This Ointment Possesses Power to Heal the Skin

Two Cases Which Prove the Extraordinary Healing Power of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The use of Dr. Chase's Ointment is wonderfully satisfactory because you can actually see the results accomplished. It is surprising what change can be brought about in a single night by this great healing ointment.

Mr. George Beavis, 119 James street, Peterboro, Ont., writes: "As a healing ointment, I consider Dr. Chase's the best obtainable. I had a large running sore on my leg, and although I had tried all the prescriptions of two doctors I was unable to get any relief from the pain or to get the sore healed. One day my druggist handed me a sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I used it with such good results that I decided to give the ointment a fair trial. Altogether I used four boxes, and I am glad to be able to say that the sore on my leg is entirely healed up. Since this experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment I have recommended it to many people."

Mrs. W. W. Oliver, Port George, Annapolis Co., N.S., writes: "I am going to tell you my experience with Dr. Chase's Ointment. There was a spot came on my face something like a mole, but it kept getting worse, and several doctors whom I consulted said it was cancer, and that it would have to be cut or burned out. I intended having this done, but changed my mind when my brother recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment. Before I had finished one box of the ointment this skin trouble had gone, and has not bothered me since. I cannot praise Dr. Chase's Ointment too much, and you are at liberty to publish this letter."

If you have never used Dr. Chase's Ointment send a two-cent stamp for a sample box, and mention this paper. Price sixty cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited Toronto.

CHAPTER XL

Retribution.

Gulldford Berton walked on and reached the cottage. It was dark and gloomy and forbidding as usual, and he threw himself into the armchair beside the neglected fire, which was smouldering sullenly in the small, pinched grate, and mused.

How long would it be before Nora returned and they could be married? How long would it be before he could leave this place, which he hated with a fear and loathing beyond words, and take her away with him? His wife! His wife! The vision dispelled for a space the gloom which enveloped him, and he sat muttering, "Lady Ferndale is at the Court; I will go and speak to her. I'll ask her where Nora is, and how long it will be before she comes back. She cannot refuse to tell me. Yes, I'll go to the Court to-night. What does it matter to me that this young fool and vagabond has come? I want nothing of him, I want Nora! Nora! Nora! I will go up to-night—to-night!"

Then he crouched lower over the fire, and warmed his hands at the feeble flame which he had succeeded in rousing, and suddenly he was startled by the crash of bells. He rose, with that look on his face which the man wears whose brain is beginning to soften from constant brooding, and as he looked through the window a tongue of fire shot up and lit up the room.

For a moment he stared, wild-eyed, then he realized what had happened. "Curse the fools!" he muttered with a snarl. "They'll wish they were tolling for his death or had got him on the top of a fire, before many months have gone," and he flung himself into the chair again.

But presently, as if the voices shouting and cheering drew him in spite of himself, he rose, and, flinging on his coat, took up a soft wide-awake hat, and, carefully locking the gate, went out.

By this time the light from the huge bonfire was casting a mellow glow over the village, and its reflection, red and blithe, could be seen in those windows of the Court in which there happened to be no light.

As he entered the village street he found a crowd of people tending toward the Court, as a stream tends to the sea. He joined them half mechanically, and, in their midst, presently found himself on the lawn just beneath the terrace.

A stream of light poured from the Two Letters.

"Good-morning, Chud; good-morning," he exclaimed, in the musical voice that had always belonged to the Chichesters, with their old hall and old blood.

"Good-morning, sir," said Chudleigh.

"Maud, my darling, what do you want with me?"

"Breakfast, you know, papa—"

"Ah, ah, dear me, yes," softly replied the baronet; "of course. How stupid of me. I had forgotten. Dear me, here are 'Pliny's Letters' and the last 'Essays of the Didactic Society,' and he looked at the books in his hands. "I—brought them from the library. Excuse me a moment, Chudleigh, while I take them back," and he moved toward the door.

Maud arose from her seat hastily—she knew that, once in the library again, all remembrance of the breakfast would have vanished from Sir Fielding's mind.

"Let me take them, papa," she said, and with a kiss, she took them from Sir Fielding's reluctant hands.

"Dear me, I had no idea it was snowing," he remarked, walking to the window. "What's the day of the month, Chud?"

"Twenty-sixth, sir," said Chudleigh.

"Twenty-sixth, and the Scientific Review not come yet!" exclaimed Sir Fielding, shaking his head, and adding, softly: "Very late—very late."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM PERMANENTLY CURED

NEW BRUNSWICK LADY GIVES FULL PARTICULARS OF HER RECOVERY.

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and I despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affect me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE, order to-day, 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, sold by all dealers or direct from The Catarthozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

your kind wishes."

A mighty cheer rose, deafening, thrilling. Almost before it had ceased Gulldford Berton clutched the arm of the man pressing against him.

"Who—who is that?" he demanded, hoarsely.

The man stared at him, and shook his hand off impatiently.

"That fellow, as you call him, mister, is the young earl, the gentleman as was Mr. Burne, the artist; and that young lady is his wife, Lady Nora! as was. Hurrah! Hurrah! One more cheer, boys! Hurrah!"

(To be Continued.)

"The post has not come in yet," remarked Chudleigh. "I'm afraid Markham has some difficulty in driving."

Markham was the rural postman.

"Why, Chud, why?" asked the baronet, dreamily.

"The roads are so thick with snow—a foot deep around the hollow."

"Ah, yes, the snow; dear me, dear me, the snow," murmured Sir Fielding, sinking into his chair by the fire.

"Have you been out this morning?"

"Yes, sir," replied Chudleigh, "to see Giles. He is rather behindhand with his rent. Newborn can do nothing with him, so I thought I'd walk over and see into it."

"Dear me," said the baronet, with perfect indifference; "and what does he say, Chud, what does he say?"

"The usual story—everything gone wrong, crops short, the hay queer, mouth disease, and—oh, every mishap under the sun, of course. I was going to ask you what I am to do."

"My dear Chud, what is the use of asking me?" exclaimed the baronet, with mild surprise. "You know I never interfere in any way with anything. I assure you, I didn't even know that Giles was in arrears. I leave it to you, Chud; I leave it to you."

And the father wheeled his chair around toward the table, with the air of having washed his hands of the subject.

The son sighed, and his brows wrinkled, as he looked at the serene face.

For a moment he was silent; then, drawing his chair toward the table, he balanced his knife thoughtfully, and with his face still troubled, said: "You know how sorry I always am to trouble you on business matters, sir, but I'm afraid I must ask you to go over a few things with me after breakfast."

"Yes, yes, after breakfast, dear Chud, after breakfast," replied Sir Fielding, catching eagerly at the postponement.

The next moment the door opened and Maud re-entered, with the letter bag in her hand.

"Here's the post at last, Chud," she said. "Now, papa, let me see. Here are the papers, your beloved Quarterly, the Didactic Report and a catalogue from Notherman's. Those for you, Chud, here are your letters, and what do you think? One from Aunt Mildred for me."

Chudleigh looked up with a smile, but not a very interested air, for he had already commenced the perusal of a pile of blue, official-looking envelopes, and the baronet took no notice whatever, for he was lost in the contents of the Quarterly.

For a few moments there was silence, broken only by the trickling of the coffee into the cups and the occasional play of Chudleigh's knife and fork, but suddenly Maud looked up, with a pleased smile on her beautiful face, and said:

"Papa, Chud, what do you think?"

Chud thrust down his letters at once, and looked up, all attention.

"Nothing.—What do you?"

"Aunt Mildred's coming here, and going to bring some one with her."

"Bring some one with her? Who?" asked Chud.

"A companion," answered Maud. "Oh, how delightful! Listen; it's quite romantic."

And Maud read as follows:

"You remember my telling you of a Capt. Lawley, who has been staying in Paris for some months. He is dead, my dear. Is it not shocking? He was shot in some wicked duel or other, and has left his daughter, Carlitta, the beautiful girl I wrote to you about, an orphan on the wide, wide world. Poor girl. She is so charming, so very charming, my dear Maud. You will be delighted with her."

ROUMANIANS DRIVE BACK ENEMY.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 14. The Roumanians in the region of the River Kassino, in Moldavia, after a violent battle yesterday with the Austro-German troops, succeeded in throwing the Teutons back and occupying their trenches, says a Russian official issued to-day. North of the Stanic River the invaders forced back the Russians from a height.

RUTHLESS SUB. CAMPAIGN.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 14. The Berliner Greuze Zeitung editorially urges the immediate opening of a ruthless submarine campaign by Germany as a reply to the Entente peace demands, and says owing to German hesitancy in the use of Zeppelins against England the British had sufficient time to find means to foil the Zeppelin attacks. It draws a parallel that unless the submarine warfare is undertaken without delay, the British will likewise find some new shield against the U-boats.

NO TRUTH IN REPORT.

LONDON, Jan. 14. According to an Amsterdam despatch, the Berlin Government issued the following official statement: One of our submarines on Dec. 28th sunk a British transport in the English Channel. The transport was steaming with dark red lights and measured about 9,000 tons. She was conveyed by destroyers. ## REFUSE TO DISCUSS PROPOSALS.

LONDON, Jan. 14. Sir Henry Drayton's proposals for nationalization of shipping find little echo in marine circles in England. Shipping men refuse to discuss them, and as a practical suggestion would be quite impossible during the war, they say, while after the war there will be a revulsion of feeling against interference with individual action tolerated in the present national crisis.

MORE COMMENT.

LONDON, Jan. 14. The Observer, commenting on the Allies' reply to President Wilson, says the effect on opinion in the United States is already profound, and will become still deeper as more time and thought can be given the issues now raised. The United States will not try to stop the clock of progress towards wider liberty and equality of Europe; the United States never can be asked to resist the claim of France to Alsace-Lorraine, or support the war waste of Germany to keep the Italians, the Poles, the Czechs, the Slovaks, the Serbs or the Roumanians under foreign yoke; to bet the Turks on this side of the Bosphorus or aid in the bloody tyranny beyond it. No, not in this time of great deliverance. Referring to the silence of the Entente note in connection with the German Colonies, the Observer says, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand are free communities, each with its own Monroe Doctrine. They will never allow the German menace to re-appear in their neighbourhood. Not one single inch of Colonial territory will Germany ever get back until guarantees for her future good behaviour are as absolute as human contrivance can provide. Consistently with this condition there is no desire to deprive the German people of adequate economic opportunities outside their frontier. Probably the best thing would be to create an Ottoman Empire and in Africa an international domain open on equal terms to Germany as to all countries, including in its course the United States. This is a big question. In this matter British statesmanship ought to be the foremost councils of wisdom and moderation when the main aims of the war are attained, if at the same time there is a change in the system and the heart of Germany itself.

ITALIAN OFFICER DROWNED.

ROME, Jan. 14. Lieut-General Baudini, Commander of the Italian Albanian Expeditionary Corps, was among those lost aboard the Italian battleship Regina Margherita, which was sunk by a mine on Dec. 11th. It has been officially confirmed.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 14. Lloyds report the sinking of the Norwegian steamer Vestford, 1,853 tons gross.

SWISS COMMENT.

GENEVA, Jan. 14. The Journal, commenting on the Allies' reply to President Wilson predicts that the note will make a most favourable impression.

"ENOUGH AND TO SPARE."

LONDON, Jan. 13. One of the largest estates in England has been disposed of by the will of the late Sir Charles Cayzer, father-in-law of Admiral Jellicoe. Sir Charles left personal property valued at £1,899,000, in addition to six landed estates in various parts of Great Britain.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

LONDON, Jan. 13. In a proclamation to the German people, the Emperor says that our enemies have dropped the mask, admitted their lust of conquest and their aim to crush Germany and to enslave Europe and the seas, but they will never achieve their aim. Burning indignation and holy wrath, says the Emperor, will redouble the strength of every German. God, which planted the spirit of freedom in the German hearts, will give us full victory.

SOCIALISTS MOVE NOW.

PARIS, Jan. 13. The Scandinavian Socialist organ has received a telegram from American Socialists asking its assistance in calling an International peace conference at the Hague for June 3, according to a Copenhagen despatch. The Copenhagen Social Democratic says that there are good prospects that the three Scandinavian countries will support American efforts in this connection.

RUSSIAN SHIP SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 13. Lloyd's Shipping Agency announced that the Russian sailing vessel Ruby, 942 tons, has been sunk.

ARTILLERY FIGHTING.

PARIS, Jan. 13. There was artillery fighting in the region of Chasines, says to-day's communication.

CALM ON RUSSIAN FRONT.

BERLIN, via Sayville, Jan. 13. There is comparative calm on the Russo-Galician front. East of the Cerna hostile companies advanced toward Stravina but were repulsed, said the report from the Macedonian front.

THE GERMAN SPIRIT.

LONDON, Jan. 13. Referring to neutrals, The Globe says: Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg has given to all the world proof of the spirit which still fills the rulers of Germany, and has supplied her enemies with irresistible evidence of the need for beating them to the dust.

MONDAY, January 15th, 1917.

In Roumania.

It looks as if the loss of Galatz will soon follow that of Braila, which threatened though it did not imply it. If it comes it will be a heavy one. Probably our allies will then retire to their last and greatest defensive line, the river Pruth. The flanks of the Sereth position have virtually been turned already and from Galatz the enemy could penetrate to its rear. Being but a few miles from the town, he has a preponderance of artillery which should reduce it without difficulty into his possession. Thereupon will begin the last stage in a disappointing episode (let us hope it is no more) in the war. The Pruth is the logical stopping place of the attack: if it is carried beyond it before the Allies can get to work in earnest on some other front, they will face a serious initial disadvantage in the campaign of 1917.

We can only wait with what confidence we may for this stage to be reached. It is a little surprising that the winter has so slightly affected these operations; it must soon play a more important part and aid the Russians in imposing a halt upon them. Meanwhile the integrity of the Roumanian army and the lengthening of the enemy front are encouraging features of a position which does not boast too many. Perhaps we might add the morale or spirit of the Roumanians, who feel keenly the humiliation of their compelled retreat before a foe inferior in many respects and determination but armed with an equipment irresistibly superior to their own. It will be a bad day for Germany and Bulgaria when Roumania begins to come back into her own. Once more the map argues for Germany, but the argument is illusory, and before the summer of 1917 is far advanced may prove to be itself one of the first sources of her undoing. She has much more to defend and many more to defend it against than when she embarked upon the adventure.

The Archbishop's Warning.

Perhaps it is not just thus to characterize the invaluable sermon which His Grace last night delivered at the Cathedral, but it is the keynote of much of it. His words are pertinent to the times and local circumstances, and their authoritative and influential source should do much to give them an effect which is much to be desired. They summarize cogently certain rules of conduct which both those times and those circumstances impose upon all of us, but of which the real need is imperfectly understood. The example of England alone would suggest that economy should be a peculiar virtue with us at this time, but we shall never take this thoughtfully to heart as long as we measure the necessity of economy by the narrow and selfish gauge of our own peculiar needs. Even this criterion should make us thoughtful, for if higher returns for our exports have balanced, we cannot, as the Archbishop reminds us, possibly predict what the coming year may bring. It may bring rainy days.

But we have a duty to more than ourselves. We have been asked to contribute little of our material possessions to the cause, but there are ways of contributing other than giving and lending. One of them is saving. Between the two extremes of giving money to the cause and spending it in selfish extravagance, there are many degrees. It may not be strictly true that he who saves ten cents to himself gives it to Britain, but it is undeniably true of a certain proportion of it. For not merely has he the money to give if required, but the material that he does not buy (and if he does not really need it, it is wasted) and the labour that must replace it, are saved. These may be simple or very recalcitrant doctrines, but they are very important.

To-day the lesson of economy has a little more point than it had before. Already there are gratifying signs of the good effects of prohibition. One natural consequence is the great saving of money which begins to show itself in increased purchases of all kinds. We should be the last to discourage, but rather welcome, this, for the greater part of these purchases must represent necessities which before were lacking. Nevertheless it may not be out of place to emphasize again the existence of a line dividing necessities from luxuries, and we have in the culpable extravagance of many munition workers in England in their new-found but wholly temporary prosperity a useful reminder of it. There may never be any need in this country of the severely restrictive sumptuary laws that are already enforced in England, but if there is not it will be because of the good sense of our people and their having taken the warning in time.

Barqt Helen Stewart Towed to Port.

The Fogota, which called in at Burin on her way from North Sydney, took in tow the barqt Helen Stewart, which for the past two weeks remained at anchor at the former place after a long passage of 60 days from Pernambuco. As previously mentioned in the Telegram, Capt. Sinclair became seriously ill shortly after leaving this port and on arrival at Pernambuco was placed in hospital, where he died. After considerable time the services of Capt. Evansen, a Norwegian, were secured and he is now in charge of the ship. So terrific was the weather, which was accompanied by heavy seas, that practically all the ship's canvas and her steering gear were carried away.

More Petty Thefts.

Three lads, whose ages ranged from 10 to 15 years, were arrested by the police for larceny. They appeared before Mr. Morris, K.C., J.P., to-day, charged with stealing sixty cents worth of coal from the Gas Works. Two of the lads were handed over to their parents, who were advised to give them a thrashing, and the third, an old offender, was sent to jail for 10 days. In hearing the case Mr. Morris admonished strongly on petty theft, which had become so chronic in our midst. He criticized the parents of youthful offenders for their dereliction of duty and added that in future he was not going to send boys of tender years to the common jail, as it was the duty of the state and of citizenship alike to find some place of correction where they could be sent.

The Archbishop at the Cathedral.

His Grace, the Archbishop, occupied the pulpit at the Cathedral last evening. He dealt mainly with financial matters pertaining to Church work within the past year. He submitted to the congregation a statement of the disbursements under the 1916 Corporation loan and also the figures in connection with Church collections of the year. He expressed his appreciation of the co-operation that had been given him so generously by the people, and of the generous response that had been given to every appeal made to them. After cordially thanking the congregation and in particular the various societies for their assistance to the Church he expressed the hope that the same generous co-operation would be given him during the coming year.

Dicks, and the groom was ably supported by Mr. Abner Cluett. Miss Maria Dicks was the chief bridesmaid. After the ceremony a large number of friends were entertained at the home of the bridegroom's mother and a very enjoyable evening was spent. ## Wounded Soldiers Doing Well.

January 15, 1917.
Dear Sir,—I beg to enclose copy of a letter, dated 28th December, received by His Excellency the Governor from the Secretary of the Nfld. War Contingent Association, London, in answer to enquiries made by His Excellency regarding five wounded soldiers whose injuries were of a serious nature.

As the information contained in this letter will, no doubt, be of interest to the friends of the men referred to, I shall be glad if you will give the same space in your columns.

Yours faithfully,

THE NEWFOUNDLAND WAR CONTINGENT ASSOCIATION,
58 Victoria Street,
Westminster,
28 December, 1916.

Sir,—In reply to your letter asking for information as to the progress of Moulard, 1011 Kelly, 529 Moore, 1609 Walsh and 1642 Pennell:

Moulard continues happy and occupied at St. Dunstan's.
1011 Kelly is now making rapid strides. He is now able to walk about, and can use his right hand. He is himself pleased at feeling so much better, and seems to be gaining strength and making a good recovery.
529 Moore's general health is good and we hope that he may make a good recovery, as far as may be. Restoring him to a state of comfort must be a slow process but every appliance that can assist him will be procured for him.
1609 Walsh has been a most satisfactory patient. He has always been very cheery and a great favorite at the hospital, and his general health has been well kept up. Pending a vacancy at Rochampton, where his new leg will be fitted, he has been allowed a period of furlough which he is now enjoying.
1642 Pennell has been fitted with a new leg, and is now on his way back to Newfoundland.

I am, etc.,
(Sgd.) S. KNOX,
Secretary,
His Excellency the Governor of Newfoundland,

"The Jutland Battle"

At Botwood Club Wednesday Night.
On Wednesday night of this week there will be two interesting addresses at the Botwood Hall, Hutchings Street when an officer and a Royal Naval Reservist who took part in the greatest sea battle in the history of the world will give an account of their experiences. The former was on board H. M. S. Warspite when her steering gear broke down; while the latter was a member of the ship's crew that towed the Warrior until she sank. # TO-DAY'S Messages.

CANADA'S GREAT MUNITIONING WORK.

TORONTO, To-day.
In an address before the Women's Canadian Club, yesterday, K. W. Flavel, Chairman of the Imperial Munitions Board, again strongly emphasized the importance to the cause of the Allies of prompt delivery of shells from Canada. He also paid a tribute to the efficiency of the women munition workers. He also urged that every woman who had been brought up on land should return to it in order to increase the food supply. The authorized expenditures, he said, already made totalled two hundred million dollars. Operations had been carried on in 600 factories and located in every province, with the exception of Prince Edward Island. Over 400,000 men and women were engaged in these factories. We are at this moment constructing national factories for the manufacture of war munitions. One commenced a few weeks ago will cost two million, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; another we hope to complete in 30 days using 900 men. The building cost about two million dollars. Another which we decided to erect a few days ago will be completed by mid-summer at an estimated cost of $1,750,000. A series of factories in connection with the proposed establishment of aeroplanes will entail expenditures of between ten and fifteen million.

Wounded Soldiers Doing Well.

January 15, 1917. Sir.—I beg to enclose copy of letter, dated 28th December, received from His Excellency the Governor General, the Secretary of the Nfld. War Veterans Association, London, in reply to enquiries made by His Excellency regarding five wounded soldiers whose injuries were of a serious nature. The information contained in this will, no doubt, be of interest to friends of the men referred to. I am glad if you will give the same in your columns.

Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR MEWES,
Deputy Colonial Secretary,

28 December, 1916.

In reply to your letter asking information as to the progress of the 101st Kelly, 529 Moore, 1609 P and 1542 Pennell. The 101st Kelly continues happy and contented at St. Dunstan's. Kelly is now making rapid progress. He is now able to walk about, and seems to be gaining strength and making a good recovery. Moore's general health is good and we hope that he may make a good recovery, as far as may be. Restoring to a state of comfort must be a process but every appliance that assist him will be procured for him.

Walsh has been a most satisfactory patient. He has always been cheery and a great favorite at hospital, and his general health has been well kept up. Pending a vacancy at Southampton, where his new will be fitted, he has been allowed a period of furlough which he is now enjoying.

Pennell has been fitted with a leg, and is now on his way back to Newfoundland.
I am, etc.,
(Sgd.) S. KNOX,
Excellency Secretary,
The Governor of Newfoundland,
St. John's.

How Much Do You Give?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

We fell to talking the other day about gift giving—how much it is customary among people of moderate means to spend on gifts of various sorts. The wedding presents, for instance. "When I was a girl at work in an office," said the most recently Wed Lad, when that subject came up, "I used to pay four or five dollars for a wedding present for anyone I knew well, and two dollars for any casual friend. I didn't know what other people paid. I was getting pretty good money, and I thought it would be mean to give less. And then I was married myself. I didn't look the gift horses in the mouth, but I simply couldn't help knowing that people didn't give as much as that. Now, did I give too much?"

What Do You Spend on Christmas?

From wedding presents the conversation turned to Christmas giving. How much do you spend on Christmas was the question.

A working girl with a good salary said she spent sixty dollars last year, but she felt it was more than she should have.

A family in very comfortable circumstances spent four hundred dollars last year.

A young married couple who have some difficulty in getting along spent thirty dollars.

A young man who probably doesn't get over fifteen dollars a week belongs to a sixty-eight-dollar Christmas Club. I don't know how much he spends on Christmas, but I think most of it.

All this was interesting, but not as much so as it would have been if we had had more definite information about each other's incomes.

Which brings me to an idea which came to me while we talked. Can't we have a symposium on this subject?

Let's All Have a Chat On This Subject.

Write me unsigned letters telling me what your income is and what you spend for Christmas. Tell me what you spend for wedding presents, what you put aside for charity. Or if you put aside no definite sum, what do you give, for instance, when someone comes round to collect a Christmas purse for the postman or the policeman, or to ask contributions for the Red Cross.

Don't make the letters long, because we want to print lots of them. You would like to know what the other fellow does, wouldn't you? Well, here's your chance to exchange anonymous confidences and thus find out without awkwardness or embarrassment.

FREE TO ALL SUFFERERS

THE GREAT "CURE" FOR ALL "NEW DISEASES" GOTTING FROM KIDNEY, BLADDER, NERVOUS DEBILITY, GOUT, GRAVEL, RHEUMATISM, BRUISES, SWELLINGS, AND ALL OTHER AFFECTIONS OF THE URINARY SYSTEM. THERAPION is a powerful medicine which cures all these ailments. It is a scientific discovery and is the only medicine that can be relied upon for a permanent cure. It is sold by all chemists and druggists. Price 2/6 per bottle. Write for free literature to THERAPION, 10, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When meeting an acquaintance who has had great grief, how should I extend my sympathy?" inquired Maude.

"It is sufficient to say: 'Let me offer my sincere sympathy, Miss So-and-So.' The person to whom your sympathy is extended will reply by a 'Thank you,' answered her aunt.

It's Not What You Pay

But what you get for what you pay that counts in value.

Lasting Peace Through Surrender.

The Necessity for the War to go on Until Germany Throws Up Her Hands.

By Professor Franklin H. Giddings, Columbia University, Dec. 18, 1916.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The editorials of The Times setting forth the objects for which the allied nations are waging the European war and the conditions on which a lasting peace can be established have been the most statesmanlike discussions of these grave issues that have anywhere appeared. But they must be reiterated often and kept continually before the public mind. In America there are many men and women, intelligent and sincere, who do not see the problem as it is.

I have before me a circular put out by the American Neutral Conference Committee. It plainly shows that the conference is attempting something not merely impossible, but essentially absurd. The keen-minded persons who make up its General Committee and its official list have not thought the thing through. They have created an organization to catch a bird by putting salt on its tail.

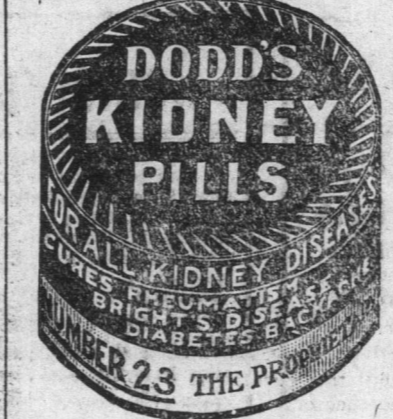

What, in the name of common sense, could be more obvious than that guarantees against future wars can be secured by "repudiation of military conquest as a means of territorial expansion; recognition of the right of each people to determine its own social, political, and economic development; world organization for the development of international disputes?" But, also in the name of common sense, how is it proposed to get this repudiation, this recognition, this world organization? Has it ever occurred to the men and women who offer this program that in the history of war and pacification just two pacific actions have been followed by a relatively lasting peace? These have been:

(1) Unconditional or virtual surrender which the aggressor began the war.

It is not necessary to rehearse the whole historical narrative. American experience is enough. In the Revolutionary struggle the British armies on this continent unconditionally surrendered and, in Parliament, Great Britain recognized the independence of her before-time colonies. The War of 1812 was terminated by the desistance of Great Britain from the course which led to hostilities. The Mexican War was ended by the virtual surrender of Mexico; the civil war, by the unconditional surrender of Lee at Appomattox; the Spanish War by the virtual surrender of Spain. Every one of these events was a final settlement. What would have been the history of the United States in the last fifty years if the military activities of the North had been called off in 1863 or in 1864 by the influence of a conference of neutral nations? Should we have had fifty years of peace? Everybody knows that we should not have had it.

The world situation to-day is the most critical one in human history, and some of our pacifists are doing their best to put civilization back a thousand years. What do they want? Peace twaddle, or the reality of peace. They are giving themselves up to a riot of peace twaddle. There is only one issue out of this war that can bring world peace, and that is the surrender of the Central Powers to the allied powers—surrender as complete as that of Great Britain to the American Colonies; as that of the seceding States through General Lee at Appomattox.

Why? Because (1) Germany has asserted in philosophical disquisition and by arms that a people which regards itself superior in race to other peoples, may impose itself on other peoples by force of arms. Do we suppose that there can be peace in this world until that idea is sincerely repudiated by the people that has advanced it? (2) Because Germany has declared, and by arms supported her declaration, that international covenants and agreements may be disregarded at the convenience of one of the parties thereto, under the plea of military necessity. On what grounds can we assume that a power which takes and defends such a position could be trusted to observe the agreements presumed in a world organization for the development of international co-operation and the settlement of international disputes? (3) Because the only guarantee of a repudiation of military conquest as a means of territorial expansion will be offered when the great powers, including Germany, actually begin to reduce their armies. Promises won't answer. The thing must be done. Can we imagine that Great Britain, France and Russia will begin to reduce their armies at the end of this war unless Prussian militarism is disavowed by Germany herself and her acts match her words, and do we not know that from the first it has been the declared purpose of the Allies to push this war until Germany stands ready to do that very thing? Do we not know that this is what the Allies are fighting the war for? Have we not yet grasped the idea that England and France stand ready to make peace any day, any hour, when they can have assurances (that any sane man can trust) that they won't have it all to do over again within at least the next two or three generations? Those assurances will be given when Germany throws up her hands. No assurance short of that pacific gesture will be worth a scrap of paper.

The issue is one of the most clean-cut, straightforward, uncomplicated issues ever presented to a clean-cut, straight-thinking intellect. What we have to strive for is peace—peace that will stay peace—peace that will be the real thing, and not a pious registration of sentiments and good intentions.

Will Name a Commission Means of Ending Strife. Their Orders to be Hopes to Reconcile

Washington, Jan. 14. Orders from the Vatican. A. Palmieri of the Congress, a writer on social subjects, announce that Pope XV. is about to appoint of four Cardinals to a commission to be abandoned by Pope XV. to a reunion of Christians to a cultivation of friendship between the Anglican Church and the Roman Catholic Church. The announcement of the Pope is expected soon.

Dr. Palmieri said that the new movement, as it were, would be directed toward the establishment of the Papacy and a thorough revision into the validity of Episcopal ordination. He stated in the negative that "Apostolic Sedes," the honor of presidency of the commission of Cardinals Palmieri has been informed that the new Cardinals consist of four Cardinals, who have spent years to scientific research.

Pope Plans a Move for Church Unity.

Will Name a Commission to Study Means of Ending Schisms—Overtures to Anglicans—Validity of Their Orders to be Reconsidered—Hopes to Reconcile Orthodox Russians.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Private letters from the Vatican received by Dr. A. Palmieri of the Library of Congress, a writer on ecclesiastical subjects, announce that Pope Benedict XV. is about to appoint a commission of four Cardinals to renew a movement begun by Pope Leo XIII., and abandoned by Pope Pius X., looking to a reunion of Christianity and the cultivation of friendly relations with the Anglican Church.

Dr. Palmieri said to-night that the new movement, as outlined in his advices, would be directed particularly toward the establishment of a conciliation of the Russian Church and the Papacy and a thorough re-examination into the validity of Anglican or Episcopal ordinations, which was settled in the negative in a Papal bull "Apostolicae Sedis," by Pope Leo X.

The honor of presiding over the commission of Cardinals, Dr. Palmieri has been informed, will be bestowed upon Cardinal Marini, one of the new Cardinals created at the last consistory, who has devoted many years to scientific research and to the cause of a re-union of Christianity.

The interest of the Pope in the problem of Christian unity is said to have been intensified by the recent progress of the world congress initiated by the American Episcopal Church. "The new Pope," said Dr. Palmieri, summarizing the information received from Rome, "has taken a considerable part in the efforts of neutral nations to establish peace among nations, and the Vatican's efforts have been suggested not only by a humanitarian spirit, but by a longing for Christian unity and the ending of the conflict, which has long divided Christian churches.

Efforts of Leo XIII. for carrying out the re-union of Christianity were abruptly stopped by Pius X., who aimed at inner reform of the Catholic clergy and turned all his energies to the crushing of Modernism. "Benedict XV. thinks it is time to renew the policy of Leo XIII. and also that a re-establishment of a political peace would be the first step toward renewed attempts to stop the splitting of Christianity into a great number of sects.

For this purpose the Pope intends to set up a commission of four Cardinals, who will devote their intellectual and moral energies to the study and solution of the difficult problem of religious dissensions within Christendom. "It seems to the Vatican that the Orthodox Slavs will be very soon called to take a more active part in the life of Western nations, either Protestant or Catholic, and that it is necessary to come to an understanding with them in order to avoid evils produced by religious intolerance.

The newly planned commission of Cardinals will pay attention to the yearnings for unity which from time to time manifest themselves in the Orthodox churches and to the cultivation of friendly relations with the Anglican Church.

VENTILATE THE HAIR.

The hair often suffers for lack of ventilation. An ideal manner of ventilating is to remove the top crown of an old straw hat, then comb the hair from all directions to the top of the head; the hair is then brought up through the top of the hat and allowed to fall evenly over the brim. Allowing the hair to hang in this manner, one may attend to one's household duties. Wearing the hair so also assists in thoroughly drying it after a shampoo.

The hair is subject to various ills, most of which may be overcome by simple "home treatments." I pin great faith in the shampoo, brushing and ventilation. If the hair is taken down at night time, the ends caught and every hair subjected to a good shaking, will not only rid the hair of any accumulation of dust, but will also ventilate the scalp and hair. Then with an absolutely clean brush the hair is repeatedly gone over—the bristles made to penetrate to the scalp—until the hairs stand out separate from each other. The hair is now allowed to hang loosely until time for retiring. Then instead of doing the hair up tightly, as many women do, braid it in two soft plaits; these may be allowed to hang loosely during the night or, if preferred, would wound about the head.

Most women know that washing spoils a brush. The best way to clean them is to rub them with bran, which removes all grease, and leaves the bristles stiff and firm as ever. Should the bristles of the brush become too limber for use, they may be hardened again by dipping them in one part spirits of ammonia and two of water, this will also cleanse them from all greasy substances.

Trouting Season Opens. To-day the trouting season opened, though, owing to adverse weather, the suburban ponds and rivers were very lonesome this morning. However, disciples of Walton are expecting to keep themselves busy for the remainder of the week whipping the waters at their respective resorts, if conditions permit.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace is putting on a big week opening show to-day; the Essanay stars—Bryant Washburn and Marguerite Clayton, are presented in "The Promise Land," a great feature produced in three acts. Blanche Sweet in a strong Biograph Western drama: "The Spirit Awakened," and Rose Melville as "Sis Hopkins" in something new in comedy. "The Stenographer's Strategy." Professor McCarthy playing a splendid programme of high class music; a great big show, don't miss it.

A New Zealand cousin over here with the Forces vouches for the truth of the following story: "Dick" Seddon was of Lancashire origin, and when he died the Lancastrian Society in New Zealand sent a wreath with the following inscription: "I have gone whom." The journalist who reported the funeral evidently did not come from Lancashire, and consequently was somewhat puzzled by the wording, and, after thinking hard, concluded that some one had blundered. His report read: "The Lancastrian Society sent a beautiful wreath bearing the inscription, 'I have gone. Who am I?'"—Tit-Bits.

Fads and Fashions.

Coats have brilliantly patterned linings. The new sweater coats are embroidered. Evening hats can be small and be fashionable. Shoulder-cape fichus will be seen in the spring. The newest pockets for the sports suits are gathered. Many of the straight, loose frocks are made of satin. Sports suits are very plain and very vivid in color. The satin hat is the fashionable between-seasons' hat. Scarfs are made of jersey cloth, duvetyne and suede. Flat silk flowers are used on the demi-season straw hats. It is hinted that Greek lines will come in with the spring. The new sports dresses have oddly set-in sleeves and yokes. White satin is a little newer in neckwear than broadcloth. Some short-skirted dance frocks are made of lace flouncing. The tea gown is no longer called a tea gown, but a house coat. There is a suggestion that the skirts will be a bit narrower.

Marine blue serge will make the little girl an ideal school dress. The tailored coat and skirt is a certain revival for early spring. The sailor hat with the drooping brim will be worn in the spring. The pull-on sweater is more fashionable than the one with buttons. Tiny new sashes are mere straps with embroidered or beaded ends. Shirdred belts and hemstitching are used on the new cotton frocks. The new spring fabrics are woven with Japanese and Chinese designs. Birds and flowers are made of fur to trim the velvet and velour hats. There is a soft stockinet material that is being used for separate waists. A white-and-black lace veil is pretty for veiling a blue velvet toque. A long, chain girde for a satin gown is made of links of gold braid. There is a revival of broad felt bands for the decoration of lingerie. We may possibly have a revival of evening gowns touching the floor. Black is charming for all ages when relieved with a touch of soft color.

DEDICATION OF NEW ORGAN

at Cochrane St. Centennial Methodist Church.

Yesterday will long be remembered by the Methodists of Cochrane Street Centennial Church. Under a smiling sky and delightful day's weather the new organ which has been recently installed in the church was formally opened and dedicated by special services yesterday. At the morning service the dedication took place, a large and representative congregation being present. The order of service was printed and was embellished with an attractive cut of the church and Pastor, and was accompanied with the following statement on its front page:

ST. JOHN'S. Giver of all good things, we thank Thee that Thou hast put it into the hearts of Thy servants, out of the abundance of Thy goodness bestowed upon them, to make this offering for the beauty of Thy service in this Sanctuary. Be pleased to accept their pious service, and give it power to accomplish their desire to Thy honour and glory, through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts. O Thou, Who dost bestow upon men gifts and graces that they may the more perfectly perform Thy purposes in this world, grant to those who shall from time to time, act as organists in this church, wisdom and reverence, skill and inspiration, that Thy melodies may flow forth from these glory-linking in Concord and Harmony the hearts of a worshipping people with Thy Divine Will and Thy Infinite Love. Amen.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts. Grant, O Lord, we beseech Thee, that all, in Choir or in Congregation, who shall sing Thy praises to the accompaniment of this organ, may worship Thee with perfect devotion of spirit, soul and body; and praising Thee here with undivided heart, may by Thy help, be enabled to lay hold of Thy promises, to accept Thy salvation, to live on earth for Thy glory, and ultimately to sing the New Song in heaven, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts. Sanctify, O Lord, we beseech Thee, this instrument of music of the Lord made to praise Thee, because Thy mercy endureth forever, and let it be blessed and hallowed in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts. After the Doxology, Psalm 150 was read responsively, followed by Jackson's Te Deum. The preacher was the Rev. Dr. Bond, whose text was taken from 1 Chronicles 25: 5-8. Subject: "Music in worship." Music says Charles Kingsley is the speech of God. What a wonderful gift it is, the world is full of it. How universal it is. Music speaks directly to our souls. The pipe organ is an important essential, being a king of instruments in leading the praises of God in the services of the church. Let there be a great outburst of congregational singing, and let all our hearts respond and let all listen to the voice of God as we sing our beautiful hymns and worship in His sanctuary.

A large and well-trained choir rendered two anthems, "The voice of one crying in the wilderness," and "Hark! hark! the organ loudly peals, praise the Temple, and join in the everlasting song of the redeemed."

DECLARATION. Dear! Beloved— Almighty God, in His wise providence, has given power unto men to invent to themselves instruments of music, and skill to use them in heavenly forth His praise. It is meet and right that such instruments, intended for use in the public worship of God, should be specially set apart and dedicated for such purpose. We therefore, this day, dedicate to the honour and glory of God, the organ lately erected in this Church. May it, by its sweet and solemn tones, be kindling a spirit of devotion in the hearts of all people, who, now and henceforth, may worship in this Sanctuary; and may the people, taking their part here on earth, in prayer and praise, singing and making melody in their hearts unto the Lord, hereafter be admitted to the Heavenly Temple, and join in the everlasting song of the redeemed.

Let us pray. O Almighty Father, maker of heaven and earth, Who hast voiced the universe with Thy Breath, and hast wrought harmony by the laws of Thy creation; O Divine Wisdom, Who hast gifted the minds of men to fashion arts upon Thy holy laws, and to make music grow with instruments of music; O Holy Spirit, Author of all beauty and order, Who canst make the power of sound stir souls to truest devotion; O Blessed Trinity in Unity, source of all power and wisdom and sweetness, accept and bless this instrument of music which we now dedicate to Thee, that it may ever sound in this Thy House in witness of Thy all-pervading Majesty, from which all things of Nature and Art proceed; to Thy honour and glory, Who dost live and govern all things, world without end. Amen.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts. O God, Who art the Author and

Rev. Dr. Jones Begins Series of Sermons.

Rev. Dr. Edgar Jones, Rector of St. Thomas's Parish, who returned from the United States by the express which reached town at 4 p.m. yesterday, occupied the pulpit at last night's service and preached the first of a series of sermons which will be given on each alternate Sunday night; on "The One Gospel and Some Other Gospels." The subject for last night was "The Gospel according to Satan." The subjects for the sermons to follow are: "The Gospel according to Prussia, England, Certain Lodges, the Sceptic, and the True Gospel of Christ." The preacher in a most impressive and instructive manner dealt last night with the deceitful way in which Satan tempted our Lord, and showed that Satan's method involved a false morality, a false philosophy and a false religion. Coming down to the present day, we find a large number of people preaching all three, subordinating the higher and spiritual powers of the soul to the lower needs of the body (the first temptation); seeking short cuts to riches, education and their work in life (the second temptation); and finding the religion of Satan more suitable to their purposes and aims than that of God (the third temptation). In announcing the events in connection with the church during the coming week, the Rector stated that at the regular weekly meeting of the St. Thomas's Men's Bible Class, Thursday night, he would give an address on the work of William (Billy) Sunday, the world-famous evangelist, whose evangelistic gatherings he attended while on his visit to the United States.

JACK AND MARIE ROSSLEY IN MILITARY SKETCH.

At Rossley's British Theatre tonight there is a capital programme arranged, first class pictures and military sketch, entitled "The Swanky Soldier," with Jack and Marie Rossley, assisted by the Pantomime Co. A good night's entertainment. On Saturday The Pansy League matinee was a great success. The clever Pantomime Co. all worked well. The various animals also did their bit. Pollywog, the French singing parrot, was a little bashful meeting so many friends all at the same time, though she promises to do better next time. Pansy was in fine working order, and went through her part to the delight of the little ones. The little Misses Davidson, Diana and Daphne put Pansy's babies through their parts, and presented the members of the company with candy. Altogether it was a very enjoyable affair and for a good cause.

Patriotic Concert at Belleoram.

On Wednesday night the 3rd, a patriotic concert was held in the Orange Hall and repeated on Thursday night the 4th. The Rev. G. S. Templeton acted as Chairman the first night and Mr. McCuish the second. The programme, which consisted of songs, dialogues and recitations, was well arranged and the performers certainly did credit to themselves. The following took part: Misses Flora McCuish, Bertha Dicks, Florrie Keeping, Irene Rose, Julia Lee, Jane Webb, Hannah Cluett and also Frank Cluett and Oscar Jensen. The proceeds which amounted to about $90 will be devoted to the Red Cross. We hope the young ladies will come forward again to help along such noble work. Belleoram, Jan. 9th, 1917.

PESSIMISM.

"You're in trouble with your boat, you say, you'd better buy a car, an old man and a young man, as well as a patient as a well-to-do stand in line. I fuss with my boat, what you travel in if you've got a boat, a conspiracy to away your goat. Your engine or your brakes refuse to hold, your engine system will not keep together. You find new grief no matter where you roam; you must hire a haul your tumbrel home." "Oh, I said, 'What is there on this boat that won't bring grief, however its worth? You drive a horse, you would journey hence, and then it kicks you through the air. You have a wife, whom doubtless adore, but now and then she sends your spirit sore. You like golf, but when you eat too much, you're puffed stomach clamors for more. Why eat out money if you can't find a friend, because the bee is making one end? Go to, old man! The dotards dot, he is a cheater, does not own a boat!"

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM. Love's young dream is a rapture followed by an effort to pay a $12.50 salary around the office creamery butter.

When a girl is wooed in a direct and stormy manner by some young man who was brought up to be an ornament, she does not think about the current price of our laundry soap. Her chief anxiety is to determine whether to wear pink, blue or messaline de sole with a belt of hang, and until that question is settled she doesn't care how she peels have to climb to reach a shoe-peel potatoes. What a Gas Range Means for You, Mrs. Housekeeper.

The gas range is a muscle saver and a step saver. Think of the many tons of coal you used in that coal range, and how you have had to handle it all twice; first, carrying it up out of the cellar; then, from the kitchen to the ash barrel. No more soot to wipe away; no more ashes to cart away; no more wood to fetch; no more coal dust; no more smoke and no more reason why the kitchen cannot be kept as clean and as orderly as the parlor. The gas range means just this.

Saves 50 Per Cent. of Kitchen Cares.

Half of the labor in the house is caused by dust from the coal range. Every time it smokes, no matter how good the draught may be, clouds of ashes rise and settle on the furniture. It eliminates hard work.

Use a gas range and you will live better, you will play better, and you will work better because the use of the gas range eliminates the drudgery of carrying coal, ashes and the chopping of kindling, as well as the drudgery of cleaning up a lot of dirt, and, best of all, for the cook it makes it unnecessary for her to stand over a hot stove from two to three hours a day.

PHONE THE GAS CO.

the matrimonial sea and by dint of thrift and hard work make a small salary meet at both ends. There are several kinds of love, but nine times out of ten this particular brand gets along without investing in the popular type of furniture known as the family jar.

In order to secure the best results, however, love's young dream should always be preceded by an inventory. Love is a very desirable commodity, but it is mighty poor collateral to turn in at the bank. You can realize much quicker on a second-hand iron bed than you can on a young man who wants her to produce something besides box candy and cigarette smoke will never have to put in sixteen hours a day over other people's washing.

The Spartan Tsar.

The Tsar of Russia was, no doubt, quite sincere when he declared recently to an interviewer that he had "never been so happy or well as during the simple life," for he is leading the simple life, Spartan, strenuous life which he loves so much more than the pomp of palaces and the ceremonial of Courts. For the last twelve months he has been living in a modest villa—his Headquarters, behind the far-spread line of his armies—as simply as his youngest subaltern.

Early every morning he emerges from his quarters, a slight figure, in a long, brown military overcoat and the usual Russian cap, runs down the steps of the house, acknowledging the sentries' salutes with a cheery wave of the hand, and walks briskly off to General Alexeeff's office. Here he puts in four hours' hard work in an environment of maps, documents, and sheaves of telegrams—reporting the latest movements and doing of his armies in the field.

At one o'clock he returns to a simple luncheon, at which he discusses the war, its conduct and prospects, with members of his staff. Then follow several hours' more work, varied occasionally by a country ramble or a motor-run with his young son, dressed in exactly the same plain, workmanlike uniform; dinner and more work, until, often in the small hours, he retires to rest.—Answers.

ON COMMITTEE MEN.

The "Cute Man" says that there isn't a man in town who is worth his salt, that isn't a Committee Man. St. John's can boast of having more Committee Men than any four towns its size in the world. If committees keep a-growing as they are to-day we will be forced to try and induce strangers who have had experience in the committee line to come and dwell amongst us.

The life of the Committee Man is no cinch, and it is mysterious why so many take up this burden. Mrs. Tucker says that after a man has devoted six weeks to committee work it wears him down so fine that his friends scarcely know him, and often take him for his thinner brother. At the outset the duties of the Committee Man seem interesting to himself, his wife and children, but later on they all take the Grippe together, because of colds contracted waiting up for Pa to return home from a belated committee meeting at which the business done was none. Tucker says that once a man becomes a Committee Man his pleasures in life cease, and once he gets a going on committees he can never get off. Happy families have been brought to ruin by fathers being appointed on committees, the daughters of the Committee Man lose their heads and thereafter refuse to go for a ten-cent fish, and the wife starts in to tell the husband that he is so brilliant that he ought to aim high and get elected to a seat in the Legislature. After a while the Committee man begins to believe this and spends the remainder of his days getting "howled over" in every district throughout the country. Every one who meets hard luck hits the Committee man for a subscription, and the Doctor, hearing that he is a Committee Man, raises his fees from one dollar to two fifty a visit. Committee Men's wives fall in bad health from waiting up for the Committee Man to finish his chat with another Committee Man down at the door at two fifteen a.m. Generally speaking the Committee Man becomes very near sighted and somewhat "chesty," and passes the friends of his youth without bidding them a cheery good morning. This has the effect of making the Committee Man very unpopular, and is one of the reasons why a Committee Man has never filled the office of Premier of the Colony. The Committee Man is generally known to be a close fist individual who can make one dollar do a week's duty, and now and again spends a week in the Hospital repairing injuries received from falling off a rickety ladder whilst trying to cover a hole in a leaky roof. The funeral of the Committee Man is attended by the Undertaker and the two other Committee Men that used to go home with him from the meetings. He is forgotten two days after his burial, while "sally sours" and a plentiful growth of dead-man's flowers mark the plot where his remains lie unhonoured and unusing.

T. A. B. S. Meeting.
The T. A. & B. Society held its regular monthly meeting last night and was well attended. Four applicants were admitted to membership and the following committee appointed to look after the interest of the Club during the ensuing year:—T. Ryan, C. Myler, C. Kelly, G. Wills, J. Fleming, J. Cochrane, J. Murphy.

President Mr. W. J. Ellis made the pleasing announcement that Mr. Laracy, of the Crescent Theatre, had offered to give the juvenile members a free show to-morrow afternoon previous to their annual treat.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.
SYDNEY, N.S., Jan. 14.
Four young men, John and Michael McEachern, John L. McKinnon and Joseph MacDonald, were drowned to-day at Grand Mira.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Margaret Howell.

While entering her home about 2.30 p.m. Saturday, Mrs. Margaret Howell, of King's Bridge, was stricken suddenly with heart failure and died a few minutes after. The deceased, who was returning to her home, paused at the entrance to exchange greetings with Mr. P. Grace when suddenly she fell to the ground. Mr. Grace ran to her assistance and with the help of Mr. P. F. Collins who was returning from lunch and another passer-by the stricken woman was taken into her house where she passed away without having regained consciousness.

Mrs. Clark, of the Devonshire Inn, Water Street, is a sister of the late Mrs. Howell. Her father, Henry Oldridge, was the founder of the Inn. The late Henry Supple, who led the great "Mienace" of the sealers at Brigus in 1845 for free berths and other concessions from ship owners was her uncle. To the sorrowing relatives the Telegram offers its sympathy.

Hr. Grace Notes.

A very large number of our citizens are now laid up with the prevailing cold and grippe.

Mr. W. F. Coaker, President of the F.P.U., and Dr. Lloyd addressed a large and very representative gathering at St. Paul's Hall last night. At the close of the meeting a local council was formed and 150 men pledged themselves to do their best for themselves and their fellow-man by signing the roll and becoming members of the F. P. U.

The annual meeting of the British Society's Juvenile Branch was held on Tuesday night when the election of officers for the year took place, resulting as follows: President, Charles Noseworthy, re-elected; Vice-President, Albert Sellars, re-elected; Treasurer, Clinton Pynn, elected, and Levi Wells, Secretary, elected.

Mr. Thomas Horwood, R.N.R., arrived by Wednesday night's train on furfuroh. He was met at the station by a large number of friends who were pleased to give him a hearty welcome home.

The weather here is exceptionally mild for this season of the year, to-day being so much so, might almost be termed sultry. We have no snow at all now, something unusual for January.

Mr. Nicholas Shannahan, sr., of Riverhead, passed away early yesterday morning after a long illness. He leaves besides a widow, who has been bed-ridden for years, a number of children, to whom we tender our sympathy.

The funeral of the late Miss Teresa Kelly takes place to-morrow evening from the residence of Mr. C. L. Kennedy, Water Street.

Mr. C. A. C. Bruce, insurance agent, spent a few days in town this week. CORRESPONDENT.
