MEMOIRS OF SHERLOCK HOLMES, BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

ADVENTURE III.—A CASE OF IDENTITY

"My dear fellow," said Sherlock Holmes, as we sat on either side of the fire in his lodgings at Baker street, "life is infinitely stranger than anything which the mind of man could invent. We would not dare to conceive the things which are really most commonplace of existence. If we could fly out of this window hand in hand, hover over this great city, gently remove the roofs, and peep in at the queer things which are going on, the strange coincidences, the plannings, the cross-purposes, the working through generations, and leading to the most outlandish results, it would make all fiction with its conventionalities and foreseen conclusions most stale and unprofitable."

announce Miss Mary Sutherland, while the lady herself looked behind his black figure like a full-sailed merchantman behind a tiny pilotboat. Sherlock Holmes welcomed her with the easy courtesy for which he was remarkable, and having closed the door and bowed her into an arm-chair, he looked her over a minute, and yet abstracted fashion which was peculiar to him.

"I came to you, sir, because I heard of you from Mrs. Etherage, whose husband you found so easy. I was no harm done, it made me mad, and I just on with anything and came right away to you."

the foreman, but when Mr. Windbank came he made her sell the business, for he was very superior, being a traveller. They got £2,000 for the good will and interest, which wasn't near so much as father could have got if he had been alive."

"I had expected to see Sherlock Holmes impatient under this rambling and incoherent narrative, but on the contrary, he had listened with the greatest concentration of attention."

"You own little income," he asked, "does it come out of the business?" "Oh no, sir. It is quite separate, and was left me by my Uncle Ned in Auckland. It is in New Zealand stock, paying 4 1/2 per cent. Two thousand five hundred pounds was the amount, but I can only touch the interest."

"And your mother is alive and well. I wasn't best pleased, Mr. Holmes, when she married again so soon after father's death, and a man who was nearly fifteen years younger than herself. Father was a plumber in the Tottenham Court Road, and she left a tidy business behind him, which mother carried on with Mr. Hardy."

When Indigestion Grips You

It is not merely "something you ate" at the last meal—it is weakness in the stomach. A pain in Nature's danger signal that something is wrong. Indigestion is the stomach's way of telling you that it can't or won't work. NOW is the time to take FRUIT-A-TIVES. These fruit tablets rest the stomach—bring out a copious flow of gastric juice at meal time—and make the stomach and intestines digest everything you eat.

MISS MABEL THOMSON, CHAMPION GOLF PLAYER OF CANADA

Lewis Morrison's perennial Faust at the Opera House was the star attraction for this week in local theatre circles. Morrison's Faust, with new effects proved as usual an excellent show and was witnessed last night by a very large audience. The sale for this afternoon and evening is good, so there is no reason why the devil should not be satisfied with his St. John business.

In the World of Labor.

The Association of Officers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics opened its annual convention at San Francisco recently.

The working day in the Chinese cotton factories is thirteen and one-half hours; eight shifts work ten hours. The Chinese night work has been abolished, with the result that only a few mills now run day and night. Many cotton factories at Shanghai still pay by the piece, and the workmen earn the equivalent of but 12 cents per day.

The Longshoremen's Union at Everett and Olympia, Wash., have declared that they hereafter work in harmony with the Sailors' Union of the Pacific.

More than 5,000 specialists, members of the Carpenter's unions, recently affiliated with the Allied Building Trades Council of Philadelphia (Pa.).

The Wholesale Purchasing Company for the co-operative associations of Germany, at Hamburg, sold goods to the amount of $2,022,000 in 1904, a supply 1,380 associations, which retail the goods to their members.

The conditions of organized labor on the Cleveland water front are being carefully studied by one of the most expert economists in the United States.

President Esar, of the Reading (Pa.) Railroad Company, announces his belief that the mine owners will reach a new agreement with their employees, thus averting a strike.

Labor-saving machinery, according to Chief O'Brien, of the Pennsylvania Department of Factory Inspection, is responsible for the large number of children employed in industrial establishments.

Strictly speaking, there is no provision in Denmark for old-age insurance, but under a law passed April 9, 1880, a special form of old age relief was established, which is granted to any applicant 60 years of age or over, without regard to occupation, who is unable to provide the necessities of life and proper treatment in case of sickness for himself or dependents.

Four thousand freight handlers are demanding higher wages.

The labor of children in France is regulated by law of November 2, 1892, amended by the law of March 30, 1900. Included under the operation of these laws are factories, workshops, mines, and quarries. Workshops in which only members of the family are employed under the direction of the father, mother or guardian are exempt from the operation of the law. Agricultural and purely mercantile establishments are not included under the operation of the law. Before they may be employed in the establishments specified, children must have completed their thirteenth year and have finished the common school course of education. The age of any age may be employed underground.

The Bakers and Confectioners' International Union will probably not withdraw from the A. F. L., as proposed by members of the union.

The eighth annual convention of the International Building Trades Council convened in Denver, Colo., recently.

Kansas City will soon have a Labor Temple.

An investigation of the short-day movement by the United States Bureau of Labor shows that many manufacturers are willing to grant the eight-hour day, but that the inability of them to unite in the movement has prevented its being made practicable so far.

New York city striking sheet metal workers will arbitrate their differences with employers.

Alabama coal miners have now been striking fourteen months.

There was a large increase in the membership of the United Mine Workers in the anthracite region last month.

Maryland has over 123 local labor unions, mostly in Baltimore.

In North Carolina there are over 30,000 cotton mill workers.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Engineers has a membership of nearly 100,000.

According to reports made by the Bureau of Labor of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the cost of living in America has increased more rapidly than the increase of wages.

Representatives of three important labor organizations, the Brotherhood of Railway Car Men of America, the International Association of Car Inspectors, Car Repairers and Railway Mechanics, met in Buffalo recently for the purpose of reaching some basis of amalgamation, of which all can unite.

The Panama Canal will be built by the labor of West Indian negroes, chiefly because of the objection of labor unions. Chairman Sibons has abandoned the proposed experiment with foreign laborers and will make no contract for the delivery on the seaboard of large numbers of Chinese, Japanese and Italian workmen, who are exempt from the operation of the law. Agricultural and purely mercantile establishments are not included under the operation of the law. Before they may be employed in the establishments specified,

What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us daily doses of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cathartic, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The use was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Sturtevant's Calcium Wafers.

These wafers are small, chocolate-coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste matter.

It is used with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Sturtevant's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely known.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Sturtevant's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Sturtevant's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason taboos by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called "blood purifiers," will find Sturtevant's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

The week opened with a first-class vaudeville entertainment at the York Theatre, and the big audience there on Monday night reminded me of the painted days of the Hyde regatta last winter. Mr. and Mrs. Lucier received a warm welcome in their skit, "A Rustic Romeo." It was well done and well staged, and as a pure vaudeville stunt should earn many shillings for Fred Lucier and his talented little wife before they shove out.

Floyd, the magician, was a revelation to me. I have seen Hermann, Keller and Blouin, with such lesser lights as Skinner, Markos, Ballariga, Boomay and even Zera Senon, but if they, any of them, have anything on Floyd, then you must show me. Floyd's act is of very thirty minutes duration, but it is very clever, and as far as the trick is concerned he has Hermann "beaten." Give Floyd the same mechanical appliances as Hermann (and of which Hermann himself told me once he had 20,000 worth) and his dollars to doughnuts there will be a brand new star in the firmament of magic.

The Brocket trio did some clever work in the line of wooden shoe and skate dancing, but their act would have been much better if they had omitted the alleged comedy and their song.

Miss Mohs (Mrs. Floyd) gave an exceptionally good exhibition of mind reading.

Wardie and Wardo did a physical culture and revolving ladder act. Miss Marguerite, contralto, sang ballads and semi-comics, and Phil Morton, Irish comedian, did a turn of the usual nature. Altogether the show was well balanced and sufficiently diversified to suit the tastes of all. Consequently the patronage was large. This afternoon after the matinee Madame Mohs and Mrs. Will held a reception on the stage.

The Pallard Lilliputian Opera Co., an Australian organization, composed entirely of children, has been engaged to appear at the York Theatre for a season of four weeks before Christmas. The Pallards closed in Montreal on Saturday last, and during four weeks in that city they played to almost $14,000.

A Denver paper speaking of its appearance in the Colorado city recently has this to say: "An opera company of youngsters necessarily suggests amateurism, but three is no trace of that in the work of the Lilliputians. The clever little artists demonstrated at the Grand Theatre last night that dramatic ability doesn't come with years, but may happen even among the tiniest of tots. "The Belle of New York" was the bill, and in finish and careful acting it seemed a miniature of the best bigger companies can produce. The scenery was elaborate and tasteful, the costumes were beautiful, and the children in excellent voice, all of which constituted to an entirely successful performance before a packed house.

The singers for the most part made decided hits, the best of them being perhaps Fred Pollard, who was recalled time after time on the rendering of "Kisses for You, Sweetheart." Master Teddy McManis, who early caught the fancy of the audience by his interpretation of the Bowery tough, scored a decided success as "Kiss for You, Sweetheart." Messrs. A. Wilbur and Wm. Stewart have also returned from the northern woods. They report seeing five moose and had a try at some of them. They failed to hit the animals in a vital spot and consequently returned empty handed.

WOMAN'S LATEST FAD

The Pin Now Reigns as Queen of Miladi's Dressing Table, and in Its Many Forms It is Almost as Precious to Her as Her Jewels.

Who ever suspected that the much despised pin which holds her dress collar in place and keeps her hair from slipping up would become so much coveted a fad?

MID-SEASON COSTUMES FOR TOWN AND COUNTRY WEAR

By far the most effective clothes to be seen at present are the costumes, coats and hats, worn at country house gatherings.

Much of the costuming seen has a summery air, for naturally fine summer garments are worn till the last moment, and, anyway, the end of September is too early to appear in full fall feather.

Following the English fashion, many hostesses have breakfast in informal meal, served at any moment that the stranger comes in, dressed for the morning's jaunting.

A stunning little frock seen at one of these morning moments was a short-skirted "field" dress of red and black Scotch wool. The skirt was pleated to the apron plain, the latter being shaped in a box-pleat widening at the bottom.

The hat was an automobile Tam of red leather swathed in a long, red chiffon veil, dotted with velvet, and with the smart get-up high lace boots of dull red Russian leather worn.

Another very smart tramping frock was of striped covert, in brown and greenish tan, the model consisting of a short circular skirt and a little hip-length box band.

The belt was always held in place over the safety pin at the back of the skirt. Occasionally when the buttons were the kind faires that enabled her to wear it on the next day's jaunt.

One by one, however, the imitation pearls and turquoise fell from their sockets. She made a special trip to the well-remembered casket to replenish her supply, but the cards were no longer thrown in heaps on the glass shelf.

This is the history of the fancy stock, and the well-dressed woman now wonders how she ever finished her toilette without it. It fastens on her sheer muslin and lace cuffs. It holds the edges of the embroidered collarette squarely together.

With innumerable dainty pins on her dressing table, every one of which clasped as securely as a safety pin, the collar never failed to be fastened to the neck.

The woman who knows how to visit always carries a summer millinery over the intermediate season is more difficult than to tide over with gowns, for being more portable, hats are easier to commission than any other article in wardrobe.

Whatever the particular fad, the woman of 1906 owes her extremely tidy appearance to the fancy pin, and it has the added attraction of being within the reach of the humblest as well as the bolging purse.

Some extracts from a French letter give further data concerning country house wear.

LIQUOR LICENSE LAW TO BE ENFORCED IN TORONTO

There Are No Saloons, and the Commissioners Will Insist That Hotels in Name be Hotels in Fact—No Retail Licenses for Brewers and Wholesale Dealers—Some Places Likely to be Refused Licenses, and the Number of Licenses Issued May Be Reduced Next Spring, As an Agitation Is Now Afoot—Comments of the Press.

The liquor license commissioners in Toronto, under the Whitney government, have determined that a hotel, to get a liquor license, must actually be a hotel. There are no saloons in Toronto, but under the late government licenses were granted to places called hotels which were in reality little more than saloons, as they had no actual hotel accommodations for guests. The new commissioners have declared their intention to enforce the law, and have so informed the Licensed Victuallers' Association.

The correspondence is interesting, and gives a clear idea of the conditions in Toronto. We quote from the Toronto News:

W. Flavell, chairman, acting under instructions from the Board of License Commissioners, has forwarded to Mr. Patrick Mulqueen, president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, a copy of the minutes covering the statements made some weeks ago by the commissioners to a deputation from the Association. The object of sending the official report of the proceedings to the president is to give him an opportunity to place it before the members of that Association for their information and consideration.

An important part of the minutes is the statement that at the end of the present license year the commissioners will seek to determine what applications have been made for licenses, and to see how they have been conducted with reasonable efficiency as hotels.

In his letter accompanying the minutes, Mr. Flavell informs Mr. Mulqueen that in the renewal of licenses in residential districts and the proximity of some of the present houses to one another may also be taken into consideration by the board. The correspondence follows:

To the Editor of The News.

The enclosed is a copy of a letter to Mr. Mulqueen, the president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, containing an extract from the minutes book of the License Commissioners, also enclosed. Under instructions from the Commission, I am handling this matter to all the daily papers in Toronto.

Yours truly,
J. W. Flavell.

Residential Districts

Mr. Patrick Mulqueen, president Licensed Victuallers' Association, Toronto:

Dear Sir—Under instructions from the Board of License Commissioners, I have forwarded to you a copy of the minutes book of the License Commissioners, also enclosed. Under instructions from the Commission, I am handling this matter to all the daily papers in Toronto.

Yours truly,
J. W. Flavell.

Attitude of the Board

Extract from the minutes book of the License Commissioners, covering the statements made by the Commissioners to a deputation from the Licensed Victuallers' Association.

The Licensed Victuallers' Association waited upon the board by deputation for the purpose of discussing various items with the commissioners.

Reduction Probable

It was pointed out by the commissioners in their judgment probably forty, and perhaps more, of the houses which were licensed on the 1st of May next year will not be licensed on the 1st of May next year, if the physical conditions of the premises were such as they were then, or even if the physical condition of the premises was fair, there was no adequate effort made to enter upon the premises.

In this connection the commissioners indicated that they viewed with distinct disfavor the "litter" houses; that they believed it was entirely contrary to the spirit of the law for brewers and wholesale liquor merchants to be the actual holders of licenses, as they were in so many instances at present, through the chattel mortgage system in vogue. In place of such houses being kept by qualified public houses, they were kept by men whose chief qualification was to build up a bad trade, and who cared little or nothing about serving meals or other amenities to guests. The commission was of the opinion that the one of the

From the reply of the Toronto License Board to the deputation of licenseholders it is clear that the commissioners intend to discharge without favor, if it is not in line with the law, to enforce the law, to make the provisions with a view of carrying out individual views. The law is not intended to be a mere formality, but a means to the end of bettering the public as well as the licenseholders. No Provision for Saloons

Mr. Haverson, solicitor for the association, spoke at some length, frankly stating that he knew that many of the houses were not fit to be licensed, but that he would be glad to see the commissioners to accept the situation as such; that while the law was not intended to be a mere formality, but a means to the end of bettering the public as well as the licenseholders. Methods Employed to Serve the Public

Some Time Ago

Some time ago a deputation of licensed victuallers waited on the board of licenseholders for this city to ascertain what they would consider necessary in the way of improvement of hotel premises to bring them up to the required standard. Mr. Flavell, chairman of the board, has given out for publication a letter addressed to the president of the Licensed Victuallers' Association, enclosing a statement of the board's views on the subject.

THE KINGDOM OF THE MEER

Miss shows their soldiers from the strong and stout. And here they turn to battle as command. Across the continent, 'er the sea and land. And after the choice of war was reared; Yet at the end, the whole wide world ground. Each army smelt the air to profit. Meek through them's sneers like the dropping lead.

THE SMALLEST COIN

The natives of the Malay peninsula have in use the very smallest current coin in the world. It is a sort of wafer made from the resinous juice of a tree, and is worth about one-tenth of a cent.

My Dear Boy—I have just received your letter announcing your engagement to Miss Anna May Jackson. I don't know whether to congratulate you or not. So much depends upon the girl, you know. If I could see her and have a ten minutes' chat with her, I could tell whether you have drawn a prize or a blank. As it is I shall trust to Providence and hope for the best.

Your description is entertaining, but not very informing. You say that she "is as beautiful as Aurora upon a summer morn'" that her eyes are "filled with Heaven's own blue" that her hair is a "golden aureole surrounding a marble brow," and her cheeks are "like the rose-bud kissed by the enamored Sun."

There is something reminiscent about this, as the critics say when they want to accuse a writer of plagiarism, and are afraid of a libel suit. I distinctly remember writing something of the same sort about another girl some time ago. I saw her on the car the other day hanging to a strap. She has grown plumper, her chin has disappeared and her circumference is greater at the waist-line.

I gather from your postcard if somewhat mouldy description nothing more than that the young lady is a bloke and a tolerably good looking, and I mention this in the hope of mine to impress you with the fact that while Aurora is all right in the spring and summer, she begins to look quite different when the time comes to give your pardon, and she is still the most beautiful woman this side the party gates, in my estimation; but you can't reasonably expect to be as fortunate as

THE DEVIL IS HERE.

Lewis Morrison opened his Engagement at the Opera House in Faust last night.

Lewis Morrison is with us again. Clad in flaming raiment, and accompanied by thunder, lightning and the smell of brimstone, he appeared at the Opera House last night in his time honored role of the devil.

Morrison's devil is the principal, but not the only, feature of the very excellent production of Faust, with which that veteran actor continues to entertain and attract thousands of theatre-goers all over the country.

There is little new in this year's production of Faust, there can be little new in it, for Morrison's empyrean has become one of the classics of the stage and can hardly change. True, there may be a few more lost souls in the elaborate picture of the infernal regions which Mephisto and Faust view from the summit of the Brocken; there may be, and is, more smoke, more whirling fire and more sulphurous, choking steam, but that is all.

Several musical numbers, introduced by Misses Wilson and Scarth, and Messrs. Smith, LaRoux, Goodman and Trimble, were very enjoyable.

CAUGHT HIM NAPPING.

The Joke on Frank P. Dyer, Well Known in St. John.

When Charles A. Everett received this morning a marked copy of the Boston American, showing a photograph of his friend Frank P. Dyer, a merchant of Arlington, reclining in an easy chair with his eyes closed, the sight seemed portentous.

But on closer inspection it was learned that the card had the inscription: "Dyer was caught fast asleep in his office chair by a friend with a camera, and in less than two hours a sensational postal card reproduced the picture of himself as he reclined in his chair, asleep in his office. The card has the inscription: 'Not Dead, But Sleeping.' The joke was on Mr. Dyer, and was told, with the picture in the newspaper next day.

SPLENDID VAUDEVILLE.

Among the acrobatic features of the Charlottetown exhibition vaudeville which will be seen at the York Theatre Friday evening and Saturday afternoon of next week will be the celebrated Brothertans Lanoie, the champion aerial gymnast and thrilling performers on the revolving ladder.

As a finale to the evening, the audience will be treated to a comedy, the forming suddenly separates and the audience breathlessly watches for a calamity that will result in one or more serious accidents, but it is soon noticed that the athletes are left wildly whirling in mid-air on a single bar.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McKel of Fairville have gone to Fredericton to attend the exhibition.

NEXT SATURDAY.

J. N. Harvey Will Open His New Union Street Store—Event in Clothing Trade.

The most important recent development in the clothing trade of St. John is the transaction by which J. N. Harvey, the Union Street clothier, has become proprietor of both the clothing stores in the Opera House block.

There is one on each side of the entrance to the Opera House, and now Mr. Harvey has them both, and is connecting them with a wide passage in the rear, so that customers can pass from one into the other.

The one on the east side has been conducted by the Montreal Clothing Co., but Mr. Harvey recently bought them out as a result of the purchase. Mr. Harvey will be able to give up the whole of his present premises to men's and boys' clothing, and devote the other store to men's furnishings, hats and caps, trunks, bags, and similar goods.

This will be a marked gain, as he has had heretofore much great gain, as he has had heretofore much great gain, as he has had heretofore much great gain.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Board of Health Reports Favorably on Diphtheria—One Case of Typhoid.

According to reports at the Board of Health office, diphtheria has made no marked progress in the city during the past day or two.

One case of typhoid was reported yesterday, and this is in a house on Rodney street, West End, where a case was reported on the 23rd of the present month.

Speaking of drainage, the secretary of the board said that the large number of houses are furnished with taps and sinks, there was no always running water in the drains from closets.

AT THE YORK THEATRE.

Lester's vaudeville stars have unquestionably merited, and made a decided hit in St. John, for their performance, which is a word of praise from every follower of theatricals.

Last night a large audience was present at the York, and the management announced that on account of all the performers remaining until Monday, today's performance will be complete in every particular.

Prof. Floyd, the eminent trigonometrist, performs tonight, and makes one think that the professor is something superhuman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lester will appear in a vaudeville sketch being particularly good. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lester will appear in a vaudeville sketch being particularly good.
