JAP WARSHIPS REPORTED SUNK

Russian Story of Alleged Disaster on Port Arthur Mines.

Report is Not Believed—Japs Drive Universal Esteem in Which Deceased out 1,500 Russians and Take New Chwang.

London, Thursday, May 19.-A depatch dated Che Foo, May 19, noon, says:-"Russian refugees who arrived here to-day on a junk from Port Dalny say that the Japanese bom-barded Port Arthur last Monday. Russian officers who were on Golden Russian officers who were on Golden Hill declared, according to the refuges, that during the bombardment a Japanese battleship and a cruiser struck mines and sank. The warships reported to have been sunk off Port Arthur are the battleship Shikishima and the armored cruiser Asama. The story is not believed here, but the Russians who brought the news insist that it is true."

JAPS RE-EMBARK

JAPS RE-EMBARK. The Daily Telegraph's New Chwang correspondent, under date of May 18, says:—"After driving out 1,500 Russians and destroying the railway the Japanese re-embarked from Kai-Chau, the combined fleet heading southward. The Russians re-entered New Chwarz with 1,000 infents and two Chwang with 1,000 infantry and two batteries of artillery, but all preparations are made for another hasty levacuation."

THE JAP ADVANCE.

THE JAP ADVANCE.

A Liao Yang despatch dated May 17, says:—"The northern wing of the Japanese army moving from Feng Wang Cheng, has occupied Kuandyasyan (Hai Yang Tsen), 45 miles north-east of Feng Wang Cheng. A division of guards which was moving towards Siu Yen, has retired, temporarily at least, with the object, it is supposed, of covering a disembarkation near New Chwang, and of co-operating with the southern troops against New Chwang and Hai Cheng.

from the inner harbor and suggested the idea that the Russians were blowing up their ships and docks."

FROM LIAO-YANG.

Liao-Yang, Tuesday, May 17.—(Delayed in transmission).—Heavy rains and snow which has fallen on the and snow which has fellen on the mountains seriously impede the military movements. The roads in some places are almost impassable, and may have led to the reported falling back of the Japanese on the roads leading here from Leng Hong Ching and Sin Yen. In consequence of the rain loosening the permanent way north of Mukden the rails spread at the station of Shuamandzy causing a wreck in which thirty persons were killed, mostly the families of railroad employes on their way north.

FORWARD MOVEMENT RESUMED. Paris, May 18.—A despatch to the Temps from Mukden says that the Mandarin of the district north-east of Feng Huang Cheng, has notified the Tartar marshal at Mukden of the arrival of the Japanese in his territory, which indicates that their objective Tartar marshal at Mukden of the arrival of the Japanese in his territory, which indicates that their objective is to turn Liao Yang by the northeast. The steady rain of the last two days has interrupted the progress of the Japanese toward Liao-Yang, the artillery being unable to move owing to the heaviness of the roads. The forward movement was resumed to-law."

RUSSIANS DEMORALIZED. Paris, May 18.—The Figaro states that the Czar has received from Gen-eral Kuropatkin a despatch giving a gloomy forecast of what it likely to happen in the immediate future. Gen. happen in the immediate future. Gen. Kuropatkin tells the Czar it is almost impossible to remedy by concentration of troops the strategic errors which have been committed. A month ago Gen. Kuropatkin sent a message to the Czar from Mukden saying that everything was in chaos. Since that time conditions have grown much worse owing to the defeat on the Yalu and the semi-demoralization of the Russian forces.

FOUND IN ERIE CANAL

Buffalo, May 18.—A special to the News from Tonawanda says the body of a man, apparently 35 years old, with the throat cut from ear to ear, was found floating in the Eric Canal China near the mouth of the Ellicott Creek to-day. The indications point strong-ly to robber and murder. The hip pocket was cut out and the stone pin in the man's tie was missing. The body had evidently been ini the water several weeks.

DEATH'S CALL TO THE UNSEEN

Demise of Ex-Ald. J. R. Reid this Morning After Lingering Illness.

Sunday.

At 10,30 o'clock this morning there passed away at his home on Wellington Street West, after a lingering illness extending over four months. James Robert Reid, one of the Maple City's old and most esteemed citizens in his 64th year.

For many years Mr. Reid has been actively associated with the progress and development of the Maple City, and the citizens generally mourn today with those who mourn.

The deceased was born in Sligo county, Ireland, on October 31, 1840. When but a child he came to this country with his mother and settled in Hamilton, where he spent his early youth and manhood. There, too, he met and later married Miss Annie Brown, who now survives him.

About the year 1865 Mr. Reid moved to Chatham, where he has since resided. He has been actively identified with the progress of the municipality, serving for several years as alderman. He was also owner and manager of the old street railway and proprietor of one of the largest merchant tailoring establishments in the city at that time.

In addition the deceased leaves a sister, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, of Hamilton, and a half-brother, John H. Williams, of Detroit.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon from the home on Wellington Street West to Maple Leaf Cemetery, the pastor of deceased, Rev. G. H. Cobbledick, conducting the

HIGHBINDERS' PLOT

Rossland, B. C., May 18.—A startling story of intrigue and counter-plot is told by a prominent Chinaman here in connection with the sentence of Wong On and Wong Gow at Victoria for the murder of the Chinese theatre manager. A Christian Chinaman, having a certificate of membership in the Victoria Y. M. C. A. declared the conviction of Wong On is part of the Highbinders' attempt to punish Chinamen who accept Christianity; also that the Highbinders, to protect their own guilty members, who left the country immediately after the killing, have fastened the guilt on Wong On, who had since accepting Christianity frustrated various murders. By securing the conviction of Wong On through the alleged intimidation of friendly witnesses, the Highbinders, according to the Chinamen here, secure revenge for old scores, and provide an object lesson to Christian Chinamen, many of whom are said to be wavering in faith as an outcome of the trial. The Chinese section here which is several hundred strong, is thoroughly worked up on the subject and anxious to have the matter probed more deeply by the authorities beofre the capital sentence is executed.

Young George Santry Met With Terrible Accident at G. T. R. Freight Yards.

In Avoiding Express he Sprang Be-fore Incoming Freight –Lad May Die.

What may perhaps be a fatal accident occurred in the Grand Trunk freight yards at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. George Santry, a young boy who lives on Park street east, was playing about the yards, and just as the Wabash express was pulling out for the east he jumped across from the platform in front of the engine. The engine of a freight which was coming in from the east, and which he did not notice, struck the boy, knocking him down and giving him terrible injuries, part of one ear being tern off, and concussion of the brain being caused by the contact of his head with the hard steel of the engine.

Santry was immediately picked up and carried to the car tapper's office, where he had pedical attendance in a few minutes.

The unfortunate fittle boy is now lying unconscious at his home on Park street east and his recovery is doubtful. east, was playing about the yards, and

PASTOR REWARDED

The Quarterly Board of the Park treet Methodist church met last evening and passed a highly complimentary resolution to the Rev. G. H. Cobbledick. The pastor of the church presided at the meeting. There were also present Dr. Geo. T. McKeough, J. A. Wilson, S. F. Gardiner, C. B. Sissons, W. L. G. Snell, Wilson Taylor, Mr. Mounteer, Sr., Chas. Austin, lor, Mr. Mounteer, Sr., Chas. Austin, Dr. Thornton, Warren Martin, Daniel Jordan, Dr. Hicks, and Ald. A. D. Westman.

In consideration of the Rev. G. H. Cobbledick's splendid and arduous services last year a hearty resolution of thanks was passed. He was also tendered $100 as a tangible appreciation of his services.

Wilson Taylor, financial steward, was also paid $100 for the excellent manner in which he had faiffiled his duties.

THE RESERVE LADIES GUILD

The annual meeting of the Guild of Christ Church was held yesterday afternoon in the Sunday school half. The treasurer showed a very favorable financial report, $716 being received during the past year. The ladies held a balance from last year of $455.25. Amongst the largest expense for this year was the purchase of the lot adjoining the church at a cost of $650 and a present of $200 to the wardens to assist them in the maintenance of the church. Mrs. Shackleton was re-elected president

THURSDAY, MAY 19. THE HERO IN THE REO-AND-GREEN SWEATER.

There was a fire in New York the other day.

A woman and her four children found their retreat cut off in the third story of the building. The firemen were engaged in the work of rescuing another woman and her chil-dren. The turn of the woman in the third story would come if she could wait, but time is very precious when a mother and her four children are in a burning building three stories from the ground.

This was the situation when Michael O'Brien appeared. The reporters describe him as a man who had been "formerly a plasterer, but who for months had led a shiftless life and was well known to the police of the upper East Side." He had only one eye, and wore a green-and-red sweater. But no matter what he had been or what the police of the upper East Side thought of him; no matter if he had but one eye and wore a green-and-red sweater; Michael O'-Brien had eyesight enough to see the danger and heart enough to face it. "Swinging from coping to coping, his burden clutched under his arm, he carried each of the four children to safety, and then handed to the firemen the unconscious form of their mother. Believing each succeeding step would be his last, a crowd of thousands stood breathlessly in the street below."

Michael was not so shiftless after all. He required but the proper stimulus to bring out the hero that was in him.

When his task was accomplished Michael smiled down on the crowd below waiting to receive kim, once more swung over the copings and disappeared. No lionizing or hobsonizing for Michael.

'What's all this fuss about?" he asked afterwards. "What else could I do! I saw the smoke and some one said there was a woman and babies up there, so I went up. I didn't have anything else to do. I swung along the copings and got in and saw them laying there, and I picked up the youngest first and then the next, and so on, until I got ot the mother. Once, only once, I thought I

What else could I do?" Sure thing Make O'Brien, with your red-andgreen sweater; there spoke the true hero. No time for calculation; no thought of reward; no thought of the applause of the multitude; no thought of consequences. else could I do?

Many a hero has posed before the world with less real claim to popular admiration than this same Mike O'Brien, the shiftless plasterer with the one eye and the red-and-green sweater, who did what he did because he could do nothing else, and who slumk away to escape the plaudits of the growd.

DIDN'T LIKE CROWDS.

Chicago News. Kirk LaShelle, the comic opera writer, has a son aged 3, known as "Bill," who is very fond of his father, but has no liking for society-especially for an afternoon tea crowd. His mother entertained a lot of friends recently, and Bill was the centre of admiration. The men tossed him in the air, and the ladies kissed him-to all of which he submitted politely; but when the first opportunity presented itself he crawled in to his father's arms and said,, in very wee, pleading tones: "Father, let's TORONTO'S FAMOUS FIRES. How the Recent Staggering Blow to the Wholesale Section Has Stirred Up the Reminiscent Man.

Toronto has been struck many a staggering blow by the Fire King, but the pride of her merchant princes was never so humbled as in the fire of the 19th April, 1904. A large part of the wholesale district has been destroyed as only fire can destroy, millions of dollars' worth of goods have gone up in smoke or lie crumbled ruins behind the skeleton walls; but even in the face of this disaster, the worst in our civic history, we are conscious that we have much to be thankful for. Not a life was lost, nor was a man seriously was lost, nor was a man seriously Some Early Fires.

Among the earlier fires in this city was that of Good's foundry, situated on the north-east corner of Queen and Yonge streets, says The Mail and Empire. The structure was almost completely destroyed, and many citizens must recall how, on that occasion, the work of the framen was casion, the work of the fremen was hampered by the condition of Yonge street at the time, the thoroughfare being torn up for the laying of a drain. It was at Good's foundry that the first Canadian steam engine was built—the famous Lady Elgin. The Dickie and Neil fire was another noted configeration of a center of the street of the configeration of a center of the case of the gine was built—the famous Lady Elgin. The Dickie and Neil fire was another noted conflagration of a gen-eration ago. Again it was a foun-dry that was ablaze. This firm made the narrow gauge cars for the old Toronto, Grey and Bruce, and it old Toronto, Grey and Bruce, and it was a common sight for the passer-by to observe these cars standing on Phoebe and Soho streets. In the early days the old Iron Block, as it was known, was the scene of several fires. This row of buildings, standing just west of the Customs House on Front street, was supposed to be fireproof. In its construction iron had been substituted for wood wherever possible, and the builder believed that the place was no more likely to be burned than a stove. It was declared fireproof, and was viewwas declared fireproof, and was view ed with awe and respect until the first fire. Others followed, and soon the celebrated Iron Block had bethe celebrated Iron Block had become a hissing and a byword for its pretensions. The iron proved no better than wood, for it curled up and cracked under the extreme heat, affording no protection at all for the contents. After several costly experiments, the last of which cost $400,000, the Iron Block was wiped out.

Coming down through the years we note the Grand Opera House fire, where three lives were lost; the fire in The Mail Office, May 24, 1885, and the great Esplanade fire of Dec. 8, the same year. This, like most of Toronto's great blazes, began at night, and had painted a picture of ruin and desolation before the sun lit up the scene in the morning. The Esplanade fire was a great spectacle. Wood was the fuel, whether in sheds, wharves, or piled lumber. For miles Esplanade and University. Wood was the fuel, whether in sheds, wharves, or piled lumber. For miles about the sky seemed ablaze, and people in the country thought that surely the Queen City was being wiped out. The money loss was estimated at $350,000. For many years the famous, Esplanade fire held all Toronto records. In only one sense was it insignificant—the architectural loss was nothing. It was interesting the second of the se sense was it insignificant—the archi-tectural loss was nothing. It was on Feb. 14, 1890, when Toronto Uni-versity was laid in ruins, that this fact was recalled. This beautiful building was the pride of all Toron-to, and its loss was perhaps the greatest shock citizens, as a body, ever received. It is difficult to be-lieve that a single explains. over received. It is difficult to be-lieve that a single exploding lamp could be the cause of this magnifi-cent structure's doom. Built as it was of stone and brick, slate and hardwood, it burned like a furnace, and so quickly that those respon-sible for the disaster were hard pressed to escape with their lives.

The Ill-Fated Trie. In 1895, within a couple of months of each other, occurred three fires which destroyed three lives and more than two million dollars' worth of property. The first of these was The Globe fire on Jan. 6, in which brave Bob Bowery, one of the finest men who ever fought a fire, was killed. The walls of the old Globe building who ever fought a fire, was killed. The walls of the old Globe building were thin and flimsy, and one of them suddenly collapsed, bearing down under it young Bowery, who was rescued in a dying condition. He passed away in the hospital a few hours later, murmuring. Boys I'm going.' Chief Ardagh and Charles Smedley, caught in a trap in the second building south of The Globe, had to leap for their lives, and their injuries were such that they never recovered. The McKinnon building was destroyed in this fire, helping to bring the monetary loss up to $775,-000. At this fire, the inadequacy of the water pressure was held responsible for the rapid spread of the flames, while a high wind made the firemen's task doubly hard. On the following Thursday the great incendiary fire occurred in the Osgoodby Building, on Melinda street. The memorable feature of this fire was the thrilling leap for life of Mrs. Caven, the invalid wife of the caretaker, who, from a height of ninety feet, syrang through a window, shot downward, striking some telephone wires, and rebounding, fell safely into a net. Her nurse slid down a wire for some distance, and then leaped into the net, as did her husband.

Died at Their Pest.

Passing over the ill-favored John Eaton fire, the fatal Hees fire, the McKendry fire, and that of Gowans, Kent and Co., we come upon the disaster by which the lives of five gallant firemen were lost. This blaze occurred on July 10, 1902, in the old street railway barns on Front street, occupied at the time by P. McIntosh and Co., As is the almost invariable rule, the men met their death under falling walls, and not by burning or suffocation. Adam Kerr, Pavid See, Walter Collard, Harry Clarke, and Fred. G. Bussell perished. This is a record, in a rough way, of Toronto's great and fatal fires. In the amount of property destroyed they sink into nothingness in the presence of the latest ruin.

That old copybook maxim finds its most forceful application in the waste of vitality, which is called "burning the candle at both ends," A woman is often tempted beyond her strength by domestic or social demands. Some day she awakens from this waste of strength to the woeful want of it. She has become weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous run-down women, there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep. It cures local diseases peculiarly womanly which undermine the general health. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after won tred was bettered."

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after you read my letter you will remember me," writes Mrs. Annie E. Moring, of 235 7th Avenue, S. W., Roanoke. Va. "In the year 1897, I wrote to you for advice, which you gave me free of charge. When I wrote to you I was a wreck; I could not walk straight for pains in my abdomen; could not sit down, lie down, or get any ease at all. I had what was called the best doctor here, but did not get any better until I went through a course of your medicine. I took eight bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and ten bottles of the 'Pleasant Pelleta,' I tell you the medicine made a cure of me."

It seemed a joke to be upset like that, and I laughed. But just as I had swum back to the boat and laid my hands on the upturned keel I felt myself seized halfway below the knees—seized with such strength and suddenness and pulled down with such tremendous force that the boat was jerked clean over, and came down on the top of my head. Like lightning came the truth. I was in the arms of a devil-fish.

I felt his grasp tighten. The pain was excruciating. With every movement that I made my flesh was lacerated. I began ato grow weak from loss of blood. But I never relaxed my hold of the boat.

The agony must have lasted for only a few minutes in reality, but it seemed an eternity before I felt that clutch on my legs loosen. It was not until an hour and a half later that my friends noticed that my boat was motionless on the water, and came out to see what was the matter. They found me more dead than alive. The skin was nearly all gone from my feet to my knees, and 'above that it remained for weeks as black as a man's hat. For two months afterward I lived only on milk. Altogether, I was laid up for seven months as the result of my encounter.

CANON HENSON'S MISTAKE. Parts of the Bible lie Dislikes Are En

The recent denouncements of parts of the Bible by Canon Henson have aroused much discussion in England. "The Bible stands by itself as a whole, and does its work all over the world. The Bible could not sparchese cuttings-away which Canon Henson seems to desire," said Rev. John H. Ritson, of the Bible Society.

Henson seems to desire," said Rev. John H. Ritson, of the Bible Society.

"Well, let me inform him that these Old Testament histories supply just what is wanted when we take the Bible to the heathen. If certain parts of the Bible which to some persons seem unnecessary were cut out we should lose the very instruments which help us with three sections of humanity—heathen, Freemasons, and Chinese.
"I will explain. The heathen are especially appealed to by the Old Testament stories. This is because for one thing, they find in it a story of the flood, and thus there meets them in a great book from a high! civilized land the history of that same event the narrative of which has glimmered in their tribal traditions handed down through long generations of savages.
"Further, these stories which Canon Henson would remove from the Bible tell them that thousands of human existence much like their own of to-day. The reading of the histories described by Canon Henson as incredible, puerile, and demoralizing' narratives prepares the mind of the hitherto untutored savage for the gentle doctrines of the New Testament.

"What would be the good of giving a heathen the Gospel of St. John for his first lesson in the Scriptures? It would be lost upon him. But Gene-sis arouses the greatest interest among heathen nations.

"Now for the Freemasons? Possibly Canon Henson would sweep away the Proverbs. But the Book of Proverbs is read by Freemasons on the continent who would not other-

"They read Proverbs because that book is associated with the name of Solomon, and it is said that Solomon found the Order of Freemasons.

When Lady Bloomfield was a child she lived with her parents at Percy's Cross, Walham Green. Percy's Cross was the scene of several large "breakfacts," as afternoon reception were then designated. One of these was honored by King William IV. and Queen Adelaide and the beau monde of London, and Lady Bloomfield mentions the fact that on this occasion she remembers Prince George of Hanover and his cousin, Prince George of Cambridge, then very handsome boys, running races. When Lady Bloomfield was eight years old she was taken to Kensington Palace to visit the young Princess Victoria, who was three years her senior, and who gave her a little Dresden china figure. "The Queen playfully alluded to our visit to Kensington," Lady Bloomfield says, "the very last time I had the honor of dining with Her Majesty, at Cimiez in 1899."

Annual Meeting of the Park St. Methodist Church—District Convention.

The final meeting for the year of the Official Board of Park street church was held last evening in the Sunday school hall, Rev. Mr. Cobbledick presiding. Almost all members were present, and a large amount of business was transacted. The report of envelope steward Wilson Taylor, B. A., showed that $3,726 had been received from the current fund, and $2,187 toward the renovation fund. This was an increase in the current fund of $300 over last year. The pastor reported over seven hundred members on the roll, of whom about one hundred and fifty were received this year. Mr. Austin, the Issac Smith has completed the erection of a fine residence on his property on Lansdowne Avenue and has rented it to Mr. Somerville, of the firm of Weber & Somerville, who moved into his new home last Tuesday. The income of the school was $423, of which $100 had been paid toward of which $100 had been past to the renovation fund, and $30 given to missions. Dr. A. A. Names of Those Who Had Charge of Booths-The Program.

"Made in Canada" is a successand it is so because it is a business undertaking done by business women on business principles. Any one visiting the rink and seeing the beautiful system working out in its entirety cannot but admire the ladies and what they are accomplishing. Arrangements have been made so that the ladies of Chatham can all do their marketing at the rink. Last evening between three and four hundred attended the tea meeting and enjoyed the clever mock | presentation of a meeting of the City Council. The proceedings were prepared by James Innes, S. B. Arnold and Geo. Perrin, and the council meeting was a tribute to these gentlemen and to the others who so ably took part. During the evening the orchestra discoursed sweet music. The ladies desire to express apprecia tion of the kindness of the S. Hadley Co., the Electric Light Co., Gowan Kent Co. and the Fowler Co. for the particular pains they have taken in assisting.

PLOT TO KILL CZAR Berlin, May 18. - The Breslauer

eitung publishes the alleged details of a plot against the life of the Czar on May 11, while he was reviewing roops in St. Petersburg. According to the newspaper, the Minister of the Imperial Household selected the oc-cupants of a stand in the vicinity of the Czar's tribune. These privileged persons included Mile. Mereschkow-sky, 20 years old, daughter of a very sky, 20 years old, daughter of a very distinguished physician and Privy Councillor. She was a student at the St. Petersburg University, where she fell under the influence of the revolutionists. Owing to the opportunity afforded her for getting near the Czar, she was selected to kill his Majesty. She accepted the mission, but her strange demeanor attracted the attention of officials, who caused her arrest. A bomb was found concealed under her cloak. She acknowledged that ie was her intention to assassinate the Czar. Her fate is not known, but it is maderstood that she was condemned to death.

She writes: "About seven months ago I was badly run down in health and became very weak. I was troubled with fluttering of the heart and shortness of breath. When lying down at night I was almost afraid to go to sleep for fear I would never wake up. When I arose in the morning I would feel a little better, but as soon as I started to work my heart would start fluttering, my head would become dizzy, faint weak spells would come over me and it seemed as if black objects were floating before my eyes. I was grewing worse every day until I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Fills. "My name's Kitchell, and I'm hog right through!" He emphasized the words with a leveled forefinger, his eyes flashing. "H-o-g spells very truly yours, Alvinza Kitchell; ninety-nine swine an' me make a hundred swine. I'm a shote with both feet in the trough first, last an' always. If that bark's abandoned, an' I says she is, she's ours. I'm out for anything that there's stuff in. I guess I'm more of a beachcomber by nature than anything else. If she's abandoned she belongs to us. To blazes with this cooly game. We'll go beachcombin', you an' I. We'll board that bark an' work her into the nearest port-San Diego, I guess—an' get the salvage on her if we have to swim in her. Are you with me?" He held out his hand. The man was positively trembling from head to heel. It was impossible to resist the excitement of the situation, its novelty the high crow's nest of the schooner the keen salt air, the Chinamen grouped far below, the indigo of the warm ocean, and out yonder the forsaken derelict, rolling her light hull till the garbeard streak flashed in the sun.

"Well, of course I'm with you, cap," exclaimed Wilbur, gripping Kitchell's hand. "When there's thirty thousand te be had for the asking I guess I'm a na'chel bawn' beachcomber myself." "Now, nothing about this to the "Rot my owners" exclaimed Kitchell. "I ain't a skipper of no oil boat any longer. I'm a beachcomber." He fixed the wallowing bark with glistening eyes. "Strike me," he murmured, "ain't she a daisy? It's a little Klondike. Come on, son!"

The two went down the rathes, and Kitchell ordered a couple of the hands into the dory that had been rowing astern. He and Wilbur followed. Charlie was left on board, with direction to lay the schooner to. The dory flew over the water, Wilbur setting the stroke. In a few moments she was well up with the bark. Though a larger boat than the Bertha Millner, she was rolling in lamentable fashion, and every laboring heave showed her bot-tom incrusted with barnacles and sea-

Her fore and main tops'ls and to'gallants'is were set, as also were her low-er stays'is and royals. But the braces seemed to have parted, and the yards seemed to have parted, and the yards were swinging back and forth in their ties. The spanker was brailed up, and the spanker boom thrashed idly over the poop as the bark rolled and rolled and rolled. The mainmast was working in its shoe. The rigging and backstays sagged. An air of abandonment, of unspeakable loneliness, of abomination, hung about her. Never had Wilbur seen anything more utterly alone bur seen anything more utterly alone Within three lengths the captain rose in his place and should.

"Bark ahoy!" There was no answer. Thrice he repeated the call, and thrice the dismal thrashing of the spanker boom and the flapping of the sails were the only answers. Kitchell turned to Wilbur in triumph. "I guess she's ours," he whispered. They were now close enough to make out the bark's name upon her counter, Lady Letty, and Wilbur was in the act of reading it aloud when a huge brown dorsai fin, like the triangular sail of a lugger, cut the water between the dory and the "Shark!" said Kitchell. "And there's another!" he exclaimed in the next in-stant. "And another! Strike me, the water's alive with 'em! There's a stiff on the bark, you can lay to that." And at that, acting on some strange impulse, he called again, "Bark ahoy!"

There was no response.

The dory was now well up to the derelict, and pretty soon a prolonged and vibratory hissing aoise, strident, insistent, smote upon their ears.

"What's that?" exclaimed Wilbus, perplexed. The captain shook his head, and just then, as the bark rolled almost to her scuppers in their direction, a glimpse of the deck was presented to their view. It was only a glimpse, gone on the instant, as the bark rolled back to port, but it was time enough for Wilbur and the captain to note the parted and open seams and the deck bulging and in one corner blown up and splintered.

and splintered.

The captain smote a thigh.

"Coal!" he cried. "Anthracite coal!

The coal he't up and generated gas, of course—ne fire, y' understand; just gas—gas blew up the deck—no way of stepping combustion. Naturally they had to cut for it. Smell the gas, can't you? No wonder she's blesters. you? No wonder she's hissing you? No wonder she's hissing—no wender she rolled—cargo goes off in gas—and what's to weigh her down? I was wendering what could 'a' wrecked her in this weather. But it's as plain as ABC.

The dory was alongside. Kitchell watched his chance and as the bark rolled down caught the mainyard brace hanging in a bight over the rail and swung himself to the deck. "Look sharp!" he called as Wilbur fellowed. "It won't do for you to fall amon them shark, son! 'Just look at the hus dreds of 'em. There's a stiff on board

Wilbur steadied himself on the sway winder steaded nimes on the swap-ing broken deck, choking against the resk of coal gas that hissed upward on every hand. The heat was almost like a furnace. Everything metal was intolerable to the touch.

"She's abandoned, sure," muttered the captain. "Look." And he pointed to the empty chocks on the house and the severed lashings. "Oh, it's a haul, son—it's a haul, an' you can lay to that. Now, then, cabin first." And he started aft.

But it was impossible to go into the cabin. The moment the door was opened suffocating billows of gas ru and beat them back. On the third trial the captain staggered out, almost overcome with its volume.
"Can't get in there for awhile yet," he gasped, "but I saw the stiff on the floor by the table. Looks like the old man. He's spit his false teeth out. I knew there was a stiff abeard."

"Then there's more than one," said

Wilbur. "See there!" From behind the wheel box in the stern protruded a hand and forearm in an oilskin sleeve. Wilbur ran up, peered over the little space between the wheel and the whee box and looked straight into a pair of eyes—eyes that were alive. Kitchell came up.

"One left anyhow," he muttered.

looking over Wilbur's shoulder. "Sail-or man, though. Can't interfere with our salvage. The bark's derelict right enough. Shake him out of there. Can't you see the lad's dotty with the gas?" Cramped into the narrow space of the wheel box, like a terrified have in blind burrow, was the figure of a young boy. So firmly was he wedged into the corner that Kitchell had to kick down the box before he could be reached. The boy spoke ne word. Stupefied with the gas, he watched them with vacant eyes.

"It is the little rift within the lute which ever widening, makes the music mute." It is just a little rift in the health of a woman often, which gradually takes the spring from her step, the light from her eyes, the rose from her cheek and the music from her voice. Perhaps the bug-bear which has frightened the woman from the timely help needed at the beginning has been the dreaded questions, the obnoxious examination, the local treatments, of the home physician. There is no need for these. Nor is there need for continued suffering. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be relied on by every woman, suffering from what are called "female troubles," to renew the health and cure the disease. FOR YOUNG TO FOLKS

nade Hydrometer and a Nest The instrument used for measuring the density of water or other liquids is called a hydrometer, and it is a very simple affair, consisting of a glass of metal float with a stem projecting out of the water. The hydrometer sinks deeper in light liquids than in heavy ones, and as the stem is graduated or marked off by lines like a thermometer the mark to which it sinks gives us the density of the liquid. The principle of the instrument is easy to understand. A floating body is held up or kept from sinking by the weight of the displaced liquid—that is, by the weight of a quantity of liquid equal in bulk to the submerged part of the body.

No matter in what liquid the body is placed, the weight of the displaced liquid must be the same, equal to the weight of the body itself, if the latter is to float at all; hence it will sink deeper in a light liquid than in a heavy one, because it must displace a greate bulk to make up the required weight Of course if the liquid is too light the body will be entirely covered and will then sink to the bottom. This brings us to the very pretty and simple de vice by which, without using a regular graduated hydrometer, you can test the truth of the statement that water is heaviest at 39 degrees.

This device is merely a blown out eggshell, with the holes in its ends stopped with wax and weighted with a bit of wire or a coin or two. You have a vessel, preferably a tall glass jar, filled with water, which you can bring to the temperature of 39 degrees or thereabout by adding a bit of ice, then a dash of warm water and so on till you get it right, testing it all the time with a thermometer. Then adjust the weight on your egg so that it just floats with a little bit of the shell peeping out of the water. Now add cracked ice to cool the water. Very soon you will see the egg sink to the bottom of the jar.

The next thing to do, supposing that you are experimenting in a warm room, is to do nothing. The water gradually warms. When it reaches 39 degrees again up bobs the egg, but in a little while, as the water continues to grow warmer, it sinks once more. By adding more cracked ice you can repeat the experiment as often as you

The Wise Elephant. A gentleman once went away for a long time leaving his elephant in charge of its keeper. He asked a lady to see that the elephant had a certainamount of rice every day, and that the keeper did not retain any of it for himself. At first all was right, but soon the lady thought the rice was getting less every day, so she asked the keeper whether he gave the animal enough rice. The keeper, patting the elephant, said: "Madame, I treat my elephant like my child, and do you think I would rob my child?" The with his trunk he pulled down the cloth round the keeper's waist, and a quantity of rice fell out which he had

An Amusing Trick

Say to a person, "If you will stand on a chair in this room I can make you come down the very first time I tell you." The person will probably say you can do nothing of the sort. However, he will get on to the chair just to show you that he doesn't mean to come down directly he's told.

As soon as he is up on the chair say, "Come down." He will of course say, "I shan't do anything of the sort." Then you enswer, "Very well, then; unless you wish to remain there for the rest of your life you will have to come down off that chair the first time I tell you, because I do not intend to tell you a second time."

Of all the diseases the human body has to combat in its struggle for health, the one that is steadily growing in strength and terror is Kidney Disease. Quietly, steathily as a serpent, it creeps on its victim itil the datter is enveloped in its folds, and the greatest physician the world has ever known stand helpless before It. As the last fold goes around the struggling victim and the dostor shakes his head and whispers "Bright's Disease," hope fades to nothing, and the sorrowing friends feel that death has marked their loved one for its own.

The alarming increase this terrible disease is making is evidenced by the columns of almost every newspaper. For not among the lowly of the tearth alone does it look for its victims. Statesmen, judges, eminent lawyers, and honored divines are numbered among those who in recent months have gone down to their graves with the fell marks of this dread disease upon their bodies. In fact, so prevalent has the disease become that a celebrated New York specialist stated recently that not one person in a bundred was free from some taint of Kidney Disease.

WORKS IN SECRET. WORKS IN SECRET,

It is the secrecy of Kidney Disease that makes it the more dreaded. You can fight an enemy in the open that makes it the more dreaded. You can fight an enemy in the open with some chance of success, but if he is lying in wait to take you at an unwary moment your chances of successfully fighting him are terribly diminished. So it is with Kidney Disease. Its first warnings are so faint as to be hardly noticeable, a slight pain in the back that is charged up to over exertion, a slight discoloration of the urine or a burning sensation while urinating that hardly attracts attention. That is all. But that means that Kidney Disease is at work gradually eating its way into your system. The pain in the back grows more severe, the limbs denote the coming of Dropsy, sharp shooting pains in the joints and muscles tell that Rheumatism has you in its grasp, or perhaps a day or two's illness leads to the calling of the doctor, and suddenly the terrible truth is forced upon you-Bright's Disease has you in its grasp.

WAY OF ESCAPE. With this silent, relentresse enemy slowiy but surely eating its way into prominence and making that promineace by a yearly increase in the length of its death list, the demand of the day, of the hour, is "Show us the way of escape." Nature never put mankind in a critical condition without providing a way of escape—providing mankind were wise enough to take the way provided. In this case the way of escape is a simple wegetable remedy. It has been before the people of Canada for thirteen years, and like all the great relievers of nature, has been its received and first appreciated by the lowly in life, those known as the common people of Canada.

Is if the common people of Canada who die of Bright's Disease in No, it is the bright and shining marks, those who are stationed above the heads of the massess. Ask the reason of this! Go to the people who are practically exempt from Kidney Pills, and they never get a chance to develop fato that terrible disease that varies so many prominent men into the grave."

ON WITH HIS WORK.

And so it is; the man wno does manual labor must heal his slightest aches for they hinder him in his work. When he has backache he cures it with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and goes on with his work; when he feels a twinge of Rheumatism he drives it out of his body with Dodd's Kidney Pills—and goes on with his work. Necessity has taught him that he must cure his Kidneys to get rid of his pains, for he must work to live. He has not been educated to that standpoint where a perscription to cure must be written by a specialist at a cost of dollars to every fetter. He may not even know that there never was a disease that took in all classes of the community but what nature provided a cure within the means of all classes of the community. What he does know is more to the point than all this. He knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure all aches which experience has taught him come from the Kidneys. He takes Dodd's Kidney Pills, and goes on with his work. SOME EXCEPTIONS.

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Rheumatism and kindred kindrey biles as Lumbago, Sciatica, and Gout, are caused by uric acid in the blood, and the Rheumatism goes with it. Take the case of W. G. Cragg, of Dresden, Ont.

Here is his statement;

For eight years I was troubled with inflammatory Rheumatism. I could scarcely get around to do my duties in my store. I had some of the best doctors I could get, but nothing I tried would ever give me relielf. I started using Dodd's Kidney Pills and had only taken six boxes when I was completely cured.

ALL KIDNEY DISEASES CURED.

These are only a few cases taken from thousands to show the efficacy of Dodd's Kidney Pills. In other forms of Kidney trouble, such as Urinary troubles, Gravel, Female Weak-news. SOME EXCEPTIONS.

Of course, there ware exceptions to every rule. Even among common people there are those who neglect the early warnings of Kidney Disease. It takes exceptions to prove the rule—but many of these exceptions prove more—they orove that no case of Kidney Disease is too far gone for Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure. BRIGHT-S DISEASE CURED
Bright's Disease has invariably yielded to a treatment of Dodd's Didney Pills, no matter how firm a hold it had secured on its victim. Possibly the most talked of case of recemt date is that of Alice MaudParker, of Shubemacadie, Hants Co., N. S. The full story of this case will be found in the current number of Dodd's Magazine, Herewith a short statement from the young ladys mother is appended;

DIABETES CURED.

Diabetes is another of the most fearful and fatal forms of Kidney Disease that has been cured by Dodd's Disease that has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and by no other medicine. Among those cured of this terrible ailment is Mr. Charles Gilchrist, for fifteen years Chief of Police of Port Hope and afterwards for twenty-two years Fishery Overseer under the Dominion Government. He makes the following statement:

The effect of this order is farreaching, and will result in the discontinuance of what has been called the racing department of the Western Union Company. This department has collected and distributed racing news from all the various tracks in the country to subscribers. Hereafter the company will transmit only such messages concerning races as are regularly filed with it for transmission. The executive committee of the Western Union had a brief meeting to-day at which were present Chauncey M. Depew, Morris K. Jessup, Russell Sage, Samuel Sloan and Jacob H. Schiff. President Clowry reported his action, and the executive committee approved it. The New York Telephone Company, which also is accused of "aiding and abetting" the service to pool rooms, advised Police Commissioner McAdoo today that it would at once remove the telephone wires from the East Forty-second street house which was raided yesterday, and which is said to have been the headquarters or "central" of a chain of pool rooms. Further, the company promised to see that both wires and instruments were taken out of the subsidiary places—pool rooms which received accounts of the racing from this "central."
