In the year 1802 God sent these faithful people a priest whose name will live forever in all the country side.  Rov. Alexander McDonald was born in 1754, at Gleanoeg, in Glenspean, in the braes of Lochaber. He was a man of commanding appearance, and a brave and generous nature. Of him Bishop McDonald says:—  "The dark horizon which had hitherto circumseribed the wavering hopes of the settlers was at once relieved of its gloom. He inspired them with his own manly courage, and cheered them by the example of his great powers of endurance. Everything seemed the better, and every heart lighter for his presence."  For fourteen years this pastor led his flock, ministering, preaching, exhorting, teaching, and helping them, loved and venerated by all. In the spring of 1816 he went to Halifax on business, and on the 15th of April he died in that city. Deep and heartfelt was the grief of his parishioners, sincere the sympathy of all who had known the venerable missionary. The admiral on the station offered to send a man-of-war with Father. Macdonald's body to Arisaig; but, though sensible of the honor intended to be conferred both by the admiral and the governor, the dead priest's people declined the offer. A gallant little band of Highlanders, who had hastened to Halifax upon hearing that "he whom they loved was sick," decided that no strange hands should be the means of conveying their dear soggarth to his leng home. Carrying his loved remains on their faithful shoulders, those sturdy men started on foot, and night and day, over almost impassible roads, dense forcests, affewellen rivers, they bere an instrument of their best earthly friend and the process of the second of the passable roads, dense forcests, affewellen rivers, they bere an instrument of their best earthly friend and the process and their faithful shoulders.	The first contingent were succeeded by an army of smaller ones, and a deadly feud was kept up all summer. It is said on their march they packed down the snow, or, in local parlance, "broke the roads." A track through the forest at that time was effected by what they called "blazing it." The journeys were very arduous. Great economy was necessary regarding the size and weight of parcels; the first wheat was bought by handfuls, and the man who introduced potatoes to bought a bushel in Pictou, cut the eyes out of them, and brought them home in his pocket. As late as 1817 at the mails for the whole of Antigonish and Guysborough were brought over Brown's mountain in the pockets of the postman. Near what is called the Town Point the early settlers found the remains of a small chapel, as supposed to have been a hundred years old. Age had destroyed its walls, and the roof had sunk to the earth. Under it was a subterranean passage leading to the sea. Here were found several images. Tradition says that the bell, chalice and vestments belonging to this church are buried among the plaster caves on the stream. This church are buried among the plaster caves on the stream. This church are buried among the plaster caves on the stream. This church was doubtless a relie of the old Acadian times, possibly of the pioneer Jesuits, Fathers Richard, Lionne, and Fremin, who first brought the glad tidings to this Ultima Thule.
