DEBATE ON SUB LOSSES

Vigorous Attempt Made to Inaugurate Policy of Greater Publicity

DISCUSSION TO COME

Press and Public of England Continue Daily Agitation

In New York May 1.—An Associated Press cable from London says: A vigorous attempt made in the House of Commons yesterday failed to persuade the government to adopt a policy of greater publicity with regard to the submarine warfare.

The only satisfaction critics of the government were able to obtain was a promise that the matter would be discussed in secret session.

Some members of the House raised the question of the accuracy of the tonnage sunk as quoted by Dr. Karl Helfferich, the German minister of the interior, but no reply was given.

When invited to give figures of the arrivals and departures from British ports of British vessels of over 1,000 tons, Thomas J. Macdonald, financial secretary of the admiralty, said he could only refer to the present system of publishing the weekly returns had been saved upon between the allied countries, the inference being that no modification of the system was contemplated.

Sir Edward Carson declined to give any information concerning the sinking of German submarines, but in the meantime agitation by the press and the public is daily growing in volume.

Sir W. B. Forwood, a shipping authority says ships are not being launched in British yards at the rate of about 100 per month, but entry will be reached by April by the Service Commission, which will issue blank entry forms.

INTEREST ROUSED IN SUB WAR

Definite Admission of Admiralty Concerning Shipping Losses

INCREASES INTEREST

Demand is Made For More Publicity on Subject

By Courier Leased Wire. London, May 1.—The definite admission of Sir Edward Carson, first lord of the admiralty, concerning shipping losses, has increased, if possible, the anxious interest of the press in the progress of the submarine war.

The Daily News and the Daily Mail again call for more publicity on the subject. The Daily News says it would be far wiser for the government to take the country into its confidence, explain the actual situation, than call upon the people for any sacrifice that is deemed necessary.

The Daily Mail, in making a like demand, declares that anything else will destroy confidence in the government itself.

The Times asserts that the efforts of the ministry to emphasize the gravity of the situation is largely nullified by misleading official returns, and that the situation cannot be fully faced by the nation unless the necessities of the case are plainly understood.

Nobody, says the Times, believes that there is a risk of panic from knowledge of the truth. The real danger, it adds, is lest the public find that they have been unnecessarily kept in the dark.

Members of the House of Commons eagerly discussed the situation in the lobbies after Sir Edward Carson's statement had been made. According to The Times, Premier Lloyd George spent the whole of Monday at the admiralty, where he went at the request of his colleagues in the war cabinet, and with the hearty concurrence of Sir Edward Carson.

It is understood that Mr. Lloyd George made the thorough stock-taking of the situation by an examination of the anti-submarine organization and a conference with the officials.

May Day Finds Armies of Allies and Central Powers in Deadly Combat, But Attention of World is Centred on Internal Crisis in German Empire

By Courier Leased Wire. May Day has dawned with the armed hosts of Britain, France and Germany still locked fast in the most strenuous struggle of the whole tremendous war. But the eyes of the world are fixed for the moment on the stage behind the battle line where, inside the closely guarded frontiers of the Central Powers the bursting of the long brewing storm of discontent is awaited with a mingling of fear and hope.

Extraordinary measures have been taken by the rulers of the Central Empires to prevent the outside world from knowing what is transpiring within their borders. No German newspaper is allowed to pass into a neutral country and for the past ten days all persons have been forbidden to leave Germany.

Thus the scanty and dubious news formerly gleaned from the censored German press or from casual travellers has been completely cut off and the Teutonic Empires are almost isolated from the rest of the world as was ancient Japan.

Reports from Switzerland of vague and indefinite authority, assert that the troubled conditions in Germany have been intensified by a widespread outbreak of typhus said to be especially prevalent in the great industrial regions. The epidemic is attributed to the growing food scarcity, but the story, like many other similar ones, lacks confirmation from any reliable source.

The same veil which has been drawn over events in Germany and Austria obscures the situation in Sweden, where a great nation-wide demonstration by the workers was also planned for to-day. Since the outbreak of a couple of weeks ago when rioting took place in Stockholm, the only news received as to conditions in Sweden has been the bare announcement that a general strike had been ordered for May Day, coupled with a warning to the government against undue interference.

On the fighting front in France little change has taken place for some days. The French are striking hard in Champagne and have made some gains but without as far as the official communications go, materially altering the situation.

The fighting in Macedonia, which was resumed on a wide front last week is still in progress, but information regarding it remains too indefinite to judge whether the allies are engaged in a major offensive. In Mesopotamia the British are pushing steadily forward, but here too details are too meagre to throw a light on the extent of the campaign of the immediate objective of the British commanders.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF LONDON AND HAMILTON OPENS ITS SESSION HERE

Inaugural Meeting Held in Zion Church Last Evening With Very Large Attendance; Dr. Johnson of Montreal a Powerful Speaker; Today's Morning Session

"God's Amplior" was the theme of a powerful address delivered before an open meeting of the Hamilton and London Presbyterian synod at its inaugural meeting held in Zion church last evening, by the Rev. Robert Johnson, D.D., pastor of the American Presbyterian church, Montreal. The speaker's text was found in Zechariah, chapter two, and the first four verses. "I lifted up my eyes again, and looked, and behold a man with a measuring line in his hand; then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof. And behold the angel that talked with me went forth and another angel went out to meet him. And said unto him, run, speak to this young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein. For I said the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about and will be the glory in the midst of her."

The message of the evening as directed to the church, and more particularly to the pastors of the church, Dr. Johnson laying emphasis on the needs of awakening to rightly interpret the meaning of God, and to communicate His wishes to the people at large. In commenting his sermon the speaker referred to the erection of the famous cathedral at Seville, and to the establishment of the city of Constantinople, and some incidents in connection with the establishment of these two centres were related, for the purpose of showing that their subsequent greatness had originated in an inspiration not to reproduce but to progress into hitherto unknown

AMERICAN ACTION IS APPROVED

Selective Draft System and Liberty Loan are Acclaimed

BOTH A REVELATION

Of What May be Looked For From the U. S.

By Courier Leased Wire. London, May 1.—The passage by the American congress of legislation providing for a selective draft, and the authorization of a "liberty loan," is commented on enthusiastically in the newspaper editorials this morning.

The Daily Telegraph sees in this legislation "an astonishing revelation of what may be looked for from American intervention in the war." It adds that this legislation has already changed the prospects of the war, and that it is a matter of surprise and gratification that the experiences of the Entente Allies have been so swiftly and vigorously assimilated by the United States.

"That a people in which the principles of individual liberty and the strongest expression," says The Daily Telegraph, "should perceive so swiftly the need of this greatest sacrifice to nationhood cannot but amaze us here, who only faced the necessity after a most acute controversy, which was protracted over many months."

The Times makes similar comment, and adds: "It is an excellent augury; it is evidence that the American government has done what we and all our allies most wished that it should do."

Going Overseas. Washington, May 1.—Six base hospital units recently organized by the Red Cross for army medical service have been ordered out for active duty, probably in France and are expected to leave within three weeks, the Red Cross announced to-day. Secretary of War Baker indicated that other units will go forward rapidly. Each unit consists of 23 doctors, two dentists, 65 nurses, and 150 enlisted men of the medical department, and is prepared to care for 500 wounded men.

SURVIVORS OF AMERICAN TANK STEAMER

U. S. Oil Vessel Vacuum Was Torpedoed by U-Boat

DETAILS RECEIVED

And Are Reported by Officials to Washington

By Courier Leased Wire. London, May 1.—The survivors of the American oil tank steamer Vacuum, who will arrive in Liverpool at midnight, include Robert Williams, Oscar Gales, W. Lundgren, A. Byle and Raymond Nunez. The details of the sinking on April 28 of the Vacuum have been received at the American embassy here, but cannot be made public it was explained to-day. The full particulars are in the hands of Rear Admiral Simms and the American naval attaché, who presumably have made reports on them to Washington.

The American consular officials will obtain the customary full affidavits from the officers and members of the crew, who have landed. SOLVED. The washing problem, you do it now by electricity, explanation on page 6. Nottingham lace curtains at 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.25 up, at J. M. Young & Co.

SHIPPING PROBLEMS TAKEN UP

British and French War Commissions Active at Washington

WILL REACH DECISION

On Matter of a Definite Plan of Apportionment

CONTROL OF SHIPPING

To Be Vested in President and a Board

By Courier Leased Wire. Washington, May 1.—Members of the British and French war commissions will take up shipping problems with the shipping board immediately, it was said to-day. This question is one of the most serious faced by the allied governments and is one that has given the United States Government great concern in planning for transporting and supplying American troops abroad in the event an American army eventually is put on the firing line.

It is believed the commission will work with the American Government out some definite plan of apportionment of cargoes among the allies so that each will be assured of sufficient supplies. A balance, too, will have to be arranged for the classes of supplies sent abroad that food and munitions may be furnished in proper proportion.

The Administration within a few days will have introduced in Congress legislation to give the President and the shipping board a firmer grasp of the nation's shipping so that cargoes may be directed best to serve the country's interests. America faces the task of feeding the world and through the shipping bill and the export embargo bill pending in congress, the United States Government will be in a position to determine the amount of exports and the direction they shall take.

The shipping board's wooden ship-building campaign continues to meet encouraging response throughout the country, it was said to-day. Construction already is starting in many yards and many new yards will be built. To stimulate steel shipbuilding the board will let contracts for steel construction as well as wood, chartering the ships to private business concerns for service in transporting supplies to Europe.

The country will complete its first modern ships in about six months. After that time they will be turned out with ever increasing rapidity and the hope of the administration is that they may be built fast enough to overcome the German undersea warfare.

THE SITUATION
The French have taken their turn at a new offensive launching one in the Champagne district with excellent initial success. They made their assault on a wide front of about four miles eastward from Rheims and captured several strongly fortified trenches. The enemy lines were penetrated to a depth ranging from five hundred to a thousand yards, and at the same time made a thrust to the eastward which netted about two thirds of a mile and put Nivelles men astride of the Moronvillers-Nauroy road.

On the British front there has again been somewhat of a lull, but additional ground has been taken along the fourth German line, and a slight advance has also been recorded in the Monchy area. There is much aerial activity and in one instance it is recorded fourteen flyers were routed by two British. Of forty five machines brought down in one day, thirty belonged to the foe.

An official statement estimates that during the fighting in Mesopotamia from April 18th to April 22nd the Turkish losses were about four thousand.

The Canadians have taken trenches to the north and east of Arleux. Fuller details show that they put up a magnificent struggle in the capture of the village named and that Western Canadian battalions evened up the score of their losses with the bayonet.

The American oil tanker Vacuum was sunk off the Irish coast. She is the second armed U.S. vessel to be destroyed in the war zone.

THE FOOD CRISIS.

War conditions have brought a serious condition of affairs with reference to food supplies. The fact exists and no good purpose whatever can be served in seeking to blink the circumstance. The millions of men engaged in the present awful struggle comprise in great part those who would otherwise be tilling the soil, large productive sections have been trampled under the iron heel of Thor, quantities of produce have been destroyed on land and in transit on the sea by submarines, and crop prospects are none too good anywhere, shortage of labor proving a big factor, in our own West seedling has been later than usual with increased danger of damage by frost at time of harvest. To add to the trouble, many breeding animals have been killed, either to supply army wants, or because of the tempting prices offered. The position of affairs has once more brought home with cogent force the basic fact that the yields of the land constitute the very foundation of things and that the truth has been far too much ignored in the modern rush for material things in other directions. The Old Land has awakened to a realization of vast areas within her borders literally frittered away while right here in Ontario the figures show the grass lands of the Province have during the last four years been increasing at the rate of one hundred thousand acres annually. This has not meant the keeping of more stock for they also have declined in number. During the four years mentioned there has been an actual decrease in the acreage in Ontario of twenty-three per cent. in beans, fifty-seven per cent. in peas, seven per cent. in winter wheat, ten per cent. in turnips, and twelve per cent. in potatoes.

The thing now to be done as far as our own country is concerned is to put every possible pound of energy into production and to keep a watchful eye on food consumption so that waste may be eliminated to the greatest possible extent. Lloyd George in a recent appeal to the farmers of the British Empire said: "The line which the British Empire holds against the Germans is held by those who work on the land as well as those who fight on land and sea. If it breaks at any point it breaks everywhere. In the face of the enemy the seaman of our Royal naval and mercantile marine as well as those who fight on land, and the soldiers gathered from every part of the Empire hold our line firstly. You workers on land must hold your part of our line as strongly. Every full day's labor you do helps to shorten the struggle and brings us nearer victory. Every idle day, all loitering, lengthens the struggle and makes defeat more possible. Therefore, in the nation's honour, heed! Acquit yourselves like men, and as workers on land do your duty with all your strength!"

Lack of help is, of course, the main difficulty with the Canadian agriculturist and in this respect anyone who can aid in any way should deem it a patriotic duty to assist. There must not only be an all round feeling of co-operation, but an actual exemplification of it.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

The war, among many other results, has done much to bring to the fore preferential trade within the Empire. It is not so very long ago that supporters of such a move were regarded as faddists, but not now. In a recent speech Lloyd George more than hinted that he was commencing to look upon such a plan with favor and it would be impossible to over rate the power of Britain's present Prime Minister. Anything having his approval is bound to carry enormous weight with the public for it is very seldom indeed in the history of England that one man has attained the enormous following which he has rightly secured.

As a matter of fact it stands to reason that if the various portions of the Empire can co-operate so splendidly with reference to a common cause of physical self defence, they can equally get closer together with great mutual advantage in matters commercial. Just as they can unite against an enemy they can also unite to a common advantage. Make no mistake about it. Preferential trade is on the way.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

A writer in the States expresses the belief that dress will finally reach primeval fashion. He has been noticing those neck and ankle exposures.

King Constantine is now stated to be willing to do anything for the Allies in order to save his throne. Can't be done, old top. The skidoo runway, as far as you are concerned, is greased from top to bottom.

If it comes to ploughing up gold grounds a few beginners will be able to do the trick.

The Queen of the May this year needs to keep 'em all on.

In the Dominion House yesterday, the Laurierites unsuccessfully attempted to have all Senate appointments stopped until the war is over. It's a wonder they didn't ask to do the selecting themselves.

The Toronto Globe tells about "harvesting water." This probably refers to leaks.

TONNAGE FOR ALLIES.

By Courier Leased Wire.
Washington, May 1.—The United States has already placed a considerable amount of ship tonnage at the disposal of the Entente allies. Lord Eustace Percy, ship expert with the British mission, said today, that that government had supplied certain vessels to be used according to the allies' needs, but refused to indicate what they were or if they were seized German ships.
Lord Percy declared that the present rate of British construction of ships and the present estimated American rate could not keep pace with the present rate of destruction by submarines.
"The balancing figure in the world struggle," said Lord Percy, "is the tonnage the United States can supply."

NORWEGIAN LOSSES.

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, May 1.—A Christiania despatch to The Daily Mail says that twenty-three Norwegian ships aggregating 36,000 tons, were sunk by submarines last week. This is a record for Norwegian losses. The correspondent says that an experiment is about to be made with two motor ships, the hulls of which are constructed of ferroconcrete, to test the fitness of such vessels for North Sea trade. The boats will be of 1,000 tons and 600 tons respectively. Ferroconcrete lighters have been used successfully for some time in Swedish coast traffic. The Norwegian boats can be built in four or five months and are cheaper than those of steel or wood.

Customs Returns For April Show Increase

Paris, May 1.—(From our own correspondent)—A very pretty house wedding took place at high noon today, when Olive, Irene, youngest daughter of Mrs. S. Woods, Willow street, became the bride of Mr. Wesley Showler, of Toronto, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Showler, of Brantford. The young bride looked sweet and girlish in her wedding gown of white Georgette crepe with bodice of white satin. She wore a tulle veil caught up with valley lily and carried a bridal bouquet of roses and valley lily. The bride was given away by her mother, who wore a becoming gown of black silk and Georgette crepe. The young couple were unattended and were married by Rev. Mr. Wells, in front of a bank building. Miss Eunice Sudden played the organ and the wedding march, and wore a dress of green silk. After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the dining room, where Russell Bros., of Brantford, served a sumptuous dinner, and the table looked extremely dainty with their decorations of pink and white carnations. After receiving the usual toasts and best wishes the happy couple left later on the 4.20 train for London and Detroit, where their honeymoon will be spent. The bride will reside in Toronto, where the groom holds a residence position.

At the annual meeting of the Paris Methodist Ladies' Aid, held yesterday, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. W. J. Mitchell; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Henry Rehder; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. Harrison; Secretary, Mrs. A. C. Lee; Treasurer, Miss Mary Kay. The ladies of the church are cordially invited to attend these meetings, which are held in the lecture room of the church, the third Wednesday of each month.

The following is the customs report for the month just ending April, 1917: $23,525.64, and last April, 1916, the receipts were $18,337.00, making an increase this year of $5,188.64.

A sad affair occurred on Catharine street yesterday morning. Looked the little daughter of Mrs. Brett, who was out playing, took suddenly ill and passed away shortly after. The cause was around three years old, and very delicate, death being due to convulsions. A regrettable feature of the sad affair is that the father, who enlisted here, is overseas. Much sympathy is extended the bereaved family.

Yesterday afternoon the officers and men of the 64th battery, who enlisted at Guelph, arrived in Paris, and remained over night. They were on a ten days route march to Brantford and return. The battery made a fine appearance. They left this morning and will camp at Woodstock to-night. There are around 100 men and over 90 horses in the battery.

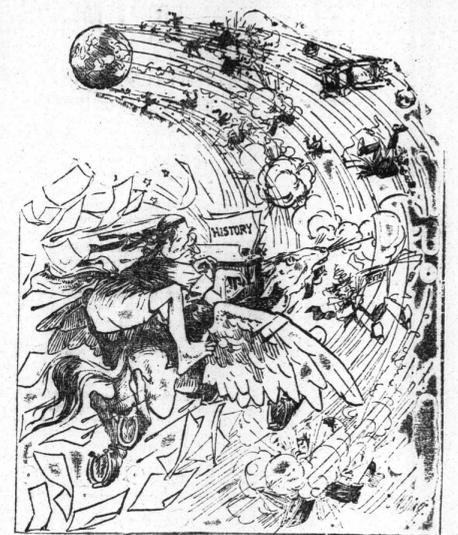

CENSORSHIP.

Washington, May 1.—An executive order signed by President Wilson providing for the censorship of cables out of the United States and of telegraph and telephone lines into Mexico, together with regulations governing the same were made by the committee on public information. The object of the censorship is to prevent the sending of information which might be of value to the enemy. The committee announced today that arrangements have been made to put the executive order into immediate effect.

It gives me much pleasure in recommending the Tablets to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c, a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE DIFFICULTY OF KEEPING PACE WITH EVENTS

NERVOUS DISEASES IN THE SPRING

Cured by Toning the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves
It is the opinion of the best medical authorities after long observation, that nervous diseases are more common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year. Vital changes in the system after long winter months, may cause much more trouble than the familiar spring weakness and weariness from which most people suffer as the result of indoor life, in poorly ventilated and often overheated buildings. Official records prove that in April spring weakness and weariness from which most people suffer as the result of indoor life, in poorly ventilated and often overheated buildings. STEAMER BURNED

Toledo, May 1.—An unknown freight steamer burned early this morning during a terrific southeast gale in Lake Erie, just east of Sister Island. Observers at North Bass Island said they discerned the boat clearly, and that she was apparently ashore just off the island and burned furiously. East Sister Island is entirely uninhabited, and is in Canadian waters 12 miles north of Put-in-Bay.

THE SPRING POET.
If I could wield the pen of Pope, or talk like forty Bryans, I'd hand out much impassioned dope concerning dandelions. Man strives and strives to have a lawn the town will be applauding; at twilight hour, at noon, at dawn, you see him sowing, sowing his soul's seed; the dandelions take the place, the grass is brown and dying. And people, as they journey by, observe and mutter glumly: "That shiftless fellow does kill and burn them; and then in not try to make his place look comely a dialect he learns to blankly!"

KILBANE AIMS HIGH By Courier Leased Wire. New York, May 1.—In addition to retaining the featherweight title of America, Johnny Kilbane aspires in his bout with Freddie Welsh here to-night to annex the lightweight championship of the world. As the state rules bar a referee's decision Kilbane can attain his ambition only by the knockout route or by the popular acclaim of the spectators based upon his showing against Welsh.

WELSH EXPECTED TO HAVE AN ADVANTAGE OF FIVE OR SIX POUNDS IN WEIGHT OVER KILBANE, ENTERING THE RING AT ABOUT 135 POUNDS.

FIGHTING GARDEN FOES

Destroy Them or They May Destroy Your Crop.

SPRAYING A READY REMEDY

In This Column the Amateur is Introduced to Insects and Fungus So That He May Know Them by Their First Names.

(By S. C. JOHNSTON, Vegetable Specialist, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Garden Foes. Unfortunately the backyard vegetable grower has some difficulties to overcome. It will not be all pleasure and profit which he must look forward to because there are innumerable insects and fungus diseases which cause much worry and trouble and necessitate the use of extraordinary methods to prevent or control.

The following is a list of the more common vegetables and the insects and plant diseases attacking them with remedies or preventives.

ANTRACNOSE OR POD SPOTS. Brown or reddish spots on the foliage and on the roots. Found on low damp ground. Plant only seeds which have no signs of the disease.

CABBAGE SPROUTS. Root Maggot. A small whitish colored maggot one-quarter of an inch long. Looks something like a grain of wheat, found just below the surface of the ground either close to or on the roots.

WORMS. A small greenish worm appears quite early in the season. Dust with pyrethrum or heliothrips powder when the plants are in the bud stage.

APHIS. Also called louse. Small greyish insects which multiply rapidly. Prunose recently taken also tell how von Hindenburg continues to be held up to the German population as a whole as the man in whom it must repose confidence and hope for final victory.

ONION. Onion Maggot. A white maggot similar to the cabbage root maggot. No effective means of control. Spread charcoal over the ground or try the corrosive sublimate solution as recommended above.

POTATO. Colorado Beetle or Potato Bug. Dusted with paris green when the dew is still on the plant, or place a teaspoonful in a watering can of water and pour over the plant. If possible have the plant dusted with paris green before the bug appears.

BLIGHT. Brown spots distributed over the leafy surface, usually found in July. If they are not prevented from growing, the whole plant will be destroyed. Spray once a week for four or five weeks with Bordeaux mixture from July 1st.

TOMATO. Tomato Worm or Horn Blower. A large worm which rapidly defoliates the plant. Hand pick and destroy.

BLIGHT. Black spots appearing on the leaves which spread rapidly and cause the whole plant to die. Keep the plants growing vigorously.

Mr. Balfour has special reason for remembering the Venezuelan affair. The first awkward question with which the Unionist Government of 1895—with Lord Salisbury as Premier, Mr. Balfour as leader of the Commons, and Mr. Chamberlain as Colonial Secretary—fresh from their huge triumph at the polls in July of that year, had to deal.

They had inherited this question in its accentuated form from their Liberal predecessors, for it was in April, 1895 (two months before the long-standing dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana was brought to a crisis by the arrest of the Venezuelan authorities of two inspectors of the British Guiana post-office on the ground that these inspectors had been encroaching on Venezuelan territory.

CUCUMBER. Striped Beetle. Black and yellow striped beetle which feeds ravenously on the lower leaves of the plant in the very early stage of growth. Dust leaves when wet with ashes or air-slaked lime.

SQUASH BUG. Dark brown beetle which sucks the juice from the plant. Hand pick and destroy. Found on the leaves.

MELON. Cucumber insects usually attacks and may be destroyed as given above.

ONION. Onion Maggot. A white maggot similar to the cabbage root maggot. No effective means of control. Spread charcoal over the ground or try the corrosive sublimate solution as recommended above.

POTATO. Colorado Beetle or Potato Bug. Dusted with paris green when the dew is still on the plant, or place a teaspoonful in a watering can of water and pour over the plant. If possible have the plant dusted with paris green before the bug appears.

BRING YOUR WASHING

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

and We Will do it For You in the "1900" Way by One of Our Four Types of

"1900" Electric and Water Power Washers and Wringers

We want every woman in Brantford to see what "1900" service really is. Don't stay away from this, the biggest demonstration of Washing Machines ever held in Brantford, because you feel you don't want to buy. We will not coax or bother you in any way other than explain and demonstrate what comfort and convenience the women of Brantford are missing.

Solve the Help Problem—Get them a "1900" Electric and watch their appreciation.

Your Wash Woman didn't show up this week. Get a "1900" Electric and she will be there and finish your washing and ironing in less than the day.

The home with a "1900" Electric has no fear of the washerwoman not coming; she will be right on the job and away again before lunch.

One lady user of the "1900" Electric has used her machine 5 1-2 years and tells us she can depend upon it every Monday morning, as there is never anything wrong with it.

Another satisfied user has a "1900" hand Washer 11 years. Seven years ago it was converted into an Electric. Last year it was replaced by a New Model "1900" Electric, less the motor, which was taken from the old machine and placed on the new. Were they satisfied? Why didn't they try some other make? Because the "1900" filled perfectly every requirement.

You don't pay for a "1900" Electric Washer it pays for itself. Why wear yourself out. Come in and see for yourself. We will not ask you to buy; you are the judge; we are satisfied to abide by your verdict.

Mr. Man of the House, if you had to do the weekly washing, do you know how many Electric Washers there would be in Brantford? There are 6,000 homes and it's a safe bet 5,000 of them would be electrified. What conveniences have you in your labors, while the housekeepers are drudging with the wash tub and the wringer? Say, have you ever turned the wringer for your wife? Try it.

Arthur Fletcher tells a funny story in the boat to be seen this morning. The opening game of the season Boston, Heinie Zimmerman dressed a few remarks to Tim Quigley appertaining to a decision rendered by the umpire.

WELSH—KILBANE. New York, May 1.—Unusual interest is being shown by followers of boxing in the fight between Fred Welsh and Johnny Kilbane held off the featherweight title.

Under the state rules no official decision can be rendered by the referee, who will be Charles White, veteran arbiter of many noted championship matches. The winner is likely to be decided by the acclamation of spectators based upon the show made during the contest.

Each man is considered one of the cleverest of the game, and each artist in his respective class. Kilbane is credited with being the best hitter, but there is little, if any, betting on a knockout.

CASEY'S CLAIMANTS. (By Homer Crox) Just why the chicken crossed the road, and the exact tenure of year of one Mary Ann seem to be as yet a matter of some dispute. The riddle that has sprung up: "Who wrote 'Casey at the Bat'?"

A present day poet has not climbed very high on the ladder of some less honor of the authorship of the most famous bit of baseball verse has been hung on his shoulder. Everybody from Felicia Hemans, Boomerang Bolivar the Cowboy Poet of the Rockies, has got in on it.

Historically, the poem became famous through two high names. One evening, a score of years ago, when De Wolf Hopper, the well-known actor, was "making up" some slips through the stage entrance rattled at Hopper's dressing room, and thrust in to the actor a crumpled bit of paper. "Say, man," said the man in a hurry, "won't you read that for me tonight?"

The larger the fame seems to be swinging around to Ernest L. Thayer of Worcester, Mass., having led by a horde of clutching aspirants including John Quinlan Murphy of St. Louis, George W. D.V.S., Valentine, Thompson et al. This is a comfortable woolen merchandise whose literary endeavors are more a by-product, writing only when glorious frenzy lays hold upon him instead of being pent-to a cork as so many of our modern fillers are. He was Ivy Orator, Harvard class of 1885, and was prominent in literary and journalistic activities.

THIS FROM EVERE'S.
Arthur Fletcher tells a funny one on Johnny Evers. It seems that in the opening game of the season in Boston, Heinie Zimmerman addressed a few remarks to Umpire Quigley, pertaining to a decision rendered by that official. The cases were in the field at the time, and at the end of the inning, when the teams were changing places, Fletcher passed close to Evers, and the famous Trojan was grumbling something Quigley, to which Heinie didn't seem to be paying much attention.

"What's the trouble, John?" asked Fletcher.
"Why?" he replied indignantly. "Zimmerman's got to cut out yelling at the umpires. That stuff doesn't go around here. I don't know if Quigley would report him, I will!"

Fletcher was in a daze for the remainder of the afternoon.
TRIPLE PLAY
The first triple play in the major league was made yesterday at Cleveland by St. Louis, but it was not the first of the season. At Toledo, on Saturday in the game with Milwaukee, two former New York Americans, on the home club pulled the trick. With two on bases, the batter bunted to Hartzell, who pegged to Bonomet second, the latter touching the ball and also the runner who had been on first.

WELSH-KILBANE
New York, May 1.—Unusual interest in being shown by followers of boxing in the hour to be fought here tonight is being shown by Freddie Welsh and Johnny Kilbane, holder of the featherweight title. The pugilists will meet for a bout of 10 rounds.

Under the state rules no official decision can be rendered by the referee, who will be Charley White, a veteran arbiter of many noted championship matches. The winner is likely to be decided by the acclamation of spectators based upon the showing made during the contest.

Each man is considered one of the cleverest ring generals and glove artists in his respective class. Kilbane is credited with being the hardest hitter, but there is little, if any, betting on a knockout.

Welsh will enter the ring at about 125 pounds, which will give the heavyweight champion an advantage of five or six pounds in weight over his opponent.

CASEY'S CLAIMANTS
(By Homer Croft)

Just why the chicken crossed the road, and the exact tenure of years of one Mary Ann seem to be as plain as 1, 2, 3 in comparison to the new middle that has sprung up: Who wrote "Casey at the Bat"?

A present day poet has not climbed very high on the ladder of fame unless he has the honor of the authorship of the most famous bit of baseball verse ever sung on his shoulders. Everybody from Felicia Hemans to Boomerang Bolivar the Cowboy Poet of the Rockies, has got in on it. It is fashionable.

Wherever Tubby Murphy, Hen Miller and Jigger Johnson get together on a cover, they will give the three-old-cat to the Polo Grounds, Manhattan, the great Casey and his strikers are known. Eloquence is the world around, of baseball whole evenings with it and "The Raven." Literary critics from the Atlantic Monthly to the long-legged boy who gets the magazines for the Post and Appeal have tried to wrangle the authorship of "Casey."

Historically, the poem became famous through two high names. One was a score of years ago, while De Witt Hopper, the well-known writer, was "making up" some one slipped through the stage entrance, rattled at Hopper's dressing room door, and thrust in a whole crumpled bit of paper. "Say, old man," said the man in a hurry, "won't you read that for me tonight?" The man was the late Archibald Clavering Gunter, author of "Mr. Barnes of New York." Hopper ran over the poem a few times, and when it came time for an encore put his best into it, with the result that the house stormed. Hopper himself fell in love with it, and recited it for ten years up and down the land.

The finger of fame seems to be swinging around to Ernest L. Thayer of Worcester, Mass., having glided by a horde of clutching aspirants, including John Quinlan Murphy of St. Louis, George W. D'Vys, Will Valentine, Thompson et al. Thayer is a comfortable woolen merchant, whose literary endeavors are merely a by-product, writing only when a glorious frenzy lays hold upon him, instead of being pen-tied to a copy desk as so many of our magazine fillers are. He was Ivy Orator, Harvard class of 1885, and was prominent in literary and journalistic activities during his undergraduate days.

"Now tell me about it," I said, and without playing with the piano stool or plowing through the music rack he began.

"I am becoming just a little touchy on the subject, since my friends are alarmingly versatile in throwing it up to me, but here it is without sauce or seasoning."
"It was through William R. Hearst that I came to write the now famous baseball poem. 'Casey at the Bat.' I came to know Mr. Hearst through association with him on the Lampoon. Harvard's humorous publication. For a term Mr. Hearst was business manager of that organ, while I did creative work. During the years 1883, 1884 and 1885, I wrote jokes, composed editorials and designed drawings, putting in much faithful time. During my junior year I was president of the Lampoon."

"After graduation I went abroad for a year, and on returning had nothing special to do. Meanwhile Hearst had gone back to San Francisco and taken charge of the Examiner, and was making things pretty lively, for he was just beginning to display his marvelous ability. At his request I went to that city and became a member of the staff. There I found Briggs drawing pictures and comics, and Lent writing special articles. To me was assigned the task of doing editorials, specials and reporting. I fear that my work was more varied than I was versatile.

But still I did not have any intention of taking up newspaper work seriously. I had gone to the coast with a view of seeing the country and for a change rather than learning the newspaper business.

"In the fall of 1887 I began to read W. S. Gilbert's 'Bab Ballads,' and decided that I could do something in that line. I wrote a poem for each Sunday issue of the Examiner for three months. Not being particularly robust, however, my health failed, and in February, 1888, I went to my brother's mill in Worcester, Mass., for lack of anything else to occupy my attention. I think that 'Casey at the Bat' was the last of the attempts of mine.

"For a year and six months I wrote voluminously for the San Francisco Examiner, turning off everything from editorials to obituaries. The demand was heavy, and the competition nil. What impression I may have had on the Pacific Slope I have never been able to gauge. The great, luminous and unforgettable fact in connection with it was that it paid me $5 a column. However, at the end of a year and six months my health broke and I returned East.

"I was never a baseball fan, and never was even interested in any game in the game, and it was only on account of my friend, classmate and associate on the Lampoon, Sam Winslow, that I became interested. Naturally, as Sam was captain of the nine—one of the best nines that Harvard ever had; one that went through the season without a defeat. 'Casey' during May, 1888, and it was printed in the Examiner on June 3, 1888.

FITZ THE "GOAT-GETTER."
George Daly, in the New York World, says: "Fitzpatrick of the Boston Braves, who escaped rather easily with a fine of $50 and suspension of five days, imposed by President Tener of the National League, because of his offensive actions at the Polo Grounds on April 21, has been dubbed the champion 'goat-getter' by his mates. 'Tis said that he has the faculty for stirring up Heinie Zimm even more quickly than an umpire, and his tongue is poison to the average ball player. That seems to be his chief value to the Braves, as he rarely gets in the game. It is hoped that President Tener has effectively curbed Fitzpatrick and men of his kind."

Captain T. L. Huston, part owner of the New York Americans, has received orders to report to the Washington War Department. Capt. Huston served during the Spanish-American War.

Joe Ward, the former hustler, has been given his outright release by Seranton in order that he may manage the Gettysburg club in the Blue Ridge circuit.

Lajoie's Fine Work at Second Base Feature of Yesterday's Games

ZABEL HOLDS GRAYS But Tipple Had No Luck in Second Game

Providence, R.I., May 1.—The Leafs and Grays split even in a double-header yesterday afternoon. Lajoie's athletes taking down the decision in the opener on a 2 to 2 tie, and Eggar's side winning the wind-up on a 2 to 1 score. It was Elks' Day, and a big delegation of the brothers were on hand, the crowd of 1,500 being unusually large for a Monday contest.

The headline feature of both battles was the brilliant play of Chief Lajoie at second base. The big fellow had 22 chances and accepted 21, many of his plays being tagged with blue ribbons. Where the Frenchman starred in particular was in tagging runners who tried to hitch the bag. Kelly had a tough time getting the ball down to the sack, but no matter where the peg came—high, wide or low—Lajoie was always on the job, and the skill with which he grabbed the wild shots and tagged the runners was the subject of no end of favorable comment. Seven runners who tried to steal the bag were retired during the double hit, and most of the tries were due more to Lajoie's work than to Kelly's throws.

Manager Lajoie sent his $10,000 beauty, Dan Tipple against the Grays in the second contest, but the big fellow had 22 chances and accepted 21, many of his plays being tagged with blue ribbons. the eighth when, with one down, Powell hit for three cushions, and scampered home on a two-bagger by Rehg.

A great chance was presented the Leafs in the ninth, but Eggar held them in check. With two down, Gray slow muffed a throw by Eayres to catch Trout, and Whiteman followed with a single. Lajoie was passed purposely, filling the bases, Graham whipped a grounder to Brainard, who made a great stop, and his chuck to first retired the side.

BADE RUTH WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT

Former Oriole Twirler Was Hit Frequently, But Had Good Backing

TRIPLE PLAY WORKED By St. Louis Browns Against Cleveland

Boston, April 30.—Ruth pitched his fifth straight victory when Boston defeated Philadelphia by a score of 6 to 3 today. The Boston man was hit often but received brilliant support. Both lead off men, Witt and Hooper, fattened their batting averages with three hits apiece. McInnis played a sensational game at first base. During the Philadelphia batting practice Witt, the visiting shortstop becoming incensed at his team-mate, Elmer Myers ran up to the plate but the two men were separated before any blows were struck and Myers was sent to the club house by Manager Mack. The score: Philadelphia .100 020 020—3 10 3 Boston . . . 131 009 011—6 12 0
Batteries—Shocker and Nunnmaker; Schank; Ruth and Thomas.

At Washington—New York defeated Washington in ten innings today, 4 to 3. Nunnmaker walked in the tenth, was safe at second on Gallia's wide throw of Shocker's safe hit, took third on a double play that retired Shocker and Gihoney and scored on High's single. Scores: New York . . . 010 010 010—4 6 0 Washington . . . 010 020 000—3 7 2
Batteries—Shocker and Nunnmaker; Dumont, Gallia and Henry.

At Cleveland—St. Louis made it three straight from Cleveland today by a score of 4 to 2. Rumlir, a pinch hitter, driving in the winning runs. St. Louis made the first triple play of the season. Evans and O'Neill had walked. Turner batted for Lambeth. He attempted to sacrifice but hit a long fly to Austin; who threw to Kenworthy, covering first, retiring O'Neill. Kenworthy's throw to Lavan completed the play. Scores: St. Louis . . . 010 012 000—4 9 1 Cleveland . . . 000 020 000—2 7 2
Batteries—Davenport, Park, Hamilton, Sotheron and Severold; Covelleskie, Lambeth, Morton and O'Neill.

RUDY RAGED. Philadelphia made four hits off Rudolph in the third inning today and the rally won the game from Boston National 5 to 2. There was considerable hitting shown between the teams. Once when Alexander was at bat, Umpire Quigley had to step in between the former and Rudolph to stop an argument. Rudolph stepped all the way to the plate to make his remarks. Score: Boston . . . 110 000 000—2 7 1 Philadelphia . . . 003 000 000—3 6 2
Batteries—Rudolph and Gowdy; Alexander and Killiter.

SIDEGLIGHTS ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN

THE REX. "The Chattel" a Vitaphone feature presenting E. H. Sothern and Peggy Hyland is a dream, the plot of which is original, and of peculiar interest to those who yesterday witnessed the programme at the Rex Theatre.

THE BRANT. Another of those splendid all-featured bills with which patrons of the Brant Theatre have lately been delighted, is offered for the first of this week at that popular home of amusement, an excellent motion picture program being balanced by high class vaudeville offerings.

PLENTIFUL PASTRY. For his newest Mutual production, Charlie Chaplin had a bill for rich staggier housewife, it presented a household expenses for a whole month.

Some few days later Chaplin told the fellow that he wanted that day before 2 p.m., one hundred lemon cream pies, in quantities at a short notice, said Charlie to one of the stage hands at the studio.

LINDER'S LOVE. It is enough to break a bride's heart to see Max Linder in several scenes of his second Essanay comedy.

"Max Wants a Divorce," now being filmed. Max and his bride begin fighting even before they leave the altar rail. When the battle clouds pass, there stands his cherished one, her beautiful bridal gown almost torn to shreds.

CLASSY COOKS. A competitive test to decide who is the best cook at the Metro-Royal studio has commenced. In lunch time one can find Mabel Tallafiero, Viola Dana, Emily Wehlen, Frances Nelson, Violet Reed, Vada Sands and others with their little aprons and sleeves rolled up "just brushing up" for the test.

PITCHER. Polly Moran in "His Naughty Thought" the new Mack Sennett-Keystone fairly outwits the son of the famous William Tell. You will recollect that the latter let his famous dad shoot an apple off the top of his head with his trusty bow.

A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS. The million dollar picture beautifully produced by William Fox, which will be presented at the Rex Theatre, Fri. and Sat. May 10th, 11th, 12th with matinees daily, you will find the very "paragon of enchanted song and beauty," as the poet, John Ernest Warren recently expressed it.

SOME COFFER. A clever idea for code is explained in the interesting Famous Players-Paramount picture, "The Dummy" in which Jack Pickford, brother of the famous Mary Pickford, is starring at the Brant Theatre, this week.

VIVIAN VERY UN-APPROVED. It will be remembered that a number of articles were issued under the name of Vivian Martin on the subject of cooking. Whether or not the Morocco star read these articles and believed that she had written them will never be known.

HARDEN SPILLS GERMAN BEANS

Noted Socialist Writer Exposes Shams and Mistakes of Government

Copenhagen, May 1.—Maximilian Harden, the German "enfant terrible," publishes in the latest issue of Die Zukunft another daringly frank article exposing to German readers the "shams, pretences and mistakes" of their government's policy.

The article is devoted to the entry of the United States into the war, which Herr Harden warns the people must be taken into account, both from the moral side as a symptom of the weakness of Germany's appeal to the neutral world and the failure of her foreign policy.

Consistent with his earlier attitude, Herr Harden has only words of high praise for President Wilson and his policy, and reveals in various passages a slighting opinion of Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, which he did not conceal at the time of Zimmermann's elevation to Ministerial rank.

Another article by Herr Harden culminates in an appeal to Germany to put the interior of her house in order and introduce democratic conditions, which, the writer, says is the only sure basis for future peace.

Scarcely less noteworthy than his searching criticism of German diplomacy but not that of Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, whose work he praises is Herr Harden's justification to German readers of America's attitude during the war, and his denunciation, for example, of the favorite pan-German argument that the United States was inspired solely by dollar-chasing, and looked upon war only as a source for enormous profits from munition supplies.

The United States, Herr Harden declares, could have continued to amass unmeasured riches, not from munition contracts, from which only a minute part of its income was derived, but as a world source of supply. Instead, he adds, the United States chose for an ideal to reject a continuance of its profitable neutrality, to load itself with a burden of expenditures which no other country could safely bear.

Herr Harden condemns the limitations of the peace offer of the Central powers, whose purpose was, he says, to pave the way for a declaration of submarine war and the rejection of President Wilson's offer of mediation and the German official efforts to deceive and mislead the President regarding the coming submarine campaign. A rupture of relations was inevitable from President Wilson's notes the moment this was proclaimed, but Herr Harden believes that it might have been limited to this and armed neutrality if it had not been for the overtures looking to an alliance with Mexico and Japan, upon which he lavishes all the language of ridicule and contempt.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

A well-known down town druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell that it has been applied—it's so easy to use too.

Montreal, April 30.—Beginning to-morrow the new Quebec liquor legislation banning treating and closing saloons at 2 p.m. comes into effect. The new legislation applies to hotels and restaurants. The problem as to whether the new law applies to clubs will be settled by a test case.

Toronto April 30.—In the claim of Mrs. Cathra Mulock against her husband Cathra Mulock, for alimony, judgment was given this morning by Mr. Justice Middleton in favor of the petition. A reference will be taken probably to a master-in-ordinary to fix the amount. The claim was for $2,000 a month. The statements were filed, did not contest the claim, but submitted that in fixing the amount, consideration should be given to the same already settled upon the plaintiff.

SUBMARINES OF ANTIQUITY

First Submersibles Were Constructed Three Hundred Years Ago

When history is making itself as swiftly as to-day, past conditions retreat like the shrinking track of a railroad from the rear platform of an express train. A few rushing years stretch rapidly into the perspective of an ordinary century.

A Dutch scientist, Cornelius Van Drebbel, who amazed King James I. of England with many exhibitions of natural magic, made a submarine boat covered with a skin of greased leather, in 1620, and King James took a ride in it. In 1776, a Connecticut Yankee, David Bushnell, made another submarine boat, intended to blow up the British warships in New York harbor.

The Turtle, as the boat was called, undertook to blow up the British frigate Eagle, anchored off Staten Island. Unfortunately Bushnell was not physically strong enough to manage the craft himself, and General Putnam selected a soldier, named Ezra Lee to take his place. Lee started out on a dark night in the Turtle and got under the Eagle and tried to attach the explosive box, but he neglected to detach the ballast, the removal of which would have held the Turtle firmly against the ship's bottom, and in consequence he could not force the screw into the planking. He cut loose and got safely away, and some time later the box exploded, but it had floated off with the tide, and the explosion occurred at a considerable distance from the ship.

Bushnell's submarine all the essential elements of a submarine. It enclosed sufficient air to furnish without renewal, good breathing for half an hour; it had a compass, a pressure gauge, water ballast, impervious valves, and tubes for fresh charging foul air and taking in fresh. But mechanical science was not sufficiently developed to take advantage of this Yankee invention, and even during the Civil War, although some slight attempts were made, the submarine idea remained awaiting its time.

Perfection came recently. From 1863 onward various nations began to experiment, but it is only within the last three years that the

THIS WOMAN TO THIS MAN

From Monday's Daily "The Girl" by Mrs. Ellsworth, a woman, hypochondriac, becoming desperate at her slavery, answers a letter in a matrimonial paper and meets a very charming man at the Hotel Savoy, who saves from two mysterious strangers. She takes him to her home, where they are surprised by Ruthven Smith, a rich bachelor from America, and are for Van Vreck and Company big New York jewellers.

Even at the wedding she does not learn her true name. She meets the Count de Santiago, an old-time friend of her husband's. Her husband's "Knight" at St. Augustin, they go for their honeymoon. Knight engineers an introduction to the Annesley Seton, poor but titled cousin of the wife's. Through them the Smiths break into society, and introduce the countess, who, a remarkable clairvoyant, a number of startling and mysterious jewel robberies occur, during the season. The countess maneuvers, through Count Annesley-Seton, for an invitation to Annesley's big Easter party, but Knight refuses to invite her. Upon learning of this from Constance, the countess exclaims: "Now—I know!"

The countess sends an anonymous letter to Ruthven Smith, telling him that Annesley is the Malindore blue diamond, then contrives to have him invited to the Easter party. Annesley, who has worn a blue diamond ring given her by Knight, manages to throw Smith off the scent; then Knight confesses that he is really Michael, the old man, a sort of clever master thief, revenging himself on the world for the troubles of his parents. Annesley turns from him in loathing, her love for him in ruins.

"But if you had, it would have been a relief—" "No. Because I—I hadn't the truth about you. I didn't understand at all. I thought you had just one unscrupulous thing, I dreamed your whole life was—was. I loved you as much as ever would have broken my heart—" "But now that you don't love it wouldn't break your heart." "I don't seem to have any left," Annesley sighed. "If it had crushed to dust, it would break my life if you yours. If anything could be more than what it would be that—" "Very well, you can't do you of me in another way," the man swerved. You can denounce me. You can justify. If you over the Malindore diamond, Ruthven Smith and tell him how good it—" "You must know I wouldn't that—" "Why not?" "Because I—couldn't—" "It needn't spoil your life. No could blame you. I would tell whole story of how I discovered into marrying me. You could have free yourself—get a divorce—" "Don't!" the girl cut him off. "I'm not thinking of myself. I'm thinking of you. I can't love again, and I wouldn't if I could, and I—I know. You're a different man. The one I loved doesn't"

From Monday's Daily. "Nou—5! Ly' Synopsis of Preceding Chapters. Annesley Graye, companion of Miss Ellsworth, a selfish old spinster, becoming despondent at her slavery, answers a letter in a matrimonial paper, and meets a very young man at the Hotel Savoy, who is dressed from two mysterious strangers. She takes him to her home where they are surprised by Ruthven Smith, a rich Jew from America, and agent Van Vreck and Company, New York jewelers. Mrs. Ellsworth makes a scene, and Annesley, who calls himself Nelson Smith, takes Annesley away and marries her next day. At the wedding she does not learn her husband's real name. She meets the Countess de Santiago, an old-time friend of her husband's. Him she calls "Nelson." At Sidmouth, where they go for their honeymoon, night engineers an introduction to the Annesley-Setsons, but titled cousins of his wife. Through them the Smiths break into society, and introduce the countess, who is a remarkable clairvoyant. A number of startling and mysterious level robberies occur, marking the season. The countess maneuvers, through Countess Annesley-Seton, for an invitation to Annesley's big Easter party, but Knight refuses to invite her. Upon learning this from Countess, the countess exclaims: "Now—I know!"

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Selow

The Builders of Flowerland. Old Black Witch, who lived in the forest, was very jealous of the little fairies who made their homes in the weeds and grasses, and she decided that they must leave. "I shall never be happy as long as they live here," she told the dwarfs, and one, much uglier than the others, suggested they steal them away. "I must find a place to hide them so they can't tell the King," said Old Black Witch, for she knew the forest King loved the little fairies, and she went in search of a good hiding place. Near the roadside she found an old deserted flower castle. Its tiny rooms had no windows, and only a small door opened into them. The walls were orange red. "This is just the place," cried Old Black Witch, and she told Ugly Dwarf what she wanted. "You see they are unruly, and I want to put them in here until they promise to be good," she said. Ugly Dwarf declared he would see that they were held until she bade him let them out.

"You shall be their keeper, and if you do your work well you will visit me when I become Queen of the Forest," said Old Black Witch. That evening the little fairies gathered in the meadow and were having a lovely time when Old Black Witch and Ugly Dwarf rushed in and carried them away to the deserted Flower Castle, where they were imprisoned in the orange and red rooms, with just a small crack left open so they could get air. "Why not send a message to the King?" asked one little fairy, and the next day when a honey-bee stopped for a drink, the little fairies pulled his foot into the crack and tied a tiny bundle to it and begged him to deliver it to their King. The honey-bee promised, and flew away, but Old Black Witch found it out and changed the bundle into seeds and the honey-bee scattered them all along the way, and the Forest King marveled at the beauty of the new flowers that sprang up in his garden, but he never knew they were messages from his lost fairies. Old Black Witch never became Queen, because the Forest King would not have her, and she was so angry that she ran away without telling him where the fairies were. But the little fairies always hoped to see their King, and they tried to reach their King, still tied a bundle to the foot of every honey-bee who stops to take a sip at their wells, and the little flower castles bloom all along the roadside. The butterflies hover over them so much to listen to the soft, plaintive song of the fairies that the country folk call them Butterfly Weeds.

CHAPTER XX. The Plan. Annesley sat as Knight had left her for a long, long time—minutes, perhaps, or hours. But at last she was very tired and very cold, so tired that she threw herself weakly on the bed, in her dressing gown, because she couldn't sit up. All through the rest of the dark hours she lay shivering, and did not even trouble to roll herself in the warm coverlet spread lightly over the bed. It seemed right, somehow, that she should be cold and miserable physically. She did not care or wish to be comfortable. "Over and over again she asked herself: "What shall I do? What is to become of me—of both of us?" She tried to pray, but her heart was too hard towards the man who had trampled on her life and love for his own cruel purposes. It seemed to her that God would not hear a prayer sent up to Him in such a mood; yet she did not want to soften her heart towards the sinner. Just because it had been so full of forgiveness before she was poisoned by the bitter stream of his confession, it was the more impossible to forgive now. It even seemed to Annesley that it would be monstrous and unthinkable to forgive in the ordinary human sense of the word a man who was a living lie.

If there were room for thanksgiving in her weakness, it lay in the fact that her love had died a swift and sudden death. Had she gone on loving in spite of all, such a love, she thought, must have brought death into her soul. She did not know how to name her husband now. Even in thinking of him she would not call him "Knight." What a mockery the name had been! How he must have laughed to know that she was fool enough to believe him a knight of chivalry, who had come like St. George to rescue her from the dragon!

She knew at last that the name he had not wished to see in the parish register was Michael Donaldson. That meant, she supposed, that her name was Donaldson too; a name he had dragged through the mire. He pretended to love her. But such a man could not speak the truth. He had tried to excuse himself in every way. To talk of his love and its purifying influence was only one of these ways. He would not even have confessed, if he had not fallen into the mistake of thinking she understood that he was a thief, or head of a gang of thieves. He seemed almost to boast of what he was. Oh, how horrible life had become, and how she wished that it were over! She wondered if it would be very wicked to pray that her heart might stop beating tonight.

But morning came and her heart beat on. She did not even feel very ill, only weak with a wry throbbing of each separate nerve in her head. She had meant to use the quiet hours to decide what must be done next, but always when she tried to pin her mind to the question that had escaped like a fluttering moth and turned to self-pity, or to calling up pictures of the past which brought tears stinging to her eyelids. Now the time was upon her when realities must be faced. Before seven o'clock it was light but neither she nor Knight took early tea, and there was more than an hour to spare before they would be called by Parker.

RUNNING ENGINES IN CLOSED ROOMS

Practice is a Fatal One Which Has Brought Death to Many

The following extract is taken from the Philadelphia Inquirer: Within a few days two owners of automobiles have died suddenly in their garages owing to ignorance of the deadly fumes of carbon monoxide which is the product of gasoline combustion in the cylinders. One strong inhalation of this gas will cause instant death to most persons, and, according to the Scientific American, a great number of such deaths have occurred even among expert chauffeurs.

The danger arises exclusively when an engine is permitted to run in a closed room—as a garage. It is customary for automobiles to "tune up" their engines in a garage or to keep the engine running while they make some slight repairs. This permits the carbon monoxide to accumulate in the room, and if one strong whiff is received directly from the exhaust unconsciousness or death results. In the open air there is no danger because the gas easily diffuses in the air.

The Scientific American issues a warning to all automobilists against letting their engines run in a closed room. Ordinarily there is no danger from starting the engine and running it out to the street. The great danger is from nosing around the engine or the exhaust inasmuch as we have had two deaths recently from neglecting safety it seems likely that this warning will be respected—for a time, at least.

GERMAN CANADIANS LOYAL. By "The Pressed Wire." Paris, April 30.—(Through Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The Echo de Paris contains a detailed account of the part played by Canada in the war. The paper in part says: "Every week brings us news of the unvarying generosity of the Canadians who never cease to offer invaluable assistance in money and lives. Moreover, although everywhere else Germans are traitors to the country of their adoption, German-Canadians give proof of their loyalty and do their whole duty just like the other inhabitants of Canada."

There have been over 3300 nursing sisters mobilized in Kingston since the war began, that number being outfitted and all of their papers prepared. Mrs. Albert Martin of Kitchener, while watching moving pictures of the war, recognized the other day, recognized her husband is one of the Canadians walking behind a "tank."

DEFERRED ENJOYMENT.

All life is full of conflicts. We want to be good and we want to be bad at the same moment. We want our way and we want to be unselfish. We want to be cultured and educated, yet we aren't willing to make the requisite effort. We would not play false and yet would wrongly win. We want to spend our money and we want to save it.

And in the case of the average human being I don't believe there is any conflict that rages more constantly or more fiercely than that last. Miserliness is the rarest sin I know. A Sin We Might Well Try to Commit. Most of us could try our hardest to sin in that direction with advantage.

There are always so many easily justifiable ways of spending money. Good looking becoming clothes are a justifiable expenditure—"personal publicity," you know. Only the rich can afford to be shabby. And an attractive home—what's the use of living if you can't have your surroundings reasonably attractive?

And then there are books and magazines and theatres and good music, these too, are duties we owe ourselves. Of course we must have vacations. And we must have vacations or we can't work efficiently. And so it goes.

she will love the one shown in No. 8202. It offers a welcome change from the usual in the square cut of the neck, formed by a tab which may be unbuttoned to give greater freedom. The large square sailor collar, as well as the applied pockets, follow the same lines. The pockets need not necessarily be used, for the blouse is equally good looking without them, as shown in the small front view. Either long or short sleeves may be used. A fitted skirt always looks best in combination with a midday, and the separate one given is an "easy-to-make" one-piece model. For the blouse the most suitable materials are drill, khaki, galatea, linen or serge. For the accompanying skirt, serge, mohair, cotton gabardine or linen. The midday dress pattern No. 8202 is cut in five sizes—4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. The 4-year size requires for the blouse 2 yards 27-inch, 3 1/4 yards 44-inch, with 4 yards santonche braid. For the skirt, 1 1/2 yards 36-inch, 1 1/2 yards 44-inch. All of one material, 3 1/2 yards 27-inch, 2 1/2 yards 36-inch, 2 1/2 yards 44-inch. WEATHER BULLETIN

Toronto, May 2. The disturbance now over the northward of Ottawa will bring with it a fresh wave of rain. It is a great increase over the highest previous total was in last September.

AIR LOSSES

By Courier Leased Wire. London, May 2. A complaint from British, French and German airmen, shows that the western front during April, the Germans lost 265, the French 201, and the British 101 casualties for any similar period. The highest previous total was in last September.

Veil of Secrecy Over International Subject

Hours of German Monarchy are Told; Desire of Hun Soldiers for Peace

By Courier Leased Wire. Amsterdam, via London, May 2. The Berlin Vorwaerts expressed belief that 99 per cent of the soldiers at the front will return to the war with enthusiasm, and that the paper dwells at length on the Socialist conference, Stockholm and, while it attaches great hope to the meeting, says the way may be paved for an end of the war. Declaring that the Russian revolution has ended the possibility of absolutist methods in European country, the paper continues: Hours Told "Whether the remnant of the sovereignty will hold its own for a few months or years, its hours are told and we shall live to see and celebrate its downfall. If it does yield now the more sudden will its downfall. The people who have been convinced by three years of war that they alone are the pillars of state will accomplish it."

German Losses

Austerlitz, via London, May 2. One million, three hundred thousand Germans have perished in the war, according to a statement by Joseph Friedrich Naumann, formerly a Conservative member of the Reichstag. Herr Naumann is touring on the "Influence of the War on Population," and says: "Until now the war has caused a loss of 1,200,000 dead. This, together with the decrease in births since the beginning of the war, gives us a reduction of 2,800,000. The surplus of females has increased from 800,000 to more than 2,000,000. The nation has bled, and the report of the loss of 1,200,000 here does not state where it was lived."

POLICE FORCE LOST TWO MEN

Constables Dowling and Kingerley Lay Off the Uniform

The city police force was today deprived of the services of two of the most capable of younger members by the resignation of Constables Dowling and Kingerley. Both have been with the force for some time, and they themselves men of considerable ability, so that their loss will undoubtedly be felt by the force. "It is a question of money," Chief Slemin stated this morning. "They can get it elsewhere and so they take advantage of the opportunity. The staff left short handed, and I shall be pleased to receive applications for men fitted for the position. The force will, of course, be given returned soldiers or to men ineligible for enlistment."
