TO CALL TENDERS TONIGHT FOR NEW CITY HALL

Local Home Bank Depositors Hope For 45 Cent Dividend

LOCAL DEPOSITORS WILL LOSE MUCH BY HOME BANK

Even Most Optimistic Do Not Expect to Realize More Than 45 Cents On Dollar.

LAW FIRM HARD HIT

Murphy, Gunn & Murphy Will Reimburse Clients at Cost of Many Thousands.

Keen disappointment was expressed by numerous depositors this morning over the announcement of A. B. Barker, curator of the defunct institution, that an advance payment of only 25 cents would be made to savings holders. Many believe, however, that an additional payment of 20 cents, bringing the total redemption to 45 cents on the dollar, will be made when the government has collected the double liability from shareholders.

Of a dozen depositors questioned this morning none thought that more than 50 per cent of their deposits would be redeemed. Pessimists believed, in fact, that the 25-cent advance ordered by the curator would be the extent of the Home Bank's payment to savings holders.

Many local business concerns will lose heavily if no advance other than the 25 per cent is made. Among these is the law firm of Murphy, Gunn & Murphy. Major T. J. Murphy, head of the firm, stated today that thousands of dollars of clients' money had been deposited by them in trust. Although the London law concern is not legally obliged to pay their clients, Major Murphy declared he would not let his customers suffer the loss of a single penny.

Expects But 40 Cents.

"I understand depositors are only likely to get about 40 cents on the dollar," Major Murphy said. "If this proves correct we will reimburse our clients to the full. We placed thousands of dollars belonging to them in the Home Bank in trust, and are not legally liable. But I shall see that our customers get every cent coming to them."

Members of Murphy, Gunn & Murphy also hold shares in the Home Bank and will be obliged to meet the double liability of stockholders.

I. E. Weldon, of Lindsay, solicitor for Home Bank depositors in Ontario, arrived in the city this morning preparatory to addressing a meeting of London and district savings holders this evening. Mr. Weldon, accompanied by Joseph Dambra, president of the local Home Bank Depositors'

ASKS TO BE GIVEN TEN-DAY SENTENCE

Consumer of Lemon Extract Presents Pitiable Condition in Police Court.

Twisting, shivering and shaking from a recent bout with lemon extract, a police court habitue stood in the prisoner's box this morning and in trembling tones asked to be sent to jail for 10 days. His request was granted by Magistrate Graydon.

"You are in pretty bad shape now," declared Mr. Graydon.

"Yes, I am. Send me to jail. I'll straighten up there. The last time I got out at 8 o'clock in the morning and I was at work at 9," said the prisoner.

"Have you any money now?" asked the magistrate.

"Not now, your honor," was the response.

"You'll end up in the Ontario Hospital if you keep this thing up," warned the magistrate. "How long will you stay in jail?"

"Ten days, your honor."

"Will it do you any good?"

"Yes, your honor."

"All right," acquiesed the magistrate.

"Thank you," said the prisoner as he fumbled his way from the prisoner's box to the cells below.

START SEARCH TODAY FOR SUPPLY OF WATER

C. W. Curd, Ground Water Engineer, Will Sink Wells in North End.

London's search for an adequate supply of drinking water will start again tomorrow, following the arrival in this city today of C. W. Curd, eminent ground water engineer of Chicago.

Mr. Curd, who is being brought to London by the public utilities commission, will arrive this afternoon and will lose no time in starting to work. While it is not definitely known where he will start operations, The Advertiser was informed that the first attempts at finding wells will be made in the northern end of the city, but whether inside the city limits or not, is not certain.

The engineer, who uses an invention of his own to bore the shafts of the well, does not guarantee to find the water, but proposes to make a survey of the best areas of the city, in the hope that sufficient will be found to supply the city for many years in the future.

Sunday Calls Traducers Dogs

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Catharines, Oct. 1.—Billy Sunday, in the big tabernacle at Niagara Falls, N. Y., last night got after his enemies and traducers. He said he had never before been opposed by such a "mean, rotten, contemptible crowd of slanderers" as at Niagara Falls. But jumping up on to his chair, he threw out the defi: "I'll go to penitentiary tomorrow if you dirty dogs out there will come out in the open and prove what you say is true." And he threw his fist out over the great audience. Sunday is showing bodily and nerve weariness. "They want me to go to Hamilton, to Toronto, all over," he said. "I'll go. I'll stay going as long as I can, but it's hard work, and a man can't stand much more."

WESTERN OPENS ITS DOORS TODAY FOR LARGE CLASS

Attendance Expected To Total About the Same as Last Year.

NEW PROFESSORS

Today the University of Western Ontario officially opens for the 1923-24 season, but literally the students have still another day of freedom from tuition as lectures do not begin until tomorrow.

Registration is on the cards for today, and the whole time will be taken up with this and arranging the timetables for the students, so that no confusion will be experienced when the faculty and student body tomorrow start on the year's work.

Dean Fox stated this morning that a large number of students had already reported, but that the number was so far incomplete. Judging from the number present today, however, he said he did not think that there would be much difference in the attendance as compared with 1922.

All members of the faculty are on hand, including the five new professors who have been added, due to the addition of an extra year in the medical course and the library and secretarial science course. These are ready to start right in tomorrow and will give their first lectures in the local institution. The newcomers are Professors Freeman, Gunton, Collin, Allen and Russell.

Simultaneously with the opening of the local Arts College, the courses at Huron, Assumption and Brescia colleges also open, these being part of the university proper.

MANY APPLICATIONS TO HEAR LLOYD GEORGE

Brotherhood Secretary Says 108,000 Reservations Have Been Asked For Toronto.

One hundred and eight thousand applications for seats in Massey Hall in Toronto to hear the Right Hon. David Lloyd George, when he speaks to the Canadian Brotherhood have already been received, according to Mr. Howell, secretary of the Brotherhood, who was in London yesterday. He said that the date of the meeting had been changed to Wednesday, October 10, at 11 a.m.

The executive of the Brotherhood, feeling that people outside Toronto should be given an opportunity of hearing Mr. George are reserving 2,000 seats in Massey Hall which will be held until Thursday next for applicants. Reservations may be made by forwarding $3, with name and address, to the secretary of the Canadian Brotherhood, 2 Toronto street, Toronto.

COUNCIL MAY ASK FOR TENDERS FOR NEW CITY HALL AT MEETING TONIGHT

Another Vote of People Then Necessary To Get Money, Says Mayor.

ON McCORMICK SITE

In regular session tonight, the city council will direct that tenders be called, from local contractors, for the construction of a new city hall on the McCormick site, Mayor Wenige announced at noon.

His worship also contemplates the council's action to send another by-law to the people—to seek perhaps, roughly, $200,000—to complete the new structure.

At a conference with Mayor Wenige this morning, Stuart Pavey, whose plan was recently selected by the judges and approved by the special city hall committee, advised that he would have a definite cost price and much other necessary information available for the council not later than November 1.

Mayor Wenige quite appreciates the fact that in all probability the council will not have a sufficient sum with which to complete a $600,000 city hall. This sum must not be exceeded and there is a possibility that a smaller sum only would be required.

How to Get the Money.

"There would be two ways to secure whatever additional money may be necessary," the mayor stated. "By means of the city of London bill in 1924 or by a vote of the people. I think that it would be only the proper thing to send the question to the people and ask them a clear concrete question—will you let us have $200,000 (or whatever sum is estimated) to complete a $600,000 city hall already under way?"

Mayor Wenige insists that work will be under way—even if it is only the foundation that is dug—and he is confident that the people will vote by an overwhelming majority to go ahead and complete the work.

That the city council will tonight vote to accept Stuart Pavey's plan and will also authorize the letting of the contract, is the mayor's prediction. With a majority of the council supporting him and with the knowledge that all activities to date have been of a legal nature, he fails to understand why there should be any further delay.

Would Take Year.

It is fully recognized that it would take about a year to complete the job, but the digging of the foundation during the winter months would be a good start, he says, as well as ample indication to the people that the job is under way.

The bidding will be confined to local contractors and workmen, it is further promised.

As all bylaws must be in readiness early in December, the council has a full month to estimate just what sum would be required in excess of what money is now available or will be from the sale of all other federal square lands. All new city hall furnishings, fixtures, etc., must be included in this estimate—now set roughly at $200,000.

ENTERS AN APPEAL AGAINST DECISION

Evidence in the Conviction of Julius Schure Will Be Reviewed.

An appeal from the decision of Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon, who on Sept. 19 fined Julius Schure $500 and costs for selling liquor, has been entered in the county court by counsel for Schure. The appeal will shortly be heard before Judge J. C. Judd.

Police constables in their evidence in police court swore they saw Julius give Ed. Schure several drinks of whiskey and that after the drinks had disappeared money passed from Ed. to Julius Schure. The latter runs a grocery store on the corner of Horton and Clarence streets.

GUESTS OF "THE BUGALOW GIRLLS."

A ride in motor truck last Saturday commenced a red-letter day for these 25 children from Thomas Alway Home. During the afternoon, they were the guests of "The Bungalow Girls," a club of six north London school girls, whose special project is looking after the Alway Home children. An outing arranged for them at the McConnell home on Richmond street north was the crowning event of the year.

Calamity and Woe Coming To Earth In Large Chunks Says Chinese Forecaster

Local Businessman Warned of All Sorts of Direful Disasters.

HOW TO ESCAPE

Missive From China Gives Timely Tips to Those Who Would Escape Cataclysm.

A message from China brought to a city businessman today what is probably the most peculiar warning ever broadcasted to the world. It comes from one Lo Chin Jui, a native prophet of Chengtu, Szechwan, China, and foretells all sorts of dire disasters to occur some time "within the second ten days of the eighth moon of this year." Just why the warning should have been sent to the London man who received it is unknown. It came in the form of a letter wrapped in a bundle of Chinese newspapers and contained the personal wishes of the prophet that the recipient should heed the warning and mend his ways.

In speaking of the impending calamities, Mr. Jui outlines various unnatural effects which will accompany the terrors as follows:

There will be severe earthquakes.

The sun and the moon will be darkened for five days.

Great stars will fall on the earth.

There will be unusually great thunders, tempests and hailstones.

The oceans and seas will overflow their banks and sinners will be drowned.

Many angels and heavenly soldiers will descend to attack evil persons.

Strong on Quakes.

Considering that all this was written by Mr. Jui on Aug. 1, he was at least right in his remarks about

TRAFFIC GROWS FROM LONDON TO WINDSOR

Travel to Border Heavier Now Than in Period of Summer Vacation.

Members of the local staff of the Canadian National say that passenger traffic between London and Windsor is heavier now than at any time during the past.

During the summer months, when vacation travelers made use of the road, the daily train for Windsor carried from 10 to 12 coaches, and this proved ample accommodation at that time. Lately the traffic has been increasing rather than decreasing, and the train has grown first to twelve coaches and again to fourteen.

The departure of the 11:45 this morning was watched by an interested group of spectators who stood behind the crossing barrier to see a large "2 spot" mogul jerk the train into motion and slowly gain headway with a heavy train of fourteen crowded coaches.

The station officials say that such an increase in traffic at a time that is usually reckoned a dead season, augurs well for the future of the road, and John Gillean, veteran station master, went so far as to hint that if this sort of thing continues, London may some day have a new station.

Think 'King' Ben Has Passed Away

Special to The Advertiser.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 1.—Belief that "King" Benjamin Purnell, leader of the House of David, is dead, was strengthened today, following the unsuccessful raid early yesterday on the colony here.

State officials are anxious to locate Purnell to have him appear before the one-man grand jury at St. Joseph, Mich., tomorrow when investigation of the affairs of the colony is resumed.

LLOYD GEORGE IS TO SPEAK FIRST TO CANADIANS

Refuses To Give Public Address in New York Until Later Time.

TAKES LONG SLEEPS

Special Wireless to The Advertiser by a Special Correspondent Aboard the Mauretania.

Registered in Accordance with the Copyright Act.

S. S. Mauretania, Oct. 1.—Lloyd George is in training for a strenuous trip in United States and Canada by sleeping 15 hours a day. The remainder of his time he spends in preparing his Canadian speeches. He has refused to speak in public in New York, insisting that courtesy to Canada demands he should speak there first.

So far he has received 4,500 invitations to appear on public platforms during his tour. It is estimated that, if he accepted all these he would have to spend 11 years in America. He attended the ship's services yesterday and sang lustily.

LLOYD GEORGE UNABLE TO COME TO LONDON

Mayor Will Not Take "No" For Answer and Repeats His Invitation.

Lloyd George finds he is unable to visit London.

Official information as to this fact reached Mayor Wenige today from the ex-premier's secretary, from the Waldorf Hotel, New York City.

Nothing daunted, Mayor Wenige promptly wired another invitation. He is not yet convinced that the distinguished British statesman cannot be persuaded to visit the Forest City.

In effect, his worship wired: "We still assure you that we will be slighted if you do not visit us. I again invite you to visit London, Canada. We cannot take no for an answer this time."

SENIOR MEN ON HOME BANK STAFF FEAR FOR FUTURE

W. W. Muir, Manager of the Roncesvalles Branch, Toronto, Says Outlook Is Gloomy.

MANY MAY BE IDLE

That senior employees of the Home Bank were not being treated fairly by the Canadian Bankers Association was the charge made by W. W. Muir, former Londoner and manager of the Roncesvalles branch of the bank in Toronto, in discussing the situation with The Advertiser.

Mr. Muir claims that when the affairs of the bank are finally wound up practically all the managers and many accountants will be out of jobs. Upon applying for positions with other banks they were told that no vacancies exist for senior men and the result is that they will either have to hunt for positions in the United States or take on some other line of employment.

In addition to being thrown out of their jobs, old age insurance and all privileges customarily given bank men who have labored long in the service will be denied them. Many managers have become desperate as the prospect of being put upon the streets looms closer, Mr. Muir declared.

Attempts are being made, he said, to present the grievances of Home Bank managers before the bankers' association so that some equitable adjustment of the present state of affairs may be made. So far all representations made on behalf of senior employees have been in vain. It was thought for a time that the Bank of Commerce would find room in its staff to take care of Home Bank managers, but this proved false. Mr. Muir stated an indignation meeting of the managers would probably be held in Toronto, where steps would be taken to compel the Canadian Bankers' Association to take measures in their behalf.

BRITTAIN REPORT NOT READY.

Obviously the Brittain report upon the recent surveys of several municipal departments will not be submitted at tonight's session of the city council, as anticipated. This morning City Treasurer James Bell received a request from Dr. Brittain's staff in Toronto for certain information concerning London & Port Stanley debentures, etc. A copy of the 1922 city financial statement is also requested, if completed. This goes forward immediately.

A substantial increase in the customs duties and taxes over September, 1922, is shown in the cashier's report of the local customs house for the late month.

In all but two items large increases were recorded, the sales and excise tax on imports being the only departments to show a decline. The grant total of collections for the month is $303,049.80, which is an increase of $8,196.07 over the returns for the same month last year. The largest increase was made in excise taxes of $3,759.62. Next on the list of increases are customs returns amounting to $2,253.76.

The semi-annual cashier's report shows an increase for every month from April to September, with the exception of April and August, when moderate declines were recorded.

The total collections for the first half of the fiscal year show an increase of $280,756.42 over the same period of last year.

PREMIERS MEET FOR CONFERENCE ON VITAL ISSUES OF THE EMPIRE

Opening of Important Sessions Is Devoid of All Ceremony.

COVERS WIDE RANGE

Questions of Greater Independence in Dominions To Be Discussed.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 1.—With all the premiers of the Empire except Premier Bruce of Australia in attendance, the imperial conference opened its six weeks' session today, and after sitting for two hours, adjourned early this afternoon until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

By HAL O'FLAHERTY.

Special Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Daily News. Copyright.

London, Oct. 1.—Representatives of the five hundred million people who make up the British Empire gathered at 10 Downing street today with an almost complete lack of ceremony for the opening of an imperial conference which will decide the Empire's future politics.

No troops lined the narrow entrance to Premier Baldwin's official residence, no sabres clashed, not even a special detachment of "London bobbies" appeared to do honor to the historic occasion. The only preparation evident was the freshly-washed face of No. 10, from which workmen had scraped and scoured ten years' accumulation of London grime in order to make the building look presentable.

Widened in Scope.

The imperial conference this year has been widened in scope by the addition of an economic conference, regarded necessary by the overwhelming importance of re-establishing firm trade relations between the various elements of the Empire.

It is certain, also, that imperial relations—those bonds which unite the widely-separated dominions and colonies—will come up for discussion with the idea of finding some more satisfactory working basis, especially regarding effective consultation between the British government and the Dominions on matters of policy affecting the whole Empire.

The Daily Telegraph declares editorially that none of the dominions are satisfied with the existing state of affairs.

"In each of them," says the editorial, "the sense of nationality and the value set upon independence grows steadily with the passage of time. With this feeling grows a sense of disquiet aroused by the troubled and dangerous conditions in the old world.

Sir Wilfrid's Attitude.

"It is 20 years since Sir Wilfrid Laurier made the declaration, since forgotten in Canada, against the dominions entering into the vortex of militarism in which Europe was engaged. His successors all have felt themselves in deference bound to Canadian opinion to maintain that principle, to insist on their country's liberty to make its own decisions when questions of foreign policy affecting the dominions, as well as those of Great Britain, arose. Substantially the same opinion is held in the other dominions. They stand against any systematic relations between Britain and the dominions."

MARKET HOUSE TENANTS THREATENED WITH EVICTION

All tenants in the basement of the market house are going to lose their places after tonight's city council session, Ald. Gordon Drake announced at noon.

"We're going to settle with them tonight," he advised, "and we'll have all that space for the farmers' wives."

TWO NEW CITIZENS.

Harry Grace and Joseph Furanna, two foreigners, will soon be naturalized citizens of Canada. Their applications for naturalization were heard before Judge Judd at the court house today. His honor considered their applications in a favorable manner and stated to The Advertiser that the papers would shortly be signed.

FEDERAL PROBE INTO HOME BANK FAILURE LIKELY TO BE ORDERED

Prosecutions of Those Responsible May Follow the Investigation.

AWAITING REPORT

Hon. W. S. Fielding Continues To Maintain Silence Regarding Contemplated Action.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—That in view of varied disclosures in connection with the Home Bank disaster, a federal probe is inevitable, is taken for granted here, and that prosecutions will follow is regarded as highly probable. In the meantime, however, Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, continues to maintain an attitude of complete silence on the subject and it is doubtful if even the officials of his own department, who are most closely associated with him, have the least idea what is in his mind, or what his intentions are. At a late hour last evening the minister declared that he had not yet received Curator Barker's report.

The minister is a late worker and does not arrive at his office until shortly before noon in the morning. It is probable that the report will be in today's mail, but it is highly improbable that Mr. Fielding will have any comment to make upon it until he has had an opportunity of careful perusal.

If reports of the curator's findings so far made public are true, the Home failure will "rank" as probably the worst in the history of the bank failures in the Dominion and it will be practically impossible for the government to resist public pressure and the demand for federal investigation and federal action.

The first probable action will be to order an investigation by George Edwards, the government auditor who looked into the affairs of the Merchants Bank and who will be in a position to advise the minister as to the course which should be taken.

In the case of the Merchants Bank in charge of falsification of reports was laid and criminal prosecution instituted. So far there is no direct charge of that sort against the Home Bank though other questions appear to be involved. It is also in the competence of the minister to appoint a reputable firm of chartered accountants to make full investigation of the affairs of the institution. What action should be taken thereafter would depend upon the situation disclosed.

In the meantime the question arises as to who will recompense the unfortunate depositors for their estimated losses. If precedent, as laid down in connection with the Farmers Bank failure and other disasters is followed, there is no hope of federal assistance whatsoever.

SAYS NOTHING DEFINITE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Oct. 1. — Interviewed here this morning in regard to the Home Bank of Canada, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, issued the following statement:

"The bankers of Canada at large have not definitely agreed to undertake to advance to the curator the funds required by an assignment of the assets of the Home Bank. On the other hand, they have favorably considered the matter, and may probably make an advance if and when the legal formalities have been satisfied."

PEEK THROUGH WINDOW BRINGS $10 COURT FINE

Fred Dickson, a former resident of Poland, thought it would be perfectly all right to gaze through a window upon a young lady on Adelaide street, but the "peek" cost him $10 and costs in police court today.

The girl's mother saw Fred's round eyes turned through the window, and she sent for the police. Dickson was charged with disorderly conduct.

Four citizens each paid $2 in police court for breaches of city bylaws. Four paid $2 fines for breaches of the M. V. A., and a speeder paid $5. Three drunks were assessed $10 or 10 days in jail.

Fear Shortage of Vessels Will Mean Grain Blockade

Canadian Press Despatch.

Fort William, Oct. 1.—The question as to whether the flow of wheat and other grains from the West will swamp the available means for taking it down the lakes is as yet undecided. If the increase in grain stocks of last week, 5,000,000 bushels, has to be taken as an index of the weekly increase from now on, the port will be blocked by December 1, since there is now available storage space amounting to only 42,000,000 bushels to take care of the increase.

The alleged refusal of the United States Lake Shippers' Association to trade is regarded as possibly a source of danger. It is estimated that the co-operate in the Canadian grain Canadian lake fleet, all of which is as yet not engaged in the business, can care for between 100,000,000 and 110,000,000 bushels of grain before the close of navigation. Already a number of the big United States boats have been here, and it is understood that the lines which are sending their ships to Fort William will keep their entire fleets engaged in the Canadian wheat trade until winter. It is a question whether there are yet enough of them in the fleets now calling here to move the other 100,000,000 bushels which will have to go down the lakes before the close of navigation.

ATTACKS PRESENT BANKING SYSTEM

Peter McArthur Charges Methods Turns Thrift of People Against Themselves.

ILLUSTRATES CLAIMS

That the present system of banking in Canada increases the cost of living for the average person was the declaration made by Peter McArthur, well-known author-farmer, in speaking before the Current Topic Club at their first fall meeting held in Smallman & Ingram's dining-room Saturday night.

In his talk on "Canadian Banking" Mr. McArthur claimed, illustrating his contentions with facts and incidents, that the banking system used today turns the thrift of the people against themselves. The more money they save and place on deposit in the branch banks, he said, the more money goes to the head offices in Montreal and Toronto to promote and finance industrial combinations.

In dealing with the history of the Canadian banking system, he declared that evidently it was the policy of the men who control Canadian finance to eliminate the smaller banks as rapidly as possible by merging them with larger banking institutions. He ventured the opinion that further failures are not likely in the near future, though his reason tended to show that further mergers are quite possible.

Interesting Feature.

An interesting feature of his address was a review of the activities, and expressed opinions of H. C. McLeod, who, before his retirement in 1909, was general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia for 12 years. Mr. McLeod, one Canadian banker who has steadily advocated government inspections of banks, published a pamphlet in 1909, in which he pointed out the dangers of secretive banking.

This eminent banker's pamphlet and retiring address, the speaker asserted, foreshadowed many of the recent developments in Canadian banking. He resigned his position rather than keep up a fight against overwhelming odds. He thoroughly disapproved of the banking practices, that as he stated in a letter published in the public press of Dec. 9 last, must lead to a viritual monopoly of the savings of the Canadian people.

Varied Entertainment.

The entertainment part of the meeting represented in all its aspects a three-ring circus, and balloons, squawkers, and fancy headgear added to the joy of the affair. The first event, a pea-blowing contest, conducted by Prof. Bowman, was won by Miss Grace Needham. A. E. Cowley surprised all with his "ring" qualities, when he successfully led several sing-songs and other novelty events.

The report read by Secretary J. W. Cahill indicated that the club was in a thriving condition. After the retiring president, M. W. Althouse, gave a valedictory, acknowledging the hearty support of all the members during the past season.

President-Elect E. N. Hannah was then called upon to assume office, and after naming the program committee—George F. Copeland, Dr. J. Thornely Bowman and J. W. P. Jones—he introduced the honored guest of the evening, Mr. McArthur.

Miss Needham delighted the club with her solos, while Misses Dorothy and Gertrude Cahill rendered violin duets which won immense applause. Parnell Morris acted as accompanist. The concluding feature was the visit of a colored minstrel troupe, and their many melodies and parodies, and tales portraying the frailties of the different members caused considerable glee among those whose names were not mentioned.

ROBINSON MEMORIAL HAS RALLY DAY SERVICE

F. Marshall Presides At Gathering—Arthur Kennedy Delivers Address.

Rally day services drew a good attendance of scholars and parents at Robinson Memorial Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon. The program arranged by the general board of religious education was used. F. Marshall, superintendent, presided, being assisted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hiles, and the assistant superintendent, R. T. Harding. Recitations on the program were taken by Anne Walden, David Shales and Merle Francis. The primary department occupied the center seats, and during the course of the afternoon showed with what ceremony and care they marked the birthdays of the various members. The responsive reading selections on the program were entered into with a splendid, responsive spirit by the audience.

Arthur Kennedy spoke during the afternoon on the opportunity that was given to the teachers to reach the pupils during the early years of their life, when they were responsive to suggestions, and retained these influences permanently, although they might give very little evidence of it at the time.

The speaker quoted instances to show where boys had been so influenced, and where earnest men had even stopped the career of lads who went as far as the police courts, and had been instrumental in turning their steps to the ways of clean, wholesome citizenship.

Mr. Marshall, before the close of the session, announced plans for an active fall and winter work in the Sunday school. Mr. McAlpine, the organist and choirmaster, played a number of selections before the service, and also officiated for the congregational singing.

At Your Service—
Your Personal Shopper

This morning I have been thinking of a little couplet which expresses the carefree philosophy of Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm. It was Rebecca, you will remember, who said:

"When Joy and Duty clash,
Let Duty go to smash!"

And the soul-searching special writers would inquire, all in capital letters, "What would YOU do? Some day this problem may be YOURS!" Fortunately, it isn't mine! For my work as your shopper here is so pleasant and interesting that I feel as if Joy and Duty were pretty much the same thing! Of course it is fun to poke around the fascinating receiving room, and to tell you about new furs and rugs and china and dresses.

But most of all, I enjoy hearing from you. There have been so many prompt acceptances of the little invitation to write to "Judith" when you are too busy or too far away to go a-shopping yourself.

And in addition to the pleasure of serving you, I like to hear about the warm new coat you are having made, the labor-saving devices you are installing in your kitchen, the distinctive color combination of your new evening gown, as well as the garments you are planning to make for the children, the rugs and draperies you will need for the room you are redecorating, and the new blouse or bag for your fall suit.

So the very next time you want samples or information please write to

ESCAPE BY MIRACLE AS ENGINE HITS CAR

Two Thrown From Wrecked Auto At C. N. R. William Street Crossing.

Wellington Holman, 461 Dorinda street, and Neil McConnell, miraculously escaped death when they were thrown clear of their auto which was completely demolished by a C. N. R. yard engine at William street crossing, at 5:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Holman stated he did not hear the engine coming or hear the whistle. He claims the car spun around several times after it was struck by the engine, and as it spun, he and his friend were catapulted from it. The car finally struck a telegraph pole.

Dr. F. R. Clegg was called and attended the two motorists who were suffering from superficial wounds.

25 PER CENT PAYMENT TO HOME BANK DEPOSITORS

CURATOR MAKES OFFICIAL REPORT

Home Bank Will Make Advance Payment of 25 Cents.

GIVES STATEMENT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—An early payment of 25 cents on the dollar to depositors in the Home Bank of Canada has been decided upon. The payment will be made through the other chartered banks doing business in Canada. This announcement was officially made tonight by A. B. Barker, curator of the Home Bank of Canada, who is engaged in completing his report on the affairs of the bank now under suspension. The payment of the dividend on the deposits has been arranged through the Canadian Bankers' Association, the president of which is Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, president of the Bank of Montreal. Sir John Aird, vice-president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is vice-president of the Canadian Bankers' Association. The plan suggested is that depositors assign their deposits in the Home Bank to the bank at which they intend to draw the initial payment, or open a new account.

The decision to pay an initial dividend of 25 cents was announced by Mr. Barker in the following brief statement:

"Any estimate of the value of the assets of the Home Bank of Canada and probable amount of the division must be purely guesswork at this juncture. In view of the fact that realization of the assets will probably occupy a considerable time, it is highly probable that the banks will arrange to advance an amount to permit of an early payment of 25 cents on the dollar to depositors on account of their claims."

Words has come from Ottawa it was learned tonight demanding that there be a speeding up of the report, and that it must be in the hands of the government by Wednesday next in order that a full public inquiry be set in motion.

GERMANS PREPARE CAPITULATION NOTICE

French Will Not Withdraw From Ruhr Until Internal Situation Clears.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, Sept. 29.—Germany will give formal notice of her surrender to France next week.

Contrary to expectations, however, French troops in the Ruhr will be increased in spite of official despatches. Germany's internal situation is critical. Immediately the order to resume work is given the occupational forces will take no chances by premature withdrawal, but will be pushed up to the border lines between occupied and unoccupied Germany, ready for any eventuality. When the internal situation clears a gesture of reducing the stringency of the occupation is in order from France. This is understood to be the semi-official British view of what will happen. An inter-allied conference will follow.

PEOPLE OF WHEATLEY ARE DISAPPOINTED

Will Have To Take Another Vote in Order To Get Hydro.

Special to The Advertiser.

Wheatley, Sept. 30.—The people of Wheatley are chagrined to learn after having complied, as they believed, with all the legal requirements, and by a very large majority passed the necessary bylaws to provide for the installing of hydro power and lights for the village, that after eight months the hydro commission has found a defect in the wording of the bylaw which will necessitate taking the vote over again. It is pointed out as rather singular that it should take eight months to discover this flaw in the bylaw, and a feeling of irritation prevails that now with winter close at hand a further delay is necessary. The village council is seeking to meet these belated scruples of the hydro commission, and it is expected an early vote will again stress the wishes of the people very emphatically.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR VICTIMS OF DROWNING

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Sept. 30.—Funeral services for Albert Maggs and James F. Wynne, who were drowned in the St. Clair River Thursday evening when the barge Province capsized, were held jointly at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Parker Street Methodist Church to Lakeview Cemetery, and were under military auspices. Maggs was a member of No. 2 Company, 2nd Canadian Machine Gun Brigade, the local unit, and Wynne served with the imperial forces during the war. Ex-service men turned out in large numbers and marched from the armories to Parker Street Church to take part in the service.

The parade was under the command of Lieut.-Col. C. S. Woodrow. A firing party for the graveside was selected from the machine gun company. Pallbearers were supplied from war veterans for Wynne, and from the Sons of England Lodge for Maggs.

It was announced Saturday that an inquest will be held in a few days at Corunna.

DOMINION REPLIES TO SHAREHOLDERS

Government Declares "Every Dollar of Railroad Obligations Will Be Met."

ISSUE PAMPHLET

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—"Through it all, the Dominion has kept faith with capital and Canada has honored, and will continue to honor, every dollar of her obligations."

This is the final sentence in the statement issued simultaneously here and in London, England, by the Dominion Government in regard to the claim for Grand Trunk preference and common shareholders for compassionate allowance, to an amount unofficially placed at $25,000,000.

The statement contains no indication that any compassionate allowance will be paid, but, it is stated that "Every dollar of her (Canada's obligations in respect to transportation is being met by her limited population who may well be excused if they find themselves unable longer to go outside the bond, so far as railway charges are concerned."

Charge Rebutted.

The twenty-five millions mentioned as suggested in the request for compassionate allowance is described by the Government stated as roughly equivalent to a "ratio of thirty, twenty and ten for the first and second preference, third preference and common shareholders respectively."

The charge that the board of arbitration was biased is rebutted with the statement that the most unsparing critic of the G. T. R. management was the Grand Trunk representative, Hon. W. H. Taft.

The Dominion government statement is made public in two pamphlets, one of which contains a brief summary of the general course pursued by the authorities, the other covering the case in much more detail.

Not Profitable.

"Running through most of the articles criticizing action of the government," says the shorter pamphlet in part, "there is the assumption that the government has acquired from the Grand Trunk a profitable enterprise, and that the profits are being diverted from the English shareholders to the treasury of the Canadian government. The government has not acquired from the Grand Trunk a profitable enterprise. They acquired a bankrupt concern, which they had helped in many ways and which at last confessed its inability to carry on its work. Every day and every hour since the Grand Trunk property came into the possession of the government it has been a liability and not an asset, a burden upon and not a benefit to the treasury of Canada."

TWO MORE CAR ACCIDENTS OCCUR ON LAMBETH ROAD

Special to The Advertiser.

Lambeth, Sept. 30. — Sunday was marked by two more accidents on the Windsor highway. One of the accidents occurred in Lambeth, when a large car proceeding towards Delaware was passed by a smaller one going in the opposite direction. It happened that the smaller car passed over some crushed stone on the edge of the road, when a piece of the stone was picked up by the tire of the smaller car and hurled through the windshield of the larger auto, smashing the glass. A piece of the glass cut the cheek of a lady so severely that medical attention was required.

Later in the afternoon a collision occurred near London, when the large car in which the lady was injured through the freak accident in Lambeth collided with another car at Briscoe street.

The accident happened when the car traveling towards London turned out of a line of motors to pass the next car ahead. The cars which collided were both heavy seven-passenger cars, and were said to have been going at considerable speed.

None of the occupants of either cars were seriously injured.

Methodists Hold Centenary of West Oxford Church

Special to The Advertiser.

Ingersoll, Sept. 30.—The thoughts of those who attended special services in the West Oxford Methodist Church today were carried back 100 years to the time when a little band of devout and earnest pioneer men and women established the edifice as a place of regular worship. Today's services in the quaint little church commemorated its hundredth anniversary. It is recognized as the oldest ecclesiastical property in the county of Oxford, and the parent church of the Methodists of this town and the Central Methodist Church, Woodstock. The original church was established in 1823. In 1854 the present edifice was erected.

In the community in which the first little church was founded were many United Empire Loyalist families. Their achievements are closely woven into the development of Oxford county. They shouldered the great burdens of pioneer life without so much as a murmur, and today many families of the district are branches of those sturdy, conscientious, far-seeing pioneers. In the vicinity of the little church there is still much of a rugged, romantic aspect, which, despite the great changes wrought in a hundred years, suggests some things incidental to pioneer days.

The little edifice occupies a commanding position at the top of a hill. From its doors, rugged, but well-cultivated hills stretching to the east may be viewed, the scene being extremely picturesque. At the rear of the church there is a gradual slope to swamp land, where cedar, pine and elm predominate, and through which flows a little creek of spring water of sparkling purity. The little building is in a somewhat out-of-the-way place as convenience is considered nowadays, but a change in its location would never be entertained. It is one of the outstanding links connecting the past with the present. The oldest grave in connection with the church bears the date 1819.

Rev. J. M. Copeland of Salford is pastor of the church. The services today, however, were conducted by Rev. Dr. Crewes of Toronto. Dr. Crewes as a young man was pastor of the church, and his father also served as pastor of the same church.

PLOWING MATCH TO BE BIG EVENT

Annual Meeting of Ontario Association Will Be International.

OPEN TO MICHIGAN

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Sept. 30.—With the Lambton fall fair now stowed away for another year, the county and this city are now clearing the deck for the biggest event of the local year, the annual match of the Ontario Plowing Association, which will be held on selected ground on the London road, several miles south of the city, on Oct. 17, 18, 19. Always one of the biggest events for agriculturists in Ontario, this year's match has a special significance in that for the first time in its history it is to be an international event.

The farmers of Michigan have been invited to compete, and are thoroughly organized in an endeavor to wrest Canadian prizes from Ontario plowmen. Already all hotel accommodation has been booked, and the local chamber of commerce is appealing to citizens to billet the great crowd expected. There are some 20 events spread over the three days. They include sweepstake prizes, the grand championship, won last year by competitors from Bright, Ont., Milliken, Woodville and other places; the Renfrew Machinery Company trophy, valued at $100, which must be won twice to gain possession, and will be contested by three previous winners—Martin Vansickle, Middleport; W. O. Greenback, Hickson; and D. B. Mitchell, Bright; and most important of all the trophy donated by Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt for the best-plowed land in sod.

The Royal Bank announced yesterday the presentation of a solid silver shield, valued at $275, and a cup. They are offered for the best-plowed land in stubble, (walking plows), for boys under 18, and open only to residents of Lambton County. There are also the tractor events, which include a sweepstakes for the best-plowed land in sod. Western Ontario plowmen will be particularly interested in the sweepstakes trophy donated by John Carew of Lindsay for the best-plowed land in stubble, (walking plows), open to residents of Victoria County. William Short of Woodville won this in 1922, and takes possession if he is again successful.

Competitors from a distance will be furnished with horses, and the teams' committee is now making arrangements for the supply and upkeep of 60 teams. It is expected that a general meeting of all committees will be called for this week.

VENTURE SUCCESSFUL AT FAIR IN BLYTH

Exhibit of Horses and Cattle Outrivalled That of 1922.

Special to The Advertiser.

Blyth, Sept. 30.—The Blyth Fair, held Thursday and Friday, fully equalled the fairs of later years. The attendance was good and the weather on both days was splendid. By uniting the regular agricultural fair with the school fair, the interest of both old and young was secured, and the association members are well satisfied with the success of the venture.

The exhibits of horses and cattle were better than usual, but the fruit and vegetables fell a little below last year's mark. Thirty-five special prizes were given by Blyth businessmen and John Joynt, M. L. A. for North Huron.

Ten schools took part in the procession, all marching well, and headed by the Blyth Boy Scouts Band. The judging was done by the three local clergymen, Rev. P. Hawkins, Rev. Mr. Telford and Rev. Mr. Tiffin. The winners in order of merit are: No. 8, Hullett (Londsboro); S.S. No. 3, Morris; S.S. No. 1, Morris; Room 1, Blyth P.S.; S.S. No. 10, East Wawanosh; S.S. No. 11, East Wawanosh.

John Denholm won the half-mile race for school boys, while Joe Heffron was a close second. The Maple Leaf Sewing Circle had a bazaar and a sale of work on the grounds, and raised about $75, which will be used for the new Memorial Hall.

The concert at night in aid of the agricultural society was put on by the Bob Wilson Company of Toronto, and the hall was crowded. The proceeds amounted to $250.

After the concert the sewing circle gave an informal dance.

Criticism From Forest City Causes Dropping of History

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Because of complaints alleging that it was anti-British in its viewpoint, "A History of Europe—Our Own Times," has been stricken from the list of high school histories approved by the Ontario Department of Education. The criticism of the volume originated in London, Ont., and assumed such proportions there that Premier Ferguson was asked Saturday to make an investigation into the matter. The dropping of the work from the list of approved books for school use followed his inquiry.

The book was written by J. H. Robinson and Charles A. Beard, citizens of the United States. One point in which it was criticized was that in giving a brief review of the Indian Mutiny it omitted the incident of the Black Hole of Calcutta, but stated that at one point "The frenzied English showed themselves as cruel as the natives." It was further complained that, in describing the first battle of the Marne, it lauded Joffre and the French, but made no reference to the English division. In its record of the forces participating in the World War, it was finally charged, it made no separate mention of the Canadians.

The work was not one of the prescribed texts of the Ontario Department of Education, but was merely a book approved for use.

WILL INVESTIGATE DEATH OF WOMAN

Accidental Discharge of Revolver Believed To Have Caused Moxley Fatality.

SON FIRED SHOT

Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock Coroner J. C. Wilson will open a probe at the police station into the death of Madame Elizabeth E. Moxley, 15 Bernard avenue, who was shot by her son Andrew in their home Friday night. Authorities believe the shooting to have been purely accidental, but nevertheless decided to call an inquest to clear up minor details in connection with the shooting.

Coroner Wilson impaneled a jury at 6 o'clock Saturday night, and held the preliminary inquest at Ferguson's Undertaking Parlors, King street. The jury is composed of Harold Patterson, 212 Emery street, foreman; Robert R. Ferguson; Carol Smith, 1251 Hale street; Charles William Matthews, 911 Wellington street; William Edward Walters, 8 Johnston street; William L. Cook; Samuel Badalato; Albert J. Denney, 17 Beaconsfield avenue, and Frank Taylor.

After viewing the remains the jury adjourned until Wednesday evening.

Andrew Moxley, the son, feels the investigation keenly, as he and his mother had been the best of pals, each invariably extolling the other to friends and visitors to Madame Moxley's beauty establishment.

The victim had been an ardent church and war worker. During the war she was president of Victoria Red Cross. Her son was a singer.

Fatal Shot.

Madame Moxley, well-known London hair-dresser, was shot in her home, 15 Bernard avenue, Broughdale, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night by her son, Andrew, when a bullet was discharged as he was examining a revolver.

Madame Moxley was serving dinner when the shooting occurred.

"She had just brought a platter of food into the dining-room and was going out again when the gun discharged," Andrew stated. "I had taken the magazine out and didn't know a bullet was left in the gun. After the shot was fired I don't know what happened. I don't remember pressing anything; in fact, I don't know how it went off."

The revolver, a .32-calibre automatic, belonged to the victims son-in-law, Richard J. Ball, of Detroit.

Mrs. Ball, who was also visiting at the house, stated Andrew drew his mother's attention to the gun as she was leaving the room. As she turned, the bullet was discharged and lodged in her abdomen.

"When Andy saw his mother was shot he picked up three vases of flowers which were in the room and broke them over his head," she said. He has a big gash in his head. I think the poor boy will go out of his mind.

Mother Dying.

"When mother was dying she said 'I know it wasn't Andy's fault.'

"She knew she was dying. She was conscious right to the last and said she would not live.

"Before she died she asked to see little Helen, the granddaughter.

"It was my husband's gun. The other night Andy had his own gun. We were down at the river and he was shooting at a piece of board."

Madame Moxley lived five hours after the shot was fired. Dr. McNeill of Arva and Dr. Emerson L. Hodgins attended her, and stated an operation would be of no avail, that she would die of the shock."

At midnight, Coroner Wilson was called and decided an inquest was unnecessary.

At noon Saturday Sheriff D.A. Graham, Provincial Officer T. Y. Stratton and County Constable Cornell, who resides in Broughdale, acting under instructions from the crown attorney's office, questioned Moxley, and apparently were satisfied the shooting was accidental.

DISCOVER THAT SOVIET ORGANIZED REBELLION

Capture of Ferdinandovo Puts An End to Communist Movement.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Sofia, Sept. 30.—Documents found on Communist prisoners taken in the capture of Ferdinandovo afford undeniable proof, says a government statement, that the rebellion was organized and executed with the active assistance of the Moscow Soviets. The bodies of 209 Communists were found inside the Berkowitza lines after that place had been stormed by the government troops. Six hundred rebels were captured, the survivors fleeing toward the Roumanian frontier.

The Roumanian government has officially informed Sofia and also the frontier authorities that all Communists seeking refuge in that country will be turned back at the border. The notice adds that a division of troops has been ordered to the Bulgarian frontier to drive back the rebels.

The capture of Ferdinandovo by the government forces yesterday, it is asserted, marked the complete collapse of the Communist movement.

OFFICIAL'S DISAPPEARANCE AROUSES NEW HAMBURG

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Sept. 30.—The village of New Hamburg, near here, is somewhat aroused over the disappearance of Joseph Vance, for three years in charge of the local customs office. Vance has been missing since Sept. 17 when he borrowed an automobile from Edward Nikal for a trip to Baden, stating he would return by six o'clock. An audit has been made of his books, but local customs authorities refuse to make any statement with regard to the condition of the accounts following Vance's departure. The man has left a wife behind. He had no children.

Missing Editor of Tilbury Suffering Loss of Memory Found In St. Louis By Pastor

W. A. Shaw Returns To His Home Worn by Unusual Experience.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Tilbury, Sept. 30. — William A. Shaw, 61, editor of The Tilbury Times, missing eight weeks, has returned a changed man.

On a clue provided by his brother, M. A. Shaw, of Portland, Oregon, he was located in a private home in St. Louis, Missouri, and brought back to Tilbury by Rev. Dean Dobson, pastor of St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Tilbury.

After preferring not to talk about the incident, Dean Dobson told The Advertiser tonight that the editor had suffered from amnesia, or loss of memory, but had regained his memory in a flash when the familiar face of the minister met him in the St. Louis home.

Shaw told Dean Dobson he did not remember leaving Tilbury, and did not know how he had reached St. Louis.

At present Shaw is under the care of Dr. M. Sharpe of Tilbury. The wanderer is reported to be in poor health as the result of his experiences. He had not been at the St. Louis home long when Dean Dobson found him, the proprietors of the boarding house told the pastor.

Editor Disappeared.

Eight weeks ago, Aug. 7 to be exact, Shaw disappeared. At once a search of Western Ontario began. As days passed the search reached international proportions.

His wife appealed to newspapers throughout the country to aid in the search for him. Descriptions and photos were broadcasted. The wife, not knowing the reason for the disappearance, even resorted to a personal appeal to her husband, holding the slim hope that it might reach him.

A few days after his disappearance he was reported in Chatham, but investigation of this report brought no results.

During his absence, his wife Elizabeth, and the staff of the Times have been "putting out" the paper each week, praying that the editor might return soon.

When the clue to his whereabouts was provided by the brother, Dean Dobson volunteered to investigate it. He went to St. Louis, and with the aid of the authorities found the missing newspaperman.

Shaw had baggage with him and money. How much he had when he left home he does not know. Neither does he know by what route he came to St. Louis, or how long ago he left home.

World of Strangers.

While absent Shaw had lived in a world of strangers. Nothing that met his gaze brought back his memory. To him, it is said, there was nothing familiar that would awaken memories of a home and business in Tilbury. That was before Dean Dobson met him. The friendly, smiling face of the pastor and the outstretched hand served to bring Shaw back from the world of unreality through which he aimlessly wandered. He expressed his delight at meeting the minister, and all his responsibilities in life, his wife, his home and his paper settled on him again. It was his first wish that he immediately return to them.

Shaw was reported in St. Louis Thursday. Friday Dean Dobson found him. At 10:20 o'clock this morning they returned. Only a few friends and relatives were at the station.

Under Doctor's Care.

Haggard, in fact almost dead tired from the strange life he had led, Shaw was taken immediately to his home and placed under a doctor's care. It will be weeks before he is able to take charge of his paper again, Dean Dobson believes.

The editor looks older than when he left Tilbury. Where he has lived, what difficulties he has encountered in his bewildered wanderings halfway to the Gulf of Mexico Shaw does not know, he told the dean.

Today he is much relieved, although fatigued.

Visitors are being denied entrance to the Shaw home. His physician states he must have complete rest in order that he may recuperate rapidly.

In a few weeks, it is believed, he able to again take up the thread of business life, which snapped eight weeks ago, when driven by some power beyond his comprehension, he set out from his home and wandered through a world, which to him seemed strange, like a ship without a rudder.

INDIAN MARITAL TROUBLES IN WALLACEBURG COURT

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 30.—Magistrate A. B. Carscellan had a busy morning Friday settling marital differences amongst some Walpole Island Indians. William Johnson, a married man, but living apart from his wife, was charged with violating regulation 3 of the regulations governing Chippewa Indians at Walpole Island, in that he was living with a woman, Josephine Fisher, as man and wife, without being legally married to her.

Several witnesses were called for the prosecution, after which the defending solicitor, without calling any witnesses, moved for a dismissal, inasmuch as the prosecution had not proved that the couple had been living as man and wife. Magistrate Carscellan dismissed the case.

Eli Greenbird was then charged under the same regulations with living with a woman called Julia Smith. He pleaded not guilty, and after the evidence of his wife had been heard the case was remanded for a week.

TRIO HELD IN WALLACEBURG FOR HAVING STOLEN GOODS

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 30.—William Patterson and George Whitefoot were charged before Magistrate Carscallen Saturday afternoon with stealing a quantity of lumber, the property of the Township of Chatham, and a quantity of household goods belonging to Mrs. Shambleau, and Dan Miller was charged with receiving property, knowing it to have been stolen. All three were remanded until Monday. Whitefoot will be confined to jail, and Miller and Patterson as well, unless they are able to furnish the required bail, which, in Miller's case, is set at $700 and two securities of $350 each, and Patterson, $1,000 and two sureties of $500 each.

POULTRY THIEVES ALARM LAMBETH

Purebred Chickens, Ducks and Geese Disappear in the Night.

ROBBER GOOD JUDGE

Special to The Advertiser.

Lambeth, Sept. 30.—As a result of several thefts of chickens and other poultry in the Lambeth district, some of the farmers are talking of organizing a body of vigilantes to deal with the situation.

Late last week, J. C. Neale of the school house sideroad, found that while he slept some one had walked off with 150 pure bred Rock chickens. Mr. Neale naturally feels his loss keenly, and says that although there is no use crying over spilled milk, he will try to be on hand the next time such a performance is staged, and if he is so fortunate, the thief will get "treated rough."

Since Mr. Neale's loss was discovered, George Routledge, a farmer, whose land touches the village, reports the loss of a number of fine geese, and says that he cannot account for this loss only by theft.

Other losses have been reported throughout the summer, and a statement by a farmer south of Lambeth to the effect that he had noticed a truckload of poultry pass his home just before daybreak on more than one occasion, lends weight to the opinion held here that the thief or thieves operating in the district are working on a considerable scale. It is also stated that they know poultry, for in all the cases noticed no noise or commotion among the poultry was heard, and the stock stolen in each case was prime stuff.

IS GREEN AT THE GAME, SO ONLY FINED $500

Stratford Man Caught With Forty-One Bottles of Corby's in Goderich.

Special to The Advertiser.

Goderich, Sept. 30.—Thomas Reidy of Stratford was fined $500 on Saturday by Police Magistrate C. A. Reid for having liquor in other than a private dwelling. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Magistrate Reid said that he had considered making the fine $1,000, but since it was Reidy's first offence, and his actions showed him to be a "greenie at the business" he fixed the fine at $500.

Reidy, who is about 25 years old, told the court that he had met a party in Detroit last April, and had arranged to purchase from him three and a half cases of whiskey. The transfer of the goods was arranged to take place outside Stratford on the evening of May 2. This was done, and Reidy parked the whiskey under a bridge in a bush road, three miles south of the city, where it stayed until last Wednesday. Reidy said the party was known only to him as "Wild Jimmy." He paid "Wild Jimmy" $104 for 41 bottles of Corby's whiskey. Reidy had been unable to get rid of the stuff in Stratford, he stated, so last Thursday he planned to take it to Detroit, in an automobile owned by his brother, John Reidy, also of Stratford. It was his intention to go by a back road via Goderich, to Sombra, leave the whiskey there and go on to Detroit. He received a tip, he explained, that he might be able to dispose of some in Goderich, but he was not able to get in touch with his man before Inspector W. T. Pellow took him in charge with the 41 bottles of "hootch."

WHAT WOULD GOD DO WITH ROBBERS?

Rev. William Beattie Deals With Recent Toronto Bank Hold-Ups.

DESCRIBES WAR ZONE

"What Would God Do With the Bank Robbers," was the subject of Rev. William Beattie's sermon at the First Presbyterian Church last night.

His sermonette, which preceded the main sermon, was a descriptive talk on the restoration of the war-swept fields of Belgium and Northern France. In this discussion, Rev. Beattie said that there is something more than interesting in a Canadian's visit to this district. Canadians feel that they have an interest or a right in the land for which they fought, and that they feel less like strangers while in Belgium than in almost any other part of the globe. He mentioned the beautiful monuments and cairns which have been erected in memory of Canada's finest sons as fostering this feeling, and also in their hearts the people of Belgium really appreciate the great sacrifices which were made on her behalf.

Discusses Robberies.

In his regular sermon, Mr. Beattie discussed the recent bank robberies in Toronto from several angles. Taking first the side of the question which deals with the law of our present civilization, he stated that under this heading the bandits should be hunted down and treated with the utmost severity.

"Our laws, designed to protect property and life, are based on the Ten Commandments, and the one commandment "Thou Shalt Not Steal" is too plain and obvious a command to permit of any least quibble. It is for this reason that the police of Toronto and all our cities, as well as the American police at the border, are making every effort to bring the guilty men to justice," he stated.

"Occasionally one hears of the communist statement that property is owned in common by the masses. This is not the case. In the matter of publicly-owned utilities, no doubt, we are all communists to a degree, but in the matter of privately-owned property we have scriptural authority for the right of any man to hold in his own name such goods and property as his industry or birthright may bring him.

Are Outlaws.

"The bandits who enter, plunder, and evidently get away with their plunder, are outlaws, and if our civilization is to be upheld, some means must be devised to make these robberies less attractive.

"Going back to the Scriptural side of the question, we find that although God gives us authority for our laws, he has other ways for dealing with bandits. Robbery is only one form of crime, but in His great justice God treats all men alike, and does not select one crime or one misdemeaner on which to base judgment. Not their single sins, but the balance of good or evil in their character will decide their ultimate judgment," he said.

In discussing this angle of his subject, he pointed out that not punishment, but the redemption of the sinner was God's purpose in reclaiming and pursuing wrong-doers.

He referred to a recent cartoon of the German president, throwing aside a scroll entitled "Passive Resistance," and turning towards a road studded with bayonets, emblematic of the fact that Germany will have to retrace her footsteps over a thorny footpath before she can hope to regain her moral position among the nations.

"In the same way," said Mr. Beattie, "the Toronto bandits will have to retrace their lives and recover the damage they have done others and blot out the mark they have set upon themselves.

We are told," he said, "that the way of the transgressor is hard. I would point out that not the way, but the 'way back' is hard, and the difficulties and sorrow encountered in redeeming one's character will be exactly commensurate with the gravity of the misdeed."

CHARGED WITH OBTAINING UNLAWFULLY $2,500 TOOL

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, Sept. 30. — Colin Campbell was charged before Magistrate Carscellan this afternoon with obtaining $200 and a beet cultivator valued at $2,500, by false pretenses, inasmuch as he represented that some pigs sold by him to a man named Dunlop were free from encumbrance, whereas at the time the sale was made there existed a chattel mortgage held by the Bank of Montreal. He was remanded until Monday and given the opportunity of obtaining bail in $1,000 and two securities of $500 each. Failing this he will await his trial in jail.

OCEAN LINERS COLLIDE, BELIEVE NO CASUALTIES

Associated Press Despatch.

It is thought there were no casualties.

SMALL CAR LOSES WHEEL IN CRASH WITH TRUCK

A large truck owned by the Marshall Cartage Company of Stratford crashed into an automobile owned by A. M. Smith and Company, and driven by W. J. Dalgleish at the corner of Richmond and York streets at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The right rear wheel of the small car was broken as a result of the collision. It is thought the narrow passageway leading from Richmond to York due to the laying of pipes along Richmond street by the Public Utilities was partly to blame for the collision.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1923.

A Doctor Who Drives After Dark.

A doctor from a village near London was discussing night driving. He has been at it for a number of years, and goes back to the days when he used a horse.

"At that time we all jogged along the road together," he said, "and no person had any advantage. When the cars first came in we did not meet many of them for quite a few years. Now we nearly all use them for night or day driving, and they all carry lights front and back. I have never had much trouble that way, but the horse vehicles that travel at nights with no lights are a constant dread to me. Some may be able to spot them, but I must admit that I can't do it, especially if there is dust on the road, and we frequently find a lot of it. I know of only one safe way, and that is to drive well over to the left, or, as it is, the wrong side of the road. I have often passed unlighted rigs in this way and have not been aware until in the act of passing that they were on the road. It is the most dangerous practice I know of, and I cannot understand how people will go ahead and do it night after night."

And yet it is done, and it is not against the law. There should not be the necessity of passing a law to stop such a dangerous practice. There have been serious and fatal accidents from this cause, plenty of them to bring home very forcibly the positive and very real danger to which a person is exposed when driving an unlighted conveyance after dark.

Peterborough Examiner Does Well.

Some time ago Peterborough told Sir Henry Thornton they wanted a Pullman left off there to hitch on to the Montreal night train. The statement was made that it would be good business and would pay.

On that assumption the service was given, but the experiment has been a losing one, and Sir Henry Thornton states plainly it will be discontinued if it does not attract more business.

The Peterborough Examiner says quite frankly that it does not blame Sir Henry for his attitude at all, and that the National Railways must be run as a business proposition.

The Examiner is to be commended for this attitude. Too often papers are out to fight for their own cities because their interests are tied up there and it proves the popular thing to do.

It requires more courage and good sense to do as the Peterborough paper has done, and look past the local issue to the larger one, which in this case is the welfare of the people's railway.

Britain and United States.

A writer in the London Standard speaks pointedly of the attitude of United States toward European matters, but traces more particularly the fortunes of Britain because of the attention paid to what the United States was supposed to do.

At the outset he charges that Britain allowed ex-President Wilson to dominate affairs at the Paris conference for six months before the Treaty of Versailles was signed. Britain welcomed the idea that United States approved, through the words and ideals of its president, an international peacemaker in the shape of the League of Nations, and on that assumption allowed certain clauses to be written into the peace treaty that did not contain the fullest guarantee that Germany should not again attack France. The writer in the Standard even goes so far as to claim that the manner in which these clauses were drafted had much to do with driving France into the Ruhr. Mr. Wilson certainly created the belief that United States would back the league, whereas the American people at the first opportunity turned the whole thing down flat.

The next step was when England was invited to come to Washington, where naval disarmament was discussed. Britain agreed, and has been the only nation to promptly carry out its promise. Other nations did not follow the plan, and Britain was left just that much worse off.

The American people, the Standard declares, next proceeded to collect war debts from Britain, the only nation that was solvent. Italy and France have not been pressed for a penny on back debts. And this British debt was incurred fighting an enemy that so outraged United States that she was later on forced to fight for her own safety. There was nothing written off for that reason.

The London paper declares that the American people have said one thing and done another; they speak of ideals, yet worship realities. We do not know to what extent the indictment reflects British opinion, but it shows that a certain school feels that British interests have been weakened by waiting for expected action that United States shows no inclination to take now.

Branch Managers Are Careful.

A correspondent in the Guelph Mercury wants to know why banks fail. He suggests the answer by saying that it is because some large borrowers with poor security seem able to worm their way in.

If this is so, and there seems to be some ground for the claim, failures cannot be laid at the door of the branch managers.

These men may or may not have a great deal of latitude in making loans, but they do exercise a great deal of care in their selection of people able to meet any obligation they may assume to the bank.

If the same scrutiny were observed all the way through, including the head office, there would be very few failures.

W. Z. Foster an Authority on Jails.

William Z. Foster, one of the most radical and dangerous leaders of men in United States, says the Kansas City jail is foul and filthy.

In fact, he believes it is one of the worst jails he was ever in.

It is perhaps a good thing that for men of the Foster type that some jails are not up to much.

It may create in him a desire to mind his own business and keep out of them all.

Amateur Baseball a Success.

The St. Thomas baseball team has won The Advertiser trophy, the emblem of the championship of the Southern Ontario League. The gathering at which the presentation took place was remarkable evidence of the hold the good amateur sport has on any community.

The way in which people have patronized the amateur leagues in the cities of Ontario this year has been remarkable. Patrons are satisfied, pleased and enthusiastic. They know the players; remember when they were having their first action on the corner lots.

The players themselves have an interest in the game that is not seen in the professional team. It is not "all in the day's work" for them to play a game of ball. It is their team and their city—the whole game is very real, and they hold back nothing that would help to win.

Let these cities of southern and western Ontario keep their sport clean, their teams amateur, and they will continue to have a place where they can spend a mighty happy summer afternoon or evening.

And So He Stays in Jail.

A man in a Chicago jail for working a confidence game has been left a fortune of $250,000.

The jail authorities have looked up his record and found that he has never done any useful work, but has been occupied with various easy money schemes, whereby he could exchange his meanness for other people's money.

Wisely they decide that he shall stay right in jail until his sentence runs out, and that in the meantime he shall not have one dollar of his unearned wealth.

Providing one wholesome illustration of the fact that prison gates are sometimes stronger than gold dollars.

The Red Netting Still at Work.

Looking at green peaches through a piece of red netting is a part of the annual deception that marketers have to meet and deal with.

With this bit of gauze it is possible to make a very pale and anaemic peach have a reddish blush that bespeaks maturity and fitness to use.

Then blue is used on the plums and grapes with much the same result.

It would be much fairer were the growers to use nothing except a plain white net, under which the fruit would look exactly as it is, and not exactly as it is not.

Under that dress, quality would have a chance to sell as quality, and buyers would be quick to realize it.

Note and Comment.

London doctors say golf is great exercise. A buck-saw and a pile of wood is also entered for consider[illegible], and it had the field first.

Postage stamps cannot be used on checks any more, but they are still handy for pasting torn dollar bills together, mending punctured tires, cracked windows, and also for sending letters.

The weakest point in Chicago's case is that after going ahead and taking millions of cubic feet of water from the great lakes, she finds it necessary to start her apologetic machine broadcasting.

The Petrolia Advertiser-Topic says that the street lighting there would be better if the summer's accumulation of dust were cleaned out of the globes. Therefore let the municipal dustcloth be unchained.

The editor of the St. Catharines Standard must have had to make an awful leap for his life, because he went back to the office and figured out that a car going 60 miles per hour covers 88 feet per second.

Say, can it be that those bank robbers sat down under a tree near Toronto and counted the money? It's a wonder they didn't go and sit on the steps of the city hall and ask the city treasurer to make change for the big bills.

The objection of Manitoba papers to the abbreviation of their province to "Man." recalls the way in which the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier used to pronounce it. It was always as though it were spelled "Manitobaw," with the accent pleasing placed on the last syllable. Still, the old chief had such a unique way of saying many things that it is not to be wondered at that his treatment of this word is missed in the west as elsewhere.

DIBS AND DABS —BY HARRY MOYER

The Guide Post— By Henry van Dyke

MOVING DAY.

Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house.—Genesis 12:1.

Is not Moving Day marked in all our calendars?

Is it not a symbol of the unexempt condition of our mortal pilgrimage?

From house to house we move; but that signifies little, if we do not overburden ourselves with rubbish.

From youth to age we move; but that is not fatal if we do not overload ourselves with prejudices.

From opinion to opinion we move; but that is natural if we are not forced to do it in haste.

The man who thinks when old precisely the same on all points as he thought when young is not a conservative. He is an obstacle.

Systems, theories, idolatries, are things to be left behind on Moving Day.

They will not fit the new house.

But three things are worth carrying with us on all earthly migrations—the Ten Commandments; the Golden Rule; and the faithful saying "that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

JURY EXONERATES DRIVER OF CAR FROM CULPABILITY

Special to The Advertiser.

Simcoe, Sept. 30.—The inquiry into the death of Mrs. Joseph Misner, who was killed in a motor car accident just north of Simcoe on Sunday evening, was held at the police court on Thursday night, with Coroner Dr. McGillivray present. Medical testimony showed that the victim only possessed about 40 per cent of her normal health, and that death was due, to shock. The jury stated their belief that the fatality was purely accidental, and completely exonerated Mr. Beemer, the driver of the car, from any blame.

TO THE EDITOR.

THE ATTITUDE OF THE SUN LIFE.

Montreal, Sept. 28, 1923.

Editor of The London Advertiser.

Sir: In connection with the Northern Life matter, may I be permitted to explain the attitude of the Sun Life Company?

When we were waited on by a deputation representing the Northern Life's board of directors, we examined its' reports carefully, and stated that we believed we could make an arrangement on approximately certain terms, but that we could not, and would not, do anything in the matter unless and until we were sure that our action would meet with the approval of the dominion superintendent of insurance. I told them I was reasonably sure that such approval would not be given, for Mr. Finalyson years ago put himself on record to the effect that Canada in time to come, when her population and wealth will be greater, will need many life companies, and the way to have such companies then is to prevent their absorption now. He stated that he would advise the minister to refuse approval of any reassurance or amalgamation which would absorb any Canadian company whose present condition is such that it promises to have a good future. To this position he has consistently adhered ever since, and his refusal to recommend the reinsurance of the Northern Life was only what I expected.

The moment Mr. Finalyson announced his disapproval of the proposed arrangement our interest in the matter ceased. Our offer fell automatically to the ground, and was given no further thought by us. It was already ancient history with us, when to our deep regret we found it brought out into the limelight of publicity. So far as we are concerned, the incident has been for some time closed—dead and buried. With the present differences among the officers and stockholders of the Northern Life we are in no way concerned.

I should point out that the reassurance negotiations fell through solely for a reason highly creditable to the Northern Life. The superintendent of insurance considers that its position is so satisfactory, and its future prospects so encouraging, and so bright, that he is unwilling to have it absorbed. Under whatever control the future of the Northern Life may develop, we shall follow its course with friendly and sympathetic interest, and that it has a fine future before it I personally feel quite sure.

Your very truly,
T. B. Macaulay,
President.

Weddings of the Month

GRASBY—NESBIT.

Special to The Advertiser.

Blyth, Sept. 28. — The Rectory, Blyth, was the scene of an interesting event at noon, Thursday, when Miss Mary Nesbit of Yorkshire, England, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Grasby of Morris Township. The young couple were unattended. Mr. Wm. Nesbit and Miss Myrtle Grasby were witnesses.

HILL—MANSON.

Special to The Advertiser.

Paris, Sept. 29. — A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the house of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Manson of Ayr, at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, when their youngest daughter, Stella Magdalene, was united in marriage to Mr. Hugh Blacker Hill, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Aylmer.

Rev. J. Brown conducted the ceremony, and Miss Lillian Myers, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march. The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with vases of rose asters. The ceremony was performed between two white pillars banked with asters and greenery. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a cocoa brown felt crepe costume trimmed with velvet. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses arranged in a shower effect.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, and to Miss Lillian Myers a silver mesh purse.

A delightful buffet luncheon for 25 was served after the ceremony. Mauve asters formed the table decorations. Mr. and Mrs. Hill left on a wedding trip to Buffalo and other points east. Many out-of-town guests were present.

COOPER—BALLINGALL.

A pretty autumn wedding took place Friday in Winnipeg, when Ivy Gladys, third daughter of Mr. G. T. Ballingall was married to R. E. Cooper of Sarnia. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Archdeacon McElheran of St. Matthew's Church. Mr. A. H. Thompson asted as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, followed by a buffet luncheon.

LAMPKIN—HEARD.

One of the prettiest of the autumn weddings took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Wellington Street Methodist Church, when Annie Kathleen Heard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heard, was married to Charles W. Lampkin, son of Mrs. Robert Houlden, Central avenue. Rev. George Watts performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. H. Collycott of Rochester, Mich., an uncle of the bride.

The church was artistically decorated with quantities of mauve and yellow asters and clusters of gladioli, and as the charming bride entered the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus was played by Miss Lotta Fisher, who wore a gown of brown canton crepe with radium lace trimmings, a brown panne velvet hat, and a corsage of Sunburst roses. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Robt. Durst sang "All Joy Be Thine." Mrs. Durst wore a navy blue canton gown, with a black hat, and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming gown of Havana brown georgette, richly beaded, with a nigger brown velvet hat, with burnt orange feather trimmings, and she carried an arm bouquet of Sunburst roses. She also wore the groom's gift, a white gold wrist watch. Mrs. Frieda Stevens was her sister's matron of honor, gowned in navy blue georgette, with sand trimmings. Her hat was of sand and blue, and she carried an armful of pink roses. Mr. E. Morrell Blackie of this city acted as best man, and Messrs. Charles Payne and Clarence Donaldson acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Waterloo street. Mrs. Heard wearing a gown of navy blue canton crepe, with a corsage of pink roses, and Mrs. Houlden gowned in gray crepe, received with the bride and groom. The rooms were decorated with pink and white asters and gladioli. A buffet supper was served from a table adorned with roses and centered with the bride's cake. The guests numbered 33.

Mr. and Mrs. Lampkin left later on a honeymoon, which will be spent in Montreal and Quebec, and upon their return they will reside in London. The bride donned for traveling a wrap coat of navy marvella cloth, with sable trimmings.

DEWAR—RYAN.

A quiet wedding took place at St. George's Parsonage, West London, Saturday, Sept. 22, when Florence Edna, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan of Lucan, was married to James Alexander, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Dewar. Rev. Canon Sage performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Dewar will reside on Argyle street, London.

GRANT—WELCH.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Sept. 30.—The Devine St. Methodist Church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding Saturday afternoon, when Myrtle Marguerite, only daughter of Mrs. Margaret Welch and the late George H. Welch of Sarnia, was united in marriage to James Charles Grant, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Grant, 200 Wychwood avenue, Toronto. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. N. Clarry. The bride, who was given away by her brother, S. L. Welch, looked lovely in white georgette and lace. Her cap-shape veil of net was arranged with orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Annie E. Spence, of Listowel, cousin of the bride, wore a pale blue taffeta gown, with gray hat and feathers. Little Margaret Alexander of Moore Township made a dainty little flower girl in pale pink silk, and carried a basket of asters and gladioli. The groom was attended by his brother, Leo Grant, of Toronto. Miss Anna Boyington sang very sweetly "Because" during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 240 Stuart street, where a buffet luncheon was served to 60 guests. Later Mr. and Mrs. Grant left for their honeymoon trip to Cleveland, Buffalo and Toronto, the bride wearing a brown silk broadcloth suit, trimmed with beaver fur, with cocoa colored hat. On their return they will reside in Sarnia.

Your Health: Why "Myocarditis" May Follow Another Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

Making up the chief substance of the heart walls is the muscular structure called the myocardium. As a matter of fact the powerful muscle fibers furnish a large part of the heart tissue.

We are familiar with the various forms of inflammation attacking the muscles of the trunk and limbs. The pain and other symptoms of muscle inflammation make a combination which we describe as "rheumatism."

When inflammation attacks one of the voluntary muscles it is not so important, because the suffering muscle can be put at rest by bandaging. But when an involuntary muscle—one over which the will-power has no control—is diseased, it is a different story.

Inflammation of the heart muscle is called "myocarditis." It is a disagreeable and serious disease.

Some diseases, probably most diseases, are primary diseases. By this I mean they are diseases which strike directly at some structure or organ, without involving other tissues beforehand, in the manner that pneumonia attacks the lungs.

Fortunately the heart, an organ so vital to our happiness and life itself, is guarded from attack. With most people it never shows a sign of disturbance throughout a long life. If we could so live as to avoid the preventable diseases, there would be few cases of heart disease.

Myocarditis is always secondary to some other ailment. Just look at the long list of diseases which may be followed by myocarditis. In this list we find diphtheria, tonsilitis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, influenza, pneumonia, smallpox, tuberculosis and ptomaine poisoning. There are others, but this gives you an idea of why certain diseases are treacherous and highly dangerous.

There are two types of myocarditis, the acute and the chronic. It is the first, the acute form, which we will consider today. This one of the causes of sudden death. Do not be alarmed, because myocarditis need not necessarily be fatal, but, as I have said, it is always serious.

Rapid pulse, irregularity in the beat, and low blood-pressure are among the symptoms. Paleness, vomiting, restlessness, fainting and pain in the chest are other familiar symptoms.

Absolute quiet in bed is necessary. This should be insisted upon until the pulse is normal. It is not safe to permit any exercise till trifling causes no longer excite the heart.

Two or three weeks after the irritable heart has acted in a normal way the victim may sit up in bed. From this time forward he can gradually increase the amount of his daily exercise.

Ultimately the heart returns to normal action.

Candles

By ANNE CAMPBELL.

My friends are candles burning
Within a world of night.
I tend each shining taper,
They shed a mellow light.
I'm sure they'll last till morning,
I know what I'm about;
For oh, I could not bear it
If just one light went out.

LORD RENFREW CONCLUDES HIS HOLIDAY ON RANCH

CITY GETS BILLS, BUT NO REPORT ON COST OF RAILWAY

Mysterious Account Comes to City Hall From Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

SURVEY EXPENSES?

Who is going to pay for Sir Adam Beck's recent survey and valuation of the London Street Railway Corporation? Mayor Wenige has already stated that the city council did not authorize and is in no way responsible for any costs that may be incurred by the member for London in this undertaking. His worship insists that Sir Adam was merely directed to secure a prospective purchase price from the company and nothing else.

But the bills for this work have started to reach the city hall, or, at least, what the city officials believe to be bills from hydro engineers who recently viewed the local street railway lines at the instigation of Sir Adam.

One bill for $44.20, as a matter of fact, now awaits the attention of the members of the finance committee; received at the city offices this morning from the offices of the hydro-electric power commission, Toronto.

City authorities informed The Advertiser that they did not know for whose services the remuneration calls or who, if anyone, sanctioned the undertaking. The bill states merely "valuation purposes" and in detail enumerates the expenses while in London, presumably for a hydro engineer.

The bill cites railroad fare to London from Toronto, hotel bill, tips, car fare, five gallons of gasoline, telephone charges and so forth.

The city officials are at a loss to understand what the work is for, unless another valuation of the street railway—similar to the now famous Bunnell report.

It will be remembered that there was considerable misunderstanding and not a little debating among the members of the present city council before they sanctioned the payment, just recently, of the sum of $1,100—the cost of the latter document, prepared for the street railway bylaw vote last December.

It looks like another case of history repeating itself unless the council gets busy and makes a definite pronouncement.

JOHN RODE, RODE AWAY UNDER POLICE GUARD

Vag. Leaves London Under Watchful Eyes of Police Constable.

John Rode, an Austrian by birth, lived up to his name this afternoon as he "rode" out of the city under the watchful eyes of a police constable, who rode up a party of one to wish him final voyage.

John admitted he was a vag. when he appeared before Magistrate Graydon this morning. He was apprehended by Constable James Singleton in the cold gray dawn as he snoozed in the park, and finished out his sleep in one of Chief Birrell's best cells.

"You've been in jail every place," Magistrate Graydon stated. "Do you want to go to jail? You can't loaf round here, you know.

John didn't care for this program, and stated he thought he could get work.

"If you are brought here again, you will go to jail as a vagrant," promised the court. "You'll be frozen to death if you persist in wandering round.

"You better keep him, chief, and get him out of town," said the magistrate addressing Chief Birrell.

"I'll get him out," promised the chief, and as the chief, like Buffalo Bill, always keeps his word, John rode out of the city this afternoon in an easterly direction.

BABY BUGGY HIT BY CAR, OCCUPANT NOT INJURED

The remarkable feature of a motor-car accident which occurred Saturday evening at a well-known point in the vicinity of Port Stanley, was the fact that a baby, although thrown from a buggy to the ground, was uninjured.

At the intersection of the roads, just beyond the iron bridge at Stop 23, of the L. and P. S., at the village limit, the motor turned the corner without observing the buggy. It was not going at a fast pace, however, and little injury was done to either the buggy or the motor. None of the occupants were harmed in any way.

Calamity and Woe Coming To Earth In Large Chunks

earthquakes. He has the most extraordinary list of things that he thinks people should do in preparation for the coming calamity. For instance, he advises:

1. The general preparation is to avoid hunger, thirst, and coldness. Besides this, nothing could be prepared by human beings.

2. Those who live near rivers, lakes, or seas ought to move, before the 24th of September of this year, to the high hills, but not to the sides of cliffs.

3. If there are no hills nearby, then the people should move into ships, the ropes of which must be fastened very strongly.

4. Those who live near cliffs should move to the plain.

5. Those who live in high brick buildings should move into the smaller and lower houses. If no such houses are available, it is even better to live in the open plain.

6. It will be best to live in thatched huts, if available.

7. Old men and young children should put on warmer clothes before the fifteenth of the eighth moon of the old calendar.

Ha! the Wine!

8. Those who usually fear cold weather should prepare some good wine and put it in a bamboo or tin tube for the purpose of keeping away cold.

He goes on to advise:

10. Milk should be purchased for children, and the milk should be mixed with boiling water before the fifteenth of the eighth moon of the old calendar. When they are hungry, the milk may be given to them.

11. In the places where no milk is available, lotus-root flour should be secured and mixed with boiling water before the fifteenth of the eighth moon. If no lotus-root flour is available, well-cooked congee may be used instead. If people fear the coldness, causing trouble to their stomachs, cardamon flour may be poured in, or ginger water may be used to mix the lotus-root flour.

Take Cold Lunches.

12. The food which should be prepared varies at various places. At any rate, locally available food should be secured and made into a quality, neither dry nor wet. Food which can be eaten when cold is the best for preparation.

13. The prepared food should be sufficient for five or six days' use, and must be brought with the persons.

14. If no water is available when one is thirsty, one should prepare some capsicum to quench one's thirst. Only one or two seeds of capsicum should be taken at a time.

15. After the great tribulation (or calamity) neither dry nor food difficult to digest should be eaten, but only vegetables and porridge may be taken. Within three or four days after the great tribulation, one should not eat too much.

16. When the great tribulation comes on, each person should remain in his own place, and should not move away during these days. Those who are outside should not enter the houses; those who are inside should not go out of the houses. Although one may have relatives at other places, one should not go to see them. When any sound is heard, no one should look out lest the fatal punishment of the angels and heavenly soldiers fall on them.

EXPRESS MEN DO HONOR TO RETIRING OFFICIAL

B. S. Murray Presented With Purse of Gold From His Associates.

To do honor to B. S. Murray, traveling agent of the Canadian National Express, who is retiring from that position after a life-long service, representatives of officials and employees of Montreal and western points gathered at the offices of the Canadian National Express Saturday evening. Mr. Murray is succeeded as traveling agent for the London division by R. C. Mellish of Stratford.

J. H. Moore, manager of real estate and personal property, headquarters Montreal, represented the executive. The western division was represented by G. L. Bothwell, superintendent, London, and the employees by J. C. Andrews and D. Blackall.

Mr. Andrews, in his chairman's address, referred to Mr. Murray in glowing terms for the half century of honorable and unbroken service he had given to the company. "Mr. Murray has always played fair, and on the level with everyone in and outside the company, and he is passing out of active service with the goodwill and wishes of not only the officials and employees, but many others outside the service," said Mr. Andrews.

Mr. Blackall heartily indorsed Mr. Andrews' remarks, and presented the retiring agent with a purse of gold.

J. H. Moore, of Montreal, former Londoner, figured Mr. Murray's travels as being over 1,224,000 miles during his connection with the company. "Mr. Murray is still in the pink of condition," said Mr. Moore. "He is still going strong, and I think his service with this company certainly a record."

Mr. Murray is possibly the oldest man in years of service in the district.

TRAFALGAR SCHOOL WORK MAY BE DELAYED

Some Doubt Now That Contract Can Be Completed by November 1.

Dout now exists as the whether the Trafalgar School will be completed by Nov. 1.

This feeling was expressed by the school's architect, L. E. Carrothers, this morning, when questioned as to the possibility of it being ready for occupancy at that time, two months later than the date set out in the contract.

Lack of efficient plasterers is given as the reason for the delay, all the exterior and most of the interior work having been completed, the decorating being about all that remains to be done. For some time past the contractors, Hyatt Bros., have experienced difficulty in securing skilled building craftsmen, and according to the architect, this has been responsible for the delay.

A penalty clause, setting forth a payment of $100 per week for every week from Aug. 31 to the date of turning over to the board, was fixed in the contract, and the question of exacting this penalty will be discussed at the next meeting of the board. It was suggested that the matter be taken up and the penalty imposed before the final payment is made to the contractors.

The addition to the Boyle Memorial School will be completed before the end of the month, and the students will be able to move in by Nov. 1, this structure being in the final stages of interior work and equipment.

VITAL STATISTICS.

The Grim Reaper slackened up with his scythe during September, achieving a very low record as compared with the corresponding period of 1922, with 62 as against 83 last September. The stork's record was not up to the usual standard, but 106 births being noted as against 124 last September. Marriages show 87 to 78.

POINCARE SAYS RUHR ISSUE STILL UNSOLVED

French Premier Claims Germany Has Failed To Keep Promises.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Paris, Oct. 1.—"Nothing has been solved yet," Premier Poincare said today in his speech before the council of the Meuse with regard to Germany's surrender of passive resistance in the Ruhr. Germany still has much to do to show her good faith, the premier asserted, indicating no formal reparations negotiations will be undertaken with the Reich's government until the German people really prove they are prepared to carry out the terms of the treaty of Versailles and covering documents. Poincare reiterated his determination that France will not sacrifice anything from the amount of reparations promised her.

CITY DEPOSITORS WILL LOSE BY HOME BANK

Association, journeyed to Thorndale to speak before depositors there. He also visited Ilderton, Komoka, Melbourne and intends to speak at St. Thomas tonight, after the London meeting.

Half a hundred depositors turned out to hear Mr. Weldon at Thorndale. The barrister told of the many sources where the Home Bank had suffered losses, and suggested that depositors get together and urge the Canadian Bankers' Association to take over all Home Bank assets from which they could pay depositors as much as possible.

Take Over Assets.

Those present heartily indorsed the contemplated move, and a resolution embodying their wishes in this direction was unanimously carried. The Thorndale depositors then organized an association to look after their interests and appointed a delegate to attend the provincial-wide conference of depositors' representatives to be held in Toronto on Thursday.

Those who attended the meeting declared they were not at all satisfied with the plan to advance 25 cents on the dollar, as suggested by the curator this morning, and passed a resolution asking the government to make a thorough inquiry into the internal affairs of the bank.

At Ilderton an association of depositors was also formed, and appointed A. L. Hodgins, M.P., their representative for the Toronto meeting to be held this week.

Joseph Dambra and Frank Thompson, treasurer of the London Home Bank Depositors' Association, accompanied Mr. Weldon on his visits to Western Ontario points. In his Thorndale speech, Mr. Weldon said the largest losses suffered by the Home Bank were $1,000,000 in a railway at New Orleans, $3,000,000 with a pulp company in Vancouver, $1,000,000 to a lawyer in Montreal, and $500,000 in the Ogilvie department store, Montreal. The $3,000,000 in British Columbia, Mr. Weldon said, represented a huge loss, but the other investments were fairly sound. He expressed gratification that the government had decided on a complete investigation.

Preparing For Probe.

In response to resolutions recently passed by the local depositors' association, the secretary of Right Hon. Mr. Fielding, finance minister, said he would bring the matter to the attention of his chief, who was away at the time. Assurance was received from the provincial treasurer that the demand for an immediate investigation made by the local depositors would be given every consideration, and a letter was also received from Frank White, M.P., stating that he would do all in his power to bring the matter before the government. Sir Adam Beck, who was also asked to act in the interests of local depositors, was out of town when the resolution was passed and has not yet replied.

The executive of the local association has directed U. A. Buchner, local solicitor, to prepare affidavits for the numerous depositors in London, to show the amount each holds in the Home Bank. These will be forwarded to Toronto, when the time arrives for an equitable distribution of assets.

The meeting of the London Home Bank Depositors' Association will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Masonic Hall. Mr. Weldon and others familiar with the Home affairs will speak, and a delegate to attend the Toronto conference on Friday will be appointed.

STATES CHAMBER IS WORKING HARD TO BOOST LONDON

Sends 3,000 Pieces of Literature To Attract Firms To City.

ANSWER CHARGES

More than two thousand separate pieces of advertising literature have been sent out by the London Chamber of Commerce this year to all likely manufacturers who have appeared as prospective occupants of London's industrial area.

In connection with the controversy now being initiated between the industrial area commissioners and the London Chamber of Commerce as to the effectiveness of the latter body in giving the city the necessary publicity to get new manufacturers to come here, the following facts as to publicity work, obtained today from officials of the chamber, show what it has already accomplished in 1923 in the way of telling outsiders of the attractiveness of London.

Three kinds of literature have been published. First there is the large "London,Canada," a 22-page book, which covers every activity of the city and gives a realistic and engaging panorama of London. This is sent to all manufacturers who come to the notice of the chamber as likely prospects or as actual inquirers.

Gives Much Information.

Then there is a smaller booklet, which includes nearly all the information the most exacting manufacturer would need in investigating London. This 50-page booklet is sent out broadcast as far as the appropriation will allow to all likely manufacturers in America and even in some of the British cities.

Then there is the set of seven four-page folders, which include "Labor and Housing," "Markets and Finance" "Education and Recreation," "Transportation and Bituminous Coal," "Industrial Sites," "Raw Materials" and "Power, Light and Water," which contain a digest of all the information given in the other kinds of literature. They have also a small map of the location of London in the province in relation to the larger American eastern cities.

Distributed at Conventions.

In addition to all this, bundles of illustrated literature were taken to the Shriners' convention in Washington, to the National Real Estate convention at Cleveland, and a special 16-page pamphlet was prepared for distribution at the Vancouver Trades Congress.

Then there is another side to the question of publicity that the city obtains through the aid of the chamber of commerce. By co-operation with the publishers of the large illustrated booklet a smaller edition was secured, of which 10,000 copies were distributed at the South Florida Fair in co-operation with the Border Cities, Chatham, St. Catharines, Hamilton and Niagara Falls.

The chamber contains the necessary business reference library to compile a brief of any kind that may be asked for by an outside manufacturer as to the possibilities for him in London, and this is part of the routine work of the officials of the chamber, which they feel is not fully appreciated by the public generally and by certain members of the industrial area commission in particular.

INSTALL WATER METERS AT RATE 300 MONTHLY

Metered Service Already Proving More Satisfactory as It Saves Water.

Water meters are rapidly being installed in houses in the city, according to General Manager Buchanan of the public utilities commission, who this morning stated that about 20 per cent of the buildings were so equipped at present.

The work is being carried out at the rate of two or three hundred installations per month, and inside of two years it is expected that all water used in the city will be metered to the consumers. This, in the cases where it has already been done, is proving much more satisfactory than the flat rate basis.

In many cases it is cheaper, in that the latter method is based on the number of taps, etc., in a building, while the meter method registers the actual consumption. In a six-room house with all the usual bathroom and kitchen connections, the flat rate is more expensive than the meter rate, while in smaller houses it runs about the same.

One saving in water that is effected to the city by the meter method is that in winter persons having the metered service do not leave their taps running in order to forestall frozen pipes. In houses where no meter has been installed, in many cases citizens leave the water running all night, causing a wastage to the city. Last winter 90 per cent of the frozen pipes occurred in houses where the meter was in use.

RETURNS TO KENTUCKY WITH 13 SHEEP IN TRUCK

Kentucky Stock-Raiser Picks Out Purebred Southdowns at Byron.

The shipment of pure-bred breeding stock from one point to another for the improvement of flocks and herds is so common today that it passes without mention, but the fact of a man traveling 750 miles in a motor truck to take home a purchase of sheep is something new in the history of Western Ontario breeding.

Clarence Wright of Paris, Kentucky, arrived late last week at the farm of Col. Ribert McEwen, Byron, and after spending the whole of Friday in inspecting the colonel's flock, he left Saturday morning for his home in Kentucky with thirteen Southdown sheep in the rack of his truck.

Formers and breeders of this district say that this is the first instance of such a long truck haul to start from this county.

Debates Bylaw On Hucksters

Members of the city council will deal tonight with Mayor Wenige's proposal at noon today that "all hucksters" be off the market square tomorrow morning." The outcome is highly problematical.

From present indications it is more than likely that while the council may take definite action pertaining to the market house and rentals, they may refer the proposed amendment of the "hucksters' bylaw" back to the committee again.

It was the mayor's proposal today, however, that the city solicitor draft a bylaw in readiness for tonight's session when the issue could be finally dealt with. Whether this will be forthcoming is, however, a matter of conjecture.

SAYS LABOR WILL GET WORST OF IT WITH PARTY RULE

Mayor Points Out What Projected Tory Control at City Hall May Bring.

SEES CITY LOSER

Labor will be "left holding the bag" if politics are again projected into municipal affairs, Mayor Wenige cautioned today.

His worship is strongly opposed to any move—direct or indirect—by any party, that would tend to bring back the so-called "good old days" when the "brains of both parties" were selected for the respective slates.

"The citizens will be the losers, and particularly the working classes," Mayor Wenige declared. "Why is this? Well, we'll say for instance that one party contrived to elect a majority of their slate next year. That would mean that the party machine would have full sway at the city hall all next year."

"And there would be the chance that the other party would get the swing the following year and get their followers into the city hall. Then this machine would run things no doubt to suit themselves that year.

"But never the Labor party. They would be always out of luck. They would never get their slate in. They never have at least. That is but one angle of the recent proposal by members of the Conservative party to fight out municipal affairs on party lines."

Another bad feature of the project, as the mayor senses it, would be the necessity for finding—not work necessarily—but places on the pay-roll for the numerous political "heelers," "peelers," "bosses," hangers-on at headquarters" and what not.

"There will be too much of that thing for the general welfare of the people at large," Mayor Wenige challenged. "Look how the political machines are being operated in Chicago and other American communities. I heard an account just recently about the big expenditures in Chicago, from a party who was there on a tour of inspection.

"They are spending thousands of dollars more than is absolutely necessary, I am told, to keep the machines well oiled, by placing scores of men on the pay-roll in order that the bosses may swing the block of votes in their respective districts."

"Do we want that sort of thing in this city? Do we want it so that, perhaps, every employ working on the street will have to belong to the administration in power at the city hall in order to draw his wage each week. I am not for it at any rate. The time for that kind of procedure is done in London."

MRS. MOXLEY BURIED AT MOUNT PLEASANT

A private service was held at the Moxley home at 1 o'clock, and another service at the B. M. E. Church at 1:30 o'clock. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Drake, Rev. Mr. Johnston, and Rev. Mr. Stewart officiated.

The pallbearers at this afternoon's funeral were: T. H. Brown, F. Fountaine, J. Harris, William Taylor, S. W. Cromwell, S. H. Poundester.

TORIES' CHANCES LOOK VERY BRIGHT TO ALD. WILSON

He Warns Wenige Conservatives Can Elect Any Mayor They Put Up in London.

MAY RUN HIMSELF

Ald. W. A. Wilson, member of the finance committee and "dean" of the city council, states that he has $40,000 that he can use for election purposes if the occasion demanded.

This is just double what Mayor Wenige advised, more in a jocular manner than otherwise, that he could safely expend and still carry on his private affairs.

As a matter of fact, Ald. Wilson personally notified Mayor Wenige this morning that "while he was not seeking the mayor's job" he had been asked to run, and "having stated that he would if no one else did, was prepared to keep his word.

"I'd run against you, Mayor Wenige," warned the ex-chairman of the board of works. "But I don't want to. I don't want the job. I would like to see them bring out another good man. I feel confident that they will."

He added that he could spend $5,000 if need be in the event that his candidature became an established fact.

"Nothing at all," remarked the mayor. "I have $20,000 laid aside for that very purpose."

"Well, I have $40,000," retorted Ald. Wilson, boosting the ante. During the discussion, Mayor Wenige recalled that Ald. Wilson was a "good Tory."

"Yes, and they can elect anyone they put up, too," Ald. Wilson rejoined enthusiastically. "Don't ever forget that."

"Well, we start on the city hall tonight. Ald. Wilson is now supporting us," the mayor explained.

"I'm not. I never was, and I have an injunction within 24 hours after you start the job," Ald. Wilson advised.

"You can't pick injunctions off the cherry trees," objected the mayor.

"The whole city hall business has been illegal, and if I am ever mayor I'll conduct business properly in that council chamber," was the parting shot from Ald. Wilson as he passed out.

GIRLS' CLUB ENTERTAINS ALWAY HOME CHILDREN

Bungalow Girls Provide Gala Time For 25 Youngsters On Saturday.

For about twenty-five children of the Thomas Alway Home last Saturday proved a gala day. A warm, sunny, September afternoon commenced with a thrilling ride in a motor-truck, developed into entrancing hours of rides and drives with a pony and carriage, and was finally crowned with a merry tea on the wide lawns of the McConnel home on Richmond street north.

For six young North London girls, who have formed themselves into a club known as "The Bungalow Club," the arrangement of this party was the crowning event of a year of quietly-carried-on work, in which the Alway Home has been their especial care.

The girls who are all of the senior public school or junior high school age have been organized about a year. During that time, they have been meeting weekly at one another's homes and devoting this time to knitting and making pretty and useful little garments for the home.

Saturday's treat was planned to be a success in the veriest detail. Mr. and Mrs. James E. McConnell, the parents of the president, Ruth McConnell, turned over their home to the club for the day. With the home, went the McConnell pony and carriage for drives, and another member of the club brought over her pony that the more venturesome of the children might try a ride in the saddle. This and a number of games occupied the afternoon.

Although this is in all probability their last opportunity of entertaining any number of children the Bungalow Girls are to continue their useful work of sewing for the home. Their weekly meetings will be held and they will spend their time in the service of the children who have become in a sense their proteges. Miss Ruth McConnell is the president of the Bungalow Girls. The ssecretary is Nancy Green, and the other members, Jean Tambling, Ruth Lawson, Katherine Reason, and Helen McCormick.

Turns Users Into Savages

Associated Press Despatch.

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 1.—The reaction of a drug known as "kaapi," reputed to "unchain fierce impulses of the sub-conscious mind and transform its user into a raging savage, bereft of timidity, fear, or the veneer of civilization," upon a university professor is to be tested by Dr. Albert Schneider, lecturer at the University of California. The new drug is said to have been obtained from savage tribes inhabiting the jungles at the head waters of the Amazon. Dr. Schneider declared he intended to take some of the serum soon after his return to his home in Portland and later give to the world the story of his sensations.

MAY RECONSIDER SEWER PROPOSAL FOR BRYDGES ST.

Wenige Will Move For It At Tonight's Meeting of City Council.

PROTEST MAY COME

Mayor Wenige will move at tonight's session of the city council for a reconsideration of the recently-rejected proposal to provide sewer connection on Brydges street, adjoining London's industrial area.

This will require a two-thirds vote of the council before the question can be discussed. It was defeated upon its third reading although the council had already authorized the construction of a pavement upon the same street, and work was commenced Saturday.

City Engineer Near states that from latest reports a delegation of Brydges street taxpayers will move on the city hall tonight to protest the construction of the pavement this fall, unless the sewer is laid as well.

The engineer points out that while there may be a misunderstanding in this connection, the bylaw passed by the council authorizing the construction of a pavement is perfectly legal.

There was talk today about the possibility of injunction proceedings by those who seek to halt all paving unless there is definite assurance that sewerage work will also be undertaken.

Early in the year the members of the industrial area commission launched a vigorous campaign to secure local improvements for the area in question—water, light, sewers, pavement, etc. The plan was approved by the council, and the work "initiated," in accordance with the statutes.

In the meanwhile, there were those taxpayers on the street who, while favoring the sewer, were apatheic toward the paving project. They claim, however, that they waived all objection to the latter upon the distinct understanding that the sewer was also to be provided.

Now the reverse has transpired. They are getting the pavement, and the sewer bylaw was killed upon the third reading. They claim they have been unjustly treated, and Mayor Wenige renews their fight tonight, he says.

PRINCE'S HOLIDAY ON ALBERTA RANCH COMES TO AN END

Drives His Own Car From Prairie Home to High River Station.

HAD A GOOD TIME

Special to The Advertiser.

Calgary, Oct. 1.—Lord Renfrew's holiday on his ranch is ended. Yesterday he said good-bye to the High River country and went to Calgary. Tomorrow he leaves for the east. The royal party left the ranch at noon, but Lord Renfrew began the farewells hours before that. At 10 o'clock when an automobile from High River arrived to get some members of the party he was at the stables having a final chat with his cowboys.

He waved at the car driver and shouted: "Hello, there." Talking with him for a moment, he said: "I have certainly enjoyed myself here. The only thing I regret is I can't stay longer."

Then he went into the ranch house and came out swinging a camera. On his heels came his Japanese housekeeper, wife of Jimmie, the cook. She was clutching a bluish gray colored cat. Jimmie's wife stood in front of the ranch building and held up the cat. Lord Renfrew stood a few feet away and sighted his camera. The housekeeper grinned a huge grin; the cat twitched its ears, and the camera clicked. Lord Renfrew laughed, and Jimmie's wife grinned, bobbed her head and scurried off into the house.

The cars were lined up in front of the house. Mr. Carlyle had driven the baron on the previous trips between the ranch and High River, but it was not so this time.

"I'll drive as far as the Bar U anyway," declared Lord Renfrew and climbed in behind the wheel. Mr. Carlyle sat beside him. In the back seat was Walter Peacock and General Trotter.

Lord Renfrew shouted good-bye, swung the car around the house and down the road. At the Bar U he stopped to see George Lane. From the Lane house he went to a small red cottage, where a Bar U employee, Andrews, lived. Andrews' hobby is photography, and visiting the E. P. ranch he had taken several snaps of the royal rancher.

First Official Pictures of Recent Japanese Disaster Secured at Great Expense by Mgr. Jackson of Loew's Tonight's Screening at Loew's Theatre Marks Premier Presentation of Film Anywhere in Canada.

Always striving for leadership and to secure only the best for patrons of Loew's Theatre, Manager Jackson today secured at great expense the first official movie taken at the scene of the recent quake in Japan. The Famous-Lasky film man was despatched to the scene of the fatality immediately following the world-wide announcements and secured some excellent pictures of the havoc wrought in the flowery kingdom. The pictures have been shown jn a few of the big American cities, but the presentation at Loew's Theatre tonight, Tueday and Wednesday marks the first screening anywhere in Canada.

Fortunately the only dates that could be secured from the booking agency were the next three days and Manager Jackson while unfortunate in not being able to make a previous announcement regarding the timely film, was indeed fortunate in securing the film for its premier showing. The film will be screened tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday in addition to the regular Loew program which includes Clara Kimball Young in "Cordelia the Magnificent," comedy feature, Loew's Newsy Pictorial and three acts of vaudeville that is vaudeville.

Don't Let Children Grow Up Alone

Dorothy Dix

Calls Playmate First Lesson of Life

Mothers Should Teach Boys and Girls From Their Cradles to Lay Up Friendship, for Life's Happiness and Success Rests Wholly Upon It.

One of the most important things that a mother can teach her children is to make friends.

She can do this by seeing that from their very infancy her children associate with other children; that they play fair and square; by teaching them sympathy and consideration, and not to be selfish, and overbearing, and quarrelsome with their little playmates, but always to show the sporting spirit.

No other such injustice is ever done a child as to let it grow up a lone wolf cub. Only children are almost always eccentric and warped in character. So are children who are educated at home by tutors and governesses. The poorest school gives a child a working knowledge of its fellow-creatures that no learned psychologist can teach it, and it is better for children to associate with even undesirable children than it is for them to grow up alone.

Nor can any other greater misfortune befall a child than to be encouraged in morbidness. The child who is always getting his feelings hurt and who sulks on the outskirts of the crowd, and the one who takes her doll rags and goes home whenever she cannot make the other children play her game, should be spanked and sent back to apologize to their playmates instead of having mother pity them for being such sensitive little darlings.

It may seem to their mothers that it makes little difference whether their children play happily and genially with other children, or whether they bicker and quarrel with all with whom they come in contact. But it does. It is a thing of stupendous importance because the child's character and habits are being formed, and its whole success and happiness in life depend on its ability to get along with other people.

Whether you look at them from the material or the spiritual point of view, friends are the biggest asset that we have. We can cash them in over the counter in hard dollars, just as we can find in their affection a happiness that no money can buy. A man with friends is rich, though he has nothing else. The man without friends is a pauper, though he have the wealth of Croesus.

Our friends make the ladder by which we climb to success, because people do things for us because they like us that they would not do for us because it was our just dessert to have our lives saved.

A man may have an enormous talent. He may have prepared himself by years of study for the work he is undertaking, but if he has an unpleasant personality, if he has a disagreeable manner that alienates us instead of attracting us to him, we let him severely alone.

We take our trade to the shops where the atmosphere is friendly. We send for the friendly doctor when we are sick. We go to the friendly lawyer when we have dealings with the courts. We say the good word that gets the coveted position for our friends. Never for people we dislike. They must shift for themselves.

In business a man's popularity is worth just so much money in his pay envelope, and the man who has the gift of making friends—the faculty that enables him to make and hold customers, or to handle bodies of men and women, can name his own salary.

The reverse of this is equally true. How often you hear employers say that such and such a man is so competent and faithful and honest and they would like to put him at the head of a department, but they cannot do so because he cannot get along with people!

How often a theatrical manager will say that such a woman is a great actress, and particularly fits some part in a big play he is putting on, but he cnnot have her because she cannot get along with people!

How many scientific doctors, how many learned lawyers, how many eloquent preachers we know, who starve along in obscurity instead of being at the head of their professions, just because they cannot get along with people!

Surely the mother who desires to see her children prosperous and successful should consider the importance of teaching them the art of making friends.

As for our happiness, that lies entirely in the hands of our friends, for we are so constituted that we cannot live alone. We must have companionship, sympathy, understanding, tenderness, if we are to get any pleasure out of life.

The most luscious dinner is dust and ashes in our mouth if we eat it alone, while bread and cheese becomes a banquet in gay and joyous company. A palace becomes a bleak prison if its silence is broken by no voice but one's own, but two who love can make heaven of a single room. To travel by one's self is to be a wayfarer solitary and lonely, but there is a never-ending joy in the journey we take with pleasant people.

And when the storms of misfortune break above our heads our only comfort is in our friends—in the hands that are stretched out to us in the dark—in the knowledge that our sorrow is the sorrow of those who love us—and in the practical help that comes from those who set us on our feet again when we stumble and fall. No grief is so bitter as that which weeps alone, with none to pity, none to succor.

Now, friends are neither an accident, nor the gift of God. They are our own handiwork. We make them, or lose them, according to whether we are friendly, and kindly, and generous and helpful to others, or whether we, selfishly and morosely, live to ourselves.

We should, then, teach our children from their cradles to lay up friendship, just as we teach them to save their pennies, in order that they may be rich in their old age. For friends are the most valuable assets, financially and spiritually, that we can have. DOROTHY DIX.

"There are over 475,000 Girl Guides in the world, and the movement was growing steadily," she stated.

An organization was formed at the meeting, with Mrs. George Watts, of Brantford as commissioner, and Miss Carolina Vrooman of the Paris High School staff, captain of a local organization. Rev. R. J. Seton-Adamson was named chairman of the association (provisionally), and an executive will be elected soon and companies formed.

Weld-Hobbs Nuptials Smart Affair on Saturday

Miss Yvonne Hobbs of Toronto Becomes Bride of Ernest Weld of This City.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—One of the most fashionable weddings of the season and one of great interest to Londoners, took place Saturday afternoon at Timothy Eaton Church, Toronto, when Marjorie Yvonne Hobbs, daughter of Mr. William Richard Hobbs, was married to Ernest John Weld, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weld of London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Trevor Davies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white satin with veil of Brussels lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and orchids. Little Miss Barbara Alan Brown made a dainty flower-girl in a white satin frock with white net cap, and carrying a nosegay of forget-me-nots. Mrs. John Galbraith of Rochester, Miss Edna Brownlee of Montreal, Miss Marjorie Marlatt of Oakville and Miss Margaret Austin were the bridesmaids. They wore burnt orange velvet gowns, and Miss Austin was in silver-gray brocade with a plush hat. They all wore light plush hats with coque feathers and carried boquets of chrysanthemums. Mr. Douglas Weld, a brother of the groom, acted as best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Fisher, George Weld, Henderson and Duffield.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at 100 Warren road, and Miss Osborne, an aunt of the bride, received, wearing a black chenille gown with a black hat and a corsage of roses. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Weld left for their honeymoon, the bride wearing a navy blue whipcord suit, with a small blue velvet berat hat and fox fur. Upon their return they will reside in London.

BLACK DIAMONDS NOW TABOO!

Dear Sis:

You started something, when you wrote Ma that you thought she was a little over-enthusiastic about the Moffat.

"Too enthusiastic!" she exclaimed. "Hmph! Well, you just write her that such a thing is impossible. She would understand that, if she had slaved for years, as I did, over that hot old coal stove. When I wanted to cook, the fire was always either too low or too hot. And I was always scouring and cleaning. Now there is only half the work—no coal, nor dust, nor ashes to bother with. And I can keep clean and comfortable while baking.

"Tell her both my health and temper are better. I can go out now for the whole afternoon, and know that when I get home, in just ten minutes water is boiled for the tea, and I can put in a small steak and serve it done to a turn in fifteen minutes. There is no rushing home early and getting into an old house-dress to get the fire started for supper.

"Too enthusiastic, indeed! Well, so far as my kitchen is concerned, black diamonds are forever taboo! The Moffat is so clean, so safe, so reliable—and so economical. It has been proven the most economical range of the times."

That was a lot of speech-making for Ma, Sis, but you struck a tender spot. And, I must say that I am just as enthusiastic a Moffat champion as Ma. When I set up housekeeping, the black diamonds will be taboo in my kitchen, too. Just think of getting white coal in by wire. None but a Moffat Electric Range for me!

And that's the way you'd feel too, if you were home. Ma isn't always in the kitchen now! And when she gets through the baking, she isn't just ready to drop as she used to be.

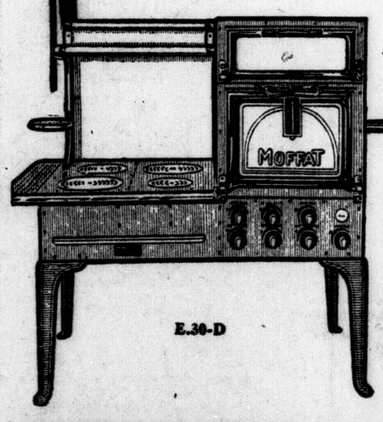

The Moffat patented burners cook at a steady even heat—fast, medium or slow, according to the best method of cooking each particular food. (All switches are three-heat, and plainly named on the outside—high, medium and low.) And I've told you before about the wonderful, one-piece, ventilated, porcelain enameled Moffat oven, and how deliciously it roasts meats—and at a proven shrinkage of one pound less (in an average size roast) than ordinary ranges.

The Moffat certainly is dandy, Sis, and it is recognised as the World's Standard for Electric Ranges. Nothing else equals it. It has so many exclusive patented improvements, and, although electricity has not been used very many years for cooking, 42,000 women are already using Moffats.

I'd like to see you, too, resolve that Black Diamonds will be taboo in your new kitchen—and that a Moffat Electric will reign instead.

Helen.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON.
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor."

Miles Goes To Algiers To Meet Betty

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

Miles Sheridan is facilitating his wife's obtaining a divorce by creating a scandal about himself. He is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll, but Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness, Miles did her in her childhood, Terry has made him her dream prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he does not recognize in her whom he knows as Juliet Divine, the little girl he befriended so long ago.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, is in love with

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian fortune-hunter, who has deserted Betty for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" at Monte Carlo, recognizes Terry Desmond, whom he knew and loved in New York.

Miss Caroline Sheridan, Miles' aunt, also writes to Betty about Terry's beauty and charm.

Betty has just learned of Paul's desertion, and she is opening a letter from Nazlo.

Betty goes to Europe, to find Paul and possibly retrieve her husband.

Miles receives a telegram that his wife has come aboard the yacht at Algiers and wants to see him.

CHAPTER LXIX.

"I'm afraid, darling girl, that I'd better—that I'll have to go and attend to this business," Miles said, leaning across the small table. Terry half expected him to show the telegram to her, but he did not. He sat frowning for a minute, and as if absent-mindedly, tore the blue paper into tiny fragments. These he dropped into the ash-receiver that bore the advertisement of some long-forbidden liqueur, and then—still as if thinking of something else—he set fire to the little heap with the end of his cigarette.

"Well!" he exclaimed suddenly, looking up just when Terry had been adoring his thick, jet eyelashes. "The sooner I start the sooner I shall get back. The chauffeur knows we may have to go off at a few minutes' notice, so he'll be ready. I ought to be in Algiers by 9 tonight, with luck. Maybe an hour or two there will be enough." (A vague idea of some heavy bribe beyond the dreams of alimony, flitted through his mind). "If so, I'll be under way for Bousaada and you again before midnight."

"You'll be tired, dreadfully tired, if you motor all the rest of today and all night, too," she said. In the girl's heart he was "My Prince," but aloud she stilled called him "You," being too shy for the "darlings" and "dearests' which he showered upon her.

Some day, when Juliet had given permission to tell the whole story (as of course she would give it when she knew!), then this adored hero of hers should know that he was the "Prince," and why.

"Tired?" mocked Sheridan. "As if I could be tired, coming back to you! You don't understand me yet. I'll make you, though, when I come—home. This is home while you're here. But we'll have a wonderful home of our own some day, even better than this, and further away from the tiresome world, even if it's only a yacht."

As they rose from the table and Miles pulled her chair back, a large yellow dog got up from his place on the floor at Captain Guilbert's feet. Terry looked at him, and he looked at her, wagging his tail. Terry loved dogs, though she had never been allowed to own one. "Dear thing!" she exclaimed involuntarily.

The large yellow dog wagged his tail again, and smiled. Yes, there was no doubt of that. It really smiled. Doubtless it had been taught to smile by someone who valued it. Terry was so charmed that she forgot for an instant the trouble in her mind.

She paused on the threshold, and saw that the dog's master was on his feet, bowing to her and Miles with French punctiliousness. She bowed in response, and smiled brightly. Captain Guilbert could hardly be expected to understand that the smile was entirely for his dog, not at all for him.

Harky was in her master's room while Terry packed Sheridan's bag, showing the amateur what to put in, lest something of importance should be forgotten, but Miles found time to take the girl in his arms and kiss her as though for the last time on earth.

"I feel as if I couldn't let you go!" the words came as if they were forced from him.

"You don't—don't think that anything can possibly happen to keep you from coming back?" she implored, her arms round his neck.

"No—no! A thousand times no!" Sheridan assured her.

"You couldn't change your mind and take me with you?" Terry's longing got beyond control.

"I wish I could. But I'm sure it wouldn't be best," Miles said. "I'll telegraph, if it isn't too late, when I get to Algiers. Then you ought to hear first thing in the morning. If not, before noon at least. And—wire me this evening, will you?—but not to the yacht: address me at—the Hotel Cecil; I'll stay there if I have to stay. Anyhow, I'll call."

He hadn't thought of this before. But he decided quickly.

"Oh, why not at the lovely St. George, with the terrace and garden, if you don't want to go out to the yacht?" asked Terry. "I'd like to think of you there."

"No," said Miles, "the St. George is too far from town for me this time." (He would not go to the place where he had seen Salvano.) "Be as happy as you can, and the time will soon pass. Don't take any long walks alone without Harky—but short ones if you like, of course. I'm not a tyrant yet! And—oh, darling, I talked to you about the Ouled Nails girls here at Bousaada. I thought—then—you'd be interested in their dancing. But that was before last night. Now you're mine. If there's a dance, and any touting guide wants you to go, promise me you won't. After all, I don't care for you to see the show—anyhow without me."

Terry promised. "I shan't feel like seeing anything without you," she said.

Sheridan kissed her again. Oh, the sweetness of her! If only she had no lurid past, he should be perfectly happy—in spite of Betty or anything Betty could do. But if there had been a different past, he might not have met her. He wasn't going to spoil Juliet's life or his own by brooding on what couldn't be changed. He had sworn to the girl last night not to do that, and he would stick to his word for both their sakes.

Terry came down to the entrance of the hotel to see him off, and his last sight of her as he turned back was the waving of a tiny handkerchief. It fluttered in the sun like a little white moth, and the sun turned her hair to gleaming copper. A tame gazelle that was the pet of the house had come to her in the hope of a date, or a lump of sugar to lick. The delicate form of the little animal leaned against the slight figure of the girl, and the big yellow dog that Miles had seen in the dining-room beside her, too.

She looked like a young nymph surrounded by her votaries, Miles thought as the car swept the vision out of his sight, and he felt a thrill of peculiar ecstasy such as he had never known in thinking of a woman. But he would have experienced a less pleasant emotion had he seen the four young men who peeped out between the half-closed green shutters of the salle a manger laughing and bantering each other, or if he could have heard what they said.

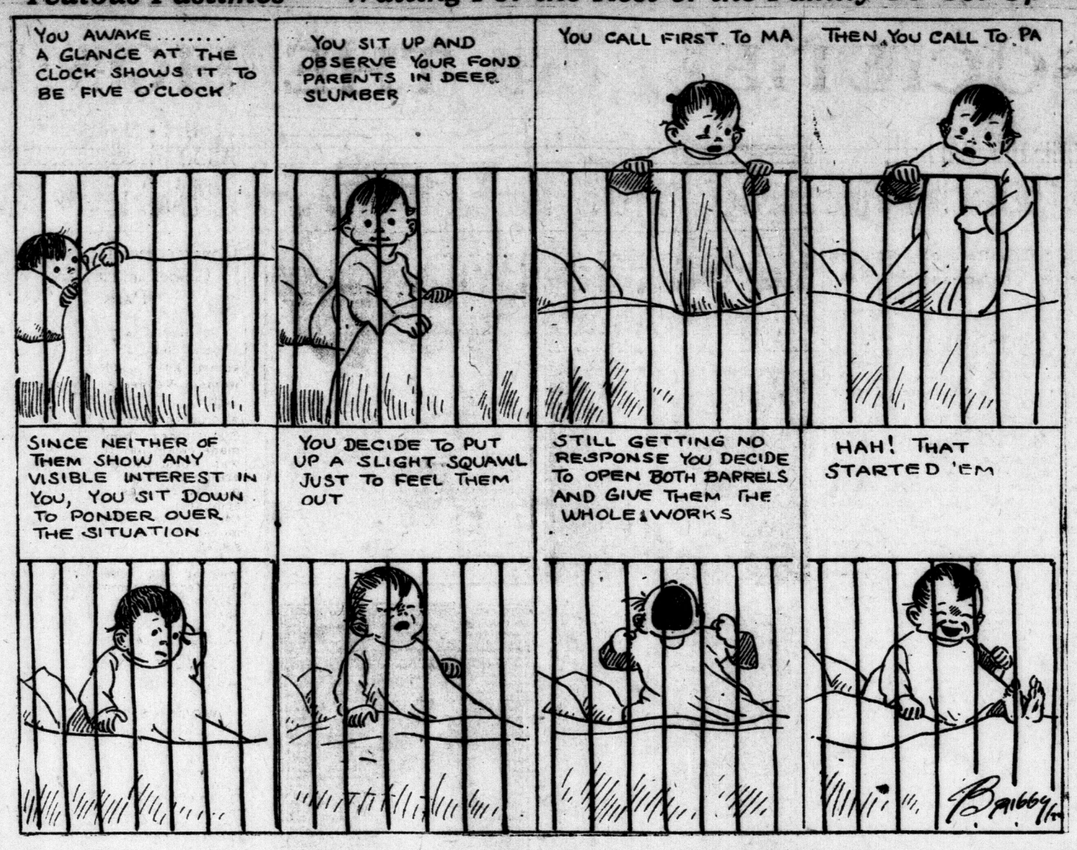

Captain Guilbert hurried out before the girl could escape by going upstairs. He made his dog an excuse.

SHALLOW MEN'S hearts
Are like SHOWCASES:
In them you will find
MANY WOMEN,
Most of them YOUNG,
ALL of them beautiful,
But NONE of them—WISE.
These men collect hearts
As other men
Collect objets d'arts.
But their chief pleasure
Is in ACQUIRING them,
Not in POSSESSING—
And they soon TIRE.
And the lovely lady who Believed herself "his ONLY love"
And entered his heart
As into a SANCTUARY,
Finds it more like a MORGUE,
Where many others before her
Have DIED of neglect.
Mortified, she threatens
To leave him AT ONCE.
But though he speaks gently
He does not DETER her,
For his eyes are upon
A NEW conquest.
When ONE man makes
A woman suffer,
ALL other men—PAY.

Peter Rabbit Has An Exciting Time With a Strange Dog

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit should have known that it was not safe to go far from home these beautiful fall days. Probably he did know it. Peter is old enough to know that when the sharp, cool days of fall come and the leaves turn to beautiful colors and begin to drop the dreadful hunting season is at hand. Then the safest place for him is right in the dear Old Briar Patch.

But Peter is like a great many people in that he dearly loves to take chances. Perhaps it is because he likes excitement once in a while. Most people do. Some often do very foolish and dangerous things just for the sake of excitement. . So this bright, cool October morning found Peter a long way from the dear Old Briar Patch. In fact, he had gone over to the farm next to that of Farmer Brown's.

This was a most foolish thing to do, because it was taking a chance. On Farmer Brown's farm no hunting is allowed. You know, Farmer Brown's Boy keeps watch to keep all hunters off. But on this next farm hunting was allowed. That is why Peter was taking a foolish chance.

On this farm was a long, very thick, low hedge. Peter knew all about it, for he had been there before. So close together grew the bushes of that hedge that there was only one place that Peter could get through it comfortably. The fact is, Peter had made that hole in the hedge. It was just big enough for him to squeeze through.

Usually when Peter went over there he did not go far from that hedge. But on this morning he had gone some distance from it. It was a beautiful morning, and Peter was feeling very fine.

"I feel like having a good run," said Peter to himself, kicking up his long heels. "Yes, sir, I feel like having a good run. I would like to run a race with someone."

There was a loud sniff just back of Peter. It was exactly as if it were an answer to what he had just said to himself, for when he turned his head it was to discover a strange dog. It was a smaller dog than Bowser the Hound. And just by looking at him Peter knew that he could run very fast — much faster than Bowser. Suddenly Peter wasn't quite so sure that he wanted to race someone that morning.

The dog had not yet discovered Peter, so Peter very wisely kept perfectly still. Perhaps that dog would not find him. The dog was running back and forth, this way and that way, sniffing at the ground. Peter held his breath and waited, never once taking his eyes from that strange dog. At last that dog gave a yelp, and Peter knew then that his tracks had been found. The dog became excited. He yelped again, and then, as he got the scent still stronger, yelped the third time. Peter knew then that he would have to run. He knew that his scent was so strong that in a moment or two that dog would find him. Peter still waited. He didn't intend to run until he adsolutely had to. And while he waited he planned where he would run to. Meanwhile, the strange dog drew nearer and nearer.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

A HUSBAND FOR MARGERY.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Miss Violet D'Arcy looked down her long nose at her pretty niece with considerable speculation in her faded eyes.

"My dear Margery," she said flatly, "you are not a bad looking girl."

"Thank you, Aunt Violet," rejoinded Margery, a flicker of light in her cool gray eyes. A smile touched her grave lips and fled.

"I am not paying you a compliment, my dear; but while you are not a bad looking girl," she went on, "you will never be a great beauty like your mother. It is essential that you should marry well, and I do hope that while you would not of course marry for money, at least you will try to love where money is!" A faint smile curled her lips.

Miss Esther D'Arcy nodded approval of her sister's advice and tapped her knitting needles enthusiastically.

"Where is it?" asked Margery.

"Where is what?" repeated Great-Aunt Violet inelegantly.

"Where is money?"

"How nonsensical, Margery — you are too old to ask such a childish question."

"How can I love where money is if I do not know where it is?"

"Rubbish!" shrieked Miss Violet.

The girl's face had crimsoned from bro wto chin, but her eyes did not waver. D'Arcy pride was in her bearing, her eyes were mutinously brave.

..2B—

The silence grew oppressive.

"Margery—who is it?" demanded Miss Violet in a hollow tone.

"Have I met anybody here at Crestwood?" defied Margery.

The aunts meditated. They could not remember that they had ever introduced an eligible young man to their orphan niece. Of course they had invited the rector's daughter and her anaemic brother to play tennis when Margery first arrived from England, but young Pother had shown such a sentimental interest in her that acquaintance was not encouraged. Then there was Miss D'Arcy's lawyer, who had motored down to the Long Island estate several times to see about her will, but he was stout and gray-haired and quite impossible, although he was an excellent lawyer.

The sudden sight of Blake, the new chauffeur, as he strode down a path to the garage, aroused panic in Miss Violet's breast.

Blake was young, singularly good looking, and seemed a bit above his station in life.

"Dear Margery," murmured Miss Violet craftily, "has any man ever proposed to you?"

"One," answered Margery, losing a little of her color.

"Where?" demanded Miss D'Arcy.

"In London?"

Her aunts gasped. The same thought stupefied them both. "London!" and he had followed the child to America—for, alas, the impeccable Blake had splendid London references, one from the Duke of Katewood!

"Who proposed to you?" gasped Miss Violet.

"A duke. . . . I refused him," replied Margery.

"Refused a duke? Ninny!" bleated Miss Esther, fuddling over her knitting. "Why did you refuse him?"

"He was poor—too poor to marry any one, then," sighed Margery.

"Wait for him—there is plenty of money here," averred her aunt.

Margery smiled. "He is a proud man, aunties—when he found I was to be your heiress—it was all in the papers over there—he told me he was glad that I had refused him."

Miss Violet sighed.

"A duke's a duke, rich or poor," snapped Miss Esther.

That afternoon Miss D'Arcy summoned Blake, the chauffeur, to her sitting room.

"I am sorry to let you go, Blake, but I must dispense with your services."

He stared blankly at her, and then smiled engagingly. "That is a surprise, Miss D'Arcy; you know I was rather hoping you would keep me."

"I, too, am sorry, Blake. We like your driving very much. You suit us very well, but I think an older man would do better."

"Indeed, madam?"

"Yes. And I would be very glad to give you a letter of recommendation."

"Thank you." His tone was respectful, but his eyes were troubled as she pulled out writing materials.

"You said you had been employed by the Duke of Katewood?"

Blake reddened.

"I have always worked for him," he murmured.

"Then you know him well?"

"I do, madam."

"Is he young?"

"About my own age."

"Rich?" pursued Miss Violet, even though ashamed of questioning a servant.

"Poor but honest," returned Blake, dryly.

"Ah!"

Miss D'Arcy turned toward a waiting servant. "What is it, Hannah?"

"A cablegram for Mister Blake," said Hannah. The chauffeur thanked her rather brusquely, adding, "My letters to the garage, if you please, Hannah."

Miss D'Arcy looked up from her writing. "Read your message, Blake," she said graciously.

He scanned the missive, a quick light leaping to his eyes.

"Excuse me, Miss D'Arcy. I will return shortly," and he vanished.

After dinner, when they were sitting on the terrace, Gay, the English butler, approached them dizzily.

"Madame, his grace the Duke of Katewood is calling."

Margery gasped and ran forward a little. Down the terrace came Blake, very handsome and entirely at ease in perfect evening clothes. He bent to kiss Margery's trembling hand, then led her forward to the expectant women.

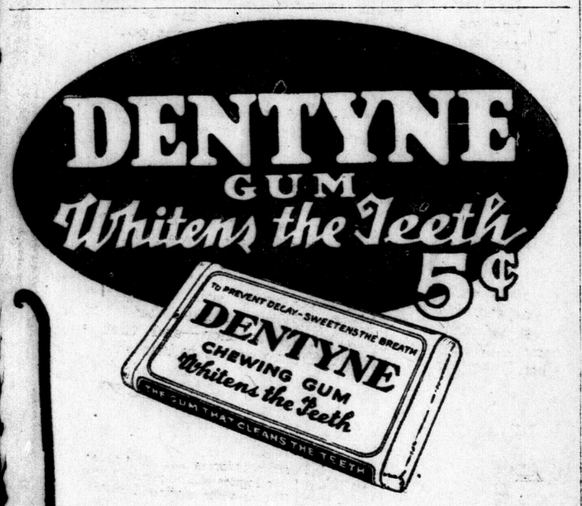

"My fortunes have turned, Miss D'Arcy, and I need not play at being your chauffeur any longer. Will you and your sister bless a nephew and forgive the deceit? I just had to be near Margery so that she would not forget me."

"As if I could," reproached Margery. Lost in the wonder of their love they did not see the aunts stealing away to whisper happily of the wedding and to marvel at the charming romance they had stumbled upon.

"A duke is a duke, my dear Violet," repeated Esther, "but remember we have lost a perfectly good chauffeur!"

Wingham Wins N. W. B. A. Championship Title Beating Owen Sound 8 to 5 In Chesley Play-Off

Wingham Aided By Errors Defeat Owen Sound 8--5

Northerners Had Three Men On in 9th, But Needed Hit, Didn't Come.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chesley, Sept. 29.—Wingham won the championship of the N. W. B. A. senior series for 1923, when they handed Owen Sound an 8 to 5 trimming in the sudden death game played here today. The weather was ideal for baseball and over 1,500 spectators were on hand to see the final game. Both contesting teams were accompanied by a large following, and baseball fans were here from points sixty miles distant.

The winners got the jump on the Scenery City nine when they shoved five runs across the rubber in the first two innings and from then on were always in the lead. Each team had previously won its home game in the finals and today's contest was the best game of the three from a spectators viewpoint even if the total errors on the two opposing teams did reach into two figures. Windy Morden, Wingham's pitching ace, stands out as the hero of the series. The chunky southpaw pitched all three games for his team, which is considered something in the nature of an iron-man stunt, as it is only a week ago that he won the first encounter with a no-hit game. He was opposed today by Whinfield, but had the edge on the right-handed flinger. His control was perfect. He did not issue a pass and in the fourth inning struck out the side.

Support Bad.

Whinfield pitched a brand of ball that will win any ordinary game, but his support was ragged and kept him continually in a hole. Wingham looked like easy winners in the early innings and enjoyed a 5 to 0 lead up till the fifth inning. They got two markers in the first when Howson drew a free trip to first, and Robinson leaned against one of Whinfield's fast ones for a four-cushion swat that went to the center-field fence. They grabbed off three more runs in the second inning on 2 hits, a walk and an error. However, Owen Sound fought back hard and three runners scampered across the plate on some timely hitting. Wingham got an additional run in their half of the sixth, but their infield went up in the air in the last half of the inning, and Owen Sound came within one run of tying the score. Wingham put the game on ice in the ninth when they ran their total runs up to eight, and although the Sounders filled the bases in the last half of the ninth, the necessary hit to tie things up wasn't forthcoming and all three baserunners were left stranded.

This year's N. W. B. A. winners are a bunch of sluggers, and in Morden and Irwin have two excellent pitchers, and would have given a good account of themselves in the O. B. A., but the league was too late in declaring a winner, and will have to be content with landing the silverware in the N. W. B. A.

Cosmopolitan Crew.

Wingham, 1923 winner of the N. W. B. A. pennant, is surely a cosmopolitan aggregation.

Of the nine players who figure regularly on the line-up, the team is made up three players each from Wingham, Teeswater and Lucknow, so that these two latter mentioned villages also feel that they should come in for a share of the glory.

Morden, Howson and Geddes make their home in Wingham. Donahue, McDonald and Robinson spend their spare moments watching the laying down of the new pavement on Teeswater's main street, and Hall, Irwin and Johnston do the most of their eating and sleeping in Lucknow.

SOCCER SCORING IS MUCH BETTER

Games Marked by Great Achievements in Goal Saturday.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Sept. 30.—Numerous critics from whom much has recently been heard about the paucity af goal-scoring by the forwards were confounded by yesterday's soccer matches. It is many a long day since such splendid scoring achievements were previously recorded, and if the results reached yesterday can be taken as any criterion it is apparent that the one great aim of all sides was to win; a share of the points was a secondary consideration. At any rate it was remarkable that of the 44 matches played in four divisions of the league only half a dozen were drawn, and in only three games did the teams fail to register between them. Scores of four to eight goals featured some matches, and this has led to the assumption that the principle of attack as being the best defence having been recognized generally, improvement may be looked for.

It was a good day for the home clubs. Twenty-eight were successful, while six more managed to avert defeat, leaving only ten visiting sides to accomplish what must always be regarded as a difficult task.

The chief honors of a somewhat remarkable day go to Derby County, who, playing on their opponents' ground, scored eight goals. The defeat of Notts County, a particularly virile second division club last season, leaves Cardiff City the only unbeaten team in the first division, and the fact that they have been able to secure more points than such sides as Bolton Wanderers and Aston Villa, who have played two games more up to the present, makes out the Welsh team to be something out of the ordinary.

West Ham United had the distinction of being the only first division side yesterday to win away from home, their success achieved at the expense of Middlesborough, whose fortunes are sadly at variance with their record at the corresponding stage last season, when instead of being the last but one, as they are at present, they actually were second to Liverpool in the championship table. But the ups and downs of the game are illustrated in other ways, as the leading four clubs will testify, for three of them twelve months ago were in a very lowly position, while the fourth was then in the second division.

Maple Leafs and W.O.R. Stay In McCutcheon Cup Series

won the pro golf title of United States for second time after playing in remarkable form.

AMAZING SHOT WINS FOR SARAZEN ON 38TH

Hagen Had Squared Match At 35th Hole After Great Fight.

Associated Press Despatch.

Pelham Manor, N.Y., Sept. 30. — An amazing recovery shot from a cray-fish marsh decided the 38th hole and brought victory for Gene Sarazen here Saturday and defeat for Walter Hagen, the veteran in the United States Professional Golfers' Association's most thrilling title match. And upon Sarazen's head still rests the crown he won last year at Oakmont, Pa.

Victory for Sarazen in this, the first extra-hole championship match in the history of the professional's championship tournaments, came after a courageous uphill fight by Hagen who had squared the match at the 35th hole after being three down at the 28th. They started on extra holes after Hagen had made an excellent recovery from a trap on the 36th for a half.

Both sank putts of more than five feet on the 37th for birdie fours. Came then the tricky 38th, a 310 yard hole, with a sharp curve to the green around a clump of trees. Hagen essayed a daring shot over the trees to the green. His ball stopped on the edge of a sand trap, beside the green. Undismayed by this shot, Sarazen played for the hole.

His ball fell short in marshy ground, sprinkled with the mudmounds of cray-fish. He was away. Selecting a mashie niblick, he putt the ball within two fee of the cup. This excellent stroke drew the plaudits of the great gallery, and when there was quiet he again stepped to his ball. Perhaps Sarazen's shot unnerved him, for when he struck, he looked up and his ball failed to carry out of the sand. His third got toward the cup and seemed as if it might go in, then rolled to one side. Sarazen did not hesitate with his putt. It trickled in.

Will Play Two Final Games—First Probably Saturday.

Maple Leafs and W. O. R.'s survived the first round of the McCutcheon Cup series which started off with a double header at the C. N. R. A. A. grounds Saturday afternoon, the former ousting the C. N. R. by a score of 3-1, and the militiamen putting their last year rivals out by a 4-1 count.

In the first game Maple Leafs clearly outclassed the C. N. R. Having the benefit of the wind, their first goal came from a penalty kick against Burgess for handling. Croll took the kick and the Leafs were one up. From the kick off the Leafs came right back but Henderson and Co., defending, saved their goal repeatedly. Not to be denied the Leafs kept at it and were soon rewarded Hazlewood scoring a beauty.

After this both goals were visited in turn but no further scoring took place this half. After the interval the C. N. R. hemmed the Leafs in their own area and had numerous chances to score, but bad shooting spoiled their chances. C. N. R. also had three corner kicks, but Nudds, Smith and Croll defended in grand style. The C. N. R. kept pegging away and were rewarded when Haywood scored. This put more life into the game. Towards the end the Maple Leafs again scored, Mason doing the trick.

Teams:

Maple Leafs—Nudds, D. Smith, Croll, Ince, Whitelaw, Milne, Taylor, Mason, Hazlewood, McLaughlan, Holt.

C. N. R.—Henderson, Burgess, Moir, Russell, Thorne, Astles, Evans, Macfarlan, Haywood, Cuthbert, Binchell.

SCOTS EDGED.

The second game was as good as the first. The Saints kicked off and within two minutes had notched their first goal. However, the soldiers kept at it and Ridley scored number one for the W. O. R. Soon after this the W. O. R. were awarded a penalty which Ashton converted. No further scoring took place in this half which ended, W. O. R. 2, St. Andrews 1.

The second started with the Saints pressing but hard luck spoiled their chances at the other end. Ridley scored for the W. O. R.

Play was fairly even after this, both goals being visited in turn but the defence of both teams was good, but the W. O. R. were again rewarded when Cunningham scored.

Teams

W. O. R.—A. Whitworth, Ashton, Dennis, Herring, Whitworth, Travenor, Turner, Perkins, Ridley, Cunningham, Gellately.

St. Andrews — Adamson, Wilson, Knight, McClenaghan, Darroch, Wansley, Sutherland, Dickson, Dicks, Watkins, Owen.

A. Watkins, referee.

Two final games are to be played between the Maple Leafs and W. O. R. and it is expected they will be hummers. The first game will probably be played at the same grounds next Saturday.

Argos Held To Tie By Tigers; Montreal A.A. Beat Ottawas

Argos Do Not Look As Strong Without Conacher and McCormick.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Sept. 30—The interprovincial season was ushered in at Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon when the Hamilton Tigers spotted the champion Argonauts a seven-point lead in the first half and then wiped off the margin in the last two periods to produce the second successive tie game between these old rivals on the locals' stamping ground. Considerable interest in the game was evidenced, despite the counter attractions of the day, and nearly 9,000 fans and fanettes watched the aggregations make their 1923 debut, but the supporters of neither had much to enthuse about, and the result was more satisfying to the visitors than it was to the Double Blue.

It is an admitted fact that the presence of Conacher on the Scullers' team during the previous two seasons added greatly to the strength of the team, but the showing of the newcomers to the Oarsmen has been such in the training season that supporters of the team claimed that there was little lost in the way of strength when Conacher and McCormick decided to pastime in pastures new, and several of the veterans decided to change their roles from those of participants to those of spectators

Scullers Not So Strong.

On Saturday's showing the Scullers are not as strong as in the last two seasons, but there is lots of room for improvement, and with a bad game out of their system the Oarsmen may repeat for the fourth year.

The game was not productive of either good or spectacular football, in fact it was replete with fumbles, bad pass outs from the snaps and a monotonous regularity of plays. Neither team tried anything pretentious in the way of advancing the ball, and practically everyone was able to call before the quarterbacks called the signals. With the wind the team in possession used the aerial route more than did their opponents, but on the whole it was two smashes at the line and if they were not successful the ball would be booted towards their opponents' line. Very few end runs were attempted and these, with one exception, were smothered before the ball was advanced more than fifteen yards. Only once did a player make a gain of fifteen yards and he was a Tiger.

Excitement, however, was maintained until the final whistle by the closeness of the score. Argonauts were expected to win, but they didn't, so the Bengals have the best of the argument.

There were several points about the games that were highly satisfactory, and chief among them was the tackling. Argos, in recent years, have been a good tackling team, and this year are no exception, but the Tigers in the past have generally tried to stop their opponents by wrestling methods rather than the orthodox style outlined by the rules, but on Saturday they were as good as their opponents. There were only a few occasions during the game that high tackles were witnessed, and most of these offenses were accidental rather than intentional. The officials early showed their disfavor for the "about the ears" style.

Fumbles were both numerous and costly. Argos secured their first points in the second period when Galbraith fumbled a low drive from Munro and Thom, Stirrett and Dinsmore fell on the ball.

Tigers' First Touch.

Tigers secured their first five points when Hackey McFarlane, the former Parkdale player, dropped on the oval after Hughes fumbled one of Gibb's hoists. With the score 5 to 0, Munro booted for a touch in goal, and shortly afterwards a fumble by a Tiger back on a plunge resulted in Argos getting possession twenty yards out, and Munro tried a drop. He was hurried and the ball went wide, but a rouge resulted, giving Argos a 7 to 0 lead at half time, and six of the points being attributed to fumbles.

Tigers with the wind behind them in their third period, went after the Scullers and gradually forced them back. Gibbs' kicking finally resulted in the margin being reduced on a kick to the dead line after another fumble by Hughes, and the teams changed over for the final quarter with only one point separating them. It was expected that Argos would increase the advantage with the help of the wind, but Tigers proved to be the better finishers and had an edge on the play. Fumbles again crept into the pastime and one by Clift gave Tigers possession 20 yards out. Manson tried an onside, but Munro grabbed the fall and was forced to rouge, evening the count. Tigers had the best of the remainder of the play, the Scullers being lucky to get out of several tight holes without losing one or more points.

M. A. A. A. SURPRISE.

Montreal, Sept. 30.—Montreal rugby football players went to the top of the interprovincial ladder when they scored a surprising victory over the rebuilt Ottawa squad 20 to 15, in the opening game of the season, played at the M. A. A. A. gridiron Saturday afternoon. It was a hard-fought battle, but was devoid of any brilliant rugby. Fumbles were frequent by the players of both sides, but the interest of the spectators was maintained to the last as the tide of victory swayed from one side to the other.

It was a record crowd of 5,500 that turned out to witness the opening of the big four and to watch a struggle between a team of players of undoubted ability pitted against an aggressive and enthusiastic lot of graduates from intermediate and junior ranks, such as formed the majority of the winning squad Saturday. Ottawa proved a disappointment not only to their many supporters, but to the crowd generally. Their all-star back field failed to make any showing until the last quarter when Harding initiated an end run in which Connell and Miller later figured, that resulted in a gain of 45 yards for the visitors. It was the one real dashing piece of play, but came too late in the day to be effective in the way of added points.

M. A. A. A. on the other hand were equally culpable and the team did everything that might be expected of an over-anxious unseasoned squad. But the loose play and fumbling was not confined to the younger players, such experienced back division men as Jeff Russell and Carroll figuring frequently with muffed catches.

The teams at the commencement of play were:

M. A. A. A.	Position.	Ottawa
Glickman	Flying Wing	Connell
Russell	Half	Tubman
Carroll	Half	Miller
Gardner	Half	Miller
Gardner	Half	Harding

Dickson	Outside	Crain

M. A. A. A. Subs.—Crankshaw, Reid, Shibly, Soll, Bennett.

Ottawa Subs.—Buels, Parmalee, J. Timmis, Mackell, Davis, Starr, Manore, Pritchard.

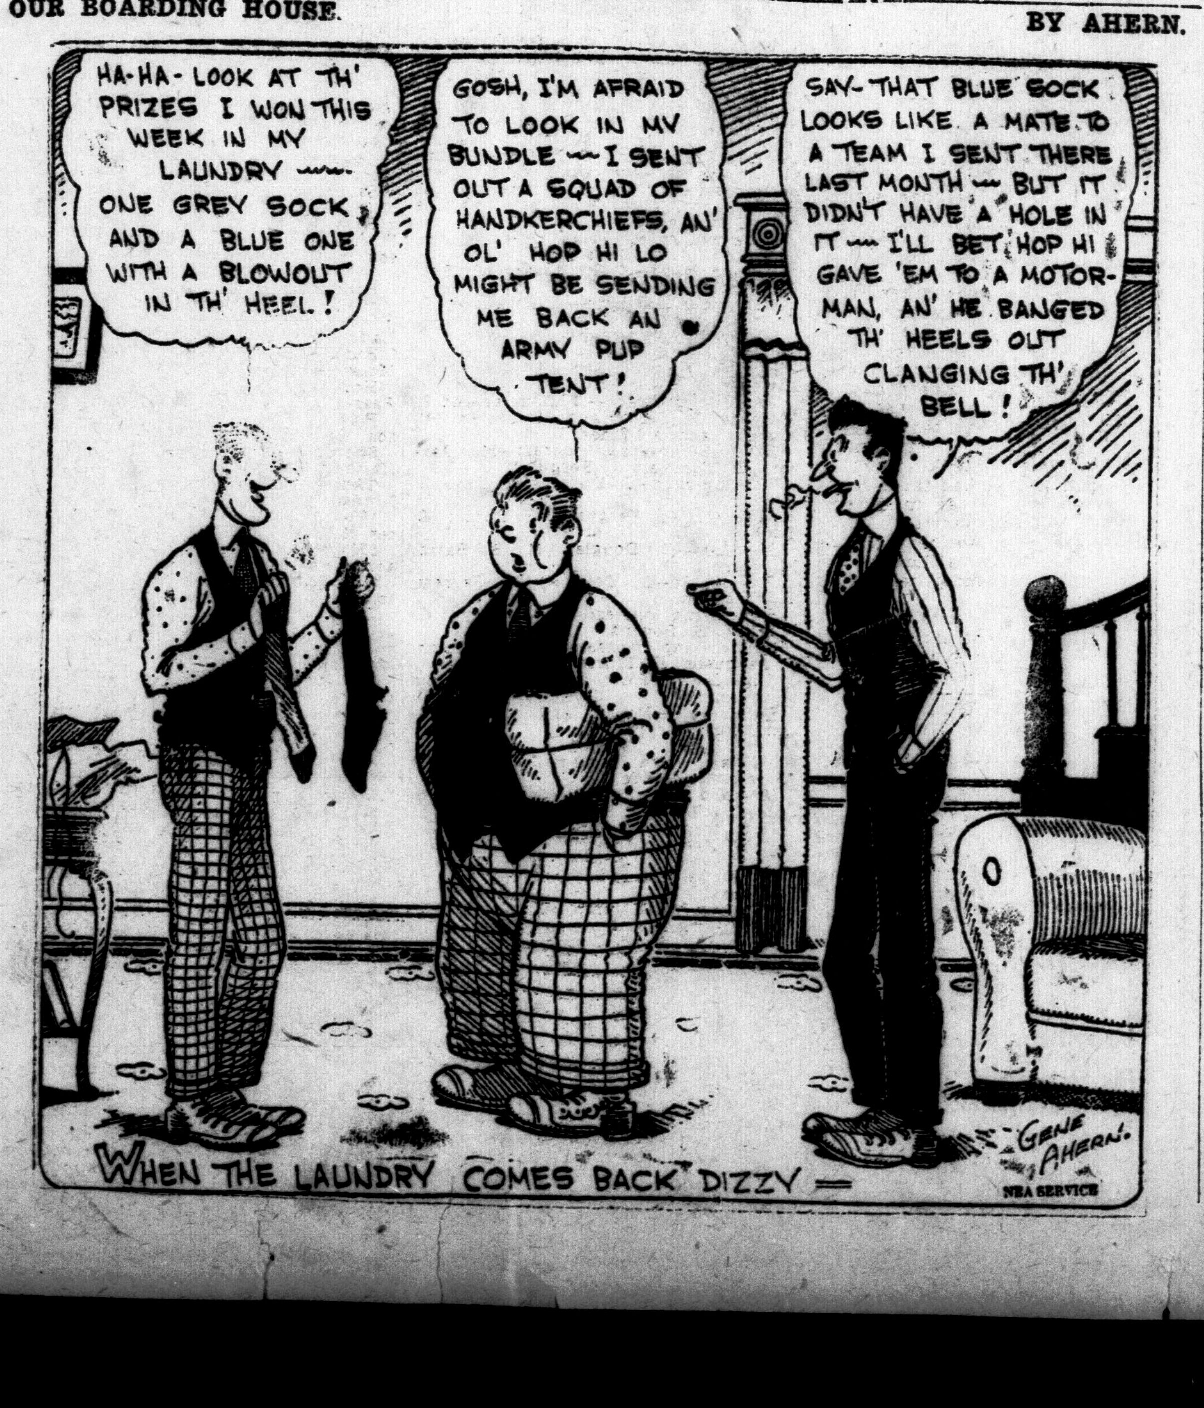

First quarter—Ottawa, 2; Montreal, 8.

Second quarter—Ottawa, 12; Montreal 8.

Third quarter—Montreal 15; Ottawa 13.

Last quarter—Ottawa, 15; Montreal 20.

HILLCRESTS BEATEN BY GUELPH LEAFS 3--2

Goyer Was in Great Form and Toronto Champs Used Two Hurlers.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Sept. 30.—Hillcrests, baseball champions of Toronto, played an exhibition game here this afternoon against the Maple Leafs and met defeat by a score of 3 to 2. Goyer was at the top of his form and pitched what was probably one of his best games, while Myles had to be taken out in the eighth inning after he had put two men on bases and there was danger of losing the game. Billy Greer, who won the championship for "Nip" Dwan's crew, was the relieving pitcher, but he was not equal to the occasion, as Pequegnat, the first batter to face him, hit cleanly to center and drove home the winning run, with two men out. The Hillcrests secured their two runs in the first inning, on a walk, an infield hit and a three-bagger by Samuels. But with the latter on third base and no one out, Goyer settled down and retired the side without further scoring. After that the Guelph pitcher was unbeatable. Myles got along well, allowing one run in the third on a walk to Lindsay, a steal and a single by Little, and they tied the score in the sixth, and batted in the winning run in the eighth. "Babe" Dye umpired behind the plate, with Jim Cockman on the bases.

Guelph	001 001 01x—3	7	2

BURGESSVILLE GIRLS WIN OVER EASTWOOD 12--17

Woodstock, Sept. 29.—The girls' softball tournament held here on Saturday to decide the championship of Oxford County and possession of the Rounds trophy, did not prove a very strong drawing card so far as the teams were concerned, for only two clubs, Burgessville and Eastwood, responded to the invitation to compete for the beautiful trophy. There was a fair crowd out to see the contest, and the result was a victory for the Burgessville girls, who won out by a score of 12—7. Audrey McCready, on the slab for the winners, pitched a fine game all through. She was ably supported by her battery mate, Margaret Towns. In an exhibition game following the trophy fixtures, the Eastwood girls reversed the order of things, winning by a lopsided score. The summary:

Burgessville	3 3 0 2 0 0 1 3 0—12
Eastwood	2 0 0 1 0 0 3 1 0—7

Batteries—A. McCready and M. Towns, Allie Townsend and V. Townsend.

BABE RUTH FIGHTING TO BEAT HEILMAN

Must Overcome 10-Point Lead to Win American League Batting Championship.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Babe Ruth, proclaimed the most valuable player in the American League for 1923, faces a fighting chance to add the American League batting championship to his laurels. With the last of the season less than a week away, the New York star must overcome a ten point lead held by Harry Heilmann of Detroit. Ruth got only four hits in his last four games, giving him an average of .385, while Heilmann is pounding away at a .395 clip. Babe, however, is secure in home run honors with 38, and is so far in front as a scorer there is no possibility of being overtaken. He has counted 137 times. The records include games of Wednesday.

Other leading batters for 90 or more games:

Speaker, Cleveland .375; J. Sewell, Cleveland .360; Williams, St. Louis .353; E. Collins, Chicago .353; Jamieson, Cleveland .344; Cobb, Detroit .343; Manush, Detroit .335; J. Harris, Boston .332.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis seems likely to retain the 1923 batting championship of the National League. He is batting .384, which gives him a 10 point margin over Zack Wheat of the Dodgers. Bottomley, Hornsby's team-mate, is tagging on close with the leaders with .367.

Other leading batters for 90 or more games:

Fournier, Brooklyn .354; Roush, Cincinnati .351; Frisch, New York .347; Grimm, Pittsburg .342; Young, New York 340; Barnhardt, Pittsburg 340; Traynor, Pittsburg .338; Hargrave, Cincinnati .335.

Cy Williams, the veteran Philadelphia outfielder, suffered a slump, dropping from .305 to 295 in a week, but increased his home run record to 38.

Nov. 12.—London at Petrolia.

Petrolia will open the local rugby season here next Saturday, when the first game of the intermediate O. R. F. U. will be played. The above schedule was drawn up at a meeting held here Saturday. In the intermediate intercollegiate series, the schedule of which was adopted in Toronto Saturday, Western University also begins with a home date, meeting their old-time rivals, St. Mikes, at Tecumseh Park one week later, Oct. 13.

The intermediates will be idle on the 13th, but get going again when they trip into Sarnia on the 20th. Western meets Varsity at Toronto on the same date.

Already the squads are beginning to look like mid-season machines. Most of the last week was given over to signal drills, with a liberal helping of all the other incidentals that go to make a training season a success. The latter part of the week the intermediate O. R. F. U. men fell off somewhat, due, apparently, to the attempts of the weatherman to again foist some summer heat on the city. Western University, however, seemed to regard the extra bit of warmth in a friendly humor, and turned out in increasing numbers each day.

Saturday's drill, as far as University of Western Ontario's moleskin mentors would discuss it, was the best yet held. To start with, there was a full turnout, and that's worth while. And competition, it seems certain, should about cause a merry little scrap for several of the places on the team.

MICKEY'S MAULER SORE, HE HAS BOUT DELAYED

All Champs Are Pining in Idleness As Fight Feast Is Slow.

By FAIR PLAY.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, Sept. 29.—Mickey Walker has pulled a new one in getting his fight with Jimmy Jones postponed. He got an osteopath to stand back of his assertion that his right hand was not quite in condition to withstand the punches he delivers. An osteopath, if he is a good one, understands all about bones, and when a fighter develops trouble in his maulers what is more valuable than a bone specialist?

By the same token a lot of fighters we know might with advantage consult an osteopath with regard to their heads. Why not have Jimmy Jones' head examined. He is willing to wait a week until Mickey's right comes around to shape.

Appears Foolish.

That's foolish, seeing the welter champion is such a walloper. A sensible fighter would regard the champion's damaged right as something not to be passed up. On the other hand, the demand for tickets is such as to indicate that with a postponement of several days there will be much more money in the fight. Maybe Jimmy's head is all O. K. after all.

There's a big slump in the metropolitan fight market right now. The champions are mostly idle, and no contenders are pestering them for battles Benny Leonard says that unless some ambitious youngsters turn up he will take permanently to the stage.

Opponents Few.

He might as well do so, so far as aspirants in his division are concerned. The one big battle that looms ahead of him relates to Mickey Walker and this project has not as yet been sufficiently ballyhooed to make it a worthwhile attraction to the fighters. It will probably take place next summer.

Was there ever such a flop in heavies as the past few months have seen? Jess Willard, Bill Brennan, Floyd Johnson, Bob Martin, Jack McAuliffe, Sailor Maxted, Joe McCann, Charlie Weinert—all gone, spurlos versenkt.

ADD TO KITCHENER RINK TO SEAT NEARLY 5,000

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Sept. 30.—When the Kitchener rink opens its doors this winter for O. H. A. hockey there will be a considerable increase in the seating capacity, as compared with last year. The directors have purchased 50 feet of land to the rear of the present building, which will enable them to move the ice surface down 26 feet and build two ends on the rink with galleries, which will increase the accommodation by about 1,200 to 1,500. Thus, a capacity crowd this year will be in the neighborhood of 5,000, instead of about 3,800, and many more spectators will be seated than heretofore.

SERIES WILL MEAN $400,000 SPLIT

Players Will Participate in Receipts of First Four Games in Series.

By JOHN B. FOSTER.
Special to The Advertiser.
Copyright.

New York, Sept. 29.—A golden haze today floats before the eyes of the Yankees and the Giants, the latter of whom made the third consecutive all-New York world series a certainty on Friday by defeating Brooklyn.

More than a million dollars to be divided among players and owners of the New York clubs, the National Commission and the runners-up in the races, is in sight.

It is safe enough to estimate the average "gate" per thousand spectators at the Yankee Stadium at about $3,500. The other day an ordinary game was played there before a paying attendance of 60,000. If the first game of the world series—which is to be played there—draws even as well, the gross receipts will be about $210,000. If the Yankees can accommodate 70,000 spectators in their park, as has been intimated, the gross would be around $245,000 for the opening game.

The average receipts per thousand spectators at the Polo Grounds to the Giants probably will be around $3,300. The Polo Grounds has not as many high-priced box seats as the stadium has to bring the average up. A 40,000 crowd there would bring in $132,000, and a packed attendance of about 50,000 would mean $165,000.

Two Games in Each Park.

At least two games are certain at each park, as the series cannot be decided until one team has won four games, supposing, which is reasonable, that the Yankees have two capacity crowds at the stadium, the gross receipts for just those two games would be $490,000. Should the Polo Grounds be equally well patronized, the receipts there for two days would be around $330,000, a total of $820,000. And as it is practically certain that the series would not be decided in four straight games, a million dollar gate looks like a reasonable enough estimate. Should the series go the limit, the takings would probably be well in excess of a million.

But assuming that $820,000 is all that falls into the Yankee-Giant coffers, the tidy sum of $123,000 would first be deducted for the National Commission. That will pay Kenesaw Mountain Landis his $50,000 salary very handily. From the remaining $697,000, 60 per cent, or $418,200, would go to the players. That compares quite favorably with the $247,309.71 they got last year.

Complain of Price.

As the players participate only in the profits of the first four games, the $418,000 figures represents about all they would get under any circumstances, although record attendances at these games might push the total up to $460,000. Whatever comes in after that goes to the club owners and the advisory council. The total accruing to the council in 1922 was $72,738.15. It is possible that the council's share may reach $200,000 this year if the series is prolonged. This seems like a lot of money to spend regulating a game which ought to regulate itself.

In a vague way the public realizes the magnitude of the sum at stake in the coming series, and louder than ever before have been the complaints about the prices charged; but there is one consolation—with the greatly increased seating capacity there will probably be much less ticket speculating than formerly.

PAPYRUS NOT TIPPLER, HIS GROOM DECLARES

Hundreds Greet Great English Horse On Arrival.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Sept. 29.—Papyrus is here. The strong-hearted English Derby winner arrived from Britain in a luxurious horse cabin in the steerage of the Aquitania.

Like all notables from abroad the first thing he did was to receive reporters, but he had nothing to say. All he could do for the newspapermen was to kick up his hind legs and wave his head back and forth like a polar bear in a circus cage.

Papyrus was accompanied by his boy chum, Bar Gold, a 4-year-old. Contrary to advance notices, there were no kittens as mascots. And, according to Tom Saw, the stable groom, Papyrus is a temperance horse and never has taken a drink of beer.

Tom declared he had been around English racing stables for thirty-five years, and never yet had seen a horse guzzle beer.

"Papyrus will fit into the American scheme of prohibition very well," said Tom.

The Derby winner was taken from the ship this morning, and given a ride to Belmont Park, where he will go into training for his match race with the best American horse yet to be chosen on Oct. 20. Every day of the trip, Eddie Banham, the 116-pound exercise boy, mounted Papyrus and rode him around the especially constructed stable on deck. Then he was massaged and bathed three times a day. "Clean as well as mild tempered," said Trainer Jarvis.

Papyrus was not mentioned on the ship's passenger list, although he probably was the most celebrated personage on board.

Enough reporters, artists and sob sisters to greet a great statesman or prizefighter went down the bay to meet the horse.

NINE HORSES ENTERED FOR $10,000 HANDICAP

Associated Press Despatch.

Havre De Grace, Sept. 92. — Nine of the best horses in training here are entered in the $10,000 Havre De Grace handicap at a mile and an eighth, for three years and upwards, feature on the program today, the last of this meet. The track is fast and in excellent condition.

Enchantment, entered by the Greentree stable and H. P. Whitney, appears to be the favorite of the dopesters, with Cherry Pie, Exodus and Nedna, from the same stables, also rated in the running. Dunlin and Blazes are entered by J. S. Cosden, whose horses have captured two previous $10,000 features of the meet. Vigil, Ten Minutes and Big Heart complete the entry list.

TOMMY WALLACE OPENS NEW GYM TUESDAY

Tommy Wallace, well-known boxing instructor, and who last week received the appointment as instructor at the University of Western Ontario, is opening a new gymnasium at 11 Chester street Tuesday evening. Mayor Wenige will declare the gym officially opened, and a big athletic program of five boxing bouts, a jiu-jitsu exhibition and an exhibition wrestling match.

Wallace, who initiated the idea of teaching group boxing while a prisoner of war in Germany from early in 1915, came to the city three years ago, and since that time has done much to keep boxing going, although with few facilities. Now he is opening a gymnasium to carry on classes in every line of athletics, and the venture fills a long-felt want in the city.

"CY" WILLIAMS HIT OUT BRACE HOMERS

Cy's 39th Tied Up Game, and His 40th Won It in the 12th.

Associated Press Despatch.

Brooklyn, Sept. 30.—"Cy" Williams tied the score with his 39th homer of the season in the eighth inning today and sewed up the victory with the 40th in the twelfth, the Phillies winning a long extra-inning battle by 6 to 4. Vance, who was out to win his 19th victory, fanned 12 batters, but better support made Ring the winner. It was Zach Wheat day, and 10,000 fans turned out to see the Brooklyn captain presented with an automobile awarded him in a voting contest.

Score:		R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	200 000 100 003—	6	9	1
Brooklyn	111 000 000 001—	4	11	2

McGRAW USES ROOKIES.

New York, Sept. 30.—The world's champions wound up their home season here today and defeated Boston in a ten-inning game 4 to 3.

Manager McGraw of New York used a lineup made up almost entirely of young players, and a two-base hit by Solomon drove in Frisch with the winning run in the tenth.

Though Ryan received credit for the Giant victory, Gearin, a young left-hander, did well for nine innings, yielding only six hits and driving out two himself.

Frank Snyder, regular New York catcher, injured his right hand in the third inning when Southworth hit it in swinging for a ball, and was obliged to retire.

CAMLACHIE GIRLS WIN OVER OXFORD CHAMPS

Oxford County Girls Protest Bats Used by Lambton County Girls.

The game, however, was protested by the Drury club. The Shamrocks arrived for the game armed with real war clubs in the form of regulations men's size baseball bats, and despite the protests of the home team, they used them throughout the game. This was the ground on which the game was protested.

The visitors started off with making six runs in the first, but at the end of the fourth the Druryites were leading by 14 runs to 10. In the next two frames, however, the Camlachie outfit hammered in sixteen runs, and put the game on ice, although a promising rally by the locals in the eighth gave them eight runs, three runners being left stranded when the last was made out. Symonds, pitching for Brantford, was replaced in the third by O'Connor, who pitched stellar ball. The fireworks started for Brantford when four runs were scored in the third. Professional Traders Drive Many Issues Down to New Low Levels.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Wall Street, Oct. 1.—In today's market professional traders were found working at cross purposes. There were intervals of strength during which some particular stocks were bid up and there were periods of apparent weakness as selling broke out in other directions. In view of the bullishness expressed on the subject of the canning industry, it was something of a shock to the bull side the way these stocks were driven down. The main pool operations in Continental Can, which carried it up to 55½ some three weeks ago, has evidently been abandoned. Probably the movement was given up because of the unresponsive atmosphere of the market in general. American Can, which had been moving closely up and down with other active industrials, broke away from the latter and followed Continental Can in its decline.

New low prices were made in Studebaker, Chandler and Kelly Springfield. Hudson Motors sold at the lowest since the stock was put on a regular $3 basis. Willys-Overland preferred was not helped by the report that the company's schedule called for an increase in production during October, and that a further progressive increase was expected in November and December. The bear side pointed to this as another instance of how the market for the motor stocks was ignoring hopeful statements from the trade. The selling extended to Hupp Motor and to Stewart-Warner.

The buying movement in the oils, while it lasted, was quite brisk. Pacific Oil was the leader with a jump of over a point. When the stock was around its low of 31¼, the statement was frequently made that it was worth this figure as an asset proposition, regardless of current earnings and the suspension of dividends. At today's high, Pacific Oil was up seven points from bottom. Marland and Phillips each up five, and Standard Oil of California the same. The action of these stocks filled in with the judgment which has so often been expected during the last fortnight that the oil shares were sold out; that the worst was known about the oil situation, and that it had been discounted in the oil stocks.

STOCK EXCHANGES RESUME REGULAR TRADING HOURS

EXPECT KEEN CAMPAIGN BEFORE SCOTCH DRY VOTE

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 1.—A keen campaign on the part of both wets and drys is promised in Scotland, where returns have shown that at least 250 polls will be necessary as a result of the requisitions lodged under the temperance act. All the large industrial towns are this year included in the present arrangement. In Glasgow, for instance, a poll will take place in 34 out of 37 areas. Two of these areas are already dry and several are under limitation. For a majority of the areas there will be three options, while for the areas under limitation there will be four options, namely—repeal, continuance, further limitation, no license.

In the dry areas the voters will decide simply for repeal or continuance.

BREWERIES AND POWER ATTRACT AT MONTREAL

Former Declines Slightly On Profit-Taking, While Latter Gains One-Half.

Reported for The Advertiser by Johnston & Ward.

Montreal, Oct. 1.—The market leader on the Montreal stock exchange this forenoon was again National Breweries. The rapid and steady advance in this issue has induced a number of holders to take their profits and the stock declined to 53½, after having attained a new high level for the year at 54⅞. Friends of National Breweries predict higher prices in the immediate future. They base their contention on the fact that the company is in a much better position now than it was in 1920, when the common stock was selling about $70 a share, and that with a moderate improvement in the general market condition Breweries should be one of the first to move into new high ground.

Outside of Breweries the only active issue was Montreal Power. The activity was accompanied by a gain of one-half point to 128. The other public utilities attracted but little attention, with Bell Telephone at 123, Illinois, preferred, 90½, Toronto Railway 82, Quebec Railway 16½, Quebec Power 68. The date for the exchange of Quebec Railway shares into Quebec Power shares has been extended until 3 o'clock today.

British Empire continue their downward movement, with the common selling at 5¼, the first preferred at 59, and the second preferred at 15½. Can. Car common changed hands at 22¼, unchanged. The preferred was neglected.

Pulp and papers were not very active and displayed no definite trend. Abitibi opened at 61¼ and subsequently sold at 61½. Brompton, from a start of 40⅛, lost the fraction, but again advanced to 40¼. Laurentide was bought at 92½.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Very limited trading marked the opening session for the week on the local stock exchange, with transactions exceeding 100 shares being recorded in only one issue—Mackay preferred. Price changes were, for the most part, within very narrow limits, the widest fluctuations being caused through odd-lot transactions. Bank of Commerce advanced one to 191, while Imperial was off one at 178, the remainder of the group holding unchanged. Maple Leaf preferred advanced to 75, a gain of two points. Sales Book was up one at 40, while Toronto Railway lost one-quarter at 82¼.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Trading was lower than the average for the opening session of the week on the Standard mining exchange. The market, as a whole, was strong, although not many advances were made. Argonaut was two higher at 63, Goldale two at 52½, McIntyre 15 at 39.25, while the other leading golds were unchanged. Hollinger declined 15 at 11.80. Keeley gained three at 192, and Lorraine a half at 20, while Castle Trethewey at 34, and Temiskaming at 35 were each down a half.

Everything the Farmer Trades In Local Market

Several loads of firewood were offered on the local market this morning, a fact which indicates the approach of colder weather. For loads said to contain barely three cords of 12-inch fuel $16 was quoted. Five loads of hay were sold at $12 to $14 per ton. Wheat prices display very little change, from $1 to $1.05 being the usual range. Two loads of oats brought $1.35 per bushel.

Apples and potatoes are slow, chiefly for the reason that the varieties offered are not suitable for winter storage. For the former $1 to $1.50 per bushel is quoted, and for the latter $1 to $1.10.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—The cattle market was extremely slow, scarcely enough business doing before the noon hour to make a market at all. Just a few odd lots of fair quality butcher cattle picked out, but anything of choice quality hard to find. There was no demand for the export trade and, indeed, so little demand for cattle of any kind that some of the commission men were sending out telephone messages to their clients in the country advising them to hold back their cattle for a week or so to give the market a chance to clear up a lot of last week's accumulations.

Prices today were just about steady with last week. Calves steady. Lambs steady, but trade very slow. Hogs steady for today's deliveries, on basis of $8.75, f.o.b. The grand champion steer at the Winnipeg stockers' and feeders show, held last week, was purchased by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, of the H. P. Kennedy Company. The steer is said to be a fine specimen of Western Canada production. It is the intention of Mr. Kennedy to ship the steer to Mr. T. J. Irwin of Glasgow, to be offered up to auction, the proceeds of the sale to be donated to some charitable institution in Glasgow.

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES.

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Despite weakness at the outset, wheat soon scored a moderate advance in price today. Initial declines were ascribed to a down turn in Liverpool quotations, and to disturbed conditions in Germany. Notable strength in the corn market, however, brought about an advance in wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅝c lower, wheat underwent a general setback and then rose well above Saturday's finish. Persistent buying of corn and oats accompanied reports of continued wet weather west. Corn, which opened ⅛c to ⅝c off, began immediately to ascend and made sudden gains to above 1c. Oats started ⅛c to ⅜c lower. Later the market showed a moderate advance.

Futures opened:
Wheat—Dec., $1.05⅛; May, $1.09⅝.
Corn—Dec., 71⅝c; May, 70⅝c.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT SOLDIERS SUPPRESS REVOLT

COMMENDS KING FOR ADVERTISING CANADA IN EUROPE

GERMANS STARVING

Evidence of the Liberal government's activity in promoting immigration has been shown in the several noted foreign investigators who have come to Canada for the purpose of examining conditions and reporting to their governments on the advantages of Canada for European settlers. Among the most notable of these is Christian Reventlow, eminent Danish author, who was in the city this a morning.

Herr Reventlow is prominent in European literary and political circles. His books on social and economic conditions of Europe are said to be among the most widely-read in the world. In one of these he indulged in such a severe attack on Lloyd George that he became the subject of bitter criticism from many British dailies supporting the policies of Lloyd George when he was premier.

In an interview with The Advertiser, Herr Reventlow preferred not to discuss immigration before he submitted his report to the Danish government. He thought, however, that Canada offered a great field of opportunity for millions of people suffering privations in Northern Europe, and commended the King government for its initiative in advertising the benefits of Canada throughout the countries across the Atlantic.

Herr Reventlow declared that the amount of propaganda urging European settlers to Canada was tremendous. Canada was being advertised as it had never been before, he said, through the activities of the federal immigration department.

Germany Starving.

Commenting on conditions in Europe, Reventlow made the startling statement that Germany was slowly being starved to death. Contrary to reports of extravagance and a certain amount of prosperity, the German people, he averred, are dying by the hundreds of thousands.

"The coming winter will see a degree of suffering unparalleled in history," Herr Reventlow declared. "I was in Germany a few weeks ago, and the privation was awful. Fifty per cent of the children in schools are dying from tuberculosis. Unless conditions improve tremendously, which is improbable, there will be a revolution in Germany before the spring comes."

Herr Reventlow worked for the British and French governments during the latter period of the war, although his country remained neutral. He termed Europe a "mad-house," and prospects for a complete reconstruction within twenty years were not very bright, he said. In fact, numerous visits to Rumania, Germany, France, England and Hungary have made him pessimistic in the extreme.

Says Russia Prosperous.

The only country that will emerge stronger and better than ever, he said, was Russia. When Trotsky and Lenine took over the reins of government the country was in the throes of turmoil. Now it is more prosperous and contented than any other country in Europe, with the exception of Great Britain. Newspaper propaganda, he added, had given Bolshevism an unsavory flavor. Canadians looked on Bolshevism as bomb-throwers and irresponsible individuals, but Bolshevism, Herr Reventlow stated, was one of the mildest and at the same time most effective forms of government of modern times.

"The trouble with Canadians and Americans," he said, "is that they do not want to get under the surface of things. They are too ready to believe what is obviously propaganda. They won't think for themselves. They condemn Bolshevism without knowing anything about it."

Reventlow denounced France severely for her occupation of the Ruhr. He was also bitterly opposed to the policies of ex-President Wilson, Lloyd George and former Premier Clemenceau. The chaos in Europe was directly attributable to these men, he said.

"President Wilson came to Europe, and fell among thieves," Reventlow said. "The men who made peace at Versailles are responsible for the misery in Europe today. The world is a mad-house."

Voluntary Exile.

Like Tolstoi, Herr Reventlow became so disgusted with the state of affairs in Europe that only a year ago he emerged from voluntary exile in Sweden. He lived with his wife and family in the wilderness without coming into contact with civilization for three years.

"Canada has everything to be grateful for," he said. "Canadians are generally peaceful and contented. Europe has always been a hot-bed of intrigue which breeds war and starvation. With a hard winter approaching, no one can predict what will develop."

So far as Western Ontario is concerned, Herr Reventlow said, her immigration needs could easily be supplied if proper machinery were put into operation. The only criticism he had to offer regarding immigration was that the placing of men when they had arrived in this country could be improved upon. The service was not yet efficient.

Christian Reventlow came to Canada under the sanction of the Danish government, and in response to an invitation of the C. P. R. and C. N. R., to investigate conditions all over the Dominion. He left this morning for Ottawa to address a meeting there.

Monarchy To Be Restored In Bavaria In Near Future

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Munich, Oct. 1.—A monarchy will be proclaimed in Bavaria very soon, well-informed persons told your correspondent today. These persons, close to the Bavarian internal situation, believed a move to restore the Wittlesbach family to its pre-war status is already under way. They pointed to the enormous demonstration given the former crown prince, Rupprecht, and his wife when they arrived here yesterday as proof of the popularity of the former royal family.

Rupprecht was hailed by great crowds as "King of Bavaria." The same sources said Rupprecht has the complete support of Bavarian Dictator von Kahr and the various right wing military organizations.

OIL HEATER DISPELS POLICE COURT GLOOM

Lowly Kerosene Stove Warms Hearts and Hands in Literal "Cooler."

London police headquarters is frequently and vulgarly referred to as "the cooler," the cement floors and walls, plus the cold iron bars being responsible for this conception of Chief Birrell's resting place for wrong-doers. It was a real "cooler" today, however. There may be heat and lots of it at the equator and in factory boilerrooms, but there was none in police court nor in the magistrate's office.

Mr. Graydon drew the attention of Chief Birreli to this state of affairs, and an S. O. S. was sent out for the little old coal oil heater that lay rusted and dusty in the police station garage. It will do duty in the magistrate's office until some "higher power" turns on the steam that makes the courtroom radiator tintinnabulate with glee every time an O. T. A. victory is scored by Chief Birrell.

UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES WILL BE AUGMENTED

London Educational Institution Secures Valuable Volumes From Ann Arbor.

As the result of a visit made to the University of Michigan by Fred Landon, director of libraries, and Dean W. S. Fox of the University of Western Ontario, the library adds several hundred volumes of valuable material in a variety of lines. The authorities of the University of Michigan, with whom Mr. Landon was in touch during his stay there in the summer, authorized him to select whatever was desired from the very large number of duplicate volumes in the Ann Arbor collections. This selection was made and word has been received that the books are being forwarded to London.

Within the next year it is expected that as much more will be secured. The University of Michigan recently purchased the whole of the famous Vignaud library in Paris, one of the greatest private collections in existence dealing with exploration and discovery in America in existence. This is now being examined and classified, and assurances have been given that the University of Western Ontario will be given the first opportunity to acquire books from this great collection that may already be in the University of Michigan library. The arrangements are that Western shall supply other material needed by Michigan from its duplicates, of which there are considerable numbers in the Barnett collection.

There are two candidates for every position, except that of vice-president, which has attracted three. Girls are well represented in the lists, dividing honors about equally with their male confreres.

The ballots will be counted after the polls close, and the results made known Tuesday night about 6 o'clock.

MANY TO ATTEND EVENING SCHOOL AT COLLEGIATE

Principal Miller Reports Registration to Date Is Largest On Record.

CHANGE IN TIME

The largest registration on record is the way Principal E. A. Miller of the Central Collegiate spoke of the prospects for the night classes at that institution, which open tonight.

The advance registration has been very good, according to Mr. Miller, and the fact that the classes are to be conducted the first four evenings of the week instead of alternate evenings, as formerly, has done much to attract students who otherwise would not have given the matter a second thought. Registration will be possible all this week for the academic classes conducted at Central.

At the Technical School the advance registration already exceeds the 400 mark, while, with the opening of the classes this evening, this number is expected to take a big increase. By the end of the week, Principal H. B. Beal expects the registration to be over the 1,000 mark.

All classes at both institutions are open and the work laid out for the coming season will start immediately. At the Technical School the various workshops and rooms of a similar nature will be going full blast, while at the other school classbooks, etc., will make their first appearance.

By the end of this week, when the registration will be practically completed, the total enrollment at both schools is expected to far exceed that of any previous year.

SAYS WEAKENED MIND IMPELLED TO SUICIDE

Harry L. Regan Remanded, To Be Examined by Jail Physician.

Harry L. Regan who tried to commit suicide in his room at 585 Waterloo street on September 15 last by slashing his throat with a razor could give Magistrate Graydon in police court today no more explanation of his deeed than "my mind leaves me." Regan was remanded a week to jail and in the meantime the jail physician will examine him.

The prisoner is an unmarried Englishman, 50 years of age. He is not sure how long he has been in Canada, but told Mr. Graydon it was about 10 or 15 years. He has a brother in Toronto, but did not know his address, he stated.

"You have nobody to take care of you?" inquired the court.

"No, sir," was the reply.

"What makes your mind leave you?" asked the magistrte.

"Continual worry," stated Regan vacantly.

"What about?" persisted the magistrate.

"I've no ontrol over my mind at night," was the reply.

The magistrate then signified that the case was over for the present and Regan obediently followed a police constable back to the cells.

PROPOSE CURTAILING DOLES TO UNEMPLOYED

One-Sixth of British Population Faces Winter of Severe Hardship.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 1.—A winter of discontent is forecasted for about one-sixth of the population of Great Britain, composed of the ever increasing army of unemployed, and hosts of government employees whose weekly stipend is about to be curtailed. The slump in British trade and commerce has been reflected internally with the result that unemployment, now numbering 1,233,300, is expected to reach a million and a half by Christmas.

Most of the unemployed are receiving a weekly dole from the government, but in a majority of cases this suffices only to keep body and soul together. The prospects of severe winter are viewed with alarm as most of the charitable organizations are already being worked to their limit.

The trade depression also is responsible for the action of a government committee which recommended reductions in the pay of many army and navy officers and men, as well as civil service employees as a means of reducing taxation. The committee's recommendations will be presented to parliament in November and will probably be enacted. The reductions will affect about 5,000,000 people.

FINEST BARN IN COUNTY CONSUMED BY FLAMES

Canadian Press Despatch.

Chatham, Oct. 1.—One of the largest fire losses in the county in recent years occurred last night when the large barn, the finest in the county, and contents, and also two large silos, were burned to the ground on the farm of W. H. Mancell, Tilbury East Township. The loss is estimated at more than $15,000. Mr. Mancell is the leading live stock man in the county, and included in his loss are 75 pure bred hogs, which were burned to death. The contents of the barn, which were destroyed, included 2,500 bushels of grain, threshing machinery and a large quantity of implements. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

CURATOR STATES RECENT ESTIMATE 'PURE GUESSWORK'

A. B. Barker Declares Prediction of 40 Cents On Dollar Without Basis.

STATEMENT READY

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 1.—"Pure guesswork" is the answer of A. B. Barker, curator of the Home Bank, to a report published Saturday that the Home Bank depositors would get only 40 cents on the dollar.

Mr. Barker issued this brief but emphatic statement: "Any estimates of value of the assets of the Home Bank of Canada and probable amount of the dividend must be purely guesswork at this juncture. In view of the fact that realization of assets will probably occupy a considerable time, it is highly probable that the banks will arrange to advance an amount to permit of an early payment of 25 cents on the dollar to depositors on account of their claims."

Mr. Barker's intimation of an advance payment of 25 cents on the dollar confirms a prediction of some days ago that something of this sort would be done. The payment would be made through the Canadian Bankers' Association, and the plan adopted would probably be for the depositors to assign their Home Bank deposits to the bank at which they intend to draw their 25 per cent payment or to open an account there.

"The curator's report will be out tomorrow or Wednesday," said R. P. Gough, a Home Bank director, today when asked as to the curator's recommendation of an initial payment of 25 per cent to the depositors. "The curator and his assistants have worked very hard, and he will go into everything in a very thorough manner.

"What about the reported prospective revelations?"

"I don't know what that means; so far as I am concerned I know of nothing."

Asked as to the shipping company and the alleged loan to a Toronto financier, Mr. Gough said he believed that the curator's report would cover everything.

H. J. Daly, president of the Home Bank, is very ill, although his physician states he will recover in several weeks if he received a rest and were undisturbed.

POINCARE ADVOCATES MODERATE REJOICING

Warns French Against Becoming Excited Over German Surrender.

Associated Press Despatch.

Bar Le Duc, France, Oct. 1.—"Let us not sing the hymn of victory too soon, and above all don't let the government get excited," said Premier Poincare today in speaking to the council of the department of the Meuse. His address was devoted to advocating moderation of French enthusiasm over the surrender of the Germans.

"We are far from having finished with our difficulties," the premier asserted. "They will be more numerous and graver in the future than in the past. Germany must show real desire to pay her reparations obligations."

Obviously referring to the rioting in Dusseldorf yesterday, M. Poincare said: "Fortunately our troops mount guard on the Rhine. They restore order even when disturbed by the Germans."

FIND NEW FISHING BANK OFF COAST OF LABRADOR

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—The discovery of a new fishing bank 200 by 90 miles in extent off the coast of Labrador is reported at the department of marine and fisheries. This fishing ground which, it is stated, abounds in cod and halibut, is expected to prove a valuable addition to the already known fishing banks. The depth of the water is 76 fathoms, and the same soundings, varying but little, were prevalent over a large part of the bank. The exact location has not yet been made known.

LITERATURE WILL COMPRISE VITAL PART OF STUDIES

Text Books Chosen From the Works of World's Most Famous Writers.

COVERS WIDE FIELD

Prominent among the courses at the Collegiate Institutes this year is English literature, in the study of which the works of the most noted writers in the English language are taken up.

In the lower school, the first year, "The Talisman," by Sir Walter Scott leads the list of text books studied in connection with literature. Next comes "Julius Caesar," by William Shakespeare, the list being completed with a book of narrative and lyric poems.

The second year are taking up books of the same nature, the best known of which is probably "A Tale of Two Cities," by Charles Dickens, closely followed by William Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice." A book of poems is also on the list for this year.

In the middle school, Wordsworth and Tennyson are the poets whose work is studied, while Shakespeare is also represented in his historical play, "Henry V."

The upper school has a more diversified list of books, there being five in the list, two of them by Shakespeare, "Henry V" and "Twelfth Night." Sir Walter Scott is represented by "Quentin Durward," while Arnold, Byron, Browning and Tennyson are the poets whose work will be studied. A book of representative short stories is included in the list.

In the literature of foreign tongues, many books make their appearance, these being studied in the middle and upper schools. In the former, Daudet's "Le Petit Chose a l'Ecole," and Labiche's "Les Petits Oiseaux," comprise those representing French. German is represented by Storm's "Immensee" and Fulda's "Unter Vier Augen." In the dead languages the usual Latin and Greek classics are studied, these being "De Bello Gallico," by Caesar, Virgil's "Aeneid," Xenophon's selections and Homer's "Iliad."

The upper school books are, as is natural, more difficult, among them being Souvestre's "Un Philosophe sous les Toits, Labiche's "Le Baron de Fourchevif" in French. German comes forward with Moser's "Der Bibliothekar." Storm's "In St. Jurgen" and Frommel's "Eingeshneit." The dead languages are represented by another book of the "De Bello Gallico," Cicero's "In Catilnam" and several of Horace's odes. In Greek, Homer's "Iliad," Xenophon's "Hellenica" and Herodotus' "Salamis" comprise the list.

So that from a glimpse at the above list of literature text books, it will be seen that the students will gain a most comprehensive knowledge of literature of at least two, and possibly three countries, some of the languages being optional. In addition to the above books, the grammar of the different tongues is also taught.

POLICE SEEK BUNDLE LOST BY AGED MAN

Who has the bundle of clothes belonging to Wm. Thorne, a knight of the road, who admits to 70 summers? This is the question that is worrying kindly police sergeants, who spent the morning trying to locate Mr. Thorne's belongings.

It seems that the old man "hit" London Saturday on his hike to Sarnia, and tried for accommodation at several hotels. Finally, he left his bundle in a store, he believes on King street, and found a resting place for the night at Mount Hope. They looked after him yesterday, and this morning he started down town looking for his outfit, tied in a bundle.

Mr. Thorne became confused and could not find the store, so he enlisted the help of the police. They cannot find the place, either, so they enlisted the help of the newspapers. Whoever has a stray bundle behind his shop counter should get in touch with the police and thereby make Mr. Thorne happy.

MAGISTRATE HAS TRIED 2,440 CASES THIS YEAR

FRENCH POLICE OFFICIALS FIGHT COMMUNIST PLOT

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Oct. 1.—French police officials, it became known today are actively engaged in running down a communist plot to create defections in the army. The extremist leaders are using the pretext that the Frnch forces in the Rhineland and Ruhr are likely to be called on to suppress disturbances and uprisings of either a communist or nationalist nature. They have been busy the police say, distributing communist tracts in barracks in Paris and suburbs, as well as elsewhere in France, and have even succeeded in getting some of this literature into the hands of the Ruhr soldiers.

ALLIANCE REGRETS PRINCE'S PLAYING GOLF ON SUNDAY

Rev. I. A. Terryberry States Practice Menaces Quiet Observance of Sabbath.

COSTLY PLEASURE

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—That a young man so greatly loved as the Prince of Wales should lend his influence to Sunday golf playing is greatly deplored by the Lord's Day Alliance, was the statement last evening of Rev. A. I. Terryberry, Ontario secretary of the alliance, who occupied local pulpits Sunday. Mr. Terryberry's criticism of the prince was not made in the pulpit, but in the course of an interview regarding what he had endeavored to impress on his congregation here regarding Sunday golf.

"This whole question of Sunday golf is becoming an increasingly vexed one today," said Mr. Terryberry, "and is proving a menace to the quiet and religious observance of the Sabbath Day.

"Personally I am fond of golf," said Mr. Terryberry, "but I never play on Sunday, and I think the sport is in danger of losing its high character as one of Canada's greatest games by being played on the Sabbath."

Consider Home.

He said that he did not consider the question of Sunday golf so much as a question of what a man ought or ought not to do on Sunday, as there were no Sunday laws to prevent the playing of it on Sunday, but more of a question of what a man ought to do in the interests of his nation and his home.

"We sacrifice the great for the less when we substitute Sunday golf for the higher privileges of the Sabbath day," he said, "and hence pay too high a price for our pleasure.

"Many men who play golf on Sunday are among the leaders in finance and social life, and just as these men are needed during the week in business or in society, so their leadership is required on Sunday in the Christian church in the higher interests of our nation.

Quotes Lincoln.

"As President Lincoln of the United States once said: 'As we make or break the Sabbath Day we nobly save or meanly lose the great hope by which mankind rises.'"

"Did you make any reference in your discourses to the Prince of Wales having played golf on Sunday?" asked the reporter. "No, I did not touch on that at all," he replied, "although I might say that we do deplore the fact that a young man so greatly loved should lend his influence to Sunday indulgence in this sport," he added. "I would not care to be publicly quoted on that point. Not, however, that the Lord's Day Alliance is afraid of the prince," he added.

Rev. Mr. Terryberry left last evening for Toronto.

BIND TWO WATCHMEN AND BLOW UP SAFE

Three Bandits Escape After Robbing Large Hamilton Retail Store.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, Oct. 1.—While eating their lunch at 10 o'clock last night in the basement of the Right House, two watchmen looked up to find themselves covered by the guns of three bandits. They say they were bound by the bandits, who then proceeded to blow open the safe. The bound watchmen and the robbery were not discovered until this morning when the store was being opened for business. The company says it is not in a position yet to say how much the robbers took until a thorough check-up of the missing valuables is made.

How the burglars got into the building is still a mystery.

REVOLT BREAKS OUT IN KUESTRIN, TROOPS CALLED

Manufacturing City Fifty Miles From Berlin Is Scene of Uprising.

ARREST LEADERS

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 1.—The revolutionary movement originated by Nationalist organization has broken out at Kuestrin, forty miles from Berlin, says a Reuter despatch from the German capital.

The insurgents attempted to disarm the garrison and occupy the fortress, but the commander of the reichswehr arrested the Nationalist leaders and drove back the attackers.

Detachments of reichswehr from neighboring towns have been summoned to Kuestrin, the despatch adds, and the troops have been ordered to suppress the revolt ruthlessly. As a result of the insurrection, Dr. Gesslar, the minister of defence, has imposed a censorship on all news of a military character.

Kuestrin is a city of approximately 20,000 inhabitants, and is located in Brandenburg. The chief industries are the manufacture of copper and brassware.

¶ Give your income a college course in shopping for the household or for your personal needs. Education in the art of buying is found in the advertising columns of your home newspaper.

¶ Study the advertisements. They will keep you informed of new labor-saving devices to lighten your daily work—of the newest in books and music—of the styles for the coming season—of suggestions for the table—of furnishings for your home. In the advertisements you can also learn where these things may be procured and what they cost.

¶ At this season of the year you spend more time indoors. Use some of this time for your own profit.

ELECT W. E. FINLEY PRES. OF A. A. U. OF C.

Dominion Body Favors Placing of Lacrosse on Olympic Program.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 30.—At the closing meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada here on Saturday, W. E. Finlay of Montreal was elected president, as successor to Judge J. A. Jackson of Lethbridge. N. H. Crowe of Toronto, was re-elected secretary by acclamation.

The Canadian Olympic try-outs will probably be held in Montreal, although no definite date or place has been set. Each province will be represented by the winners in the provincial eliminations. The union went on record as favoring lacrosse being included in the list of sports on the Olympic program.

The national boxing and wrestling championships of Canada will be staged by the Quebec branch this year. The gymnastic championships will be held in Ontario. The track and field championship and the annual meeting of the union will be held in Winnipeg next year. Toronto will be the scene of the intercollegiate championships.

A telegram from the Dominion Football Association was read setting forth the conviction that the time is opportune for some form of agreement with the A. A. U. It was decided to discuss the matter with the D. F. A. at the latter's convenience. It was decided by the convention that professional footballers who had secured their release from British teams would be granted amateur standing in Canada.

ST. THOMAS WILL HAVE TWO ENTRIES IN O. B. A. SERIES

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Sept. 30.—At least two St. Thomas basketball teams will be in the O. B. A. series this year. The local juveniles, who won the Ontario championship last year, are banding themselves together, and although several of the players are playing on the collegiate team, there is still a good foundation for a juvenile team remaining.

A junior team will also be collected, and there is a possibility that an intermediate team may be formed. If this was brought about, there would be some keen matches between St Thomas and London, as the latter are entered in this class. The teams have been practicing off and on, and definite organization will take place in the near future.

St. Thomas, Sept. 29.—Sports at Alma Girls' College here are in full swing. Swimming is being undertaken on a large scale, and classes have been formed for beginners. A number of the girls expect to compete for the bronze medal given by the Royal Life Saving Society. Basketball plans at the college are being pushed along, and two snappy teams are in the making. Several new promising players have been unearthed, and many games will be played during the winter months. A tennis tournament is being arranged for the coming week, which should be a very keen event. The other various sports, such as running and jumping, are being held daily on the cinder track, and some fast time has been noted.
