evening before show day and the milk then left in them until after the showing is over. This makes for a good showing in the milk classes. Unbalanced udders may be leveled up by milking out a little milk from the heavy quarters. The evening previous to showing is usually given over to the finishing touches such as polishing horns with oil, plaiting tails, and giving final trimmings with clippers and scissors.

A careful feeder will have rising appetites in his cattle on the morning of the showing so that they will eat heartily and appear well filled up. Care must be taken, however, not to overdo the filling up with feed or water as a gorged animal neither looks nor handles well.

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.—"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that terrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my house in order every night so there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the druggist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 845, Smiths Falls, Ont.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion and dizziness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

If there are any complications about which you need advice write in confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Give us a Hand!

CITIZENS of Ontario—The only salvation for Ontario's revenue-producing forests is the prevention of forest fires. Your support and co-operation is absolutely essential.

Forest fires are rapidly diminishing our resources of timber and pulpwood. Over 90 per cent. of Ontario's forest fires are caused by human carelessness.

If everybody was careful to prevent the start of fire, Ontario's Forest would be safe.

Save Ontario's Forests They're Yours

BUSINESS MEN of Ontario—Lend us a hand. The various business associations—of bankers, boards of trade, manufacturers, merchants, lumbermen, engineers, educationalists, tourists, and sportsmen, and all other bodies of weight and influence, can do a great work for this province and for their own interests as well by actively promoting educational propaganda to reduce forest fires.

RAILWAY OFFICIALS can help. Railways cause 40% of Ontario's Forest fires. The Forestry Branch is being well supported by improved co-operation on the part of railway officials and by the Dominion Railway Board. Let us reduce the number of railway fires one-half this summer. (The train passenger in Northern Ontario who nonchalantly throws his cigarette or cigar out of the window during the forest fire season is deserving of a jail sentence!)

CAMPERS, tourists, fishermen, picknickers, berry pickers, prospectors and hunters should feel their responsibility even though out of sight of the policeman.

SETTLERS can co-operate by exercising more care in setting out fire on their own property.

LUMBER FIRMS can help by impressing on all foremen the need for carefulness. River-drivers in dry seasons should be specially warned. Gangs of men going in and out to the camps need special attention, because of the danger along the slash-lined trails from the inevitable cigarette.

THE PRESS could do more public-spirited constructive work to reduce forest fires than any other single agency. This is a non-political campaign in which the whole press could join.

LEADERS OF PUBLIC OPINION in every community should be the first to extend a helping hand. Tell the Chief Ranger or write the Head Office any time you have information or suggestions to impart, or questions to ask.

THE PRETTIEST SMALL TOWN IN CANADA

Have you noticed the beautiful flowers about Watford this summer? The Watford Horticultural Society members and their friends are to be congratulated on the splendid progress made this season. Nearly all who have previously grown flowers have had more and better flowers than ever before and best of all, many citizens who have previously never taken active interest in this delightful work are now resolving to have a flower garden of their own next year. Just think, in a few short years Watford will be one of the most beautiful small towns in Canada if this spirit continues, and we fully believe it will. If one cannot have a large flower garden, usually there is space for a small one anyway. And if one cannot even find a nook for a small bed of flowers then why not a window box. Where can one find a more cheerful companion than a window box aglow with pretty flowers and vines from Spring to Autumn.

Now is the time to prepare for fall planting. Peonies should be set out in the fall. Tulips and other spring bulbs should be set out in October and November. The local society has placed an import order with some extensive growers of bulbs in Akersloot, Holland, for 2500 spring bulbs. The lot will include many choice named varieties of tulips, daffodils and hyacinths and will be distributed among members of the society at cost. Members wishing bulbs should speak to Mr. Bate at once and new members are always welcome.

Let's keep up the good work and it will surprise us in how short a time Watford will be known as "The Most Beautiful Small Town in Canada" if we each do our part.

WHY HARD TIMES?

We hear some people say there is going to be hard times. If we go around with that kind of a feeling and that talk there will be hard times. We would create a feeling in the breast of all we meet that hard times are inevitable. Those who have positions and can afford to spend will begin to retrench and it is this that will certainly bring hard times. Let us go along and live naturally. Let us buy what we need and in doing this we are keeping money in circulation. Our demand for goods and commodities stabilizes industry and gives assurance to those who would go on manufacturing and give employment. Hard times are made by those who have money to spend and will not spend it. This is the testing time. Many a man who boasts of his church membership will have a chance to prove that it is real. He will have a chance to spend some of his savings so that humanity may find employment and that those around him may live. The talk of thrift and industry, saving for a rainy day, etc., will be of little avail to those who have not practised it. They must eat and live and if we have position and salary or means we must not attempt to hoard it if we want good conditions. Have we any responsibility to those around us? Do we owe it to humanity that we ward off hard times? Hard times are only as hard as the selfish make them. Spend honestly and for what you need and there will no hard times.

THE SPIRIT OF KINDNESS

Kindness is suited to all occasions. We need a spirit of kindness to actuate us in all that we do. It is the only way to win an enemy. Herein lie our greatest opportunities for making friends and thus enlarging our field of usefulness. We must be kind, even to those who are not kind to us. One has said, "The kindness of some is too much like an echo; it returns exactly the counterpart of what it receives, and neither more nor less." If we will begin today and seek out opportunities to show our kindness, we shall see our influence begin to broaden. Of course we should not be kind wholly from this standpoint, but more because it is right to be, and we want to be.

No act of kindness goes unrewarded. God takes note of it. He will not forget. Every kind deed is remembered, no matter how small. "Whoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, verily, I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward." (Matt. 10:42).

WILL ENFORCE NEW ADOLESCENT ACT

Children Between Fourteen and Sixteen Must Attend School After Sept. 1

In connection with the Adolescent School Attendance Act of July 30th, 1920, the announcement has been made by the Minister to school trustees that it is not his intention to instruct Attendance Officers to make the Act retroactive by endeavoring to compel young persons between fourteen and sixteen years of age who have been engaged in regular employment to return to school. School authorities will in the beginning be charged with providing only for the continued instruction of those who are at present at school and not for the number who might be forced to return to school by the strictest interpretation of the Act.

The Act is to be made fully effective, however, to the extent that Attendance Officers are to be appointed according to law to insure that all young persons between fourteen and sixteen years of age shall be either at school or at work and that all those who are at work either at home or in gainful employments shall hold the permits or certificates required by law.

Section 3 of the Act, which comes into operation on September 1st of this year provides for the attendance at school of adolescents between fourteen and sixteen years of age. The purpose of bringing the Act into force by stages is to make it possible to adjust gradually school accommodations, courses of study, and employments in industries to the conditions set up by the requirements of the Act.

Boards of education in the rural districts must, however, provide for accommodation of students between fourteen and sixteen, who up till now have been at school or who are not engaged in "necessary household work or necessary work in husbandry." This will undoubtedly mean that there will be a number of fifth classes in the rural districts and an increased attendance at the High schools. Children, who are kept from school on account of necessary work must have a permit from the local Attendance Officer.

The Attendance Officer for Watford will be appointed at the next meeting of the Board of Education.

Robinson Crusoe

Advertiser

One of the most persistent advertisers in the history of success was Robinson Crusoe. He knew what he wanted—a ship—and he put up an ad. for one. He flung a shirt on a pole, at the top of his Island; that, in the language of the sea, was plain to every sea-faring man. Crusoe's circulation was small—but he kept at it, despite the fact that he got no enquiries for a long time. He changed his copy—as one garment after another was frayed out—and in the end got what he wanted!

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Mr. Merchant—If you want more customers and your present customers to come oftener, put up your signal—Advertisement. You have a better method of advertising your service than Crusoe had to attract the attention of a ship. FALL BEE MANAGEMENT

Handling the Little Workers at the Summer's Close.

The Queen is the Most Important Factor—Don't Keep a "Scrub"—Have an Abundance of Acres—Pastures Pay in Pork Production.
 (Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Many beekeepers have visions of a two-hundred-pound crop of honey per colony from many colonies, but it must be admitted that very few beekeepers really secure a crop of that proportion. This is not due to poor seasons in many cases, but almost entirely due to negligence or lack of preparation on the part of the beekeeper.

It makes little difference how well colonies of bees are managed, unless certain conditions are met, so that the colonies can take advantage of the management bestowed on them. For instance, if the queen in the colony is falling or of poor quality, then it is an impossibility to secure a crop of honey from that colony. Again it is a waste of money and time to introduce a vigorous Italian queen to a colony of bees and then fail to give the queen an opportunity to lay a large number of eggs, so that the colony will go into winter headquarters in prime condition.

Beekeepers who have ten or more colonies of bees, know that certain colonies will return them crops three times as large as the average colony in the apiary. Yet few beekeepers appreciate that in most cases the larger crop of honey is due largely to the work of a good queen. There is just as much difference in the value of queen bees, as there is between scrub live stock and pure-bred live stock, and beekeepers can make few better investments than the securing of choice, young, Italian queens to head the colonies. The very best time to re-queen is from the middle of July to the middle of August.

The giving of a young queen means young bees for winter, consequently less loss in winter and very much stronger colonies in the spring of the year, and unless the beekeeper can have strong colonies in time for the main honey flow, his colonies will return him but little profit that season. After the queen has been safely introduced, the beekeeper should be sure to give the colony sufficient room, both for egg laying and for the storage of any surplus honey which might be harvested. Sometimes one super is sufficient, while in some locations and seasons, two or more supers may be necessary. The beekeeper himself must be the judge, as he knows his location and the season and must be guided accordingly.

The introduction of a good vigorous Italian queen and the giving of room both for brood-rearing and honey storage will also be very valuable in the complete control of one of our most serious brood diseases of bees, viz., European foulbrood. With a vigorous Italian queen and a surplus of stores, it means strong colonies, and consequently European foulbrood will do no damage. It would pay the beekeeper to keep one-half the number of colonies ordinarily kept, and give these every opportunity to do good work, and if this is done, the total crop would be just as large as from twice the number of colonies poorly managed.

Italian queens can be secured from any reliable queen-breeder, full particulars of which can be obtained from the Provincial Apiarist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.—F. Eric Miller, O. A. College, Guelph.

Pastures Pay in Pork Production.

"One of the best means of cutting the cost of producing pork," says E. E. Ferrin, who is in charge of the hog section at Minnesota University Farm, "is to use good pasture and forage crops. This practice is advisable whether grain be high in price or cheap; there is a decided saving in either case. Pigs getting green feed are more thrifty than those raised in dry lots, consequently gain faster and make pork at a lower cost.

Results obtained at the farm prove beyond question that it is a shortsighted policy to neglect to grow good forage crops when pigs are being raised. Blue grass and similar pastures furnish good feed in the spring, but during summer are little better than an exercising ground. Some one crop, or more than one, should be grown to give fresh succulent green feed in summer and early fall. Dwarf Essex rape, alfalfa and red clover are the outstanding top notch forage crops in the corn belt. Of these rape is by far the most suitable for Minnesota conditions. The cost of seeding is low—about five pounds of seed per acre is an average quantity—and in favorable season the crop is ready to be pastured six weeks from sowing. If grain is fed in reasonable amounts an acre of rape will carry from twenty to thirty growing pigs through the season.

"White hogs, and sometimes black and red ones, blister when running in rape. There is nothing peculiar about this crop which causes blistering; the trouble results simply from the combination of moisture, transferred from the rape to the hog, and a hot sun. By keeping pigs out of the rape patch until the dew or rain has evaporated from the leaves of the plants, blistering can be prevented.

"Rape can be sown as early in the spring as the ground can be worked. Even a small patch in a feed lot will save grain in raising pigs."

Tomatoes are ripening, and it is necessary to apply small quantities of nitrate of soda around each plant to hasten them.

CHOP STUFF

Owing to the increase in population of Burford village and vicinity the Public School had become overcrowded. This, combined with a desire for improved educational facilities was responsible for an agitation for a High School in the village which resulted in the erection of such a building, the corner stone of which was laid last week.

A Texas man has hit upon a novel idea for exterminating rats in his barn and other buildings. He attaches a hose to the exhaust pipe of his auto and places the other end of the hose in a hole in the wall or floor, and lets the motor of his engine run with a heavy mixture of oil. The dense and powerful fumes shortly kills the rats or drives them from the building.

Norfolk farmers are on a telephone strike over the recent advance in rates, the prices being increased from $15 to $18, and $14 to $16.50. The increase was recently allowed by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board. Some 700 telephone subscribers of the Norfolk Telephone Co. are asking to have their telephones taken out. This is a practical way of protesting against an increase in rates.

While William Robertson was driving in his cattle to his farm between the 13th and 14th concessions, Dover township, last Friday, a huge Durham bull suddenly became infuriated and turned on him. Mr. Robertson hung onto the bull by the ring in his nose for nearly an hour, but was finally thrown by the bull's horns. A Belgian passing by saw the fight and ran to the rescue with a pitchfork. Mr. Robertson sustained a broken collarbone and three broken ribs. He was greatly weakened by his battle for life and is suffering greatly from shock.

Domien Vanderveldt, a Belgian farmer on the Tecumseh road, near Baptiste Creek, in the Township of Tilbury North, was killed by a vicious bull in a field near his home Wednesday. He left the house with a spade and a rail to fix a fence, and when he did not return in about two hours his wife went to look for him, and discovered him lying in the centre of the field with the bull some distance away. She shouted for help and a half-dozen neighbors armed with pitchforks and other means of defence went into the field and found Vanderveldt dead, bruised from head to foot, his clothes almost torn off and the ground for a radius of 20 feet around the body solidly packed by the feet of the bull as it had evidently circled its victim. Dr. McColl of Tilbury, was called before the body was removed from the field, and upon examination he found in addition to the bruises the ribs on one side of Vanderveldt were all broken. Vanderveldt was 61 years of age.

Business Is Business

By FREDERICK HART

"I can't figure what's happening in R. & X.," said Philip Gibney, senior partner of Gibney & Hadman, brokers. "We can't seem to get a majority of stock; some one's holding out on us. Have you had our tracers on the job?"

"I should say I have!" Roger Hadman's voice was weary. "For the past three months Jevons and Harrod have been on the road. They've combed the country, nearly; but they can't account for the three thousand shares we need. That block—"

"But surely there's a record of its original sale!" snapped Gibney.

"Of course! We traced it to a little town in Pennsylvania—a funny old chap with chin-whiskers—a farmer—held the whole block. Jevons got wind of it and flew down to get it at any price, but he was too late. Somebody beat him to it by less than three hours. The old duffer didn't know who it was—simply said a man came along and offered him twice what the stock was worth, and he sold for spot cash. Jevons even went so far as to put defectives on the job; but they couldn't get any trace except that the fellow was slim and good-looking, wore a light suit, and bought a ticket for Philadelphia at the local station. The train went right up in air then, and there's absolutely no further trace."

"Well—" Gibney's voice was thoughtful, "we've got to get that stock somehow. I wonder if whoever bought it is holding out for a big price? He must know what we're planning, and what control of R. & X. will mean to us. I suppose he thinks he can get whatever price he asks."

"The worst of it is that he's pretty nearly right, at that," rejoined Hadman. "When our deal comes off it's absolutely necessary to have the control, and we can't have it without those three thousand shares, and this fellow knows it—and that's all there is to it. We pay."

"We do, I suppose—and yet—"

"And yet—what?"

"It strikes me as being rather queer that this chap, whoever he is, hasn't tried to make a dickie. We are going to pull our stunt at the end of the week, and he must know that we want the stock as soon as we can get it. He has inside information, that's sure."

"For three years, I was ill and exhausted and I suffered constantly from Kidney Trouble and Liver Disease. My health was miserable and nothing in the way of medicine did me any good. Then I started to use 'Fruit-a-tives' and the effect was remarkable."

I began to improve immediately and this wonderful fruit medicine entirely restored me to health. All the old pains, headaches, indigestion and constipation were relieved and once more I was well.

To all who suffer from Indigestion, Constipation, Rheumatic Pains or great Fatigue, I advise the use of 'Fruit-a-tives'.

When the result would naturally be that he would come around here and point his block of stock at our heads and say "Stand and deliver!" But he hasn't made a move—and today's Wednesday. I don't understand it."

Gibney was a sadly worried man when he went home that night, and his pretty wife, who was waiting for him with her usual smile, received a scanty greeting. During the evening meal she tried to make conversation, but failed dismally. Once she asked what was worrying him.

"Nothing you'd understand," replied Gibney shortly. Alice opened her mouth as though to reply, but thought better of it and confined her attentions to the salad. The evening passed stately for both.

Next morning, the day before Gibney & Hadman's big coup was slated to come off, Gibney was informed by the girl at the door that a young man wanted to see him. On inquiring his business, he was informed that the visitor would make no statement, merely saying that he wanted to see the head of the firm at once. Gibney told the girl to show him in, and called Hadman from his office.

"Dollars to collar-buttons it's the chap with the R. & X. stock, Jim," he said. "I want you here—we'll meet him together. Maybe the two of us can get reasonable figures out of him. But oh, how he has us."

The man who entered the office seemed hardly more than a boy. He was dressed in a light-colored suit, and wore a derby hat which he did not remove. A white handkerchief covered most of his right cheek and curved well under the chin.

"Good morning, gentlemen," he said in a voice that betrayed a cold in the head. "I'm sorry to come around looking such a wreck, but the fact is I've met with an accident—automobile—and I'm a little smashed as to the face." A one-sided grin accompanied this information. "The doctor tells me to keep my hat on, too. And now, if you've quite done staring at the bandage and things, we might as well get down to business. I have here—" he tapped his breast-pocket—"a block of three thousand shares of R. & X. stock, which represents the balance of power—the amount needed for control of the road. You want it—I have it. What do you say?"

"You young scoundrel!" roared Hadman. "This is blackmail!"

"Hardly, Mr. Hadman. This is business. You were too slow to get what you wanted—I succeeded by my superior initiative and energy. You must expect to pay for your lack of acumen. I have my price."

"How—how did you find out about this?" sputtered Hadman.

"Ask me no questions, I'll tell you no lies," replied the visitor pleasantly. "We seem to be wasting time. Let us proceed."

Hadman seemed about to burst into a storm of wrath, but Gibney interrupted him.

"This youngster's perfectly right, Jim. We slipped up, and he has us where he wants us. If he feels like putting on the screws, why, I suppose we'll have to stand for it. May I ask your price on this stock?"

The young man was suddenly afflicted with a violent fit of coughing. When he recovered he asked that Jevons, the buyer he had beaten out, be sent for. Neither Hadman nor Gibney could see the necessity for this, but they acceded to his request. Jevons entered.

"Good morning, Mr. Jevons," said the young man. "I'm glad to see you are looking so well. The last time I saw you you were feeling strained a bit, I think."

"I never saw you before!" said Jevons angrily, displeased at the badinage.

"That's quite true, Mr. Jevons; but I saw you. It was at the Biltmore, in the tea-room. You were talking to a lady—a very beautiful lady, Mr. Jevons."

"What on earth—" began Hadman, but a glance from his partner silenced him. Jevons had suddenly dropped his air of bluster, and was as pale as the white wall behind him. He made a move to go, but with a lightning-like movement the young man intercepted him. His air of pleasantness was gone.

"I was at the next table, behind the palm. I heard you when you planned to acquire the stock yourself with your employers' money, and bleed them for it. I heard you make your plans—and you were incautious enough to give the address of the man who held the stock. I should have exposed you then, but I thought it was better to beat you to it. I—" but Jevons waited to hear no more. He fled through the door and the partners heard the outer door of the office slam.

"The most thorough scoundrel I have ever had the pleasure of knowing," said the young man calmly. "And now that we have disposed of that matter, let us take up the other. Mr. Hadman, I would like to ask you to step out for a moment, if you please. I want a word with Mr. Gibney alone."

Hadman left, though with no good grace. When Gibney was alone with the stranger he said: "I don't know how I can thank you for exposing that villain; but I will try. And now, your price—"

"By George!" broke in the stranger. "Look at that! He was pointing out the window. Involuntarily Gibney turned to look, and when he returned his gaze to the room the young man stood before him—transformed. Gone was the swathing bandage, gone the derby hat, and with its going a cascade of golden hair fell rippling to the young man's waist, and Gibney looked into the face of—"

"Alice!" he cried. "What—how—why—"

"Oh, Phil, darling, I wanted to tell you at first, but you were so cross and grouchy that I thought I'd give you a little vice lesson. And oh, Phil, it was such fun! Here's your old stock—I bought it with my own money, and it's—guess what? My birthday present to you! And oh, Phil, darling, kiss me, won't you?"

Hadman, impatient at the delay, opened the door and started to enter. He got as far as the threshold, then paused with a look of utter amazement on his face. The look gradually faded to a grin of understanding, and he slipped out, closing the door softly behind him.

ANT LION TRAPS HIS PREY

Remarkable Ingenuity Displayed by Small Creature in Securing Food Especially Favored.

One of the most crafty of insects is the ant lion larva. This tiny creature dotes on ants of all sizes and species, and as it is not swift of movement it must trap its victims. It does this by making a cone-shaped pit in the sand. These pits are about an inch deep and two inches across. When it is complete the ant lion buries itself in the very center, with only its head and strong-curved mandibles in sight. It then patiently awaits the curious ants. Ants are Paul Pry's, and have a tremendous curiosity. The little depression attracts their attention, and they come to its edge and peer down into it.

The larva at once starts into a fury of action. It begins a digging operation and at the same time hurls grains of sand in all directions. The sand thus tossed begins to roll down the depression and carries with it other grains of sand until a miniature landslide results. The curious ant is caught in the slide and goes tumbling down to the center where the hard, sharp mandibles of the ant lion seize it, and the poor victim is shaken back and forth until it is dazed, whereupon the lion proceeds to dine with relish, tossing the empty husk of body outside the hole, once the meal is over.

FIT BEES FOR WINTER

Get Them in Shape for Their Long "Shut In."

Be Sure Your Queen is a Good One—A Strong Colony and Plenty of Stores the Next Requisites—Pay Less for Better Bulls.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

It is taken for granted that the beekeeper has introduced a vigorous Italian queen to every colony in which a failing or poor queen was found, late in July or early August. If this has been done and room provided, so that the queen could lay to capacity and the bees still store any surplus honey that might be harvested, then the beekeeper is in a fair way to winter the bees successfully. There are two other manipulations, however, which should be completed to assure successful wintering.

First, unless one has a first-class cellar, it does not pay to attempt to winter weak colonies in the cellar. Weak colonies or nuclei cannot be wintered outdoors with success at any time.

All colonies covering less than three frames, on both sides, should be united with other colonies. The best way to unite is to place a sheet of newspaper between each brood-chamber and allow the bees to unite without any further attention, except that in a week or two the paper should be removed and the bees left in one hive-body.

The second manipulation, and equally important, with having a good queen and a strong colony, is the question of the winter food supply. Beekeepers who are willing to make an investment of not less than fifty pounds of first-class honey per colony, are the beekeepers who next season secure the large crops of honey. If the fall honey is not of known quality, then it will be better to feed each colony from ten to fifteen pounds of sugar syrup, mixed in the proportion of two of sugar to one of water. The sugar should be thoroughly dissolved, but the syrup must not be burned. This syrup should be fed while quite warm in an inverted Mason fruit jar or honey pail with perforated cover; and if, fed inside an empty super, with the entrance reduced, there will be very little fear of robbing. Feed the warm syrup in the evening and before the onset of September. Then if the colony has 50 pounds of natural stores and is headed by a good Italian queen, this colony will then be in shape to either pack for outdoor wintering or to place in the cellar.

In the winter of 1919-1920 the winter loss throughout Ontario was over 50 per cent, yet even in a winter when the loss was so heavy, many successful beekeepers wintered practically without loss. It is unnecessary to have a heavy winter loss in bees, provided the beekeepers will give the same thought and attention to the apiculture, which successful business men in all walks of life give to their individual business.

The office of the Provincial Apiarist, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is always ready to assist beekeepers in any way to make beekeeping more successful. Consult him, if in doubt.—F. Eric Millen, O. A. College, Guelph.

Paying Less for Better Bulls.
A survey recently made in connection with the "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture shows a general ratio of one bull to every 18.9 cows. Experience, however, in Pennsylvania, the state which leads in the number of bull associations, shows that 93 bulls are sufficient for the 5,694 cows belonging to members of the bull associations, or an average of about one bull for every 60 cows. These figures are taken from the bull association directory recently issued by the Dairy Division, United States Department of Agriculture.

There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Worm Powders, and they are as pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children will refuse them. In some cases they cause vomiting through their action in an unobstructed stomach, but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, no indication that they are hurtful. They can be thoroughly depended upon to clear worms from the system.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Nellie Pyke. Another one has passed away. Gone beyond our sight; Yet we feel, and all as one, That Christ does all things right. Thou 'art gone, Dear Nellie, where all must go. But we trust to meet above; A few more joys a few more tears And then we too shall be removed. Away from all those earthly griefs To a home not made with hands, Where we shall with you join In singing praises to the Lamb. So farewell, Dear Nellie, for a little while, Your time on earth is spent, We all shall miss your smiling face And your loving friendly voice. One by one we each are going To that Land beyond the skies, May we each be reunited With our loved ones, by and by. Lines written by husband, brothers and sisters.

PAINFUL NEURALGIA TORTURING SCIATICA

Both Come From the Same Cause—Thin, Watery Blood.

Most people think of neuralgia as a pain in the head or face, but neuralgia may affect any nerve in the body. Different names are given to it when it affects certain nerves. Thus neuralgia of the sciatic nerve is called sciatica but the character of the pain and the nature of the disease are the same. The pain in neuralgia is caused by starved nerves. The blood which carries nourishment to the nerves has become thin and impure and no longer does so, and the pain you feel is the cry of the nerves for their natural food. You may ease the pains of neuralgia with hot applications, but real relief from the trouble comes by enriching and purifying the blood. For this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are strongly recommended. These pills make new, rich blood and thus act as a most effective nerve tonic. If you are suffering from this most dreaded of troubles or any form of nerve trouble, give these pills a fair trial, and note the ease and comfort that follows their use. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BUSINESS COLLEGE COURSE

T. Rose, Petrolia, received cuts and bruises when thrown from his dray when his horse stepped on a thin place on the pavement.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
