BRIDGE OPENING ON LABOR DAY

The committee appointed by the Town Council and Board of Trade to make arrangements for the celebration in connection with the opening of the new international bridge between this town and Madawaska, Me., was held in J. W. Hall's office on Monday evening, J. W. Hall in the chair. It was decided that the official opening shall take place on Labor Day, September 4. There has been a great deal of uncertainty in regard to just when the bridge will be finished. It was originally thought that it would be finished in June. Then the lumber was delayed in delivery, other unforeseen things happened to make further delays and it was plainly to be seen that it would not be possible for the bridge to be handed over until the middle of August. The committee taking all of these things into consideration and the fact that Labor Day is a public holiday, decided that it was best to hold it on that day. The Town of Madawaska is co-operating in the celebration; they have a committee which works with the committee here. A general management, whose task is the organizing and the carrying through of the program of the day has been appointed in the person of Martin Theriault. Mr. Theriault has established his office in the suite of offices occupied by His Worship Mayor Max D. Cormier, in the Fournier block. The general manager outlined his plan for the day. These plans are of such nature that every citizen must take his place and give of his help and enthusiasm in the making of the day a success. The Town Council is paying the expenses of the cost of the celebration. The Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick will be the guest of honor at the State of Maine officials. The several engineers responsible for the construction of the bridge, and the contractors are expected to be present.

The event will be advertised far and wide in the Province and the State of Maine. The largest body of people ever present in the town is expected to be present on that day.

The plan as outlined on Monday evening call for a parade in the morning, in which the various organizations will have a place. It is expected that three bands will be in this parade. The agricultural and industrial progress of the two towns and surrounding communities will be depicted in this pageant. The ancient devices of farm and home such as the old-fashioned plow and spinning wheel, preceding the modern tractor and the modern loom. The parade will in all likelihood be some miles in length. There will be horse races on the race track of the Edmundston Driving Club. A feature of the distinguished visitors, the unveiling of a tablet telling the particulars of the bridge and the importance of one more tie between this country and the United States, ball games, and athletic sports of all kind. Various committees are being appointed and everything points to it being the most historical day in the history of the town. The committee has been most fortunate in the selection of a general organizer and manager. Mr. Theriault has the same wisdom and that enthusiasm will carry the thing through to a successful conclusion. But it is not possible for one man to do it. It requires the very fullest co-operation of everyone, much hard work is ahead of the committee, and they confidently expect that the citizens of Edmundston will do their part in making the day a day long to be remembered by the people of Maine and New Brunswick as a red letter one. It is an international event of more than local interest, and such international events which produce amity amongst nations, and make for peace and concord amongst peoples.

CONCERT FOR THE POOR

The concert and entertainment given by local talent in aid of the worthy poor of the town on Monday night was one of the best entertainments ever staged in Edmundston. The Star theatre was well filled and the great audience were given an unexpectedly good time. There was exceptional talent for a town of this size, but it was an extraordinarily good entertainment, even allowing for good talent. From the moment the curtain went up to the last number everything went with a smoothness and dispatch which few amateur performances can boast of. The receipts from the entertainment were likewise eminently satisfactory, nearly $120 being netted.

The programme which included French and English numbers was as follows:

Chorus, The Lone Ship; solo, Miss Dumont; English play, "The Ghost in the Boarding School," selected cast; Whistling solo, Miss Lynde; French play, "Les Religieuses," selected cast; Step dance; Chorus and dance, Leave me with a smile; Monologue, Miss Rideout; Solo, Miss Pelletier; Character solo, Ronald Dunbar; French play, Soeur de Lait; National dances, Frenchway; Revue; Dance; Solo, Miss Clavette; Duet, Miss England and Miss Carrier; French chorus; God Save the King.

"DAWN OF THE EAST" A SUMPTUOUS PRODUCTION

"Dawn of the East" starring Alice Brady, which opens at the Star Theatre Saturday, July 1, presents the actress in the role of a Russian noblewoman who makes her escape across Siberia into China when the revolution breaks out in her native land. Brady also receives America and marries an American diplomat. The setting for this colorful drama are said to be the most costly and magnificent ever erected by Ballet in

HIGH AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSE

The closing exercises of the High and Public Schools was held on Tuesday afternoon. A very good program had been arranged and the pupils acquitted themselves in fine style. The most interesting event of all, however, was the graduation of and presentation of certificates to Miss Marion Trafton of grade eleven.

It is said that Miss Trafton is the only girl who has ever graduated from that grade in Edmundston. She has been the only pupil in that grade all the present school year. To be a lone scholar, to plow the furrow alone, as Lord Roseberry says, is hard, and the congratulations and praise to her are sincere. The example to the girlhood of Edmundston is such in that respect, that others will surely follow her example, and the day soon come when the higher classes will not only be full, but that on graduation day there will be goodly numbers receiving their diplomas. The prizes awarded by the trustees for scholarship, attendance and conduct were won in Grades nine and ten by Martin Hall and Regina Morin. In Grade 8, by Ronald Rideout and Marie Nadeau, first and second respectively in each case. The Principal made some well chosen remarks at the close of the exercises and the school year of 1922 passed into history with the singing of the National Anthem.

BOLD ROBBERY LAST NIGHT

Last night thieves broke into the garage of Pat Fournier and stole two Studebaker cars, one belonging to W. Albert and the other to a commercial traveler. Not only did they steal the cars but they took the complete McCoskey system and other valuable papers and some clothes. One of the cars was discovered this morning overturned in a ditch at the end of the bridge. The police are making every effort to discover the other car and bringing the offenders to justice.

PLEASANT SOCIAL DANCE

A very enjoyable dance was given by Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Good of the Madawaska Inn to a number of young people on Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Grace Phillips of Fredericton. A most enjoyable evening was spent and the Inn was gay with the sound of music and the gay voices of the young people. Refreshments were served a little before midnight, and when Sunday morning appeared there were only a few left who were taking their turn in thanking the host and hostess for one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season. The invited guests were Miss Grace Phillips, Fredericton, Misses Phyllis and Dorothy Hall, Misses Audrey and Elizabeth Rideout, Misses Grace and Helen Stevens, Misses Jean La Porte, Wilma Wright, Edna Michaud, Annie Bedell, Lillian Lyndoff, Greta Hammond, Helen Murchie, Roberta Hammond, Helen England, Allie, Lillian and Della Miller, Miss Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Vanwart, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Owens and George Burns, Gordon Lawley, Cecil and Alec Matheson, Richard Murphy, Ronald Dunbar, W. Grant, L. Seely, G. Gillis, Amos Pickard, Gordon Nicholson, C. O'Brien, J. Call, R. Dayton, B. Pincombe, E. H. Stevens of Hartland, and F. W. Stevens of Van Buren.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON
New Rockland, P. Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about 'Fruit-a-tives' for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives' Mrs. J. M. PENNINGTON, 506 a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

If you would get away from the myriads of ills which result from constipation, it is only necessary to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Annable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicines I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results.

Schoolgirl Amazes Experts

At various intervals throughout the ages persons have arisen who astonished their generation by their strange gifts and occult powers. Sometimes these persons were revealed as fakers in their own day. Sometimes they got by while they lived, only to be unmasked by subsequent investigators. Sometimes they had made discoveries slightly before their time and claimed a supernatural origin for natural phenomena. Occasionally a man amazes the people of his own time and leaves a mystery which is never solved. To one of these classes belongs Eugene Dennis, a Kansas City girl, who is attending High School and who appears to have some remarkable gift. She makes no claim of being in communication with the spirit world. She does not know how she performs her wonders, and is in every respect an ordinary girl. She admits she is fond of boys and chocolates, and who is no brighter, save for her queer gift, than the ordinary girl of her age. The theory is advanced that she has "psychic eyes," whatever that may be. That she is a trickster appears to be an untenable theory. She has already been investigated to establish this point by a man who is an acknowledged expert.

It was about a year ago that Miss Dennis began to startle her friends by her powers, one of her first victims being a youth who was driving her in his car and chose a shady spot just outside the town where he thought he might suitably stop and refresh himself with a kiss. He was getting himself all set for the exercise, with Miss Eugene's not crossed her eyes and she stammered: "A man—hurt—an automobile—quick—if they do not—hurry he will die—send a message to the hospital—quick." Then she fainted. The amazed boy shook her by the arm and in a moment she came round. She told her father who was waiting into town, as there had been an accident, and if help did not come immediately a man would die. He put on all speed in the direction she pointed out and presently saw two wrecked automobiles and a little group of people. They told her that the victim of the collision had been already taken to the hospital. It would appear that Miss Dennis was somehow or other made aware of the accident at the moment it happened. In fact she saw it.

Some days ago she paid a visit to Omaha, and it was from there that the first public news of her queer gift emanated. One of her woman friends remarked that she had lost a valuable diamond ring the day before, and Eugene, without going into a trance, but merely concentrating her mind, told her where it had been dropped. She said it would be recovered if she hurried, because in half an hour a man with a vacuum cleaner would be busy with the rugs. The matron hurried away to the friend's house, went to the room and at the designated spot picked up the ring. She had not recovered from her amazement and delight when a servant knocked at the door and asked if it would be convenient for him to clean the rugs. There were several other similar incidents which found their way into the newspapers, with the result that the American Society for Psychical Research in New York became interested and commissioned an investigator.

It happened that the best investigator for one phase of the problem is a resident of Omaha. He is David Abbott, whose business is the manufacture of paraphernalia for magicians. It is said that half the tricks of the professors of lagerdom are the invention of Abbott. He has often said that he can duplicate any trick of the professional mediums and was eager to interview Miss Dennis. It was arranged that she should live at his house for a few weeks. She did so, and Abbott's report, which has been forwarded to the society, will say that she remains a mystery to him, and that there can be no possibility of fraud in what she performs. Nothing more dramatic in the history of these investigations ever occurred than the incident one evening recently, when Mr. Abbott invited some transient guests to meet the girl and witness a demonstration of her powers. For a while she remained chatting with them, telling them things about their past lives, which astonished them, when suddenly she stopped and cried: "Wait! Wait!" "Is getting something!" she exclaimed. "Something awful is happening. A man is being killed right now—right here in Omaha. I see a street car. I see three dark-faced men running through the streets. The man is dead." She resumed her chat in normal tones and a few minutes later the guests were leaving the house. They boarded a street car and noticed the excitement of the other passengers. They then learned that three negroes had shot and killed a policeman at the end of the car line, fifteen minutes before, at the precise moment when Miss Dennis had her vision. It is said that the girl has also successfully repeated a test message agreed upon between Abbott and a dead friend, who had promised to send this particular message if ever he found a medium. Eugene is to be further investigated by the Society for Psychical Research.

NOT ALL DUE TO COMEDIAN

Part of Laughable Entertainment Was Being Furnished by Original Tenants of Barn.

Speaker Street said the other day in the New York state legislature at Albany:

"Because an agitator gets a lot of newspaper space it does not necessarily mean that he is a great man. Newspaper space may mean something else. It remains me of a story. 'A rich man hired a comedian to entertain the workers on his estate one evening. The entertainment was staged in the barn, and it went well, almost too well. The comedian, in fact, had hardly got under way when the barn began to shake with shouts of laughter. Soon the laughter became so uproarious that the rich man rose and said:

'Friends, I know how difficult it is to restrain our mirth when Mr. Backchat is on the stage, but really, you know, if we don't hold ourselves in just a little the performance will hardly be over by midnight.'

"Then a burly plowman rose in his turn.

"Excuse me, boss," he said; 'it ain't Mr. Backchat we're laughing at but somebody left the door open and all the pigs have got in, and they're nearly pushing 'us off our seats.'

Blue-Jay Ways

Last spring a pair of blue jays nested in the croch of a maple just below my study window. What a time they had of nest building! The female included on building in a crotch below, while the male thought a crotch higher up afforded a more advantageous location.

They talked and scolded, building first in one place then in the other. In the end the female had her way, and the makeshift bunch of twigs and brush was collected. The birds were silent for weeks, tending strictly to family cares; the half of which the male bird assumed without a murmur or complaint. All summer long they were silent, but toward fall they raised their voices with those of the other jays in the neighborhood. It was a new shout on blue jay methods, and hereafter I shall regard the birds with a wee bit more appreciation.—Christian Science Monitor.

Poor Father

Marian is eleven years old and thinks that she is old enough to stop leaving her hair bobbed and let it grow out and be braided as do the other little girls in her class. But her mother has different ideas. So, of course, there is an argument every time hair cutting time arrives. Last time mother brought forth a new argument. "I want your hair to be pretty and thick when you grow up," she said, "and there is nothing which makes your hair grow better than to cut it often." Marian's eyes opened wide. "Then why don't you begin it on father?" she said. "He says himself that he is getting bald."

Vacant, Saskatchewan.—I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen, and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down, as my fifteen-year-old daughter has taken it and is quite her own girl self again.—Mrs. Fann. Wenz, Viscount, Saskatchewan.

Owing to the recent heavy rains much damage has been done along the Tobique River. Many million feet of lumber have gone adrift from the Fraser Lumber Co., and F. D. Sandler's mill it was feared at one time that the mill at Plaster Rock, also the station, bridge and other buildings would be swept away. Acres of land was under water, destroying the crops on the lowlands, all this being a great loss to the people of the Tobique as a great many men were employed in the mills and the loss of the lumber means a loss of summer's work in the timber business. The Tobique Valley Railway has been in such bad condition that no trains have passed over it since Tuesday.

BANK OF MONTREAL
Established over 100 years

The Alpine Club of Canada

Living Room Alpine Club, at Banff.

Of all the trails, the mountain ones are most alluring and each year they call to the members of the Alpine Club of Canada who hold their annual camp this season at Lake O'Hara. The Camp, known as the "O'Hara Meadows Camp" was an open Alpine Meadow at an altitude of 6,500 feet above sea level, gray with mountain blooms.

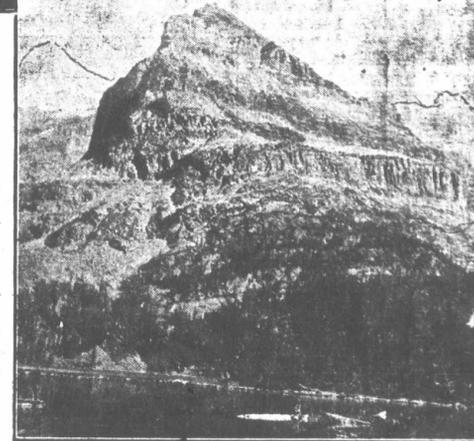

The Lake, an Alpine gem, in whose bright surface, with witchery of reflection, towering mountains are held captive, with the bright green of the forests that surround the shore.

This Alpine realm in the heart of the Rockies, a realm of crags and canyons, of encircling and overhanging peaks, has a variety of charms that are never exhausted. The mountains, ranging from ten thousand to eleven thousand, five hundred feet above sea level, include the matchless picture of Lefroy glacier, the great white peaks of Victoria, the massive Cathedral Crags, Stephen Oodray and other giants of the Rockies. Each new view beckoned to fresh delights. Below Oodray is the cabin built by the Swiss guides in which there is always a camper's cache.

In 1909, the Alpine Club of Canada opened its club house headquarters at Banff and held a special annual camp at Lake O'Hara. It was unique in that an invitation to attend this camp, as guests of the Alpine Club of Canada, was sent to the president and members of the Alpine Club, England. A party of 20 accepted the invitation. The guests included mountaineers, well known in many parts of the world.

It is interesting to note that in 1920, the Alpine Club of Canada became affiliated with the "Alpine Club" of England, the oldest and most famous of all Alpine clubs.

The annual camp is for the purpose of enabling members of the club to meet together and the great hills of Canada, and to assist graduating members to qualify for active membership. Those who have made an ascent of at least 2,500 feet, are eligible for active membership. Those distinguished in literature, art or science, relating to mountains, are given certain recognition.

At Lake O'Hara.

The objects of the club are the promotion of scientific study and exploration of Canadian Alpine regions, the cultivation of art in relation to mountain scenery, the education of Canadians to an appreciation of their Canadian heritage, the encouragement of mountain craft and the opening of new regions as national playgrounds. The preservation of the natural beauties of the mountain places and of the fauna and flora in their habitat, is promoted.

The Club House of the Alpine Club of Canada, opened in 1909, is situated on the slope of Sulphur Mountain, 300 feet above the town of Banff. Spread in vast panoramas, are the deep river-headed valleys of the Bow and Spray and the forest clad mountains beyond with their snowy peaks glistening in the sun. From the broad verandahs of the Club House, nature seemed one harmonious tune.

The Club House is replete with interest. Bowls and baskets of mountain flowers were in attractive arrangement. The fine pictures of Canadian mountains were worthy of study as well as interesting photographs of well known mountaineers of Europe and Canada. The group of men and women who founded the Alpine Club of Canada, are pictured, at their first meeting in Winnipeg in 1906. Included are Professor Coleman of Toronto and Mrs. Parker of the Winnipeg "Free Press." There is a picture of Sir James Outram, the first man to climb Mount Assiniboine, the Matterhorn of Canada, and many others of interest.

The stone fireplace in the spacious living room was built in memory of William S. Vaux, a student of glaciers who died in 1908. The drinking fountain in the hall was given by the late Edward Whympere, the hero of the Matterhorn—in its basin, in a bed of moss, grows the little yellow mountain rose.

A treasure of the Club House is a worn copy of the 1917 Constitution of the Alpine Club of Canada, framed, hanging on the walls of the library. Under is the caption, "Found in a German dug-out when the Canadians captured Vimy Ridge."

A BUSINESS COUPE OF STEEL

Dodge Brothers offer to the business public of America an entirely new principle in Coupe body construction.

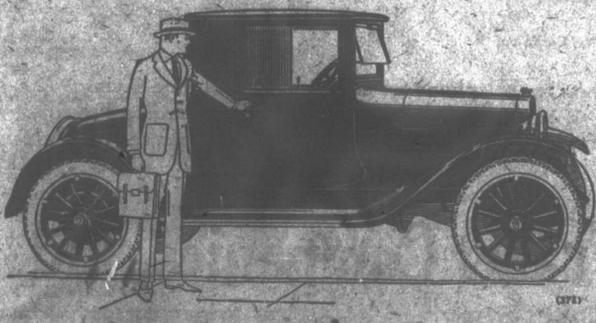

From framework to window mouldings the body is built of steel. It is the first all-steel closed car ever marketed. This design anticipates every possible requirement of commercial travel. It insures unusual quietness—unusual grace—unusual stamina. It has made it possible to give the Coupe that same lustrous baked-on enamel finish for which Dodge Brothers open cars have long been famous.

The upholstery is of genuine leather—leather that will wash and wear. The seat is wide and comfortable. Carrying compartments are accessible and spacious. The car is equipped with a heater, dome light, window levers, windshield cleaner, cord tires, Yale door locks, and every other appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and protection.

Built inside and out to withstand the wear and tear of everyday use, it retains the same lightness and beauty of line which you are accustomed to look for in Dodge Brothers cars.

It is the Business Coupe which business people the world over have been expecting—from Dodge Brothers.

SCHOOL CLOSING

School closing came like a thief in the night. No one knew anything about it until it was all over. The last exercises in the old school should have been an event, even if there were no other reasons. Commencement Day as it is called in the States, is a day of days, a day that would not be missed by anyone who had the least chance of attending. But here the vast majority will hear of the exercises when they open their Observers on Friday night. It is true that the pupils were told that if they wished they could bring their friends, but there was no planning ahead, no enthusiasm, no rip-roaring planning to make the day a memorable one. School work, in fact all organized education is team work, in which parents, citizens, teachers and principal work together, for the good of the boy or girl. And what better time is there than at the closing day? But on Tuesday there were only a handful of ladies present. No minister or priest, no male guest in fact. It came and went and Edmundston was no wiser. It came and went and no trustee was present. It came and the exercises passed without the presence of the chief magistrate of the town, or any other official.

The pupils finished their year's work and there were none to praise or encourage, except a few—a very few vitally interested mothers. We need the best educational facilities for our children. We cannot have them unless we have the support and encouragement of our representative people. We cannot have their interest if we do not have their presence at occasions like this. School closing came and went like a thief in the night, this year. The representatives of the people, the school trustees, must see to it that next year, and every year after, it shall come as a high day in the life of the scholars and the school.

OUR GREATEST NEED

What is the greatest need for Edmundston at the present time? Doubtless that question would be answered in a variety of ways. Some would say factories and industries, others would reply a feeling of confidence in the business world. Still others would reply better train service, both for freight and passengers. Some would answer more houses, and others would hold that a reduction in taxes is our greatest need.

There would be a very wide field of answers and doubtless the suggestions would all be good. Our greatest need however is a hospital. In a town of the size of the one we need a local hospital in the worst way. There are always accidents happening in an industrial town, and there are always serious cases of sickness requiring operations, operations which in many cases cannot be performed at home. As a consequence of our lack, people are continually being taken to Moncton, Woodstock, St. John and even Montreal. We have a hospital at St. Basile and a great many people are taken there. In the present issue there are reports of several people who are in different parts of the country undergoing treatment. We have a corps of good doctors in town, doctors whose skill is undoubted and whose devotion to duty cannot be surpassed. Day and night they are working for the good of humanity. Day by day they are saving life. These unselfish men constantly see

A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE

It Seems So in Many Cases and Good Health is Always Necessary

Viscount, Saskatchewan.—I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down, as my 15-year-old daughter has taken it and is quite her own gay self again.—Mrs. FRED. WILBY, Viscount, Saskatchewan.

I Live On A Farm

Upper New Horton, N. B.—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and they have done me a world of good. Since then I have been able to do my housework and I have a lot of work to do as I live on a farm. Seeing your advertisement in the papers was what made me think of writing to you. I hope this will help someone else.—Mrs. Wm. B. KEVVA, Upper New Horton, New Brunswick.

Asides his wife he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. J. C. Stevens of Centreville, a brother, Wallace Hoyt, of Denver, Colo., and a sister, Mrs. Annie Sawyer of Fredericton. The funeral was held at his late home and conducted by Rev. Hugh Miller, assisted by Rev. C. R. Canham. The members of Carleton Lodge F. and A. M. attended in a body and took charge of the service after leaving the Methodist cemetery.

A crew of men started work this week on the highway near the Boundary Line. Mr. Venot didn't get at it any too soon as it is washed away now to the strata laid down about the stone age. A good many of the roads in the section should be sent over to Gloucester County for repairs. Miss Dorothy Clark of Presque Isle, Me., is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Clark. Dr. Murray and Miss Marguerite Campbell spent Sunday with Mrs. B. W. Campbell.

Mr. Bruce of Charlottetown, P. E. I. is visiting his son, W. M. Bruce. Miss Esther Weade returned to Lawrence, Mass., on Friday. The Centreville Dramatic Club played at Perth on Friday.

On July 2, Rev. H. R. Bell will preach as follows: Centreville, 11 a. m.; Good Corner, 3 p. m.; Lakerville, 7 p. m. The following subject will be considered at each of these services: "Has God a financial plan for His Church?" Come and bring a friend. Mr. and Mrs. F. R. MacKenzie have moved into their home in town again.

their patients taken to institutes outside of the town where they are no longer under their care. The taking of Braden's away sometimes endangers life, and sometimes the want of a hospital here is going to cost human life, as it has doubtless in the past. Our greatest need is a well equipped hospital. The Observer will be glad to publish letters reflecting the views of its readers on this question, both for and against the suggestion.

John Hardwick.

CENTREVILLE

Friends of E. A. Hoyt will be pained to learn of his death which occurred at his home on Wednesday 21st, after an illness of a month. Deceased was born on August 9, 1850 and came as a young man to Centreville. He was married to Miss Alice Johnston who survives him. Shortly after marriage the young couple moved to the American west, where they spent a number of years in Kansas and Arizona. They returned to Centreville about twenty-five years ago and have lived here continuously since. Be-

Arch Tracey spent a few days with his brothers, Merrill and Charles.

It is to be hoped that the recent rains may put a stop to the pests that are destroying the shade trees and gardens.

Several of the farmers had to replant their potatoes owing to the fertilizer burning the seed.

All the crops are looking well especially the grass which has improved greatly in the last week.

The old boys who are all ready for a fishing trip have had to put off starting for a few days until the water goes down some.

The Orange Lodge held an all-night session on Wednesday. Quite a few of the boys took the Arch degree. Ice cream and cake was served by the ladies at 12 o'clock.

Rob Carvell is backing it for a few days. Mrs. Carvell is visiting her sister in Hartland.

The 50th Anniversary of the dedication of the U. B. church took place on Sunday the 18th. In spite of the condition of the roads and the inclemency of the weather a fair sized congregation was present at each of the services. The church was prettily decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. The choir and congregation rendered good music. But best of all were the fine sermons. In the morning our pastor, Rev. H. R. Bell, gave one of his best messages from the words "Where there is no vision the people perish." He read a brief history of the building of the church, the names of some who were instrumental in its completion and the dedication on June 10, 1872, by Rev. Geo. W. McDonald. Rev. Mr. Ackland was the preacher in the afternoon. His scholarly address was listened to with great attention. The subject was "How Christians ought to behave" and I feel sure that all who heard were helped. At 7.30 Rev. Mr. Williamson was on hand with the condition of discipline with the words "If any man will be my disciple, let him deny himself, take up his cross and follow me." All went home feeling that it was good to be there, the only regrets being that so many missed a rare treat.

NATURE'S MODELS.

Seven Fundamental Forms Exist in the World.

"Crystal, sphere, plane, staff, band, screw, and cone—these are the fundamental functional forms of the whole world," says Lily Douglas in the Cornhill Magazine. "These suffice for every process of evolution towards the construction of every perfectly adapted shape, of every individual optimum. All existing substances must be based on these seven fundamental shapes, as nature has not produced any others; let the human mind create what it will, it can only achieve variations of these seven forms; it cannot get beyond them."

"We take a bluebell, and on analysing it we see that leaves and petals are planes; the roundness of the sphere, the shape of the cone, are joined with planes in its corolla, screw-lines and spiral planes are repeated in ornamental coils; the stalk is a staff. Again we find the seven fundamental forms, very much modified and complicated, it is true, but still they remain as the seven constructive parts of the world."

"We try to refute the above definition, but are baffled on every side. As a last resource, we consider a masterpiece of human intelligence, a modern steam engine. Here are wedges, screws, bolts, rivets, pins, axle shafts, axle bearings, couplings, cog wheels, chains, pistons, piston rods, piston rod heads, piston rod collars, cranks, eccentric, connecting rods, cylinders, tubes, and valves. We measure each contrivance by our seven fundamental shapes, and each one resolves itself into either plane, staff, screw, crystal form, cone, or spherical surface."

"Mechanical science is not acquainted with a single model which cannot be traced back to nature. Here is a law so great that it reduces engineering; industry and architecture, art and science, even minerals, stones, mountains, and celestial bodies—in short, all existing substances—to one uniform definition. The same mechanical law governs identically all forms of life. The laws of least resistance and of the minimum of effort require that the same activities lead always to the same forms, and that all evolution must proceed within the scope of the seven fundamental shapes."

KEDDY ELATED OVER HIS NEW LEASE ON LIFE

DARTMOUTH BLACKSMITH SAYS HE WAS ALMOST PAST WORKING WHEN HE GOT TANLAC AND WAS THEN ENTIRELY RELIEVED OF STUBBORN STOMACH TROUBLE.

"I simply have been given a new lease on life and I don't believe money could buy a better medicine than Tanlac," said Nathan Keddy, Wentworth St., Dartmouth, N. S., machine blacksmith for the Starr Mfg. Co.

"I was in a very run-down condition for six years, had no relish for my food and what I did eat seemed to do me no good. I lost thirty-two pounds. In the mornings I felt so worn out I would rather have taken a beating than to get out of bed, and I was so languid and drowsy all day I almost fell asleep at the forge. I was just about down and out, and right on the point of giving up my job.

"Statements of Dartmouth people started me taking Tanlac and six bottles have put me on my feet again. My appetite is fine, I eat like a lumberjack and never have that tired, drowsy feeling any more. Nine hours solid work comes easy now and I don't hesitate to give Tanlac a big boost." Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

WOMEN AND LOVE

Various Conceptions Held of Life's Greatest Experience.

"Woman seems so often to fall into extremes in the conception of love and its treatment," says Lady Dorothy Mills in the Ladies' Field.

"Either she wants to sit on a pedestal or to kneel at its base, to visualize herself as a queen with her slave-lover for ever on his knees adoring, or to abase herself, setting his foot on her own neck and begging for the merciful assurance of eternal love."

"In neither pose is she natural or admirable, for pedestals hold no place in real life. No man is capable of adoring for very long at a time, and it is extremely bad for him to be adored to excess. Left to himself, he loves simply, admirably, humanly, and is likely to be repelled or made uncomfortable by the extremes of one kind or another into which a woman's more highly strung nature sometimes propels her. He loves and, except without extreme proof to the contrary, believes himself loved in return, and is not analytical or self-conscious of his consequent happiness."

"If woman would take her love as sanely, without probing or self-tormenting, she would be a great deal happier. She is too apt to treat love as if it were something cataclysmic and supernatural, instead of a most natural phenomenon that, unless something is very radically wrong somewhere, is very radically left to all-wise nature."

"It is partially the fault of her upbringing, her half-baked education, the exaggerated self-consciousness mixed with ignorance that has been inculcated into her early girlhood, and the factitiousness of the books she reads, and the conversations she hears. She has learned to regard love out of all true relationship to life; she has learned fear of it, and sometimes assumes arrogance to conceal fear. She cannot let it alone or be natural with it, and she concentrates too much on one particular aspect of it. She worries it as a dog does a bone. She makes a tortured unwieldy Frankenstein of it instead of accepting it as a natural and a beautiful thing.

"Above all, she does not seem able to combine it with a sense of humor. In love, as in all other emotions, there enters at times the comic element, which, taken the right way, is a healthy relief to tension and over-pressure, and saves many a dangerous situation."

Strange Clothes. In the town of Mombasa, in British East Africa, jam jars and curtain pins are used for the personal adornment of the natives.

In the French war zone, Arras now has a population of 41,500, Bethune of 20,000, and Lens of 9,000.

LUMBERING ON THE ST. JOHN RIVER, PAST AND PRESENT

By J. Fraser Gregory, President of Murray and Gregory Ltd.

The cook occupied the end of the camp farthest from the door. On a rough table against the wall he made his bread and sweet cake. It was made fresh every day, not yeast raised bread, but short saleratus bread and to bake it, it was put in pans in a reflector before the fire. This was a tin affair about two and a half feet long and fourteen inches in width on the ends with sloping top. It was open on the side next to the fire and bottom, but closed on the top, back and ends. Under it one or two pans of dough were put, and set before the fire and baked.

Just inside the door was the grindstone, at which the choppers and swampers took turns sharpening their axes for the next days work. At that time no table was set from which the men ate. When the cook, who is the supreme power in a lumber camp, gave the word, each man in turn stepped up to the fire with tin plate and cup in hand and brought his portion from the steaming pots and carried it to the "Deacon's Seat", where he sat and ate it.

The camp that boasted a fiddler or even a Jew's harp player was to be envied. Singers were also desirable and did much to entertain in the evenings about the fire. But their songs, I can't describe them; nothing we have now days resembles them. They called it singing by air and their was no air to it, but the telling of a story of many verses about a maiden fair or a warrior bold, in a drone that went up and down the scale as the singer saw fit, no singer would sing the same song to the same air—it was the story that counted. At 9 p. m. lights were out and all had retired, leaving possibly a single individual laboriously writing a letter home. As soon as the fire commenced to die down, it would get very cold and time to time someone who was too cold to sleep would get up and replenish the fire.

Between 4.30 and 5 a. m. the cook having breakfast well under way, would call "All hands turn out". Breakfast was soon disposed of and the men started for their work, with lunch slung over the shoulder of a swamper in each crew. Before daylight the men were on their ground, probably having walked two or three miles. They boiled the kettle and lunched in the camp until daylight was gone. In those days a million and a half to two million was a big operation. Very little yarding was done, but what there was was done with two horses. All the trees were felled with the axe. No logs under cover, the top end were cut and the whole tree was cut up into the woods in one piece, the average being six pieces to the thousand. Four teams could get a million of logs in the winter; now it takes six pairs.

A pair of horses and driver could be hired for a dollar per day, or 75¢ per month. Then they only lunched once a day; now twice. The value of logs delivered in St. John was six dollars a thousand. No stampage was the government, but they paid four dollars per square mile for permit to cut the area. There has been no change in the logging since excepting that they are a little wider today. There is no question as the snowfall being less now than it was in the olden times. Then it averaged five feet in the winter and when the snow was deep the choppers cut down trees standing on the snowshoes. Then there was no holiday, then they only lunched once at Christmas and it was celebrated among themselves in the camp. As spring approached and the long bright days of March came, preparations were made for the drive. Men whittled saved boards for fangers and handles, axes and poles and poles were made and ironed. The majority of the men stayed on for the drive, which started about the first of May, fully two weeks later than now.

The great success of the drive is to get a good start, so the successful operator was good and ready when the roads commenced to break up and the men like to enjoy a few days rest, waiting for water in the streams. As soon as there was enough running to float a log they commenced to roll in the landings—that is, the piles of logs along the banks that had been hauled out in the winter. The landings often extend across the stream, only having a small opening in the middle into which the logs could be rolled out after the water in the stream had risen by the water. At the beginning it is slow work, the night being cold, the water runs off. In the morning there is a little or none, but as the sun gets higher and the day advances it increases, perhaps too much and the men have difficulty in getting the logs moving without jamming and may be forced into the icy water up to their hips to free an obstruction. In a few days the landings are all made and the start made. Provisions and camping outfit are loaded into the tow boat and away they go on their long march down river to the booms below Fredericton. No steers boats existed to guide the logs past bars or rocks and keep them in the channel. No corporation drives were ahead caring for their logs and hurrying them to their destination. The crew that started with the logs must take them all the way through. At the same time other operators were being driven into the main river. At once you ask, how did the different operators know their own logs? They were all marked in the woods with an axe, cutting some character through the bark, each operator having his own mark. These marks while not legible to a lumberman, mean nothing to the ordinary citizen. Some of the marks were "Wild Goose", "Beaver Hat", "Square forty", "Turtle", "Shad Tail", etc. I could talk for an hour on marks alone and make it interesting. The start once made the crew is strung out on both sides of the river, pushing the logs off the shore, where they may catch. Ahead the best men are watching the bad spots where jams might occur, and from time to time are called upon to run out over the bows and in swift running water and with pole or pike dislodge the key log, in what might be in a short time, a serious jam. Honorably they risk their lives at their work and think nothing of it, but they are heroes, these Canadian stream drivers and the best specimens of men the world produces. Did they not prove it in the South African war?

(Editor Note: As before explained this series of papers were originally given as a lecture before the New Brunswick History Society, before any one dreamed of the devastating world war, and we must once more be assured the writer would, did they not prove it in a greater way in that war?)

The rear of the drive is brought up by the bateaux crews and the boss who takes care no logs are left behind, the bateaux being used to carry them to one side of the river or the other, or onto the islands. At the beginning there is not much work for the horses and they stand in the sludge or the tow boat and are passengers. The drivers start their work at daylight. As soon as they are off the cook and rookers break camp and get under way in the towboat, now running with the current and guided with the long sweep at the stern through the workers to the camping ground for the night, where the tents are once more set up. They are not the wall of circular tents we know, but long shed tents open in front and sloping down to the ground at the back. The cook starts his fire, makes his bread in the reflectors, boils his pork and otherwise prepares the evening meal. An abundance of wood is gathered to start a long fire in front of the tent. As daylight fades from the sky the men come straggling in, most of them wet to their waist, eat their meal and throw themselves to the ground under the tent behind the fire and are asleep in jig time.

There are many kinds of Wealth. Some people think that wealth consists of the possession of worldly goods; others that it includes the resources of their country; and there are some that realize that the power to work is also wealth. See poverty of Riches, Neighborhood Theatre, Saturday night.

Apparently Carleton County can still furnish the material for political fireworks of the vivid variety. Last evening the members of the Victoria Chapter of the order of the Hartland Star at Woodstock invited Friendship Chapter of Hartland to meet with them. More than 22 members of the local Chapter went to Woodstock by automobiles and besides getting new instructions in the work there was a social side to the affair which was greatly appreciated by all—both guests and hostesses.

Mrs. Delans DeLong and daughter Myrtle of Lakeville were in town on Tuesday.
