"ECHOES of the Past;

The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XII.

Yes; something had gone out of his life, a gleam of brightness, a vague happiness, and he felt the loss so acutely that his voice and manner proclaimed it plainly. He went about his parliamentary duties as usual, but in a listless, perfunctory way. He was to have spoken on the third night after their parting, but he made an excuse to the Whip, and sat dumb and inert in his place. It was with something like a shock that, turning over his engagement book a week later, he saw that he was engaged to speak at the workman's hall again. The bill for the Housing of the Poor had been brought in by the government; it was absolutely necessary that he should go down to the hall and explain it to the Bond of Brotherhood. He made some notes—forcing himself into a semblance of interest in the subject—his own subject—and on the night appointed went down to the hall. It was crowded, but he noticed that his appearance was not greeted with the usual applause, the greeting lacked the warmth and spontaneity which were generally accorded him. But he was almost indifferent, and, as he passed on to the platform, he felt as if it were the semblance, the mere outward shell, of himself which stood there. He noticed that a large proportion of the audience appeared to be foreigners, aliens, and that these were occupying places near the platform, and that in the first rows were sitting Koshki and his anarchist friends. The slight cheering soon ceased, and Clive began his address. He knew that his manner and his tone were lifeless, and that his audience must think him lukewarm; but he could not rise to the occasion. No cheers punctuated his silences, and when he had finished the applause was so faint that Clive knew that he had lost his power over them. He sat down with a sense of failure and weariness. Koshki rose, and the cheers which had been denied to Clive, or rendered grudgingly, greeted the Pole with a kind of suppressed significance. "I want to ask Mr. Harvey a question, von question only," said Koshki, in his guttural voice. "And I—ve all want a straight answer. This is it: Does he or does he not mean to oppose the bill he has been telling us of?" He sat down, his small, evil eyes fixed on Clive, his tongue moistening his coarse lips. Clive rose. "My answer needs a foregoing word of explanation," he began, but Koshki rose, extending a filthy hand, and almost shaking it at him. "Ve vant a 'Yes,' or 'No,'" he shouted. "No," said Clive quietly. Koshki turned to the rest of the audience with a laugh and a sneer; and a murmur which rapidly grew to a groan rose and filled the room. "You see!" he said. "You see, my buzzers! vat ve vere tild is true. Zis man, zis fine shentleman, zer P'rent of the People"—he laughed scornfully—"is a traitor!" This was Koshki's cue. Shaking his blood roused, his eyes flashing, but his words could not be heard above the din, the snarl, the yell, which rose from all sides, especially from the aliens in the front seats. "A traitor!" repeated Koshki, his face purple, his eyes gleaming. "Zat is vat I call him, vat ve all call him. He has betrayed us, my buzzers! He is a sham and a fraud. He has sold us; sold us who vere fools enough to trust him. Fools, yes; ve vere fools to put our truse in an accursed aristocrat." The yells of the angry men drowned his voice for a moment, but he held up his grubby hand and got a hearing again. "I said zat I would ask von question, but you shall ask him anozer. Ask him vat he is going to be paid for selling us, ask him—" Clive went slowly down to the edge of the platform and looked down at the angry crowd calmly, though his eyes were flashing and his hands clenched behind him. He opened his lips but the uproar was too great to permit of his being heard, and with a shrug of the shoulders he laughed. This was Koshki's cue. Shaking both fists at Clive, he roared: "He laughs at us; laughs! He treats us like dirt, like dogs! It is how he treated me ze ozer night when I implored, viz tears, my buzzers, implored like a buzzer zat he would not vote for zis bill!" Clive's face grew red, but he kept himself well in hand. "That is a lie, Herr Koshki!" he said. "He gives us ze lie!" snarled Koshki, his eyes glancing at his friends and compatriots near him. "I tell him, zis traitor, zis aristocrat, zis vrsaud, zat it is he zat lies, and we are not to be deceived, zold like sheep." A roar went up; a large part of the audience were on their feet, there was a rush for the platform. Some of the men had sticks in their hands, as if they had come provided with weapons; others caught up chairs, and the sticks and chairs were waved threateningly as the crowd pressed forward. Passion—whether it be the passion of fear, of affection, or of hate—moves quickly, burns fiercely, in a mob, large or small, especially in a mob composed of such elements as this one was composed. It does not mean to do murder; but it is too apt to do it unintentionally. All it is conscious of is the desire to break, to crush; and here was something it could break its desire on. It was not the first time Clive had faced an angry audience; but, hitherto, it had been in the open air, where there was room for the evil spirit to spend itself. Here, in this hot, stifling room, the fury of the audience acted and reacted; and there grew that hideous, hysterical desire to maim and destroy which is always lying dormant in such men as these which threatened Clive. "Is there a back way?" he shouted to the chairman, a weak-minded man, who, white and trembling, had shrunk back against the wall. "If so, get out of it, quickly, I'll keep them till you're clear." As he spoke, one of Koshki's friends closed the front door and bolted it, and ran toward the one at the back. Clive turned to bid the chairman hurry up, but the raging crowd, thinking that Clive himself meditated flight, yelled furiously. As if they were about to be balked of their prey, two or three of them leaped on the platform and one man raised a chair to strike him. Clive caught the chair and, putting out his leg, tripped the man up; but, in doing so, he laid himself open to other attacks, and several blows were dealt him by sticks. He was still calm, even smiling, and he struck out right and left, flooring two of his assailants; but another blow, on the side of the head this time, made him stagger, and he was afraid that he should fall. To fall would, he knew, be a serious matter, for the rush was thickening and he would be trampled under foot by the men who were, indeed, more like wild beasts than human beings at that moment. As he pulled himself together and caught the himself showered on him, he was aware of a cry, a piercing, heartrending scream that rose above the din; and, looking in the direction of the cry, he saw Mina. The sight of her white face, her eyes fixed on him with terror, stupefied him for a moment; and he called to her, of course, inaudibly, "Mina!" She saw his lips move, and, with a choking sob, she pressed forward. Then, as she moved, Clive caught sight of Tibby beside her. For the first time he thought of the police; would they arrive in time to save her! His eyes were chained to hers, he tried to shout to her loud enough to be heard to keep back; but he could not make his voice pierce the awful din; and he could only wave his hands, signing to her to keep away from the platform. But, with agony, he saw that she was disregarding his signalled injunctions, and that she was pressing nearer and nearer. He was so engrossed by his apprehension for her safety that he was absolutely forgetful of his own; and presently a blow from a piece of wood, which had been torn from one of the benches, fell on the side of his head, the lights leaped in his eyes, the noise of storm-beaten waves crashed in his ears, and he went down. A yell, a mad yell of savage triumph, rose from his assailants, and the man who had felled him raised the piece of wood to strike him again; but the blow fell short, for he was thrust aside, and, to the amazement of the men who surged round the prostrate man, a slight, girlish figure stood over him, with hands outstretched to ward off the blows, with eyes that glowed like those of a tigress protecting her cub, with face white as death, but with lips firm and untrampling. Her hair, torn loose in the efforts to reach Clive's side, fell over her shoulders and across her face; she swept it from her eyes with a swift hand, then raised the hand above her head with a gesture of command, of defiance rather than imploration. "Cowards! Cowards!" she panted, and her clear voice could be heard in the momentary lull caused by the surprise at her presence, her attitude, the spectacle of her heroism. "You shall not strike him again; shall not touch him! Keep back!

You shall not touch him; you shall kill me first!"

CHAPTER XIII.

Amazed at her courage, and some of them ashamed by her appeal and defense, the assailants drew back. There were many well-disposed men among the audience, and a few of them had been attempting to scale the platform and go to Clive's assistance, when the slight, girlish figure had forced her way through them and forestalled them; and these men now hurried the anarchists aside, and eagerly inquired if the injured man were very much hurt. Half-distraught with rage and anxiety, Mina knelt beside him and raised his head. The blood was streaming from it, and stained her dress as she held him to her protectingly, pityingly. "Oh, Tibby, is he dead?" she wailed, as Tibby, pushing the men aside with no gentle hand, knelt beside her. "No, he's not dead—yet," Tibby replied; "but it's no fault of these mangy curs that he isn't," she added for the benefit of the attackers, who were now making for the door almost on tiptoe. "Pretty kind of working men! A lot of mean foreigners as ought to be sent back to their own miserable countries. But I know who did it—I see the whole thing—and I'll take precious good care some of 'em are strung up for this murder—for that's what it is." Mina's white lips repeated the word mutely, and she shuddered. "If he would only open his eyes, or speak to me!" she murmured in an anguish of dread and terror. "A doctor, Tibby, a doctor!" There were only half a dozen men left, looking on in dismay and foreboding; and, with wonderful unanimity, they all offered to go for the doctor, and disappeared; so that the two girls were actually left alone; for the caretaker of the hall had gone off for the police, immediately the door was unlocked. "Mina vainly tried to staunch the wound with her handkerchief, while Tibby, who had found some water in the next room, bathed his head; but as Clive still remained unconscious, she said: "I'm thinking that we'd better try and get him away, Mina. Somehow, I think—in fact, I'm sure—that he wouldn't like any fuss made over it. Perhaps he'll be all right when he comes to. Do you run and get a cab from the stand—" Mina was off like an arrow from a bow, and Tibby, still bathing the wound, in a few minutes heard the sound of the wheels. With the driver's assistance, they carried him to the cab, and Tibby only hesitated for a moment when the man asked, "Where to?" "He did ought to go to the 'ospital," she muttered; but both girls, like their class as a rule, had the usual distrust and dislike of hospitals, ranking them as only one degree better than a workhouse, and Mina's "No, no, no, Tibby!" decided her; and she told the cabman to drive them to Benson's Rents. Mina put her arm around him and supported him, her eyes dwelling on his blood-stained face; short dry sobs coming from her white lips. "If—if he should die, Tibby!" she said in a dry voice. "Oh, how cruel, how cruel! And he was trying to help them!" "That's just it!" remarked Tibby sarcastically. "That's what you get for trying to help that kind of cattle. An' if he dies, they'll put up a big stone monument an' call 'im a martyr." She meant martyr. "Working men, indeed!" with a snort. "Lifting a pewter pot to their own mouths, and carryin' a pipe's about the hardest work they ever did. Fancy any sensible man like 'im"—she jerked her head at the unconscious "Friend of the People"—"bein' so soft as to be took in by 'em! I'm free to own that I did 'im an injustice. I thought he was a bad designin' lot; but he's only simple, that's all, that's the matter with 'im. Can you feel 'is 'eart still, Mina?" Mina bent her head. "Yes," she whispered. "It was beating against her own, but very feebly." (To be Continued.)

It Stops the Twinges of Rheumatism, Limbers the Muscles, Eases the Joints

Amazing Relief Comes at Once—Cure Every Time.

USE NERVILINE.

Aching joints and sore muscles are common in rheumatic people. Inflammation is deep in the tissues. You might use a dozen remedies and derive less relief than Nerviline will give you in half an hour.

Nerviline is a pain-subducer that works not altogether describe. It is fully five times stronger than most remedies, not that it affects the skin unfavourably—no, its great power is due to its wonderful penetrative quality—it strikes in deeply, but never burns or blisters.

Just rub Nerviline into sore muscles, stiff joints, and note the glow of comfort, the ease of pain that follows. You are astonished, delighted; this is because words do not express the promptness and permanency with which Nerviline cures every ache and pain in the muscles and joints.

Marvelous, you'll say. Natural, we say, because Nerviline is different, stronger, more penetrating, a true pain-subducer. Just try it and see if it doesn't cure rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, strains and sprains.

The large 50c. family size bottle is far more economical than the 25c. trial size. Get it to-day. Sold by dealers everywhere.

OFFICIAL.
LONDON, Oct. 5.
The Governor, Newfoundland:

General French reports repeated enemy counter-attacks on the Vermelles-Hulluch road repulsed with severe loss. Further to the north-west the enemy recaptured the greater portion of the Hohenzollern redoubt. The cross roads in Givenchy wood were occupied by the French, but later recaptured by the enemy. Counter attacks near Mesnil were repulsed.

The Russian Government report that the Germans captured trenches near Dvinsk, but were driven back later with heavy loss. At other points the Russians obtained successes, capturing prisoners and quick-firing guns.

LETTER FOUND ON DEAD GERMAN

PARIS, Oct. 5.
This letter dated Sept. 26th, was found on the body of a German officer, killed in Champagne: "It is one o'clock in the morning; at seven, it will be seventy-two hours since, without interruption, we have been fighting on the telephone lines. It is a matter of endless deafening uproar, which even the steadiest nerves can hardly endure. I was ordered into the trenches as observer at 7 a.m. Naturally the telephone lines were broken. I reached a position in the reserves without much trouble, the trenches being destroyed only here and there. But then the difficulties began. Mines and bombs exploded at brief intervals. From a point in the trenches so damaged, we were obliged to crawl on all fours, the shells striking our ammunition magazines, causing a formidable explosion. The French keep firing into the line. How I hate them. I admire the French artillery. They are master gunners. We really cannot imitate them. I regret to say that continuing fire into the enemy provokes more violent explosions than the preceding ones. God knows what they have blown up now. From this moment I have lost all sensation of fear. My telephone operator went ahead. Amid explosions, shells, whistling bullets, howling shell fragments, and fogs of smoke, by holding my breath behind my respirator, I got over where the trench

A BIG SALE!

About two months ago a statement appeared in this paper that over "TEN THOUSAND" (10,000) bottles of STAFFORD'S LINIMENT had been sold since the beginning of the year 1915. Certain persons were heard to remark that they were not so sure about this statement. We will go farther now and offer $1,000 to the person or persons who can come in to our store on THEATRE HILL and ask us to show them orders amounting to over FOURTEEN THOUSAND (14,000) sold since the beginning of THIS year and by our not being able to produce them, will gladly forfeit the above sum mentioned.

had been repaired thirty-five times. Communication with the trenches were completely levelled. Keeping closer and closer on the ground, I arrived at a second trench ten yards behind the first. Of the latter, nothing remains. The second trench is just deep enough to kneel in. Profiting from a period of calm, I cast a glance ahead. Our barbed wire fence is destroyed. I signal our batteries, which resume rapid fire, then I creep back and get my telephone operator. It takes me four hours to cover ground which ordinarily could have been covered in twenty-five minutes. Thus coming a frightful explosion, throws me against the wall of the trench. The lieutenant tells me that a shell struck his shelter also; I rush out to see all bomb-proofs on the slope burning."

FRENCH MINISTRY DENIES BERLIN STATEMENT.

PARIS, Oct. 5.
The Ministry of War has taken cognizance of a statement in an official communication from Berlin, that the French sent forward masses of cavalry beyond Douain in the recent offensive movement, and this cavalry was dispersed immediately by German artillery. The War Minister states that only small groups of cavalry were employed, and these were sent forward swiftly after the infantry had taken their German position, with the object of clearing the way for a further advance of the infantry. One of these cavalry detachments took 800 prisoners.

THE FRENCH STILL ACTIVE.

PARIS, Oct. 5.
There was a violent bombardment in the Arrais region yesterday, both sides taking part, according to an announcement given out by the French War Office this afternoon. In Champagne district artillery exchanges all have continued. French artillery caused a violent explosion to a German railroad train at a point north of Verdun. French aviators have thrown down some fifty shells on a railroad station near Peronne.

NO ANSWER YET.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 5.
The Foreign Office at noon to-day stated that no answer had been received from Bulgaria as to the ultimatum. It is not expected by the Foreign Office that any ultimatum will be presented by Russia's allies. Russia did not insist upon demobilization by Bulgaria, but it is expected, that if this is done at once, Bulgaria will gradually reduce her army to a peace footing, in case her reply is favorable to Russia.

GREECE ACTIVITY.

ATHENS, Oct. 5.
Crown Prince George and Prince Nicholas, members of the Greek General Staff, are hurriedly arranging to leave for Salonika. Telegrams from diplomatic sources report the arrival at Sofia of a large number of German aviators and German officers.

GRAVE DEBATE IN GREEK CHAMBER.

LONDON, Oct. 5.
A Reuter despatch from Athens to-day says that it is a long time since so grave a debate has taken place in the Greek Chamber, as that which occurred to-day. Never in the history of the country has a Premier faced an opposition determined to overthrow him with greater self-confidence and pluck. Premier Venizelos defied his opponents to follow a different course than that which he took.

GREEK PREMIER RESIGNED.

PARIS, Oct. 6.
An Athens despatch to the Havas Agency says that Premier Venizelos has resigned. The King informed him that he was unable to support the policy of his ministry.

TREAT OF BULGARIAN PREMIER.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.
A despatch from Sofia, dated Oct. 4th, says that Premier Radoslavoff, of Bulgaria, made the following declaration to representatives of the Government parties: "We confront war, and must defend our national interests. We must wrest from our enemies everything they took from us two years ago, and get satisfaction for every insult."

WILL MAKE NO REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 5.
A despatch from Amsterdam to Reuter's Telegram Co., says that the People's Gazette of Cologne under-stands the Bulgarian Government will make no reply to the Russian ultimatum. The recall from Sofia of all Entente Ministers, the newspaper says, is expected to-day. It adds that declaration of war by Russia is considered possible.

ROMANIA READY FOR ANY EVENTUALITY.

PARIS, Oct. 5.
Premier Bratianu, of Roumania, has already twice informed Bulgaria that the latter's mobilization is regarded by the Bucharest Government as an unfriendly act, says La Matin. It adds that Roumania, from a military point of view, is ready for any eventuality, thanks to the blunder of Austria, who, a month ago, closed the frontier, which gave Roumania the required pretext for concentrating troops. Roumania is safe from all surprise attacks.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK.

ATHENS, Oct. 5.
The British steamer Arabia, en route from London to Greece, has been torpedoed by an Austrian submarine twelve miles south of Cyprus. Thirty-five members of the crew were saved.

TWO OTHERS SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 5.
The announcement is made that the British steamers Haydn and Sallor Prince are sunk. It is reported that the crew of the Haydn is saved. Some of the survivors of the Sallor Prince have been landed.

MRS. PANKHURST SPEAKS.

LONDON, Oct. 6.
Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, at a Women's Social Political Union meeting in London to-day, denounced a traitor whose representatives of organized labor, she said, were opposing the employment of women in the present crisis. "I asked the Government to set up factories to train women munition workers," she said. "Lloyd George was willing, the women were willing, but this training women is opposed by organized skill workers. This is nothing short of treachery. Those who stood in the way were traitors."

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Oct. 6.
The Russian ultimatum to Bulgaria expired at 4 o'clock this afternoon but up to a late hour to-night, so far as was known in London, no answer has been received; nor is expected. It is taken for granted here that King Ferdinand and his Ministers are definitely committed to the German allies and, in return for territory to be ceded after the war of some ports including Constantinople, all that remains of European Turkey, has undertaken to assist actively in operations against Serbia; thus hoping to open the way for the Austro-German army, the objective of which is the Sea of Marmora. The Entente Powers, in this belief, have landed or are landing a force in Salonika, which will take upon itself the duty of protecting the main railway through Serbia and Greece, and give what assistance it can to the Balkan allies should they be attacked by Bulgaria. This infringement of Greek neutrality has brought forth a formal protest from the Greek Government, but in the words of one correspondent, it is "being winked at" by a great majority of people in Greece. The Opposition in the Greek Chamber also made a protest against the policy of Premier Venizelos, which it claimed, was forcing Greece into an unnecessary war, but the Premier, who seemed firmly fixed in the saddle, and working in harmony with the King, until his resignation was announced to-night, succeeded in getting the chamber to pass a vote of confidence after a stormy all-night session. The next move devolves upon Bulgaria, and as soon as she moves, the Anglo-French troops which are being mobilized, will be put into action, while the fleets in the Black Sea and in the Aegean will assume their appointed roles. Meanwhile Russia, whose armies, for five months have been retreating, began an energetic offensive along the wide front from Riga, to southeast of Vilna, and, according to unofficial reports, have already met with considerable success. This, however, is denied by Berlin, which

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have had nervous every week or every month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not at regular intervals. The best Doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most other cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. It is not until you take Anti-Headache Tablets, that the remedy will be made factory in the highest degree. You can obtain them at all drug stores in any quantity, 10c worth, 25c worth or more. Ask for A-K Tablets.

SICK-HEADACHES

Sick-headache, the most miserable of all sicknesses, loses its terrors when A-K Tablets are taken. When you feel an attack coming, take two tablets, and in many cases, the attack is relieved. In other cases, take one A-K Tablet every two hours. The rest and comfort which follow, can be obtained in no other way.

THE BURGlar.

The burglar goes swiping, while honest men sleep, their noses a-leep. The burglar goes stealing, on pussy-foot boots, with deft fingers feeling around for the loot. He may get a spoon or a silver teapot, but later or sooner the burglar is shot. Some night when he's rakin' around by your bed, the sleeper will waken and fill him with

Mother! Don't Take Chances If Child's Tongue Is Coated

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, give fruit laxative at once.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without gripping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colds, remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

GERMANY ACCEDES TO AMERICAN DEMANDS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.
Germany has completely acceded to the American demands for a settlement of the Arabic case. The Imperial Government's letter, presented to-day by its Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, to Secretary of State Lansing, disavows the sinking of the vessel and denounces it. It has so notified the submarine commander who made the attack. It expresses regret for the loss of American lives and agrees to pay indemnity to their families. The officials at Washington are both gratified and relieved by the diplomatic victory. The communication delivered by the Ambassador, pursuant to general instructions from his government, has spread the absolute confidence that there would be no more submarine controversies between the States and Germany. The document reveals that stringent orders have been given to submarine commanders to prevent the recurrence of such incidents as the sinking of the Arabic. Since this case embraces the principles for which President Wilson contended in his notes following the torpedoing of the Lusitania and Palao, the concessions made by Germany, from an American viewpoint, are generally regarded to-night as paving the way for an amicable settlement of all cases, which threatened the severance of diplomatic relations between Germany and the States would continue to improve. With the settlement of the Arabic controversy, the despatch to Britain of the long-delayed American note, on interference with trade, is expected within a few days. President Wilson consistently refused to send this communication while the issues with Germany were pending, because the Berlin government had, through its notes, given the impression on the action which the United States took with one set of belligerents, depending on its own conformity with international law. As the issues with Germany appear now to be adjusting themselves, the President, it is known, feels free to press Britain for a modification of orders in councils on restrictions of American trade.

You'd think he'd endeavour when once he is free, to cut out forever the loot-hunting spree. But when the grim cooler has opened its door, one hope is his ruler—to burgle some more! He goes forth a-stealing, he wallows in sin, sinners come peeling, and gather him in. Why is he so mulish, so stubborn, insane? The fellow so foolish requires a new brain. For honesty's easy, and profits us well, but crime's always cheery, and ends in a cell. Oh, bairns, hear me gurgie this warning to you: Don't learn how to burgle, whatever you do!

On giving up command of H. M. C. S. Nobe, I have much pleasure in reporting upon the conduct of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reservists. The Balkan Muddle.

The maze of the Balkans is becoming more intricate than ever. It is difficult to size up the situation, the reports coming along, indicate such an extraordinary mix-up. It is reported that the first contingent of allied troops, consisting of 70,000 French soldiers have landed at Salonika, with the object of getting on the Uskub railway and guarding it, or in other words preventing the seizure of this railway by Bulgaria. Salonika is the principal port of Macedonia. Macedonia was part of the territory taken from Turkey three years ago in the Balkan War. The southern part with the port of Salonika fell to Greece and the northern part to Serbia. Bulgaria wanted this territory and had to do without it as a result of the second Balkan War. Outside of her quarrel with Roumania this is the home of contention between Bulgaria and Serbia and Greece. The importance of the port of Salonika lies in the fact that it is the only friendly port where railways have terminations which run through western Macedonia and Thrace, the portion of Turkey Bulgaria wrested from Turkey in 1912, and north through Serbia, passing Uskub, Nish and on to Belgrade and Austria. At Nish, too, is another branch which runs to Sofia, the Bulgarian capital and on to Dedegatch the Bulgarian port. As Serbia has no sea coast, Salonika is the only practical way to send bodies of troops to hold the Serbian railways. Now comes mixed-up stories of the landing at Salonika being unauthorized, but yet at the same time facilitated by Greek officers; Prince Nicholas proceeding to Salonika to take command of the Greek forces; Venizelos protesting against the landing of the allies troops; Venizelos obtaining a vote of confidence in the Greek Assembly, after being charged by the pro-Germans with forcing an unnecessary war on Greece on the side of the Allies, and the King's dismissal of Venizelos on the matter of policy. So much for Greece. Now for Bulgaria. Here we are told that Bulgaria is threatening seizure of Serbian, Greek and Roumanian territory on the one hand, and that Bulgaria will ignore the Russian demand for an explanation of her attitude; and on the other that her Executive has come to no decision on the Russian ultimatum and that her leading General has declared an act against Russia would be black treason in a Bulgarian. The reports too, of the attitude of Roumania are almost as puzzling. It looks as if all the Balkan States yet at peace are so full of intrigues that the situation varies from day to day. But that the Court parties in Greece and Bulgaria are endeavoring to work together in the interests of Germany and Austria, and that these parties have a considerable following.

Dr. Geisel's Lectures.

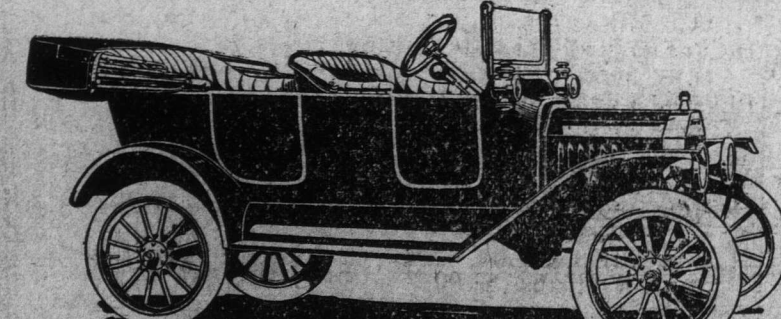

DR. GEISEL.

Large audiences attended the lectures given by Dr. Geisel, at the Casino yesterday afternoon and night. Rev. H. Uphill presided at the afternoon lecture, and the subject of the discourse was "Nerves." Dr. Geisel stated that in the United States 2 of every 3 persons suffer in a measure from nervous prostration and that half the people in the world are similarly afflicted. All of this could be obviated, said Dr. Geisel. From a scientific study of the brain cells it has been found that rest is the greatest aid for persons suffering from nervous complaints. Nine hours of sleep should be had if possible, and it should be remembered that one hour's repose out of doors is as beneficial as two indoors. Phosphorus is the chief component of the nerve cells and this is best supplied by fish and eggs, while all grains particularly rice, celery, onions, cucumbers and lettuce, and other vegetables are also very beneficial. Tea and coffee are injurious to the nerves as also are overwork and worry. Dr. Geisel deplored the amount of worry in the world caused by over anxiety for pleasures that are wholly unnecessary to our general well being. Today, said Dr. Geisel, many marriages are contracted for the sake of money and position, but what woman truly needs for the betterment of the race is strength of character in the husband. Dr. Geisel in closing referred to consumption and mentioned the means by which the dread disease may be combated.

At night His Lordship Bishop Jones presided, and the subject of the discourse was "The House Behind the Man." Dr. Geisel in a very stirring address emphasized the necessity of cleanliness in the dwelling. Home is where the character is moulded and by that moulding the community and country at large is eventually affected. Continuing, the lecturer showed that carelessness and ignorance of health principles have resulted in the spreading of disease in Munich, New Orleans, San Francisco, Paterson, N. J. and other large cities. In conclusion she made a strong plea for the abolition of liquor, so that with the removal of alcohol Newfoundland may take her place in the world wide temperance movement.

At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Lloyd and seconded by Hon. R. Watson, was accorded the lecturer by acclamation. This morning Dr. Geisel left for Bay Roberts where she will lecture. This lecture concluded the most important and successful series of lectures it has ever been our lot to listen to in St. John's. Dr. Geisel came a week ago from the States, and her reputation as a lecturer and the absorbing interest in her topics were such that last night a quarter of an hour before the lecture commenced there was not a seat available in either the body of the hall, in the gallery or under the gallery or among the chairs which filled the stage. Hundreds crowded the side of the hall the back and wings of the stage, the doors and vestibules and before the lecture commenced, a large number of people could not find even standing space. This is a tribute to a lecturer, which has rarely if ever before been paid to any lecturer. After a tour of parts of Conception Bay, Trinity Bay and Bonavista Bay, Dr. Geisel will return and lecture once more in St. John's, before visiting Notre Dame Bay. At noon Dr. Geisel left by motor for Bay Roberts, where she lectures this afternoon and night.

The Quarterly Meeting of the St. Bon's Ladies' Association will be held in the Aula Maxima on Thursday, Oct. 7th, at 4 o'clock. As business of importance will be transacted a large attendance is earnestly requested. MARY C. BATES, Hon. Sec'y.—oct5,2i

Days Past—278 To Come—86
TENNYSON died 1892, aged 83, at Aldworth, and was buried in Westminster Abbey. He died very peacefully while the harvest moon flooded his bedroom with the glory of the night. "Not dirge, but proud farewell," accompanied the sweetest singer of our time to the verge of the river of death, across which he taught the eye to discern, amid the gloom of the valley of the dark shadow, the far-off bloom of the new life of immortal love.

CHAS. S. PARNELL died 1891, aged 45. "The uncrowned King of Ireland," whose troublesome times were revived by the publication of his letters.
JENNY LIND born 1820. Soprano vocalist born in Sweden, possessing a voice of rare brilliance and sympathetic quality, with a compass of from D to D in alt, and executive powers of the highest order.

Our Oldest Regiment

This distinction belongs to the Honourable Artillery Company, which recently celebrated the 378th anniversary of its incorporation. For it was on August 25th, 1537, that Henry VIII granted a charter, addressed in quaint phraseology, to the "Fraternity or GUILD of Saint George, maisters and rulers of the City Science of Artillery, as aforesaid rehearsed for longbows, crossbows, and hand gonnys," which originated with the Companies of Archers formed among the citizens in the time of Edward III.

The H.A.C. is thus the doyen of all our military forces, and the lineal descendants of the Trained Bands of the City of London, occupying a place in the Territorial army analogous with that of the Guards in the regular service. The H.A.C. was for centuries the instructors of the trained bands, and as such took a large share in the part played by London in the raising of forces for the Parliament during the Civil War.

Many famous men have belonged to the H.A.C., notably Milton, Monck, Pepps, Prince Rupert, and Wren. Among its treasures it still displays with pride the Royal Warrant Book of the sixteenth century, the drum major's staff of 1679, and some of the magnificent head-dresses worn in the reigns of Queen Anne and George I. But the most interesting relic is the Great Vellum Book containing the names of all the members from 1610 to 1682. The muster roll of no regiment in the world can compare with this.

The uniform of the H.A.C. to-day is similar to that of the Guards, with certain distinctions, such as silver buttons and lace. And they are the only Territorial battalion wearing the bearskin headdress, while the uniform of the Royal Horse Artillery of the regular army.

FOGOTA.—The Fogota left Westville at 7.30 a.m. to-day, going north.

WEATHER.—It is dull along the line of railway to-day with a light southwest wind prevailing; the temperature ranges from 44 to 50 above.

WORK AT THE SYDNEYS.—Labor for mbers is reported to be plentiful at the Sydneys, and many fishermen from different sections of the coast have gone to seek employment for the winter.

MAN ARRESTED.—At noon to-day Detectives Byrne and Tobin arrested a young man on a serious charge and more arrests will likely be made this evening. We were informed by Inspector General Sullivan to-day that he had nothing to say for publication just yet.

NO FURTHER NEWS.—No further news has been received concerning Private Walter L. Murphy, of the 11th Regiment, who was reported dangerously ill in Egypt last week. Considerable anxiety is being felt by his parents and it is hoped that news of his recovery will be received shortly.

POLICE COURT (Before Mr. Morris, J.P.)—There were no prisoners before the bar to-day. An assault case was called between Messrs. Thomas Kennedy and William O'Neil, the plaintiff and defendant, respectively. The defendant did not appear and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

EPISCOPAL VISIT.—Preparations are now being made at Trepassey for the reception of His Grace the Archbishop, who leaves for there by tomorrow evening's train on his first episcopal visit to the settlement. Triumphal arches have been erected, and the residents of Trepassey are making every effort to give the distinguished son of the church a hearty and whole-souled welcome.

What Has Great Britain Done?

THE WALL ST. JOURNAL ANSWERS

"What has Great Britain done?" asks the Wall Street Journal, and then answers the question as follows: "Her navy, her financial credit, and a small expeditionary army were all that were asked by the Allies. They would have been entirely contented with these, but Great Britain gave infinitely more. Her navy wiped the German menace from the seas. It locked up the vaunted German navy, which, without Great Britain's participation, could have battered France into submission in a fortnight. It has removed the submarine peril far more effectively than any of the wordy admonitions of Washington.

"But instead of her first expeditionary army, which totalled 180,000 men instead of the 125,000 expected, she has placed upwards of 1,000,000 men in the field, without counting the Colonial and Indian troops, and has 2,000,000 more in readiness. The relative small length of her line in northern France is quoted. But it is curious to hear from German sources of captured Highlanders in Alsace. Relatively to all the others, Irish, Canadian, Australian, New Zealand and Indian, the proportion of Great Britain in this contribution is overwhelming.

"But her service, in this instance voluntary, merely begins here. She is the principal guarantor for a credit here of $1,000,000,000. But she has lent already to her allies, Russia, Italy, Serbia, even Roumania, more than $2,000,000,000. This is twice the credit we are extending, mainly for the benefit of our own commerce with our best customers. What has Great Britain done? What hasn't she done? "She has conquered every German colony, with the single exception of the Cameroons, now starving itself into impotence. By her own enlightened system of colonial government the Boers have wined out the German colony in Southwest Africa, the French Canadians are fighting on the Belgian frontier, the Irish are, characteristically, fighting in the thickest of the fray, and the supposed seditious Hindoos and Mohomedans are cleaning up all the German political gains in Turkish Asia. And there is more than this.

As to Conscription.

The Statist (London):—"A conscript army is required for service at home or in the immediate neighborhood of home. For service in India, or anywhere equally distant, it is out of the question. If we have conscription it must apply to every man in the country. It must not be for the poor alone. That was possible in the old days when working men had no vote, and when trade unions were rigorously put down. But now when the great bulk of the voters are working men and when trade unions are vigorous and rich, it is literally out of the question. Consequently, if there is to be conscription, every man, from the peasant to the peasant, must be liable to it. And does anybody seriously suppose that the country would allow professional men, men in business, men conducting great works, to be taken as privates from their business and sent to the ends of the earth to fight for what might or might not be worth fighting for? It is certain that we must maintain a standing army quite distinct from a conscript army.

One Pair of Hands is enough.

If you give your Cook a Gas Cooker she can always cook her best and need never keep you waiting because she has nothing else to do but cook.
She has no troublesome coal fire to look after, but can get the exact heat she wants for every dish by merely turning a tap—and she can cook several dishes (each requiring a different degree of heat) at the same time.
The Gas Cooker needs no preparation, makes no cleaning work, and is turned out as soon as it is finished with and therefore burns no unnecessary fuel.
By using a Gas Water-Heater in addition to the Gas Cooker hot water is supplied for all household purposes with the greatest promptitude, and the use of coal in the kitchen can be done away with altogether.
Where Gas Appliances are used in the kitchen the cook will always find that "one pair of hands is enough."

428th Day of the War TO-DAY'S Messages. 10.45 A.M.

FRENCH TROOPS LAND AT SALONIKA.

ATHENS, To-day. (Delayed in transmission.) French troops, landing from five transports at Salonika, Greece, consist of seventy thousand men. They will proceed along the Guegheli Uskup railroad and guard the line.

GREEK PROTEST.

PARIS, To-day. France has notified Greece of the arrival of the first detachment of French troops at Salonika. They were going to help Serbia. Premier Venizelos replied, protesting against the passage of foreign troops through Greek territory ground, as it violated Greek neutrality. The allied governments made preparations and gave necessary orders for the landing of troops several days ago. Previously they had entered into negotiations with the Greek government, which being still neutral, made a formal protest, as it was obliged to do. At the same time the French officers were given every freedom to prepare for the landing.

"AN ACT OF TREASON."

LONDON, To-day. The Crown Council of Bulgaria, according to a Geneva despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, has spent several hours in discussing the Russian ultimatum without arriving at a decision. The same authority declares General Savoff, former Minister of War and former Commander-in-Chief of the Bulgarian army, concluding a thrilling speech, said: "Every Bulgarian who breaks away from Russia commits an act of treason towards his country."

LORD DERBY IN CHARGE OF RECRUITING.

LONDON, To-day. Earl Derby, at the request of Lord Kitchener, Secretary of War, has undertaken the direction of recruiting for the army. "I feel somewhat in the position of a receiver who has been put in to wind up a bankrupt concern," said Lord Derby, referring to his new post, at a Lancia recruiting meeting last night, "but I hope to be able to do it so satisfactorily as to enable the creditors to receive twenty shillings to the pound." Lord Derby explained he had accepted the position of director of all recruiting throughout the Kingdom, because of his personal loyalty and friendship to Lord Kitchener, who had asked him to take the post. While an advocate of national service, he would do, as he had done, his level best to make the voluntary system a success. But if it should be demonstrated that all the men needed could not be obtained he would resign office, unless other methods were employed to make up the deficiency to keep England safe.

FROM BERLIN.

BERLIN, To-day. The German steamer Swenka was sition, in closing the debate in Parliament, on foreign relations, Premier Venizelos declared the Government would take no further action in regard to the landing of French troops at Salonika than the protest already made. He asserted that under the terms of her alliance with Serbia, Greece was clearly obliged to aid her ally if the latter was attacked by Bulgaria. After these statements he asked and received a vote of confidence. M. Venizelos' declaration has been accepted by the public as a definite statement of the intention on the part of Greece to support Serbia if attacked by Bulgaria.

SURPRISED AT KING CONSTANTINE.

PARIS, To-day. The reported breach between King Constantine of Greece and Premier Venizelos resulting in the resignation of the Premier was totally unexpected in Paris and has caused painful surprise. French editorial writers have had things to say of the King whose German connections always have made him the object of some suspicion on the part of those who sought the aid of Greece for the Allied cause, while another line of policy was preferred. It is argued by the French writers that there is no excuse for King Constantine's present attitude and that it only serves to justify those who urged the landing of Allied troops at Salonika last spring.

GERMANY FOOTS THE BILL.

MILAN, To-day. Germany paid the expenses of the Bulgarian mobilization, according to the Corrier della Sera, as military action by Bulgaria was considered indispensable in encouraging Turkey to continue resistance. It is also asserted Germany agreed to advance the Bulgarian Government, $10,000,000 a month to help the families of reservists hoping thereby to check the tide of anti German feeling.

FRENCH TRANSPORTS AT SALONIKA.

PARIS, To-day. French transports arrived at Salonika on Friday night. Troops began landing on Saturday, says Athens despatch. Perfect order was maintained in the city and the inhabitants gave the French soldiers a cordial reception.

FRENCH TROOPS BEING FORWARDED.

LONDON, To-day. The landing of additional French troops at Salonika is reported from Athens. Correspondent of Exchange Telegraph Company says a number of transports carrying French troops entered the port of Salonika this morning. He adds that the forwarding of French troops for Serbia is proceeding actively.

Hon. W. C. Job Will Move to New York

Hon. W. C. Job, who has been away for some months visiting England and the United States, is due home again this week end. But his stay will not be for long. Business matters have led him to decide on leaving Newfoundland to take up his residence in New York to look after the branch of the firm's business there, which does considerable trade in fish. His place in the firm here will be taken by Mr. R. B. Job, who will become head of the business here. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Job and their family will regret their coming departure from among us, for they have been known for many long years favourably and well in business, social and public life.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

A conscientious mother is very apt to defeat her own ends by staying at home too constantly and watching over her baby so incessantly that she grows pale and nervous and begins to worry, a condition which often results in depletion of the milk and corresponding disturbance in the baby, healthy babies are better off with a judicious amount of letting alone, and there is no reason why a mother should not be absent some part of every day, if there is a responsible person present to be left in charge.
Out of door life, pleasant recreation which is not exhausting, visiting and other diversions are essential to every nursing mother if she is to keep up an abundant supply of milk. The family, especially the husband, should realize how important it is to shield the nursing mother from unnecessary work and worry.

Evolution of the Army Boot.

Mr. Roland Gorboid, of Northampton, speaking at the Cordwainers' Hall, London, recently, said that at the outbreak of war the Army was served with a wholly hand-sewn boot. To meet the great demands a design was fixed upon for a new kind of machine-made boot. A chrome tan was substituted for the vegetable tan, with the result that leather could be produced in a month, whereas formerly it took a year. To-day 60,000 pairs of boots are being produced every day—more in a day than could be produced in a week before the war.
Mr. Gorboid mentioned that a man came back from the trenches, having worn the new boot for eight months. The new boot resembles the American model with a "blocked" toe. A type of boot made for the trenches, so as to do away with the puttees, is water-tight up to the knees.

Mountains and Valleys.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Is there a n'y way in which you can renew the first glamor of love?" is the pathetic, revealing, inevitable question a young married woman puts to me. I don't suppose there is a woman who has been married long enough to come down from the mountain top of the first ecstasy who hasn't put that question to herself. Of course she usually doesn't put it in that particular form. Very likely she doesn't put it into definite form at all, just feels and half thinks it.

I Could Be The Richest Woman in The World.

Folks, if I could give you a recipe for renewing that first glamor I could be the richest woman in the world, for every woman and some men would be willing to give me their most precious treasures to know it. We all want to go back to the mountain top of that first happiness; we all look back at it lovingly and lingeringly and in the golden light of memory we see it fairer than it was. And that's just the trouble. We look back when we should be looking forward. We don't realize that although we have come down from that first mountain peak onto the plain there are other peaks ahead.

No Life Can Be All Heights. No life, married or otherwise, can be lived always on the heights. We go down into the dark valley of depression and discouragement, we tread the level plain of daily life, and we ascend again onto the peaks of our great moments. Look forward not backward in your life. The best is yet to be, if you will only make yourselves fit for it. Don't cheapen love by being a glut-ton. Nothing sickens like satiety.

How You Can Be Always Different.

Again, don't kill love by monotony. It is the woman who is not always the same who keeps her husband's love. But how can one be continually different? is the great question. Usually it is answered by the suggestion that a woman hide some of her selves from her husband and keep bringing them out like a pack of tricks. I don't like that answer. It seems to me rather a cheap way to do, and besides, sooner or later, one must come to the end of one's pack. My answer is this—Grow. If you grow, you change and are continually different. Grow in character and mind and heart. Determine that each year shall see your mind enlarged, your sympathies broadened, your character strengthened and sweetened. If any two people will live by that ideal there will be no monotony in their life, for each will be continually changing.

Stevenson has a description of the mountain tops and the valleys of a true love that is very dear to me. I recommend it to the woman who is temporarily in the valley as an encouragement and an ideal.

"The faults of married people continually spurs each of them, hour by hour, to do better and to meet and love upon a higher ground. And ever, between the failures, there will come glimpses of kind virtues to encourage and console."

A Business Romance.

$20 Loan Which Brought a Fortune. Known in the United States as the "Shrewd Seven," the operations of the men who control the great Ford Motor Works in Detroit, which turns out thousands of cars a week, have been the financial sensation of the land of dollars. The seven include Henry Ford, the man who founded the works, the other six being James Couzens, John W. Anderson, Horace H. Rackham, Horace E. Dodge, John F. Dodge, and John S. Gray, who backed Henry Ford when he wanted money to develop his ideas.

The money they invested has been returned a thousand-fold. A man who lent Ford $20 has received $9,500 in cash dividends and $10,000 worth of stock. More liberal investors have seen their thousands grow into millions. James Couzens, for instance, vice-president and treasurer of the company, who invested brains and energy, has received $1,000,000 in cash dividends and $1,000,000 of the new stock, the capital of the company has recently been increased from $400,000 to $2,000,000. Anderson, who is one of the attorneys of the firm, invested recently been increased from $400,000 in cash dividends and has received $520,000 of the new stock. Rackham and the two Dodges have received similar amounts for the $1,000 they each invested, while John S. Gray, who is now dead and was one of the original stock holders, invested $2,000. His estate already has drawn $1,000,000 in dividends and will have $1,000,000 of the new stock. Ford himself has drawn approximately $5,450,000 in cash dividends and has got $6,000,000 of the new stock. Yet it is only thirteen years ago since the firm was started.

Farewell of Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen.

Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen who have been in charge of the Salvation Army work on the island, during the past four years, will hold their farewell meeting to-night in the S. A. Hall, New Gower Street. The meeting will be of an interesting character and the local Salvationists are anticipating a very large crowd. During their term of office both Brigadier and Mrs. Morehen have done good and faithful work, which has not only endeared them to those under their command, but they have also won the respect and esteem of a large number of other citizens. They leave by Thursday evening's express, for their new appointment, having been raised to the command of the East Ontario and Quebec Division, their headquarters being at Montreal. We feel sure a large number of their friends will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing the Brigadier and his wife for the last time.

School Classes For Young Women.

Last night the Ladies' Auxiliary of the King George the Fifth Institute, re-opened their reading and writing classes, which will be continued throughout the winter season for the purpose of giving a chance of an elementary education to young women, particularly of the outports. The teachers present were Mesdames Job (2) and Harvey; Misses Hayward, Meehan and Furlong, who were very pleased with the attendance of pupils.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acid is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

Everyday Etiquette.

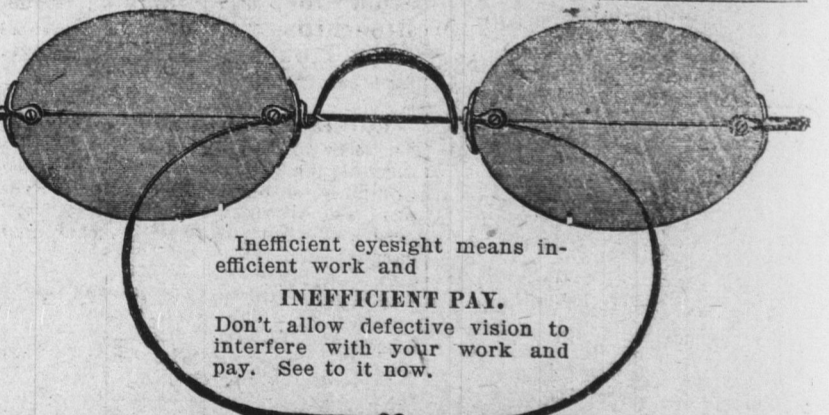

"When meeting a servant of one of my friends upon the street, is it necessary for me to speak to them?" asked Maud. "It would show ill-breeding not to speak to any respectable person of your acquaintance. As a servant is your inferior it is your place to speak first. It may be, however, that the person not being well trained, may speak first. In that case you should acknowledge the greeting," said her mother.

THE STUBBORNNESS

of the MULE is proverbial. Though not proverbial it is a well-known fact that millions of housewives who have tried SUNLIGHT SOAP stubbornly refuse to use any other. These housewives, with No Fear of Prices Declining.

By yesterday's mail the Board of Trade received the following extract of a letter from Oporto: "Since we last wrote there has been no improvement in the demand and stocks are now very low. We, ourselves, have only 1,000 qts. in store, which should all be sold in a few days and we are therefore in an excellent position to receive further consignments. The parcels we expect are insufficient for our requirements and it is a very good opportunity for shippers to avail themselves of our services in this market. We have been much disappointed on several occasions recently at the outright sales recently made at this market at several shillings per cwt. less than we could have returned. The position appears to be quite strong, notwithstanding the various cargoes on the passage and as a supply of Norwegian cure is now a negligible quantity there is not much fear of a decline in prices. The Eva arrived on the 12th inst., and the Spina-way on the 16th."

Our Volunteers.

Yesterday the following enlisted: Wm. Newbury, St. John's. Wm. H. Milley, St. John's. Robt. S. Ryall, St. John's. Ed. A. Morris, St. John's. Eric Ellis, St. John's. Patk. W. Foley, Whitebourne. Patk. J. Penney, Burin, North. The total number of enrolments to date is 2,362.

Casualty List.

The latest official list of casualties given out in connection with the Newfoundland Regiment is: 857 PRIVATE GEORGE McFARLANE GULLIVER 62 Alexander St. Wounded. 1226 PRIVATE JAMES VINCENT LYONS, Avondale. Wounded. 865 PRIVATE WILLIAM MORGAN, 42 Alexander Street. Wounded. 639 PRIVATE MICHAEL WALSH, 18 Pope Street, St. John's. Dangerously ill at Malta. 912 PRIVATE FRED. COLUMBUS, Shallop Cove, St. George's. Dangerously wounded. J. R. BENNETT, Colonial Secretary, who was a mechanic at the Nail Factory before leaving with D Company, is the third son of Mr. John Gulliver, of 42 Alexander Street, assistant foreman at the Reid Co.'s round house, and of Mrs. Margaret Gulliver. Private James Vincent Lyons, who left here with D Company, is a son of Mr. James Lyons, of Avondale, and a brother, Albert, is also in E Company. Private William Morgan, son of Mr. John Albert Morgan, of Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., residing at 42 Alexander Street, near the home of Private Gulliver, left here with D Company. Private Michael Walsh, reported dangerously ill, was a well known carman here and a prominent member of the C. C. C. He left here with C Company. He is a son of Mrs. Norah Waddleton, 18 Burke Square, St. John's. He has a brother, Patrick, who left here with the first contingent and is now at the Dardanelles. Private Frederick Columbus, son of Mr. Frank Columbus, of Shallop Cove, District of St. George's, was a lumberman previous to joining the Newfoundland Regiment and left here with D Company.

Amusements.

"THE RING AND THE BOOK." Browning's celebrated poem: "The Ring and the Book," pictured in two reels by the Biograph Company will be shown at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. This is a magnificent production and is sure to find favor with the Picture House patrons. "All for the Boy" is a very fine melo-drama featuring Jack Mulhall and Vivian Prescott. "Mrs. Trenwith Comes Home" is a strong dramatic feature produced by the Essanay Company. "The Fable of the Husband who Showed up and His Duty" is one of those great comedies that have made George Ade famous. A first class musical programme has been prepared for this great show. On Friday and Saturday the great Berlin war drama: "A War Baby" will be presented.

MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY A GREAT EPISODE.

The mid week programme at the Nickel Theatre to-day is one of the finest ever given at this popular place of entertainment. The pictures, singing and music are all of the best. The attractive story which all are interested in "The Million Dollar Mystery" will be continued and as it is even more sensational than the previous chapter it is certain to please all who are following this wonderful serial. Included in the bill to-day is a two-part comedy drama: "A Case of Poison." The Selig players give the attractive melo-drama: "The Old Letter." The comedy is entitled: "A Man in Parts." The Harmony Boys, Messrs. Huskins and Cairns, who have been making great hits of late will be heard in the latest novelty numbers. Make an effort to hear them to-day, all will be charmed by their singing.

ROSSLEY'S THEATRE.

The crowded audience at Rossleys manifested the greatest enthusiasm at the presentation of prizes to Mr. Mills, Mrs. Tullock and Mrs. Chaney, the last named generously intimating that she would present the gift to one of the patriotic funds. By attending in increasing numbers the public show their appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Rossley's efforts to benefit the receipts of the funds. The pictures will henceforth be changed three times weekly and to-night will be shown "The Power of the Angelus" in 2 parts, and "Putting it Over," a mutual royal comedy. Mr. and Mrs. Rossley will again be seen in their funny sketch and farce, "MacKenzie, Miss Rix Guerin and Mr. William Wallace will continue their splendid programme. As this is the last week of the MacKenzie Co. Scotsmen and all lovers of good music should rally round in large numbers.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Methodist Church, Heart's Delight on Wednesday last when Miss Violet Atkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Reid, was united in matrimony to Mr. Hedley E. Harnum, the Rev. Henry Godfrey officiating. The bride who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of lace over satin, trimmed with pearls, and wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of asparagus and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Reid, and her cousin, Miss Mabel Garland, who were dressed in pale blue with picture hats and carried bouquets of sweet peas and carnations. Miss Irene Reid, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl. The groom was supported by the bride's brother, Mr. F. E. Reid. The groom's present to the bride was gold pieces and to the bride's maid a gold pendant and chain. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents including several pieces of gold. The Telegram wishes in the felicitations extended and wishes Mr. and Mrs. Harnum many years of happiness.—Com.

Wesley Bible Class.

The semi-annual meeting of Wesley Bible Class was held on Monday night at a large number of members being present. The chair was taken by the Rev. H. Royle, who also conducted the election. The reports of the various officers showed that the Class was in a flourishing condition, both financially and numerically. The election then took place resulting as follows: Leader, Mr. Benj. Taylor; Asst. Leader, Mr. Wm. Ash; President, Mr. Alex. Rooney; Vice-Pres., Mr. H. Bartlett; Secretary, Mr. B. R. Taylor; Treasurer, Mr. G. Evans; albrarian, Mr. L. King; Organist, Mr. W. Butterworth. It is with feelings of pride that the Class can say that four members have volunteered for King and Country, bringing a number up to twenty-two. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Pastor for presiding at the meeting and conducting the election. Refreshments were then served, after which the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.—Com.
