LONDON TANNERY IN BIG MERGER TO CONTROL CANADIAN TRADE

Fifteen Firms Are Included, Which Means 75 Per Cent of the Business—Yearly Earnings Are Now About $1,000,000 —Leather Prices Will Not Be Affected.

The Toronto Star says: A new twenty-million-dollar leather merger, to be known probably as the Canadian Leather Company, Limited, is being formed in Montreal.

It consolidates fifteen tanneries, and will control 75 per cent of the total trade in certain lines of the leather business.

The only Toronto firm to join the merger is that of Wickett & Craig, Limited. The other firms are:

Anglo-Canadian Leather Company, Limited, Huntsville, Bracebridge, Toronto and Montreal.

C. S. Hyman & Co., London.

Robson Leather Company, Limited, Oshawa and Montreal.

C. Galibert, Son & Co., Montreal.

A. Pion & Co., Quebec.

Duclos & Payan, St. Hyacinthe and Montreal.

Paul Galibert, Montreal.

Seven smaller, but important, concerns in Ontario and Quebec will also become part of the Canadian Leather Company, which will take over the fifteen companies and partnerships, free of all liabilities.

Yearly Earnings a Million.

It is said that the turnover last year of these concerns amounted to $9,885,000, and that the net earnings approximated $1,000,000. By means of the consolidation a large amount, it is anticipated, will be saved in commis-

POLE IN A WARLIKE MOOD USED UP IN A STREET BRAWL

It Is Said He Boasted He Could Whip Any Canadian That Came Down the Street—Some One Showed Him He Was Mistaken.

Egnas Truocash, a Pole, living at 87 William street, was badly used up in a fierce street fight that took place on Saturday evening at the corner of King and Clarence streets. Truocash has a very badly blackened eye and kicks about the body.

It is said that the fight started when a number of Poles, who had been drinking freely, started to boast that they could fight any Canadian that ever walked and beat him to a finish. Somebody took them at their word and made an attack on Truocash.

It is said that his friends, instead of coming to his assistance, immediately ran away.

The police are investigating the case, and Truocash was arrested on a charge of being disorderly.

For lack of an interpreter, the case was not gone on with this morning, and was enlarged until Thursday.

Anthony O'Toole, an Indian lister, found it impossible to stay on the wagon this hot weather, and fell off. He was fined $10 for being drunk.

Ed. Wyse, for allowing his dog to run at large, paid $2.

Joseph Bertrand, a drunk, paid $2.

TWO CASES TRIED AT HIGH COURT

One Was Decided and the Other Was Laid Over for Two Months.

The sittings of the weekly high court postponed from Saturday were held before Chancellor Boyd this morning, only two cases being down for settlement.

The case of Burgess against Burgess was again up. This is an application for administration by the court of an estate consisting of certain lands situated on Chelsea Green. In view of the fact that the administrator is endeavoring to sell the lands the court ordered the matter to stand over until the first session after vacation. G. N. Weekes appeared for the motion, and P. H. Bartlett for the administrator.

The case of the estate of Ann Branton is an application to pay into court certain moneys to the credit of the infants, Louisa M. Inches and Marie McIntosh, and for payment out of part of the first mentioned infant's share for maintenance.

An order was made for the payment of $577 65, one-half to the credit of each infant, and for the payment of $40 a year for maintenance of Louisa M. Inches for five years.

W. C. Fitzgerald appeared for the motion, and F. P. Betts for the official guardian.

BUSINESS IMPROVES IN THE OLD LAND

Mr. W. D. I. Wright Has Returned From Europe.

Mr. W. D. I. Wright returned from a trip to England on Saturday, and reports that business is booming in the old land.

"Trade conditions are greatly improved," he stated. "The factories are all busy, and the outlook is most promising. South Africa, New Zealand, as well as Canada, are making big purchases there, and the result is that all factories are very busy."

GREAT FIRE ON HUDSON

Loss in Spectacular Steamboat Blaze Valued at $125,000.

Poughkeepsie, June 27.—Late yesterday afternoon the steamer Poughkeepsie of the Central-Hudson Steamboat Company, and the company's storehouse at Highland, opposite this city, were completely destroyed by fire. The motor boat Cardinal, the launch used by Coach Ned Ten Eyck, of the Wisconsin navy, was badly damaged. The total loss was about $125,000.

The fire started under the engine room of the steamer, and was discovered by the crew just after the steamer landed at Highland, opposite the city. There were but ten passengers on the boat, and they were quickly conveyed ashore. The crew fought the flames with fire hose but the fire made such rapid headway, that the steamer was completely enveloped midship. The tug boat Annie, which was lying across the river, responded to the whistles of distress and towed the steamer into midstream. At this time the vessel was a mass of flames from stem to stern and drifted up the river about a mile, after which she was beached by the tug, a complete loss.

The big storehouses on the wharf caught fire from the burning steamer before it was towed away and the buildings were soon a mass of flames. On the north side of the wharf was the Cardinal. Although this boat was badly burned, it will not be a total loss.

A trolley car of the New Paltz and Poughkeepsie Traction Company and a switching tower on the West Shore Railroad were burned. Traffic on the road was held up for some time.

SAYS APPENDICITIS ISN'T CONTAGIOUS

Noted Physicians Oppose Theory of Dr. Donald Hood, English Surgeon.

Paris, June 27.—The assertion by Dr. Donald Hood, the well-known English surgeon, that appendicitis may be acquired by contagion or by the transmission of germs from one person to another, which was published in the Lancet, has excited intense interest among French practitioners and bachteriologists.

Dr. Elie Metchnikoff, the famous head of the bacteriological department of the Pasteur Institution, declared that was fully established; that appendicitis is due to microbes, although unfortunately it is as yet impossible to identify them among the many hundreds of various kinds of minute parasites which inhabit the human intestines.

Dr. Louis Doyen, the best-known surgeon in France, said:

"The experiments which I have made for several years past, and those of Metchnikoff, which I feel I have authority to cite, since part of them were made jointly with me, demonstrate that appendicitis is a polymicrobian malady. It is thus impossible to hold the theory that it can be transmitted by contagion from one subject to another."

NEW COMEDY HOUSE

Klaw & Erlanger, With Frohman, Lease the Adelphi.

London, June 27.—Klaw & Erlanger, in association with Charles Frohman and George Edwardes, have leased the Adelphi Theatre on the Strand, which was formerly the home of melodrama. They intend to produce musical comedies under the new arrangement. Marc Klaw sailed for home on the America today. Before leaving he said, in speaking of the new arrangement:

"We intend to run the Adelphi in connection with the New Amsterdam in New York, playing English companies at the latter and American companies at the former. We shall soon have another London theatre, where we will produce spectacular extravaganza, which is not familiar to Londoners.

"Our first musical comedy at the Adelphi has already been arranged. It is by Lionel Monckton, the husband of Gertie Millar."

Mr. Klaw has engaged Julia Neilson to appear in the United States with Fred Terry's "Scarlet Pimpernel" company.

Charles Frohman has added another star to his repertory theatre. He has engaged Sir John Harel, who will select the plays in which he appears. Hare is the idol of the London stage.

YARD LABORER WAS SCALDED AT M'CLARY'S

Blast of Steam From a Boiler Struck Mr. W. Long.

Mr. W. Long, of Cronyn Park, a yard laborer at the McClary Manufacturing Company, met with a serious accident on Friday afternoon, whereby he will be laid off for two weeks. He was engaged in clearing away ashes for the purpose of making a road when a blast of steam from the boiler escaped and scalded the left side of his body.

Officials of the company state that the accident was due to the man's own fault. Steam is continually let off at this place, and he should not have been standing there. Dr. Black attended Mr. Long.

NO STATEMENT YET CONCERNING NEW BLDG.

Mr. W. H. Wortman Confirms the Estimate of Loss at Big Fire.

Mr. W. H. Wortman, of Wortman & Ward, stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that he expected the loss in Saturday's fire would amount to between $40,000 and $50,000. This is partially covered by insurance, but Mr. Wortman declined to say how much was carried.

"I cannot say anything about rebuilding yet," he said. "We expect, however, to be able to go right on with our work in the molding shop. The west end of the building was not badly damaged, although the stock there was considerably injured by smoke and water. At the time of the fire we were employing about 100 hands. Most of these will be out of work. The insurance men are going over the property shortly and will make their valuation."

It is understood that as soon as the insurance valuators have made their valuation an engine will be secured and an effort made to run the machines which were uninjured. The firm is very busy.

ADED HAMILTON LADY HIT BY A TRAIN

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Hamilton, June 27.—Mrs. Sarah Manning was seriously injured this morning by being struck by a G. T. R. train at the corner of Ferguson avenue and King William street. DESPERADO KILLED IN RUSH ON HOUSE

MIDLAND VISITED BY FIERCE FIRE

A Big Roller Rink and Several Shops Were Destroyed.

Midland, June 27.—Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock fire was discovered in Norman Toole's bicycle shop, an annex to the Palace roller rink, and in a few moments the rink, a livery barn and two dwellings to the east were in flames. The fire spread through the outbuildings behind the business blocks on King street, and in half an hour the middle section of the block was a seething furnace from Dominion avenue to Victoria street. It looked at one time as if the entire block would be wiped out. The brigade, by splendid work, kept the business blocks and residences on either side of the fire-swept area from suffering to any extent. The buildings burned were: The Palace roller rink, owned by M. H. Bennett, and an annex occupied by Norman Toole as a bicycle and repair shop; E. Grace, house and contents; James McDowell, house; M. H. McDowell, livery barn and dwelling; Smith Bros., cutters; the stables of John White, Dr. H. R. McGill and Thomas Argue: the partial destruction of the dwelling owned by S. Terry, and several small buildings used by the merchants in the rear of their stores. The loss is believed to be fairly well covered by insurance.

Death in Storm on Western Plains

Moosejaw, Sask., June, 27.—A frightful story of death and desolation as a result of Thursday's storm, reached the city today over the long distance phone from section 341,330, which is situated in the south country, about 60 miles from Moosejaw.

While details are not full, it appears that a terrible cyclone struck the neighborhood about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, immediately followed by a terrific hailstorm, which swept a strip of country a mile wide. Every house and shack in the path of the storm was destroyed.

Three persons were killed, and seven more or less seriously injured.

SEVERAL KILLED, MANY INJURED IN SPANISH RELIGIOUS RIOTS

Republicans in Anti-Catholic Demonstration at Bilbao Fired Upon by Guards and Fatal Clash Occurs at San Sebastian.

[Associated Press Cable.]

Madrid, June 27.—The Vatican's latest note to the Spanish Government is regarded as practically an ultimatum. It insists upon the withdrawal of the decree of June 11 as a condition precedent to the continuation of the negotiations over the revision of the concordat.

The Republicans and Radicals are organizing throughout Spain counter manifestations against the Catholic agitation.

Rioting at Bilbao.

WATER IN RESERVOIR INCREASES ANOTHER WELL BEING PUMPED

Cool Weather Lessens the Demand and Showers Are Promised—Million Gallons From the Wells and Another Million Can Be Easily Obtained.

The water commissioners will not at present put in another temporary pumping plant to furnish water for the city.

The additional well was attached today, and that will mean a million gallons a day from the wells being pumped, which is the capacity of the pump and air lift.

The other wells are being connected, ready to be used if there is any occasion. All that will be necessary to supply another million gallons of water within a week will be a pump and air life. Both of these can be obtained in a short time.

The reservoir was a foot higher today than it was yesterday, there being 7 feet 2 inches of water at 3 o'clock. There is not nearly so great a demand for water today, the weather being much cooler.

Showers Are Promised.

Showers are promised for tomorrow, and that will be a great relief.

The additional water from the extra well will come in good, and will allow the reservoir to become full again. The extreme heat of the past two weeks will not likely be repeated.

"There is seven feet two inches of water in the reservoir," said Engineer Simmie. "The reservoir is gaining some, and with the lower temperature there is no doubt that the demand will decrease."

NEEDLE ENTERED HAND OF STRATHROY LADY

Miss Beer Was Taken to Victoria Hospital—Needle Was Removed.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Strathroy, June 27.—Miss Beer had her right hand painfully injured on Saturday while cleaning a blouse. A needle, which had stuck in it and which she did not notice, ran into the fleshy part of the hand and worked its way in under the muscles. She was taken to Victoria Hospital and placed under the X-ray and the needle was located and was removed by Dr. Hadley Williams.

FIVE CENTS NET PAYS THE RENT OF METER

Niagara Power Prices Explained at the City Hall.

The schedule of prices for Niagara power for domestic lighting is being favorably considered throughout the city.

The only question regarding the price of light was that as to whether or not the figure quoted included lamp renewals and meter rent. Some thought it included neither the one nor the other.

Inquiry at the city hall brought the information that the 5 cents net included the meter rent, but that the question of lamp renewals had not been considered.

The practice of the London Electric had been to grant lamp renewals to their customers, and one of the commissioners stated to The Advertiser that the city could meet the London Electric in this, and grant lamp renewals to their customers also.

"There are a lot of details that will have to be worked out," said a commissioner to The Advertiser. "We will give the customer the most favorable possible rate, and will do for him what any company will do."

Manager Dark is working out his schedule, and will make a canvass of consumers this week, and will lay the city's proposition before them.

TAFT'S SON IN AUTO RUNS DOWN LABORER

Latter Steps in Front of Machine and Is Probably Fatally Injured.

[Associated Press.]

Beverly, Mass., June 27.—Robert Taft, with two college friends, Lind King, of Minneapolis, and George Harrison, of Wasnington, started out from the summer White House this morning for a spin along the Massachusetts northshore.

Robert, who has been driving the automobile about the city considerably since his arrival last week, was at the steering wheel, and one of the friends sat behind him.

At Prides' Crossing, about two miles from home, the streets were being oiled by a gang of men. The automobile was slowed down, the horn sounded and most of the men stepped aside. One of them, however, was not quick enough and the machine struck him, tossing him into the gutter. He was unconscious when picked up by Robert Taft and his two friends. The men said that the man's name was Michael Phisthwolla.

A nearby physician was summoned and the injured man sent to the hospital, while the President's son and his friends followed soon after.

The hospital surgeons said that the skull appeared to be fractured, and that the man was in a serious condition.

All those who saw the affair said that it was purely an accident, that the automobile was going slowly, and that the man stepped directly in front of it.

FIND OLD TUNNEL

Workmen Unearth a Subterranean Chamber Near Greenhithe, Kent.

London, June 27. — Investigations were made recently of a mysterious subterranean chamber discovered by workmen in Station road, Greenhithe, Kent.

The men were digging at a depth of ten feet, when they found a shaft. At a depth of another ten feet down the shaft was the chamber, which has chalk and mortar walls. At one end of the chamber is a spiral staircase, leading to an adjoining field, and at the other end are two entrances to passages, which are filled with debris.

The chamber is at present eight feet high, the floor being hidden by debris, 12 feet long and 6 feet wide. A horse's skull, oyster shells and fragments of old earthenware were found. There is a family legend of hidden treasure on the estate, and it is possible that the chamber tunnnels run to an old chantry, where underground passages exist.

BROWNE JURY STILL OUT.

Chicago, June 27.—At 11 o'clock this forenoon the jury in the Lee O'Neil-Browne senatorial trial had been out 67 hours, eight hours longer than the previous "endurance record" of 59 hours. There was no sign of an agreement so far as outward indications showed.

$40,000 FIRE SUNDAY MORNING IN WORTMAN & WARD'S PLANT

Eastern Portion of Busy Factory Was Completely Gutted—Firm May Secure a New Site—The Water Pressure Was Satisfactory Says Chief Aitken—Some Features of the Fire.

THE FIRE.

Wortman & Ward Manufacturing Company, corner William and York.
Loss.—$40,000, building and stock.
Insurance.—Partly covered.
New site may be secured.
Cause —Unknown.
Water Pressure—Satisfactory, Chief Aitken says.

The Wortman & Ward, factory at the corner of William and York streets, was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire which broke out Sunday morning at 3:35.

The main shop, including the planing mill, paint shop and shipping room which occupied the centre of the building, and the east wing, were completely gutted, but the good work of the firemen saved the western wing and the molding shop.

How the fire started is unknown, but about 3 o'clock a G. T. R. switchman named Scott, noticed smoke coming from the building. He paid no attention to it for some time, thinking it was smoke from the engine room, but in investigating found smoke pouring from all the windows, and he telephoned in an alarm about 3:30.

A Bad Start.

When the brigade arrived they found that the fire had worked its way, through the whole lower portion of the main shop, and was spreading into the second story by means of an elevator shaft. The opening of the doors and windows to let in the lines of hose fanned the flames, and they broke out furiously in a dozen places.

In the east end of the building on the second and third floors were stored 250 churns and tubs, which had just been completed, and which were to have been shipped to England today.

Oil and Paint.

FINED FIVE DOLLARS FOR SPEEDING AUTOMOBILE

Local Gentleman Appeared in the Police Court This Morning.

An auto owner, who pleaded guilty to exceeding the speed limit on Richmond street, between Dufferin and Central avenues, was fined $5 by Magistrate Love this morning. He said that at the time he thought he must have been hurrying to the country with a doctor to a little boy who was hurt.

P. C. Fysh, however, who laid the information, said the chauffeur had a lady with him at the time.

"I must fine you $5," said the magistrate.

Another autoist, charged with driving without his rear light arranged properly, stated that when he started the light was all right, but owing, he thought, to rough roads, it had been so shaken that it went out.

"That is certainly a reasonable excuse," said the magistrate. "Some of the roads are pretty bad all right. I think that as you did everything possible, I will let you go."

STATIONARY ENGINEERS HELD ENJOYABLE PICNIC

Jolly Gathering at Springbank On Saturday Afternoon.

The stationary engineers held a most enjoyable picnic to Springbank on Saturday afternoon. Fully 150 took in the picnic. The races and games passed off most successfully.

Valuable prizes were donated for these games by Hunt Bros., D. H. Gillies, E. Leonard, London Engine Supply, Fairbanks Co., D. S. Perrin & Co., Lamb Fence Co., Queen City Oil Co., Canadian Oil Co., Canadian Boiler Insurance Co., Casualty Boiler Insurance Co., R. A. Lyons, George Fowler, D. F. Campbell and H. Robinson. The Comets and Eurekas played a game of baseball, which was won by the former 12 to 11. The batteries were: Weekes and Ropp, for the Comets; and Walters and Linke, for the Eurekas.

Tables were set for 150 in the pavilion, the ladies served supper. The weather was ideal for the picnic, and the officers regard it as one of the most successful in the history of the society.

FIREMAN WAS A GREAT SMASHER

Had a Great Time at a Fire Until the Chief Came Along.

A fireman with a pike came in for much criticism at the Wortman & Ward fire on Sunday morning when he smashed windows in what seemed to the spectators to be an uncalled for manner.

After the blaze had been conquered in the east section some one ordered that the smoke be allowed to escape from the west building, which the flames had not reached.

One fireman went along with a pike and created havoc until he was finally stopped by the chief, who came on the scene.

Another fireman in the building raised the windows, and put sticks under them, but his mate appeared to be imbued with the spirit of wrecking and smashed sash, glass and all in half a dozen windows.

KATE LYNCH DEAD

Noted Because She Loved Animals and Hated Men.

Denver, June 27.—The funeral of Kate Lynch, "who loved dumb animals and hated men," was impressively solemnized yesterday at Hackethal's undertaking establishment, 1401 Kalamath street. The services were conducted by Mrs. Alexander Helmle, of 1350 Grant street, the dead woman's employer for fourteen years. A quartette was in attendance and the washerwoman's poor neighbors demonstrated how dearly beloved she was and how badly she is missed from among them.

Kate Lynch dwelt alone ever since she came to Denver. Her home was the refuge of hundreds of stray dogs and cats during her lifetime. It is said of her that the reason she detested men and churches was because when a girl of 14 she was driven from the home of a clergyman, where she had been employed, because the minister charged her with having committed a grevious sin. The child found refuge with a poor washerwoman, where she remained for years with her benefactress and her nine children. Miss Lynch formerly resided in Troy, New York.

PAY FOR THE MACHINE OR REMAIN IN JAIL

Police Magistrate Love Grows Tired of Dealing With a Delinquent.

A case which has been pending for the last two years was settled this morning, when Magistrate Love committed a south end man to jail until he pays $12 that he owes on a debt of $35.

The man two years ago obtained a sewing machine from a woman, and agreed to pay her $35 for it. He sold the machine to another woman for $22, and took an old sewing machine for the balance.

The woman who owned the sewing machine has been trying ever since to get the rest of her money.

The man has been brought up in court repeatedly, and has made many promises to pay, but never has.

On Saturday he was given the money to square up the account, but did not pay it, and was arrested.

"I have given you every chance," the court told him, "and the only way this woman will ever get her money is to put you in jail until you pay it. That is what I propose to do, and as soon as you get the money you will be released."

MUCH-NEEDED CHART WILL BE PREPARED

Break at Wortman & Ward's Fire Shows Up a Necessity.

The water commissioners have prepared a chart showing all the fire main connections in the city, both on the highways and in private concerns, as well as a complete set of drawings of the water mains and services in the city.

The necessity of this was called to the attention of the commissioners by the fire at Wortman & Ward's on Sunday morning.

"We had good pressure until the service main in the building broke," said Chief Aitken. "Then we were handicapped. We did not know where to turn it off, or we might have been in better position to fight the fire. A drawing, showing the location of these services should be given the department."

"We should have complete information on all mains, services and the like," said Commissioner Pocock. "The commissioners will see to it that such records are kept, both for their own information, and for the assistance of the chief."

COMPANY COMMITTED

Hamilton Concern in Trouble Over Club-Purchasing Scheme.

Hamilton, June 27.—About three hours of the police magistrate's time was taken up today in listening to evidence against the People's Furniture Company, charged with breach of the trading stamp lottery act. It was sworn that about 400 Hamilton people had, on the company's representations, formed a club whereby they agreed to pay fifty cents per week until each had paid $15. It was understood that furniture was to be distributed once a week for thirty weeks. The claim of the company was that only thirty people would be admitted to the club, whereas there were over 400. Several women had paid as high as $10 and received nothing. The company, represented by Annie Lumgair, was committed for trial.

LACROSSE PLAYER FINED.

Galt, June 27.—Donald Bethune, of the Preseton lacrosse team, who assaulted Andrew Hart, of the Galt team during the intermediate O. L. A. game played here Saturday, was fined $5 without costs this morning by Police Magistrate Blake.

THE CLUBS OF PICCADILLY

Famous Street in Old London—The Habitat of the Swells—Some of Its Historic Houses.

Piccadilly—famous for its clubs and private palaces—takes its name from "Piccadilla Hall," a large house which stood in two acres of ground somewhere near where the Comedy Theatre, in Panton street, stands today. It was a favorite resort in Queen Elizabeth's time, where people could sup, dance, gamble, and amuse themselves on summer evenings, the title being derived from the Spanish word "Piccadillo" meaning an excusable sin.

Starting from Hyde Park corner, the first house is the famous Apsley House, which belongs to the Duke of Wellington. The house, however, derived its name from that Lord Apsley who was lord chancellor the year before his father was made Earl of Bathurst.

Aspley House is full of historic relics of the Iron Duke. The Waterloo Chamber has been the scene of many royal entertainments, and the museum is a most interesting apartment. The warrior's bedroom, with its small iron bedstead and plain writing table, is modestly laid out, and still bears traces of the quiet simplicity which stamped the life of its original owner.

Next door to Apsley House at No. 149, lives Lord Rothschild, the multi-millionaire financier, art connoisseur and philantropist, and the interior of the house is as full as a museum of priceless pictures and works of art. Two other members of the Rothschild family live in houses a few doors away.

The fortunes of the Rothschilds are now said to amount to something like four hundred million pounds sterling. It has been well said that if one possesses a million its multiplication is easy, and this remark has been exemplified in the case of the Rothschilds, who, it is affirmed, have doubled their wealth in eighteen years.

At this rate of accumulation the quidnuncs assert by the middle of the present century the Rothschilds firm will own some two thousand millions. The interest on this colossal amount would support the entire population of France!

Lord Allendale lives at No. 144 and Lord Glenesk at 139. Lord Glenesk's house belonged to Lord Byron, and here that cold-blooded woman Lady Byron left her husband one evening, with a smile on her handsome face, never to return to the home she had shattered.

Here Byron wrote the "Parisina" and the "Siege of Corinth," and here, in one year, he was served with no fewer than eighteen writs!

The next building of interest is No. 128, the Lyceum Club—the newest, and in many ways the most palatial, of the women's clubs of London. In one respect it is unique, for no woman is allowed to belong to it unless she has done some original work in the arts or literature.

Next door to the Lyceum Club is the Cavalry Club, the swagger "home from home" of the officers of the mounted branches of the army, and from here onwards for a very long way nearly every house one passes is a well-known club.

No. 117 is the United Empire Club; 116, the Junior Athenaem; 107, the Savile; and 106, the St. James'—the latter being the club of members of the diplomatic services. No. 105, is the Isthmian Club and the next building—the huge palace with the ornamental venetian stone balustrade in front — is the Junior Constitutional Club, a social and political organization with no fewer than three thousand members.

No. 94 is the Naval and Military Club, nicknamed the "In and Out" Club, owing to the fact that it stands back from the roadway, with a drive in and exit labelled "In" and "Out."

No. 85 is the Turf Club, and the green-painted cab-shelter opposite, where young "bloods" have been known to consume coffee and eggs on their way home in the early hours, has been nicknamed for many years "The Junior Turf."

No. 82, "Bath House," is the home of Sir Julius Wernher, the famous South African diamond millionaire and philanthropist. Lady Wernher does much good work in the aid of the Children's Happy Evenings Association, and each autumn has a show of dolls at Bath House, where are on view hundreds of dolls dressed by well-known society women.

Both she and Sir Julius Wernher are connoisseurs of art, and, thanks to their sure taste, their house is a treasure-palace of pictures, china, enamels and other ware.

No. 80 belongs to Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M. P.

It was here that the famous siege of Piccadilly took place in 1810. Sir Francis Burdett, a member of parliament, had committed a breach of privilege, and was ordered to be committed to the Tower, but when the officials came to arrest him, they found the house tightly barricaded, and it was some days before they could effect an entrance.

The Duke of Devonshire's great palace, with its ugly brick wall in front and huge bare courtyard, comes next, numbered 78. Devonshire House possesses a famous garden, faultlessly kept. The grounds of Devonshire House, which have provided the meeting place for so many brilliant and historic gatherings and receptions, extend to Lansdowne House in Berkeley Square, and there is a sunk passage between the gardens of the two houses.

At the lower end are many ancient trees, under which Georgina, the beautiful and accomplished Duchess of Devonshire, would, in the hottest weather, hold her court, with Burke, Fox and other beaux esprits of the period, around her, George IV., as Prince of Wales, was a familiar figure at these receptions.

In our time Devonshire House will always be remembered as being the scene of the fancy-dress ball in celebration of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee, when all the rank and wealth of London, headed by the then Prince and Princess of Wales, were present, and the spectacle was only equalled by some great court festivity given in honor of a visit of a sovereign.

Everyone knows Burlington House, the home of the Royal Academy and of half a dozen learned societies, with the striking equestrian statute of "Energy" by Watts in the centre of its stately quadrangle. Handel lived at Burlington House for three years, and it has been associated with all our famous artists in recent years, says M. A. P.

Beyond Burlington House, Piccadilly becomes a land of shops and businesses. Some of the latter are very old, and have been famous rendezvous for society for centuries, but within the limits of this article it would be invidious to particularize.

When a Royal Baby Travels

Little Princess Juliana of Holland, who has recently made a triumphal tour through her country, is the most popular royal baby in the world. Her loyal people, usually self-contained and quiet, went wild with joy when she was born, and have ever since been in a state of exaltation when they catch a glimpse of her, hear a bit of news about her or even at the mention of her name.

All the world knows how Holland celebrated the royal tour recently made with endless processions, banquets, speeches and merrymaking. Every town and village visited by the King, Queen and princess was beautifully decorated with the national colors in flags, garlands and festoons. Every man and woman wore gala costume and every boy and girl was spick and span in the glories of Sunday best raiment.

At Amsterdam 8,000 children marched past the palace; at Haarlem choral and musical societies serenaded the royalties; at Rotterdam the military bands played while the crowd sang the national hymn. Everywhere little Juliana behaved in exemplary fashion for a year-old royalty, kissing her dimpled hands to the people, bowing her head in answer to their cheers and often showing her one white tooth in a baby smile of goodwill.

Queen Wilhelmina has willingly ceded her place as Holland's idol to her little daughter and is as proud of Juliana's charms as a mother can be.

Princess Juliana is a real little Dutch baby, round and rosy, with fair hair and blue eyes and dimples in cheeks, chin, fat wrists and knees. She looks more like Prince Henry than she does like her mother. She is a very good baby and despite the adoration of which she is the subject has not been a bit spoiled so far. She has two nurses, one an elderly woman very experienced and very important, and the other a pretty young girl. Notwithstanding the princess' still tender years she has a governess, whose duties are not very arduous as yet. In spite of these guardians of mind and body the princess spends a good part of each day with her parents and her grandmother.

Queen Wilhelmina has many sound theories regarding the regulation of her daughter's life in her babyhood and all sorts of ideas for her girlhood and womanhood. The little princess' two nurseries are large, bright rooms with plenty of windows which are open more than is usual in Dutch households, and as the princess gets older she is to spend much of her time out of doors learning games and sports which will develop and strengthen her.

Naturally Juliana has a large assortment of toys, but her favorite is an ugly wooden doll in Dutch peasant costume. Rattles she has always disdained. Teddy bears won a passing admiration from her, while a golly-wog on a stick and a white woolly lamb are strong in her affections at present. Toys are sent her from all over Holland, and many of them are packed away till there may be a place for them in the day nursery.

Now that the royal family is in the country the princess takes her daily siesta under the trees and rolls and creeps about on the soft green grass of the palace lawn, pulling bits of it up industriously and gathering it into little bundles. Already she seems to have the passion for outdoor life which her mother wishes to inculcate.

As soon as the princess is old enough Queen Wilhelmina means to have her wear the Dutch national costume sometimes, as she herself did when she was a girl; the short skirt and velvet bodice, the fine white lace collar and cap with golden hair ornaments, thick stockings and sabots all complete. Nowadays her majesty never dons this dress, but her people loved to see her thus arrayed, and photographs of her in that costume still sell in great numbers every year. Queen Wilhelmina was a very pretty girl, but of late years she has changed very much. She has grown far heavier, her face is broader and her features have lost their delicacy. She looks older than she is and lacks animation. She dresses exceedingly well, and sends to Paris for many of her things, and though she is not tall she is a regal figure on state occasions when she dons her sweeping robes and jewels.

Prince Henry has had the unenviable experience of all prince consorts. He was very unpopular with his wife's people and had to work to win their affections. He has done so now. When about two years ago he offered his personal services to save the passengers on a boat wrecked off the Hook of Holland and gave financial aid to the families of the unfortunate crew he scored heavily. It is realized that in many cases he has advised the queen for the good of Holland and that he has the interests of the country at heart; but it is as Juliana's father after all that he is paramount, just as Queen Wilhelmina nowadays is even more loved than ever because she is Juliana's mother.

AN ESKIMO'S SNOW HOUSE

How He Makes His Home—Blocks of Firm Snow for Bricks.

The Eskimo vault is a true dome; it exerts no outward thrust and requires no temporary scaffolding. It is also unique in that its material is not brick or stone, but snow.

The construction is used for the beehive shaped winter houses of these so-called savages and is spiral in plan. A row of blocks is first laid on the ground in a circle—or more exactly a polygon. Each of these has a slightly slant top and each thus raises its surface a little beyond the last, until when the circle is completed the gap in height between the last and first blocks gives the thickness for the following courses. In these the upper and lower surfaces of each block are parallel, as in a brick, but the gradual upward trend given by the first course is of necessity maintained.

In each successive round the snow bricks are leaned inward more by having their lower surfaces sliced off to a level. If set squarely end to end they would before long lean inward so far that they would tumble. For this reason the end of the block last laid is cut at an angle. The next following block has the joining end slanted at the reverse angle. Thus it fits in behind the preceding and is prevented by it from slipping inward.

As the house grows the circles become smaller, until at last only an irregular polygonial opening is left. This is filled with a wedge-shaped block cut to shape. It is, however, not a keystone, as the remainder of the structure supports itself.

The blocks of firm snow are usually dressed outside and handed for placing to the man on the inside. The last block he holds up with one hand, slices to shape with his ivory knife in the other and drops into position. He is then entirely inclosed in the vault. Only after the house itself is entirely completed does he cut out the low door, which to keep out the cold as much as possible is only big enough to crawl through.

A long, low tunnel is then built in front of the door to break the force of the Arctic's icy blasts. Even the window is present. A small aperture is cut out over the door and filled with a pane of clear, thin ice. All that is omitted is the flue or chimney. Whatever heat is produced by the seal oil lamps is wanted inside, warmth being a more serious necessity in the climate than ventilation or freedom from smoke.—Scientific American.

ENGLAND'S GREAT SEAL

A New One Necessitated by the New Reign.

The new reign renders the adoption of a new great seal of England imperative. Upon the accession of a new sovereign or upon a change of the royal arms or style or upon the mechanical parts of the great seal becoming worn out and the fillings and ornaments becoming defaced, an order is made by the sovereign in council for the adoption of a new seal: the old one is publicly broken, and the fragments become the fee of the lord chancellor.

The ceremony of breaking or damasking the old great seal consists in the sovereign giving it a gentle blow with a hammer, after which it is supposed to be broken, and to have lost all its virtues.

The cost of a new seal will be about $2,000. New great seals were made in 1838, 1860 and 1878. Since the last year many documents which formerly had to pass the great seal have, under statute, been impressed with a wafer instead.

Lord Halsbury, who is 85, is the owner of the two last damasked great seals. They are always kept as heirlooms in the families of the lord chancellor to whom they have come as perquisites of office. The present great seal will accordingly belong to the Liberal Lord Loreburn, formerly Sir Robert Reid, who has been lord chancellor of England since 1905, when the Liberal administration came into power.

DARING ROBBERY IN PARIS PENSION

An Original Theft of Valuable Jewelry.

Some English ladies staying at a boarding-house in the Rue Chateaubriand, Paris, have been the victims of a daring robbery. On Tuesday, June 13, a young man presented himself at the pension and engaged a room, but omitted to fill in the usual declaration of identity, saying that he would carry out this formality later on. He gave his name as Louis Bruno, and professed to be a student at the Sorbonne. His luggage consisted of a small portmanteau, and he did not take his meals in the house, but he inquired of the two servants the hours at which the other boarders dined. In this way he learned that the bedrooms were deserted during the meal time. He availed himself of this knowledge to introduce a companion into the house, the pair arriving and leaving half an hour later in a motor cab.

When dinner was over, M. Guyot, one of the boarders, discovered on going to his room that his trunk had been opened and £40 in banknotes stolen. He gave the alarm, and then it was discovered that he was not the only victim. Miss Gladys Love, an English lady, was the chief sufferer. The thieves had taken £20 in cash, a check on a French bank for £6, and all her jewelry had been placed in a handbag on the dressing table, and in order to take possession of its contents the thieves had slit it with a knife. Another English boarder, Miss Agnes Jamieson, was robbed of her jewels, which had been taken from the case in which they were kept. Their value is about £140. Even the chambermaid was robbed of her silver watch.

The police are hopeful of finding the two men who carried out this successful coup. It is probable that "Bruno" saw Miss Love at the Chatelet, where she had gone to hear Caruso, on the night previous to his arrival at the boarding-house, and, noticing her jewelry, followed her home.

CHARACTER AND DIET.

Man is like a polyp. He subsists upon what he is able to absorb from his environment. He takes in various substances and transforms them into himself. Out of the various fats and starches of his food he makes human energy, storing up any surplus or fat for further use. Out of the various proteins or albumens which he swallows, animal and vegetable, he makes the human albumen which the blood carries to every cell and tissue, and out of which the body is built, nourished and repaired.

This process of converting insentient and miscellaneous foodstuffs into living, thinking, acting human being is a veritable transfiguration. Nothing in all human knowledge is more wonderful or more inexplicable from a physical or chemical standpoint than the fact that the simple food—the bread, apples, potatoes which we eat today—is walking around and talking tomorrow.

It is evident, however, that the character of the walking and the talking must be more or less dependent upon the character of the foodstuffs out of which it is made. Our very thoughts and impulses are born of what we eat. Nutrition is thus the fundamental thing in human experience. To control nutrition means the control of all vital processes, the molding and modifying of all human impulses.

Liebig, the greatest German chemist of the last century, recognized this, and tells of an interesting observation which proved it. In the museum at Giesen was kept a bear, the keepers of which had discovered the influence of diet upon character. They amused themselves and the public by changing the character of the animal at will. On a vegetable diet it was peaceful and playful as a kitten. On a diet of meat it became so ferocious that care was needful to prevent its doing damage. Liebig also observed that hogs fed on a diet of flesh became so savage that they sometimes would actually attack their herders.—From an article in Good Health Magazine.

The after-dinner Coffee and Ice Cream will be far better relished with these dainty confections.

Cairo, the greatest of Mohammedan cities, has gained a great reputation as a winter resort. It presents a great variety of attractions, but probably the most valuable asset it possesses is the sunshine and warmth to those who have left the rigors of a British winter. But the visitors represent every country in Europe and America as well.

Church growth in the United States was greater than the increase in population between the years 1900 and 1906.

The density of population is greater in Europe than in any other continent.

NO TRACE YET OF FUGITIVE OFFICIAL

Attachment Will Be Made Against Property of Missing Gouldthrite.

Ottawa, June 27. — No trace has as yet been found by the Dominion police of Frank S. Gouldthrite, the fugitive superintendent of stationery, who decamped on Monday last following the discovery of the frauds at the Government printing bureau consequent upon the investigations of Hon. Charles Murphy. Circulars have been sent out by Col. Percy Sherwood, the chief of the Dominion police, to various police departments in Canada and the United States, giving a description of the missing man, and the Government will spare no effort to have him apprehended.' Meanwhile an attachment will be made against his property in Ottawa to cover the loss of at least part of his speculations. Gouldthrite was appointed to the staff of the printing bureau seventeen years ago. His salary was $2,300 a year.

Hon. Mr. Murphy, assisted by the King's printer, Mr. Charles Parmelee, is continuing the investigation into affairs at the bureau, and until it is completed no details as to the other members of the staff against whom irregularities are proven will be made public. The minister has determined on a thorough reorganization of the whole bureau, with a view to making any further rakeoffs or frauds of any kind impossible. As far as can be learned at present all the instances of collusion between employees at the bureau and sellers of stationery have been in connection with United States firms. A searching audit of all the accounts for years past is now being made, and it is probable that many firms doing business with the bureau will be asked to tell all they know about the matter.

There were 28,947 persons in the Federal employ in Washington on July 1 last; the annual pay roll for them is $31,541,225, an average of nearly $1,100 each.

MAIL CONTRACT — SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the Postmaster-General, will be received at Ottawa until noon on Friday, the 5th August, 1910, for the conveyance of his Majesty's mails, on a proposed contract for four years, three round trips per week, between St. Marys and Wildwood, from the 1st October next. Printed notices containing further information as to conditions of proposed contract may be seen and blank forms of tender may be obtained at the postoffices of St. Marys and Wildwood, and at the office of the postoffice inspector at London. KING SURRENDERS ANCIENT RIGHTS

Odd Requisites That George the Fifth Has Given Up.

ALL THE GOLD WAS HIS

And His Majesty Was Entitled to All Goods Thrown Away by Thieves.

London, June 27.—The King's message to Parliament, asking that renewed provision be made for the civil list, announces that "his majesty places unreservedly at the disposal of the House those hereditay revenues of the crown which were so placed by his predecessors." The fixing of the civil list is almost wholly a commercial transaction. In consideration of the sum voted by Parliament, the King foregoes many perquisites.

The ancient privileges of the crown will be surrendered during the King's reign, or rather will be allowed to remain in abeyance so long as the civil list is sanctioned; but while they are merged in the national income in accordance with a mutual arrangement by which the sovereign receives a definite amount from the state annually, it is beyond dispute that the statute by which the compact is arranged confines the surrender of rights to the lifetime of the monarch. Hence, if the King preferred the casual and uncertain process of replenishing the crown coffers by means of his royal perquisites instead of troubling Parliament he could constitutionally command the exercise of numerous ancient customs for the purpose of supplying his financial needs.

There is, for instance, the ancient right of the King to all gold and silver mines, not only on his own land, but also upon any lands belonging to his subjects within his dominions. As the British Empire last year produced about $1400,000,000 in gold and silver, the exercise of this one ancient right alone would perhaps suffice.

"Waifs and Strays."

Another right which a sovereign in quest of funds might make inoperative is that which applies to the appropriation of "waifs and strays." Waif, in strictly legal definition, means "such stolen goods as are thrown away by the thief in his flight for fear of being apprehended."

These "are due to the King as a punishment upon the holder for not himself pursuing the felon and taking the goods away from him. Wherefore if a person, being robbed, is diligent and immediately follows and brings the thief (which is called fresh suit), or do prosecute him to conviction, he shall have his goods again. Also if the person being robbed can retake the goods before they are seized for the crown, if at a distance of twenty years, the crown shall have not them."

The sale of estrays is said to have been a profitable perquisite at one time. "Estrays mean all kinds of animals, except dogs, cats, bears, and wolves, which may be found wandering on the King's highway. Such estrays must be proclaimed in a church and in two market towns close adjoining the place where they were found, and then if they have no claimants they become the property of the King or his grantee at the end of a year and a day."

Originally the queen consorts of England derived their revenue from certain rents exclusively appropriated to them out of demesne lands of the crown, and the contributors were required to pay for specific royal needs. Thus it was the duty of one taxpayer to pay for the queen's wool, another purchased oil for her lamp, a third bought attire for her head and feet, and so on through the whole list of queenly requisites.

Queen gold was another form of tribute to his majesty's consort, and "was derived from a percentage of all moneys paid to the King in respect of any privilege, grant, license, pardon or other royal favor."

STORKS OF GERMANY

Family Instincts of Birds an Example to Mankind.

Berlin, June 27.—For some unknown reason, the stork this year returned from Africa to Europe fourteen days behind time. The stork is very pugnacious, and his first work on his return to his village, house and chimney is to drive out the intruder, whether crow, jackdaw, or other bird that has taken advantage of his absence to occupy the nest. Then the nest is repaired.

Storks are not so numerous as formerly, for slates are more often used for roofing, and the old thatched roofs are passing out of use. This is a bad thing for the farmer, whose fields are overrun with mice, for a field mouse is the stork's titbit.

The family instincts of the stork are an example to mankind. Turn about father stork and mother stork watch over the three or four eggs, and when these are hatched both parents are kept busy bringing mice, worms and frogs to push with their beaks into the throats of the hungry storklings.

Fourteen days later the education of the young begins. They must learn to fly in view of the long journey over sea they will shortly have to make. Above all the flight muscles must be strengthened by practice, and when the young pinions begin to flog the parents insist that the flapping practice shall be continued. Short excursions follow until, always under the guidance of the parents, the young storks begin to seek nourishment for themselves.

At the close of August all is ready, and the family fly across the seas at a speed of 70 miles an hour.

POSTAL GETS INJUNCTION

Says Western Union and Bell Company Conspired to Kill Competition.

Las Cruces, N. M., June 25. — The Postal Telegraph Company has obtained an injunction against a subsidiary Bell Telephone Company in New Mexico for violation of a contract which the Postal Company made with an independent telephone company last July, for five years, by which the Postal Company reached a number of towns in New Mexico by an extension of its service from El Paso to Silver City, N. M. That contract still has more than four years to run. A few weeks ago the New Mexico Subsidiary Bell Telephone Company bought out the independent telephone company, with which the postal had this contract, and then the subsidiary Bell Company notified the Postal that the contract would be repudiated July 1, and connections cut off. The Postal Company has obtained an injunction against such repudiation from the district court at Silver City, and has set up that this action is due to a conspiracy between the Western Union and the Bell Telephone Companies to suppress telegraphic competition between El Paso, Silver City and intervening towns and other parts of the country. The validity of the communication of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Western Union is directly attacked.

A FRUITLESS HUNT FOR ROYAL BRIDE

Princesses Unwilling to Share Young King Manuel's Throne.

London, June 27.—Young King Manuel of Portugal is looking for a suitable bride, but none of the marriageable princesses of Europe seems to be overanxious to share his somewhat unstable throne. His failure to secure a wife during his recent tour is a source of great disappointment not only to Manuel himself but to his advisers.

Manuel is not wealthy as monarchs go. His civil list is just $1,000 a day, and it was hoped he would be able to make a match with a popular princess possessing large means in her own right. The father of the princess was strongly opposed to the alliance, not that he disliked the young Portuguese King but because of the unsettled state of the country.

Since the assassination of the late King Carlos and his eldest son, the condition of Portugal has not improved, and there are fears that before very long serious trouble will break out. A well-known Portuguese politician, in a letter to a prominent Englishman, says that the people are intensely dissatisfied with the existing regime and the growing influence of the old clericalism at court, and if reforms are not quickly initiated and the members of the old camarilla dismissed a revolution may break out at any moment.

There is, of course, the alternative of Manuel's abdication and the succession of his uncle, the Infante Alfonso, Duke of Oporto, a man of 45.

DR. FERGUSON AND THE CITY STREETS

Roads That Are Paved With Boulders Ruinous to Horses and Vehicles.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In answer to my criticism of the size of the unbroken stones left on the city streets, Mr. Graydon replies that loose stones are raked off the streets once a year, and that the round stones, of which gravel is composed, work up every spring and fall from the bottom, no matter how carefully covered.

But the stones complained of are not gravel stones. Many of them are as large as a man's head. They are not covered over, but are left on the surface, and form a considerable part of the material composing every piece of new laid gravel. Let anyone with half an eye look at the improvements (?) recently made on Becher and Perry streets, or Grand avenue and Elmwood east. Can the covering on these streets be called gravel? Would bouders not be a more appropriate term?

I am not, as Mr. Graydon would lead your readers to infer, advocating the use of broken stone at $7 75 per cord, instead of gravel at $2 60. What I protest against is the great number of large cobblestones left on the street. Unless these are broken and covered over they are worse than useless, they are positively ruinous to horses and vehicles. "It does not require a very erudite mind to see that."

With reference to Mr. Graydon's grewsome thrust at the medical profession I beg to reply that it would at all events not be claiming much to say that medical science has at least made more advancement in the last 20 years than the art of road-making, if the streets of London are to be put in evidence as a criterion. Can it be that the engineer's ill-natured sally is an indication that he is on the point of losing his temper? If so, such a frame of mind is quite uncalled for. I intended no personal reflection in this discussion. It is a public matter and should be open for criticism.

However, I say still, as I said in my first letter, that the roads in South London are, on the whole, no better than they were twenty years ago. And public opinion seems to bear out this contentions. Some of the streets are better, but many of them are worse than they were then. Mr. Graydon's is the only voice that has been raised in defence of the condition of the streets. I say again that there must be something wrong in our methods of street construction and repairing. An expenditure of even $25,000 a year (of the inadequacy of which Mr. Graydon complains) should result at least in something better than roads strewn with cobblestones in the summer, and streets axle-deep with mud-holes and ruts in the spring and fall. Yours truly,

R. FERGUSON.

LONDON, MONDAY, JUNE 27.

BRAINS THE BEST APPARATUS.

The Hamilton Herald has been moved to a waste of sympathy because someone calling at the London Medical School did not find an accumulation of the usually dust-covered physiological and bacteriological machinery that serves in state-supported and richly-endowed medical institutions to impress the freshman and visitor.

It is an easier matter to teach students how to manipulate microtomes and X-ray machines than to train the eye, ear, and finger to diagnose with certainty at the bedside the nature of the sufferer's ailment. The highest test of the efficiency of a medical school is the success of its graduates in actual practice. By that test the Western University's medical school stands second to none in Canada or elsewhere.

All medical students who would practice in Ontario meet on a common ground in the examinations held by the Ontario Council of Physicians and Surgeons. Then again the London graduates have held their own against allcomers. The instance is not lacking where one of them has headed the list. Laboratory instruction is not neglected by any means in the London school, but the bedside instruction is, as it should be, considered paramount. Hospital facilities are properly a matter of greater concern to those having charge of medical education than laboratory machinery.

THE CONFLICT IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The party truce called by King Edward's death is being prolonged at the personal entreaty of King George. It is not doubted that the present conference between the Government and the Opposition was prompted by his majesty. The most ardent Radical admits that the powers of initiative which the constitution still leaves to the sovereign have not been overstepped in this case. There are precedents for this course in Victoria's reign. The late queen twice intervened in the hope of averting a deadlock between the two chambers, and she succeeded on both occasions. She went no further than to urge the leaders of the parties to confer with each other; they accepted her advice, but they were free to reject it. King George has thrown out a similar suggestion in a similar situation. In this he has not played the game of either party, and he assumes no responsibility for the result of the conference.

Mr. Asquith, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Birrell and the Earl of Crewe are the negotiators for the Government, and Mr. Balfour, Mr. Austen Chamberlain, Lord Lansdowne and Lord Cawder are representing the Opposition. They are in an extremely delicate position. They are not plenipotentiaries; any scheme upon which they agree must be acceptable to the bulk of their followers. It might not be difficult to frame proposals which would command the support of a majority of the House of Commons made up of Liberals and Conservatives, but the Government could not afford to ignore its Labor and Irish allies, and the Opposition leaders must take into account the temper of the "wild peers."

The necessity of a drastic reform of the House of Lords is now admitted by the Unionist leaders and the Unionist press. The most brilliant and promising of the younger Conservatives, Mr. F. E. Smith, M. P., declares in a letter to the Times that his party ought to be prepared for changes which have hitherto not been dreamed of in its political philosophy. It is not possible, he says, to defend the existing disparity of party representation in the upper chamber. He adds:

"What is required is such a House of Lords as will give to the Liberal party when in power as good a chance—or as bad a chance—of carrying their legislation as it will give to the Conservative party when in power. I add the alternative, 'or as bad a chance,' because it is quite conceivable that a more evenly balanced second chamber might reject—and in doing so might reflect public opinion—both our education and licensing bills and the Government education and licensing bills. Be the chance good or bad, it should be the same for both parties."

Mr. Smith lays down two basic principles of reform: (1) The principal object of a second chamber is to insure that the electorate shall be consulted before great legislative changes are made effective. (2) An efficient second chamber will discharge this primary function impartially whichever party be in power. The Liberals, Mr. Smith asserts, ignore the first, and the Conservatives ignore the second. He says the conference will fail unless both parties are prepared to make concessions necessary to give effect to these two principles.

The obvious reply to Mr. Smith is that the ideal second chamber, divorced from party feeling and scrutinizing all legislation in the dry light of reason, has never been found, and probably never will be. In Great Britain it will have a Conservative bias so long as the majority is drawn from the aristocratic and official classes. The nearest approach to impartiality will be provided by giving it an elective basis, so that its members will have to answer to the country for their rejection or approval of a Government measure. The present British Government is aiming at such a chamber, but has contended that until it is established, an irresponsible House of Lords should not exercise an absolute veto power. Hence its proposal to allow the peers to delay measures for only two years. Will this be abandoned in favor of an immediate drastic reform of the upper chamber, assented to by the Unionists themselves? The conference may furnish the answer in a few days, or weeks.

THE DRY SPELL AND THE WATER SUPPLY.

A dry spell like that of the past ten days would have brought the city to the verge of a water famine a year ago. This year there has been no danger. The flow at Springbank has diminished nearly a million gallons and this has lowered the reserve in the reservoir, but the deficiency has been made good by the four wells which are being pumped. There are still thirteen wells as a second line of defence. Some of these will be connected this week, and there will be an ample supply and pressure until the permanent pumping machinery is installed.

Our local contemporary would appear in a more creditable role if it would admit the facts. It betrayed the interests of the ratepayers, although it failed to deceive them, by its frantic opposition to the wells scheme. It is now "knocking" the city by a pretence that a water shortage is still threatened, and that no remedy has been found. It even pretended the other day to know that insurance rates would not be reduced. The problem of the water supply was a serious drag on London for years. Now that the incubus has been lifted, it is the part of civic loyalty to crow, not croak.

Some day street watering will be compulsory throughout the whole city. The automobiles are driving us to it. And it will bring a great gain in comfort and health.

Mr. Borden says that Canada has sold its fiscal liberty to the United States. For so mild-mannered a gentleman, Mr. Borden makes very extravagant assertions.

Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas tells a Montreal interviewer than Canadian officials discriminate against British immigrants because they favor the annexation of Canada to the United States. Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas shouldn't try to see a big country like this through a monocle.

The Kaiser is credited with planning to wed his daughter to the Prince of Wales. The Kaiser's mother and his maternal grandmother were Englishwomen, and their marriages were ideally happy, while serving also the purposes of state. Reasons of state would be strongly on the side of an Anglo-German royal match at this juncture. It would help to banish mutual suspicions which are today the greatest obstacle to the world's peace.

"Secretary Robertson, of the Fire Underwriters' Association, states that he has not heard from London businessmen this year in regard to insurance rates in this city. The assertion is at direct variance with the statement made in the London Advertiser that businessmen of the city not only had taken active steps in the matter, but had been informed that there would be no reduction in the insurance rates consequent upon the completion of the artesian wells scheme; also that 'London was regarded by insurance men as a bad risk.'"—London Free Press.

Of course, no such statement was made by The Advertiser. It originated in the Toronto Telegram, and was telegraphed to this city as a news item. It was reproduced in these columns with a local comment, throwing doubt on it. But the Free Press, in its anxiety to discredit the wells scheme, declared that it was probably correct. It now seeks to attribute its own sentiments to The Advertiser.

GETTING AT THE FACTS.
[Yonkers Statesman.]

Patience—I hear you're engaged to be married.

Patrice—Where in the world did you hear that?

"My maid told me."

"How did she hear it?"

"A policeman told her."

"More mystery. How came a policeman to know it?"

"Why, the man you're engaged to told him when the officer was taking him home!"

A LAW-ABIDING CHILD.
[Tit-Bits.]

A health officer recently received the following note from one of the residents of his district:

"Dear Sir,—I beg to inform you that my child, aged 8 months, is suffering from measles as required by act of Parliament."

COMMERCIALLY EXPRESSED.
[Life.]

The exigencies of the occasion compelled the city editor to assign the young financial reporter to write the account of the ball. He was instructed to give particular attention to a description of the costumes of the ladies. The following excerpts from his report have been preserved:

"Miss Blimmers was the object of a good deal of flurry at the opening of the ball. Bidders were enthusiastic. She wore a spangled dress, and was conspicuous during the season at about 187, preferred."

"Mrs. Marriem made her first appearance since her last divorce. She has been resting at the springs, and the reorganization sets her at par."

"Miss Newwun, in a simple white dress, was a tentative offering at the start, but within an hour jumped to 275. There was at that time a great scramble, but the lucky bidder, who is said to have been planning a squeeze, was Mr. Dash."

"Miss Boldun wore a costume that was 40, 30 and 10 off."

JIM'S COST A DOLLAR MORE.
[New York Tribune.]

Richard Le Gallienne, the poet, was entertaining a group of magazine editors at luncheon in New York.

To a compliment upon his fame Mr. Le Gallienne said lightly:

"But what is poetical fame in this age of prose? Only yesterday a schoolboy came and coaxed me for my autograph. I assented willingly. And today at breakfast time the boy again presented himself.

"'Will you give me your autograph, sir?' he said.

"'But,' said I, 'I gave you my autograph yesterday.'

"'I swopped that and a dollar,' he answered, 'for the autograph of Jim Jeffries.'"

A BASE USE.
[Minneapolis Journal.]

A Minneapolis lady, after assisting a tramp, received another visit an hour later from the same man.

"Madam," he said, "you gave me three doughnuts a while back. Would you mind adding another one to make it four?"

"Gladly," said the lady, all smiles, and she wrapped a doughnut in a newspaper and handed it to him. "So you like my doughnuts, do you"

"No, madam, it ain't that," said the tramp. "Me and some friends down in the holler wants to have a game of quoits."

QUICK IMPROVEMENT.
[Tit-Bits.]

Traffic Manager—We are having no end of trouble with the public, sir, about those old dark yellow carriages. Everybody says they bump so frightfully in comparison with the new light yellow ones, which, of course, run very smooth.

Chairman—We must attend to this matter at once. Have all the old carriages painted light yellow immediately.

THE NEW PLAN.
[Washington Herald.]

"Own up, now. Who's the head of your family?"

"My wife used to be," admitted Mr. Enpeck; "but since my daughters are grown up we have a commission form of government."

THE CONTRARY SEX.
[Buffalo Commercial.]

Mark Twain tells how he once patronized the mother of a family in Hannibal, Mo.

"'So this is a little girl, eh?" I said to her, as she displayed her children to me. 'And this sturdy little urchin in the bib belongs, I suppose, to the contrary sex.'

"'Yassah,' the woman replied. 'Yassah, dat's a girl, too.'"

AN INSULT.
[Catholic Standard and Times.]

Nell—Yes, she's broken the engagement, and I don't wonder. He told her to drop novels and read something more substantial, something that would improve her.

Tom—Well?

Nell—Well, the idea of a man intimating that his fiancee could be improved in any way!

THE ONLY PLEA.
[Cleveland Leader.]

Western Judge—Hoss thief, you're found guilty by th' jury. Have y' anything to say as to why I shouldn't soak y' th' limit?

Prisoner—Well, judge, it wasn't your hoss I stole.

THE LATE GENERAL BUTLER.
[T. P. O'Connor, M.P.]

General Butler looked as he was. The last time I saw him was on the terrace of the House of Commons. By that time he had come to look rather like the typical Irish country gentleman than the active soldier. Tall, broad-shouldered, with a massive face and strong, large, striking features, an expression which was a singular though very Irish combination of combativeness and defiance, he was a splendid specimen of that fine race of Tipperary men whose robustness, courage and grim determination have played so large part in the English and Irish struggle. Thus passes away one of the many Irishmen who have been at once the great soldiers and statesmen of the empire and passionate lovers of the soil, the creed and the aspirations of their own land. Their work is not yet completed, but it is near its blessed consummation of entire reconciliation between the two races so different and yet so necessary to each other—so often and so long estranged—and yet so much the complement of aech other as to be bound to come together in hearts as in interests—destined in the long run to have common action, common affection, and common interest in country and in empire. And so Butler and those like him have not battled in vain.

HONORED CITIZEN.
[Cleveland Leader.]

"You treat that gentleman very respectfully."

"Yes; he's one of our early settlers."

"An early settler? Why, man, he's not more than 40 years old."

"No, but he pays his bills on the first of every month."

ENIGMATICAL.
[Baltimore American.]

"Do you mind telling me if you are keeping a diary?"

"I'm not giving it away."

NOT HIS OWN BOSS.
[Philadelphia Record.]

Blobbs—Bjones has gone in business for himself.

Slobbs—Going to be his own boss, eh?

Blobbs—Well, not exactly. He's married, you know.

ONE MAN'S LIFETIME.
[The Late Goldwin Smith.]

I have talked with a man who talked to the man who was premier of England in 1801—Addington—about Pitt. I remember the rejoicings in England over the reform bill; I remember seeing the farm buildings near my father's house burned by raiders who opposed the introduction of threshing machines; I recall as a lad seeing the servants light the fire with a tinder-box; I have seen a man in the stocks; and I have heard the curfew.

GIVE 'EM TIME.
[Cleveland Leader.]

"But don't any of you children take after your father?"

"No, ma'am. Mamma takes after him with a broom now and then, but we ain't growed up enough for that yet."

SLIGHTED OPPORTUNITY.
[Washington Star.]

"So you think music is a waste of time?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Wallop. "I understand some of these professional pianists practice five hours a day. Think what golf players they might have become in that time."

SWALLOWS KNIFE TO GET OPERATION

French Medical Student Insisted On Being Cut Open.

Marseilles, June 27. — An extraordinary case has come before the Marseilles hospital authorities in the person of a young medical student who declared he suffered of cancer of the stomach, merely because his nerves were overwrought.

The student had left his home in the Levant for Paris, where he began to study for his degree. He got into depressed spirits and imagined he had cancer of the stomach. He continually asked his professors to take the usual measures for an operation, but they as often refused, declaring that nothing was wrong with him except certain symptoms of nervous breakdown from overwork.

He was not satisfied, and finally was permitted to enter a hospital. Here he was watched for several weeks, at the end of which he was told his malady was only one of the nerves. Disappointed with this favorable report, he applied for admission to a hospital in the Champagne country. Here too, the doctors asserted he needed no operation of any kind. And so he left the hospital, going finally to Marseilles.

Arrived here he determined to qualify himself for the operation. He took up a position in front of a police station, and then, after having attracted the notice of the agents of the law, he swallowed several coins and an open penknife. The police conduced him in great agony to a drugshop near by, from which he was carried to the hospital. This time an operation was imperative, but the physicians doubt that it will save the young man, for he is in an extremely precarious state.

MEALS AL FRESCO

Smart Set Leads Simple Life by Eating Under the Trees.

London, June 27.—Whether it is under the chastened mood which is now affecting London, that novelty seeking coterie known as the smart set is now trying to live the simple life. The approved way of doing this amid the luxury of the west end is to take your meals al fresco in Kensington Gardens.

Round an unpretentious little kiosk on the lawn beneath the trees tables are set out with gleaming napery and an ample suppy of lazy basket chairs. It is a charming spot, close to the upper end of the Serpentine and within view of Peter Pan's Island and Mr. Watts' remarkable statue of "Physical Energy."

Here are to be found many parties of interesting men, some sallow with London life and others bronzed with eastern suns, and still more interesting women in ultra-fashionable robes of morning hue, breakfasting among the sparrows and the pigeons, which will feed out of one's hands, at the ridiculously early hour of nine in the morning. It is the same at lunch time.

At tea time the crush is tremendous, but fashionable London is then mixed up with serious-looking German fraulein, armed with Baedeker, and open-eyed suburban dames feverishly taking mental fashion plates. The waiters wear straw hats with dress suits and use German "cuss words" when they drop the muffins, buttered side down, on the grass. It is all very quaint and tremendously artificial.

APPEAL DISMISSED

Decision in Case of Pang Sing vs. City of Chatham.

Chatham, June 27.—Following is an Osgoode Hall case of interest to Chatham: Re Pang Sing and City of Chatham—H. L. Drayton, K.C., for the city; S. Denison for Ernest Fremlin. An appeal by the City of Chatham from the order of Latchford, J., of December 7th, 1909. The original motion was for an order to commit Ernest Fremlin, manager of the Dominion Express Company at Chatham, for refusal to answer questions and produce books of his company showing any accounts or transactions with the Chinese laundrymen carrying on business in or employed in Chinese laundries in said city. This evidence was sought to be obtained as an answer to the application of Pang Sing and others to quash a certain bylaw of the city imposing a license fee on Chinese laundries, on the ground that the fee imposed was excessive, more than they could pay.

Judgment: Appeal dismissed. As the question raised by it is to some extent a new one, it will be proper to make no order as to the costs of the appeal.

THE BEST AD.

What The Royal Warrant Means to a British Tradesman.

London, June 27.—No advertisement is more valuable to a British tradesman than the royal warrant which allows him to place the royal arms over his place of business and describe himself as "purveyor by appointment to his Majesty the King."

Each tradesman who has the royal custom must send in his bill at the end of the month. It is compared with his ledger account kept at Marlborough House, and if correct is paid in the first week of the month. No discount is asked on any of the royal accounts, a tradesman who receives the royal custom is informed that he must supply goods at the lowest reasonable prices, and there is never any attempt at bargaining by the official of the royal household. If a tradesman is thought to be making extortionate charges he simply loses the royal custom.

Coal is supplied to Marlborough House by contract, the contracts being made for three years and the contractors paid in equal half-yearly payments. Window cleaning, carpet cleaning and chimney sweeping are all done by contract, and the glass frames of large pictures are also kept clean by contract.

Servants' wages are paid monthly, the upper servants being paid by check sent to each from the treasurer's department. The King's accounts for clothes, cigars, theatres, newspapers, books and other personal articles are sent to his secretary, not the treasurer, and are also paid monthly. King George always likes to see these accounts before they are paid, and it was once a rule that they should be initialled by him before they were discharged.

An Operation On Colonel Roosevelt

New York, June 27.—The Press this morning contains the following:

"Col. Theodore Roosevelt will undergo an operation on his throat this morning. Just how serious the affection that troubles him is could not be learned accurately yesterday, but from the information gathered it is assumed a growth, perhaps not serious now, but threatening grave complications, will be cut away. He will reach the office of Dr. Walter Franklin Chappell, No. 7 East Sixty-fifth street, about 11 o'clock this morning, prepared for the ordeal.

"It is said that the operation is not so dangerous that anything more than a local anaesthetic is necessary."

A Last Fight to Save McLachlan

Toronto, June 27.—Is Archibald McLachlan, wife murderer, insane?

With this query as the chief basis of his appeal, W. A. Henderson, of the legal firm of Robinette, Godfrey, Phelan & Henderson, who conducted McLachlan's defence, made application to the department of justice at Ottawa on Saturday to have McLachlan examined by physicians to determine his sanity. Mr. Henderson says that since his conviction, peculiar features have been noticed, which lead him to believe that his client is not and was not at the time the crime was committed mentally responsible.

In a lengthy letter dispatched to the Minister of Justice, there are further facts set out in a plea to stay or commute the death sentence. Among these is set out the submission that the evidence in the case was purely circumstantial.

Southern Bad Man Murders Two

Ocilla, Ga., June 27.—Barricaded in his home in the western part of Irwin County, W. H. Bostwick has resisted two attacks of officers today, killing two of his beslegers and wounding three others. He is a white man, with a fighting record, and has threatened to kill everybody who comes in range of his bullets.

The local authorities have asked Governor Brown for troops to storm the little house where the man is hiding.

Threats are heard here and a crowd of men is forming that may not await the coming of the soldiers. Bostwick is well armed and has a good supply of ammunition. In the house with him are six of his children.

He was wanted on a misdemeanor charge, and Sheriff McInnis and two officers went to arrest him. When they came within close range Bostwick opened fire and McInnis' men fell, one dead.

The officers removed the dead and wounded and summoned a posse from Ocilla and Irwinville and surrounded the house. Sheriff McInnis with Deputies Tucker and Sheffield continued the onslaught and Bostwick killed Sheffield instantly and wounded the other two officers.

Bostwick is still unharmed in his fortress.

Great Flying at the Montreal Meet

Montreal, June 27.—Saturday's programme of the aviation meet at Lakeside proved a great success. Walter Brookens, in a Wright biplane, soared to a height of 2,000 feet, and then circled and dipped with marvellous ease.

Count de Lesseps, the famous French flyer, also took part, making three flights in a French machine. A crowd, estimated at 15,000, was in attendance.

TUBE SKIRTS NOT STYLE

"Mat" Hat, Like Greek Helmet, is the Newest in London.

London, June 27.—Tube skirts are going out of fashion among the really smartly-dressed women just about as quickly as they came in and skirts in future are to be at least three inches wider all around.

Parisians, says a correspondent, are laughing at the way some Englishwomen have caricatured the present fashion. Even the prettiest figure, says the same correspondent, cannot look well in a costume that is about as roomy as one leg of a man's trousers.

Women are advised to look out for the new "mat," or matinee hat, which is said to be something after the style of a Greek helmet, finished off at the back with a dozen large bows. They are likely to be much worn.

Speaking from experience, a woman correspondent says that it is impossible to get even what is deemed a moderate-sized hat through a cab window, and as for sitting with any sort of comfort in one of the tube railways or a crowded omnibus the thing is impossible. Given a woman above the average height, there is just a chance of her holding the position by sitting up very straight; but for the rest the situation is rendered simply ridiculous.

BEATEN AND ROBBED BY UTAH BANDITS

Desperadoes Loot Passengers On an Oregon Short Line Train.

[Associated Press.]

Ogden, Utah, June 27.—Oregon Short Line passenger train No. 1 was held up at Five Points at 1:30 o'clock and every passenger on the train robbed of his valuables.

The robbers boarded the train at Ogden, and held up the passengers as soon as the train left the city limits. The rear brakeman was shot at twice but escaped injury. A woman was badly beaten and an unknown man, a foreigner, was also severely beaten.

The bandits, three in number, struck down every one who offered the slightest resistance. The express messenger was compelled to give up his keys, and the express car was searched. One of the robbers remarked that they knew there was no money in the car, but they would search anyhow. They said they had seen the money go out on the first section, but they were unable to board it. Sheriff Wilson and posse are in pursuit.

PECK JURY DISAGREES

Stood Eleven for Conviction and One For Acquittal.

[By Associated Press.]

Syracuse, N. Y., June 27.—The jury in the case of Willard H. Peck, former secretary of the People's Mutual Life Insurance Association and League, charged with perjury, reported to Justice DeAgelis that it was unable to agree and was discharged. The jury had been out since Saturday at 1:20 p. m. It is understood that it stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal.

Peck was indicted for perjury in having sworn in the state insurance department examination that he believed his contract with the company was a valid claim against the company, while having knowledge that the contracts were of no financial value.

A CHINK AT BISLEY

Is a Member of the Singapore Team for the Empire Cup.

London, June 27.—Tan Cheow Kim is the first Chinese to shoot at the Bisley rifle ranges. He is a member of the Singapore team that came to England to take part in the contest for the Empire cup at the meeting which begins in the first week of July.

Nine years ago, when the first battalion of Singapore native volunteers was enrolled, Tan Cheow Kim, then 17, was the first to enlist. He is now a sergeant, and has won the reputation of being one of the finest Chinese shots in Asia. Tan Cheow Kim speaks excellent English. He finds the varying winds in England very puzzling and the light peculiar. This does not prevent him from scoring bullseye after bullseye at practice.

Another exotic competitor at Bisley this year is Sergt. Bogh Singh, a member of the Malay States Guides team.

Custer, S. D., boasts what is probably the strongest water tank in the United States. It is on a ranch near the town, and is nothing but a large bank safe, set on its back. It formerly did duty in the line it was made for, but burglars blew the door off. A ranchman bought it, and it now serves as a trough for cattle.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENTS

Dear Miss Grey: (1) What home remedy will remove freckles; (2) I am 16 and through school. Am I too young to have boy friends call at the house? (3) Which will be more suitable for June, a suit or a dress? (4) What will prevent blushing?

BLONDE.

A.—(1) Better let them alone or you will have twice as many as you now have. (2) Not if your mother is willing. (3) A white serge or linen suit to wear with white waist is always nice. (4) If I knew I wouldn't tell you. Don't you know that many people consider blushing a gift?

Dear Miss Grey: (1) Can a white net waist lined with silk be dyed? If so, what color will be best? (2) How can I get rid of dandruff? (3) On what day did Sept. 11, 1880, fall?

A READER.

A.—(1) It can safely be dyed ecru by dipping it in strong coffee, but the regular dyes would rot the silk lining. Don't try it. (2) Frequent shampoos, massage, brushing thoroughly twice a day and repeated airings in the sun. (3) Tuesday.

Dear Miss Grey: Please give a good recipe for butter cakes. L. H.

A.—Soak one and one-half cups stale bread crumbs in one and one-half cups scalded milk and two tablespoons melted butter. Add one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt and three teaspoons baking powder sifted together. Add two well-beaten eggs, and bake on griddle.

What to Do in An Emergency

Objects in Ear.—Act gently. Hold the head with injured ear downward. Syringe with soapy water. A slight smack on other side of head will dislodge the object.

Nose Bleeding.—The application of cold water or cold articles to the back of the neck will often stop the bleeding. Cold water should be applied and sniffed upward, holding the head well back.

Cuts.—If the flesh be cut very deeply, the doctor should be sent for. Always wash a cut in clean (previously boiled) cold water, and let the blood flow a little. To keep the dirt away, bind up in a tight lint or linen bandage. Boric solution prevents festering.

Bruises.—If the blow has been very severe, and the bruise does not "color" quickly, rags soaked in hot water will bring out the bad blood. Any cold water bandage or substance, such as ice, will quickly reduce the swelling and inflammation.

Swelling in Eye.—Don't rub the eye. Lift the lid of the eye up or down and try to reach the foreign body with the edge of a clean handkerchief. Grits in the eye may often be washed away by causing the eye to "weep." Shut both eyes and press against the ball of non-affected eye. If there is a burning sensation, boric acid solution should be introduced. Don't use water.

Arm Broken.—The suffer's arm should be quickly bandaged in three strips of wood, and the doctor called or visited as soon as possible. Handkerchiefs fastened lightly will serve for bandage cloths.

Choking.—The sufferer should be made to drink water as quickly as possible. The old-fashioned remedy of slapping on the back will often cause the obstruction in the throat to dislodge. If water will not remove the bone or whatever may be in the throat, swallowing some hard edible, such as stale bread, will often prove successful.

Leg Broken.—Quickly cut away trousers or boots, and bind both legs together tightly and send for the doctor.

Burns.—In cases of severe burning, the part should be cleansed and lightly bound in salad or olive oil, soaked rags, or even flour may be applied.

PRETTY TUNIC DESIGN

Tunics have been until recently, used only with the most "dressy" frocks. But now figured dimity, swiss, organdy and lawn dresses appear with the overdress of black net. The thin white dresses with rose-colored design are particularly effective with the black tunic.

THE MESSAGE

BY LOUIS TRACY,
Author of
"The Wings of the Morning,"
"The Wheels of Fortune."

"I cited you as a witness," she said. "Will you now act as a judge? Read that, and tell my friends which of us two is speaking truly."

Despite his self-supposed shortcomings, Fairholme was a gentleman. Instinctively he believed Evelyn, but he shrank from the duty she intrusted to him.

"Oh, I say," he bleated, "hasn't this thing gone a bit too far already? Is it worth all the beastly fuss? There may be a mistake somewhere, you know. I'm sure, Miss Dane, nobody doubts your statement where this lucky chap Warden is concerned, an', on the other hand, don't you know, Mrs. Laing may have a perfectly fair explanation of the other business. So let it go at that, eh, what?"

"May I act as arbitrator?" said Baumgartner. "If I glance through your letter, Miss Dane, I may discover a means of settlement."

Something in his tone, some hint of a crafty purpose behind the smooth-spoken words, beat through the haze of wrath and grief that clouded Evelyn's mind. She could trust Fairholme with her lover's letter, but not Baumgartner. To reveal to him what Warden had said about Mrs. Laing's extraordinarily accurate knowledge of proceedings in the Solent and affairs in Nigeria would be tantamount to betraying her lover's faith.

With splendid calmness she took the letter from the table and replaced it in her pocket.

"No, thank you, Mr. Baumgartner," she said, "if Lord Fairholme declines to help me, nobody else can take his place. I appealed to him because he is aware that Mrs. Laing induced your groom to unlock the post-box and hand her my letter. The proof of my words lie here. It is for him to say whether or not he is satisfied he saw Mrs. Laing commit a theft."

Fairholme shook his head. He was not lacking in pluck, and his artificial humor was only the veneer of an honest nature, but he surprised a look in Rosamund's eyes that startled him. She was pale now, ashen pale. She uttered no word, but continued to glower at Evelyn with a suppressed malevolence that was more threatening than the mere rage of a detected trickster.

His lordship evidently thought it high time Baumgartner or his wife exercised their authority.

"Don't you think this matter has gone quite far enough?" he asked, glancing from one to the other, and avoiding the eyes of either Evelyn or Mrs. Laing.

"Yes," said Baumgartner, speaking with a pomposity that contrasted sharply with his prompt offer to supplant Fairholme as judge. "This absurd dispute about a purely private affair must end at once. I and my family are going to Europe by the next mail steamer——"

"Isadore!" gasped his wife.

"Father, you can't mean it!" cried Beryl, who, at the lowest calculation, had made arrangements for a good three weeks' further frivolity at Las Palmas.

"Unfortunately, I am quite in earnest."

The financier looked it. Despite his magisterial air, his puffy face was drawn and haggard, and he had the aspect of a man who needed rest and sleep.

"You will accompany us, of course, Miss Dane," he went on, speaking slowly, as though he were groping for the best way out of a difficulty. "Your quarrel with Mrs. Laing can be much more easily adjusted in England than here. I hope, therefore, we shall be spared further bickering during our brief stay in the Canaries."

"But, father dear," put in his daughter, "you said we were going home on the yacht, and calling at Gibraltar and Algiers."

"I have changed my plans," he retorted curtly, and that was all he would say on the subject.

Evelyn left the table at the earliest moment. When too late, she regretted the impulse that led her to declare open war against Mrs. Laing. But it was done now. Those words "theft" and "steal" were irrevocable. She had retreated to a nook in the garden where a dense clump of tropical trees and shrubs gave shelter from the sun, and was trying to discover if she had imperilled the success of Warden's mission by any unguarded phrase, when Lord Fairholme came to her.

"May I sit down here a few minutes?" he asked. "I want to try to understand things."

"I should be sorry to test your lordship's capacity so greatly," she said. She had not yet forgiven him, for not taking her part. She was young; her world was tumbling about her ears; she believed that everybody ought to stand aghast at Rosamund's wickedness.

"Oh, come now, that's a bit severe, isn't it?" grinned Fairholme. "You don't make allowances for the ruffled feelin's of a poor fellow who has just had his image battered——"

"Will you please tell me what you are talking about?"

"Eh—beg pardon, I meant idol shattered. Silly mistake, eh, what?"

Evelyn's lips relaxed into a smile. There was no resisting "Billy" when (in his own phrase) he was goin' strong.

"I fear you all thought me very rude," she said, with a pathetic little gesture of helplessness. "But what was I to do—listen in silence to fresh insults?"

"I think you did the only possible thing."

"Then why did you refuse to bear out my statement?"

"There were reasons. May I see that letter now?"

"Have you come of your own accord?" she asked.

Evelyn fighting for the man she loved was a very different girl from the proud, disdainful Evelyn who, twenty-four hours earlier, would have endured almost any infliction rather than flout her adversary in a public dining-room. She credited Rosamund with the adoption of any petty device to gain her ends, and felt that Fairholme was just the man to be used as a stalking-horse.

"No," he said, "or rather, yes—and no. I am anxious to know the truth, but Baumgartner suggested that I ought to accept your offer of reading the evidence. Don't you see, he has to consider the future a bit."

"In what way?"

"Well, if Mrs. Laing stole a letter in his house, she—it's a jolly hard thing to say—but she must be warned off.

Baumgartner as a guardian of morals was a new conception. Evelyn felt that a more powerful foe than Rosamund was in the field. Her unimportant romance had suddenly widened out into the world-domain of politics. She must decide quickly and decide right. In that vital moment she realized that her postscript to the Lochmerig letter might have consequences far beyond their effect on Warden's fortunes and her own.

"Lord Fairholme," she said, turning so that she could watch the slightest change in expression of his face, "does Mr. Baumgartner strike you as a man who would go out of his way to interfere in a dispute between two women?"

"Not unless there was money in it," said Fairholme cheerfully.

"Then why is he showing such interest now in a matter which he deliberately closed at luncheon?"

"I gave you his explanation. Even Baumgartner likes to associate with people of character."

"No, that is not the reason. Mr. Baumgartner is engaged at this moment in a plot against British dominion in West Africa. You see that cruiser in the harbor? Well, she is here to watch the Sans Souci. You yourself heard today that our party is going to Europe by the mail steamer. Why, when the Sans Souci is at our disposal? I will tell you. The British authorities believe that the yacht will help, or further in some way, a native uprising in Southern Nigeria. Now, the letter in my possession, read by anyone who could extract its inner meaning, would yield a valuable clue to the amount of information at the disposal of the home government. If you, without knowing this, answered Mr. Baumgartner's questions as to its contents, you would be doing the gravest injury to Great Britain."

"By gad!" exclaimed Fairholme.

"You can easily assure yourself that I am not exaggerating the facts. Here is the letter. Read it, and remember what I have told you."

Fairholme pursed his lips and bent his brows in deep mental effort. He held the letter in his hand unopened during this unusual and seemingly painful process. Then he gave it back to Evelyn.

"No, Miss Dane," he said emphatically. "I'm far too candid an ass to be laden with state secrets. Now, if you wouldn't mind just pickin' out the bits that refer to Mrs. Laing, an' skippin' all the political part, I'll be able to bounce old Baumgartner for all he's worth."

"But I cannot. It is the political part which proves that my letter was stolen."

"Same thing! Change the names. Turn West Africa into Newmarket, an' call the Emperor Lord Rosebery."

"The Emperor," said Evelyn, surprised at Fairholme's chance shot.

"He's in it, I guess. He has his fingers in every pie, an' some of 'em have bin jolly hot. Now, go ahead. If it's at all awkward, leave me to fill in a bit about the Ditch Mile an' the Epsom gradients that will bamboozle Baumgartner."

GERMANY FAVORS WOMEN TEACHERS

Men Declare Innovation Is Blow to Welfare of State.

Berlin, June 27. — One of the features of the proposed reform of the higher education of girls in Prussia is the appointment of women as heads of the state high schools for girls. A large number of men teachers in gymnasia, the state high schools where at present only boys are admitted, have petitioned the Prussian Parliament not to sanction such appointments.

The petitions declare that to place a man in a position subordinate to a woman is a gross insult to his manhood. They contend that experience has proved that women are not successful as heads of great schools, and that the introduction of such a system would produce dissension among the teaching staff.

They say, further, that if leading positions in the scholastic world are placed in the hands of women, the latter will undoubtedly advance claims to similar preferment in other professions, and that if such claims are admitted the welfare of the state would be imperilled.

Counter petitions have been presented by various women's associations, in which it is pointed out that there have always been women at the head of educational establishments, that experience has proved their efficiency in such positions, and that women are the best teachers of girls. The education committee, which has studied the matter, has decided in favor of the views advanced by the female petitioners.

TRAPPED BY FLAMES ON A BURNING BOAT

Piece of Solid Steel Cut Out to Free Them From Their Predicament.

London, June 27.—An exciting incident occurred at Sunderland recently when a man and a youth were confined in a veritable death trap on board the steamer Lavinia Westoll. The vessel was under repair at Messrs. Austin's shipyard, and the plates were being renewed at the fore peak.

This is a compartment which can be made water tight and air tight. Four men were employed on the work, two on the outside of the compartment—one in riveting the new plates and the other in heating the rivets—while the other two, a man named Peter Mills, and a lad named John Patterson, were working inside.

It was Patterson's duty to catch hot rivets thrown down through the manholes and hand them to Mills, who put them through the rivet holes, and then held them while the riveter outside hammered them tight.

About 2:30 a rivet not intended for the catcher, but falling accidentally from another squad of workmen, came through the manhole, and fell into a heap of tarred oakum, which burst into flame. The two men outside easily escaped, but Mills and Patterson were trapped inside.

Smoke Halts Rescuers.

The only means of egress was a series of manholes from deck to deck, and these now served as a funnel for a dense volume of smoke, which rose high into the air and was seen by thousands of people. A fire alarm was given, and within a few minutes the brigade arrived. Several men attempted to pass down through the manholes to the rescue of the prisoners, but the dense volumes of rising smoke made this impossible.

The compressed air tubes which work the pneumatic tools were then pushed up against the still open rivet holes of the plates, and air was thus pumped into the peak. The fire brigade played on the outside of the plates to keep them cool, and the holders of the pneumatic nozzles—Patterson, a brother of the imprisoned boy, and a plater named McDermott—were in a continual torrent of water, but stuck to their posts.

It was decided that the only way to release the imprisoned man and boy was to cut through the plates. An inch of solid steel had to be pierced. One man held the cutting tool all the time while 18 others, armed with heavy sledge hammers, worked in relays of three.

Boy Cries "Hurry."

The two prisoners could be heard tapping at the plates and the words "Hurry, hurry," the agonized voice of the boy, were audible. Those outside shouted, "Keep your heart up, Peter," but the noise of the hammers drowned their voices.

The work of cutting the plate was extremely quick, yet 70 minutes elapsed from the outbreak of the fire till a complete aperture was made and the two prisoners were hauled through the hole.

Mills looked, his comrades declared, ten years older. Patterson on getting into the open air had a violent fit of weeping and then collapsed and was carried home. Mills related how he had to encourage Patterson, who would have suffocated if Mills had not held him by force to the holes through which the air was being pumped. What most concerned Mills was the fear that the fire might reach the wooden ceiling of the forepeak, which in that case would have fallen in.

PLAYTIME STORIES

DICKIE'S NOISELESS FOURTH.

What were the children to do this Fourth of July when there were to be no firecrackers and torpedoes?

Dickie's mamma had puzzled over the question for a long time. At last she thought of a good plan and told it to Dickie's papa, but she only told Dickie to invite all his little friends to come to a Fishing Party on the afternoon of the Fourth.

The time came for the party, and when all the guests had arrived Dickie's mamma took them out on the big shady back lawn. There stood two big tubs of water in which floated queer little wooden fish with holes in their noses. Each fish had a different number on its side. Mamma gave each child a wee fish pole with line and hook, telling them to catch a fish.

Dicky caught one the very first thing, and finally, after all the other children had caught some, his mamma came out of the house carrying a great big red firecracker. It had ever so many strings tied on it with numbers on the ends. She told the children to each take hold of the same number as they found on their fish and to pull real hard to make the cracker shoot.

Dickie pulled so hard he fell over backwards. The cracker was only red paper which broke when they pulled the strings. There, on the end of each string was a package. When the children unwrapped them they found horns, caps, flags, candy, and one little boy found a drum. Of course they had a parade, with a tea party afterward.

That night when Dickie kissed his mamma good-night, he said: "Mamma, it has been the nicest kind of a Fourth, even if I didn't have firecrackers to shoot."

Gained Ten Pounds in Two Weeks by the Use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Fred. Biggs, Kingston, Ont., writes:—"I was completely run down, my blood was out of order, and I used to get so weak I would be compelled to stay in bed for weeks at a time. I could not eat, was pale and thin; every one thought I was going into consumption. I tried everything and different doctors until a friend advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I did not have one bottle used when my appetite began to improve. I used six bottles. I gained ten pounds in two weeks. When I began to take it I only weighed ninety-three pounds. It just seemed to pull me from the grave as I never expected to be strong again. I will tell every sufferer of your wonderful medicine."

HINESE CLANS WAR IN STREETS

ne Dead, One Dying, Others Hurt in New York Battle.

New York, June 26.—The furtive ong war that sleeps but never dies, spite of threats, promises and soln treaties, broke out again this unday afternoon, within the little riangle of narrow streets, just off the ower Bowery, known as Chinatown. n 90 seconds three Chinamen were hot, two of them fatally, of whom ne has died, a third was painfully ounded, and more than 40 shots from ig revolvers spattered against the ricks. In three more minutes seven hinamen were arrested.

It happened that the 2,000th anniersary of the founding the Society f the Four Brothers fell on this, the ay of rest, and in its honor the memers were to give a dinner in Pell treet at 5 o'clock. A monster scarlet ag, scalloped in green, floated from he hall, and guests began to arrive irly from all parts of the city, and rom neighboring towns. Sunday is narket day for Chinatown, the streets re thickest with sightseers, the chopuey restaurants thrive best, and in emote rooms the dice rattle faster nd the dominoes click.

It was in the midst of this restless, huffling throng, sown thick with olicemen, that the shooting began t 4 o'clock. There is no certainty of he precise provocation, but it is enerally understood in Chinatown hat the Ong Leong tong did not elish the fact that Chu Hen, recently acquitted of the killing of an Ong Leong tong man, was to be the guest of honor.

The Hip Son tong, the Ong Leong tong, and the Four Brothers, occupying each their own street, and no prudent member of one society, trespasses on the territory of another. Pickets had been posted today at the end of Pell street by the Four Brothers, and scouts of the Ong Leong tong patrolled the adjacent boundary of Mott.

Somebody stepped over the line. Somebody began to shoot. It is doubtful if any white man will ever know who trespassed, and who punished, because the rain of bullets came too fast from too many directions at once for the eye to catch the first flash. And no Chinaman will ever tell. Sen Chin, the inevitable innocent bystander, was the first to fall, shot through the abdomen. He will die. Chu Fu was shot behind the ear and in the back. He is dead. Chu Pan was shot through the left thigh. His injuries are not serious. Thus far it has been impossible to learn what tong the individuals wounded belonged. All were taken to a hospital.

The police made a scramble for everybody that ran, but there were more honest fugitives than combatants, and doorways are thicker in Chinatown than burroughs in a rabbit warren. Seven were caught, some of whom, the police say, they saw shooting, and on others revolvers were found.

The reserves were called out, a cordon was drawn tight about the entire quarter, all visitors were barred and no curiosity wagons were allowed tonight. Then the interrupted dinner of the Four Brothers, with Chun Hen as the guest of honor, went on.

NUN GETS MEDAL

Gave Skin to Graft on a Dying Spanish Soldier.

London, June 25.—Sister Algeria, a Spanish nun, has had the red cross of the Order of Military Merit of Spain pinned to her breast for heroism. The presentation was made at Melilla by the commander of the Spanish forces, in the presence of all the civil and military officials of the town.

Sister Algeria had just recovered from an operation which she underwent on behalf of a wounded Spanish soldier. The man was in a desperate condition, and it was necessary to graft on him some skin taken from another person. The nun came forward and offered herself to the surgeon, saying that the life of a soldier was more precious to the fatherland than hers. The operation took place and was successful, though Sister Algeria was for a long time in a serious condition.

The 116-mile extension of the Mexico Northwestern Railroad, now in progress will connect the city of Chihuahua with El Paso, Tex., and open up large tracts of valuable timberland in western Chihuahua.

THE CHURCHES ATTACK STEEL CORPORATION

Commission Reports Conditions in Bethlehem Worse Than Pittsburg.

New York, June 26.—The social service commission of the federal council of Churches of Christ in America pronounces in a special report made public tonight that the living conditions for laborers of the Bethlehem Steel Company are worse than those alleged to exist in Pittsburg by the Pittsburg survey, whose report aroused such wide comment.

A special committee of the commission reports that just before the recent strike 51 per cent of all employees worked 12 hours, and beyond "and intensifying the evils of a 12-hour day, was the existence in many departments of a seven-day week. Twenty-eight per cent of all employees worked regularly seven days in the week, but in addition were those worked regularly on Sundays as overtime."

Moreover, the committee reports that "although it is claimed by the management that Sunday and overtime work is in some departments at least optional, it is nevertheless true that foremen and gang bosses have compelled men to work on Sundays against their protest, on pain of discharge."

The wage scale for these long hours is declared by the committee to be such that "it leaves no option to common laborers but the boarding-house method of living, with many men to the room. When a man has a family with him, they take in lodgers or even the woman goes to work. It is reported that immigrant parents send their little children back to the old country to be reared, while the mothers go to work."

A number of practical recommendations are made in the report, which urges laws to compel three shifts in all industries operating 24 hours, and to require one day of rest for all workmen in seven-day industries. The 12-hour day and the seven-day week it characterized as "a disgrace to civilization," but adds that "they will not be avoidable until society requires the backward members of the community to conform to the standard recognized by decent members of the community."

PRESERVE OLD CHURCHES

French Academician Heads Movement to Check Vandalism.

Paris, June 25.—Maurice Barres, French academician, has taken the lead in a movement to save the old churches of France from destruction. By the separation law the question of repairs of these ancient structures has become a problem.

In many country districts the Roman Catholic inhabitants are too poor to subscribe the necessary funds, and the municipal councils have no power to do so. Hence when an old edifice dating perhaps from the thirteenth or fourteenth century is seen to be tottering the authorities solve the difficulty by employing melinite to blow it up.

The latest instance was near Versailles. It appears that when the mayor of a commune of atheistical opinions — and they are many in France—gets the chance of blowing a church to pieces he is delighted, and the consequences are becoming deplorable.

M. Barres has taken the matter up in the interest of art and archaeology, and he is being powerfully supported in Paris.

STICK TO ONE CLUB

King Assumes Presidency of Marlborough in Succession to Father.

London, June 25.—The most exclusive club in London, as the Marlborough has been called, will continue to enjoy its distinction of being the King's own club, for King George has assumed the office of president in succession to his father.

King Edward himself founded the club in 1869, and its membership is limited to 500, all of whom must be known to the King.

King George will now give up his membership of the other clubs to which he belongs, as his father did on his accession. These include the Guards', the Army and Navy, the United Service, the United University and the Savage.

ISLES OF CRIMINALS

Italian Penal System Make Incubators for Criminality.

London, June 25.—Italy retains a special form of banishment introduced under the Roman Emperors known as domicilio coatto, or coerced domicile. This punishment corresponds to the Roman deportatio in insulam, or deportation to an island, and like it consists in criminals being confined to an island for a definite time and enjoying within its limits personal freedom.

The penalty is generally resorted to in cases of anarchists, camorrists and notorious criminals or persons whom it is expedient to remove from large cities. Its use has become so general that at present over 5,000 criminals are residing in the Islands of Ponza, Ventotene, Lipari, Ustica, Lampedusa, Pantelleria, Favignana and Tremiti.

These islands have practically become inhabited exclusively by criminals. As they are allowed to marry or at least go through a semblance of marriage, the islands are so thickly populated that before long it will be impossible to find place for more criminals.

Naturally the deported criminals do not lead an exemplary life and they bring up their children in such a way that sooner or later the children are bound to follow in their parents' footsteps. Thus the eight islands are aptly called incubators of criminality.

An attempt is being made to abolish deportation and to substitute a new penalty, such, for instance, as agricultural colonies in malarial districts in order to reclaim barren land. It is unlikely that a substitute for deportation can be found unless deported criminals are sent to overcrowded prisoners or are released.

ACTOR SULLY DEAD.

Woodstock, N. Y., June 26.—Daniel Sullivan, known to the stage as "Dan Sully," died at his home here yesterday. The body will be taken to Kingston, N. Y., for burial on Monday. A widow survives him.

Mr. Sullivan was born in Newport, R. I., on Nov. 6, 1855, and made his first appearance on the stage in 1875.

ATTACK ON LODGE BY BUTLER AMES

The Latter Formally Announces Candidacy for United States Senate.

Washington, June 26.—Representative Butler Ames, of Massachusetts, publicly announced his candidacy for the United States Senate today in a formal statement embodying an exceptionally bitter attack on Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Mr. Ames in his statement says he becomes a candidate after having failed to induce any one else to "take up the fight against Boss Lodge, and his political machine."

These are some of the things Mr. Ames says about the senator, and what he describes as the "Lodge machine":

"This machine, backed by all the large corporations and all the state and federal patronage at his command, has for many years served as a ready and efficient tool to crush out all political ambitions, endeavors and opinions not sanctioned by Mr. Lodge.

"His orders have gone out to crush not only for his own political ends, but to advance the selfish financial schemes of the large railroads, banking and manufacturing interests he serves in the halls of Congress, as well as in the Massachusetts Legislature.

"It is reported that in his present extremity, fearing to seek re-election on his long public record in Congress and in the state, his one hope is that Mr. Roosevelt may create new confidence in his behalf by speaking for him as an old friend. It is hard to believe that the former president would lend himself to the political support of one, even though a friend, consistently violated all the moral teachings of which he is the geat exponent.

"With direct primaries it is universally admitted that Mr. Lodge would have no possible chance of re-election. The Lodge machine and the lobby worked in the Senate (Massachusetts) again this year successfully to defeat the direct primary bill which had passed the House.

"The defeat of Mr. Lodge, and the termination of this machine will tend more than anything else to party success, not only in the state, but in the nation. It will restore confidence in the republican management by divorcing the Legislature lobby from the political machine, and by defeating a public official who has so long served the private interests rather than the public good."

Mr. Ames says he expects the Lodge men will try to prevent pledging of candidates in the hope that they may be controlled later. To prevent that he says he will try to compel every candidate in Massachusetts at the coming election to pledge himself to the issue he has raised.

COINS FOR CHINA

Order to Proceed With Manufacture Has Been Issued.

London, June 25.—China is at last to have a properly standardized currency, and an order has been issued by the imperial board of finance to the central and provincial mints to proceed with the manufacture of new coins. It may not be possible for a year or so to enforce the law in this regard, especially in the interior.

A letter just received in London from a traveller in China says that even in Honan City, which is distant only two days by rail from Pekin, lump silver, the same cumbrous currency that has been used for centuries, is still employed. It is cut into small pieces with hammer and chisel. Every town and village has its own weights and scales and there is no pretence at uniformity, even in the copper cash—coins with a square hole in the centre and strung on threads.

HUGHES MAY GO BACK TO SAVE THE PARTY

Roosevelt Expected to Take Part in the Fall Campaign.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 27.—Theodore Roosevelt is going to plunge into the political fight that will be waged this fall for the control of New York State. He persists in his refusal to talk politics for publication, but it may nevertheless be said with authority that he will devote his every effort to save the Republican party from the defeat which he thinks menaces the state.

A conference between Roosevelt and Governor Hughes is to be held. The two men will go over the political situation in New York state, and Mr. Roosevelt will indicate his belief that if the governor accepts a place in the United States supreme court bench, as he has signified his intention to do, and thus withdraw entirely from active politics, the party will be endangered. Roosevelt may not, and probably will not, ask the governor in so many words to become a candidate for a third term. He will present the situation as he sees it, leaving it to the governor to decide whether or not he should retract his positive statements that he will not accept another nomination, sacrifice his place on the bench of the supreme court, and go back into harness for two years more at Albany.

LOSS OF DERNBURG FELT BY GERMANY

Resignation of Popular Minister Forms Chief Topic of Day.

Berlin, June 27.—The politically unexpected happens. In the middle of the hottest dog-days, Germany finds itself suddenly confronted by many political sensations. One is the Dernburg "case."

Dernburg's resignation and the change in the colonial department continues the topic of the day. No minister has ever been so popular with the people and at the same time so unpopular with his fellow ministers, and so disagreeable to the Centrum party like Dernburg. And it is an open secret also, that the very people who should have supported him—the conservatives—disliked him just as much as their brothers. No sooner would Dernburg start a speech but the right side of the House would start to lose its occupants, until not a man remained. It was remarkable how they all would suddenly grow thirsty the moment Dernburg stood up in his seat.

That, however, would have made no difference at all, if it had not been for the Centrum. Dernburg's fall was a recognized number in the progress of that party.

What is said is not meant as a contention, but rather as a report, of the general impression of the people. Every one of Germany's citizens not connected with the Government likes Dernburg. And everybody also is convinced that only the Centrum can have been the cause of the colonial minister's downfall.

All that would be necessary now, to finish them altogether, would be to vote for the raise in the price of beer. However, there is hardly any danger of that. The gentlemen of the Centrum, being mostly Bavarians, love beer too much themselves. But then, in the middle of every summer, when Parliament is off on its vacation, political Germany finds itself facing conditions the consequences of which may be strenuous.

THE NAVAL MANOEUVRES

Powerful Fleet to Assemble in the Channel During July.

London, England, June 27.—The annual naval manoeuvres open on July 4, and orders have been received at the dockyards that as many ships as possible are to be completed for sea by the end of June, so that the participating fleets may be as strong as possible.

The combined Atlantic and Mediterranean fleets will leave Gibraltar this month for the Lizard, and there they will meet the home fleet, the various divisions of which are ordered to assemble at the same point on July 2.

The force which Admiral Sir William May, senior naval officer afloat, will have under his command will be one of unequalled strength. Should it be possible for each fleet concerned to muster its full total of ships, there will be present seven Dreadnoughts, three Invincibles and 22 other armored cruisers, 108 torpedo-boat destroyers, 36 torpedo boats, 50 submarines, and about 50 miscellaneous craft, such as protected cruisers, scouts, depot ships, and mine-layers.

Although strict secrecy is maintained as to the scope of the operations, it is believed that the Atlantic fleet and the fully-commissioned divisions of the home fleet will be combined against the reserve ships of the home fleet and the Mediterranean fleet. This would give 28 battleships and 13 armored cruisers in the first force, and 16 battleships and 13 armored cruisers in the second.

There will be 15 admirals in the combined force—an unprecedented number to take part in manoeuvres.

Riga, Russia, population 355,000, is to have a new central passenger station with approaches, an improved custom house quay, harbor extension and new warehouses.

STABBED BY TRAMP

Intoxicated Hobo Makes Savage Attack on a Farmer.

Preston, June 27—Friday evening as Andrew Oliver, a prosperous farmer living outside the corporation, on the Galt road, was attending his many chores, he found a tramp lying in his sheep pen, apparently under the influence of liquor. Mr. Oliver requested him to leave the premises.

Unnoticed by Mr. Oliver he drew a knife from his pocket, and, in a rage, deliberately attempted to stab Mr. Oliver in the heart. Fortunately the knife missed the mark, striking him in the armpit of the left arm, inflicting a deep wound, measuring fully three inches in length.

Not satisfied he circled about Mr. Oliver, repeatedly attempting to stab him, but being warded off he disappeared in the darkness.

Mr. Oliver was taken to Galt, where his wounds were attended to, and the chief of police notified.

Early Saturday morning Chief Levan, of Preston, was notified of the occurrence, and ordered to keep watch for the offender, but the chief had already his man in custody, having found him on the streets at midnight, and not being satisfied with his appearance, placed him in the cells. He gave as his name William Rogers.

The prisoner was identified by Mr. Oliver, and appeared before Magistrate J. D. Webster, and plead guilty to the charge of stabbing with intent to kill. He was remanded to Berlin jail.

In his report on the cavalry operations of last year on Salisbury Plain, issued by the British war office, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Douglas Haig attributes "great importance to young officers being encouraged to hunt and play polo."

Tea imports in 1909 amounted to $16,500,000, against $11,000,000 in 1899; coffee imports, $86,500,000 against $56,000,000 in 1899; and cocoa imports, $14,000,000, against $6,000,000 in 1899.

Thirty-six indictments, involving 19 persons, 17 of whom were arrested and admitted to bail, have been returned by the grand jury in Schenectady County, which has been investigating alleged graft cases.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS, Seabrook, N. H.

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

RUPTURE

J. Y. EGAN, SPECIALIST, TORONTO.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

Procrastination is the most common error of ruptured people. In most cases they do not realize the risk they are running. You may have been ruptured for some time, and not noticed any change for better or worse. But remember, no rupture stands still. Even if not getting larger, the bowel is growing fast to the inside, and any day your ordinary truss is liable to slip while lifting or coughing and let more of the bowel escape. In such a case strangulated hernia is likely to result in death. Many people come to me constipated, nervous, irritable, suffering from indigestion and constant colds. They seldom charge this to their rupture, but that is where their ill-health originates. A rupture strains the whole physical organism, and is a constant nerve irritant, a breeding place for the germs of typhoid, and frequently causes rheumatism, paralysis and sterility. Your rupture cured will make you feel like a new being; your nerves will recover their normal tone and your run down condition replaced by vigorous, joyous health. Act at once and remove the daily danger of death which, like a threatening thundercloud, hangs over the head of every ruptured person. Don't delay, to suffer and die. Let me help you live and enjoy life. What I have done for thousands in the past fifty years I can do for you today. Awaken to the fact what a cure means to you—viz., immediate security, comfort and a perfect physical condition. This is all yours today for the asking. Out-of-town patients can consult me and return home same day. No operation, pain or loss of time. Tear off free coupon now.

JACK'S TRAINING A FIGHT SAYS EXPERT MIKE MURPHY BIG BLACK IN FINE SHAPE

Expert Finds the Negro's Heart in Good Shape—Judgment of Distance Perfect—Calls Jack's Test of Forty Minutes Fighting in Boiling Sun One of the Most Impressive Pieces of Work He Has Seen at Either Camp.

Reno, Nevada, June 26.—Whatever may be said in criticism of Jack Johnson's determination to ignore his trainers and to surround himself constantly with those who will entertain him, there is one thing that must be handed to the negro—he is doing the right kind of boxing to get in shape for next Monday's bout.

In fact, it is not boxing; it is more like downright fighting. The negro, who has been accused by many of being unable to stand the gaff, certainly shows no faintheartedness in his bouts with his sparring partners.

These are certainly the real thing.

I know, because I not only watched him through a series of these exchanges, but examined him afterwards.

Exercise a Fight.

Every day Johnson really does as much fighting as would go into an ordinary bout.

This boxing means from ten to fifteen rounds a day. He orders his men to come at him for all they are worth, and to hit him as hard as they know how, and they certainly do it.

Instead of having veterans with only reputation on their side, Johnson has picked out a bunch of husky youngsters, who are strong, have stamina, and can punch.

None of the number is clever, or knows a whole lot about the boxing game, except Al Kaufman, who, while not much of a boxer, has had some experience, is strong, and is in splendid shape.

He has benefited a whole lot by his work with Johnson, and is a much improved fighter.

The fighting is the roughest kind imaginable, hammer and tongs all the time. There is no fooling about this ring work, and if there is any chance for the negro to down the white man it is entirely because of the amount of hard ring work he has done.

Johnson looks great. His skin is like a piece of polished ebony, clean, soft, and not the least bit drawn. His eyes are clear, and bright, and his heart is in good shape.

Judge of Distance Perfect.

Most impressive of all is his judgment of distance. This is simply perfect. He hardly ever misses a punch. He does not often let one go, seeming to pick out his opening with the greatest care, but when he launches a blow it nearly always gets to the mark.

This is only natural, however, for it is to be remembered that Johnson has been fighting right along, and has had no chance to get rusty as Jeffries has.

It is noticeable, too, how differently the men carry themselves in the ring. Jeffries, in spite of his great bulk, is much lighter on his feet than the negro, who carries himself around flat-footed in the old-fashioned way. Jeffries is constantly on his toes. This gives greater speed, but is undoubtedly more tiring than the other way of fighting.

Fights in Blazing Sun.

I think Johnson's test today of 40 minutes' hard fighting in a blazing sun was one of the most impressive pieces of training work I have seen since I have been here. It must be remembered that this is equivalent to a hard 10-round fight, and that one of the negro's opponent was a pugilist of standing who is now at his very best.

Kaufman bled freely all through this bout, in spite of the fact that Johnson did not make any serious effort to do him any damage. The negro is using this kind of training principally with the idea of perfecting his defence, and getting himself into shape to take punishment.

Once in a while, perhaps stung by a blow, he would break loose and make Kaufman look like a child. There was that in these rallies that made me believe that as has many times been said, only occasionally in his ring career has the negro showed the kind of power that he is really capable of.

Laughter Angers Cotton.

After finishing up with Kaufman, Johnson took a very short rest and pitted himself against Cotton.

Cotton went three hard rounds, and was glad when it was over. He is a big husky kid, who doesn't know much about the game, but the way Johnson toyed with him made him mad, and he tried his hardest to get home a blow which would count, and which would put an end to the laughter which he was getting both from the champion and from the crowd that was watching the work.

He kept rushing like a mad bull, but he had no chance whatever to get into the negro. Johnson really only played with him, and at the finish Cotton was bleeding freely.

Johnson finished up his work with Mills, and let the latter pound him in the stomach without any attempt to block the blows. This was quite an ordeal, but Jack stood it without flinching. He evidently expects Jeffries to play for some of those awful body smashes with which he put Sharkey out of the boxing game in their bout at Coney Island.

Through it all the champion never stopped smiling and never tried to get back at Mills, no matter how the punches landed in his paunch.

It was great work of the old-fashioned, strenuous kind of training, the kind that I have always taught and believed in.

Johnson never puffed or showed distress at any time, and came out of this work in fine condition.

I know this because I made a most complete examination of him after the work.

Those who have said that he has some sort of an injury to the abdomen do not know what they are talking about. There is not a joint, muscle or sinew that is not in perfect shape. He is about as nearly right as a man can be, and that in spite of the fact that he has virtually had no training regime.

He has really hammered himself into proper fettle by this strong daily boxing exercise, and after all there could be nothing much better for a man who is going into a fight.

Johnson's pulse after a hard road work is 102, when resting it is 60. He has no stomach at all, and is well ribbed down to the hips. He is a long, careful fighter with a well-balanced disposition, and has taught himself as a cardinal principle the folly of losing his temper under any conditions.

Johnson eats only substantial food, but is he has a weakness for anything it is a piece of pie, pastry or a pudding. However, they do not let his cook prepare this sort of thing, and I can't say that the negro does anything very wrong in the matter of his eating.

If Johnson had the right kind of a trainer he would be the easiest kind of a man to handle. He is very cheerful in disposition, and is polite to those around. Today he hit the punching bag a shot and knocked it. It hit a Cincinnati newspaper man, and made a mark on his face. Jack was most sorry and anxious to make amends for the accident.

Delaney will be here in a day or two, and will take full charge.

SHUT-OUT FIGURES IN EAST END GAMES

Ramblers Hand St. Marys Blanks, While W. & W. Whitewash the Same Aggregation Later.

Two shutouts were registered in the East End League on Saturday afternoon, the Ramblers defeating the St. Marys 6 to 0, and the Wortman & Wards dipping the St. Marys in the lime barrel again to the tune of 11 to 0.

Only one game, however, was a regular one, the latter farcical contest being merely exhibition.

The initial set-to was a very nice one to watch from the spectators' point of view. Brooks pitched a magnificent game, and had the Saints completely at his mercy.

Fauria twirled a nice game and showed particular class in pinches. On one occasion, with three men on bases, and only one out, he fanned the next two. Errors behind him and a few dumb plays by his team mates helped considerably to swell the score.

In the second exhibition game Wagner and Fitzmaurice were easy picking for the Wortman & Ward sluggers, who slammed their offerings to all corners of the lot. Wortman & Wards are improving with every game, and should make things interesting for the leaders before the season closes.

Irishmen No Match for Murphy's Bunch—Tecumsehs Also Win From Cornwall.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, June 25.—The Torontos made a show of the Shamrocks in the N. L. U. game here today, winning hands down by a score of 7 to 3. All the scoring was done in the first half, the second being rough, a large number of penalties being handed out. Contrary to expectations Kavanaugh and McIlwaine did not play for the Irishmen, and there was much disappointment. With the game in hand the Torontos were inclined to play loosely, and the spectators did not enjoy the exhibitions as they deserved.

Warwick, Fitzpatrick and Barnett were prominent on the scoring end of the Torontos, while Atton and Hawkshaw were good on the defence. The teams:

Toronto—Goal, Atton; point, Harshaw; coverpoint, Menary; defence, Braden, Stagg, Powers; centre, Dandeno; home, Carter, Barnett, Fitzgerald; outside, Kalls; inside, Warwick.

Shamrocks—Goal, Muir; point, Dillon; coverpoint, Clingen; defence, Barry, Tobin, Rochford; centre, Munday; home, McIntyre, Hyland, J. McCarthy; outside, George; inside, G. McCarthy.

Detroit, June 25.—If George Stone had been content to confine himself to the merely extraordinary and leave the phenomenal alone yesterday afternoon, everyone in Detroit might have been happy instead of being firmly committed to the Maud Muller School of Philosophy. Just one display of activity on George's part was enough to rob the Tigers of a ball game that they needed badly. George eliminated, it would have been 3 to 2 with us. As things were, it stood 2 to 1 "agin" Detroit.

FIFTH FOR BROWNS FROM THE TIGERS

Put It Over Jennings' Team With Killian in Box.

CLEVER PLAY BY NAPS

Hammer Out Five Runs in the Fourth Inning and Defeat the White Sox.

St. Louis, Mo., June 26.—The St. Louis Browns took their fifth victory from the Tigers in a week, when they outhit and outfielded the champions this afternoon, and for the second time in two days won by one tally, the final score being 4 to 3.

Killian was sent to the box for the champions to repeat his victory of early in the week, and although he was not hit hard, the champions slipped up on plays on two different occasions, and by bunching their hits in the third inning the Browns assumed a lead of two runs by sending a trio of men across the plate, and in the next inning they scored the deciding run that gave them the game.

The Tigers put up one of their characteristic uphill battles, but were unable to overcome the early lead.

Pelty made his first start in the series, and but once did the Tigers bunch any of their five hits. This was in the fourth, when they scored twice, and their run in the second were all the tallies made off him. The score:

BIG CROWDS THRONG JIM JEFFRIES' CAMP

Roulette Wheels Busy Close to Quarters of the Ex-Champion.

[By Associated Press.]

Reno, Nev., June 27.—Neither heat nor dust, which are plentiful here, seems to be troubling either Jack Johnson or Jim Jeffries, who a week from today are to meet in a conflict that has caused world-wide attention and is luring here eager patrons from the four corners of the earth. Jeffries' camp, being on a carline, drew much larger crowds than Johnson's quarters, and from early morning till dusk people thronged the gray-shadowed lawns and resorts of Moana Springs.

Within the main building of the resort roulette wheels clicked endlessly, and the little white balls were watched with straining eyes by women as well as by men.

ST. GEORGE'S WIN IN WIERD GAME

Y Boys Make Fifteen Errors—Youngs Win a Tidy Game From St. John's A. C. at Springbank Saturday.

The Youngs won from the St. Johns in the Springbank League on Saturday afternoon in a good game by a score of 5 to 3. In the evening session, the St. Georges beat the Y. M. C. A. by 13 to 11. There was a good crowd.

The first game was real ball. The Youngs played well behind Clark, who pitched a heady game. W. Lee, for the St. Johns, pitched well, but his support was wobbly in the pinches. Stevens did some timely hitting.

PITTSBURG CREW SLAUGHTER CUBS

Leever's Wildness Causes Two Players To Be Chased.

CARDINALS BUMP REDS

Griffith's Gladiators Get Bad Beating—Matty Always Wins—Boston Bests Brooklyn.

Pittsburg, June 25.—Pittsburg today took another game from Chicago, full of wrangles and objections by players. After hitting two batsmen, Leever was requested by the Chicago players to leave the rubber. The players appealed to the umpire, claiming that Leever's wildness might prove dangerous to life and limb. Umpire Moran ordered Leever to pitch several balls over the plate to demonstrate his control. He did this, and was continued in the game. Steinfeldt and Chance were ordered off the field for too vehemently protesting. Pittsburg won in the third inning, in which Reulbach was hit hard and often, and five runs were scored. The score:

ing purposes, and when the fire reached this it made tremendous headway, and in a few minutes flames were shooting through the roof many feet into the air.

The east wall began to bulge, and the firemen were warned to keep away from it.

The upper part fell out about five o'clock, and shortly afterwards a large piece north of it also fell.

The brigade after this directed their whole attention to the west end of the building, and by hard work prevented the fire from eating its way into that portion. Some damage was done to the first and second floors, but it is merely nominal.

A Furious Blaze.

One after another the floors fell in as the fire licked up the main shop and machinery of all sorts and tons of castings fell with a crash.

The blaze at times was very spectacular, and could be seen for a long distance.

Seven streams were used at the fire and up to the time that the big 2½-inch pipe, which Wortman & Ward have installed themselves as an auxiliary for fire purposes broke, the pressure was splendid.

When the floors fell in the pipe snapped, and the large amount of water going through the auxiliary main brought the city pressure down somewhat

Chief Aitken then put the steamer to work from the hydrant at the corner of King and William streets, and two fine streams were thrown with great effect on the blaze.

The Water Pressure.

"Up to the time the big pipe in the shop broke," the chief told The Advertiser, "the water pressure was ample. The building is only three stories, and we had lots of water. When we arrived there seemed to be two fires, one in the main shop and another around the boiler room."

A watchman is usually kept at the factory over night, but on Saturday evening no one was in the building after 6 o'clock. The fire must have had a long start as it was all through the lower floor before it was noticed and blazed fiercely after the doors were opened. Mr. Wortman stated to The Advertiser today that he had no idea how the fire started. "Our loss," he said, "will, as nearly as we can tell now, be between $40,000 and $50,000. We had a large stock in the building which is a complete loss."

Asked as to whether or not the shop will be rebuilt, Mr. Wortman said he had not made any plans so far. It is said a new site is likely to be secured.

Yard Engine Cut Hose.

During the fire a G. T. R. yard engine ran over a line of hose which was laid across the tracks at William street. The hose was in plain sight, and the accident, it is alleged, was due entirely to the carelessness of the railwaymen.

Chief Aitken will investigate the matter, as had the line been cut off a short time before, when the fire was at its height, the consequences would have been very serious.

The fire was under control by 5:30, but men stayed all day wetting down the ruins with a line of hose.

About 50 men will be thrown out of work temporarily.

WENTWORTH LIBERALS HAVE GREAT PICNIC

Hon. Mackenzie King and Leader MacKay Addressed Dundas Gathering.

Dundas, June 27.—The Liberals of North Wentworth held their annual picnic at Dundas Park Saturday afternoon, and the affair was a complete success in every respect. The day was ideal, the attendance was large and the speeches highly instructive. The principal speakers of the afternoon were Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, minister of labor, and Hon. A. G. MacKay, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, and they addressed a great gathering of people, who came from all parts of the riding, as well as from Hamilton and the district surrounding North Wentworth. Dr. McQueen, Freelton, presided. Mayor J. W. Lawrason of Dundas, and W. I. Sealey, M. P., introduced the speakers of the day, and Hon. Thomas Bain and R. A. Thompson, ex-M. P. P., addressed the gathering briefly.

Hon. Mr. King made a brief reply to some of the criticisms of the Conservatives, after which he drew attention to some of the acts of the Laurier Administration. He referred to the inauguration of the department of labor and the legislation that had been passed in the interests of the wage-earners, and incidentally expressed the opinion that the railway brotherhoods would not bring about a strike over the wage question for the reason that they had too much good sense to create such a danger.

Hon. Mr. MacKay dealt with the affairs in the Provincial House, and said that the much-vaunted revenue of the Whitney Government was the result of the economical legislation of the Liberals. He contended that the Government have not done what they should to give technical education to the youth of this province. A technical school should be established in every centre, and in not having done this the Government had not been progressive.

Mayor Lawrason, in a short address, expressed his pleasure and gratitude that such distinguished gentlemen should find time to visit them, and Dr. McQueen in speaking of Hon. Mr. MacKay said he was the Moses of his party, who would lead his children back to the promised land, and would demonstrate that he was one of the leading Liberals in Canada. He paid Hon. Mr. King a high tribute, and expressed the hope that he would, in time, become premier of Canada.

LONDON TANNERY

sions on sales and in double warehousing expenses. The interest on $4,000,000 of first mortgage bonds at 6 per cent per annum will call for $240,000, and the preferred dividend of 7 per cent per annum on $7,500,000 preference shares will require $525,000. This will leave available for dividends on ordinary shares nearly $250,000.

It is estimated that the savings effected by means of the consolidation, in the greater specializing of the various plants, purchase of raw materials, distribution of finished product, and centralization of management, will amount to a large sum without any increase in the price to consumers. It is held that these economies should increase the net earnings to a sufficiently large amount as to permit early distribution of a substantial dividend on the common stock of the company. Seven of the tanners in the consolidation have branches in Montreal, and five branches in Quebec City.

Big Home Demand.

Five years ago about 40 per cent of the leather manufactured in Canada was exported, owing to the limited consumption as home. Today the home demand has left less than 13 per cent for export, for which trade, however, Canada is admirably situated by reason of the ample supplies of bark and hides. The capacity of the present plants will accommodate an increase of more than 50 per cent, and to look after a further expansion in the general trade securities have been reserved to be issued under proper restrictions.

Several of the leading tanners who are in the consolidation are of the opinion that as there is a strong and growing demand for calf, that one at least of the tanneries now running on kid could be profitably turned to calf skin. There are now but two calfskin tanneries in the country.

Control Three Quarters.

The merger, which, it is stated, will be able to control three-quarters of the total output of the leather used in the Canadian boot and shoe, bag and trunk trades, is almost completed. Its authorized capital will be $15,000,000 stock and $5,000,000 bonds, with an immediate issue of $13,500,000 stock and $4,000,000 bonds.

"The merger will not, I think, affect prices of leather either one way or the other," said Mr. Wickett, of Wickett & Craig, to The Star. "But it will go a long way towards developing the export leather business in Canada, and it will enable the Canadian dealers to save much in warehouse expenses and specialize in certain lines of leather production. It takes in about half the sole leather trade, and most of the light and fancy leather trade, but will not affect the harness people."

"An option has been secured on a number of plants, including our own," said Hon. C. S. Hyman. "That is all that has been done as yet. The deal is accordingly in process of formation, but it has not yet been consummated. When it will be, or whether or not such will take place, I am not prepared to state.

"I know little else than that they have secured options on several tanneries."

TRAINMEN AND THE C. P. R. HOLD A CONFERENCE TODAY

General Committee and Officials Will Endeavor to Avoid a Strike, Although Company Insists It Will Abide by Award of Conciliation Board.

Montreal, June 27.—The Canadian Pacific Railway and the committee of the trainmen will meet today in another effort to settle their differences, despite the fact that both sides had announced that ultimatums had been issued.

Vice-President Murdock, of the trainmen, who was conferring with Vice-President Berry, of the conductors' brotherhood, stated last evening that this conference would probably decide whether negotiations were to proceed in future on a friendly basis or not.

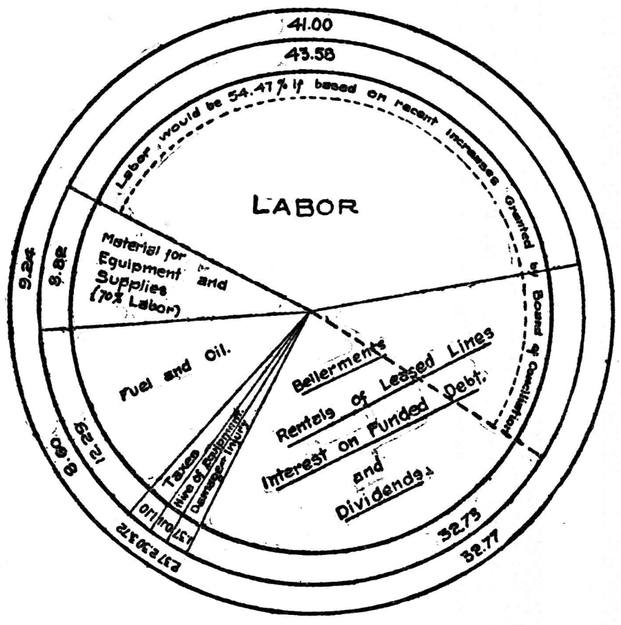

J. W. Leonard, of the Canadian Pacific, stated today that the company would stick to its adoption of the award of the board of conciliation, notice to this effect having been sent to Mr. Murdock. Exactly the opposite statement was made by Mr. Murdock, who said that the representatives of the men gathered from Mr. Leonard's letter that the company would be willing to pay the standard wages of the territory, and would give in to all their demands.

Cost of Operating Railways

Diagram showing how the Gross Earnings of the Canadian Railways for Year ending June 30th 1909 Were Spent.

Comparative figures for United States Railways are shown in outer circle.

Gross Earnings 145,056,336.

Dotted line shows the extent to which the cost of Labor would ultimately be increased, and its consequent effect on Betterments and Finances of the Railways, if the increases allowed by the Board of Conciliation to Trainmen are granted.

The above diagram has been prepared to show how the gross earnings of the Canadian railway companies are at present distributed. It is interesting in its relation to the present demand of employees for a higher scale of wages. The following statement, accompanying the diagram, has been handed out for publication:

"The above diagram should prove interesting to the general public, to railway managers and employees. It should be of some help also to conscientious statesmen, who are often asked to throw the harpoon into the railroad before the latest wound has healed. It will surprise some people to learn that, according to Government reports, 43.58 per cent of the gross earnings of Canadian railways goes to labor direct, as compared with 41 per cent paid on the same account by American roads. This is largely due to the climatic conditions and to the lower earning power of the Canadian railways.

"Moreover, American roads, covering about the same territory as Canadian roads cover, operate through a settled country, serving 87,000,000 people, while Canadian roads have only 7,000,000 to serve.

"In addition to the 43 per cent of gross paid for labor, 75 per cent of the money paid on account of fuel and oil, representing 9.7 per cent of gross earnings, goes to the men who mine coal and boil oil. This brings the amount paid to labor directly and indirectly up to 52.65 per cent of the earnings. The cost of upkeep, material, equipment and supplies eats up 8.82 per cent of the gross earnings, 6.02 per cent of which goes to the men who work with their heads and hands to produce these items and articles.

"So we find that the railway pays out close to 60 per cent of every dollar taken in for labor.

"The fact that Canadian railways pay considerably more of each dollar on this account than is paid by their American competitors refutes the argument that American manufactures come to Canada in order to recure cheaper labor.

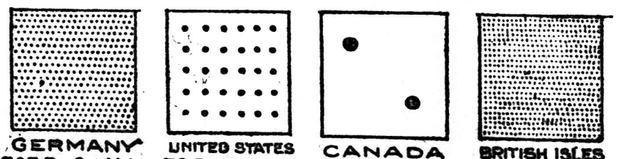

"Naturally our winters being longer and harder and our days shorter than the winters and days are farther south our railways get less out of the day's work.

"Another point against our railway is that nearly every American line running east and west passes through or near some vast coal field. Canadian roads have not only to haul their coal great distances, but in addition have to pay a heavy duty on every ton of coal they import, a serious handicap.

"The tendency in Canada, as in the States for the past decade, has been raised taxes and at the same time reduce the rates to reduce the earning power and increase the fixed charges. In the meantime during the past ten years the wages of railway employees in Canada have been increased by nearly 30 per cent.

"So all things considered Canadian railways make a splendid showing from most any viewpoint, and they unquestionably have in many respects a harder row to hoe than have the American lines, with whom for transcontinental traffic they must compete.

"Always when planning war on the railway the railway employee has to keep in mind the benefits accruing from pension or superannuation funds, the saving of years, which are lost to him if he severed his connections with the road. As the railways contribute largely to this fund, they very naturally insist upon an oversight of that department. In the case of a recent strike at Winnipeg one faithful old employee had but a year to serve before becoming eligible for benefits, but he was forced to walk out and lose a life pension."

BORDEN ENDS TOUR

Winds Up Summer Picnics With an Address at Finch.

Ottawa, June 27. — Mr. R. L. Borden wound up his political picnic summer series in Ontario at Finch on Saturday afternoon, with a disquisition on Liberal maladministration, and the proposed reciprocity treaty with the United States, delivered before some seven hundred men, women and children from the village of Finch and the surrounding rural population of Stormont and Glengarry. Mr. Borden's addres was, to a large extent, a revamping of his previous speeches in Western Ontario. He was assisted by local talent from the surrounding constituencies, including Messrs. Broder, Perley, and Reid, M. P.s, Senator McMillan, J. H. Ferguson, M.P.P., John McLaughlin, ex-M. P. P., R. A. Pringle, ex-M. P., and George Kerr, ex-M. P. They each gave five-minute speeches

DEBATE ON OATH OPENS TOMORROW

Bill Will Be Introduced by Asquith Altering Form.

BUDGET UP THIS WEEK

Not Expected That Lloyd George Will Reduce Tax on Whisky.

London, June 27.—The proceedings in Parliament last week were overshadowed in public interest by futile guesses as to the nature of the deliberations going on at the conference of the leaders of both parties, which was arranged with the hope of arriving at a satisfactory compromise on the Lords' veto question. The newspapers and the public call it a conference, but Premier Asquith referred to it as a meeting, not a conference. A meeting seems to be an adequate description of the informal non-commital relations prevailing among the leaders of both parties. The Labor party is the first one to record officially its attitude towards the meeting, passing a resolution heatedly denouncing any compromise that would modify the effect of the veto policy.

It has been discovered that Mr. Asquith issued a detailed memorandum describing the present relations between the two Houses of Parliament which formed the basis of the discussion at the meeting formerly called a conference. Mr. Asquith narrates the alleged injustice of the present condition of things from the Liberal viewpoint and suggests many numerous possible methods of compromise for consideration. It is expected that ex-Premier Balfour will issue a memorandum commenting on Mr. Asquith's views, and naming certain conditions on which a compromise is possible. When Mr. Asquith's and Mr. Balfour's memorandums are submitted to the members of the meeting then the latter will be able to get down to business. Mr. Asquith on Thursday outlined the course of business which the House of Commons will transact during the course of business the House of Commons will transact during the remainder of the session. He intimated that he did not intend to introduce contentious legislation, but politicians are puzzled by his definition of the word contentious.

A bill altering the Accession oath will be introduced on Tuesday. The budget for 1910-11 will be introduced Thursday. It is difficult to understand why Mr. Asquith considers the former measure uncontentious. It is doubtful whether the bill will pass its first reading Tuesday without precipitating a storm. It will be opposed, not only by the Irish Unionists, but by many Protestants. Neil Primrose, M.P., Lord Rosebery's younger son, has been working against the bill and claims to have a large number of members of the House of Commons behind him.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, who returned to London to attend the Bryan dinner, has issued a whip, urging the Irish Catholic members of the House to be present at the session Tuesday.

Despite Mr. Asquith's pledge that the bill merely proposes an alteration in the language of the sovereign's declaration and will not vary materially the conditions of the succession to the throne, there is nevertheless bound to be trouble Tuesday. Not only do average Protestants oppose any alteration in the form of the oath, but trouble is expected from the extreme high churchmen in the Commons and their friends on the Episcopal bench in the House of Lords, who object to any form of declaration which repudiates the doctrine of transsubstantiation. Therefore Mr. Asquith's idea that the bill is not contentious seems to be quaint.

The budget, too, may prove a contentious subject. It is understood that Mr. Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, does not intend to lower the increased tax on whiskey imposed last year. This will undoubtedly precipitate heated opposition from the Irish members, aided by some of the Scotch members, and if the Unionists and Nationalists vote in favor of a motion reducing the tax the Government would be put into a minority, thereby precipitating a serious political crisis. However, the risk of a Tory-Irish combination against the Government on the budget is not serious, but it is possible that this is one of the risks which a Government without a homogeneous majority must always face. Nobody believes that Mr. Redmond has got sufficient power to hold up the budget.

NO RECOUNT AT WINDSOR

Niagara Power Opponents Now Lined Up With the Enemy.

[Associated Press.]

Windsor, June 27.—That there will be no demand for a recount of the public vote taken on the Niagara power scheme last Monday was definitely announced at a conference of the men who were leaders on the opposition to the bylaw. Instead of trying to upset the vote the former opponents say they are willing to work in harmony with the city council in endeavoring to secure the best possible bargain for the city on the sale of excess power under the big contract and offer to appoint a citizen's committee from their number.

A memorial will be presented to the city council tonight asking the council before going further to ascertain definitely whether the export of power will be allowed by the Government, and having ascertained this to ask for bids from distributing companies.

ONTARIO'S CROPS ARE DOING WELL

Prof. Zavitz Says Middlesex Clover Is Exceptionally Fine.

Guelph, June 27. — "Speaking for the Province as a whole, I find from official reports sent to me by our representatives, that the crops are in a very promising condition," said Prof. Zavitz, of the O. A. C., to a press representative, "In Eastern Ontario the clover crops are proving to be record-breakers, having attained an exceptionally fine growth through that portion of Western Ontario, of which Middlesex County is the centre. The winter crops, such as fall wheat, are a little patchy, but on the whole there is little reason for complaint. The late spring, particularly the cold weather in May, retarded to some extent the growth of all crops in the Province, but this drawback was compensated by the fact that the germination of all crops maintained a very good standard, and, consequently, the outlook for the Province is exceptionally bright, and the yield ought to surpass that of last year."

OVERCOME BY THE HEAT

Quebec Lady Expires While on a Visit to Detroit.

[G. N. W. Dispatch.]

Detroit, June 27.—While walking from Belle Isle to the home of her nephew, Napoleon Belanger, last evening, Mrs. Matilda La France, of Quebec, was overcome by heat and died at St. Mary's Hospital a few minutes after her arrival there. Mrs. La France, who came to Detroit from her home in Quebec two weeks ago to visit relatives here, was 50 years old, and her husband, Peter La France, who is in Quebec, has been notified of her death. Coroner Burgess is conducting an investigation.

A $500 00 Challenge.

An interesting controversy is being indulged in on the Upper Lakes, in connection with the relative speed of the S. S. Hamonic, of the Northern Navigation Company, and the S. S. Keewatin, of the C. P. R.

It is claimed by the latter that it has been demonstrated she could speed faster than the S. S. Hamonic, and the Sarnia Canadian has challenged two of their contemporries that the steamer Hamonic, the first time she comes across either the Keewatin or the Assiniboia, of the C. P. R. Line, will pass these vessels, and in good faith has deposited a certified check for $500

Canada imported $2,415,793 worth of paper and paper manufactures from the United States in 1908-09, against $837,154 worth from Great Britain, out of a total import of $3,651,318 worth.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

LIVE HOGS WERE A SHADE EASIER TODAY

Sold at From $8.75 to $8.90 Per Cwt. On Local Market.

Live hogs were a shade easier this morning Mr. D. A. McIntyre shipped a carload to Toronto, paying from $8 75 to $8 90 for all deliveries.

The offering of products was very small, there being no strawberries, butter or eggs brought in. The dealers were unable to get any grain.

About a dozen loads of hay went at $13 to $14 a ton.

Two loads of straw were sold for $7 a ton.

A fairly large supply of strawberries is expected this week, but it is improbable that the price will drop very much lower. Last week, although the supply was not very large, berries sold at 10c and 11c a box.

MANY APPLICATIONS ARE BEING RECEIVED

Several Ladies Would Like To Be Matron of Alexandra Sanatorium.

Elgin County has practically closed the deal for admission of patients from that county to the Alexandra Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Byron.

At its June session, the Middlesex County council saw fit to shelve the proposal, as placed before it by the sanatorium board, and it will be impossible to gain admission for Middlesex County patients.

The terms upon which Middlesex County patients were to be admitted were the payment of a grant of $4,000 with 50 cents a day for each county patient.

Applications have been received from several patients suffering from tuberculosis, just outside the city limits. These the board were forced to refuse admittance.

Speaking to The Advertiser this morning, Sheriff Cameron, secretary of the board, said: "In justice to the County of Elgin and the city of London, we could not possibly admit county patients to the sanatorium."

A committee of the Elgin County council will come to London on Thursday to confer with the board and close the deal.

Just at present the finishing touches are being put on the sanatorium to make it fit for occupancy. The water connections are being laid and the laundry completed. When these are done the building will be ready for use.

A number of applications have been received for the position of matron. These will be dealt with this week.

BILLY MAHON AND HIS BIG SIX WERE SUMMONED

It Is Alleged That Liquor Was Sold On Sunday in the Invererie at Port.

"Billy" Mahon, of the Invererie, and six bartenders were summoned today for selling liquor on Sunday at the hotel, and on Wednesday the seven will appear before Squire Hunt at Port to answer the charge.

Charges have been laid, and it is stated that many witnesses will appear. For some time past there have been complaints about the hotel, and last week Squire Hunt received orders from the Government to watch the Port for infractions of the law, especially as regards the selling of liquor. Yesterday a special detachment of bartenders was taken down to assist in the anticipated rush.

Wide Open?

Everything was running wide open, it is said, and the squire timed his arrival.

When business was briskest Squire Hunt and his assistants walked in and caught a score or more men in the bar. The names of the bartenders were taken, including the London contingent, and they were notified to appear before Squire Hunt on Wednesday next.

The lid was off, it is alleged, and the spectators say that there was no pretence to keep the law.

The other hotels were visited by the Government officials, but in no other, it is said, was there any sign of lawbreaking.

A Rushing Business.

"There were six bartenders doing business there when I dropped in," said Squire Hunt to The Advertiser. "They seemed to be doing a rushing business judging from the crowds I saw going in and out of there. That sort of thing will have to be stopped, and it will be."

LATE LOCAL ITEMS

When you leave for your vacation have The Advertiser follow you. Address changed as often as desired; write or 'phone 107.

—A linen shower was recently given for Miss Ruth Selkirk at the home of Miss Ethel Simmons, Queen's avenue east. The house was beautifully decorated with marguerites for the occasion, and the gifts were concealed in a huge floral bell hung in the centre of the room. Between 25 and 30 friends of Miss Selkirk were present.

—Rev. E. Hooper, M.D., of Toronto, preached two powerful sermons yesterday in Adelaide Street Church, on the subject, "Christ, the Blessed and Only Potentate," and "Who Is My Neighbor?" The work of the choir in the evening was very effective, the solo and duet parts, taken by Mrs. A. E. Brown and Miss Edna Weston, being especially fine.

The opening of the free swimming bath for boys will take place on Wednesday. The day for girls this week has been made Thursday, instead of Friday, which is the regular day. The reason for the change is that Friday is a holiday.

An Explanation.

Mrs. Ridley, whose husband, the late William Ridley, died a week ago Sunday, stated to The Advertiser today that Mr. Ridley was undoubtedly mentally unbalanced through business troubles. She has found a letter which had caused him a great deal of worry, and it was this, she thinks, that deranged him.

Mr. A. T. McMahen, chairman of the water commissioners, is quite ill and has not been able to attend to his business for a couple of days. He will take a trip shortly to recuperate.

Cylinder Head Cracked.

Grand Trunk Mogul, 310, hauling express No. 6, pulled into London this morning with the head of one of the cylinders cracked right across and leaking badly. The engine was able to continue on its way and will be sent to Toronto for repairs.

Late Rev. Mr. Moody.

The funeral of Rev. James Harvey Moody was held this afternoon from the family residence, 2 Clark street, to the Horton Street Baptist Church, where the funeral services were conducted. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Late Miss Taylor.

The funeral of Miss Annie H. Taylor was held this afternoon from the residence of her parents, Tecumseh avenue, and interment was made at Pond Mills Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. McCrae, of Wilton Grove.

Mould Exploded.

The fire brigade had a run to Leonard's foundry on Saturday afternoon about 4.30. An exploding mould in the moulding shop threw some hot metal on the roof, igniting it. The workmen were not in the room at the time. The fire was put out with little damage.

Will Drop Out.

The A. M. C. have decided to drop out of the East End League, and in future will play outside teams at Tecumseh Park. The officers of the league state that a three-team league will be continued throughout the season, playing a double-header each Saturday. The bill for July 1 is a game at 10 o'clock between the St. Marys and Ramblers.

Too Much Selfishness.

The services in the Empress Avenue Methodist Church last night were conducted by Mr. J. F. Maine, president of the Epworth League of the Askin Street Methodist Church. In his sermon Mr. Maine said there is too much selfishness among both the clergy and churchgoers, and that too many people are afraid that someone else is going to have a better place than they have. He urged all to make Christ the main object of their religion.

Death of Mrs. Brennan.

Mrs. Emily Brennan, wife of Mr. Ed. C. Brennan, died in St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning after a very brief illness. She was only taken ill on Saturday evening, and went under an operation shortly after, but never rallied. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters and four sons, Misses Hilda and Molly, Wilfrid, Eddy, Leonard and Emmett. Mrs. Brennan was a daughter of the late John Fox. Her mother, Mrs. Jane Fox, lives in Detroit, as does also a sister, Mrs. Ed. Flannery. Mr. James Fox, of this city, is a brother. The funeral will be held on Wednesday morning to St. Peter's Cathedral, and interment will be made at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Too Much Hog.

Complaints were made that the Pere Marquette had attached a carload of hogs to a pasenger train at St. Thomas on Saturday afternoon, and as a result a number of passengers were very indignant. Mr. W. D. Hood, travelling passenger agent for the Pere Marquette, stated to The Advertiser that he had heard nothing of it, but would look into the matter at once. The people were compelled to ride with the windows closed all the way to London, and the heat was excessive.

Presbyterian Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church was held at Springbank yesterday afternoon. About 150 went down and indulged in the usual games and baseball match. The children were taken down in the morning, and the older people in the afternoon. The King Street and Hamilton Road churches played a game of baseball, the former triumphing 11 to 9. Dinner and supper was served at the south end of the grounds by the ladies of the church.

London Graduates.

Among the graduates of the Macdonald Institute, Guelph, are Miss Florence Beryl Belton, daughter of Dr. Belton, this city; Miss Grace M. Edwards, daughter of Inspector Edwards; Miss Eva E. McMahen, daughter of Mr. A. T. McMahen, president of the board of trade, and Miss Isabel Stuart, daughter of Rev. J. G. Stuart. All took a hight stand in their courses. In the latest edition of the O. A. C. Monthly flattering reference is made to each of the young ladies.

LINCOLN'S DESCENT

Said That the Great Liberator Was of German Origin.

Berlin, June 27.—Germans nowadays leave no stone unturned to convince Americans that their real "mother country" is Germany and not England. Not long ago we learned that it was only as a result of foul parliamentary play in the colonial congress of 1776 that not German, but English, was made the national languish of the young republic. Now comes Herr Henninghausen, a German historian resident in Baltimore, with documentary evidence that Abraham Lincoln was of direct German origin, and not of British stock, as long and popularly supposed.

Herr Henninghausen says that Lincoln's paternal grandfather was named Abraham Linkhorn, and that the latter's descendants, like many Germans, settled in the United States, and proceeded to Anglicize his name—in this case into "Lincoln." Documentary proofs in the shape of deeds and mortgages for land acquired by Abraham Linkhorn in Kentucky, where Abraham Lincoln, the president-to-be, was born, are said to be in existence, establishing clearly that Linkhorn and not Lincoln is the name which Americans ought to hold in reverence.

TROUBLE OVER CRETE IN SIGHT

London, June 27.—There seems to be a rift in the entente cordiale. It is reported that France is displeased by the failure of Foreign Secretary Grey to adopt its point of view regarding Crete. The French cabinet is anxious to avoid military adventure of any kind anywhere and certainly the French public is unwilling to tolerate any expedition to Crete to bolster up Turkish suzeraintv. It is reported that the French ministry of foreign affairs feels that Sir Edward Grey has adopted a risky and unsatisfactory policy in regard to Cretan affairs, believing that sooner or later some disagreeable incident will occur, necessitating intervention as a result of Sir Edward's policy of procrastination.

The French Government wanted a conference, but Sir Edward would not accept the proposal. He also declined a suggestion that representatives of the protecting powers should meet frequently in London, for the purpose of settling current business in regard to Crete.

The present condition of the Cretan problem is that the four protecting powers have agreed, as a precautionary measure that each shall send a second warship to Cretan waters before the next meeting of th e assembly. The Russian proposai to reoccupy Crete has been accepted in principle by the three other powers as a measure for adoption in the event of further emergency. The latter proposal had an imediate moral effect on the situation, for the Greek Government immediately addressed a remonstrance to the Cretan leaders.

KAISER'S DAUGHTER AND PRINCE OF WALES

A Marriage Between the Pair a Possibility of Next Few Years.

Berlin, June 27.—I hear that interesting rumors are in circulation in military and society quarters at Potsdam to the effect that the Kaiser and Kaiserin are thinking of a matrimonial alliance between their only daughter, Princess Victoria Luise of Prussia, and the eldest son of the King and Queen of England, who became the Prince of Wales this week.

The princess, who will be eighteen next September, is one year and three-quarters older than the Prince of Wales, but that would not be regarded as a handicap from her parents' point of view. The Kaiser's wife is several months older than the Emperor, and their second son, Prince Eitel Friedrich of Prussia, is married to a princess nearly three years his senior.

It is hoped in Potsdam court circles I learn, that when King George and Queen Mary make their first official visit to Germany, they will be accompanied by the Prince of Wales, and that the latter may then have the agreeable opportunity of forming an acquaintance with his fair-haired third cousin which may some day ripen into affection.

The number of European princes whom the Kaiser and Kaiserin consider eligible for their only daughter's hand is rather limited. Those who are generally looked upon as most eligible are Roman Catholics, like the young King of Portugal and one of the young Austrian archdukes. The Kaiserin, who is very deeply attached to her daughter, has in accordance with her own principles brought her up as an uncompromising Protestant, and would rather see her married to one of the most obscure princes than share a throne with a Roman Catholic king.

A marriage with the future King of England would suggest political advantages of far-reaching proportions. Close dynastic ties between Great Britain and Germany have, of course, not been able to prevent strained relations and bad blood between the two countries, but it is believed in Germany that if the Kaiser's daughter should become Great Britain's future King's consort the danger of Anglo-German hostilities would become remote to the vanishing point.

King George ranks here as a first-class Germanophobe, and grave doubt is expressed as to whether he could ever be persuaded to consider a union between his heir and the Kaiser's daughter.

PERILOUS PARIS CABS

Policemen of French Capital Have No Control of Traffic.

Paris, June 27.—In the last few days, with the influx of visitors attracted by la grande semaine, which opens tomorrow, the problems of Parisian traffic have begun to present their complex phases.

To one accustomed to the orderly methods with which traffic is regulated in the Berlin and London central thoroughfares the Paris avenues are pandemonium. The policemen who, with their white batons, vainly essay to bring order out of chaos, are powerless to cope with the traditional antagonism of the cochers, and frequently make confusion worse confounded by the untimely assertion of their authority.

The cabbies are much more dangerous than the drivers of taxi-motors. The accidents caused by the latter are comparatively rare, while the headline "Crushed by a Cab" appears with appalling frequency in the local news columns.

In the course of a half-hour's walk this afternoon along the boulevards I saw no less than five collisions of vehicles, with unnumbered cases in which pedestrians crossing the streets owed life and limb to their own dexterity or caution. In one collision, a cab—fortunately empty—was smashed completely in two in an encounter with a van and an omnibus.

BLOCKING THE C. N. R.

Toronto, June 27.—The application of the Canadian Northern Railway Company to the railway commission sitting here this morning, for sanction of the location of a line of railway through the Township of Sydney and the Town of Fenton, was objected to by a representative from Belleville, Sydney. The chief point of issue was that the railway should not cross the Kingston road. The Ontario Government also objected to the railway crossing the grounds of the deaf and dumb institute at Belleville. It was decided that Chief Engineer Mountain, of the commission, should look over the ground to see what could be done with the matter.

SEVENTH REGIMENT AT DIVINE SERVICE

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Ross in Victoria Park On Sunday Afternoon.

There was a very large turnout of citizens yesterday afternoon in Victoria Park at the special divine service held for the Seventh Regiment.

At 4 o'clock the regiment marched up Wellington street, and as they passed the residence of Sir John Carling, the honorary colonel, the aged statesman stood on his verandah and saluted each company as it passed.

The men then marched into the park and formed up in front of the bandstand.

The service was led by Very Rev. Dean Davis, who said the prayers and read the lessons. Rev. Dr. Ross, of St. Andrew's Church, preached to the men.

"If any of you," he said, "were asked what he would take, what would you say? Heaven? What would heaven be without God there? You would soon be so lonely without Him that you would not know what to do. We cannot live without God."

Dr. Ross urged the men to accept Christ as their leader, and put him first in their lives, so that they might come to know God.

In New St. James'.

At New St. James' Church yesterday morning a splendid children's service was held. The children occupied the choir gallery and front seats of the church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers. A pretty feature was a number of birds in cages, which were placed about the church, and sang loudly. The service was in charge of Superintendent McCrimmon, and an address that was greatly enjoyed was given to the children by Rev. Archibald Cullens. During the service the children sang a number of hymns in splendid voice.

A SPANISH ATTEMPT TO SWINDLE LONDONER

Mr. R. R. Bland Hears of a Tremendous Fortune in Alicante.

Mr. R. R. Bland, the well-known Dundas street merchant, appears to be attracting people in Spain, who are out to make easy money. In fact, Mr. Bland is debating within himself whether to feel hurt or flattered because of the receipt of a letter from someone who thinks he is the sort of person who would jump at an invitation to send several hundred dollars across the pond, with a view to reaping a rich reward in the way of sharing in the estate of a relative. The other day Mr. Bland was handed a letter by the postman.

It was postmarked Alicante, Spain, and in addition bore something which Mr. Bland avers read like "Bullfightloweylerlafamaa, Guinaldio." However that may be, the latter came from Queen Victoria's country—that is the new Queen Victoria—and it proved to be a very clever sample of European swindling. It is English, and is as follows:

The Spider and the Fly.

Madrid, the 12 June, 1910.

Mr. R. R. Bland:

My dear Sir,—Found mysel in a very grave, situation and I cannot resolve it. I take the liberty to make you a proposition although I am know to you when I consign you that my mother was Miss Mary Bland, your near kinswoman you will see our relationship.

More Letters.

Mr. Bland says the person named is no relative of his. He has instituted inquiries, but has been unable to learn how his name reached the would-be swindlers. Several other Londoners have received similar letters. The fortunes remain at six figures; the helpless child is referred to, and the offer is made to divide the vast estate.

"It's Spanish all right," Mr. Bland said. "But they won't get me to bite at that onion."

FIGHT PICTURES COST $200,000

All But Gleason Have Sold Their Rights to Syndicate.

BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED

Visitors Complain of Long Hike to Johnson's Camp—Jeffries Favorite in Betting.

(Associated Press.)

Reno, Nev., June 23.—The right to secure a pictorial report of the "battle of the century," will cost $200,000. That is an estimate based on the price of their respective shares, agreed upon by Jeffries, Johnson and Promoter Tex Rickard. Jack Gleason, Rickard's partner, in staging the big fight, is said to be the only one of those interested in the picture proceeds who has not disposed of his share of the prospective profits. Tex Rickard last midnight definitely announced the sale of his and Jeffries' interest in the pictures for $100,000 cash, the sum having been placed on deposit in a Reno bank pending the fulfillment of a signed contract.

William Rock, representing an eastern syndicate, won the contest for the shares with a bid that topped by $15,000 an offer reported made yesterday afternoon by San Franciscans and, according to Rickard, hardly had he and Jeffries attached their signatures to the agreement drawn up by Rock's attorney than the Californians rushed in with another bid of $105,000. Jeffries is to receive two-thirds and Rickard one-third of the $100,000.

According to the amended fight articles, Jeffries and Johnson are the joint owners of the picture rights, and each is bound to turn over to the promoters one-third of the profits each received therefrom. With the picture rights split between rival syndicates, as now seems to be the case, it is likely that two sets of films will be made. In order to carry out the terms of their contracts all Jeffries and Johnson are required to do is to enter the ring here July 4th and begin fighting. Rickard is required to use all his best efforts to see that the fighters come together. All other responsibility develops upon the picture men.

Big Crowd Expected.

Tex Rickard said this morning that according to information which he has received from the Southern Pacific headquarters, he is inclined to believe that no diminution in the number of fight visitors will result from the change of battleground from San Francisco to Reno. The promoters estimates that the crowd that will witness the contest will be 17,000.

Many complaints are being made by visitors desirous of inspecting Jack Johnson's training quarters and seeing the champion work, because of the inaccessibility of his camp. To reach the road house where Johnson is quartered it is necessary to secure an automobile or some other conveyance, as it is entirely off the line of the local trolley system, and is far out of reasonable walking distance.

Moana Springs, however, is touched almost directly by Reno's street cars, and for that reason Jeffries camp is expected to draw a much larger number of visitors than Johnson's. This condition of affairs is a source of regret both to Jeffries and Johnson, for Jeffries dislikes above all things to work in public. On the other hand nothing delights Johnson more than a big crowd and it has come to be regarded as an established peculiarity.

Very little betting is going on in Reno. The gambling houses are posting odds of 10 to 6 on Jeffries, but no large amounts have been reported at these figures, and it is not regarded as likely that there will be any considerable amounts put up until within a day or two of the battle.

"BEATING IT" TO RENO

Blind Baggage and Bumpers Crowded With Fight Fans.

Reno, June 27.—Promoter Rickard is endeavoring to take a much-needed rest from his feverish activities of last ten days.

He is concerning himself principally with the sale of tickets and the building of the arena. Reno is rapidly filling up with the vanguard of the fight crowd. Every train puts down its quota of visitors and the number of arrivals is expected to increase steadily from now on until the 4th.

The main invasion, it is expected, will begin about Friday. Among the newcomers are not a few adventurous youths from the coast, who have managed to elude vigilant trainmen while riding on the bumpers and blind baggage. On one of the overland trains from San Francisco yesterday twenty of these knights of the road were captured by railroad detectives at Summit, near the snow sheds.

OVERTIME GAME WON BY THE STARS

Defeat St. Thomas Team in a Fine 11-Innings' Battle on Saturday.

The Stars won the opening game of the season from St. Thomas at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon, after a fight which lasted for eleven innings, by a score of 6 to 5. The game was a pitchers' battle throughout, and up to the end of the eighth it looked St. Thomas all over, as Beasant had not allowed London to score at all. St. Thomas had managed to secure four. The P. M. boys got one in the first inning, when Knight, who was first up, was hit and went to second when Cochrane sent a hot one at Tether, who fumbled it, allowing Cochrane to get to first. Gatecliffe bunted neatly along the third base line. Beasant hit over third and Knight was thrown out at the plate. Kitchen a moment later sent a hot one over third, scoring Cochrane. Gatecliffe was caught at third and Smith flew out to centre. St. Thomas got another in the sixth when Gatecliffe drew a pass. Beasant hit to Perkins, who threw Gatecliffe out, and then threw the ball to Jeffries in time to get Beasant and make a double play. Kitchen hit safely over third and scored when Smith hit over second. Mitchell was thrown out on a hit over short. In the eighth St. Thomas added two more. Cochrane hit over second, Gatecliffe got a base on balls, but was thrown out when Beasant hit to Perkins, who threw to first, getting a double play. Cochrane went to third on the play and scored a moment later, when Kitchen hit safely to short. Kitchen scored on a two-bagger to centre by Smith. Mitchell was thrown out at first, retiring the side.

London Scores.

Up to this time London hadn't a look-in, but in their half of the eighth took the lead by scoring five runs. Daniels hit a nice one to left. Males, who batted for Tether, hit safely to centre, sending Daniels to second. Beaton hit over second, advancing each of the runners a sack. Watty Jeffries bunted, scoring Daniels, and a moment later Males came in when Beasant made a balk. There was a lengthy argument over this, but the umpire allowed it to stand and play resumed. C. Jeffries hit safely, scoring Beaton, and W. Jeffries scored on a wild throw to third. C. Jeffries was caught trying to get to third. Dinsmore was thrown out at first, and Tozer hit an easy one to short. Mitchell threw wild and Tozer trotted to third, scoring when Gibson hit over short. Perkins was thrown out at first, retiring the side.

JIM AND SULLIVAN NOW GOOD FRIENDS

Reno, June 25.—John L. Sullivan came out to Jeffries' camp again today and found the latch string out. It was a decided contrast to his experience of yesterday. James J. Corbett today greeted the old champion with a hearty handshake, and when Sullivan went into the rubbing-room, where Jeffries was stretched out on a slab, the big fellow held out his hand, and John L. shook it warmly, saying: "Hello, young fellow! By heavens, you're looking fine."

"And I am strong, too," said Jeffries.

Then the two former champions had an affable talk, after which Sullivan returned to Reno.

SOCCER FOOTBALL

Brucefield Beats Brussels in Semi-Final Intermediate Series.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Brucefield, June 25.—The third game of the semi-final intermediate series, W. F. A., was played on the recreation park at Brussels, last night, when the husky intermediates of that place went down to defeat before the Brucefield Rovers by a score of 1—0. The game throughout was exceptionally fast, but during the first half the home team were totally outclassed. At half time no goals were scored, but five minutes before full time, W. Turner shot, and this broke the tie. The return match will be played in Brucefield on Monday evening, June 27. J. McCutcheon, of Stratford, acted as referee to the satisfaction of all.

SUNDAY CROWDS GO TO PORT STANLEY

Pere Marquette Inaugurates Its Sunday Service—Over 700 passengers.

The Pere Marquette Sunday service to Port Stanley was inaugurated yesterday, and from 730 to 750 people took in the trip to the lakeside.

The first train left at 9:45 a.m., and contained 7 coaches, all of which were well filled. The afternoon traffic was particularly heavy, about 480 passengers going down. The evening train was not heavily loaded.

St. Thomas sent a large number down. The Pere Marquette carried something over 300 passengers from the Railroad City. The Traction Company did a large business. Every Sunday they have taken down to Port about 1,000 people from London and St. Thomas, and yesterday the crowd was the largest since the cars began to run. Over 1,200 people were carried to the Port from London and St. Thomas.

The majority of the excursionists took baskets with them, and picnicked on the heights and along the beach. No attempt was made to run any of the amusement devices.

THE FLOWER SHOW

Tuesday and Wednesday Will be Big Days at the City Hall.

The Horticultural Society has been holding flower shows semi-annually now for ten years, and this week they look for one of the best since the inauguration of the society.

Tuesday and Wednesday, June 28 and 29, are the days set down for the show, which will be held in the city hall.

The show is free, the society's idea being entirely educational. The desire is to educate people along horticultural lines and have them come and see the various kinds of flowers.

Two of the most important exhibitors again this year will be the Hospital for the Insane and the waterworks, who generally have a good showing of perennial and herbaceous plants.

The officers of the society this year are: A. O. Jeffrey, president, and W. W. Gammage, secretary.

OFF FOR RENO

New York Sporting Men Leaving In Large Numbers For Fight.

[Associated Press.]

New York, June 27.—The exodus of sporting men to Reno is now on. Large numbers of easterners left here today for the Jeffries-Johnson fighting ground, and by Wednesday all will have departed who intend to witness the championship mill.

Opinion of the outcome still favors Jeffries, but there has been little betting, most of those intending to wager preferring to place their money at the ringside, where they can obtain the latest information on the fighting form of the combatants.

John E. Madden and Tom O'Rourke, two of the best known managers and trainers of pugilists in the country, are strong in their opinions that Jeffries will win, while Joe Humphries says he is rooting for Jeffries, but doubts whether the white man can do the trick.
