BRAVE DEAD MAKE IT SACRED GROUND

Abandonment by British and Canadian Troops Would Have Exposed Brave Belgians to Crushing Attacks—Enemy Still Shelling Ruins of Once Prosperous City.

What advice did Canada's last minister of militia offer to the late Kitchener of Khartoum, British secretary of state for war, in regard to the wisdom of "hanging on" to the famous Ypres salient? And how did the gallant and revered Kitchener take this advice? This latter question may never be answered. In the following article our British representative, Mr. F. A. McKenzie, in a recent war correspondent, who has recently returned from the British front, answers the question, "Was Ypres Worth While?" Mr. McKenzie has visited Ypres in various stages of its chaotic ruination by German shells, and is well fitted to answer the question. The article has been passed by the British censor at Army Headquarters in France.

(BY F. A. MCKENZIE.)

British Army Headquarters in Belgium, Nov. 3, 1916. Ypres is a closed chapter for Canada. Our forces today are fighting on the Somme. The fortunes of war may, it is true, take us back northwards again, but the record of Canada's army from February, 1915, to September, 1916, on the "bloody salient" stands by itself, a unique period of our history.

Now that the fierce days of our northern battles are only a memory, men at home are, I am told, beginning to ask themselves if it was worth while. For a year and a half the Canadians fought on in and near the salient, barely holding their own. To the north they were obliged to yield considerable territory. Even at Hooge the miserable little bit of which we still hold, forms the village itself is no longer within our lines. Further south our front is practically as it was when we gained. Eighteen months of sacrifice and what to show for it? Were the amateur critics right who declared it folly to hold a position such as this, where the enemy could rain death down

German-Bulgarian Army Continues To Fall Back Before Russ-Rumanian Forces—In Transylvanian Fighting Rumanians Are Compelled To Retire, Resisting Stubbornly.

Petrograd, Nov. 16.—(Via London, 2:10 p.m.)—The war office announces that Field Marshal von Mackensen's army is in retreat in Dobruja, burning villages as it falls back. On the Transylvanian front, in the region of Campulung, Rumania, fierce fighting is in progress. An artillery bombardment is proceeding all along the Russian front, the war office reports.

RUMANIANS RETIRED. [Canadian Press.]
Bucharest, Nov. 16.—(Via London, 2:30 p.m.)—Rumania's forces operating in Southern Transylvania yesterday, retired towards Areful and Raduceni in the Alt valley, and in the direction of Capaciocasa, in the Jiu Valley, according to an official statement issued today by the Rumanian war department.

STUBBORN RESISTANCE. [Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—(Via Sayville, N.Y.)—Russian troops in strong force attacked the Austro-German lines east of the Putna valley, on the Western Moldavia border, the war office announced today in its statement on the campaign against Rumania. The attacks were fruitless, the announcement declares. The Rumanians also attacked in the Otus Pass region but here also failed of success.

The Rumanians are offering stubborn resistance to the Austro-German advance along the pass roads into Wallachia. The invading forces, however, made progress in the Rothenthurn and Sanduk regions and captured yesterday more than 1,200 prisoners.

THE GERMAN STATEMENT. [Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—(Via Sayville, N.Y.)—The text of the German statement regarding operations on the Transylvanian front reads:

"Transylvanian east front: To the east of the Putna valley strong Russian attacks failed.

"North of Luita Austro-Hungarian detachments made a reconnoitering raid against Mount Alina.

"Near Somoze in the Otus Pass region, the Rumanian attacks were without success.

"The activity north of Campulung increased. Along the roads leading southward through Rothenthurn and Sanduk Passes the Rumanians tenaciously defended their own territory. We made progress yesterday and captured five officers and more than 1,200 soldiers."

DENOUNCE PEACE MOVES

Those Working for Separate Arrangements Declared To Be Criminals.

WILL FIGHT TO FINISH

Little Satisfaction for Russian Pro-Germans in Opening of Russ House.

[Canadian Press.]
Petrograd, Nov. 16.—The Russian Parliament resumed its sitting on Tuesday. Throughout the country the opening session was eagerly awaited as a number of questions have arisen which urgently require discussion, and it was hoped the Duma would be able to throw light on the present unplicated political situation. In both Houses strong, interesting speeches were made, and there were dramatic incidents which conditions of telegraphing prevent my describing in full. One thing is clear, the Germans will find no ground for satisfaction in Tuesday's session. Both Houses were emphatic in declaring the necessity of fighting the war to a victorious finish.

No Separate Peace. The very severe criticism levelled against the Government was to remove these causes which prevent the action devoted all its energies to the successful prosecution of the war. One of the principal speakers of the Right characterized those men who advocated the idea of a separate peace as state criminals.

The state gave a most effective reply to the malicious statements recently circulated by pro-Germans against England. When Rodzianko, in his speech, expressed gratitude and loyalty to the Allies, one deputy cried: "Long live England!" and a tremendous ovation was given to Sir George Buchanan, the British ambassador. The whole House rose and cheered.

Government Criticized. In a declaration of the Progressive bloc, composed of a majority of the Duma, a special passage was devoted to the service of England to the common cause. The main theme of the speech was the necessity of a change of system which would bring the Government in closer touch with public opinion. The most moderate criticism of the Government was that made by National Leader Baleschko, who emphasized the lack of plan and unity on the part of the Government.

"The constant change of personnel," he said, "the publication of ill considered and inconsistent measures, inefficient use of local government organs, and a wholly impermissible conflict of authority have created a situation very dangerous for further progress of the fighting line, and extremely favorable to a display of predatory instincts."

Weighty Statements. A very weighty declaration of the Progressive bloc pointed out the action of the Government during the last year created serious impediments to a successful prosecution of the war. The leader of the Constitutional Democrats, M. Ilyukoff, made a remarkable and very powerful speech which was listened to with the closest attention by the whole Duma.

Of particular interest were those passages in which he described the tendencies of Russian diplomacy during the last three months. His speech is not published in the report of the Duma sitting. Things were said Tuesday that cannot be forgotten, or lightly passed over, and the further development of the relations between the Government and the Duma is a matter of highest interest, not only to Russia but to all the Allies.

Viscount Grev Is Invited To Enlist By Johnny Canuck

Corp. Ed. Penny Present at Funny Scene in London.

The following story is told by Corporal Ed. Penny, of No. 5 Stationary Hospital, and a former newspaperman of this city, in a recent letter to friends in the city. The incident occurred when he was in London, England.

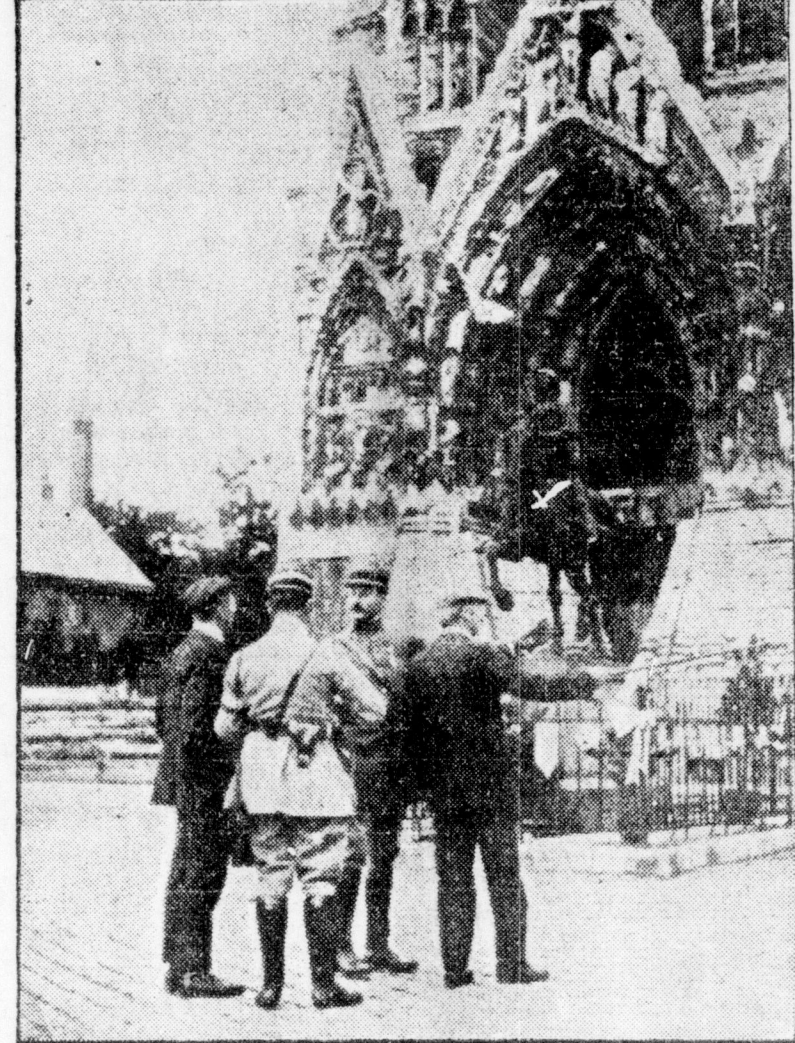

"This morning one of our boys, here on leave also, was seated on a bench near Trafalgar Square, when he noticed a neatly dressed young man approaching. The following dialogue ensued, and it's true—so help me."

"Canuck (in loud voice): 'Say, that young fellow would look nice in khaki! A smile from the stranger, but an awestruck whisper from a nearby hobby, 'S'hit! Do you know who he is? The Viscount Grev?'"

"Exit Canuck, but much mirth on my part."

British Navy Has Doubled in Strength Since War's Start

Leader N. W. Rowell, K.C., Tells Canadian and Rotary Clubs of Experiences in Europe—Brings Optimistic and Appealing Messages From Front.

That Great Britain's great hope in the world war was the navy, was the keynote of an address delivered by N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., at a joint luncheon of the Canadian and Rotary Clubs at noon today. He was equally emphatic in declaring that this hope would be realized. The navy was increasing in strength and effectiveness daily. Its numbers had doubled since war broke out. New ships were being added continually, and it was threatening to Germany and her allies. Speaking of the heroism of the British navy, he declared that this hope would be realized. The navy was increasing in strength and effectiveness daily. Its numbers had doubled since war broke out. New ships were being added continually, and it was threatening to Germany and her allies. Speaking of the heroism of the British navy, he declared that this hope would be realized.

The recent presence of a German submarine off our Atlantic coast, torpedoing merchant vessels sailing from New York, and German battleships off our Pacific coast at the outbreak of the war, are terrible reminders of the danger to which we are exposed by the navy.

Following is the text of Mr. Rowell's address:

"The recent presence of a German submarine off our Atlantic coast, torpedoing merchant vessels sailing from New York, and German battleships off our Pacific coast at the outbreak of the war, are terrible reminders of the danger to which we are exposed by the navy."

In a very weighty declaration of the Progressive bloc pointed out the action of the Government during the last year created serious impediments to a successful prosecution of the war.

The leader of the Constitutional Democrats, M. Ilyukoff, made a remarkable and very powerful speech which was listened to with the closest attention by the whole Duma.

Of particular interest were those passages in which he described the tendencies of Russian diplomacy during the last three months. His speech is not published in the report of the Duma sitting.

Things were said Tuesday that cannot be forgotten, or lightly passed over, and the further development of the relations between the Government and the Duma is a matter of highest interest, not only to Russia but to all the Allies.

When the war broke out our navy consisted of about 600 fighting ships of all classes. According to published statements we had 70 battleships, 34 armored cruisers, 67 protected cruisers, 227 destroyers, 199 torpedo boats, and 15,000 and 160,000 sailors. Taking the corresponding classes of ships, Germany had about 337. I do not know that a comparison of numbers gives us the relative strength of the two navies, because there is such a large variation between ships of the same class; but it will give us some idea of the general naval situation.

We also had certain important ships under construction, and after the outbreak of the war the admiralty requisitioned a large part of the merchant marine. Not less than 5,000 merchant ships were taken over by the admiralty for the purposes of this war, with the crews running up into the hundreds of thousands.

They also took over travelers and fishing vessels to the number of not less than three thousand; and on the trawlers and fishing vessels were the sturdy fishermen of England, Scotland and Ireland, not necessarily limited to the navy age.

The men who knew the sea and were able to live upon it under all conditions of weather were called up, and we now have a fleet of military age.

It is therefore, you would understand, our real naval strength at the outbreak of the war, you must include, not only the navy as such, but also the 3,000 merchant ships brought into use as auxiliaries.

Hun Pressmen Praise Great British Dash

[Canadian Press.]
New York, Nov. 16.—A news agency dispatch from Amsterdam today says: Correspondents for German newspapers stationed on the western front pay tribute to the dash and strategic soundness of the British attacks in newspapers received here today.

The Tagesblatt correspondent observes that the British have "shrewdly concentrated their men, whom they are employing advantageously now."

The Lokal Anzeiger remarks that the British gains are considerable, but it cannot be denied that the lost German positions have been long fortified. The correspondent concludes that the gains only show that by wasting material destroyed positions are always conquerable.

FRENCH AGAIN IN POSSESSION OF PRESOIRE

Village That Was Captured by Germans Quickly Won Back.

FIGHTING IS FEROCIOUS

Three Divisions of Foe Badly Cut Up in Wednesday Battle.

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, Nov. 16.—(Noon)—The French last night recaptured the portion of the village of Pressoire, on the Somme front, which the Germans occupied yesterday, the war office announced.

The announcement follows: "North of the Somme the enemy did not renew his attempts against our front."

"South of the Somme we made attack during the night against the eastern portion of Pressoire, which had been occupied by the enemy. Here the French troops resisted with admirable energy, and thanks to the tenacity coupled with the determination of our troops we drove the Germans from the village."

A ferocious fight. At the end of a ferocious fight under a bombardment of extreme violence Pressoire is now entirely in our possession, and our gains of November 7 have been in all respects maintained. According to recent information the enemy, who were brought forward to take part in this attack forces belonging to three different divisions, suffered very heavy losses as a result of the serious check we put upon him.

"To the west of Rheims a surprise attack on the part of the enemy upon one of our trenches, following a preparatory artillery fire, resulted in failure under our curtain of fire. There is nothing to report from the remainder of the front."

CONSIDERABLE SHELLING

[Canadian Press.]
London, Nov. 16, 12:10 p.m.—"During the night there was considerable enemy shelling of our battlefield north and south of the Ancre," says a statement from the war office today. "Otherwise there is nothing to report."

HUN AIR REPRISALS

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—(Via Sayville, N.Y.)—The text of the German official statement issued today reporting operations on the western front says:

"In hand house-to-house fighting we wrested from the French the eastern part of Sailly.

"In the fighting yesterday in the sector of Abbeville-Presnoire the line was unchanged.

"Thirty-nine Belgians were victims of a hostile air attack on Ostend. As a reprisal against the bombing of peaceful Lorraine villages, Nancy, on the course of the last few days, has been shelled and bombed."

THE GERMAN REPORT. [Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—(Via Sayville, N.Y.)—Wireless attacks by British troops on the German lines along the zone from Mally to Serre and also to the southeast of Beaumont, north of the River Ancre, were beaten off by the Germans in hand grenade fighting, the war office announced today.

German troops, which were defending the positions, sustained considerable losses, the survivors being captured or taking refuge in flight.

The prisoners already counted, the correspondent says, are 500 soldiers, two officers and five cadets. Details in regard to the amount of war materials taken have not been received.

HOW BERLIN PUTS IT

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—(Via Sayville, N.Y.)—The retirement of German-Bulgarian troops in Macedonia to new positions prepared for them in the Cerna region, is announced today by the war office.

BRITISH WON THIS

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, Nov. 16.—On the eastern end of the line British troops have again assumed the offensive, defeating the Bulgarians in the region of the River Struma, and capturing the village of Karakusa.

During the night the Bulgarians abandoned their principal positions west of the Cerna River. The French and Serbians took 400 prisoners and made progress toward Yaraschok, in the Cerna bend west of Monastir.

South of Monastir the French and Russians are reported to be making substantial progress. It is in this region to the north of Kossali, that they have advanced to within four miles of Monastir.

WHOLE SYSTEM CAPTURED

[Canadian Press.]
London, Nov. 16.—(1:44 a.m.)—Telegraphing from the headquarters of the French army at Saloniki, under date of November 15, the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says:

"Fighting at some places was very desperate, the men being up to their necks in water and mud."

"During the night the enemy counter attacked, recovering a portion of the trenches, but early this morning he abandoned the whole of his front line, retiring upon the Bistrica River."

SUB CAPTAIN DENIES SHELLING THE LIFEBOATS

[Canadian Press.]
Berlin, Nov. 16.—By Wireless to the Associated Press, Via Sayville, Nov. 16.—Assertions that the German submarine which sank the British ship Rowanmore on which there were several Americans, fired upon lifeboats containing members of the crew, are dismissed as utterly false in the report of the commander of the submarine, further details of which became known today. In fact, it is said the men on the Rowanmore owe their lives to the precautions taken by the Germans and the skill with which their operations were carried out. During the twenty minutes' pursuit of the steamship the submarine's shots were aimed accurately astern to limit the danger to the crew, which was congregated at the bow. The Rowanmore was hit ten times, the last shell disabling the propeller.

Allies Have Retired to Second Line Trenches There After Assaults.

BUCHAREST, via London, Nov. 15.—From the border of the state department's action in instructing the American charge at Berlin to communicate with the German foreign office on the subject of deportation of Belgians, brought out a flood of inquiries today for details and explanations of the department's action.

Secretary Lansing repeated the department's action as it was set out in last night's dispatches, and made this statement:

"The United States has not made an official protest to Germany, but has suggested to her what a bad effect on neutral opinion, particularly in the United States, such action might have. The instructions to Charge Grew to discuss the matter with Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, were sent at the suggestion of the Belgian Government. The American action was not meant in any sense to be a criticism of the German Government's policy. We do not know the full facts in the situation, and cannot form judgment until we hear them."

"In the Prashova Valley there has been a terrible artillery bombardment. The enemy again attacked on several occasions, being assisted by heavy artillery, but everywhere has been repulsed. Our troops are maintaining their positions."

"In the valley of the Alt the enemy, having received reinforcements, obliged our troops to yield a little ground towards Salatrava and Brezilo."

"In the valley of the Jiu the enemy's attack has been continued with violence, and in spite of counter-attacks our troops have been obliged to fall back towards their second-line trenches."

"Southern front: In the area there has been an exchange of infantry fire and an artillery bombardment all along the river."

"Occupied Boasie. In Dobruja we occupied the village of Boasie on the Danube, and progressed along the whole front."

"Aviation: During the last two or three days the enemy has again displayed notable activity. Enemy machines have flown over Turmu, Magurele, Zimnita, the region of Giurgiu, Tucea, Campulung, Sinalia, Roman, and dropped bombs, causing slight damage. They dropped bombs on the capital and its environs, killing and wounding peaceable inhabitants, especially women and children."

"A great number of bombs were dropped over the palace where the queen and princess of Rumania were formerly living. Fortunately they had left after the death of Prince Ferdinand."

"Fired at Civilian Population. On various occasions, especially yesterday, enemy aviators flew over small towns and villages, descending to a very low altitude, throwing bombs, and fired with machine guns on the peaceable population in the streets or working in the fields."

INDIAN PATRIARCH OF WALPOLE ISLAND BURIED, AGED 115

Pe-To-Geecic Recalled When Scalps Sold for $5.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
DETROIT, Nov. 15.—Pe-To-Geecic, an Indian of Walpole Island, who claimed he was 115 years old, is dead. Pe-To-Geecic was an international character, whose picture was studied by the lovers of Indian lore even in England. Although born in America, he would never recognize the United States, who, he claimed had usurped his rights.

In 1911 Capt. William Leonard of Sombra, Ont., a student of Indian life, was introduced to the Indian by Joseph White, the Indian chief of Walpole Island, in St. Clair River—a man who had been educated at Brantford, Ont. There, he learned an interesting story of the centenarian's life.

Maintaining a clear mind until his death, Pe-To-Geecic, through an interpreter, talked freely of his past experiences. A faint suspicion of a chuckle was heard when he told of the time when $5 per head was paid for the scalps of Americans taken right on the site of Detroit. He remembered a visit made to Detroit before the trading post surrendered to Hull in 1812.

Five generations assembled on the hills of the Sincere River this morning, where he was buried with his forefathers. Mr. Brigham officiated at the burial, giving the Anglican ceremony.

CANADA FOR THE EMPIRE.

Monroton, N.B., Nov. 15.—"We must save Canada for the Empire," was the keynote of addresses here tonight by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Ontario minister of forests, lands and mines, and Hon. G. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer of Ontario, before the Canadian Club. They pointed out that the great problem of this country after the war will be the securing of suitable settlers and then the Canadianizing of these settlers, and then they spoke of the steps which Ontario is taking to improve the educational facilities by introducing vocational training, special agricultural schools, etc.

London, Nov. 15.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Budapest says: The Prussian Gen. Grandmont has been appointed aide-de-camp to Emperor Francis Joseph. On the other hand, the political leaders view the appointment with jubilation, urging that the new appointee will exercise a wholesome influence in opposition to the group of alleged military intrigues at court.

EVACUATE EXPOSED TRENCHES AFTER HEAVY ASSAULTS

Italians First Repulsed Five Austrian Attacks.

ENEMY LOST HEAVILY

Driven Back at San Marco, But Artillery Fire Made Position Untenable.

ROME, via London, Nov. 15.—Italian troops were compelled to evacuate some of their more exposed trenches on the San Marco, east of Gorizia, yesterday after repulsing five Austro-Hungarian attacks on an Italian salient at Two Pines House, says today's war office announcement. The statement follows:

"Trentino front: There was artillery activity. Movements of the enemy in the region between the Adige and Asa valleys continued."

"Julian front: There was desultory artillery action at several points on the upper and middle Isonzo. On the San Marco, east of Gorizia, at daybreak yesterday, three battalions of the enemy, supported by heavy artillery, attacked a salient of our line at Two Pines House. Five determined attacks successively were driven off with heavy loss to the enemy."

"The Austrians then subjected our position to heavy bombardment with shells and gas, in consequence of which it was found advisable during the afternoon to evacuate some of our more exposed trenches. On the Asa, we again repulsed our line by an advance at several points, taking some prisoners."

"During last night enemy airplanes dropped bombs around Aquila, killing two soldiers and wounding four women and children. One of the latter aircraft promptly attacked the floating hangars of the aggressors at Prosecco and on the pier at Trieste, both of which were bombed with marked success."

"Enemy airplanes were active in the Gorizia sector, but their bombs caused no damage."

"The best of feeling and harmony prevailed."

Get Vote Before British Sisters

Netherlands Parliament Remove Sex Disability, But Ballot Still Indefinite.

THE HAGUE, via London, Nov. 15.—By unanimous vote Parliament has passed a resolution providing for the amendment of article 3, of the constitution so that henceforth there will be universal manhood suffrage and no plural votes or compulsory voting.

The sex disability of women is also removed by the resolution. The actual granting of the vote to women, however, is still distant, as it depends on the passing of an electoral bill, which at present is unlikely.

Early in the present year Premier Cort Van Der Linden of the Netherlands introduced a bill in Parliament under the provisions of which the constitutional obstacles in the way of women's right to vote would be removed. The bill also included a provision giving women the right to be elected to office.

Not hesitate to say that such is the case of a personal investigation, I am convinced that this is true. The mismanagement of the T. and O. is the direct cause of this terrible loss, and the Government will have to bear the responsibility. Millions of money have been wasted in this country, and it has been bled of its life. We do not want to know where the money goes. We do not want to know where the money goes. We do not want to know where the money goes."

APPOINT THE BEST MAN.

IT IS TO BE Hon. Mr. Kemp or
Gen. Lessard as minister of military.

The first-named is a manufacturer
whose business has been handling war contracts; the second is regarded, and no doubt with justification, as the foremost colonial soldier in the Empire.

The Government may choose Lessard, believing that it may save itself, and have a capable man as successor to Sir Sam Hughes. If the Government chooses Gen. Lessard it will be in a spirit of making reparation for the petty treatment accorded that soldier
by Sir Sam Hughes. It will also show
a desire to seek the man for the place,
rather than the place for the man.

Gen. Lessard, compared with Mr.
Kemp, would seem to leave no question
as to the proper choice.

The Advertiser knows that it speaks for all Liberals when it declares that the great party which it represents as a Western Ontario newspaper wishes to see the Government choose the best man for the place, no matter what political advantage may accrue to that Government.

STRANGE—THESE FIRES.

SCORES AND SCORES of fires have occurred in many counties of Western Ontario since harvest time. The latest outbreaks have been in several parts of Oxford County, and the people of the communities concerned are strong in the belief that firebugs, and in all probability firebugs financed and directed by the German central organization across the border, have been guilty of causing the fires. The presence of metallic objects in the ruins of several buildings has been unexplained, as have been explosions, and it is strongly the belief of some people in Oxford County that German agents who enter the country of motive war reciprocity (a good thing if it does not lead to abuse) have set incendiary bombs, equipped with time fuses in the barns.

The Advertiser has reported upwards of sixty fires to farmers' barns, and in the majority of cases the cause has never been explained. Strangers have been seen in many places where fires
have occurred, but, of course, strangers are always in the country. A system of passports may yet be necessary.

Some time after the first few fires,
The Advertiser issued a warning to all farmers to be on the look-out for suspicious characters. That warning must be sounded again, and in louder tones. The farmers and police authorities of every community should be on the qui vive, and the provincial police should give the most active co-operation. The man who establishes the cause of these fires will be doing his country and his neighbors a great service.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY.

ONE OF THE MOST serious financial results of the war has been the cost of newspaper. English papers contemplate raising the price. All over America the problem is serious. This applies to both Canada and the United States.

In this connection, it has been claimed that the pulp woods of Canada are practically inexhaustible. They reproduce themselves every ten years. It is also claimed that Canada can supply the world with newsprint.

Canada should not neglect this opportunity. It is a world-wide one. It is a question the Government should carefully consider, and adopt the course
that will bring the greatest benefit to Canada.

Canada should not neglect this opportunity. It is a world-wide one. It is a question the Government should carefully consider, and adopt the course
that will bring the greatest benefit to Canada.

HOLD TO THE HOME TOWN!

WHY DO THE EDUCATED, enterprising, young men and women of Canada leave their home towns and cities to seek a living in the larger cities of Canada and the United States? This is a question which often bothers the minds of citizens, and yet one which is never practically answered. If the migrating youth were asked such a question, he would have his answer
ready. "There is nothing for me here."
And the citizen, if he is inactive and lacks civic vision, would agree with him.
Why will you let the best blood of your community strengthen the stream in other channels? There is something for them here, if you will only point it out.
Convince them that they will make the most of their lives in their home town,
and tell them that their duty lies there,
but pronounce the word duty gently, so that it does not antagonize.

This same question has been disturbing the men of Milford, New Hampshire,
but with this difference: they felt that the problem must be faced and started an active campaign against the depletion of their best resources. At the instigation of P. R. Woodman of the Milford Board of Trade, a committee was formed to counsel the young people, then graduating from their schools, and to show them
what splendid business opportunities were available in their home town of Milford. The result was that, although a large percentage had been contemplating work in a foreign field,

everyone of the Milford young people
then in college, decided to remain in Milford.

Why could we not apply the "Milford Idea" in some Canadian communities?
Small cities and towns are retarded by the lack of a vigorous manhood and womanhood, while the large cities are congested by the constant inflow of humanity. Then, too, the energetic youth of the small town is often stunted amid the strenuous life of the city, and that energy which could have accomplished
much in the small community is lost to the world entirely.

Country communities are crying out
for leaders, and yet every year numbers of men and women who might take this leadership upon themselves leave the community. Humanity is so constituted that the majority of men are unable to accomplish their maximum work, unless under the impelling influence of a leader. The Government has realized the need of such leadership and spends thousands of dollars every year to educate the best of its youth, at but a nominal cost to them. It is therefore the duty of these young people to pay back to the country what they owe, by devoting their lives to leadership in their own district, and it is your duty
to keep them there.

How are you to do this? Haphazard advice is all very well, but youth will not pay any attention to it. Age has ever been giving advice to youth and youth has always scorned it. Organize your advisers. Let the young men see that you mean what you are talking about. Try the "Milford Idea" and see how it works.

The problem is serious enough to challenge all your civic loyalty. Remember that to help build up your own community, when you feel that you could do better abroad, is the highest form of patriotism.

INEVITABLE.

IT IS inevitable that Canadians will soon protest against the tariff arrangement that permits certain Canadian natural products to enter the United States free of duty, while this country maintains a high tariff against the goods of other countries.

This is one of the lean years, according to farmers, and as a result 50 cents per dozen for eggs and $2.50 per bag
for potatoes was asked in London on Saturday. Many housewives were observed returning with baskets empty
of anything but the cheapest vegetables. Rather than pay the high prices, they were depriving themselves
of some of the necessities of life.

When such a condition of affairs
confronts a country, it is the duty of a government to face it, and not only to face it, but to devise means of meeting
the crisis.

Both farmers and city people are entitled to special tariff concessions at the present time.

THE RUSE OF A CROOK.

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a burglar attempting to force entrance to a house. The owner of the house happened to be returning from a trip and arrived home late. As he saw the burglar opening his jimmy beneath a window frame, the honest citizen made a rush for the crook. The crook saw him coming and they grappled.

As they struggled, the crook saw a policeman running toward them. Quick witted, as he saw the net of the law
suspended above him, he cried: "Police!
Police!" The excited policeman reached for the honest citizen, and despite the protests of the latter, took him in charge. The crook believed that he could make his escape. And in the hubbub the honest man was getting the worst of it. But just then another officer arrived, and before the crook could get out of the way, he was nabbed. He was recognized as a notorious character. Shortly after he received his punishment.

Is there a parallel for the case of the crook who directed the police against the honest man in a recent incident in Canada?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dame Nature has now garbed her feet in white, the prevailing fashion.

Sir Sam Hughes will have his chance to repay the treachery he alleges is his portion at the next session of Parliament.

Sir Sam may call the numerous Hughes family to vote against the Government—which would be like naming the day of the funeral.

"Russia is impotent," says a German general. These diagnoses have usually been followed by the patient
getting up and handing the specialist
an awful wallop.

Sir Sam Hughes no longer matters
in the military concerns of the country; no matter what the cause of his dismissal, his successor should be the great question of the hour.

"I have closed my eyes to the petty intrigues and ambitions all about me," said Sir Sam Hughes. Closing one's eyes when the Rogers crowd is active
is not the better part of valor.

A wonderful expression of Liberal sentiment was heard at the West Elgin convention at Dutton yesterday. Never before in the history of their country have such men who gathered yesterday, many of them with sons in the trenches, felt the need for manning the trenches at home, and holding them against those who by their incompetence or indulgences would destroy the country from within.

"You take exception to the general character and tone of the letter," said Sir Robert, each one's manner is his own. It might be well if we could all possess your soft mannerism, but I am very much afraid, judging by all periods of history, that human liberty and human
progress would not make much advance, as they never had made much
advances, under such diplomatic forms
and utterances."—Sir Sam Hughes' last
letter to Sir Robert Borden.

Sir Sam appears to believe that we
have "pussfooters" among our Canadian leaders.

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang Let His Regular Train Go By Just To See if Mrs. Bang Wouldn't Make a Bee Line For Town With the $100 He'd Just Given Her

BY FONTAINE FOX

Just why Lavinia Payton was determined to carry out her plan in the face of angry opposition she could not have told. Probably it was due to the opposition. But this last idea, sad-discovery, whatever her friends were
minded to call it, passed anything that
had gone before.

Yet it was a very simple thing she
proposed to do—merely to shun the
beaten path that led toward White Sulphur Springs and go anywhere that
would take her away from the life her
people had led for generations and exposed her to live. White Sulphur or Saragat during the summer, Richmond
and Washington during the winter months, with frequent trips to New York.

When asked where she was going she shook her head with a smile. "I have no definite plan," she replied. "But far back in the recesses of her brain was a very positive idea. She was going somewhere by water and alone. She longed for Portugal or the fjords of Norway, but she sailed on the steamer for the fjords of Newfoundland,
the Norway of America."

The walk to Signal or Cabot's Tower, is not one to take alone. It is long. It is steep. The road follows the shore until it begins to ascend and is lonely.
When steamers come there is always a sprinkling of people, mostly driving toward the tower, where there is a magnificent view of the harbor and ocean. This and much more was told in the booklet Lavinia had learned by heart. But there was one grave ominion. Indeed, two, and a third, was wind, the other, mist. What was for in the city was a fine rain higher up,
and the wind was a gale.

She had felt wind before, but never like this. It whipped her wet skirt about her until she thought she would never move again. She tried to loosen them as she stumbled along the rocky path, her breath coming and going in gasp. Ahead was the tower, gray and sombre, built to defy the elements.
She saw a little group of people standing in an angle of the granite mass, one figure apart from the others and nearer to her. Then everything was blank.
She was conscious only of blind terror
as the wind caught and whirled her about. For a space, eternity seemed her, then the awfulness of the wind subsided and she found herself clinging desperately to the gray sleeve of an ulster.

"What made you attempt that alone?"
the man said roughly, giving her a little shake as he let her go. But Lavinia had no mind to be let go and clung to the arm that was left withdrawn.

"Don't dare to faint," the voice went on sharply. "Didn't you know Signal Hill was no place for a woman unless she had a man with her?"
"I don't know. The book said walk,
so I walked."
"Why didn't you bring some one with you?"
"I am alone."
"Surely you made friends coming up on the steamer?"
"No. That was just what I wanted to get away from everybody."
"Well, you missed it by the fraction of a second. Another such gust and you would have got away from everybody. I caught you just in time."
He left her in the angle of the wall and stepped forward, a tall, broad-shouldered, athletic-looking man with keen blue eyes and a determined mouth.

"Come," he said, extending his hand.
"You must see the view before we go."
She hesitated. "I am very much afraid," she said. "I am very much afraid, judging by all periods of history, that human liberty and human
progress would not make much advance, as they never had made much
advances, under such diplomatic forms
and utterances."—Sir Sam Hughes' last
letter to Sir Robert Borden.

Sir Sam appears to believe that we
have "pussfooters" among our Canadian leaders.

Just why Lavinia Payton was de-
termined to carry out her plan in the
face of angry opposition she could not
have told. Probably it was due to the opposition. But this last idea, sad-
discovery, whatever her friends were
minded to call it, passed anything that
had gone before.

Yet it was a very simple thing she
proposed to do—merely to shun the
beaten path that led toward White Sulphur Springs and go anywhere that
would take her away from the life her
people had led for generations and exposed her to live. White Sulphur or Saragat during the summer, Richmond
and Washington during the winter
months, with frequent trips to New York.

WAIT A MINUTE!

—By J. H. F.

Sir Sam Hughes may be dismissed, but he will not stay silent. The country is going to be full of conversations shortly.

An Atlantic City policeman was laid off for 30 days for going to sleep during one of Vice-President Marshall's speeches. The man was jobless, but he has an awful lot of sense.

A snake crawled out of a beer keg in a Pennsylvania town the other evening and broke up a party. It looks as if the snake got in bad company.

TO OUR DANCE HALL BRIGADE.
You giddy boys who frequent our dance
halls night by night,
Who are not too proud to fox trot, but
who are "too proud to fight,"
Must have souls so small they'd rattle
in the tiniest peanut shell.
Or you'd blush and seek seclusion in the bottom of some well.

Do you ever stop to think of chums
with whom you used to play,
Who have gone across the water to take part in the fray?
Large-hearted boys, with good red
blood, ready to do or die,
That their kin may live in safety, the good old flag still fly?

The boys there in the trenches, who send to you the call:
"Come on across and help us; you are wanted, one and all."
Leave dancing and frivolity, let trifling
matters go;
Shoulder to shoulder stand with us and help drive back the foe.

"You are needed. Ranks are thinning,
one by one we're 'going west.'
But we have done our duty, and we can calmly rest."
While you who stop your ears, and refuse to hear the call,
Your portion will be nothing short of wormwood and of gall.

"Though you live to be a hundred,
people will have in mind
That you shirked and passed up duty,
and put higher things behind;
And if—which God forbid—you slackers
lose for us the fight,
You will 'goose step' and not 'fox
trot,' and serve you blamed well right."

"Get up and get a move on; this is no
time to lay low;
When you're asked to put on khaki,
answer cheerily, 'Right-O!'
And you'll know the joy of living, and
the pride of being brave,
When you stand beside the boys who went our liberties to save."

There was a superstition that New

RED CROSS AND C. W. C. A.

ARE THE HOME FIRES BURNING? Just a few months ago they left us—our brave soldier-lads, who marched away so gallantly to the sound of the drum and the bugle, and now they are beginning to come back. They are not returning as they went—in gay battalions, strong and full of vigor. They are slipping back in small detachments, broken and frail and sick unto death—the shattered remnants of that glorious legion that have paid the full price of liberty and will never return. These wounded soldiers who are returning have given their health and strength to their country, and have doled themselves to a life of helplessness and pain that this land might be free from tyranny.

And what are we going to do with them? If we allow them to drag out the rest of their existence uncared for, then their sacrifice was all a hideous mistake, for their country was not worth saving. But surely this can never be. The heart of Canada still beats true. They will surely find the home fires burning brightly—fires that will never wane so long as those broken lives of our returned soldiers last.

There is an especial fire which the people of Western Ontario have been asked to kindle. Out beside the Byron Sanatorium the Government purposes erecting an hospital for the returned tubercular soldiers of this district. The Red Cross Society of this district has undertaken to furnish and equip this hospital, at a cost of $15,000. Every patriotic society and club and person in Western Ontario is asked to lend a hand in this most noble and necessary work. Perhaps of all our returned soldiers none is more pitiful than the boy who, in the exposure of trench life, has contracted the dread disease of tuberculosis. Surely we can do no less than give them the best we can possibly afford. After the bleakness of the battlefield, where they have been smitten down by a foe as cruel as the Hun, should they not find the home fires burning for them, the warmest and brightest that grateful hearts can kindle?

Here, there is the chance to light them. They are to be kindled on the hills of Byron, this very winter; so let everyone who has a warm heart bring his ragot, little or big, and add it to the pile until we have a blaze that will warm all Western Ontario.

It is always good to know that one's efforts after perfection are appreciated. From two overseas letters come encouraging words:

Capt. D. M. Foster of the Canadian Dental Clinic, Shorncliffe, writes an earnest word of thanks to the Red Cross Society for some operating gowns, and the secretary of the C. W. C. A. at headquarters in Old London writes:

"It is a very great pleasure to deal with the London, Ontario, C. W. C. A. You are so businesslike, and we are always sure of the cases being well packed, and containing excellent contributions."

On November 14, the Red Cross shipped as follows: Six boxes surgical supplies, 1 box boxes sheets, 1 box pillows, 5 boxes towels, 3 boxes helpless shirts, 4 boxes pajamas, 5 boxes grey flannel shirts, 4 boxes dressing gowns, 2 boxes comfort bags, 1 box bedsocks.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Bury the Crochet Hook.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been a silent reader of your Page, but now I feel that I must give vent to my feelings. I have seen so many letters lately asking for crochet patterns. I just wonder how anybody dare spend an hour or perhaps two each day, on such rot, when our soldiers are needing so many socks. The crochet hook should be buried in these terrible days of struggle; the soldiers are giving their lives for us, and this beautiful Canada of ours; the very least we can do is to make needles fly, both knitting and sewing for them. It is a wonder that women are not haunted by bloody battle fields, those who waste their time. And pray for the soldiers' wives, instead of talking about them. We should thank God for the blessings which are coming from day to day instead of crying hard times. I remain, your friend of the knitting needle, and proud that I am a CANADIAN.

"Elizabeth." Seaforth. Send the stamp and name, and I'll mail you a few that are on hand.

Sylvia's Self-Denial.

Dear Miss Grey,—Am I enclosing money for the Mail-Box Prisoners' Fund. I, for one, think it a splendid idea. Do you know, Miss Grey, I have made up my mind to attend no dances until our boys come marching home victorious; also, if I go at all, one show a week will be my limit. I have cut down my candy bill, and am going to make the most inexpensive Christmas boxes I can. I told one of my chums of my intentions and she immediately fell in line.

Could you inform me as to where I could get information on wireless telegraphy? It has always been a hobby of mine. My kind has agreed to help my chum and I if I get the books. Do they take inexperienced girls in wireless offices? Sincerely, SYLVIA PASKHURST.

Ans.—Any good encyclopedia gives the fundamental principles of wireless telegraphy, with diagrams and illustrations. Books recommended are "Condensed Manual of Wireless Telegraphy," and "Practical Wireless Telegraphy and Telephony." Any book store would order them for you. I do not believe, though, there is much of an opening for girls in the wireless operating field. Usually none but experienced telegraph operators are employed, and these have taken a special course in wireless work. But I'm sure it's an interesting hobby.

Take One and Trust.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am leaving today at the Advertiser office a pair of socks my mother made, to be sent, if possible, to one of the prisoners we are adopting. By all means take one or more especially for our own, and don't wait till the necessary funds are all in sight. Make the definite step and trust the funds to come forth needed. I know one society that did this. When the funds run a little low an announcement is made, and they have never fallen behind yet.

Ans.—Probably before your letter was penned that "definite step" had been taken, as you will note in the column on Monday (which announcement, by the way, was held over from last week). So far the necessary amount has not been pledged, but I am "trusting" that you shall make it up each month. As you will see elsewhere on this page, we have to wait until our prisoners' names are sent from England; then I shall at once mail your socks to one of them. Thanks, "Snowbird."

How Can He Wait?

De Miss Grey.—It is so long since I have read your Mail-Box that I find there is not very many of the old writers' letters in now. Well, Miss Grey, I attended the fair this year, and I must say that it was worth going to. We motored up and stayed two days, on Edward street.

I think, Miss Grey, that you are doing noble work for the "Soldiers," and I am including a little to help along the good work.

Would you kindly answer these questions:

1. How can a young man win a girl's affections?
2. Can anyone supply the poem "Somebody's Darling"? The first few lines of this are as follows:

Into the ward of the white-washed walls,
Where the dead and the dying lay,
3. Do you know how to cure skin blotches?

Has "One of Bunny's Fifteeners" written lately?

5. About how much have you now collected for the "Soldiers'?"

With success to you and the Mail-Box readers, I remain, BUNNY.

Ans.—Oh, "Bunny," this is a poser! For although I'm a woman, I would be difficult to lay down certain rules for you to follow. What might please one fair one, would displease another, you see, for women are so queer!

Most girls, however, are pleased with little attentions and courtesies, such as sending flowers, magazines and candy from time to time, ask for her company at theatre or dance, and also if you may call at her home. There's nothing original about these suggestions, but I fancy they have been neglected on successfully in quite a few instances. Any hints from readers

A GOOD SCHOOL DRESS OR MOTHER'S GIRL.

1588—Girl's Dress in One-Piece Style with Sleeve in Wrists or Elbow Length. Brown galates with trimming of checked gingham or blue serge with red poplin for collar and cuffs would be nice for this model. The right front overlaps the left at the closing. The fullness of the dress is held by a belt. The cuff finish of the sleeve is neat and comfortable in either length. The pattern is cut in five sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires three yards of 44-inch material for 6-year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

2. This poem was in one of our old school readers. I think, am hoping some reader may contribute a copy.

3. No, but you might use successfully the purifier given in this column a day or so ago.

4. Not that I know of.

5. About eighteen dollars ($17.50, to be exact). Ten dollars has been paid to the Red Cross treasurer, and most of the balance consists of S. S. Lesson pledges for the next five months. Our next payment of five dollars will be due in December.

She is Sorry.

Dear Miss Grey.—Must only write a line, as my envelope is full now. Am awfully sorry you are cutting out the coupon business, as one can hardly save enough of any one kind to get the road of them, and to exchange them helped everybody out. Hope "Y. S." got enough for her cabinet before you quit it, as it will be a big disappointment to her if she did not, after getting so many. When you are sending me the flags for the recitations if you have any more on hand you can spare I would like to get them, as I am making a slumber robe

2. A nice way to make some fancy pies. Yours, JUST SEVEN.

Ans.—1. The name Helen means "light." Evelyn means "privy." I do not know the meaning of Clelia.

2. See the Cook Book some day soon for these recipes.

A Patriotic Piece.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have copied a patriotic piece for "Country Girl." I am also sending a few recipes for your Cook-Book. We find them very good.

Ans.—"Country Girl" will surely be pleased with your patriotic piece. Your recipes sound fine, and I am very glad to publish them.

NOTES.

"Olive"—The song sent by "Pearly" for you has been forwarded.

"Ruby"—Have mailed you recitations sent by "Duncan Polite," "Rusty" and others.

Can anyone send me copies of "Little Jim" and "The Inventor's Wife" for "English Lass No. 3?"

In class tuition there are four in a class; the lesson lasts one hour, and each pupil has an individual lesson, and the benefit of the instruction given to the others.

In many ways it is vastly superior to private instruction, and the expense is far less. Inquiries will be welcomed.

MUTT AND JEFF--

GEE! IT SAYS HERE THAT THE 16TH PRECINCT OF THE FOURTH ELECTION DISTRICT WAS EXACTLY A TIE. 152 VOTES FOR WILSON AND 152 VOTES FOR HUGHES. FINE! THAT GIVES ME A SWEET IDEA HOW TO FINALLY GET AN OVERCOAT FOR NOTHING.

PARDON ME, STRANGER, BUT CAN YOU IMAGINE ME HAVING TO GO ALL WINTER WITHOUT AN OVERCOAT ALL WINTER! ON ACCOUNT OF AN ELECTION BET THAT COULD HAVE BEEN WON WITH ONE VOTE?

HOW SAT?

I MADE A BET WITH A GUY THAT IF WILSON DIDN'T CARRY THE 16TH PRECINCT I WOULD BUY AN OVERCOAT ALL WINTER AND IT CAME OUT EXACTLY EVEN. ONE VOTE WOULD HAVE WON.

DID YOU VOTE?

SURE! REMEMBER, I BET I WOULD BUY A COAT—BUT OF COURSE IF SOMEBODY SHOULD GIVE ME ONE THAT'S DIFFERENT, YOU DON'T HAPPEN TO HAVE AN OLD SECOND HAND?

LISTEN! I BET $80 THAT HUGHES WOULD CARRY THAT PRECINCT AND LOST SAME AS YOU BY ONE VOTE AND—

THAT VOTE WAS YOURS

HOCKEY GOSSIP

The original St. Michael's hockey club registered its name and colors with the O. H. A. and is still a member in good standing of that organization. The club pays its fees and is represented at the annual meeting of the O. H. A. There is no inclination on the part of St. Michael's to allow any other club to use its name. There is a proposition on foot to gather together the old-time champion St. Michael's, the O. H. A. and the O. H. A. and play one game against the champion Riversiders, or a picked team, for the benefit of the Christmas tree given by the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association to the children of soldiers at the front. Lieut. Clarence Johnson, who is just back from the front, is slated for right wing. Lieut. "Dug" Addison, for goal, Jimmy Dussart, and "Doc" Merrick on the defence. Frank Rankin at rover, Dr. W. J. Lattimore at centre, and Peter J. Fisher at left wing. It would be a popular move, and a good sum could be realized for a very worthy cause.

Harry Mackay was in Toronto yesterday on a visit home from Ottawa. It is likely that he will be traded to Ottawa. Goalkeeper Sammy Herbert, Wanderers are also after him, and if not traded to Ottawa he may figure in a trade for either Hague or Lindsay of the Red Wings.

Dave Ritchie, Jack Marks, and Jack MacDonald have signed their contracts with the Wanderers. Ritchie, a young right wing player, who played for the Wanderers of Quebec last season. Stephens and Hague of the Wanderers have signed their contracts. This makes seven players in line.

Corbett, the defence player of the champion Canadiens, was in Toronto yesterday, and declares that he will not play hockey this season for the salary offered him by the Canadiens.

Lieut. Gordon Meeking of the 228th Battalion will not likely be in the game this season. "Broken arches" in his feet, which prevented the noted player showing his best form at Ottawa last season, are still giving him trouble. Meeking will act in a coaching capacity for the 228th.

The Montreal Mail says: "Eddie Livingston of the Toronto club, need not worry his head over Gordon Keats. The Keats matter was taken up and thrashed out at the National Hockey Association meeting, when it was decided that Keats could not play for the 228th Battalion team unless he secured permission to do so from Manager Livingston. This means that Eddie Livingston wants Keats for his team the player must turn out with the Toronto, or not at all."

There will be a number of military teams entered in the O. H. A. this season as the authorities are giving them every encouragement to enter the association as well as to have a satisfactory season in the district military league. The latter games will be mostly played on open-air rinks, while the O. H. A. fixtures, of course, have to be played on covered ice.

Blenheim, Glenora, Dutton and Thamesville hockey clubs are considering a proposition to come in and form an intermediate league in the district. They want to be grouped together and play their district games on the existing rinks, which are in the best of play below standard size. When the winter comes out of the district they will play on a regular rink.

Woodstock College intend to add another team in the junior O. H. A. series. A. S. MacGregor is the secretary of the association and is expected to make a visit to the college, and inaugurate point to a strong team.

Ross Corbett, secretary of Smith's Falls Hockey Club, has written asking for particulars about joining the O. H. A.

Markham will have a hockey team this winter and it is expected to be one of the best in the district.

Glenelg hockeyists are talking of putting a junior team in the O. H. A. They expect to have a strong team.

W. Cook is president and G. P. A. is secretary of the Kingston Junior hockey association. They are expected to start a team in the junior O. H. A. It will be one of the strongest junior teams in years from Kingston.

Mr. J. H. Dawson of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, has been a member in the O. H. A. this winter and that there is an abundance of promising players in the district. There will not likely be a junior team, but a team may be entered in the intermediate series.

Requests from Maryland, California, and British Columbia, for a copy of the O. H. A. rule book indicate that the premier hockey organization of Canada has a well-established reputation. The request from Maryland was addressed to the Ontario Hockey Association, Ontario, Canada, and found its way all right to O. H. A. headquarters.

The Cycle Corps has organized a basketball team and is open for engagements with any teams of the city. All basketball engagements should be sent to the Cycle Corps, the amateurs, London.

The bike boys have a fast team and line up as follows: Right guard, Bert, Terry, left guard, T. Fisher, Centre, H. Gray, right forward, Lieut. J. McVean, left forward, Bissonette.

BURNS DISPOSES OF COLLINS. Montreal, Nov. 15.—Joe Burns, a local featherweight, disposed of Bobby Collins, a New York, in a ten-round bout at Schaner Park here tonight. Burns had the advantage in seven of the ten rounds.

ALVINGTON TO PLAY FOREST. ALVINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Alvington high school football team has been challenged by Forest to a game which will be played in Forest on Friday.

This will be Alvington's first away from home game and the local fans will cheer them in their desire for victory.

INMAN HAS ENLISTED. Melbourne Inman, the great English billiard player, has enlisted, according to report from the Old Country. Inman toured Canada a couple of years ago, playing matches with Willie Hoppe, but the trip was not a financial success.

Varsity Withdraws From Rugby League

Athletic Association of Western University Will Not Allow Team to Participate in Any More Games With Soldiers—Action Taken as Result of the Scragging in Last Saturday's Contest.

The Western University rugby team has disbanded for the season. At a meeting held Tuesday night of the supervisory board of the Western University Athletic Association, attended by Dr. Braithwaite, Dr. Neville, Dr. Crane, Charlie Wortman, Art Smith and Art Brickenden, it was decided not to allow the college rugby team to participate in any more games with soldiers, otherwise known as No. 2 district of the intermediate O. R. F. U. The board took this action as a result of the methods used by the 14th Battalion rugby team in the game last Saturday with the Varsity team, in which the college boys took a lot of scragging without complaint at the hands of the Lambton soldiers.

Anxious for Another Game. The college boys are anxious to take on the 14th again, and on last Saturday's showing against the heavy Lambton gang, would probably give them a good drubbing. However, what the Athletic Association says "no" and the boys will not be allowed to play a return game against the soldiers. The Saturday game resulted in a tie, the soldiers practically stealing the pasture in the last few minutes of the game by getting a touchdown that looked like a rout.

The 14th Battalion team showed the poorest sportsmanship in last Saturday's game with us that I ever witnessed in my life," said Dr. Neville to The Advertiser last night. "When they found out that our team was not to be run over, and that we were too fast for them, they got ugly and started scragging of the most disgraceful character. One of our men's ears is entirely black and blue, while practically every man on the line took some sort of punishment from the soldier team."

Taught Properly. "Our boys have been taught to play the game properly, and to conduct themselves on the field as gentlemen should. They were withdrawn from including in dirty tactics, and the soldiers grew bolder, secure in the fact that they had several hundred men on the side line willing to help them should a fight occur."

"The faculty of the university does not wish that any members of a college team should indulge in any foul work on the gridiron or any place else, and decided that it would not be advisable to let the boys play against a team that does not care what it does, as long as it wins."

Smith and Brickenden, both members of the rugby team, wanted to go on with the schedule. Following is a copy of the resolution as passed by the athletic board: "Whereas we entered a team in the city league under the impression that the games would be for sportsmen and gentlemen, but have found that such is not the case, therefore, be it resolved that we, in accordance with the powers in us vested by the constitution of the Western University Athletic Association, refuse to permit the football team of the university to engage in any further contests in the city league."

Capt. McGillivray, manager of the 14th rugby club, did not know of the Varsity's withdrawal until informed by The Advertiser.

"It's news to me," he declared. "If the Varsity team does not wish to finish out the schedule that is their own business. We will go right along with them and finish out our games."

One of the 11th officers on being shown the resolution, declared that it cast a reflection on the 11th Battalion team as well as the 14th.

"We are sorry that the Western University will not give us a game," he said. "We had been looking forward to it. Our men are all gentlemen, both on and off the field, and we regret the action of the college boys exceedingly. At the workout held today our men were all cautioned against using their elbows in the scrummages. Arrangements had been made with Referee Vio Smith to handle the game scheduled for us Thursday. The Western Athletic Society is hardly treating us fairly."

BUFFALO SCRAPPER WINS AT WINDSOR

"Knockout Brennan Outpoints Frankie Brennan, Detroit."

OPENING OF THE SEASON

Michigan Lad Comes Back Stronger in Last Round and Makes Fast Finish.

WINDSOR, Nov. 15.—"Knockout" Brennan of Buffalo, in a hard-fought ten rounds, had the best over his opponent, Frankie Brennan of Detroit, at the Windsor Athletic Club tonight. It was the opening of the right season in the border city. The Detroit pugilist gained a good lead in the first round.

The following three rounds were in favor of the Buffalo lad, who sent numerous blows to the head of his opponent. The fifth and sixth rounds were about even, with the seventh and eighth rounds the Detroit fighter, in this round Frankie sent a hard left to "Knockout's" head. The Buffalo Brennan took the ninth round, while the tenth went to Frankie.

IRVIN IS HESITATING. Winnipeg, Nov. 15.—Should Alex. Irvin, captain and point of last year's Monarch Hockey Club of Winnipeg decide to follow his teammates, Laughlin, Dick Irvin and Stan Marples, and join the Portland team, the coast professional champions would be made up entirely of players who played in the Winnipeg league. With the exception of Harris, who played for Kenora, all the other boys are former Monarch players, five of them figuring on the Allan Cup line-up.

Alex. Irvin is expected to sign up, though he is not satisfied with the terms offered, and is waiting for something better before jumping to the professional ranks. Irvin and Marples leave for the coast on Saturday.

WAS TROUBLED WITH SHORTNESS OF BREATH

When the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness, a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

The nerves become unstrung, you dread to be alone, have a horror of society, start at the least noise and are generally fatigued.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be taken. They are just what you require at this time. They regulate and stimulate the heart, strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mrs. C. M. Cormier, Buetouche, N. B., writes: "Since two years ago I was troubled with a shortness of breath, and I noticed such a change that I kept on taking them until I had used four more boxes, when I was cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are not a box, three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

London Hunt Club Golf Course One of the Best

"The Kennels" Now Has Fine New Links, Laid Out by Geo. Cummings and H. W. Eve, Local Professional

—Brantford Man Enthusiastic.

Following is an article on the new London hunt golf course appearing in this month's "Canadian Golfer," written by the editor.

Friday, November 3 was an ideal "Indian Summer" day—an autumnal day of a variety unequalled anywhere in the world. It was an ideal day for a golfing trip and it was therefore under most charming conditions that I had for the first time the very great pleasure of seeing the eighteen hole golf course which has been "in the making" in London for the past six months.

A and a very great surprise indeed was in store for me. I knew that the London Club had been fortunate enough to acquire the lease of valuable additional playing rights over the Kingsmill farm adjoining the old links—a property purchased by the governors of the Western University and Sir Adam Beck and the hydro commission—but I took it for granted that in extending to the regulation eighteen holes the original nine so well known to western golfers at "The Kennels" would be retained in toto and that a new nine would merely be tacked on.

Nothing of the sort, however. The directors in sending for George Cummings of Toronto gave him carte blanche to do what he pleased and give them a sporting eighteen-hole course; they told him that they were all tired of crossing and recrossing the river no less than six times on the limited links that had done service for so many years. That they wanted a fact a full-sized golf course, with capital natural hazards and an intelligent scheme of bunkering and trapping arranged for.

Excellent Course. The golfer who thought he knew his London will know it no more. It is no longer a golf course, but a golf course graduated from a very ordinary 9-hole course, to an 18-hole course, that in a year or so will vie with any other in the province. In the future when making a golfing pilgrimage you won't be able to overlook London. Next season it will be very much in the golfer's literary.

Not a solitary hole on the old course has been incorporated in the new. From the first capital dog leg No. 1 of 330 yards to the generous green at No. 18, there is infinite variety—an infinite variety of good golf.

This is not going to be a descriptive write-up of the links—that will come early next summer when a formal patriotic opening will take place, but just here I can't resist mentioning two or three holes. No. 6, 450 yards, is a grand hole with a beautiful green dropped between two old giants of the forest. No. 11, 300 yards, with the river beyond is one of the finest placed holes in Canada; No. 12, with a testing pond hazard calls for a short hole of 120 yards with a "white like" green that is a pure delight to the eye.

Where the river—the hog-schoo of the majority of the players on the old course—is crossed by a bridge, and only time, is especially a croaking fine two-shotter; and these are only a few of the good ones.

Greens Look Good. The fair greens which have been generously seeded promise well, and the greens which are of every variety—plateau, rolling and angle, already look fit enough to play on, whilst the scenic environment, and after all there is nothing like a bit of good scenery, leaves nothing to be desired. Add to all these advantages natural and otherwise the really clever and intelligent manner in which the various holes have been placed, and laid out and you can appreciate the fact, and it is a fact, that London in 1917 will have a first-class golf course—a course that is destined to wonderfully popularize and improve the game not only in London but throughout Western Ontario and beyond.

The following is the yardage of the new course—total of 5,940 yards: No. 1, 330; No. 2, 275; No. 3, 300; No. 4, 330; No. 5, 140; No. 6, 450; No. 7, 240; No. 8, 330; No. 9, 480; Total out, 2,605. No. 10, 300; No. 11, 300; No. 12, 300; No. 13, 215; No. 14, 330; No. 15, 120; No. 16, 310; No. 17, 280; No. 18, 250. Total in, 2,555 yards. Grand total, 5,940 yards.

The committee of the London Hunt and Country Club, which has charge of these very extensive improvements, and which has given a great deal of time and attention to the past season to the new course of the game between the Athletics and the Red Sox.

"The late Thomas Brown, once postmaster of London, played for us in those days, and did Jim Chisholm, Charlie Stone, now of Toronto; Sam Woods, who is dead; Charlie Sereaton, Lieut. Col. Harry Abbott, and Bill Hunter, whose father taught school in London at one time."

Through the kindness of Mr. Gillean we are able to print the box scores of several of the games of '16. They are given "hot off the press." The box scores way back in the distance were short and sweet, to say the least. Here they are:

London Ball Club Champs. of Canada Way Back in '69

Passing of Thomas Phalen Recalls the Diamond Battle of London Tecumsehs and Boston Red Sox—Good Old Days Were Best, Avers Tom Gillean.

With the death of Thomas Phalen, few members of the old Tecumsehs, once baseball champions of Canada, are left in this city. Way back in '69 London was famous all over America as a baseball centre, the champion Boston Red Sox paying this city a visit and walloping the local team, then called the Athletics, by 52 to 3.

Of the team that played that memorable summer day two only are lying in London at the present time. They are Sam Sereaton and Bob Kidner. Dick Southam is at Simcoe; the whereabouts of Jim J. and Bob Webster are unknown; Eph Plummer is believed to be in New York, while Tom Phalen, Frank Cooper and Frank Love, late police magistrate, have all passed beyond.

London Baseball Crazy. "London was certainly a baseball craze in those days," said Thomas Gillean yesterday, in a reminiscent mood. "Did you play on the team?" Mr. Gillean was asked.

"Now, say, do I look that old?" inquired Mr. Gillean, in an injured voice. "No, I was only a kid, but I can remember all the details. It was a great day when the Athletics played the old Boston Red Sox. The London team was beaten of course, but you should have seen the way those Sox walloped the old pill. My boy, it was some game. It took place at the old cricket grounds, where Victoria Park is now situated, and there was certainly a large crowd present."

Only Ones to Score. "Jury, Love and Southam were the only Londoners to score, and they all got home in the fourth inning. You should have heard the cheering. The famous A. G. Spalding was pitching and he tightened up then, so it was all off. He was a wonderful pitcher and he held the hard-hitting Athletics helpless."

"The games were more exciting in those days," continued Mr. Gillean, as he called up the past. "The Sox were on first base played a great game that day, as did Eph Plummer in centre field. Sam Sereaton was up against the hardest-hitting team in the world, and it was only nature that he should have been touched up for a few healthy swats."

Eckford's Some Team. "I played on a junior team at that time called the Eckfords, and we had a great team," said Mr. Gillean proudly. "You don't believe me? Well here I have the score to show you and the box-score of the game between the Athletics and the Red Sox."

"The late Thomas Brown, once postmaster of London, played for us in those days, and did Jim Chisholm, Charlie Stone, now of Toronto; Sam Woods, who is dead; Charlie Sereaton, Lieut. Col. Harry Abbott, and Bill Hunter, whose father taught school in London at one time."

OVER 10,000 PEOPLE AT OPENING NIGHT OF ALLIES' BAZAR

Most Auspicious Booth Is That of Canada.

EXPOSITION AT DETROIT
Considered Most Elaborate
Affair of Kind Ever Held in City.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
DETROIT, Nov. 15.—Over 10,000 persons attended the opening of the Allies' bazar in the Sunday Tabernacle tonight, which is being conducted to raise funds for the war sufferers.

Soon after the doors were opened Mayor Maer delivered a dedicatory address. He briefly recounted the immense devastation which has been suffered in the countries of the warring nations, and commended the spirit which prompted Detroit and Windsor residents to arrange an entertainment which would bring succor to widows and orphans left destitute by the war.

The most auspicious booth is that of Canada, which is the first booth encountered at the entrance. The front has columns of wheat from the north-western belt, and everywhere the maple leaf. Almost anything imaginable is offered for sale by the industrious women of the Dominion.

Partly hidden on the rear of the Canadian section is the log hut of the Bay country trapper, hanging with furs, snowshoes and other reminders of the far country.

Everywhere was liberal in patronizing the various booths, which represent eleven nations involved in the world struggle. The exposition is said to be the most elaborate affair of its kind ever held in Detroit, and record crowds are anticipated.

GLASS OF WATER BEFORE YOU EAT ANY BREAKFAST

Wash poison from system each morning and feel fresh
as a daisy.

Every day you clean the house you live in to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected through the previous day. Your body, the house your soul lives in, also becomes filled up each 24 hours with all manner of filth and impurities. If only a very few minutes could realize the wonders of drinking phosphated hot water, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions, instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

Everyone, whether sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of red hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten years of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, shallow complexion and who are constitutionally very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

ONLY VOICES OF INFLUENCE THOSE OF BRITISH GUNS

Useless to Talk Otherwise on Sub Menace.

THIS IS CREWE'S ANSWER
Answers Beresford's Arraignment of Government's Failure to Check Raids.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The matter of the destruction of British shipping by German submarines came up in the House of Lords this afternoon. Baron Sydenham invited the Government to make a declaration in the nature of a "don't for" policy in behalf of Great Britain and her allies as a reply to "the monstrous proceedings" of the German submarines. He declared that there was an uneasy feeling in the country that the submarine menace was more serious than the authorities were willing to admit.

Admiral Lord Beaufort said that Great Britain had arrived at a serious crisis, and that the only way to meet it was by plain speaking, because the House of Commons and the newspapers had been misled by the most authoritative government since the time of Pharoah.

He said, "had the blockade been properly enforced at first, we should not have been faced by this submarine menace."

The Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, replying for the Government, said it was useless to make such declarations. He said that the Government was doing its best to enforce the blockade, and that the only voices which could speak with influence now were the voices of the cannon on the various fronts.

"The Marquis of Crewe," said the lord president, "to threaten to exact particular reparations in the terms of peace unless we are able to enforce the blockade by obtaining complete victory."

Difficulties increased. The lord president, had been singularly successful in the destruction of enemy submarines, but the difficulties in dealing with this menace had increased.

The Earl of Lytton, civil lord of the admiralty, having denied that the raid had departed from its traditional policy of seeking out and destroying the enemy, the subject was dropped.

American Plants Will Be Crippled by

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 15.—The attorney-general of Ontario, replying today to the protest of the manufacturers of this city against the curtailing of the export of power generated by the Canadian side of the river, was not moved by the Canadian munitions plants. The Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has demanded 12,500 additional horsepower from the American side of the river.

The Hydraulic Power Company announced today that the war department at Washington had denied its request for permission to divert the additional 4,400 cubic feet of water sanctioned by international treaty. The estimated potential of that additional diversion is 30,000 horsepower, an amount sufficient to relieve the situation here.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Motor women on the Paris streets will soon be a reality. Prefect of Police Laurent has issued an order authorizing the employment of women. They will first undergo training and then be placed on lines in the city where traffic is lightest.

This is only one of a number of measures necessitated by the war for the employment of women. Women are now also replacing bagmen at some of the railroad stations, notably the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean stations. Although the luggage of the travelers they are compelled to carry is sometimes exceedingly heavy, the women are fulfilling their duties uncomplainingly.

Of the total, 26 were British ships, the loss of which claimed 135 lives, the heaviest death toll occurring on the following vessels: Golconda, 19; Euphorbia, 11; Franconia, 18. Detroit Man's Unexpected Return Spells Death to 16-Year-
Old Bride and to Her Lover—Police Seek Husband.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
DETROIT, Nov. 15.—Infidelity claimed two lives this afternoon in the home of Richard Caparotta, 434 Monroe street. The bodies of a 16-year-old wife and Petro Darnora, 22, are in the county morgue, and police are seeking Caparotta as the slayer of the pair.

According to police and neighbors, Caparotta returned home unexpectedly this afternoon and found his wife and Petro in a bedroom. Caparotta whipped out an automatic pistol from his pocket and emptied its "clip" into the bodies of the pair.

When the police arrived they found the bodies of the man and woman in the room both riddled with bullets. The woman was partly under the bed and the man was stretched nearby. Walls and bed were blood-spattered.

The appearance of the room indicated that a terrible struggle had ensued before the fatal shots were fired. Chairs were overturned and the mattress of the bed pulled to the floor.

The victims were taken to the county morgue, where Coroner Rothacker disinterred the bodies. The woman's body and seven wounds in the body of the man.

Expresses Regret if He Has

dinates.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—Gen. Sir Sam Hughes this evening told his khaki, donned muffled, turned out his light, looked his office door, turned over his keys to B. F. McCurdy, parliamentary under-secretary of militia, sent word to Premier Borden that he had vacated his premises, and walked down to the Chateau Laurier for dinner.

This is the first time almost since war began that he has not rolled away in a military car with uniformed driver.

Tomorrow he goes to Lindsay to see his family. Friday he comes back to Ottawa, and on Saturday he will start recruiting in the province of Quebec.

Gen. Hughes is taking great interest in the Canadian press. He is reading the newspapers with mixed emotions, but on the whole is satisfied with the way he is being treated by the writers of the press. He is no secret that Gen. Hughes has made reaction in the public mind in his favor; he expects that the papers will shortly indicate this.

It is also understood that the letters published do not include the whole of the correspondence which passed between Sir Robert Borden and Gen. Hughes. It is likely that others may appear in the near future.

STUBBORN RESISTANCE OF GERMANS FAILED TO HALT THE BRITISH

Success Won Only After Hard Struggle.

BRITISH LOSSES SMALL
Regarded as Comparatively
Light in View of Work Accomplished.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The bulletin from general headquarters issued tonight reads:

"During the day we further advanced our front north of the Ancre.

The prisoners taken since Monday morning have reached a total of 5,678.

"The troops employed have shown conspicuous skill, dash and fortitude. Our success was not without a hard struggle as the enemy resisted strongly, and as conditions of the ground greatly increased the difficulty of attack. Our losses, considering the extent of our gains, have not been high. The division advanced a mile, and took over a thousand prisoners at the expense of 450 casualties.

"South of the Ancre we established the position won yesterday. The Butte de Warlencourt. The enemy massing at this point for a counter-attack, was dispersed by our artillery fire.

"The enemy's aeroplanes did much useful work. Last night they made successful bombing attacks on an enemy aerodrome, railway lines, stations and road stations.

ADMIT LOSSES; SAY THEY'RE UNIMPORTANT.

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 15.—Special dispatches received here from the Ancre front describe the British gain at Beaumont-Hamel and St. Pierre Division as unimportant. The German lines here were formed since the loss of Thiepval, the advanced sector of the Ancre front. The British, by attacking toward the British, enabling them to dislodge it advantageously from various positions. They did this with the aid of their tanks, and the German trenches were badly damaged before the British infantry attacked.

Proceeding by clouds of gas, say the accounts, the attack was delivered with the utmost skill and precision. The German line at Beaumont-Hamel, where no other great attack had been attempted since the first of July offensive. The German position was held with desperate courage, but the British, by the aid of their tanks, succeeded in repulsing the attack on both wings of the sector, in some cases driving the British out after they had already won the trenches.

DENOUNCES SINKING OF AMERICAN SHIP BY GERMAN U-BOAT

Columbian's Manager Says
Under U. S. Register.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—After receiving a report from Captain Curtis of the steamer Columbian, which was recently sunk by a German submarine off the Spanish coast, Charles Mayer, the London manager of the France and Canada Steamship Company, owners of the Columbian, denounced the action of the German U-boats.

The Columbian, he said, had formerly been owned by the Hawaiian-American Company, but was taken over by his company which had been organized since the war.

"All the shipping of our company, totalling nearly a quarter of a million tons, is owned in America, and is under American registry," he said.

"The majority of the ships are under charter to the Italian and French governments. The Columbian was bound for Genoa with about 9,000 tons of oats when she was torpedoed. She had delivered about 1,500 horses at St. Nazaire. The whole cargo was loaded at Boston and New York in addition to 2,000 tons of oil, which she needed for fuel, as she was an oil burner. Two-thirds of the Columbian's crew were Americans.

"Mr. Mayer said he planned to send the crew back to the United States from one of the company's boats from France.

The Anti-Saloon League also has filed a protest with the mayor against the issuance of special licenses for New Year's Eve.

BRITAIN TAKES STEP TO REGULATE PRICES OF ALL FOODSTUFFS

White Flour Is Banned by a Government Order.

QUESTION A WAR PROBLEM
Strain of Next Year Will Be Greatest on Supply, Says Runciman.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The retail prices of food-stuffs, compared with a year ago, have increased on an average of 27 per cent, say the members of the board of trade. They have increased 78 per cent over prices before the war. The prices of sugar, eggs, fish and potatoes, however, have risen less than double the pre-war prices.

[Canadian Press.]
London, Nov. 16.—The speech of Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in Parliament yesterday, outlining the Government's proposal for dealing with the food problems, was welcomed in all parts of the House. Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the Opposition, and George J. Wardle, for the Laborites, agreed that the House was ready to grant the power asked without the form of a bill.

The debate on the resolution of William Hewins, Unionist member from Hereford, declaring that it was the duty of the Government to adopt such measures as would secure the increase and conserve the national food supply was not closed when the House adjourned. It is understood that the Premier, Mr. Asquith, will make a statement next week in regard to the appointment of a food controller.

ASKS GOVERNMENT TO CUT.
The food question is so paramount in Britain now that it was discussed in the House of Commons yesterday. A Canadian Press dispatch says:

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The price of food, which has become such a serious matter in England as in all other belligerent countries, was discussed in the House of Commons today. William Hewins, Unionist member from Hereford, introduced the following resolution:

"In the opinion of the House it is the duty of the Government to adopt further methods of organization to increase and conserve the national food supply and to diminish the risk of shortage and serious increase of prices in the event of the war being prolonged."

The debate on this resolution, if not arranged by the Government, took place in concurrence with the debate on the resolution of Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, was expected to announce drastic proposals to deal with the difficulties of the present position. The activity of German submarines in sinking a large number of ships which is related so closely to the price of food, will be discussed in the House of Lords this evening by Lord Charles Beresford and Baron Slessingham.

The chaplain, who was rendered unconscious by the explosion of a mine, was taken to the rear and placed in a hospital. He was found by British infantrymen, who shot him when he attempted to escape. The details have not been given out, but the newspapers indicate it will apply to all classes, rich and poor alike, and living on private income and those engaged in activities not connected with prosecution of the war, which may be discontinued without injury to the body politic.

If it became necessary, food tickets would be introduced.

Estimates in which one of the articles, the price of which might be controlled by calling for contracts, Mr. Runciman reminded the House that it was only possible to fix prices of articles controlled by the state, and that attempts to control other articles might prevent their coming into the country. The Government had been driven to ask for three powers against it, but they were only a temporary expedient.

Regret Only Lateness.

The London morning newspapers devote their leading editorial to Mr. Runciman's statement in the House of Commons. They recognize the seriousness of the situation, and concur in the necessity of the proposed measures, which some of them regret were not adopted earlier.

The Daily Telegraph describes the Government scheme as "a considerable advance towards the vigorous handling of the food question," and regrets the tardiness of its adoption.

"The fact is too plain to be obscured," says the Telegraph, "that the Government action in general has been very far from keeping abreast of the swiftly developing situation. Measures urged upon the ministers by responsible expert opinion have only been adopted after long delays, if at all. The country has long awaited such a program, which will be supported as everything directly and definitely aiming at the furtherance of the supreme purpose has been supported."

The Graphic says:

"Mr. Runciman's speech does not leave much room for that comfortable optimism in which most of us like to indulge whenever we get good news from the front. Unless the general situation were serious, the Government would hardly venture upon the drastic proposals Mr. Runciman has outlined."

LOSS IS $20,000 IN BOAT FIRE

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 15.—Spontaneous combustion in a shipment of copra on the steamer Waimarino, of the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, caused a fire last night that required nearly a thousand tons of water to be pumped into the hold before the blaze was subdued. The loss will be $20,000.

The Waimarino arrived on Sunday from Australia, New Caledonia and Samoa, and most of her cargo is chrome ore from New Caledonia. This is used for hardening steel, and also making asphaltizing gases.

WORKERS PLAN TO TAKE ACTIVE PART IN COMING ELECTION

Trades and Labor Council May Support Mayor Stevenson.

ARRANGING BIG CAMPAIGN

Committee to Meet on Friday and Work Out Details.

The trades and labor council, at its meeting last evening, passed a resolution that the council would again take an active part in the coming municipal elections.

It is admitted that the candidature of Mayor Stevenson will be supported, unless a member of the council or of organized labor in the city is placed in the field.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the unions and inquire if any prospective candidates were in sight.

A delegate from the tailor's union moved that the trades and labor council refuse to support any municipal candidate who had declined to support the union label in the firemen's uniforms.

The election committee will meet on Friday evening and take definite steps in formulating a campaign.

Secretary Johnson read a letter from Premier Borden, stating that the Government would take into consideration the resolution recently adopted by the council requesting that the Government prevent the exportation of paper.

The organization committee will arrange with E. Ingles, local representative of the American Federation of Labor, to meet the freight handlers and discuss the formation of a union.

Delegates Dean and Jackson were appointed to attend the next meeting of No. 4 committee and see what action is going to be taken by that body relative to the proposed vote on a municipal coal yard.

A standing vote of condolence was passed to President James Huxley on the death of his mother.

The secretary was instructed to write the board of education and ask that the schools be allowed for use for public meetings.

The members of the utilities commission will be invited to attend the next meeting, when questions will be submitted relative to various matters on which the members of the trades and labor council are anxious to obtain information.

CITY HOTELMEN ASK REDUCTION IN TAXES

Claim Property Value Has Depreciated Since September 15.

The court of revision met in the council chamber yesterday afternoon and listened to the appeals of a number of hotelmen asking for a fixed assessment, and a cancellation of the business tax.

The hotelmen's side of the question was submitted by A. H. M. Graydon, who explained to the court that owing to the cancellation of licenses on September 15 hotel property had greatly depreciated in value.

The evidence from a number of the hotelmen was taken, and a decision will be made on the matter at the completion of the sittings of the court, which will require today and possibly tomorrow.

The sittings will be resumed today at 2:30, and each case will receive individual consideration.

It is practically conceded that a reduction will be made, but to what extent will be determined by the estimates by the members of the board.

PRIMA DONNA COMING TO LONDON
Madame Matzenauer will sing for her fourth consecutive season at the Metropolitan, and it is only an arrangement with Monsieur Gatti Casazza, the director, which permits her to leave New York's temple of music and sing before a London audience.

Madame Matzenauer has contributed a goodly part to the success of the Metropolitan season in years past. She has been proclaimed, and rightly so, as the heir to Lillian Nordica in Wagnerian roles. From her debut in "Aida" in the role of Amneris in 1911, her success has been constant and consistent. Her roles have been almost as varied as the operas in the repertoire of the Metropolitan, requiring registers of the greatest scale of notes, but whether she has given them in London, Buenos Ayres, Paris, Boston or New York, they have promoted appreciative response from her audience.

The arrangement with the Metropolitan Opera Company for her concert tours was the result of the demands of cities throughout the continent, whose "musical" inhabitants could not visit the metropolis, to hear her sing. And it is an answer to demands for this that she comes to sing on Monday, November 27, at the Princess Winter Garden under the auspices of the Musical Art Society.

Reserved seat plan opens for subscribers tomorrow at 3 o'clock.

In her own words, Mrs. Lockwood says she will have "to go some if he does." Mrs.

Lockwood is a former actress. She says she has a large dress designing school from the city to save himself embarrassment. One of the love messages to her companion was sent from London, Ont., as follows:

"Good morning, sweetheart. Trust this letter will wake you with the whole world smiling at you. I am ever, Yours truly, FRED."

During the winter the street lights will be turned on at 5:30 o'clock, but for November the commission will endeavor to save $800 by delaying the lighting for a few minutes each evening.

Secretary Oliver Ellwood, questioned regarding the saving, stated that the money saved was to the utilities commission directly, and consequently to the citizens.

The lighting is paid for by so much a street lamp, $11 for the original lamp, and $8 for each intermediate one. Secretary Ellwood also stated that the peak load would be reduced by the delay of a few minutes in turning on the street lights.

STREETS KEPT DARK TO SAVE MONEY FOR HYDRO COMMISSION

People Must Grope Around From 5 o'Clock Until 5:40 p.m.

Many citizens have been asking during the last two weeks why street lights were not turned on at an earlier hour than twenty minutes to 6. At that time in the evening the last few nights it has been so dark before the lights were switched on that there has actually been danger from the lack of artificial light.

Manager E. V. Buchanan of the utilities commission, when interviewed regarding the matter, stated that the one and only reason was to save the citizens about $800 for the month of November. He explained that by keeping the lighting load off until about twenty minutes to 6, the peak load did not count until after twenty minutes time had elapsed, and at five minutes to 6 the power load in the factories was shut off, and then the lighting load alone was charged against the city.

Four thousand horsepower for lighting and the same for power is in use, and in case the two were allowed to overlap more than twenty minutes, the city would be forced to pay for the peak load—3,000-horsepower—instead of half that amount as at present.
